$275,000 REPLACED ON 'U' BUDGET

Slash Made in Appropriation by House, Downed in Senate

Sessions of 40th General Assembly Expected to End Tonight; Senate Votes to Cut Griswold Salary to $4000; Iowa State College's $150,000 Cut in Contingent Fund Voted Back on Budget

DES MOINES, April 3 (AP)—The forty-first general assembly officially ended at 11:30 o'clock this morning, but by using the old trick of stopping the clock, both houses continued to work and probably will be in session until tomorrow night.

One of the most important alterations was the returning to the University of Iowa budget the $275,000 replacement fund which was stricken by the lower chamber.

Numerous changes were made today by the senate in the House appropriations bill and this will have to go back to the house for concurrence.

Salary Reduced

The senate voted also to reduce the salary of Dr. Don Griswold, of the State University of Iowa, recently appointed commissioner of health, from $500 as recommended by the house, to $4000.

While the senate was working on the appropriations bill the house continued to pass numerous minor measure most of which probably never will be considered by the senate.

At the end of the day's session the lower body voted to turn over some 65 bills on its calendar to the sifting committees and but few of these will be returned.

"Iowa State" Benefits

The first action, on the appropriation bill at the night session of the senate was to put back into the bill $150,000 cut from the Iowa State college contingent fund by the house. The amendment brought the contingent fund back to $300,000 as recommended by the budget director.

The amendment was sponsored by Senator Skromme of Story county, and was passed by a vote of 30 to 15.

Editor, Manager for Next Year to Be Chosen Monday

"Dots and donkeys" says H. L. Mencken of college authors in his characteristic caustic manner. "Not so," replies the statistician and opens his book of figures to the college literary magazine page.

From the time when William Vaughn Moody was contributing to the Harvard literary magazine till today when G. D. Eaton a contributor to the Michigan "Inlander," is bringing out his first novel "Back-furrow," college writing has been a prelude to national writing.

The Register turns out five editions a day, the first edition going to press about 7:30 p. m. and the final edition going to press at 2 a. m. the morning following.

The Daily Iowan will be published as usual during the spring recess.

The editor and business manager, who will be chosen next Monday, will help with the next issue. Candidates for either office should mail name and office desired to Charles Sellers before April 4 and appear with plans before the student advisory board at 8 o'clock on April 6 in room 208, Journalism building.

Trial Ends; Slips Through Contract

The life of Lillian Gish has been filled with woe since Charles H. Duell, Jr., first brought suit against her, to hold her to a picture contract until 1930. Only carrots could soothe her nerves, so she chewed them in the courtroom. Now, since the acting judge has accused Duell of perjury, the trial is ended, and Miss Gish is free to accept other attractive contract offers.

Jessup Welcomes Medics Here for Clinic Sessions

Fifty Clinic Society Members Accept Invitation

Visitors Represent Schools of East and Canada

"We have come to think of the annual medical clinic as one of the important events of the academic year. The University most cordially welcomes the doctors of the state to participate in its various sessions. At the present time, when the University is embracing upon new developments in medical education and hospital care, the clinic becomes more inviting and attractive than ever before. I sincerely hope that our guests on this occasion may find the clinic as thoroughly worth while as we are sincerely glad to greet them."

In those words Pres. Walter A. Jessup expressed the general attitude of welcome entertained by the university and the medical college toward visiting medical experts from various parts of the country and state who will meet here from the fourteenth annual medical clinic to be held Tuesday and Wednesday, April 7 and 8.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, April 3.—Prof. E. G. Mahin, of Purdue caustically denounced intercollegiate athletics at the dinner of the Ohio College association held here tonight.

"Intercollegiate sport," he said, "is now on a professional basis and the homecoming games of colleges and universities are made the occasion of liquor drinking debauches."

Professor Mahin charged that the present system of college football is a detriment to the health of many players and even their lives.

Professor Mahin is a teacher of analytical chemistry at the University. He has not been active as a member of the athletic body of the school.

Prof. Dubs College Youth Unpolished

The final blow to the conceit and cock-sureness of campus sheikhs has been dealt by the Cleveland Press which declares that the college graduate of today does not even know how to land a job.

Information has been obtained by Prof. Charles Bellatty, head of the vocational department of the Boston University College of Business administration, from Boston business men of long experience, who declare that the average college graduate is so crude in his manner of approach that he shouldn't be allowed an interview.

Professor Bellatty has compiled the following list of don'ts. Don't be late; don't be grouchy; don't look stupid even if you are; don't fail to remove your hat; don't have grimy looking shoes; don't wear a belt-wear suspenders; don't have mussed hair; don't wear flashy clothes.

Cost of T-Bones for Pet Vexes 37 Gould Retainers

NEW YORK, April 3. (AP)—John W. Davis, Alton B. Parker and heads of 35 law firms retained in the $82,000,000 Gould estate accounting suit in which court costs are estimated at $60.00 a minute, listened to an extensive argument today on the cost of dog meat.

The debate concerned whether the sum of $4.25 for meat for Mrs. Helen Gould's shepherd dog and a dollar for a license fee should be deducted from the principal or from a fund set aside for maintenance of the Lyndhurst estate.

Nemesis Trails Debaters' Heels; Minnesota Teams Out-Argue Iowa

Minnesota's co-ed debaters threw out their line, the Iowans opposing them sawalowed it hook and all. This was one of the reasons given by Prof. John P. Ryan, of the speech department of Grinnell college, explaining why Minnesota was given the decision in the debate held at the natural science auditorium last evening.

The Minnesota women debaters who supported the negative of the question: "Should congress be deprived of the right to declare war unless submitted to a referendum of the people?" were able to force the Iowans on the defensive, something seldom achieved in a debate.

The Egg Myth

CAREFULLY nurtured as Americans are in the lap of materialism, there is an inherent love of myths hiding under our skin.

This year the White House grounds are again to be thrown open to the Washington children. On Easter Monday they will gather into their pockets, gather into their arms, all their many colored Easter eggs, to roll them down the White House lawn.

The persistent longevity of the Easter-rabbit myth, the Santa Claus myth, is an added evidence of the romance-starved natures which live in all American people in spite of the desperate attempts made to conceal them. Early into the child's mind there creeps a doubt of the three-toed tales, a veiled incredulity, but all of this is whisked away at sight of the colored eggs on Easter.

The vivid eggs are symbols of the hope which persists in man; the annual rolling, and the breaking of them, characteristic of the fate that best dreams have. Man takes his hopes and aspirations up on the smooth slope of idealism. He pushes the eggs off, and they tumble into crevices, and are torn by selfishness, and malice, unfriendliness and rebuff. Their lovely shells are broken, and looking at them in dismay, man wonders again why he was fooled. He should have known that the colored shells are spun from the thin tissues of cloud-castles, but he never remembers that. With utmost confidence in his gay bauble, he starts it rolling down the hill to fulfillment.

After he has picked up the tinsel shells, and nursed his failures, man returns again with new colored eggs. That is the way hope has, of bathing in glory the new dreams, and soothing away the hurt disappointments of the old. As the gullible trusting children, who doubt the egg myth until Easter Sunday comes, so man returns the next day, next week, month, year, to roll his newly spun Easter eggs again.

Big Business

THE Dodge Brothers automobile manufacturing company has been sold to Dillon, Reid and company, New York bankers. The incorporation of Dodge with Packard and Hudson and a body manufacturing company is intimated. The transaction is significant in that it mirrors the tendency in the motor car manufacturing business to concentrate the industry in several large establishments.

The manufacture of automobiles is one of America's largest industries. In no other part of the world has the industry attained such proportions as it has here. And at the present time, the trend is toward even larger combines of capital.

Henry Ford with his Ford and Lincoln plant is probably America's biggest business man. General Motors, with its car of every class ranging from the low-priced Chevrolet to the high-priced Cadillac and Durant, with his string, from the Star on up to the Locomobile, show the reorganization that is coming about in the automobile industry, when several big business concerns will produce the bulk of the standard types of automobiles.

It is a case of business-expediency and economic efficiency. The concentration of capital means the reduction of overhead costs, and better automobiles at lower prices. The tendency everywhere is toward big unit production. It may even extend to the agriculture industries and concentrate the selling and buying power of the farmers.

Coach Novak

ATHLETIC circles of the state will feel a keen sense of loss when Leo Novak, director of athletics at Washington high school of Cedar Rapids, leaves. Novak has accepted a position with an eastern school at a big increase in pay, and will leave Cedar Rapids at the end of the school year.

During the seven years that Novak has coached Cedar Rapids' athletic teams, the Parlor City school has attained a record among high schools of the United States that would be hard to surpass. Starting in 1920, when his relay team set two new records at the Penn relays, Novak's teams have been in the national spotlight almost continually.

In the last five years, the Washington High football team has been defeated twice, losing in 1922 to Waite High school of Toledo, and in 1923 to Scott High, also of Toledo. The gridiron season just passed saw the crowning achievement, when the team went through undefeated, and gained the right to claim the national "prep" title. Leading teams in Illinois, Minnesota, Pennsylvania, Kentucky, and South Dakota were met and defeated.

In track, the Tigers won the state title for five successive years, captured the national championship at Chicago in 1922 and 1924, and finished second in 1923. Novak's basketball teams have been among the leaders in Iowa for several years, and won the national championship in 1921 and the midwest championship in 1920.

Cedar Rapids has given many star athletes, products of Coach Novak, to the University of Iowa as well as to other Big Ten schools. Few high schools have developed as many stars in the same length of time. It is not unwise to think that Leo Novak was responsible for most of them.

Out in the Wilds

AND only eighty-seven per cent of the little girls in North Carolina neck, says the innocent student. Poor North Carolina—stuck away in the mountains without the slightest chance to profit from our great civilization.

The tragedy is oppressive. But the pitiful part of it is that human nature has changed so much, and all these horrible evils are creeping in, slowly but surely.

How much fun is it to notice that in the last census, one girl was kissed on the average of two and three-fourths times every twenty-four hours, when if multiplied by 365 and set end to end, would make a string of single crochets long enough to trip any susceptible male.

And it makes us wonder whether Marie Antoinette should have held that necking party at the guillotine.

A Song!

Your soul lives in the beauty
Of a wistful, haunting melody
Heard, by enraptured listeners,
In fragrant gardens, 'neath a dying moon.

Float into the night;
Linger, then disappear
In the wan light.

A Song!

Dream music...
Sighs...
And aches of breaking hearts...

We are in no mood to do a column. We slept all morning and awoke in the middle of the afternoon with a headache. Then when we did get down to do our daily vespertine more of our valuable time looking for a typewriter that would run. After we had finally found one that would run we discovered that it didn't have any ribbon in it.

In short, we are in the mood for a fight—and no one around here will fight with us. No one takes us seriously.

We had a close call Wednesday. The Girl with a Brown Hat has located us. The column must bid her adieu. Far be it from us to embarrass any girl. Even a Girl with a Brown Hat.

Really it has been a dangerous episode. We have narrowly escaped several times. For instance, Jennette has threatened to get a brown hat. Then she threatened to get a blue coat. We have just stopped in time.

So, Girl with a Brown Hat, Em Quad bids you adieu. No more will your name be dragged into the column. You may go to class in peace. You may do what you please. The world will never again know about it unless you tell.

It was exciting while it lasted—but our cardiac organ can't stand too much excitement.

Poor Paprika, the Column's Krazy Kat, is all tired out. Yesterday we showed her some of the descriptions of her that have come in. No one can say Paprika isn't conscientious. She has been trying for twenty-four hours to fit all the descriptions.

First she's black, then gray, then yellow, then white. Upon short notice she can reverse the process. It is most interesting to see her in transition stages.

When we get time we'll list all of her appearances in a catalogue.

Science Ferrets Through Mind's Intricacies for Rhythm Sense

By Karl Kohrs

While music, as Frederic Nietzsche said, "is also that art which seems to demand of the intellect the fullest use of the finer sensibilities. To the listener, who sits spellbound under the magic strains of a violin or the mighty harmony of a symphony orchestra, the role of these senses is not immediately apparent in the complex of impressions.

Among the better known basic capacities are pitch, intensity and time. The ability to perceive and perform rhythmically is a more complex capacity but on the same plane of importance. Rhythm binds the various elements such as pitch and intensity into the balanced forms of musical competition. Rhythm is especially characteristic of the music of the Slavic and the Magyar races.

Just to what extent this sense of rhythm is a part of the makeup of a person is the basis of the research being carried on here by Robert H. Seashore of the graduate college, who is conducting a series of experiments in the field of "Temporal Accuracy of Motor Rhythm."

The instrument used in the measurement of this capacity is called the rhythm chronograph which was devised and later adapted to this particular use in the psychological laboratory here.

The apparatus consists of a phonograph turn table having metal contacts at certain intervals around the circumference. As the disc turns, these contacts close an electrical circuit, thus producing a series of clicks in a certain rhythmic pattern in a telephone receiver located in an adjoining room. The observer taps a telegraph key in time with the rhythm pattern emanating from the receiver, and attempts to follow the rhythm as closely as possible.

Actuated by the telegraph key is a magnetic pen which makes a graphic record of the taps on a circular piece of paper placed on the turntable.

To the casual observer the taps of the key seem to be nearly simultaneous with the clicks, but a glance at the graphic record will soon disillusion him. The machine records a difference of less than one one-hundredth of a second in the regularity of the taps and consequently no shade of temporal variation escapes. Through the study of the radical jogs in the lines on the disc made each time that the telegraph key vibrates the pen point, an accurate measurement of the coordination between ear and hand can be secured.

In this test, pitch and intensity are kept as nearly constant as possible in order to isolate the rhythm factors. Rhythm may be produced by variations in pitch, but the field of this investigation is limited to variations in time. Ability in pitch and intensity discrimination is not necessarily accomplished by ability in rhythm, and this fact is taken into account in predicting and advising students about to take up music. Usually there is some field or fields in which a person is fitted for training, and in which his deficiencies will not have such a definite influence.

Rhythm may be perceived through vision and the muscular sensations as well as through hearing. Among the capacities which seem to be allied to rhythm are muscular ability, acuity and span of perception of time intervals, and possibly memory.

The aim of this research is an objective measuring scale of rhythmic muscular coordination; to find out some of the basic factors connected with this ability; and to aid in the prediction of a person's success in particular fields of music.

YOU— may be in danger at THE DANGER LINE

DO YOU realize what may happen at The Danger Line, where gums meet teeth?

The Danger Line extends around each tooth at the gum margin. It is just a little V-shaped crevice, but it is vastly important. For in these tiny crevices, food gathers and ferments, forming the acids which cause painful, unsightly Acid Decay.

You can safeguard against Acid Decay and relieve conditions favorable to Pyorrhea, if you will use Squibb's Dental Cream, made with Squibb's Milk of Magnesia. Ask your dentist, and he will tell you that Milk of Magnesia has been used for years as a safe, scientific means of counteracting the acids which attack the teeth and gums. Hence the great value of Squibb's Dental Cream.

Squibb's Dental Cream is pleasant to use. It is safe. It is free from harsh, injurious abrasives. It cleans thoroughly and polishes beautifully. It removes the danger at The Danger Line. At reliable drug stores.

Club Seeks Dog to Pay Him Honor

CINCINNATI, April 3 (AP)—The American dog which in the year between April 15, 1924, and April 15, 1925, performs the most heroic deed of self-sacrifice and devotion to the human race, will be sought and crowned by the Cincinnati Kennel Club in connection with the National Dog Show, which will be held here April 17-19.

Any dog in the county of any breed may be entered by his owner, and no dog will be barred on account of lack of pedigree of pure breeding, according to the regulations.

To trace the ancestry of your family in old European records may be interesting, but to find that one of your ancestors was hung doesn't make it so interesting, according to E. H. Lauer in the Cherokee Times.

E. H. Lauer, executive secretary of the division of maternity and infant hygiene of the University, told of his success in tracing the family back to the seventeenth century and finding material for a coat of arms.

The Cherokee Times goes on to say: This Mr. Lauer is not certain that he is allied to Bob and Henry and Jake Lauer but he is willing to be and seems able to qualify for membership in the Pilot-Rock Plowing Match association.

It seems that one branch of the family, located in Wisconsin, has made money from the lumber industry and having the price desires a coat of arms. Learning that E. H. Lauer was about to go to Germany for a pleasure trip they sought him to search the records and, if possible, learn of some medieval duke or knight who bore the name.

In his tour of Germany, Mr. Lauer went to Nuremberg, Bavaria, from which region the name appears to have sprung, and asked permission to search the records for one lost ancestor. The municipal authorities were delighted and detailed a clerk to assist in the work.

Nothing was found until the official proceedings of the council of Nuremberg on a date in 1522 was reached. There was found an entry to the effect that the council had appropriated one bulden to buy a rope to hang a man by the name of Lauer. Mr. Lauer of Iowa City went no further with his search, reported his find to the Wisconsin people and expressed a willingness to design a coat of arms.

Loud Says "Help" Calls on Decrease at Student Health

Dr. Ota Loud, of the student health department states that the office calls from student women vary from ten to twenty-five daily. This number, she says, is very small for this time of year, and few excuses are being asked for. "I hope," she added, "that no epidemic breaks out now, and that we can get through this year all right."

Last year, during the months of March and April, measles, mumps, scarlet fever and diphtheria were raging among the student body.

Dr. Loud is very anxious that a rest room be equipped with suitable furniture to care for the constant daily needs of women students who wish to rest or study between classes or during the lunch hour, instead of going home.

A Memory Tonic

It is surprising how the ever-readiness of Eversharp prompts the jotting down of passing thoughts and facts—and how quickly the habit of "writing it down" improves the ability for accurate remembrance.

Six new features make Eversharp a finer writing instrument than before—non-clogging rifled tip, quick reloading, complete interchangeability of parts, are the most important.

Put a new Eversharp in your pocket. And for complete preparedness, match it with a Wahl Pen.

Announce Candidates At Open Meeting Tuesday

President Walter A. Jessup will award the W. A. scholarship trophy to a sophomore woman at the mass meeting of the women's association which will be held next Tuesday

The trophy is a silver plaque, of graceful design, now on display in the window of Hand's Jewelry Store. The mass meeting is to be held in the natural science auditorium and will take the place of the regular freshman lectures. The list of candidates for the annual election of the association will be read at the meeting and the formal voting will begin the next morning, Wednesday at 9 o'clock. The periods of voting have been arranged from 9 to 11:30 and from 1 to 4:30. Every woman in the University, by virtue of her membership in the organization, is eligible to vote.

Date Changed for Orators' Contests

Cable to Arrange for Drawing Names on April 7 at 3

The date of the preliminary tryouts in the annual peace oratorical contest has been changed from Monday, April 6 to Tuesday, April 7, according to a statement made yesterday by W. Arthur Cable of the department of speech. Tryouts will be held in room 118 of the liberal arts building from 3 o'clock in the afternoon until all of the contestants have appeared before the judges. A drawing for places in order of appearance will be made by Mr. Cable exactly at 3 p. m. Six of the thirty orators who speak in the preliminaries will be chosen as the contestants in the final contest on Friday, April 17 to decide the University peace oratorical champion. He will also be the representative of Iowa in the state contest the middle of May.

NOTICE

A limited number of college students will be given employment during the coming summer by the publishers of Good Housekeeping and Cosmopolitan magazines. The plan embraces the payment of a stipulated weekly salary plus tuition bonuses and travelling expenses. Men with previous magazine selling experience will be considered for team captain positions and there will also be openings for several field supervisors. Applications are now being received by Mr. Arthur Zorn, Subscription Sales Department, 165 Court Street, Brooklyn, New York.

Campus Etiquette

One should not leave the spoon at half mast in cup or dish. It should be placed in the saucer or plate. The knife and fork, when not in use should be placed across the edge of the plate—not to form a bridge from table to plate. After eating the silver should be placed across the plate.

One of the reasons why so many students wear spectacles is rumored to be the dizzying combinations worn by some of the men on the campus. With a striped suit and a striped tie, a striped shirt seems almost superfluous. Some stripes add an interesting touch but too many give an effect not to be desired.

When passing people on the street confusion may be avoided by turning always to the right. Traffic rules should be observed by pedestrian as well as by car drivers.

Hindu Magic on Program Tonight

Cosmopolitan Club to Hear Sanscrit Hymn

Small wads of paper will disappear beneath silk hats and under table circumstances when the tabling is gently tapped and weird incantations said over them. Magical tricks will be performed by two Hindus at an open meeting of the Cosmopolitan club tonight at 7:30 in the liberal arts drawing room.

Other numbers of the program, which is to be the work of the Hindu group of the club, are a Sanscrit hymn sung by S. N. Mitra, S4 of Calcutta, and a playlet by Ralendranath Tagore, acted by Mitra and Opal Dickson, A2 of Bloomfield.

3 o'Clock's Take Meet from 4:45's in Swim Contest

The women's intermediate classes in swimming closed the term yesterday afternoon with a swimming contest. The contest was between the 3 o'clock class and the 4:45 o'clock class. The 3 o'clock class carried off the honors.

Each class was divided into two teams so that every woman in the class was entered in some event. The captain of the winning teams were Elsie Molyneux, A2 of What Cheer, and Ruth Fulton, A2 of Princeton. The captains of the 4:45 class teams were Harriet Sargent, A2 of Cedar Rapids, and Eleanor Mcklelan, A2 of Des Moines. These contests mark the closing of the intermediate swimming classes. Other classes are being organized for a spring term and are open to upperclassmen.

Repair Work on Y. W. C. A. Office Near Completion

Hawks Work for Relays

decreed several quarter mile relays each afternoon.

Coulter, Everingham, Phelps, Kohl, Roberts, Jones, Beatty, Dolce, Nesler and Armstrong have been shifted about in various combinations and several of the men have been showing fast early spring time. Wilson and Brookins, their years of competition over, have been working out with the varsity men.

Phelps Rounding Into Form

Harold Phelps is working up gradually to the form which will make him a serious contender for the two-mile championship if he is sent to the Penn Relays on April 25. Wilson and Brookins, their years of competition over, have been working out with the varsity men.

along easily and is pointing him for this race for if he competes authorities believe that he has a chance to shatter the Penn Relay carnival record for the two mile race—9:25 set in 1923 by Ray Baker of Bates college.

Phelps will run at the Kansas Relays also but since there is no two-mile event will run on the four mile relay team. At Kansas, there is a new event on the program the 3,000-meter run and it is barely possible that Coach Bresnahan will send Phelps into this race which should be ideal for him.

Coulter Injures Leg

One bad break came to the team on Wednesday when Captain Chan Coulter, falling to warm up thoroughly for a trial 100-yard dash strained a muscle in his right leg and was forced to withdraw from practice.

Examination shows that the muscle was not "pulled" and that with care, Coulter will be in running form by next week. The captain has been taking light jogging since the accident with his leg heavily bandaged. The injury is not expected to handicap his running in the Kansas Relays on April 18.

Brookins in Match Race at K. Relays

Charles R. Brookins, world champion low hurdler who finished his intercollegiate competition at Iowa last year has been invited to run a match 220-yard low hurdle race against Ivan Riley, formerly of Kansas Aggies now of the Illinois A. C.

The race will be held as a feature of the Kansas Relays at Lawrence on April 18 and the bid received by Brookins today came from Dr. F. C. Allen, director of athletics at the Jayhawk university.

Runs Century :10 1-10

Brookins has not yet decided whether he will accept but said today that indications are that he would race the athletic club star. The Hawkeye's best time in the low sticks is :23 flat and his mark of :23 2-10 has been recorded as a world's record.

Brookins also holds the world's mark around one curve of :23 6-10. At present he is working out on Iowa field with the varsity track men and seems to have added to his great speed of last year. Several days ago he ran a trial 100-yard dash on a soft track in :10 1-10 after having been practicing but a few days.

Riley, Real Competition

Riley was the winner of third place in the 400-meter hurdles at the Olympic games, moving up to that position after Brookins, who finished second had been disqualified. While his time in the 220-yard low hurdles does not compare with that of Brookins, he is fast enough to force the Iowa star all the way.

SOCIALISTS NAME MARX

BERLIN, April 3 (AP)—A joint conference of the centrists democratic and social democratic parties today nominated doctor Wilhelm Marx as their candidate for the German presidency.

LARRAMEE DEFEATED

CHICAGO, April 3 (AP)—After a hip and tuck struggle in which they were tied 13 at the end of the quarter, so necessitating an extra period, El Rino, Oklahoma, defeated Larramee, Wyoming, 19 to 13, and went into the semi-finals. Tomorrow El Rino will meet the big team from the little town of Wheeler, Mississippi, in the semifinal windup.

Jessup Welcomes Medics Here for Clinic Sessions

Dean Clinical Society, of invitations to attend the special banquet and program, to be given by the Dean Clinical Society next Monday.

From all portions of the state, the stream of doctors will pour in, and from the neighboring states, the trains will bring them. According to the dean of the college of medicine the attendance of physicians who live close to Iowa City, will depend largely upon weather conditions. "Many of the doctors drive down for the clinical meetings, so the registration will be helped materially if the roads are good," said Mrs. Lee W. Dean.

Workers Arrive Monday

Dr. Harris P. Mosher, of the Harvard medical school who will be one of the outstanding figures at the clinic will arrive Monday. On Tuesday, he will give an address in the natural science auditorium. Two other prominent physicians who will be in attendance are, Dr. James B. Herrick, of the Rush Medical college, Chicago, and Dr. Campbell P. Howard, former professor here, now of the university of Montreal, Canada. Doctor Herrick will give an address at the natural science auditorium on Wednesday at 11 a. m.

Old Capitol and Seal Lend Charm to Invitations

The Senior Commencement invitations this year are novel and unusually attractive. An embossed design of Old Capitol will appear on the cover with the gold seal of the University. Besides the usual features, including the names of those receiving degrees, the program will contain various views of the campus and an engraving of President Jessup. Samples of the invitations are now on display at the University Book Store where orders will be taken at fifty cents for the leather covers and thirty cents for the paper compositions.

The invitations must be in the engravers' hands by April 9; therefore no orders will be taken after that date. It will be necessary to keep a duplicate for all orders as that will be the only receipt. Seniors are urged to place their orders now.

Child Labor in U. S. Condemned
GENEVA, April 3—Child Labor conditions in some sections of the United States were condemned by members of the governing board of the international labor office which opened a three day session here. The discussion of condition in the United States was the consequence of the recent rejection by the Americans of an amendment to the constitution authorizing federal laws on the subject of child labor.

Taft Now Has Ten Grandchildren
CINCINNATI, April 3—Chief Justice William Howard Taft today became a grandfather for the tenth time when a boy was born to Mr. and Mrs. Robert A. Taft here.

Open Study Hall to Admit Grads ---Professionals

The undergraduate study halls, on the ground floor of the library annex, are now, and for the rest of the semester, to be opened to professional and graduate students. At the first of the year use of the study halls was limited to undergraduate liberal arts students but since the waiting list has been taken care of and there are vacant desks the professional and graduate students who have been asking for the privilege are to be allowed to study there.

There are two supervisors in the two halls who answer questions and show the students how to make use of the library, of the readers guide and other reference books.

The attendance record shows that the hours between 8 and 10:30 o'clock at night are the ones most used for study. There is a gradual increase from 8 until 10 o'clock when the attendance decreases until noon and then increases again until about 3 in the afternoon. An average day records about 400 students in the halls, attendance being taken every hour.

Many students come in at 12:15 and spend the larger part of the noon hour in the halls where they will not be disturbed.

The south hall will be used for the library summer school students in the coming summer session as many of the books on library economy and training have been transferred to this room from the general library.

Victor Acceded to Minnesota in 2 Co-ed Debates

the statements made by Minnesota. Iowa took up the challenge and thus wasted time discussing irrelevant matter instead of ignoring Minnesota's challenge and advancing the affirmative case.

Excess Verbage

There were lots of words but little real evidence given by either side. Iowa contended that congress was not really expressing the popular voice, or that congress did not know whether it was really expressing public opinion by declaring war, and that the question of declaring a state of war should rest with the people; that the people are most vitally interested and concerned with the question and should have the right to declare war by an affirmative referendum.

Minnesota tore down Iowa's arguments with statements to prove the impracticability of letting the public declare war through referendum, since congress was vested with the power of making war and peace, and that it had acted wisely and well in the past; that a referendum by the people would take considerable amount of time and that the power of the press and other propaganda would affect the public in times of crises. The negatives asked the question, "What would happen if forty percent of the people should vote for war and sixty percent against it?" The question was not answered.

Minnesota Rates High

In debating tactics Minnesota was given a higher rating than Iowa by Professor Ryan, whose figures for the standing of the two teams was Minnesota 90 percent, Iowa 85 percent. He considered Miss Bowman, Iowa, the best single debater on the platform.

Lucille Duke, A4 of Birmingham, Ruth Tamisea, A2 of Missouri Valley, and K. Irene Bowman, A3 of Iowa City, represented Iowa here last night, while Margaret Powers, Margaret Howatt and Correll Nelson debated for Minnesota. Marjorie Buhler, A4 of Atlanta, Ga., Lillian Spalla, A2 of Britt and Dorothy Chapman, A4 of Bonaparte represented Old Gold in the debate at Minneapolis last evening.

What Made Lincoln a Great Man?

He read good books during his leisure hours. The books that Mr. Lincoln read in his younger days were few, but from the fact that he read and re-read them he gained a wider knowledge than youths of today who have access to elaborate libraries. They get less than a smattering of the contents of one book. It might be inferred that the youth who is the possessor of many books on "deep subjects" is a brilliant young man. But we'll wager that you would feel safer to bet your money on the humble Lincoln who stretched himself out on the floor of his log cabin and read one book THOROLY by candle light.

One man became famous by reading a few good books thoroly, while thousands go thru life ignorant because they got only a smattering of many books. What may be learned from books does not depend upon the quantity, but—ARE THEY READ THOROLY?

This is undeniably true. What is true of books is also true of newspapers. The morning paper reaches its readers early in the morning.

Five thousand students and 500 faculty members of the University read the Iowan every morning. This group is the cream of the buying public in this community. It is reached only by the IOWAN. Not only do these people buy the best of everything in the most liberal fashion—but they influence the purchase of the entire remainder of the community. Once you "sell" this group, you have the battle won—for you are established in your field. Ads in the Morning Iowan will have direct influence on your customers when they are in their best buying mood.

Scene: a local cigar store. Plot: The corner of a one-dollar bill peeks shyly out from under a tall pile of new magazines.

Characters: sundry males who file by, and halt in astonishment at the sight of this unexpected wealth.

Upon closer examination, the bill turns out to be nothing more than the corner of an old note tucked under the magazine.

Plans for Legion Carnival Altered

Outdoor Festival to Be Held in Latter Part of May

Plans for the indoor carnival, which was to have been given by the Roy L. Chopok Post of the American Legion during the middle of April, have been abandoned and an outdoor carnival will probably be given instead.

The outdoor carnival, may be held during the latter part of May on the Knights of Columbus lot east of the post office.

"Hurray, Nothin' to Do for a Week!" School Kids Plan for Joyful Vacation

"Just today and then nothin' to do for a whole week but have a good time." Such seemed to be the thought in the minds of the city's boys and girls as they started to school yesterday to spend the last day before Easter vacation.

"I'm goin' to wash all the windows during vacation 'cause Ma said if I did she would gimme a new mitt," one boy of grade school age was overheard to say.

"Well, our team's gotta practice all vacation so we will be ready for that north end bunch. They got a swell pitcher and we gotta get all practiced up fer em," said another about the same age.

One little girl after reflecting a while, responded, "I think I shall fix my flower garden, I have it all planned how it is to be done."

"I'm not going to work at anything, my mamma and I are going to Cedar Rapids and I'm going to get a new coat and dress all for myself, nice red ones so they will be new for Easter," said another smart little miss.

"I don't know just what I will do," remarked one flightily high school girl, "I suppose I'll go to some movies and then attend a dance or two, but you can just bet I won't read a thing."

And now for the serious minded good mamma's girl who when asked what she intended to do, said, "I'm going to study some of my lessons and then practice my music lessons so I will have them learned real well when my teacher comes."

$4000 Subscribed to City Charities

Fund Collected for Community Chest Grows Slowly

"More than $4,000 has been subscribed to the Community Chest fund," stated Colonel Morton C. Mumma last night. "About 200 letters have been mailed to old subscribers requesting a renewal of last year's subscription. Every effort is being made by the Welfare Bureau to solicit as much as possible by mail. This will lessen the work of the main drive which will be conducted about the fifteenth of April."

The plan of soliciting the subscriptions by mail from the old subscribers to the Community Chest budget is arranged to make the work of personal solicitation more easy. After letters have been mailed to all of the former subscribers, a personal solicitation to those who failed to respond to the letters, or to those individuals who have moved to Iowa since the drive last year will be made.

The Community Chest budget this year will amount to a trifle more than $10,000. Last year the amount collected by the committee amounted to $12,500, but this sum included unpaid subscriptions of former years. Nearly $200 of the Chest money was in the Commercial State Bank, which closed for a time, its doors to the public in February. This money will again be available for use, however, if the Bank is able to carry through its present plans of paying 100 percent to depositors.

Iowa City May Not Reach 15,000 Population in Census This Year

City Now More Than 400 Short of Reaching Coveted Goal; Every Effort Being Made to Get Necessary Total

"The population of Iowa City will probably not reach 15,000 this spring," stated William White, city assessor, yesterday. "We are making every effort to be sure that every man, woman, and child is being counted. It is possible that a newspaper campaign will be conducted to call additional attention to the fact that it is of the utmost importance that every person be included in the census this spring."

Unless Iowa City can show that it has a population of 15,000 souls, it cannot be classed as a city of the second rank. During the winter, a special committee headed by T. A. Knott of the University, has been working to obtain additional information about the people who can be classed as residents of the city.

Want All Residents Counted

It is the opinion of Professor Knott that many of the people who give as their home the town in which their parents live, should really be included among the residents of Iowa City. Professor Knott says, "If a man or a woman lives in Iowa City nine or ten months out of the year, makes his living here, and only goes to the home of his parents at rare intervals; and if this person is not included in the census of another town, we want him counted here. Members of the faculty of the University are sometimes at fault in this respect. They seem to think that their home is still where their parents reside."

Unless Iowa City reaches the necessary 15,000 mark in population, the town must remain in its present classification for a period of five years, when another national census will be taken in 1930.

Doctors Pleased With Improvement of W. J. Atkinson

Hon. W. J. Atkinson, an Iowa football star in 1906, who has been ill in the University hospital for the past two weeks, is very much improved. The doctors at the hospital last night reported that they were pleased with his condition.

After being graduated from the Iowa college of law in 1906, Mr. Atkinson began a successful law career, which helped gain for him the speakership of the house of representatives.

Peculiarities of Paper Cup Enumerated by Observer

Did you ever watch that peculiar genus known as the human species drink out of those atrocious generally known as paper drinking cups?

Verily, 'tis a very interesting and unusual procedure at best. Some of them seem to do their very best in a futile attempt to swallow the things, while others seem to be fearful of sitting the pure aqua down the front of their spotless vests.

Others guzzle, snort, gulp, inhale, and otherwise try sometimes in vain to conduct the precious fluid to their quivering lips. Try it sometime; stand and observe the next individual who stops and presses the magic button at which the stuff flows from the spigot. Yea, the human race is made up of various individuals.

"New Voters" to Get Special Day at National Convention

"New Voters" will have a day all their own at the convention of the National League of Women Voters, to be held at Richmond, Va., on April 16 to 22, according to a bulletin received by the Iowa City organization. Saturday, April 18, has been set aside as the day for the presentation of the League's new program feature—the extension of interest in citizenship among new and prospective voters.

In an afternoon conference and evening meeting a large group of young women voters will be present for the first time at any such convention.

Student representatives of the leading colleges and universities of the country are expected to attend the convention.
