CONVENTION OF DRAMA LEAGUE IS NEXT WEEK

All University Players Are on Committees to Prepare for Meeting

Practically every member of the University players has been asked to aid in some way the work of the national drama league convention, which will be held in Iowa City April 18, 19, and 20. The work has been divided into thirteen parts, with committees appointed for each. At this time many of these have started preparing the event, while others will have their work to do while the convention is in session. In order to insure more perfect organization of plans there was a meeting of all committee chairman in the commercial club rooms yesterday. Those who have been named on committees include students, faculty members, and workers in the Iowa City drama league.

The members of the national convention committee are: Mrs. A. Star Best of Evanston, Ill.; Mr. Harold Ehrensperger of Chicago, Ill.; and Prof. Edward C. Mabie, of the department of speech, chairman.

The Iowa City general committee is composed of the following: Helene Blattner, instructor in the department of speech; Francis Sueppel, A3 of Iowa City; Miss Louise Hughes; Mrs. K. L. Johnstone; Vance M. Morton of the department of speech; Miss Caroline Ware, Iowa City librarian; Mr. J. O. Schult; Mr. Ed Feeny; Mr. Harry Breene; and Mrs. Martin J. Wade.

The convention secretaries are: Miss Alice Houston, of Chicago, Ill.; and Miss Thelma Whimpey A2 of Albia.

The executive committee is: Vance M. Morton, of the department of speech; Gordon Johnston A2 of Des Moines president of the University players; Laurence Brierly A3 of Independence; Gregory Foley A4 of Rock Rapids; Walter Dehner A4 (Continued on page 8)

14 WOMEN PETITION FOR MIDWEEK DATES

Five Given Two Extra Nights; Seven Win One, While Two Are Refused

At the end of the first semester there were fourteen freshman girls who petitioned for the privilege of mid-week dates. Of the fourteen petitioning, five were allowed two mid-week engagements; seven were given the privilege of one week night date; while two of the petitions were not granted. The petitions are filed through the office of the Dean of Women and the privileges granted according to the grades of the freshman women. To secure the two-night privilege it is necessary that the applicant have an average of B, while a very high plus C plus average will allow one to have one mid-week date.

Each year these are filed at the office of the Dean soon after the first semester grades are received at the Registrar's office. The grades of the applicants are looked up immediately and the girls are notified within a week if they have the necessary requirements. The respective chaperons as well as the girls concerned are notified.

The number petitioning this year was greater than that of last year as only eight girls requested the mid-week engagements. Four of these were given two nights and one girl was given one night. Three were not granted. It is interesting to note that ten of those who petitioned this year live at Currier Hall.

21 SIGN FOR NOVICE MEET FOR ALL COEDS

Is Largest Number of Women Ever Competing in Meet Here

Twenty-one signing up for the coed's novice swimming meet to be held this afternoon at 2 o'clock in the women's gymnasium go on record as being the largest number of women ever competing in a swimming contest in this university. The meet is novel in the history of women's athletics at this school and the women have shown a great deal of enthusiasm in a meet of this kind where all those who hold former records in any events will be barred from the event.

A silver medal will be awarded to the individual winner of the meet and ribbons will be given placing for first, second, and third in the various events.

There will be four events for speed, the forty yard dash, free style; the twenty yard side stroke; the twenty yard back stroke; and the twenty yard breast stroke. Two diving events will be on the program, the plain and fancy diving. A single plunge event will be seen. In the event which marks for form there will be three strokes of 10 yards each, the side, the underarm and the crawl, the length being one-half of the pool.

The women who have signed up are as follows: Sara Cox A2 of Iowa City, Eleanor Chase A1 of Clinton, Mildred Kenyon A1 of Des Moines, Buella K. Letts A3 of Letts, Catherine Richter A1 of Des Moines, Julia Darrow A4 of Spencer, Lillian Lawler G of Iowa City, Ruth Bell A2 of Mount Sterling, Marjorie Kay A1 of Iowa City, Gladys Brooker A of Omaha, Neb., Marjorie Barfoot A4 of Decorah, Mildred Augustine A4 of Cedar Rapids, Beatrice McGarvey G of Iowa City, Emily Russell A2 of Aberdeen, S. D., Marjorie Buehler A2 of Atlantic, Ga., Anne Doornink A2 of Sioux Center, Zella Spradling G of Iowa City, Esther Rawlins A2 of Des Moines, Lela Trager A1 of Allison, and Eva Threlkeld A1 of Chariton.

Mrs. Marie Schob, and Miss Louise Boillin, of the women's physical education department and Ralph E. McIntosh A4 of Davenport will judge the events.

Carter Expects to Continue Excavation of King Tut's Tomb

(By United News)

Cairo, April 13—Herbert Carter, American assistant to the late Earl of Carnarvon, has so completely recovered that he expects to leave for Luxor next week to continue the work in the tomb of Tutankhamen, which was halted by the death of Carnarvon.

Carter, an American, expects to complete the work at the end of May, at which time he will forward to Cairo the treasures. Lady Carnarvon expects to leave here Saturday for Port Said, from where she will accompany the body of her husband to London.

DANCERS FIND HAWAIIAN GARDEN IN GYMNASIUM AT JUNIOR PROM

With the hour of 9 came a wave of dance provoking melody from Ernie Young's Marigold orchestra of Chicago floating over the length of the men's gymnasium, transformed into a garden of tropical splendor for the Junior Prom. The floor was overhung with a canopy of white with long fringes of orange and green draped in graceful loops from balcony to balcony. Lights shaded in the same colors softly illuminated the whole scene, and fringes of palm gave a very realistic Hawaiian effect.

By the time that the second dance started, the floor was well filled, the brilliant gowns of the fair ones in silver, gold, jade greens, delicate blues and pinks, in fact almost all conceivable shades, making a striking effect in contrast with the conventional black and white of their partners.

From the crowded galleries the onlookers gazed with avid interest at the dancers beneath them. A very considerable sprinkling of older people made up part of the crowd of spectators. As some adept Valentino made a particularly daring glide, miraculously avoiding contact with the other participants, it was not infrequently the one of those above called the attention of his neighbor to the feat. Or perhaps a particularly striking creation adorning the person of a dazzling blonde or a ravishing brunette would attract the attention of the crowd.

The dancing began at nine p. m. and from that time until four this morning the party was a most enjoyable affair.

Dance Devotees of Two Decades Ago Burned Incense for Terpsichore Until 4 A. M. at Seventh Junior Prom

That the students at the University of Iowa twenty years ago enjoyed some of the same things then as the students of today is shown by an account of the seventh annual Junior Prom twenty-one years ago, published April 12, 1902, during the first year of the Daily Iowan's existence.

The dance was held at Smith's armory on the site of the present Smith garage, opposite the Buick garage on College street. The party began at nine in the evening and lasted until four o'clock in the morning, and it was said to have been the most elaborate of its kind ever given at the University.

The account in full follows: "The seventh annual Junior Prom which took place last night at Smith's armory was certainly one of the most successful social events of the year. It was the unanimous assent that it surpassed every event of its kind ever given at the University. It was a party which to the class giving it was both a credit and an honor.

ARTUS NAMES 16 FOR MEMBERSHIP

List of Men Honored by Fraternity Includes Instructors, Graduates, Students

Order of the Artus, national honorary economics fraternity, at a meeting held Thursday evening elected sixteen men to membership, comprising instructors, graduates, and undergraduates interested in the study of economics.

The men elected were: William J. Burney, associate; Henry C. Simons, instructor; John P. Jones, graduate assistant; Mont H. Saunderson, graduate assistant; John E. Partington, graduate assistant; Harold T. Smith G of Iowa City; Everett E. Van Houton Cm4 of Corning; Richard E. Petersberger Cm3 of Davenport; Lloyd B. Raisty Cm3 of Colwell; Merwyn G. Bridenstine Cm3 of Iowa City; Don M. Guthrie Cm3 of Fort Madison; James H. Treneman Cm3 of Ottumwa; Elmer Kirchner Cm3 of Fort Didge; Richard H. Garlock A2 of Maxwell; Lewis C. Brownson A2 of Maxwell; Floyd B. Haworth A2 of Galoa.

High scholarship and a definite interest in economics are the main requisites for election, while personality and initiative receive due consideration. Order of Artus is an active honorary organization and meets every three weeks to discuss current topics of economics importance. "The Inheritance Tax Laws of Iowa" is the subject for the meeting the last week in April.

The present officers of the organization are: Darwin M. Staley A4 of Perry, president; William H. Moore Cm4 of Fort Madison, secretary; and George L. Grimm A3 of Sharpsburg, treasurer.

MORE PRESSURE GERMANY'S LOT IN RUHR AREA

Decision to Force Issue Follows Conference Between Poincare and Theunis

(By United News)

Paris, April 13—The dove of peace which has been flapping about the Quay D'Orsay for some days, has fled. It was announced Friday following a conference between Premier Raymond Poincare, France, and Premier Theunis, Belgium, that Germany may expect increased pressure in the Ruhr instead of the olive branch.

Reports that France and Belgium had agreed on a new reparations offer from Germany and that Great Britain might fall in line with her two allies thus quickly dispelled.

The bulletin issued at the foreign office stated that it had been decided to accentuate the pressure in the Ruhr and to continue that course as long as necessary to force Germany to make direct proposals concerning reparations.

There has been no hint of what new measures may be taken. The France-Belgians have already resorted to nearly every possible means to extract reparations from the rich German industrial area. The railroads have been confiscated. Officials and citizens arrested or expelled. Coal and coke was seized and other drastic measures taken.

However Poincare and Theunis apparently have another plan up their sleeves to make Germany capitulate in the coal war of the Ruhr.

Information from Berlin Friday indicated that Germany was not yet ready to say, "Kamerade" by substituting a new reparation proposal. The government, although pressure is being exerted on it from all sides, maintains that no offer shall be made as long as the French and Belgian soldiers are in the Ruhr. The Cune cabinet, furthermore, is hoping against hope that the United States, Britain or some other nation will induce the French and Belgian government to submit the whole problem or reparations to an international commission of experts.

Previous to the conference between the two premiers and others which is to last throughout the weekend, an attempt was made by friends to induce Britain to back down from her course of "benevolent neutrality" in the Ruhr and aid, to a degree at least, the Ruhr adventure. Judging from the phraseology of the foreign office announcement however, these efforts were apparently futile.

HOWARD TO DES MOINES TO ARRANGE FOR MATCH

Mike Howard, wrestling coach and Dave Fiddler, boxing instructor, are to leave late Sunday afternoon for Des Moines where they will complete arrangements for Howard's appearance on a semi-windup at Oscar Thornton's wrestling card to be offered April, 27.

Howard's opponent has not been named but efforts are under-way to secure some top-notch.

4 DAY UNION DRIVE IS OVER; PLEDGE $38,000

Total to Reach $40,000; $16,410 Secured on Last Day of Campaign

With the words, "This campaign has been a success in the highest sense because I see in your faces to-day a new spirit, the cultivation of which is more important to the future of this University than the very buildings upon these hills. I thank you from the bottom of my soul for the expenditure of your effort in a just cause."

The campaign is now closed. R. H. Fitzgerald ended the drive at 1 p. m. yesterday.

The total sum of the pledges secured between 12 o'clock Thursday and noon yesterday amounted to $16,410, which makes the total for the four days campaign, $38,210.

During the luncheon at the women's gymnasium, Virgil Hancher L3 of Rolfe, announced that as far as Mr. Fitzgerald and Lieut. Col. Morton C. Mumma are concerned, the campaign is closed and the students are no longer requested to solicit pledges. But, since it has been impossible for some of the workers to see all of the prospective subscribers, it is permissible to continue soliciting until every one has been seen. The amount that will be secured in this manner will be sufficient to put the total amount of pledges for the recent campaign over $40,000.

After the number and amounts of pledges had been determined, Virgil Hancher, before presenting the speakers that closed the drive, spoke of the reverence with which people of very country regard Oxford University. This is due to the attitude of the Oxford students themselves. Mr. Hancher said, "There isn't any thing in the word Oxford that makes people reverence it, but it is the spirit of its students. Oxford has a glorious history of eight hundred years. This University has the glorious future of more than eight hundred years." Forest C. Ensign, professor in education, said that during the twenty five years that he has been in the University as a student, a graduate and as a member of the faculty he had never seen any thing like the spirit shown during the past five days. "A group of energetic young people set themselves to a task and performed it. Five hundred students worked together."

Mr. Ensign asserted that this newly created spirit among the students is a thing that can never die, as it has become a part of the spirit, the soul of each. Some have met rebuffs in their attempt to secure pledges to the Union, but those are past and should now be forgotten and only the spirit the bigger thing retained.

Aubrey Devine L3 of Des Moines, who reported the sum of $790, the largest amount secured by one team during the last twenty four hours of the drive said in speaking of the campaign and the experiences of the workers "I think that the campaign was very successful and the attitude of most of the students very favorable to the Union. But a certain per cent shouldn't be classed as Iowa students, at all".

Max Conn L2 of Hartley, whose team secured $700 the last day said, "The campaign was very successful. Even more so than we could have hoped for. The attitude of most of the students is favorable to the Union but the workers struck a few who apparently knew nothing about it."

Twelve captains reported over $400. They were Glenn Douglas Cm4 (Continued on Page 8)

TWO CAPTAINS ARE ELECTED

James and McCullough Will Lead Wrestlers and Swimmers

David W. James D1 of Colfax and William A. McCullough L1 of Iowa City were elected wrestling and swimming captains at meetings held yesterday afternoon in the men's gymnasium.

James is a wrestler in the 175 pound class and won his "I" during the season just closed. He has one more year of competition. James is also a football man, having won a "I-2" last fall. He also took part in the University boxing tournament last year.

McCullough is the fancy diving champion of the University, and also won his "I" in that event in the past season. He has but one more year of competition.

MOSCOW RIVER NEAR OVERFLOW

Government Requests Craft as News of Impending Disaster Spreads Throughout Land

(By United News)

London, April 13—Black Friday in Russia:

The Moscow correspondent of the Daily Express, in a dispatch to his paper here, declares that an early overflow of the Moscow river threatening the capital of the soviet government is expected.

News of the impending disaster, the correspondent states, has swept the country and the people are saying that the threatened flood is retribution for the war against Christianity.

The government, it is said, is feverishly requesting row boats and constructing rafts.

DE MILEL ANALYZES MOVIE WEAKNESS

Says Producers Not Allowed to Depict Life as It Is on the Screen

Los Angeles, April 13.—William De Mille, noted playwright and motion picture producer, has a grand peeve on against the nation's censors.

The censors, De Mille declares in his latest verbal shaft hurled in their direction, stifle "life." People go to the movies, and then say: "The pictures are rotten nowadays," De Mille declares, when the truth is that the censors have so hacked the picture up that it is meaningless. He doesn't say anything about the directors who produce meaningless pictures to begin with.

"I am now 45 years old," says De Mille. "For 25 years of this time I have been studying, trying to learn something about human nature and the problems that we are all facing and trying to overcome."

"I left the theater and became a 'movie producer' because I realize that through this medium I could talk to millions, while on the stage of the spoken drama I could only reach thousands."

His Art Fettered

"But then came the censor. And now I am not allowed to talk to the public as I used to. I am not allowed to put before the public questions which they are discussing in their homes and which vitally interest every thinking person. I work for months making a photoplay which I hope to have appeal as a true phase of life and my work is not submitted to the public as I made it. It is changed, perverted, emasculated and made to conform to a standard laid down by the censorship board in various states, who have decided that it is indecent or anyone to differ from their own opinions."

"If I want to show the evil of crime, I may not show crime. If I want to show that the wages of sin is death, I may not show sin. If I want to show any phase of the eternal struggle between good and bad, I may not show the bad. Some of the most interesting aspects of human life deal with the fact that a child is to be born, but I am prevented from even alluding to such an improper event."

Pictures for Children

"Such a policy is merely insisting that the new art of the modern picture be limited to the capacity of a ten-year-old child. Is it not better that the American parent investigate the picture his children are permitted to see than that the American public be compelled to see only pictures for children?"

"There is a law in every state in the union that nothing indecent or immoral be exhibited in public. This law is right and necessary. But should three people be allowed to flatly decide that anything which differs from their own point of view is immoral, and declare that no love may be depicted between persons who are not legally entitled to feel such love?"

"Are producers to be allowed to study life as it exists and show such aspects of it as they are able to comprehend, or are they to be forced to ignore birth, death, crime and love as it often exists? If they are, their pictures will be as much like life as the 'Elsie Books' are like the writings of Balzac."

Quintet Unhurt as Blowout in Front Tire Upsets Ford

A blowout on a sharply turned corner at 1:15 o'clock this afternoon, at the intersection of South Dubuque and Court street, sent one of Henry Ford's go-carts through some giddy gyrations which ended with the car turning on its side amid a shower of glass from the broken windshield. Of the three women and two men in the car, no one was hurt. The car owned by a man who gave his name as A. Shay.

The Ford was proceeding south along Dubuque street at a fair rate of speed, and on turning the corner into Court, the right front tire blew out and after a moment of quivering hesitation the car fell upon its side.

The damage consisted in a ruined tire, a broken windshield, a twisted top, and some loosened floorboards.

DEAN SPERRY HELD RHODES SCHOLARSHIP

Eminent Theologian to Address Vesper Audience on 'Religion as Power'

Dean Willard I. Sperry, who will give an address at Vespers Sunday afternoon on "Religion as Power," is one of the foremost theologians in the country. He is a graduate of Olivet college, Michigan, and a Rhodes scholar at Oxford. For several years after leaving college, he was pastor in the Central Congregational church of Boston, but left this pastorate to become associate professor of theology at Andover Theological seminary. He is now dean of the theological college of Harvard.

While in Iowa City Dean Sperry will give several talks besides his address on Sunday afternoon. He gave his first talk last night in the natural science auditorium at 7:30 o'clock on "The Kind of Religion Needed Today." On Saturday evening he will be the guest of the faculty at dinner at the Pagoda. At this time he will speak on the subject "Changing Religion and Moral Ideas in the Student Body."

Sunday morning there will be a breakfast at the Pagoda for the representative workers from churches and the cabinets of the Christian associations. At this time there will be a round table discussion.

Dean Sperry will deliver his last talk Sunday evening at 7:30 at a union meeting at the Methodist church on the subject "God as Our Bond of Brotherhood."

This afternoon Dean Sperry will hold religious conferences with those who desire to speak with him on these matters.

Czecho-Slovakian Music To Be Given At Cedar Rapids

Students of the University will be given the opportunity to hear beautiful foreign music, when students of the famous Bakule school of Prague, Czecho-Slovakia, appear in concert on the evening of May 17 at the Majestic theatre in Cedar Rapids. This will be the first of a series of concerts to be presented in this country under the personal direction of the principal, Dr. Frantisek Bakule.

Under the joint patronage of the Czecho-Slovak Red Cross and the American Red Cross, a selected unit of forty pupils of the Bakule school will tour American cities of the east and middle west.

Graduates Of Iowa Engineering School Distinguish Selves In Broad Range of Professions

Contractors, construction engineers, presidents of bank and railroad are among the more prominent members of the engineering college. W. H. Bremner, who graduated from the course in civil engineering in 1891 and who is also an alumnus of the law college having received his LL.B. in 1895, is now the president of the Minneapolis and St. Louis railroad. After he graduated he practiced law in Des Moines from 1895-1909 and was also city solicitor from 1902-1908. While in Des Moines he was general attorney from 1909-1913, general solicitor from 1913-1916, general counsel from 1916-1917, and federal manager from 1917-1918. Since March 1, 1920, he has been president of the Minneapolis and St. Louis railroad.

Elton Rice of the class of 1891 is now president and general manager of the Massillon Bridge and Construction company of Massillon, O.

Emilon Walbourg of the same class is now a contractor and construction engineer in Montreal, Can. "He has been very successful in Canada in connection with the hydro-electric plants," said William G. Raymond, dean and professor of the engineering college.

E. W. Crellin, who received his degree in 1890 is now president of the Pittsburgh Des Moines Steel company. He was the president and who graduated from Ames, organized the Des Moines Bridge and Iron company, he was the president and Mr. Jackson the vice-president; later the company moved to Pittsburg.

Charles B. Chase of the class of 1890 is now consulting engineer at Clinton, Iowa, and the president of the Iowa Engineering company. Dean Raymond said, "He has built many sewerage systems, waterworks and paving, and is well known among engineers of Iowa."

W. D. Lovell who graduated in 1895 is a civil engineer and contractor in St. Paul, Minn. He married Judge Remley's daughter, Jessie Remley. "He has been a prominent contractor in Minnesota for many years and is very successful," Dean Raymond said.

Prof. Bohumil Shimek of the botany department graduated from civil engineering in 1883, and received his M. S. in 1902, receiving an honorary Ph.D. from the University of Prague in 1919. He was a teacher of sciences in the secondary schools of Iowa from 1883-88. He was instructor in zoology at the University of Nebraska from 1888-1890, and of botany from 1890-1893, assistant professor from 1893-1903 and professor and head of the department from 1914-1919. He came to the University as a research professor in 1919. The second semester of the year 1913-1914 he was exchange professor to the University of Prague. In 1908 he was the special assistant to the Iowa Geological Survey.

Bryan J. Lambert, professor and head of civil engineering, received his degree in civil engineering in 1901. Previous to that he had received his B. D. from the State Teachers' college and his M. D. in 1897. He was city engineer at Cedar Falls and Waterloo from 1899-1901 and chief engineer of the Waterloo, Cedar Falls and Northern Railroad during the construction of 1901-1902. He has been at the University of Iowa since 1902 and also has consulting practice for the Iowa Railroad commission.

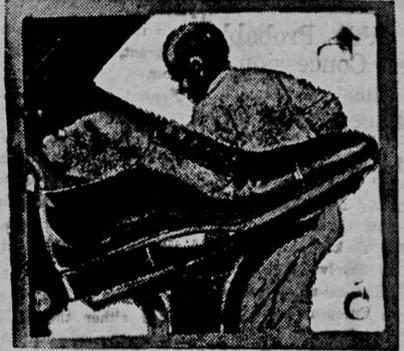

Luther Cassidy of the class of 1878 is president of the Valley National Bank of Des Moines and is prominent there.

Maro Johnson of 1898 is assistant engineer of the Illinois Central Railroad.

S. H. McCrory who graduated in 1904 is now chief of drainage investigation of the United States department of agriculture. Mr. McCrory is to be here in a few days in connection with some work which is being done in the hydraulic laboratory.

Roy B. Champion of the 1906 class is superintendent of the public works at Holland, Mich.

Minnesota Receives $250,000 Gift for Cancer Institute

A gift of $250,000 from Mrs. George Chase Christian of Minneapolis with which to erect a cancer institute at the University of Minnesota as part of the University hospital, for the investigation, treatment and cure of cancer was announced today by President L. D. Coffman after the board of regents at its April meeting had voted unanimously to accept the donation.

The gift was made in the name of the Citizens Aid society, of which Mrs. Christian is president, a society of donors to which additional gifts for the cancer institute or like purposes can be made in the future, F. B. Snyder, president of the board of regents, said. The hospital will be a memorial to the late George Chase Christian, Minneapolis business dealer, who died about two years ago.

According to D. P. Lyon, dean of the school of medicine at the University of Minnesota, the gift will result in immeasurable advantage to the school of medicine in giving instruction to the physicians who guard the health of Minnesota and contribute to the general body of medical knowledge.

Of the principal of the gift, it is provided that $200,000 shall go for the erection of the building and $50,000 for radium and X-ray equipment. Special technicians in radiology and X-ray operation will be members of the staff. The 50 beds of the hospital will be primarily for the use of cancer patients, but in case all of them are not required for that purpose other patients may be accepted.

ANNOUNCEMENT

There will be a meeting of the Cosmopolitan club Saturday, April 14, at 7:30 in the liberal arts drawing room.

TURKISH GRANT TO CHESTER IS TURMOIL CAUSE

British Will Probably Protest Concession as Russia and France Object

By Ralph H. Turner
London, April 13—A new international row in the Near East, center of the scramble of the nations of the world for Turkey's riches, and threatening to involve the United States to a great extent, is gathering strength in European capitals as a result of the Turkish concession to the Ottoman-American Development company, otherwise known as the Chester project.

Bitterness of the struggle already seems assured with both France and Russia protesting against the Chester grant and Britain contemplating similar action. The terms of the concession under which Admiral Colby Chester, U. S. N., retired; Gen. George W. Goethals, and other Americans get great commercial advantages as outlined to the United States by Clayton Kennedy, Near Eastern agent of the Ottoman company, strengthens the prospect of an impending outburst of rivalry.

Kennedy maintains that the concession is exclusive and expects the United States state department to support it. Kennedy, a Britisher, was one of the principal negotiators of the concession. He confirms that the Chester project not only includes the construction of 5000 kilometers of railway but grants the exclusive right to the development of oil and other resources twenty kilometers on each side of the railways.

The Ottoman company representative informed the United News that inasmuch as one of the proposed lines will traverse the Mosul oil area now held by Great Britain under a mandate of the League of Nations, Americans will have the right to exploit the richest oil lands of the Mosul section which the British claim.

The British protest, which is reported as having been held up pending a full investigation of the Chester grant, is now understood to be nearer.

Kennedy declared in an exclusive interview with the United News: "We expect at least one aspirant to raise the issue at Lausanne. However, the state department statement of policy concerning commercial opportunity in the near East indicates that the United States government will support it."

"The Turkish parliament never ratified either the French railway concession or the British oil concession, therefore they are invalid."

"Concerning the suggestion of arbitration, there is nothing to arbitrate. We intend to demand the full rights granted under the concession."

Photos of Eclipse Support Einstein—Director of Lick

San Jose, Cal., April 11—The measurements of the photographic plates taken by the expedition from the Lick Observatory to Australia at the time of the total eclipse of the sun last September, checked almost exactly with the calculations according to Einstein's theory of relativity, according to Dr. W. H. Campbell, director of Lick Observatory and of the expedition to Australia at the time of the eclipse. It returned in December, and since then Professor Campbell and Professor Trumpler also of the Lick Observatory have been examining the plates. Six pair of plates were checked over five times in order to make sure no mistakes were made in the measurements.

A pair of plates consists of one plate taken of a group of stars at any time and another plate taken when the eclipse of the sun was in their midst. According to Einstein gravitation affects light and so the light of the stars in passing by the sun would be drawn out of place by the body. Einstein calculated this displacement very nearly the amount found by the scientists in comparing the plates. From sixty-two to eighty stars were measured on each plate.

Einstein was in the expedition formed for the same purpose that went to Christmas Island in the Indian Ocean but clouds intervened and no photographs were taken.

Must Make Beds by 2 O'clock, Says Michigan Jurist

Muskegon, Mich., April 13 (United Press)—Madame, to be a good housekeeper, you must have the family beds made before guests begin to arrive for the afternoon session of bridge, or about 2 o'clock.

So ruled a jury composed entirely of social leaders recently, when it gave its disapproval to the late bed-making practice in deciding an ejection case before Commissioner Philip Kniskern.

Mrs. Frances Ringerberg sued to eject her stepson from her home, where he lives with his family, because his wife was not a good housekeeper. She charged that the young Mrs. Ringerberg often permitted her beds to go unmade until late in the afternoon.

Counsel for the defense argued that the young Ringerbergs had three little children and that the standards of housekeeping could not be maintained under these circumstances. Several men were called to testify.

"Does your wife have her beds made before 2 o'clock each day?" one man was asked.

"Yes, I believe she does," he weekly replied.

HOW DO THEY PULL THE STRINGS FOR TONY SARG'S MARIONETTES?

By Dorothy Wilson
The mystery of how they "pull the strings" in a puppet show puzzles very nearly everyone who has seen the miraculous human actions of Tony Sarg's marionettes, but, strange to say, after watching the manipulation at close hand, the mystery is only deepened. Behind the scenes, the realization that the twitch of a tiny string through the distance of an inch performs acrobatic wonders in the puppets below only serves to impress the onlooker the more with the perfection of the production.

The tiny stage, seen from the side, appears to be one monstrous tangle of strings, but each string in that tangle is really in the place which it must occupy if the performance is to proceed. Above the stage, and surrounding it is a wooden platform upon which the puppeteers stand when they manipulate the tiny personages. The puppets each have an elaborate stringing arrangement fastened to a frame of wooden bars. This frame is hooked upon a rail behind the stage when the puppet is not being used in the play and is held by the puppeteer from above when it is in action.

The company consisted of six humans in addition to all the marionettes. These people seemed very little impressed with the wonder of the whole situation and when they were not rendering their lines they were carefree artists whom one always associates with Greenwich Village. The three women were striking in the simplicity of their costume. They wore long black satin trousers, loose artist's smocks and ballets. Their hair was not bobbed and was done back smoothly from the face. The men, however, were more eccentric. The one who took the part of manipulating Don Quixote was tall and rather soberly dignified with the thick fringe of gray hair combed cleverly over the bald spot. The true artist of the group was shorter but quite as dignified, with his tiny mustache, his wrist watch and his shell rimmed glasses. His partner, who took, in turn, the parts of the heavy voiced squire and the old decrepit shepherd, was very short and very slender. His slim, humorous face was almost framed by a shock of fuzzy hair.

The voices of these people were scarcely less than marvelous as they talked in as many as three characters in the same scene. Some of the puppets were more difficult to handle and so it took two to render their lines. At various times it was necessary for a puppeteer to give a speech while walking along the narrow platform or while climbing down the ladder which led to the floor of the stage. Even while watching the mechanics of the production one could not fail to be impressed by the perfection of it all.

Between scenes the feelings of tension among the actors was greatly released and the players fell to joking. At one time the wondering reporters heard a little girl talking behind the stage. "Isn't it wonderful how they just pull the strings and they hop around like that?" Yes, answered her mother, and two of the men came around from behind the curtain. The reporters cannot decide what the joke was.

At the close of the performance, the curious crowd had to be held out from behind the scenes by main force because even at that stage, interruption from others would have spoiled the clock-like precision of the whole.

Gallup and Upton to Ames for Press Convention Today

George H. Gallup, jr., G of Jefferson, editor-in-chief of the Daily Iowan, left yesterday for Ames where he will attend the Iowa College Press convention which is being held there. Loren D. Upton Cm4 of Sioux City and business manager of the Daily Iowan, goes there this morning, also as a delegate.

The chief speaker at the convention will be Edward Price Bell, noted foreign correspondent, who for twenty-three years headed the foreign department of the Chicago Daily News. Mr. Bell was the organizer of the Chicago Daily foreign service in 1900 and since that time has had complete charge of that branch. He is probably one of the world's greatest journalists. Mr. Bell will address the delegates to the convention this morning.

Since leaving Chicago, Mr. Bell has been addressing journalism classes and organizations at many schools, and in all of his lectures his main point of emphasis has been that the journalist, above all things, shall tell the truth. Mr. Bell says that only fools fake, and that absolute truth must be the rule to hold the confidence of the readers.

One phase of the convention will be a makeup contest. Mr. Bell, as well as addressing the delegates will be one of the three men who will judge the front page makeup in the contest. The other judges will be W. W. Waymack, of the Des Moines Register, and Senator C. L. Caswell of Ames.

300 AT TEA FOR CHINESE STUDENTS

Party Is Second Event of China Week Program of Activities

Three hundred University women and faculty members attended the tea party given yesterday afternoon from 3:30-5:00 in the Liberal Arts drawing room in honor of the Chinese women attending the University.

This was the second event of the China week activities, which is an observance by the Y. W. C. A. to arouse interest in the work being done in China by the Association.

The three Chinese girls who are attending the University are: Miss Jui-yn Kwong A1 of Peking, Miss Wen-Yin Kwong G of Peking, and Miss Deh-fang Djou G of Nanchang.

The drawing room was decorated with Chinese lanterns which were strung on wires across the room. On the walls were posters which represented day conditions in China and their need of social and educational workers.

The 100 handpainted invitations which were in Chinese lettering with a little black and gold tinted lantern in the upper left hand corner, were done by the members of the Art department.

The first number on the program was a short talk by Dean Willard L. Sperry of the Harvard School of Theology, in which he spoke of the relation of America to the East and said that fifty years ago there was no connection between them.

Victoria M. Boyles A3 of Iowa City gave a dance.

Persis M. Garney A3 of Greene, is the chairman of China Week Committee. The committee on the decoration and planning of entertainment for the tea was: Lura G. Camery A3 of Harlan, and Darlean L. Breeding A1 of Davenport.

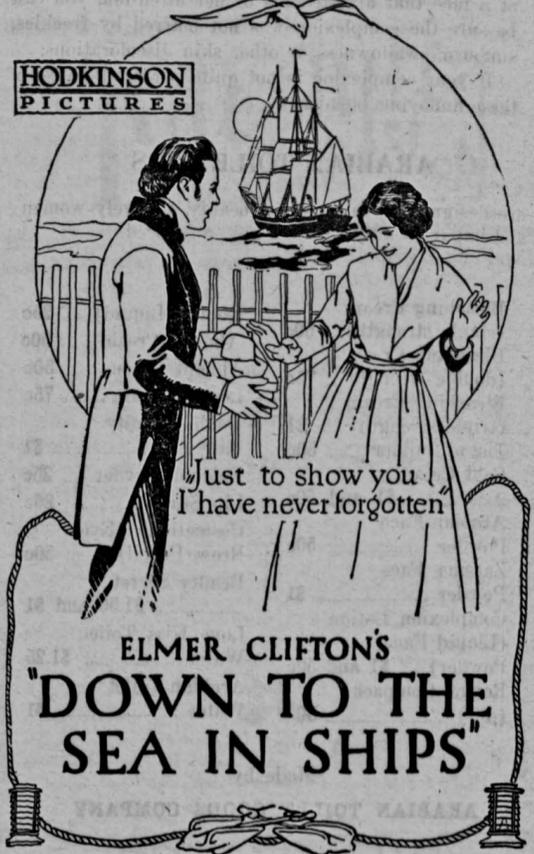

The women who poured tea were: Mrs. Aurner and Mrs. Waterman. The University women who served were: Grace A. Walker A3 of Waukon, Ruth E. Williams A3 of Decorah, Edith F. Freeburg A1 of Pomeroy, and Verda I. James A3 of Boone.

The reception Committee included, Alvida J. Buck, general secretary of the Y. W. C. A., Charlotte Fisk A3 of Iowa City, Miss Jui-yn Kwong, Miss Shu-Chemm Kwong, Miss Wen-jin Kwong, and Miss Reh-fang Djou, and Mrs. Walter C. Schafer.

French Invasion of Ruhr Is Question of Nation's Living or Dying—M. Roz

"In France, the question of the invasion of the Ruhr is not a matter of whether or not it is a wise move, but it is a question of the nation's living or dying," said M. Firmin Roz, the French lecturer, in a speech given before about 150 people in the liberal arts assembly room Thursday evening.

"Life in France has become so high, in spite of the industry and ingenuity of the people, that even the bourgeois are scarcely able to live," he continued, "hence a move of this sort was an abject necessity. German losses do not compare with the losses of the French as is shown by the fact that the French are required to pay $45.00 per head for tax, as against Germany's $13.00. Moreover, the French are required to pay, at present, an internal interest of $23,000,000,000 where they formerly paid only $5,000,000,000.

In describing the present situation of France, M. Roz said, "France today is very much in the same condition as that of the United States in the reconstruction era following the Civil war. The difference, however, is that the United States had only herself to deal with, whereas France finds herself opposed by the obstinacy of an adversary which is too often of bad faith and abandoned by her former allies, after having borne the hardest brunt of the war.

M. Roz explained that the French as a nation are not suffering from discord among themselves. In times of peace there is opposition among the numerous political parties, but in times of a great crisis the whole nation acts as a unit. France is not interested at present in politics merely for the sake of politics, as they have too many great problems before them.

The French are always moderate and careful in their opinion," M. Roz said, "just as the tone of French literature is always that of moderation. The process in French affairs has always been slow and sure—sometimes too much so. What has been accomplished in two centuries in America has taken twenty centuries to be accomplished in France."

MODERN LANGUAGE CONFERENCE CLOSES

Professors in Attendance from All Over State; Coleman Leads Speakers

The third annual conference of Modern Language Teachers closed with last evening's session. Language professors, instructors, and students were present from Chicago, Kansas, Des Moines, Cornell, Grinnell, Iowa Wesleyan, Cedar Falls, Davenport, Burlington, Cedar Rapids, Tama, Marion, and Waterloo.

Numerous questions relating specifically to the field of modern language work were discussed by prominent speakers and the values of modern language study, were clearly set forth. The Socio-cultural values as enumerated were: the gaining of a definite impression of foreign countries and people; the knowledge of the share of other peoples in moulding our present day civilization; an awareness that the thought processes of others are similar to our own; and the knowledge of English gained through the study of another language.

Prof. A. Coleman of Chicago, who discussed the matter of values in detail, said that the criticism of modern languages is only a part of the general tendency to measure all subjects by utilitarian values.

Three talks were given yesterday afternoon concerning France as a nation. Prof. G. G. Benjamin of the History department spoke on "Historical Points of Contact", Prof. B. F. Shambaugh of the Political Science department spoke on "How the French Government Works" and Prof. Stephen H. Bush, of the department of Romance languages spoke of "French Civilization—Good and Bad".

Last evening's program was given over to a discussion of dramatists. The Spanish Club presented the play, "Mansna de Sal, Miss Olive K. Martine gave an interpretative reading "L'Avocat", Prof. C. E. Young of the Romance Language department spoke on the "Career of Brieux and Prof. A. Haras of the Spanish department spoke on "Manuel Quintros."

DE VALERA SENDS FRIENDS MESSAGE

Leader Looks Forward to Ultimate Triumph of Insurgents

Dublin, April 13—As soldiers of the Free State were looking all over Ireland for Eamonn de Valera, the leader of the insurgents tempted the fates on Friday the 13th by issuing a statement to his adherents.

From the fastnesses of the Tipperary mountains, de Valera appealed to the soldiers of the republic as follows:

"Renew at the bier of your dead chief Lyam Lynch your devotion to the republican cause which is immortal. The weariness from the exacting struggle and temporary losses and defeats cannot prevail against our ultimate strength."

At Other Campuses

Texas: The ill fated Blunderbuss has again encountered the wrath of the University of Texas and Civil authorities. This irregularly appearing, semi-anonymous, campus publication has probably lost more editors by dismissal from school than any other paper in the country. A new issue which was supposed to appear on the campus was ordered suppressed on account of alleged indiscretion. Two brothers alleged chief editors of the paper, were arrested last Saturday and charged with libel. They were released on $100 bond.

Wisconsin: "The ice on Lake Mendota is not safe. Keep off!" warned captain Isabel of the University of Wisconsin life saving station yesterday afternoon. "Although there is about a foot of ice on the lake at present, it is badly honeycombed, and honeycombed ice is treacherous because of its sound appearance."

Captain Isabel also advised those who have ice boats out on the lake to remove them at once, because it will soon be impossible.

Minnesota: Minnesota today does not lack in honor societies as a spur to hard work. In the last few years many honor societies have been added until now Minnesota can boast of thirty three of them.

DANCERS FIND GARDEN IN GYMNASIUM AT PROM

tract the attention of feminine notice. Others looked on with a touch of amusement perhaps not unmixed with a tinge of envy.

Arched recesses along the walls provided resting places for the dancers during the intermissions. In each recess glowed a soft blue light like a star, giving the romantic glamour of a tropical night, while a subdued hum of chatter filled the silence left by the cessation of music.

The orchestra, while not the largest that has played for a formal this year, was certainly not lacking in ability to put out a brand of artistic dance music. The instruments used were piano, banjo, stringed bass and bass horn, with two saxophones, doubling on clarinet and occasionally cornet. Many weird and entrancing effects were produced by these entertainers, who last night made their first appearance in Iowa City.

The orchestra platform was placed at one end of the floor rather than in the center, as arranged at the other formal this year. There were no novelties introduced on the program, the committee believing that they would be superfluous with such an orchestra.

Women who wish to take spring horseback riding register and pay fees this morning at the women's gymnasium.

ANOTHER MARATHON

Something new in the way of marathons has been developed in non-stop, long distance dancing for women. Originating in England or France it was brought across the Atlantic a month ago. A girl passenger on a trans-Atlantic liner, without a rest, tired a half dozen men in an all-day encounter on the glazed ball-room floor.

Ten days ago Alma Cummings, a "cow girl" from the Longhorn State danced continuously for twenty-seven hours while 1200 awed admirers watched. And three days ago the tireless Texan broke her own record when she danced off a Broadway ballroom floor after tripping about for a fifty hour stretch. During this period of activity her only sustenance consisted of peanuts, oranges and tomato soup which was fed her as she flitted about.

Not content with her achievements she now plans to have a battle-royal dancing contest believing that with a little competition she could accomplish something "worthwhile."

When dancing becomes an activity lasting for days it ceases to be an art. What it is a matter open to dispute. It may be science, or perhaps "indoor sport" is a more fitting name. At any rate the slogan, "On With the Dance", will have no further use.

KEEPING IN TOUCH WITH THE UNIVERSITY

Lack of interest on the part of alumni in their Alma Mater is occasioned most often by breaking all the bonds which connect them with her. This conclusion is reached through the known fact that those who have kept in touch with the University get the most pleasure out of being alumni and are her most loyal supporters.

Athletics the past few years have done much to firm. Fraternal connections and obligations beyond a doubt tend to keep the gap between graduates and undergraduates from widening. The Memorial Union, now that it is almost a reality, will be another aid for alumni to identify themselves.

However, the surest way to continue an enthusiastic and loyal supporter of Old Gold is a little effort to keep in touch with what is going on on the campus. The Iowa Alumnus is the only publication which has that purpose in view. Too many seniors leave the campus each June unmindful of any means to acquaint themselves with campus happenings when a small sum will bring monthly the really worthwhile news about the University.

CONTEMPORARY OPINION

(New York World)

FREEDOM IN THE LAND OF THE FREE

It is probably easier for George Brandes to decide from the vantage point of Copenhagen that "nowhere is social liberty less in evidence than in the United States" than it is for an average American citizen, unable to take in the whole situation at a glance, to make up his mind whether to agree or disagree. There are plenty of instances in point. Prof. Robinson's "The Mind in the Making" appears to be meat too strong for the authorities at the University of Tennessee, Kentucky flies to arms when the subject of evolution is mentioned and even Arturo Giovannetti, Secretary of the Italian Chamber of Labor and a radical if ever there was one, now petitions for a suppression of academic freedom.

Mr. Giovannetti is, of course, not interested in the suppression of all academic freedom. His letter to President Butler refers only to an assistant professor of Italian at Columbia who has expressed himself as sympathetic with Facism. He would no doubt no doubt oppose the silencing of an instructor who came out boldly for the solidarity of the proletariat or the abolition of capital. On the other hand, it is quite possible that the authorities at Columbia would be more quickly moved to take action against a declared Bolshevik than a declared follower of Mussolini.

With us, it must be admitted, civil liberty is still more or less a balance of intolerances. Despite the Constitution we still take free speech with a grain of salt, both in theory and practice. When the traditions of the United States are as settled as those of England or Denmark we shall perhaps be willing to let our neighbors disagree with us without trying to jail them or starve them.

The Sounding Board

Our idea of an unconscious humorist: A bird who writes in to the Voice of the People to complain that the Chicago Trib's tongue twister contest isn't being run on the square.

We've been expecting this for a long time. A traffic cop at Moline, Ill., went insane the other day. There are some things that are humanly impossible, and one of them is directing automobile traffic as a life work.

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE

Dere Bored:

Spring is 1/2 here. Glimmed a rubber-tired buzzup, yesterday with a frale on one arm and a blanket on the other. Spring will have come when some ding-dong trots down the street with last year's choppo on.

PESS I: MISS

An innovation at the Junior Prom last evening was the absence of programs. Dancers (slang for "devotees of Terpsichore") were hard put to it to keep track of the numbers they had traded. Inasmuch as it is very poor form to carry a notebook when one is in evening clothes, some solved the problem by making chalk marks on the walls.

CAMPUS SCENES

Boating and fishing on Lake Fisk are coming to be almost as popular as canoeing on the picturesque Iowa. Every day sees a number of small craft playing the waves of the lake. Every night sees gondolas floating on the blue, while the w.k. tinkling of mandolins and guitars ebbs and flows as the breezes sweep across the placid mirror of the lake.

Romance is the keynote of this season of the year, and many are the jeweled pins that are banded about with the utmost abandon, as the saying is. Checking facilities are provided for those who do not wish to take any chances with fraternity jewelry while on the lake, and renters of canoes and sailing vessels do not consider themselves liable for such knickknacks unless they are so checked.

In the scene our artist has sketched a ladies' man is chaperoning two co-eds on a little yacht trip across the lake. The sugar moon is rising like a silver dishpan in the east, making the scene so sentimental that the girls will probably forget to be in by 10 o'clock.

You may have noticed that we have solved the age-old difficulty of writing a clever "last line" for the column.

We don't write any; we simply quit.

The Seahawk

(SABATINI)

Reviewed By

MAURICE VAN METRE

Because stories of the sea have become more or less popular during the past year or two, enterprising publishers—in this case Houghton Mifflin company—have resurrected the piracy tales of Rafael Sabatini, seeing in them potential best sellers.

First, they tried "Scaramouche," and that caught the public's attention pronto. It went over big. Then they tried "Captain Blood" and again the charm worked. Now they have re-issued "The Sea-Hawk." It is of that novel these paragraphs are concerned.

From a steady reader of fifty years, we have it that "Captain Blood" was a thriller. Since "The Sea-Hawk" is the first of the old Sabatini novels we have read there is no mark of comparison by which to judge, but we can write that "The Sea-Hawk" must be a thriller, too. Not that it greatly interested or intrigued us but it was fairly amusing.

Best of all was the diction. Certainly it was easy to read. Its dialogue is ever reminding one of Shakespeare. Instance: "Marzak," he called, "Here, thou prince of marksmen, is a butt for thee"

"Come now," cried Sakr-el-Bahr. "Take up thy bow!"

"If thou delay much longer," put in Asad, "he will be beyond thy aim. Already he is scarcely visible."

"The more difficult the butt, then," answered Sakr-el-Bahr, who was but delaying to gain time. "The keener test. A hundred phillips, Marzak, that thou'll not hit me that head in three shots, and that I'll sink him at the first! Wilt take the wager?"

"The unbeliever is forever peeping forth from thee," was Marzak's dignified reply. "Games of chance are forbidden by the Prophet."

"Make haste, man," cried Asad. "Already I can scarce discern him. Loose thy quarrel."

"Pooh," was the disdainful answer. "A fair mark still for such an eye as mine I never miss—not even in the dark."

"Vain boaster," said Marzak.

But of the plot, Sir Oliver Tressilian, sea rover of old, is kidnapped at the behest of his brother, weak and jealous, who has killed the brother of Sir Oliver's sweetheart. The lady believes Sir Oliver guilty and the abduction makes her suspicion seem all the more correct. Sir Oliver for six months is a galley slave and then falls into the hands of Asad-din of the True Belief, etc., who knights him, as it were. Henceforth, known as Sakr-el-Bahr, he sails the seas in search of plunder. Hearing that the brother is about to marry the lady of his heart, he swoops down onto England and carries them both away. The thrills begin here.

"The Sea-Hawk" isn't a great book but of its kind it stands the test. Farnol Jeffrey's "Martin Conisby's Vengeance" is taken from the same pattern. That novel dealt with pirates, the South seas, jungles, the Inquisition and a modern Circe—and what a Circe she was! "The Sea-Hawk" boasts a Circe, too, one of the ladies of Asad's harem, but she doesn't rate an exclamation point.

"The Sea-Hawk" should be popular since it contains an element of mystery, plenty of thrills and pleasing romance.

Philip King.

THE QUESTION BOX

(Q.) "I attended Iowa only one semester, (or a year or two) I am not an alumnus, why should I give?" says the former student.

(A.) Iowa wants you identified with her and wants you to feel that even though you left the parental roof before reaching your academic majority you are still a member of the family. And you still owe her a debt of gratitude and loyalty no matter how short your period of attendance. You enjoyed the educational bounty of the state. Yur duty is clear and well defined. Editors note—All communications addressed to the editor and not exceeding 200 words will be published in this column. Articles must be signed, not for publication necessarily, but as evidence of good faith.

To the Editor:

Of all the multitudinous fields in the University certainly that of forensics and dramatics takes the silfified doughnut for over-organization and over-publicity.

Suppose for a moment that mathematics were similarly top-heavy with useless organizations. The dozen persons majoring in the subject could by merely working mathematical problems and attending committee meetings and banquets with drab, bespectacled, fellow calculators, have to their credit an amazing amount of newspaper space and in addition an impressive array of Greek letters and organization names—Theta Theta Iota, honorary-calculus fraternity; Mu Omega Xi, algebraic sorority; Intratrigonometric Council; National Geometrical League; Order of the Shell Rimmed Specs, an honorary senior logarithmic organization (whose purpose is "to foster Iowa spirit and to encourage an interest in logarithms on the campus") and so on as far as the publicity seeking geniuses of mathematics cared to organize.

After four years of participation in these portentous activities whose details had been emblazoned before the expectant world through the pages of the Iowan, these twelve could look back upon a highly successful college career and forward to—teaching in some dinky high school the rest of their days or continuing in school to learn some application for their knowledge.

Compare this blatant Babbittism with the quiet dignity of the scien-

STARBUCK IS DELEGATE FOR WORLD MEET

Is One of Six from United States to Attend International Education Conference

Prof. Edwin A. Starbuck, of the department of psychology, has been appointed one of the six United States delegates to the world conference on education which will meet in San Francisco June 27-July 6. This is the first time such a world conference will meet. It is meeting in connection with the National Education association, which has 100,000 teachers as members and meets yearly.

There are to be six United States delegates and one from every other nation so far as possible at the conference which is being held under the auspices of the committee of foreign relations of the national education association. The five other delegates representing the United States are: Dr. J. L. Meraim, University of Missouri; Assistant Superintendent Richard D. Allen, public schools, Providence, R. I.; Dean Charles E. Chadsey, Illinois university; State Superintendent J. A. Churchill, Oregon; and Milton Fairchild, character education institution, Washington, D. C.

During these meetings the conference proposes to discuss a score of subjects, one of the twenty being "Character Education," in which Dr. Starbuck is especially interested and he has been asked to take up this subject at the conference.

Character education includes the psychology and sociology of character development, methods of character diagnosis, and the moral standards to be achieved during the different periods of the child's life. Character education groups together and designates all of the elements permeating general education which encourage and guide the individual in his growth into a personality having desirable characteristics and habits appropriate to organized society.

The problem is, "What studies of the curriculum and what methods and processes are best calculated to bring children to understand and appreciate moral experiences, lead them to right acts and develop a power to resist evil both in thought and act?"

Milton Fairchild, chairman of the Character Education Institution at Washington, D. C., said in a letter to Dr. Starbuck, "Our problem is to work out a basic plan for character education of children which can be sent to educational authorities in every nation with an appeal that they use it as a starting point for working out practical plans for character education in their school. Collaboration the world around in character education of all children will certainly result in an important contribution to civilization." In another letter he said, "The grand objective is character education of children in the schools of every nation on the face of the earth, as a contribution toward civilization and towards a basis for justice, good-will and cooperation among nations."

Performances of Sarg Marionettes Please Students and Citizens

Due to the unusual interest which was created among Iowa City school children, University students and townspeople, the two performances of Tony Sarg's marionettes were financially successful.

"We feel well pleased," said Miss Caroline Ware, president of the advisory council of the Tom Thumb theatre, and librarian at the public library, "with the number of people who enjoyed Rip Van Winkle and Don Quixote. Besides giving the people of Iowa City a unique and worthwhile dramatic treat, we have been able to start a fund which will help to finance the children's Tom Thumb theatre. We have had no money with which to buy certain necessary stage equipment and costumes and properties, until now."

The Tom Thumb theatre is a children's theatre which grew out of the library story hour project about a year ago. Its productions are given from time to time at the library, by members of the children's room.

FILIPINOS TO GIVE SONGS AND DANCES

Will Present Interesting Program on International Night, April 25

Native songs, dances and skits will make up the Filipino part of the international night program which the cosmopolitan club is to present April 25 at the natural science auditorium. Every part of this act will be characteristic of the Philippine islands even to the costumes which the students have imported from their homes. The opening number is to consist of a group of selections on the stringed instruments common to the islands. Those who are taking part in this are Pedro Bascos A1 of Pangasinan, P. I., Hermogenes Carbonelle, Mena Larizabal A1 of Lagudin, P. I., Alfred Alonzo, a student here in the summer session of 1922, from Camalanigan, P. I., and Anacleto Santiago A4 of Cabugao, P. I.

This musical number will be followed by a native dance, also given in native costume, by Mariana Ruiz S1 and Vedasto Samonte A4, both of Laoag, P. I. A bit of Filipino humor is scheduled after this in the form of a "zarbuela" or skit by Anacleto Santiago. The first part of this skit will be given in Spanish and concerns a man who has been married ten times and who has thirty sons and daughters, only half of whom are living. The other part will be given in the dialect of the Philippine islands. Both of these

No admission is charged, and it was to help to defray the expenses of costumes, royalties and programs that it was necessary to create a fund by bringing outside entertainments here.

The advisory council is composed of Miss Ware, Miss Isabel Davis, children's librarian, and Prof. Chas. E. Mabie, assistant professor in the speech department.

will have guitar accompaniment.

The fourth part of the act is to be a dialogue, in song, between two domestic servants of a rich man. The same dialect will be used in this one but interpretative actions on the part of the singers and special explanation on the program will enable the audience to appreciate the humor of the selection. The closing number of the act will be a group of folk songs by the entire Filipino club.

The entire act is being thoroughly worked out in rehearsals now. Lucille Morford A1 of Iowa City is coach.

TREES BUD LATER THAN LAST YEAR

Maples Blossom in Middle of March Last Season; Late This Year

Spring, this year, is extraordinarily late as is shown in the comparison of the condition of the trees now with that of the trees last year or the year before at this time according to Professor Clifford H. Farr of the botany department, who has been watching the development of trees in the spring for several years. Two years ago, the soft maple trees were budding on March 14; last year they bloomed on March 15, and this year they have not yet budded at all.

Fruit trees will probably not blossom this year until about May 1. This means that they are about two and three weeks behind their usual schedule. Cherry trees, two years ago, were in the same stage in which they now are on March 21. Plum trees, two years ago, were in the same stage on March 17 that they are now. Last year they were in bloom on April 23, while they will probably not blossom until May 1 this year.

This slowness however, Professor Farr stated, is advantageous in that there will be no danger of the crop being injured by frost as it was two years ago. Although there will be no danger from frost, the fruit crop will probably be small this year because the trees bore heavily last year and it is seldom they bear heavily two years in succession.
