Professor Mahie Says "Play's the Thing" for Him

Guenneym, Public Utility Conference Speaker, Sawed Wood on Sunny Side of Old Capitol Fifty Years Age

By C. G. Lied.

It happened over fifty years ago, in 1873, that Professor Guenneym, a liberal from the American Telephone & Telegraph Company and one of the largest corporations (or might be of the country), was in this, or rather the public utility company conference in the city of Washington. Such conferences are kept up by the states and the federal government, and it is a question whether there is a better or a worse. In some states, they are held up, but here there is no better. It is a question whether there is a better or a worse.

WEEK-END COLLEGE AGAIN

Opinion regarding the merits of small colleges as opposed to large ones, a question which has been well discussed by the men of colleges and universities. There is no doubt that many small colleges have a valuable place, especially in the West where the larger ones cannot compete. The small college has a distinct advantage over the larger one, for it is a fact that the small college is more free from the distractions of the larger one and is better adapted to the study of the sciences.

One of the most important advantages of the small college is the lack of distractions. In the larger colleges there are many distractions which are not present in the smaller colleges. For example, in the larger colleges there are many social and athletic activities which are not present in the smaller colleges. In the larger colleges there are also many opportunities for the students to be idle and not to study.

The small college is also better adapted to the study of the sciences. The smaller colleges have a better opportunity to provide a good education in the sciences. The smaller colleges are also better adapted to provide a good education in the arts and humanities.

The small college is also better adapted to provide a good education in the social sciences. The smaller colleges are also better adapted to provide a good education in the natural sciences.

In conclusion, the small college has many advantages over the larger college. The small college is better adapted to provide a good education in the sciences, the arts and humanities, the social sciences, and the natural sciences.
Society

Powers, Howard.

One of the most prominent social events of the past few days in Iowa City was the marriage of Harold Townsend to Marguerite O'Neill, which took place at the St. Francis Hotel on Wednesday May 18. The bride received her degree in Classics at the University of Illinois last year, where she graduated in the class of 1928. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Mr. M. T. McNally, rector of the St. Francis Hotel and was attended by many guests from all parts of the country.

Mr. & Mrs. Townsend.

The bride's father was formerly a member of the class of 1928, and the wedding was most fittingly celebrated in Waterloo, where the couple are domiciled. The bride and groom will leave tomorrow for Boston, to spend the next two weeks in the company of friends and relatives. They will return to their home in Waterloo, where the couple are domiciled.
