Cruelty in Rushing

THE present method of rushing practiced among the sororities on this campus seem to be needlessly heartless and inhuman. Out of approximately 500 rushees, 180 girls were recently pledged by the various sororities.

This means that 320 girls, mostly freshmen, having few friends here and believing that their failure to make a sorority is a disgrace, were disappointed. The frame of mind into which they are thrown by their failure to receive a bid, together with a touch of homesickness, the bewildering maze of classrooms, and the general newness of their surroundings is decidedly not the proper frame of mind in which to start the school year.

This agony of disillusionment could be avoided to a great extent by second semester rushing. By the end of the first semester the freshmen have formed friendships and have become acclimated to the University. They would then be less liable to attach undue importance to campus organizations.

Much unhappiness, dissatisfaction, and wounded feelings could in this way be avoided.

Indian Summer

AUTUMN, the season of fiery colors, is here. Mother Nature grabs her paint brushes, and "slings a wicked hand"—and the results show her irresponsible temperament and her inconsistency. Dark colors become bright and bright colors become dark under her touch. One tree is a masterpiece of brilliance while its neighbor retains its somber coat of green.

Clumps of hydrangea with heavy, heart-shaped clusters of blossoms present a blending of tints into shades—through green, cream, rose, and finally russet—that is remarkable. Dark green maples and oaks become gorgeous in scarlet, orange and gold. Elms, showing glimpses of blue sky through their branches, are flecked with yellow. Hickory trees russet changing into gold are covered with hard green balls tinged with dark brown. Apple trees are burdened with fruit—some mellow yellow, some red.

Asters, chrysanthemums, salvia, and zinnias replace the more delicately colored and perfumed flowers of spring and summer. Rose bushes flaunt bright red seed pods. Vines winding over fences and buildings are studies in crimson and purple. Mother Nature with all her inconsistencies is the supreme artist. Titian, Giorgione, Velasquez, Rembrandt—none of the world's great painters can compare with her.

Reincarnation

ONCE, through the scudding drifts of the Hyades river, down over the windy plains of Troy, headlong against the dim fury of nameless days, there wandered one of the most famous Ishmaels of mythology, Ulysses. Consumed by a flame which drew its heat from the Olympic fires, this Greek turned his face to the West and sailed into the sunset.

Ulysses died; Magellan was born. Cradled in the land of the mantilla, Magellan was touched by the same magic which blinded Ulysses to the warnings of his countrymen, and sailed westward to pass through the straits which now bear his name.

Columbus, cowed by the jeers of unresponsive countrymen, fighting against centuries of black prejudice, called a fool or idiot because he dared have a vision, finding aid in the court of an alien sovereign also sailed into the sunset and vindicated his vision upon the shores of America.

Six months ago the world cruisers began their journey, into a west, of which they knew relatively little. Over drifting angry ocean, into buffeting winds they passed; over bleak Siberian plains they flew, driven on by the same temper, same fixed determination, hope and pride which motivated Ulysses, Magellan, Columbus. Perhaps they would come back but there were the cavernous wastelands, the toll to be exacted from earth, and sea, wind, stars, sun. Now that they have returned, they cannot help but be conscious of their feat. The shriek of sirens, the cheers of crowds, the roar of cannons have paid them tribute. It is the applause of an enthusiastic people, proud of the courage that carried the fliers through and the gallantry that made them wait for Martin and Locatelli. This national fervor will wane. Let the fliers remember Sergeant Yorke. In a year the flame of exaltation may have burned itself to ashes. Then they should be sustained by the spirit of old Ulysses voiced by Tennyson:

"We are not now that strength which in old days Moved earth and heaven; that which we are, we are; One equal temper of heroic hearts, Made weak by time and fate, but strong in will To strive, to seek, to find, and not to yield."

We read the following headline in the Iowan: Four More Days to Pay Taxes Bring Crowds to Court House

This evidently is in the same class with "Ten Nights in the Barroom" or "Six Days."

Prof. Peter Zozloff, a Russian explorer, has found skeletons and even human remains in the Garden of Eden, which he believes may be traced back many, many years. If Professor Zozloff would take a look around for an apple core he might be able to solve one of the problems that have been bothering humanity since the days of Adam and Eve.

Lovely Labors Lost

A renaissance novel—It is on a renaissance novel that a couple of glances from the beloved fever the blood for a lifetime. As a child of eight, the hero sees the reflection of a girlish soul as he looks pensively into the pool by the king's hunting lodge. So dazzled is he that he forever calls up recollections of her beauty, her snow-white breast, and her still, sad eyes. And so the book continues, filled with his dangerous duels, performed only that Rosalind may hear of him. He slays dragons that her aged father may leave his dungeon unfettered. He sleeps on hard beds to fit himself better for the harder waking world he must combat. Toward the end of the 750th page when he has grown weak and slightly tottering, though always stern and resolute and filled with thoughts of his one and only love, Fair Rosalind enjoins him to her dying bed, remembering how he once brought back her muddy shoe lace and flung it on her balcony while she slept. And when he comes, with that penchant for knowing just what a brave person should do, he makes the bow he has practiced all his life, gracefully lifts her hand and kisses it, and spends the rest of his days enamored to his now dead love. It is clear by the one thousandth page after she returns to him in a dream that he will forever be with her in the beyond.

REQUIEM

Slowly the roses droop and die;
(Where is the love we knew of old?)
Slowly the sun-bright days go by.
(Little white love, so cold, so cold.)
Dark are the leaves on the dreary ground,
Sad are the winds, in the still, gray glen;
Slowly the year goes its listless round
Over again.

Somewhere the sunbeams dance and play;
(Where is the love that used to thrill?)
Somewhere the riotous roses sway.
(Little white love, so still, so still.)
Somewhere the skies of young April shine
Bright as the heavens we prayed to then . . .
Somewhere you're pulling the same old line
Over again.

Our Literati

"A Handbook of Short Story Writing" by Prof. John T. Frederick, has just been published by the Alfred A. Knopf company. It is characterized as "a keen analysis of the short story as an art-structure which will increase the literary perception of both reader and writer of short stories."

Dr. Chiang Liu, who took his degree of doctor of philosophy at the University last year, is attracting attention in China by publishing several works attacking the problems of that country. Dr. Liu is now connected with the Anglo-Chinese college at Fochow, where he is professor of history and philosophy. He is also doing research work in the comparative study of Oriental and western culture.

"A Start in Life", a short story by Ruth Suckow, appears in the current number of The American Mercury. The story is something of a departure for Miss Suckow in that it deals with child psychology. The experiences of a child whose "start in life" is the acting as maid-of-all-work for a neighboring family furnish the theme for the story.

Ruth Stewart, who attended the University of Iowa during the year 1918-19, and is now the managing editor of People's Popular Monthly, describes in the current number of that magazine a trip through Austria and a visit to Vienna.

Mrs. Nathaniel E. Saxe, formerly Hanna Drexel, a graduate of the University and for several years instructor in English at Ames, accompanies a contribution to the literary page of the Des Moines Register with the news that she and her husband have been spending the summer in Spain. They expect to return this fall to Chicago, where Mr. Saxe will study for the degree of doctor of philosophy.

Frank Luther Mott has been working this summer on an article on "The Pronunciation of Iowa" for The Palimpsest. A more extended and scholarly treatment of the subject also will be published in the Iowa Journal of History and Politics. Mr. Mott is the author of a number of short stories. He is best known for "The Man With the Good Face", which appeared in O'Brien's "Best Short Stories" and which has been several times reprinted.

EITHER WAY.
Julia L. Field.
Our lives are just one block long
Either way you measure them—
Main Street or Fifth Avenue.
In a taxi or on foot—
It doesn't matter much—
You get there either way.

A jostle from the crowd,
A word from a passing friend,
A glance from a stranger
You would like to know but don't.
A glare from one you know and wish you didn't.
That's all.
It doesn't matter much
In a taxi or on foot—
You get there either way.

When it is all over,
when the last few charred remains have been picked up by the ash venter and carted away in his mildewed baskets,
Oh! then no one will know me quite;
I shall go back over all the places and soothe the grass on which we stood;
And alone I'll go through the house
we built together, wipe the dust from off the spinning wheel.
The powder in the musket there
... dry, dry enough, I think . . .
it is old but it is powder . . .
Warm my poor pinched fingers
at the fireplace
Dear, dear, it must be here somewhere;
Now it's gone; gone;
Oh, and then I'll turn back the sun-

pull down all the blinds and put up tiny warnings for the other gray-eyed people not to turn in at this fence-post
To hurry . . . on . . . hurry . . .

Critic Unfair To Iowa Writers Says Benjamin

The quotation, "a sorrow's crown of sorrow is remembering happier things," used by Johann Smertenko, writing of Iowa in "The United States," is declared inapplicable by Prof. Gilbert G. Benjamin in an interesting review of the book in the June number of the Mississippi Valley Historical Review.

Mr. Smertenko calls Iowa a "mortgaged Eldorado" and finds only a few oases in what he regards as a materialistic desert. He falls, insists Professor Benjamin, "to catch the pioneer idealism of the people, and to mention such signs of literary awakening as evidenced by such writers as John T. Frederick with his Midland magazine; Edwin Ford Piper, the poet laureate of the prairies; Roger Sergei, the novelist; and Ruth Suckow."

"These United States" is a series of essays, discussing twenty-seven states, which first appeared in the Nation. They have been collected into book form and edited by Ernest Gruening. He explains that no common point of view has been attempted other than a purpose to give a composite picture of the abundance and variety of the United States, and an idea of its problems. The essays, therefore, differ widely in viewpoint and conclusions as to conditions in various states.

In his review Professor Benjamin quotes some of the striking bits of essays, and while claiming that it "smells too often of the literary workshop," yet credits it with stimulating thought and accomplishing its purpose of revealing the heterogeneity of American life.

Rhoterians Begin Campaign to Show Group Stability

The initial open meeting of Rhoterian Literary society will be held Tuesday, September 30, in the liberal arts drawing room, at 7:30 o'clock.

This society, under the presidency of L. W. Van Dorn A3 of Seymour, is the fourth on the campus, and was recognized by the faculty social committee, headed by Dean Wilber J. Teeters. The men's forensic council, however, has not yet recognized the society, and it has been placed on probation by that body pending further evidence of stability.

Plans have been made, according to the president of the society, to have a large number of entrants out for oratory, dramatics and debate.

Because he was a fraternity brother of the leader of the enemy, "The Fighting American" stopped a revolution, written by the winner of the Carl Laemmle inter-collegiate scenario competition contest, at the Strand today.

THE WEEK'S AMUSEMENTS

Choice Entertainment at Picture Houses This Week

PRODUCERS are making good their boasts of giving the moving picture public the best pictures this season in the history of the silversheet. Better authors, carefully selected casts, and good direction were promised for current productions; the promises are reflected in pictures shown on the local screens.

Every type of picture, costume to western, will be on local screens this week. From "Monsieur Beaucaire," a beautiful costume picture, to Tom Mix in "Soft Boiled." And "The Arab" brings a spice of the Orient, while "The Perfect Flapper" is a bit of the faster life of today.

MONSIEUR Beaucaire, Rudolph Valentino's triumphant return to the screen, will appear at the Englert on Thursday afternoon, Oct. 2, for an engagement over the week-end. In a picture that goes back to the days of the loves and intrigues of the French court, Valentino, in the role of a dashing French lover, is scoring a tremendous success.

The story chosen for Valentino's return to the screen is unusually adapted to his abilities. A dashing lover, romantic swordsman and finally, gentleman, his portrayal of Beaucaire is masterly. Both Turkington's story has lost none of its appealing interest in the transfer to the silversheet.

Beaucaire's love for Princess Henriette, his banishment from France and mad infatuation with Lady Mary Carlisle, belle of Bath, and the duel with Lord Winterset feature the picture. It's a great story, splendidly pictured and you'll like the supporting cast with Bebe Daniels, Lois Wilson, Doris Kenyon and Lowell Sherman.

Norma Talmadge in "Secrets" will remain on the Englert screen until Wednesday night. And "Secrets"—with its sorrows and secrets of life—is her greatest picture. Dramatic Norma, as youthful lover, mature mother, followed by portrayals of middle age and old, scores a wonderful dramatic success. The story is dramatic, but human. And you'll like Eugene O'Brien, the perfect lover, in his role as Norma's husband.

THE ARAB, Rex Ingram's vivid picture of the Sahara, will come to the Garden on Saturday, Oct. 4. "The Arab," filmed in Algeria and Tunisia in Northern Africa, is the trust of the desert plays.

Ramon Novarro, one of the screen's greatest lovers, and beautiful Alice Terry, are the stars of the play. The story is based on

"Perfect Flapper," at Pastime

Colleen Moore and Frank Mayo in "The Perfect Flapper"

Edgar Selwyn's successful play of the same name.

"The Arab" is different from the usual desert picture, convincing, thrilling, and well directed. The love of an Arab chieftain for a beautiful American missionary teacher, the threatened massacre of the Christians and the really gripping climax—well, it's a mighty good picture.

"Sinners From Heaven," sounds interesting, and the picture is. Bebe Daniels and Richard Dix come to the Garden on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday in a picture that brings a breath of the South Sea Islands.

Glorious Gloria Swanson in "Manhandled" will remain on the Garden screen until Tuesday night. Gloria scores another success as Tessie McGuire, slangy little New York shop girl who takes a whirl on the "Gay White Way" and decides that it isn't all it might be. And there's delightful romance in this picture of New York life.

THE Girl in the Limousine," and it's Larry Semon's latest feature length picture that opens at the Pastime on Friday afternoon for a week-end engagement. There's lots of good comedy crammed into the picture, but there's lots of human appeal and it isn't slapstick. The story is very human and it started back in the days of short pants and petticoats when two boys were in love with the same little girl. Years pass and the childhood lovers are men and women and Larry, as Tony, finds that his rival has been accepted.

Off to drown his sorrow in prohibited liquid joys, a series of amazing incidents happen to Tony and he ends up under the bed of his sweetheart. Explaining results in a ridiculously funny situation.

Colleen Moore in "The Perfect Flapper" will remain at the Pastime until tomorrow night. It's better than "Flaming Youth."

Barbara La Marr and Conway Tearle come to the Pastime next Friday in "The White Moth." It is a picture of the gay life of Paris.

THE FIGHTING AMERICAN, with Pat O'Malley, opens at the Strand tonight for a three days' run. The scenario for "The Fighting American" was written by a California student in a scenario contest and was chosen as the best story out of thousands submitted. An Iowa student won fourth place in the contest.

"The Governor's Lady," with a glimpse behind the scenes of political life, will take the screen at the Strand on Wednesday and Thursday. A strong cast, ably directed, in a picture that might be of contemporary life.

Tom Mix as "soft boiled." It doesn't seem possible, but he really is all that in "Soft Boiled," a Fox production at the Strand on Friday of this week. That is, he is "soft boiled" until—but that would be telling the story. Tony, his famous horse, is one of the features of the picture.

League Seeks to Arouse Interest Of Voters

Campaign Is Subject Of First Group Discussion

The first of a series of weekly discussion groups of the league of women voters will meet September 29, at 4 p. m., in the liberal arts drawing room, to consider the coming presidential campaign and its major issues. At the second meeting, a week from that time, the party platforms of the major parties will be discussed, and at the third meeting, the candidates. A printed outline of the party platforms in pamphlet form is now on the press.

Ethier M. Hanson, A3 of Battle Creek, has charge of the discussion groups, and all women interested in exerting their voting power, and especially the members of the league, are urged to attend.

The membership drive and campaign is to begin after the meeting Monday and will continue Tuesday. Representatives from each sorority and from Currier Hall are to take charge.

In an open meeting a week from Tuesday at 5 p. m., in the liberal arts drawing room, the technicalities of the absent voters law will be explained.

La Petite Cherie Fails To Fool At Least One American Athlete

Petite Marie, chic Louise, Jolie Jeanne—it's all the bank according to one University graduate recently returned from France. The French girl, of middle class, is a stature too elevated and of a weight too ponderous for the standards of these days of five-foot flappers and diets and willowy figures. But one adjective—unpardonably true—describes her face—homely. Her worst and most noticeable features are her long nose and large, peculiarly shaped eyes. The one exception, as a rule, is the shop girl who is smaller and prettier.

On the subject of hair (and most of it is dark for blondes are rare) it's nearly an even break between the shorn and unshorn. The straight bob is featured with a noticeable abrogation of the so-called "Parisian shingle."

As to styles, a resume, with a man's characteristics disregard of details, amounts to something like this: "Skirts," "Very Short," "Colors?" "Sorta bright." "Stunning creations?" "Far from it." The displays in the shop windows are really artistic and are exhibited on living models, the latter being much nearer to our disillusioned idea of Parisian beauty than the women who parade the Rue de la Paix.

Reformers of our modern girl would find a field ripe for the harvest in France for the majority of women smoke, not on the streets, but in the sidewalk restaurants and in all public places. Petting parties are also quite the thing, the time and the place being anytime and anywhere and the girl being anyone of the thousand of overly affectionate and demonstrative women.

An incident which occurred at the recent Olympic games illustrate this. During one of the most exciting races, one of the feminine spectators becoming weary of watching the sports, transferred her interest to her male companion and began kissing him upon the cheek, leaving deposits of lip rouge in perfect cupid bows. When her companion showed slight annoyance at her caresses, as they interfered with his watching the games, she removed the rouge from his cheek with her handkerchief and returned her attentions to the races.

Perhaps mademoiselle isn't really so hard to gaze upon; it's just a case of being educated to a point of appreciating her particular brand of beauty. But, until that education is completed, our Iowa Girl, in red flannel and wide, black belt, still reigns supreme in the realm of fairness and fashion. N'est-ce pas?

Ticket Sale Shows Interest In Music

Many Take Advantage Of Free Concert Ticket Offer

In spite of the crop failure and the proverbial Philistinism of the student body, the prospect for a record sale of season concert tickets seem quite bright. Many townspeople and students are taking advantage of the opportunity to buy six tickets valued at $1.50 each for six dollars.

These tickets are being sold by students who, by selling ten, will be able to earn a complimentary one. Others who are interested in earning their tickets in this manner may communicate with Mrs. Clapp at the school of music office.

The concert course for this season includes several noted artists who do not often appear in cities as small as Iowa City. All have careers of metropolitan triumphs back of them and they are all famous in varying degrees.

Sousa and his band, who will open the season on October 21, need no introduction to a community which has already shown its appreciation of the march king's genius on his previous appearances here.

The second event of the musical season will be the appearance of Elly Ney on November 13. Elly Ney has been acclaimed by the most conservative critics as being the logical successor of Carreno, the greatest woman pianist who ever lived.

February 18 the Minneapolis Symphony orchestra with Henri Verbrugghen as conductor, will revisit Iowa City for what promises to be a repetition of their first success.

The great Russian violinist, Efrem Zimbalist, who will play here March 16, is well known as a sincere and gifted artist. Zimbalist is noted not only as a musician of first rank, but also as the owner of the most famous collection of violins in existence.

Another notable attraction of this season's program is Lambert Murphy, the favorite American tenor who will sing here April 20. The New York Tribune in commenting on his performance in that city said, "The warmth of his voice, the clarity of his diction, and the finish of his phrasing are beyond praise."

At college in the movies, boys are as wild as they can be. "The Fighting American" written by the winner of the Carl Laemmle intercollegiate scenario competition contest, in which several manuscripts from Iowa were entered, is no exception to the rule. LITTLE HAWKS GET OFF TO 19-0 WIN OVER MARENGO ELEVEN

Visitors Attempt Pass Game In Final Quarter

Strickler Is Star of Coach Soucek's Team

By Kermit McFarland

Iowa City high school decisively defeated Marengo at Shrader Field yesterday afternoon by the score of 19-0. A drizzling rain thru-out the game made the field slippery. The Red and White goal was never in danger altho Marengo staged a desperate aerial rally in the final quarter. The locals made the points on straight line smashing and end runs with the whole back-field carrying the ball. Strickler was perhaps the individual star of the game, with Koza and McGuire also performing much of the heavy work on the offense. Forward opened great holes in the center of the line and was a bear on defense. Lindsley and Vestermark looked good. Boyles made some good gains while he was in.

All of Iowa City's points were made in the first half. Coach Soucek substituted freely in the third quarter and the seconds could not gain against the Marengo eleven.

In the last quarter captain Langlas of the visitors flung pass after pass in a desperate attempt to score, but the slippery ball was hard to hang on to and only three passes were complete. Clements had his hands on a thirty-yard pass once but dropped it with an open field ahead of him.

For Marengo, Langlas, Clements and Thomas stood out above the others. Pelzer substituted at center for Kelso, and put up a stubborn defense.

First Quarter

Marengo kicked off to Idema who ran the ball back to his own 30-yard line. Strickler made eight yards. Koza made a yard around right end. McGuire went around the same end for ten yards. Time was taken out here. Iowa City gained about twenty yards in two consecutive end runs. Koza called for three straight fake plays and gained a first down. Strickler hit the line for three yards. Koza slipped and fell after gaining a yard. It was Iowa City's ball on Marengo's 11-yard line. Strickler warded off several tacklers and placed the ball on the 1-yard line. Koza went over for the first score of the game. He missed goal. Score Iowa City 6, Marengo 0.

Forward kicked off for Iowa City, to Marengo's 40-yard line. Marengo took three downs to gain one yard thru the Red and White line. Langlas was slow in kicking and Idema broke through and blocked the punt. Iowa City's ball on Marengo's 40-yard line. McGuire sprinted right end for five yards. Strickler battered his way through the line for six more. Lindsley made a couple through the center of the line. Strickler went around right end for two. Marengo sent Pelzer in for Kelso. Iowa City hit Pelzer but failed to gain so McGuire went through tackle for ten yards. It was the second down and about ten yards to go for goal as the quarter ended. Score, Iowa City 6, Marengo 0.

Second Quarter

Koza ran around right end again for two yards. McGuire gained five. Strickler took the ball over the goal line. Koza missed another goal. Score, Iowa City—12; Marengo—0.

Forward kicked off to Marengo's 20-yard line. Marengo came back about seven yards. Iowa City took time out. Langlas attempted a forward pass but it was incomplete. Langlas made two through the line. The Marengo quarter punted to Strickler who took the ball on the visitor's 45-yard line. Koza failed to gain around right end. Forward opened a big hole and McGuire went through for five yards. Strickler made it first down. Iowa City's ball on Marengo's 34-yard line, first and ten. Lindsley went through the line for eight yards. Iowa City attempted their first forward pass of the game which was incomplete. Koza called for the ball and carried it to the 18-yard line. First down and ten to go. The right side of Iowa City's line opened a huge hole and McGuire got eight yards before the Marengo backs downed him. Koza went two yards. Strickler made two. Strickler repeated. Koza took the pig-skin over for the third touchdown. Koza kicked goal. Score, Iowa City—19; Marengo—0. Ribbles went in at this point for Forward. Strickler kicked off over the goal line. Marengo's ball on their own 20-yard line. On the first play Marengo lost five yards. The half ended. Score, Iowa City 19, Marengo 0.

Third Quarter

It began to rain harder as the game was resumed. Iowa City took time out. McGuire was injured. Marengo had the ball on their own 25-yard line. Langlas punted. Strickler dropped the ball on his own 45-yard line. Iowa City failed to gain. On the next play Koza carried the ball almost the entire width of the field without making a gain. Marengo held Iowa City and took the ball on downs. The locals regained the ball when Strickler intercepted a pass. Boyles made ten yards. It was the first down and ten to go on the 38-yard line. Strickler made six through the line. Strickler made two more. Iowa City brought the ball to Marengo's twenty-yard line and Boyles attempted a drop kick. The kick was wide and Marengo took the ball on the twenty yard line. Here Coach Soucek ran in several subs. On a series of line smashes Marengo carried the ball to the 28-yard line as the quarter ended.

Fourth Quarter

Soucek sent the first string players in at the opening of the quarter. Marengo attempted a forward pass which was incomplete. Strickler caught Langlas' punt on the 45-yard line. He brought it back five yards. Koza gained one yard on a wide run around right first down. Marengo took the ball on their own 35 yard line. The first complete forward pass of the game gained eight yards for Langlas. Thomas caught a long pass from Langlas for a fifteen yard gain. Marengo gained two yards through the line. Koza grounded a Marengo pass. Carrier let a pass slip out of his hands. Marengo recovered the ball. Langlas passed again but the ball touched the ground. The Marengo captain was making a desperate attempt to score by the aerial route. He passed thirty yards to Clements but the end dropped the slippery oval. Another pass was incomplete. Marengo punted. Iowa City's ball on their own 12-yard line. McGuire hit the line but it failed to budge. Strickler gained a yard and a half. Koza punted and Marengo had the ball on their own 42-yard line. Marengo resumed its passing tactics. Strickler knocked down the pass and the game was over.

Final score: Iowa City, 19, Marengo, 0.

Tennis Tournament Begins October 4

Entry List Points Towards Usual Good Meet

Entrance blanks for the annual men's tennis tournament were posted yesterday on the bulletin board at the gym. The entrance list will be closed October fourth, when play will commence.

A number of men on the tennis team, last spring will compete, as well as any others who may care to enter. Medals will be given to the finalists who come through the various rounds of the tourney.

Ted Swenson, the best Hawk player in recent years, is not in school this semester. Jimmy Swenson's Lutz, doubles partner of last year, will probably enter, as will O'Neal Fox, Chaffee, Phillips and other men on the frosh and varsity squads of last year.

The tournament is an annual affair in the fall sports of the University. This year with a number of good net men working out every day, indications point to a better tourney than was ever held before.

Parkin and Fry Star on Offense Against Freshmen

Varsity Runs up Three Touchdowns Against First Year Men

Krasuski and Hancock Form Good Tackle Combination

The freshmen held the varsity to three touchdowns in their first scrimmage last night on Iowa Field. Battling in the rain for over an hour the frosh were kept most of the time on the defense. Parkin and Fry repeatedly tore through the yearling line for gains of twenty and thirty yards.

The freshmen were represented by many last year all state men and honorable mention men. Smith, of West Des Moines, Nelson, of Cherokee, Kinch, of Cedar Rapids, and Kutch, of Sioux City, were the most outstanding. Jensen of Austin, Minn., and three sport men showed up well at tackle.

Williams Uses Many Subs Many substitutions were used by Coach Rolfe Williams in his attempt to stop the onrushes of the varsity eleven. In seven plays, aided by a pass, Parkin to Hancock, the varsity were able to score their first touchdown.

The Old Grid glidders had three full teams on the field. The freshman had an aggregation of over twenty-five men.

A crowd of nearly two hundred witnessed the affair when the fans were allowed seats in the baseball stands.

Coach Rolfe Williams has a bunch of promising grid stars that should develop into real stars. Smith was a very exceptional man in the hole of open field running getting away on two pretty passes. Kinch of Sioux City and Cubel of Cedar Rapids should give the men on the varsity stiff opposition.

Varsity Tackles Work Smooth

The varsity was the best tonight of the season, holding the yearlings on offense and tearing big holes in their left side of the line when on the defense. If the tackles on the varsity work as smoothly next Saturday as they did against the freshmen in practice Iowa's line will be like the line of old. Krasuski has hit his old stride and was taking delight in the scrimmage that the yearling were dishing out to the varsity.

On the freshman eleven Young of Cedar Rapids was at left end, Nelson of Cherokee, all state man, play-

Varsity and freshman net men will get the first call Wednesday, October 1, when all candidates are asked to meet at the men's gym. The meeting has been scheduled for 4:30 o'clock.

Ted Swenson, last year's captain, is not in school this semester, but will be back for spring competition. It is considered unlikely that Hector James, a mainstay of the past net teams and captain-elect of Hawkeye basketball team, will get away from his work in the medical college for the tennis campaign. With the exception of McLaughlin, the other men of last season's squad should be available.

SENATORS ALMOST SURE TO MEET GIANTS IN WORLD SERIES

Fourth Straight Flag Is Cinched By McGraw's Men

Washington Advances Within One Game Of A.L. Title

Can Lose Both Games And Still Tie With Yanks

(By the Associated Press)
NEW YORK, Sept. 27.—While the New York Giants clinched their fourth straight pennant today and their tenth under the magnetic leadership of John McGraw within a score of years, Washington advanced a step nearer the Senator's first flag triumph by defeating Boston while the New York Yanks lost to Philadelphia.

Washington with a two game lead, now can get no worse than a tie in the junior circuit, for the rival contenders each have two remaining games scheduled Monday and Tuesday. A victory for the Senators in only one will assure them the pennant, even if the Yanks take both of their remaining contests.

By taking his fourth straight pennant, McGraw has gained one of his most cherished goals and set a major league record. Back in the 70's the old National Association, Boston won four straight pennants, while in the American association a decade later St. Louis won four straight but no American nor National league club ever has won more than three in a row. The Giants finish this season, despite the handicap of injuries that forced Groh and Frisch, bulwarks of the club's inner defense out of the line-up, ranks among the most sensational in National league history. Threatened by both Pittsburgh and Brooklyn, the makeshift McGraw team rallied in the final week, but the Pirates out of the race by defeating them three in a row and clinched the pennant today by trimming Philadelphia while Brooklyn lost to Boston.

Except for a brief interval when Brooklyn, the dark horse of the race, gained the top, the Giants have set the pace all season. Their triumph, however, was gained by the closest margin of any machine McGraw has led to the front. They held a margin of two and a half games tonight with two games yet to play with Philadelphia while Brooklyn has but one more with Boston.

Dodgers Driven From Title Race

Bill Doak's String of Victories Slashed By Boston

(By the Associated Press)
BROOKLYN, Sept. 27.—The Braves put the Brooklyn Dodgers permanently out of the race for the National league pennant today by winning a close game, 3 to 2. Incidentally the Boston club broke Doak's string of successive victories which had reached ten up to this point. Cooney held the Dodgers to four hits, one of which was a homer by Brown, the first man up in the fifth. This was Brooklyn's first hit of the game.

The Brooklyn team scored its second and final run in the eighth on a single by High, Mitchell's walk and Wheat's single. A vigorous protest arose in this inning when Empire Klem ruled Mitchell's hit to right a foul. Both High and Mitchell had scored on the hit, the latter's run tying the score when Stengel threw wild and the ball rolled to the Boston dugout. The runners were ordered back, however, and Mitchell was passed. The Braves scored all their runs off Doak.

Macks Jar Yanks' Pennant Chances

Athletics' Victory Leaves New York Chance to Tie

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 27.—A wild pitch by Joe Bush in the seventh inning of today's fray with the Athletics the New York Yanks' game 4 to 3 and made their chances of overcoming the Senators lead practically nil. Had it not been for the wild pitch the Yanks' scoring of two runs in the 9th would have tied the score. The bad pitch came with Jimmy Dykes on second and before the husky Wally Shang could retrieve the ball Dykes had scored with the fourth and what proved to be the winning run.

Rommel pitched a strop game from start to finish although he weakened in the 9th when he was solved for three hits.

Bush's shaky start in the first inning when he was blasted for five singles and three runs proved the most disastrous session. From then on he allowed but three more hits, one by Hauser in the sixth and two by Lamar and Miller in the eighth. Rommel struck out but one batter, Ruth. The capacity crowd that completely filled the stand and benches cheered lustily as the game finished and left out a still louder whoop as the Senators 7 to 5 victory was hung up.

Bobby Jones Wins National Amateur

Easily Defeats George Von Elm in Final Round, 9 and 8

ARDMORE, Pa., Sept. 27.—Robert Tyre Jones, jr., of Atlanta, came to man's estate, today acquired the honor he sought in vain for eight years of his youth—the national amateur golf championship. In the final round of the annual tournament he defeated George Von Elm of Los Angeles by the unprecedented score of 9 and 8 for the concluding match of the week's competition. The triumph came at the Merion Cricket club, where in 1916, a boy of 14, he first attracted attention by his ability at what some scoffers have often termed an old man's game.

A favorite several times hitherto for the amateur crown, he was eliminated by opponents of far less ability. The open title came to him last year.

Now, with family and business to attend to besides golf, and about to cast his first vote for president, he joined the select class of links stars who have won both the amateur and open titles. There are only three others and two of them were eliminated in this tournament. The three are Jerome D. Travers of New York, Francis Ouimet of Boston, and Charles Evans, jr., of Chicago.

Every inch a champion, Bobby shot his usual machine-like golf today. His game was a bit inferior to the great heights he reached in his semi-final match with Francis Ouimet, but he was better than Von Elm in every branch and was never down after the second of the 28 holes of which the 36-hole match consisted as a result of the decisive victory.

Von Elm attracted attention all week by the lowness of his medial scores.

Jones won 12 holes of the match, of which seven were in the morning round of 18 holes. Von Elm took 3 holes, all in the morning.

As national champion, Jones succeeds Max R. Marston, of Philadelphia, who was dethroned by Von Elm in the semi-final round.

A paid gallery of about 10,000 watched today's match.

Currier Annexes House 128 Women

Dormitory Doubles Its Houses by Addition Of 4 Buildings

Many women students have been spared the irksome task of hunting for rooms, as four new annexes have been added to Currier hall this year. The new houses are Howard, which is located at 8 E. Bloomington street, Horack, at 9 E. Fairchild street, Presbyterian manse at 4 E. Market street, and Lambert house, at 5 E. Fairchild street.

At the present time there are 174 women in Currier hall, the main dormitory, while each of the annexes accommodates sixteen. At meal time all assemble in the main dormitory. There is a large new dining room at the north end of the dormitory where 120 women from the annexes take their meals, while the Currier hall women eat in the main dining room.

The chaplains of Currier hall and the annexes for this year are as follows: Miss Vern Gilbert, Tudor House; Miss Jennie Allen, Russell House; Miss Margaret Hostfelt, Horack; Mrs. Smith, Ball Cottage; Miss Nalle Summers, Presbyterian Manse; Miss Carrie Stanley, Lambert; Miss Esther Swanson, Howard; Miss Hilda Taylor, Currier House; and Miss Mame Rose Prosser, Currier Hall.

Women Must Dive To Be in the Swim

Seals Give Tentative Date to Qualify As Members

To every University woman who plans to be "in the swim" this year comes the announcement that practice is beginning for the Seals try-outs. The Seals and Seals are names respectively for the men's and women's swimming organization and entrance to them is a much coveted honor.

The number of possible entries into the Seals club is unlimited, and anyone passing the tests is eligible. However, the tests eliminate the possibility of having it a swimming club in name only, for the woman who successfully passes them may flatter herself that she really can swim.

The tests are given here so that anyone who plans to try out may practice on the most difficult ones. The first requirement is speed, that is, swimming the length of the pool, using any stroke, in eighteen seconds.

Next is the plunge for distance, which means from twenty-five to thirty feet. In determining strokes, a perfect stroke counts ten, and the entrant must be able to do at least three strokes, each worth a grade of six.

The same principle applies to the three dives—plain front, running front, and back dive—except that here the required grade is five. If, instead of being an all around swimmer, one person chances to really excel in one particular branch of swimming, this also will be used as a basis for qualification. The tryouts will be held the last week in October and the first week of November. The exact date will be announced next week. The pool at the women's gym is now open, and all possible entrants are urged to begin practicing immediately.

250 Brave Showers For Varsity Dance

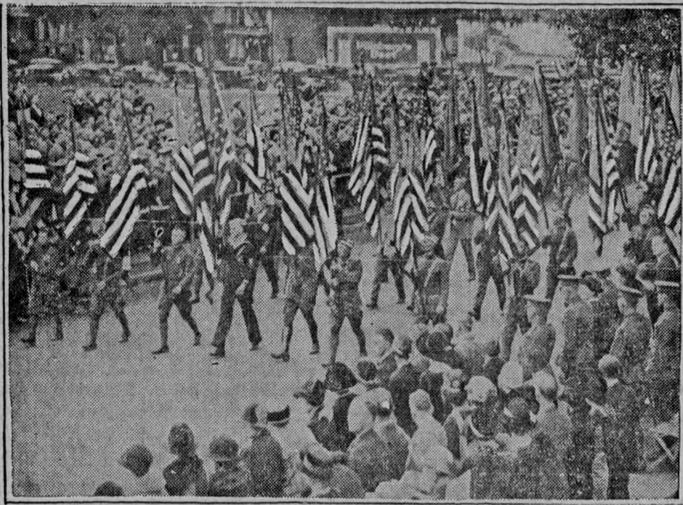

W.A. Project Appears Successful From All Angles

In spite of the rainy weather it is estimated that 250 students were present at Varsity yesterday afternoon from 3 o'clock to 5 o'clock. One of the hostesses stated enthusiastically that it went off with a whiz unequalled in former years.

A large number of those present were freshmen, but there was also a good sprinkling of older students. Several freshmen women, when interviewed, were enthusiastic over the music, the floor, and the good fellowship found there.

The Women's Association, which sponsored the affair, intends to continue the dances except on Saturdays when the athletic games interfere. Large crowds are expected throughout the year.

All States in Parade of Vets at Legion Conclave

Another parade of victory was put on by world war veterans at the national convention of the American Legion in St. Paul. A section of the parade is shown. Every state was represented in the long line of marchers.

Directions for the Forming Of the Induction Day Parade

- 1. Graduate students, liberal arts seniors, juniors and sophomores will form on the campus east of and parallel to the liberal arts building. Each of these units in the parade will face south with the head of the column at Washington street. A sign will indicate where each group is to form.

- 2. Liberal arts freshmen will form in the oval just west of the liberal arts building. The head of each column will be at the spot indicated by the sign; the columns are to form parallel to the buildings and face south.

Parties Anxiously Await Decision of Senator Brookhart

The Coolidge-Dawes caravan also will be in Iowa next week, arriving at Clinton Monday at 10 a. m., according to the advance schedule.

Democrats Equally Enthused Democrats were equally enthused over reports reaching party leaders at district caucuses held this week and preparations were completed today to carry these meetings to the northwest.

In the progressive camp feeling was running high today over the address here last night of Senator Burton K. Wheeler, the independent candidate for vice-president. The LaFollette headquarters reflected the wishes of Mr. Wheeler that "it is hoped Senator Brookhart will declare himself for LaFollette," openly predicted that should this transpire there was no doubt LaFollette and Wheeler would win the thirteen Iowa presidential electors.

Hesperians Send Programs to Press

Plans for the year's program were made at a recent meeting of the officers of Hesperia literary society. Two rushing parties are to be given, one an afternoon and one an evening affair.

Printed programs are now on the press, which include debating with the Zetagathians and also dramatics. Every phase of literary work will be given attention.

He was a "wow" on the gridiron, but when it came to making love—APPLE SAUCE. Anyway the coeds were "wild" over him, and his pals pooled their checks from home on a big odds bet that he couldn't hang his pin on the prettiest girl at the Senior Prom. Did he win? Well, he's "THE FIGHTING AMERICAN" and he'll be at the Strand today. Adv.

Kay Explains Grade Points and Meaning of All Grade Marks

Students are making many inquiries about the marking system and grade point system of the college of liberal arts, according to Dean George F. Kay, dean of the college. In order to make clear the factors involved in the regulations, he issued the following statement:

"The grade marks may be divided into two groups as follows: 1. Passing marks, A, B, C, and D, in order from highest to lowest. 2. Non-passing marks, Excused, Absent, Left, Incomplete, Conditioned, and Failed.

The definitions of the passing marks are as follows: A. The mark A should be given for the highest grade of excellence, to be attained by not more than 5 to 7 per cent of a very large number of passing students.

B. The mark B should be given for the students whose work is better than the maximum set for the middle group, C, but not so good as the standard set for A; and the number of students receiving the mark B should constitute approximately 20 per cent of the passing students.

C. The mark C should be given to all students whose work falls within the middle portion of the range of accomplishment between the minimum passing accomplishment and the highest degree of excellence, this middle portion to include all those degrees of accomplishment that should be expected of the middle 50 per cent of passing students.

D. D is the minimum standard of passing. D students comprise approximately the lowest 25 per cent of that part of every class that passes. D work is that work which is not up to average, yet slightly above the mark of failure.

The non-passing marks are defined as follows: a. Ex., meaning "excused", is to be given in connection with any course which a student is regularly permitted to drop by action of the committee on admission and classification as reported to both student and instructor concerned, by the secretary of the committee.

b. Abs., meaning "absent", is to be given to students who, although present during virtually the whole of the session, are nevertheless absent from the final examination or the final exercises of the class as noted in the schedule of courses or the examination program (not applicable if student has been failing the faculty assigns one grade point to each semester hour having the grade D or E; since virtually the present grade D is inclusive of the two earlier grades D and E.

The grade-point plan is not applied exactly to the cases of students transferred from other colleges, so far as the credits they earn in the earlier colleges are concerned; though the committee on admission and classification decides in the case of each student presenting a certificate of college credits earned elsewhere showing very low grades, which of these credits may be accepted and the conditions on which they may be accepted.
