SIGNATURE OF KENDALL MAKES MEAD BILL LAW

New Medical Plant Now Almost Certain; Change Hospital To Dormitory

With the passage of the Mead bill in both houses of the Iowa legislature but on step remains to make the acceptance of the Rockefeller gift toward the construction of new medical plant and hospital a fact. The one remaining detail is the signature of Governor Kendall to the bill. In so much as the governor has previously published a letter expressing himself as decidedly in favor of the measure his signature is expected within the next few days. The bill accepts the $2,250,000 offered by the Rockefeller foundation and the general education board, and the provisions for raising a like amount by the state.

Construction Starts Soon

This is the largest individual gift that has ever been given one educational institution. The entire sum will be expended by the state board of education. Since the amount contributed by the Rockefeller foundation and general education board becomes payable to the board of education immediately upon the governor signing the bill, construction on the new buildings will start in the near future.

The total amount to be spent on the medical plant is $4,500,000, half in the form of a gift and the other half appropriated by the legislature. The portion contributed by the state will be paid in five annual installments of $450,000 each.

Plans have already been drawn for the construction of the new medical plant which will be erected on (Continued on page 8)

CARNAVON'S HEALTH REPORTED SERIOUS

Discoverer of Tutankhamen's Tomb Worse; Wife At Bedside

By United News

Cairo, April 3—The conditions of Lord Carnavon, the British Egyptologist who discovered the tomb of Tutankhamen after the search of several years has taken a turn for the worse.

The state of the health of Carnavon, who is suffering with pneumonia is a matter of grave concern to his physicians who state that his condition is "serious".

Carnavon is attended by some of the best specialists in Europe who rushed to his aid when he developed blood poison following a bite of an insect apparently in the tomb of the Pharaoh.

Carnavon is constantly attended by Lady Carnavon, his wife, who is a trained nurse having had great experience during the war. Lady Carnavon, when her husband's condition became serious, left London for Cairo in an airplane but she became ill en route and was forced to take a train from Lyons, France.

DEEVER, DEMOCRAT IS CHICAGO MAYOR BY 100,000 VOTES

(By United News)

Chicago, April 6—William E. Deever, democrat, is Chicago's next Mayor.

Incomplete returns indicated his election by something more than 103,000, the largest plurality ever given a candidate except Thompson, who in his first victory in 1915 won by a margin of 100,477. Deever had approximately 385,000 to Lueder's 285,000.

MRS. WILSON LEAVES CAPITOL FOR FIRST TIME IN 4 YEARS

(By United News)

New York, April 3—Mrs. Woodrow Wilson has returned to Washington after spending her first night away from home since her husband was stricken ill at the White House four years ago.

The time was spent in New York Monday and Tuesday shopping about in the stores and visiting a few friends she has not called upon in several years.

WOMEN'S GLEE CLUB PRESENTS HOME CONCERT

Ensemble Numbers And Many Features On Program Tonight

The woman's glee club will appear this evening in its annual home concert in the natural science auditorium at 8:15. The annual concert of the women is always regarded as a musical event on the campus. A charming program will be given tonight.

The women have spent much time in preparing for the concert, under the direction of Prof. Walter Leon, paying particular attention to tone, enunciation, interpretation, pitch, presence, and those points of technique which mark the work of a finished club. Professor Leon has laid especial emphasis upon these points in training the women throughout the year, and has given the members of the club a thorough appreciation of musical values and a knowledge of vocal expression which has enabled them to achieve greater perfection than the clubs of recent years.

The program is evenly balanced, composed largely of ensemble numbers, and given variety by several diverting features. One of the loveliest songs is the soprano solo, "Chorus of Polvetzian Maidens", sung by Alice Ingham Au of Iowa City and the glee club. The "Card Trio" from "Carmen", and the "Florodora Sextette", both given in costume, promise to be very effective, as does also (Continued on page 8)

Robert Leeper To Face Murder Trial On Monday May 14

The trial of Robert Leeper, accused by the state of slaying his father-in-law, Roy Wertz, on December 27, 1922, will open Monday, May 14.

Conference in the open court between Judge Popham, the attorneys for the state, county attorney Edward L. O'Connor, and assistant county attorney Henry G. Walker, and the attorneys for the defense, Walter M. Davis and Ralph P. Howell, yielded the decision to discontinue the case through the April term because of bad roads and the difficulty of getting jurors.

The case will be called for trial the week after the grand jury assembles which is the week beginning Monday, May 7th.

Judge Ralph Otto and not Judge Popham will be the presiding judge.

FUN WEEK OPENS AT GRAPEVINE GAP

Senors Ruboff Vaselino And Rent A. Ford To Be At Carnival

Last night, the opening night of the Grapevine Gap Carnival sponsored by the Roy Chopek American Legion Post No. 17, is only the beginning of a week of activities that will finish with a climax April 6, University Night, according to the Grapevine Gap Gossip, the official organ of the carnival.

The carnival is being held in the Company armory on four successive evenings, April 3, 4, 5, and 6, opening at 7:30 every night. The stunt committee have special features planned besides the various booths that will be running all the time. Out of town notables that will be present include Warring G. Harding, Hon. Andrew Gump, "Doc" Cook, Ruboff Vaselino, and Rent A. Ford.

The Grapevine Gap Gallop will last from 8 o'clock to 11:30 with Guy Ogle's 9 piece orchestra playing. The Grapevine Gap Gulp, the town pump, will be in smooth working order, and will be placed beside the "Hot Dawg" stand.

The entire carnival is being given by the American Legion with LeRoy Rader, and Allen Wallen at the head of the executive committee. Tonight is Johnson County night; tomorrow is the American Legion and auxiliary night, and Friday is University night. The carnival on the last night is approved by the University authorities.

SENIORS MAY ORDER INVITATIONS SOON

Commencement Exercises Are Scheduled For June 7

April 5th to 11th, inclusive, is the time that has been named by the senior invitation committee for the ordering of invitations for the commencement exercises by members of the senior class, according to an announcement made yesterday afternoon by Fred Goeppinger, Chairman of the committee. No orders for invitations will be accepted before or after this date.

Arrangements have been made to leave all orders at the Iowa Supply Company in the Dey Building. Printed envelopes can be secured there with definite instructions printed thereon as to how to proceed in placing the order.

The invitations are obtainable in either leather or paper covers. Prices for the leather are forty-three cents and for the paper, twenty-three cents. The amount of the order is to be placed in one of the envelopes provided for the purpose and left there in a place designated. Payment may be made in either currency or check. It is important to deposit the exact amount as no orders will be filled unless accompanied by the correct purchase price.

Samples of invitations, envelopes and the deposit box will be conveniently located for ordering.

The commencement exercises will take place during the week beginning June 7.

FIFTY-TWO IN IOWA CITY FOR SCOUT MEETING

Representatives From Eighteen States Enroll For Training

The Scout Executive Training Course opened Monday with fifty-two men from eighteen different states in attendance. This course is the first of its kind in the Middle West and the second in the country. The University of Columbia is the first with an all year training course.

The daily program was outlined at the first meeting by John H. Piper, scout executive of region 8. This morning's discussion will be "the Scout Executive and his Job" with Lorne W. Barclay, director of the department of education of the Boy Scouts, in charge, and will be held in Close Hall. The afternoon session will be under the leadership of Charles F. Smith, professor in Teacher's College, Columbia University, and will deal with the training of Scoutmasters. The meetings will be held outdoors as soon as the weather permits, but are now being held in Close Hall and in the New Armory.

Faculty Members Speak

In the evenings a member of the university faculty will address the executives except tonight when they will be entertained at a dinner given by the newly-organized Scout Club and the Iowa City Scout Council, and Friday night when the scout play, "The Kid's Awakening" will be given by the local scouts at the St Patrick's auditorium.

Those Attending

The men attending the training course are as follows:

BRITAIN MAY GO DRY IS BELIEF

Pussyfoot Johnson May Not Have Given His Eye In Vain

(By United News)

London, April 3—Pussyfoot Johnson, the American prohibition crusader from Westerville, Ohio, may not have given his eye in vain to make England dry. Political observers, with their ears to the ground, hear the approach of the camel, foreshadowing a dry regime in England.

The discussion of prohibition at the independent labor party convention Tuesday and the vote taken on the advisability of campaign to make England follow the example of the United States is considered highly significant.

A resolution was presented by a delegate to the convention which would put the organization on record as favoring prohibition. The resolution was defeated by opponents of liquor trade take little encouragement in the voting 163 to 152—a bare majority of 11 against the resolution.

Say Anti-British Groups Back Of History Queries

Miss Bessie L. Pierce, instructor in the department of history declared in a recent address to the national council of social studies in New York that the anti-British groups are responsible for the investigations of history text books recently made in New York, St. Louis, Louisville and elsewhere.

The Iowa educator believes that the general criticism of American histories made by these groups is directed at the presentation of facts regarding the American Revolution, the War of 1812, and Great Britain's attitude toward the United States during the Civil war. These critics also maintain, Miss Pierce stated, that the attempt to rewrite American history in the light of modern historical scholarship is but another indication of "Anglicization."

A movement that started in antebellum days is still in existence to write histories for southern schools from the standpoint of the South, said Miss Pierce. The latest evidence of this was a pamphlet issued in 1921 giving the arguments of the pro-southerners with the endorsement of the United Veterans.

Much agitation of this character has arisen of late, Miss Pierce told the council, which is due to the post-war hysteria and animosities kindled by the war.

No Lectures But Daily Conferences

At Babson Institute they make a business of teaching business to college trained men who wish to fill positions of responsibility and make money without spending years at routine work. Standard office equipment throughout. No classes or lectures, but a business schedule of work from 8:30 to 5:00 o'clock, including daily conferences directed by men with years of business experience, and discussions with active factory and office executives at their plants. This removes the instructor from the hypothetical stage and helps the student to look at things in the same light as a man actually engaged in business. HARDING MAY COME TO IOWA THIS SUMMER

President Invited To Speak Before Big Conference Here

For the first time in the history of the University, the president of the United States will come to Iowa City during his term of office, if the plans of Pres. Walter A. Jessup are carried out.

The occasion will be the two-day conference on citizenship to be held here between June 11 and July 20, the exact date to be arranged to meet President Harding's convenience. President Jessup has already invited Mr. Harding to come here during his tour of the west, to visit Iowa City and speak at the citizenship conference.

At the present time President Harding is spending his vacation in Florida and has not as yet responded to the invitation. It will probably be some time before his summer engagements can be arranged so that it will be definitely known whether or not he will be able to attend the conference.

Prof. O. E. Klingaman, director of the extension division, sent a telegram last week to Judge Horace M. Towner, of the class of 1909, urging him to use his influence to induce President Harding to accept the invitation. Prof. Klingaman is among the faculty members who are promoting the citizenship conference.

Not all of the plan of the conference have been announced but it is certain that some of the highest governmental officials and some of the best statesmen in the country will be present. Some of the meetings will be held in the new armory. It is hoped that the conference can be made an annual affair.

St. Louis Debaters Will Oppose Women's Team Tomorrow

After strenuous work during spring vacation, the women's debate team which will meet Washington university of St. Louis tomorrow in the natural science auditorium at 7 o'clock, is rounding its arguments into shape on the proposition "Resolved, that France was justified in entering the Ruhr." The St. Louis team will arrive tonight and will stay at the Jefferson hotel.

Prof. J. P. Ryan, head of the department of speech at Grinnell, who was to have judged the debate will be unable to do so since the date was changed from March 27 to April 5. The judge who will take his place has not yet been selected by Prof. Glenn N. Merry, head of the department of speech.

Attendance at the debate will be compulsory for the members of women's debating societies, who will sit in the front center section downstairs in the auditorium. The Iowa co-eds who will participate in the forensic clash are Edith N. Evans A3 of Webster City, Gertrude Muxen A3 of Carroll, and Vivian Conrad A2 of Burlington. The negative team, composed of Frances Baker A4 of Iowa City, Frances Dolliver A3 of Fort Dodge, and Clara Levy A4 of Pueblo, Colo., will leave for St. Louis Monday to take part in the debate there Tuesday.

WRITER SAYS ARABS RESPECT MARRIAGE VOW

Marriage, Divorce Are Easily Handled Death Penalty For Untrue

By Ralph Turner (United News Staff Correspondent) London, April 3—Mr. and Mrs. Sheik—the husband and wife of the great Sandy spaces—must love each other until the sands of the desert grow cold or they are stoned to death.

Mrs. Rosita Forbes, writer and explorer, returned from the East Wednesday and told how the Arabs handled the marriage and divorce trouble which is causing so much concern among western nations.

"The people themselves," she said, "have a peculiar punishment for misconduct which usually acts as a deterrent for husbands and wives who would otherwise err."

"Should a man or woman be unfaithful the two guilty persons are taken to a public square, stripped, and then buried up to their armpits in sand, then companions stone them to death, showering curses on them for being unclean. Obviously promiscuous love meets with little encouragement."

"The divorce law of Arabia," the writer explained, "makes it necessary for the wife to watch her steps through the sand. When a man can divorce his wife by simply clapping his hands and repeating three times 'I divorce you' the wife is sure to be careful," Mrs. Forbes declared.

To satisfy the curiosity of the natives who have a deep dislike for strangers and to allay their hostility, Mrs. Forbes passed as a woman bound for the harem of a wealthy sheik. In one village however a mob surrounded the woman explorer and pulled her from her horse. A tall good looking Arab came along, beat off the mob and took Mrs. Forbes to his harem where he treated her with chivalry.

"The harem women were pleased to see me," she said, "but were puzzled about my color. I seemed to clear for them, and they attributed my parlor to too much washing."

"Life seems to be dull in the harem. When Mrs. Forbes asked the girls how they amused themselves they replied: 'We don't—there is nothing to do but eat and drink.'"

"But what do you do when you are tired of eating and drinking?" asked Mrs. Forbes.

"We sit!" answered one pretty girl.

DEAN LE ROSSIGNOL TO LECTURE FRIDAY

Dr. J. E. LeRossignol, dean of the college of business administration at the University of Nebraska, will lecture to the students of the college of commerce next Friday morning at 9 o'clock in the liberal arts Assembly Hall. His subject will be "Wealth and Welfare."

Dr. Le Rossignol has a wide reputation as lecturer, writer, and educator.

BELATED MECCA TRANSIT ISSUED

Pictures of "Fun Week" Scenes And Steel Magnate's Talk Features Number

The April issue of the Transit, the initial publication of the newly elected Transit staff, makes its appearance on the campus this morning. The number might well be called the Mecca edition since it is the first one to feature the engineers week of play and homecoming which has just had its 1923 enactment.

The story and pictures of the Mecca parade and show share honors in the edition with a number of special articles. Among the contributions is an interview from Chas. W. Schwab, president of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation, in which he presents his story of "How to Succeed in Business". The article has a particular appeal to engineers and was written exclusively for publication in engineering college association magazines. Mr. Schwab was on of the "dollar a day" men in government employ during the World War.

"Exchange Professorship With

Ohio University" is the subject of an article appearing in the number written by Owen E. Williams, an associate professor of engineering at the Ohio State University.

Professor William's material was obtained from the recent exchange accomplished between Iowa and Ohio State Universities by which Prof. H. G. Higbee of the Iowa engineering college traded classes for three weeks with Prof. Thos. E. French of Ohio University.

An article on "Technical Training as an asset to Non-Technical Men" is the contribution of Ralph Platzer '23 to the new edition of official applied science publication. On the cover sheet of the issue is displayed in replica the electrically lighted "Mecca" sign on the physics building as it appears at night.

Kenneth Wier as editor-in-chief and Coyle E. Knowles S3 of Fairfield as business manager comprise the principals of the new staff. The publication in general follows the same plan of make-up as has the former issues, separate sections being reserved for alumni, engineer news, campus news, athletics, electronics (wit), and editorials.

PROSPECTS FOR TEAM TURN OUT FOR BIG MIXER

Pep Flows As 250 Men Gather In Start Of Drive For Candidates

Prospective Iowa track men who turned out 250 strong for the track mixer last night, showed pep in the manner in which they reacted to the talks given by members of the faculty and coaching staff, and displayed speed in the final stampede for the north end of the gym, where several of the athletic department's handymen were dishing out cider, apples and sandwiches.

A number of the members of the faculty, who are backers of athletics, gave talks to the men assembled, and the men present reacted favorably to all the sentiments expressed. Practically every man indicated his intention of coming out for track, in response to the appeal of one speaker who asked them not only to come out themselves, but to also bring along their relatives, and the relatives of their sweethearts.

While the number of men who attended the meeting was fairly large, Coach George T. Bresnahan was slightly disappointed. He has set the goal of the track squad at 350 men, and he hoped that at least that many would attend the meeting, and the desired number will undoubtedly be reached when men from the various fraternities, preparing for the interfraternity meet, report for work.

A huge thermometer has been placed on the southeast corner of the campus to indicate the number of men reporting. As the number increases the mark on the gauge will be raised until the desired 350 men are out. This number will include men out from the varsity team, and for internurals sports.

One of the best displays of medals ever seen in Iowa City is on display in Whetstone's window, as an added incentive to the drive for track men. Three cases, containing over sixty medals belonging to Captain Eric Wilson, to Brookins, and to Crawford, have been loaned by these men and are attracting the attention of all passersby. Including these medals are some won at the state meet, others won at the conference meet, while still others are tokens of victories in national meets.

Professor Perkins of the law college was chairman of the meeting last night. The men he called on to speak were: Dean Teeters of the college of pharmacy; Coach Howard H. Jones; E. G. Schroeder; Doctor Alcock; Doctor Prentiss; Dean Kay; Captain Eric Wilson; Prof. B. J. Lambert; Coach Albert Jenkins; Aubrey Devine; Captain Tom Martin; and Coach George T. Bresnahan.

All of the talks were short, and full of the spirit needed to make Iowa's track team equal the exploits of the football, and basketball teams. One of the most interesting was the one given by Captain Tom Martin, who brought home his points by getting the spectators to rise when he asked questions. He showed by this method that there was but one man in the crowd who had ever competed in the hammer throw before coming to Iowa, while there were over thirty who had competed in the dashes. This proportion was about the same in other states, he said, and that was the reason for the low marks in the hammer throw at the conference meet last year. Captain Martin will handle the weight men, and he is anxious to get point winners in that event this year.

After the talks, Old Gold was sung, and then refreshments were served.

FRESHMEN TRACK MEN REPORT NOW

Jenkins In Charge Of Work Will Hold Weekly Tryouts

Freshman track candidates will start work this afternoon at 4 p. m. on Iowa field. All candidates will report to Coach Albert Jenkins for assigned work. Men who do not have outfits can obtain them at the equipment room in the men's gym.

The freshman squad will be picked the first time on April 26, Thursday afternoon. The men who make the squad on that day will be issued the new freshman outfits, a white jersey with a green tripe across the chest, and green striped trousers.

Every Thursday thereafter, tryouts will be held, and any man can win a place on the freshman squad during these tryouts. Tentative telegraphic meets have been arranged with a number of conference schools for these dates, and the tryouts will be in competition against men from other schools. In order to keep his suit, any member of the freshman squad must compete and win on these days.

Besides Coach Jenkins, who will have charge of the track men, Captain Thomas E. Martin will have charge of the weight men, and Aubrey Devine will take care of the pole vaulters, high jumpers, and broad jumpers.

BEGIN OUTDOOR PRACTICE TODAY

Shuttleworth To Assist Coach Jones; Work Stops April 26

Spring football practice will get its start outdoors this afternoon at 4 p. m. on Iowa Field, and will continue until April 26. Men who expect to be candidates for next fall's team are asked to report for work. Uniforms will be issued at the equipment room in the men's gym.

Coach Howard H. Jones will be assisted in the work this spring by V. C. Shuttleworth, varsity half-back last fall. Shuttleworth has been a valuable player on Iowa's teams for the past three years, and won a place on one of Eckedsall's conference teams last fall. Coach Jones said last night that more assistants would be secured if enough men came out to make it necessary.

Practically all of the conference universities are holding spring football practice. Some of them are already scrimmaging. Coach Jones, however, does not intend to hold any scrimmages, but will limit the work to fundamentals, and running through plays. He believes that when the men have been drilled in these branches during the spring, they will need less preliminary work next fall.

About twenty-five men have been reporting for indoor practice and this number will be considerably increased outside.

Chicago Nurse To Speak At Meeting Of Iowa Nurses

Miss Edna Foley, superintendent of the visiting nurse association of Chicago, will be the chief speaker at the quarterly meeting of District No. 5 of the State Nurses' association to be held here Friday. Nurses from the seven counties which compose District No. 5, Tama, Benton, Linn, Jones, Poweshiek, Iowa and Johnson, will be in attendance at this meeting.

Miss Foley will speak at 8 o'clock Friday afternoon at West Lawn home on the subject, "The Responsibility of Every Nurse in the Field of Preventative Medicine." She served during the World war with the Red Cross forces in Italy.

VARSITY AND FROSH ATHLETES GET NUMERALS

List Who Receive Emblems For Prowess is Large

The board in control of athletics announced the awards of twenty-six first and secondary "letters" and twenty-one freshmen numerals for competition in basketball, wrestling, swimming and gymnastics. All of the regulars of the basketball team were awarded the varsity "I" for their work in bringing the first basketball championship to the University. The subs were given "I-2's".

The list of awards is as follows: Basketball "I"—Captain Wayland Hicks, Robert Burgitt, Hector Janse, James Laude and Jack Funk. "I-2"—Richard McGovney, Paul Barton, Ted Swenson, Carl Duhm and Edward Voltmer.

Wrestling "I"—Captain John Heldt, Ted Pfefer, A. W. Gugisberg and D. W. James. Lane, E. E. Johnstone, J. W. Preston and W. H. Thom.

Gymnastics "I-G"—Captain George Thompkins, T. P. Trevon, Lyle Bailey and A. A. Sindelar.

Swimming "I-S"—Captain Ivan Klingaman, Ross Clark, William McCullough and Warren Hickox.

Freshman numerals—Captain W. P. Fleckenstine, B. H. Titus, Dan Speed, L. G. Swaney, C. R. Poole, P. R. Krasuski, A. M. Miller, Phil Slinker, Dean Vogel, J. M. Hawthorn.

Wrestling—L. E. Gilje, A. E. Moravec, M. B. Landis, E. Gratte, C. M. Ringland and P. R. Krasuski.

Gymnastics—P. W. Allen, J. C. Drake, A. R. Ieine, C. E. Oberman, J. L. Oehler, E. D. Warner.

BASEBALL MEN BRAVE COLD IN PRACTICE GAME

"First" Beat "Seconds"
3-0 in Five Innings; Pitchers Show Form

In the practice contest that might just as well have been played on an iceberg in the Arctic sea Coach Sam Barry's tentative varsity nine trounced a picked second team 3 to 0 in five innings on Iowa Field yesterday afternoon. The winning crew was composed of Captain "Mutt" Barrett, c.; Paul Lee, p.; Scantlebury, ss; "Gord" Locke, 1b; Thompson, 2b; Hicks, 3d; and "Jim" Laude, Hurlbut, and Scott in the outfield. "Arty" Umlandt and "Ching" Duhm composed the battery for the losers.

The men who were given a chance to show their wares in yesterday's practice did not show up so well as they might have under more favorable weather conditions. A chilling wind from the north swept down over the field throughout the short workout, and many of the bumbles that were made could fairly enough be attributed to stiff muscles.

Men Show Improvement

On the whole, however, the men appeared to be fairly well advanced for the small amount of time that the candidates have been outdoors. This is no doubt due to the fact that Coach Barry has been using every available moment during vacation to work with the men, holding both morning and afternoon practices.

The pitchers are rapidly rounding into form, and some clever work for early season was pulled off in the box in yesterday's game. Duhm, working for the seconds, looked especially well, and kept the varsity's hits well scattered. Lee, who has been nursing a sore arm for some time, was able to let the scrubs down without a run in the time he was in the box. He was aided by rather good support, including two nice catches by Laude.

Locke at First

Locke was back at his old position at first base, and appeared to be quite at home. Locke should have a good season this year if he is able to hit his old-time hitting stride. Hicks was back at his old stand at third and had a perfect day in the field. Poepsel, who played shortstop last year, was in the game for a short time at second base, and the first time up to the plate banged out a nice twobase bingle.

Captain Barrett played the entire game behind the platter and looked better than ever. Barrett's ability to peg to the bases will no doubt prove a big asset to the team this year.

Scantlebury, who seems to be the best bet for shortstop, has been showing up especially well in the field, and if he is able to pick up in his hitting he should have the upper edge on the job.

Hurlbut, who has played in the infield during the past two seasons was stationed in left field in yesterday's practice. It is not known whether Barry intends to keep him there or not.

There is still strong competition among the forty or more men who are out for most of the positions, however, and it will no doubt be two or three weeks before anything like a definite line-up will be chosen.

CHAPLIN, BARRED IN EAST, PRAISED BY WEST CLERGY
Have middlewestern clergymen better senses of humor than eastern divines?
A national symposium on Charlie Chaplin's "The Pilgrim" indicates as much. The plot of that first big Chaplin picture since "The Kid" is, you may know, the adventures of an escaped convict who dons a clergyman's hat and frock. His experiences are regarded by some ministers as offensive to the cloth and by others as "wholesome innocent fun."
Pennsylvania, as a state, for instance, bars the picture because it ridicules preachers. Ohio preachers vote it the funniest thing they ever saw and prod their flocks into seeing it. Chicago preachers have been numerous in attendance and loud in their laughter at it as it runs now at the Roosevelt Theatre.
Preachers in St. Paul, Lincoln, Neb., Indianapolis, Kansas City and Colorado Springs have indorsed it and label it "capital fun." New York City liked it so well that it almost broke the attendance records for Chaplin's "The Kid" which did astonishing business.
Balaban & Katz offer the fact that "The Pilgrim" has drawn many thousands more people to the Roosevelt and has done larger business than any picture ever shown here, breaking the house record previously held by Valentino in "Blood and Sand."

THE CASE AGAINST FRATERNITIES

"The Barb," reviewed elsewhere on this page, illustrates quite clearly the Iowan's oft-repeated assertion that students take fraternities too seriously, particularly those who do not belong to such organizations. William J. McNally, the author and a non-fraternity man, makes the common error of placing too much emphasis on snobishness in his indictment. This external aspect, unconsciously enhanced, by non-fraternity men, is characteristic of the fraternity-sorority system but in no sense is intrinsic, for Americans, in college or out, have a marked tendency to practice it. Everywhere men have an instinctive desire to separate themselves from the mass and to form cliques. Whether or not they tab them with Greek letters makes little difference, the spirit of aloofness remains the same.

The non-fraternity group, however, has a right to state its case and to make its charges against social distinctions. For obviously it is only in this one small sphere that fraternities presume to hold the advantage. A close study of the system discloses the two following evils which result from "Greek letteritis."

1. It stunts individuality. The man who joins a fraternity becomes a type—he is warped to fit the mould determined by the predominant element in the group. Conditions which the member encounters tend to diminish his mental vigor and to emphasize participation in social affairs. Fraternities are selective groups and because of this the men who have had the best home training, are socially inclined, and are generally recognized as good "mixers" are the ones given the opportunity to join. The training which they receive at the hands of the group is negligible for they don't require it to meet the demands of the larger body. If fraternities took those students who are lacking in the social graces, they would perform a worthy service. But this is not the case.

2. Non-fraternity men after four years' association with the fraternity system often lose confidence in themselves. The inferiority which they are forced to accept in the social sphere throws an ominous gloom over the more important intellectual sphere. Failing to make good in the one, they mistrust their ability to conquer in the other.

As long as education is organized as it is at present, any attempt to abolish fraternities would be foolhardy. They fill an important place not only in the social life of the student but offer a real aid to the administration in carrying out its dictates. The fraternity is the child of the American educational system and as long as its parent continues in good health, it will be with us.

OUTSIDE ACTIVITIES

Woodrow Wilson in one of his essays on education made the statement that the reorganization of the American university which brought the elective system and outside activities into being was one of the best things that had happened in the history of education. He based his assertions on the fact that in former years the small number of campus activities left the student with a great deal of spare time on his hands. Consequently there was a tendency on the part of the college man to fall into bad habits.

In the old system there was a very definite and prescribed curriculum which had to be followed to the letter. The administration officials thought the student, once through with his recitations, should go directly to his room where he might lock himself in and spend the remainder of his time in thought and study. Unfortunately the average college student is so constituted that he cannot or will not bury himself in books. "Outside activities" offer the necessary outlet for his varied interests and are to be encouraged under any plan of education.

CONTEMPORARY OPINION

THE RIGHT SORT OF HUMBUG

There are certain solemn souls who refer to the late P. T. Barnum as if he were a sort of Beelzebub, representing all that was awful in the American character. Life must always be useful and sensible and dignified, according to these spoil-sports. And respectful—no tricks, no nonsense, no humbug!

Having been to the circus, we are prepared to bleed in defense of humbug—the right sort of humbug. We are inclined to support the view that it is the surest means of puncturing the wrong sort of humbug. At any rate, cut the nonsense out of life, and is the sense worth preserving? We doubt it.

Nobody was harmed by the Barnum sort of humbug. There was no permanent or real deception any more than there is real deception about a fairy tale. The person who would be shocked or offended by such tricks is the sort of person who would be irritated by a pun that he could not guess.

By such a glum and rigid standard Puck was a corrupter of morals and Alice in Wonderland a dangerous witch. As for Mr. Hugh Lofting, the eminent African explorer, who discovered the pushmi-pullyu, the only two-headed animal in the world, he is a disseminator of lies. The precise animal has not yet appeared in any circus, as yet, we believe; but animals of a corresponding rarity were favorite pets of the great Barnum. If they ever did any harm we have yet to hear of it.

We speak for a world with more clowns, more circuses, more humbug. A new Barnum might be drawn irresistibly into politics if he reappeared; but if he could be kept a showman he might laugh a lot of vicious humbug out of business.

The Sounding Board

Back again at the old grind. We notice that lots of the girls are celebrating their return by wearing these trick jardiniere hats. You know—the kind that rest gently on the point of the nose in front and the nape of the neck in back.

"What's Wrong Here?" inquires the caption underneath a sketch of a couple walking down the street. The young man has his arm around the young lady's waist.

We puzzled over the answer for a long time, and finally had to give it up.

We've certainly had enough of this Ford weather, remarks a friend. . . . Just enough spring in it to make you tired.

THE SAP'S RUNNING.

"The Barb"—A Thrust At Fraternities

A ripple of anti-fraternity literature is passing from coast to coast openly purposing to leave in its wake a coating of mud one of America's cherished institutions, the Greek letter organization. From the East comes the announcement of the recent publication of "The Passing of Brother Greek"; from the West, an attack on the whole college system by Upton Sinclair in "The Goose Step"; from the Middle West, "The Barb" by William J. McNally.

"A challenge to the petty snobbery and intellectual limitations of the fraternity-sorority system" are the words G. Putnam's Sons, the publishers of "The Barb", have used in describing the work of Mr. McNally. Since the book deals with undergraduate life at Minnesota university the author infers that it fits every state university and that while he may be writing particularly of one institution, the others are so nearly like it that what is peculiar of the one is characteristic of all.

Were a psychiatrist to read the book he would diagnose it as a well developed inferiority complex arising from the experiences of its author. Mr. McNally sees only the outward side of the fraternity. He attempts to find an intellectual basis for the exclusiveness it represents and failing in this, he reaches the startling conclusion that fraternity men are made of the same clay as their college-mates, the "barbs", elsewhere known as non-fraternity men. He presents an exaggerated view of the snobishness of the Greeks. No fraternity man or woman ever disgraces himself by speaking to a common "barb". "Greek letteritis" is responsible for all the boobs—all of that part of the student body which cares little about anything except petty society and cheap, sensuous pleasures.

"The Barb" is replete with contradictions. The author attacks the intolerance of fraternity people in the social sphere and then becomes even more intolerant himself when he turns autocrat in the intellectual kingdom. His reasoning goes amiss now and then. Fraternities, he argues, are making fools of college students, and since "American civilization has to stand or fall by its higher education," he reasons that unless they are abolished they will be the means of our undoing.

Mr. McNally fails to see that fraternities are the outgrowth of the American educational system and in no sense explain the true reason for American "boobishness". He is sorely grieved to find our institutions of higher learning filled with jewel-becked dubs who care not a snap of the finger for Russian novelists or great music composers. So much for his animadversions on the fraternity-sorority system which after all are only a poorly disguised cloak for the story which he has to tell.

Bob Whitney and his sister, Connie, come of a good family of a small Minnesota town. Bob decides to go to Minnesota university rather than Harvard chiefly because he wishes to be with his sister and near to his mother who remains alone at home. Since both are well groomed, and well supplied with money, they are rushed by the fraternities and sororities at the university. Connie joins the Alpha Phi while Bob, disgusted with the "menagerie of baboons" found in fraternities, decides to keep as far away from them as possible. His sister doesn't understand his motive and becomes estranged.

Whitney is an aesthete. He has a background of two years spent in traveling over Europe during which time he has become interested in Gorki, Argenieff, Tolstoy, and Dostoevsky, who represent to him the nth degree of intellectual attainment. He can't understand the babble of the campus. A wealthy professor, who spends much of his time giving lectures about the country, gives him a room at his home. Young Whitney promptly falls in love with the professor's young and beautiful wife. Meanwhile he meets Monica Trent, also rich and beautiful, who like himself scorns silly fraternities. The plot of the story deals with the machinations of the two women in capturing the hero's love.

Mrs. Mondell, the professor's wife, has the edge in the race until circumstances force her to show her hand, and then she decides for moral appearances as against creating a scandal by eloping with Whitney. Monica Trent consequently wins the race. She has personality—she admits it—while Mrs. Mondell, is only an "animal of femininity."

Mr. McNally is a clever writer. As far as his observations of college life go, his novel dwarfs "Town and Gown." In style he is more brilliant than F. Scott Fitzgerald—what more can one ask?

FAST AND FAR

An army fier, Lieutenant Lester Maitland has just attained a speed of more than 260 miles an hour for more than half a mile in a plane. How much faster he was traveling is not ascertainable, since only the pce of the motors and not the downward rush due to gravity was registered. Such speed would mean, if maintained, Philadelphia to New York in twenty minutes. It would carry a passenger over the Atlantic from Newfoundland to Ireland in less than eight hours.

At almost the hour of the flight a radio message from the Brazilian Centennial Exposition at Rio Janeiro was heard at Honolulu, 8000 miles away breaking the long-distance record for such transmission. The apparatus was of 500 watts only.

The age in which we live has kept a high-pressure population holding up its hands in amazement at the rapid strides of mechanical and physical development. Is the spiritual expansion keeping pace with these miracles? Is the body alone to be the gainer by the acceleration of travel, the increased facility of speech over wide ranges?

To talk so far and go so fast are privileges that demand a corresponding improvement in the race that it to enjoy advantages its ancestors did not know and could not guess. Radio and the airplane are such noble servants that they deserve nobel masters.—Philadelphia Public Ledger.

Associated Dental Students To Elect Officers Tomorrow

At the meeting of the Associated Dental students on Thursday night officers will be elected for the next year. The officers who have served this year and who will soon give up their places to the newly-elected ones are: Howard A. Denbo D4

Iowa City, president; Max Kadesky D4 Dubuque vice-president; Frank A. Patterson D4 Waverly, secretary; and Glenn J. Rogers, treasurer.

The Association throughout the year endeavors to bring all students in college of dentistry together. Meetings are held once a month when all business concerning the group is translated. Plans of various activities are made at this time.

CONGREGATIONAL CLASS WILL PRESENT PLAY

Mrs. Magnuson's class on the Congregational Sunday School will present Elizabeth Erwin Miller's Biblical drama, "Esther", next Sunday evening. The school has been using these simple arranged plays as a means of teaching the story. The aim is not for artistic perfection but as a means of giving the child opportunity for expression. The public is invited.

Dean Raymond Believes Traditions Originate in Spontaneous and Novel Ideas of Student Body, If at All

That tradition is something that cannot be arbitrarily created is the opinion of Dean William G. Raymond of the engineering college. It is his belief that tradition grows and becomes a part of an institution only as a result of a novel idea which is taken up unanimously by a group and becomes established by custom.

Dean Raymond has been associated with the Universities of Washington, California, and Kansas, and he observed that there was no attempt at any of these schools to enforce tradition upon an undergraduate body. "I believe that the idea of trying to instill respect and regard for an institution through a set of regulations imposed upon a body of undergraduates is fundamentally wrong. For instance the green cap regulation at Iowa has not been popular or very successful because it is an attempt to enforce tradition upon freshmen."

As examples of true tradition, Dean Raymond mentioned Mecca week of the engineers and the Law Jubilee. "Regarding Mecca week, several years ago some of the students came to me and asked permission to put on a show, which I granted. The idea was spontaneous with them; I do not know who conceived it, but it represented the whole group. Soon after this incident the first engineers show was staged and since then has grown to include the entire tradition known as Mecca week. It is the same with the Law Jubilee. There is no need for a regulation specifying that these events shall take place on a certain date each year. They are taken for granted and have grown to be an integral part of their respective schools."

At one of the other schools with which Dean Raymond was associated, it was customary for seniors to wear high, white, silk hats and the same style for juniors except that the color was black. These hats were handed down from one class to another and the older the hat the more decrepit looking the more it was prized. It was rather a distinction to have a head piece that showed its ancient lineage by its battered appearance. This tradition grew up from a style initiated by rival parties in a political campaign and was adopted by the students.

"Regarding some of the stunts and antics freshmen and pledges are sometimes required to do, I am inclined to believe that such attempts to form tradition are useless and tend to belittle the institution. It is not humiliation that the newcomer needs, for the great majority of them are in sufficiently humble frame of mind when they arrive. What they do need is to become acquainted with their surroundings and the people about them and to feel that they have a part in the various activities. At the engineering college it is customary to stage a mixer at the beginning of the year where the newcomer has an opportunity to get acquainted. We have found this to be very successful in initiating the freshmen."

President Jessup Strongly Advises Against Limitation of Attendance In Report to Iowa State Legislature

"Whose children shall be shut out? Yours or mine?" This question was asked by Pres. Walter A. Jessup of the University of Iowa in his recent report to the assembly at Des Moines. "Casual observers of the educational situation here sometimes ask why not limit the attendance? Yale has limited her freshman class to 850, and many other private institutions will do the same. For a state institution it is impossible as a permanent policy. This method will not be supported by the taxpayer who demands an education for his son or daughter, after he has paid taxes for years to support a program of education for his neighbor's children. This demand has come about naturally from the demands of the people of the state for a higher education. It must be met face to face. The people of Iowa are surely willing to pay for what they demand. They have in cases failed to pay it where they themselves had a chance to vote for it as in the case of local taxation.

"Within the past ten years no additional classroom space has been provided at the University for the general academic subjects. The small amount of money that has gone into buildings has gone for other than class room purposes—hospitals and dentistry."

In the meantime the attendance in the academic departments has increased from slightly less than 1500 to approximately 5000. Buildings have been subdivided, basements opened up, store rooms and dwelling houses leased, wooden structures with their fire hazards have been erected. The saturation point has been reached and added class room space must be provided or students must be denied an opportunity for instruction."

HEALTH SITUATION IS REPORTED AS GOOD

Although four wards are yet in isolation at the University hospital, the health situation among students is much improved at the beginning of school. With the nurses' home released from quarantine and few students reporting at the student health department. Edwin B. Crone G of Iowa City and Edgar C. Pendlebury A1 of Ruthven are students newly admitted to the isolation hospital. Thomas N. Butterworth A3 of Davenport, Geo. M. Gallaher M1 of Sigourney, and Cecil L. Bair A1 of Modale are new patients at the University hospital.

OXFORD HOLDS INTERNATIONAL ASSEMBLIES

Foreign Students Form Assembly Modeled After League Of Nations

One of the most interesting features of life at Oxford University, especially of foreign students, is the Oxford International Assembly, writes Charles C. Bowie, formerly of this University and now Rhodes Scholar from Iowa attending Oxford. Mr. Bowie is now on a six weeks vacation trip in France and Italy, this being his second vacation since he went there over a year ago to study.

The Oxford International Assembly is an organization of foreign students at present, there being forty-two nationalities represented. The organization is modeled in form and procedure after the League of Nations. It was organized to meet the need for organization which would bring together the foreign registration at Oxford and enable them to get an international viewpoint of conditions in countries all over the world. In the organization the foreign students come to know the University better as well as get the views of many nations for unlike the League of Nations the International Assembly at Oxford is open to all foreigners.

In meetings, the same type of questions are discussed as in the League of Nations. They include discussions of the far East, Egyptian independence, the dispute between Turkey and Greece, the union of Austria, reparations, disarmament, and many other like questions which the representatives can present in the light of their own countries.

S. W. Washington, Rhodes Scholar from West Virginia is now General Secretary of the Secretariat. Robert Carson, Rhodes Scholar from Michigan was the first American to be president of the general assembly. The organization was founded a year ago and since then has been a decided success. Professor Gilbert Murray of Oxford, prominent in the work of organization in the League of Nations was also very prominent in the organization of the Rhodes International Assembly.

Oxford is centrally located and enjoys unique tradition and has long been considered one center of the educational forces of the world.

A Rhodes Scholar from Iowa will be elected on December 8, 1923 for this year. Applications are due by October 27. On December 8 there will be thirty-one representatives from the United States selected to attend Oxford under the provisions of the Rhodes Scholarships, there being an annual stipend of approximately $1500 to defray the expenses of every scholar.

Iowa Girls Do Not Have Inborn Fear Of Worms and Bugs

That the attitude of the girls who are taking animal biology somewhat disapproves the general notion that all women have an inborn fear of worms, bugs, fish and like species is the belief of those who oversee the animal biology laboratory. In fact, sometimes the girls become so interested in the work that they cast aside their forceps and handle earth-worms, sheep eyes, pig hearts, grubs, frogs and starfish with their hands.

"The girls show less repugnance at handling and cutting up the pig's heart which we study than do the men," was the statement of one of the assistants. "They seem to actually gain a great deal of pleasure from experimenting with this particular specimen."

The cat demonstration is probably the most spectacular piece of work done in the laboratory. Five or six cats are placed on exhibition, while the instructor gives a lecture concerning their anatomical structure. The study of the heart action of the chloroformed frog generally affords a great deal of amusement. Occasionally the anaesthetized amphibian recovers consciousness sooner than is expected and surprises the worker, who is bending over and intently observing him, by suddenly jumping up and hopping away.

The story has been afloat that cats are caught from the streets and used for experimental purposes, but Prof. Strompson denies this and

Casts Announced For "Los Solterona" And "Manana de Sol"

The casts for two of the three Spanish plays which will be presented by students of the department have been chosen. The date for the production of the plays has not been determined, but will probably be in the second or third week of April.

The cast for "Los Solteronas", is as follows; Pura, played by Jane E. Kauffman A2 of Des Moines; Casta, played by Jeanette F. Rothschild A1 of Iowa City; Sandalia interpreted by Mildred A. Keller A4 of Iowa City; Procpio taken by Dillard W. Bray Cm3 of Burnside, Illinois; and Claudia played by Edward S. Pressman A2 of Springfield, Mass.

"Manana de Sol" will have a cast composed, with one exception, of native spaniards, and in addition to its regular performance it will be given before the language convention, which will be held here April 12 and 13. The cast for Manana de Sol is as follows; Dona Laura by Otilia M. Fernandez A4 of Greely; Don Gozalo by Vedesta J. Samonte A4 of Loag, P. I., Juanito, played by Pedro del V. Hernandez A4 of Isabla, P. R. and Petra, played by Esther Louise Whitfield A4 of Cedar Rapids; Miss Whitfield is the only one of the cast who is not a spaniard, but she has spent some time in Cuba and speaks the language fluently.

"No Fumadores", a dialogue will be presented also, but the cast has not been chosen.

Business Building

THE selling of commodities is fundamental in every business, and selling life insurance affords the maximum of satisfaction and remuneration. For the life insurance salesman is a business builder and finds innumerable ways to serve the community and make himself indispensable in the conduct of modern affairs.

The life insurance salesman is not only a business builder but he is in business for himself, creating a competence permanent and continuous. It is the best paid work for those who are ambitious and willing to work, and who have the character and stamina necessary to stamp their individuality upon the business and on their community.

The traditions and practices of the JOHN HANCOCK are such that the college graduate can take a peculiar pride in representing this company. You are liable to remain in the business you enter on leaving college. Before making a definite decision inquire into life insurance as a career. Write, "Agency Department."

the west side of the Iowa river between the Quadrangle and the Psychopathic Hospital. It is the present plan to build a new general hospital and laboratory buildings, convert the present general hospital into a women's dormitory, and use the old laboratory building for classrooms in the other colleges of the campus. Construction of the new buildings will require several years. By the time they are completed conditions in university may dictate other disposition of the old buildings.

Little opposition to the bill was met in the house, which passed the measure by a vote of 87 to 17 after a two hour debate. The opposition introduced several amendments which were all voted down. The attempt to return the bill to the committee on appropriations also failed.
