SPEAKS BEFORE CLUB MEMBERS

Miss Barrow Tells of Speech in (Our) in Lecture Wednesday, June 14, at 8 p.m., in the auditorium.

"Nationality and Speech" was the title of the address given by Miss Sarah J. Barrows of Teachers College, Columbia University.

The questionnaires answered by the students of the University of Illinois showed that the speech and speech habits of the University of Illinois students were highly correlated. The results indicated that the questionnaires may be of use in determining the extent of the men's classes.

Many people would be surprised to learn that the common word grew and changed in the last hundred years. An example of this is the word "handkerchief," which is a national characteristic. Miss Barrows said that the word "handkerchief" is used for the same purpose in different countries may have different meanings.

SUMMER PLAYERS ORGANIZE TODAY

All Summer Students Hold Big Big Day For Current Year's Final Play Back End.

STUDENTS WELCOMED

First Weekly Assembly of Summer Session Yesterday.

The biggest problem of university education today, that of mass production in education, Doctor Elmo E. Seashore declared yesterday in a presidential address which was given at the first meeting of the summer session.

"When we went to college," Dr. Seashore said, "the fresh boys were from the rich, but the fresh men in college now are from the poor. And the fresh men are the great majority of the college students."

"So university has been 20 per cent more this year than it was five years ago, and colleges have been required to give an education to all these new students, whereas the universities of the past could give a better education to fewer students."

"When the results of this experiment are in," he went on, "we shall have to come to the conclusion that fresh men are not fit to be candidates for graduation."
