Plane vs. Moon's Shadow Is Newest Fun for Airman

Racing with the moon's shadow is the newest diversion of airmen. The 400 mile race which is to take place January 24 is to be across New York state at the time of the sun's eclipse.

A United States plane with lieutenant George Goddard as pilot is to be the moon's opponent. The race is for the purpose of photographing, for a longer period than will be possible from the earth, the eclipse of the sun.

The experiment is being worked out by Dr. David Todd, professor of astronomy at Amherst college.

Bad Weather Causes Illness Among University Students

Yesterday the number of men who called at the student health department increased from seventy-five to one hundred and five. Likewise twenty women were given medical care by Dr. Ota Armstrong Loude which was an increase over sixteen women the day before.

Twenty-five room calls were made yesterday by both sections of the department. No definite reason is attributed to this increase yesterday except the bad weather of the last few days.

Kay to Talk on Man in Universe

First of Series of Two Lectures to Presbyterians

Dean George F. Kay, of the college of liberal arts, will give an address on "Man's Place in the Universe", at the Presbyterian church to-night. This is the first of two talks which he will make on the general subject, "How Science Helps Our Faith."

For eighteen years Dean Kay has conducted a class in the Presbyterian church, and he is at present chairman of a University committee which is considering the organization of a school of religion here.

Dean Kay's predecessor in the department of geology, Dr. Samuel Calvin, was also interested in religious education. He, too, for many years conducted a course in the Presbyterian church, similar to that which Dean Kay is now conducting. Dr. Calvin published a most helpful pamphlet on "Geology and Revelations".

Prof. C. C. Nutting, head of the department of zoology, many years ago also gave a course of similar nature.

Next Sunday night, December 14, at the Presbyterian church eDan Kay will follow this evening's address with a talk on the subject "Evolution and the Bible."

Church Societies Combine to Put Out "Assembler"

A new thing in the way of interdenominational fellowship is being tried by the various young people's organizations of the majority of the Iowa City churches. The first issue of an interdenominational paper comes out today called "The Assembler," A Digest of Inter-church student news.

The editorial staff consists of a representative from each church society. The magazine will be printed the first Sunday of every month during the school year and consists of four pages with a column devoted to each society.

The purpose is to create an interdenominational fellowship among students to bring religious activities before students and to furnish opportunity for the different young people's organizations to become acquainted with each other.

NEED FOR WAGON

BERLIN, Dec. 6—(AP)—The lack of a standard size of recent years, for German paper money or rather of a standard that could be expected to endure has made difficulties for the manufacturers of pocketbooks.

Germany Expects Hard Struggle in Stormy Election

Liberals Combine in Effort to Drown Out Reactionaries

Communists Face Loss Of Power; Fascisti Without Issue

(By the Associated Press)

BERLIN, Dec. 6—Tomorrow's general election will be fought out around the banner of the old monarchy and the republican colors of new Germany. The closing hours of the campaign have been replete with editorial vituperation and personal calumny of a severity unknown even to the traditional ascerbities of German politics. This development, the liberals aver, is due to the desperate effort of the ractionary "die-hards" to make the issue one of monarchy against republic.

Marx Leads Liberals

The three liberal parties—socialists, clericals and democrats—are submerging their partisan disparities in a common appeal to the voters to vindicate the republic. Led by Chancellor Marx, the democrats and socialists have joined the chancellor's party in a tripple election alliance which has made the defense of democracy the cardinal issue of the campaign.

Opposing them are the German nationalists led by Admiral Von Tirpitz and Count Von estarp, Ludendorff's facisti party and Stresemann's German peoples party. The nationalists entered the campaign heavily handicapped because of their divison over the Dawes plan and the consequent disintegration in their own ranks.

Facisti Due for Loss

Ludendorff's party which held 34 seats in the last reichstag, has apparently cut little figure in the present campaign because, according to its opponents, it is without an issue or funds. Political prognosticators assert that this party is due to lose at least half of its seats.

The German peoples party, in its campaign, has made concessions to the followers of the old monarchy in respect to the restoration of the old colors.

The communists, who captured sixty two mandates last May, stand to lose at least half of this number, according to the socialist campaigners.

Alumnus Narrates Winter Sports, Y.W. Stories This Week

The next Alumnus will carry to its readers some winter spirit in the articles on sports, bird, flowers, and even an account of a real snow-ball battle.

Eric Wilson, of the athletic department has written an article on the "Outlook for Winter Athletics;" accounts of basket ball, skating, and gymnastics noow replace fotball "Calling the Roll of Winter Birds" is a story written by Agnes Anne Kelleher, A4, of Des Moines. Margaret Sayers, A4, of Jefferson has given an account of the Y. W. C. A. activities for this year. Dr. Gideon P. Marner of Marion, Kansas contributed an interesting story of a snow ball battle between the laws and the medics in the early eighties.

The cuts will be of University Hall, a snow scene in Iowa City park, Engineers' arch at Homecoming, and of coach Sam Barry.

Muse at Beck of Aspiring Hacks During Iowa Scribblers' Contest

By Katherine Macy

"He gazed at her tenderly.

"'I. love you, dear, he murmured. She raised her lips to meet his, and they clung together wordlessly."

Perhaps you don't like happy endings, and prefer the new impressionistic recital, such as—

"His head dropped heavily on his breast. Then—

"Goodby, Clara' he groaned brokenly. 'I did it all for you'. There was a crash, then a dull, sickening thud—"

Or if you don't like stories at all, and prefer to express your innermost thoughts in essay form, or startle the world as another Shelley or Wordsworth, you have your choice of expression in the Iowa Scribblers contest.

The only provision is that the finished product must be in the hands of those in charge before noon, Dec. 15. All contributions should be sent to the Iowa Scribblers Contest, care The Daily Iowan.

The judges are: Prof. John Towner Frederick, Prof. Frank L. Mott, and Prof. Bartholow V. Crawford, all of the English department.

This contest is being conductes by the Iowa Literary Magazine and the literary section of the Daily Iowan; it includes three classes of writing; short stories, essays, and poems. The first prize for each is a year's subscription to the Iowa Literary Magazine.

The selections awarded first prize in all three classes will appear in the next issue of the Iowa Literary Magazine, and those gaining honorable mention will appear on the literary page of the Daily Iowan.

Writers are asked to put only nom-de-plumes on their manuscripts, but to be wise in their choice of them.

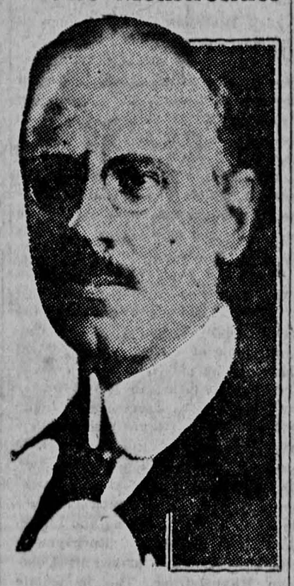
New York Wars on Art Monstrosities



John V. Van Pelt.

Its purpose is to prevent New York communities from being burdened with any more of the "artistic" monstrosities so common in American cities. The secretary of the commission is John V. Van Pelt, architect, and noted artists are members.

Journalists Frolic At Annual Banquet

Wayzgoose is Derived From Printers' 'Bean Feast'

Tuesday night, December 9, at 6:15 the Iowan slaves together with their masters will take up their sport beneath the gleaming lights of the Jefferson Hotel banquet room. While meats and salads are passed around, lords and laborers will merrily chat on questions known to all. After everyone has had his fill, a toastmaster will then introduce a number to speak on serious or trivial matters.

Many have wondered from whence the name "Wayzgoose" comes. In the days when the workmen of "merrie England" were carefully divided up into various guilds, these groups frequently gave themselves up to fun-making. This was particularly true of the Printer's Guild, which ,once a year, gave a large dinner, or a picnic, which every member of that particular guild attended. This festival was known as the "Ways Goose," or, as so some called it, the "Bean Feast." At these dinners which were usually held during the summer time, all the workmen and their employers made speeches, played games, and feasted. The names "Wayz Goose" and "Bean Feast" were probably derived from the fact that the stubble goose, known as the wayz goose, and beans played a large part in the menus of these festivals.

Admittance to the aforesaid banquet is one plunk and two bits.

"Arctic Atmosphere" Says Amundsen of Bering Sea Exhibit

"The same atmosphere as the Antarctic regions", was the comment of Captain Roald Amundsen on the Bering sea exhibit displayed in bird hall in the natural science building.

Captain Amundsen who gave an illustrated lecture on his explorations Thursday night asked to be taken through the university museum. He liked all the exhibits very much but the one which impressed him the most, and which probably brought him back for a moment to the cold north was the Bering sea birds grouped in their native home of ice and frozen sea.

Prison Warden Describes Death Penalty as Useless

BALTIMORE, Dec. 6 — (AP)—Capital punishment is without value as a deterrent to crime, Colonel Claude B. Sweezey, warden of the Maryland Penitentiary and House of Correction, recently told 100 members of the Grand Jurors' Association at their monthly meeting.

The murderer himself, Colonel Sweezy declared, does not expect to be caught, and in the heat of his passion never gives a thought to the degree of his penalty.

Illinois - Notre Dame Contest Fails to Materialize

(By the Associated Press)

CHICAGO, Dec. 6—The long talked of game between Illinois and Notre Dame for next season failed to materialize at the schedule meeting of western conference football coaches here today. Coach Knute Rockne announced his willingness to re-arrange his schedule to fit the needs of Illinois but previously scheduled contests at Illinois finally led Coach Robert Zuppke and Athletic director George Huff of Illinois to decline the issue.

Illini Shuns Tough Series

The date of October 10th. was once tentatively arranged for the contest, which has stirred middle western football circles, but Illinois officials finally concluded that such a series of hard games early in the season would have made their schedule top heavy.

Rockne and Zuppke shook hands on a game in 1926. The coaches announced ten games with leading teams outside the conference, two big ten teams going east and three eastern teams invading the middle west.

Iowa Lacks Closing Game

Coach Burt Ingwersen of Iowa, who tied for second place in the 1924 conference race for his first year's work as a big ten coach at the age of 25, had a hard time arranging big ten games. He announced five contests but failed to line up a game for the closing day of the season, Nov. 21. It was reported that he was seeking a home and home series with the University of Southern California and a similar arrangement with Nebraska.

Michigan dropped the Hawkeyes from her 1925 schedule and Indiana took their place. The other four are traditional opponents for Iowa Illinois, Wisconsin, Ohio and Minnesota.

Police Guard Life Of Royal Visitor

Grand Duchess From Russia Arrives as Guest of '400'

(By the Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Dec. 6—Victoria Feodorovna, grand duchess of Russia and kin to the members of virtually every ruling house in Europe, arrived in the United States today, the police guarded guest of the country's wealthiest and most socially prominent families.

Five minutes after the big liner Paris had dropped anchor at quarantine, the burly bomb squad detectives had clambered aboard and joined the royal party. They will remain with the grand duchess throughout her American visit guarding against a possible attempt to carry out anonymously written threats that she had come here at her own peril.

To reporters who followed on the heels of her party the grand duchess hastily explained that her visit had no significance politically and declined to discuss the recent action of her husband, the grand duke Cyril, in proclaiming himself heir to the throne of the Romanoffs. She and members of her party, insisted that her visit was in response to an invitation tendered long before the grand duke had issued his proclamation at Coburg, where he is now with their three children.

Testimony Favors Gymnasium Teacher In Efficiency Trial

DES MOINES, Dec. 6 (AP)—Whether Miss Marie Midtgaard is to be fully reinstated as physical culture instructor in the schools at Kimballton, Iowa, or whether she must return to the language books to acquaint herself further with English tonight, remained with Miss May E. Francis, state superintendent of public instruction to decide.

Miss Francis refused to comment on the testimony offered today but both she and her close assistants have intimated that Miss Midtgaard had the qualifications necessary to a school physical culture instructor.

The testimony offered before Miss Francis did not go into the matter of Miss Midtgaard's appearance on the gymnasium floor in bloomers and the alleged furore this costume caused among the Kimballton townspeople.

Hal W. Byers claimed that it "was unreasonable to believe that in a community of 40 people where 90 per cent of the people spoke Danish, anyone would be adverse to English brokenly spoken."

Professor Patrick said that the meetings were all well attended and very successful.

The guests were entertained at luncheons and dinner. A reception was given for them on the second day of the celebration.

Mrs. Porter was noted as an author and illustrator. Her two most famous works are "A Girl of the Limberlost" and "Freckles."

The accident happened a short distance from the writer's home. She was rushed to a hospital, but never regained consciousness.

The driver of the car was unable to give a coherent account of the accident.

Mrs. Porter had been a resident of California for five years. She married Charles Darwin Porter in 1888.

Communist Danger Confronts France

Telephone Talk Indicates Progress Of Red 'School'

PARIS, Dec. 6 (AP)—The seriousness of the communist menace in France was indicated, according to the newspaper LaLiberte by a verbatim report of a telephone conversation of an important personality from Premier Herriot's office with an unnamed person in which the personality is quoted as saying:

"The communist movemennt is more serious than we can say, particularly the action of the 'cells' which are making considerable progress each day. Yes, serious precautions must be taken for the eighteenth, but one can't count on those imbeciles of the right."

The reference to the "eighteenth" was interpreted as referring to some communist coup on that day. The newspaper, by mentioning the name of M. Bergery, the premier's chief of staff, allowed it to be inferred that he was the speaker.

In the raid today at Bobigney, the police found a gathering of what is known as the "Lenin communist school." The police stated one communist member of parliament was among the "students".

Baumel. A prize of a pound box of candy was offered for every telegram received from people outside of Iowa.

Th first program which was broadcast several weeks ago received replies from places as far as New York. At that time a prize of a two pound box of candy was offered to the woman who replied from the greatest distance while a box of cigars was given to the man who replied from the farthest point.

Themes at $4 per Thousand Words, By Mail; Post Office Undisturbed

Mental dynamite by special delivery!

The altruistic hand of a modestly anonymous Hoosier benefactor has stretched forth even to our campus. College comets and social stars who are sinking for the last time in a dark sea of invitations to call on the dean are offered unlimited rescue facilities at a nominal price.

Yesterday morning many student organizations received letters from the "Commercial Research Company" of Indianapolis, Indiana, proposing to write any theme on any subject at any time for any student. The sky is the limit, an M. A. from Yale, you are assured, will do the work, and $4.00 a thousand is the price!

"Two hundred and fifty-six orders from colleges and universities in all parts of the country have swamped the company already this term," states the accompanying letter. These compositions presumably run the gamut from freshman English themes to doctors' theses.

Iowa City's post-office force has not drafted any plans to accommodate the mass of outgoing eastbound letters which may result, and it is understood in railroad circles that Rock Island officials forbore to order any new mail-cars to care for the rush.

Eckersall Places Otte on First All-Western Team

Facing Starvation

TENS of thousands of orphan boys and girls are facing starvation this winter,—and the students of the University of Iowa do not even care. They are not hard-hearted. A half-starved child found on the streets of Iowa City would be almost overwhelmed by the gifts of the students. But because they cannot see the actual suffering, because it is not on their very door step, they fail to have any pity for the starving children of other lands.

Today has been set aside as Golden Rule day in the effort to raise a fund to aid the suffering children of the Near East. Americans are asked to eat simple meals instead of the sumptious feast they are accustomed to eat on Sunday and to make their savings the basis of a gift to the Near East Relief.

The need of these children is extreme. Tens of thousands of orphans under sixteen years of age are faced with starvation or a life of crime if help is not sent to them. These children are not barbarians or heathen, but Christians like ourselves. They have a tremendous culture, the heritage of a race which was cultured when our forefathers were howling savages.

These children are absolutely without homes. They have been driven from Turkey, and are scattered throughout the nations of Southeastern Europe, and nearby Asia,—Greece, Syria, Palestine, Russian Caucausus, and Russia.

During the great war these people were our Allies. General Ludendoff has said that the efforts of these people shortened the war by days and weeks. For that alone, we should be glad to give them aid. But the cause of humanity is greater.

The savings from a single home today may not mean much. But the savings from hundreds and thousands and millions of homes throughout America will mean the gift of life to thousands of orphan children.

Sound Viewpoints

SCIENCE and religion—the perfect paradox. Soon after Darwin advanced his theories on the evolution of man, a school of writers sprang up who held that man could not retain his religious ideals and still believe in the new science. Converted to Darwin's theories themselves, they attempted to win over others by a severe attack on the existing religion.

It is not strange that these writers should conceive that religion and science have nothing in common. They had seen how bitterly the church fought the "heretical" discoveries of Galileo, Copernicus, and other great minds who dared advance along a new path. But that there should still be those who think that religion and science cannot be reconciled is strange. After the first flurry of attack had subsided, there have been many great thinkers who have pointed out the possibility, the actual necessity of reconciling science and religion. Neither is complete in itself. The scientist who turns from religion has small satisfaction in his machine-world of whirling atoms. The man of religion who neglects that facts of science finds himself sadly outdistanced by the world's progress.

Dean Kay, of this University, who represents the type of Christian-scientist or scientist-Christian who has the broadmindedness to corelate the materials of science and religion is to give a lecture this evening in these two fields. The views which he presents will be a real worth to one who has had difficulty in putting aside either the narrow dogmas of religion or the equally narrows hypotheses of science for a truly cultured view.

High Cost of Dating

A RECENT story in the Iowan states that according to local theater managers never before have so many girls attended shows without escorts. Must we conclude from this that the co-eds are becoming less attractive to men? Or have the men reached a stage in which dating no longer holds any appeal for them? A negative answer to both of these questions is justified for we are told that human nature does not change. However, the quantity of money in the pocketbook does change and herein lies the difficulty.

It is really not surprising, considering the high prices and the financial status of the average student, that movie dates are comparatively scarce. By the time a man pays for two movie tickets at Iowa City prices and for something to eat afterward at Iowa City prices, the evening has proved rather expensive.

The average student seems to be unusually hard up this year. He cannot afford the expense of steady dating with prices as high as they are here. As long as prices continue high, there are but two solutions to the problem. The men may date and attend the movies less frequently; or the men may hie themselves to the movies by themselves, leaving the girls to follow suit.

"Mortimer Tells of Falling Out with Col. Forbes"—newspaper headline. Too bad they both didn't break their necks in the fall.

"Radio Rash" has attacked the ears of the wireless devotees of Europe. We are now ready to predict an epidemic of "pencilitus" among our cross word puzzle edicts in this hemisphere.

"Dry Agents Raid New York Cafe." We presume they quenched their dryness after the raid.

Coach Zuppke has announced that the Illini eleven has too heavy a schedule to play a game with Minnesota next year. Too bad he didn't think of that a year ago.

Lovely Labors Lost

CONSUMMATE

My heart was winter bound until
I heard you sing;
O Voice of Love, hush not, but fill
My life with Spring!

My hopes were homeless things before
I saw your eyes;
O Smile of Love, close not the door
To Paradise!

My dreams were bitter once, and then
I found them bliss;
O Lips of Love, give me again
Your rose to kiss!

Springtide of Love! The secret sweet
Is ours alone;
O Heart of Love, at last you beat
Against my own!

Today we have given you something out of the ordinary in the form of a poem by we ourself. We wanted to get the thing out of the way so we can start a superb series of verses by such musers as Barbarian, Manrico, Lorenzo, and Nobody's Darling.

We thought Sunday would be the best day to give you ours so you can take until Tuesday to think it over and forget it, or vice versa.

MAUVE OXEN

(Three months have been interred)

Paris snuck up under the Countess' cottage window. He peered in. The Countess was bathing. But not in the room he peered in. He left to return anon.

Returning anon, Paris found the Countess eating bon bons. When she saw him she arose. He stepped back. She approached him again. He attempted to step back, got his signals mixed, and stepped forward.

In a fraction of a second she was in his arms. Pulling her away toward him, he said, "Honey, will you marry me?"

"No!" she cried. He stepped back as if a pacifist had struck him.

"May I borrow your shotgun?" he queried, bowing in a courtly fashion. "Yes," she replied indifferently.

He loaded it with a melancholy air and some buckshot.

"Goodbye," he said with a wild gleam in his eye.

"Goodbye," she retaliated indifferently.

Paris left. He went hunting squirrels in Central Park.

Conclusion
(At last!)

Far, far away in Sucha Quest, Duke Palm Palm still signed checks which no one would endorse. He looked up when the curtain rustled. He was that kind.

"I have returned," said the Countess, stating an obvious fact.

"Shut that window," he cried pettishly, "there's a draft."

Commander of the Faithful,

In obedience to your command I here give the account of the strange adventures which befell me upon my voyage to the strange peoples of the world. May it be pleasing to your dread highness, that, having mercy upon me, you may command that a ship be put at my disposal, so that I may return to my kinsmen.

Kismet

—Sinbad.

The first chance we get we shall roll off Sinbad's log. We think that soon after our readers sink their teeth into it they will be willing to contribute generously, nay, lavishly toward the purchase of a ship to take Sinbad back to his kinsmen.

Rhynsburger Made Players' President; Shephard Resigns

14 Pledges Accepted; Marjorie Roland is Vice President

New Head Prominent In University Dramatics

At a meeting of the University Players yesterday forenoon, Donovan H. Rhynsburger, Cm4 of Oskaloosa, was elected president of the organization after the resignation of Arthur Shephard, A4 of Ottumwa, had been read and accepted. Rhynsburger was previously vice-president of the Players.

He has been active in dramatic work ever since coming to the University. Since joining the University Players he has worked constantly in the activities of that organization, and has served all year on the committee trying out prospective pledges. He has acted in numerous parts in productions, several of which will be remembered by present patrons of the University Theatre.

Last year his outstanding work was Malvolio in Shakespeare's "Twelfth Night." This season he played the part of Dr. Wetherell in the opening play, Flavin's "Children of the Moon." At the present time he is working on the part of General Burgoyne in "The Devil's Disciple," the Bernard Shaw play which will be presented Wednesday and Thursday nights next week.

Marjorie E. Roland, A3 of Iowa City, was elected to the vice-presidncy to fill the vacancy left by Rhynsburger. She is also serving on the tryout committee this year and has done considerable work in the Theatre. Up to the present time she has done very little acting, but has worked back stage with propertis and in the stagecraft class. She also will appear in "The Devil's Disciple" next week, taking the part of Mrs. Dudgeon.

At the meeting yesterday, fourteen new pledges were accepted at the recommendation of the tryout committee. Following is the list of the new pledges: Charles W. Williams, A3 of Farfield; Leone B. Watson, A1 of Mystic; Gladys H. Thomson, A3 of Earlham; Emily Patterson, A2 of Keokuk; Maxine M. Mills, A1 of Cedar Rapids; Lucile Langworthy, A1 of Massena; Alois Kelly, A2 of Washington; Mary Elizabeth Janse, A1 of Iowa City; Marjorie Herndon, A2 of Iowa City; Thomas J. Andre, A2 of Sioux City; Pauline L. Sheppard, A1 of Fonda; Robert V. Sibert, A1 of Waterloo; Opal A. Keeney, A3 of Carlisle; and Thelma T. Tidgwell, A4 of Fayette.

There will be another opportunity to try out for University Players next Friday afternoon at 4 p. m. and Saturday morning at 9:30. Those who wish to try out are asked to register in room 201 natural science hall in the early part of the week. Parts should be picked from the list of plays posted there and lines must be learned. The list of plays is also posted at the desk in the reserve library where most of them may be obtained.

"Messiah" Tells Christmas Story

Handel's Oratorio to Be "Gift" From Music School

One week from today a chorus of 150 will present Handel's most famous oratorio "The Messiah". The chorus is composed of men's and women's glee clubs, which consist of about eighty members, and the University chorus.

The text of "The Messiah" is taken from the scripture. The first part of the oratorio tells of the longing of the world for the Messiah, prophesies his coming, and announces his birth. The second part tells of the sufferings, death, and exaltation of Christ, and develops the spread and the triumph of the Gospel. The last part is a declaration of faith in God and in the surety of immortal life.

It will be impossible to present the oratorio in its entirely, but practically all of the first part will be sung as well as many selections from the second and third parts.

Prof. Philip G. Clapp is directing the production.

Shaw's "Devil's Disciple" Satire on Puritanism of the Revolution

"The Devil's Disciple", the third play of the University season, will be presented by the University Players on December 10 and 11 under the direction of Prof. E. C. Mabie. The author of the play, Bernard Shaw, has written it as a satire on the abuses of "Puritanism."

Dick Dudgeon, who is known in the play as "The Devil's Disciple", is, as the play shows, really the best puritan of all. He is a straight forward character, but is thought by some of his neighbors to be a veritable devil in disguise. The village pastor points him out as an example of a "black sheep", but is willing to give him a chance to redeem himself. The play deals with this idea, and uses Dick as a means to satirize "Puritanism."

"Do good not for the sake of a puritan heaven or any other man's wife, but for the pure joy of doing good" might be said to be the central theme of the play, if a central idea can be picked out.

The play is set in Revolutionary War times, the exact year being 1777. The action takes place in New Hampshire while the British hold part of the colonies in their power. During the course of the play, several "Red Coat" officers are brought in. Chief among the historical figures is General Burgoyne of the British Army, played by Donovan Rhynsburger. The immediate setting is in a harsh and cruel Puritan home such as existed quite commonly at that time.

Several new and interesting effects will be seen in "The Devil's Disciple". Among these is a gallows scene, the first ever to be produced on the University Theatre stage. There is also a court martial which takes place on stage, and a mob scene, for which many remaining members of University Players will be used.

The role of Dick Dudgeon, "The Devil's Disciple" is being played by Peter Janss, L1 of Atlantic, who is remembered for his work in the leading role of "Icebound" and his part in "Twelfth Night". Margaret Blackburn, A4 of Le Mars who played Laura in "Children of the Moon" is Judith Anderson. Ray Holcombe, G of Iowa City, who played Judge Atherton in the same production, is cast as Anthony Anderson.

Frances Busby, A3 of Brooklyn, who takes the part of Essie, is new on the University Theatre stage, but has had experience in dramatics at Grinnell. Mrs. Dudgeon is played by Marjorie Roland, A3 of Iowa City. Miss Roland has been prominent in stagecraft work and played a part in "Twelfth Night".

Herman J. Smith, A2 of Muscatine, played a minor part in "Lilliom". Donovan Rhysburger, Cm4 of Oskaloosa, who plays the part of General Burgoyne, was Malvolio in "Twelfth Night" and Dr. Wetherell in "Children of the Moon."

In addition to the above, there are several other parts which offer opportunities for those who make up the rest of the cast.

Good Attractions Feature Week In Local Moving Picture Houses

Attractions at local picture houses this week range from the reaches of the frozen north to the depths of the underworld of Paris and the romance of Arabian Nights.

AT THE ENGLERT

This evening is the final showing of Rex Beach's "A Sainted Devil," in which Rudolph Valentino comes back in his most popular characterization. It is a story of dashing love and high adventure in the Argentine. Helen D'Algy plays opposite Rudy.

Beginning Monday and continuing until Wednesday evening the offering is Douglas Fairbanks in "The Thief of Bagdad." Here is a picture in which the haunting romance and intriguing mystery of the Arabian Nights appears on the screen with startling reality.

It is a story from the hazy borders of dreamland made convincingly real, a delightful fantasy presented in all its detail with no loss of charm. One loses all conscious connection with every-day life and a staid world and rides on the Magic Carpet over a reeling earth, climbs up behind the Thief on his Winged Horse and gallops into the clouds, hand over hand ascends the Magic Rope and swings in the sky. It is an intensely interesting dramatic narrative, with Fairbanks at his best.

Thursday night is shown the New York Winter Garden's revue, "The Passing Show," a production produced under the direct supervision of Mr. J. J. Shubert.

Elinor Glyn's, "His Hour," begins Friday for the week-end. The picture is a romantic battle of wits and hearts, starring John Gilbert.

AT THE GARDEN

Showing through Tuesday the Garden theater presents the Fred Niblo production, "The Red Lily," with Roman Navarro, Enid Bennett, and Wallace Berry in the cast. The story is one of the Parisian underworld and of Quaint Brittany.

In the little Brittany town of Artignes, Jean, the son of the wealthiest man in the province, and Marise, the shoemaker's daughter, are in love with each other. Marise's father dies, and homeless, she goes to Paris, accompanied by Jean, who has been disinherited by the father because of his love for her.

In Paris they become separated, and it is only after several years of life in the darkest depths of the Paris underworld that they meet again. Jean is disgusted with the sorry creature this life has made of Marise, and in his rage and grief he attempts to kill her, but the approaching sound of the police who have been pursuing him restrains him. He is saved by Marise, who then nurses him through a period of illness and delirium.

They try to get back to a different life, and as they are on the point of succeeding Jean is taken to prison for a two year sentence. While Jean serves his term Marise finds new work and life with the sisters of charity and discovers new joy and interest, making of her a different and happy girl when at last Jean can come to her.

AT THE PASTIME

The Pastime continues showing the picture, "Classmates," with Dick Barthelmess in the leading role, over Sunday and Monday. This is the big production filmed at West Point.

Tuesday until Thursday evening the offering will be Al Christies's laughing feature, "Reckless Romance." Jerry, a carefree spendthrift, is in love with the daughter of the hard headed Judge Somers. Jerry receives $10,000 from an uncle, which he immediately proceeds to dispose of in wild investments.

In order to recuperate his lost finances and convince the Judge of his real worthiness to the hand of his daughter, Jerry agrees to act as correspondent in a bogus divorce case. Then things begin to happen, and it is only after the projected divorce fails to function by reason of Grandpa's falling for the lovely divorcee, and Jerry's investments turn out unexpectedly well, that everything ends satisfactorily.

Coming Friday for the week-end is the "Madonna of The Streets," with Nazimova and Milton Sills. It is a story of the London slums, of a great preacher, of stormy passion, wild revenge, and the healing power of an enduring love, which at the last brings back to each other's arm two lovers wearied by life's tempest.

AT THE STRAND

Sunday and Monday the Strand offers "The Lure of The Yukon," a Norman Dawn production. This picture has for its locale the frozen reaches of the great North. It is a blood stirring tale of reindeer herding in the face of the greatest adversity and of the big rush of gold seekers to the Yukon. Eva Novak is the daughter of "Sourdough" McCraig, and Kent Anderson, as Bob Force, is the lover who wins her.

"Six-Cylinder Love" will be shown from Tuesday through Thursday. This is the story of a family who acquired an automobile, and of another family who also acquired an automobile and thereon hangs the tale.

Slender income, sponging friends, gasoline, accessories, and speeding expenses mix poorly, and soon the house is mortgaged, friends have deserted, and even friend wife threatens to leave. How this seemingly hopeless predicament is untangled makes interesting and amusing entertainment.

Coming Friday for the week-end engagement, Reginald Benny and Laure La Plante appear in "The Fast Worker." Denny as Brock, agrees to impersonate a friend, and finds himself also in possession of a wife and daughter. But when his new sister-in-law appears on the secene all is well, for he immediately falls in love with her. Thereupon ensue a series of complicated adventures that mingle thrills and laughs at a speedy and alarming rate.

Dorothy Dondore in History Limelight

The current number of the Mississippi Valley Historical, review, contains an article by Miss Dorothy Dondore, formerly an instructor in English at the University, now professor at Elmira college, New York.

The article points of contact between History and Literature," was read by Miss Dondore at the annual meeting of the Mississippi Valley History Association last spring, when members praised it as one of the most original papers presented there. Since publication it has attracted wide spread commendation as calling attention to a new field of work.

It is a forerunner of a book by Miss Dondore on Mississippi valley literature, which is to be published soon.

Thrills Abound as East Defeats West

CLEVELAND, Dec., 6. (AP)—An all star eastern college football team defeated an all star western eleven here today by a score of 13 to 12 in a game staged by the Big Ten club to provide funds for the hoped-for Cleveland stadium. The crowd was disappointingly small.

It was a real football game—a contest that ended with a fourth period packed full of thrills. Though the east seemed to have the edge all the way, the west nearly won the game by a brilliant spurt in the last period. Nardacci, the little west Virgnia halfback, made both touchdowns for the east. Aubrey Devine, the former Iowa quarterback made both for the west. Prevost, of Penn State, place kicked once for the point that decided the victory. The other three attempts at point after touchdown were blocked.

Devine of Iowa; Anderson of Notre Dame; Fletcher of Illinois; Dahl of Allegheny; Vick of Michigan; Hancock of Iowa; Nardacci of West Virginia; Crowther of Colgate; Taylor of Ohio State, were among the leaders in the day's play.

Canned Heat

By Kennett Swenson

After all it is easy to name an All-Western team. All you have to do is to wait until every one else has picked his team and then make one or two changes.

We will give the The Daily Iowan credit however for thinking of this. That idea of living honorable mention to all the players who were not named on the teams is a good one, also.

If a game could be arranged some time between the first and third teams of some fairly good guesser we would bet on the third team. Put the eleven best men in the country together and some of them are going to get jealous and start pulling hair.

This column has been highly complimented. It has been mentioned in another column of this paper. But we don't want to argue or debate over a very minor topic as to what Missouri is called. And we don't think anybody cares whether Missouri is called anything or not.

Besides we are not that hard up for something to wrte about. There is a meeting of Big Ten coaches and the coming meeting of the baseball moguls to discuss if we knew anything about them.

One report says that John McGraw is satisfied with his last year's team and another one says that he is trying to buy Eddie Roush again. All of which indicates that the winter stove league has opened.

Two Big Ten Games On Notre Dame's List For Next Year

(By the Associated Press)

CHICAGO, Dec. 6 (AP)—Coach Knute Rockne of Notre Dame tonight announced his 1925 football schedule at the meeting of the western conference football coaches where he proved to be about the most sought after coach at the gathering.

Only previous schedule difficulties preventing Rockne from completing negogations for games with Ohio State and Illinois but he signed up two big ten elevens—Minnesota and Northwestern.

Every one sympathized with him over the loss by graduation next spring of his famous first string backfield. The "four horsemen" which swept through all opponents in 1924 with an unbroken string of victories.

The Army, Georgia Tech and Nebraska, traditional intersectional opponents of Notre Dame, appear again on next year's schedule which is as follows: October 3; Lombard at Notre Dame; October 10, Beloit at Notre Dame; October 17 Notre Dame vs Army at Yankee Stadium; October 24 Notre Dame at Minesota; October 31 Notre Dame vs Georgia Tech at Athena. Nov. 7 Carnegie Tech at Notre Dame; November 14 Notre Dame at Penn State. November 21 Northwestern at Notre Dame. Thanksgiving Day Notre Dame at Nebraska.

War is Chief Sin Of Society, Speaker Tells Churches

ATLANTA, Ga. Dec. 6 (AP)—War and race problems tonight were the important subjects before the Federal Council of Churches as it brought its business sessions of the week to a close.

Dr. Massby Jones, Atlanta, declared the racial question as "the most insistent challenge to Christian religion" but declared "progress is being made in meeting the question."

War was branded as the "chief collective sin of human society," in a resolution offered by Dr. Charles C. Morrison, Chicago, editor of The Christian Century, asking that the council call on army and navy chaplains in the officers reserve corps.

On Conference Campuses

MICHIGAN

American Vacations for Foreign Women.—Mrs. Vander Slice, Michigan alumni, is arranging to have ten foreign women attending the University of Michigan spend their vacation in American homes. She believes that foreign students cannot come into contact with American home life through teas and informal parties. One of the ten women wants to spend her Christmas vacation on a farm; another wishes to go to Battle Creek because of the sanitarium there.

New Medical Building.—Work is rapidly nearing completion on the new medical building at the University of Michigan. The fourth and fifth floors remain to be finished. It is expected that the building may be occupied early in the second semester.

WISCONSIN

Press Convention.—Forty-seven states sent delegates to the Central Interscholastic Press Association convention held at the University of Wisconsin, November 27 to 29, inclusive.

Cardinal Banquet.—Seventy-five members of the staff of The Daily Cardinal were guests at the fourth annual banquet recently. Staff appointments were made; journalism professors of the University gave talks on various phases of newspaper work; and a record of the growth of the paper was recited.

PURDUE

Sculpter Speaks.—Lorado Taft, one of America's foremost sculptors, spoke here Thursday, December 4. A small studio was set up on the platform and Mr. Taft gave demonstrations during his talk.

ON OTHER CAMPUSES

Cornell (Iowa).—Discussion has been waxing warm on the Cornell campus regarding dancing. Results were reported to the board of trustees by a committee from the faculty and the board, and action will be taken soon.

Kansas.—Needy European students will receive Christmas cheer again this year in Kansas' observance of the Christmas tree tradition. The student friendship fund will be used with the receipts from the sale of Christmas candles.

The second leap year dance of the year was held here recently. The women made the "dates", escortes their friends to the dance, checked the coats, asked for dances, took their escorts to a midnight lunch, and then—took them home.

Listen, Iowa

By Oakley Davidson

This has been a record-breaking year, but wait until all the hard schedule stories get out. Football attendance figures over ten million, tie games, upsets, more "all" teams, everything in 1924 from Washington winning a pennant to more Christmas savings clubs than ever before leave only the hard schedule records of two hundred universities and colleges yet to go.

The problem of intersectional games is about to be solved. It happened down in Texas again. Thirteen airplanes, from two-seaters to a Martin bomber, carried a football squad three hundred miles for a game Saturday. The air mail service and the eastern dairy's milky way may give way to the sports trade.

When some scientific genius finds a way to take the home field along, Chicago may be able to get away from the midway twice a year. We can't think of anything else mean enough to say about Chicago, and if we could, we'd have to save it for Harvey of the Wake when he drifts in next week.

The Four Horsemen may thrive on grass, but the Notre Dame basketeers don't like the old dirt floor they have been playing on. A new gym addition with a good court is slated to relieve the back-to-the-land movement about the time the roses come again.

Mixing with a jiu jitsu expert is like trying to reason with a cross word puzzle fiend, but Mike Howard says to bring on Taro Miyake. A match in Iowa City might give the theater boycotters some place to go.

VETERANS REWARDED

HAVANA, Dec. 6, (AP)—Approximately 60 enlisted men of the Cuban army are soon to be put in training for promotion to second lieutenants. 20 year men are given a chance to rise.

Baseball Schedule

The Iowa conference baseball schedule for the season of 1925 is as follows:

April 18—Iowa at Illinois.
April 20—Iowa at Northwestern
April 25—Chicago at Iowa.
May 2—Minnesota at Iowa.
May 9—Northwestern at Iowa
May 11—Indiana at Iowa.
May 16—Iowa at Chicago.
May 23—Iowa at Minnesota
May 25—Michigan at Iowa.
May 29—Iowa at Ohio State.
May 30—Iowa at Michigan.
June 6—Iowa at Purdue.
June 8—Purdue at Iowa.

Chlorine Gas Can't Benefit Colds, Say New York Doctors

The treatment of respiratory diseases by chlorine has been abandoned in the city of New York. In a statement by the department of health it was declared worthless in most instances and even harmful in some.

Out of 671 cases given the chlorine treatment only 6.5 per cent of the 506 patients who answered questionares were found to be benefited by it.

The health department asserts that the treatment is actually harmful in asthma, hay fever and tuberculosis. In whooping cough it was found to be very benefical but there was nothing to show that it was any more so than any number of accepted remedies.

Americans Demand Acres of Firs for Christmas Season

It takes about 10,000 acres of Christmas trees to satisfy the demands of the Christmas season in the United States, is the assertion made by the forestry department.

The fact that this represents the yearly sacrifice of a forest of about 5,000,000 trees has led to a controversy between authorities on forest utilization and the American tree association as to the advisability of draining the national lumber resources in this manner.

The United States Forest Service states, however, that, in spite of the fact that remaining forests are being cut at the rate of 10,000,000 acres per year, the annual acreage used for the holiday season is practically negligible.

Recently H. B. Berry, of Fort Plain, New York, while attending national conference on forest utilization, urged a Federal law prohibiting the sale of Christmas trees. The Detroit Federation of Women's clubs also has sent out an appeal to that end. The American Tree Association, however, does not favor abolishing the Christmas tree. Members say it would be taking the universal sign of the Christmas season out of the lives of children. The president of the association says that the Christmas tree is the legitimate by-product of the forest, and that the proper cutting of trees for Christmas use in most cases permits sturdier trees to attain greater growth.

AFRICANS LIKE WHALE MEAT

LONDON, Dec. 6 (AP)—Canned cuts of whale meat are considered a great delicacy in West Africa, according to the Board of Trade Journal. Practically the whole of the whale meat canned in British Columbia last year was sold among the settlements between Liberia and the Congo.

West Africa has thus solved the problem of finding a market for whale meat after the oil has been extracted, for whale steak has become a really popular viand in that part of the world.

Muscle Shoals Dam Operation Will End Scientific Research

WASHINGTON Dec. 5 (AP)—The opening of tht big Wilson dam at Muscle Shoals during 1925 will blot out a laboratory of science.

Under the direction of Dr. J. Walter Fewkes, chief of the Bureau of American Ethnology of the Smithsonian Institute, Gerrad Fowke, a trained scientific worker, has been exploring Indian mounds at Muscle Shoals that will be covered with water, when the big Wilson Dam is put into commission. The relics which Mr. Fowke found are being packed up to be sent to the institution for study. Just what Indian tribe they belonged to, remains to be determined.

The Tennessee Valley Historical Society invited Dr. Fewkes to have the mounds explored and he sent Mr. Fowke to excavate them at the mouth of Town Creek, Colbert County, Alabama, some two months ago.

Women Discuss Pros and Cons of Muscle Shoals

The Muscle Shoals project furnished the contemporary problem for discussion at the regular meeting of the Current Magazine Section of the Iowa City Women's Club yesterday evening in the Burkley Place apartment of Miss Mira Troth.

The most important reasons for the development of the Shoals and the details of the offers made Congress by Henry Ford, the Union Carbide Company, the Southern Power Company, and the Alabama Power Company were reviewed by Miss Troth and Mrs. Carver who used information from the magazine and newspaper files of the University and city libraries.

Camp Secretary Seeks Recruits

Miss Allen Interviews Women Interested In Summer Work

"In our summer conferences, we not only endeavor to furnish a good time but to give the women who attend something constructive, something that will be of real help to them, and something tangible which they may refer to in their activities throughout the year," said Miss Hazel K. Allen, camp secretary of the national Y. W. C. A. board.

Miss Allen, as camp secretary, has entire charge of all purchasing, recruiting of staffs, and completing of business arrangements for the four summer camps owned and governed by the national board which she represents. The camps are: The Altamont at Altamont, New York; the Maqua at Poland, Maine, the Nepahwin, at Canton, Penn.; and Camp Okoboji, at Milford, Iowa.

She is visiting Iowa schools primarily in the interest of Camp Okoboji, but interviews women interested in work in any of the other three camps. She has recruited workers in Grinnell College, Iowa State college at Ames, Drake University at Des Moines, and University of Iowa. On this trip alone she has interviewed approximately eighty college women, and at Iowa City twenty women signified their desire to secure the kind of employment she offered.

The positions are filled on the basis of the qualifications and references, and the personal impression made upon Miss Allen in the interviews.

Auto Dealers Set For Banner Year

New Models Answer Big Retail Competition Expectations

In anticipation of a banner year for car sales in 1925, auto manufacturers all over the country are preparing for a year of the stiffest competition between retailers. New models and general improvements on the present models feature the 1925 output.

In keeping with their usual policy of "No Yearly Models," Dodge Brothers motor cars will retain the same body lines in their 1925 models as formerly. Substantial improvements are being made, however, in riding comfort and other important details of construction. The new counter-balanced shaft is expected to reduce vibration to a degree that will tend to eliminate all motor jar.

At present Dodges are being produced in ten models, business sedan and Coupe, type "A" sedan, touring, roadster, and special types of each of these models. Buyers' preference runs sixty-five per cent to closed cars and an increasing percentage is expected.

Announcement is made by the local Dodge distributors that in Iowa City territory the business sedan is easily the most popular model. Price reduction on this and all other models went into effect on December 1.

Township Meetings To Be Held Daily

Farm Bureau Combines Entertainment And Education

Beginning Monday, December 8, the various township organizations of the Farm Bureau will hold meetings somewhere in the county every night with the exception of December 24 and 25 until after the first of the year. Eighteen out of the 21 townships in the county are holding regular monthly meetings. The meetings this month will consist of the election of officers for the coming year, illustrated lectures and literary entertainment furnished by the pupils of the rural schools.

The moving pictures will show the culling of poultry, orchard pruning and some industrial reels supplemented by reels of comedy. Harley Hunt, county agent, has prepared some sets of slides which will be on subjects relative to those named and will carry additional information on these subjects.

FIND THOUSANDS IN LETTERS

Seventeen million letters are sent to the dead letter office each year. One hundred thousand dollars in cash was found in these letters last year.

From fifty to seventy-five letters are sent to the dead letter office from Iowa City each month. Some of them have no address, on others the writing resembles sanscrit.

Distribution clerks here are often puzzled by such misleading abbreviations as Cal. and Col and Miss. and Minn.
