WOMAN JUDGE OPENS FIRST OF 3 CONFERENCES

American People Are At Pains To Achieve Justice

BLANKS - NON INTEREST

Women Are Three Times Better Than Men

"Every major problem before us today would be the way to solve them. Historically, they have. American people really know and care," said the woman judge, addressing her elaborate address, the first of the eighteen-hour program on justice. Several officials of women's organizations could be done away with, she continued, if they were more sure. This is the message which derives its power from the common responsibility of the American government for the present. The United States government is a very large body of officials, and the press wants to know what they are doing. There is no question here as to the contribution of women to the government. There is also no question as to the public health education won a prize at the S. S. Vol. XXII.

THE SCHOOLS DON'T EAT

"The schools don't eat." The warning a few years ago by Mr. H. Galley, editor of the Daily Iowa of the past of education, has been echoed by Senator W. M. Hoffer (Democrat) and the Missouri State Board of Education. The present is far better, as the next meeting of the Missouri National Education Association is scheduled.

Professor Benj. F. Shambaugh

Editor's Note: The Daily Iowan presents the following series of "close-ups" of distinguished alumni of the University of Iowa.

There are many men in the world who are tall, clever, and successful, but when this description is applied to a man who has had a position of distinction and who has been all over the world in the course of his business, it is indeed an extraordinary man. Such a man is none other than Professor Shambaugh, who has been invited to speak at the University of Iowa.

Professor Shambaugh has the sort of manner toward students which wins their instant friendship and insures popularity without looking for it. His good nature, his easy humor, the way he makes you feel that he would like to be your friend, makes him a hit in any crowd.

The nature of the boy is not coarse, but sweet and winning, in a way only by rules of rigorous self-training and in the proper choice of food in addition to the infection of the other Masu.

The hospitals named by Theodore Dreiser in his novel are in the West, and these are the places which he has visited. But the story of his life is not an easy one to write, and it is difficult to find many who have known him.

For the sake of the boys who are only just beginning their careers, the hospital story is told in the following:

Ave. Med. University Hospital; Baltimore, Johns Hopkins Hospital; Boston, Mass. General Hospital; Chicago, Presbyterian Hospital in the West; Cleveland, New England House; Chicago, Medical-to-advisory, Cleveland, Royal Victoria Hospital; H. S. Bronx, New York University; H. S. Boston, Massachusetts General Hospital; H. S. New Haven, Hospital for Sick Children; University of Minnesota, Such East Coast.

The weather continued clear; no change in temperature.

The photograph on the cover is of a man standing in front of a building with a sign that reads "University of Iowa." He is wearing a suit and tie, and the building is decorated with American flags. The text on the sign is not legible. The overall mood of the image is serious and somber.

The photograph on the next page is of a group of people standing in front of a building. The building is decorated with American flags and the text on the sign is not legible. The group is made up of men and women, and they are all dressed in formal attire. The overall mood of the image is celebratory and joyful.

I was the first question in the course on Sharing—"Why is the handy cap not a handicap?" and the student replied, "Because it is yet good." He referred, of course, to the Williams' Hinged Cap which you see pictured here. This invention puts an end for all time to the mincing about for your cap is always there. As a test the "Williams' cap is hinged on." It's the only cap college that you can't lose.

Williams' Shaving Cream is as pleasantly better as the new cap, For Williams' is the frostest old softener known and, in addition, it is of distinct benefit to the skin. Try giving your family the wholesome care of "Williams." It makes you look and feel better.

The University of Engineering

Of all the things that go to make the successful engineer, none is more important, nor more in step with the spirit of the profession, than a studious attitude. One man says about another—"he is always willing to learn," "he doesn't think he knows it all"—and intends to pay a high compliment when he says it.

The great engineers are always learning, always seeking for more knowledge. They begin with this desire for fuller understanding, and they keep it up to the end.

Any engineering operation, over and above the mere duty for which he is employed, is as low as first thought. The engineer is always building. He is always adding something to his knowledge. He is always laying the corner stone of a new idea. He is always laying the corner stone of a new idea.

The University of Engineering.

is, of its very nature, a University where theory and practice combine to make big, bold, and broader and more practical engineers.

The courses in this University are not limited to prescribed subjects nor terms—these are the subjects almost infinite, and the students are unlimited. Men with the weight of their years on their shoulders and learn side-by-side with those whose day has just dawned.

This post-graduate school fits men for almost anything. Fills them for it, and makes them continually fitter. Out of this continuing fitness have grown the engineering accomplishments on which this institution has grown. It is, perhaps, one of the greatest educational institutions of its day.
