CITIZENSHIP IS AIM OF LARGE IOWA MEETING

Negotiations Under Way To Secure Leading Statesmen For Speakers

Practical citizenship inspired with the thoughts of the leading statesmen of America is the object of a proposed, two-day Commonwealth Conference in Citizenship at the University of Iowa next July, tentative plans for which were announced today by University authorities. National leaders will be among the speakers.

"This conference will be the most significant thing of its kind ever conducted," said a member of the faculty. "Our present plans are to make it not only practical but highly inspirational. Negotiations are under way to secure the leading statesmen of America for speakers.

The conference is born of the belief that the need is general for a form from which the latest and best ideas on citizenship can be expounded with the ears of the nation listening in and profiting by the lesson. If the plan proves as potent as the tentative program suggests, University officials propose to make it an annual affair, a clearing house for thoughts and needs on citizenship in this country.

Some of the sessions of the conference will probably be held in the open and others in the armory. Loud speakers will be rigged up to bring the largest crowds all within hearing range of those who will appear on the program.

Among those who will be here for the conference are 3,000 teachers and college students who will be attending the summer session of the University. The names of those persons University authorities intend to invite to appear on the program were not announced today. It was indicated, however, that among them would be some of the highest governmental leaders.

Day By Day In Every Way The Walks Get Slushier And Slushier

March, month of "lots of weather," brought to Iowa and Iowa City yesterday the greatest variety of climatic conditions it is possible to crowd into one single day. Beginning in the morning with a light rain, thence increasing in volume, a slight drop in temperature, snow, hail and a final break in the afternoon into a warm and sunshiny day marked the progress of one of the sudden changes that have made March the despair of weather prophets.

The first day of spring, according to the calendar, passed in due respect to its nature a herald of balmy days. Before Wednesday, a week filled the worst storms of the winter, enveloped the middle west, and then as a parting shot, the day following started as another typical wintry storm.

Professor J. F. Reilly, weather recorder, attributes this last storm as the result of a high wind which had developed over Colorado. It moved south, and then rapidly northeast, bringing with it precipitation of varying degrees in various regions. Des Moines had three inches of snow yesterday noon, and Iowa City had two inches, which rapidly melted under a rising temperature.

DIES SUDDENLY ON GOLF LINKS

Newly Appointed Member Of Federal Reserve Board Stricken At Washington

(By United News)
Washington, March 22—Milo D. Campbell, the new "dirt farmer" member of the Federal Reserve Board died suddenly on the links of the Columbia Country Club here Thursday as he finished playing an 18 hole round with former Senator Townsend of Michigan. His death was ascribed to heart disease.

A doctor happened to be playing nearby but his efforts to revive Campbell were in vain.

Campbell's appointment was confirmed by the Senate just before the close of the last Congress. Formerly he had been president of the National Milk Association. After serving as mayor of Coldwater, Mich., he entered state politics serving in the legislature and as insurance and tax commissioner. He was an unsuccessful candidate for the Republican nomination for Governor in 1920.

Iowawa Managers To Discuss Plans For Next Carnival

The Iowawa executive committee consisting of the general managers and the departmental managers will meet this afternoon at 5 o'clock in the University Y. M. C. A. to discuss plans for the carnival and to name as far as possible the members of the committees and the helpers who are going to work to put on the carnival. The committee is composed of members of the Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. who jointly are responsible for the success of the carnival.

In response to a call issued by the general manager Arch Reaney A3 of Sheldon and Y. W. manager Lois V. Kifer A4 of Sioux City a large number of students have signified their intention of serving on the committees or helping with the carnival. However any student who has not yet reported is asked to see either of the managers or report at the Y. M. or Y. W. office before 5 o'clock this evening.

As the carnival this year will be the largest since the inception of Iowawa in 1919 a large number of helpers will be needed. There will also be many new stunts and shows not seen in former years. Persons with original ideas are especially urged to report to the committee. Although the carnival will not be held until Friday May 4, the night before the state high school track meet, the staff is already at work and a large number of the plans have been made.

LABOR PLANS FOR SETTLING RUHR PROBLEM

Laborite Members From Three Parliaments Confer In Berlin

(By Ralph H. Turner)
(United News Staff Correspondent)
London, March 22—Laborite members of the English, French and Belgian parliaments are in Berlin conferring with German socialists of the Reichstag concerning a settlement of the Ruhr crisis.

Ramsay MacDonald, leader of the Labor party in the House of Commons and one of the most outspoken pacifists during the world war made this announcement Thursday.

MacDonald had just returned from Paris where he met with French and Belgian socialists, fostering the movement of going over the heads of the European governments to bring peace. The representatives of the radical parties of France, Britain and Belgian will report back to Paris next week and confer on the result of the conference with the Germans.

MacDonald favors settlement of the Ruhr embroilment by the league of nations and desires that the body also guarantee France against German invasion.

The Laborites who made this announcement at a dinner given for foreign press correspondents revealed that international labor was working out a plan which it is hoped will enable the governments, particularly France, to escape gracefully from the difficult situation on the continent. He stated that England and France had not agreed on the advisability of the Ruhr occupation, adding that France and Belgium had placed themselves in a position in which a sense of dignity prevented them from getting out.

As a means of reconciling the divergencies, MacDonald urged that the parliament of the world get together and present their different viewpoints, weigh the problems involved, and then agree on a common practical solution.

The Laborite leader declared that when nationality reaches the stage of economic exclusiveness, it is apt to endanger the peace of the world.

"Labor links nationality with internationality," he stated.

MacDonald several weeks ago made a futile attempt to induce the government of Premier Bonar Law to go on record as favoring a meeting from the French, British, Belgian and German parliaments in an effort to settle the reparations problem and the situation in the Ruhr.

Following his failure, MacDonald acted on his own initiative.

DIFFERENT PLAN EMPLOYED TO APPROVE PLAYS

Recommendation Of Chapman Automatically Sanctions All Shows

Why was "Lightnin'" approved while "Hitchy Koo" was not? The answer to this popular query is the secret of the work of the committee on the approval of plays. The system followed by this group of people is radically different from that which has been followed by the University prior to last year.

Under the old plan, a self-appointed committee from the department of speech tried from the data at hand to draw some conclusions as to the kind of a production they were dealing with. Despite their efforts they often went astray. Now all productions given at the Englert which are personally approved by Mr. N. Chapman, in charge of booking of all shows, are automatically approved by the committee.

According to Dean Teeters, chairman of the committee, the plan has been highly successful. "If we continue to be treated with the same fairness that we have been up to this time, there will be no need of looking for another way to approve plays. Musical comedies are seldom given our approval because of the general nature of such productions. As far as I know, there have been musical comedies here which were not in the least objectionable, but because there was a cause for doubt we did not give them any concession, and furthermore were not asked to by the management."

The work of the committee is at all times hard and is invariably criticized. "We are trying to cull out those plays which would be in any way objected to by the parents of the students at this institution. Even after the most careful study of the productions we are bound to be met by criticism. After the "Gold Diggers" was given we received just about as many unfavorable comments as we did favorable. That was a Belasco production and so is "Lightnin'". Even this last play might have been classed as a musical comedy had it not been for the plot which has been woven into the entire thing, and which has redeemed it from that class which is not looked upon so favorably by us."

Those who are on the committee are: Dean Teeters, of the college of pharmacy, chairman; Maurine Yaggy A4 of Davenport; Roscoe Nash A4 of Tipton; Margaret Altman A4 of Livermore Robert Block L2 of Davenport; Kenneth Weir S3 of Cedar Rapids; Emily Withrow A3 of Mount Pleasant; Mrs. Adelaide Burge, acting dean of women; R. E. Rienow, dean of men; Clara M. Daly, assistant professor of history; Dr. E. M. McEwan, professor of anatomy, histology and embryology; H. L. Reitz, head of the department of mathematics; and R. M. Perkins, professor of law.

Telegraphic Service In Ruhr Hampered By Sabotage Acts

New York, March 22—Acts of sabotage by German telegraph operators in the Ruhr and Rhineland have disturbed the pulse of the world, according to an announcement made by the Commercial Cable Company which is controlled by the Postal Telegraph Co.

The Commercial quoted the French government as blaming Germans acting under orders of the Reichstag, for hampering service in the occupied area of Germany.

New York, March 22—The United States must recognize soviet Russia at once or see all trade concessions in the communist republic go to Germany, Mrs. Margaret B. Harrison, writer, declares.
Mrs. Harrison returned Thursday from a second trip through Russia to study economic conditions. She was imprisoned as an American spy on both tours but was released after investigation.

OPPOSING MOVE TO RECOGNIZE RUSSIA

Hughes And Hoover Voice Resistance Of Harding Administration On Arguments

(By United News)
Washington, March 21—The Harding administration is resisting the agitation for recognition of Soviet Russia with the arguments of its two best informed spokesmen. Secretary of State Hughes has just outlined the international difficulties in the way of recognition. Now Secretary of Commerce Hoover has set forth the economic difficulties in a letter to C. V. Hubbard, associate general secretary of the international Y. M. C. A.

"It is a hopeless illusion that there will be a flow of foreign savings business or skill into Russia by the simple act of official recognition by our government", Hoover said.

"Indeed there has not been any appreciable investment in Russia from the several countries which have extended recognition although some of them are exporting capital in other directions. This is not an argument for or against recognition, but simply a statement that the question of restored productivity to large industry depends on other fundamentals such as the security and freedom of initiative and these can only be created through the institutions of Russia herself. The Russian people must work out all these problems in their own way," he continued.

Sophomores Given Until April 14 to Enter Orations

The date for the filing of orations for the Sophomore oratorical Contest for the George W. Egan prize has been postponed from March 26 to Saturday, April 14. On or before that date, contestants must enter their name and a copy of their oration with Herbert C. Weller, instructor in the department of speech, 201 D natural science building. As there is to be no preliminary, this is the only necessary step for entrance.

The Sophomore Oratorical Contest itself will be held April 19. To the winner of first place goes a prize $20, awarded by George W. Egan, M. A., LL. B., '01 now of Sioux Falls, South Dakota. The sophomore contest, standing as it does, intermediate in importance between the Freshman Declamatory contest and the University Oratorical Contest, is the training school for embryo intercollegiate orators. The contest last year was won by Robert E. Birchard of Davenport with an oration on "Problems of Child Labor." Second place went to Charles E. Cromwell of Independence. He delivered an oration on "World Politics."

The event this year is of more importance than last year for the reason that the winning of it by a literary society man will count heavily for his society in the Delta Sigma Rho intersociety Loving Cup contest. Any sophomore, however, man or woman, literary or non-literary society member is eligible to enter. The oration must be original. The choice of subjects is not prescribed, the only requirements, being that the oration be original and limited to 1000 words in length.

EUROPE FEARS COMPETITION OF PREPAREDNESS

England And France Are Alarmed Over Each Others Aerial Powers

(By United News)
London, March 22—The national British alarm over French air supremacy with the consequent danger a strenuous and bitter Anglo-French competition in aerial armaments, has become a big factor in the European situation.

The belief is practically unanimously expressed here that Britain's peril, coupled with suspicion of French designs, portends an era of distrust, reminiscent of the state of mind in the bids for supremacy witnessed between English and Germans in naval armament and the French and Germans in martial preparedness, in the period preceding the outbreak of the world war in 1914.

The present situation was brought to the fore during the debates in the House of Lords concerning Britain's aerial program during which it was developed that while France thirty-two battling planes Britain only had two.

The only chance of avoiding aerial armament competition between France and England, in the opinion of many is for the two countries to enter into an agreement similar to the arms pact that grew out of the Washington conference. Members of the British government are understood to be working on a plan for limitation of these armaments.

Classes Suspended 3 Days When Union Goes Over The Top

Indiana University at Bloomington, Ind., recently made the $1,000,000 goal for the Memorial Union, when the freshmen and new students pledged $150, 580, over subscribing their goal $580. For three days after the completion of the campaign no classes were held and holiday rules prevailed.

W. A. Alexander, executive secretary of the campaign, painted the figure $1,000,399.24 on the sign board marking the site of the Union building. The act was the official declaration that the fund had passed its initial quota.

After it was known that the quota had been over subscribed a mass meeting was held in the men's gymnasium. Just a year previous to that time in the same room the director, doubtful of the outcome of the $400,000 goal, issued the challenge that was answered fully within 30 hours.

During the last hours of the drive a large group of students, drawn by a great interest in the progress of the fund, surrounded the desks at headquarters as the final collection of scattered pledges came into the office. The outcome of the campaign was not decided until the last cards were received at a late hour.

STUDIES EMOTIONS OF CONDEMNED MAN

Instructor in Speech Department Makes Interesting Observations of Murderer

So that he might enlarge his range of study, which embraces the field of emotional psychology, Lee R. Norvelle, instructor in the speech department, went to Fort Madison recently, to study the reactions of Earl Throst, a murderer, before he was executed on March 9th.

Mr. Norvelle spoke with reluctance about his experience. He admits, however, the necessity of studying the emotions under varying conditions, and especially under intense stress.

Utter hopelessness, calmness and submissiveness were manifested by the prisoner on the morning just before he was hanged. His voice and his facial expressions, both of primary interest to Mr. Norvelle, emphasized the prisoner's calmness. He spoke but little, and then only to answer to questions put to him, and always in a voice which was low and subdued. His whole expression accentuated the hopelessness of his situation.

According to Mr. Norvelle, it is very unusual to find such calm restraint in a person undergoing such severe emotional strain. In utter contrast to the reaction of Throst, were those which Mr. Norvelle observed in Archie Burris, a negro murder, who is at present awaiting a new trial. Burris, although he has already been pronounced guilty twice and was to have been hanged on March 9th, has appealed for another trial and awaits it hopefully. "His eyes beam with hope, and his voice is hopeful," said Mr. Norville. "It is a strange contrast to the reactions of Throst."

"As far as I know, a murderer about to be executed has never been observed for emotional reactions as manifested by the facial expression and indicated by the voice", Mr. Norvelle continued. Psychologists have often made tests to help to determine the causes of crime. Prisoners have been studied throughout their trials, but never up to the actual execution.

Mr. Norvelle is gathering material for his master's thesis which will be entitled "Emotional reactions as indicated by the voice." He has written several pamphlets recently, "Religion and Emotion" and "The Will to Learn."

POINT SYSTEM IS REVISED TO MEET DEMANDS

Restriction of Number of Activities Gives More Students Advantage

The point system has been revised by Women's Association to meet new demands and circumstances. By restricting the number of college activities in which one person may take part the system spreads among many students the privileges, honors, and pleasures previously monopolized by a few. Organizations and activities are benefited by assuring each position of an officer whose interests are reconcentrated rather than scattered. Prominent individuals are compelled with consideration for student-protected from being burdened with more outside work than they can afford and health.

Seniors and juniors are allowed twenty points; sophomores, fifteen; and freshmen, ten. Points are counted for the time the office is held only. The system is enforced through the support and opinion of the student body.

For literary societies the president receives ten points, vice-president eight, treasurer six, secretary three, and forensic delegate two. In Y. W. C. A., the president is given ten points, secretary six, cabinet executive committee twelve, full cabinet members four, president of freshman commission four, and members of freshman commission two.

The president of Women's Glee club is allowed ten points, business manager eight, secretary and treasurer each four and members two. The president of the departmental clubs receives eight points and other officers two. Professional honorary fraternity presidents are given eight points and other officers four. Pan-Hellenic president is allotted six and Student Council president twelve points.

W. A. A. president gets eighteen, board members six, and sports leader four. University players president receives ten, secretary eight, and treasurer six points. Forensic council president receives ten and treasurer four. Seals club president receives eight, vice-president six, treasurer four, and secretary two.

The president of Women's Association gets eighteen, vice-president eight, secretary eight, treasurer six, chairman of the sponsor committee eight, chairman of the point system and chairman of the publicity department two. The president of freshmen women organization receives six and vice-president four points.

Eight floating points are allowed each person a semester which may be used only once at the individual's discretion for offices which last a shorter time than one semester. Members of the University orchestra are allowed two points. Major parts in plays count eight and minor parts four points. Chairmen of large committees such as Iowawa receive eight points.

HOUSE PASSES FIRST BILL FOR APPROPRIATIONS

Representatives Favor "Sheppard-Towner Act" For Iowa Wednesday

Seventy-seven to twenty-three in favor of the bill was the count on the "Sheppard-Towner act," which was voted on in the house of representatives in the legislature at Des Moines Wednesday. This is the first bill of the six acts concerning the appropriations for the University this year.

The official title of the bill is, "an act for the promotion of the welfare and hygiene of maternity and infancy and other purposes."

Prof. Orie E. Klingaman, head of the extension division, who is also head of the division of maternity and hygiene, said today that he did not know when the bill would come before the senate, but he feels optimistic in regard to its chances of being passed by the upper house.

"If the bill is passed," said Professor Klingaman, "it will mean that we will be given an appropriation of $21,000 by the federal government. The real Sheppard-Towner act is a federal act which provides for the appropriation of money for any state which will match the sum."

"The purpose of the organization," he added, "is to make it possible for mothers and babies in all parts of the state to receive medical care. None of the money is to be used for buildings. It will pay the expenses of physicians who will conduct clinics and give notice to all those who desire it."

Spring Elections To Phi Beta Kappa Conducted In April

Spring election for Phi Beta Kappa, honorary scholastic organization, will probably be held some time in the latter part of April, said Lemuel C. Raiford, associate professor of chemistry and president of the local chapter. The executive committee is at present engaged in revising the eligibility rules to correspond to the new standard of grading in the liberal arts college. Formerly the grade requirements were an average of ninety per cent and the requirements as completed by the committee will be the same only in terms of the point system put into use this year.

Seniors in the liberal arts college and those taking three years in this college and then going into another college are eligible. Elections are held in the fall and spring. Last fall the following people were elected to membership: Mildred P. Wentworth G of Iowa City; William H. Moore Cm4 of Fort Madison; Sherman J. McNally A4 of Marshalltown; Ross E. Moyer A4 of Fulton, Ill.; Lee Edward Travis G of Imperial, Neb.; Helen Elizabeth Judy A4 of Iowa City; Frances E. Baker A4 of Iowa City; and Helen L. Randall A4 of Epworth.

Four Organizations To Give The "Stabat Mater" At Vespers

The "Stabat Mater," which will be given Sunday afternoon as a musical Vesper service by the glee clubs, University orchestra, and the University chorus, is one of the most beautiful of medieval Latin hymns.

The poem was written about 1300 but it is not certain who was its author. The work is ascribed to either Jacobus de Benedictis sometimes called Gracomo da Todi or Pope Innocent III. It is a sequence on the Virgin Mary at the crucifixion.

In the Roman Catholic church it is sung after the epistle on the Feast of the Seven Dolors of the Blessed Virgin Mary on the Friday before Good Friday, and also on the third Sunday in September. The hymn appears in the Catholic prayer book after "The Fourteen Stations of the Cross". Usually a verse of the hymn is sung after each station.

The words of the hymn are so beautiful that they have appealed to many composers to set to music.

There are several beautiful but simple settings which are used in the Catholic service. Among the more elaborate settings are those by Pergalesi, Haydn, Palestrina, Rossini, and Dvorak. The version composed by Rossini will be the one sung on Sunday afternoon. Rossini completed the first six numbers of this work in 1832 and the last four in 1839. The first six movements were produced at the Salle Herz in Paris on October 31, 1841 and were received with great applause. The first complete performance was January 7, 1842.

One of the technical points which makes the composition remarkable in the Latin is its two syllable rhyme. This Latin version, which is more beautiful than an English translation could be, will be used on Sunday. An English translation will be printed on the program.

"Sec" Taylor of the Des Moines Register will referee the wrestling matches, while E. G. Schroeder, director of physical education at Iowa, will start the swimming meet.

Clarion high school entered a team of eight wrestlers yesterday afternoon. This new entry keeps the list of entries in the wrestling meet at nine as Dows high was forced to withdraw.

Practically all of the wrestling teams arrived last night in order to have their men here in time to weigh in. The majority of the swimming teams reach Iowa City today. The first team to arrive was Garden Grove whose team of six men came in yesterday afternoon.

Central City high school won the wrestling meet last year defeating Davenport by a few points. Both of these schools have again sent teams that should fight it out for honors this year. Krasuski, freshman football player, won the heavyweight title for Davenport last year.

In a recent city swimming meet at Des Moines, East and West Des Moines tied for first place. West Des Moines won the title here last year, but will have severe competition this year from several schools besides East Des Moines. Clinton has a good team with Chatterton, who won the plunge last year, as the star. University high has one of the best swimmers of the year in Johnny McClintock, who has equaled the University record in the 40 yard dash.

The high school teams and the fraternities at which they are staying are: Carlisle, Acacia; Central City, Delta Kappa Gamma, and Theta J; Davenport, Delta Tau Delta, and S. A. E.; East Des Moines, Kappa Sigma and Sigma Chi; West Des Moines, Delta Sigma Delta, Xi Psi Phi and Phi Gamma Delta; North Des Moines, Psi Omega; Garden Grove, Kappa Beta Psi and Phi Gamma Delta; Grinnell, Quadrangle; Keokuk, Beta Theta Pi; Me Vernon, Psi Omega; Newton, Phi Kappa; Clinton, Kappa Sigma and Phi Kappa Psi; Ottumwa, Phi Beta Pi, and Phi Delta Theta. Clarion had not been assigned late yesterday. Besides these, University high and Iowa City high are also entered.

Admission to each of the meets will be 25 cents.

JUNIORS WIN BASKETBALL TOURNAMENT

Freshmen Are Second - With 429 Points. Juniors Won All Six Games

After an exciting and hard fought battle in which the freshmen triumphed over the sophs in the final game of the series with a score of 18 to 15, the freshmen coeds last evening proved themselves worthy of second place in the women's basketball tournament, which ended at that time. The juniors won first place, having won all the six games that they played in the tournament, and will receive the engraved cup presented at the basketball banquet on March 27 at the Pagoda tea shop.

The freshies and the sophs showed a great deal of pep throughout the game, the sophomores being ahead during the first half. During the last half, however, Ardith Lawhorn, of the freshmen, starred consistently at jumping center, and the freshmen triumphed with the accurate basket shooting of Coda Van Beek and Jennie Nydall. Muriel Matthews was the individual star for the sophomores acting in the capacity of forward. Not only did she show herself to be a first class scrapper, but distinguished herself by her ability to shoot baskets with steady aim. Ovelyn Harter, did a good piece of guarding for the sophomore coeds, being especially good at interferences.

Seconds Win Over Fosh

The sophomore second team clashed with the freshman second team and gave them a good rubbing in the form of a 20 to 5 score. This was the first appearance of second teams in a cage game and they showed themselves to be scrappers of no mean ability. The forwards, Esther Johnson and Lillian Barr, scored baskets consistently. A game will be played between the sophomore second team and the junior second team on Monday evening at 5 o'clock in the women's gymnasium.

The standing of the four teams with regard to the six games played in the tournament is interesting. The freshmen have 429 points, on a basis of 1000; the sophomores have 286 points; the juniors scored 100 points, having won every game they played; and the seniors have a record of no points, having lost every game they played. The freshmen played two games with the juniors which they lost, two with the seniors in which they triumphed and three with the sophomores in which they conquered twice and tied once. The sophomores played two games with the seniors, winning them both; two with the juniors in which they lost both games; and three with the freshmen in which they lost two and tied one game. The juniors played the freshmen, sophomores, juniors, and seniors, winning five games and one by default with the seniors.

Iowa City High Team in Good Condition to Meet Chicago Champs

The Iowa City high school team is in fine shape for what will probably be the hardest game of the season, that with Tilden high school of Chicago, tomorrow night at 7 o'clock. The men are all in good condition for the game, according to Coach Soucek.

The local team will be the only one played on this trip. The men will arrive Saturday morning and will not go back until Sunday in order to see the University, which is one of the purposes of the trip.

The Chicago team has won all its games this year except one which it lost early in the season to Hyde Park high school of Chicago. After the Tilden team won the championship of Chicago, and last week it traveled to Washington, D. C., where it vanquished East High, champions of the east by a score of 25-18.

Students Have Time Until April First To Enter In Contest

Although the University players play-writing contest ends May 1, there has been but one one-act play entered with Professor E. C. Mabie for the competition. The contest was announced in January in order to give students ample opportunity to write their manuscripts and enter for the prizes offered for the best play.

The contest is open to all undergraduates and it is known by the officials in charge that competition will be keen but that most of the competing manuscripts will be filed shortly before the end of the contest.

It is known for instance, on good authority that a well-known young woman heretofore prominent in athletics and featured from coast to coast for her monumental contributions to the good, old Iowa spirit, is "all set" for participation in the University Players contest. One hears that she is already the authoress of several clever farces, but that she will write a new one-act play in an effort to corral the fifty dollars and the other emoluments which go with first place

From another quarter it is learned that an earnest sophomore medic hopes to find time to indulge his artistic bent in the creation of an original one-act drama.

From yet another source, the news comes to us that a certain young man in whose young life credits mean absolutely nothing, carried away from the Mount Everest lecture last week an idea about which he has constructed what he believes to be the winning plot. That Monday night he went home and worked until dawn on his play.

In addition to the above prospective entries, the promoters feel certain that out of Professor Mott's picked clinic on the story, and Professor Piper's select coterie of literary artists, a number of particularly fine contributions to the contest should be forthcoming between now and May 1.

FOOTBALL SQUAD IS WORKING HARD

1923 Line Will Have Lots Of Weight—Jones Holds Weekly Practices

Preparations for the 1923 football season are coming along in fine shape under the direction of Head Coach Howard H. Jones. Some forty candidates report to him regularly every Thursday night at 4:30 and run through signals and formations in the same style they will next fall on the gridiron.

The men's gymnasium resounds with the tread of over half a ton of husky linemen charging against imaginary opponents. The backfield men practice passing and receiving the pigskin so that the feel of the ball will not be entirely foreign to them next September. Not much can be done in the line of kicking as there is hardly room enough to get a healthy boot out of the ball.

No time is being spent on the rudiments of the game as that phase of the sport will be dealt with next Fall. Most of the evening is used up in running through the plays that Coach Jones intends to use the coming season, and in learning his style of football. As he said during the course of the evening's session "The man who gets down here to every practice and shows the inclination to get down to business will get the call when the first call is made next September. Every man who expects to be a candidate for the team should be getting the advantage of the weekly drills."

From the appearance of the men who are reporting for the line jobs there will be plenty of weight present. Barring accidents, either mental or physical, the line will be the heaviest since the days of "Fat" O'Brien and "Bunt" Kirk. They will have plenty of speed if the way they cavort around the gym is any indication of their sprinting ability. Whether they will have the aggressiveness that is the conspicuous feature of Coach Jones' former forward walls is a matter of conjecture. The brunt of the work will probably fall on Kriz, Hancock and Otte, veterans of last year's championship eleven.

There is sure to be a great fight for positions on the 1923 team. The most promising men who were out yesterday for the line jobs are: Griffen, center; Pierson and Olsen, guards; Starzl, Krasuski, and the veteran Kriz, tackles; Otte and Hancock, lettermen, and Romey, ends. In the backfield Hines and Yerkes are the available quarterbacks with Coulter, Dauber, Schirmer, Roberts, and Captain "Doc" Miller taking care of the halfback positions. Fry, a hundred and ninety pounder, was holding down the fullback job.

Iva Baker, Former Student, Defends an Alleged Murderer

Iva G. Baker who was graduated from the college of law here in 1912 is the first woman in the legal history of the state to appear to argue for a man's freedom according to an associated press dispatch. She appeared for the defense Wednesday in the final arguments of the case of State vs. Henry V. Lawson, being tried before a district court jury at Boone. Lawson is charged with the murder of William Shipley who was shot to death January 8. Lawson claims that he was not the aggressor in the quarrel between himself and Shipley and alleges that he was carrying the rifle that fired the fatal shots for rabbit hunting purposes, in an effort to disprove the state's charge of premeditated murder. Miss Baker is making the defense argument.

While in the University, Miss Baker was president of Erodelphian literary society and Alpha Xi Delta sorority. She took her bachelor of arts degree in 1920 and graduated from law in 1922.

WRESTLING SQUAD TO CHOOSE CAPTAIN

Two Seniors, Ted Pfeffer And James, Are Eligible For The Position

The 1923 varsity wrestling squad will meet at the men's gym next Tuesday evening at 7:30 to elect a leader for next year's mat team. The most likely choice for the captaincy is Ted Pfeffer, bantam-weight champion of the conference and a veteran with two years' experience, or D. W. James, the Hawks' dependable light heavyweight, who has also been on the team for two years. These men are the only seniors on the squad, and it has always been a custom at Iowa to elect senior captains in all branches of sports.

The Hawkeye mat team had a very successful season under the leadership of Captain Johnny Heldt and the careful tutoring of Coach Mike Howard. This is Heldt's last year on the squad as he graduates in June.

The men who will receive letters for wrestling this year are Captain Johnny Heldt, heavyweight; D. W. James, light heavy; Thom, middle-weight, E. Jacobson and B. J. Petersen, welterweights, E. G. Lane, light-weight, A. W. Gugisberg, feather-weight, and Ted Pfeffer, bantam-weight and conference champion.

Right or Left Handed That Is The Question For Science To Solve

Are you left handed or right handed?

"I'll bite—which am I?", would no doubt be the answer of Robert M. Culbertson M3 of Chariton. He knows he writes with one of the two but which one he dares not state. The truth is that his entire body is built on a reverse English plan.

Last year Dr. McClintock, junior dean of the college of medicine, placed a stethoscope on Culbertson's left side and failed to hear the regular beating of the heart. "You're dead!" thought the doctor for a moment until he allowed his instrument to wander over to the right side of Culbertson's chest and there he heard the heart beating distinctly.

Further investigation proved that his liver had slipped a cog and found itself functioning on the left side while his thoracic duct had marched over to the opposite flank from where it ordinarily belonged.

Some say that his left eye is where his right should be and vice versa but no one, not even Culbertson, can tell. Yet this medic is healthy and normal, and eats and sleeps in spite of the fact that his stomach points the wrong way and he knows not whether he sleeps on his right or left side.

Naturally he is still wondering which he is—right or left handed.

A SONG WHICH TYPIFIES IOWA

Iowa might wisely follow the example of Yale in offering a prize for a new representative Iowa song. Instead of purchasing the copyright of "On Iowa" the money for this purpose could very well be diverted into a fund to encourage the writing of a song which better typifies the Iowa campus and the Iowa spirit. "On Iowa" has become popular to a certain extent principally because it has no rival. To any dyed-in-the-wool Iowan it smacks too much of "On Wisconsin" to ever establish itself very firmly in the traditions of the University.

The same holds true of "Old Gold." While this anthem has a very great emotional appeal and its words are particularly well suited to Iowa, still its melody is that of nearly every high school and small college song in the country. Originality is to be prized above everything else in a college air. If the words of "Old Gold" could be set to a different tune, this end would be accomplished.

After many generations of popularity Yale has decided that the time has come for a new setting of the words of its song "Bright College Years" now sung to the tune of "Die Wacht am Rhein." Alumni are offering a prize of $1000 for a representative song.

Since this is the same amount which the publishers of "On Iowa" ask for their copyright, the money now being raised through the sale of song books to buy publication rights would suffice to attract musical genius to the production of something which we could call our own.

CRITERIA OF RELIGION

Tucked away in a corner of an inside page in a recent edition of a metropolitan Sunday newspaper was to be found one of those stray bits of knowledge that are so often forced to pass for news. This was the well-known and oft-told tale that the Bible continues to be the "best seller" in the United States. Statistics are also furnished regarding the number of churches erected the past year and the increase in Bible school attendance and so the conclusion is reached the religious Utopianism is near at hand for our land.

Whether there is today a revival of religion in this country or in its place a headlong rush to perdition is the bone of contention of many high-salaried ecclesiastical critics. Suffice it to say that the fact that the Bible leads this country's books for sale does not prove its efficacy in regard to religion. Investigation as to what becomes of all these Bibles would probably reveal that a large portion find other uses than that of religious inspiration.

The millenium may be near at hand but it would seem that it is not exactly impending when a pastor of a prominent Philadelphia Christian church recently chose for his pulpit these, "The Revival of Paganism"; and on that same Sunday service in a similar New York church invoking Amen-Ra, the sun god, with a particular ritual. A shaft of white light descended on the pastor as he muttered his incantations. No doubt the congregation departed from the psychic presence of Isis and Osiris highly pleased.

That may have been religion or possibly superstition. Opinions will vary.

CONTEMPORARY OPINION

(New York Herald)

YOUR STOCK OF INFORMATION

The stock of general information possessed by the students of Newcomb College, a New Orleans institution for young women, was recently tested by the faculty. The students were shown to be decidedly shaky in their acquaintance with everyday facts. This fact having been established, the students induced the faculty to submit to a similar test and discovered that among its twenty-three members there were those who believed that:

Al Jolson is a champion wrestler.

Filet mignon is an opera by Puccini.

Lot was "the man in the Bible associated with a salty wife."

Sequins are a variety of fish.

Mr. Gallagher and Mr. Shean "are in the transfer business in New Orleans," or "a version of Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde."

Maraschino was the name of a Russian Premier before the war.

The faculty did not describe Babe Ruth as a character in the fairy tales of Hans Christian Andersen and it did not recall Douglas Fairbanks as one of Jane Porter's "Scottish Chiefs," but one of its members did identify Grover Cleveland Bergdoll as a Democratic statesman.

These are hard things to believe, and yet in any group of twenty-three persons picked at random it would be possible to uncover as many striking bits of misinformation, though perhaps none of them would be as ludicrous as some of these. After all, most of the blunders made by the Newcomb faculty are to some extent explainable.

"Al Jolson" has a muscular, bouncing sound, and there is an opera called "Mignon," though it is not Puccini's. An examination of the average American in the Bible to-day would reveal amazing ignorance. Most men would stumble over "sequins."

The mistake about Mr. Gallagher and Mr. Shean would be hard to forgive in a New Yorker, or in one who visits the city frequently, but there is really no reason why New Orleans should follow the caprices of Broadway. And why should one trouble any longer to remember what maraschino is?

Take a pencil now and see if you can set down the names of all the present members of Mr. Harding's Cabinet and the office which each one holds.

The Sounding Board

AWFUL ANECDOTES

The other day a representative of the Westinghouse Electric company was interviewing engineers with an eye to securing new timber. His conversation with one prospect had progressed to the point where he had offered him the conventional $110 a month to start.

"But," said the young man, "I expect to get my master's degree in June."

"Oh," that's all right," replied the scout. "We won't cut your salary any on that account."

Entries in the weird headline contest continue to pour in. Due to lack of space we can only print the most unusual, the most bizarre. How's this one from the Maryville (Mo.) Tribune?

Dear Seventeen:

TARZAN.

Dear Tarzan:

Lay off the proofreader. He was simply following copy. You see, it's just this way: In Boston it's spelled Transcript and pronounced Trawnscrip. But out here in Iowa if we spelled it Transcript it would be pronounced that way. So we take precautions to insure correct pronunciation of the broad "a", which distinguishes the cultured East from the barbaric West.

Scenarios Must Embody Struggle And Definite Outcome To Be Successful Movie Company Tells Student Writers

The $1000 prize offered by Carl Laemmle, president of the University Pictures Corporation, has awakened a latent longing in the bosoms of a considerable number of students, to blossom out as scenario writers, judging by the number of inquiries received by Frank L. Mott, lecturer in the English department. In an attempt to answer some of these questions and give those who are interested some idea of what a scenario is, the Universal company has sent out a paper entitled, "A Scenario Editor's Sixteen Points."

In the first place a scenario must have a universal appeal and the embryo scenario should bear in mind that his story is to be seen by all classes of people, from lumberjacks to bank presidents, the instructions state.

The premises on which the story is founded should be logical, with a logical development of the events which grow out of these premises. Finally, the climax must be the logical outgrowth of all that has gone before, the characters working out their own destinies.

In the matter of suspense, the hint is given that many stories can be anticipated before they have progressed very far because they are developed along lines too well established, too long used. The successful writers then are always striving for something different, a new method, although the underlying emotions and psychology may be as old as the world.

The winning scenario must embody a conflict, a battle of wills, a fight against conditions, a striving of one personality to dominate another, for instance. The triumph or defeat resulting from this conflict should settle something definite ly.

The characters must be true to life, individualized by mannerisms, distinctive mannerisms, distinctive physical traits, peculiarities of dress, etc. There must be contrasts, of characters, of scenic environment of tempo, so that the story does not go along at one gait.

The scenario writer has to think in pictures, imagining the story as he wishes to see it on the screen and remembering that it is impossible to photograph thought, but rather physical reaction, the outward expression of thought.

The paper emphatically advises the writer to leave out all propaganda whatsoever, whether for or against, good or bad and also to avoid retrospect, the only occasion for its use being when it heightens the dramatic value.

Attention is called to the fact that simplicity is the most forceful means of expression.

The question, "Is there someone to 'root' for", may be well applied to a scenario, meaning whether each member of the audience will unconsciously project his individuality into the leading character.

The rules of the contest, include the following main provisions; the scenario must be typewritten in narrative form; it must be turned in to Mr. Mott before May 15, preferably several days before as all scenarios from this University must be sent in one package. Beside the $1000 prize offered, at least $500 will be paid for winning scenario.

ULLMAN IS JOINT AUTHOR OF TEXT

Elementary Latin Textbook Contains Full Page Illustrations

Prof. Berthold L. Ullman, head of the Latin and Greek department, and Norman E. Henry, Peabody, high school, Pittsburg, are the authors of a Latin textbook for beginning Latin classes which will be off the press this month. Its title is "Elementary Latin" and it is being published by Macmillan Co. in New York.

This book of which Professor Ullman has a preliminary copy, consists of one hundred short lessons and is made very attractive by 130 illustrations, several of which are full-page colored pictures, and a large map of the Roman Empire.

These illustrations were chosen to interest children, to show them the close relation between ancient civilization and our own, and to bring out important phases of Roman history and civilization.

Since it is generally admitted that the chief value of the first year Latin for most students is in the increased knowledge of English which it affords, the chief feature of this book is its correlation with English. The Latin grammar is presented so that it will be of the greatest possible help to English and there is constant comparison and contrast between the English and Latin usage. A special study was made of the most common English errors and wherever it was thought that the Latin could help correct these errors, special attention was called to them.

The vocabularies were selected after careful study and in such a manner as to include words that have the greatest number of English derivatives. In this way the Latin forms should be more easily remembered and help the student to master the English words. The total vocabulary consists of only 603 words. By reference to Lodge's "Vocabulary of High School Latin," it was found that 508 of these words are used five or more times in Sæsar, although they are not of a military character.

An entirely new feature is a French and Spanish supplement which is to help students make use of their Latin when they study these modern languages. Syntax outlines give a basis for final review, and supplementary reading gives the student a wide range of Latin literature. Several Latin songs are also included.

Teaching devices such as a color scheme for learning verb forms and vocabulary matches are also furnished.

BACON CREATES "LIGHTNIN' BILL JONES" FROM LAZY LOVABLE UNCLE

The character of Lightnin' Bill Jones, the name that has been on every one's lips since Frank Bacon created the part is taken directly from real life—real life in the person of an old uncle of Mr. Bacon. This old gentleman was a lazy good for nothing thoroughly lovable old man—no one in the county could tell longer or more impossible stories, yet no one in the state was better loved by all the children especially by his nephew, young Frank Bacon.

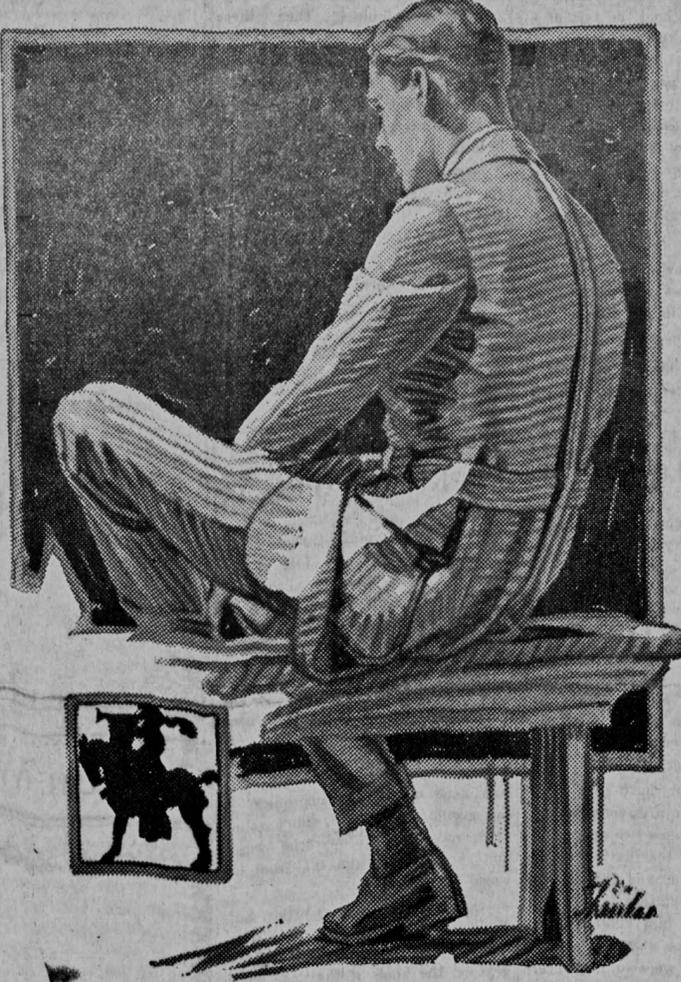

As Bacon grew older he realized more and more the infinite possibilities in a genuine and appealing story around this uncle. Everything that would be in keeping with the character he put into it and around the whole he wove a story that has besides a streak of originality the interest of a love story. He thought of some of the tales his uncle used to tell and out of them he evolved the famous story of "driving a swarm of bees across the plains in the dead of winter and never losing a bee' that has become synonymous with the character. It is this story that Mr Bacon used to earnestly assure the audience in his curtain speech "isn't so at all. I didn't really do that."

The scene of the play is laid in California and Nevada, a section of the country with which the actor and author was thoroughly familiar. It is this also that gives to the whole thing its atmosphere of absolute reality. Having worked out his character first, his plot and then his setting he began work on the lines of the play itself.

Those lines that are always remembered and quoted long after seeing the play are genuine because they are actual things Bacon himself used to say, or things that he heard and stored away in his memory to put into the play that he always intended to write. Through all his years of barnstorming and one night stands throughout the country he picked up these things and if his family laughed at them they went in to the play. He always used to remark when either his wife or daughter wore evening gowns, "Mother, must be tired. Go on up stairs and put on some clothes and go to bed." It is this remark made into one of the lines of the play that gets one of the biggest laughs and gives "Lightnin'" its title of comedy.

Long years of the utmost work and study in character parts in such plays as "The Fortune Hunter" and "Stop Thief" added to his natural ability to act gave him the power to portray the characteristic old scamp in a G. A. R. uniform and to create a character

UNION CAMPAIGN STARTS THURSDAY

Col. Mumma To Visit Many Organized Territories In State

During the month of April, Col. Mumma, Memorial Union campaign director, will spend some time at as many of the headquarters of organized territories where the Memorial Union campaign is being conducted as possible. To the territories that Col Mumma can not visit he will send representatives.

In spite of the fact that all of the 144 territories in and out of the state, where there are ten alumni or more, are not organized and are without division commanders to direct the campaign in those districts, the campaign will begin March 29 and continue throughout April as previously planned. Alumni living in 38 different counties in the state have accepted the responsibility of being division commanders and will conduct the campaign in the following counties under the direction of Col. Mumma; Benton, Blackhawk, Bremer, Calhoun, Cass, Crawford, Decatur, Des Moines, Dubuque, Fayette, Floyd Grundy, Hancock, Harrison, Howard, Iowa, Jasper, Jefferson, Jones, Lee, Louisa, Monona, Muscatine, O'Brien, Osceola, Page, Polk, Scott, Story, Tama, Wapello, Winneshiek, Woodbury, Cherokee, Cerro Gordo, Fremont and Humboldt.

Alumni out of the state have responded readily to the request that they help in the campaign during which it is expected that the million dollar goal will be reached. During the annual reunion of the Iowa Alumni of Southern California, Fred T. Ballard of Los Angeles, California will outline the plans of the Memorial Union campaign among the Alumni. Men living in the following cities will solicit for pledges among Iowans living out of the state; Washington, D. C., New York City, Brooklyn, New Jersey, Colorado Springs, Colo., Tacoma, Wash., Salt Lake City, Utah, Spokane, Wash., Tulsa Okla., Buffalo, N. Start In At The Bottom Rung And Climb To Top Of Ladder Is The Advice Of Dr. Person

"The old expression of 'starting in at the bottom,' is sound advice to young men starting in the business world," said Dr. Harlow S. Person, who is giving a series of lectures here on business management under the auspices of the commerce college. "It is good policy to start in at the bottom because at the bottom there is certain data that is necessary to the man at the top and this information cannot be obtained from the top; it must be acquired at the bottom." Dr. Person is eminently qualified to speak on matters pertaining to business for, as head of the Taylor Society of New York, it is his work to study the science of business from the view point of management.

One remark applies particularly to the college graduate or the student who is about to graduate. "A student should not entertain the idea that the first job he holds after he gets out of school is necessarily the job that he will hold the rest of his life. Of course those who have taken a professional training will wish to enter their particular field immediately, but otherwise the first job is in most cases merely a stepping stone. Very few, without training for a profession, are in the same job as the one they started in five years after they have been out of school.

"Regarding the art of selling, it is just as necessary to exercise this accomplishment in one line of work as it is in another. The teacher or professor who has himself been a regular live student is better qualified to teach because he knows how to present his subject in a way to appeal to the imagination of his students. During the hour in which he has the student in his classroom, it is just as much a selling proposition for him to make his students want to know more about the subject concerned, as it is with a business man to dispose of his goods profitably. As far as I have observed, Iowa has a strong representation of such men."

Dr. Person said he believed that in selling anything, personality plays a very important part. "I believe personality to be largely a matter of inherited temperament although certain qualities that go to make up personality can be developed or smothered by the right or wrong kind of training. We have the same types in business that you find in the classroom. There are the grinds, who through their consistent hard work are bound to accomplish a certain amount of work, although their possibilities are limited. Then there are the men who dope out things, analyze them and work out new plans and processes. Another class are those, who, through their ability to direct the efforts of others, land eventually in executive positions, and occasionally there are rare individuals who combine all of these qualities.

Dr. Person will lecture for the last time this afternoon at 4 p. m. in room 225 liberal arts. The lecture will include instances of industries and firms where actual business problems have been worked out. The commerce college invites anyone who is interested to attend.

HAVE YOU BEEN JILTED—LATELY? THEN LOOK OUT FOR FRIDAY, APRIL 13

Will the episode of the called-off formal date be repeated this year when Friday the thirteenth brings around another style show of fashion's latest party frocks? Will the winsome co-ed who called off a date for the Military Ball at the eleventh hour last year, desert her Rudolph Valentino again this year when fate has decreed that Friday the thirteenth shall witness another exclusive ball room party?

That her might-have-been escort had cut classes an afternoon to stand first in line with his two dollars and a half to cop off the first ticket sold for the big event, and that his regalia of tucks, puttees, and bear grease had cost him another afternoon in assembling and days of mental perturbation, were of no concern to the heartless creature who nonchalantly gave central the number of her escort's fraternity and as indifferently ventured the information to him that she would not be his dancing partner for the evening.

But fate had an even more cruel destiny awaiting a this year's once proud possessor of a couple of Military Ball admissions. Now his silver programs are a mockery and his might-have-been pleasures recall only a nightmare of tragedy.

Playfully and manfully as he flung the iron over the last fold of his formal trousers and saw disappearing from view every indication of a wrinkle, there came to him visions of fair delight featuring the little lady whom he had chosen to accompany him on this big night of nights.

A faltering ring of the telephone interrupts his ecstasy, and - - could it be possible - - the feminine voice which addressed him over the wire was none other than his queen of the evening. But she didn't sound quite natural. A few brief words and she had cut him off from his world of dreams.

What she said matters little. Suffice it to say that the man in question staggered back from the phone, grasped the knob of the door which led to his third floor apartment, and could go no farther.

Smoke rings might have engulfed the memory of that fatal evening had his environment been a fraternity drawing room, but imagine his disillusioned being when fumes of burnt broadcloth greeted his entry into his private boudoir. He had forgotten to remove the iron from the fold when he rushed to the telephone. Friday the thirteenth could not have been more calamitous for him.

PEOPLE LIKE A NE'ER-DO-WELL ON STAGE BUT NOT IN REAL LIFE—JEFFERSON

"Our family has been on the stage since 1717," said Thomas Jefferson yesterday in an interview to an Iowan reporter. "My great-great-grandfather went on the stage at that time and played in many plays with David Garrick.

My great grand father was the first one of our family to play the part of Rip Van Winkle. He played this part for seventeen years, many times appearing before New York audiences. My father next played this part for forty-five years, and I have played it for fifteen years."

Joseph Jefferson, father of the man who played Lightnin' Bill here last night, is the man who made the part of Rip Van Winkle famous. He had been on the stage for several years and had appeared in a play by the same name before he played this part. When he wanted to play Rip Van Winkle, he had a hard time convincing his manager that the play would be a success. When he finally did do the piece his audiences would never allow him to play any other part. Thus, Thomas Jefferson means to us, Rip Van Winkle.

"I like the part of Lightnin' Bill," said Mr. Jefferson. "It is very similar to Rip. The people seem to like a shiftless ne'er-do-well character on the stage but they have absolutely no time for such a person in real life. The parts I like best are those of Rip, Lightnin' Bill and Caleb Plummer in Dicken's "Cricket on the Hearth."

When asked what he thought counted most in being a stage success Mr. Jefferson answered, "I think ability will get a person farther than any other one thing. Next to ability, I would place personality. A great number of people who have little ability and less personality want to get on the stage for the mere purpose of gratifying their personal vanity. There are many ends of being a success on the stage. One person would be a decided hit in a comedy where he would utterly fail if he went into tragedy, and thus it would go with musical comedy, farce, broad comedy and tragedy."

The reporter sat wondering what Mr. Jefferson would say if asked what he thought about the modern girl. Finally she asked him and he said, "The modern girl—the modern girl—why I just NEVER think about her."
