students who were responsible for the shooting. Dr. H. A. B. Adams, who was in charge of the operation, said that the shooting was necessary to prevent further disturbances.

The story of the shooting was reported in the newspapers, and it caused a great deal of controversy. Some people believed that the students had a right to defend themselves, while others felt that the authorities should have handled the situation differently.

In the end, the incident was resolved, and the university was able to move forward. The students who had been involved in the shooting were expelled, and the university took steps to prevent similar incidents from happening again.

It is important to remember that this story is just one example of the many struggles that students have faced throughout history. While progress has been made, there is still work to be done to ensure that all students are treated fairly and with respect.
