VACATION TIME LEAVES BRITAIN MINUS LEADER

No One To Fill Bonar Law's Shoes Chosen Because Of Holiday

(By United News)

London, May 22.—Disagreement within the conservative party over Bonar Law's successor as premier has combined with England's time honored respect for holidays to leave the nation leaderless at a critical time.

While the argument grew warmer throughout Monday within the ranks of the conservatives over the respective merits of Marquis Curzon and Stanley Baldwin for the premiership, England's officialdom as well as lay life continued to take its present celebration of Whitsunside seriously to the exclusion of everything else. London was shut up like a morgue and everywhere there was manifest a distinct disinclination to disturb the business of vacationing.

London Is Dead

Not even the cabinet crisis was sufficient to interrupt King George's play time at Aldershot, and he, in turn, displayed equal consideration for his politicians. A semi-official statement of this subject was issued as follows:

"His Majesty would not willingly interrupt the short vacation which his ministers are taking by summoning them to Aldershot or London for consultation."

New Government Shelved

Formation of a new government therefore, has been temporarily shelved, possibly until late Tuesday, although it is further stated that the King is in communication with his advisers and is giving "careful and consideration to the matter."

It is perhaps a fortunate thing that Bonar Law's resignation came at this time, because the Britisher takes his holiday very seriously. The pause gives time for adjustment of an extremely tangled situation. The difficulties are the greater because Bonar Law's resignation was sprung upon His Majesty with unusual suddenness.

The difference of opinion over Curzon and Baldwin hinges largely on the fact that the former, while a stronger statesman, is not a member of Commons, which is the center of the government's battle ground. Because of this latter fact it always has been held expedient for the prime minister to be able personally to defend the government in the lower house of parliament. A peer has not occupied the premiership in twenty years.

GATEWOOD IS ELECTED FRIVOL BUSINESS HEAD

James L. Gatewood L1 of Marion was elected business manager of Frivol, University humorous publication, at a special meeting of the board of trustees held Saturday. The new manager has been business manager of the Cornell College Lantern and has had much experience on business publications. He is a member of Acacia fraternity.

Reginald O. Mars A3 of Iowa City was business manager of Frivol this year. Ward Mayer A2 of Waterloo was elected editor of Frivol for next year at a previous meeting of the board of trustees to succeed Margaret Wilson A3 of Iowa City.

GIVE PICNIC FOR WOODWORTH

Dr. Lorle I. Stecher, of the child welfare department, entertained members of the psychology and philosophy staff on Friday evening in honor of Dr. Robert S. Woodworth, famous psychologist who was in the city this week-end.

Iowa City Landing Field Named After Pathfinding Pilot

The "Walter J. Smith Field" is the new name of the Iowa City landing field on the transcontinental air mail route. Walter J. Smith was the first pilot on the air mail route to fly a pathfinding plane to Iowa City in January, 1920. He later lost his life in the service.

Hugh S. Long superintendent of the field, suggested the name to the board of directors and it was unanimously adopted. A large sign bearing the name will be provided for the field.

THEATRE YEAR TO CLOSE WITH ANNUAL DINNER

Players And All Drama Enthusiasts Will Banquet At Burkley

In the history of the University Theatre one of the biggest events of the year is the annual Theatre banquet to be held tomorrow at 6:30 at the Burkley Hotel. At this banquet all the friends of the University Theatre in the University or in Iowa City and all those who are interested in dramatic work are invited to attend. This will include beside the University Players and those in Speech classes all the literary societies as well.

The banquet is an annual affair held to stimulate interest in dramatic work and to give those who have watched the University Theatre productions during the year a chance to meet and know those who have actively taken part in them. It is the conclusion of the grand finale of the school year and is the last function of the Theatre season at which all the friends can gather. TO JOIN all the friends of one of the most progressive of University institutions gather to discuss the accomplishments of the past year and to make new plans for the future.

"The University Theatre and the Players have been stimulated all year long by the interest and co-operation of the townspeople as well as the students," said Gordon Johnston A2 of Des Moines and President of the University Players, in speaking of the banquet plans. "We hope that just such enthusiasm will be seen next year as well and I believe that the informal gathering of those who are interested in this line of work and the discussion of the past and future of dramatic work in the University will do much to maintain that enthusiasm."

A toast program is being arranged now, the speakers not having as yet been announced. Laurence Brierly A3 of Independence, is chairman of the banquet committee.

The tickets for the banquet are seventy-five cents, and will be on sale at the Iowa Supply today only.

Iowan Business End To Enlarge

The Daily Iowan for next year will make an enlargement that will make necessary an increased business and advertising staff. There will be a number of positions open to students with or without experience and some of these will carry good salaries.

The business manager-elect will interview applicants for these positions during the next two weeks. Such positions, besides the financial remuneration, give students an excellent opportunity for experience in a field which is rarely offered to University students.

DEFENSE LOSES ROUND ONE IN LEEPER TRIAL

Court Allows State To Introduce Wertz Disinterment Order

(By Francis J. Starzl)

The defense yesterday afternoon, lost a spirited legal battle to prevent the introduction of an order to disinter the body of Roy Wertz as evidence of the trial of Robert Leeper charged with first degree murder of Wertz. It is thought that this evidence will be used as basis for the introduction of more in the future.

The disinterment order, signed by Judge Popham in Johnson county district court, and a permit for the disinterment granted by the State board of health were presented by J. H. Donohue, Iowa City, Johnson county coroner and state witness.

The disinterment order was granted in February, 1923, at the request of County Attorney Ed O'Connor for the purpose of holding an autopsy.

When Mr. Donohue took the stand and County Attorney O'Connor attempted to ask questions concerning the disinterment order, attorneys for the defense objected at every point and their objections were frequently sustained by Judge Ralph Otto. It was one of the most spirited battles of the trial.

Mr. Donohue produced the two documents and Mr. O'Connor succeeded in securing answers to questions from Donohue preparatory to the introduction of the documents as evidence.

The state then offered the documents as evidence and this drew a long objection from counsel for the defense. Judge Otto over-ruled the objection and the documents were accepted as evidence. Mr. Donohue's testimony that the remains of Wertz were delivered to the autopsy physicians in the same conditions at the time of disinterment was stricken from the record on motion of the defense.

John Lorack, chief of police of Iowa City, was among the many witnesses who were called to the stand. Although it was expected that his testimony would be important, he told little that was of decided moment.

Dr. W. A. Bennett, Iowa City physician, who was called to attend Wertz on the morning of the shooting went on the stand shortly before.

DENTS TREAT 6500 DURING PAST YEAR

Large Increase Over Number Last Year; Final Exams Now Being Given

Approximately 6500 people have been patients at the dental clinic this year. Last year the total number of people was 5,797, which shows the increasing popularity of the place. This year it was necessary for each senior to have a certain number of points which were obtained by doing certain pieces of work. The total number of points for the juniors and seniors is 1197, the juniors having 600 of these.

The points were to have been secured by last Saturday, but unfinished work is still being completed by members of the class. At the present time the final examinations of the dental school are being taken. The examinations given by the State Board of Dental Examiners will be on next Monday. The examiners are appointed by the Governor, and are from various places throughout the state. Besides the members of the senior class of this university, twenty-five seniors from other schools outside of this state will take the examination.

FREE PALMER, BRING MOUNT CASE TO HALT

Investigators Quizzed Everyone; McKinley Dismissed Star Athlete

(By United News)

Chicago, May 21.—Charles "Chuck" Palmer, the Northwestern University football captain and an all-around athlete was publicly exonerated by Chief Justice Michael McKinley Monday of "the slightest shadow of suspicion in the mystery surrounding the death of Leighton Mount, Judge McKinley permanently dismissed the youth from the custody of the authorities who had held him following the charge of Mrs. Piolet Bachmann that Palmer had told her he "knew all about the Mount case."

Mrs. Bachmann's alleged exposure came the day after Northwestern had offered a $10,000 reward for information clearing up the mystery. The court refused, however, to order the state's attorney's office to apologize to Palmer as urged by Palmer's attorney. It held that the authorities had only performed their duty in attempting to run down every clue.

"If he had known of Mount's death and if it had been the result of a homicide, Palmer would have been an accessory after the fact," Judge McKinley said.

The exoneration of Palmer seems to have brought the case to an absolute standstill. Investigators are said to be about ready to quit, as they have questioned every man known to have taken part in the Northwestern class rush of 1921 in which Mount disappeared and have gained no information going toward a solution of the mystery.

Mount's body, however, was found hidden away under an Evanston pier and the authorities have agreed from the first that he could not have killed himself.

LIFE SAVERS KEEP WATCH ON RIVER

Twenty-Eight Men On Active Duty; Work Done In Two Hour Shifts

The Red Cross life saving corps is keeping steady vigil on the river, having started patrolling the water two weeks ago. The corps carries on its work in two hour shifts, usually of two men, although at times there is only one guard on duty.

The men work from 2 o'clock in the afternoon to 10 o'clock at night every day in the week except Saturday and Sunday, when patrolling begins at 8 o'clock in the morning. The men are forced at present to use a row boat owing to delay in shipment of a launch which was shipped May 10. Headquarters are at Fitzgerald's boat house.

Two life saving buoys have been placed on the park bridge, and a telephone is also to be installed there for emergency calls.

There are twenty-eight life savers in active service. They are University men and have passed the national life saver's tests. These men are all volunteers. There is a class of fifty-seven at work under the instruction of Dave Armbruster which will pass the tests before the close of school.

Part of the exhibition of the Iowa River Regatta will be a demonstration of the life saving corps. The men will keep up their work throughout the summer session.

DEMAND FOR SPEAKER

LABOR PAPER SEES BRITISH-RUSS SPLIT

Daily Herald Declares Rupture Is Almost Inevitable

(By United News)

London, May 21.—A definite diplomatic and commercial breach between England and Russia is seen as almost inevitable by the London Daily Herald, a labor organ.

Immediate dispatch of a force of light cruisers and mine sweepers to North Russian waters is forecast by the newspaper in the event Russia fails to fulfill unconditionally the terms of Great Britain's note to Moscow yesterday.

A British destroyer flotilla has already sailed toward Malta whence it could easily be rushed to the Black Sea in case the Russian situation assumed a warlike aspect.

According to the Daily Herald, Lord Curzon, the foreign minister, told Leonide Krassin, the pinch hitting Soviet emissary, that he would accept no shaving down of the terms contained in the British note, but that an immediate rupture would result from nonfulfillment.

IOWA WOMEN WIN NATIONAL TRACK HONORS

University Co-Eds Nose Out Arizona For First Place In Wire Meet

University of Iowa women won the national women's collegiate and scholastic track and field championship of the United States Saturday, according to telegraphic reports received yesterday by Marion Lyon Schwob, physical director for women. It was a telegraphic meet with headquarters at Modesto, California.

This was the second women's national meet ever held and it was the first time the University of Iowa women had entered. This is the third year of women's track athletics at Iowa and the first year the women ever tried the hurdles, discus, and eight pound shot events.

The meet was divided into two sections, one for west and the other east of the Mississippi river. All colleges in the country were eligible for entrance.

Iowa won over the University of Arizona by one-half point, having 29 1-2 points while Arizona had 29. The other colleges and their order of finish after Arizona were Drake, Utah, Florida State, Ohio Wesleyan, Bakersfield Junior college, Colorado college.

Marie Humprey of Drake broke the American collegiate record for the basketball throw at 89 feet, formerly held by Elizabeth Harden of Vassar. Maurine Ricke A2 of Williams and Blanche Bailey A1 of Royal starred for Iowa, but the returns were indefinite so that it is not yet known how many points were won by them.

Katherine Prime of Florida State college, who was a member of the woman's team sent to Paris last year, broke the record for the discus with a throw of 100 feet 8 3-4 inches. The former record of 98 feet (Continued on page 4)

NO DINNER FOR GOVERNOR'S BALL

Military Formal Will Start At 8:30; Tickets On Sale For $2.50

After considering a number of important questions affecting the arrangements for Governor's Day, the committee in charge of affairs has decided to eliminate the dinner feature of the Ball, which will instead be a Military Formal dance. It will be held in the men's gym from 8:30 till 12.

Doc Lawson's orchestra, which made such a hit in the Engineer's Show, and in the Elks Revue some time later, will furnish the music for the evening. Decorations are to be elaborate and in keeping with the military character of the evening. Programs are of a new design with a birch bark cover.

Bremer's and the Ritestyle Shop will furnish the features of the evening in the form of a presentation of the latest in styles for men and women. They are bringing models from Chicago to stage this in the best possible manner.

Tickets will be on sale at the Iowa Supply on Thursday morning, or may be purchased from the members of the committee, for the regular price of two dollars and fifty cents. Those who have already purchased tickets which included the dinner, may obtain a refund from the person from whom they purchased their ticket. The balcony will be open to spectators at the regular price. Programs will be placed at the Iowa Supply later in the week, the exact date to be announced later.

SOCIETY

Alpha Delta Pi Visitors

Mrs. Channing Smith of Granger visited her daughter, Margaret A2, and Mrs. A. Hollingsworth of Keokuk visited her daughter, Mary A3, at the Alpha Delta Pi house over the week end. ## 200 Quadranglers Sign For Rooms; 150 More To Let

Over two hundred men living at the quadrangle have signed for their rooms next year. One hundred and fifty rooms are yet to be filled. Applications for rooms at the quadrangle are filed in the office of the dean of men.

Most of the men returning next year are upperclass men and those registered in the professional schools. Those who lived at the quadrangle this year but do not plan to return as mostly freshmen who have joined social fraternities and expect to live at the various houses next year.

The large number of upperclass and professional students filing early applications for rooms next year indicates the popularity of life in the quadrangle. Other indications are the high standard of grades received by the men living there, and the small number of complaints registered in comparison to the number received for men living in private homes, and the landlords of these homes.

HARVAT SETS CLEAN-UP DAYS ON NEXT WEEK

Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday of this week have been designated as "clean up" days by Mayor Emma J. Harvat. Heretofore an entire week has been devoted to the task of cleaning up the city but this year only three days will be required, as a larger force of men will be drafted into the work of beautifying the streets by the removal of everything that is unsightly. "Downtown districts will be combed of all filth as well as the resident district of the city." Mayor Harvat stated yesterday.

AT WATERWORKS MEETING

ALUMNUS PAYS TRIBUTE TO BAND

T. Hawley Tapping Contributes Article To Next Number of Magazine

The first story in the May number of the Iowa Alumnus is "The University of Iowa Band," which gives a few points in connection with the organization of the band and securing the new uniforms. The article is accompanied by a picture of Dr. Van Doren in a new uniform.

The second story is "On Being Human," by Frances Theresa Russell '95, who has been at Stanford University since 1905, where she is an assistant professor in English.

Another article is "A New Field in Journalism," by T. Hawley Tapping '11. Mr. Tapping, who has had wide experience as an editor and reporter, is conducting a news bureau for the University of Michigan, interpreting academic news for the outside world.

"Scraping acquaintances" is a short sketch by Anna Henricks '26 of Iowa City. Miss Henricks is a grand daughter of the late Gustavus Henricks, a former professor in the University.

Under "Interesting People" is a story of Judge Michael L. McKinley '95, which was written by Roger Sherman, president of the Chicago Bar Association.

Among the shorter stories are a forecast of commencement events and a tribute to the late Emerson Hough '80. Other articles are accounts of alumni dinners at Los Angeles and Chicago, an article by Helene Blattner regarding the drama league convention and "Medical Unit, R. O. T. C." by Major Elton Titus.

TIGER IS RETICENT ON HIS MOVIE CONNECTIONS

Is "The Tiger" getting ready to take a job as a movie director? M. Clemenceau refuses to confirm or deny the rumors to that effect. They are based on the fact that the veteran fighter of the political arena has been seen often recently in the studio of a great film organization showing intense interest in the making of a screen version of one of his literary productions which will be called "The Veil of Happiness."

"I'll tell you nothing—nothing whatever," he snapped, when a French reporter, an old friend, tried to interview him. "I have sworn to give no more interviews and that is final. What? You say you are not asking for a declaration on politics. You asked me to be nice? Well, I'm not nice. I want to be left in peace."

The newspaperman insisted. He told the rugged old warrior, who himself knows what newspaper work is, that he simply had to bring back an interview to his editor. He added that moreover he had been promised a bonus for it.

"You want a bonus?" retorted Clemenceau. "I'll tell you what to do. Take a boat and go over to interview President Wilson. You will get something interesting out of him." When the reported reminded him that it was public property that he was interested in the filming of "The Veil of Happiness," that the secrets of the movie art existed no longer for him and that he had even been to see a rehearsal of the film. "The Tiger" showed him to the door with these few words: "Well, you know all about it. Go and write it."

SUMMER SESSION HAS GREAT GROWTH THE LAST DECADE

Anticipate Enrollment Of 3000 Students For 11 Week Period

Summer school as a means of speeding up the educational process has developed with such amazing rapidity in the last decade that its far reaching effects have scarcely been realized. This is particularly true at the University, where Prof. Charles H. Weller, director of the summer session, anticipates an enrollment of 3,000 students for the 1923 summer session of eleven weeks which begins June 11.

Three thousand students going to school in the summer time! A few years ago such a thing was unheard of. In the past nine years Iowa students have knocked into a cocked hat the notion that three months was necessary for a vacation and rest. "It's a waste of time," claim a growing number.

Among those who thought so last summer at the University of Iowa were 600 graduate students who found June, July and August the ideal time for quietly pursuing their separate lines of graduate study and research with the co-operation of mature faculty men and the university's libraries, laboratories, and instructional facilities. A total of 2,083 students were registered for the two summer terms in 1922. They represented 31 states other than Iowa and about 25 foreign countries.

By attending three full summer sessions of two terms each it is possible to shorten the road to academic degree by a year and one-half. Many students have found it advisable to thus abbreviate their university careers and hasten the day when they will be drawing dividends on their university training. Other students have found the summer session an opportunity for taking extra work they could not crowd into the regular school year. A full summer's work is counted by the university's officials as approximately one semester's work.

To meet the 200 per cent increase in summer session students at the University of Iowa in the past decade a summer faculty of 200 trained and mature teachers is required.

Many of the foremost educators in the United States are brought from other universities during the summer to teach special courses and infuse new teaching ideas into the curriculum.

Summer school work approximates that given during the regular school year and in many instances work is offered in summer that is unavailable at any other time. Supplementing this program are conferences, excursions, convocations, assemblies, lectures, round tables, campus plays, recitals and recreational events.

Although the summer is reserved primarily for work, the summer session student is not robbed of the play that he would have claimed had he dawdled through that period of time. Men's and women's gymnasiums with swimming pools, the Iowa river with its opportunities for canoeing, fishing, outdoor swimming and picnics, numerous tennis courts and a golf links, picturesque hiking trails, horseback riding and other facilities for sports keep Jack and Jill from becoming a dull man and woman through a too diligent concentration on summer work.

This delightful summer symphony of work and play is masked behind the University's blunt announcement that, "Registration for the 1923 summer session at the University begins June 7. Classes begin June 11. The first term ends with a convocation July 20 and the second term begins July 23. The second term closes with convocation August 24, just a month to a day before the regular school year opens in the fall. Summer school work may begin with either term."

IOWA GRADUATE OF '73 DIES AT TOPEKA HOME

W. M. Forbes, a member of the class of 1873 of the University, died at his home in Topeka, Kansas, on May 15. Mr. Forbes received his B. A. degree from Iowa in 1873, an LL. B. in 1874, and an M. A. in 1876. In 1876 he became judge of Gage County, Nebraska. He was in the banking business in Table Rock, Nebraska, in 1883, and went to Topeka in 1886, where he entered the real estate business.

Mr. Forbes was considering coming to Iowa on June 2 to attend the fiftieth anniversary of the class of 1873 which will be held here on that date.

OCTAVES BANQUET SENIORS TONIGHT

Literary Society To Honor Graduating Members With Dinner

Octave Thanet literary society will honor the seniors of the society with a farewell banquet at the Pagoda Tea Shop tonight at 5:45. The theme of the toast program will be "The Bee Hive" and the following toasts will be given: "The Flowers", Margaret M. Gearhart A3 of Springville; "The Drones", Mildred Freiburg of the department of speech; "The Workers", Leona I. White A4 of Long Beach, Cal.; "The Honey", Evelyn M. Harter A2 of Keokuk; "The Hive", Miss Clara M. Daley, assistant professor of history. Programs will be lavender and white in the shape of the society pin. Iness Straight A4 of Bedford will preside as toastmistress.

The seniors who are the guests of the society tonight are as follows: Josephine Ainsworth A4 of West Union, Martha Althaus A4 of Muscatine, Mildred N. Cotnam A4 of Des Moines, Lucille M. Hoffman A4 of Iowa City, Mildred A. Keller A4 of Iowa City, Leona I. White A4 of Long Beach, Cal., Marjorie Meardon A4 of Iowa City, Frances A. After the banquet the following program will be given by the seniors in close hall: piano solo, Iness Straight; reading, Clara Levy; "Future of Octave Thanet", Mildred Cotnam; Music, Gertrude Gailey; reading, Marjorie Meardon, "Activities of Octave Thanet", Katherine Miles; music, Martha Althaus, and "Farewell to Octave", by Leona White.

BLUE COLOR WILL DOMINATE IN PARIS

Paris, May 19 (United Press).—Blue is the dominating color for summer gowns, with green and black for evening wear. Muslins and silks and alpacas for the town, wool for the country and the seaside. Simplicity in design. These are the fashion dictates of the leaders of the dress-making world of Paris.

Poirot has come back from the Riviera with his mind full of flower tones, which he is combing into flossy, shimmering creations. Freshness and coolness are his aim. The shapes, like the colors are inspired by flowers. His models are marked by great fullness. Alpaca and pique are his favorites. He doesn't care for black.

Worth is going in for navy blue and green and believes black will always hold its own. Roman and pleated silks, watered silk, alpaca, ribbed silks are his choice for afternoons. Some of his tailormades give the impression of being one-piece suits, but when the jacket is taken off another dress appears, thanks to a new idea in waists. Silks scarfs and muslin bodies are favorites with him. The sleeves are very small.

Doeuille stands for navy blue also, with green and red in flaring tones good seconds. Like Worth, he believes black to be always becoming, he believes black to be always becoming. His costumes are in solid crepe or prints. A little muslin. No scarfs. Cotton in heavy, many colored designs for the country. Short sleeves. But for satin gowns the sleeves are exceedingly long, no capes, or at least very short ones, which form an integral part of the dress.

Premet favor straight lines without girdles at the back. He has specialized in Egyptian styles and declares he did not wait for the Tutankamen vogue to make his selection. Many of the models are of printed crepe de chine, muslin, linen. Some are in real lace, filet, and Bruges mixed. Dark silk muslin with cachemire muslin in many colors is used in others. For him the success of the season is alpaca, in greens, browns and navy blues.

Patou holds that black has passed out. Colors are dominant in his models. Long, supple lines predominate. Many frills. Lots of filmy stuff around the neck. Leather ceintures give a youthful air to these gowns.

VARSITY GETS 3-0 WIN OVER FROSH IN PRACTICE GAME

Scantlebury, Injured, Forced To Leave Game; Becker Pitches Good Ball For Freshmen

Inability of the freshmen batters to connect with Dave Voltmer's "lob ball" coupled with errors in the field gave the varsity the big end of a 3 to 0 score in the practice game last night. Lester Becker was on the mound for the freshmen and pitched good ball throughout the contest, keeping the varsity's hits well scattered and issuing no free trips to first. Becker was using a slow underhand hook ball and an occasional fast one. With this combination he would have succeeded in setting the varsity on their heads had it not been for errors by his teammates in the second and fifth.

The first casualty of the season came in the third inning when Scantlebury, Hawk's crack shortstop, turned his left ankle at first base. The extent of the injury is not known, but was serious enough that Scantlebury left the game. Scanlon who was playing first at the time, in the absence of Gordon Locke was moved up to the shortstop position, and "Reg" Barton was brought in from the outfield and covered first in Stuffey McInnis fashion, while Hurlbut took "Reg's" place in rightfield.

The varsity's first score came in the second inning, when Hicks reached first on an error by Sexton, the freshman shortstop, and took second on an overthrow at first. Barrett laid down a neat bunt placing Hicks on third who scored a moment later on Barton's out. This ended the scoring until the fifth when three errors in succession by the freshmen, and a timely single to rightfield scored two more. This ended the scoring with the varsity in the lead 3 to 0.

"Hub" Marshall, Hawk star side-arm hurler, who pitched the one hit game against Chicago last Saturday, was out and took a slight work-out. The only hit that the Maroons collected off Marshall came in the eighth inning when the a Maroon nicked the big boy for a single that failed to do any damage. Arnt, the Maroon, was stingy with his hits but extremely liberal with his passes, giving seven Hawkeyes free trips to first base.

POWERS WILL NOW DECIDE IF FORCE IS BEST FOR BANDITS

Ultimatum To Shoot Prisoners Expires At Midnight

(By United News)
Peking, China, May 22.—The time has passed when parleys will accomplish anything toward the release of the foreigners held captive by bandits in the mountains of Shantung. The powers must now decide whether to use force.

As a result of this opinion held to a man by foreign representatives who have investigated the situation in the bandit area, diplomats are in close touch with their governments discussing what action should be taken.

Foreign commercial organizations are pressing their respective legations to use extreme measures toward effecting the release of the prisoners. The government having failed to reach any terms for the settlement with the bandits, the matter is now squarely up to the legations.

Failing a settlement, the most favorable outlook for the prisoners as the situation exists now, is indefinite captivity under the most trying conditions. A most serious possibility also rests in the threat of the bandits to kill their prisoners if troops harass their mountain stronghold. The bandits ultimatum, threatening to kill the foreigners if Chinese troops are not withdrawn, expires tonight.

Finally the bandits' secret agents are communicating with bands throughout Shantung and adjoining provinces with a view to enlisting reinforcements. Action which carries the possibility of the whole countryside is being swept by bandit warfare.

Old Capitol Will Give Background For Panathenaea

The Panathenaea, festival in honor of the Greek goddess Athena, will be celebrated by Athena literary society tomorrow on the oval between the liberal arts and physics buildings at 5 o'clock. The public is invited to the first outdoor celebration of the Panathenaea at Iowa.

Against the Greek background of Old Capitol, the procession of the dancers, racers, singers, general populace of Athens, and ambassadors from other literary societies, the dancing and the singing, and the final presentation of a gorgeous robe to Athena after the Athenian custom, will be staged.

Guests of honor at the Panathenaea will be Prof. Charles H. Weller, head of the department of the history of art, Prof. Berthold Ullman, head of the department of Latin and Greek, and the patronesses of the society, Mrs. Philip G. Clapp, Mrs. Charles E. Mabie, and Mrs. Nellie S. Aurner, assistant professor of English.

ERODELPHIAN TO HOLD LAST MEETING OF YEAR

Erodelphian literary society will hold its last meeting of the year tonight at 7 o'clock in Erodelphian hall. A vaudeville will be presented by Maxine Shoosmith A2 of Guthrie Center, Doris Dayton A2 of Iowa City, Beatrice McGarvey A3 of Waterloo, Verne N. Shaw A2 of Watertown, S. D., Veda Falkenhainer A2 of Algona, and Gatesie Collison A3 of Harlan. Election of officers and business meeting will precede the program.

WEIGHT MEN FEAR MINNESOTA STARS

Gophers, With Schjoll And Gross, Are Strong In Field Events

Varsity sprinters and distance runners took things easy last night while the weight men worked hard in preparation for the dual meet with Minnesota Saturday at Minneapolis. Coach George T. Bresnahan is pointing toward the conference meet at Ann Arbor, Michigan June 3, but he is not overlooking the clash with the Gophers.

Minnesota, while not exceptionally strong this year has a track team which cannot be under-estimated. In dual meets this spring the Gophers have defeated Northwestern, and have been defeated by Wisconsin. Wisconsin, by way of comparison, won from Chicago by a narrow margin while Iowa swamped the latter. Iowa also won handily from Northwestern.

Marks made by Iowa in the weight events at the state meet were not particularly gratifying. The distance in the shot put was good but Iowa entrants failed woefully in the discus throw. Under Captain Tom Martin's tutelage, Johnstone, Hancock, and Daine worked on the discus last night and will do so throughout the week. Any one of the three men is capable of bettering the mark made Saturday.

In Schjoll, Minnesota has a javelin thrower who ranks high in conference circles. It was Schjoll's heave of 180 feet which decided last year's meet with Minnesota on Iowa Field. Smith, Iowa entrant, has been getting the spear out better than 175 feet on every throw, however, and the meeting of these two men this year may end differently.

Minnesota is strong in the high hurdles, but Crawford of Iowa can be counted upon to fight it out with Towler, Minnesota star. Gross, of Minnesota, has been getting good distance on the shot and may win from Johnstone, Daine and Zell, the Iowa entrants.

The Iowa squad will leave for Minneapolis on Friday afternoon.

UNIVERSITY WOMEN WIN NATIONAL TRACK MEET

2 inches was held by Nell Carroll of Florida State college.

Iowa entered all events listed except the 500 yard relay which may explain partially the success in the meet, according to Mrs. Schwob. Forty women competed in the meet last Thursday; the total number out for track was 150.

Genevieve Harter A1 of Keokuk was the individual winner of the meet winning the 60 yard high hurdles, the running hop, step, and jump. Maurine Ricke A2 of Williams, Pauline Spencer A4 of Des Moines, and Blanche Bailey A1 of Royal won second place. Third place was given to Beulah Williams A1 of Royal.

The winner of first place in every event and the records made were included in the telegram sent by each contesting school. Each woman was limited to three events only, one in track, one in field, and the other optional.

The events and the records made at Iowa follow:

Running broad jump won by Opal Thompson. Distance, 13 feet 4 inches.

Discus won by Nellie Rader. Distance 180 feet.

Baseball throw won by Maurine Ricke. Distance 180 feet.

Basketball throw won by Pauline Spencer. Distance 74 feet 7 inches.

8 pound shot put won by Nellie Humeston. Distance 8 feet 1-2 inch.

60 yard hurdles won by Genevieve Harter. Time 11 1-10 seconds.

50 yard dash won by Beulah Williams. Time 7 seconds.

Javelin throw won by Maurine Ricke. Distance 75 feet 5 inches.

Running high jump won by Blanche Bailey. Height 4 feet 1 inch.

100 yard low hurdles won by Blanche Bailey. Time 1 64-10 seconds.

Running hop, step, and jump won by Genevieve Harter. Distance 28 ft. 3 inches.

100 yard dash won by Josephine Buis. Time 13 5-10 seconds.

220 yard relay won by Josephine Buis, Blanche Bailey, Pauline Spencer, Helen Spencer. Time 30 seconds.

440 yard relay won by Mildred Dentler, Beulah Williams, Corine Mathis, Emily Russell. Time 1 minute 4-10 seconds.

FROSH WOMEN TO PRESENT PROGRAM

Freshman Women's Literary Society Will Close Year's Work

Freshman women's literary society will culminate the year's activities by presenting a program showing all phases of its work, in the natural science auditorium tomorrow night. The society was organized this year for the purpose of giving the freshman women experience in literary work and enabling the other literary societies to pick women who are genuinely interested. Faculty members, members of the literary societies, are invited by the forensic council.

The first number on the program will be a debate on the proposition, "Resolved: That a four-hour course in the fundamentals of United States citizenship should be required here." The affirmative will be upheld by Louise Baker A1 of Iowa City, Marion J. Herrmann A1 of Iowa City and Ester M. Hansen A1 of Battle Creek. The negative side of the question will be defended by Laura Backhouse, Celia H. Holden A1 of Manly, and B. Aileen Shriver A1 of Estherville. Laverne Pierce A1 of Ottumwa will read "The Pudding," and Helen Lantz A1 of Iowa City will play "Prelude in C Minor" by Beethoven.

The cast of the first scene of a playlet "University Life" will include Alta A. McAfee A1 of Wapello as Bess Limerdrop, Helen M. Cornwell A1 of Independence, Emma Garwell, Merna R. Shipley A1 of New London, May Cornhusk, Mary K. Boling A1 of Tipton, Ellen Roller Coaster, Blanche Ott A1 of Fredericksburg, Robert Postcard, Emma L. Jamison A1 of Wapello, Max Goodsense, and Vera V. Ragan A1 of Iowa City as the professor.

Decorah, hostess, Gladys Hirt A1 of Hills, chaperon, Lydia E. Kluckholm A1 of Eagle Grove as Mary, Martha Kruse A1 of Sheldon, Harry, Sara Frazer A1 of Fruitport, Mich., Jerry, and Doris Hogen A1 of Decorah, hostess.

A reading will be given next by Eva M. Threlkeld A1 of Chariton, and another by Marcia H. Coffey A1 of Wellman. An instrumental selection will be given by Dorothy Boege. The last scene of "University Life" will have in its cast, the following: Miriam Hall A1 of Ottumwa, librarian, Beatrice Webb A1 of Galva, Lula Bell Shoestring, Elizabeth Kluckholm, Louis Treetwig.

The program will conclude with a reading by Edra Dahlin A1 of Cherokee, a reading "Oh, No" by Ardeeth Lawhorn A1 of Garner and a piano-logue "Fiddlin' in the Firelight" by Vivian McClenahan.

The freshman women have been sponsored and coached by Pearl Davies A4 of Plymouth.

fore adjournment. He testified as to the wounds, circumstances at the Wertz home at the time he arrived, as to the time of Wertz's death, and a post-mortem examination to determine the cause of death. Death was cause, he stated, by a gun shot wound. He further stated that one bullet passed through the brain while another passed through the tissue at the side of the head.

Dr. Bennett's examination will be continued tomorrow morning, when court again opens.

There was extended evidence brought in by the state yesterday morning to show that Leper was an expert marksman.

W. S. Grubb A1 of Dickens, Oliver H. Dillon G of Iowa City, and Wayne Ingram L2 of Iowa City, testified in the trial yesterday morning. They gave evidence alleging that Leeper was seen by them in December, 1922 in possession of an automatic revolver.

Attorneys for the defense dragged the name of the University into the trial when they asked Ingram if it was not true that a letter written to him, requesting him to appear at an Iowa City attorney's office, was signed by Robert Rienow, dean of men. Ingram said that he did not remember by whom the letter had been signed but said it, "might have been signed by the dean."

When asked whether it had ever been suggested to him that his connection in the Leeper case might be referred to the University officials, he said that no such suggestion had ever had been made.

MAKING USE OF GRAY MATTER

Dissatisfaction with university work arises usually from the requirement of too little work rather than too much. A degree is not appreciated because it represents practically nothing but four years of residence in a university community. Low standards have been set and the average student is satisfied when he has met them. Excepting the accumulation of a few facts the end of a college course finds him advanced mentally little farther than Nature would have taken him in the natural course of her journey. There exists a great store of undeveloped gray matter of a higher quality which is left to deteriorate through disuse.

Were humans given the same amount of attention and study in teaching them to utilize all of their faculties, as has been given to machinery in making it 100 per cent efficient, the world would move along at a much faster pace. Since universities are now organized in much the same manner as larger industries, it is logical to believe these efficiency experts of the world of mechanic arts could do much for higher education. From past experience, it would seem that educators are incompetent to perform this task of setting their own houses in order.

Mental waste can be eliminated only by weighing the total product of each course, and by considering it as a part of the whole scheme of education. When this has been accomplished it will be found that a mass of worthless details, overlapping, and back-tracking which now impede progress in practically every branch of learning can be pruned with profit. At the same time, it will be made apparent that students can accomplish a great deal more than is now required of them.

NEEDED: SOME GLASS MEMORIALS

Liberal alumni gifts and impressive class memorials, so conspicuous in eastern colleges, are totally absent at the University of Iowa. The few gifts which the University has received have been ornamental and somewhat useless.

Iowa has the greatest wealth per capita of any state in the Union and it is reasonable to expect that a moderate amount of that wealth is owned by its college graduates. At the University of Michigan several buildings have been paid for by alumni subscription. This is certainly not the case at Iowa—for out of 13,000 graduates about the best the University can boast of is a couple of rocks on the front campus, a clock which doesn't run any more, some bronze and stone tablets, a fountain which has retired from activity, and the stone seat near President Jessup's home.

The University has a right to expect something more substantial in the way of class memorials and gifts from alumni than it has received. The present antiquated water-coolers might be replaced by a number of artistically designed drinking fountains. The University has need of substantial scholarships for students who are making their way through college, rather than the $5 and $10 prizes commonly donated. The much-needed astronomical observatory might well be a class memorial or the gift of some wealthy alumnus. A new library, so necessary on the campus, might be erected entirely by alumni subscription and thereby be a memorial for every class graduated from the University. Whatever the graduates may do in the future, it is well to remember that the University is a great institution and has little need for useless ornamentations; what it needs are gifts that will be of the greatest possible service to the greatest possible number.

CONTEMPORARY OPINION THE LOWER LITERATURE

There can be no criticism of writing gentlemen and ladies who take money for turning out moving picture scenarios. One of the purposes of writing is to earn money. And if the "movie" people pay for scenarios certainly writers are justified in writing them.

There is, however, some ground for the contention of Mr. Theodore Dreiser that authors who assert that they are writing scenarios for the purpose of uplifting the "movie" stage are talking rot. As long as producers interpret the popular taste as they do the character of picture plays will not be changed, no matter who writes them. These worthies would not hesitate for a second to take "Hamlet" apart and remold it nearer to the popular desire. They would have not the slightest compunction about altering the work of any author in their pay, however distinguished, if they thought he didn't have "the punch" in his stuff.

It is undoubtedly an excellent thing that quite a bit of the money the motion picture people take from the public is diverted to deserving authors. Otherwise it would go mostly to the stars, who already have more than they need.

But the author who says that he is writing for the "movies" in order to raise their standard is either disingenuous or is practicing self-deception. The "movies" will be improved when it pays to improve them and not before—at least while the present producers control them.

The Sounding Board

'RAY!

A paean of rejoicing burst spontaneously from the hoarse throats of American golf enthusiasts when it became noised abroad that the boys from U. S. A. had set the bally Britishers down gently but firmly in the second day's play and retained possession of the Walker cup.

At the close of the first day, you will recall, the lads from Merrie England led by three matches to one, due to slips by the Yanks in the foursomes. But in the eight twosomes played Saturday the Americans came off victorious in five, and halved one, giving our compatriots the edge by 6 1-2 to 5 1-2.

All of which goes to show that the Scotch invented the game, the British adopted it, and the Americans play it.

NOBODY LEFT OUT IN THE COLD (From the Iowan)

"At its annual banquet held Wednesday, May 16, Beta Gamma Sigma, honorary commerce fraternity, initiated the following juniors from the college of commerce: George L. Grimm of Sharpsburg, Merwyn G. Bridenstine of Iowa City, Richard Petersberger of Davenport, Lloyd B. Raisty of Colwell and John W. Blakely of Des Moines.

"The following men were elected as officers for the coming year: President, George L. Grimm; vice-president, M. G. Bridenstine; secretary, R. Petersberger; treasurer, L. B. Raisty; sergeant-at-arms, J. W. Blakely."

The Victorian age joins hands with the Twentieth Century in the following sign on an Iowa City telephone pole:

"No Parking or Hitching."

THE IOWA SUPPLY GIRL

You may have heard, possibly, of the Gibson girl, or the Harrison Fisher girl, or the Penrhyn Stanlaws girl. Allow us to introduce the Iowa Supply girl. She belongs to a sorority, or is pledged to one at least, but she lives at the Iowa Supply company.

Here she may be found any day except Sunday, when the portals of the joint are barred. On rainy, cold, or disagreeable days she parks in the front part of the store, but when the elements are favorable she saunters around just outside the porteuillis. (See illustration.)

Of her male companions the less said the better. Our artist, displaying rare judgment which we deem highly commendable, has left them out of the picture altogether. But they are always on hand—or under foot. Oh, my goodness, yet! Some day when we are feeling equal to the task we must write about them.

HOLD 'ER, NEWT! SHE'S A-REARIN'!

"Being Respectable"—Grace Flandaru

Reviewed by BEATRICE MCGARVEY

Middle Western provincialism seems to offer considerable material and background for many of the recent novels. It invites both caricature and idealization. First we see the small town held up in a clearly satirical light—almost photographic in its clarity as in Sinclair Lewis' "Babbitt", then we see it pictured in an idyllic, soft-hued light, extenuated in the manner of "Friendship Village". Both of these portrayals are exaggerated to quite an extent, and none who has ever lived in one of these mid-west towns would grant that life was so aimless and smug, or so happy Utopian-like as described in either of the two types mentioned. But here we have a novel which presents a clear-eyed picture of a prosperous, Middle Western town and its people as they really are.

"Being Respectable" by Grace H. Flandaru is a good first novel. It tells of the activities and life in general of the city of Columbia—a flourishing manufacturing community which is easily recognized as the city of St. Paul. The people of the novel all belong to that recent class of the newly rich bourgeoisie who are the leaders and chief organizers of society in such towns as Columbia. They represent the "prominent citizens in every respect, conscious perhaps, or subconscious of their proper, pleasant backgrounds of piety bank accounts, children and positions in society—showing flavor, it might be—of mild, inevitable smugness."

The motive or abstraction behind the novel, I believe is an attempt on the part of the author to show the struggle which at present exists between the new and the older generations. The tremendous efforts of Louisa Denby, for instance, to belong to just the correct social set, and her disapproval of her young sister, Deborah, show this struggle quite clearly. "Louisa suggested a tropical bird. Her hat was gay, her nose slightly beaked. It always seemed to have just received an ill-considered dose of powder and loomed unnaturally white against the sallowness of her cheeks. She was invested with determined vivacity—She was always terribly disturbed about kisses—men kissing girls, that is. And about working girls wearing fur coats." Deborah on the other hand, had decided to "live dangerously." And it is Deborah's affair with Stephen O'Connell "a handsome man of ruthless, rather brilliant honesty that might be without honor" which makes up the suggestion of a plot to the novel. Stephen and Deborah are of an independent turn, both looking at life in a frank, slightly cynical way, and it is something of a disappointment to find in Deborah "the flower of the flesh" which he considers necessary to a woman's complete charm. When he marries Valeria Winship, Deborah's vague unhappiness and restlessness increases. She finds herself constantly longing for some indefinable content. She goes to the cathedral frequently, and as "she thinks of the priest listening to people's sins—love sins—she wishes she had some to whisper through the little grills. In her, in some unacknowledged way, love was inextricably confused with sin."

Besides these characters there are a great many more—too many, perhaps, for there is no distinctive relationship between all of them although each one individually contributes to the picture as a whole. Charles Carpenter, Deborah's brother, and his wife, Suzanne, also represent the respectable side of the picture. In appearance, Suzanne "suggested a very proper, little girl; she suggested goodness, censored literature, a clear untroubled spirit, and serious propriety. There was almost something piquant in her touch of primness." The author has shown surprising capabilities in character description. Each person is carefully introduced, labeled and deposited in his appointed place either on the side of respectability or against it.

The book is almost entirely without plot; being held together merely by the chronological sequence of events. It shows a rare intellectual agility and nimbleness of wit. And in its sharp attack on conventions the author is daring as well as subtle, using Stephen O'Connell as her mouthpiece on such occasions as when he expresses his opinions concerning novels "I used to be all for grim, realistic novels full of sour little squalls and hate. Everybody was dreary as hell. But I don't think they are much truer to life than the Pollyanna kinds. Why, you can't be true to life. Life is everything, moving, shifting, slipping from one thing into other things. A few things certain, beauty, laughter, passion, tenderness, bereavement, death. Still if they must write about life, I'd like to see them fill in a certain gap between realism and romanticism." As a character study and a study of community life this novel has highly unusual merit.

Badger Seniors Have Traditions Explained To Them

Wisconsin traditions, as represented by the various rites and ceremonies of the graduating class during the commencement week, their significance and purpose, were explained and emphasized to hundreds of members of the senior class who met in small groups in class rooms last week.

Members of the committee, headed by Robert Stewart '23 have been gathering information, and were on hand to explain points of interest and to answer questions in regard to the program for any of the commencement exercises.

The planting of the ivy on class day has held little or no meaning to many who have attended this ceremony. The custom originated in Oxford centuries ago, and it symbolizes the twinning of the affections and loyalty of the departing class around the Alma Mater. As the ivy grows and clings more and more closely to the walls of the University building, so the thoughts of the graduate will cling fondly to memories of their school.

The Pipe of Peace ceremony which takes place at midnight on the lower campus symbolizes the unity of the departing senior class and the junior class, stepping in to take its place. Each class is represented by a spokesman, and the long pipe, which has been decorated with the ribbons of many graduating classes of years past, goes from hand to hand as the chief of the senior tribe tells of Wisconsin ideals and passes on to the junior chief the traditions of the senior class.

Seniors were urged to make the commencement exercises mean as much to their parents as possible.

Interpretation of the ceremonies would make them more interesting, it was pointed out. Those who planned to have their parents at the Stock pavilion on commencement day were told to arrange to have them arrive early in order to insure their getting in.

Baccalaureate Sunday was shown to be the final tribute to the president, since it is his last time that he will address the class. Attendance in cap and gown is a formality that no senior must neglect.

Wisconsin alumni clubs are being formed all over the country, and it was shown that membership in one of these helped to keep alive school-spirit. Statistics show that only between 20 and 25 percent of the class of 1923 are members of the Memorial Union. Life Membership can be taken out by an undergraduate for $50, while an alumnus must pay $100 for the same privilege.

CALIFORNIA PROFESSOR POINTS OUT TRANSITION IN FOUR-YEAR COURSE

By J. A. Samsel

Is the traditional four year college passing out of existence? The universities of this country are going through a transition period, according to Dr. Elijah C. Hills, professor of Spanish in the University of California.

In the February number of the Educational Review, Dr. Hills raises the question whether or not the college should be divided. He points out that the older Eastern universities, such as Harvard, Yale, and Princeton, are taking a firm stand in favor of the traditional four-year college. However, the larger Western universities are moving in another direction. They are dividing in another direction. They are dividing the college of arts and sciences into two separate parts, a junior college, or lower division, and a senior college or upper division.

Under this plan the work in the junior college is relatively elementary and is required to a large degree. However, the requirements are not the same for all students. Those, for example, who intend to study law or medicine take the prelegal or the premedical group, respectively. The work of the junior college must be completed before a student will be admitted to the senior college or to a professional school.

Led by the Universities of Chicago and California, eight universities have already adopted the plan. In reply to inquiries sent to these universities, all of them signified that the system was proving successful and that no modifications were being contemplated which would materially change the principle established.

Sixteen universities which do not have the junior and senior colleges were interviewed. It was ascertained that no junior and senior colleges would be established soon at these institutions. However, Cornell University and the Universities of North Carolina, Cincinnati, and Iowa recognize a loose distinction between the first two and the last two years. The University of Michigan and Georgia have had the question up for discussion, but no decisions have been reached.

Ohio state has never had the plan under consideration. The placing of all first year work of the University under one administration was discussed at one time, but no serious consideration has ever been given to adoption.

In most American universities, according to Dr. Hills, where students are admitted without examination, the mortality among the freshmen is heavy, and not more than one-third are graduated at the end of the four-year course. He explains this as being partly due to the fact that many students leave the college of arts and sciences at the end of the sophomore year and enter professional school. However, he declares that one-half of the students of these universities never pass beyond the sophomore year.

ON OTHER CAMPUSES

Cornell University

Student car owners met early last week for the purpose of organization of the Ford Owners Protective Association. Election of officers, distribution of license cards, and posters took place at this session that time. The avowed reason for the formation of the body was for protection of the students in the threatened student-owned car controversy.

Arrangements for the Spring Day Hop have been practically completed. Dancing will begin at 10 p. m. Friday, May 25, and last until 4 a. m. The late start will give everyone a chance to attend the Musical Club's concert earlier in the evening. The program will include 20 dances and four extras.

Princeton

An unusual feature of Princeton speaking activities will be the radio debate with Yale, which will be broadcasted.

Indiana

No limitations on the number of automobiles to be used during sorority rush was the change in the rush rules for the year 1923-24, adopted at the called meeting of the Women's Pan-Hellenic Council last Tuesday at the Theta house. Previous to this school year automobiles were barred, but a few days before fall rush the rule was changed to permit the use of four motor cars.

Purdue

Two gold and two silver medals will be awarded to winners in the inter-department horseshoe finals to be held here soon.

Ohio University

Ohio University will have a one-semester course in journalism during the first semester of next year. The purpose of the course will be to give detailed information regarding the publication and management of a newspaper. The course will be offered by the English department.

Ohio State

Roller skating during the evenings is the latest fad of Ohio State coeds. Parties are organized every night and invade the newly paved streets which give fine opportunity for a little exhibition of skating. The physical director heartily endorses this sport and sees no reason why women should not participate in it.

University of Illinois

A sorority night gown race, miniature naval battle, and a horse tilting contest were some of the features at the annual water carnival at the University of Illinois.

Columbia University

Phi Beta Kappa has awarded a key to a fourteen year old senior at this University, the youngest person ever admitted to this society.

Coe

The Coe Girls' Glee Club is touring Indiana on its second annual trip. The Glee Club has appeared in Indianapolis and Edinburgh as well as before the General Assembly. Through the Chicago Daily News many of the concerts have been broadcasted over the Middle West.

Iowa State

All undergraduates, graduate students, and members of the faculty in the agriculture and economics department will carry gentlemen's canes as a mark of distinction. They will start carrying them shortly before the festival and continue until the end of the school year.

Veisha, Iowa State College's fiesta, was held on the Ames campus May 17-19, there being three days of festivities. "The Heritage of the Ages," the annual May fete, was presented on the first afternoon and the Queen of May was crowned then. An opera was presented by the Glee Clubs in the evening and dancing followed. The review of the R. O. T. C. and a large parade constituted a part of the three days' program.

Oklahoma

3000 students are expected to register here next fall according to a prediction made by the Registrar. It is thought that the removal of the president and the resignation of a few faculty members will not effect the enrollment. Enrollment last year was 3400, the University increasing at the rate of about 500 yearly.

All houses that intend to rent rooms to women students must file application for approval of rooms to the Dean of Women. Each house must have a chaperon before it will be approved for women students.

Polo is the latest sport at the University of Oklahoma. Faculty members and students have organized the University Polo Association.

Do You Want to Make $50.00 a Week This Summer?

The largest manufacturer of its kind in the world--nationally known and respected through its product and through its advertising appearing in the Saturday Evening Post and other leading national magazines--offers men of this college an opportunity to make $50 a week or more during summer vacation.

For several years we have received many applications from college men who have wanted to represent us during the summer.

Although we are the largest institution of our kind in the world, we have never, until just recently, been in position to take advantage of these applications from college men who have seen the money-making advantages of working for us during the summer.

Now that we have increased our already tremendous production we can, for the first time in our history, consider expanding our organization this summer by adding a limited number of college men who want to make a good income during the vacation period.

These men will also have the opportunity of representing us at the college next fall and the income from their efforts during spare hours should go far towards paying their expenses during the term.

Our organization is an international institution. We have over 200 branch offices in the United States and Canada.

Our product is well and favorably known. It needs no introductory work to sell it. Each sale puts a substantial profit into the pocket of our representative. Sales which make an income to our men of $50 a week are more common than unusual.

Selling our product is clean work--wholesome and pleasant. It has nothing to do with books, insurance, magazines, brushes or anything which might be distasteful to you.

If you want a $50 a week income this summer, under pleasant conditions and surroundings, see our District Sales Manager while he is in Iowa City.
