Repudiated In Sedition Case, Poincare Resigns

DEFENSE FAILS TO GET LEEPER CASE DISMISSED

Claim Of Insufficient Evidence Held Not Valid By Judge Otto

Judge Ralph Otto, presiding in Johnson county district court yesterday afternoon, over-ruled the motion of the defense in the trial of Robert Leeper to withdraw the case from the jury and to instruct the jury to render a verdict of acquittal. The court also over-ruled the motions of the defense to strike out certain testimony and also to withdraw from the jury the charges of first and second degree murder, as well as the charge of conspiracy and aiding and abetting.

The defense gave as reason for their motion the evidence was insufficient to warrant giving the case to the jury and Attorney Walter Davis and former Judge R. P. Howell spent nearly the entire day in their effort to secure a sustained ruling on the motion. The two attorneys cited case after case and applied the authorities to the case in question.

County attorney Ed O'Connor and his assistant, Harry G. Walker, each made short arguments. Mr. O'Connor cited but two cases. The defense advanced the argument that there was no evidence to show that Roy Wertz had not committed suicide and, in the words of Mr. Howell, the state in its argument "pooh-pooed" the suicide theory.

H. S. Racquet Stars Play In Grinnell Meet On Saturday

Phillips and Records, University high tennis players, will take part in the Grinnell interscholastic meet next Saturday. This meet, scheduled three weeks ago, had to be postponed on account of rain.

The Iowa City high school pair of midgets, Albert and Boyles, will also be among the contestants at this meet. This pair won second place among the double teams at the Iowa meet, and Albert was third in singles.

Phillips won the singles championship of the meet, defeating Mitchell of Cedar Rapids in the finals. At the Ames meet, he lost in the finals, but only after playing hard games throughout the meet, while his opponent drew a bye and met several easy players. He should repeat his victory in the singles at the meet Saturday.

LOCAL PEOPLE TO LEAD BIG PARADE

Local Young Men And Women Take Major Role In Des Moines Meet

Iowa City and Johnson county young people will play a leading part in the parade of 10,000 Iowa young men and women, wearing Iowa costumes and singing Iowa songs, will head the twenty-ninth International Christian Endeavor convention parade in Des Moines on July 7.

Roger W. Babson, famous statistician, President Warren G. Harding, John R. Mott, W. L. MacKenzie King, prime minister of Canada, Gypsy Smith, Sherwood Eddy and other dignitaries of international reputation have been extended invitations by convention committees to appear on the program of the convention. Tentative acceptances have been received from all.

The annual parade of Endeavorers from all nations is scheduled on the convention program to take place Saturday, July 7. At New York City last year, Iowa Christian Endeavorers marched in the parade in red and white uniforms. Similar uniforms will probably be designated this year for the Iowa Union, state officers declare.

One day of the program will be devoted to juniors. Denominational conferences will be held afternoon and evening.

Dean Burge Praises Character Of Women Named By Classmates

Roberta Anderson, Victoria Boyles, Persis Carney, Charlotte Fisk, Leone Ambrecht, Verda James, Lois Sensor, Maudine Shoesmith, Marjorie Turner, Bernadine Wendel, Frances Williams, Emily Withrow

(By Hortense Finch)

"The above women were announced last night as the new members of Staff and Circle, senior women's honorary society, for next year. The announcement took place at President's Point, after the procession of senior and junior women had marched there from the steps of Old Capitol. As each woman's name was read, she was taken into the circle by a member of this year's Staff and Circle, who pinned the red rose upon her.

Mrs. Adelaide L. Burge addressed the group, quoting from the Constitution the purpose of Staff and Circle, "which is to serve as an advisory council to the Dean of Women, and to uphold the highest ideals of student life in the University." "Being elected to Staff and Circle is the highest honor that can come to any University woman," continued Mrs. Burge. "The twenty women who were nominated represent the best type of womanhood the University affords." The voting was very close and little difference was manifested between the twelve who made the final list and the remaining nominees.

Robert Anderson of Madrid, president of the group by virtue of having received the highest number of votes in the election Tuesday, is a member of Alpha Delta Pi sorority. She is a member of Erodolphian literary society and of the Student Council. During the past year she was president of the Y. W. C. A. and took part in the Irving-Ero play, "The Faith Healer".

Stefansson Unable To Attend Reunion Of His Class Here

Vilhjalmur Stefansson B. A. '03, famous arctic explorer, will not be able to attend the reunion of his class here at commencement time, it was learned yesterday. A special session of the British cabinet on behalf of the Canadian prime minister will make it impossible for him to attend the twentieth reunion of his classmates.

The class of '58 will be unable to celebrate its sixty-fifth reunion because its only member, Dexter Edson Smith of Santa Anna, California, cannot return to Iowa this year. Smith, the oldest living graduate, is 85 years old.

It will also be impossible for the first law class, namely that of '68, to hold a reunion. One member, Samuel Holmes, Alamagando, North Carolina, cannot be located. Grange Smith, the only other living member of the class, cannot be located.

INDEPENDENTS TO OPEN NEW DRIVE

Seek Contingency Fund To Carry On Baseball Activities

Twice postponed, the drive for funds to aid the Iowa City Independents in carrying on their baseball activities for the remainder of the season will get underway this morning. Directors of the club and several other backers of the team will be the campaigners.

The campaign is necessary at this time to put the organization on a strong financial basis before the biggest games of the season are played. In the first four games played this year, the Independents lost $100, and it is for such a contingency as this that a sustaining fund is needed, the directors point out.

All donations to the funds will be announced. The directors also wish to announce that the financial affairs of the club will be made known from time to time so that the fans may know just where the locals are from a money standpoint.

V. R. Miller has been appointed business manager of the club to succeed Noble Chalfan, who resigned last week because of ill health. He has been identified with the local baseball situation for some time and the directors predict that he will make a capable executive.

COUNCIL TO ELECT OFFICERS TUESDAY

Officers of the student council for the coming academic year will be elected at a meeting Tuesday night at 7 o'clock in room 13, liberal arts building. At that time the question of limiting the number of representatives to the council will be decided and the number fixed for the coming year.

Will J. Price, present head of the council, urges all old and new members to be present. By electing officers this spring, the student council will try to avoid the troubles in which it became involved last fall when it attempted to organize without direction from old members.

Only the new members, that is, heads of such campus organizations as have membership in the council, holding office for the next year, will be eligible to vote for officers.

IOWA MILITARY DEPARTMENT TO MARCH MAY 30

Advance Course Men Will Cooperate With City Authorities On Memorial Day

Members of the advance course, the staff officers, and the University band, will cooperate with the G. A. R. and the Woman's Relief Corps, the Sons of Veterans, and the American Legion in the observance of Memorial Day, it was announced last night by Col. Morton C. Mumma, head of the military department. The three designated units will march in the parade to the cemetery and will take part in the services at the graves. It was desired to have the entire military unit take part in the day's observances, but due to the earliness of commencement and a government stipulation as to the return of uniforms to the supply office, it will be impossible for the entire unit to take part as was hoped for. No special University program will be offered this year as was the case last May, it being the desire of University authorities to cooperate with the city officials and patriotic organizations in their program for the day.

Veterans of the Spanish American war will augment the soldiers of the World War in the monster procession planned for the day. Heroes of all wars will be honored by tributes of speakers and wreaths of flowers which will adorn the graves in observance of the time honored custom.

The University band will lead the procession which will start down Clinton street and proceed to Oakland cemetery where the program will be presented.

Last year the line of march was lined up with spectators and the parade was very impressive. The local cavalry troop made their presence imposing as a potent factor in the success of the day. It is expected that they will again participate in the parade this year.

SPANISH CLUB ELECTS

At a meeting of the Spanish Club last night officers for the first semester of 1923-24 were elected as follows: Phyllis C. Walker A3 of Algona, president, Lenore Smith A3 of Guernsey vice president, Katherine Van Derveer A3 of Waverly secretary and treasurer.

HEATED TRIAL OF COMMUNIST BRINGS CRISIS

President Refuses To Accept Resignation Of French Premier

(By United News)

Paris, May 24.—A crisis arising from the trial of communists charged with sedition forced Premier Poincare to tender his resignation to President Millerand Thursday night after the Senate had repudiated the minister of justice by a vote of 145 to 104.

Millerand, supporting Poincare's anti-communist policies, refused to accept the resignation.

Thursday night sensational developments followed a day of extraordinary thrills sweeping upward to the inevitable crisis. For the fifth time in history the French senate had constituted itself a court of justice, beginning the trial of Deputy Minister Cachin and twenty prominent communist leaders, including Hoellein, communist member of the German Reichstag, arrested at the communist anti-Ruhr convention.

They were charged with plotting against the republic and attempting to stir up resistance in the Ruhr occupation.

During Thursday's trial the senate was surrounded and streets were heavily guarded to prevent communist demonstrations.

Prosecutor Lescoupe read a fifty-page charge of "acts susceptible to threatening the imperial existence of the state," charging that the French communist party under direct orders from Moscow pursuing revolutionary action including opposition to the treaty of Versailles and the occupation of the Ruhr.

He charged that three French organizations, namely the communist party, the confederation of labor, and the French internationale, were under direct control of Moscow revolutionaries.

After debate, the Senate declared itself incompetent to try the communists and by a vote of 145 to 104 repudiated the minister of justice. Poincare hastily summoned a special meeting of the cabinet to consider the unprecedented situation. Resignation of the cabinet was inevitable when Poincare headed the delegation of statesmen that called upon President Millerand at the Elysee Palace.

RENEW EFFORTS TO SOLVE MOUNT CASE

Crowe Hopes To Establish Identity Of Skeleton Found Under Pier

(By United News)

Chicago, May 24.—The investigation of the death of Leighton Mount was revived Thursday with a request to the Evanston police to remove the entire top of the ballast pier under which the skeleton of Mount, missing Northwestern freshman, was found about three weeks ago.

State's attorney Robert E. Crowe's promise to carry the probe to the limit has not been forgotten, it was announced.

It is now hoped to establish beyond a doubt that the bones found were those of Mount and to learn, if possible, how they came to be under the pier. The Cook county grand jury has taken charge of the only tangible clues to the skeleton identity—a silver belt buckle initialed "L. M." and shreds of clothing also found in the rocky tomb.

NO REGISTRATION BY MAIL FOR FALL DECLARES MARUTH

Students Fail To Utilize Privilege In Past Two Years

Opportunity to register for the first semester of 1923-24 by mail during the summer months will not be forthcoming this year, according to an announcement from the registrar's office. It is possible that freshmen entering the University for the first time will be extended this opportunity, but sophomores, juniors, and seniors will have to present themselves in person at the University between September 20 and 24 in order to register next year. Failure of students to take advantage of the opportunity offered last summer and the summer before was given as the reason for the suspension of summer registration by mail this year. Only 400 students registered during the summer of 1921 and in 1922 this dropped to 250, a portion of whom were freshmen.

It was also pointed out at the registrar's office that it is hardly practicable to register juniors and seniors by mail since their study lists, with special reference to the major department, must be approved and signed by their advisors, who are necessarily inaccessible to students not living in Iowa City. With freshmen, however, who pursue largely a definite outlined course, it is possible for the registrar's office to accomplish their enrollment with little difficulty.

In regard to registration next fall, practically the same procedure will prevail as was used at the start of the present school year. The registration procedure will again open with the obtaining of number slips at the number slip station in the library and will continue about as last year.

Special attention is again drawn to the importance of coming early to the campus next fall and securing early as possible the number slips which indicate the particular day and hour within which the student is to complete his registration.

"Big Brother" Will Watch Over Frosh Engineers in Fall

A "big brother" will greet each freshman engineer as he joins the student body of the University of Iowa this fall, according to the constructive program which has been arranged by next year's seniors in the college of applied science.

Aside from assisting the first year student through the intricate processes of registration, the senior will first appear in public with his charge at the annual fall reception at which members of the faculty of the college of engineering play host to all students of that college.

The big brother idea was conceived at a recent meeting of the senior class and its purpose, as explained by Peter Stover S3 of Marengo, is to introduce to the new comer, not only the college of which he is to become a part, but also Iowa University. The frosh will be duly educated in the Iowa traditions which will particularly apply to him, he will be compelled to don the traditional green head dress of yearlings. The freshman can claim his big brother during the whole of his first year at the university.

Since the freshmen usually outnumber the senior three to one in the engineering college, juniors will join with the seniors in welcoming frosh porteges. This year's freshman class numbered 138 as against forty-three seniors.

ALUMNI BUSINESS LUNCHEON SLATED FOR NOON JUNE 4

Class Reunions Changed to Morning and Evening of Same Day

For the first time the Alumni of the University will conduct their business meeting in connection with a noon day luncheon to be held on Monday, June 4. The luncheon, to be served in the large dining room of the Burkley Hotel, will be informal.

Heretofore, the Alumni business meetings have been held at 11 o'clock on Monday of Commencement week, but as the noon hour drew near, discussion of important business matters was cut short because of numerous luncheon engagements. This year the eighteen classes have arranged to celebrate by holding breakfasts and dinners, not luncheons, with the idea that all will be free to participate in the business and luncheon combined at the noon hour. It will also be an opportunity to meet old friends, as well as to consider the business of the Association.

There are more than two hundred active alumni in Iowa City and a fair representation of these are always found in attendance on the various University activities. This year all are urged to set aside the noon hour for the luncheon and as much of the business meeting as their time permits. The session will quite likely be concluded before the baseball game at two o'clock.

Local Alumni who planned to attend the luncheon are urged to telephone the Alumni Bureau. Phone 848, so that some estimate may be made of the attendance. The cost of the luncheon will be 50 cents. This luncheon in no way displaces the regular University luncheon which is to be held in the Women's Gymnasium on Tuesday, June 5, at 2 o'clock.

The Senior breakfast will be served at the armory at 10 o'clock on the morning of June 2. Breakfasts and teas and dinner parties are being planned by the eighteen classes holding reunions this year during commencement week. In the afternoon there will be a baseball game between alumni on Iowa field. In the latter part of the afternoon visiting alumni and friends will be entertained at tea in the University Club rooms. On the evening of the same day President and Mrs. Walter A. Jessup will give an informal reception to all seniors and their friends at the President's home.

On June 3 at 3 o'clock the Baccalaureate sermon, "Science and Salvation", will be given on the campus by Rev. Joseph Fort Newton, pastor of the church of Divine Paternity, New York City.

On Monday, June 4, a meeting of the Iowa Memorial Union Association will be held at the Union Office at 9:30 a. m. and immediately following at 10, the Senior Wrangle will take place on the campus, all University seniors participating.

At two o'clock the Hawkeyes will play the Gophers on Iowa field and at 4:30 the June Fete will be given on President's lawn. A band concert will be given in the evening. The commencement play, which will be held in the University Theatre at 8:15, will follow the concert.

On June 5 at 9:30 on the campus, Chancellor Ernest H. Lindley of the University of Kansas will deliver the commencement address and the seniors will receive their diplomas. The commencement activities will close with the University Luncheon in the Womens' gym at 2 o'clock.

POLICE OUT TO CATCH FLOWER BED ROBBERS

Numerous recent raids on the city tulip beds on East Washington street have stirred the ire of the police and as a result a campaign to catch the offenders is now under way. Each of the eight beds in the Washington street display were practically wiped out. Citizens in the neighborhood are indignant over the theft.

Chief of Police John J. Lorack declared that while there was no way of standing guard over the precious flowers a strenuous effort would be made to apprehend the criminals.

MANNISH FLAPPER GIVES WAY TO OLD FASHIONED MAIDEN

New York, N. Y. May 24 (United Press).—It is said that shop girls and society girls dress so much alike that they can't be told apart.

This is somewhat of an exaggeration. While it is true that the society girl and the shop girl wear similar clothing, they wear them for entirely different occasions. The shop girl wears her sport clothes on week days and dolls up in chiffons and horse-hair hats on Sunday.

Just the opposite is true of the society girl. You seldom see a debutante on Fifth Avenue in sports attire. She confines her taste for sports clothes for sports wear in the country. While the little shop girl is out in all her glory on the Sabbath, the society girl is usually out on the links in very modest sports attire.

American girls have a tendency to be standardized and that is why the shop girl and the debutante look so much alike. Just a year ago we had the flapper with us—society flappers and shopgirl flappers. One really couldn't tell them apart.

The New Flapper

Do you ever wonder what has become of the flapper? The girl with the polo coat, up-turned hat, woolen hose, flat heels and muffler? Look on Fifth Avenue and you'll see her. She's a different creature this year, but there are thousands of her. She wears a flowing chiffon gown, short fur jacket, brilliantly colored shoes, with high heels, silk stockings and a demure little poke bonnet. Instead of the boyish strut, she minces along as though she were walking on thin ice. A little wisp of chiffon edged in lace replaces the bandana handkerchief of last season.

The 1923 girl is far more interesting than the "little old last year's flapper" because she is more feminine. Her feet are encased in tiny cut-out sandals, that scarcely cover her toes, instead of the wide, flat, sports shoe of last year. The flapper is dead! Long live the high heeled, chiffon garbed charmers of 1923!

Fashion Notes

Bardunkuiki, a new summer fur, is really just old fashioned chipmunk, those little striped animals that were seen scampering about the woods of the Northwest.

Now for the girl who wanted to be just a little quaint! The latest word from England says that wall-flowers are the newest corsages for the evening wear. Yellow chiffon dancing frocks are using corsages of velvet wall flowers placed under one arm. Wall-flowers with their organdy tones fading into brown are extremely lovely on the crisp organdy summer gown. Again wall-flowers are used on the summer hat of bronze straw. Nothing could be more attractive on a girl with reddish hair and brown eyes.

Hoop earrings are being revived again. They come in jet, silver filigree metal hoops set with Egyptian stones and jade. They are said to be newer than the pendant earrings for summer wear.

When one tires of the colored kid shoe, it can always be bronzed and worn with cinnamon colored stockings.

One of the prettiest ways to use black lace this season is to have it pleated over printed material of brilliant coloring. Sometimes skirt lengths are made by basting the lace onto the printed material and pleating the two layers together. The bodice of such a gown is very simple, having the lace draped over the printed material.

TWENTY-NINE HAWKEYES TO RUN TOMORROW

Read And Smith Head Iowa Delegation To Gopher Camp

Coach George T. Bresnahan and twenty-nine track men will leave here tonight for Minneapolis, Minnesota, where they will compete with the Gophers Saturday in the final dual, track and field meet of the season. Two men from the Iowa squad, Smith and Read, left last night.

Iowa's meet with Minnesota is expected to be a battle of track events against field numbers with Iowa a favorite in the former and Minnesota in the latter. The Hawkeyes are expected to receive little competition in the track events. Minnesota, on the other hand, is strong in the field events, especially in the weights, jumps and the javelin events.

The following men, in addition to Smith and Read, will make the trip: Captain Eric Wilson, Brookins, Coulter, Noll, Hoyt, Morrow, Havig, Otte, Ashton, Phelps, Crawford, Johnstone, Munson, L. J. Kriz, Marshall, Roberts, Hancock, Dobson, Klindt, Barnes, Brandmill, Farrell, Meder, Oehlert, Zell and Shope.

Jones, broad jumper, is suffering from an injury and will be left at home to recuperate in time for the conference meet.

Frosh Tracksters Get Last Practice; Then Photographed

Members of the freshman track team will have their picture taken Friday afternoon. This will follow the last practice of the season.

The preps have had a fairly good season this spring, taking part in five telegraphic meets, winning two and losing the others. Some good men have been developed who will fill places on next year's varsity.

Roberts, sprinter, has been running fast races all year, and will probably help fill the place left vacant by the graduation of E. Wilson. Weinecke, who vaulted 11 feet 10 7/8 inches last Wednesday, will be a welcome addition to the Hawkeye vaulters, and should be among the best vaulters in the conference next year.

A welcome addition to the weight men will be Dauber, who has been putting the shot 39 feet, and who gives promise of developing into a good discus thrower. Applegate, small and red-headed, has been the most consistent quarter-miler on the squad.

Among the longer distant runners, Bender in the two mile, Van Ness in the mile, and Guthrie, Shaler, and Gratton in the half, will strengthen the team. Neffger, Nesler, and Roberts are good broad jumpers, at least two of them being needed to fill the places left vacant by Brandmill and Barnes.

VARSITY ROMPS ON FROSH BALL TEAM

Lose Count Of Score As Preps Fumble Grounders, Overthrow First

Woefully weak were the freshmen on ground balls in yesterday's varsity-freshman baseball tilt, and the Old Gold team piled up a terrible score without getting more than one or two hits. None of the players or spectators seemed to be able to tell the exact score. All knew that it was big, and all knew that the freshmen had not scored, but one fan would say that it was 15 to 0, while another would make the score even larger.

All that the varsity had to do was to lay the ball down on the ground, and a prep fielder would be sure to miss it, or if he managed to get his hand on it, he would offer aid to the varsity by heaving it over the head of the first baseman.

"Ivan" Voltmer was on the mound for the varsity, and he held the freshmen to few hits, striking out a number and issuing only a few bases on balls. Scanlon was on short again in Scantlebury's place, and performed in good style. Scantlebury may be able to play against Notre Dame Saturday; at least he is counting on being able to play, but his ankle is still in bad shape and he may have to sit on the bench.

Marton, who was sick on the last trip, is again in shape and is holding down right field. Chaloupek is playing second base, and will undoubtedly start the game. Except for an apparent nervousness in big games, he has all the ability needed for a good second baseman. Locke, who was out part of the week on account of examinations, has been working on first again. The rest of the team will consist of the same men who have been playing all year.

WOMEN WOULD FIGHT DUELS JUST LIKE MEN

Berlin, May 24—Women students at Heidelberg University are very unhappy because they are not permitted to engage in duelling. All the other privileges of the male students have been accorded the women, but the faculty has decided that it is not advisable for women to slash each other's cheeks and scalps with swords, and the six hundred women students don't like the ruling. They insist they should have the same rights as their brothers to engage in sword contests if they choose to do so.

The duelling season is now at its height in Heidelberg, and many students may be seen on the streets with gashes on their cheeks and scalps, many of which are so deep that they have to be drawn together with sutures. The students are so proud of their wounds that they always wear them uncovered.

BOWERY INVENTOR GIVES CHALLENGE TO AUTOISTS FOR BUMPING CONTEST

Don Quixote, they say, once went around bouncing off windmills for no particular reason. Max Schefflet, who is the genial seagarian cashier in a Bowery lunch, believes in doing nothing so silly or useless as that, but he would go forth upon one of his newly appointed Rosinantes and bump automobiles with anybody.

And it's not safe for the fun of the thing or for any ideals that Max has issued his invitation, for he expects to become rich by bouncing against other people's cars—rich enough to forget Bowery lunch checks and cheese sandwiches for the rest of his life.

Max lives at 1068 Tiffany Street, the large Bronx, and his wife and six children, all of whom he is willing to take along on a bumping trip, purely for demonstration purposes. Filled with all eight Schefflets, he says, his Rosinante will bounce away from automobiles as lightly as Mayor Hylan does from Comptroller Craig when he meets him on the street.

It was with the flip of the hand that he called one of the six yesterday.

"Morris" he said, "go out to the garage and put the jumpers—I mean bumpers—on Rosie. The green ones."

Morris did. The bump-proof Rosinante appeared looking to one who is a bit flippant for all the world like a car that had fallen into a waste basket and couldn't get out. It was a perfectly good car at that, draped with a fish net around its foundation. It had a tremendous, wedge-shaped fender out front and lots of little wheels and rollers underneath. It certainly looked odd.

"This announced Max, in a tone such as stout Cortex must have used on his Mexican peak, "I have worked on for six long years. This I have invented as a means of saving lives in automobile crashes. After working night and day, have I solved the problem? My dreams have come true I am willing to crash with any one that wishes to crash with me, just to prove the invincibility of my invention."

That's where the bumping contests come in. Max has another set of bumpers, blue ones, out in his garage and another automobile. If you want to play, just call him up. But it might be wise, if you should happen to see the eight large Schefflets bearing down on top of a green fishnet upon you some day, to give them a wide berth, remembering the old query about irresistible forces and immovable bodies. For it is only Rosinante that would do the bouncing back on its little rollers.

Unless, of course, you should buy some patented bumpers from Max. According to him, they are a just-the-sort-of-thing-you-really-must-have accessory for the motor.

PREDICTS A MONARCHICAL GERMANY DOMINANT IN EUROPE, IN 20 YEARS

Berlin May 24—In twenty years Germany will be the mightiest nation in Europe, with a monarchial government patterned after that of Britain, according to a prophecy made by the German historian, Dr. Max Kemmerich.

Historical comparisons bring him to this and other conclusions, among which is the belief that a Romanoff-Czar will again be ruling in Russia within the next three years.

Dr. Kemmerich believes Germany now is on the first stage of the revolution, which began in 1918 and will conclude in the period from 1940 to 1944, after a reign of terrorism that will begin this year. He predicts the commencement of civil war between the monarchists and anti-monarchists of Prussia during 1923.

He thinks the return of a Romanoff in Russia will encourage the Hohenzollerns to re-establish themselves in Germany. An Emperor from the Hohenzollern house, he says, will be temporarily successful in mounting the throne; but will be compelled to take flight immediately. This unsuccessful Hohenzollern, unlike William II, will not succeed in escaping. He will be apprehended as he is about to reach the border and will be imprisoned and executed.

These events will occur between 1927 and 1931. Then there will come out of the Left Radical groups a new Cromwell or a Napoleon who will lead Germany to continental supremacy after a decade of domestic strife. Five years after the new leader has instituted a military dictatorship a new limited monarchy will be established.

Dr. Kemmerich prophesies that colonial insurrections, foreign wars, revolution and a sinking of the birthrate in the mean time will have reduced France to a power of the second rank.

Newly Made Map Of Heavens Shows Over 300,000,000 Visible Bodies

Paris, May 24—What is regarded here as one of the most interesting and valuable results of modern studies in astronomy is nearing completion in the Paris Observatory after thirty-six years of painstaking labor. It is a new map of the heavens and catalog of the stars. The compilation shows approximately 300,000,000 heavenly bodies visible through the powerful telescopes.

Photographing the heavens was a plan first developed by the Paris Observatory, and its then Director, Admiral Mouchez, was called here in 1887 to an international congress of astronomers which decided to map the heavens. Eighteen nations, including Mexico, Chili, and the Republics of Argentine, and Brazil, agreed to contribute to this work.

The heavens are subdivided with four French observatories taking the central zones.

Ten thousand leaves of the photographic may contain stars to the fourteenth magnitude, whereof there are above 20,000,000 stars to the 6th magnitude, may be seen with the naked eye, and above that telescopes are needed.

In reality, it is explained, the number of stars appear to be infinite. As huge lenses are constructed, each increase in size of the lens reveals a large number of stars.

A few years ago the number was set at approximately 100,000,000. Now that has been trebled, and as explorers of the universe progress in their studies, they find space filled with stars, the light of which reaches the eye of the explorer after years of travel, so distant are these bodies.

Mapping the heavens was a task not undertaken by astronomers previous to 1887, and before the work could be begun it was necessary to agree on plans concerning size of photographs and means of measurements. The majority of the astronomers of the world used their ingenuity and learning in the task.

By means of this new map, fresh measurements of the location, size, and nature of the stars may be made, and philosophic speculation stimulated.

PREP TRACK MEET DRAWS HUNDREDS

Cedar Rapids Leads In Number Of Entries To Compete For Honors At Chicago

(By United News)

Chicago, May 24—Track school boy athletes from four corners of the country are arriving in Chicago on every train to compete in the National Interscholastic track meet here Saturday.

Yuma, Colorado, contributed the last entry in the meet when Lloyd Helgate, star sprinter, was named to compete in the 100 and 220 yard dashes by a telegram arriving 15 minutes before the entry book was closed. Helgate, who comes to the meet unheralded, is said by the school coach to have run the 100 in 9 4-5 only last week.

If this represents Helgate's time only real opponent it developed Thursday, will be Joe Diczno, the Toluca, Illinois sprinter, who is said to have spiked off the 100 in the same time. This probably will be the banner battle of the meet.

Entry books Thursday showed that 524 men would compete in the high school section of the meet and 143 are registered in the academy division. To Washington High School, Cedar Rapids, Iowa goes the record for the most entries, twenty six men being billed to make the trip.

A $3.50 athletic fee paid each semester by all students at the university has been proposed at Indiana to aid in carrying on the work of the Hoosier athletes next year. Should such a fee be included on the list of student debts to the university $10,000 would be added to the athletic coffers, it is said.

NEAR-EAST WAR LOOMS; GREEKS GROW HOSTILE

Peace Hangs On Question Of Turk Reparation Demands At Lausanne

(By United News)

London, May 24. — With martial preparations underway on both sides of the Aegan Sea, Greek-Turk hostilities again loom in the Near East.

War hangs on the question of reparations which Turkey demands from Greece at the Lausanne conference.

Greek diplomats claim that an entire Turkish division has crossed Thrace in the last few days and has been secretly concentrated on the Maritza front. They assert that Turkish troops are in bad condition however, while saying that 250,000 well-equipped Greek soldiers confront them.

Constantinople dispatches report that the steel masts of Greek warships (which are old U. S. navy vessels sold to Greece) have been sighted hovering threateningly off the Dardanelles.

Turks hope that in the event of hostilities, Refet Pasha, now commanding the Kemalist troops in Oriental Thrace, will be able to hold the Maritza line until Nur Ed Gin brings up the first Kemalist army corps now concentrated on the Ismid peninsula within striking distance of Constantinople. It will be recalled that Refet succeeded in lengthily holding up the British advance in the Palestine campaign in 1917 on the Gaza front.

War talk is rife in both Athens and Constantinople. General Plastiras, lean, raw-boned veteran of fifteen years of oriental wars and behind the scenes dictator of the Greek policy, in his capacity as head of the triumvirate of the present revolutionary Greek government, said:

"We will wait only until Sunday for discussion of the indemnities. The Greek delegation has been instructed to leave Lausanne if the conference decided that we must pay an indemnity."

At Salonika, base of the Greek army in western Thrace, Generalissimo Pancales in an interview, said:

"Everything is now ready. I have only to press the button for moving the whole Greek line forward. Our patience is becoming exhausted. We are willing, however, to make some modifications on behalf of peace."

CAMP "PAN" TO BE HELD FOR WOMEN

Miss Dixon Addressed Pan-Hel Group On Summer Camp At Green Bay

Miss Gladys R. Dixon, one of the directors of Camp Pan-hellenic for college and professional women, spoke to the local Pan-hellenic members at their meeting on last Monday evening. Miss Dixon is touring the country at present, speaking to the various college Pan-hellenic groups and trying to interest college women in this camp.

The camp is situated at Washington island, Wisconsin, a thirty-five mile plot of wooded land at the door of Green Bay in Lake Michigan. To the south is the famous Port des Mortes where the government life saving station sheds its warning beacon to the passing ships. The camp was organized as a result of many calls from numerous college women to spend summers in the association of other college women. It aims to develop a closer relationship between them, in and out of college, to the ultimate end of creating a larger understanding. It is particularly a retreat from the daily routine of school or business life, and a relief from the usual conventional summer resort. There is good opportunity for the reviving of school friendships and the formation of new ones.

The camp site consists of one hundred acres, and lies on a secluded point of land with three waterfronts of diversified coast line. The harbor is very good for both canoeing and swimming and other aquatic sports. Stout tents are used for sleeping quarters and the lodge contains the dining room and kitchen. The lodge is rustic in style and is long and rambling. The living room has cozy lounging corners, shelves of books, and a huge cobbled fireplace.

The college campers are harbored at Camp "Pan" from the first days of June through the early days of October. Students or alumnae of colleges, finishing or professional schools are eligible for admittance to the camp. There is horseback riding, autoing, hiking, swimming, canoeing, fishing, and tennis for those who enjoy any of these sports, and plenty of good reading material for the less active campers. Miss Dixon left more information concerning the camp with Miss Peterson in the office of the dean of women, and if any Iowa woman is interested in the camp, her name should be handed in at the office immediately.

Salvage and utilization of surplus war materials has been a great economic benefit, according to Dr. Chas. F. Monroe, chief explosive chemist of the bureau of mines, who spoke here recently.

Government agencies have distributed for their own and supervised uses during the past four years many millions of pounds of explosives as compared to none before.

Such agencies include the bureau of public roads, reclamation service, Indian service, and the national parks. Thousands of pounds of explosives have been used to construct the government railroad in Alaska, in the canal zone work, and in numerous river enterprises.

Usually only two or three women are awarded this highest emblem, but this year there were so many senior women who were eligible that the

RELIGION FOR MORONS

A psychiatrist might profitably spend some of his time studying the peculiar mania of churchmen in abandoning reason for sentiment. Admittedly for the vast majority of mankind the Christian religion, and for that matter all religions, rest almost entirely upon blind impulse, yet this in itself hardly warrants a cold-blooded divorce of intellect and faith. Those who fail to see religion and science as compatible forces should cease to force their case, if they would do humanity a good turn, for if the two are incompatible then the enlightened few will choose science as the lesser evil.

The Presbyterian General Assembly, just concluded at Indianapolis, brought to light typical views of the God-inspired of today. It showed that a great many preachers have advanced little from the time of their narrow-minded and intolerant forebears. Although the convention after much debate voted down the obnoxious teachings of William Jennings Bryan, it did pass a resolution directing all Presbyterian supported colleges to "exercise careful oversight over the instruction given in such institutions which seeks to establish materialistic evolutionary doctrine"—a softened statement of Bryan's case.

The time has long since passed when religion must be guarded from reason. The very act of shielding it is sufficient to draw suspicion from the thinking part of the world. Religion must stand or fall on its own merits, and these will be determined by the intellect. If it is the dogma of such mental cowards as the majority of the Presbyterian convention proved themselves to be, then perhaps its days are limited. At any rate, there seems no excuse for defaming it further by admitting it is fit only to be peddled to morons.

WHY IS A COLLEGE?

One of the primary purposes of a university, as defined in a certain college catalog is "to stimulate thought among undergraduates." Its success in stimulating thought, however, is nearly eclipsed by its success as a social center for undergraduates.

From the time of the student's entrance as a freshman, the social phase of college is magnified all out of proportion. Many students, especially women, have their first impression of college life during the mad activity of the rushing season. As a freshman, the student is pledged or not pledged—either of which affects his outlook profoundly. If he does not belong to a fraternity, he is constantly nursing the desire that he may some day, or trying to convince himself that he is as good as any fraternity man.

Outside of a meagre preparation for the next day's lesson, very few of the student's thoughts are ever given to his studies, except to hope that he "gets by." If the subject is a lecture course, he simply goes to class, writes down what is said, and never bothers about it until time to cram for examinations. No thinking is required of him, and he does not exert himself unnecessarily.

The acknowledged object of many young people in coming to college is to have a good time, or because all their friends are attending. With these motives in mind, how can the student concentrate? It is only through a conscious desire for study and application, such as the graduate student evidences, that the under-graduate can ever help the university in realizing its aim "to stimulate thought."

CONTEMPORARY OPINION

(New York Times)

THE NEW PRIME MINISTER

Not since the younger Pitt has there been so rapid and unexpected a rise to the Premiership as that of Stanley Baldwin. A year ago his name scarcely counted for anything in England. When the Coalition Government broke up, and Mr. Baldwin cast in his lot with Bonar Law, he was contemptuously referred to by Lloyd George as the "cabin boy." Well, the cabin boy is now captain on the bridge. He would probably be the first to admit that his promotion is partly due to a dearth of high political talent and commanding personalities in the Conservative Party. He appears to have been pressed upon the King by his colleagues, not because they had unbounded confidence in him, but because they had almost no confidence in Lord Curzon and other possible rivals.

Though it must be said that Mr. Baldwin still has his spurs fully to win, it would not be fair to deny that he has steadily enhanced his reputation since he was appointed Chancellor of the Exchequer, and was called upon to lead the House of Commons in the enforced absence of Mr. Bonar Law. The Chancellor's budget was well conceived, well received, and skillfully defended by him. It made him very strong with the City, and satisfied most of the authorities on economics and taxation. In the debates in the House where it was necessary for him to appear as the spokesman for the Government, he has shown a good grasp of the public business, and, by his tone of mingled caution and conciliation, has sensed the Parliamentary situation accurately, and often, like Charles Townshend, has hit the House of Commons between wind and water.

The Sounding Board

WEDDINGS

With the merry month of June looming up in the offing, numerous brides-elect look forward to the passing of May with fond anticipation. Several couples, however, have jumped the gun. A friend was kind enough to hand us a copy of the Stuart (Ia.) Herald which contained a glowing (to say the least) account of one of these trips to the hymeneal fane, consummated at Casey, Iowa.

If you are thinking of getting married, you can surely get some tips on how to write up the sad news. We wish it were possible to reprint the masterpiece in full, but we have only sufficient space for a few thousand ems. Here it comes; brace your feet:

"The warm sunshine of the proceeding day, kissed with the first touch of spring faded away behind the western clouds that darkened and hung lowering in the heaven, to burst forth into a dashing rain, which gave place to the morning, while not brightened with sun's full rays, until noon, was overcharged with the freshness of spring and vibrant with a life that called forth the song of the birds. As the echo of the morning angelus died away and the sweet notes of "Here Comes the Bride," pealed forth in the richness of its melody at the deft touch of Mrs. S. T. Lawler, who presided at the organ, with unbroken step Miss Veronica Hogan, followed by the bride, Miss Lillian Roche, marched up the center aisle to the foot of the altar. Here they were met by the groom, John Francis Hogan, and his witness, Ambrose Roche, who entered through the sacristy and joined his bride at the altar steps which was aglow with lighted tapers and banked with sweet smelling flowers in pink and white which stood out in bold contrast to the gold colored vestments of the priest, presented a scene that attracts the eyes of all. Here at the hands of their pastor, Father Cornelius Ralley, they pronounced the words that united in the holy bonds of matrimony two hearts that beat as one.

"As they march down the avenue of life's highway, hand in hand, full of hope and ambition, they carry with them the sincere congratulations and best wishes of their many relatives and friends that the march may be sweetened by the best things that life can bring to them and that no cloud shall ever darken the joys of their wedding day, but that they shall wax stronger and tenderer until the desire of their young hearts is achieved and the well wishes of their friends have been realized."

THE VOLUNTEER DECORATOR

The Panathenea

Reviewed By RUTH MIDDAGH

The ghosts of the ancient Greeks walked once more Tuesday afternoon when the Athens literary society celebrated their annual festival to their patron goddess, Athena. Spectators saw a bit of Grecian life reconstructed against the classical background of the liberal arts building. Every effort was made to conduct the celebration in exact imitation of the ancient Greek festival to Athena, the Panathenea, even down to the small details of dress and the order of the procession.

First in the procession came the populace, garbed in brilliant-colored garments of yellow, pink, purple and blue. They sauntered leisurely along, many of the women carrying water-jars and baskets, while others carried green branches. Their dress made an effective contrast against the green grass and the white of the buildings. Next in order of procession came the presiding lady of the day, together with ambassadors, who were interpreted by the representatives of the other women's literary societies. The ambassadors were gowned in long white togas. The entire group assembled at the southern end of the oval in anticipation of the music and games of the day.

The Panthala interpreted by Helen Spencer A3 and Pauline Spencer A4 of Des Moines, incorporated many of the features of the Greek games into the dance. The dancers were seen to throw the weights and the discuss; they were seen prepared to run the race; they were seen in the grip of a rigid wrestling hold. The spirit of this dance had the breath of the outdoors in it, and it was especially fitting that the Spencer girls should give it, since they have distinguished themselves so notably along that line.

Another dance, similar in spirit, but different in content, was given by Miss Boullin, of the physical education department. In this dance Miss Boullin interpreted the Pyrrhian warrior, equipped with helmet and spear ready for the battle. The Spartan outlines of her dress, together with the able interpretation of the moods of the warrior, gave a striking effect which was appreciated by her audience.

In an entirely different tenor, Marjorie Barfoot A4 of Decorah and Celeste Rotton '22 of Iowa City danced across the green in a special honor dance to the goddess Athena. Their soft white costumes made a pleasant contrast against the green of the oval, and their dance was interpreted with feeling and delicacy.

Even the children of old Greece were represented, and four of them gave an interpretation of the ballroom dance. A quartet furnished vocal music, and at the end of each event the performers were crowned with the branches of victory. The torch bearers, Dorothy Brooks A4 of North English and Leora Ashbacher A3 of Waukon ran a special race, with their blazing torches supposedly lighted. This also was a feature of the ancient Panathenea.

In the early centuries, the celebration to Athena was very important. Athena was the mythological goddess of wisdom who was supposed to have sprung full-armed from the head of Zeus. She was also the goddess of war and of the hunt. From her the city of Athens was named.

Two Panatheneas were held, the greater and the lesser. Both were celebrated at Athens and the lesser Panathenea was characterized by a solemn procession to the Acropolis, a public feast and a sacrifice which was preceded by a torch race. Gymnastic contests and chariot races were also held. The greater Panathenea was held in July and was established in 566 B. C. Its greatest event was the procession which escorted to the Acropolis the sacred mantle of Athena, upon which many figures were made representing events of great importance. The procession included representatives of all the free population of Athens.

Following this procedure on a small scale, the Athenians formed in a procession following the games and presented the statue of Athena, interpreted by Frances Hungerford, with a robe upon which many figures were painted. The society then sang their song which was written by Lucile Reynolds, '21, a former member of the society. As in the olden days a feast followed the games of the day; the Athenians also feasted at their annual spring banquet in the evening.

The celebration of the day was in charge of Lillian Lawler. Miss Lawler is well acquainted with ancient Greek and Roman ways, having made a special study of the subject while in the University. "We have made every effort to keep our costume in accordance with the ancient dress, as nearly as possible. For example, the girls were cautioned not to wear wrist watches, since they were entirely unknown to the ancient Greeks" said Miss Lawler. "The style of togas and dresses was as nearly reproduced as possible in the limited amount of time which the society had." Alone Selkirk was in charge of costumes while Camilla Sperati directed the vocal and instrumental music.

"I can say without flattery that the festival was very successful," said Prof. Charles H. Weller, head of the history of art department, at the banquet following the celebration. "I was especially pleased with the frequent allusions to classical facts and the reproduction of many of the Greek customs. In future years, I see large opportunity for Athena to develop the Panathenea into something bigger with more events and more ceremonies."

This is the first year which an actual Panathenea festival has been celebrated. In former years the policy of the society has been to honor the goddess, but with no outdoor ceremony. However, next year every effort will be made to enlarge the festival and the affair will be made annual.

The Athena literary society is the only national women's literary society on the campus, it being the Beta chapter of the national organization. Camilla Sperati A2 of Decorah is president of the Athenians.

FRIVOL TO SHOW UNIVERSITY LIFE

To Choose Editorial Staff On Basis Of Actual Work

The editorial and business staffs of Frivol for next year are already functioning. Positions on the editorial staff are to be awarded on the basis of work actually contributed, according to Ward Mayer A2 of Waterloo, named editor-in-chief. Plans for forthcoming editions of the magazine were contained in the following statement:

"Frivol is to be an all-university publication next year. Its editors will conscientiously attempt to portray the humorous side of life as exemplified in the different colleges and departments that go to make up the State University of Iowa.

"Staff positions are open to undergraduates who have the proven ability to create wholesome humor out of the situations that will constantly arise in the class-room and on the campus. The positions of assistant editor and art editor will be given to the man and the woman who merit them. Application for either of the positions should be made to the editor-in-chief at once in order that the candidates may be given proper instructions for work during the summer months.

"It is purposed to bring the first issue of Frivol out on the opening day of the fall semester. This plan will necessitate immediate action on the part of the staff and contributors. A number of persons are already at work on details of next year's issues and others who are interested are urged to report for instructions at once."

Prince Of Wales Claimed To Lose Some Popularity

London, May 26 (United Press.)—The Prince of Wales is rapidly losing popularity among a section of his future subjects.

Those with the growing grouch are the inveterate matchmakers and titled mothers with eligible daughters. And, to a minor degree, the great mass of British woman-hood, which thinks that it is almost indecent for their heir to the Throne not to have married, or at least selected a wife by now. For Wales will be 29 this month.

If he has already selected a future sharer of his throne, the Prince has said nothing about it, and he has quite obviously turned down all those eligible young ladies selected for him, either officially or unofficially.

Naturally no list of the officially selected-rejected is available, but it had been pretty generally understood for the past year that Lady Rachel Cavendish, daughter of the Duke of Devonshire, had been officially selected as the future queen of England. Whether Lady Rachel had anything to say about this is not known, but she has certainly spoiled all such plans by recently announcing her betrothal to the younger son of the Earl of Moray. Hence, exit the most eligible of all the Prince's possible brides.

The number of possible brides for the Prince among the daughters of the wealthy and blue-blooded nobility was comparatively small when Wales came on to the home-marriage market as a result of the great war, but still their numbers ran into several scores. Only Wales does not seem to have given a person-ed to other husbands, and matchmakers are in despair.

Careful combing of the peerage lists discloses a couple of dozen possible brides, from the point of view of blue-bloodedness and paternal wealth, but only two stand out as being members of the regular court circle. These are Lady Katherine Hamilton, 23, daughter of the Duke of Abercorn (Governor General of Northern Ireland) and Lady Mary Thynne, 20, daughter of the Marquis of Bath. Both of them acted as bridesmaids at the Duke of York wedding and both are in every way eligible.

All the same the Prince has just got to select a bride quite soon or even his most devoted admirers will be getting rude.

BALDWIN PICKS MINISTRY FROM LAW'S CABINET

Lord Robert Cecil Given Sinecure Post; Labor Continues Opposition

(By United News)

London, May 24.—The little group of men who, as the English cabinet, will guide Britain's destiny through the political tempest of the next few months has practically been selected.

Premier Baldwin Thursday completed his ministry with the exception of the post of Chancellor of the Exchequer. He had apparently not yet persuaded Sir Robert Horne, Scotch business man and former chancellor, to again accept the high office, despite two conferences between the statesmen at Downing street.

So far the only difference between Bonar Law's cabinet and Baldwin's is the addition of Lord Robert Cecil as chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster—a sinecure job which survives, from the ancient business of supervising the King's revenue by the duchy.

Cecil, however, gave the government added debating strength in Commons, and will also strengthen Britain's pro-league policy.

That labor will continue the same opposition attitude practised against Bonar Law was indicated in an interview given by the labor leader, Clynes, who said:

"A change of personnel without a change of policy will alter nothing. The same men with the same ideas but simply under a new premier leaves us where we were under the old government."

Premier Baldwin presided at a meeting of ministers Thursday, those present being Lord Curzon, Viscount Cave, Sir Montague Barlow, Lord Derby and the Duke of Devonshire, all of whom are prepared to accept portfolios in the new cabinet, it is understood. The cabinet will be announced Friday. Baldwin's policies will follow the broad lines of Bonar Law's ministry, it was officially stated today.

OLD FASHIONED GIRLS Alice Calhoun and Wanda Hawley in "Masters of Men." At the STRAND now

MOTION TO TAKE CASE FROM JURY OVER-ruLED

the defense proceeded to produce witnesses. A. C. Harmon, former county coroner and also a state witness, identified a probe used in probing the head-wounds that caused Roy Wertz's death and the probe was admitted for evidence.

Mrs. H. L. Steinmetz, who lives in the Wertz home, testified that during her residence with the Wertz family, she never met Wertz but that she smelled liquor on his breath.

Mrs. F. R. Dowdin of Spirit Lake, sister of Mrs. Mima Wertz, testified that Wertz made numerous threats to kill Beryl Wertz-Leeper while the witness was on a visit with the Wertz family in August and September, 1921. She said that Wertz told the wife of the defendant, "killing is too good for you."

On cross-examination the witness admitted to Attorney Walker that she was on friendly terms with Wertz, but that whenever she came close enough to him, she could smell liquor on his breath.

The crowded court-room listened with attention as Eilene Dowdin, 8-year old daughter of the preceding witness stood the stand and corroborated the testimony of her mother that she had seen a revolver which "looks like" exhibit seventeen revolver alleged by the state to have been used by Leeper in killing Wertz, an a bureau-drawer in the Wertz home at the time of the visit in 1921. Attorney Walker asked her in cross-examination what year this was and she was unable to answer and looked appealingly over at her mother. She repeated her story as to seeing the revolver in the drawer, however.

Major Ray C. Hill and Lieutenant-Colonel Morton C. Mumma, members of the instructional staff of the military department of the University, took the stand, called for by the defense as expert witnesses in the matter of pistols and pistol-shooting. They both explained the action of the automatic revolver, exhibit seventeen, to the judge, demonstrating with the pistols.

Mumma testified that a revolver shot six inches from the head would not cause powder burns and further that the recoil from that particular make of a gun would not recoil to any great extent when shot, and that it would be quite possible to shoot two shots very nearly in the same spot. He admitted, however, that it is highly probable that an amateur could not do this. This will be important testimony in this case as the two shots in Roy Wertz's head were only several inches apart.

Court was adjourned until 9 this morning.
