Frivol Plans Demise; Last Issue Wednesday

Nothing daunted by the impending exams, the Frivol staff solemnly announce that the final issue of the so-called humorous organ, will be out on or around Wednesday, May 21, for the usual remuneration, two bits.

The staff modestly admits that the cover design of the "blanket number," will, due to the services of Bill Baird A2 of Mason City, be a "knockout". Remus Bootleg Query Under Fire

Committee Sees Legal Steps to Get Checks Hidden Away

(By the Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, May 17—Aid from the department of justice in getting more of the story of George Remus about payments for "protection," while in the bootlegging industry, was sought today by the senate Daugherty committee.

At the sae time, in a heated open session, the committee attempted to find out why one witness long held in reserve in its inquiry has lately been made the object of a federal prosecution and learned incidently that the department's bureau of investigation, is being extensively reorganized by Attorney General Stone since W. J. Burns, its former chief, resigned last week.

Senator Wheeler, committee prosecutor, advanced the theory that the $100,000 paid Former Secretary Fall, by E. L. Doheny, was intended to finance Mexican revolutionary activities, but the suggestion was not followed up, nor supported by testimony.

Remus, now in the Atlanta penitentiary, told yesterday of paying $250,000 or more to Jess W. Smith, dead companion of Former Attorney General Daugherty, for "protection," and offered to bring cancelled checks from "a secret secluded spot" if the committee would arrange it. Mrs. Mable Walker, Willebrandt, assistant attorney general, in charge of prohibition enforcement, notified Chairman Brookhart that a court writ would be necessary, and Senator Brookhart announced, that the department had agreed to seek the proper legal authorization.

Mrs. Willebrandt's ruling resulted from a request from Chairman Brookhart, that the department of justice, by virtue of its authority over federal prisons, authorize such a trip. The letter sent to the committee, chairman by Mrs. Willebrandt said in part:

"The attorney general was obliged to take a train shortly after receiving your telephonic request and he asked me to take this matter up with you for him.

"The statutes of the United States provide a method for allowing prisoners to leave the prison walls upon a writ ad testificandum issued by a federal court. In as much as these requests are likely to arise again, it is best both for the committee and for the department of justice to adhere strictly to the statute.

"This department volunteers to assist you by every means at our command to secure documents from Mr. Remus, but we do not feel justified in allowing a an who, during the past two and one half years, we have been prosecuting him, has brought pressure to bear upon every public official he could approach in an effort to secure favors, to be absent from prison walls, for a trip around the country, in the informal manner suggested."

House Overrides Coolidge's Veto Vote Stands 313-78

Not Sufficient Break In Senate To Defeat Bill

Friends Say Measure Will Lack Nine Senators Votes To Pass

(By the Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, May 17. — The house today easily overrode President Coolidge's veto of the soldier bonus bill and put up to the senate final word on the legislation.

The vote was 313 to 78 for repassage, or 52 more than the required two-thirds. Closer result is anticipated in the senate. The senate will consider the measure Monday at 2 o'clock.

Bonus friends in the senate admitted today that great pressure was being exerted against the bill, a great deal of which was attributed to President Coolidge's message, but they insisted not a sufficient break had occurred yet to defeat it.

Debate for an Hour

Debate in the house today lasted an hour. It centered almost entirely on the president's message. Democrats, friends and foes of the bill, assailed the message, Representative Garrett, Tennessee, democratic leader, alluding to what he termed "the intemperate language used by the president," while republicans, including Representative Longworth, their floor leader, rallied to the support of the president. Chairman Green of the house ways and means committee, which framed the bill, and Representative La Guardia, republican, New York, however, broke from the ranks in criticising the views of Mr. Coolidge.

Chairman Madden of the appropriations committee led the defense for the president, stressing particularly the president's plea for economy. On that ground he said he would change his stand for the bill. Other republicans who spoke in support of the veto did so on that ground also.

Mr. Madden emphasized that the bill threatened tax reduction, but Chairman Green replied the measure was framed with a view to the government's ability to pay and insisted it fitted in with the treasury's financial program.

Telegrams Roll In

A deluge of telegrams flooded the offices of senators today, most of them urging support of the veto.

Friends of the measure declared the latest polls showed that at the most the veto would receive support from 24 senators, or four less than voted to sustain President Harding's veto and nine less than the number necessary to sustain the present veto with all members present and voting.

American Legion officials said there was no cause for a change in their belief that the bill would be enacted into law.

In the light of President Coolidge's plea for economy it was believed in some quarters, however, that the veto might gain support on the ground that the measure threatened the tax reduction bill now in conference. What effect this sentiment may have had is undetermined, however.

Commander McFarland of the disabled American veterans issued a statement today asking congress to put the pending bill for revision of the veterans bureau laws ahead of other soldier legislation.

"Our opinion is," Mr. McFarland said, "that congress should either authorize a bonus that is a bonus or postpone action until the former service men may obtain a real compensation, rather than accept the present proposition, that is far from satisfactory and will for all future time be held as a bar when the veterans ask emergency relief from the country for which he fought."

Professor Jeffers Takes Position at Lick Observatory

Prof. Hamilton F. Jeffers, has accepted a position as assistant astronomer at the Lick Observatory with the rank of assistant professor in the University of California, at Berkeley, Calif.

Professor Jeffers, has had charge of the work in astronomy at the University for three and one half years and has done much to create interest in astronomy here. The number of students taking astronomy has more than doubled since he took charge of the work. He has supervised the building and equipment of the new student observatory which has just now been completed.

The Day at Washington

The immigration bill reached the White House.

President Coolidge was confined to the White House with a cold.

The house passed the soldier bonus bill over the president's veto.

The senate passed the army appropriation bill carrying $330,000,000.

The senate refused to attach the Gooding long and short haul bill as a rider to the army appropriation bill.

The house rules committee, agreed to have the McNary-Haugen farm relief bill taken upon the floor next Tuesday.

The United States and several Central American governments, formally approved the Tosta provisional regime in Honduras.

J Harry Philbin, director of ship sales of the shipping board told a house committee no American bids had been considered when the steamer Martha Washington was sold to Italians.

Warren Grmies, special assistant to the attorney generla, and J. E. Hoover, acting director of the bureau of investigation of the department of justice, testified before the senate Daugherty committee.

The department of justice denied a request of the senate Daugherty committee to take George Remus, convicted bootlegger, to several middlewestern cities to obtain documents and records for the committee.

Arts Craft Review Praises Hawkeye

Says College Annuals Should Be Student Publications

"The 1925 Hawkeye is in reality a student publication from every standpoint," says the Art Crafts Review in a recent article expressing the particular approval of the sincere effort made to make it truly a product of student talent.

The Review expresses the strong conviction that all college annuals should show the work of the students themselves and cited the Iowa publication as an example of one of the best year books in the country.

Professor C. H. Weller, chairman of the Hawkeye Board, was given especial praise for his "consistent efforts to have the Hawkeye portray the development of constructive art at the University as well as other student activities." J. Howard Sheldon, editor-in-chief, who has been working constantly toward the same ends, was mentioned in a like manner. Miss Jane Coventry of the department of graphic and plastic arts, has successfully supervised nearly all of the art work.

The Review concludes: "This work is properly a function of the art department of the school and the 1925 Hawkeye is a vindication of the University's firm stand and steady insistence on keeping it there."

Coolidge Suffers Bronchial Cold

Spent Day Lounging About Capital; Back To Work Monday

(By the Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, May 17—President Coolidge after a day of almost complete rest, had gained mastery today over a slight bronchial cold which had compelled him to cancel the day's engagements and remain away from the executive offices.

The president was still suffering tonight from the cold, contracted two days ago, but White House officials said he probably would be back at his desk Monday. He is expected to spend tomorrow as he spent today—lounging about his room, reading and sleeping.

The cold was described as entirely bronchial such as Mr. Coolidge has suffered at times over a long period of years. It has not become alarming, always having been dissipated by a short rest. The president has a slight bronchial weakness and frequently consults a specialist here for treatments, particularly before he makes an address.

Japanese Bill In Special Study

Measure Was Passed Through Final Stage Yesterday

WASHINGTON, May 17—(AP)—The immigration restriction bill and its Japanese exclusion provision is in the hands of the state department for study and preparation of a report to President Coolidge.

The measure was passed through its final routine stages today at the capitol, sent to the White House, submitted by the White House to the labor department and returned by that department with a report, and then sent to the state department.

The labor department's report dealt only with the administrative provisions of the bill and is understood to approve those sections. The report to be submitted by the state department, however, will be based on policy, particularly with reference to the Japanese exclusion section.

President Coolidge has been acquainted with the state department's position by Secretary Hughes and the report of that department will merely conform to the views already expressed to the president orally by Mr. Hughes.

Indications still prevailed today that the president had not decided what action he would take on the measure. He has until May 29 to act on it.

Want Farm Relief Bill or Nothing

Hunt Expects Action On Measure This Week

DES MOINES, May 18—(AP)—The farmers of Iowa and other agricultural states want the president session of congress to give them the McNary-Haugen bill or nothing, according to C. W. Hunt, secretary of the Iowa Farm Bureau federation, who is in Washington and today advised federation headquarters here that action on the measure could be expected next week.

"The greatest danger to the bill rciultural states want the present other relief measures recently brought out, may be substitution by enemies of the McNary-Haugen measure." Its enemies have been increasingly active during the past few weeks", Hunt stated, "making use of every subterfuge politically and otherwise Proponents of the bill are having a fight of their lives keeping clear the issue, namely that purchasing power of farm products must in some way be maintained on par with other commodities."

Start Your Future Career Today; Try the Daily Iowan

Workers on the Iowan rise fast after they get loose from the trammels of that campus institution. Examples of this rise are frequent, spectacular, and quite convenient to the hand.

One copy editor on the staff of the Daily Iowan this year has had offers from two newspapers from the United Press and from the Associated Press He can take his pick in the line of jobs, and in the kind of work he wants to do.

Another worker on the Iowan has received an offer from a Des Moines paper, and will go to work there as soon as work in the University closes.

Last summer a woman who had worked as reporter for one year secured a position as women's editor on a small newspaper, at a salary of $25 a week, after one year's experience.

Two other Iowan workers last year, copy readers, went immediately to position as telegraph editor and as assistant city editor on large papers, at salaries ranging from $25 to $35 a week.

No copy reader who shows his stuff on the Iowan has any difficulty in obtaining work on a newspaper in a city of average size. Many of them have proved this statement by actual experience.

Work on the Iowan, is not difficult, but rapidly provides the beginning newspaper man with the fundamentals of the craft. After getting those, his progress depends on his own individuality and ingenuity.

If you think that the journalist's career is the one for you; come around to room 14, L. A., and investigate the possibilities which the Iowan offers.

Phi Chi Installs National Chapter Here Last Night

Fifth Medical Frat Is Introduced To Campus

National Secretary Presides; 11 Are Initiated

Rumors of the formation of a new medical fraternity, the fifth upon this campus, were officially quieted at 6 o'clock last evening when the new members of Phi Chi, national medical fraternity, held their formal initiation, installation and banquet at the Jefferson hotel. Dr. Theodore B. Pearson, national grand secretary, who came from his offices at Nicholasville, Ky., yesterday afternoon, presided at the ceremonies last night and welcomed into the organization the thirteen charter members.

Eleven Initiated

Swelling Phi Chi's membership roll, which is the largest in the world, the following medical students were included in those initiated last evening: John R. Buchanan, M3 of Norway; James Parker Clark, M3 of Ogden; Henry P. Rosenberger, M3 of Muscatine; Clyde M. Longstreth, M2 of Afton; Irving B. Akerson, M3 of Keokuk; Harold Van Alstyne Packard, M2 of Iowa City; Leland James Belding, M1 of Waucoma; Ray Lester Corbin, M4 of Norway; Howard F. Tumer, M3 of Randalia; Henry Chris Gernand, M1 of Wadena; Merrill M. Benfer, M1 of Iowa City; George Leo Gallaher, M4 of Williamsburg, and Lionel W. Johnson.

Of the above list George Leo Gallaher received his Phi Chi pin at an initiation held at the Chicago national chapter house last Christmas season. Merrill M. Benfer was a member of Phi Chi at the University of Kansas. Faculty members of Phi Chi include Dr. Bundy Allen, roetgenologist; Dr. Frederick W. Mulsow, associate professor and acting head of pathology and bacteriology; Dr. Gordon L. Rosene, instructor of gnecology and obstretics; and Dr. John L. Jenkins, clinical assistant of the department of head specialities.

Fifty-fourth Chapter Granted

The activities in connection with the granting last December of a national chapter here, the fifty-fourth of their number, have been shrouded in semi-secrecy. With a membership roll of 12,000, with chapter houses of the medical fraternity distributed only at universities and colleges having class "A" medical colleges, with the unusual concession made by the social committee, in allowing the group to become national before the two-year probationary period as locals, Phi Chi will assume a place with the other medical frats of the campus.

The first chapter of Phi Chi was founded by Dr. Caleb Wakefield Clark at the University of Vermont, and in the intervening space chapters have been granted to 54 of the leading 60-70 class "A" medical colleges of the country.

Uniform Accounting System

Among the most representative institutions having Phi Chi chapters are these: Yale, Harvard, Johns Hopkins, Leland Stanford, Columbia, Penn, George Washington Tulane of New Orleans, Loyola Northwestern, Boston, and two Canadian universities, MacGill and Toronto.

George Leo Gallaher, speaker for the new chapter of Phi Chi, stated that they planned to have a house chapter next September, though probably not one of their own building.

Probably one of the most distinctive features of the fraternity is its uniform system of chapter accounting. "It is," according to Presiding Senior John R. Buchanan, M3 of Norway, "the only medical frat having a full-time national secretary as well as its uniform system of accounting."

Samuelson Elected Big Ten Secretary

Only Woman Editor In Conference Again Honored

Miss Hazel Samuelson A3 of Iowa City, who was recently elected editor-in-chief of the Daily Iowan for the coming year, was signally honored at one of the meetings of the fourth annual convention of the Big Ten Conference, which was held over the week end at Urbana, Illinois. The Iowan editor, besides being distinguished as the only woman editor of the Big ten college papers, was elected secretary of the Western Conference Editors Association.

Russ Envoy Quits Berlin as Rebuke

A serious strain exists in the diplomatic relations of Gearmany and Russia because the soviet embassy in Berlin was raided by Prussian police searching for an escaped communist prisoner. Nikolai Krestinski, Russian ambassador, departed Berlin for home after the incident, as a rebuke.

Democrats Name Temporary Leader

Harrison's Leadership Pleases McAdoo's Forces

NEW YORK, May 17—(AP)—The national democratic sub-committee on convention arrangements today unanimously elected Senator Pat Harrison of Mississippi temporary chairman and keynote speaker for the convention, voted final approval of detailed plans for the session and fixed upon June 16 for a last pre-convention meeting of the sub-committee.

Senator Harrison's election was the work of but a minute of formal balloting, as he had virtually been chosen at an unofficial session of the sub-committee last night.

That he was acceptable to the McAdoo forces was indicated in a statement issued by Mr. McAdoo at his local campaign headquarters immediately the election of Senator Harrison was completed.

"I am deeply pleased with the selection," he said, "my friends all supported Senator Harrison."

Members of the sub-committee spoke of Senator Harrison as "a compromise choice."

Asked what was Senator Harrison's position toward the prohibition issue, Cordull Hull, national committee chairman, said: "I would not presume to voice the senator's opinions, but it is well known that he voted for the prohibition legislation down there in congress—the eighteenth amendment and the Volstead act."

Oregon Endorses Coolidge by 3 to 1 Vote Over Johnson

PORTLAND, Ore., May 17—(AP)—Oregon republicans at the state primary election Friday approved the candidacy of President Calvin Coolidge for the republican presidential nomination by a three to one vote over Senator Hiram W. Johnson, as shown by steadily mounting totals as reports were received today from all sections of the state. A tabulation late today giving representative returns from all except a few remote counties showed 1,099 of the state's 1,763 precincts, giving Coolidge 68,893, Johnson 21,521.

Senator Charles L. McNary maintained throughout the day the big lead he took early in the count.

William Gibbs McAdoo and George L. Berry, candidates for the democratic nomination for president and vice president, respectively, were unopposed for the state's endorsement.

Frank O. Lowden of Illinois had a big lead over three opponents for the endorsement for the republican nomination for vice president.

RATES BEFORE SENATE

WASHINGTON, May 17—(AP)—After all efforts to add the long and short haul railroad rate measure to the army appropriation bill had failed today in the senate, Senator Gooding, republican, Idaho, called up the bill on its merits and had it made the unfinished business of the senate for Monday.

Co-Eds Smash National Records in Track Meet

Individual Points Made By B. Bailey

Field Swept In Relay Race; Low Hurdle Record Broken

Breaking five collegiate records, equalling the 1923 national meet record in one event and bettering it in another, breaking four additional University records and equalling another, Iowa women set a precedent Thursday, in their competition in the National Telegraphic track and field meet for women.

The outstanding individual star of the meet was Blanche Bailey, A2 of Royal, who broke two collegiate records in low and high hurdles, winning both events. Alice Roose, A1 of Iowa City, also bettered the collegiate time in low hurdles, coming in second to Miss Bailey. The collegiate record for the 100yard low hurdles stood at 15.6 seconds. Blanche Bailey, holder of the new record, made it in 14.6 seconds. Alice Roose, in second place, made it in 15 seconds. In the 60-yard high hurdles the collegiate record of 9.2 was broken by Blanche Bailey in 9.1 seconds.

Relays Break Records

Three relay teams also broke the present collegiate records for those events. The 220-yard team, composed of Josephine Buis, Helen Spencer, Genevieve Harter and Blanche Bailey, lowered the collegiate record from 30 seconds (held by last year's Iowa team) to 28.9. In the 440-yard relay Josephine Buis, Florence Huckleberry, Blanche Bailey and Alice Roose hold the new record of 57 seconds flat from the former collegiate record of 57.8. In the 100-yard dash Alice Roose also equalled the National Telegraphic meet record of 1923 by running it in 12.3 seconds. The other record of the National Telegraphic meet of 1923 equalled was the high jump by Harriet Bendixen, jumping 4 feet and 5 inches.

Better University Scores

Phi Delta Gamma Holds Initiation

Honor Laird, Adams At First Banquet Tonight

At a recent meeting of Phi Delta Gamma, the new professional forensic fraternity, Charlton G. Laird, A3 of McGregor, and Noel T. Adams, A4 of Iowa City, were elected to membership. These two men will be initiated this evening following a banquet at Youde's Inn at 6 o'clock. Officers for the coming year will also be elected at the meeting tonight.

Laird, a Zetagathian, participated in the freshman and championship debate and sophomore oratorical. Adams, a Philomathian, was captain of the Philos championship debate team and has been an active society worker.

Tonight will be the first banquet of Phi Delta Gamma, which has just been established at Iowa. The University of Iowa chapter is one of the charter chapters and a leader in the national organization. The work of organization here has been in the hands of William O. Moore, L3 of Seymour, and George O. Hurley, A2 of Iowa City, members of the committee on nationalization, and Chas. R. Sellers, A3 of Davenport, president of the local chapter.

Election to the fraternity depends upon membership in a literary society and is influenced by active interest in some form of forensics or literary activity. One of the main purposes of the Phi Delta Gamma is to promote interest in forensics and to bring about a closer spirit of cooperation in forensics with other universities and colleges.

Seals To Vie for Honors in Meet

For the first time since the organization of the Seals club, women's honorary swimming organization, the members of the club will compete in a meet in which all women, save the Seals themselves, will be barred from entering. The meet will be held Tuesday, May 20, at 5 o'clock at the women's gymnasium.

Since the beginning of the second semester members of the Seals club have been meeting every Thursday afternoon for practice in preparation for the meet next Tuesday. The results of the meet will determine the winner of the Seal pins, miniature animals of gold, silver and bronze. This is the first time that such awards have been made. In previous years the Seals club has furnished various medals for the W. A. A. swimming meets, but have never before given any award that was exclusively for the Seals.

The Seal pins will will be awarded according to the number of points made on the Seal chart. The final chance to make these points will be at the meet Tuesday. The record of each girl will be taken in five events and points given for the degree of perfection and rate of speed. The events will be the 40-yard free style, 40-yard breast swim, the cross chest carry (20 yards for speed and form), during which will include the back, swan and handstand, and the 100-ard medely. The medley will consist of swimming one length of the back, side, sideover arm, breast, and the crawl strokes.

Two National and Seven State Records Broken in Interscholastic Track Meet

Washington High Walks Away With Easy Score-41

Cuhel of Cedar Rapids Individual Star; Breaks Records

By ROBERT G. GROSS

Washington high of Cedar Rapids with the great performances of the flashy Frank "Babs" Cuhel, hurdler par excellence, romped away from the rest of the 300 odd high school athletes here yesterday afternoon at the annual state track and field meet for a total score of 41 1-2 points, leaving Winfield, their nearest competitor, far down the list in the dust, with 16 points.

It was a great day for the young track stars and yet a bad one for former state records, when the preps seemingly went on a record breaking rampage, smashing seven and tying one state record, and breaking two national high school marks. Head and shoulders above the rest in the record smashing fiesta, was the aforementioned Cuhel of Cedar Rapids, who while in the process of taking three firsts for individual honors with 15 points, managed to break all existing state and national records in the hurdles, and then to call it a day, tied the state record in the 100 yard dash.

Here is just a brief account of what Cuhel did yesterday: won the 120-yard high hurdles for a new state and national record of 15 3-10 seconds. The former state record was 16 seconds made by Taylor, of Sioux City in 1921, while the former national record was 15 4-10 seconds. In the 220 yard low hurdles he did likewise, the previous state record standing at 25 seconds, established by himself last year, and the former national record of 24 4-10 seconds. Cuhel did it yesterday in 24 3-10 seconds. In the 100 yard dash he tied the state record of 10 seconds, formerly held by Hoyt of Greenfield, in 1912.

The remaining five state marks that were lowered were:

440 yard dash, 50 4-10 seconds, by Loftus of Cedar Rapids; former record was 51 2-10 by Moore of Sioux City in 1922.

220 yard dash by Wise, of Win-

Cobb Finds Strength Where He Feared Weakness

By NORMAN E. BROWN

When Ty Cobb led his battling Tigers into their Georgia training camp early in the spring he found himself facing two problems.

One was the replacing of Derrill Pratt at second. The other was finding a possible substitute for Emory Rigney at short. Lu Blue was apparently set to put up another stellar game at first base. Bobby Jones—who still awaits the portion of fame do him as a silent, plugging third baseman—was ready to play his usual game. But between these two men, as the Tigers took the field in camp, loomed a yawning hole.

Pratt, a veteran of over a decade in the big time, had shown unmistakable signs of wear and tear last season. He had slowed down perceptibly. Frequent attacks of rheumatism handicapped him in fielding hard hit balls.

Rigney, after drawing the spotlight on himself with his brilliant shortstopping, had been forced to the bench and even the hospital with a mysterious ailment. He was absent from the game much of the 1923 campaign.

Although Cobb was criticised for not going into the pen market and bidding for a good second baseman he did try to dig up a youngster or pick up an old man to take Pratt's place. He had failed to find a man when Pratt hove into camp.

"Don't look any more," said Pratt. "I'll succeed myself."

Then, on top of this cheerful word came the news that a doctor in Rigney's home town had told him that the third bicuspid on the right side was sitting on his shortstopping nerve. Emory took him at his word and had the offending "cus" yanked.

The doc had guessed right.

Rigney showed up at camp full of pep, ginger and ambition. He soon showed that he was in shape for business.

And right now these two birds are playing prominent parts in the drive of the Tigers—a drive that is making them the most feared team in the league these days.

Pratt, in addition to playing a brilliant game at second base, is hitting the ball far above .300 and in timely fashion.

Rigney's work in the shortfield is little short of marvelous.

Instead of a gap between first and third Cobb now has one of the best combinations in the league—as far as effective work is concerned these days.

Wherefore joy reigns in Ty's heart—and in Tigerville.

And why shouldn't it?

Black Gold Wins Derby; First West Triumph Since '21

Greatest Throng Ever Witnessed Colts Fast Finish

(By the Associated Press)

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 17—West triumphed over the East for the first time since 1921 in the historic Kentucky Derby today, when Black Gold, the favorite, won by a scant half length in a lashing drive to the wire, defeating eighteen of the noblest three-year-olds in training before a crowd of 75,000 to 80,000 persons, the greatest throng that ever witnessed a horse race in America.

The West's victory was overwhelming as the first four horses to finish were western owned. Chilhowee, ranking among the worthiest of contenders, and owned by Gallaher Brothers, of Lexington, Ky., was second by the margin of a short nose over Beau Butler, which in a heart-breaking effort beat Altawood for third honors by half a length. Beau Butler was the entry of Col. A. R. Bradley, whose Behave Yourself won the Derby in 1921.

Black Gold won today at one and a quarter miles over a fast track in 2:05 1-5, two seconds slower than the record established by Old Rose Bud in 1914. The horse belonged to Mrs. R. M. Hoots of Tulsa, Okla., the second woman ever to have sent a Derby winner to the post. Jimmy Mooney was the triumphant jockey, and Harry Webb, affectionately called the "Old Man," was the trainer.

Black Gold Wins $52,775

Black Gold won for his owner $52,775 in cash and gold trophies worth $3,000. For himself, Black Gold merited a rose wreath with sentiment above the sniff of money and the admiration of the record-breaking crowd, which never will forget the courage of his conquest.

Chilhowee, second, earned for his owners, the Gallaher Brothers, the sum of $6,000, while Beau Butler, third, earned $3,000. Altawood, owned by C. Bruce Head of Louisville, took down $1,000 in fourth money.

Black Gold, the little jet black colt, the son of Black Toney-Useelt, was lightly regarded by winter forecasters who had such names as Wise Counsellor, St. James and Sarazen on which to speculate. Black Gold at one time during the winter book was a 100 to 1 shot in today's race and until three weeks ago the price was 40 to 1 on him. When he flashed across the wire a winner this afternoon his backers cashed $5.50 for every $2 wagered in the mutuals on his chances. The price on Chilhowee to place was $12.30 and on Beau Butler to show was $4.70.

The bugle called the horses to the post at 4:33 o'clock. After the proud parade of the nineteen starters passed the cheering stands, they were being alligned at the barrier at 4:46, and four minutes later were racing away in their mad charge for victory.

Bracadale, owned by Harry F. Sinclair, shot to the front at rise of the barrier and responding to the urge of the alert Earl Sande settled into the lead for the first dash past the grandstand. Baffling was second and Wild Aster third. Chilhowee was fourth to leave the wire and the thoroughbreds were in these positions as they flashed past the judges' stand.

Black Gold, hampered by the quick breakers in the race, trailed fifth as the field swept by the clubhouse. He was caught in a pocket at the half mile post and was shoved back a notch, but Mooney, his pilot, found an opening at the three-quarters and Black Gold, responding with all his nobleness, made a struggle for third position, with Bracadale still leading.

Winner Was In Pocket

Black Golds dash down the stretch was a spectacle that never can be forgotten. Finding himself in a pocket, Mooney tapped his mount on the neck with his whip and Black Gold, shooting to the outside of the track, sprang forward one-half a length and maintained that advantage in the final leap to the wire.

Beau Butler made a valorous struggle from the start, working his way from fifteenth position at the quarter to eleventh at the half and tenth at the turn into the stretch. He gained suddenly on Altawood, finishing with a sensational burst of speed.

Bracadale, the pace setter, fading and fast losing his speed, finished fifth with Transmute in sixth position. Revenue Agent struggled in to seventh place, Thorndale eighth and Klondyke ninth. Mad Play pulled up in tenth place, King Gorm II in eleventh and Cannon Shot twelfth. The other seven starters finished in the order named: Modest, Diogenes, Nautical, Mr. Mutt, Baffling, Wild Aster and Bob Tail.

When Mrs. Hoots was called into the judges' stand with her trainer and jockey she probably was so happy and so excited that she couldn't express her appreciation. At least she never smiled even when the crowd raised a mighty cheer in her honor. Jockey Mooney bashfully was called to the crowd and accepted a pair of gold spurs, presented him.

Webb, the veteran trainer, did not appear to be the least excited over the victory.

Illini Drop From Ladder When Wisconsin Beats Them

URBANA, Ill., May 17—(AP)—Wisconsin displaced Illinois on the top of the Big Ten baseball heap by defeating the Illini here today, 3 to 1. Neither team played good baseball, errors being responsible for all of the runs scored.

Christiansen and Luther, who handled the hurling assignment for the Badgers, had little difficulty in keeping the Illinois hits scattered. Hull and Robinson being the only Illini to connect. Roettger, who started for Illinois, was wild but breaks in his support rather than the ten hits which Wisconsin gathered off him and Kinderman, who took his place in the fifth, were responsible.

Hull Schlapprizy were the principal offenders, a bit of poor judgment by Roettger himself in fielding a bunt allowing the third run to slip in.

Captain Aschenbrenner of Wisconsin handed the Illini their lone run in the seventh when he tossed the ball into centerfield, trying to catch Schlapprizy at second, Robinson scoring from third. Score by inning:

Wisconsin	000	111	000—3 10 3
Illinois	000	000	100—1 5 5

Batteries: Christiansen, Luther and Aschenbrenner; Roettger, Kinderman and Robinson.

Wisconsin Beats Big Ten Track And Field Teams in Meet

MADISON, Wis., May 17—(AP)—Wisconsin with 67 points won the second annual quadrangular track and field meet with Northwestern, Chicago and Ohio State here today. Ohio State was second with 61, Northwestern third with 25 and Chicago last with 23.

It was not until the two mile event was run that the advantage was decided. The win by the Cardinals came as a surprise. Payne, Ohio State, had won the event against Michigan last week, and none of the Wisconsin men were believed able to take his measure.

The relay, won by Northwestern, saw Chicago try vainly to keep pace with the hard driving quarter milers.

(By the Associated Press)

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., May 17—Peter Guzy, twirled excellent ball for Minnesota, holding Iowa to six hits, and the Gophers won, 9 to 4. Minnesota batsmen found Marshall, Iowa's pitching ace, for fifteen hits, including five in as many times up, by Catcher Christgau. Misplays marred the field work of both teams, figuring prominently in the scroing.

STAFF AND CIRCLE

TODAY the names of twenty women who have been nominated for the honorary senior organization, Staff and Circle, are announced. Although it is frequently said that election to this organization is the highest honor that can come to a University woman, such a statement is not to be received unquestioned, implying as it does, that popularity is a greater honor than success in scholarship, athletics, or any other one phase of University life.

Membership in Staff and Circle is no index to future greatness in creative, critical, or scientific work. But it is an index, however, to ability to understand human relationships, to group-mindedness, and willingness to assume responsibility. The election is ultimately a popularity contest, rather than a genuine measurement of accomplishment. Popularity is usually dependent on leadership and amiability, but occasionally it is the reward of a mere Pollyanna attitude toward life. Neither is the capacity to accomplish always linked with the inclination to play the "glad girl" or indulge in uncritical approbation of one's fellow-class-mates.

Although the humaneness with which the election is conducted is questionable, this annual award of popularity honors to Junior girls forms a pleasant Iowa tradition, but its significance should not be misconstrued or exaggerated.

THE SEASONING OF YEARS

YOUNG men can rarely understand why their views are not valued as highly as those of their elders, and cannot see why their opinions are discounted in the face of those whose hair is gray and whose life has been two or three times as long as the younger man's residence on earth.

It is the fundamental characteristic of youth's makeup, that it is not seasoned by the understanding of years and the experience of age. But, the young men argue, that is a good reason for the acceptance of the young man's views.

Perhaps, placing a certain limitation upon the young man's opinions and their value, the young man will show more progress, or at least, make more of a show of progress, than the older man. Unfortunately, progress is as dangerous as backwardness. The latter retards, the former can unhealthily accelerate.

Like good tobacco, good wood and even good whiskey, the seasoning of years makes it superior to the fresh cuts or draughts. Older men have the composite picture of years of experience to base judgments upon. Young men are chiefly moved by various stimuli and base judgments on rather vague and inadequate experiences in life.

Until young men can show that they realize the soothing effect of years upon razor-edged judgments, young men cannot expect older men, and usually these older men are their superiors in business and professional life, to take stock in their judgments. They may bring charges of "old fogy," "backward" and various other epithets against the older men, but the fact remains that in the past, judgments comparatively stand the test of time about in the same ratio that the minds from which the judgments emanated, were seasoned by age. There can be but one plea, not for young men to avoid opinions and judgments until they reach maturity and old age, but for young men to have opinions and judgments and to temper them with the common sense and experience of older men,—common sense and experience which the young man can rarely show possession of.

PERPETUAL PUBLISHING

(New York Herald-Tribune)

"WHERE," asks an anguished voice from the convention of the American Booksellers' Association, "is gone the slogan 'Fewer books and better'?" Where indeed? The booksellers, oppressed under the economic difficulty of marketing a complete new literature once every three months, are inclined to blame the publishers, but it is likely that the publishers, turning an exhausted gaze from their insatiate and unpredictable publics, would answer that they wished they knew. The age has made the disastrous discovery that it can think upon the typewriter, and it has proceeded to do so with the methodical and irresistible mass movement of a tidal wave.

It is the age, as the newstands so constantly remind us, of periodical literature, and it appears to be both weak on literature and almost unacquainted with the period. It never comes to a full stop, and the leaves flutter down and disappear more completely than Villon's snows. The public is loath to read anything written more than six months ago, unless it has been re-issued with last week's imprint, and to the distress of the bookselling industry it also hesitates to invest in currency which is subject to so violent a depreciation.

It is the fault, of course, of that startling acceleration in the progress of civilization which finds itself out of date about once every year. It was the scientists who first got us into the habit of demanding a current date on the fly-leaf by so frequently demonstrating that anything without it was a howling anachronism. And it was the novelists who confirmed us in it by discovering that it was humanly possible to write a new book in time to catch every other publishing season. But the idea of what constitutes a book has been altered profoundly in the process. It has been reduced from a work of literature to a form of unintimate conversation, and the difficulty is that almost anybody can talk.

CLEMENCEAU RETIRES

(New York Sun)

FORMER Premier Clemenceau has been nominally in retirement since his defeat for the French Presidency by Paul Deschanel in 1920. But actually his influence on French politics has been felt through the activities of his lieutenants, Tardieu and Mendel. In the Echo National his views have been faithfully interpreted. Everybody knows them, so far as Franco-German affairs are concerned. Tardieu gave them frequent and emphatic utterance in the Chamber of Deputies. They advocated unmitigated insistence by France on her literal rights under the Treaty of Versailles.

Now Tardieu and Mendel have been defeated for re-election to the Chamber and the old "Tiger" in his lair sees that he cannot stand against the world in his uncompromising defense of a treaty which has been so universally criticized. He has, therefore, ordered Tardieu to cease publishing the Echo National and told Mendel to break up the political organization which he sponsored.

Clemenceau has ever been a bonny fighter. He would never abandon a cause unless it was hopelessly lost. He sees in last Sunday's elections proof that France has taken that more pacific attitude in international affairs which her friends throughout the world have long been hoping she would take. It is not too much to say that the measure of his disappointment with her for doing so is also the measure of the world's hope for a better and brighter day not only in France but in all Europe.

PLANTS AND MEN

(Baltimore Evening Sun)

ONE OF the striking features of university development in this country, and a feature which is not without its hazardous side, is the extraordinary increase in plant and equipment which modern research methods demand. In all the major sciences the scientist who has not a well-equipped laboratory—often with elaborate and expensive machinery—cannot hope to achieve results equal to those produced by his more fortunate brethren.

But equipment costs money. Hence the greater universities are under the constant necessity of increasing their funds available for such expenditure.

That, in a nutshell, is the situation which is being faced by the research universities all over the country and which is being faced particularly today by the Johns Hopkins University, whose chief contributions to thought have been so largely in the field of pure science.

It goes without saying that the people of Maryland will regard with more than sympathetic interest the university's plan to enlarge its equipment and increase in scientific research may be maintained.

They will be interested in this plase of the new program, and they will be interested also in another phase which is only lightly touched upon in the news stories that were printed this morning. They will want to see the Hopkins able to attract to its standard the very best men thatthecountry affords.

One of he most frequent mistakes in university management is that which assumes that plant alone is sufficient to make an institution great. The same mistake is occasionally made by business men. There could be no more egregious error. We have gone a long way from Mark Hopkins and his log, but it is still true that it is men rather than equipment which make a university.

Stephen Leacock is a humorist, but a humorist occasionally speaks the truth. And when Stephen Leacock described Oxford University as a place where a tutor smokes at young men, he was saying something which had a whole bookful of wisdom in it for educationists. Most of the buildings in Oxford have been in use for hundreds of years. It is never suggested that they are out of date, and Oxford in its special fields continues to impart to its graduates something that no other university has been able to emotate. And the thing that it imparts is done largely by tutors who "smoke at" their students in badly lighted, ill-equipped classrooms.

Modern scientific instructors and research are not possible without great and elaborate equipment. But it ns especially impossible unless the men are there.

ICEBOUND: A Kindly Criticism---Sowers

A group of amateurs, no matter how clever, can not act the first fifteen minutes of "Icebound" just as the author intended it to be acted. He meant the scene to be a serious one, relieved by comedy. The audience was to be thinking of the grim old lady dying upstairs even as it smiled at the quarrels of the relatives gathered in the parlor. But the quarrels are so amusing that, in the hands of amateurs, they quite obscure the underlying seriousness. In the production by the University Players, old Mrs. Jordan—the dominant character throughout the play, although she never appears—didn't come to life until she died.

In another way, too, the author's intention was slightly falsified. In the printed version the action of the play takes place in two settings—Acts I and II in a Victorian parlor and Act III in an ancient colonial sitting room. The University Players, however, influenced by the difficulties of their stage, chose the amateur version, in which the entire action passes in a Victorian sitting room. Consequently there was a distinct loss in variety and in characterizing background.

But they made much of their one setting. Odl wall-paper, braided rugs, walnut furniture and a wood stove suggested an old-fashioned interior. Some attic had yielded framed mottoes, enlarged photographs, and even a banjo thermometer. It was all very interesting and, naturally enough, very Iowan. With the disappearance of the Colonial sitting room with its white woodwork and great fireplace and small-paned windows heaped the snow the New England atmosphere also disappeared.

The characters, also, originally New Englanders, became Middle Westerners. It was only natural for actors to interpret village types in terms of their own religion. If there was some loss in variety, there was a gain in vividness. I don't believe some of the actors altogether followed the author's conception of the parts, but I grant the skill with which they developed their own ideas.

For example, I believe Miss Doris Rae made Emma twenty years too old—she was more like Nettie's grandmother than her mother. But once grant her conception of the part, you must admit the vigor and consistency with which it was carried out.

Miss Edith Rule as Sadie Fellows was scarcely the frail, inefficient character of the printed book. But she developed her version of the role so well that no one need regret the change. Miss Rule is an accomplished actress whose voice and hands do what she wishes them to do. Her manner is easy and varied.

Miss Wanda Evans' Middle Western Hannah was highly amusing. She commanded attention and spoke her lines with point. Miss Josephine Steele as Ella was particularly good in her hysterical laughter in Act I and at the machine in Act II. And Miss Marion Ansel, with some of the most difficult speeches in the play, made Nettie a vivid personality.

Miss Madge May as Jane had, of course, the greatest difficulties and the greatest opportunities. Strangely enough she did the hard things better than the easy ones. In the quieter scenes her voice sometimes seemed too breathy, her hands uneasy, her manner constrained. But wherever the emotion quickened, she acted beautifully. One remembers particularly her last scene in Act I where she arranged bail for Ben, her scenes with Ben in Act II and, especially her scene with the Judge when she read old Miss Jordan's letter, and the concluding scenes of Act III. She should go far.

Turning to the men we find that there were several middle-aged characters, the type most difficult for amateurs to act well. Doctor Curtis did not add greatly to a difficult scene. Mr. Harry Jones as Judge Bradford was uneven. He had a good voice and a certain dignity, but he lacked the presence necessary to focus several important scenes. Mr. Arthur W. Shepard as Henry Jordan also had some difficulties with his middle-aged part, but he was of the greatest possible service in keeping the play going.

The small parts of the boy and the sheriff were well taken. Master Calvin Kay made a good Orin. He was just the right size, his costume was appropriate, and his pleasantly husky voice fitted his boyish speeches. Mr. Daniel Holcombe as Jim Jay was perfect. He brought naturalness and pungency to the best curtain of the three.

Finally, Mr. Peter Janss as Ben was a decided success. There were faults, to be sure; his voice lacked variety, he flapped his hands far too often in a meaningless gesture, he was a man without a smile. But he was virile and energetic—when he took the center of the stage he held it against all comers. Bit by bit he built his part up to a fine emotional climax at the end. We can't forget his sullen revolt against Jane in Act II and its sudden termination as he dashes out to doctor the horse, his memories of France in the same act, and his final scenes in the last act. I'm particularly grateful that he didn't idealize Ben. To play so difficult a part so well was an achievement.

In a play with so many characters, the ensemble action becomes important. In general, the small stage was kept from seeming unpleasantly crowded. The hat rack and the tiresome business of hats and coats might well have been relegated to the hall. Occasionally the grouping was unfortunate. Ben's entrance was spoiled by the others crowding about him. On the other hand the difficult scene of the fight was handled with great skill.

All in all, the performance was one of the most interesting of the season. It was a fitting conclusion to an attractive year. The money I spent for my season ticket to the performances of the University Theatre was the best invested money I've spent for a long time.

Socialist Party Led by Woman

Mrs. Bertha Hale White.

The only woman directing the campaign of a big political party is Mrs. Bertha Hale White, executive secretary of the Socialist Party of America. She is at present making a big drive for members, routing speakers, sending out campaign literature in prepreation for the party in Cleaveland, July 6.

Executive Council Of W. A. Discusses Revised Systems

When the last meeting of the executive council of the Woman's Association was held, a discussion of the recently revised point system, was opened. Under the new system which Dean Adelaide L. Burge heartily approved, an attempt will be made to check up on women's activities, so as to distribute offices and positions.

Dean Burge said in connection with this plan, "Hereafter all lists of candidates for offices in women's campus activities, except sorority officers, must be filed in the office of the Dean of Women. These lists will be checked by the head of the point system, before they may be presented for nominations."

The council, at its meeting agreed to issue again this year, the association's Student Loan Fund for $100, with interest rate at five per cent. The fund had no scholarship requirements attached.

Before Alternating Current Dominated the Electrical Industry

What Engineering Owes to the Far-Sightedness of George Westinghouse

THE impregnable position now occupied by alternating current was attained only after a bitter struggle, for, due to its supposedly deadly characteristics, practically the entire electrical fraternity once opposed the progress of what was generally referred to as "Westinghouse Current."

Gaulard and Gibbs originated the alternating current system in Europe. Their system was impractical in many respects, but had been used with some success for lighting.

George Westinghouse became interested, and immediately recognized that the weakness of their system lay in the design and principles governing the transformer.

He devoted the resources of his organization to the development of the transformer. When he made it a practical unit, alternating current, with its vast commercial advantages, then became possible.

The beginning of the bitter struggle by George Westinghouse for the supremacy of alternating current goes back to 1885 and 1886. Remarkable progress has been made since then and voltages as high as 220,000 are in commercial use today.

Engineering owes much to the far-sightedness and fighting qualities of George Westinghouse.

Brooklyn Beats St. Louis Cards In 13 Innings

Boston Makes Clean Sweep of Cincinnati Series

(By the Associated Press)

ST. LOUIS, May 17.—Brooklyn tied the score in the ninth on Fournier's home run and doubles by High and Deberry, and then won the final game of the series with the Cardinals today, 4 to 3, after thirteen innings. It was the Dodgers' first baseman's eighth home run of the season, one less than Babe Ruth's total. The winning run resulted from Fournier's single, Stock's sacrifice and Griffith's single. Score by innings:

Brooklyn	0	0	1	0	0	0	0	0	2	0	0	0	1	—4	13	2

Rube Benton was hit hard from the start and was relieved by Mays. Neal, coach and assistant manager of the Reds, was indefinitely suspended for a violent attack on Umpire Pfirman at third base yesterday. Score by innings:

field, in 22 3-10; former record was 22 4-10 by Hoyt, of Greenfield, in 1912.

Broad jump by Morris of Burlington, who jumped 22 feet, four inches; former record was 21 feet, 9 1-2 inches, by McBaine, of West Des Moines, in 1911.

The Tigers had things pretty much their own way, placing not less than second in the track events, with the exception of the 220 yard dash. The parlor city team started right from the first crack of the gun in the first event, and picked up points in every race steadily and monotonously from then on, and had the meet cinched before it was even half over with. The rest of the seconds, thirds and fourths dished out were well distributed among the remainder of the teams competing.

The teams that registered in the scoring column yesterday finished in the following order:

1. Washington, Cedar Rapids, 41 1-2.
2. Winfield, 16.
3. Colfax, 12.
4. Ottumwa, 11; Grant of Cedar Rapids, 11; Mason City, 11.

6. Albia, 6; West Des Moines, 6. Davenport, 6.
7. East Waterloo, 5; Westchester, 5.

9. Clarion, 3; Estherville, 3.
10. Marion, 2; Toledo, 2; East Des Moines, 2; North Des Moines, 2.
11. Roosevelt of Des Moines, 1.

Annual "At Home Day" Is Held At U. Elementary School

Over 300 Visitors See Exhibitions Of School Work

Reading and writing and arithmetic, but not to the tune of a hickory stick—

That's what happened at the annual "At Home Day" at the University elementary school Friday afternoon. Approximately 300 patrons and patronesses visited the school during the afternoon. The purpose of "At Home Day" is to give a summary of the year's work.

The program for the afternoon was entirely carried out by the children. A host and hostess from each grade greeted the visitors and escorted them to the exhibits. Each grade demonstrated the most important phases of the work taken up during the year.

Nature study and social attitude were the studies emphasized in the junior primary room. Demonstration of regular class work and reading were the features of the first grade program.

Exhibits in the next three grades illustrated steps in the changing life of this country. A study of Indian life was displayed in the second grade room. Indian pottery, small rugs, a real wigwam and a fire, made in Indian fashion, featured the exhibit.

An exhibit on pioneer life in Iowa was given in the third grade room. Methods of making candles, corn meal, soap and several of the more primitive agricultural tools were also shown.

The history of transportation and a complete exhibit on wood was displayed in the fourth grade room. Every process of manufacture from raw wool to the finished cloth was demonstrated by the students.

The timber industry and processes involved in finishing wood featured the fifth grade exhibit. A demonstration of the steps involved in making paper was also given.

The history of medicine, a display of the central American exports and a number of ballads written by sixth grade pupils were displayed in the sixth grade room.

After the demonstrations in the various grade rooms a musical program was given. Folk songs and ballads were sung by the pupils. Following the program tea was served the visitors.

President's Veto Effects Market

Bonus Bill Imparted In Bond Trading Slow-up

(By the Associated Press)

NEW YORK, May 17.—Further recessions in copper prices with metal for delivery to the end of July quoted below 13 cents a pound, and growing speculative doubt over the ability of administration leaders to prevent the passage of the bonus bill over the president's veto brought about another reactionary movement of prices in today's stock market.

A fair accumulation of overnight buying orders, based on the more cheerful tone of the weekly mercantile reviews, imparted a relatively firm tone to opening prices.

Trading was again extremely apathetic.

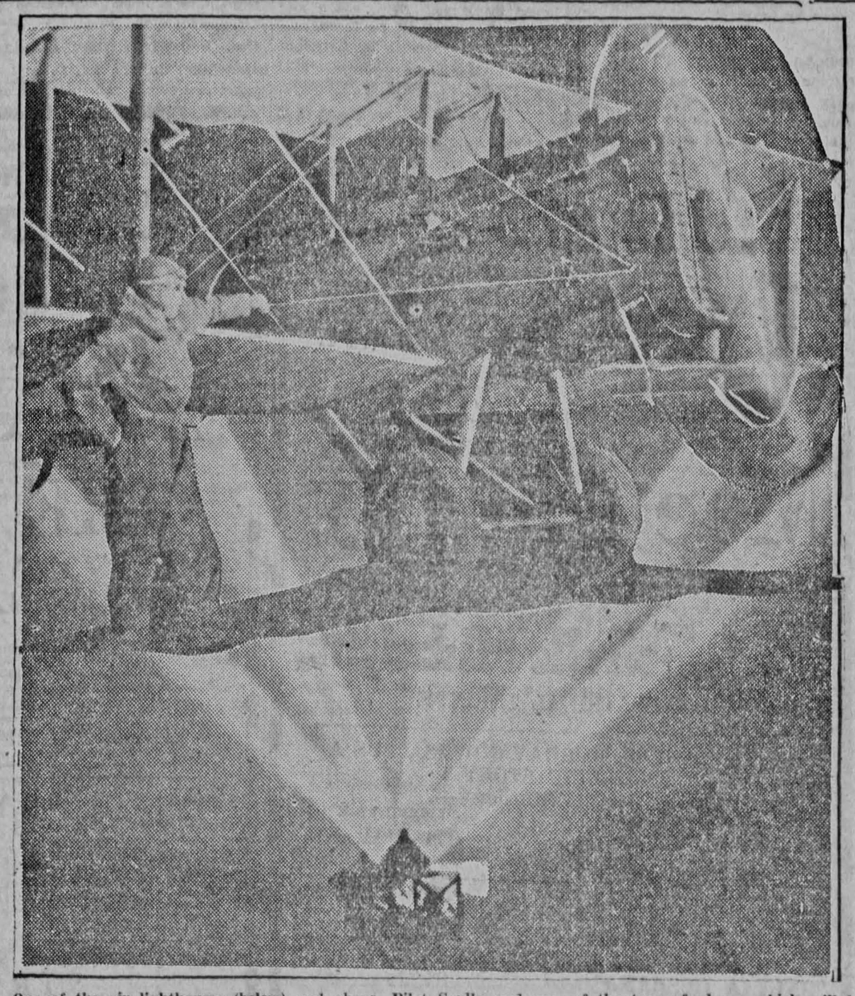
Liquidation in copper shares resulted in new 1924 lows being established by Anaconda at 29 5-8, new minimum price for the year was established by Studebaker.

United States Steel closed fractionally lower at 96 7-8; Baldwin dropped a point to 107 and a fractional recession was recorded by American Can.

The weekly clearing house report showed mixed changes. Loans discounts and investments increased $28,307,000 and net demand deposits $19,531,000 while cash in own vaults dropped $4,009,000.

Growing uneasiness over prospects that the president's veto would be sustained imparted a hesitant tone to bond trading in today's brief and listless trading session. This situation was re ected most clearly in United States government obligations, which developed an easier tendency.

Atlantic to Pacific Mail Time Cut in Half



One of the air lighthouses (below) and above, Pilot Scully and one of the type of planes which will be used in the night mail flights from coast to coast

Mail time between New York and San Francisco will be cut in half on July 1 when the postoffice department begins day and night service by airplane between the two cities. Mail planes fly only by day now, but after July 1, nothing will interrupt their voyages from coast to coast.

Lights will shine at intervals of every three miles to guide the night riders of the skies.

Each landing field will be equipped with a revolving 4,000,000 candlepower beacon, and small floodlights of several million candlepower visible for miles, making it easy for the fliers to keep their bearings in the darkness.

Thomas Foley (above) and Peter A. Dooling.

As in the days immediately preceeding the cornering of the power by the late Charles F. Murphy, a triumvirate now presides over Tammany Hall, the dominant Democratic organization in New York. Its members are Thomas Foley, former sheriff and right hand man of Murphy; Frank Goodwin, clerk of the city court, and Peter A. Dooling sheriff.

Silk Industry Processes Displayed At Yetter's

A display of one thousand live silk worms, demonstrating the steps in the spinning of silk, are on display in the windows of Yetter's department store. The worms originally came from France and represent every step in the process from the spinning of the thread to the finished cloth. After the cocoon is spun it is steamed and furnishes the silk from which the raw silk is spun. The steaming of the cocoon kills the silk worm.

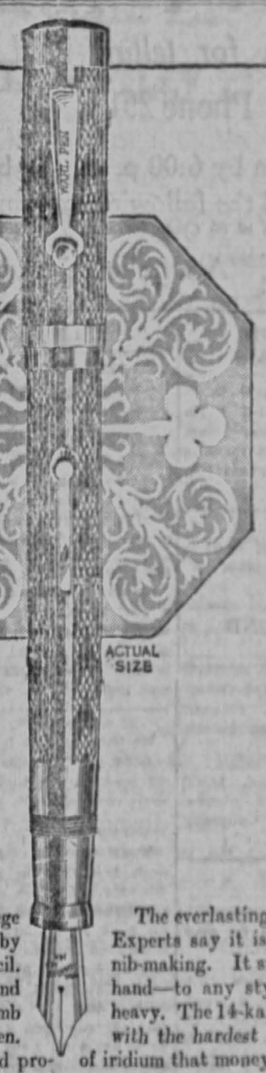
A BIG PEN to see you through a BIG four years



This is a great pen for college men and women! It is made by the makers of Eversharp pencil. It has a huge ink capacity! And the Wahl filling device fills it plumb full every time. It's a big pen. But it is so nicely balanced and proportioned that it fits into the fist most comfortably.

The Wahl Signature Pen writes the instant the point touches paper. The ink begins to flow evenly — always enough, never too much. The patented comb feed makes shaking unnecessary.

The everlasting nib is a wonder. Experts say it is the ultimate in nib-making. It suits itself to any hand—to any style. It is extra heavy. The 14-karat gold is tipped with the hardest and finest grade of iridium that money can buy.

The patented construction of the cap makes it impossible for the pen to leak in the pocket. The cap cannot split, for it is strengthened by the plain gold band. There are two sizes of the Wahl Signature Pen—one at $5 for women, and one at $7 for men! Other Wahl Pens, $2.50 up!
