Twelve women who have made themselves leaders in campus activities, will be chosen today by the junior women to make up the Staff and Circle for 1925.

The twenty women chosen at the annual junior breakfast are the candidates for the election today. Tables have been placed in the liberal arts building, and all junior women are asked to vote.

Thursday night at seven o'clock the formal announcement of the twelve winners will be made at the services held at President's Point. The junior and senior women of the University will meet on the steps of Old Capitol and march to the point.

A circle is formed by the old members of the organization, around Mrs. Burge, dean of women. Mrs. Burge will welcome the new members, as she announces the winners, and each one will be led into the circle and given a red rose, the symbol of the organization.

1 Dead, 2 Missing In Kilaue Eruption

Truman S. Taylor, Has Relatives in Illinois, Is Dead

(By the Associated Press)

HILO, J. H. May 19—Truman S. Taylor, a bookkeeper of Pahala, who was injured by a stone thrown from Kilaue Volcano on Sunday is dead, and two soldiers, privates Edward Hinman and Howard Simmons, who are believed to have visited the volcano on the same day, are missing.

Taylor has a sister, Mrs. R. W Rouse, living in Area, Illinois. She has been notified. Taylor is the first victim in history of Kilaue. He had both legs crushed and died from the shock of amputation.

An engineer who remained at Volcano House overnight has telephoned that another eruption occurred at 3:30 this morning, not so great as the one of last evening, and another at seven this morning.

Superintendent Boles has ordered the park to be closed and vacated until the violence stops. The park road to Halemauma is closed to everyone.

The air is highly charged with electricity. All leaves within two miles of the pit have been pierced with ash pebbles.

Mud an inch thick, hard as cement is on Boles' porch.

Searching Party Returns

HONOLULU, May 19—A wireless mseasge received today from Kilauea Military camp by the Hawaiian department of the army said that all members of a party, that had searched for two missing men, had been accounted for, but that the two men, said to have been standing by the side of the pit of Kilauea Volcano, after the eruption, had not been seen. The airplane landing filed, a short distance from the camp was covered with large boulders, making it impossible to send a plane to the volcano. It is estimated that approximately one hundred had been visiting the military camp.

Belgium Agrees With Italy On Dawes' Report

MILAN, May 19—The meeting here of Premier Mussolini of Italy, with Premier Theunis and Foreign Minister Hymans of Belgium, was satisfactority concluded today, the representatives of both nations agreeing that the Dawes report must be applied without delay and that an inter-allied conference on the subject was advisable as soon as preliminary discussions were sufficiently advanced.

The meeting closed after another proved the similarity of the views of the two countries, both considering reparation as the great cause of political unrest and of the economic crisis of Europe.

Both took the Dawes report as a basis of accord between the allies with the understanding, that the German government would loyally fulfill the measures necessary to carry out its provisions.

Premier Mussolini succeeded in having the Belgians acknowledge that the question of inter-allied debts, remains strictly connected with an integral and definite solution of the reparation problem.

Four Are Honored By Purple Mask

Elect Rhynsburger, Johnston, Janns, And Rule

Winding up a most successful season, amateur actors of the University of Iowa, students in the classes of dramatic production, and those interested in dramatic production were entertained at the annual banquet last evening in Youde's Inn.

As part of an excellent program the following students were elected to membership in the Purple mask, honorary dramatic association:

Gordon Johnston A4 of Des Moines, who played "Sir Jimmy Dawlas" in "The Bath Road," "Leonard Beebe" in "To the Ladies," "Sir Oliver Surface" in "School for Scandal," and "Brian Strange" in "Mr. Pim Passes By"; Edith Rule A4 of Mason City, who played "Mrs. Kincaid" in "To the Ladies," "Countess" in "Twelfth Night," "Sadie Fellows" in "Icebound"; Donovan Rhynsburger A3 of Oskaloosa, who played "Moses" in "School for Scandal," "Lush" in "Captain Applejack," "Tubal" in "Merchant of Venice," "Dominic" in "Dover Road," and "Malvolio" in "Twelfth Night"; and Pete Janns A3 of Atlantic, who played "Luizzman" in "Lillom," "Careless" in "School for Scandal," "Feste" in "Twelfth Night," and "Ben Jordan" in "Icebound."

These students were elected for their high grade work in amateur productions, election to the Purple Mask being recognized as one of the highest tokens of esteem.

Frivol To Make Last Appearance

Blanket Number Will Depict Outdoor Activities

Tomorrow morning, promptly at 8 o'clock, Frivol will make its last appearance on the campus for the school year. Bedecked in the brightest cover that ever originated at the hands of Bill Baird, Frivol will disport itself once again for the meager price of two bits.

The "Blanket" number is an attempt to picture outdoor life on the campus and in the immediate vicinity through the eyes of the college humorists. Spicy and clever articles have been contributed by well known campus humorists. One full page of sketches by Bill Baird picturing a typical Iowa blanket party is worthy of note and will doubtless grace the pages of many a memory book.

Other material in the new Frivol consists of work submitted by Kenneth Goble A2 of Laporte, and Wesley A. Hughes A2 of Des Moines in the recent election for the position of editor-in-chief of Frivol. In this election the present editor, Ward Mayer, A3 of Waterloo, was again elected to the position.

Mayer's assistant editor, Merald Hoag A3 of Waterloo, is contributing the last of the series of Elmer's Letters.

Numbered among the contributors to the "Blanket" issue are Bill Baird A2 of Mason City, Walter Roach A2 of Iowa City, Phillip King A4 of Iowa City, and Gordon Johnston A4 of Des Moines.

Three Hurt When Car Knocks Down House

Harry Thaw Free; Confined 17 Years

Will Be Arrested On Assault Charge by N. Y. Officials

(By the Associated Press)

PHILADELPHIA, May 19—Harry K. Thaw, slayer of Stanford White, is free tonight after 17 years of intermittent confinement in jails and asylums. After a withdrawal of a motion for retrial filed by his divorced wife, Evelyn Nesbit, common pleas Judge Monaghan tonight entered judgment on the verdict of the jury, which declared him sane, ordered his liberty unconditionally the discharge of his mother, Mrs. Mary Conley Thaw, as committee of his person and the restoration of his property.

Thaw, who is visiting his mother in Pittsburgh, was immediately notified of the court's action. He had been on parol from the Pennsylvania hospital for mental and nervous disease since April 22. A hospital attendant accompanied him to Pittsburgh.

Former Judge John M. Patterson, Thaw's counsel, said tonight his client would voluntarialy apear in New York to answer charges pending against him for an alleged beating administered to Frederick Gump, jr., of Kansas City, in 1917. A suit of damages, brought by Gump's father has been settled out of court.

Will Be Rearrested

NEW YORK, May 19—Harry K. Thaw will be arrested on a bench warrant brought to New York to answer an old indictment for assault against Frederick Gump, jr., of Kansas City, immediately his final release, is signed in Philadelphia District Attorney Banton said today.

Arrangements have been made to have the authorities here notified as soon as the millionaire is freed, he stated. It is understood Thaw will come voluntarily.

Mr. Banton said he would then communicate with young Gump and his father, who are in California, to have them come here as witnesses.

C. L. Butler Named Budget Accountant To Assist Maytag

DES MOINES, May 19—(AP)—C. L. Butler of Des Moines today was appointed state accountant of the budget by Fred L. Maytag director of the budget.

The appointment was approved by the executive council and Butler's salary fixed at $3,600. His deputies will be those of an assistant to the budget director.

The new state accountant has had broad experience in budget work and is credited with being instrumental in placing the Oklahoma budget law on a workable basis. Mr. Maytag transmitted letters of recommendation from Governor E. M. Trapp of Oklahoma and other state officials, to the council with the appointment.

Trust Charge Made On Quaker Oats Co. Animal Feed Sales

WASHINGTON, May 19—(AP)—The Quaker Oats company of Chicago was charged by the federal trade commission today, with using unfair trade methodism in the sale of animal feed products. Similar complaints also were issued by the commission against the Larrowe Milling company, of Cleveland, and the Ralston company of St Louis.

The complaints charge discrimination in prices as between "preferred" and "ordinary" jobbers and retailers, and allege that an arbitrary sum of money, in excess of the list prices, was collected from "ordinary" dealers, and i nsome cases paid over to the "preferred" purchasers.

The question whether such alleged practices are unfair will be passed on by the commission after the companies have filed answers to the complaints, for which they are permitted thirty days.

Senate Rejects Harbach As Des Moines Postmaster

WASHINGTON, May 19—(AP)—The nomination of William G. Harbach, to be postmaster at Des Moines, Iowa, was rejected by the senate in executive session tonight. His appointment had been recommended by Senator Cummins, republican, but was opposed by Senator Brookhart, republican, insurgent, of that state, as one "personally objectionable" to him. The vote was not made public.

5 Killed, 30 Hurt, In Indiana Wreck

Passenger Cars Collide At Roanoke, Ind.; 1 Car Empty

(By the Associated Press)

ROANOKE, Ind., May 19—Five persons were killed and approximateely 30 injured, when two passenger cars of the Indiana service corporation traction company were in collission at a siding here tonight.

The dead are:

Jacob Diffenbaugh, Huntington, Ind.

W. F. Erehart, Huntington, Ind.

J. E. Hause, Fort Wayne, Ind.

W. E. Wier, Andrews, Ind.

Jacob Yoslovitz, Chicago.

The injured were taken to hospitals in Huntington, Fort Wayne and other nearby cities, but officials have been unable to make an accurate check of the number although it was estimated at about thirty.

One of the cars was said to have been backing out of a siding when the other, a limited bound for Indianapolis, crashed into it. The limited was loaded with passengers but the other car was empty.

Ambulances, doctors and nurses, arrived here from many surrounding towns, a short time after the accident and assisted in caring for the injured.

Yoslovitz was a salesman for Horwich-Vitkin company, Chicago.

THE 1925 HAWKEYE

Reviewed By Edith Rule

How do you like your Hawkeye? As an over-grown illustrated edition of Life or Judge with local instead of general jokes, or do you want something really beautiful, dignified and above all typical? If you're of the former class you won't like the 1925 Hawkeye; if you're of the latter class you'll revel in it.

When the Hawkeye appears next Tuesday morning many people are going to pause a long time at the binding before they turn to their own picture in whatever section it may happen to be. The binding arrests attention for there is the view of the campus from the Iowa avenue bridge—a glorious prophecy of the future campus as it will be with Old Capitol, the keystone, and companion buildings on either side.

Much money has been put into the interior of the book and as you turn the pages you realize why. The opening pages—the colored plates and paintings of the campus are beautiful, too beautiful you think, but look around you when you are on the campus. The thing that adds enormously to the attractiveness of the book is the old ivory of every page. This soft cream color softens the pictures—which, by the way, are generally very good.

The Junior, the organizations, and the Iowa Life section are in a darker contrasting shade. The junior pictures in particular are more effectively arranged in verticle columns on either side of the page. Iowa Life as a young idea of last year has been siezed upon and cared for until it has grown into a section of twenty-four pages crammed—but never forget for a minute that they are artistically crammed—with cross sections of plain every day ordinary life. There are the fetes of the year—the jubilees—to be sure, but there are glimpses of the campus—glimpses of classes—of offices—Iowa Supply—Reich's and Whets—all every day things that are familiar and typical.

It is impossible to keep away from reiteration of the art work, and most particularly the neat little, pat little humorous sketches by Bill Baird separating every section of the book. There is nothing orthodox or stereotyped about them at all. Separating the eight divisions of the book are colored plates with the same design that distinguishes the first few introductory pages.

The fraternity and sorority section gains much to our mind in that there appears not only the group pictures but the house—the pin and the pledge pin as well. All the pictures are good. The humorous section is not missed. In fact its very absence lends dignity to the book as a whole.

Why detail all these things when this morning it is the privilege of everyone to make up his own mind? Suffice it to say and we mean it—

The 1925 Hawkeye is beautiful.

Sending of Photos Over Phone Wires Finally Succeeds

A. T. & T. Will Extend Service To Long Distance Lines

Years of Experimenting Crowned With Success Yesterday

CLEVELAND, Ohio, May 19—(AP)—Transmission of photographs from Cleveland to New York over an ordinary telephone wire was successfully accomplished today by engineers of the American Telephone & Telegraph company, it was announced here. The test was the result of weeks of experimenting.

Photographs were transmitted in less than five minutes on a simply designed apparatus, the sending end of which was in the company's plant at Cleveland and the receiving end at the general offices in New York. A common photograph film was used in the experiment.

Plan Convention Use

The exposed film was placed in a rotating cylinder with a like cylinder rotating with an unexposed film on the apparatus in New York. Transmission of the photograph was accomplished by means of a small and intense beam of light, the variation of which controlled the current passing through the telephone wire.

It is planned to use the apparatus during the republican national convention here in June.

Ends Years of Work

NEW YORK, May 19—Transmission of photographs from Cleveland to New York City over long distance telephone lines was accomplished today, in a demonstration by laboratory experts of the American Telephone & Telegraph company.

The method, achieved after several years' work, was described by officials of the company "as a simple rapid and accurate picture transmitting system". It will be installed on the company's various long distance lines, it was announced, in accordance with the demand which arises for this type of service.

Takes Just 10 Minutes

Cleveland was selected as the place for the transmitting station so that pictures taken at the republican convention, might be transmitted to New York, within a few minutes. Actual transmissions today showed that photographs could be transmitted to New York and made ready for producing newspaper plates within ten minutes from the time the original photographs was placed on the transmittinf machine. A photograph of a group of newspaper men taken in the Cleveland laboratory today was transmitted to New York in four and one half minutes, excluding the time required in developing the original in Cleveland and the few minutes required in developing the print in New York.

Messages in hand writing also were transmitted in the copy received being a facsimile of the original message.

Officials of the telephone company said the method could not be used on cables, because it was necessary to amplify at various stations, the current used in transmitting the photographs.

Day at Washington

The senate passed the soldier bonus bill over the president's veto.

A rum treaty similar to that recently negotiated with Great Britain was signed with Germany.

The house went into a night session in an effort to dispose of the Howell-Barkley bill for abolishing the railroad labor board.

Senator Hiram Johnson said he had released South Dakota and some other delegations from any obligation to support him at the republican national convention.

The Gooding bill to restrict the Interstate Commerce Commission in its application of the long and short haul clause of the Interstate Commerce Act was passed by the senate.

Correspondence was placed before the house shipping board committee to show that President Harding advised the return of the steamer Martha Washington to its original Trieste owners.

Senator Sterling, republican, South Dakota, declared in a minority report for the senate Wheeler committee, that the Montana federal grand jury was justified in returning an indictment against the Montana senator.

Veterans To Get Justice At Last, Quinn Declares

INDIANAPOLIS, May 19—(AP)—John R. Quinn, national commander of the American Legion, in a statement issued here today on the passage of the bonus over the president's veto declared that "justice has at last been done the veterans."

"After five years of effort during which the American people have been wholeheartedly with us," said Commander Quinn, "justice has at last been done the veterans. We do not stop to gloat in triumph for great work remains for the Legion to do—work which makes the Legion the greatest conservative force for good in America today.

"We shall continue to care for, and to guard the interests of our disabled buddies. We shall continue to provide for the helpless children of our comrades who fell on the field of battle. We shall preach Americanism, and try in every way to show that our slogan—"the American Legion is an institution of service," is not an idle boast.

"We heartily thank those representatives in congress, who have stood behind us in our long fight to obtain those things, justly due us."

Athenians Will Don Robes and Wreaths

Panathenea Celebration To Be Held This Afternoon

What bids fair to be the largest Panathenea ever celebrated by the Athena Literary society will be held this afternoon at 4 o'clock in the oval between the physics building and the liberal arts building, when more than fifty women will march in the annual Panathenean procession. This procession, which will be composed of members of the Athena society together with two representatives from each of the other women's literary societies, will form in the liberal arts building and circle around the oval. Following the procession, the Athenians will gather to witness the games and contests which are held in honor of their patron goddess, Athena.

The women participating in the festival will be costumed in Greek robes of many colors and in addition will be adorned with ribbons, flowers and branches. The ambassadors from afar who will be represented by members from other literary societies will be robed in white togas.

In case of rain, the festival will be held in the women's gym.

Following the procession, games and contests will be held. Following each contest the Greek priestess, who will be portrayed by Rose Reeve, G of Iowa City, will put upon the head of each of the winners a wreath of flowers or of myrtle, which was considered by the Greeks as the badge of honor.

Besides the contests, there will be readings from Homer, the Greek poet. This will be done by Alone Selkirk A3 of Ft. Dodge. Nausicaa will be portrayed by Frances Baker G of Iowa City, while Amanda Anderson A2 of St. Charles, Ruth Keck A2 of Stockport, May McPherson A3 of Toledo and Laverne Pierce A2 of Ottumwa will be her maidens. Odysseus will be played by Harriet Vierck A3 of Avoca.

Panathenea was the ancient Greek festival held annually in honor of the goddess, Athena. Every fourth year an exceptionally large celebration was held. Since this is the fourth year which the Athena Literary society has celebrated in honor of its patron goddess, a special attempt has been made to make this festival the largest yet held.

The festival will be open to the public. Handbills will be distributed explaining the line of march and the various contests. Following the festival the fourth annual Athenian banquet will be held at Youde's. Guests at the banquet will be Prof. C. H. Weller, Prof. B. L. Ullman, Mrs. Edward C. Mabie, and Mrs. Nellie Aurner, patronnesses of the society. Frances Baker G of Iowa City will act as toastmistress and toasts will be responded to by Anne Doornink A3 of Iowa City, Ruth Middaugh A4 of Des Moines, retiring president, Margaret Coleman A3 of Denver, Colo., and Lillian Lawler G of Iowa City.

The entire festival has been planned by Frances Baker G of Iowa City, together with Camille Sperati A3 of Decorah, Alone Silkirk A3 of Ft. Dodge, Rita McLaughlin A3 of Anamosa, Helen Spencer A4 of Des Moines and Corinne Johnson A2 of Des Moines.

Soldier Bonus Bill Becomes Law Over Presidential Veto

Coolidge's Friends In Senate Turn Against Executive Administration Efforts To Delay Vote Are Badly Beaten

WASHINGTON, May 19—The soldier's bonus bill finally has become law. The measure which has been the subject of a fight between congress and two successive presidents, was repassed today by the senate over President Coolidge's veto, by a vote of 59 to 26.

This was a margin of two votes more than the necessary two-thirds majority as compared with the 52 votes to spare in the house last Saturday.

President Coolidge made a futile last minute effort to have his veto sustained by calling to the White House, for a breakfast conference, seven republican senators. Four of these who previously had voted for the bill, cast their ballots in support of the executive.

Move to Delay Beaten

Altogether there were only five senators who had supported the bill on its first passage to vote against it today. All except Senator Colt, Rhode Island, were at the White House conference. The others attending the conference were Cameron, Arizona; Harreld, Oklahoma; and Dale, Vermont.

The last move of the administration was to seek delay in the vote until Saturday, Senator Reed, republican, Pennsylvania, asking unanimous consent to defer action, until that time. The senate was in "not" mood for delay, however, and as Senator Ashurst, democrat, Arizona, objected there were immediate cries of "vote," "vote," from both sides of the chamber.

Senator Lodge, Massachusetts, and other administration leaders, joined with Senator Curtis in voting against the president.

Those voting to override the veto included republican senators, Brookhart, and Cummins, Iowa; Fess, of Ohio; Johnson of California; Lenroot, of Wisconsin; and Lodge of Massachusetts.

LaFollette is Absent

Those voting against overriding the veto included republican senators: Borah of Idaho; McKinley, of Illinois; Smoot of Utah. Of the eleven senators absent nine were announced as in favor of the bonus and one against. Only one pair had been arranged, Senator Ransdell, against, with Senators Harrison and Stephens, for.

Four republicans and three democrats absent and unpaired—Watson,

Seals To Vie For Swimming Awards In Tonight's Meet

Richter Is Doped To Win First Honors Of Meet

The Seal swimming meet in which members of the club will vie for honors will be held at 5 o'clock tonight at the women's gymnasium. This meet, in which all members of the Seals club are expected to take part, will for the most part determine the winner of the Seal medals, the highest honor given by Seals club to any of their members.

The Seal pins will be given to the three women who receive the highest number of points on the Seal chart. The winner of first place in the meet will receive sixty points, the winner of second place will receive fifty points; third, forty points, and so on down to ten. These points will add so much to the points on the chart so that the winners of first, second and third places in the meet stand excellent chances to win the medals.

The chart, on which the Seals have been working since February, is divided into five sections, points being given in all of these sections which are strokes, distance, dives, speed, and Red Cross work. All this work has been graded from time to time during the regular swim practices of the Seals club.

Catherine Richter A2 of Davenport has done the best work on the Seal chart, and it is expected that she will carry off the honors for the year. Although Miss Richter was defeated by Amy Benner A4 of Keokuk in the W. A. A. open meet held earlier in the year, it was by so close a margin that it is doubtful that Miss Benner could score above her again. Miss Benner has done nothing on the Seal chart, and although she may defeat Miss Richter in the meet tonight, Miss Richter with second place that she would undoubtedly win in that case, and with her points gained in swim practice on the chart, would have the highest number of points and would be entitled to the gold Seal pin.

Several members of the Seals club have been doing especially good work on the chart. Among these are Gladys Brooker A2 of Omaha, Mildred Augustine A2 of Ladora, Mildred Kenyon A2 of Des Moines and Esther Rawlins A2 of Des Moines. These women are expected to make competition close for second and third places. Results of the meet will be anounced at the W. A. A. banquet tomorrow night.

Evelyn Harter Is Magazine Editor

Harry Stevenson Will Be New Business Manager

Evelyn Harter A3 of Keokuk and Harry Stevenson A3 of Council Bluffs were elected editor and business manager respectively of the Iowa Literary Magazine for the coming year, at a joint meeting of the Men's and Women's Forensic Councils yesterday afternoon.

Miss Harter is already known as a writer among university literary circles being a contributor of editorials and book reviews to the Daily Iowan. She is one of the nominees for Staff and Circle, honorary senior society for women. Miss Harter is president of the Women's Forensic Council and treasurer of the Octave Thanet Literary Society. She is also the wearer of an "I" in women's athletics.

Mr Stevenson is president-elect of Irving Institute, a member of the Men's Forensic Council and has participated in university inter-collegiate debates. He has alreday had experience as a business manager, having acted in that capacity for the first issue of the Iowa Literary Magazine

"There will be four issues of the magazine next year," said Miss Harter last night. "The first issue will probably come out the first of October, while other editions will follow in December, March and May. The magazine will be conducted with an ideal of high literary quality and no contribution which has real merit will be refused because it does not adhere to a type."

"Every effort will be made to make the magazine more flourishing than ever," added Mr. Stevenson. "We want every student in the university a subscriber to the Iowa Lit."

An advisory and investigating committee consisting of three members each from both the men's and women's literary societies have been appointed by the presidents of the two forensic councils. The committee from the women's societies consists of Agnes A. Kelleher A3 of Des Moines, Doris Rae A3 of Caldwell, Idaho, and Ruth B. Middaugh A4 of Des Moines. The committee from the men's societies consists of Paul Dwyer A2 of Oelwein, Charles R. Sellers A3 of Davenport, and Edward C. Baker A4 of Iowa City.

The Iowa Literary Magazine is financially supported by the Men's and Women's Forensic Councils and is the official organ of the nine literary societies on the campus.

Cross Country Run Staged Saturday

Everyone Eligible To Enter But Varsity Candidates

Runners who have never won an "I," "I2" or "cIc" in cross country or track will have their chance for honors on Saturday when the annual spring cross country race is held. The time has been set at 4 o'clock, after the dual track meet with Minnesota.

Starting on Iowa Field, the runners will follow the river road to the city park and return, to finish in front of the baseball grandstand. The course measures 2.1 miles and is over comparatively smooth ground.

To the leading sophomore, junior or senior in the race the Ida Grove alumni traveling cup will be awarded and may be retained for one year by the winner. Last year A. N. Bender, now a varsity track and cross country runner, won the cup. The leading freshman will receive the Cedar Rapids alumni traveling cup and, like the upper classman, may retain his trophy for one year. R. B. Robinson was the victor last spring. In addition to the cups, ribbons will be awarded to the winners of the first twenty-five places.

Entry blanks are now posted in the locker rooms of the men's gym and all runners who wish to complete should sign up at once, is the statement of Coach George T. Bresnahan.

It's a Great Year for Wheat, as Batter

By NORMAN E. BROWN

When the last official National League batting averages were issued Jack Wheat's name lead all the rest. This despite of the fact that Zachary Davis Wheat is now hobbling through his sixteenth season in the major leagues.

And this early season mark of Zack's can't be clashed as a flash in the pan. Judging by the way he has been hitting since the opening day he has his heart set on once more leading his league in batting and restoring that lead to the left-handed hitters after a four year reign by Hornsby, a right handed swatter.

Wheat topped the old circuit in 1918 with the average of .335 for the year It wasn't a record breaking average, but the thing was, no one hung up a better one.

The next season Jack could have retained the lead had he held to that average. As it was Eddie Roush lifted the crown of Mr. Wheat's thatch with the less boastful average of .321.

Then Along Came Rogers.

That ended the lean batting years in the league, however, Rogers Hornsby stepped out the next season and grabbed of the honors with the hair raising precentage of .370. The next year he boosted it to .397, despite the fact that he was shoved around in the playing field so rapidly and frequently that he went to the ulate dizzy and dazed. Rogers played second, third, short-stop and outfield at some time or other that year.

Two years ago Hornsby made it three straight years with a .401 average and last season drooped back to .384. In all these campaigns Wheat slapped the slants of the national league pitchers at a merry rate, even flirted with the lead at all times but the going was a bit too fast for him.

Latest averages show the Missouri Kid slaming every thing he sees for an average seven points over the .450 mark. Which ought to land him somewhere if he hangs near it through the heat of the summer.

The gentleman right on his batting tail, so to speak, is Mr. Roger Hornsby, so the battle bids fair to be a merry one.

Always a Dodgers.

Wheat started his big league career in 1909 with the Brooklyn Dodgers, playing 26 games that season. And he has been in greater New York bailiwick ever since. He is one of those rare creatures —and blessed assets to a magnate —that does not need a change of scenery every few seasons to play his best. He has also confined his attentions, as far as fielding is conserned to the outfield. The records fail to indicate that he was ever obsessed with the idea of playing or was ever coaxed to play the infield. Most of our outfielding breathern nurse an insatiable desire to play first base or shortstop or some place else in the inner work at times.

So, all in all, Zack Wheat, in his sixteenth season, is a rare old bird.

Epinard, French Idol, Loses To Sir Galahad III at Paris

PARIS, May 19—(AP)—Epinard, the great French four year old, is another idol shattered. Sir Galahad III, owned by Captain Jonferson Davis Cohn, today defeated the pride of the French turf in a hard ridden contest at St Cloud over a distance of 1,300 meters, in which American jockeys, Everett Haynes and Frank O'Neill, were pitted against each other for supremacy. Epinard was the public choice at one to three.

Tennis Team Hard Hit; Exams Force Dorsey to Retire

Medical Tests Compel Iowa Star to Drop Tennis Work

Iowa's chances for a victory in the conference tennis tournament which starts Thursday received a severe jolt with the announcement that John Dorsey, number two man on the Hawk team will be unable to make the trip because of examinations.

Dorsey, besides playing number two in the singles is the doubles partner of captain Swenson, and this pair had been doped as almost certain semi-finalists, with a very good chance of annexing the doubles title. They have been undefeated in conference competition this year, having won over the Minnesota and Wisconsin doubles teams in the dual matches. Dorsey has lost only one match in singles this year, bowing to Sah, the Chinese net flash on the Wisconsin team. The loss of Dorsey on the eve of the conference net classic has forced coach Van der Zee to make some radical, changes in the team personell.

Swartz May Get Chance

Julius Swartz, star of the freshman squad last year is the fifth ranking man on the team, and it appears that the Des Moines, product will receive the call. He has defeated Robert Chaffee, the other first string substitute in elimination matches and will be teams with McLaughlin in the doubles while Jimmy Lutz will team with Swenson in the doubles. Lutz has displayed remarkable improvement since the season started, but has never played with the Hawk leader in the two man event, and it is feared that the few days which remain before the tournament will hardly be enough for the new combination to function with the smoothness that featured the play of the Swenson-Dorsey combination.

It is impossible for Dorsey, who is a medical student to lose the time from his examinations, although he will be available for the remaining dual meets with Northwestern, Chicago and Michigan which will be played after the examinations are over.

Illinois Tennis Team Ends Season by Beating Chicago

URBANA, Ill., May 19—(AP)—Playing its last match of the season, Illinois today downed the strong Chicago tennis team, 4 to 2. The victory leaves Ohio State, Michigan, Iowa and Illinois undefeated Chicago has still to play the three other undefeated teams.

Triangular Wire Track Meet Won By Michigan Frosh

Iowa Places Second; Everingham High Point Winner

Michigan freshmen track men easily won the triangular telegraphic meet held last week with Iowa and Ohio State yearlings, with a total of 90 5-6 points, which was almost double the combined score made by Iowa and Ohio. Iowa finished second with 44 1-3 points, and Ohio State last with a paltry 6 5-6 points.

Michigan yearlings took nine firsts as compared to six for Iowa freshmen. In addition the Wolverines scored two slams, in the shot put and javelin throw. The few points that the Ohio youngsters managed to chalk up came as one second and several thirds and split points.

Everingham, Iowa's ace, again showed himself the class of Big Ten freshmen by taking high honors, annexing a total of 13 points, with two firsts, a second, and a third.

Several good times were recorded in the various events, notable among which is the mark of 21 6-10 seconds made by Lechinsky of Michigan in the 220-yard dash. The time in the 100-yard dash, in which Everingham of Iowa and Lechinsky tied for first at 10 seconds flat, is also exceptional for freshmen, although Everingham has done better, running the event in 9 9-10 seconds in the dual meet with Illinois freshmen recently.

In the field events, worthy of mention are the distances recorded in the shot put, broad jump, pole vault, high jump and hammer throw, which in many cases equal or better records made by varsity men. Stuart of Michigan threw the brass sphere 44 feet, 3 inches; while his team-mate, Northrup, threw the javelin 172 feet, 7 1-2 inches. Roth of Michigan high jumped for a height of 5 feet, 11 7-8 inches.

For Iowa, Everingham in the broad jump, Lake in the hammer throw, and Tysor in the pole vault, hung up some excellent records, and show great possibilities as future varsity timber. Most noteworthy of the Iowa performances is that of Lake, who threw the hammer 127 feet, 9 inches. Tysor easily showed himself the class of the vaulters by going over the bar at 11 feet, 9 1-2 inches. In the broad jump Everingham leaped 22 feet, 6 inches.

The summary:

120-yard high hurdles—Walk (M), first; Voelker (M), second; Boice (I), third. Time, 16 1-10 seconds.

220-yard low hurdles—Phelps (I), first; Boice (I), second; Lasser and Walk (M), tied for third. Time, 25 2-10 seconds.

100-yard dash—Everingham (I) and Lechinsky (M), tied for first and second; Hoster (M), third. Time, 10 seconds.

220-yard dash—Lechinsky (M), first; Covington (M), second; Everingham (I), third. Time, 21 6-10 seconds.

440-yard dash—Olheiser (M), first; Everingham (I), second; Phelps (I), Douglas (M) and Hunt (O), tied for third. Time, 52 4-10 seconds.

880-yard run—Johnston (I), first; Hart (M), second; Walsh (M), third. Time, 2 minutes, 4 1-10 seconds.

One mile run—Jung (M), first; Vasbury (O), second; Hornburg (M), third. Time, 4 minutes, 34 seconds.

Two mile run—Briggs and Baker (M), tied for first and second; Lomis (O), third. Time, 10 minutes, 13 6-10 seconds.

One mile relay—Iowa (Boice, Mann, Everingham, Phelps), first; Michigan, second; Ohio State, third. Time, 3 minutes, 31 4-10 seconds.

Shot put—Stuart (M), first; Muntz (M), second; Lovette (M), third. Distance, 44 feet, 3 inches.

Discus throw—Munz (M), first; Madsen (M), second; Morrison (I), third. Distance, 121 feet.

Hammer throw—Lake (I), first; Stuart (M), second; Hamilton (M), third. Distance, 127 feet, 9 inches.

Javelin throw—Northrup (M), first; Lovette (M), second; Roth (M), third. Distance, 172 feet, 7 1-2 inches.

Pole vault—Tysor (I), first; Prout (M), second; Cramer (O) and Northrup (M), tied for third. Height, 11 feet, 9 1-2 inches.

Broad jump—Everingham (I), first; Northrup (M), second; Koster (O), third. Distance, 22 feet, 6 inches.

High jump—Weeks (M), first; Roth (M), second; Thomas (I), third Height, 5 feet, 11 7-8 inches.

Prize-Fight? No? Question Bothering Indiana's Governor

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., May 19—(AP—Governor Emmett F. Branch is pondering the question, "What is a prize-fight in Indiana?"

The governor let it be known today that if he was convinced between now and May 31 that the Gibbons-Carpentier match scheduled at Michigan City, Ind., is a prize-fight he would stop it. To date, he indicated, he has not been convinced.

The Indiana law prohibits prize-fights, but it permits boxing matches, but does not distinguish between the two.

Edward E. Spafford, commander of the New York department of the American Legion, accompanied by local Legion officials, called on the governor today, and Spafford protested holding of the match in Indiana. He told the governor Carpentier's manager had made representations that the contest was to be a prize-fight.

Iowa Golf Team Defeats Minnesota; Score is 18-4

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. May 19—(AP)—The University of Minnesota golf team dropped its second straight Big Ten contest today, losing 18 to 44, to the University of Iowa quartet in a 36 hole match over the Minnetonka course.

URBANA, Ill., May 19—(AP)—Illinois' golf team swamped Indiana here today, 23 to 1 Engstrom was the only Indiana player to score a point, taking one from Captain Rolfe of the Illini, in the afternoon play. The match was played under the Nassau system of scoring.

The win gives Illinois four victories, and the match with Chicago in Urbana links will settle the conference championship.

A BRIGHTER OUTLOOK

THE DULL trade of the past month indicates clearly that the general industries are feeling the effect of the hard times among the farmers. The buying power of the farmer has been so decreased by the low prices which have prevailed for his products and the correspoondingly high ones that have prevailed in other lines, that the usual spring pick-up has not been noticeable in trade. The retail stores were the first to notice this, but the depression has gradually backed water through the wholesale houses to the manufacturing centers. As a result, figures on the factory workers in Chicago, for instance, show that the number of men employed has not increased as rapidly as usual with the approach of the spring season. Coupled with this is the noticeable decrease in thhe demand for farm labor which has also come as a result of the farmer's condition.

Although this tendency toward unemployment gives a dismal outlook on the whole there is a ray of hope in it for the farmers. Labor out of work can not pay high prices for its commodities, or in fact, any prices at all. This will bring further pressure to bear against the manufacturers. If they wish to push their goods at all, they must lower their prices to acorresponding level with the prices of farm products. The farmer will then be able to enter the markets again with ready cash, and the relief will be rapidly felt along the line. The progress of this relief will necessarily be slow, and there will undoubtedly be more failures before it is in effect, but nevertheless the indications are that the low ebb has been reached and passed, and that the reaction must soon set in.

ART AND THE PURITANS

(New York Sun)

THE "Life and Letters of Emily Dickinson," by her niece, Martha Dickinson Bianchi, challenges once more the never well supported but persistent idea that New England and the puritan spirit have been a destructive influence on art in the United States.

The picture Mrs. Bianchi gives of the Dickinson family and of nineteenth century Amherst will fit almost perfectly the idea of a severe puritanism. In the town card playing and dancing were taboo. Religion was almost synonymous with daily life. Emily's father was a vigorous representative of this little world. Generous and spirited, he was nevertheless exacting in his ideas of duty, of education, of social behavior. And "he admitted nothing in Emily as different from his other children or from any daughter." Yet in his house and town developed this lyric poet whose verse a modern like Conrad Aiken calls "perhaps the finest by any woman in the English language," and of which an English critic crisply adds, "I quarrel only with his 'perhaps.'"

The single instance is of course only contributive, but Emily Dickinson's is a case of a rather extreme kind, showing the soil some have proclaimed barren sending up a particularly brilliant flower. Yet she is only representative of a large number of poets developed in New England—Longfellow, Lowell, Holmes and Whittier, of course and Emerson and Hawthorne. Today the two poets whose achievement is most highly considered in the United States are probably E. A. Robinson and Robert Frost. Both are New Englanders. And if the younger literary set turns from these to Edna St. Vincent Millay, it may be remarked that this remarkable lyrist was born in Rockland, Maine. Similarly painters like Winslow Homer and singers like Emma Eames, Nordica and Annie Louise Cary (the first two of Boston, the last of Maine) are products of a puritan environment.

The Puritans have in fact been leaders in the development of American art. Territorially New England is now a small place compared with the rest of the United States, but its influence is still dominant in the best of ideal and character. It was settled by a religious people, but by a Mayflower to America has brought freedom loving people, and the spiritual independence that brought the country a great many of its strongest creators in literature and other arts.

HEEDING THE MODERN MUSICAL MOVEMENT

(Christian Science Monitor)

WHATEVER else takes place at the biennial convention of the National Federation of Music Clubs, held in Portland, Ore., in June, 1925, without doubt lines of policy will be newly laid down regarding the modern musical movement. The idea approved at the last biennial of a rather exclusive devotion to the American phase of the movement and something broader seems inevitable. Music clubs have more to do, perhaps, than any other American agency with the spread of a knowledge of the art of tone; and though many of them may consider that art purely historic, and may take no interest in it as an expression of present-day feeling, most of them probably entertain a forward view.

Indications are, indeed, that the clubs will not permit that to happen in the twentieth century which did in the nineteenth, when Wagner had to wait to have his say till after Gilbert and Sullivan had had theirs. Take the case of the Ohio Federation of Music Clubs, which lately held its annual sessions jointly with the Ohio Music Teachers' Association at Toledo. A springtime gathering, some might say, that looked at affairs in an autumnal light. And yet, that it displayed an interest in the budding, growing aspects of music cannot be denied. For the federation, on the one hand, lent its favor to a performance by the Toledo Choral Society of Kelley's "Pilgrim's Progress," a comparatively recent work; while the association, on the other, which is now in the forty-third year of its activity, left the past behind long enough to listen to Bloch's pieces for violin and piano, "Baal Shem," also recent, given at a chamber music concert.

Now those who made the arrangements for the Toledo convention may have intended to honor two men who are connected with educational institutions in the State of Ohio. But the moment they made room on their program for the music of Bloch, they opened their fancy more to the thinking of Switzerland, where the composer, until a few years ago, lived, than to that of Ohio, where he has been but a short time a resident. They could scarcely make the occasion a strictly American one, however much they tried.

What, therefore, the clubs obviously have got to do, if they go in for the modernmovement at all, is to accept it in every one of its manifestations. When, for example, Casella appears in the United States, representing the latest Italian school, they must heed him; when Milhaud appears, representing the latest French, and Bliss, the latest British, they must give attention to them. Next season, should Stravinsky appear, as it has been reported he will, representing the latest Russian, and the season after, Schonberg, the latest Austrian, they must likewise let them fairly have their say. In fine, the opportunity which the clubs assembled at Toledo groped for, those that meet at Portland must unveil their vision to and, furthermore, seize upon.

THREE POEMS

Maze

I lost myself in the world of thought
One quiet springtime day,
And though since then I've travelled far
The goal is far away;

For the world of thought is a pathless maze
In which the minds of men
Must look to the poet to pierce the haze,
And show them the light again.

Skeletons

When I was a youth, night
Brought to me peace and rest,
And sleep like the sea in deep quiet.
It is not so now.
Now night comes near in stealth
And in silence unearths to me
Skeletons of old old longings.
Throngs of winged thoughts swarm about me,
Tormenting me from sleep,
And with these must I live till another day.
I have no care what the day may bring,
But I dread the night
With its skeletons of old, old longings.

Fairyland Comes to an End

Professors stand before their classes and speak of realms of thought still dimly lit with the light of knowledge.
With gestures of vain hands
they beat against the sides of the universe and try to establish the Real.
Students listen with minds intent to the hollow sounds of the blows, and they too try to know the Real—
the baffling secret of life.
Like children who have heard of a fairyland,
they believe that the Real exists;
they would lay their hands upon it,
and would live in this land of fairies . . . .
But children at last become men,
And fairylands come to an end . . . .

It is not easy to give up the fairies,
Not even the fairies of Reality!

"COUNTRY PEOPLE" By Ruth Suckow

Reviewed by Lorenz G. Wolters

And now we hear a new voice from the wilderness. This time it is Ruth Suckow's. Her first book, "Country People," is just off the press. Again we have a story of Iowa by an Iowan and this time from a woman who is little known except to readers of certain magazines of not very general circulation. Miss Suckow made her literary debut in The Midland a few years ago. She has had several novelettes and short stories published in "The Smart Set" and "The American Mercury" previous to the publication of "Country People" which has been running serially in "The Century" magazine.

What the critics have to say about this, her first novel, remains to be seen. Ben Hecht, who lately characterized "Arlie Gelston" as a "lovely story," may be expected to style "Country People" an "engaging chronicle" or a "neat piece of work." H. L. Mencken has already pronounced Ruth Suckow an artist rather than a photographer, an interpreter of life rather than an observer or a recorder. Be that as it may, in this story she is unquestionably a photographer; but fortunately for us she has had the discretion to use an eighty-five line screen instead of the 150 line variety which Mr. Sergel used to disclose the psychic and biologic history of "Arlie Gelston."

The book is an account—a very possible and probable account of the history through three generations of a German-American family living near and in Richland, Iowa. Richland is presumably Eariville, Miss Suckow's home for at least a part of the year.

The central figure in this chronicle is August Kaetterhenry," who was born, "according to the Richland Banner," on a farm near Turkey Creek, Iowa, on September 19, 1859, . . . left his native village to come to Richland township . . . , was united in marriage to Emma Stille, daughter of Wilhelm Stille, now known as Grandpa Stille, and to them six children were born, all of whom survive. The deceased's son, Carl Kaetterhenry, is now operating the farm on the principles taught him by his father. . . . Mr. Katterhenry was known to all his neighbors as a conscientious farmer and an upright and honest man. He united with the Methodist denomination as a young man and was all his life one of its most faithful members and one whose loss will be felt by the church and this community. . . .Mr. Kaetterhenry is survived by his widow and his six. . . ."

And so it was with August Kaetterhenry and his "relationship." The tabulation of events for sixty years runs on with nothing to mar the dull and prosaic evenness of Iowa farm life except for illness, friction during the late war between this German and the earlier naturalized farmers, and liasons of a son or two. It is a truthful picture of life in northeastern Iowa.

There is no plot, but the story is short enough so that its shapelessness is not noticeable. The characters are alike "small souls in small destinies." Their lives have no great hopes, aspirations, significances. They are as so many blackberries blooming, ripening,—then plucked off or left to fall when their time is out. But of such is life compounded on a farm in Delaware, Clayton and probably any other county in the state. Miss Suckow tells a story that is convincing to those who are acquainted with farm life. She records accurately and candidly. She leaves a memory of the story that is indelibly vivid; but there is nothing in this farm life of northeastern Iowa that forces Miss Suckow to observe in Dreiserian fashion at the close of her book, "What a sweet welter life is—how rich, how tender, how grim, how like a colorful symphony." No, life is here a dull, drab monotone.

The style is simple. The sentences are short, broken, unadorned, stripped of all extra baggage. Her language throughout the book in every chapter, page, paragraph is that of her people. It abounds in the colloqlialisms of German-American farm folk. The thoughts, the words of her characters are as nearly set down in type as that is possible.

The book is as typical of Iowa life as any that has been written. Roger Sergel's novel, "Arlie Gelston," the scene of which is laid in the central part of Iowa, might better have been laid in a city; but "Country People" is an accurate portrayal of life in a German-American community.

The Speech Column

Phonetic Alphabet Has But One Symbol For Each Sound And One Sound For Each Symybol. Use of Phonetic Alphabet is Aid to Ear Training.

A scientific alphabet is one based on speech sounds, in which each symbol represents one sound only, and each sound is represented by one letter only.

The scientific alphabet compiled by the International Phonetic association consists of symbols which are easy to learn, easy to read, and easy to remember. As there are more sounds in English than letters in the English alphabet, it is clear that some symbols will need to be used which are unfamiliar to us.

A glance at a printed page of English reveals to us how inaccurate and puzzling our present system of spelling is. We see the words done, gone, bone. Would it not seem reasonable to expect these words to rhyme? G in give and guess stands for one sound; in gem and engine for another; and in gnat and gnaw it is not sounded. If the scientific phonetic alphabet were used instead of our present system all of our words would be spelled as they are pronounced and pronounced as they are spelled. There would be no silent letters, and each letter would be given its correct sound value.

The student who is skilful in the use of the phonetic alphabet will find it a valuable means of ear training, and by reading phonetic transcriptions he can acquire a more accurate pronunciation of his own or of a foreign language

Why work overtime?

The student who works overtime is often the one who, for some reason, is not truly efficient. The almost imperceptible slowing-down of his thinking necessitates spending more time and labor on his work.

It is a surprising fact that much of this inefficiency is due to a slight neglect in eating. Many people do not realize that all the healthful, nutritive and laxative properties of whole wheat bran can be secured in a really tempting breakfast dish.

Post's Bran Flakes, while retaining all the natural properties of bran, have a rich, appetizing flavor that is deliciously different. Crisp, crunchy, and nut-brown, Post's Bran Flakes appeal to the most critical.

To satisfy your taste and your reason, try Post's Bran Flakes for tomorrow's breakfast. You will be treating yourself to a pleasant surprise, and storing up hours, not for "overtime," but for recreation.

Drum Major Will Wear High Shako

Phillips Will Devise New Steps For Iowa Band

When the Iowa band comes "Rambling" on to Iowa Field next fall it will be preceded by an enormous, black shako with tassels and a plume of old gold, under which will strut Drum Major John A. Phillips A3 of Sioux City.

The shako, of black fur and measuring fourteen inches in height, has been ordered, but will not arrive in time for public appearance this school year. In addition to the gold plume and the gold tassels the shako will have a chin strap of chain gold and an adjustable head-band.

Phillips, the prospective wearer of the big shako, is planning a new series of band formations. One of them which promises to be a sensation is a swaying formation in which the entire band sways in unison. Other interesting formations are planned, but will not be divulged until a later date.

The "Peacock Strut," made famous during the late war by a Sioux City boy in the naval band of the Great Lakes station, is the basis of a new strut that Phillips is now working on.

It is interesting to note that Phillips is also a Sioux City boy. Whether or not he will follow in the path of his illustrious fellow townsman or not is problematical. True he is an actor, having performed in the following University productions: "Icebound," "Twelfth Night" and "To the Ladies." However, one hesitates to ask the runner-up in the light heavyweight division of the University boxing tournament if he contemplates taking up interpretive dancing as did the "Peacock Strutter."

Phillips is a member of the Irving literary society, a member of the University Players, and was stage manager for the production, "Icebound," played here last week.

Dill To Lecture From WHAA On Reptile Hunting

"Hunting Reptiles in Louisiana" is the subject of the lecture which Prof. Homer R. Dill will deliver from station WHAA on Tuesday evening, June 3. Professor Dill is the director of the University Museum and in the interest of his profession has travelled extensively, but of all his expeditions he believes that the trip to the Louisiana swamp territory offers the colorful adventure which will appeal to the largest number of radio fans. "Spearing Alligators by Moonlight" would be a more alluring title for this first contribution of Professor Dill's to the University radio programs.

Genevieve Forbes Gets $100 a Week; Jounralism Needs More Women

$100 a week.

To earn that salary Miss Genevieve Forbes of the Chicago Tribune writes only one story a day. That story, usually a feature story, or a news story on some great event in Chicago, she is allowed to handle in her own way. She writes about a column a day, and her story usually makes page one of the Tribune, or sometimes is the "banner" story.

Her story always carries a "by-line," a recognition of the fact that Tribune readers look for her stories, that the Tribune finds her a circulation asset, and that her work is an essential to the paper.

Other women have been able to do the same thing in newspaper work, or, if they do not care for journalism, they find this work a convenient and ready "stepping stone" to the magazine field.

Women are needed in journalism—especially in certain departments, such as in the work Miss Forbes does. Thus, the Daily Iowan must have women on its staff for the women's department, and for special phases of the work in covering the University and city news.

A woman's chances on the Iowan are excellent, as is shown by the ascent of Miss Hazel Samuelson to the position of editor-in-chief for the coming year. In addition, the new "chief" has recently been elected secretary of the Big Ten Editorial Association, composed of the editors and business managers of Western Conference newspapers.

Lack of previous newspaper or writing experience need not deter any woman who wishes to follow Miss Samuelson's trail. Further information on a woman's opportunities on the Daily Iowan can be obtained at room 14, L. A.

Ohio State Track Team Wins in Dual Meet With Chicago

CHICAGO, May 19—(AP)—Ohio State University defeated the University of Chicago in a Western Conference duel track meet here today, 83 to 51. The Buckeyes took all three places in two events, the half mile run and the hammer throw.

Snyder, Ohio State, was high point man with firsts in the low hurdles and broad jump. He tried for first in the high jump and placed second in the high hurdles. Frieda, Chicago, placing first in the javelin and discuss throws and in the pole vault and third in the shot put for 16 points, was top man for his team.

Brickman, Chicago, looked upon as a certain victor in the high hurdles, was disqualified when he knocked over several hurdles.

Iowa Track Team Priming For Meet With Minnesota

Gophers Come to Iowa With Best Squad In Years

After winning the state meet by nearly as large a score as that of last year and making some great marks, the Iowa track team is swinging back into the practice grind again. Minnesota with one of the best teams in years will invade Iowa Field on Saturday for a dual meet and Coach George T. Bresnahan is taking no chances with the Gophers.

The triumph of the Hawkeyes at Ames was cleancut and decisive. Iowa athletes placed in every event except the half mile and when Sorenson twisted his ankle on the first turn he lost a certain place in that event. In fifteen events Iowa men took ten firsts, five clear seconds and two ties, two thirds and three fourths for a total of 79 3-5 points. Outstanding among the performances was that of Captain Brookins who broke his own world's record in the low hurdles by doing :23 flat on a track not in the firmest possible condition. The Hawkeye finished fifteen yards ahead of Taylor of Grinnell. Officials of the meet declare that there is no reason why the mark should not stand since all three watches were stopped at :23 and the wind, quartering across the track was of no help to the Iowa star. Another fine race was that of Chan Coulter in the quarter mile when he ran :49 3-10, the fastest of his career. In the mile relay this same man made up a ten yard gap and finished several yards ahead of the Ames runner.

Harold Crawford would have run the 120-yard high hurdles in close to :15 had he not hit the last two when the track pulled out under his takeoff foot. The mishap of knocking over two barriers was disastrous to his hope of lowering his own state recorde. Goodrich ran a mile faster than he ever did before but the field was exceptionally good and he could do no better than fourth in a 4:25 4-10 race won by McIntyre of Ames, a former Iowa star.

Sam Hildreth Gives Good Alibi; Claims Judges Got Excited

NEW YORK, May 19—(AP)—Sam Hildreth, returning today from Louisville, Ky., where he saddled Bracadale and Mad Play for the Rancocas Stable in the Kentucky Derby, declared that Bracadale finished second or at the worst no more than third in the classic. Hildreth said there might be a question as to second between Bracadale and Chilhowee, but Bracadale's head was in front of Beau Butler, the colt which the judges placed third.

"The judges must have got excited," Hildreth said, "because the finish was so close among four horses."

Three Tiger Pitchers Fail to Stop Red Sox Win 9-1

(By The Associated Press)

PHILADELPHIA, May 19.—Philadelphia came out of its slump today and won the opening game of the series from Chicago, 4 to 3. Rommel returned to the mound for the home team after an absence of several days due to a strained side and pitched fine ball. Previous to the game it was announced that Eddie Collins had been appointed temporary manager of the White Sox in the place of Johnny Evers, who is ill at his home with appendicitis.

Score by innings:

Chicago	010 001 100	3	9	0
Philadelphia	000 202 00x	4	7	2

Batteries: Blankenship and Burns; Rommel and Perkins.

Red Sox 9, Tigers 1

BOSTON, May 19.—Wildness by Holloway, Pillette and Clarke and hits by Wambsganss, Veach and Harris in the second inning gave Boston six runs today, and Boston won from Detroit, 9 to 1. Wambsganss and Boone each doubled twice. Score by innings:

Detroit	000 000 010	1	6	1
Boston	160 002 00x	9	9	3

Batteries: Holloway, Pillette, Clark, K. Jones and Bassler; Ehmke and O'Neil.

Pirates 6, Giants 3

PITTSBURGH, May 19.—Hitting Watson timely in the sixth inning for four runs, Pittsburgh defeated New York, 6 to 3, in the opening game of the series today. Morrison was effective in the pinches. Ram fell almost continuously during the game. Meusel hit a home run in the ninth, scoring in the ninth. Score by innings:

New York	010 000 002	3	8	1

Geology Trips Fill Quota, 24

Trowbridge, Runner, In Charge Of Courses

In both the Baraboo and Black Hills field trip courses offered to geology students during the summer, eleven names have been registered, and the twelfth names, which are to complete the maximum number needed for either trip, are now under consideration by Professors J. J. Runner and Arthur C. Trowbridge, who will take charge of the trips.

"These field trips, which are given annually and which this year will embrace territory about Baraboo, Wisconsin and Black Hills, S. Dakota, are," according to Professor Trowbridge, who supervises the Baraboo trip, "chiefly designed for students majoring in geology. With both courses, a maximum quota of twelve must be reached, and up to the present, that many responses have been easily received."

The name of the twelfth man to accompany the Baraboo study is being withheld until further decision by the geology department, but the remaining eleven who plan to go to Wisconsin when the class opens on June 5 are: Carolyn Gray junior, University of Missouri, Frank Horack A2 of Iowa City, Paul McKee A2 of Grinnell, Edward F. McNabb A1 of Superior, Wis., John Price A1 of Ranger, Tex., J. L. Rutherford A3 of Ross, Maurice Seed, junior, University of Illinois, Raymond Sidwell A3 of Malcolm, Marion R. Swaney A1 of Ft. Dodoge, Herbert W. Werner A1 of Adel, and Elmer E. Winsor A2 of Manchester.

Recruits for the Black Hills course, which opens at camps near Whitewood and Lead, S. Dakota, on June 9, under the supervision of Prof. J. J. Runner have been drawn in some number from the University of Illinois. Eleven registrants have already arranged with Professor Runner for the trip, and students from Iowa will be added to complete the quota.

Students who plan to accompany Professor Runner are: Robert E. King A2 of Iowa City, F. Fryxell, an Iowa man now at Augustana College, Rock Island, Ill., H. E. McCosh A1 of Greene, Karl G. Peters, A3 of Parker, S. Dak., six men from the University of Illinois, Ernest F. Fox, E. Lyndon Bell, Charles F. Young, S. M. Anderson, Jesse Beaver, J. R. Drees and Donald Ortman of Cornell College, Mt. Vernon.

The Black Hills Trip, having for a prerequisite one year in geology, will consist of two terms of summer school, of four weeks each. The four weeks will be spent in field work, after which two weeks are to be devoted to preparation of a report. For the entire six weeks period, six hours credit is to be given. The Baraboo trip, in charge of Professor Trowbridge will cover one term of four weeks. In the two weeks following a report of the material covered, is to be made and submitted to the instructor, before the full six hours credit will be given.

Commission Loses Long Haul Powers

Gooding Bill is Passed In Senate; Restricts I. C. C. Rights

(By the Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, May 19—The Gooding bill restricting the Interstate Commerce Commission, in its application of the long and short haul clause of the Interstate Commerce Act, was passed by the senate today, 54 to 23.

The bill is the first important one on railroad questions to be passed at this session, by the senate, and concludes a fight carried on more than twenty years, by the Inter-Mountain rate territories. The measure had been under debate for a week. The Interstate Commerce Commission for years has maintained its power to permit a common carrier to charge less for a long than for a short haul included in the long haul when the carrier has shown after public hearing that such authority was necessary for the maintenance of its service. The measure would permit "departures" only in the cases of circuitous routes, in the making of export and import rates and with regard to block express rates.

Senator Fletcher, democrat, Florida, insisted the measure would result in the railroads continuing their present rates to intermediate or short haul points and raising their long haul on coast rates.

Senator Pittman, democrat, Nevada, contended such would be impossible, arguing that an increase of long haul rates to the point of making them compensatory, would result in such an increase in revenue, as to require the Interstate Commerce ommission, to reduce intermediate rates.

France Becomes World's Cynosure

Edouard Harriot.

France is the cynosure of the world as radical socialists headed by Edouard Herriot, become the most powerful party in parliament, having gained 100 seats in the chamber of deputies by the unexpected defeat of Bloc National government of Raymond Poincare, in power since 1919. Herriot, millionare, mayor of Lyons, visited the United States last fall. Three governments of Europe are now dominated by Socialists. Great Britain, Denmark and France.

FINAL EXAMINATION SCHEDULE

The regular program of class work will be suspended and the following semester examination program substituted for it. Classes will meet for examination in the rooms in which they have been regularly meeting unless notified by their instructors, respectively, to the contrary. It should doubtless be born in mind that shifting examinations, with reference either to time or place from the times and places indicated in this fundamental program is almost certain to entail conflicts.

Classes whose first meetings occur:

Monday at 8, meet for examination	Wednesday, May 28; 2-4
Monday at 9, meet for examination	Wednesday, May 28; 8-10
Monday at 10, meet for examination	Saturday, May 24, 8-10

Soldier Bonus Bill Becomes Law Over Presidential Veto

McCormick, LaFollette, Couzens, Stanley, Walsh, of Massachusetts, and Reed of Missouri all favored passage of the bill.

Tax Reduction to Go

Senator Owen, democrat, Oklahoma, the other absentee, voted for the bill on its original passage, but there was no announcement as to his attitude with respect to overriding the veto.

White House officials emphasized that the Mellon tax reduction program was predicated upon the assumption that there would be no bonus legislation. While they refused to say so directly, they left the impression that congress having decided on a bonus, hope of material tax reduction must be abandoned.

Secretary Mellon was not prepared to discuss the effect of the bonus upon the treasury's financial program, but he said, that "sooner or later there must be provision for payment and it can be met only by new taxes."

Start Machinery Immediately

The treasury secretary conferred with President Coolidge, but neither he nor White House officers disclosed the subject under discussion. Mr. Mellon declined to comment on suggestions by some treasury officials that the treasury could not do otherwise, than to recommend a veto of the pending tax legislation, as a result of the passage of the bonus.

Machinery to put the law into operation will be set up rapidly as possible, all agencies affected, having had under consideration for some time plans for carrying out the provisions of the act.

One form of application will be used for all services and these applications will be distributed throughout the country through the post offices and the American Red Cross, the American Legion and other service societies.

The bonus bill, that became a law, is one of two hundred offered in congress since the first effort for this legislation was initiated in 1919. It differs materially from the original proposals, which were for cash payments. However, it is not materially different from the bill which president Harding vetoed in 1922.

Local Views of Bonus

"At Last The Bonus. Pile On Cal."

Jubilant over the passage of the soldier bonus bill the drum and bugle corps of the local American Legion post paraded through the streets last night flaunting the banner in celebration of the passage of the bill.

The tolling of the city hall bell at 7:45 o'clock for half an hour was the signal for the march of the drum and bugle corps, for over an hour the ex-service men paraded through the streets and business houses.

"Pile On Cal." Opinions of ex-service men on the significance of that phrase in regard to Coolidge's pulling the ex-service vote in this county differed.

"There aren't a helluva lot of Republicans around here any more," was the caustic comment of one Legionnaire last night. "At least they won't admit it," he added. Several other Legionnaires expressed the belief that Coolidge supporters in this county would be few and far between; others that his veto of the bill and its subsequent passage would affect his strength very little.

The majority of opinions expressed last night intimated a belief that Coolidge had not been harmed by his veto of the bonus bill. Republican party leaders of the county that could be reached last night expressed the belief that "Silent Call" would be a stronger "vote puller" than before. They seemed to believe that even the ex-service men admired his grit in sticking up for what he believed right.

Sterling Assails Wheeler Acquittal

South Dakota Senator Makes Minority Report on Probe

WASHINGTON, May 19—The indictment of Senator Wheeler, democrat, Montana, by a federal grand jury in that state, was justified by evidence, Senator Sterling, republican, South Dakota, a member of the senate investigating committee, asserted in a minority report read today to the senate.

Declaring that the guilt or innocence of the "prosecutor" of the Daugherty committee, was a question solely for the courts to determine, Senator Sterling said his report was limited to the question of justification. He added that Senator Wheeler's charge that indictment was the result of a "frame-up" by his political enemies had failed "entirely of proof."

Sharp replies to the report came from Chairman Borah and Senator Caraway, democrat, Arkansas, of the investigating committee. Senator Borah said that when more time was available he would review the evidence in detail and would then "disclose that Mr. Wheeler never at any time violated the letter or the spirit of the law."

Senator Wheeler is charged in the indictment with having accepted a fee from Gordon Campbell, Montana oil operator, for the prosecution of oil land permits, before the interior department. Four members of the committee, in a majority report held that the charge was not sustained by the evidence, and that the employment was to represent Campbell in the Montana state courts.

Senator Sterling contended, however, that the testimony of W. W. Rhea and H. C. Closser, former business associates of Campbell, together with the documentory evidence furnished by the department of justice, at the request of the committee, seemed to make it clear that the grand jury at Great Falls, was justified in returning the indictment.

Assailing the majority report holding Senator Wheeler had not violated the law, Senator Sterling declared that in making this finding the majority had "encroached upon the functions of the judicial branch of our government," and that they had prejudged the issue made by the indictment and to that extent obstructed and interferred with the due administration of justice.

Business Journal Edits Last Elition

Final Issue Will Be Entitled "Commerce And Finance"

The final issue of the year of the Journal of Business, the publication of the college of commerce, brought many favorable comments upon its distribution yesterday. The number entitled "Commerce and Finance" is of special interest to those planning to go into fields involving the above subjects. Although most of the circulation of the magazine is by subscription, a number of extra copies were sold. Subscribers who failed to call for their copies yesterday and any others wishing single copies may secure them in room 205, liberal arts building.

The leading articles in the new number are: "Our Next Year's Plans" by Dean Chester A. Phillips, "The Pulling Power of Newspaper Advertising" by Robert C. Armstrong, "College Training for Business" by Prof. Elmer W. Hills, "The Effect of Taxation on Investments" by W. B. Prickitt, and "Recent Combinations in the Steel Industry" by Merle P. Gamber. In addition there are the commerce activities, the alumni section, and editorials.

Albery is Ordered To Enter Anamosa Parole Was Fought

DES MOINES, May 19—(AP)—T. E. Albery, of Eldora, Iowa, convicted of receiving stolen property and whose move for a parole was the subject of protest to the board of parole by atorney general Gibson last week, was scheduled for commitment at Anamosa reformatory today, according to word reaching the department of justice.

The board of parole had not been advised tonight of the commitment. The board, it was said, has not yet acted on the petition for parole, filed before Albery had served a day of his five year sentence. Several Eldora citizens joined Gibson in protest of the parole.
