SENATE VOTES REBELS' DEMOTION

Coolidge Settles Chile-Peru Boundary Controversy

Laws Will Feature New and Old Yarns at Jubilee Tonight

Three Acts Billed for Eighth Annual Law Celebration

Cooper and Frantz in Charge of Putting Show Across

The realization of months of work and practice will be consummated tonight when the eighth annual Law jubilee will be presented to the students and citizens of Iowa City, under the guidance of Robert W. Cooper, L2 of Newton, director, and Loren D. Frantz, L3 of Redfield, business manager.

Minstrel Featured

The feature of the jubilee this year, as in the past, will be the minstrel act. However, that will only be a small part of the show, as two other acts will precede it, along with a number of vaudeville specialties.

The first act will consist of eight episodes, each a complete act in itself. Many of these will be vaudeville skits, and will feature a clog dancer, whose identity is a secret known only to those in charge of *the show. He is well known, how*ever it was said, and many will

Oil Leases Again Resume Spotlight

Government Seeks to Annul Lease to Sinclair

(By the Associated Press)

CHEYENNE, Wyo., Mar. 9—Teapot Dome, which became almost a household phrase during the senate oil investigation early in 1924 again was flashed on the screen of public interest today. In the second appearance, however, it was stripped of much of its glamour and sensationalism which characterized the senate investigation of a year ago.

Today's setting was in federal court before Judge T. Blake Kennedy with the government seeking to annul the lease which was granted to the Mammoth Oil Company of the Harry F. Sinclair companies.

Owen J. Roberts and Atlee Pomerene, special counsel for the government, led in the fight to have the lease annuled on the grounds it was obtained by fraud and based on illegal transfer of oil reserves from the navy department to the department of interior.

Italy Preserves Ancient Beliefs

Tavenner, in Lecture Saturday, to Talk on Evil Omens

"Not a few of the ancient Roman superstitions of which Prof. Eugene Tavenner, of Washington univer, siyt, will speak in his lecture, are still alive in Italy today," said Prof. B. L. Ullman, head of the department of Latin and Greek, in commenting in the lecture to be given in room 301 physics building at 8 p. m. Saturday, March 14.

This lecture, "Some Superstitions of the Ancient Romans," shows the important part played bp the amulet in averting diseases, and the "evil eye" among the Romans. Part of the lecture will be illustrated by slides.

"The belief concerning the evil eye,' accredits certain persons with possessing the power to inflict bad luck upon anyone they see.

Directs Annual Law Production

Robert W. Cooper

Robert W. Cooper, L2 of Newton, has had a big task in the direction of the jubilee. He offers the completion of his task at the Englert Theatre tonight in the eighth annual Law jubilee.

Armed Trio Invade Studio; Take Gems Valued at $25,000

Leave Victims Gagged, Bound, and Bludgeoned

NEW YORK, Mar. 9. — Using methods which proved successful albeit fatal in notorious "Doc King" and "Lou Lawson" robberies three armed and masked men in dinner garb invaded a sumptuous studio apartment in the plaza section of Fifth avenue before dawn today and escaped with $25,000 worth of gems.

The victims, bludgeoned, bound, gagged and letf unconscious, were Mrs. Fay Perkins, estranged wife of a restaurant owner, and Milton Abbott, reputed wealthy cotton broker. Mrs. Perkins' apartment was the scene of the affair. With the exception of a few dollars taken from Abbott's pockets the $25,000 loot was Mrs. Perkins loss. She suffered such injuries that the physicians reported her condition grave.

The only clue to the identity of her assailants was furnished by Abbott who saw the silk handkerchief slip from the mask of one of the men. Mrs. Perkins is 24, had been married seven years but lives apart from her husband, Benjamin H. Perkins. According to police she is well known among "white light" cabarets of Broadway because of her rich gowns and costly jewelry.

Legion Appoints Iowa Alumnus as National Adjutant

James F. Barton, of Fort Dodge, newly appointed national adjutant of the American Legion, is an alumnus of the University of Iowa. President Decides to Let Plebiscite Settle Nationality

Tacna and Arica Will Vote on Question of Allegiance

Province of Trata Reverts to Peru, Decree

(By the Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, March 9—President Coolidge today handed his arbitral award in the long standing controversy between Chile and Peru over Tacna and Arica, calling for a plebiscite by which these provinces shall determine their own nationality and hold that town and province of Trata shall revert to Peru.

Both governments in signing the arbitration protocol June 20, 1922 under which the award was made agreed to abide by the president's decision. Comments on its provision was withheld tonight at the Peruvian legation but gratification was expressed unofficially in Chilean circles.

Robert Lansing, former secretary of state and council for Chile in the dispute, declared that "from beginning to end the award is a complete vindication of the course pursued by that government during the past thirty years."

Holding that the principal question raised was whether the treaty of peace of 1883 betwen Chile and Peru remained in force or had lapsed in effect and therefore all of its provisions, including that calling for a plebiscite in Tacna and Arica must be carried out. The plebiscite is to be supervised by three members, one appointed by Chile, one by Peru, and one, acting as head, by the president of the United States.

These members must be appointed within four months and within six months must hold their first meeting in Arica to determine the date of the plebiscite and other regulations regarding it.

The final result of the plebiscite will be announced by the president.

Miss Pierce and Lewis Get Offices

Instructors Honored at Education Convention

Prof. Bessie L. Pierce, of the department of history, was elected vice-president of the national council for social studies at the meeting of the National Education Association held last week in Cincinnati, Ohio. The social studies council is an organization interested in the development of the social study curriculum for secondary schools

Prof. E. E. Lewis, formerly an instructor in the department of education at the University, was made second vice-president of the National Education Association. He is now superintendent of schools at Flint, Michigan.

Beauty Shop Operator Held on Charge of Manslaughter

LOS ANGELES, Mar. 9 (AP) — Mrs. Mary Electra Lawrence, Hollywood Beauty shop operator, was arrested late today on a manslaughter complaint issued by the district attorney in connection with the death of Mrs. Jessie Gilchrist, Pasadena business women, who died during a face peeling operation in Mrs. Lawrence's establishment last week.

She was lodged in the city jail under $10,000 bail.

Lighting Effects for "Beggar" Most Unusual Ever Tried Here

"Beggar on Horseback," the Kaufmann-Connelly farce-satire to be produced in the University Theatre Wednesday and Thursday evening, will contain the most remarkable lighting effects ever used in the theatre here, in the judgment of those who have witnessed rehearsals of the production.

The lighting arrangements are so intricate, and require so many unusual changes, that four complete dress, light, and scene rehearsals have been held, in order to secure the necessary coordination between these elements.

Over forty separate lights or lighting elements, each having a separate control (switch or rheostat, or both), placed in the balcony, in the footlights, in the "wings," in the "flies," and in various other places, are being used in the production.

There are approximately twelve scene changes in the play, each of which requires a lighting change of some sort. In addition, there are lighting changes within scene, so that approximately 100 changes, many of which must be made at exactly the right moment, to fit in with some bit of speech or action, are required.

Walter Dehner, who was master of lighting for the University Theatre two years ago, has returned to serve as lighting chief for "Beggar on Horseback." Although not now registered in the University, Dehner is doing work on the "Beggar." While in school here he was a member of University Players, and of A. F. L. He is a member of Sigma Phi Epsilon fraternity.

Ray Holcomb, who is playing the part of Mr. Cady in the show, and also serving as stage manager, and Miss Helen Langworthy, director of the production, have assisted in the work on lighting.

Freshmen Hear Shambaugh Talk

Says Need of World Is International Cooperation

"There are four classes of people in the American commonwealth of today," explained Benjamin J. Shambaugh, head of the political science department, in his lecture to the freshmen yesterday afternoon, "the puritan yankee, the southern gentleman, the western cowboy, and the American pioneer."

This was the second of a series of lectures that Professor Shambaugh is delivering to the freshmen. In it he stressed the need of cooperation between individuals and between nations. "The nations must either cooperate and come to some agreement or they will commit suicide among themselves."

He pointed out what a great experiment the American commonwealth is, being made up of so many classes of people brought under one political organization.

Committee Offers Tickets to Junior Prom to the Public

Yeh! tickets are out for the Junior Prom! They will go on sale through the committee at 4 p. m. today. The number of tickets has been limited to 250.

Danger of counterfeiting the tickets has been done away with, according to Francis P. Falvey, A3, of Albia, by putting the University seal on them.

Tickets can be secured from any of the members of the committee composed of, Francis P. Falvey, Stanley S. Burrel, Armand E. Dickeson, Opal Keeney, George P. Lloyd, Harvey J. Carter, and Clifford A. Allanson.

Wisconsin Trims Illinois, 24 to 9

Badgers Upset Dope; Hoosiers, Illini Tie for Third

MADISON, Wis., March 9 (AP)—Illinois tonight lost its chance for a clear claim to second place in the Western conference basketball race when it went down to defeat at the hands of Wisconsin by the lopsided score of 24 to 9.

The game, the result of which was one of the biggest upsets of the season, left Illinois and Indiana tied for second and third places with eight victories and four defeats.

Foods Class to Give Weekly Tea

First of Series Comes Friday at Home Ec Building

Five students of the department of home economics will serve tea to members and friends of the department Friday afternoon from 4 to 5:30 o'clock, in the dining room of the home economics building.

The tea is the first of a series to be given every week by students of the class in foods. The hostesses for this week are Dorotha Cox, A4 of Iowa City, Dora Dittmer, A3 of Manchester, Lucille Nelson, A1 of McCallsburg, Eudora Day, A4 of Iowa City, and Olive Baker, A3 of Fontanelle.

"The home economics department is living up to its traditions in entertaining its friends, and showing that hospitality is one of the best phases of its work," said Prof. Frances Zuill, head of the department.

Hobbs Gets 2 Years for Cheating Singh, East Indian Prince

LONDON, March 9 (AP)—Another act in the notorious Sir Hari Singh scandal was concluded today when the trial of William Cooper Hobbs, a law clerk charged with fraudulently obtaining money from the East Indian prince, ended with a verdict of guilty.

Hobbs was sentenced to two years imprisonment at hard labor.

Raymond Announces Members Elected to Tau Beta Pi

1925-26 Transit Staff Announced by Engineers

Two-hundred fifty-nine students and faculty members attended the twenty-third Mecca banquet which was held at the Red Ball Inn last evening at 6:30. Each department of the University connected with the college of applied science was represented at the banquet by a faculty member. The faculty of engineering was in full attendance.

Keith R. Chinn, S4 of Anita, president of the Associated Students of Applied Science, was toastmaster. The entire program was built up around the engineer's career.

Tau Beta Pi Elects

Dean George F. Kay, representing Pres. Walter A. Jessup, spoke on "The Consumer." Following his toast, Dean William G. Raymond, gave the toast, "Board of Directors."

In this speech, Dean Raymond announced the names of the follow-

Saturday's Dance to End Mecca Week

Special Decorations and Features on Dance Program

Tickets for the informal Mecca dance, to be given Saturday evening by the engineering students at the men's gymnasium, are on sale at Whetstone's now.

"The tickets are going rapidly," said Ralph R. Van, S4 of Keokuk, chairman of the dance committee. "Of the 250 put on sale only a small precent remain to be sold. The college of engineering is turning out almost 100 percent this year."

Programs Out Thursday

Thursday morning the programs will be given out at Whetstone's The covers are of white French celluloid, held together and tied with green cords. The transit is visible through a celluloid cut out of the front cover.

Blue and yellow will be used in the decorations. From a canopied ceiling will be dropped garlands that will encircle the main lights of the gymnasium; and crepe arches of blue and yellow will hang from the outer edge of the balcony.

Special Orchestra Performs

The orchestra will be featured in the decoration scheme. The platform at the north end of the room is to be built in three tiers. From the lower tier four large lights of different colors will be reflected upon the orchestra, the lighting to be changed frequently during the evening.

Chuck Sullivan's Blue Bird band will furnish the music. Miss Thelma Shomler, A\ of Cedar Rapids, will give a dance, "L'embarras d'argent," accompanied by the orchestra.

France Faces Crisis, Says Former President Millerand

PARIS, March 9 (AP)—"The present government of France, by docilely following the revolutionary parties, has brought the country to a crisis in confidence," former president Millerand declared in a letter written to elections of the electoral college which will vote for a senator from the Seine department in April.

Noted Dramatist to Lecture Here This Afternoon

Writer of "Papa" Will See Production of "Beggar"

Zoe Akins will arrive in Iowa City this afternoon and will make her first appearance here when she speaks this evening in the natural science auditorium.

Wednesday noon at 12 o'clock, she will be entertained by the members of the University Club at luncheon in the club rooms. Wednesday afternoon at 4 o'clock, she will lead a University round table discussion in the Old Capitol building. In the evening, she will be present at the initial performance of the University Theatre play, "The Beggar on Horseback."

On Par With O'Neil

Miss Akins is hailed by critics as one of America's two foremost living writers of plays. There has been some dispute as to whether she should be classed alone in her fame or on a par with Eugene O'Neil.

Miss Akins' entire training as a dramatist came from actual experi-

Clearman Proposes Bill to Authorize School Dormitories

DES MOINES, Mar. 9 (AP)—Senator Clearman of Johnson county today introduced a bill to authorize the state board of education to acquire by condemnation or purchase property for establishment of dormitories for the state educational institutions. The board would be authorized to retire the obligations incurred with the use of net rentals and revenue from the dormitories.

Davenport to See Wisconsin Players in Comic "Ivan Ho"

On the evening of April 6 the Haresfoot club, dramatic organization at the University of Wisconsin, will play "Ivan Ho!" at the Masonic auditorium in Davenport.

"Ivan Ho!" as the title suggests, is a whimsical takeoff on Scott's famous novel. It provides a fascinating plot that is rather more unified than that of the typical college show. It furnishes ample room for the exercise of originality and ingenuity at which collegians are so efficient in this play that centers around the golden medieval days of hard men and hard liquor.

Formal Approval Costs Insurgents Committee Posts

LaFollette Loses Out on Interstate Commerce Board

Democrats Keep Clear of Republican Family Row

WASHINGTON, Mar. 9.—Formal approval of the demotion of the LaFollette insurgents from their rank on the standing committees was given today by the senate. The vote was 64 to 11 and came after five hours debate, confined largely to the republican side.

Democrat leaders interrupted occasionally but mainly to reiterate their desire to keep clear from the row with in the republican ranks.

The real issue as to whether the majority party was to complete organization of the senate according to a program determined upon immediately after the 1924 elections came on the proposal to remove Senator Ladd of North Dakota, one of the insurgents, from the chairmanship of the public lands committee.

Senator Standfield of Oregon, the majority candidate was elected, receiving 36 votes to 13 for Ladd and 3 for Senator Jones, democrat of New Mexico. Senators Wheeler, democrat of Montana, LaFollette's running mate on the independent ticket, and Copeland, democrat of New York, supported Ladd while Bruce, democrat, of Maryland, voted for Standfield.

Convinced by this roll call that their fight was a losing one the republican insurgents made no further effort to upset the organization's program but some did protest at the selection of senator Watson of Indiana, as chairman of the interstate commerce committee over Senator LaFollette who outranked Watson.

Prof. Walker Had Straight 'A' Marks

Michigan Student May Equal "A" Record This Year

The record of being the only graduate of the University of Michigan having a straight "A" average belings to Ross G. Walker head of the accounting department at the University of Iowa.

Professor Walker graduated from Michigan University in 1920, with the achievement of never having received a grade at that institution other than "A".

He came to the University of Iowa in the fall of 1922 as an instructor in the college of commerce, later being made head of the accounting department

The record of Professor Walker may be equalled at Michigan this year as Norman B. Johnson of that school has at this time 108 hours of "A" and expects to finish the remainder of his work with the same grade.

The Michigan Daily in commenting on this record says "Johnson, since his matriculation here has received no grade less than "A" a feat which in the memory of registration officials has but one predecessor. Ross Walker, '20, officials recall, graduated with a perfect scholarship record."

"Johnson in addition to his scholastic achievements has participated successfully in campus activities. He was among the final candidates applying for the Michigan Rhodes scholarship last fall, and was recently elected president of Kappa Phi Sigma, national debating society. He is also president of Alpha Nu, local branch of the society."

The Peace Ideal

THE Council of the League of Nations which meets at Geneva this week plans to discuss the control of private manufacture of arms. Established at the close of the greatest conflict the world has ever known, the League has bent every effort to avert another catastrophe.

It faces a hopeless task. The private manufacture of arms may be prohibited, every government arsenal may be blown from the face of the earth, warships may be sunk, dirigibles destroyed, but the moment the fever of war has struck mankind, he will beat his plowshares into swords and plunge into the holocaust.

Rules of warfare are impossible. They are beautiful on paper, but when war comes, the papers are burned. Each nation in a conflict is fighting a life and death struggle. It can only win by destruction, and the more brutally and efficiently it can destroy, the quicker the victory.

In saner moments, few men sanction war, but wars are not fought in saner moments. They are begun in the heat of passion and fought with the fury of hatred. During wars, civilization is suspended.

Let us consider the late war. Our nation remained aloof for three years,—years in which a growing anger against Germany ate at the heart of our people. The U-boat outrages, propaganda concerning German atrocities, beat into the people's consciousness and rankled there. When war came, men did not think, they exploded. The nation was a magnified mob, bent on killing.

A few dared to protest. The mob turned against them in its fierceness, painted them yellow, cost them their jobs, locked them in jail, fined them, branded them traitors.

* * * * *

There are some who profit by war and have the fiendish desire to start them. Ambitious emperors, manufacturers of munitions, trade extensionists, chauvinists, provoke wars. For others war has the same fascination that a burning building has for a firebug. They, too, start wars. And wars are begun by Fate,—a loaded musket in the hands of a drunken sailor, the knife in the clutch of a lunatic, the accidental explosion of a bomb.

Every war makes new wars easier. It may sweep away armies, reduce fortresses to ashes, demolish a nation's wealth; but these only delay the beginning of the next conflict. War sows the seeds of revenge; it breeds hatred and passion; it perfects the mechanism of murder.

* * * * *

The problem of proper defense is difficult. If we maintain a navy sufficient to defend our shores, but not strong enough to cross the Atlantic and attack England or the Pacific and attack Japan; and if England and Japan maintain navies of the same defensive strength, can we not make war impossible? But then, who is to say just what this strength is? And how are we to convince England that we are too weak to attack her safely? Or how can Japan prove to us that she couldn't land troops on our western coast?

Our problem is simple to that of European nations. There an army of any sort can be made an army of offense; the nations are closely interlocked and capitals lie within two or three hours flight of each other. Varying languages, conflicting religions, rankling hatreds form smouldering beds of jealousy and intolerance which may leap into the flame of war at any time. Once the conflagration is begun there, a spark is bound to fly across the Atlantic and ignite the passions of this nation.

War is inevitable. History has been a succession of wars. A passion for struggle, for conflict, is an elementary human instinct.

What then can man do? Must he wait patiently for the next explosion to claim his life? It may be. But man is idealistic. He dreams of a warless world, and he must do what he can to reach his ideal. He has set a difficult, perhaps impossible goal, but it gives him pleasure to work toward that goal. "Man is at his best when rowing hard against the stream." We may not be able to prevent war, but we may do what we can to make wars less frequent, less horrible.

We can curb the trade extensionists. They have no right to demand the protection of our army and navy because they have been caught red-handed in the exploitation of some foreign territory. We can arrive at some agreement concerning the manufacture and shipment of munitions. While European nations have been talking of peace, they have been reaping rich rewards from the sale of arms to the fighters in China. We can attempt to arrive at a mathematical definition of a defensive army and navy and agree not to go above that strength. We can join an association of nations which aims at a peaceful settlement of international difficulties. These moves will not prevent wars, but they are steps toward the ideal.

Through eons of time, the Spirit of Life has evolved man. He rose from crawling on his belly to lumber about on his legs. He learned to use his fore extremities as hands. His brain began to function, and he began to control his wilder passions. He build up a great system of laws, religions, sciences, philosophies, a great social inheritance.

We haven't reached the pinnacle. We are only the link between a Yesterday and a Tomorrow. Another hundred thousand years and there will be a different race.

For us war is inevitable, but it may not always be so. Our civilization may falll to the roar of the great guns and perish in the slime of bleeding bodies, but another will rise. We are a scant second in an eternity. Whether we survive or perish makes for little in the scheme of things. In the far future a race may be able to succeed where we have failed, may be able to live and die through generations of peace.

The Turning Leaves

Alfred Knopf announces as his best selling spring books Stern's "Matriarch," Irwin's "Youth Rides West," Reymont's "Autumn," and "Winter," Floyd Dell's "This Mad Ideal," and Mary Borden's "Three Pilgrims and a Tinker."

The film rights of "Three Pilgrims and a Tinker" have been purchased by Metro-Goldwyn and the work of screening it is already under weigh.

By the way, we are right on that "under weigh." Don't accuse the linotype man of incompetency nor us of ignorance. It is under weigh. If the readers who were about to spend two cents for a stamp to call us down will promptly find another two cent stamp to enclose in the missive we will explain the etymology of the phrase — indisputably proving us right.

Alfred A. Knopf announces a new and cheaper edition of de la Mare's "Come Hither." The new edition is printed on Bible paper and has all the woodcuts of the earlier.

D'Annunzio's "Child of Pleasure," with an introduction by Ernest Boyd, is now available in the attractive Modern Library series.

George Jean Nathan has been made consulting editor of "Arts and Decoration." Next week perhaps we can announce that his partner has been made insulting editor of "Liberty." Perhaps.

For an interesting evening we recommend "Superlatives" by Grant C. Knight. Mr. Knight has chosen as the subjects of his essays the superlative characters of fiction: The Most Tragic, the Most Pathetic, the Most Humorous, the Greatest Lover, etc.

Huebsch announces a new volume of poems by William Ellery Leonard. A year or two ago we read Professor Leonard's translation of Beowulf. This Huebsch volume, "Tutankhamen and After," is summat different. We liked this one:

Because I've learned, by ball and chain and goad,
Custom is king upon this sorry isle,
And builds through town, wood, meadow every road.
Takes toll at every stile.

And names all feasts and days, my child, I'd spare
Your groping feet, lay shipwrecked on our coast.
Dear delicate feet, yet wounded, worn, and bare . . .
As one who loves you most.

Chafe not at my strict rede; and keep your life
Within as bold as when you put to sea:
Till, strong and wise to flash the rebel knife,
you do my work for me.

Ray Holcombe and Margaret Blackurn; Characters in the "Beggar"

Those who were present at the amateur premiere of "Children of the Moon" in the University Theatre last fall will be interested in an article in the current number of Theatre Arts Monthly. A contribution by Walter Pritchard Eaton on the subject "On Some of the Old Actors" contains a reference to this production and especially to the work of Margaret Blackburn and Ray Holcombe. He mentioned especially the part of the weird, crazed, old man played by Mr. Holcombe. He mentioned the superior training which both of these characters displayed; acquired, he pointed out, through work with Chautauqua companies and the like.

It is an interesting fact in connection with this story that Mr. Holcombe will appear next Wednesday and Thursday nights in the character part of a newly rich business man in "Beggar on Horseback." Several people who are working on the production have seen the professional presentation, and they are confident that Mr. Holcombe's interpretation will be as good as that of George W. Barbier, who played the part in New York and Chicago.

The role is that of a business man who is head of a large manufacturing concern. Conferences and golf are his hobbies. However, he and his family have not always been New Yorkers; nor have they always been rich. It is rather a new and nice experience for them.

Mrs. Cady, his wife, basks in the luxury of their wealth but she still clings to old-fashioned rockers, and she still insists that in the music line "there's nothing like old 'fermiliar' hymns." Alice Timberman is in this part.

Gladys, the daughter, talks baby talk, dances when she walks, and overrates her powers of making men like her. She is being played by Mildred Major. Homer, played by Paul Foley, is the sickly son who doesn't like candy, doesn't like tea, hates to work, and in fact doesn't like anything except to sit in an easy chair and disagree with people.

With such a family to live with it is small wonder that Neil, the artist, reaches the point where he can't stand them any longer and turns back to his Cynthia, who is poor, and who plays the piano abominably, but who is nevertheless the only girl for him. Adelene Parsons has the role of Cynthia, and Philip Foster the part of Neil.

The play is being directed by Miss Helen Langworthy, and it will be presented next Wednesday and Thursday nights. It is by Kaufmann and Connelly and is considered the best of all their farces and satires.

Cosmetics Turn From Oriental Tendencies of Winter to Fresh, Light Spring Scents

Mystery, that charm which all women desire, is reflected noticably in the new spring cosmetics.

The winter tendency towards Oriental heaviness in scents has given way to the lighter perfumes of fresh spring flowers. Local dealers are presenting a perfume this season which is a blend of apple blossoms, violets and budding trees. Several perfumes of cinnamon scent which suggest fresh spices also promise to be popular.

Although rouge has been abandoned in the east, college women still buy it in large quantities. Orange is still worn but a sort of heliotrope is the new creation.

Powder is still fine but is tending towards the tannish and rather drab tints. Lipstick seems to be getting darker and is said to be the keynote to make up in New York.

Lovers of Animals Unite to Abolish Cruel Traps

WASHINGTON, March 9 (AP)—A three-year campaign before state legislatures, with the backing of prominent humanitarians and humane workers, is about to be launched for the suppression of the steel trap and other non-killing devices for capture of fur-bearing animals.

Outlining the work, Commander Breck told the society that while 100,000,000 fur-bearing animals were taken yearly in steel traps and suffered days and sometimes weeks of agony, not 10 percent of those taken were required to furnish furs for the actual needs of human beings in cold weather. The history of the fur trade in America, he said, testified that the craze for summer furs increased the killing fourfold.

Public conscience, when aroused, the speaker declared, would demand the abolition of the non-killing trap.

Eastern Colleges Name Women's Scholarship List

University Receives Information on Openings

Senior women in the Universitw find many scholarships and fellowships open to them at the leading schools of the country. These scholarships, open to graduate students, must be applied for now in order to enter the work next fall.

Smith College, of North Hampton, Massachusetts, offers six fellowships to women this year at $500 each. Whatever studies interest the student may be taken up and at the end of the year a thesis setting forth the results of the research must be submitted.

Bryn Mawr college offers a large selection of fellowships and scholarships to University women. The Helen Schaeffer Huff Research fellowship in physics and chemistry offers $1200. Sixteen resident fellowships of $800 each are open for work in any subject. The Justus C. Strawbridge fellowship offers $810 for work in economics and politics. Two Carola Woerishoffer scholarships of $810 each are open to students interested in social economy and social research. Two Grace H. Dodge Memorial scholarships in industrial relations and personnel administration give $810 each.

Twenty graduate scholarships of $350 each are offered in any subject in which fellowships are being given. The Susan B. Anthony Research scholarship offers $550 for work in social economy, social research, and politics. Social economy and social research are the fields of study for the Robert G. Valentine scholarship of $350. Several Grace H. Dodge Memorial scholarships of $350 each in industrial relations and personnel administration complete the list.

The graduate school of Yale university offers some fellowships to women as well as men. Two Seessel fellowships of $1500 each are open to women. They will take up work in biological studies, including original research in physics, physical chemistry, zoology, and botany. Applicants who have received a doctorate will be given the preference.

Four Bishop Museum fellowships of $1000 each are also offered by Yale university. They will include study and research in anthropology, botany, zoology, geology, and geography. A year of graduate study must precede this work and preference will be given to doctors of philosophy.

Trials for March Meet Come Today

Competition Open to Swimmers With Practices

Tryouts for the women's class swimming teams will be held for the second time this afternoon at 5 o'clock. The women who have completed their twenty-five practices will be eligible.

The events will be: twenty yard free style, twenty yard breast stroke, twenty yard back stroke, twenty yard side stroke, plunge for distance, running front dive, running back dive, and an optional dive. The relay will be for the meet only.

The women who are trying out may enter for only three events, two of which must be speed events.

The class meet will be held on March 19 at 4:30. The teams will be made up of the women who are the winners in the tryouts.

Foreign Students Plan Production

International Night Program Comes March 21

International night will be given by the Cosmopolitan club Saturday evening, March 21, in the auditorium of St. Patrick's school.

International night is to be a program of music and stunts by groups of students from various nations of the world, and the funds are to be used to maintain a foreign student loan fund.

A program was presented two years ago in the natural science auditorium, and last year a free performance was given in the liberal arts assembly hall. The program this year will be of a similar nature but new and different numbers are being provided.

The students of the club have been divided into five groups, each of which is to provide entertainment illustrative of the life of his native land.

Edna Miller, A3 of Brooklyn, is in general charge of the program, and Mena S. Lardizabal, A3 of Tagudin, P. I., is business manager.

Zimbalist's $100,000 Collection Includes "Titian" Stradivarius

Probably no other violinist has so many fine instruments as has Efrem Zimbalist who will play here next Monday evening in a concert sponsored by the school of music. His collection is valued at $100,000, the prize instrument being the "Titian Stradivarius," acquired only last summer at the cost of $33,000, the highest price ever recorded for a violin.

The history of this instrument is unique in that it has had only four owners, prior to the Zimbalist purchase, since it was first sold by Stradivarius in 1715. Until this season it has never been heard in concert.

Since, however, it has been privately owned during this time and it has been cared for so well that, according to Mr. Zimbalist, it is in a perfect state of preservation and maintains its beautiful tone. The best authorities of Europe say that it is one of the four finest violins in the world, none of which can now be bought at any price.

The purchase of the "Titian" marked the fulfillment of an old ambition of Zimbalist's. He had devoted a great deal of time and interest and hoped to possess one of the four best instruments.

After years of futile effort he had given up all but a faint hope of securing one of them. However, the owner of the "Titian" died and the instrument was to be returned to the collection of which it had formerly been a part. Zimbalist learned of this and sailed for Europe immediately. He returned within three weeks the triumphant owner of the priceless "Titian."

SOCIETY

For Miss Akins

The University Club will entertain at luncheon for Zoe Akins Wednesday noon in the club rooms.

Dr. Dean Returns

Dr. and Mrs. Lee Wallace Dean have returned from Boston where Doctor Dean attended meetings of the association of American medical colleges held there last week-end.

Mrs. Jolley Ill

Mrs. Mona Jolley was removed to the Mercy hospital Sunday evening.

Miss Miriam Mackenzie, an alumna of the Pi Beta Phi sorority at Ames, is acting as chaperon at the local Pi Beta Phi house until Mrs. Jolley is able to resume her duties.

Dondore is Guest

Christian F. Dondore, an alumnus of the University, has been spending the week-end at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Dondore. He is enroute from New York City to Omaha and is now connected with the Northwestern Bell Telephone company. Mr. Dondore graduated from the University in 1924, and was a member of Phi Kappa Sigma fraternity.

McCord-Dean

Announcement has been made of the approaching marriage of Miss Ruth McCord of Des Moines and Joseph M. Dean of Sioux City. The date of the wedding has been set for April 4.

Miss McCord and Mr. Dean both graduated from the University last June, Miss McCord from the college of liberal arts, and Mr. Dean from the college of applied science.

Miss McCord is a member of the Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority and Mr. Dean is a member of Phi Kappa Psi fraternity.

Visits Mrs. Jessup

Miss Amanda Johnson, formerly of Evansville, Minnesota, was a week-end guest of Mrs. Walter A. Jessup. Miss Johnson received her B. A. degree from the University in 1923, and is now in the Minnesota State Normal school at Mankato, where she is a member of the experiment department.

Sigma Alpha Epsilon

Iowa Beta chapter of Sigma Alpha Epsilon celebrated its sixty-ninth annual Founders' Day with initiation at the house Sunday morning and dinner at the Hotel Jefferson in the afternoon. Pledges initiated were: Joseph Van der Veer, A3 of Cedar Falls; William Gelvin, A2 of Marshalltown; Clarence Thomas, A1 of Marshalltown; Clio Straight, A1 of Bedford; Richard Parsons, A1 of Watertown, S. From "The Prophet"

'The man lay where he had fallen, with his shoulders against the rock and his head jammed forward. The rod was still in his hand.

" 'Come out of it!' McAllister roared."

Creative writing of many kinds will fill the pages of the March Iowa Literary Magazine, on sale tomorrow. An excerpt from "The Prophet," by Warren L. Van Dine, which is reprinted above, indicates that action as well as character portrayal finds a place in this issue.

"Loneliness," a poem by Iduna M. Bertel, A3 of Pillager, Minn., and a review of James Branch Cabell's "Straws and Prayerbooks," written by K. Irene Bowman, A3 of Iowa City, have been added to the contents of the forthcoming issue.

Paul F. Corey, A4 of Atlantic, who has been a consistent contributor to the magazine since its inception, will have "Brakes," a short story, and a review of B. H. Lehman's new novel of college life, "Wild Marriage," in the March issue. A third short story, "Prinding," has been written by Mrs. Hazel D. Skinner, Au of Iowa City.

Two essays, "Bryanism in Belles Lettres," by Charlton Grant Laird, A4 of Iowa City, and "Ephemera," by E. Douglas Branch, G of Houston, Texas, a number of poems, several of them by students whose work has not previously appeared in the magazine, and six book reviews, with editorials and notes on contributors, will complete the material in this issue.

Miss Daley Recalls Quaint Days of 1917 in University Circles

From teaching in a small country school to one of the first women instructors in the University is the record established by Miss Clara M. Daley, of the history department.

Her distinction as one of two pioneer women instructors who are still on the teaching staff, is shared by Miss Zada Cooper, of the pharmacy department.

"I came to the University as an instructor in the fall of 1909. At that time, not a piece of land was owned across the river, while at present the University owns more land over there than on this side," Miss Daley stated. "The great majority of instructors were men, excepting in the English department. The entire Romance language staff was masculine, and the home economics department, as such, did not exist."

"When I graduated in the spring of 1907, the natural science building was just being completed. Our senior banquet was held in the big central hall which now forms the main room of the general library. The front stone steps of the building were not finished and we had to use some temporary wooden ones, but that didn't affect the banquet any. It was a good banquet."

With a bright twinkle in her eyes, Miss Daley continued, "I always say that William Howard Taft graduated in my class. He actually did receive the honorary degree of doctor of philosophy from the University at that time, although he delivered the commencement address instead of listening to it."

In answer to the question, "Is the standard of education higher than it was fifteen years ago?" Miss Daley said: "I should say that the advancement in teaching methods in country, grade and high schools and in the education department of the University has been wonderful, but University teaching as a whole has not improved. I believe that this is largely due to the fact that instructors are too often chosen because of their interest in research rather than their ability as teachers."

"I am able to view the teaching profession with a perspective which many cannot, because I have taught in country, grade, and high schools as well as the University."

"The growth in the student body since 1909 can be easily seen by comparison with a corresponding growth in the teaching staff. I came as the third member of the history department and at present there are eleven. A similar increase has taken place in all other departments."

Clara M. Daley was born in Leland, Illinois and remained in that state until her graduation from the high school at DeKalb, when her family removed to Charles City, Iowa. She is a graduate of the Iowa State Teachers College and of the State University. She also took advanced history in the University of Chicago for one year.

She has been actively interested in the peace movement, the League of Nations, and in woman's suffrage, having spoken in that capacity several times during the last two campaigns. Miss Daley is a member of the Alpha Delta Pi sorority, Pi Lambda Theta, honorary educational sorority, P. E. O., the University Club, the League of Women Voters, and is one of the editors of the League of Women Voters Bulletins.

The University of Engineering

Of all the things that go to make the successful engineer, none is more important, nor more in step with the spirit of the profession, than a studious attitude. One man says about another—"he is always willing to learn," "he doesn't think he knows it all"—and he intends to pay a high compliment when he says it.

The great engineers are always at school, always learning, always seeking for more knowledge. They begin with this desire for fuller understanding, and they keep it up to the end.

Any engineering operation, over and above the primary purpose for which it is carried out, is an active and post-graduate class in engineering, also. So that Westinghouse, or any other great business, is, of its very nature, a University where theory and practice combine to make bigger, broader and more practical engineers.

The courses in this University are not limited to prescribed subjects nor terms—the subjects are almost infinite, and the semesters are endless. Men with the weight of years on their shoulders work and learn side-by-side with those whose day has just dawned.

This post-graduate school fits men for almost anything. Fits them for it, and makes them continually fitter. Out of this continuing fitness have grown the engineering accomplishments on which this institution has grown. It is, perhaps, one of the great educational institutions of its day.

FOUR EVENTS FILL ATHLETIC WEEK-END FOR IOWA TEAMS

Hawkeye Natators Working for Conference; Expect to Place 6

Iowa natators should place a minimum of six men in the finals of the annual conference swimming meet to be held Thursday and Friday of this week at Chicago.

The relay team composed of McClintock, Lambert, Stewart and Hoffman, Captain Ashton, back stroke man, and Lake, plunger, form the sextette.

Possibilities in the dives and breast stroke are still regarded as uncertain, but men may be placed in these events. This prediction is made from the comparative times of the various Big Ten teams throughout the dual season.

Northwestern, the Notre Dame of the swimming world, is expected to encounter little competition in winning the meet. The 40 and 100-yard dashes, the furlong, and the 440 are all conceded to Breyer, Howell and Corbett.

Minnesota will win the breast stroke with Faricey, former Olympic and I. A. C. swimmer, and also the back stroke with Jim Hill as their entry. Iowa seems certain of a place among the first three in the plunge.

Records are expected to fall in the 40 and 100, the breast stroke, relay and plunge. Although Northwestern will place first, the fight for second place among Minnesota, Wisconsin, Michigan and Iowa will be a hot one. Minnesota will have the edge on the second position but any other of the teams may surprise the Northmen.

The meet will be the last of the year for Iowa swimmers as the National Collegiates held in April, at Evanston do not include the relay and the plunge, events in which Iowa had the best chance of placing.

Following the conference the intermural swim features will continue, culminating in the river swim held each year on May 30.

Tau Delts to Finals

Phi Psis Fail to Connect With Hoop But Outplay Delts

By A. J. Kelley

Leading throughout the entire contest but always endangered, Coach Lloyd Meder of the Tau Delts by a clever bit of strategy took the hard luck Phi Psi aggregation out of the running for the championship of the Intramural league last night at the men's gym. The sterling net shakers of the Delts copped a 9 to 6 victory.

Hard luck pursued the Phi Psis during the contest. Many shots were started on their way to the hoop only to have the sphere take a roll around the rim and drop into the waiting hands of Hines and Van Oosterhaut, the Delt guards.

During the final period the Phi Psis had chance after chance to win the tilt. Five free throws were handed the winners of last year's tournament of which only one found its way through the bucket. Many wild heaves were tried from past the center of the floor in a vain effort to put the game in the victory column.

The offense of the Phi Psis had the Delts completely bewildered in the final stanza. Three tries from the field were all the shots allowed the Delts completely bewildered in caged one field goal on a lucky one handed heave late in the period to assure the defeat of the Phi Psis.

At every opportunity after the basket by Finley the Delts tried stalling tactics to hold onto their three point lead.

McCord and Hauser contributed free throws for the rest of the scoring for the Delst during the period. With thirty seconds remaining Romey scored from the center of the floor once more putting the Phi Psis in the running.

McCord was the star for the Delts counting six of the nine points. Romey hit the hoop for four of the six points garnered by the Phi Psis. Tilton at forward was off his usual form at locating the net, breaking into the scoring column only when he sunk a free throw.

Lineup and summary:

Tau Delts (9)		Phi Psis (6)
Yerkes	rf.	Chaffee
McCord	lf.	Tilton
Finley	c.	Romey
Hines	rg.	Graham
Van O'haut	rg.	Nagle

Substitution: Estey for Chaffee for Estey. Hause for Finley for Hauser.

Field goals: McCord 2, Finley 1, Romey 2.

Free throws: McCord 2, Finley 1, Tilton 1.

Conference Meets on Track and Tank, Main Attractions

With the conference championships of the cinder path slated at Evanston Friday and Saturday, the conference swimming meet on tap at the same place Thursday and Friday, the gymnasts and fencers engaging the Illini in a dual and duels, at Urbana Saturday, and the wrestlers trying to close an unbeaten season with Illinois' undefeated team as opponents at Iowa City Saturday, the indoor campaign will be in full force this week end.

With the past record of two wins out of five dual meets and with a team which has some individual stars who are doped to place high in the various events, Iowa's tank men should make a strong showing against the rest of the conference field in the Big Ten meet.

It is almost conceded that Morse "Big" Lake will win the plunge and there are those who believe that he will shatter the conference record of :16 4-10 set by Meagher of Chcago in 1920.

Lake has been clocked under this time on several occasions. Captain Ned Ashton, according to all advance dope available, should be among the leaders in the back stroke in which event he has been beaten only once this season, while Lambert is one of the best 200-yard swimmers with only one defeat against him.

Others doped to come out ahead in various events are, the 160-yard relay team, Marble in the breast stroke, and McClintock in the dashes. The splashers will entrain for Evanston Wednesday night.

The severe and overwhelming defeat handed the Hawks by the Illini in their dual meet Saturday was unforeseen. Up until the last moment the Indians were thought to have been weakened by illness and ineligibility but at that last moment Dan Kinsey, Olympic champion hurdler was declared eligible and in the meet several new men came through at the Hawkeye's expense.

The failure to count but one point in the broad jump, pole vault, and half mile as well as failure to obtain a point in the high and low hurdles proved to be disastrous to the Iowans. Harold Phelps was high point man of the meet while Roberts ran him a close second.

The Hawkeye cross-country captain totaled eight points with a win in the mile and a second in the two mile while the dusky dash man with seconds in the dash and 400 scored six markers.

Dauber, with a heave of 45 feet, 5 7-8 inches in the shot put, won a first in that event and established a new University record. This betters his previous mark, estblished at Wisconsin, by 5 3-8 inches.

Although the dual season was not what can be called a success predictions are that the Old Gold team will finish among the first four in the conference meet this week end.

The imminent arrival of the new equipment for the fencing team which was promised in time for the meet with Wisconsin, and additional practice should help the Iowa duellers greatly. Captain Ingersoll in the foils, and Laird in the sabers should prove two big stumbling blocks to Illini hopes in the sword events.

However stiff competition can be expected from the Indians as they defeated Chicago last week. The gym team, which has lost two meets by close scores, meets the Illini in a dual meet at the same time the fencers engage the Indiana's best.

Great improvement was shown by the gymnasts in the last dual with Wisconsin two weeks ago. Breckenridge and Baird, tumblers; Fuller, Indian clubs; and Captain Obermann, in the bar events seem to be potential point makers in their events.

With wins from Minnesota, 25 to 4; Michigan, 14 to 6; Nebraska, 18 to 5; and Wisconsin, formerly unbeaten, 16 to 7, the wrestlers will have a tie for the team championship of the western association if they can win the dual with the Illini which will be held here Saturday afternoon.

Last year the Indians upset the Hawk hopes with a defeat in the last meet which wrecked the Iowans' clean slate, so this year Mike Howard's proteges hope to turn the tables on the Illinois team.

Kennett Issues First Call for Varsity Golfers

Coach "Cap" Kennett has issued the first call for varsity golfers for next Wednesday afternoon when the course will be officially opened for play, weather permitting. Before being allowed the privileges of the course students must pay their semester dues coach Kennett stated.

The following men have signified their intention of being on deck for the first practice. The first seven on the list were members of the varsity team last fall. Ed Beman, L. G. Schrader, W. Cozad, J. McAlvin, Frank Smiley, A. I. Shimamura, Bill Vernon, R. Peterson, Carl Seashore, M. Seashore, G. M. Gibbs, J. V. Van Epps, J. S. Bauch, and Otto Bauch.

Gibson Defeats Bauch by 2-1 Score in Second Round Final

P. E. Gibson defeated J. S. Bauch in the last match of the second round of the men's putting tournament on Monday by a score of 2-1.

It was a close match with both men handing in very creditable scores. Gibson finished the eighteen with a 35 while his opponent shot a 36. This makes the list complete for the semi-finals.

W. C. Tyrell will meet Earl Beman this afternoon to decide who shall go on, while in the other bracket Gibson and M. Seashore will fight it out. Each of these men have shot very good golf since the beginning of the competition and it is an even gamble who the winner will be.

Mat Men on Last Lap

Howard's Men Have Only Illinois to Defeat for Clear Record

Standings of the Western Intercollegiate Wrestling Association:

	Won	Lost
Indiana	5	0
Iowa	4	0
Illinois	4	0
Ames	4	0
Ohio	3	1
Wisconsin	3	1
Purdue	2	3
Nebraska	1	3
Michigan Aggies	1	3
Northwestern	1	3
Chicago	1	5
Minnesota	0	4
Michigan	0	6

The last dual wrestling meet of the season to be held here for the Hawkeyes, that with Illinois on Saturday, will determine whether Iowa or Illinois will finish in a tie with Ames and Indiana for the championship. The latter two teams have finished their seasons with clean slates so have an equal claim to the honor.

The Illinois team coached by Paul Prehen won from Ohio State Saturday by a score of 14 to 6. This was the lowest score the Illini have been held to all year. Coach Prehn's team has great strength in the four lighter weights, but they have had only mediocre success in the heavier classes.

The Iowa team came out of the meet with Wisconsin Saturday in good condition and are anxious to battle the unbeaten Illini. The team which represents Iowa next Saturday will probably be the same as competed last week, with the possible exception of the 145-pound entrant.

The Hawkeye grappler in this class will not be chosen until the last of the week. A possibility exists that Peterson will be able to compete in this weight as he had the splints removed from his hand yesterday. Although his hand is still stiff and weak as the result of having a bone broken in it in his bout in the Nebraska meet.

Coach Howard believes he has a good chance of beating Illinois Saturday. If the Iowa grapplers in the lighter weights can get an even break with their opponents "Mike" believes that Grattan and Voltmer will be able to decide the battle in favor of the Hawkeyes.

High Honors Go to Deklotz With 198 in Engineer Shoot

Fred W. DeKlotz, S4 of Iowa City, was the outstanding man in the first elimination match of the engineers rifle team fired in the rifle gallery at the armory last week end, leading with a score of 198 out of a possible 200. Thomas C. Carson, S1 of Iowa City, his nearest rival, succeeded in making 187 points.

DeKlotz, a member of the team last year, fired a good average on the Iowa City national guards rifle team the past season.

Although Everett W. Rossow, S4 of Lanesboro, is one of the new men on the squad, he has had considerable experience in the shooting game. As a member of the Iowa City national guards rifle team, he placed third in the national rifle association match. Rossow is one of the contestants left to shoot.

Albert D. Carlson, S2 of Waterloo, Fred W. DeKlotz, S4 of Iowa City, Frank Wiggins, S4 of Prairie City, and Kenneth DeWitt, S2 of Vinton, veterans of last year's squad have returned to compete for places on the team again this year.

Boston College Breaks 2400 Yard Relay Mark

NEW YORK, Mar. 9 (AP)—The Boston college relay team established a new world's record for the 2,400 yard race at the Manhattan college games tonight, defeating Holy Cross and Penn in 4 minutes 54 and 3-5 seconds. The old record made February 5, 1910 by the Irish American A. C. team, was 5:06 and 1-5 seconds.

Gymnasts Point to Illinois Contest Saturday Evening

Iowa's gym team began practicing yesterday for the third and final dual meet of the year against Illinois at Urbana next Saturday.

Through the gymnasts lost to Minnesota and Wisconsin, Coach A. Baumgarter is optimistic over the coming meet with Illinois. All of the men are in good shape and with Captain Oberman and Faust back in the lineup in the Wisconsin meet, the team has been considerably strengthened.

Fuller sprung the big surprise at the last meet by nosing out Snavely of Wisconsin by one-half point in the Indian club event. Fuller's performance was remarkable, considering the fact that it was his first appearance in that event and that he had but little over two weeks to practice for it.

Chicago won from Illinois in a dual gymnastic meet last week, but this affords no dope on the Illinois-Iowa contest Saturday. Chicago won the conference gym title last year, but Chicago has met none of the teams that Iowa has faced this year. The all-conference meet will be held at Minneapolis a week from next Saturday.

Coach Baumgartner has announced that the ten men who competed against Wisconsin will make the trip to Urbana Saturday: horizontal bar, Harris Noe and Breckenridge; side horse, Faust, Fuller and Lamont; parallel bars, Noe, Harris and Oberman; flying rings, Harris, Noe and Faust; tumbling, Breckenridge, Baird and Smith; Indian clubs, Fuller.

be surprised at his new accomplishment. It was accidently let slip that one of the acts would be a recital entitled "Peanut Brittle."

Second Act a Secret

The second act is clouded in even more secrecy than the first and little could be learned of its nature even from the most talkative of the law students. "We are keeping it a secret," said Mr. Cooper, "so that it will be a complete surprise to the audience, and thus the effect of the act will be more successful.

Two of the clowns in the show are not really laws," said Cooper. "We went to great expense and resorted to a lot of persuasion to hire them from a well known circus especially for this show. And they are good. They alone will make it well worth attending the show."

The last act, the minstrel show, will be very similar to those given in the past, but it will be brought up to date. New jokes and song hits will be offered.

The costumes came a few days ago and are different to an extent from those of the past, although they feature the usual bright colors.

Curtain at 8:15

The curtain will rise on the jubilee promptly at 8:15, according to a statement by Carl Dietz, L3 of Neola, chairman of the stage committee. "The show is quite long and we will have to start promptly at the appointed time in order to get the show over somewhere near a respectable hour," he added.

There will be a large crowd at the theatre tonight, all seats being sold. Many graduates of the college of law have written in during the last few days to say that they would be here for the show, and have asked the committee to save them tickets. Places will be found for them, according to Victor Mott, L3 of Iowa City, chairman of the ticket committee.

Hawks Face Real Opposition in Illini Fencing Team This Week End at Urbana

Iowa's fencing team which meets the Illini next Saturday at Illinois, will have some real competition if advance reports are any indication.

In a meet with Chicago last Wednesday the Indians won by a 7 to 4 count. Chicago was using the same team which last year won the conference championship and was doped to repeat again this year. From this it apears that Illinois will prove to be a mighty big factor in deciding who the conference championship will be awarded to.

The Old Gold team will be composed of three men who will be selected after tryouts next week. They will invade the Urbana stronghold with a gym team as traveling partners.

School of Safety Opened for Young Mountaineers

VIENNA, March 9 (AP)—To protect venturesome mountaineers of Switzerland there has been organized a mountain-climbing school, with facilities for 400 students. The instruction is to embrace theoretical lectures and practical training. The lectures will treat of meteorology and weather prediction, and will further deal with the comparative value of various textures for articles of wear and equipment for mountaineering. Then first-aid and transportation up and down gradients in case of accident, methods of sheltering from wind, avalanches, rain and snow, and lastly nutrition and physical endurance, will likewise receive attention.

The practical training will be equally diversified. It will demonstrate the best ways of conquering the many hindrances which place themselves in the climbers' path, methods and utility of roping and the harnessing of rocks in rescue work and ascending and descending the sheer face of precipices. Lastly comes the correct handling of picks, axes and alpenstocks. A second course will deal with the uses of skis and snowshoes in Alpine tours.

Too Many Farmers; Forced to Send to Britain for Mates

Shades of Sir Edwin Sandys and his English maids!

An Associated Press item of the fifth calls attention to the sad plight of certain bachelor farmers up in the Vilna district of Alberta, Canada, who cannot find enough wives to go around. The Citizens league of Vilna is commissioning Thomas Jackson of Pine Knoll, to go to England and Ireland to search out wives for the lot of them.

Explorer Says Airships Costly and Unscientific

STOCKHOLF, March 9 (AP)—Airship exploration of the polar region is financially wasteful, and better scientific results can be obtained at a small fraction of the cost through the use of an old-fashioned, moderate-sized windjammer, according to Captain Hugo N. Pallin, a Swedish explorer. A disadvantage of the airship for polar work, Captain Pallin says, is the lack of transportation facilities after making a landing.

Captain Pallin proposes to investigate some of the "white spots" about the north pole in an exploration to take place soon.

Noted Dramatist to Lecture Here This Afternoon

ence. After leaving Rosmer Hall in St. Louis, where, while she was a pupil, her first play was produced, she joined a stock company for a few weeks to learn more about plays and how to produce them. Later, she attended Columbia University but found that her taste for actual dramatic work was stronger than the study of textbooks, so she again tried acting.

Between the ages of 18 and 24 she produced several plays and several poems.

Wrote "Papa"

She acted and directed until she was 24 when a nervous breakdown forced her to go to California for a rest. It was here that she produced her first important play, "Papa." It established Miss Akins as a dramatist of the first rank and since that time she has become known as one of the foremost in the dramatic world.

Nine of her plays have been produced in New York. Such stars as Ethel Barrymore, Emily Stevens, Marjorie Rambeau, Elsie Ferguson and Jobyna Howland have played title roles in her productions.

Hart to Be Buried on Wednesday

Succumbed to Stroke Suffered in Court Last Wednesday

The Funeral of William R. Hart, who died Sunday afternoon, will be held tomorrow morning at St. Patrick's church; burial in St. Joseph's cemetery.

Mr. Hart died following a stroke, which seized him while he was pleading a case at the Johnson county court house last Wednesday.

He was married in 1887 to Miss Mary Elizabeth Griffen at Muscatine and is survived by three children, Sister M. Hubertine, O. S. D., of Jackson, Nebr., William R. and Miss Beryl, of Iowa City, and one sister, Mrs. W. H. Shay, of Maloy, Iowa.

Mr. Hart was a graduate of the law college of the University, and a member of the American Bar Association, the Elks club and St. Patrick's church. He served two terms as county attorney and also was democratic county chairman.

After his graduation in 1905, Mr. Hart began the practice of law which he continued alone until 1914 when his son joined him.

Jury Selected for Marvin Novak Case

Two Women Included; Trial to Begin This Morning

The petit jury was impanelled for the State of Iowa vs. Marvin Novak case yesterday afternoon after three and one-half hours of deliberation. Only two women will serve in the jury in whose hands the fate of the defendant, Marvin Novak, rests. They are; Edith Stover and Carrie Conner.

The others on the jury are: Ray Rohret, Wesley Kilberger, Frank Stanek, A. Williams, Wm. O. E. Wiese, George L. Rohret, Anthony Deatch, Clarence Gallagher, W. S. Brown, and Cicel Allbright.

Novak, who was indicted by the grand jury on the charge of manslaughter and on the charge of abandoning an injured party, is defended by E. A. Baldwin. County attorney, Ed O.Connor, represents the state.

The court was adjourned at 5:30 o'clock until 9 o'clock this morning when the trial proper will start. The jurors, who were not impanelled for this case, will report on Wednesday at 11 o'clock.

'Peg O' My Heart' Played at Englert

High School Juniors Present Play Under Harry G. Barnes

"Peg O' My Heart," a comedy in three acts by J. Hartley Manners, was produced last night in the Englert Theatre by the junior class of the Iowa City High school under the direction of Harry G. Barnes.

The part of Peg, which was made famous by Laurette Taylor in the professional production was played by Ruth McGovney. The rest of the cast is as follows: Jerry, Bob Prentiss; Jarvis, Edwin Davis; Mrs. Chichester, Myrtle Borts; Ethel, Muriel Hicks; Alaric, Maurice Tanner; Chris Brent, Otis Teeters; Hawkes, Ray Strickler; and Bennett, Betty Baxter.

The stage setting consisted of flats representing an English country home of the aristocracy. The theme of the play deals with a poor girl who rebels against the snobbishness to her aristocratic realtives who try to culture her.

272 Votes Cast in School Election

Dr. George C. Albright, Director, Succeeds T. D. Kelly; G. R. Griffith Treasurer

Dr. George C. Allbright was elected school director and Glenn R. Griffith treasurer of the Iowa City district at the election at the city hall yesterday.

Both men were nominated by the non-partisan nominating committee and were unopposed. Allbright, who will succeed T. D. Kelly, received 266 votes of the total of 272 which were cast; and Griffith, who succeeds himself, received 261.

The men will take office at the next meeting of the board of education next Monday.

Extracts, Toilet Articles in Wholesale Lots Manufactured by Local Factory

Lemon trees may grow in the sunny South, but extracts of the fruit are manufactured here. Located in the southeastern part of the city is a factory which produces lemon extract in wholesale lots.

Many problems confront the manufacturers before the liquid is ready to be placed in the familiar two and eight ounce bottles for distribution. The finished product must be tested by an expert chemist for traces of any chemical poison, and the alcoholic content must exactly conform with the percentage stated on the label.

One of the largest orders filled recently was an assignment for 100 tons. In less than a month the bill was completed and distributed to Omaha, Chicago, and St. Louis.

This company also manufactures face powders, toilet lotions, and cold creams.

Pioneer Celebrated Ninetieth Birthday

Dinner Party Sunday Held in Honor of J. McCollister

James McCollister celebrated his ninetieth birthday on Sunday at his farm one mile south of Iowa City where he has resided for sixty-two years. He came from Ohio, in 1855.

The dinner party at noon was a complete surprise to Mr. McCollister. The blessing was asked by ten-year old Mary Elizabeth McCollister, the only grand daughter.

The following guests were present: the two children of Mr. McCollister, T. J. McCollister and wife of Lone Tree and Mary Showers, grand son Charles N. Showers, his wife and three children, Portia, Mack, and Susan, great grandson Charles McCollister of Cedar Rapids, great granddaughter Mary Jane Cumberland and ward of Mary E. Showers.

The dinner was presided over by Mrs. M. N. Adye, Mr. McCollister's housekeeper for nearly thirty years.

High School Gives Credits for Music

Offers Piano Lessons Under Direction of Miss Flanagan

Pupils of Iowa City high school are offered a music course known as the Progressive Series of Piano Lessons, in which they may earn four high school credits in the four years of high school work.

The course, under the direction of Miss Agnes Flanagan, consists of exercises, studies and pieces. A correlation of theory, harmony, and history of music is made in all branches of the course.

In order to receive credit pupils must produce each week blanks signed by the parents stating that the required nine hours have been spent in preparing the lesson. At the end of each semester at least five exercises, five studies and five pieces must have been completed. A theoretical examination is given at the end of each semester by the musical instructor of the high school.

On the completion of the regular school year the pupils are required to pass a practical examination which is also under direction of the musical department of the high school. The examination includes ear training, scale exercises, three studies and three pieces one of which must be played from memory.

Many high schools throughout the country have adopted this course of piano lessons, and some conservatories are using it as a foundation for the courses they offer.

School Gives Comedy

The members of the Iowa City High School are loking forward to an assembly which is to be held the latter part of this month at which time an original musical comedy entitled "Memories" will be presented.

This entertainment is arranged by Francis Cronin, teacher of music; Velma Porter, teacher of physical training; and Harry Barnes, director of dramatics. The members of the Boys' Glee club and the Clef club will take part in the production.

BEG YOUR PARDON

In a recent issue of The Daily Iowan, the name of Dorothy Chapman, A3 of Bonaparte, was given as the substitute chosen to fill the place left vacant by the illness of Phebe Chittenden, A3 of Waverly, on the debate team which will meet the University of Minnesota April 3. The name of Lucile Duke, A4 of Birmingham, should have appeared. Miss Chapman is one of the debaters originally chosen on the team.
