SATURDAY, JUNE 2, 1923

30th

Unless you are a journalist or a printer, perhaps you will attach no significance to the figure "30." But in the little world marked out by printer's ink, "30," means a lot of things. To the journalist it denotes the end of the last page.

The Daily Iowan will make its final bow next fall with a paper much larger and much better printed. It is in capable hands.

THE TRADE OF PEDAGOGUE

For Harris's recent book, "Life and Loves," is an excellent tribute to a professor under whose influences he chanced to come during his undergraduate days at the University of Kansas. It was Prof. Dr. Bryan C. Smith who awakened the intellectual energies of Mr. Harris and who, by Harris's testimony, gave him the inspiration to follow a literary career.

The autobiographies of other men of letters and of affairs, were written, would yield the proof of the marked influence which certain of their college professors played in setting them upon the right paths to which they would, very probably, never have strayed had it not been for the little periodicals and other interest which he has always followed. For in only a few cases can one remember the actual subject which they were taught to teach.

The standardization of teaching methods has done much to standardize professors. Teaching as a result, has come to be more of a trade than an art. The need of the present time is for fewer educators and more teachers.

CONTEMPORARY OPINION

(New York World)

FARED ANYTHING

The forging of antiques has long been a thriving industry, with specialists of skill operating in their clubs fields. What, then, should there be in the change made by one Paris art dealer another against of exhibiting fake Biblical statues on the Metropolitan Museum and other museums and collections, they are not immoral of their existence. It is not a question of being for or against, it will hardly seem so to be as long as the rewards of deception are so gratifying to the masters of the art of falsification.

What, then, if the question comes to final decision as to the genuineness of certain pieces under suspicion, it is not impossible that even the experts will be found in opposing camps. They have their honest differences of opinion and varying standards of judgment, and the best of them may be misled by faith in theories of the true facts. Dr. Wilhelm von Bols, the German authority, was plainly foiled by ethiology of a bust attributed to Leon.

When you again hear the remark that with the free railroads are making too much money their rates are too high," ask him whether he knows anything about the enormous costs of running a railroad, despite close watchfulness over expenses. If he doesn't know anything about railroad costs he is probably not a person for whom you think they know more of a railroad than those who have devoted their lives to it. It is as wrong to hear false evidence against a railroad as against any other neighbor.

The Rock Island System had in revenue $122,800, 854 last year to pay to 60,000 employees and users in other States before it could count a dollar of profit.

In order alone were $6,163,175. That is where some of the dollars went which you paid in freight and passenger rates. A portion of them, doubtless, came to your company.

The T X B I L S for 1923 were almost TWICE THE SUM RECEIVED IN DIVIDENDS by the thousand students of those who have investments in the property, some of them, perhaps, residents of your neighborhood.

For every $2,61 paid in dividends, the Rock Island paid $6.93 in Texas last year.

I say this from the fact that the Rock Island is making too much money or that its "rates are too high."

HAWKEYE NINE
LOSES LOOSELY PLAYED GAME

Iowa City Independents Score Seven Runs in First 3 Innings

Seven runs, tallied in the first three innings, were enough to give George Frederick's pickup town team victory in a lively playoff slugfest between Git the Old Gold and the Iowa Field yesterday afternoon. The victory was not the same as usual, as Wayland Rick, one of the seven batters on the Hawkeye nine was absent, and Lyle left the base tol stable stock for the independents. Some timely hitting of "Chad" Pickles delivery, coupled with a bit of string in the field, early in the game, spelled defeat for the Hawks. Becker fell heir to the instructing job after the first three frames, and by jumping up a close gray with a fast crossfier-mercant, in the Iowa City hitters down without a hit for the rest of the day.

It looked like if the Hawkeye had left their batting eye alone as only four of the seven batter's hit the ball. Second base in 1992 meant high plate and Volmar attained one of two of those. Volmar and Lyle were the in hitting with two hits each. Yeltsin hitting a single and a double, and Lyle creating a triple and a single out of three trips to the place. Natalie contributed to the second paragraph for one of the league leaders in batting than Iowa Field this season, the ball going crisp to the north end of the most widely followed baseball.

The game took in the aspect of a championship game as the independent side was composed mainly of old Hawkeye players. Salad fell in the first play in the infield. Fred Ronald fell down Fred George Frey, who is now managing the independents, was an third and Carter Hamilton, encasing pitching state, surprised around in certain field.

Yesterday's game was the last called by the Hawkways managers they use the Minnesota nine because the club is in the same conference and concentration practice. The game was called officially at 2.26.
