The Horsemen

THE other three Horsemen are not far behind. Crime, the filly of Death is now at our heels, riding down the innocent and leaving behind a trail over which the three, Pestilence, Famine and War may find their way. The nation is woefully empty of Tolerance. There is no Patience, no Brotherhood, no Sufferance. A Life is equal only to price of a mailorder revolver, or a hardware store axe. Recently in Chicago, a man killed his wife who was estranged from him; then he killed himself. The two indictments against the killers of Eddie Tamel, are no sure indication that the murders will receive their just sentences from a Cook county jury. The day before that, the bride of a ganster was killed by thugs. Two boys and two girls who killed a woman while ransacking her flat, were freed by the Chicago court, because of their youth. The police today are too busy uncovering suicide and murder clues to maintain order within their own baliwick. Saturday seven men were shot in South Bend, Ind., by two rum-crazed youths.

It is not only their own lives which these people are killing; it is the life of our nation which is being tried in a tribunal of citizens. The murders, thugs, gunmen, are some of the parts which go to make up a national whole. If the jury which sits upon the very existence of our nation, is made up of youthful murderers, the result will be race suicide. A nation which traffics in lenient court sentences, covert judicial winking at murder and bootlegging, is inflicting its own death warrant.

Passing Glory

THE world flight of the airplanes has been over for some time now. The heroic deed is forgotten by many people, and the papers no longer carry headlines of the achievement and valor of the aviators. And now comes the announcement that their commissions have been taken away, and they have been reduced to their former rank of sergeants. It is hard to account for such an action.

After the many months of danger and hardship endured in order to make this test flight, after the trying Alaska incident where one of the number was lost for a time and again after the crash on the hop from Iceland to Greenland—times when it must have taken courage to keep on—after such a trip they return to be lowered to the same position as before they started. Rather it seems that they should have been raised to a higher place.

We praised them at much length in our newspapers from coast to coast. We said it was fitting that this new feat should be accomplished first by Americans. We printed their pictures in our papers and showed them in our theatres. We lauded them in the center of our spotlight for a day and then dropped them back into obscurity and reduced their rank to sergeant.

That is much the way of America; praise for an hour and then oblivion. "The plaudits of the people are as fickle as a woman's whim."

Picking Winners

EVER and anon there arises on the campus the howl that "the insiders will get it" or that "the favorite will have first choice," in regard to competitions for campus honors and activities which are "open to everyone interested."

A squad of thirty-five reports for the football team; University Theatre tryouts often fail to develop stiff competition; debate tryouts occasionally fail to arouse much interest; prospective Players showno enthusiasm and little real effort in their performances; musical tryouts do not bring the number they should—students show "lack of interest" in any competitive "workout" on the campus.

It is of course to be expected that a dramatic coach will search out some unknown actor, who has perhaps had enough courage to come up for a few minutes, at one tryout and to say to him benevolently, "Here, son, I want you to take the lead in this show—I know, just by looking at you, that you can put it over, even if you never have shown any interest in dramatics before."

The University holds its coaches responsible for results, and students themselves kick when teams don't "come through." Can coaches be blamed for picking consistent workers and sure performers, and refusing to take chances on the insecure potentialities of "unknowns"?

Too bad the round-the-world flyers haven't received a medal for their services. They will have to take up high school debating yet.

The situation is getting pretty bad when robbers will hold a man up for his 1919 model Ford.

Funny how much we want to get into the public's eye. Every city in the United States is trying to make out that Leo Koretz, Chicago financial wizard, formerly operated there.

"Hoover is not in favor of radio control," according to the dispatches. But certainly he ought to favor curbing some of the fans a bit.

Wrigley is going to have to get busy selling his little pink sticks to pay off the $1,471,000 judgment against him.

Lovely Labors Lost

Today we feel just mean enough to have our Enigma do its last enigma. We want to send it to Jennette.

You see we couldn't send just the first half to her, because she couldn't stand the suspense. She isn't a Grinnell girl—that makes a difference. It she were a Grinnell girl she wouldn't be so nice.

ENIGMA
Scene I
Part II

MAID: (After snapping of compacts in audience has diminished so there is at least a chance of her being heard): O, my poor mistress! My poor, dear Lady Thump Thump! (One of the poker players falling from the flies echoes "thump-thump"). To think that mildred—! (She is overcome by emotion as the steamer trunk descends on her toe, and exits through the window, making gurgling sounds in her throat. She takes everything with her that she brought in. She leaves the audience wondering why he came in, since she went back to the place she came from. Here we must explain that this is dramaturgy. The butler and maid are used to foreshadow the action. The mystery has been intensified because the onlookers and listeners-in can't decide whether the blow is to come from a letter, a top-coat, a mop, a bundle of newspapers, a waste paper basket, a steamer trunk, or a bird cage. And they've noticed that safe. That's why it's painted red. The servants also enlighten the otherwise abysmal ignorance of the protagonists.)

LADY THUMPTHUMP (Sweeping in in a linen duster. Her hair is awry, and her eyes have been rubbed vigorously to indicate prolonged emotional stimulation of the lachrymal glands.): Must our happy dreams of conjugal felicity end thus? Are all our roseate hopes of wedded whimwham to crumble to ashes? O, to call back those paradisaical hours on the beach in the argent effulgence of the silver orb of night, while the minute wavelets crooned a song of love as they lapped gently at our pedal extremities! Here we exchanged vows, sanctified by holy Nature, wholly concomitant. It was then that my erst adored Gerald swore the only oath that had passed his lips until this curse came. He swore never to speak a cross word to me. Little could we know then what the future held in store!

(Gerald her husband, who has been standing in the door obviously awaiting his cue, enters at and from this point, carrying the new Oxford Dictionary and Roget's Thesaurus. Over his other ear is a pencil. His attire indicates that he is either an author, a lunatic, or a normal man who has just given up a search for a vagrant collar button.)

GERALD (murmuring at the top of his voice): G-d! Helpmate! Wotta helpmate!

LADY THUMPTHUMP (collapsing at his feet like a trick aluminum cup): Oh Lord, ThumpThump, I married you because they said you were on the square!

GERALD (in a voice like steel wool): G-d! Ain't I on the square?

LADY THUMPTHUMP (in a divorce case voice): Too much. Is it my fault your pencil broke? Is it my fault I didn't know a province of Nicaraguan Indo-China in five letters, the second letter of which is Y and the last letter either A or Z?

GERALD (as collected as the European war debt): Avaunt! Vamoose! Hence! Begone! Get out!

(Lady ThumpThump takes him at his words and does the latter because it is to easy to understand. The curtain descends rapidly—or should—to protect Gerald.)

A View of Human Nature

By Harriet Davis

The library is a place where human machines congregate to develop their capacities for learning. Here we find assembled every type from extremely sedate to the more humanly jovial variety. Outward appearances and facial expressions are most deceiving. In observing closely, we find that those that seem least human invariably prove to have a keen sense of humor. In many instances we think of the intellectual type of person as being the cynical or even critical type of individual rather than the light hearted and gay. The person whose thoughts oscillate much like a bird soaring on the air, and who enjoys every phase of life without being much concerned as to its origin is thought of as very human, and of exhibiting an animated frame of mind.

Probably one of the most interesting aspects of a librarian's work is to note the attitude of the different students. Some are so business-like and assume such responsibility. These studious individuals feel a flame burning within them, and possess a yearning to derive success from their ambitions. Such a personality walks briskly to the desk, directly opens his notebook to the reference and asks for the desired book.

In addition to these students, we see those that are carefree and irresponsible. They look upon the library as a place where the professors thrust upon them innumerable references to be looked up as a result of an insatiable desire to be gruesome and unreasonable. To quote a few of the original statements that have been made would no doubt justify my description of the less sedate type. I remember a particular instance where a young woman walked blithely up to the desk and asked for the "Amazing Marriage," by Meredith Casually, she added, "If I ever get married it certainly will be an amazing marriage." In a few moments she was back at the desk and asked for "Lantz, destroying some kind of pests, rodent, I guess." Later a young man who assumed an attitude of indifference came to the desk and presented a list of books. The first one happened to be Cheney's "Background of European History." Very confidently he asked for "Sheany's" history. The next in line happened to be an attractive young woman, who evidently was taking a course in industrial history. She strutted to the desk and ejaculated in a piping voice, "An industrial history; we're having Van somebody." Just behind this young lady was a fellow who strolled slowly to the desk. Getting out his paper with notes, and seeming in doubt as to the real purpose of his saunter to the library, he slid nearer the desk and rather reluctantly asked, "Have you any of these?" The following student asked for "Lantz," some of those funny little things he writes about. "They're all out," replied the librarian. Then came the frequently, persistently, and unnecessarily repeated question, "Are they all out?"

Another noteworthy aspect is the overly developed habit of taking a vacation on Friday and Saturday nights. The popular attitude on those nights is an absolute contempt for the perusal of books. I recall one young man's comment on a Friday night, "Guess I'm numbered with the married folks and those faithfully striving for a Ph. D."

Life may be viewed from many angles and the foregoing is simply an attempt to present it from that of a librarian in the library of our university.

CLINTON AT WASHINGTON

Chorus of 150 to Give "The Messiah" At Vesper Service

Christmas Program in Auditorium Begins At 3:30 P. M.

Clapp and Assistants Direct Work on Oratorio

"The Messiah," by George Frideric Handel, will be presented at the Christmas Vesper Service, Sunday, December 14, at 3:30 o'clock, in the natural science auditorium. This famous oratorio will be sung by a chorus of 150 which will include members of the University chorus, and the University glee club, assisted by the following soloists: Esther Dyke—soprano, Mrs. Alfred Blaxius Paddock—contralto, Eleanor Chambers—contralto, Welsey Drummond—tenor, Marlin Lerch—tenor, and Mr. Eric Erickson—baritone. The University

Orchestra will play the accompaniments. The program follows: Overture; recitative "Comfort Ye"; aria, "Every Valley"; Mr. Drummond; chorus, "And the Glory of the Lord"; recitative, "Behold"; aria with chorus, "O Thou that Tellest"; Mrs. Paddock and chorus, recitative, "For Behold"; aria, "The People that Walked"; Mr. Erickson; chorus, "For Unto Us"; pastoral symphony; recitative "There Were Shepherds"; chorus, "Glory to God"; Miss Dyke and chorus; recitative, "Then Shall the Eyes"; aria, "He Shall Feed his Flock"; Mrs. Chambers and Miss Dyke; aria, "He Was Despised"; Mrs. Paddock; chorus, "Surely He Hath Borne"; "And With His Stripes"; "All We Like Sheep"; recitative, "Thy Rebuke"; ariso, "Behold and See"; Mr. Lerch; aria, "I Know that My Redeemer Liveth"; Miss Dyke; chorus, "For as in Adam"; "Hallelujah"; "Worthy is the Lamb."

The oratorio is being directed by Prof. Phillip Greeley Clapp, assisted by Prof. Frank Estes Kendrick, and Prof. Walter Leon.

The services will begin at 3:30 o'clock instead of 4 o'clock which is the usual time for the vesper service.

Needy Boys Get Clothes From Michigan Fraternity Students

Fraternalists at the University of Michigan have evolved a unique way of assisting poor and needy children at Christmas time. Each fraternity will be responsible to provide clothing for a poor boy whose parents are financially unable to do so. A committee has been organized and through it, fraternities may apply for the names of the wanting children. Ann Arbor charitable organizations are assisting with the work.

Galoshes Flop Into Prominence As Winter Winds Strike Campus

Sir Walter Raleigh ruined a perfectly good velvet coat in order that the feet of Queen Elizabeth might be protected. The chivalrous knight of today, tugs, struggles, and—perhaps swears with stubborn goliathes that the feet of his lady may not feel the sting of old King Winter.

To him in all their snappy, sensational glory, Sheba Galters make their bow, and whisper the luring promises of "instantly adjustable—fasten with ease." The co-ed is coaxed with the irresistible pleas of "perfect trim fit—no skirt tearing hooks, keeps the feet warm and is always attractive." Last but not least Sheba modestly displays the ankle strap upon which is the dearest little buckle just large enough for the owners initial—so different you know. Thus Sheba steps forth into the spotlight of popularity. Those who will share in the demand of the hour are, Zipp Zippers, and plain four buckles. Zippers retain the fame of last season when they were all the rage. The price mark which plain four buckles wear has established her in the hearts of the public.

"Yes," agreed all shoemen interviewed, "four buckles will be good this season."

Even though winter may not be here, the occasional flip flop of an approaching co-ed gives warning of the day when Sheba, Zippers, and four buckles will come into their own.

U. S. Chamonix May Grow Here

Winter Sports Schedule Gives Chance to Enjoy Winter

Not yet too late to enter the class in winter sports—skating, ice hockey, snowshoeing, and skiing.

Two sections of the class have begun, but the section which meets at 4 on Monday, Tuesday, and Thursday is still open. Upperclass women who can attend regularly may enter.

Skating will begin as soon as the river freezes over, then whenever there is enough snow skiing and snowshoeing can be substituted.

The winter sport class, offered this year for the first time, was instituted by Elizabeth Halsey, head of the department of physical education for women.

"Winter sports are very popular with the English and European whom I met in Chamonix and the Italian Alps last winter," Miss Halsey said, "and they expect Americans to be skilled because we have so much snow."

"Because of European interest, skating and snow sports are becoming more popular here," she explained. "Many American colleges have tried to include them in their instruction, but the majority have been forced to give it up."

Mott to Speak on Short Story at Matrices Meeting

Program to Begin at 5 o'Clock on Thursday

Women Interested in Writing Welcome At Meeting

"The Marketing of the Short Story, and its Present Trend," is the subject of Prof. Frank L. Mott's address to be given at the Matrices meeting Thursday at 5 o'clock in Philo-Thonet hall, Journalism building.

Professor Mott, of the English department, was recently made co-editor of the Midland Magazine. He was engaged in active news paper work for ten years before he became an instructor in the university. He has written a number of short stories, among them, "The Man with a Good Face." He conducts classes in short story writing.

The address will be followed by a business meeting to consider the adoption of a constitution, and to discuss plans for the year. A list of possible markets for various kinds of writing is being compiled, and will be given out at the meeting.

Prof. Mott's address is the second of a series of lectures on subjects related to writing. The series has not been definitely made out, but will include talks on various types of writing in which university women are interested.

Terrell to Show Need of "Y" Unity

Campus Co-operation Vesper Speaker's Subject

"Closer co-operation between the Christian associations" is the topic chosen by Harry Terrell, secretary of the Y. M. C. A., for a talk to be given this afternoon at the Y. M. C. A. vespers in liberal arts drawing room.

His talk is specially opportune due to a growing tendency on the part of the two organizations, the Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A., to unite in a program.

"In most other countries there is a student movement, whereas in this country there are two distinct organizations, doing the work of that student movement," said Miss Nelle Summers, secretary of the Y. W. C. A., in emphasizing the need of co-operation between the two associations. "Both are a part of the world's student federation and there is no reason why the two programs should not be on the same fundamental basis."

Locally there is much that concerns both men and women students that could be given the united attention of both organizations. At the present time, both Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. unite in sponsoring several University functions. Hello Day, the University mixer, Iowa, and lowiggle, and, until this year the finance campaigns, have been conducted by both. The movement under way now, to emphasize a further need of co-operation between the organizations, will be brought out by Mr. Terrell in his talk today.

The meeting, presided over by Carol Tyrrell, A3 of Belmont, will be led by Eleanor Thomas, A1 of Fort Dodge. Esther Dyke, A3 of Iowa City will sing.

Jessup Present at State Board Meet

President Walter A. Jessup left at 3:30 yesterday afternoon to attend a meeting of the Iowa State Board of Education which will be held in Cedar Falls today. He expects to return either tonight or tomorrow morning.

Wabash Quintet Real Eye Opener for Hawkeye Five

Basketball will get away to a fast start when the Wabash college outfit of Crawfordsville, Indiana starts the Hawkeye practice season, if advance hope on the invaders means anything. Captain Chadwick's basketeers have already shown up to advantage in their early season play.

A guard who has also had experience. McLaine and Crispe, forwards, Thompson and Edwards, centers, and Kistler, guard, may break in to the game Saturday night. Kenney as a back guard had some experience last year and may hold a guard position before final gun.

Tommy Lands Blows on Norfolk Almost at Will

NEW YORK, Dec. 9—Tommy Gibbons, pride of the middleweight, and leading contender for Jack Dempsey's crown, battered "Kid" Norfolk, rugged negro light heavyweight, into submission tonight in Madison Square Garden.

Flashing a dazzling exhibition of footwork and skill, the St. Paul fighter outclassed Norfolk before a crowd of 13,000 that filled the Garden to capacity and paid a total of $107,599 to make up the "gate" for the Christmas fund, raised by a New York newspaper. Gibbons cut the negro to pieces with a relentless driving attack, that beat down Norfolk's rugged defense in short order.

Four Meets Scheduled for 1925 Hawkeye Gym Season

The Hawkeye gym team will compete in three dual meets with Big Ten schools, and also will participate in the conference meet. The University of Iowa gymnastic schedule for 1925 is announced by Ernest G. Schroeder, director of the Men's Gym, is as follows: Feb. 6—Minnesota at Minneapolis.

Hawks Schedule 4 Big Ten Teams

Four football games with conference teams will be on the Hawkeye schedule next fall according to Coach Burt A. Ingwersen on his return from the coaches meeting at Chicago last week.

It was first reported that Coach Ingwersen had scheduled Indiana at Bloomington on October 31 and it was true that tentative arrangements had been made. A survey of the card which with the Indiana game would have included five straight games and the desire of Northwestern to take on the Hoosiers at that date, when the Indiana stadium is to be dedicated, caused the failure to schedule the contest finally.

Little Hawk Cage Squad Cut to 20

Chicago Awarded Conference Swim Meet Over Iowa

Coach Armbruster has scheduled five dual swimming meets for Iowa this season. Two of them will be held in Iowa City. The dual meet with Northwestern on March 21, and the Indiana dual February 21. The schedule is announced: January 17, Wisconsin at Madison; February 17, Chicago at Chicago; February 21, Minnesota at Minneapolis; February 21, Indiana at Iowa City; March 12 and 13, the conference meet at Chicago.

Chicago Awarded Conference Swim Meet Over Iowa

Several changes in the rules were made by the swimming coaches in their annual conference. It was decided that in 1925 the present game of water basketball would be discarded in favor of water polo. The 1925 season will still use water basketball because the majority of the schools have spent a great deal of time on this sport and they should not be robbed of the advantages they may have in this event.

The real battle was between the fighting Delta Chi and Delta Sigma Delta teams, the combination of Lawson and Boice vanquishing Miller and Sals of the Delta Sigma Delta. On even scoring terms at the end of the second period, Lawson for the Delta Chi slipped in the basket that proved to be the winner, the Delta Chi's finally ending with a 15 to 9 score.

Phi Deltis, Phi Gams, and Deltis Chis Win Openers

Three sections of the inter-fraternity basketball league played their initial games at the men's gym last evening, Phi Delta Theta, Delta Chi, and Phi Gamma Delta emerging victors. The games showed the usual early season form common to all basketball teams.

Summary: Phi Gamma Delta (Phi)—field goals, Snyder 8, Pratt 1, Anderson 2, Holmberg 1, Hill 3; free throws, Snyder 1; free throws missed, Hill 4. Omega Beta Pi (Omega)—field goals, Wilson 1; free throws, Dreesen 2, Myer 1; free throws missed, Myer 2, Dreesen 2. Referee, Kollie Williams. Time of periods, ten minutes.

In the season's opener, the Phi Delta Theta team had little opposition in downing the Phi Kappa Rho, a new member of the league. Scandebury and Plinn ran rough shod over their opponents.

Phi Gamma Delta ran up the big score of the game against Omega Beta Pi, piling up a twenty-six point lead to win, 21 to 5. But one field goal was chalked up for the Omega Beta Pi. Snyder, Hill, former Osage star, and Anderson, were high scorers.

Summary: Phi Gamma Delta (Phi)—field goals, Snyder 8, Pratt 1, Anderson 2, Holmberg 1, Hill 3; free throws, Snyder 1; free throws missed, Hill 4. ### One Record Broken in Womens Telegraphic Meet

Cool, blue-green water, slim girls standing at ease in dark, boyish bathing suits, a man's voice crying "On your marks, get ready, GO." Two dark flashes through the water and the same voice drones the winners name and the time record.

The telegraphic meet held last evening in the women's gymnasium was a contest between the best women swimmers of the University and of five other schools. The winners of the Iowa meet were: twenty yard backstroke, C. Richter, 16.1 seconds. D. Herrick placed second with 19.9.

In the twenty yard breast stroke, G. Brooker, 14.8 seconds, with M. Augustine second in 17.6 seconds. Twenty yard free style, G. Richter, 12.4 seconds and M. Augustine, second with 13.8 seconds. E. Spurgeon placed third with 14.1 seconds.

In the forty yard breaststroke, G. Brooker placed first with 33 seconds and E. Spurgeon placed second with 41.6 seconds. In the 100 yard free style, G. Brooker was winner in 1 minute, 34.4 seconds. Forty yard over arm sidestroke: C. Richter, 42.7 seconds and H. Monosmith, 42.3 seconds. In plunge for distance with thirty second limits, H. Monosmith took first with 38 feet. Gray took second with 27 feet. In

C. Richter broke the Iowa record for the forty yard overarm side stroke when she made the distance in 24.7 seconds. The former record was 36.2 seconds, made by G. Emery in 1921. This was the only record broken although several came very close to the former ones. Richter was also high point woman of the meet.

The results from the other meets held at Drake University, Cedar Falls, C. I. A., at Denton, Texas, and Knox at Galesburg, Ill., will be telegraphed to the University before noon Saturday. The winners of the events will then be determined.

Satirical Play, "Devil's Disciple," Presented Tonight

The testing of the character of Dick Dudgeon, who is the "Devil's Disciple." He is thought by many of his neighbors to be a veritable devil and receives this uncomplimentary name as one which should be very suitable. However Dick is not, a "black sheep," as the minister calls him, but is really the best Puritan of all. By using this theme, the author accomplishes his purpose of satirizing the abuses of Puritanism.

The action takes place in the town of Westerbridge, New Hampshire in the year 1777. Colonial soldiers, Puritans, and British "red coats" are all seen in the town, since in this period of history much of New England was in the hands of the mother country. Chief among the historical figures is General Burgoyne of the English forces, who took an important part in the formation of the history of the Revolution.

Students Used Microscopes in Secret in Early Days of Shimek

Microscopic study of plant and animal life in the pioneer days of the University was conducted behind closed doors. With one eye fixed upon the lens and the other upon the door, fearful that some outsider would detect him, the student carried on his laboratory work.

When Prof. Bohumil Shimek, of the department of Botany, entered the University as a student in 1878, microscopes were secretly used on the second floor of Old Capitol, and great care was taken that no one find them. When an outsider approached, the two microscopes which the University boasted of were quickly placed under cover, but as soon as the intruder departed the study of animal and plant life went merrily on.

At that time the microscope was frowned upon by the administration, and those who first used it were considered sacrilegious. Some people even went so far as to call it an instrument of the devil.

In the early 90's Prof. Lee W. Dean, dean of the college of medicine, and William R. Whitels, Professor Emeritus of genetics and obstetrics, were special students of bacteriology and carried on all of their laboratory work under the supervision of Dr. Thomas H. Mac-

Lieutenant Nelson Unable to Accept Invitation to Visit in University City

Leave of Absence to Prevent Famous World Flier From Coming Here in February

Lieut. Erik H. Nelson, one of the round-the-world fliers, will be unable to accept an invitation from Roy L. Chopek post of the American Legion to visit Iowa City in February.

Lieutenant Nelson was extended an invitation to visit the local post by Will R. Hart, post commander. He declined the invitation because of a leave of absence. However, Mr. Hart intimated that an invitation would again be extended at a later date.

When the world fliers passed over Smith Field on their Chicago-Omaha hop, in September, Lieutenant Nelson's ship headed the flight.

The letter from Lieutenant Nelson follows:

Dear Mr. Hart:

Your letter of November 27th has been received and I wish to thank you for your kind invitation to visit the American Legion of Iowa City in February of next year.

I am sorry to advise you that at the time mentioned I shall be on a leave of absence and shall not return to active duty until some time during the month of May, 1925, therefore you can readily see that it will be impossible for me to accept your kind invitation.

Thanking you for the honor you bestow upon me by the invitation of the American Legion, I am, Sincerely yours, Erik H. Nelson, 1st Lieut., A. S.

Iowa City Company Starves in Mountains

(Editor's note: This is the fourth of a series of letters written from California in the gold rush days of 1848.)

In the fourth letter, Mr. Snyder vividly describes the weather of the mining country, the hardships that befell a part of the company from Iowa City and in a line or two casually refers to the Yosemite falls as a "sight worth seeing."

Feather River Mines, California, April 10, 1850.

Dear Mother:

We receive the mail but once a month from the Bay country and I have been looking for a letter from you.

The river is so high that we cannot work the race and dam and have been doing very little mining in the past month. The rainy season is over, but the snows in the mountains are melting and it will be another month before the river goes back to normal.

I have heard of the Iowa City company that went over the northern route from Salt Lake City. Three of the men were lost in the mountains, their cattle died on the way and they arrived at the mines with only their lives. They lost everything they had, were in a starving condition and almost naked. They had a very much harder journey than we did.

A few weeks ago I went up to the falls of the river. It is one day's travel from our camp and a sight worth seeing. The water falls about 1,000 feet and the spray is as white as the purest snow. The health at the mines is very good.

Your affectionate son, I. P. W. Snyder.

Radio for the Week

E. A. Beane, supervisor of radio for the ninth radio district of Iowa, was in Iowa City yesterday inspecting WHAA and XEAX, University stations. He pronounced them both in excellent condition.

Mr. Beane announced that one of his men picked up WHAA in Honolulu a time ago. This is the most distant report that the University station has yet received. The point was about 1,600 miles from Lower California.

To Broadcast Game The new sound-proof booth at the army will be completed in time for the broadcasting from WHAA of the Iowa-Wabash game on Saturday night, operator Menzer announced yesterday. Two microphones will be used, one for announcing the plays and the other for the cheering. A special "fading" device will be installed which will admit the desired volume of cheers.

Receive Reports Numerous reports were received from listeners after the broadcasting of the Theta Xi dance last Saturday from station KFQP.

Their regular 8 to 9 program on Wednesday night will continue. Tonight they will broadcast one of the local student orchestras on their program.

Three Programs Sunday The Sunday night schedule of WHAA will be slightly changed on next Sunday. In addition to the regular 9 p. m. sending, there will be a half hour program at 7 p. m. On Sunday morning the station will also broadcast the services at the Methodist church from 10:45 to 12 m.
