HAWKEYE PICKS EIGHT TYPICAL CAMPUS WOMEN

Representative Women On Campus Selected For Iowa Girl Section

Frances Williams
Josephine Daus
Lois Sensor
Lois Jackson
Emily Withrow
Elizabeth Ensign
Catherine Wright
Margaret Altman

Beauty, athletics, activities, and scholarship combined in the selection of the above eight women for the Iowa Girl section of the 1924 Hawkeye, which is to be placed in the hands of the students of the University today. This selection has been made from a list of names submitted by the dean of women, Mrs. Adelaide L. Burge, the final eight being chosen by a joint committee composed of faculty members and members of the 1924 Hawkeye staff.

The choice of these women has been based, in the main, on Iowa loyalty. The inscription at the beginning of this section says, "Most important of all, we have taken into account the matter of spirit; that intense and unflinching loyalty which makes Iowa what she is in the world of today. In these women we think we have found the embodiment of the true Iowa spirit."

Frances Williams A3 of Burlington, was chosen some time ago by a joint committee of students and faculty members as the most beautiful girl in the University. She is a member of Pi Beta Phi sorority and Hesperia literary society. Her other activities are, member of the Y. W. C. A. cabinet, Women's glee club and secretary of the Sophomore liberal arts class of last year.

Josephine Daus A4 of Aitkin, Minnesota, is a member of Staff and Circle, senior women's honorary society and Zeta Tau Alpha sorority. She is also a member of Athena literary society, Le Cercle Francais, and the Newman club. In addition to this she was given a position on the

Delegates To Interfraternity Council Install Officers

David W. James D3 of Colfax president of Phi Kappa Sigma fraternity and member of Xi Psi Phi dental fraternity, was elected president of the interfraternity council, at the regular meeting held at the Acacia house last evening. The other officers are: vice-president, Harry Lamb Phi Beta Pi, secretary, Raymond E. Hoyme, Kappa Beta Psi, treasurer, George M. Gibbs, Beta Theta Pi; and the business committee, Bennett G. Cullison, Phi Gamma Delta, Basil M. Barrett, Delta Chi, and Gordon Rath, Kappa Sigma.

The meeting last night was the first to be held with the new fraternity delegates present. According to the new rule passed by the council all delegates must be the presidents of the organization they represent. A report of the year's work by Will J. Price, retiring president, was given before the newly elected officers took over the business.

The two faculty members of the committee who are appointed by President Walter A. Jessup were not announced at the meeting last evening.

Minnesota Governor Wants Senate Job; Asks For Legality

(By United News)
St. Paul, Minn., May 9.—Governor J. A. C. Preus desires to replace the late Knute Nelson in the United States Senate and he is proceeding about it cautiously. Preus announced Wednesday that he would like to resign and be appointed senator by lieutenant-governor Lois L. Collins, who would succeed him. The governor's enemies however have bitterly attacked this plan and considering the bare possibility that he might later find himself with no office at all, Preus declared he would first ask the courts to determine the legality of such procedures.

FAVORITES OF STAGE TO PLAY FAREWELL ACTS

Four Actors Will Take Leading Parts In Production May 16

(By Edith Rule)
"The Copperhead," the last production of the University Theatre this year, will be the final appearance for several of the favorite actors who have more than made good in the University productions of the last two years. It is with real regret that the audience will witness "The Copperhead" May 16 and realize that such actors as Albert Ward, Gregory Foley, Walter Dehner and the winsome Marjorie Meardon are making their final bow in the University Theatre.

Each Has Created a Type

Each one of these four has created a certain type of character in which he is particularly skilled. Foley is unexcelled in character parts of all kinds. Ward is the best type of a leading man with real dramatic ability. Dehner and Meardon are Booth Tarkington's perfect idea of the 20th century younger generation although neither of them are limited to juvenile parts.

In "The Copperhead" Foley will have an excellent opportunity to show that character ability in the part of Milt Shenks, the tragic hero of the Civil War days. His last achievement was the part of Bob Shireton in "The Bath Road." Old Gobbo in "The Merchant of Venice," Mathew Beeler in "The Faith Healer" and Elijah Quimby in "Seven Keys to Baldpate" are his other notable parts in this year's University

Bandits Rule China While World Powers May Police Nation

Bulletin-Pekin May 9.—Chinese bandits are clamouring at the walls of Peking with the reigns of lawlessness becoming more serious and the authorities rapidly losing control of the situation; merchants are hoarding up their stores and are preparing to resist attacks of invading outlaws.

Bandits Wednesday looted two stores, just outside the city wall, and killed one man inside the city. The brigands escaped.

It was learned from reliable sources that foreign powers are seriously considering forcing the Chinese government to permit foreign powers to organize and supervise the Chinese police forces to protect the railroads in an effort to prevent a recurrence of the raid on the Shanghai-Pekin express Sunday when many Americans, other foreigners and Chinese passengers were taken prisoners and marched into the hills of Southwest Shantung.

NORTHWESTERN CLASS OFFICER UPHOLDS MILLS

Corroborates Testimony That President Scott Ordered Quiz Dropped

(By United News)
Chicago, May 9.—Roland D. Feltman, former sophomore class president at Northwestern university, testifying before the Grand Jury probing the mysterious death of Leighton Mount, whose skeleton was found under a pier at Evanston, admitted he had been called into the office of President Scott three days after the hazing and that Scott ordered the students to drop the investigation being made to discover some trace of Mount.

Feltman's statement corroborates the one made by J. Allan Mills, former Northwestern student, who was brought back from Akron, Ohio, where he was working as an obscure clerk in a rubber factory, that President Scott had ordered the investigation halted.

Mrs. J. L. Mount, mother of the slain student, previously had testified before the Grand Jury that President Scott had told her an exhaustive search was being made for her son, at the same time that he had ordered the investigation stopped, although she testified she was not aware of this fact.

Did Not Participate

Feltman said he did not take part in the class rush because of a death in the family, but said the day afterward when word of Mount's mysterious disappearance became common talk on the campus he had joined other sophomores in searching for the missing student.

Arthur Persinger, who was a classmate of Mount, and who was tied head downward against a pier post until the waves of Lake Michigan threatened to submerge him, was subjected to a grilling examination before the Grand Jury Wednesday. Although Persinger was rescued by 2 boatmen, who had testified that when they had found him he was lashed to a post with his head almost touch-

1924 Hawkeye With Several New Features, Is Out Today; Art Work And Make-Up Are Exceptionally Good

(By Edith Rule)
The best thing about a University and the publications of a University is their power to progress from year to year as the personnel and the ideas change. There is always the opportunity to excel over the year before by perfecting what that year began or making a radical departure into fields anew. The 1924 Hawkeye under the guidance of Stephan A. Wollman A3 of Council Bluffs has emerged with the lessons of former years as a background for some strikingly new and clever effects.

The binding is commended especially in that it is rich and heavy without degenerating into the ornate.

After the average student has turned to the Junior pictures, the fraternities or whatever section he fancies particularly, he is ready for a judicial criticism of the Hawkeye, and this year's Hawkeye can stand it. He will probably rave that some of the pictures are poor but that can hardly be the fault of any of the staff. The make-up is good. The arrangement of the book into six sections by striking color pictures indicative of University life and activities not in an indeterminate sketch but on a background of real Iowa places is a particularly good idea.

The approach to a building or a home counts for much and in the same way the first pages of the Hawkeye are particularly effective. We speak especially of the blue and

GERMAN LEADER OF DEATH CLAN GETS SENTENCE

Faces Gallows After Alleged Attempt To Instigate Uprisings

(By United News)
Dusseldorf, Germany, May 9.—Lieutenant Slagetter, German leader of the "Death Committee" has been sentenced to death by a French court martial following conviction on charges of espionage and sabotage. Four other Germans were sentenced to twenty years at hard labor and two accused of espionage were given five and seven years in prison. According to the accusation of the French, Slagetter led a band of former German army officers whose purpose was to bring about a reign of terror in the Ruhr, by destroying railroad bridges and viaducts and combating the secret service operatives of the French.

Singing Hymn of Hate

Berlin, May 9.—Germany is singing her "Hymn of Hate" with increased venom. The French could hardly have contrived to stir up more intense hatred than they did by the heavy prison sentences which were meted out to Doctor Gustave Krupp Von Bohlen, head of the Krupp works and his directors.

The verdict finding the Krupp officials guilty of inciting the riots at Essen in which fourteen Germans were killed by Poilus has especially angered the rich industrialists who now state that any cooperation arrangements with France are impossible. The French action also has strengthened the hand of the extreme nationalists, those who would overthrow the republic and restore the monarchy.

Deplores Condition

President Leebe, head of the Reichstag in an address Wednesday stated: "I deplore the hate which, through the verdict, has been sown between the two nations and which surely will grow. The French believe childishly they can blind the eyes of the world and can wash behind the screen of justice the blood which

BRITAIN PROTESTS U. S. LIQUOR RULING

Introduce Bill In Commons To Compel Ships To Carry Sufficient Booze

(By United News)
London, May 9.—Great Britain has lodged a mild protest with the American Government concerning the decision of the United States Supreme Court prohibiting ships from entering the American three mile limit with liquor aboard.

This was revealed in the House of Commons Wednesday by Ronald McNeille, under secretary of foreign affairs.

McNeille stated that Sir Oakland Geddes, British ambassador to Washington, and made representations to Secretary of State Hughes concerning "the inconvenience embarrassing precedent which might result from the interference with national maritime commerce in cases where the legislation is not generally accepted by the outside world.

The temper of the House of Commons on the liquor question raised by the United States supreme court was demonstrated when, despite the plea of the honorable Joseph Kenworthy, Colonel George Courthope was granted permission by a vote of 184 to 128 to introduce his bill which will make it compulsory for British ships to carry a "reasonable amount" of liquor for passengers at all times.

Kenworthy's statement that America may interpret the bill as "unfriendly relation" had no influence on the Commons.

"America's domestic legislation is no concern of ours" declared Colonel Courthope "but when it seeks to extend the legislation to the high seas it is time for us to take action. This bill is the most effective and the least objectionable method of asserting the rights of Great Britain.

New York, May 9.—The exchange on the English Pound Sterling reached a new low mark for the year Wednesday when it broke a cent from the opening to $4.60.

Some international bankers blamed the break on the establishment of dollar credits for application to interest on the British debt to the United States while others were of the opinion that the gloomy European situation was the cause.

INJUNCTION AGAINST SUGAR GROUP LOST

Asks Ruling To Prevent Speculation In Sugar; Mayer Makes Decision

(By United News)
New York, May 9.—The federal government has lost its suit to prevent the "orgie of speculation" in raw sugar. The government's petition for injunctions against the New York Sugar exchange and the New York coffee and sugar association was denied late Wednesday by Judge Julius M. Mayer, of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals.

The government's petition which was filed on April 19 charged that the two organizations served no legitimate purpose and existed as a means in speculating in sugar which did not exist in many cases. Charges that the association and exchange manipulated the price of sugar for gambling purposes also were made.

GRADUATE FACULTY REQUIRE PH.D. EXAMS

If A Candidate Fails Exams, He May Try Again Inside Of 6 Months

The graduate faculty this year has adopted a plan of requiring qualifying examinations of candidates for the Ph. D. degree. The following items are extracts from the faculty action bearing on the subject:

"At least one academic year before the degree is to be conferred, a qualifying examination, which shall be at least in part written, shall be prepared and given to each candidate by a committee of five appointed by the dean of the graduate college. At the option of the committee this examination, if successfully passed, may be regarded as the final written examination.

"If fitness to pursue further graduate work has been considered, at the candidate's request, and favorably reported upon by the committee in charge of his examination for the master's degree, the candidate for the doctor's degree shall be excused from further qualifying examination."

Special provisions affecting the qualifying examination for the doctorate are:

"The committee of a qualifying examination shall consist of five members, three from the major department including the instructor in charge of the thesis as chairman, and two from the minor department, except in cases where the major and minor are both in the same department, when one outside member shall be appointed.

"In case of failure at a qualifying examination, the candidate may not present himself for re-examination within six months, and the examination may be repeated but once.

"In the qualifying examination, the written work must occupy at least nine hours, and two thirds are to be given to the major and one third to the minor subject, or subjects.

"The master's examination, when it is a qualifying examination for the doctor's degree, must be, at the student's request, approved by the major department and so designated on the program.

"Of the two copies of the thesis deposited, the carbon copy shall be regarded as a temporary loan from the author.

"Regular forms shall be prepared by the dean for the acceptance of candidacy and for reports of examining committees; the letter to be signed by each member indicating his vote, and a majority of two thirds will be required to be favorable if the candidate pass.

"These rules shall be in force from June 1924 except if waived for sufficient reason in specific cases."

Wanted—men to find the answer

THIS is written to the man who loves to seek the unknown quantity. He is the kind of laboratory worker who ventures into untried fields of experiment, rather than the man who tests materials.

Industry has need of both types, but of the former there is a more pressing demand.

College men may have been discouraged from pursuing pure research. In this highly practical age it may seem there is little room for work which does not have an immediate dollars and cents application. But such is not the case.

The pure research man is the pathfinder. Without him our fountain of knowledge would dry up. His findings in themselves may be uncommercial, but they establish a field for others to develop.

Volta worked out the crude voltaic pile—unimportant until other men improved and applied it. And so with Papin in the field of steam, or Lavoisier in chemistry.

Men of the inquiring slant of mind, stick to your last. In post graduate study, on the faculty, in the laboratory of some industrial organization, there will always be an "X" to baffle other men and call for the keenest thought of you blazers of the trail.

NEIHARDT URGES INDIVIDUALITY IN MIDDLE WEST

Poet Is Now Writing Epic Cycle of Growth In West From 1822 To 1890

"I have undertaken to preserve the great race-mood of courage that was developed west of the Missouri river during the nineteenth century," said John G. Neihardt, American epic poet, concerning his work. "Already the memory of those times is lost except to a few old men, and to the experts in western history.

"I regard it as the duty of all our middle western poets, painters, novelists, short story writers, and musical composers to work together for the preservation of what deserves to be remembered in the early stages of our development.

"It has been the tendency of all large countries such as the United States to fall apart into provinces. While there is no reason to suppose that the United States will ever fall apart politically, culturally it is already being divided into provinces. Our Middle West cannot make the greatest possible contribution to the national culture unless it cherishes its own traditions and preserves them in art.

"Already we have a remarkable number of men and women working in the Middle West and at least two of these are in Iowa City. We who do things in these lines should no longer consider it necessary to identify ourselves with the East in order to succeed. We should remain in our own part of the country and contribute out of our own consciousness to the national culture."

Mr. Neihardt explained that he is writing an epic cycle of the West dealing with the development of the West from 1822 to 1890. There will be five narrative poems in this cycle, each complete in itself and yet when all five are published the relation between them will be seen. The five poems are: "The Song of Three Friends," "The Song of Hugh Glass," "The Song of Judge Smith," "The Song of the Mormons," and "The Song of the Indian Wars." The first two of this list have already been published and "The Song of the Indian Wars" will be published about January, 1925.

"The Song of Three Friends" takes a group of two hundred men up river in 1822 under Ashley and Henry of St. Louis. Out of the hundred came all the great explorers of the West. "The Song of Hugh Glass" takes up one of their adventures. "The Song of Judge Smith" tells of the discovery and exploration of a central route to the Pacific ocean. "The Song of the Mormons" deals with the period of migration. Mr. Neihardt chose the Mormon episode because it was naturally rounded out for this purpose.

The last, "The Song of the Indian Wars" deals with the last fight for the bison pastures between the white man and the Indian. Selected tions from this were read last night at the lecture.

Mr. Neihardt has been working a little over ten years on slightly more than one half of the cycle and on "The Song of the Indian Wars" for three years, and will work one more year on it. After that he will spend seven years on the two remaining pieces.

This Year's N. O. L. Men Were Better Than Ever Before

"The orator who received last place in the Northwestern Oratorical League contest at Minneapolis last Friday night, May 4, would have won first place in most of the contests of the past. From every standpoint, it was the best N. O. L. event that I have ever listened to," declared Prof. Glenn N. Merry, head of the department of speech, who served as one of the six judges. Prof. Merry also trained the Iowa representative in the contest, Oral S. Swift LL of North English, who placed fourth among the five speakers from the Universities of Iowa, Northwestern, Wisconsin, Michigan, and Minnesota.

"Before a contest," Prof. Merry went on, "I never expect a contestant to do as well as he has done in practice, but Swift did one hundred percent better than he had ever done before. He was competing against orators, all of them Delta Sigma Rho men, all of them more experienced.

"The contest was of the very highest type, and the Minnesota man who took last place would have won the contest held here in Iowa two years ago. The judges disagreed very little in their rankings. The Northwestern man who took first stood out clearly above the others. He spoke on "Clean Hands", dealing with social health and disease. Under his words, the audience of seven or eight hundred sat as silent as nature at midnight. All of the speeches, however, were very easy to listen to.

"Iowa received a compliment in the fact that during the last ten years, in the judgment of the association, no better orations than those of Robert R. Aurner, "Open Diplomacy" and Benjamin I. Mather, "The Goal of Delinquent Justice" were delivered in N. O. L."

First place in the contest went to Howard Berolzheimer of Northwestern University for his oration on "Clean Hands". Wayne L. Morse from the University of Wisconsin, speaking on "The Supreme Court and the People," second; Gerrit Demmik, University of Michigan, "The Mind in Thrall", third, Oral S. Swift University of Iowa, "A Non-Military Hero," fourth; and Frank W. Hanft, University of Minnesota, "Woodrow Wilson," fifth. James S. Pollock of the University of Illinois was ill and was unable to appear.

The winners of first and second place received the Lowden Testimonials of $100 and $50, given by Frank O. Lowden, former governor of Illinois, candidate for the Republican nomination for president in 1920, and an alumnus of S. U. I. Stanley B. Houck, national president of Sigma Delta Rho, presided over the contest.

The judges were Professors, Thomas C. Trueblood, Michigan; James L. Lardner, Northwestern; James M. O'Neil, Wisconsin; Glenn N. Merry, Iowa; Charles H. Woolbert, Illinois; and Frank M. Rarig, Minnesota. This was the thirty-third annual contest of the Northwestern Oratorical League.

PROFESSOR WILSON TELLS OF HAZING PRANKS IN THE UNIVERSITY THIRTY YEARS AGO

Hazing and class-scrap in which even the University women took part were popular sports at Iowa thirty or forty odd years ago, says Prof. Charles B. Wilson, of the German department, who has been a member of the faculty since 1888. All sorts of mad pranks were played by the students in all of the colleges, but fortunately no harm was ever done to any one.

"Friendly warfare always existed between the freshmen and sophomores" said Professor Wilson.

"At the beginning of the year, the sophomores, both men and women endeavored to kidnap the freshmen; they would tie them out in the country or even hold them in a near-by small town to keep them from the freshman banquet. At one time a group of sophomores was suspended for such a prank as this."

Prof. Wilson told of the rivalry which existed between the medics and the laws. Formerly the laws held their classes in the old capitol. They would gather on the front steps and the medics would come in a mob and try to pull them away.

"The separate commencements which were then held in a series at the close of the year, encouraged rivalry and class scraps," said Prof. Wilson, "the laws considered themselves so superior to the liberal arts students that they refused to accept their diploma from the same platform and much ill-feeling resulted. Now that the commencement of all colleges occurs at the same time, there is more unity of feeling and a better spirit of fellowship."

"Some of the outstanding class-scrapers whom I remember, have become prominent men and women throughout the state," he added.

"Class scraping and hazing gradually lost their prominence, as the University became more sensible and began to look to bigger things. Like other things, it was not suddenly abolished but died gradually". In speaking of the affair at Northwestern, he said, "We should not be too hasty in commending the students there. There are two sides to be considered and it has not yet been proven that the skeleton was that of Leighton Mount."

Five Hundred Women Given Instruction In Art Of Canoeing

Five hundred freshmen women have been given instruction in canoeing in the past few days by Ernest G. Schroeder, director of physical education. This course is part of the educational program for the year and takes the place of freshman lectures for women.

The principle things emphasized are: 1. If the girl can not swim she ought not to canoe. 2. What to do if the canoe upsets. 3. The proper handling of a canoe as a beginner and as an experienced canoeist.

The minor things given in the course explain the proper landing of a canoe, how to make a portage, what to do when a paddle is lost, how to get back in the canoe if it upsets, turning around, and handling the canoe on a windy day.

Director Schroeder explained that the canoe is safe to the experienced and those who understand it but very dangerous to those who are not acquainted with its characteristics.

Oscar R. Coast's Paintings Now On Exhibit In West

Art lovers of Iowa City will be interested to know that Oscar R. Coast, formerly of Iowa City, and an eminent artist, recently opened an exhibition of his paintings in the school of the Art Galleries in Santa Barbara, Cal., which has aroused some interest there. Mr. Coast is an uncle of Preston C. Coast and W. O. Coast of Iowa City.

California landscape is the prevalent theme of the some forty canvasses included in Mr. Coast's exhibit. Its variety and expression under various atmospheric aspects have served to attract many artists.

It is said that Mr. Coast is not a frank painter. While he paints in oils, his colors never run to the barbaric, but his achievement is that of a quiet effect, suggesting restfulness. He shuns brilliance even in his sunlight, finding appeal in sunsets and gray or clouded skies. He finds expression in quiet colors which enhance the calm which is the underlying charm of his scenes.

A Santa Barbara critic has decreed a picture of a lone tree topping a small plateau, approached by a grassy foreground to be one of the best of Mr. Coast's collection on display.

The University of Engineering

Of all the things that go to make the successful engineer, none is more important, nor more in step with the spirit of the profession, than a studious attitude. One man says about another—"he is always willing to learn," "he doesn't think he knows it all"—and he intends to pay a high compliment when he says it.

The great engineers are always at school, always learning, always seeking for more knowledge. They begin with this desire for fuller understanding, and they keep it up to the end.

Any engineering operation, over and above the primary purpose for which it is carried out, is an active and post-graduate class in engineering, also. So that Westinghouse, or any other great business, is, of its very nature, a University where theory and practice combine to make bigger, broader and more practical engineers.

The courses in this University are not limited to prescribed subjects nor terms—the subjects are almost infinite, and the semesters are endless. Men with the weight of years on their shoulders work and learn side-by-side with those whose day has just dawned.

This post-graduate school fits men for almost anything. Fits them for it, and makes them continually fitter. Out of this continuing fitness have grown the engineering accomplishments on which this institution has grown. It is, perhaps, one of the great educational institutions of its day.

IOWA IS DOPED TO TAKE MEET FROM MAROONS

Hawkeye Track Men All In Good Condition For Second Dual Battle

By Ward Mayer

In anticipation of the Chicago-Iowa dual meet, scheduled for Saturday at 2 p. m., Coach George Bresnahan sent his track men through a stiff workout last night. The men, without exception, are in excellent trim and should win over the Maroons Saturday.

Chicago, although defeated by Wisconsin last week end will bring a formidable array of talent to Iowa City. In Captain Krogh, the big-city boys, have a distance runner of known ability. Pyott, sprinter, was handicapped in the Wisconsin meet because of lameness! he has entirely recovered now, and can be counted on to place in Saturday's meet.

A man who is almost certain to place first in two events is Frelia, who specializes in the discus and javelin throws. At the Drake relays, and again in the Wisconsin meet, he was among the leaders. Smith, Iowa's strongest entrant in the javelin event, is going better than ever, though, and will force the Maroon to the limit.

Other Iowa men who are certain to place in their events are Captain Wilson and Brookins. No university in the conference can furnish runners who can beat Brookins in the low hurdles or Wilson in the 220 and 440 yard dashes. Iowans were thrilled by Brookins' great race Saturday and a throng will be on hand to watch him run against Chicago. Crawford and Shope will have strong competition in the high hurdles. Brickman, Chicago entry, placed second in this event at the Penn relays this spring. The race between these three men should be one of the feature events of the afternoon.

Iowa showed up well in the distance runs against Northwestern. The milers and two milers took several fast laps last night and drew up in fine shape. Jones, Brandmill and Barnes are trying for broad jump honors. All of the trio have done better than 22 feet in practice this week.

Tryouts Held Saturday

The tryouts for Saturday's meet will be held tonight. It is highly probable that Coach Bresnahan will select the same men who took part in the Northwestern meet. A large number of aspirants are working out daily and some unknown may come to the front before the close of the season.

The freshman track squad will compete with Wisconsin yearlings in a telegraphic meet at 4 o'clock this afternoon. Little is known of the strength of the Wisconsin aggregation but Iowa freshmen are sure to give a good account of themselves. In such first year material as Dauber, Roberts and Fleckenstein Coach Bresnahan has men who will bolster Iowa track teams in years to come.

Coach Bresnahan To See Olympic Games Next Year

George T. Bresnahan, assistant director of athletics and head track coach, has received permission from the board in control of athletics to attend the Olympic games in Paris in the summer of 1924. He will not leave the university until the last athletic event of the year is held which will be some time in June.

Before going to Paris he will attend the final tryouts for the United States athletes which will be held either in Boston or New York city. The track games proper start sometime in July, which gives the college athletes from the different countries an opportunity to get across the seas and get in condition before the games begin.

After the games in Paris, Coach Bresnahan will go to Gothenberg, Sweden, where an athletic meet similar to the Olympic games will be held. From there he will go to Berlin, where another meet, that will attract the athletes of the continent, is scheduled to be the attraction for the German capital. This is the first event of this kind to be held in Germany since the world war. It is possible that some American athletes will make the trip to these meets but nothing definite is known.

Coach Bresnahan intends to make a general survey of track and field athletics as put on by those in charge of these meets. He will return to this country in time to take up his coaching here again in the fall of the same year.

MAY SECURE NEW BRIDGE

A new overhead bridge over the Rock Island tracks at College street may be constructed here soon. Mr. G. Davis of the C. R. I. & P. Ry. Co. is in the city at the present time in order to discuss the questions with the city council.

Wayland Hicks, third baseman, and Gordon Locke, first baseman, were not out in uniform for the first practice after the return of the Old Gold baseball squad from its five-day jaunt to Minneapolis, Ann Arbor, and South Bend. Hicks, who is at present the leading varsity hitter, has been nursing a bruised finger throughout the greater part of the season, and it was Wayland's hard luck to receive another bump on the same member in the Notre Dame game.

Locke strained his back while going after a fly ball, also in the Notre Dame contest, renewing an injury that he first received in the Notre Dame-Iowa football game in 1921. Locke and Hicks have both been hitting the ball with a great deal of consistency this season, and it is hoped that both will be in good shape to take part in the return game with Michigan next Monday.

Coach Barry sent the remainder of his "hard luck" squad through a long hitting practice on Iowa Field yesterday, finishing up the practice period with a short skirmish between the varsity and the scrubs. The varsity with Edward Veltmer in the box held the scrubs scoreless, and incidentally scored three runs in the three innings.

Scanlon, utility infielder, worked at shortstop for the varsity and performed in fine style. Scantlebury, regular shortstopper, was shifted to first for the fray in the absence of Locke. Hurlbut, who held down the uncertain second-base job in the Notre Dame game in big league fashion, took the same bag in the practice. "Ole" has had a great deal of baseball experience, has proved his ability at the bat, and at present it looks as though he would be Coach Barry's choice to start the Michigan game.

Coach Barry expressed himself as wholly satisfied with the playing of the team on the trip, and it was due mainly to the fact that the "breaks" seemed to favor the opposing nines that the Hawks were unable to get away with at least a pair of the games. The Hawkeye pitchers, Duhm, Marshall, and Becker stood up especially well before the teams that are noted for slugging ability, and a little better hitting by their mates might have meant victories for Iowa in every one of the games.

Good weather made the Minnesota and Michigan games easy to play but the contest at South Bend was played in a chilly breeze which made the weather better for football than baseball. The largest crowd witnessed the Iowa-Michigan fray at Ann Arbor, where 8,000 loyal fans crowded into the park. The crowds at the Minnesota and Notre Dame games were both estimated at 3,000.

The two defeats at the hands of the Minnesota and Michigan aggregations lower Iowa to seventh place in the Conference standing, with three more Big Ten games yet to be played.

New Building Will Serve For Over Flow Class Rooms

No one particular college will annex the new building, for which ground is now being broken on the campus plot just west of the home economics and elementary school buildings, according to the announcement just made public by President Walter A. Jessup. "The structure is not to be a college building but an over-flow class room building to relieve the various departments of instruction for which it is specially adopted—to those whose curriculum of instruction does not include laboratory courses", said President Jessup in an interview on the proposed plan of the work. The departments of English and economics, and the colleges of liberal arts, commerce, and possibly engineering, will have a place in the new building.

Though its type of architecture has not been fully determined, the new structure will more nearly resemble the Physics building than any of the campus edifices. The contract for the construction work will be let July 1 but the excavating is being started early in order that the work may be well under way by September first.

When the new building is completed, the mythical square which was the original plan of the campus proper, will have become a reality. When the state capitol was moved from Iowa City to Des Moines, it was a general understanding that the old capitol building would form the nucleus around which the colleges would erect their homes, that it would be in other words the heart of the campus. It was to have been the center of the square at whose four corners were to be erected university class room buildings, This last plan will be realized in the construction of the over-flow classroom building.

River Regatta Naming Contest Closes May 16

The contest for a name for the river regatta to be held on May 30 begins today, and will continue until May 16 when the winner's name will be announced and the prize awarded. A cash prize of five dollars will be given for the best name handed in during the week.

The committee in charge of the contest is composed of Edward Sheakley A2 of New Hampton, chairman, Stanton Marquardt A2 of Des Moines, Eleanor Chase A1 of Clinton and Almeda Cutting A4 of Decorah.

The name must not contain more than three words and two or even one word would be preferable. Any student in the University is eligible to enter his or her choice. Those names handed in during the early part of the contest will be given preference. All communications should be addressed to the Regatta Committee in care of The Daily Iowan. All names turned in should be accompanied by the names of the contestant, classification in school, home town address and Iowa City address.

The river regatta this year will be much more extensive than ever before. It is planned to model it somewhat after the regatta at Wisconsin which is known as Venitian Night. At present it has not been decided whether the parade of floats will be in the afternoon or at night.

Swimming races and canoe races will be the main features of the sports. There will be races for both men and women, and all students in the University are eligible to compete. Medals will be given to the winners of the races and plaques will be given to the owners of the best decorated float in the parade.

THE AMERICAN CASTE SYSTEM

In India society is divided into four horizontal levels, the priestly (Brahman), the warrior (Kshatriya), the husbandman (Varsya), and the servile (Sudra) castes. In our own more material society, caste distinctions are differently organized, but hardly less specialized. Measuring from the bottom up in our American caste system are the alien, the peasant, the professional and the moneyed castes.

The lowest caste, the alien, popularly named Dago, Wop, Bohunk, nigger, and classified for all social purposes as the dirty foreigner, performs the crude hard work in mine and factory. Above the alien is the American peasant, dressed in overalls or an apron and a blue work shirt on week days, who works with his hands, but who has arrogated to himself the pleasanter physical labor on the grounds of his native birth. The mental occupations are filled by the professional caste, parasites on the complexity of modern society and sycophants to wealth. The highest caste, the moneyed aristocracy, lives on the income from the ownership of property, not from service; they are parvenues in art and octopuses in business. This is our American caste system.

The system is largely hereditary. No man rises above his caste without a bitter struggle for social recognition. Intermarriage between castes is frequently punished by social ostracism. Pollution by contact does occur, but even if a formal purification ceremony is not rigidly observed afterwards, the polluted one proclaims distinctly to everyone that he has been polluted. All four castes pay lip-homage to the word democracy, the man who practices it is feared, and at the slightest violation of any other social taboo, is made a Pariah in society.

The whole caste system is well organized, and by social practice and convention it is maintained.

THE 1924 HAWKEYE

The center of interest on the campus today will be the 1924 Hawkeye. Despite the fact that only 1800 copies were printed, there will be few students in the university who will not read someone's Hawkeye during the next few days.

The time has passed when the Hawkeye has need of arguments to justify its existence, for it is as much a tradition of Iowa as are the activities of the commencement season. As the annual year book of the junior class, it gives a cross-section of college life as it is lived today, besides making an excellent illustrated student directory.

Its greatest value, however, does not lie in the present, but in the future when it will preserve memories of days gone by. When time and distance have separated the graduate from his alma mater, the Hawkeye will stand as the touchstone to remembrances long since forgotten.

CONTEMPORARY OPINION (Philadelphia Public Ledger)

THE NEW GIRL

At the meeting of the Federation of Women's Clubs in New York speakers described the modern girl as the consummate flower of racial perfection and declared her better than her mother, as her mother was an improvement on her grandmother. The playwright, Rachel Crothers, trenchantly advised mothers to see themselves as their daughters see them and ask themselves in conscience whether they are setting a good example to the juniors whose modes and manners their elders are in the habit of deploring.

Of course, each epoch in the appraisal of its womanhood finds a variance of opinion. Whenever there is sweeping denunciation there is also a valorous championship. One thing is certain: that there is a deal of foolish talk about the alleged inferiority complex of the twentieth-century girl. She has challenged certain of the ultra-conservative because she has her own mind and is not afraid to speak it. She is not deficient in religious instinct, but it is more likely to find vent in deeds of compassion and practical beneficence than to content itself with a pious aspiration or an ecclesiastical formula. She demands the use of her reason. Her intellectual processes are flexible; but they are not so fluid that they may be run into a mold by means of the dictatorial opinion of others. She wants to learn. She interrogates the universe. The elder generation must do much more to satisfy her aspiration than to disapprove. Rebuke is not the daily bread whereby her spirit lives. A passionate lover of freedom, she can be trusted with the boon that is newly hers. We need not fear to commit to her the rightful inheritance of the days that are to be.

Swarthy, stout, voluble,

She had on a waist

Or some such.
They asked me what I was laughing at.
I couldn't tell them.

THE BOSS OF THE SEVEN SEAS.

The Quadrangle Experiment

By U. S. VANCE

The quadrangle, the University's first men's dormitory, has paved the way for future dormitories by practically testing many theories of administration and discipline.

Numerous obstacles confronted the dormitory when it was opened in 1919. It was situated on an isolated hill, with not even a wooden sidewalk leading up to it. It was designed for army barracks, and hastily converted by building a few partitions. No interior decorations were added during the first year, and the pioneer occupants lived in a half-completed building. Self government was tried as an experiment, with all the difficulties that go along with its establishment.

The character of the building has been the greatest handicap. Rooms are so scattered as to make close companionship impossible. Cliques, rather than a unified group, are the result. Its lack of architectural beauty breeds disrespect and carelessness. But in the four years since it was started, these difficulties have been practically overcome.

Self government has been effectively applied in the dormitory. A council of twenty elected men has administrative control, with a board of faculty members acting as a check only if need arises. This council is divided into social, judiciary, sanitary and financial standing committees which legislate in their respective fields. The proctors who live in each of the four corner rooms are students, and they have authority only through the council. Order and quiet hours are really matters of individual discipline, but the fact that the scholastic average there is above the average of University men, shows that this system is effective. The council has, in a few cases, secured the expulsion of men from the building when they were found guilty of improper conduct, but the knowledge that they are their own guardians serves as a sufficient check to most of the members.

Room rent at the quadrangle is as high as that for downtown rooms, but conveniences are offered which are not duplicated elsewhere. Hot water is plentiful. There is a separate study table and desk light for each student. Every person has a separate bed, with mattress and blankets furnished. All rooms are large, well lighted and sanitary. Every room has a rocking chair and one or two straight chairs, a large dresser, a lavatory, a medicine cabinet and a book rack. Closets are spacious. Each room has a private telephone directly connected with the city exchange, with regular switchboard service. Rooms are swept and dusted by maids every morning. An official branch post office is open all day. Tennis courts and a baseball diamond are convenient. A large club room equipped with recreational conveniences is open all the time. Shower baths are provided on the lower floors. A free electric iron service is maintained in a public pressing room.

The quadrangle has failed in some attempted projects, but they are only minor ones. After three years of precarious existence the dining room was closed to prevent further financial loss. The free laundry of bed linen adopted the first year proved impractical. Sectional club rooms were abandoned in favor of one large hall.

Scandal mongers find food for disturbing rumors in the discrepancies sure to be found among 350 young men living a democratic life, but in the very few cases where such charges have been proven, the guilty parties were immediately given appropriate punishment. Each person is responsible for his own, and his neighbors' actions, and gambling and drinking would soon be reported and stopped if they existed to any great extent. However, most of the accusations come from persons who are ignorant of actual conditions in the dormitory, and who get their materials from hearsay only.

Social functions at the quadrangle have been few, because the group is too large for the necessary co-operation. Dances and banquets have occasionally been given, and sectional mixers are popular, but most of the gatherings have been for members only.

The dormitory practices and teaches democracy. Seniors and freshmen room side by side, and help each other. All colleges and all creeds are represented, and each man has the opportunity of the friendship of 350 other men.

The quadrangle has been sufficiently successful, and the few substantial criticisms against it would not apply to a new building with rooms closer together. The quadrangle have proven beyond question that students can govern themselves in their own dormitory, and do it effectively.

DENTS' CLUB GIVES CONCERT AT OAKDALE

The dental glee club gave a concert last evening at Oakdale where they were taken by the Lions club of the city. As at the other concerts at which the club has appeared a very interesting program was given. Howard H. Farrand D4 of Sturgeon Bay, Wis., sang two solos, and there was a whistling solo by T. Raymond Hansen D4 of Estherville. The other numbers were given by the whole club of which there are seventeen members. All of the members of the club were guests at dinner at Oakdale.

Last week the club appeared at the convention of the State Dental association where they were very well received by the representatives over the state. Two concerts were given, one at the banquet of the convention and at one of the programs at the Coliseum. The club was commended very highly for its success and efficiency, and great interest was shown concerning it by members of the state association.

While at the convention the glee club was asked by members of the National American Dental association to be present next September at the national convention in Cleveland. The members would there represent the Iowa association on the national program. It is not known definitely if the club will accept the invitation, but the national members urge that they do so. The glee club here is the only one in the country in a dental college, and a great deal of interest has been shown in the organization of this one.

WILL NOMINATE TWENTY JUNIOR WOMEN MAY 19

Twelve New Staff And Circle Members To Be Named
May 24

On Saturday May 19 all women in the University of junior standing will meet, at the annual May morning breakfast to select twenty of their number as nominees for the greatest honor that can be bestowed on junior women, that of election to Staff and Circle, an organization of twelve representative women who, as seniors, carry on many campus activities under this organization.

At the breakfast, to which all Junior women are invited, each junior woman will select twelve names, from a complete list of her classmates in the University. The twenty names which receive the highest number of votes will be selected and their credentials ascertained, for in order to be a candidate for Staff and Circle a "C" average at least must be the record for the three previous years. The twenty highest who qualify will then be voted upon by the junior women on the following Tuesday.

March To "The Point"

The results of the election are not to be disclosed until the following Thursday when the twelve women who received the highest number of votes will meet at dusk in front of Old Capitol and march in a body to "Prexy's" Point where the new members will be introduced by the acting dean of women, Mrs. Adelaide L. Burge.

The exact time and place of the May morning breakfast has not yet been decided upon. Last year it was held in the Commercial Club rooms. Invitations are to be issued to each Junior woman.

Staff and Circle election is by no means a popularity contest, although election does prove to some extent the popularity and many friends these women have made during their University career.

Count More Than Scholarship

It is also of deeper significance because the women are selected for their true womanly qualities and their ability in leadership as well as some emphasis being placed upon their scholastic attainment.

Since the beginning of this custom in 1912 election to Staff and Circle has been the highest honor bestowed upon a woman at this University and during her senior year she is given an opportunity to prove her worthiness in that office.

HAL RAY TO LECTURE HERE NEXT MONDAY

Hal S. Ray, assistant to the president of the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific railway company and in charge of the personnel and public relations department, is scheduled by the commerce college for a lecture here next Monday afternoon at 2:00 o'clock in the liberal arts assembly room.

Mr. Ray has a wide acquaintance among Iowa men and is a frequent visitor here for such occasions as Homecoming and athletic events. His ability as an impersonator has made his lectures very popular with all who have heard him.

Dean Chester A. Phillips of the commerce college says of him, "Although not an alumnus of the University, Mr. Ray is one of its most loyal and valued supporters. We prize his friendship deeply and look forward with eagerness to his coming."

WOMEN PREPARE FOR TRACK MEETS

Annual Home Meet Scheduled For Saturday; Will Award Medals

With the preliminary track meet coming off next Saturday and a telegraphic meet on May 26, co-eds are brushing up on various events. The telegraphic meet results will be wired to Modesto, California, to compete with records sent in by all colleges and universities west of the Mississippi river. This will be the first inter-collegiate track meet ever held for women in Iowa, and while track is a comparatively new sport for women here, this being the third meet held, they are working hard to make a good showing.

Gold, silver and bronze medals will be given to the winners of the meet next Saturday.

The most promising material for the high jump is Bertha Plowman A2 of Douds, Hester Cutting A1 of Decorah, Esther Fellows A1 of Bronson, and Mary Blackman A1 of Davenport. Julia Darrow A4 of Columbus Junction, Genevieve Harter A1 of Keokuk, Mary Thompson A2 of Princeton, Catherine Richter and Gertrude Grant A1 of Iowa City have shown up well in hurdling. The dash events will probably be strongly contested by Pearl Pieper A2 of Iowa City, Helen Fair A2 of Ottumwa, Josephine Buis A2 of Doon and Beulah Williams A1 of Bronson. Callie Buser A4 of Conesville holds the baseball throw record at Iowa for women at 174 feet as compared with the collegiate record of 217 feet. Pauline Spencer A4 of Des Moines, winner of the past two track meets holds the basketball record at 75 feet 6 inches as against the 88 feet 10 inch collegiate record.

Theone Hatcher A2 of Toledo made last year's record at the javelin throw. The record for hop, step and jump is held by Alice Timberman A2 of Massena with 25 feet 1 1/2 inches as compared with the collegiate record of 33 feet six inches. This record has been broken this year in practices by Timberman herself with 26 feet 6 inches, Ruth Dice A2 of Wilton, Alice Gay A2 of Iowa City, Mildred Hookum A2 of Coin, Nellie Humeston Au of Iowa City, Bertha Plowman A2 of Douds, Genevieve Harter A1 of Keokuk.

Hurdles have been furnished by Coach George T. Bresnahan for the women's field and practices have been much improved. "We are much in need of a cinder track for running dashes, hurdling, and jumping," said Louise Boillen, of the gymnasium department.

The events for next Saturday's meet follow: 60 and 100 yard hurdles; hop, step and jump; running high jump; broad jump; 50, 75, and 100 yard dashes; javelin throw; discus throw; baseball throw; basketball throw; 6 to 8 pound shot put.

SENIOR DAY TO BE FRIDAY MAY 18

Board Of Deans Grant Petition To Suspend Classes From 8:50 Until Noon

The date for senior class day has been changed to Friday, May 18, instead of Wednesday, May 16. The change was made because it was found that President Walter A. Jessup, who is to deliver the principal speech of the day, would be unable to be present on Wednesday. The petition for the suspension of classes has been granted by the board of deans so school activities will cease from 8:50 until noon.

The band has consented to lead the procession from the campus to Iowa Field, which the athletic board has given for the exercises. Music will also be furnished by the band on the field during the progress of the program. Present plans include a morning of pure fun with no emphasis on the serious side of the affair.

Clever athletic stunts have been planned which are not to be divulged until the day of the activities. A match hurdle race between a representative of Currier hall and the Quadrangle, and the sorority relays will all be presented for their part in the day's sport.

Class colors will not be used in any of the events except a few planned by the committee in charge. This is in direct opposition to the established precedent on the campus in which the colors of all colleges are displayed to make class rivalry an important part of the class day exercises. It is the plan of the senior presidents' association that without this display better class spirit may be shown. Senior day is the first of the functions of the class as a whole.

SNOWSTORM SETS NEW TEMPERATURE RECORDS

The May "snowstorm", which set new temperature records throughout the middle west, left in its wake considerable damage to fruit trees throughout Iowa Tuesday night and Wednesday morning. The region affected extended from Alaska to central Illinois and the north Atlantic seaboard.

Iowa City reported a temperature of 30 degrees, two degrees below freezing, as the lowest for Tuesday night and Wednesday morning up until 7 o'clock. Local areas throughout the state report damage to crops, especially in low lying regions.

The lost winter day came out of Alaska, having developed in that region, and gained sufficient strength to force itself down in to warmer regions. It was merely one of the tricks of weather which cannot be blamed on the weather man, says Prof. J. F. Rielly, weather reporter for Iowa City.

Theatre productions. Last year he was particularly noted for his work as Capt. David Scott in "Beyond the Horizon," Consul Bernick in "Pillars of Society," Friar Francis in "Much Ado About Nothing," and Hubert Stem in "Clarence."

Ward An Actor of Ability
Albert Ward is to depart from his usual type of parts in the last play of this year in that he will portray an old man. Such parts as Robert Mayo in "Beyond the Horizon," Johan Tonneson in "Pillars of Society," and the leading role in "Clarence" he made his debut in last year. This season, established as an actor of ability, he played Gratiano in "The Merchant of Venice," Ulrich Michaelis in "The Faith Healer," William Magee in "Seven Keys to Baldpate" and Douglas Littledale in the recent production of "The Bath Road."

Walter Dehner is known as Borachio in "Much Ado About Nothing," Olaf in "Pillars of Society," and the delightfully human Bommy Wheeler in "Clarence," all last year's productions. This season he has delighted the audiences as Hal Bentley in "Seven Keys to Baldpate," and as Alan Fair in "The Famous Mrs. Fair."

Meardon Is A Favorite
Marjorie Meardon though she does not have a long list of parts has created a place for herself as a favorite in the theatre by her thoroughly charming and lovable little girl or flapper parts. She was more than clever as the impulsive Cora Wheeler in "Clarence" and the whimsically appealing Marjorie in Barrie's "Dear Brutus."

For those who do not know the work of these players a treat is in store for them when they see "The Copperhead." For those to whom these four are favorites it will be at least a pleasing form of farewell to see them play for the last time in particularly well adapted parts.

The government plans to forward a note to Paris protesting against the verdict. According to advices reaching here the Krupp employees at Essen wanted to strike in protest but were induced to continue their work by agents of Chancellor Cuno.

It is doubtful whether the appeal of the Krupp officials will avail anything. In fact if the French pursue precedents established since the Ruhr occupation, the sentences will probably be increased, rather than diminished.

HARVARD Graduate School of Business

A two-year course in business, open to college graduates, leading to the degree of Master in Business Administration

Points of interest regarding the Harvard Business School:

- The above graph shows the growth in enrollment and the large number of students coming from institutions other than Harvard. During the present year 158 colleges are represented.
- The case method is used. Actual problems obtained from business are used as the basis of instruction. A staff of investigators is constantly at work gathering problems.
- Business is regarded and studied as a profession.
- What the students in the School think of the training which they receive is indicated by the high percentage of eligible first year men who return to complete the course—84 per cent. the present year.
- The training in the School materially shortens the apprentice period in business. A prominent business man recently said: "On the basis of our experience with your graduates, I estimate that you are saving them five years net. Six months after they come to us, your men are as well fitted to assume responsibility and to make decisions as the typical college man at thirty." The enrollment is limited in first year courses.

"SHOW me," says the math. teacher—and when the chalk clouds have settled down there are a lot of figures signed "Q. E. D." which aren't "Q. E. D." at all.

Say "Show me" to the shaving cream you're using and see what answer you get. Will it soften your beard right down to the base before the breakfast bell has rung twice? Will it leave your skin smooth and supple after every shave and give you the well-groomed look of perfect skin health?

Every day men are finding how much easier shaving can be made because of the speed and thoroughness with which Williams' softens the beard. Likewise, they are finding a help for their skin in Williams' that they never found in any other shaving cream. Try it yourself. The difference may surprise you.
