Student Council Sets November 10 L. A. Election Date

Names Must Be Given to Council by 6 P. M. October 29

FRESHMEN TO WEAR OLD GOLD TOQUES

Committee to Examine Candidates After Names Are Turned In

At the meeting of the Student Council last night Wednesday November 7, was set as the date for the election of class officers in the college of liberal arts. The committee appointed to consider names for class officers includes Buel G. Beems A4 of Cedar Rapids, Roberta Anderson A4 of Iowa City, and Raymond Hoyne L3 of Clarinda.

The names accompanied by signed statements from the office of the registrar showing that the candidate is in good standing should be presented to the president of the student council, Lorenz Wolters A4 of Waukon, in room 14 liberal arts building before six p. m. Monday, October 29. Prior to the election the candidates will be summoned before the election committee and their attitude toward student government, campus activities and general fitness for office will be determined by it. The following plan, adopted last year, will govern the election this fall:

Follow Old Plan

"All students who wish to become candidates for class offices will present their names to the committee appointed by the president of the student council. The formality of presenting petitions signed by twenty-ife students has been abolished. The only requirement is that the candidate be in good standing in the class in which he is running for office. From the list of names submitted the student council will choose nine candidates for each class. These candidates will be selected on a basis of personal merit, scholarship and outside activities. If there are not enough names submitted the committee is given the power to place additional names upon the ballot in order to give the required number of candidates for each class.

Ballot on Nine Names

"Each ballot will have the names of nine candidates printed upon it without designation of ofice. Voting will follow a preferential system. Each voter will cast his ballot for three candidates placing the figures 4, 3, and 2 before the first three preferences in the order named. All other candidates will be given the numerical rating of 1 in the final count. The candidate receiving the highest total will be declared president, the next highest, vice-president, and the third highest, secretary-treasurer. The office of treasurer has been combined with that of secretary, making just three offices in each class."

Old Gold Toques For Frosh

According to a resolution passed by the student council last year the freshmen are required to wear green caps throughout the football season and a green toque during the winter. At the meeting last night the resolution was modified and instead of wearing a green toque with a white tassel during the winter the frosh headpiece will be an Old Gold toque with a black tassel. The freshmen will not be asked to wear either a toque or cap in the spring.

Ten members of the student council were present at the meeting last night. They were Buel G. Beems A4 of Cedar Rapids, president of the interfraternity council; David W. James D2 of Colfax, president of the Y. M. C. A.; Raymond Hoyne L3 of Clarinda, president of A. F. I.; Alden Douds L3 of Douds, president of law association; Kenneth Weir S4 of Cedar Rapids, president of A. S. of A. S.; Gordon Johnston A3 of Des Moines, president of University Players; Luther Myser Cm4 of Des Moines, president of commerce club; Lorenz Wolters A4 of Waukon, editor of The Daily Iowan, and Carl G. Seashore S2 representative of the music council.

Dr. Edwin Starbusk Says Iowan Among Best Papers

That the Daily Iowan is among the best college newspapers offered to readers, is the opinion of Dr. Edwin D. Starbuck, professor of ethics and aesthetics. A statement of this nature was made in a lecture before one of the ethics classes yesterday morning, while discussing the relative values of football and other activities in undergraduate University life.

Dr. Starbuck spoke highly of the liberal tone of last year's Daily Iowan, and praised the new and enlarged paper of this year even more.

He also asks all men who placed last night to report for a short time at his office at 207 Close hall tomorrow evening to make final arrangements and get their instructions.

The final debate will be held on December 6 instead of 7 as was previously announced. Illinois will debate here and our team will go to Minnesota to protect Iowa's standard there at that time.

Leading Artists in Series of Recitals

Ticket Sale in Progress; Out of Town Requests For Reservations

"The sale of season tickets for the University concert course is progressing very satisfactorily," says Mrs. Phillip G. Clapp, who is in charge of the campaign. "Already we have had requests for seat reservations from out of town patrons, so town people and students should purchase their tickets soon if they are to receive all the advantages they offer. We would be very glad to have more sellers."

Individual tickets for the recitals are a dollar and a half. All season ticket holders are allowed the entire series for six dollars, or one dollar per concert. If a large sale is assured, the association will give an additional concert free to all season ticket owners at the conclusion of the series.

The year program will consist of recitals by Marie Sundelius, soprano; Alberto Salvi, harpist; Guy Maier and Lee Pattison, pianists; two concerts by the Minneapolis Symphony orchestra; and Pablo Casals, cellist.

Concerning this series Mrs. Clapp says, "Several of the artists to be presented are unquestioned leaders in their fields and the course as a whole promises to be a memorable one."

300 Iowa Women March in Seventh CHawa Kwai Fete

Procession Makes Way Across Campus Sing "On Iowa"

JAP LANTERNS MAKE PICTURESQUE SCENE

Festival of Lanterns Owes Origin to Ancient Jap Custom

One of the most beautiful and spectacular traditions of the Iowa campus was re-enacted last evening for the seventh time when 300 University women marched in the Chawa Kwai procession.

At 7 o'clock the procession was formed on the steps of the liberal arts building where every girl was provided with a Jaanese lantern. Red, green, yellow, and blue lights bobbed up and down as the line moved down the steps. Progressing slowly down the walks the girls began to sing softly, "Long, Long Ago" and "Little Grey Home in the West" were chanted as the long line wound its way up Clinton street, and past the natural science building. Twinkling lights filed past the crowds gathered to watch the picturesque scene as the procession took the diagonal path from natural science hall to Clinton street, and again up to the liberal arts building.

The colored lanterns passed across from there back to natural science hall. Singing all the while the girls wound round to the walk leading to Old Capitol. As they moved towards the steps every girl was singing "On Iowa". The singing ceased as the crowd gathered on Old Capitol steps. Miss Mildred Freeburg then explained the history and meaning of Chawa Kwai., "The Festival of Lanterns".

Chawa Kwai was first celebrated in Japan when a princess of that country had been lost at sea. Her people formed in a procession, each carrying in one hand a torch, in the other the gehila, a Japanese prayer, they marched in procession to pray for her at the alter of their god.

Chawa Kwai at Iowa was first celebrated in 1917. The Daily Iowan for that date bore the headline "Iowa Womens' Night on Campus." It was truly Iowa womens' night. Every women's organization, sixty in all, marched in the procession; students, faculty members, wives, even the wife of the University president.

At that timeeach upperclassman took a freshman as they walked about the campus, singing and carrying the lanterns. They, as was done last night, halted the line of march on Old Capitol steps and sang "Old Gold". The first Chawa Kwai procession marched to the wonman's gym for refreshments. Last night the program closed when the procession again dropped in line, and singing "On Iowa" the last bobbing light disappeared into the north door of the liberal arts building.

Chief of Police Rules Against Night Parking

"Parking cars in the streets over night is absolutely prohibited," said Chief of Police Lorack in discussing the enforcing of the city's ordinances. "Owners of cars who do not have garages should keep the cars in their yard, but under no consideration should anybody leave a car out in the street." The chief also stated that care should be taken by all auto owners to keep their lights in condition. Driving without proper lights is often a cause of accidents, besides being a good reason for the payment of a fine.

First University Speaker Oct. 16

Was Former Classmate of Colonel Mumma

Made Director of Relief Work in Russia After World War

Colonel William N. Haskell, who will give the first University lecture on October 16, will be the guest of Lieutenant Colonel Morton C. Mumma, a West Point class mate, while in the city.

Graduating from the Academy in 1900, a year ahead of Colonel Haskell, Colonel Mumma was later associated with him in Cuba in 1902, and in the service of the War Department in the early part of the world war. For twenty-five years Colonel Mumma has kept in touch with the work of Colonel Haskell and is keenly enthusiastic over his administration of relief measures in Russia.

It was Colonel Haskell's work as a member of the American Commission which visited Persia and Turkey after the war which brought him to the attention of Secretary Hoover and won him the appointment of director of the American Relief Administration in Russia.

Made Food Exchange Medium

The remarkable thing about his work as relief administrator, according to Colonel Mumma, was that he gave food as charity only to the sick and helpless and to women and children. His work was constructive in that able bodied men were given food only in return for work. He made food and clothing a medium of exchange. If a certain district neeeded a road built he hired men and paid them in food, if a hospital was needed he bought the materials and paid with American supplies. If the man he negotiated with did not need the food himself, he in turn used it to pay his men. He controlled all the food in Russia. All that the Russian people had saved for the famine which was expected regularly every seventh year had been wasted or exported during the revolution. Consequently Haskell was able to bring the people back to the factories, and to the fields, and to put the nation on its way to order and prosperity by using the power which he possessed as being the dictator of distribution of food and clothing.

Long Ladder Through Cobwebby Rooms Reveals Secrets of Old Capitol Dome

Anyone who wishes to view Iowa City from a historic spot should, if he is lithe and has andurance, climb to the top of Old Capitol.

"It's a long climb for a girl and the ladders are shaky," protested the men at work on the Old Capitol. It was a long climb. No less than fine ladders some twenty feet long, and all placed at an angle of eighty degrees, lead from the second story of the Old Capitol to the dome. They are placed in corners of the dark, dusty, cobwebby rooms, and can be located only by the square patch of light at the top.

Within the room marked from the outside by the narrow, shuttered apertures is the bell which clangs out the hours of the classes. The bell is always rung by the custodian of the Old Capitol, at present the policeman, best known to the students as "Ole." The bell is about ten feet in circumference. Doubtless the manufacturers intended that it should be rung as smaller bells are, for an iron wheel six feet in diameter turns the bar on which it hangs, but the bell does not swing. It is struck by a weighted hammer controlled by a rope running through an iron tube to the basement.

A circular flight of stairs and another ladder take one to the standard of the flagpole, set on the floor of the dome. Within the dome are kept old flags too battered by the elements to fly longer over the Capitol and the Iowa pennant which flies when 'Iowa Fights.'

From the top of the dome, one sees far over Iowa City. The University buildings crowd close below and beyond lies the city, where black roofs and church steeples rise through the yellow glory of the autumn leaves and, to the west, the Iowa river glitters through its haze.

Postal Plundering Expose is Expected

Los Angeles Grand Jury Begins Taking Evidence; Will Take Several Days

By The Associated Press

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 11.—The federal grand jury began today its hearing of evidence in an alleged expose of a planned nation-wide plundering said to include the national subtreasury at Washington.

The evidence, according to Special Prosecutor David M. Cahill, will be presented to the grand jury from results of the investigations made by Rush D. Simmons, chief postoffice inspector, of Washington, and the United States attorney general's office.

One of the alleged confessions to be presented, according to Mr. Cahill, is that of Herbert Wilson, now serving a life sentence in San Quentin for the murder of Herbert Cox, said to have been Wilson's companion in many postoffice robberies.

Wilson's alleged confession tells of stolen goods having been cached in Chicago, San Francisco, Oakland, Cleveland, Cincinnati and Los Angeles.

The presentation of the evidence, it was stated, will take several days.

Babe Ruth Cracks Out 2 Home Runs And Yankees Win

Slugging of Bambino Practically Gives Yanks Victory

HOME RUN KING STEPS INTO SERIES' GLORY

Giant Ruth Gathers Home Run From Each of Two Giant Pitchers' Offers

By The Associated Press

New York, Oct. 11—The attendance at the second world series contest today was 40,402. Gross receipts were $158,498.

NEW YORK, Oct. 11 (AP)—Babe Ruth crossed with mighty tread today the threshold of world series glory that has been barred to him for two years.

Driving out two thundering home runs thrusts in successive innings, a feat un-paralleled in championship baseball history, Ruth was the dynamo in the powerful attack that enabled the New York Yankees to turn the tables on the Giants, capture the second game of the series by a score of 4 to 2 and square the count with the world's title holders in the 1923 struggle for diamond supremacy.

First up in the fourth inning, with the score tied at one-all the great slugger put the Yankees into the lead with a terrific blow that landed atop the second tier of the right field grand stand and started the downfall of Hugh McQuillan, Giant ace. Another run was also scored in that hectic inning. On his next turn at bat, in the fifth, the Babe crashed one of Jack Bentley's southpaw slants into the lower right field stands. That blow was the climax of the game; Yankees victory was clinched then and it proved merely a formality to carry on to the finish.

Punch Wins For Yanks

It was a spectacular triumph for the Yankees, whose punch mastered John McGraw's stategy and gave them the first world's series victory they have known since the fith game of the 1921 championship—a span over which eight defeats and one tie have been their disasterous portion.

It was a brilliant day for Herb Pennock, fragile left hander, who twirled the Giants into subjection in masterful fashion; and Joe Dugan, fleet-footed third sacker, whose marvelous defensive play brought him repeatedly into the limelight.

But, over and above the mere outcome of the game, the brilliant cogs that fitted into the winning Yankee machine, it was the day of days for Ruth, baseball's star of stars, who had come into his own and found the world's series fame for which he had sought before in vain.

Triumph for Ruth

Thus is was a triumph even greater for Ruth than for the Yankees; the asecendency to brute force, the power of the wallop, over the tactical geius of John McGraw, base ball's "master mind."

Two years ago Ruth was handicapped in the series by injuries; last year he was a "bust", outguessed and baffled by the tactics of the "Little Napoleon", but tonight he is a triumphant figure, a vital force that upset with sheer might the best laid calculations of his opponent. And, knowing the confidence that his great achievement today has inspired he may prove the deciding factor in the outcome of the third straight battle between Gotham's rival clubs and spoil McGraw's goal of a third successive championship.

Sets New Record

Ruth's feat of two home runs in a single world's series game has been done thrice before in two decades of championship history, but in none of these instances were the circuit blows made in successive innings and successive times at bat.

Yesterday the story of victory was one of Giants smartness, alertness and generalship, plus the decisive ninth inning home run of Casey Stengel. Today the situation was reversed and it was punch typified by Ruth, that decided the issue.

Yesterday it was the Yankees who knocked at, but could not open, the door of opportunity; today it was a tale of missed chances by Giants, thought they were fewer than their opponents had in the opening game.

Except for two innings, Penncock, southpaw star of Miller Huggin's staff had the Giants at his mercy, twirling with invincible skill and backed up by a defense that at times was spectacular. Opposed to the left-hander, were two of McGraw's mound string. McQuillan, who was bombarded into retirement in the fourth inning, and Jack Bentley, port sider, who, except for Ruth's second circuit clout, pitched capably for the rest of the game.

Engineers Hail Coming of Purdue With Snappy Sign

Following the custom instituted some years ago, the junior engineers continue to post their snappy football predictions on the hall of engineering. The sign which was erected yesterday is perhaps the best since "Oh Min" and "Notre Game." The first conference team opposed by Iowa this year will be greeted by a salutation which reads like this: "You're DUE, PurDUE," except that the ingenuity of the Engineers gives an arrangement of the words which the Iowan's type casters cannot reproduce.

Oklahoma House Ignores Walton

Impeachment Plans Are Proceeding

Governor Does Not Appear Before Special Session and Is Not Represented

By The Associated Press

OKLAHOMA CITY, Oct. 11—Plans for holding a court of impeachment to review the official conduct of elective state officers moved forward tonight with apparently nothing to impede their progress.

Ignoring for the time recommendations of Gov. J. C. Walton that his bill opposing the Ku Klux Klan be immedately considered, house members today at the opening session by a unanimous vote authorized their speaker, W. D. McBee, to name a committee of investigation and impeachment to inquire to all offenses charged against impeachable officials.

The house then recessed until tomorrow afternoon when the personnel of the committee is expected to be announced. The senate, awaiting the lead of the house, where all impeachment action originates, had previously recessed until tomorrow morning.

Sessions Are Short

The sessions of both houses today were short and were largely occupied with the routine incident to legislation. The officers agreed to the caucus last night, invested with authority by vote of the members. The govenor's message assailed the Ku Klux Klan as an "all-powerful and most demoralizing super-govern ment", and urged members of the legislature to adopt a bill which the executive submitted simultaneously to protect the people for ever in their persons, property and fundamental liberties."

The executive did not appear before the session and he was not represented by any of his advisors.

Farmer Senator Speaks

Following the reading of the governor's message, T. P. Goore, former United States senator from Oklahoma addressed the joint-session.

He admonished the legislators that they were "here to see that we have government of laws, not men".

The speaker declared that he was not referring to "any particular individual," but his remarks were accepted as being directed at Governor Walton.

Although the vote opening the way for the impeachment session was unanimous, there was strong indication that Governor Walton was not without support in the house.

Reilly Predicts Fair Weather for Homecoming Game

Will it rain this Homecoming? This is one of the questions which every one has given some thought. Whether it be the girl who wants her hair marceled for Homecoming or her parents who want to drive 100 some miles to see the big game.

On the third Saturday of October for the last twenty-six years we have had only rain on seven of these Saturdays. This makes the chances four to one that it will not rain this year. It is imposible to predict this far ahead what the weather you happen to have one of these calendars that give the weather predictions one year ahead. Professor Reilly, of the Mathematics Department, said that in all probabilities it wouldn't rain this Homecoming but that definite predictions could not be made until the first of next week. After the Homecoming of last year it is only fair that we have a bright, dry Homecoming this year.

Yates, Register's Photographer, on Campus Yesterday

George Yates, well-known camera man of the Des Moines Register, was in town yesterday making pictures of various scenes about the campus. He came here for the purpose of making some pictures of the aviation field with its night flying equipment. But owing to the fact that no planes came to the field as was expected he resorted to the Iowa campus.

The chemistry department, the crowd on the park in Iowa avenue receiving the World Series report from The Daily Iowan office, and various scenes relative to homecoming were subjects upon which camera man turned his graflex.

Mr. Yates has covered every homecoming football game at Iowa for five years. Moreover, he has been a familiar figure on the field at all the other important games that have been played here in the last five years. In his picture making work here Mr. Yates has become very well acquainted with the students. He stated that he can recall more than two-thirds of the students by name.

Mr. Yates will be here Saturday to cover the Iowa-Purdue game. He stated further that the capital city was planning to send a large representation to Iowa City for Homecoming.

Iowa Alumnus Will Appear October 15

Issue Will Feature Iowa Homecoming

Weekly Magazine to Contain Story by Teeters, and History of "On Iowa"

The third issue of the Iowa Alumnus edited under the new plan, will appear Monday, October 15. Being a weekly magazine now, it features articles of events that have passed within the last week, or will happen during the coming week. Teeters, College of Pharmacy, who has followed the game for twenty five years and has been connected with the athletic board at different times during his teaching career, is an intensely interesting and enjoyable story which will be in this edition.

The history of "On Iowa," how it came to be composed, the trials and tribulations endured by its author, will be written by the author himself, W. R. Law, graduate of the College of Law. Everything of interest in athletics, by Fred Lazell, sports editor of the Iowan, a short close-up sketch of Coach Jones, by Francis J. Starzl, and numerous other features will be found in the third edition of the Iowa Alumnus.

Posses Searching Hills for Robbers

Crack San Francisco Train Looted by Holdup Men

Blow Open Safe in Mail Car; Explosion Sets Fire to Mail Coach

By The Associated Press

REDDIG, Calif., Oct. 11—Armed posses tonight are scouring the Siskiyou mountains on the Oregon-California state line for bandits who held up Southern Pacific south bound passenger train No. 13, this afternoon shot and killed three trainmen and blew open the mail car and a safe, killing a mail clerk. The robbers escaped into the mountains with an unknown amount of loot.

The dead are:

S. L. Bates, of Dunsmuir, Engineer.

Marvin Seng, of Redding, fireman.

C. O. Johnson, of Ashland, brakeman.

Edwards, mail clerk.

The robbery occurred as the train, the crack Southern Pacific San Francisco express was emerging from tunnel 13, south of Siskiyou on the state line 17 miles south of Ash-

The engine was about forty feet south of the tunnel entrance when an explosion blew away part of the roof of the tunnel and caused it to cave in on the train.

Two Men Participate

Two men participated in the robbery, according to advices received here. As the engine crew brought the train to a halt, these two advanced to the locomotive and ordered the engineer, fireman Johnson who was said to have been riding with them, although he was not on duty.

Bates and Seng are believed to have died within a short time.

Safe Blown Open

The bandits then ran to the mail car and blew open the door with a charge of dynamite, which ripped a gapping hole in the side of the conveyance, setting fire to it. This explosion is believed to have caused the death of mail clerk Edwards, the only occupant.

After gaining entrance to the car, the bandits are believed to have fired another charge of dynamite on the safe, containing valuable mail, blowing it open. They scooped up the contents and fled from the car, which was already burning.

As soon as the train stopped, conductor Marrett, who was in charge, started for the locomotive to investigate. He found Bates dead in the cab and Seng lying on the ground on the opposite side of the engine also dead. Johnson was dying.

Fire Extinguished

The train was pulled out of the tunnel and the fire in the mail car was extinguished.

Meanwhile, officers or Ashland, Oregon, and Redding and Yerka, Calif., had been notified of the holdup and shooting and a hurried call was sent for volunteers to form posses to search for the bandits.

DRAMATICS

'Liliom' is Drama Of Unusual Beauty

University Gets First Amateur Rights

The University Players are the first amateurs privileged in America to produce "Liliom", which will be given here November 7, 1923.

The play by Franz Molar will be different from anything the University Theatre has presented both in the nature of the play and the technique of its staging. When the Theatre Giuld produced it in New York, April 20, 1921 with Joseph Schildkraut in the leading role Ludwig Lewisohn, famous dramatic critic, called it their finest production. Alexander Woolcott said, "The current season has brought no play of richer and more complex humanity, and none of more poignant beauty than the fantastic thing called "Liliom" which has created a greater stampede to the Garrick's box office than any within the Theatre Giuld's experience."

The cast of characters which requires thirty-seven persons is almost complete, some are still to be named. The following have been in rehearsal several weeks:

Liliom—Walter Dalton, A4 Manson, Iowa.

Julie—Maurine Shaw, AU Des Moines, Iowa.

Marie—Helen France, A3 Lamona, Iowa.

Mrs. Muskrat—Vivian Gray, A4 Anowa, Iowa.

Louise—Loraine Luthmer, A2 Summer, Iowa.

Mrs. Hollunder—Dorothy McClenehan, A4 Des Moines.

Wolf Beifeld—Peter Jance, A3 Atlantic, Iowa.

The Carpenter—Issac Solman, A4 Iowa City, Iowa.

The Doctor—Paul Smith, A2 Rock Rapids, Iowa.

The Magistrate—Gordon Johnston A3 Des Moines.

Two Policemen of the Beyond—Paul Smith and Gordon Johnston.

Servent Girls—Katherine Cox, A2 Rock Rapids, Iowa, Frances Ryan, A2 Sioux City, Iowa, Isabel Kime, A3 Fort Dodge, Iowa, Alice Timberman, A3 Massena, Iowa.

Dean Kay In Talk To High Students

Speaks on Education and Its Meaning to I. C. H. S.

Dean George F. Kay of the college of liberal arts spoke to the Iowa City high school assembly on Wednesday morning. The subject of his talk was "Education and What It Means."

He impressed upon the minds of the students that while there are many things which seem to be more valuable, after all education is the one thing which cannot be taken away. By mentioning the number of illiterates and literates in both the towns and country of our nation he gave proof of the fact that the necessity for an education is becoming more universally recognized.

Women's Gym Work To Begin Monday

Volley and Basketball Will Replace Fieldball and Soccer

All regular gymnasium class work for women students will begin Monday, October 15, it is announced by Mrs. Marion Lyon Schwob, head of the department of physical education.

Contrary to annoucements made earlier in the week, there will be no outdoor work this fall. This announcement comes as a disappointment to all those interested in field ball and soccer, but it is hoped that the formation of volley ball teams, heretofore not a part of regular gym work, will take the place of these games. W. A. A. points will be granted any girl gaining a place on a volleyball team. Immediately following the volley ball season basketball will commence. For the time being all freshman girls must take regular floor work. Sophomore girls will be given a choice between floor work, swimming, folk dancing or aesthetic dancing. Freshmen women may, however, enter an electrve swimming class and gain W. A. A. points in this manner.

Girls will report to classes wearing the regulation gymnasium costume, says Mrs. Schwob. This costume consists of the following articles: an all white long sleeved middy blouse, a pair of black wool plaited bloomers, black cotton hose, and a pair of regulation gym shoes. All middies must be provided with a black lacer. Each girl should have two middies and two pairs of hose.

Delta Chi Installs Chapter at Ames

Iowa Chapter Members To Attend Ceremony

Kau Ki Fraternity Given Charter at Convention; Are Now Twenty-Five Chapters

An event of interest to local Greeks occurs this week end with the installation of the twenty-fifth chapter of Delta Chi at Ames. Six years ago the Hau Ki fraternity was formed at Ames. At the annual convention of Delta Chi at Trout-Colo., last August the petition of Hau Ki was accepted. Installation ceremonies will begin at 6:00 o'clock this morning and continue until midnight Saturday.

Several members of the local chapter went to Ames last night to take part in the installation ceremonies. These men are James Treneman Cm4 of Ottumwa, Ivan J. Klingaman A4 of Vinton, Donald C. Shelby M3 of Dubuque, Peter W. Janss Cm3 of Atlantic, Basil M. Barrett A4 of Newton and Robert D. Watland A3 of New Sharon.

Delta Chi was organized at Cornell university in 1890. There are now twenty-five active chapters and twenty-five alumni chapters. Only three chapters have been added to the last eight years. Wisconsin was granted a chapter in 1921. Chapters were installed at Kansas and Columbia in 1923. Among those asking permission to petition Delta Chi are Syracuse, Idaho, Indiana and Florida.

The first installation team is made up of Henry McGurren of Chicago, O. K. Patton of Des Moines, John Harshman of Dayton, Ohio, John Grover of Kansas City, Mo. Other officers who will substitute for these men are Delos P. Shull of Sioux City, Samson Lindauer of Los Angeles, M. E. Cornelius of New York and Duke Maher of Cherokee, Iowa. The installation ceremonies will close with a banquet at six o'clock Saturday evening.

Forget-Me-Nots To Be Sold On Day of Michigan Game

Forget-me-not day, now an annual and national event, will take place in Iowa City on Saturday, November 3, the day of the game with Michigan. Acting Governor Hammill has isued a state proclamation and Mayor Emma Harvat, a city proclamation setting this day aside to secure funds for the disabled veterans. Arrangements for Iowa City are in charge of a committee of six with Clement F. Mullen, a graduate of last year's law class and member of the firm of Evans and Wilson, as chairman.

The committee hopes to dispose of 10,000 forget-me-nots this year and with the enlarged crowd in town on November 3, is confident that it can.

Clubs Plan Prizes For Homecoming

Floats and House Decorations To Be Judged By Local Men

As in former years, the men's clubs throughout the city have been invited to supplement homecoming this fall by giving prizes to the best float in the homecoming parade, and to the sororities and fraternities having the most effectively decorated houses. While the final decision regarding this project will not be announced for several days, indications are that plans will be similar to those followed last year.

The Rotarian club committee which awarded the prize of fifteen dollars for the best float in the 1922 homecoming parade included Dr. Bundy Allen, Harold Hands and F. X. Freyder. The prize was given to Alpha Gamma Phi sorority whose float was decorated in white with yellow chrysanthemum trimmings.

Sigma Pi, Kappa Sigma and Delta Tau Delta fraternities were each awarded a prize of five dollars for the best decorated houses by a Kiwanis committee consisting of Geo. Koeser, Thomas Davis and Rufus McKnight.

Ralph White, Robert Lorenz and "Punch" Dunkel, the members of the Lions club committee, awarded prizes of five dollars apiece to the Alpha Delta Pi and Delta Gamma sororities, for houses decorated with crests and yellow balloons.

At a meeting of each of the clubs, which will take place soon, the plans for this homecoming will be finally discussed and prizes will be decided upon.

Extension Division Sends Out 10,000 Bulletins to Alumni

The extension division of the university has just recently sent out over 10,000 service bulletins to Iowa alumni telling them about homecoming October 20. The bulletins have a great deal of valuable information in them concerning roming facilities, railway rates, tickets and a schedule of events.

The headquarters will be in a tent on Old Capitol campus near ashington street. It is here that the visitors are invited to register, secure badges, apply for asignment to rooms and check bags and parcels. Cars are to call at headquarters and at the Jefferson hotel at frequent intervals Friday afternoon and Saturday morning to carry guests upon informal trips about the city and campus.

The Triangle club and the University club are both to give receptions. The Chamber of Commerce will give its annual luncheon. Besides this bulletin the extension division has also issued program giving each event and the time it is to take place. Small yellow tags, made like the homecoming seals, are also to be distributed to all the alumni.

Chapter Lays Plans for Year's Work

New Chapter Officers Are Elected; Act on Resignation

At a meeting of University P. E. O. in the liberal arts drawing room at four o'clock Wednesday afternoon, extensive plans for the year were made and action was taken upon the resignation of Miss Roberta Anderson A4 of Madrid, who served the chapter as president for the past year. Helen Crabbe A4 of New London was elected president for the coming year. Grace Lambert of Cedar Falls was elected vice-president, Katherine Van Der Ver, treasurer; and Winifred Rogers, secretary.

University P. E. O. is composed of all P. E. O.s who come to the University from differen chapters throughout the country. The chapter was first organized in 1921 by Marjorie Graham, who realized the advantages of having such an organization on the campus.

The organization will meet once every month at the various sorority houses and private homes of the members, this plan having been found most successful in previous years. Chapter E has kept in close touch with the university chapter, and is hostess to it for one meeting each year.

Engineers to Build Arch and Sign; Will Raise Money For Band

The first monthly smoker of the Associated Students of Applied Science was held Wednesday evening, October 10, in the students rooms of the engineering building. Plans were made for engineering activities for homecoming. The usual signs will be placed on engineering hall and the physics building and an arch will be erected spanning Washington street between the two buildings. There will also be a monument placed somewhere in the busines district, although the exact location and kind has not been definitely decided upon.

The engineers were organized into groups to help in the work of putting over a drive to raise money for additional uniforms for the university band. Drum Major Dushinske, representing the university band, was assured of the support of all engineers in making this a success.

Each month during the entire year the Associated Students of Applied Science will hold a smoker. Ralph Platzer S4 of Iowa City, chairman of the committee, promises new and different forms of entertainment every month. Refreshments were served at the close of the evening.

Photographic Club Meets Tonight in Old Science Hall

Ladd, graduate assistant in the geology department, and who was asistant manager of the club last year is now general manager, following the rules of the club which state "that the assistant manager for one year will act as general manager for the following year."

List of Official Chaperones Will Be Announced Next Week

All fraternities and sororities on the campus are anxiously waiting for the aproved lists of chaperones to be completed. Yesterday morning was the dead line set for the various organizations to hand in their lists of desired chaperones.

The committee which has this in charge will not meet until next week and until then the aproved list will not be made public. The university socal regulations require that all parties for both men and women must be chaperoned, the official chaperons to be selected from the approved list and reported to the dean of women's office at least two days before the date of the party.

Copies of Theses Now to Be Kept in University Library

It was decided at a meeting of the graduate council Tuesday afternoon that all candidates for degrees should make a carbon copy of their theses and deposit it in addition to the original copy in the University library. This action was made necessery by the frequency of calls for the use of the copies of unpublished these by the departments and for investigation elsewhere:

Where books exist only in single manuscript it is impossible to let them be taken out of the library. At the present time there are numerous requests for the use of such copies which makes the necessity of the carbon copy doubly urgent. This decision is of great importance to those who are now writing theses.

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 12

LOOKING BACK 1000 YEARS HENCE

THE cholar said this to the youth. "We have not yet discovered the elixir of life, but these truths are certain. The authority of divine revelation is superior to knowledge from experience. Man was specially created to rule over this flat earth about which the universe revolves. Man should worship a monothestic god, the Christ ,the Virgin, the Trinity, and the catalogue of saints. The Church rightfully exercises all spiritual and temporal power. Marriage is an unholy necessity. Kings are divinely authorized to rule, vassals to obey, and peasants to slave. Feudalism and the manorial systemn feed and clothe the common man better than was done under the Roman Empire or, indeed, can be done under any conceivable system." That was one thousand years ago.

Yesterday an educated man asserted this: "Although the biologist cannot thoroughly explain life, this much is certain. Man is rational, progresive, unprejudiced animal alertly and farsightedly regulating his conduct in society. Christ was not a socialist or a pacifist. He was an efficiency expert who sold the world on a splendid religion possessing the unique features of brotherly love, eternal rewards and punishments, sin, aboslution, prayer, and miracles. Monogamous sexual relations biologically authorized. The American nation is the richest, most powerful, best educated, honorable, and moral society in the world. Wars are fought to defend your and my national honor. As long as the brainy man and the moron are born we will have the surfeited rich and the starving poor. The courts administer justice with democratic equality. Constitutional, federal republicanism is the only practical government for us. The preponderance of good in our present economic system quite outweighs that in any other yet conceived plan."

What the scholar said one thousand years ago has been largely proven untrue. He was wrong about a great many things. From that we may infer that much of what the modern man so positively asserts is right is really wrong. The historical probabilities are all against most of our current beliefs being right. The world has not been finished in the twentieth century, Anno Domini. Time will make us look like ignorance. One thousand years hence our knowledge will be the laughing stock of school boys. Th only non-ridiculous dogma that we can accept is that what in our three score and ten years of life seems eternally permanent will most certainly change.

Perfection is eternal stagnation. Yet faith in the perfection of our present institutions and ideas is most prevalent. We should cease prating about our own achievements. Most of them will look to our descendants as the invention of the stone hatchet does to us. Ninety percent of our speechifying and sixty percent of our writing either is spent in praise of our very fault but improvable world or is based on the assumption of the excellence of this very muddled planet. We do not need any eulogizing crusades. We must stop patting ourselves on the back. The inherent egotism of the man brute will magnify, justify, and heroizes him without social aid.

By breaking down egotistic preoccupations and prejudices, we can help change to hasten along. Think freely, question everything, criticise the godly and ungodly, the fool and the sophist.

A MUSICAL FESTIVAL FOR 1926
Philadelphia Public Ledger

THE variety and the spontaneity of the suggestions for the appropriate commemoration, in 1926, of the first century and a half of our national life reveal the depth and sincerity of the popular feeling that the celebration ought to take the form of an appraisal and a demonstration of the progress made in the last 150 years in science, industry, and the cultural arts and pastimes of the people. One of these proposals which deserves to be stressed is the opportunity the anniversary will afford for a great music festival, in which the great orchestras, the famous singers and instrumental soloists, the military and concert bands of America can unite in a series of concerts that will mark a new era in our musical growth.

This country, following the lead of England, has chosen music on more than one noteworthy occasion as the medium of expression in moments of deep feeling. There are many today who can recall, perhaps even some who were privileged to take part in the Boson Peace Jubilees of the late sixties and early seventies, when the hearts of the auditors were deeply stirred by the concourse of sweet sounds from thousands of voics and instruments.

There is little danger today that in the planning for a music festival that the mere volume of sound will be substituted for quality, or that the occasion will fail to emphasize the importance and value of the achievements and the talents of American composers and musicians. Great opera performances, symphony concerts by the picked virtuosi of the land, organ recitals and even massed-band concerts offer opportunities that should appeal to the Sesqui-Centennial managers as features that would contribute to the making of a commemoration on new lines and of lasting benefit as a landmark in our cultural progress.

GAMMA PHI PLEDGES WILL MANAGE SALE
(The Daily Iowan)

The sale of the Homecoming edition of Frivol, according to James R. Gatewood L2 of Marion, will be handled by Gamma Phi Beta sorority. Each of the tweny-seven pledges is to be given a chance to prove her mettle.

The announcement bears comment. At last the mystery of why so many were pledged has cleared.

The number has apparently dwindled to twenty-seven now. There were twenty-nine. Evidently our prediction that the more docile ones would be soon initiated in order to help manage the A1's was not mere thin air.

What will Theta Sigma Phi say to such trespassing upon her pastures. But, now we ponder upon it, that organization has been almost absorbed by Gamma Phi, hasn't it?

TO GRACE

My lady, you are perfect.
You are not of the common, earthly clay,
But, of the gifts of Venus and Minerva,
Lavishly bestowed, you are possessed,
Let others, passionate, of fickle beauties boast.
Their raucous and servile cries I scorn.
Of one divine, I, suppliant, sing.
Whose flashing eyes my very soul do pierce.
Whose queenly countenance no man can e'er forget.
I am not worthy of thy favor, perfect one.
No man can ever hope to be. But I,
With tremulous voice shall sing thy praise,
O Lady Fair.

IOWA UNIVERSITY MUSEUM ENRICHED BY VALUABLE GRUNT
(Head from Des Moines Register)

Eavesdropping unwittingly last night while walking home we hear these words from a pretty co-ed who preceded us, "You know, some girls like football but I don't. I'm crazy about baseball. I knew a fellow on the St. Ansgar team last summer.

The announcement in SPORTOTORIAL several days ago that four of the men on the Knox team were Betas while three were Phi Gams leads us to a guess that perhaps there are but two fraternities at Knox. How about that Mac Rae?

The Banana song has hit the Teutons we learn. Germany has added the words, "Oder Gestern" to the title. Translated the new title is, "Yes, we have no bananas today or yesterday."

The announcement that twenty hens have laid 3406 eggs in Pennsylvania leaves us cold. What's more should any such announcement be made in Iowa we would still be unmoved.

A quotation from a story by SEVENTEEN in the Des Moines Register runs, "There was something for people of every age—from milk for the baby to a marble slab for grandfather.

COMMISSION STUDIES WHEAT SITUATION; TOURS NORTHWEST URGING CO-OPERATION

A comprehensive study of the wheat situation with a view toward stimulating the handling of the surplus and relieving the farmers raising it, is being made in the northwestern states by a committee appointed by President Coolidge. Eugene Meyer, Jr., managing director of the war finance corporation, is acting as the president's personal representative on the committee. The formation of co-operative associations by raisers is being urged by the members.

The answer to the question, "Are things valuable because we desire them, or do we desire them because they are valuable," might likewise be a reason for the great soaring in the price of first editions. Is it because the works of our modern authors are so meritorious or is it because so many people who find pleasure in their books derive it from collecting first editions? Whatever the reason may be the price for first editions has gone to such a height that for those of modest means it is almost impossible to whet their desire for these rare treasures. The carual, or amateur connoisleur of first editions leaves the possession of first folios, rare Bibles, firsts of Burns, and other excessively costly items, such as a $25.000 Gutenberg to men of fortunes; but now it seems impossible to secure even a first edition of our modern writers for anything like a moderate price. The Storrs Book Shop lists a first edition of Mrs. Eddy's "Science and Health' at $750, a third at $400, and a seventh at $150. Two of Joseph Hergesheimer's first editions are listed at $68 each, while a first Joseph Conrad is priced at $80. Such prizes are hardly within the average reader's reach.

The following item appeared in a recent issue of book review supplement of the Chicago Daily News:

Some interesting observations on word-runs are made by Dr. Ernest Horn of the University of Iowa, who has been studying the vocabulary of vox pop and amicus populi columns in the press. He finds that every current topic starts a run on certain words, frequently rare ones. Prohibition, for instance, has vox-popularized "bigot, beverage, booze and bunghole." Dr. Van Horn notes also a curious interrelation between the vox pop and editorial columns. The note of the vox poppers is often one of protest, but they become articulate in verbiage culled from the editorial columns. Ye ed and the vox poppers may fight tooth and nail, but they are linked like the Kilkenny cats by a common vocabulary.

We fancy that the methods applied by Dr. Horn to this humble scene might profitably be applied to the vox critica of the country. The cant terms of this or that "movement," the pet words of this or that lit-ry leader run wild everywhere. One sees reviewers who seem to order their season's vocabulary from New York, and the ideas, apparently, are thrown in with the vocabulary.

Jaffery Farnol, author of "Sir John Deering,' a book recently published by the Brown, Little & Company, will arrive shortly in America for a prolonged visit. It is curious to note that this is Mr. Farnol's second visit and that his first was for the purpose of witnessing the Dempsey-Carpentier fight. Evidently he was favorably impressed regardless of the more general opinion held in regard to championship decision.

Mary Johnston, whose last historical romance, "1492," gave the story of the discovery of America, has written a novel, "Croatan," about Sir Walter Raleigh's colony at Jamestown, Va. The fate of that colony, which vanished without leaving behind a clue as to what had befallen it, is one of the unsolved mysteries of history. Out of a rich imagination Mary Johnston has constructed an account of what became of the colonists and of beautiful Virginia Dare, the first white child born in the colony. "Croatan" will be published on October 27th by Little, Brown & company.

University Alumnus Worker in Armenia

Addie Harris '16 Returns to Aid of Refugees in Corfu

Miss Addie Harris, B. A. '16 of Mason City, left Iowa City the first part of this week to return to her field of work abroad. Miss Harris will be well remembered by professors and instructors of history, having taken her major in that department.

Following her graduation in 1916, Miss Harris left for a teaching position in North Dakota. From there she sailed for Asia Minor, serving in the capacty of educator and missionary. During the first years of her stay at Adena, Cilicia, Miss Harris worked under church auspices, doing extensive missionary and social work among the natives. It was while the young woman was stationed at Adena that the Turkish forces came in and made an attack on the city. Throughout the seige and following upon Miss Harris' shoulders fell the responsibility of caring for the many refugees.

After a few years here Miss Harris removed to Corfu, where she became connected with the American branch of the near east relief. One interesting feature about this organization is the fact that their headquarters in Corfu are located in Kaiser Wilhelm's palace which was confiscated by the Greeks at the time of the war. The name of "Corfu" has become increasingly significant in the last half year. It was here that Mussolini executed his coup d-etat, and this city, the one that the Italians captured and held. Miss Harris has at present in Corfu direct charge of 500 Armenian orphans.

While attending the university, Miss Harris won a Phi Beta Kappa key.

Horses Unavailable For Making W. A. A. Points This Year

Girls who plan to take horseback riding this fall in order to make the fifty points required for entrance into W. A. A. will be disappointed, for it has been impossible to secure the use of the cavalry horses. Evelyn Harter A3, who is in charge of the sport, annouces that she has been unable to make the necessary arrangements. In the spring, however, the horses will be available and all girls intersted in riding will be given an opportunity to sign up.

Although University girls will not be able to ride, they may win W. A. A. points by swimming, hiking, making first teams, or by paddling a canoe a certain number of times to Coralville and back.

Several Students Are Now Confined To Hospital Beds

Few students have been reported as being seriously ill at the University hospital. Donald Furrer S4 of Osceola who was being treated for tonsilitis has been removed to the isolation hospital because his case has developed into diphtheria. Last Friday Furrer reported to the hospital with a sore throat, although his case is not a light one he is feeling much better today, according to the report of the doctor in charge.

Three other students, Donald Mabee M2 of New Providence, Ralph Loss and Norris Hekel M2 of Winthrop have not had their cases diagnosed as yet. Hekel became an occupant last Sunday; Ralph Loss came in yesterday and Mabee reported his case of sickness Monday.

Must Enroll Today In Dental R. O. T. C.

One Year In Basic Course Pre-Requisite for Advanced Course

Today is the last day on which members of the college of dentistry may enroll in the dental unit of the reserve officers' training corps. Those having enrollment cards should turn them in to Maj. Titus, medical department, U. S. A., at his office in the hospital annex, or to Miss Otto, secretary to Dean Breene in the dental building. Those desiring to enroll may obtain cards at either of these places.

Major Titus states that it is very essential that freshmen who are contemplating entering the advanced course next year should enroll in the basic course this year as this is a prerequisite for the advanced course. It has been necessary this year to turn down the applications of several men for the advanced course due to the fact that they failed to take the basic course last year.

This is the last opportunity that sophomores will have to enroll in the advanced course of the dental unit.

Van Doren Picks 54 Candidates for University Band

Saxophone and Cornet Players of Ability Are Needed

TWENTY NEW UNIFORMS HAVE BEEN ORDERED

Money for Uniforms Will Be Obtained by Solicitation

A tentative selection of this year's band members has been made by Director O. E. Van Doren, the selections numbering fifty-four men. More will be added from time to time as the men show ability in tryouts. Several more positions are open at present in the saxaphone and cornet sections.

Twenty new uniforms will be ordered Saturday, making nearly seventy-five in the band's possesion.

The Iowa band, contrary to the custom at many other Universities, has never had a pin or other distinguishing mark to wear with civilian clothes. Such a plan would be the equivalent to awarding I-sweaters, but unless the bands coffers are more nearly filled in the future than they have been in the past, the money they must habe must be spent for more utilitarian purposes.

The men chosen for the band are: Clarinets, George Waln A2 of Cedar Rapids, L. H. Brown S2 of Keokuk, E. G. Barton, W. D. Swanson S2 of Webster City, L. Dimond S2 of Glidden, R. D. Col. Harvey Plans To Eat Thanksgiving Turkey in Vermont

LONDON, Oct. 1 (AP)—American Ambassador George Harvey plans to say farewell to Royalty at the court of St. James in time to eat Thanksgiving turkey and pumkin pie at Peachmam, Vt., his home town. His sailing date depends upon the time of King George's return to London, but otherwise the retiring ambassador is winding up his affairs preparatory to his home-going.

Yesterday in accordance with custom, his portrait, painted by Howard Chandler Christy, was hung in a prominent place in the embassy along with those of his predecessors. Mr. Harvey's picture wich is placed between those of the late Joseph E. Choate and the late White Law Reid, is unique in that it is the embassy's first canvass of an ambassador done by an American artist.

SPORTATORIALS

Here's the best gentlemen's agreement we've heard of for some time.

A certain member of the football team and a certain member of the basketball team who by design or otherwise happen to be interested in the same "sweet thing" and who are members of the same fraternity are the perpetuators of the act.

When the football season is on the gridiron man secures a pass so that the basketball man can take the "sweet young thing" to the football games. When the basketball season is on the basketball man gets a pass so the football man can take the "s.y.t." to the basketball games.

Is that brotherly love? We'll say it is.

WOMAN ASSISTANT POSTMASTER AT INDIANAPOLIS

Miss Ella H. Snyder.

Miss Ella H. Snyder was recently appointed assistant postmaster in the Indianapolis, Ind., office. She is said to be the first woman to hold this position in a firstclass office.

If you have been to Cedar Rapids this week you know what's the biggest channel of discussion in the Parlor City. If Coe had the number of students which Iowa has Cedar Rapids would probably have been the scene of another Iowa-Yale victory celebration. The game certainly took Cedar Rapids by storm. It was also a great moral victory for Eby's eleven.

Freshmen Nurses Initiated Into The Training School

Collapsible bridges, shaking the clammy hands of ghosts, and finally with blinds removed to behold an illuminated ghost was part of the ceremony imposed Monday night by the Nurse's training organization on the freshman nurses who entered the nurse's training school at the beginning of last year's second semester.

The freshmen to be initiated met at Nurse's Home No. 2 and were then directed to the University hospital. From there they were escorted through the tunnel connecting the hospital with East Lawn Nurse's Home. This tunnel was the abode of most of the ghosts encountered.

In the dining room at East Lawn the freshmen were the victims of various stunts. A very humorous nurse's pledge was taken by each freshman. This was followed by a real Florence Nightengale nurse's pledge. Several musical numbers were given. After partaking of light refreshments the nurses left for their homes where, in honor of the party, the nine o'clock rule was not strictly enforced.

Miss Elsie Remley, assistant librarian at the loan desk in the university library has sent in her resignation which took effect October first, and has accepted a similar position at the Iowa State Teachers college at Cedar Falls, Iowa. The position vacated by Mis Remley has not been filled permanently as yet.

Included in this number are some of the best freshman natators who have ever entered the university, and prospects for a good first year team are excellent acording to coach Luken.

Promising Candidates

Some of the most promising candidates were Charles E. Stewart of Superior Wisconsin, dash man; David R. Aiswang of Chicago who swims the dashes, formerly competing for Crane Junior College, Morse B. Lake 246 pound plunger of Shenandoah, who established a New England collegiate record while swimming of Dartmouth, J. C. McClintock of Iowa City who placed second in the national inter-scholastic high school meet at Chicago last winter, and Herbert B. It is planned to have a freshman varsity meet every Saturday throughout the year. Thes meets will be held for the purpose of testing the men under competition.

SPORTOTORIAL

By Mac Rae

While sports scribes are writing gobs upon gobs about football teams and the coaches of those teams these days it should not be forgotten that there are other athletic employees of state universities and colleges who are doing a great work.

These are the directors of physical education, that subject so genially hated by perhaps fifty percent of each incoming freshman class.

Their names and the result of their contests are not spread in bold letters over eight columns of newspaper space per Saturday. Neither do they draw a check comparable to that of the president of the institution for which they are working; nor are the men with whom they work heroes in the public eye.

Nevertheless they are doing a great work and making a valuable contribution to physical welfare. True, the men whom they instruct do not make 70 yard runs for a touchdown or flying tackles for a 10 yard loss; but they do improve and they improve not by the team but by the hundreds. Many a puny, round-shouldered, water-scared freshman is made into an erect, sparkling piece of manhood as a result of the training received in the physical education department. Others who were literally afraid of water before entering the University or college have been able to rescue their schoolmates from a possible drowning at some summer resort as a result of their swimming instruction while in the University or college. And by others, a first and second team composed of eleven men is not signified; but rather some hundreds and in some cases thousands of individuals.

Down at South Bend, Knute Rochne has been keeping his charges working until dusk and sometimes later. The ghost ball has already been brought into play on the Irish gridiron. Rochne must be figuring on a strenuous time when he meets the Army eleven at West Point, Saturday.

Many sports followers who have seen Fry in action this year declare that he somewhat reminds them of Martineau, the Minnesota all-Western halfback. Fry is not as tall as "Monty" but he has a similar style of passing and running. The style is certainly commendable.

The old maxim "give credit to whom credit is due," is certainly in order for those coaches who are producing championship football teams. No one will deny that. But it is likewise and equally due to the physical training instructors throughout the country who are laboring to build up a better American physique.

According to information reaching here from Wisconsin Badger backers are hoping for a much better showing when their team meets the Michigan Aggies this week-end. If Wisconsin should lose this week it would be almost out of championship consideration even though it would have yet to play its first conference game.

Cubs Win Second City Series Game

White Sox Lose Again to Northsiders

Aldridge Pitches Air Tight Ball For Seven Innings; Weakens at Last

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Oct. 11—The National Leagues made it two straight over the Americans in the Chicago series today when the Cubs won the second game of the set from the sox, 4 to 3.

Vic Aldridge, pitched air tight and was afforded brilliant support for seven innings, but after yielding two runs in the eighth and passing Mostil, first up in the ninth, he was removed in favor of Russell Hollis Thurston toiled the route for the Sox and was hit hard in spots. The Cubs scored in the first inning, shoving over a single tally on Grantham's double, an infield out and a single by Friberg.

In the fourth National Leaguers added two more markers. Hartett singled with one out, took second on a wild pitch by Thurston and came home when Aldridge smashed a single to center. Statz got a two bagger past McClellan, putting Aldridge on third and the Cub pitcher scored on Adam's sacrifice fly to Falk.

Score Again in Sixth

Consecutive singles by Aldridge and Statz with two out, and Collins' fumble of Adam's grounder gave the Cubs their fourth run in the sixth session.

It was in the seventh inning that the American leaguers scored their first one. McClellan, first up, doubled and rode home on infield singles by Crouse and Thurston.

Fighting hard the Sox managed to pull up to within one run of the Cubs with a two run attack in the eighth. Collins singled,a triple by Barrett and Kamm's two bagger sent the runs over.

Schalk Throws Dust

In the second inning, catcher Ray Schalk of the Americans was chased from the game for throwing a handful of dust at Umpire Ormsby in protesting a close decision in which Schalk was called out at second.

The scene of activities will shift to the Cub's Park, home of the National leaguers tomorrow. Total attendance today 18,962; receipts, $16,823; commission's share, $2,523.45; player's pool $8,577.77; each club's share, $2,859.91.

Iowa Net Team To Open Season With Coe Outfit

Play First Match of Season Saturday

COE BOASTS STRONG SEXTET OF PLAYERS

Personnel of Iowa Team Still Uncertain; No Charge For Matches

The Iowa tennis team will pry the lid off the fall practice season Saturday at 10 a. m. when Coe college invades the local courts. The crimson net men are represented by a powerful aggregation this fall, several star freshmen players having added materially to the strength of their team. Included in this list is Paul Mitchell of Cedar Rapids who held the high school state championship in 1922, having been defeated by Gordon Phillips in the high school tourney held in Iowa City last spring. Phillips is now a member of the university freshman squad. Captain Donald Beeson, Marshall town city champion is another of the Kohawks who ranks among the best in the state and who will bear the brunt of his teams attack. Beeson and Mitchell compose a powerful doubles team which will give any Iowa palr a strenous argument. Reports from Cedar Rapids state that the crimson racketeers have been practicing for three weeks for the Iowa match, and are already in mid-season form.

Personel In Doubt

The personel of the Iowa team is still in doubt, but tryouts will be completed by today, and the men who will enter the fray against Coe will be announced by Coach Jacob Van Der Zee tomorrow. Captain Ted Swensen, finalist in the state tournament this summer, John Dorsey and Glenn MacLoughlin regulars last year are certain to start against Coe, but the remaining three men are as yet undetermined. Lawrence Briercly, winner of the freshman tournament, Robert Chaffee, Julius Swartz, James Lutz, Howard Gordon, Marshall Kay and Vincent O'Neil have all shown up well in early workouts and just who will receive the call is as yet not known.

Coe Brings Six

Coe is bringing a team of six men, which will necessitate six singles matches and three double matches being played. The matches will start at 10 o'clock Saturday morning and will be free of charge, being played on the courts east of the men's gym.

Quad Courts Ready

The courts at the Quadrangle are in good condition and are in daily use. These courts are not for the use of Quadrangle men alone but may be used by any student in the University. They are taken care of by the Athletic Department just as are the courts on the east side of the river.

Harry Greb Loses Decision To Tommy Loughran at Boston

BOSTON, Oct. 11 (AP)—Tommy Loughran, of Philadelphia was awarded the decision over Harry Greb, world's middle-weight champion, after a ten round bout here tonight. The men fought at catch weights and the title was not at stake. Loughran weighed 166 pounds and Greb 168.

Daniels, fresh from a hard but interesting summer's work, has shown his other team mates and certain members of the varsity eleven that he is no greenling. He was the outstanding man on the first year team the other night. Perhaps he has designs on being another "Duke." He has a good start that way.

Beebe Individual Point Winner in Freshman Tourney

Scores Most Points in Meet

Only Six Events Run Off Yesterday; Finish Contest Today

Three former high school stars, Everingham of Fort Madison; Beebe of Hampton, and Swaney of Fort Dodge, who made good records in the interscholastic meet here last spring, demonstrated their ability to continue to repeat on the University freshmen track team, in the first section of the anuual freshmen track meet held yesterday afternoon on Iowa field.

Beebe High Scorer

In the events completed yesterday afternoon Beebe of Hampton was high-point man with a total of thirteen by winning the 120 yd. high hurdles, second in the 100 yd. dash, and second in the broad jump. Everingham, Fort Madison's sensational sprinter at the high school meet here last spring, pressed Beebe by a close second with ten points, winning first in the 100 yard dash and first in the broad jump. Swaney was third with a total of eight points, by taking first in the quarter mile, and third in the Century.

Only six events, the 120 yd. high hurdles, 100 yd. dash, pole vault, 440 yd. dash, mile run, and the broad jump, were run off yesterday afternoon. The remainder of the competitions will be completed this afternoon. They are the 220 yd. low hurdles, 220 yd. dash, and half-mile run, two-mile run, high jump, shot put, discus throw, hammer throw, and javelin throw.

Five places are awarded, and the winners receive special medals of gold, silver and bronze, besides a track numeral, instead of merely a ribbon trophy as has merely been the custom. In addition, the high point winner will be presented with a statuette modled after those given winners of the Olympic games held at Antwerp in 1920.

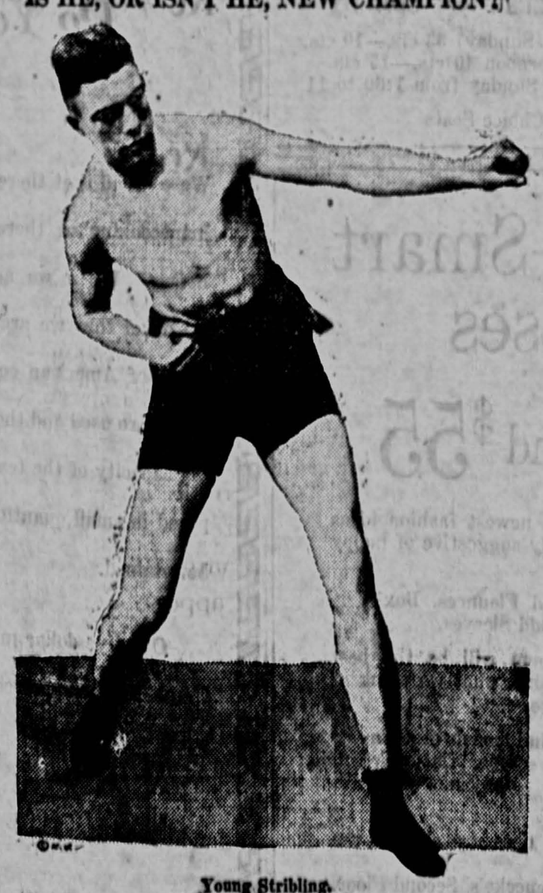
IS HE, OR ISN'T HE, NEW CHAMPION?



Young Stribling.

Neither Young Stribling of Macon, Ga., nor the boxing world knows today just where the former stands in pugilistic circles. He's the victim of "one of those things." Stribling fought Mike McTigue, holder of the world's light heavyweight championship, in Columbus, Ga., the other day. Harry Ertle, nationally known referee, officiated. The bout went the limit. Ertle called it a draw. Later he reversed his decision, giving Stribling the bout and title. Then, reversing it again, he called the bout a draw. Ertle says threats on his life caused him to make the first reversal.

Pennock's victorous performance was all the more remarkable in the face of the accident in the fourth inning when he was struck on the side and painfully hurt by the first ball pitched by Bentley. Pennock fell to the ground, writhing in agony, and it required several minutes work upon him before he was able to walk to first base.

Yanks Get 10 Hits

The Yankees gathered ten hits off McQuillan and Bentley, only one more than the Giants collected off Pennock, but the blows of the American leaguers were of the more solid variety. Both clubs hit hard sporadically and Ruth was not the only one to gain home run glory.

Aaron Ward, black haired second sacker, who played an excellent all-around game, scored the first run in the second inning with a booming clout to the upper tier of the left field grand stand. In the Giant's half of the inning, Irish Meusel tied the score with a duplicate smash.

McQuillan Is Relieved

Ruth's first monumental smash opened the fourth inning but the Yankees increased their advantage to two runs when Pipp singled, went to third as "Pep" Young juggled Schang's smash and scored on Scott's drive to center. That blow ended McQuillan's stay on the mound. Assuming the rescue role, Bentley filled the bases by hitting Pennock, but then settled down to retire the side by forcing Witt to fly out.

After Ruth's second homer in the fifth—A clout that brought the Babe one of the most thunderous ovations he has ever been accorded—Bob Meusel got to second when Young mis-handled his single, but Pipp and Ward were easy for Bentley.

In the sixth a grand rally was checked after the last inning of the game, it looked as if the tide of battle was about to turn when Groh, Frisch and Young opened with successive line-singles, the third sacker scoring on Young's blow, but here the Yankee defense stiffened behind Pennock's cool boxwork.

Yanks Protest Vehemently

With Young on first and Frisch on third, Irish Meusel drove a grounder to Scott, who tossed to Ward with an extra double play in sight. Young was forced out but in driving he upset Ward and blocked the throw to first. It was the signal for a vehement protest by the Yankees. It was something of the irony of fate that the next Giant batter, hit directly to Scott and this time, the double play went through and the Giant sortie was ended.

The Giants had another chance to break through in the eighth, when Young and Irish Meusel singled with two down, but Gowdy, batting for Cunningham, skied out to Witt. The champions went out in order in the ninth.

Given Another Chance

In the Yankee half of the ninth, Dugan paved the way for Ruth's turn at bat with a double.

Once the Babe swung and missed; next a ball, then the crack of wood and leather and a mighty shout. Astonishingly high and far out to center flew the ball, but under it settled Casey Stengel, hero of yesterday, who had come back for just one inning of play, and finis was written for the mighty deeds for the day.

The following is a summarized ball by ball report of the second game of the world's series at the polo grounds Thursday.

First Inning

Fourth Inning

Yankees. Ruth got a home run over the right field stand. Meusel fanned. Pipp singled into right. Ward popped out to Kelly. Schang hit a hot single into right field. Pipp going to third. Young fumbled the ball and got an error on the play. Pipp scored on Scott's single to centerfield. Schang went to second. Bentley relieved McQuillan on the mound. Pennock was hit by a pitched ball. He fell to the ground, his face contorted with pain and the players of both clubs gathered around him. The crowd cheered when he arose to his feet and limped to first base. The bases were full. Witt flied out to Cunningham. Two runs, four hits, one error.

Giants. Ward threw out Meusel. Cunningham flied out to Ruth. Kelly struck out.

Fifth Inning

Sixth Inning

Yankees. Bancroft got Schang at first. Scott got a single past Bancroft. Pennock hit into a double play, Bancroft to Frisch to Kelly.

Frisch singled into left and Groh went to third. Groh scored when Young singled into left, Firsch halted at second. Meusel forced Young, Scott to Ward. Frisch went to third. The Yankees claimed that Young interfered with Ward and prevented him from making a double play. There was a long argument at second but Umpire Hart refused to allow the claim. Cunningham hit into a double play, Scott to Ward to Pipp. One run, three hits, no errors.

Seventh Inning

Yankees. Bentley took Witt's hopper and tossed him out. Bentley also threw out Dugan. Ruth walked. Meusel was up when Ruth was caught napping at first, Snyder to Kelly to Bancroft to Kelley.

Giants. Kelly fouled out to Pipp. Snyder sent a high fly to Meusel. Bentley hit into left field for two bases. Bancroft fouled out to Dugan. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Eighth Inning

Yankees. Meusel fouled out to Snyder. Pipp walked. Ward singled into centerfield and Pipp was stopped at second. Schang flied out to Meusel. Scott flied out to Meusel. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Ninth Inning

Yankees. Stengel went into center field for the Giants. Bancroft threw out Pennock. Frisch threw out Witt. Dugan hit into left field for two bases. Ruth sent a high fly to Stengel. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Giants. Dugan made another sparkling play, throwing out Kelly at first. Scott threw out Snyder. Jackson batted in place of Bentley and flied out to Meusel. The game won, 4 to 2.

Wisconsin seems to have a peppy student body this fall. Before the Wisconsin-Coe game last Saturday all the freshmen fell in line behind the Badger band and marched to the field waving their green caps and banners.

This is a tradition of thirteen years standing at Wisconsin, but the demonstration held Saturday is said to have eclipsed all records.

"Our Menus"

Dietitians and Nutrition experts emphatically state that we must eat balanced meals. In other words—meats, vegetables, salads, and etc. should so be combined as to give a maximum energy for the particular work of the individual. We have taken into consideration the special food needs of the students and we have planned our menus to agree with their requirements as specified by food experts. Meats once daily, or possibly twice, if enough vegetables are included to balance—vegetables of all kinds in large quantities—salads at least once a day—bread and milk—jams, jellies, and deserts for sugar values.

The balancing of the food values is but one factor in the meal. A knowledge of cooking especial flavoring for palatableness is next in importance. Our cook, who has served meals to all types of workers for 30 years, has experience in combing the foods and flavors so that an appetizing meal is the result.

Friday in a boarding house is usually an "Off Day." However, we know that the following lunch and dinner menus will do much to off set this erroneous belief.

Lunch—Friday, October 12 at 12:10

Baked macaroni and cheese — German fried potatoes
Creamed cauliflower
Pineapple olive salad — Raisin pie
Bread — Tea, coffee, or milk — Jelly

Dinner—Friday, October 12 at 6:10

Salmon patties — Meat croquettes
Creamed potatoes — Creamed carrots and peas
Cottage cheese salad
Date cream pudding — Tea, coffee, or milk — Bread — Jam.

Red Cross Guards Prevent Drownings

Iowa River Safe for Pleasure Craft

"No Students Drowned For First Time In Nineteen Years"--Higbee

The work of the University of Iowa red cross life saving corps in patrolling the river through the past summer has proven very successful, and this systemstic patrolling will be continued this fall as long as the river is navigable. It will also be put into operation again next spring as soon as the river is open for boating.

It was only last year that the university recognized the importance of a systematic attempt to safeguard the lives of the student body, and as a result, purchased a launch which was put into commission last May for the purpose of patrolling the river. The local chapter of the American red cross, realizing that this was a typical red cross service, agreed to support the activity financially. At first it was the plan to keep the launch volunteers from the red cross life saving corps. This however proved unsatisafctory and Ray O. McIntosh, a graduate of this university, was employed as a life guard, directing the work of the volunteer assistants.

The patrol is in operation on the river every afternoon and evening. The life guards have done and are doing a commendable work in watching canoes, issuing warnings, giving advice and assistance towing off driftwood and snags and doing all in their power to make the river safer for the use of pleasure craft. Supplementing the patrol work, life buoys have been placed at intervals along the river and an emergency telephone has been installed on the park bridge for use in case of any river accident.

During the winter when patrolling the river is unnecessary the life saving corps will conduct educational work under the direction of D. A. Armbuster, Men's swimming coach.

Last year fifty men were trained and passed the American Red Cross life saving test, while numerous demonstrations and lectures on life-saving methods were given for the benefit of the students.

As to the efficiency of the corps, Professor F. G. Higbee says, "This is the first year in the nineteen years that I have been in connection with the University that not one student has been drowned in the Iowa river." The life saving corps appeals to the student body to help to continue this newly made record by the observation of ordinary precautions.

The only accident which occurred on the river this year was a suicide off the park bridge last spring; ten minutes later four members of the corps were on the spot to assist in the search for the body.

At a recent meeting, the local red cross expressed themselves as well pleased with the service of the corps and recommended that the work be continued throughout the coming year, that classes be organized in life saving while instruction be carried on as heretofore. It is hoped that these activities may be expanded next year in order that the river may be more completely patrolled and provided with facilities to make boating safer.

The first meeting of the red cross life saving corps will be held next Tuesday at which time the officers will be elected and committees be appointed for the coming year. The present officers are, Pres.—F. G. Higbee; V. Pres.—E. G. Shroeder; Instructor—D. A. Armbuster; Medical advisors—Dr. Feasler and Dr. Hannenburg.

Previous to the debate the following program will be given: music by Leonard Hoffman A3 of Va!!; reading by Lawrence Brierly L1 of Independence; and a talk by Vergil Hancher L3 of Rolfe. Fire Drills Held By City Schools

Stress Fire Prevention in Drills; High School Cleared Quickly

Fire drills of various kinds are being held by the public schools of Iowa City in co-operation with the plans for a national fire prevention week.

At the last drill held in the high school some six hundred persons vacated the building in less than two and a half minutes. It is expected that this efficiency will be increased so that the entire building will be vacant one and a half minutes after the alarm has been given.

Teachers in the grades are putting on various campaigns to teach the pupils the necessity of taking precautions to avoid fires as well as the means to use in order to extinguish them.

Rigid Set of Requirements Confront Prospective Members

University women who are interested in becoming members of the Seals Club are expected to report regularly for practice at the swimming pool in the women's gymnasium. The tryouts for membership in the club will be held Thursday, October 18.

Beginning next week the pool will be open every day except Saturday from 5 to 5:30 p. m. During most of that time members of the Seals Club will be present to instruct all women who are interested in swimming. The Seals all wear dark wool suits while in the pool. 2. Plunge a distance between 25 and 30 ft.
3. Swim any three strokes for form.

Wooly Sweaters in Contrasting Colors Popular; Brilliant Accessories Also Shown

The color's the thing in the new fall sweaters. Numbers of bright tangerine, blue, green, and red sweaters are sold to college students and the soberer grays and tans are enlivened with Roman stripes of tangerine, green, blue, yellow, and red.

Grays and tans really predominate say the clerks in the sweater repartment at Yetter's, but they do not sell many in solid colors. Co-eds prefer them jazzed up with touches of the more brilliant colors at sleeves and collar. Plaids are also favored. Stripes run latitudinelly or longitudinally.

Combinations of black and white, striking as full page advertisements, are in demand, as are two-tone combinations in brown and combinations of gray and black.

The most popular materials for sweaters are brushed wool, camel's hair, a heavy wool with a long silky finish, and Angora.

If it's bright, it's stylish. Ray Slavata's are showing sweaters in the new shades, jockey, silver, rose, tangerine, French blue, and Coolidge green, successor to Harding blue. It is a gray-green color, suggestive of autumn days and woodsy smells.

Numbers of silk and wool scarfse are being sold. These are found in new blue, cocoa, and tan with bright stripes, and also in multicolor effect.

Many accessories are shown in which bright colors predominate. So if you feel your custome needs a bit of enlivement, get a bright scarf, a tangerine necklace, a beaded bag of striking pattern, or, failing all else, wrap a strip of Paisley silk around your head.

Chinese Students Give Unique Party

Entertain Faculty and Others Interested

To Promote Friendliness Is Aim of Chinese Students Club

More than one hundred faculty members, students and townspeople were entertained Wednesday evening by the members of the Chinese students club at an informal party in the basement of the Unitarian church. Closer friendship and understanding between the Chinese students and the faculty, other students and others of the town and university is the purpose of the club, which is a branch of the Chinese students alliance.

The program was opened by the singing of the national anthem of the Chinese republic by the seventeen members of the club, an address by Prof. B. F. Shambaugh and Dr. Leonard Hsu followed. The selections by the Filpino orchestra was one of the features of the program. Other musical numbers were a piano solo by Miss Katherine Kwong and a guitar selection by Edward Fecher. A short talk by the president, P. Y. Chung, closed the program.

Use Chinese Characters

The hall was beautifully decorated in a color scheme of black and orange, and the flags of the United States and the Chinese republic were prominently displayed. At one end of the hall huge Chinese characters in orange crepe paper spelled out the word Chung-Hua-Ming-Kuo, which means Chinese republic. Refreshments were served at the close of the evening.

The officers who acted as hosts at the gathering were: P. Y. Chung, president; T. C. Chow, vice president; Edward Zecher, English secretary; Lincoln Kao, Chinese secretary; and Horace Tu, treasurer.

Work Under Difficulties

"We have the friendliest feelings toward American students," said Mr. Chung, president of the club. "Chinese students are here to learn. Most of us are carrying heavy schedules and of course we must work under the added difficulty of a foreign language. It takes much time so we meet the American students less often in a social way than we would like to.

"I like the university very much," said Mr. Chung. "I left the Ford company where I was learning more in a technical way, to take work in the college of engineering of the university because of the greater friendship I find among the students here.
