Eels and Seals Swim in Annual Water Carnival

Fire Dive and Style Show to Feature Revue

Decorations More Elaborate Than in Any Previous Productions

All plans have been completed for the annual Eel-Seal revue, which will be staged tonight at 7:30 in the tank at the men's gymnasium.

Both organizations rehearsed last night in the tank, all details being given special attention by those in charge.

The decorations have been completed and will be the most elaborate attempted since the revue became a custom six years ago. Streamers will be hung from the tank to the sides of the pool and water lilies will be distributed on the surface of the water.

The water carnival will be started by the Seals who will give their style revue, displaying the bathing costumes which have been furnished by the Coast clothing company. The costumes have been ordered directly from a New York concern, and will be of the latest design, giving spectators an idea of what will be worn on the beach in 1924.

The program is replete with features, some of which are said to be very novel and unusual. Perhaps the feature of most importance is the fire dive which will be given by W. A. McCullough, captain of the swimming team. McCullough will dive from an elevation, while the suit he is wearing is in flames. Strips of cotton will be dipped in oil and ignited just before the plunge to the tank below. It is possible that the surface of the water will also be burning, as plans are underway to cover the surface with oil.

Fancy diving by both the Eels and Seals, a feature race between Spark Plug and Zev, and a mixed relay race are other high lights in this evening's program. T. Ward, water comedian, who is said to rival Harold Lloyd, will attempt to draw a few chuckles from the spectators.

A greased pole climb, and a Harvard-Princeton-Yale crew race complete the feature events on the evening's card. Coach David Armbruster has given out the following program of events:

I. M. I. Team Meets Grinnell Tonight

Debate To Be Annual Forensic Event

Affirmative Speakers To Uphold Adoption of Harding's World Court

Iowa's affirmative team as chosen for the I-M-I debate will meet Grinnell tonight on the question: "Resolved, that the world court as proposed by President Harding should be adopted." This is the first debate ever held with Grinnell, and will be followed by a return debate early in February when Grinnell's affirmative team will come to Iowa in an endeavor to outlast Iowa's negative team.

After the inauguration of the custom this winter, the Grinnell debate will be made an annual occurrence, and, although the question is the same as that used for the I-M-I debate, it is not regarded merely as practice. Grinnell is a member of the mid-western debating league. The Grinnell debates this year will be in addition to the regular schedule of both schools.

Members of Iowa's affirmative team are: Homer C. Biddinger A2 of Oelwein; Robert E. Birchard L1 of Davenport; James W. Barry A3 of Washington, D. C.; and Charles R. Sellers A3 of Davenport.

The first debate here will be the I-M-I controversy with Illinois' negative team on December 6. The Iowa negative team debates Minnesota's affirmative at Minneapolis on the same night.

Argue No Branches For National Banks

Case Before Supreme Court Brings Up Question Of Banking

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21—Efforts to prevent the supreme court from deciding whether national banks have the right to establish branches were made today by Solicitor General Beek and F. H. Sullivan, counsel for the First National bank of St. Louis. During oral argument of a case brought by the bank to have set aside an injunction granted by the supreme court of Missouri, restraining it from opening branches they urged the court to hold that states could not raise such questions and that it was a matter exclusively within the jurisdiction of the federal government.

Solicitor General Beek joined with Mr. Sullivan in contending that states could not, under their own laws or under federal statutes, challenge the right of a national bank to establish branches, or exercise and jurisdiction over them. Both insisted that if such an institution violated any of its charter rights or exceeded its privileges in any way it could only be reached through proceedings instituted in the federal courts by its comptroller of the currency.

While solicitor General Beek announced that he was willing to admit that the branch established by the St. Louis bank was illegal if it transacted business beyond that of accepting deposits and cashing checks, which Attorney General Daugherty in recent opinion had held such branches could do, he insisted that the state of Missouri was helpless to prevent the establishment of such a branch by instituting a proceeding in the courts.

Herbert H. Asquith English Novelist Arrives Tonight; Lectures Friday

Rebecca West, Famous Critic, To Head Round Table

'Reputed to Be Most Intellectual Woman in England,' Says Shaw

Rebecca West, English novelist and critic who is to lecture here Friday evening, will arrive in Iowa City tonight. The chief features of her program will be her appearance tomorrow afternoon as the central figure of the University round table conference at 4 o'clock in the rooms of the State Historical society, third floor liberal arts building, and her lecture at 8 o'clock Friday evening in the auditorium of the hall of natural science.

The University round table conference to-morrow afternoon will be the second such conference to be held in connection with University lectures which is open to members of the instructional staff and graduate school of all colleges in the University and at which the University lecturer leads the discussion.

The subject of the conference will not be restricted to any definite question, since the policy of the senate board in charge of University lectures is to take up at the conference the subject in which the speaker is primarily interested, but Miss West's interests are highly varied.

Although by profession, a novelist and literary critic, Miss West is competent to discuss practically any political or social phase of English life which may be brought up in the course of the conference.

Members of the instructional staff of the English department interviewed yesterday were without exception enthusiastic over the prospect of Miss West's appearance here tomorrow.

"Miss West is reputed to be the most intellectual woman in England" said Prof. Marlow A. Shaw. That her novels and literary criticisms are characterized by common sense was the impression of several professors.

Prof. Hardin Craig head of the English department emphasized the fact that her work shows a strong intellect as well as emotional power. Prof. John T. Frederick, editor of the Midland, believes that Miss West is without a doubt the most prominent English woman who will come to the University for some time.

"One of the world's good rebels" was the characterization given Miss West by George Carver, associate in the English department, who makes a study of contemporary writers. On the political and social status of women she has unique ideas, which not only involve destruction of existing barriers in the path of women, but also complete rebuilding of the social system. Mr. Carver agreed with Professor Sloan and others in believing that Miss West is undoubtedly the most brilliant novelist and literary critic among the women now writing in England.

Thriving Liquor Business Raided

$100,000 Worth Taken by Dry Agents

Customers Call While Officers Are Conducting Raid; Others Phone

NEW YORK, Nov. 21 (AP)—Prohibition agents seized about $100,000 worth of liquor in a raid this afternoon on the West Broadway warehouse of Baird and Company.

The seizure included 200 gallons of Italian and French vermouth; 700 cases of gin; several thousand cases of wine and several cases of whiskey.

The firm of Baird & Daniels had a large liquor trade before prohibition, dry agents said.

While the raiders busied themselves collecting the liquor in the large warehouse about fifteen persons telephoned asking for liquor, according to Agent Brennan. He took down their names and told them they would get what they wanted.

Brennan said a number of customers came in person to the warehouse seeking liquor while the raid was going on.

Only Six Fraternities Submit Sponsor Names

Tomorrow Night Latest Hour for Acceptance; Hooper Urges Prompt Action

Six fraternities out of thirty-seven have sent in the name of their candidates for woman sponsor for the unit of the R. O. T. C. located at the University of Iowa. These fraternities, who have responded to Major Edward L. Hooper's letter of last week requesting that they select a candidate from the co-eds and also that they mail the name of their choice as soon as possible to him are Phi Kappa Sigma, Phi Delta Theta, Sigma Nu, Delta Kappa Gamma, Phi Delta Chi and Kappa Sigma.

Maj. Hooper said yesterday: "This coming Friday will be the last day on which these names will be accepted." The letter asking for the names of the candidates were sent out from the main office of the military department last Monday. It is urged that action be taken at once upon this matter.

The fraternities, the dean of women, and the quadrangle association are the ones in whose hands rests the selection of this colonel. She will act as a sponsor for the R. O. T. C. regiment on governor's day and on other occasions in which the regiment will be on parade. She will probably be clad in a uniform of gold and black. This idea worked out very successfully at the University of Nebraska and it will be instituted as a custom at this university.

Each battalion will have a sponsor like the woman colonel. Instead of being chosen by the fraternities, quadrangle and dean of women in the future the companies will select their candidates by popular vote.

German Socialist Leader Is Arrested and Put in Prison

Colfax Completes 46 Blocks of Paving; Cost is $160,000

LONDON, Nov. 21—Dr. Zeigner who headed the Saxon communist-socialist cabinet, was arrested Wednesday night while in bed at Leipzig by order of the supreme court, says a dispatch to the Daily Mail from Berlin. Zeigner was removed to prison, notwithstanding the fact that he protested he was ill.

Northwestern Dean Predicts College Will Soon Select Students It Wants

Selective Process Would Involve Series of Investigations to Determine Mental Ability of Student, and What Had Been Past Record of Applicant

Not Within Jurisdiction of Federal District Court

CHICAGO, Nov. 21 (AP)—"The really serious question in educational circles is not the number of students to be admitted to educational institutions but the grade or mental class of the students who are admitted." Raymond Asa Kent, dean of the college of liberal arts at Northwestern said tonight in a radio address.

"The day of selectivity as to incoming students has arrived and it is a serious question for the young man or young woman planning to enter a college or university as to whether he is equipped to get the most out of his opportunities for a higher education," he said.

"What do we need to know of a man before we can intelligently say yes or no to his application to attend college?" asked Dean Kent.

"First, how good student were you in high school, as the answer to that will tell with astonishing reliability what kind of a student you will be in college. Second, what can you do in college? This can be measured in part by mental alertness tests." "A third question which colleges are coming to ask is, how healthy are you?" The average student attends classes three hours a day and is asked to study six hours in addition. That is a nine hour day. In every college many students are compelled to earn money every week. Hence the physical condition of the student in no small degree determines how well his mind will work.

"Finally there will be the question, what sort of person are you anyway? Are you honest? Do you like fair play? Do you stick to a task until it is done? Have you been a leader in high school enterprises? And many similar questions."

Walton Fails on Second Trial to Get Intervention

Appeal Will Be Made to United States Supreme Court; Ruth Impeached

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Nov. 21—J. C. Walton failed today in his second effort to obtain federal intervention in the action of the state court of impeachment which Monday removed him as governor.

Judge John H. Cotteral, in United States district court here reaffirming a ruling handed down at Lawton, Okla., the day before the impeachment trial opened, held that his court had no jurisdiction in the case and sustained a motion by George F. Short, state attorney general to dismiss the deposed executive's suit.

Walton entered an exception to the decision, and announced that he would appeal to the United States supreme court.

The former governor sought a retroactive restraining order to nullify all proceedings of the impeachment court. He alleged his impeachment resulted from a conspiracy between the Ku Klux Klan and members of the legislature.

Walton's counsel referred to the "pretended trial" before the impeachment court and declared that the deposed governor had been denied "the equal protection of the law" as guaranteed by the federal constitution.

Attorney General Short characterized the charges as "frivolous."

At the conclusion of the hearing Walton went to the Oklahoma county court house and announced that he expected to be indicted by the district court grand jury which now is in session. He said he did not know what the charges would be but desired to be present to submit to arrest at once. He waited for some time but the grand jury did not report today.

Continue to "Clean-Up"

J. K. Wright, county attorney, later announced the report probably would be made tomorrow morning.

Meanwhile, the lower house of the state legislature continued its "cleaning-up" campaign and impeached Charles H. Ruth, state supreme court commissioner, on charges of trafficking in legislative immunity.

Ruth, long a close personal and political friend of Walton, was appointed to his office by the deposed executive.

The senate plans to consider tomorrow all anti-Ku Klux Klan bills that have been introduced in an effort to select the best features of all for incorporation in one bill. It was indicted several days probably would be required to whip the bill into shape.

Boiler Explosion Kills 15 Persons

Sugar Plant Wrecked, Report Says

BEAUMONT, Texas, Nov. 21—Fifteen persons are dead and about the same number were injured as the result of a double boiler explosion at New Iberia, La., this afternoon, according to a telephone message received here tonight. The dead include Oscar Broussard and Sydney Broussard, according to the message, which said the others, who were reported piled in a heap, had not been identified.

Nine bodies had been recovered tonight from the ruins of the plant.

Of the injured the number was about equally divided between white and negro employees.

The explosion came without warning just as a battery of five boilers had been steamed up preparatory to starting the season's work.

A man standing near a load of cane, 1,500 feet away was completely beheaded, while a mule a quarter of a mile distant was killed by a piece of flying steel.

As quickly as the news of the accident reached New Iberia ambulances and doctors rushed to the scene and brought the injured to local hospitals.

The refinery which employs 100 persons, was a complete wreck, and the loss estimated at $100,000.

McLean Will Arrive in Iowa City Sunday

Former President of University To Visit Here; Speaks At Coe Tuesday

George Edwin MacLean, former president of the University will arrive in Iowa City on Sunday morning and will be here for several days. On Tuesday, November 27, he will deliver an address at Coe College, Cedar Rapids.

Mr. MacLean was president of this University from 1899 to 1911. Upon leaving here he became United States bureau specialist in higher education in 1913. He then became director of the British division of American universities in Europe. He has been in Europe since 1914, visiting the colleges and universities of Great Britain and Ireland.

Mr. MacLean comes here from Minneapolis where he attended the Iowa-Minnesota game last Saturday. He was a professor of English literature and language at the University of Minnesota from 1883 to 1895.

Johnson's Candidacy is Not Endorsed by Georgia Caucus

Atlanta, Nov. 21—(AP)—A resolution which sought to endorse Senator Hiram M. Johnson, was tabled here late today by a meeting of white and negro members, who described themselves as the republican committee of Georgia. Henry Lincoln Johnson, negro, a Georgia member of the republican national committee attended the meeting.

DR. COOK GUILTY; SENTENCED TO 14 YEARS IN PRISON

To Erect No Sign For Northwestern

There will be no sign on the engineering building for the football game with Northwestern next Saturday. The junior engineers who have been erecting the signs say they do not want to precipitate another such ridiculous situation as resulted from the erection of the sign for the Michigan game. In their opinion an out-of-town game does not arouse enough interest to warrant the trouble and time associated with preparation of a sign so no more will be erected until next fall.

Judge Scathingly Denounces Crime

Principal of Ancient Arctic Hoax Given Heavy Penalty

PORT WORTH, Texas, Nov. 21—Dr. Frederick A. Cook, oil operator, who was found guilty in federal court here this afternoon for the alleged misuse of the mails in connection with the operations of the Petroleum Producer's Association of which he was the sole trustee, was sentenced to serve fourteen years and nine months in the federal prison and assessed a fine of $12,000 by Federal Judge Killits. Fred K. Smith, treasurer of the company, was sentenced to serve eight years and fined $8,000. Other co-defendants of Cook who were found guilty were given the following fines: O. L. Ray, $500; G. A. De Montford $500; S. E. Robinson $500; Harry Bleam $500; J. F. Burmister $500; H. B. Stephens was fined $7,000 and sentenced to serve 90 days in jail.

In sentencing Dr. Cook, Judge Killits gave one of the most scathing denunciations ever heard in court here.

"Stand up, Cook!" he commanded. "What have you to say for yourself?" he asked.

"So you can say nothing?" said the court. "You have come to the point where your peculiar personality fails you. The Twentieth century should be proud of you. History gave you Ananias and Sapphira. They are forgotten, but we still have Dr. Cook."

"Cook, this deal of yours is so damnably rotten that it seems to me your attorneys must have been forced to hold their handkerchiefs to their noses to have presented you. It stinks to high Heaven. You should not be allowed to run at large. I know that you have your ill-gotten goods put away, but your wife and daughter should not be allowed to touch them. You have stolen this money from widows and orphans. You should start another company and distribute it back to them."

"Cook have you no decency at all?" the court continued. "Are you no haunted at night by these pitiable figures?" How can you sleep? I am not going to do justice in this case, for I think that you will get it somewhere else. You ought to be paraded as a practical warning to every state where you have sold stock" and with this last stinging phrase Judge Killits passed sentence.

Others are Fined

Sentences of a year and a day and a fine of $1,000 was imposed on the following: J. S. Rooks, C. W. Slute, S. L. Hess, T. O. Turner, B. S. Herringer, E. J. Daven and R. L. Maxwell. W. L. Braddish and W. P. Welty were given sentences of two years each and fined $1,000. A. McKister was given six years and a fine of $1,000. Fred K. Smith, treasurer of the Petroleum Producer's Association was fined $12,000 and sentenced to serve seven years in prison.

Judge Killits passed sentence on Dr. Cook after a scathing denunciation of the methods said to have been practiced by the former Arctic explorer. Cook made no statement after being sentenced but his attorney, former United States Senator Joseph Weldon Bailey, declared that he would have a statement to make within the next two or three days.

Cook's bond was placed by Judge Killits at $75,000, which he will not be permitted to make until after a complete record of the case has been drawn.

Will Appeal Case

All of the convicted men, immediately after being sentenced, were taken to the Tarrant county jail where they will remain until they either make bond or their appeals, which they declare they will make are acted upon.

Only one of the fourteen men who stood trial in federal court for six weeks, A. M. Delcambre, was acquitted on an instructed verdict ordered by Judge John N. Killits.

Stagecraft Shop is Now in Actual Use

Experiments in Staging and Work on Rehearsals Going On

The new Stagecraft Shop of the University Theatre is now completed and the process of moving in has begun. The Shop, which is a small gray building located just north of the law building, is to be used for work of the stagecraft classes. It was built because the dramatic activities had outgrown their other quarters and needed an additional amount of space to devote to the work.

The new shop will be used for classes in stagecraft, the storing of scenery and properties, and as a place in which to conduct lighting experiments and design and paint scenery and properties for University plays. It is a successor to the old stagecraft shop which was located in the brick building back of the Old Capitol that was torn down last year.

Already the shop has begun to assume the same air of fascination that was noticeable in the old shop. It has something of the appeal that one finds in a well-stocked attic. There is always something new to be discovered. In one corner is a brilliant red chair, from the court scene in "Lillom," backed against the wall there is an old fireplace; and flats of all descriptions are piled high; dimmers and paint cans are much in evidence.

75 Are Enrolled in Girl Scout Course

Patrols Formed and Corporals Elected to Perform Work in Practical Way

Seventy-five women are attending classes in girl scout training being held this week at the women's gymnasium. After hearing a short outline of the purpose of the course, the classes were divided into scout patrols of eight each. Leaders and corporals for each patrol were elected, and each patrol selected a name and a call. The class is so large that it was necessary to divide it into two sections, one to meet at 4 o'clock, and the other at 7. Only junior girls have been encouraged to take the course, but sophomores and freshmen who expect to take immediate advantage of it were permitted to enroll.

Classes will proceed on the presumption that each group is an official girl scout patrol. Each patrol will be given more or less opportunity to choose the work they wish to do, there being no set rule as to what must be included in the course.

"The class in training for girl scout leadership has begun by being extremely interesting," said Mrs. Marion L. Schwob, head of the women's physical education department. "All those who attended the first class, as well as myself, are very enthusiastic about the course, and feel it will be a great help in any sort of leadership work."

Result of Debate Tryouts Announced

Six Women From Each Society Chosen

Winning Society Will Receive Silver Cup Now Held By Hesperians

Several of the women's literary societies have held their debate tryouts in preparation for the intersociety debates to be held December 11. The question for debate is, "Resolved, that immigration in the United States should be further restricted." Each society will support an affirmative and a negative team, each team consisting of three members. The society winning the debate will receive points toward the silver cup which is at present held by Hesperia society.

Those on Hamlin Garland's teams are Doris J. Rae A3 of Caldwell, Idaho, Marjorie E. Buhler A3 of Atlanta, Ga., Victoria G. Brown A3 of Ames, Dorothy E. Wilson A3 of Mason City, Gladys V. Hamilton A3 of Iowa City, Erika M. Meyer A3 of Pomeroy, Ruby S. Miller A3 of Iowa City, and Opal A. Keeney A3 of Clarissa.

Athena teams are made up of M. Alohe Selkirk A3 of Fort Dodge, Bernice N. Stillman A1 of Doolittle, E. Camilla Sperati A3 of Decora, Mable P. Reinhardt A3 of Spirit Lake, Lulu E. Dettner A3 of Garnaville, Dorothy F. Boege A3 of LeClaire.

Whitby will be represented by Corrine M. Carroll A3 of Cresco, Ardeth L. Lawhorn A2 of Garner, Gladys M. Tribon A4 of Algona, Mary J. Sheridan A3 of Iowa City, Elizabeth L. Kluckhohn A3 of Eagle Grove, and Helen M. Cornwell A2 of Independence.

Hesperia's teams will consist of Vivian Conrad A3 of Burlington, Gertrude M. Muxer A4 of Carroll, Melba M. Carpenter A3 of Iowa City, Esther Van Cleave A3 of Iowa City, Florence E. Altman A3 of LeVernore, and Lael D. Church A3 of Mason City.

Y. W. Speaker Offers Solution to Problem

Helen Peterson Gives Ideas on Campus Attitude of Students

Helen Peterson, social assistant of the dean of women, gave a talk on "Christian Citizenship on the Campus" at the vesper service held in the liberal arts drawing room at 4:35 yesterday afternoon. Persis Carney A4 of Greene, had charge of the services. Before the talk Helen Cole A1 of Woodbine gave a piano solo.

Miss Peterson gave her talk from a social standpoint or the way that she observes it from her position. She said that the best way by which a person could find out Christian citizenship was to use a formula which she had figured out by observation. This formula is "Courtesy plus honesty times best attitude divided by all of us is equal to Christian citizenship."

"People whom do not know very well have to be judged by their conduct". As an example of this Miss Peterson gave the cases of new students coming here to school in the fall. "They have to make adjustments and it is easier for some to make adjustments than it is for others." Miss Peterson further said, "A sign of Christian citizenship is courtesy, which is a technique of kindness. This technique should be in use through the week, not merely on the week-ends."

Two other elements which Miss Peterson mentioned as being essentials of Christian citizenship were honesty and attitude.

University Shows Dramatic Talent in Classic Tryouts

Tryouts for Richard Brinsley Sheridan's classic play, "The School for Scandal," have been progressing rapidly, and an unusual amount of talent has been shown by those trying out. However, it has been decided to continue the tryouts in order to secure the best possible material for this production which will be one of the finest of the entire series for the year.

Mr. Francis N. Suplee of Iowa City, who has had over forty years experience in amateur roles, will play the part of Sir Peter Teazle. Competition for the part of Lady Teazle has been especially strong. The play provides an unusually large number of good parts and the tryouts are open to any student in the University, regardless of affiliation with any producing society. Further tryouts are scheduled for this evening at 7:30 in the Stagecraft shop which is located just north of the law building.

Prince, Future Ruler of Bavaria

Prince Albrecht holding his little step-brother, son of the former Princess Antoinette of Belgium.

Prince Albrecht, only surviving son of Prince Rupprecht of Bavaria and his wife, is now being referred to by Bavarian papers as "the crown prince." There is growing belief that eventually he will become king of an independent Bavarian kingdom. The ill-fated coup of Adolph Hitler's Fascist forces merely halted plans of the monarchist forces, it is said. The prince's mother was a sister of the Queen of Belgium.

Seals Took Part in First Revue Five Years Ago

Swimming as a sport for women at the University of Iowa has made great progress during the past few years. Five years ago women took part in the first swimming exhibition with men when the first Eel-Seal revue was staged.

Since that time they have taken part in this event annually, as well as setting a higher standard in competition among themselves. The standard dive must now be worth six points when eight was formerly considered a passing grade.

The record for the forty-yard dash has been lowered to twelve seconds, held by Amy Louise Benner A4 of Keokuk. Records in practically every event are considerably lower than they were a year ago.

With improved swimming on the part of the Seals it is expected that the Eel-Seal revue to be given this evening at the men's gymnasium will be even better than like performances in former years.

Second Transit Goes to Printers; Out December 1

All the material for the second issue of this year's Transit will be in today and will be turned over to the printers tomorrow, although the magazine will not be ready for distribution until the first week of December.

The feature article in the December issue of Transit will be on Super Power, by W. S. Murray, consulting engineer in New York, who gave a lecture on that subject at the University of Iowa several weeks ago. Another article of national interest to technical colleges is one by Prof. F. G. Hibbee, head of the department of descriptive geometry in the college of applied science.

W. A. A. Initiates 150 New Members

Clever Stunts Feature Ceremony

Women Without All Points Urged to Make Them Before December

W. A. A. held its first initiation of the year last evening at the Women's gymnasium. About 150 new members were taken into the organization. W. A. A. wants the women who have not been initiated because of lack of points to keep up their working and be initiated in December. Women who are interested should confer with Frances Johnston A4 of Danville, president of W. A. A.

Last year at the national athletic conference of American women which was held at Denver, Iowa ranked first in membership. The conference will be held at Berkeley, California this spring. Iowa's aim is to lead the list this year, in finance as well as number of members.

Last evening at the initiation party, everyone who was initiated gave a stunt. Evelyn Byrne A3 of Dubuque was in charge of the stunts. Clara Larson A2 of Nevada had charge of a group which put on a Ford stunt. Mary Kelley A1 of Iowa City, with twenty women gave an advertisement stunt. Eleanor Waldschmidt A2 of Burlington had charge of a stunt which was called "She sat in her hammock." Martha Kruse A3 of Iowa City and a group of women gave an interpretation of a Shakespearean play. Those who were not in these, gave impromptu stunts.

After the stunts, the special W. A. A. orchestra furnished music for dancing. The orchestra was composed of Juanita Martin A2 of Algona, piano; Margaret Ashe A3 of Harris, violin; and Esther Fellow A2 of Algona, saxophone.

Maurine Riche A3 of Williams was in charge of refreshments.

Frances Johnston wishes to see all of the old members of W. A. A. toward points and paying their dues, as soon as possible. Every old member should make fifty points during the year and pay her $1 yearly dues or she will be dropped from membership.

Those who were initiated last evening are: Marguerita Arnold A1 of Jefferson; Blanche Buresh A1 of Riceville; Edith Birkett A1 of West Liberty; Dorothy Beason A2 of Audubon; Edna Bockwoldt A1 of Galva; Marvel Braley A1 of Britt; Hazel Black A1 of West Liberty; Clara Brandell A1, Dexter; Doris Babcock of Watertown, S. Dak.; Albatine Brassill A3 of Wagner, S. Dak.; Clara Brennon A2 of Iowa City; Marie Buys A1 of Westfield; Frances Belows A1 of New Sharon, and Virginia Ball A1 of Iowa City.

Ford is Endorsed For President on New Party Ticket

Call Convention to be Held at Detroit December 12

People's Progressive Party is Represented by 15 States At Omaha Meeting

OMAHA, Neb., Nov. 21 (AP)—Resolutions formally calling a convention at Detroit on December 12, endorsing Henry Ford for president on a ticket to be known as the People's Progressive party, and outlining three planks of a platform to be submitted to the convention, were adopted by the group of progressives, farmer laborites, independents, and liberals headed by Roy M. Harrop, national temporary chairman of the progressive party here today.

Fifteen states were represented in the call, according to a statement given out by Mr. Harrop, following an executive meeting.

The names of those who issued the call, Mr. Harrop said, were: K. C. Stevens, Denver, Colo., farmer-laborite party; Claude Wilkerson, Sedalia, Mo., people's progressive party; Frank L. Taylor, San Diego, Calif., independent progressive; F. S. Hammond, Elizabeth, N. J., independent progressive; George R. Hunt, Chattanooga, Tenn., progressive party; Don Dunning, Boise, Idaho, progressive party; W. P. Adams, Portland, Ore., Wallace Campbell, Bismark, N. D.; John K. Vale, Hiawatha, Kan.; P. A. Spain, Paris, Tex.; John A. Simpson, Stillwater, Okla.; L. V. Redfern, Salt Lake City, Utah; L. W. A. Dyer, Winner, S. D.; J. E. Scanlon, Bee Branch, Ark.; W. Bennington, Cleveland, Ohio, and himself.

The three planks of the proposed platform endorsed at today's conference are:

"To relieve the distress of agriculture and industry by co-operation."

"The establishment of a debt paying system of government owned banks, instead of the privately owned monopoly of money and credit, the federal reserve system; (2) by making the transportation system a means of public service, and not speculative gain, through government ownership of railroads, same to be paid for at a fair valuation in full legal tender currency; (3) prevent future chaotic unemployment conditions and squandering of natural resources by wasteful and fraudulent contracts and subsidies to monopolists and profiteers through the development of our natural resources, to be paid for in full legal tender issued direct by the government."

Daily Iowan Given High Ranking for Equipment

The Daily Iowan has a plant ranking second in the state in the efficiency of the mechanical department and ranking third among the best equipped plants, according to a representative of a leading printing concern. The Sioux City Journal plant ranks first in mechanical equipment, and an Ottumwa plant is second. For efficiency the Ottumwa plant is first, and the Sioux City Journal plant is third.

This man has owned two plants himself, and has been in nearly every printing plant in Iowa.

Two Acquitted of Murder by Texas Jury Yesterday

AUSTIN, Texas, Nov. 21 (AP)—John Miller and Foster Bell were acquitted of the murder of F. C. Schaffner in a Sealy, Texas, street battle on September 4, 1922, by a jury in criminal district court tonight.

The jury considered the case slightly less than three hours.

Judge Hamilton cautioned spectators, before the verdict was announced, against any demonstrations. Many persons rushed forward, however, to shake hands with the two men when the verdict was made known.

Nab Thief As He Breaks Into Beta House At Chicago

CHICAGO, Nov. 21—A number of mysterious robberies of University of Chicago fraternities as well as several complaints from University convicts of a prowler, are believed by police to be cleared up today with the arrest of Herman Holmes, as he attempted to break into the Beta Theta Pi fraternity house.

Police say Holmes has admitted robbing the Chi Psi and Sigma Chi fraternities houses and a merchant near the campus identified him as the man who passed a forged check at his store recently.

Trinity Episcopal Church Dinner Tonight at the Burkley Hotel

Members of the Trinity Episcopal church will give a dinner at 6 o'clock tonight at the Burkley hotel. The dinner is planned to give the parishioners a chance to become acquainted. Over 100 people have signified their intention of attending.

Henry J. Prentiss will act as chairman of the meeting and Mrs. C. P. Howard, Mrs. W. A. Gifford, and Arthur Cox will give brief talks. Prof. Percy Bardwell will present the budget for the coming year.

The Rev. Mr. Longley has charge of student reservations. A charge of 60 cents will be made for the dinner.

Oklahoma Governor Has No Chance In Federal Court, Says McGovney

"J. C. Walton former governor of Oklahoma has no show whatever for an appeal of his case to the United States courts" is the opinion of Dudley G. McGovney, professor in the college of law, and well known authority on constitutional law.

Prof. McGovney went further to say that the only possible grounds upon which the former governor might make an appeal to the federal courts is that he was deprived of liberty without due process of law, the question being, "Was a federal question involved?"

In the opinion of Prof. McGovney, the contention of the former executive that the fourteenth amendment to the United States constitution applied would be held to be without merit. In case Walton does find a way to make an appeal, it is the opinion of Professor McGovney that the federal court would dismiss the appeal on grounds of lack of jurisdiction.

In any case the supreme court of the United States is the only court left to which the unseated governor can appeal. His case has been through the supreme court of the state of Oklahoma as well as through the lesser courts of the state. The senate court of the state of Oklahoma was unanimous in its sentiment that Walton should give up the office of governor.

The United States court early in the ordeal denied the former governor an injunction which dealt with restraining the legislators from meeting a few months ago.

The ex-governor has exhausted every possibility of retaining his office, and in the words of Prof. Elmer A. Wilcox, professor in the college of law, "Walton's only remaining appeal it seems must be to the people."

Orchestra Banquet Held Last Night

The first banquet of the University orchestra was held at Youde's Inn last night, where eighty guests heard the views of the administration on the work of the orchestra.

President Walter A. Jessup spoke of his wish that in a few years the University orchestra would be known throughout the state as one of the leading musical organizations.

Speakers Touch Upon Various Phases of Orchestra's Progress

Prof. Frank E. Kendrie, the orchestra conductor thanked the orchestra for their co-operation and paid special praise to the six University instructors who by their hearty co-operation, have done so much to make the orchestra a success.

Professors Richard P. Baker, Geo. W. Martin, Walter L. Brandt, Geo. S. Sprague, Walter J. Himmel, and Chester E. Loewe have at all times, assisted in the building of the University orchestra to its present membership of eighty-six.

Harry F. Larson L3 of Sioux City, orchestra manager, presided as the toastmaster of the evening.

Dean George F. Kay spoke in praise of the constantly growing part that the music department is playing in the activities of this University, and pledged the support of the administration in the work of the orchestra.

Phillip G. Clapp, director of the school of music, spoke of the growing size of the orchestra and the part that they have played in making vespers so successful.

Prof. E. C. Mable, emphasized the work of the Theatre orchestra composed of a number of the players of the University orchestra, in assisting the University Players.

Order of Artus Elects Sixteen

The undergraduates elected to membership at the semi-monthly meeting last night. These men were elected on the basis of scholarship and interest in Economics. Both commerce college students and students in the college of liberal arts with a major in economics are eligible for election.

Scholarship and Interest in Economics Basis for Election

The undergraduates elected to membership were Robert Sellman A4 of Newton; Fred E. Skinner Cm4 of Algona; Willard A. Robinson A4 of Iowa City; Paul E. Sullivan Cm3 of Creston; C. Glen Lewis Cm3 of Macedonia; Peter W. Jans A3 of Grandview; Otto R. Stocke Cm3 of Ida Grove; Brandt H. Amle Cm3 of Peterson; Gilbert T. Gustafson A3 of Dayton; Wayne Davidson Cm3 of New Virginia.

Those elected at the fall election were Ross G. Walker, associate professor in commerce; Earle M. Winslow, associate in commerce; Rudolph Peterson, graduate assistant in economics; Harry S. Pollard of Iowa City, and C. John Bittner of Iowa City.

The local chapter of Order of Artus was established in 1917. It has for its aim the promotion of a more thorough understanding of the sciences of economics by the people of America.

The officers of the local chapter are Don M. Guthrie Cm4 of Fort Madison, president; Floyd B. Haworth A4 of Iowa City, secretary; and Lloyd B. Raiste Cm4 of Colwell, treasurer. Meetings are held every two weeks for the discussion of topics of current economic interest.

Government to Stamp Out All Fraud Cases

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21 (AP)—"The government is in a position, as a result of the conviction of Dr. Frederick A. Cook and others in Fort Worth today, to stamp out the threatened epidemic of mail fraud and wild cat stock promotion schemes," Assistant Attorney General Crim declared tonight, upon his return from a conference with United States attorneys at Fort Worth.

Sen. Ladd Urges Muscle Shoals be Let Out to Ford

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21—(AP)—A statement urging abandonment of Henry Ford's offer for the Muscle Shoals, Alabama, power and fertilizer project was issued today by Senator Ladd, republican, North Dakota, who also quoted from a recent letter by Bernard M. Baruch, former chairman of the war industries board, upon the Ford offer. Senator Ladd said he had sought Mr. Baruch's opinion since the sale of the Gorgas power plant had changed the basis of Mr. Ford's offer.

"Mr. Baruch believe in the development of Muscle Shoals as a great industrial plant for the manufacture of nitrogen compounds and fertilizers for use in agriculture," said Senator Ladd. "My own studies have led me to the same conclusion and my investigations made during the past summer in Germany and Norway only the more strongly confirm my belief in the possibilities of Muscle Shoals."

Alleged Pay-roll Padder's Release Is Still Pending

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Nov. 21—The St. Louis court of appeals this afternoon after hearing arguments in the Russell K. Cockburn, habeas corpus case to resist extradition to Des Moines, Iowa, to answer a charge of alleged city pay-roll padding, gave counsel for both sides until Saturday in file briefs, and indicated a decision probably would be handed down next week.

Cockburn is a patient at the United States veteran's hospital at Jefferson barracks here. It is alleged Cockburn, while employed as a city timekeeper, assisted in the embezzlement of approximately $80,000 of municipal funds.

S. Dak. May Try To Unite Parties

Conference Date Set For December 4

Possibility of Merger of Farmer Laborites With Democrats Is Latest Rumor

Sioux Falls, S. D., Nov. 21—A move to bring together the democratic and farmer-labor party organizations in South Dakota, was inaugurated today in at least two counties. While conversations on the possibility of uniting the two parties on a single national ticket have not yet reached the stage of formal negotiations, leaders in both ranks admit that the amalgamation effort may be successful if mutually acceptable planks on agricultural policy and transportation can be written into a unified platform.

Spokesmen for both groups were reticent but it was learned that a conference committee between the state conventions, to be held at Pierre, December 4, has been agreed upon the principle. "What such committees will be able to do in bringing the two organizations together for the state primary in March behind a ticket headed by former Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo, still is a question in the minds of the McAdoo supporters, who as a result of yesterday's county proposal conventions, predict a quick nomination for McAdoo in the state convention.

From within the farmer labor party the suggestion has come that McAdoo is an acceptable second choice to a considerable element of the third party in the event that Henry Ford can not be given the democratic nomination at Pierre.

The republican state proposal convention, which will be held at Pierre simultaneously with those of the other two parties, will be the first battle ground on which the supporters of President Coolidge and Senator Johnson of California will match strength. The Johnson campaign has been intensive and has the avowed support of Governor W. H. McMaster, who has declared for the senatorial race under the Johnson banner.

Chinese Capture U. S. Missionary; 4 Women Unharmed

SHANGHAI, Nov. 21 (AP)—E. W. Schmalzreid, an American missionary attached to the Reformed church in the United States, whose mission is at Chenchow-Fu, Hunan, has been kidnapped by bandits while on his way from Changteh, Hunan, to Tungen, Kweichow.

Four women who were accompanying Mr. Schmalzreid, were permitted to resume their journey.

THE SPIRIT OF RESEARCH

THE SPIRIT of research has slowly and gradually settled upon American colleges until it has become practically as important a field in university activity as the instruction of undergraduates. That research work is commendable in certain respects cannot be denied, but much of the research worker's time is uselessly consumed in the pursuance of insignificant details.

The outlook of the research worker, just as that of any other individual whose work is highly specialized, becomes narrow. Frequently he spends many years in search of data upon some microscopic question. He becomes borelessly cautious; he makes statements with as much seriousness and carefulness as though his life depended upon their accuracy. His opinions are execrably fortified by data and facts; generalizations are not for such as he. He becomes as devoid of sparkling wit and lively conversation as though he had been squeezed dry of whatever life that was left in him.

As long as the avowed purpose of a university is the instruction and training of young people, there is too much research work in colleges. After all, what does it matter to the millions of men and women whether Samuel Johnson was left-handed or whether Keats' first attempts at poetry are deciphered? The object of education and the ideal of a university could be promoted much farther if professors devoted more of their time to thought on how to present their subjects in a stimulating and interesting manner, in having contact with their pupils, and in pondering over the best methods of pedagogy.

THE VALLEY OF DEMOCRACY

(Cedar Rapids Gazette)

IRVING B. RICHMAN, art collector and author, with cynical humor, asks, "Is the middle west a place or state of mind?" It is both. As a place it includes the bread basket and industrial wealth of the republic. As a state of mind it represents the norm of Americanism. It constitutes that portion of this United States that knows its own mind, interprets its own emotions and voices its own thoughts in literature, art, politics and economics.

As both a place and a state of mind it has supplanted New England and the old south as the exponent of typical Americanism. As goes the middle west so goes this republic. The middle west is the kind of place it is because it has a characteristic state of mind. The mind of the middle west is the result of history and environment, of traditions and culture, of hard contest with the resources of nature and easy access to higher things because of the peculiarly even distribution of wealth and opportunity that pervades this area. No other large portion of this country is as distinctly unified in its physical contour or in the community of mind that characterizes its people.

The middle west as a place and as a state of mind is conscious of its greatness and its power in determining the destiny of this nation. If this does not answer Mr. Richman's question, perhaps the American Banker's association, the manufacturers association, the federation of colleges and universities, the eastern magazine and book publishers, and the travel bureau or the men in Washington who have heard the voice of the middle west can give more definite information.

A FEW IDEALS

(Harvard Crimson)

AMERICAN universities have all too frequently been likened to grist-mills, grinding out a mediocre product of intelligentia. Certainly the ideal university is not merely a large scale vendor of knowledge, and it is perhaps with apprehension of this tendency in American education that President Butler of Columbia has taken the occasion of the inaugural exercises at Washington university to define the mission of the modern university. As important as the task of advancing learning, he believes, is that of offering a "reconciliation of the conflicting movements of nationalism and internationalism."

In a measure, American universities have attempted to attain this end. Rhodes scholarships have facilitated an exchange of students with the great English universities; and special students are not rare. Exchange lecturers, who like Professor Feuillerat come to give special courses, help to dispel the prejudices of hidebound nationals. With the increasing frequency of international debates and athletic meets, it is clear that all attempts to foster an international breadth of view do not emanate from college administrative offices, yet it is equally evident that there is no sharp realization of any such ideal by student bodies.

But it is not quite true to say that "the unhappy and conflicting diversity of religious beliefs, and the unhappy and conflicting diversity of social and political theories, find their reconciliation and their unity in the university." Such a statement presupposes that college provincialism and prejudice have been swept away by the abolition of freshman caps. Yet President Butler's admission that "the university . . . is as yet only partially conscious of its place in civilization and of its mission" should spur it to a realization of its ideals. A constant contemplation of abstract virtues enabled medieval ascetics to work miracles, and that method should be effective today. The work frequently leaders like President Butler set forth an ideal of liberal university education, the sooner will it be accepted and attained.

The Sounding Board

Coming, as we do, from the Switzerland of Iowa (unglaciated section in the northeast corner of the province) we have an aversion for razing the outcrop of the Ordovician period. The country, as any inhabitant of McGregor, Elkader, Waukon, or Decorah will testify, is incomparable for scenic effects. From Pike's Peak at McGregor, thousands each year get a marvelous view of the braided channel of the Mississippi and the junction of the Wisconsin with the so-called Father of Waters, the place where Iowa was first seen by a white man.

The ice cave at Decorah and its beautiful park overlooking the Oneota river attract many from all over the state. But Decorah is not content with that. It is forever flooding the papers with tales of hidden mineral resources underlying Winneshiek county.

For years the propaganda which found its way to the Des Moines Register had to do with a "vein of coal." Unfortunately the vein which was only a few inches thick at the outset thinned out to a matter of mere millimeters by the time any other than the discoverers got to see the fuel.

The promoters turned next to discovering oil. No sooner had they determined to sell oil stock and the desired "petroleum" was found about five miles southeast of the town. Much stock was sold but the oil turned out to be cast-off axle grease of the farmers.

A tale in yesterday's Register announces that prospecting for oil has now been abandoned. Two Standard Oil chemists who were scouting for oil could not find any but they have stumbled upon radium. They will have to content themselves with that.

If the radium lately discovered is of the same quality as the previous finds, we predict that the real estate barometer will not even tremble.

SPEAKING OF TRADITIONS

The junior laws of the University of Iowa, in passing the resolutions to adopt a swagger stick, are confident that the new custom will develop "into an honored tradition with the passing of time."

OUR REPORTER GOES ABOARD FOR THE FIRST TIME

"The styles of the Minnesota co-eds are somewhat different from the styles worn on Iowa campus. Dresses are not worn as long, and at a dance anything from a sport outfit to an evening gown seems to be correct."

Which recalls the pavement dances that were so popular the Monday after the Yale game at Iowa City. Any outfit passed for a dancing frock that day. Yes, and some co-eds had not even done their kalsomining for the day.

We have looked into the game laws for the state and find that the open season on hatless furcoat wearers among males at state institutions commences Thanksgiving Day. Anglers ought to be able to get their poles ready with a week's notice.

"THE POWDER OF SYMPATHY" by Christopher Morley

Reviewed By J. W. ASHTON
Doubleday, Page—1923

Perhaps no other of our prominent columnists has the ability to write about so diverse and scattered subjects—often purely trivial subjects—quite so interestingly and pleasingly as Christopher Morley. One is apt to feel, however, that the most fitting place for such overflowings of geniality and "vest pocket wisdom" as he produces are much better adapted for the column for which they were originally written than for a serving up in a job lot such as we have in his latest book of prose selections, "The Powder of Sympathy." Appropriate as such writings are to Morley's column in the editorial page of The New York Evening Post, they lose in effectiveness as soon as they are taken from their newspaper environment, which bolsters them up, as it were; and are made to stand alone in book form.

The jacket of this book tells us that the "powder of sympathy" is a "magical 'Nostrum or Philtre' for inducing affection between 'Books' and 'Readers.'" It was originated, according to Morley, by Sir Kenelm Digby as a nostrum for healing wounds at a distance, by applying the powder to some object that had touched the wound rather than to the wound itself. "But in spite of its amiable name and properties, that powder was not talem. Its basis was vitriol; and I fear that in some of these prescriptions I have mixed a few acid crystals." But that cannot be taken as a summary of the whole book. Most certainly it is not entirely given over to a consideration of books and their merits. The volume is at times as well a eulogy of New York and the New Yorker. It may be concerned with reminiscences of other days, or it may turn to rather intimate discussions of Morley's own experiences. But throughout, it is very seldom, indeed that Morley does not make use of the acid. By far the greater part of the author's time and space is spent on amiable and informal gossiping about daily experiences that will appeal to the New Yorker as he attempts to read his evening paper in the afternoon jam of the subway.

On the forty-two brief essays in the volume one can scarcely make any sweeping comments. The subject matter is so different in each one that it remains for the reader alone to pass his own judgment on each. Undoubtedly the "Story of Ginger Cubes" is an interesting bit of fiction though it needs the serial quality which publication of parts of it day by day brought. Then if only to find out the meaning of "exodontia," one may well read "Matthew Arnold and Exodontia." This particular specimen is a splendid example of the way in which the author wanders serenely from one subject to another as remote as can be in the same essay.

To be brief, such a work as this latest one of Morley's is a direct and legitimate descendant of the periodical essay of the eighteenth century in its most informal stage. But its environment has changed it to a diminutive affair to be read between intervals of picking cinders out of one's eyes as he commutes rather than in the relative calm of the coffee house. There is the same sense, however, of informality and intimacy about most of these observations as we find in their almost forgotten relatives.

The Powder of Sympathy, then, may well serve as a cure for mental fatigue. For the most part it is not a thought-provoking book it is not intended to be. It is not even especially humorous. It is simply a mildly pleasing concoction to be administered when needed. Under some circumstances it might serve as a sedative; more often it may be administered as a restorative in the last five minutes before lunch. It is not all the best thing that Morley has done.

American Artists Turning To Portraits and Figures

CHICAGO, Nov. 22 (AP)—That painters of today are doing more and more of the work of the past, getting away from the pure landscape, is indicated in the present exhibition at the Art Institute here of American paintings and sculpture.

in which is represented the works of artists and sculptors from all parts of the United States.

Another notable absence in the 292 pieces of art selected for the exhibition, in the opinion of the jury, is any marked influence of the so-called modern or post-impressionistic school. While many of the paintings show a progressive broadening of treatment and technique, at the same time there are none that speak an unintelligible language.

"A comparison of the paintings of today with the work of the masters of one or two centuries ago, shows that our artists are using much brighter colors and many more of them," members of the jury declare. "They are painting in a much higher key, which is said to be an indication of joyousness."

The Iowan Staff

constitutes the most representative campus group

The Daily Iowan staff includes approximately 100 students this year. They spend more time working on The Daily Iowan than is spent in any other branch of extra-curricular activity including athletics if that is divided into the several branches of sports. However The Daily Iowan staff finds time to take part in practically every activity there is around the University.

The group represents membership in about eighty various campus organizations and activities. This fact makes it representative of the entire student body.

Eighteen fraternities in addition to honorary greek letter organizations are represented this year by thirty-five members. At least a half dozen honorary fraternities are represented and one member of the staff is president of two of these.

Fourteen of the campus sororities have twenty-four members on the Iowan staff this year.

Six women's literary societies have seventeen women in journalistic work here this year. The three men's literary societies have seven on The Iowan staff.

The president of the forensic council is a night editor.

The president, vice-president and four members of the student council are included on the staff.

The editor of the Hawkeye is a night editor.

The captain of the tennis team the last two years is a sports writer.

The freshman football captain last year is managing editor.

The captain of the women's swimming team last year is a reporter.

Ambassadors Council Rules That Crown Prince May Remain in Germany

PARIS, Nov. 21 (AP)—The allies through their representatives in the ambassadors' council tonight agreed to notify Germany that the inter-ally military control mission will remain its functions in that the reich and that the Berlin government is bound to afford it facilities and protection.

They also decided upon a second communication in which they note the further crown prince's letter regarding the throne of Prussia and voice expectations that the German government will see to it that Frederick William faithfully observes the promises made therein. Under those conditions the allies will not insist upon laying hold of the prince but they declared the German government must rigidly adhere to its assurance that the return of former Kaiser William to Germany will not be tolerated.

First Agreement in Two Years
This is the first time the allies have agreed upon a question relating to the execution by Germany of the treaty of Versailles since the partition of upper Silesia was referred to the league of nations two years ago.

The agreement was reached by mutual concessions upon the part of France and Great Britain. The former withdrew from its stand that notes should take the form of an ultimatum and indicate to the German government the measures to be taken by the allies if the demands were not met. The British consented to a change in the wording to satisfy objections upon the part of the French cabinet.

The spirit of give and take which resulted in saving the entente is regarded as the best augury for the settlement of the other questions on which France and Britain are divided, although there appears to be some apprehension in French circles as to how parliament will receive the ambassadors' conclusions.

Think Poincare Mild
In this connection significance was attached to today's debate in the foreign affairs committee of the chamber of deputies where Premier Poincare's policy toward Germany was resuscitated as too mild with General Viscount DeCastelnau, former chief of staff, among the critics of the government.

The salvation of the entente caused no little joy in official circles, however, and Jules Cambon, to whom a great share of the credit for the result is attributed as the object of warm complaints from his former colleagues of the foreign office and from the other members of the ambassadors' council.

Speculation as to the impression the news will make in Berlin tends toward the belief that Chancellor Stresemann will find them as mild and conciliatory as it could be possible to expect. The general opinion among diplomats is that the German chancellor will find it advisable to do all he can to comply with the allied demands rather than risk another note harsher in tone and terms, though some believe the great delay in reaching a decision will weaken its effect.

The clearing of the diplomatic atmosphere was so evident that the correspondents waiting in the cold dusk had to ask no questions to know that the entente had been saved.

Hart Supervises Investigation of Children's Ability

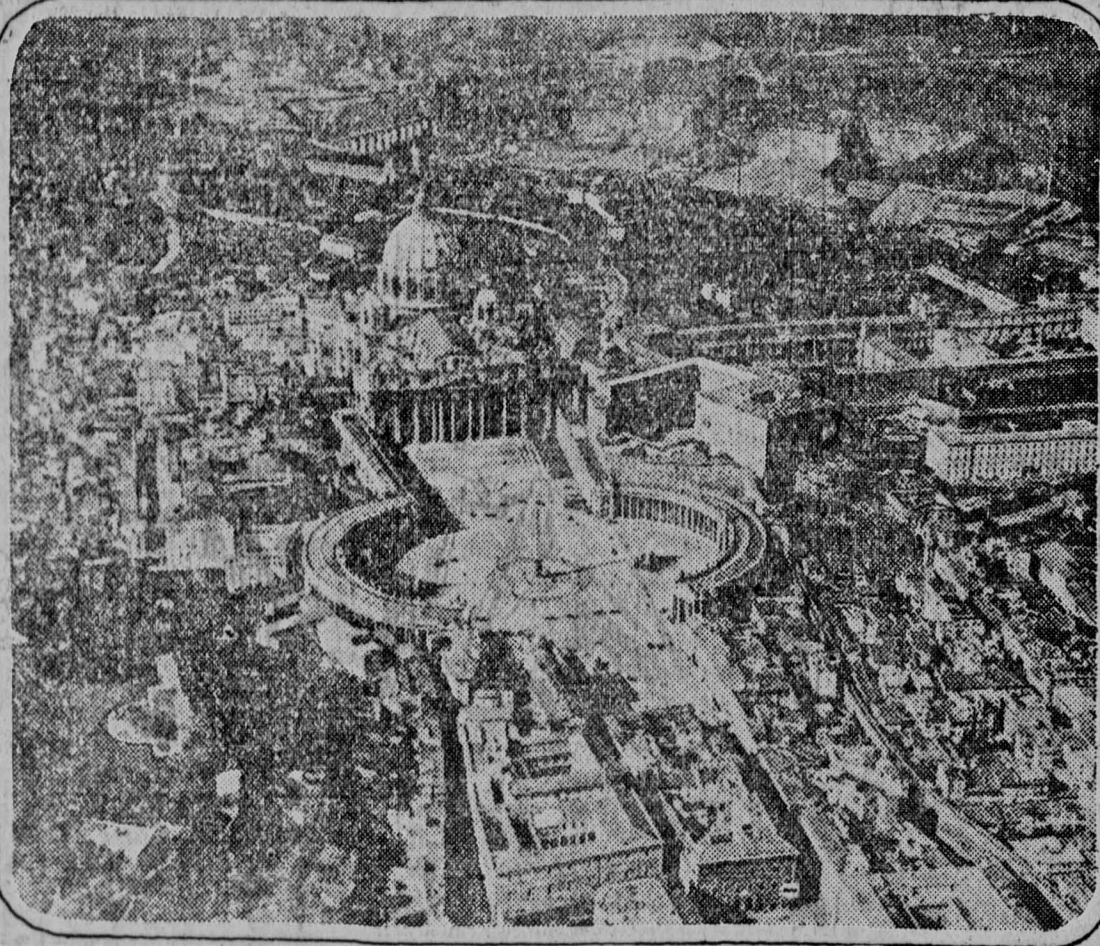

Hornell Hart, associate research professor of the child welfare station, is conducting investigations as to the achievement, social knowledge, intelligence, condition of home, and family of fifteen-year old boys and girls in Javenport. In order to secure this data, socialization tests, Alpha intelligence tests, and achievement tests are given to the children.

Miss Julia Kirkwood, research assistant of the child welfare station, has charge of the giving of the intelligence tests in connection with this investigation. Professor Hart is also investigating the size of the families in which there are feeble-minded children.

Democrat Caucus Called for Dec. 1

Rep. Garrett of Tennessee, Leader

Will Probably Ask for Greater Representation on Committees This Year

By The Associated Press
WASHINGTON, Nov. 21—A call was issued today for a caucus of democratic members of the house Saturday night, December 1. House republicans will hold a conference that afternoon—two days before congress convenes—for organization purposes.

The democratic caucus call went out after Representative Garrett of Tennessee, who acted as minority leader in the last congress, had conferred with Representative Oldfield of Arkansas, who was the democratic whip, and Representative Rayburn, of Texas, who served as chairman of the democratic caucus, and other party leaders.

Those who participated in the conferences expressed the opinion that the democrats in the next house should have greater representation on important committees—nine places on committees having a membership of 21, and eleven on the ways and means committee, which has 25 members. In the last congress, when the republican majority in the house approximated 170 the ratio was fifteen and six on committees generally, and seventeen and eighteen on the ways and means committee. The proportion is determined by the republicans on the committees.

Democratic leaders generally predict that Mr. Garrett will be put forward for speaker, automatically becoming leader of the party with the election of republican speaker. Plans are being made to name Representative Henry T. Rainey of Illinois, as chairman of the democratic caucus, and to return him again to the ways and means committee, where he served for many years.

Higher Values of Life

This is the eighth of a series of articles on the "Higher Values of Life." "What is Most Worth While," or "The Highest Good." The papers were submitted anonymously to Prof. George T. Patrick by students in his course in philosophy.

What is the highest value? Is it something that can be purchased with money, something to be bought and sold in the markets of men, or is it money itself with the consequent power and material prosperity it brings? Is it beauty, truth, goodness, love, friendship, happiness? The question is one that every man will settle for himself. His choice will depend on various things. I am not even sure that the highest value in life is the same for all men.

For the poet beauty may well be one of the highest values of life for his soul is attuned to catch, through this medium, the meaning and purpose of the universe. Beauty operates in a way to bring out all that is fullest and best in his character and existence.

To the philosopher truth may seem to be the most worth while things in life. The search for and reverence of truth may develop in him those qualities which will lift him

To my mind the highest value of life comes through the recognition of the imperfections of life and the eternal striving for betterment, that undying aspiration that sees its tower built toward the clouds all in a heap of ruins and takes the stones and begins to build anew, that unquenchable fire that teaches a man that you may strip him of all material possessions and still leave the most vital part of existence.

It is the spark of the divine in man which shows itself in the dissatisfaction with imperfection and the desire to better conditions.

Following this gleam will lead to one of the highest values of life—the development of the individual to the farthest possible degree—in those virtues which the entire world recognizes as fundamental and basal.

Truth, beauty, love, goodness—these things do not come to a man automatically or by inheritance but by his attempt to come into harmony with the great forces of the universe through effort—desire to become more like the true and the perfect One.

Iowa Men Shovel Coal and Sell Candy To See Team in Action at Minnesota

Michigan rooters have no monopoly on novel methods of going out-of-town to football games. A number of Iowa fans showed just as much originality in getting to the recent Iowa-Minnesota fracas. The special to Minneapolis had employed several detectives whose job it was to oust any "bums" lurking in unobtrusive corners. Following the conductor through the train were two burly "dicks," who looked as though they would prefer throwing any man through the window rather than bother to open the door, should there be anything questionable about his presence on the train or the ticket he possessed.

In spite of this, several Iowa men risked discovery and "bummed" their way. One hid beneath a berth until after the car had been checked, and then crawled out and got into the berth with one of the Iowa cheer leaders. He not only escaped discovery on the way to Minnesota but rode back in the same way.

Two others were not so fortunate when they attempted to "hook a ride" on the engine tender. They were discovered early on the trip and it was only after a long racking argument and separation with the few shekels which they had that they were allowed to remain on the train. When they got to Minneapolis, they had no tickets for the game, so they dressed in white sweaters of the Minnesota yell leaders, marched in and sat on the 50 yard line. They shoveled coal on the engine of the special to get back.

A number of other Iowa fans were also without tickets but none of them missed the game for that reason. Four had but two tickets so they doubled up and occupied the space reserved for two. Some others waited until a large crowd was going into the gate and then walked in. When asked for their tickets they jerked their thumbs over their shoulders as though to indicate that someone pushing behind had them.

Four freshmen football men got concessions to sell sandwiches, apples, and candy on the special and thus earned their fares. But the one the most determined to see the game started out from Iowa City walking. He caught rides all the way to Minneapolis in plenty of time for the game—not any the worse off for having chosen his particular method of seeing the game. All of which sets a good example for those going to Northwest-

The court began imposing sentences on the convicted men late this afternoon before a court room choked with curious crowds and weeping women, most of them the wives of the defendants.

Dr. Cook was found guilty in the verdict on twelve counts of the indictment against him, as were all other defendants, save Cox, whose verdict found him guilty of eight counts.

The jury was out twenty hours. After it had delivered its verdict, Judge Killits launched into a bitter arraignment of Dr. Cook, who quailed before the sting of the court's words.

Dr. Cook made an international character of sheer effrontery was conducting a school of crime and operating a cold-blooded, deliberate confidence game, disguised as the Petroleum Producer's Association, Judge Killits asserted.

His general denunciation was made while thanking the jury for nearly six weeks of tireless service. "You have done what I expected you to do," the court said, "when this nefarious scheme began to unfold in the evidence."

Wives of eleven of the defendants were in the courtroom. Before the jury came in Mrs. E. E. J. Cox and Mrs. Marie Cook, former wife of Dr. Cook, had been laughing together, but as the verdict came from the lips of the clerk the face of Mrs. Cox became deathly pale. She sat immobile.

German Crew to Fly New Zeppelin To America Soon

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, Germany, Nov. 21 (AP)—Among the Germans who opposed as impractical the idea of Count Zeppelin, when his dirigible airship plans were announced some 20 years ago, was Dr. Hugo Eckener, now one of the chiefs of the Zeppelin company here which is building the ZR-3 for the United States navy.

According to the present schedule Dr. Eckener, it appears will act as the pilot of the ZR-3 when the big ship starts her trans-Atlantic flight next spring. He will have under him a German crew of about 24 men, all expert in their respective lines, and including several officers who saw much Zeppelin service during the war.

The Zeppelin company will have the responsibility of delivery of the ship to American officials. As soon as she alights upon American shores the ZR-3 will be turned over formally to Captain G. W. Steele, who is now here, to inspect the ship in the various stages of her construction. Captain Steele was designated by Secretary Denby some months ago as commander of the ZR-3 when she lands in the United States.

Coach Jones Names Twenty-seven Men to Make Final Football Trip of Season

Team Leaves at Midnight Tonight

Griffen and Dauber Back in Uniform

Graham and Hancock Drill on Punting with Fisher Out

Coach Jones and his warriors will depart for Chicago this evening on the mid-night train over the Rock Island railroad arriving in Chicago early Friday morning. The men that will make the trip are: Capt. Miller, Graham, Roberts, Dauber, Schirmer, Boydston, Fisher, Coulter, Parkin, Fry, Scantlebury, Yerkes, Romey, Otte, Hancock, Barrett, Harding, Kriz, Krasuski, Walters, Johnstone, Fleckenstein, Olson, Mohndehauer, Pearson, Griffen, McIntyr. Coaches Howard H. Jones, and Maj. R. J. Hill, Medical Supervisor Dr. Feisler, Robert Burgett, equipment man, and K. E. Griffen, manager. Colby, Locke, and Shutteworth will leave Friday night. Cheer leaders, Cass and Powers will undoubtedly make the trip by automobile. The team headquarters will be at the North Shore Hotel. The squad will arrive in Iowa City Sunday at 7:50 o'clock.

A long hard practice was indulged in last night by Coach Jones's huskies, with two of the injured appearing in uniform. Griffen and Dauber capered around on the field but took no active part in the drill. It is doubtful if any of the trio—Griffen, Dauber, or Fisher—will play in the Northwestern game. The coaches gave both Graham and Hancock drills on punting each evening just before the regular session so that in case Fisher is unable to play the kicking end of the game will fall to the lot of these men.

Signal practice was included in the night's program, with all three teams participating. A defense against Northwestern plays was practiced by the varsity with the third string on the attacking end. Jones again spent a long time instructing his men on the proper method of line blocking and charging.

The seconds opposed the varsity in scrimmage and the teams lined up with Otte and Romey at ends; Kriz and Hancock at the tackles; Fleckenstein and Olson at guards; and McIntyre at the pivot for the varsity line. The varsity backfield had Fry, Parkin, and Scantlebury alternating at quarter Schirmer and Roberts were at the halves; and Miller and Graham alternated at fullback. The seconds had the team lined up with Barrett and Harding at the wings Johnstone and Holdenbauer were at tackles Pearson and Hobart at guards; and Walters at full; and Coulter and Keyes were at halves. The varsity romped on the seconds in this engagement, gaining almost at will, and showing an aggressiveness that had been lacking for some time. Parkin, Scantlebury, Miller and Graham did the ground gaining for the varsity and the ends and the halves snared some nice passes with which the quarters mixed up the style of play.

Biggest Red Cross Roll Call Since War Organized in Iowa

DES MOINES, Iowa, Nov. 21.—With Red Cross roll call reports coming in every day at state headquarters here, Judge Hubert Utterback, state chairman, declared today that seventy-five per cent of the state is already thoroughly organized for the biggest roll call in Iowa since the war ended.

The roll call has been delayed in several cities by other civic drives, but in every instance it will be completed before Thanksgiving day, November 29, state directors are assured.

The state is fairly sure to exceed its quota and to make the roll call the largest since 1919, according to Judge Utterback.

Big Ten Teams All Swing Into Action Saturday

Minnesota Primes to Down Michigan Eleven

Illinois Looms As Possible Conference Pennant Winner

After a comparative light weekend last Saturday, a weekend in which two of the conference teams competed in non-conference games, all of the conference elevens will swing into action again this coming Saturday, the final day of the 1923 season. With Minnesota showing such strength against Iowa and Michigan falling to show more stuff against Wisconsin last Saturday this week promises to be full of many thrills for the football fans and many hard nights of practice and grueling games for the coaches and players. Gophers and Wolverines meet subtle Minnesota at Michigan.

The game of chief interest will of course be the Minnesota-Michigan clash at Ann Arbor. Both teams have yet to be defeated and while Minnesota has had its record marred a little by its game with Wisconsin October 27 it will be fighting for a chance to tie with Illinois for conference honors. Minnesota has not won a conference championship for some years and will do everything it can to come into the ascendancy. Its unexpected strong showing against the Hawkeyes last week should give the individual members of the team added confidence in themselves and in their team. The Gophers will be further aided by the fact that Blott and Utertz of Michigan will both be out of the coming game. Broken legs are keeping them on the hospital list and there is but a slight chance of them getting in shape for Saturday. Gophers at top pitch ahead.

Coach Spaulding has developed his eleven slowly and carefully and it is now apparently at high pitch. Another week's polishing up exercises should put it in the best of trim for the Wolverines.

Illinois at Ohio State.

Illinois, the other leader in the Big Ten race, will meet Ohio State at Columbus. Illinois has defeated Iowa, Northwestern, Chicago, and Wisconsin in addition to three non-conference teams and is a big favorite in its final game with the Buckeyes. There is the possibility however that Ohio might come through against Illinois and win their only conference game of the season as was the case last year. In 1921 Illinois knocked Ohio down and gave Iowa a clear claim to the conference title. It was the first game Illinois had won and the only one Ohio had lost. It would be mighty interesting to say the least if Ohio did to Illinois Saturday what Illinois did to Ohio two years ago.

Wisconsin at Chicago.

The conference game of next interest will be the Wisconsin-Chicago game at Chicago. Both teams have been defeated by Illinois and Saturday's engagement will be somewhat of a consolation affair. Because of the Badger's strong showing against Michigan the Madison men are given slight odds in the betting this week.

Iowa at Northwestern

Iowa will meet Northwestern at Evanston. It will be the Purple's Homecoming contest and while the Northwestern team is expected to throw its all into the game Iowa is expected to win. However, Griffen, Fisher and Dauber are forced to remain out of the game. Northwestern will probably run up a much closer score than it otherwise would.

Jewish Pogrom in Berlin Followed by Looting

German police trying to halt looting of shops in Berlin following pogrom

The recent Jewish pogrom in Berlin which resulted in the driving out of most of the residents of the Jewish quarter of the German capital, has aroused the indignation of Jewish folk and sympathizers the world over. Jewish leaders charge that the German security police were only lukewarm in their efforts to halt the attack. Much damage was done to shops in the looting.

Griffith Praises Athletics In Western Intercollegiate Circles

By John L. Griffith
Western conference athletics today occupy an exalted position in the world of sport. First of all, mid-western teams for several years have shown on the playing fields that they are at least the equal of the teams from other sections of the country. It has not been an easy matter for the coaches of these mid-western states to produce teams that could battle successfully with teams from the other states. Tradition is an important factor in the mind of the good athlete who aspires to try for a place on a leading college team and quite naturally many of the best men from conference territory have elected to enroll in eastern universities.

Westerners Go East
A large number of the varsity men on the teams of the ten biggest universities in the east are the product of the farms and cities of Indiana, Ohio, Illinois, Iowa, Minnesota, Wisconsin and Michigan, while less than one hundred of the nineteen hundred varsity men in the conference are from territory beyond the middle west. Now that the athletics of this section are as good as the athletics in the colleges elsewhere it is reasonable to expect that our boys will for the most part in the future be satisfied with the colleges nearer home. Consequently the comparative standard of excellence of our teams should not deteriorate but rather be improved from year to year.

Race Planned for Longchamps Stirs Racing World

Predict "Big Four" To Take Place of Famous "Big Three"

NEW YORK, Nov. 21—Conclusion of negotiations for resumption of football relations between Dartmouth and Yale was viewed tonight in athletic circles as proof of recent forecasts that plans are well under way for the organization of a "Big Four" in collegiate athletic ranks to replace the present "Big Three," with the Green as the addition to the Harvard-Princeton-Yale triangle.

Freshmen Battle Seconds Tonight

Play on Iowa Field at 4:15 P. M.

Captain Rice and Yearlings To Earn Trip to Evanston

All set to fight to beat the varsity seconds and earn a trip to Evanston, the freshman football squad will line up against their older rivals at 4:15 this afternoon. The benefit game will be the final one of the year on Iowa Field and should draw a good crowd.

The freshmen have played consistent football all season and have several performers who should push some of the varsity regulars next season. Hogan at quarter is the coolest player on the squad; he can punt, drop-kick, pass and run equally well. Margolies and Schmidt also star in backfield positions while Daniels, Galloway and Rice are strong line players.

Line-ups have not been announced but it is probably that Coach Scott of the freshmen will use Smith and Rice, ends; Daniels and Bishop, tackles; Indon and Englehart, guards; Johnson, center; Hogan, quarterback; Miner and Margolies, halfbacks and Schmidt, fullback. Janse, Meyers, Swanson, Galloway, O'Neil and Smith are likely to see action.

Tickets are on sale at Whetstone's, the Academy, and Racine's No. 1. They may also be purchased from members of the freshman squad or at the box office at the gate for fifty cents.

Joe Dundee Wins Decision Over Joe Welling in Bout

BALTIMORE, Md., Nov. 21 (AP)—Joe Dundee of Baltimore was awarded the decision over Joe Welling, Chicago, veteran, after a twelve round bout here tonight.

Welling floored Dundee for a count of eight in the second round but was unable to cope with his rugged young opponent after that.

Jones Asks for Quiet At Train After Ten Tonight

"All out for the pep meeting!" That is the call that will be sounded in the four corners of the campus today as the team prepares to leave on its final football trip of the season.

Aided by the University band which will be on hand at 7 o'clock tonight the pepsters will assemble on the east steps of the liberal arts building for a good and snappy round of songs and yells. Although the team's train does not leave until midnight it is imperative that the men be in their pullman and asleep by 10 p. m. For that reason the session at the train will probably be short and the backers asked to disperse in order that the fighting Hawkeyes may get a good night's rest and thus enable them to put their all into the battle with the Purple.

The team will return at 7:50 a. m. Sunday and it is hoped that more enthusiasm will be shown about meeting the team then was the case last week.

Wait With Gun to Collect Big Debt

Father and Son Are Taken by Poicle

Came From Tennessee to Chicago to Settle Score; Ready To Kidnap Debtor

By The Associated Press
CHICAGO, Nov. 21.—Waiting "for their man" in a crowded Chicago street armed with guns, a large amount of ammunition and hand-cuffs, Everett P. Leonard, president of the Serviette company of Chattanooga, Tennessee, and his 18 year old son, Willard, were arrested today on complaint of Roger Naylor, president of the Sante Products company.

Naylor called for police protection, saying he feared the man and his son were waiting for him and the two were found outside the Board of Trade building, near Naylor's office, heavily armed and waiting, Leonard said to collect a debt of $9,000 from Naylor.

After their arrest Naylor told police of a kidnapping starting from his Chicago office, when the two men walked in, while business life continued all about, handcuffed Naylor, forced him to call business friends and request them to wire his wife that he would be out of the city for a long time.

He was then forced to go aboard a train for Chattanooga under threat of death and taken to the Leonard home, Naylor said, where he was held a prisoner for 26 days, finally escaping and returning to Chicago where he was held a prisoner Naylor said the two forced him to sign agreements which they knew were impossible to fulfill.

The Leonard's were booked on charges of threats to kill pending the filing of other charges.

"That man robbed me and many of my friends in Chattanooga of $9,000," said Leonard after his arrest. "My company is about to go into bankruptcy as a result."

Would Unify Efforts To Help Needy Litigants

GENEVA, Nov. 2 (AP)—Further evidence of the desire of American organizations to co-operate with the League of Nations in humanitarian efforts, is found in the fact that a United States national association which is devoted to obtaining civil justice for the poor and needy has asked the League to convene an international conference of all world agencies which are dedicated to protecting the rights of the poor.

At the recent general assembly of the League the Norwegian delegation brought up this subject officially, and it was decided to place it on the agenda of next year's assembly. Mean time the secretary-general was requested to procure all possible information bearing on the possibility of securing international co-operation on this question. Norway has submitted a communication showing that organizations to secure legal justice for the poor exist in most countries, the general aim being to furnish legal assistance to people who are too poor and helpless to employ lawyers.

Dorcas Asks Students To File Applications

Herbert C. Dorcas, University registrar has issued a statement that all students who expect to receive a degree or a certificate at the January convocation must file a formal application at the registrar's office. This should be done immediately, according to the statement, because it is a necessary preliminary to graduation, and there is danger that the recommendation will not go through if application is made too late. Convocation will be held January 30.

Asiatic Group is Heard by Hughes

Weak Government Bar To Development

Believe That U. S. Negotiations With Central Government Would Give Strength

Washington, Nov. 21.—Two delegations representing the China and Asiatic societies conferred with Secretary Hughes today regarding conditions in China and told him that development of American business in China at present was all but impossible, due principally to the absence of a central government possessing power to speak for all of China.

Although the reply of Secretary Hughes was not made public, it is known that difficulties experienced by the American minister in Peking and his colleagues of the diplomatic corps in all recent negotiations with the Peking government have been due to just the situation outlined by Mr. Hughes' visitors.

The course of negotiations conducted by the Peking diplomats relative to the Lincheng bandit outrage and similar incidents in China has been determined by the powers largely upon the theory that while the central Chinese government was in fact lacking in power and unrecognized in many parts of China, it would tend to increase the authority of that government to deal with it and require of it such protection as all civilized nations extend to foreign subjects within their jurisdiction.

Buddhist Nuns Nurse Sick in Far Tibet

Goddess Dolma is Buddhist Counterpart of Virgin Mary of Christians

TIEN-TSIN, Nov. 21 (AP)—Miles beyond the ramparts of snowy peaks separating the two Buddhist states of Sikkim and Tibet, among the crags of the mountains that rise from the arid plains north of Gyantse, little white specks nestle in the cliffs. These are the abode of the nuns of the Goddess Dolma, "She who hears the cries of all the world."

The Goddess Dolma is the Buddhist counterpart of the Virgin Mary of the Christians. Her nuns forsake the world and all its pleasures and dressed in red cloaks, barefooted and with shaved heads, they go about relieving pain and sorrow. Their fare is frugal and their lives bare of material comforts.

A bell tolls. It is the call of some distressed person for assistance, perhaps miles away. The nuns gather. An old abbess, kindly and skillful in administration from long experience in ministering to mankind, directs the nuns to their duties. With a little food and staffs to aid them in climbing up and down the mountains the nuns go forth to where duty calls. Their duties performed they return, weary and worn, but happy, to await the next call.

The paths the nuns take are beset by many dangers. Wild animals are everywhere. Storms beat down on them, but they are brave. They sleep in the open while on journeys. Stones are their pillows and the sky their only covering. Birds seem to sense there is no danger, and follow the nuns to be fed.

Credits Red-Heads With Perseverance and Ambition

BERKELEY, Cal., Nov. 21 (AP)—Red-haired persons make the best explorers and conquerors, contends Herbert E. Bolton, professor of American history at the University of California. He credits them with great initiative and persevering ambition.

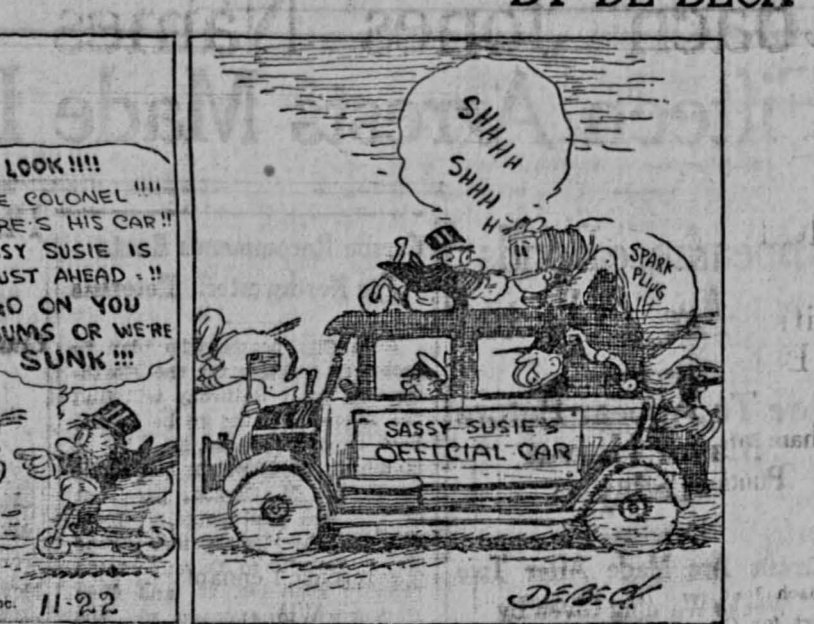

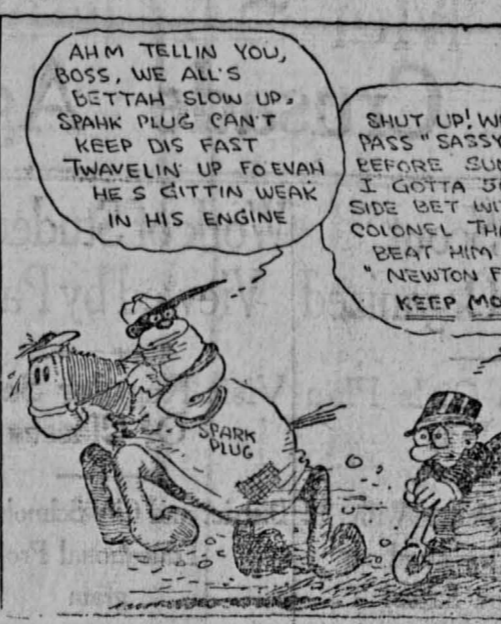

The professor cites in support of his theory Columbus, Pedro de Alvarado, the most noted of Cortes' assistants, and O'Connor, prominent in the expansion of the American south west, all were graced with red hair.

Students Pay $3 for Board and Room When Taught Education In Normal

In 1856 the college of education was a normal training department, which included such courses as reading, writing, arithmetic, geography, and other high school normal subjects. Students were listed as males and females, and it is interesting to note that there were sixteen males and twenty-eight females enrolled in the department. Females had to be at least fifteen years of age to enter the course and males had to be seven-teen years old. Everyone had to sign a paper promising that he would teach after finishing the course. No students but those who signed this declaration were allowed to enroll for this course.

Fifteen Arrests Made In Last Night's Crusade Against Motor Vehicle Law Violators

Appearance Bonds Are Collected

Are To Appear Before Mayor Harvat Today

Arrests Are Made After Two Weeks Warning Given by Local Police

Fifteen motorists were apprehended by traffic cop M. L. Garner during the first night of the campaign against the violators of the motor vehicle laws concerning the lighting system.

After two weeks of warning the campaign began with the fifteen arrests which were made last night. When apprehended, the violators were taken to the police station where a cash bond was collected and they were assigned to appear before Mayor Harvat today to appeal their cases.

Fourteen were arrested for operating a motor vehicle without a tail light for which an appearance bond of $3.95 was paid, three were arrested for speeding and operating a motor vehicle without tail lights for which $11.90 and $7.95 respectively were the fees collected. Two were arrested for operating a motor vehicle without proper head lights for which the fee of $3.95 was exacted.

This campaign against the violators of the motor vehicle law is the result of a series of oft repeated warnings issued by the police department. Section 25, paragraph C of the motor vehicle law, regarding this particular matter, reads in part as follows:

"All motor vehicles in use on the public highways excepting motorcycles, motor bicycles, and such other motor vehicles as are properly equipped with one light in forward center of such motor vehicle, shall, during the period from one-half hour after sunrise to the period of one-half hour before sunset, display two or more white or tinted lights, other than red, on the forward part of the vehicle, so placed as to be seen from the front, and of sufficient illuminating power to be visible at a distance of 500 feet in the direction in which displayed. Such motor vehicle when in use shall also display on the rear a lamp so constructed and placed as to show a red light

Carson Recommends Route For Northwestern Motorists

Iowa City people who plan to motor to Chicago for the Northwestern game Saturday will find the following route to be in the best condition, according to a statement made public last night by Robert N. Carson, president of the Red Ball route.

Iowa City to DeWitt via primary road No. 7, DeWitt to Davenport via primary road No. 20, and from Davenport to Chicago via the Lincoln highway. The paved road commences thirteen miles west of Davenport and is continuous to Chicago.

Repair Work on Streets Finished

75,000 Square Yards of Paving Laid, Plan Big Repair Program Next Year

All repair work on the city streets was finished yesterday noon, according to P. E. Young, engineer, and after the newly laid strips are rolled, the paving program for this year will have been completed.

Altogether 75,000 square yards of paving have been laid this fall in streets in which the old surface was entirely torn up. In addition, in several streets portions of the original paving, which was cracked, were removed, and repair strips of new asphalt laid. About ten blocks were repaired in this fashion, while nearly fifty blocks were almost entirely resurfaced, in many cases only the curbing remaining intact.

A big program of pavement repair and resurfacing similar to that done this fall is planned for next year. The work will probably start in the spring as soon as weather conditions make the laying of pavement possible.

Physical Education Day is November 24

County Schools Will Pay Especial Attention to Health Training

National Education week is being observed throughout the nation from November 18 to 24. Saturday November 24, has been designated as physical education day. Following the suggestion of the Iowa Tuberculosis association the schools of the county will pay especial attention to physical education and health training work.

This will be just a few days before the formal opening of the sale of Red Cross Christmas seals, and during this week Christmas seal posters will be displayed in the school rooms and in public buildings.

Christmas seal money has been used in this state for health education and it is largely due to the use of the Christmas seal funds in this way that Iowa has led the nation for the last three years in school health work.

New Girl Scout Troop Organized

Thirty-two Girls Plan To Join

Two Brownie Packs With 32 Members Organized at Longfellow School

The organization of a new Girl Scout troop and two Brownie packs at the Longfellow grade school yesterday under the direction of Miss Carol Preston, instructor in the new scout course, and Mrs. F. A. Kinney, local supervisor. Miss Preston made clear to the girls the meaning of scouting and the obligation to society that it infers.

Thirty-two girls have signified their desire to join the new troop, but they must get the required consent of their parents before their names will be placed on the roll as members. Miss Margaret H. Dearmond A3 of Tiffin and Miss Ruth E. Parker A3 of Iowa City were named captain and first lieutenant respectively.

Two Brownie packs, consisting of thirty-two members in all, were formed with Mrs. B. H. Davis as brown owl or supervisor, and Miss Marian Maresh, pack-leader of No. 1, and Miss Florence Bradley as brown owl of the other. The following are the members of the two packs: Mildred Wilsell, Grace Dane, Eleanor Laurer, Ellene Pratt, Mildred Redman, Helen Fitzgerald, Gretchen Neuman, Helen Rotherbacher, Isabelle Smith, Helen Williams, Mary Horriben, Rowena Stevens, Mary Evelyn Burris, Catherine Crain, Phyllis Murphy, Ruth Volmer, Irene Sievers, Margaret Wolfe, Margaret Chittenden, Doris Young, Dorothy Menden, Jean Peters, Helen Miller, Edith Nelson, Helen Burrell, Lillian Potter, L. Heiner, Mary Moyer, Ruth Holderness, Eva Holderness, Mary E. Ashdown.

The Brownie organization belongs to the same group as the national scout organization and is the stepping-stone to the Girl Scouts. Any girl from seven to ten years of age may join. The members are divided into groups of six, each taking the name of some brownie, such as "owls, elf, pixie, or imp. The brownies seek in every way to develop obedience, promptness, and cheerfulness among the four classes of the brownies: wee ones, tinklers, trusly and true brownies.

Work of Students Viewed by Parents

Visit Regular Sessions Of Classes

District and City Schools Follow Educational Program

A large number of parents manifested their willingness to co-operate in making national education week a success by visiting the various schools of the city yesterday and observing how and what is being taught. Iowa City high school reported a large number of visitors during the day. H. L. Ballinger, principal of Longfellow grade school, was especially impressed with the large number of visitors in the morning. "We were glad to see so many morning visitors," said Mr. Ballinger, "for it is usually difficult for the parents to come at this time when some of our most interesting classes are in session." Iowa City high school and Longfellow grade school will also welcome parents today.

University high school contributed its share of Wednesday's activities through the talks given by Miss Ella Crabb of the Latin department, Miss Jean E. Richmond of the home economics department, and Miss Helen Eddy of the French department. Each of these pointed out the specific values of their respective subjects; Miss Crabb stressed the meaning of Latin for a complete understanding of English; Miss Eddy emphasized cultural values of French and Miss Richmond spoke of the relation of home economics to the other arts and sciences and its close relation to the enjoyment and understanding of life.

Several of the rural teachers in the one and two room schools followed Supt. W. N. Leeper's instructions to recognize the national education week program by calling meetings of the parents of their respective districts. This indicates a definite advance towards one of the main aims of education week.

Bank Head Declares Prosperity Will Continue Well Into Coming Summer

Wall Street Summary Total stock sales were 1,331,000 shares

20 Industrials averaged 92.10; gain, .87 High 1923, 105.36; low 85.76 20 railroads averaged, 84.20; net gain, .69 High 1923, 90.51; low 79.53

By The Associated Press NEW YORK, Nov. 21 —Railroad shares again assumed the leadership of the upward movement of stock prices in today's unusually active market. Industrials, however, were by no means neglected and recorded substantial gains. Foreign exchange rates jumped forward and December and May cotton futures sold at more than 35 cents a pound, the highest prices in three years.

Circulation in the financial district of a bullish forecast for 1924 by one of Wall Street's most prominent operators who predicted that investors in railroads securities would recover next year a considerable part of the 3,000,000,000 lost by them in the past fifteen years, and the publication of another series of favorable October earnings statements contributed to the sharp movement upward in the forenoon.

Industrials were given new impetus by the statement of George F. Banker, head of the First National bank, that general prosperity in this country would continue well into next summer and the late afternoon announcement that the council of ambassadors had reached an accord over the allied policy toward Germany influenced buoyant movement.

Buying in the railroad group was spread over a broad list, but was particularly effective in the seasoned dividend paying issues. "Big Four" jumped five points to 111, a new high record for the year. Other high spots were Atlantic Coast Line, Chicago & Northwestern, Rock Island six and seven per cent issues, New York Ontario & Western and Reading, all up one or more points upon the day. Xmas Seal Sale Begins December 1

Health Department is In Charge

Proceeds Will Be Used for Drive Against White Plague

The annual sale of Christmas seals will begin on Saturday, December 1, and will continue until New Year's day. The seals are being sold under the auspices of the Iowa Tuberculosis association which will use the proceeds in local public health work and in a statewide drive against the white plague.

Prof. E. L. Waterman of the sanitary engineering department is in charge of the sale in this county. He will be assisted by Miss Helena Stewart of the public health department. The sale will be carried on in the rural districts of the county as in the cities and towns by the school children, who will be working in the interest of the modern health crusade which is an organization in the public schools fostered by the public health department.

The Women's association of the university will conduct the sale of the seals on the campus and among the students as it has done in former years. Letters are now being addressed to about 3,000 citizens of the county, each letter containing 200 seals and a self-addressed envelope in which the recipient may either return the money or the seals if they should not wish to buy them.
