INDEPENDENCE DAY

In their trail to shoot firecrackers and almost anything conceivable, people in America are apt to forget the real significance of July Fourth.

One hundred and forty-four years ago a significant realization was passed. At first, even people in Philadelphia did not know the seriousness of what was about to be fought, until the Declaration of Independence was read on July 4th. We have been told by our parents that there was such great excitement in the streets, that when the Declaration of Independence was read for the first time, the people turned pale. Even though the news spread throughout the state's largest prison, they are happy for a little attention to public declarations.

But it is merely the noise of crushed postoffice in one day's work, the noise of the French Republic has its moments.

The French Republic has its moments.

THE SOUNDS AND STAIRS FOREVER

On June 14, 1977, congress decreed that the flag should symbolically represent the two strips alternate red and white, and the Union should be thirteen stripes red and white. This was the flag which was proudly unfurled, never to be lowered in defeat, and which has become enshrined and a symbol of equal opportunity for all high ideals of citizenship and justice.

This is flag to which we owe allegiance.

"Long may it wave. Over the land of the free and the home of the brave!"

The Professor passed him immediately

IT was the first question in the course on Shaving Theory and the student replied, "Because it gets you clean." He referred, of course, to the Williams Hinged Cap which you see pictured here. This invention won an end all time for the nuisance of hunting for lost caps. As you see, the "vam cap is hinged. It's the only college cap that can't lose.

Williams' Shaving Cream is as pleasantly better in the use as the vam cap is in the shaving. For Williams' is the fast-est beard oiler known and years of customer satisfaction of distinct benefit to the skin. Try giving your students a sample. It is the mark of William's. It makes them look and feel your best.

The University of Engineering

Of all the things that go to make the successful engineer, none is more important, nor more in step with the spirit of the profession, than a studious attitude. One man says about another—"he always was willing to learn," "he doesn't think he knows it all"—and he intends to pay a high compliment when he says it.

The great engineers are always at work, always learning, always seeking for more knowledge. They begin this desire for fuller understanding, and this continuing fitness have grown the weight of years on their shoulders. They know it all—and he intends to pay a high compliment when he says it.

The courses in this University are not limited to prescribed subjects nor terms—the subjects are almost infinite, and the students are endless. Men with the weight of years on their shoulders work and learn side-by-side with those whose day has just dawned.

This postgraduate school fits men for almost anything. Fits them for it, and makes them continually fitter. Out of this continuing fitness have grown the engineering accomplishments on which this institution has grown. It is, perhaps, one of the great educational institutions of its day.
