Laird Talks Way to Top in Peace Oratory Contest

Laurels for Second and Third Go to Selman, Toomey

Winner to Represent Iowa at Parley in May

Charlton G. Laird, A4 of McGregor, won first place in the finals of the University peace oratorical contest last night in the liberal arts assembly room from a field of six contestants. Laird spoke on the subject "We Suitors To Peace."

Second place was awarded to Lee H. Selman A2 of Chicago, with an oration, "The Open-Door Policy," and Paul Toomey, A2 of Iowa City speaking on "Insurance Against War," placed third.

Laird will represent the University in the state peace oratorical contest which will be held in Iowa City on May 15. Six schools at the present time compose the membership of the state league of colleges which conduct the annual state contest. Those schools are: Parsons college, Upper Iowa University, University of Dubuque, Simpson college, Central college, and Iowa. A cash prize of sixty dollars is offered for first place in the state contest and forty dollars for second place.

The judges for the contest last night were Rev. Wilfred C. Wheeler, of Iowa City, Herbert Weller, formerly head of the department of speech at the University of Arizona, and Mr. W. Arthur Cable, of the department of speech here.

Wheeler Dozes as Witnesses Speak

But Two Are Heard on Second Day of Trial

GREAT FALLS, Montana, April 17.—Dozing comfortably while the government introduced files of documents and the evidence of two witnesses in its attempt to prove that he accepted a fee after being elected senator for prosecuting claims of a client before the department of interior. Senator Burton K. Wheeler of Montana passed the second day of his trial in federal court so calmly that he was the subject of much attention in the court room. It was a dull session throughout and a cloudy day added to inclination of spectators to recline in their seats and take occasional naps.

Only two witnesses were heard at the afternoon session. Lewis E. Lincoln and John N. Cooper, both of Lewistown, Montana. Lincoln testified that he filed application with the interior department for an oil prospecting permit at the request of Gordon Campbell for whom Wheeler is alleged to have appeared before the interior department.

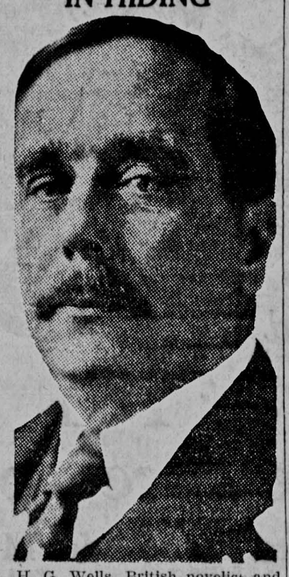
Cooper testified that he was present at a meeting in Great Falls in January, 1923, when Campbell, former Congressman Tom Stout of Montana, Wheeler, and L. C. Wertheimer, a salesman, were discussing Wheeler's employment by Campbell.

Dakin President of Scabbard and Blade Next Year

The members of Scabbard and Blade honorary military fraternity chose four new officers for the coming year at their regular meeting Wednesday evening. They are: Allin W. Dakin, president; Max Stanley, vice-president; Herbert J. Stapleton, treasurer; and Harry S. Stevenson, secretary.

The new officers will be installed at the regular meeting on the first Wednesday in May.

IN HIDING



H. G. Wells, British novelist and economist, is in hiding at his Riveria hermitage, busy on a work planned many years ago. When discovered by an interviewer, he adroitly switched the subject of conversation from his work to French politics, lauding the efforts of Premier Herriot, who, he said, "inaugurated an international policy that is destined to bear a vast and happy fruit."

Science Selects Printers Devils

Tests in Psychiatry and Intelligence Reveal Fitness

INDIANAPOLIS, April 17 (AP)—Haphazard selection of printers' devils, youths who are to become apprentice printers, is to be superseded by a scientific method of determining who shall take up the trade, according to James M. Lynch, president of the International Typographical Union.

Intelligence and psychiatric tests will be employed to determine candidates' fitness to take up the business, Mr. Lynch said. Educational requirements will not be severe, but the tests have been designed to determine the applicant's capacity for learning and his steadfastness of purpose.

William Turnbull, a journeyman printer of Toronto, and chairman of the apprenticeship committee of the union, has worked out a method of examination for apprentices in collaboration with professors at the University of Toronto, President Lynch said. The international will consider its adoption.

Police Start Clean-Up

BERLIN, April 17 (AP)— Berlin has a new chief of police, and everybody knows it. His name is Dr. Friedensburg, and he succeeds Herr Richter who was swept out of office because of his friendship with the Barmat brothers, involved in one of the largest of post-war financial scandals.

Campus Authorities Shake Heads on Tuition Question

"There has been no definite action on the increase of fees, but the matter is being considered by the board of education, and will undoubtedly be decided at the May meeting of the Finance committee of the Iowa State Board of Education," was the statement Secretary W. H. Bates made in regard to the all important question, "Will tuition be increased and if so how much?"

Dean George F. Kay said, in effect, that no authority on the campus knows anything about the matter, and any statement would be a conjecture until after the meeting of the board of education.

A raise in tuition of the summer session is not heralded and is in no way connected with the general varsity tuition increase, according to Mr. Bates. The summer session rates were already fixed before the action of the board of education was made public.

Will out of state tuition be increased? Will the graduate college pay tuition? These questions must wait for the answer from the board. The authorities on this campus do not know.

Blame Nutting for Ometepe Eruption

Lava Shower Caused by Idol's Removal Say Natives

"I was blamed by the natives for the first eruption of the volcano Ometepe about 1883 or 1884," said Prof. C. C. Nutting, head of the zoology department, who happened to be there at that time. Ometepe, a volcano in the middle of Lake Nicaragua, Central America, is in eruption now, and a newspaper story of it recalled to Professor Nutting the first eruption of the volcano, which was then supposed to be active, though there was no historical or even legendary account of any earlier eruption.

Because he had removed a small idol from the base of the volcano, Nicaraguans thought Professor Nutting had angered the volcano and caused it to shower ashes and lava over their crops and villages. "I was the first to see the eruption, too," Professor Nutting related. "I had ascended the crater, and I saw it from there."

The sacred idol whose removal was thought to have enraged the soul of the volcano is now on exhibition in the national museum in Washington, where Professor Nuttig left it when he brought it back with him to the United States.

English Sparrows Spread Conquest Into South Seas

Pestiferous English sparrows had spread to Cuba, Hawaii, Fiji, and New Zealand as well as all over the United States, according to Prof. C C. Nutting, of the department of zoology, who has seen them there. Whether they reached New Zealand from America by way of Hawaii, or were carried there just as they were to America about 1850, Professor Nutting did not know. They have however spread half way around the world in their westward expansion.

Ten Poems Appear in "The Midland"

Work of Omaha Poet Given First Place

Ten poems by five authors compose the April 15 issue of Midland now on sale.

Lee Andrew Weber, young Omaha poet, is introduced to Midland readers with three poems, "Dream, Prairie," "The Earth," and "Night on the Prairie," all in free verse. Mr. Weber attended the writers' conference held in Old Capitol recently, and plans to attend the University of Iowa next year.

"Dog and Cat," and "Martyrdom" are the work of Raymond Knister, former assistant editor of the Midland, now in Blenheim, Ontario, Canada. He is also a contributor to "Poetry," and has had prose work in the Midland.

Alice H. Crew of Rockford, Ill., appears with "Song" and "Lest There Be One Who Walks In Grief."

A Haitian writer, under the nom-de-plume of Annice Calland, is the author of "In April," two spring lyrics.

An "Iowa Poets" number is planned for the near future.

Fourteen tickets for the Commerce Mart tonight will be on sale at Whetstone's today.

These are the only tickets for the Mart still left to be sold. The programs will also be at Whetstone's at noon today.

Students Sweep Aside Creeds and Customs at Ann Arbor Conference

"We believe hat a creed can only be the interpretation of Christianity by certain men as they understand it and therefore are opposed to the forced subscription of Presbyterian ministers and elders to the Westminister Confession of faith," was the statement included in the findings of the first national Presbyterian student conference held at Ann Arbor, Michigan during the Easter vacation. Recognizing the necessity of some unified expression a simple statement of purpose was suggested as the best means.

From forty-one institutions of higher learning came 138 Presbyterian students to confer on matters of creed and church. For three days they discussed topics of the church, of race, of war and the stand which the church should take in regard to war, and of campus problems.

It was exclusively a student conference, questions for discussion being decided by the students themselves and carried on as they wished with no interference from any of the older members present and with no attempt to influence the findings of the group.

The general trend of the findings in regard to war was that it is un-Christian and that the church should work for its abolition and should actively participate in existing peace organizations. They recognized individual freedom in regard to support of war but said that the church should live Christianity and should not be used as a tool in the prosecution of war. There was opposition to these findings on war but the majority accepted them as true.

The belief that the church exists as a place for the worship of God and that it should concern itself with the problems of human relations, that it should stand against modern machine industry and any other forms which show a disregard for human life and happiness was also emphasized at the student conference.

Eastern Lecturer Brings Topics to College Audiences

Professor Devine, of New York, Promises 3 Talks Monday

Iowa Native Returns With Enviable War Record

Prof. Edward T. Devine, author and lecturer of New York City, will give three addresses in Iowa City on Mondoay, April 20. He will speak on "The Social Aim of Education" at 10 o'clock on Monday morning in the liberal arts assembly room, at a meeting open to graduates and undergraduates.

To Head Round Table

"Lenin, Mussolini, and Gandhi" is the subject of a talk which Professor Devine will give Monday afternoon at 4 o'clock at a round table meeting of faculty and graduate students in Old Capitol.

Monday evening Professor Devine will discuss "The Geneva Protocol" at an open meeting of the political science club in the liberal arts drawing room.

Professor Devine was born at Union, Harlin County, Iowa, and is a graduate of Cornell College at Mt. Vernon. He was principal of schools at Albion, Marshalltown, and Mt. Vernon before 1900.

Edited "Survey"

Since then he has held a number of varied philanthropic, pedagogical, and government positions. He has been editor of the Survey magazine, and was a professor of social economy at Columbia University. He is the author of a number of books on social and industrial problems and foreign relations.

During the World war Professor Devine was chief of the bureau of refugees and home relief under the American red cross commission to France. In 1913 he acted as special representative of the red cross in charge of the storm and ood relief in Dayton, Ohio.

Mail Plane Makes Gulf--Lakes Flight

First Cross-Country Voyage Carries 3 Million Cargo

(By the Associated Press)

CHICAGO, April 17—The first flight from the Gulf of Mexico to the Great Lakes was successfully completed at 4:20 o'clock this afternoon when the 300 horsepower De Haviland plane which started from New Orleans at 5:39 o'clock in the morning arrived here with registered mail valued at more than $3,000,000.

Post office authorities and mail officials who observed each stage of the flight said it was a complete success and that if such a service were made permanent it would mean a saving of from one to two days in bank clearings to the west.

The mail matter eastward bound reached here in time to make connections with the fast express trains leaving Chicago and with the mail planes leaving for the west.

ANNOUNCES WELFARE GRANT

Britons to Study Southern Schools

British Director of Africa to Review Carolina System

RALEIGH, N. C., April 17 (AP)—North Carolina, which has spent approximately $15,000,000 on negro education during the past four years, has become a model for British educators. James W. C. Dougall, who will become director of negro education for the British government in Kenya Colony, East Africa, next fall, will arrive in Raleigh shortly to study North Carolina methods.

North Carolina's expenditures for negro education have increased rapidly during the past few years. The state has made large appropriations to the negro agriculaural and technical college at Greensboro, and to the four negro normal schools, for both maintenance and permanent improvements.

Dr. James B. Dudley, president of the negro agricultural and technical college, and Dr. James E. Sheppard, president of Durham college, made vigorous utterances against negro migration when it was at its crest. They urged the members of their race to remain in North Carolina and pointed out what this state was doing for them. They called attention to the fact that North Carolina not only was spending substantial sums of money for the education but also afforded them physical safety against mob rule. There has not been a lynching in North Carolina since early in 1921.

Hawaii Welcomes Women

HONOLULU, April 17 (AP)—Women will be welcomed as delegates to the Pacific conference, to be held here in July of this year, and Hawaii will appoint local women to he executive committee of the conference to assist and entertain them.

Orchestra Buys New Instrument

Tympani Will Appear April 30 in Concert

The University symphony orchestra has just purchased a set of pedal tuned tympani, commonly called kettledrums, for use especially in the concert to be given April 30.

The original price of these kettledrums was nearly $500 but the orchestra was fortunate in securing them considerably cheaper because they have been used on the Leviathan steamship orchestra. Although they have made several trips across te sea they are in excellent condition, according to F. E. Kendrie, director of the orchestra.

Kettledrums are the only instruments of the orchestra that have skins for heads and yet can make chromatic scales. With a pedal tuned apparatus these changes are made automatically. It is possible to play tunes on these drums. The heads of these drums are very sensitive to heat, cold, and humidity.

Each of the two drums weighs about thirty pounds not including the steel carriage. They are carried in padded trunks.

Today at the Capitol

Governor Hammill again postponed announcement of his appointments declaring that except for the judge of the Polk County court he probably would make them public early next week.

Several thousand reports from retail gasoline dealers inclosing checks for small amounts reached state treasurer R. E. Johnson as a result of the first day revenue of the gasoline tax.

Another discrepancy was found in the appropriation bill two items having been entirely eliminated from the budget of the school of the blind.

"Chawclit Mal'd," Cry of Thirsty Legions, Nightmare of Soda Jerkers

"Gimme a chawclit mal-ed."

That cry, which is the nightmare of Cleveland, O., soda jerkers, according to a story in the Cleveland Press, is also the Nemesis of Iowa City fountain workers. College men start coming in about 7:20 in the morning, and continuing thereafter throughout the day these words ring in the ears of the soda dispenser. Some of the customers demand that the mixture be nice and rich with plenty of cream and malted milk in it, while another, most generally a "sheik," will say, confidentially, "don't make mine too thick or I'll get pimples."

No more are the trick sundaes the rage. Soda fountains have changed a lot in recent years. By far the greatest demand is for malted milks, and next in order are the coca colas, and milk chocolates. There is seldom a call for an ice cream sundae at Iowa City fountains. Whenever a new drink comes out there is a big demand for it.

The soda fountain light lunch of a chocolate malted and a "long John," or a sandwich has become popular among college students because the service is fast and the customer is usually in a hurry to get to class. The students come in from ten to twenty minutes before class time for a lunch, usually breakfast.

"Gimme a bromo," or "Gimme something good for a headache" are frequent morning calls at local soda fountains. People expect the soda jerker to be something of a doctor in addition to serving soft drinks. Usually the boys with the headaches come in early in the morning, soon after the place has been open, for something to clear their brain for classes. Black coffee is a popular drink for that "morning after" headache.

Research Station Given Funds for Greater Program

Will Use $30,000 for Parent Training in Three Cities

Provides Equipment for Laboratory of Preschool

The Iowa Child Welfare Research station of the University of Iowa has received a grant of $133,500 from the Laura Spellman Rockefeller Memorial fund of New York to be used for research in child development and child study groups in Iowa, according to announcement yesterday by Dr. Bird T. Baldwin, director of the station. The fund has been established by John D. Rockefeller, Sr., in memory of his wife.

Separate Gift

The gift has no connection with the Rockefeller Foundation which recently granted to the University $2,250,000 for medical instruction purposes on condition that the state set aside for the same purpose an equal gift.

The research program of the Iowa Child Welfare Research station will be supplemented and extended for a period of five years by an appropriation of $100,000 from this fund.

To Expand Work

Thirty thousand dollars of the grant will be expended over a period of three years for parent training work in three Iowa cities with the extension division of the University co-operating. This will be an expansion of child study work already being done in nineteen rural and urban Iowa districts under the direction of Mrs. May Pardee Youtz, field organizer. It will be co-ordinated with similar field work at Iowa State college, Ames, and Iowa State Teachers college, Cedar Falls.

Equipment for the preschool laboratory, a part of the research work of the station, will be provided with the remaining $3,500.

Baldwin Famous

In the eight years since Dr. Baldwin established the station here, it has become internationally known for the scientific information on child development it has gleaned from existence investigations made largely in Iowa. Funds to finance this work have been provided by direct state legislation, the Laura Spelman Rockefeller memorial, the Women's Christian Temperance union, and a bequest of $10,000 from Mrs. Cora B. Hillis of Des Moines.

Assistants trained by the staff of the research station have been called throughout the country to found similar centers of child welfare work. Through the University of Iowa's extension division the results of the station's studies in child development have been carried to the people of Iowa.

Station Pioneer

The Iowa Child Welfare Research station was the pioneer in this country in the study of children. In carrying on the station's work, the director has been aided by the united efforts of President Walter A. Jessup, Dean C. E. Seashore of the graduate college, E. H. Lauer, director of the extension division, the advisory council of University deans, and the members of the research staff.

Dr. Baldwin, under whose direction the Iowa Child Welfare Research station has made such notable strides, is a graduate of Swarthmore college. He received his master of arts and doctor of philosophy degrees from Harvard in 1903 and 1905. Before coming to the University of Iowa in 1917, he held posts at Harvard, Chicago university, Johns Hopkins university, and Texas university.

He is a member of several scientific organizations. During the war he served in the office of the surgeon-general of the United States army and he was later chief psychologist and director of the rehabilitation of disabled soldiers in Walter Reed hospital at Washington, D. C.

Polo and Prestige

ARTHUR BRISBANE lifts holy hands of horror at the spectacle of thirteen enlisted men accompanying the United States Army polo team to Britain as grooms for the ponies. This, says Mr. Brisbane, is un-American, undemocratic, and unfaithful to the ideals of this great nation.

Is it un-American to send a well-equipped team to defend our athletic prestige? Is it democratic to present a sorry and shabby spectacle to the world as representative of American sportsmanship? Is it unfaithful to the ideals of this great nation to make every attempt to win more honor for her? To all three: no.

International polo matches have reached a prestige and place in international relationships that entitle them to every support of the competing nations. The sight of a smartly turned out American officer upon a sleek, dainty stepping pony will mean more to millions of English than many weighty conferences between silk-hatted, fat-headed, oatmeal-mouthed diplomats.

Brute Strength

HO HUM. The world's heavyweight wrestling championship has changed hands again. This time old Stanislaus Zbyszko has it, having pinned Wayne (Big) Munn in straight falls. Zbyszko has been considered a set-up for a long time—in fact, since he lost the title several years ago. The prediction of sports writers throughout the country that Munn would not last long has come true.

Professional wrestling in this country is in a sad state of deterioration. Since the days of Frank Gotch and Earl Caddock, science in wrestling has given way to mere strength and brutal tactics. "Strangler" Lewis choked his opponents into submission, until one day "Big" Munn came along, slammed the "Strangler" down on the back of his neck and sent him to the hospital to recuperate. Now comes old worn-out Zbyszko and Munn flops in straight falls.

Zbyszko has worn the mat crown before. At the age of 58 years, he has proved an exception to the oft-repeated phrase, "they never come back." But he probably will not last any longer than it takes for a young giant to rise from the ranks with some new means of torture or display of brute strength.

Worthwhile Athletics

OVEREMPHASIS of victory, commercialism, and limitation of the number who play are the three evils of football as Prof. C. W. Savage, head of physical education at Oberlin, sees it. Mr. Savage, a close follower of the game for many years, has come near the truth of the matter.

He told the delegates to the Middle West Society of Physical Education that unless physical instructors themselves undertake to remove these evils, the fate of football will be left in the hands of persons less sympathetic with it, who will probably do away with it altogether.

Mr. Savage scored alumni who attempt to fire a coach if he does not turn in a majority of victories. He spoke of the large sums spent on intercollegiate football, citing the example of Ohio State which spends only $13,000 on intramural football indulged in by all Buckeye students, and $250,000 for the few members of the varsity teams. Considering the amount spent yearly on football, the Oberlin director believes too few students are benefited by the game.

There are encouraging signs, however. Much credit should be given the trustees of the University of Minnesota, who investigated the complaints of the M club against Coach Bill Spaulding before permitting him to be dropped. They found that there was nothing to it except the dissatisfaction of some of the alumni over the fact that the Gopher elevens had not been winning more games.

One way to help save football is to make it more universal, and at the same time less professional. If opened to the masses, the game could do much to develop people physically. The program of intramural football put into practice at Ohio State has done much to popularize the game. The movement is gaining supporters throughout the country, and the time is not far off, it is believed, when intramural football will be a reality in all colleges and universities of the United States.

Hazing

WILLIAM McGREGOR, who was seriously injured by hazing while a midshipman at the United States naval academy at Annapolis, has been given a life pension by the pension bureau. The hazing took place shortly after he had entered the academy n June, 1922. He was forced to remain in the hospital for nearly five months as a result of injuries to his left hip and a stomach affection.

Smarting under the lash of his classmates and believing his career in the navy had been destroyed, McGregor resigned late in 1923. The naval department, hearing of the matter, called for an investigation and awarded him a life pension.

Hazing may be a harmless pastime if carried on rightly, but it is surely criminal for upperclassmen to abuse their privileges. By one thoughtless act, they ruined the career of a promising young midshipman, and brought a black eye upon their school. The custom should be in the hands of responsible young men who will not act upon the impulse, but will take into consideration the trust placed in them.

A Woman Slaps at Leora

(New York Times)

IN ALL THE REVIEWS of "Arrowsmith" that have come to attention there has been full and cordial agreement by the critics on one point. They either admitted, sometimes a little reluctantly, that in Leora, the doctor's wife, Mr. Lewis at last has drawn a perfect woman, and one alike estimable, admirable, and charming, or else they proclaimed that opinion with enthusiasm.

That all of the reviews noticed were written by men is made probable, however, and that Leora might be viewed in a quite different light, at least by some women, is more than hinted in a few sentences quoted by Heywood Broun in The World as coming from a feminine correspondent who has been made impatient by his eulogies of the woman whom he so frequently has advertised as exactly what a woman should be.

Here is what this critic of critics has to say about their paragon:

> Real? She who never existed in real life is made real in fiction. The author has worked out to a T the kind of a woman a genius ought to marry. But how about careers for women and independent lives, and all? And you, who have upheld these?
> Is Sinclair Lewis to put Leora over without a word? She is the accessory of a genius. She is as intelligent as a cat. She sleeps around, wakes up, has a "little, mute life of her own," cannot even cook, is a slattern. She does nothing to justify her existence.

When one recalls the character and conduct of Leora it cannot be denied that Mr. Broun's correspondent is correct as to her facts, and right from the standpoint of those who think that a woman, though a wife, has a right to be something more than an "accessory" to her husband. This is contended even in behalf of women who—for their sins, doubtless—are the wives of geniuses.

The only mission in life accorded to Leora by Mr. Lewis is that of taking care of her Martin—of treating as amusing rather than wicked his temporary obsession by the pretty Orchid—of saving him as often as she can from the mistakes he makes—of standing by him through thick and thin and through all his temperamental and financial emergencies—of never interfering with his scientific work, though her interest in that work was no greater than her understanding of it, which was none at all. But few, indeed, are the men who would not credit such a woman, as wife, with all the essential virtues.

Dr. Arrowsmith's second wife was a woman of quite a different sort. She, too, had her fine points, but she refused to sink her identity in that of her husband. She, too, wanted to "live her own life" and not only did it but pestered him, and finally maddened him, by insisting that he should adapt his life at least in part to hers.

Does Mr. Broun's correspondent justify Mrs. Arrowsmith No. 2 and hold her Leora's superior? One can see excuses for doing so, but as a result of refusal to be an "accessory" of a genius the second marriage was wrecked.

The thrill that comes once in a life time,—when the sheriff springs the trap at the gallows.

No man is fit to marry a perfect woman, but fortunately very few have to do it.—Elkhart Truth.

JOURNALISM AT IOWA

1: Pioneering

By Charles Brown Nelson

"A Latin student translated postpone as follows: post: behind; pone: a loaf of corn bread: postpone: behind a loaf of cornbread."

How they laughed at that in 1868! It was one of the few intentional bits of humor in Volume 1, Number 1 of "The University Reporter," forefather of all student publications at the University of Iowa.

In October of that year, under the hopeful motto of "Success Crowns Effort," the first issue appeared, backed to a man by the 445 students, nine professors, and five teachers, who had made up the total attendance when tentative plans were made the year before.

Hoop-Skirts and Melodeons

"No subject is excluded," announced E. Branson Cowgill and John A. Pickler, the first editors, "save politics, which we will discuss only as a science our doors being permanently bolted against all political quibbles."

"Terms invariably in advance," decreed the business management. "One copy, one year, $1.00. Six copies, one year, $5.00."

Prexy came in for his share of the limelight, a "sketch of the life of Rev. James Black, D. D.," being one of the features. It is interesting to note that the man at the head of the University at that time was but forty-two years of age.

Fory-six merchants of Iowa City bought advertising space in the initial issue. "Melodeons" were prominently mentioned among the musical instruments for sale by G. W. Marquardt and Brother. Mrs. Bryan's Iowa Hoop Skirt Factory, "on Clinton street below the post-ofice," boasted a thriving business. "Crockery, shades, wicks, etc.," were sold by Reno and Son.

"Always Full of Patience"

Competition seemed to be keen in the portrait photograph business. "This extensive Gallery," wrote C. Weatherby, "has added a mammoth Camera, worked by Machinery," for which a special room had been built, "on the roof." "Strangers in the city," the enterprising manager went on, "can here spend a leisure hour, viewing portraits of the Iowa Indians."

Not to be outdone, S. W. Kissell appealed to mother-love and economy, a subtle combination: "All kinds of photographs as good and as cheap as can be had in the West. Always full of patience, and never fails to get the baby's picture. Can take pictures of grown subjects in cloudy as well as fair weather."

The Civil war but a few years past, as echoed by literary society topics for discussion. Zetagathian society, C. H. Preston, president, was to discuss the advisability of passing a "Resolution endorsing the Reconstruction Acts of Congress," while Irving Institue planned a debate, "Resolved, that not a single good reason can be adduced against the introduction of negro suffrage in any state in the Union."

"Aspects of Europe" by Prof. C. A. Eggert, instructor in German and Literature, was a featured essay in the sixteen small pages of the issue, being proceded only by a quoted poem by an author now long forgotten.

Exchange notes were numerous and entertaining. Picker and Cowgill kept public interest in mind in choosing such items as:

"Oberlain College contains a motley collection—males, females, negrose, mulattoes—and is even prospering. Secret societies, tobacco and swearing are prohibited. Every recitation or college exercise is begun with prayer or singing."

"Yale this year graduates 106."

"Xenia Female College, Ohio, about twenty young ladies graduated."

Two Fraternities

An "official register" of campus organizations in existence in 1868 appears in the first "University Reporter," as follows:

"Gentlemen's: Zetagathian, Irving Institute, Symphonian, Franklin Scientific Institute, Phi Kappa Psi, Beta Theta Pi.

"Ladies": Erodelphian, Hesperian.

Little attempt at scientific arrangement of news was made by the early editors. The drab uniformity of a gray sky hovers about the pages, accentuated by the fine type then in vogue, while the Old English words in the masthead, "The University Reporter," lend to the top of the front cover the noticably lace-like effect so often visible in printing of the time.

Bobbed Hair Sign of Widowhood in India, Miss Clinton Says

School Girls in Land of Pagoda Like Athletics; Believe in Good Sports, "Keep Smiling"

"Girls of India, who expect to marry never bob their hair," declared Miss Emma L. Clinton, superintendent of Johnson Girls High School at Jubbupore, India when interviewed for a comparison of the Indian school girl with the Iowa Co-ed.

"Bobbed hair is the sign of widowhood," she continued, " and since remarriage of the widow is not countenanced by druhodox Indian society, you see the grounds for my assertion. I have never cut mine. Draw your own conclusion."

A flicker of droll humor lighted the brown eyes as she settled comfortably back in her chair and commenced to talk of her girls. "There are three hundred of them under my direct charge for Johnson School is a boarding school as well as a high school.

"Of course my girls do wear different clothes, they eat different food, their skin is a shade or perhaps several shades darker; but human nature is much the same the world over. And I find that many of the likes and the dislikes of American girls and Indian girls are the same.

"Athletics has recently been introduced into our school, and the girls play it with the same seriousness which characterizes their life. In one contest the defeated side left the floor in tears. At this time I undertook to teach them the meaning of the term good sport. It was very amusing afterwards to hear them urging each other in their stilted English to be good sports.

"A company of Girl Guides has also been organized. The rules are more to the Indian girl than a list of entrance requirements. They form for her a code by which she lives her daily life. One of our native masters was shocked by the smiles and laughter in one of his classes. On urging them to assume a more serious approach to the day's work, he received a surprise when one of the younger girls said, 'please sir, our Girl Guide Laws tell us we must always wear a smile, and that is what we are trying to do.'

"Examinations play a more important place in the school life of Indian than in America. The Indian girl's school days are made up of government examinations.

"As I said before they may differ in some ways, but really my girls are much like the school girl I meet each day here at Iowa. I can say that in no way are they inferior to her. They have the same gifts and abilities."

Miss Clinton smiled happily as she told of her plans to return to India next September. She has spent the last year at the University doing graduate work in education.

Germans Spend Moderately for Funeral of Pres. Ebert

LONDON, April 17 (AP)— Press comments on the funeral cost of Germany's first president, Friedrich Ebert, which amounted to approximately $50,000, have recalled the fact that England's most expensive funeral was that of the Duke of Wellington, which cost the nation $500,000.

According to the estimates in London the expense of President Ebert's burial was very moderate compared with the cost of the obsequies for old Emperor William in 1888, when the city of Berlin spent $430,000 and the imperial treasury more than $550,000 in addition. The funeral expenses of King Edward were about $200,000 and those of Queen Victoria $175,000.

Hawkeyes to Open Big Ten Schedule at Illinois Today

Iowa baseball enthusiasts will center their attention today on the Illini-Iowa battle at Urbana. Fourteen men accompanied by Coach Vogel and Dr. W. R. Feisler left last night for the Illinois battlefield and will open the first game for both teams there this afternoon.

Comparison Impossible

Coach Vogel and his men returned Wednesday from the southland where they engaged in five battles, winning three, tying one, and losing one. The Illini aggregation also took the regular jaunt into Dixie and are in first class shape. Although the Illini men were not as successful as the Iowans on their southern trip, a comparison of the two teams is hard to make due to the fact that neither of the Big Ten teams had the same opposition and a comparison of scores is not possible. The Illini did, however, show much improvement in the last few games especially in their game with Depauw, when they ran up a score of 14 to 1 against the southern aggregation. The victory was featured by the hard hitting of Coach Carl Lundgren's men. Despite the fact that the Illini aggregation won only three of their six games on their southern trip, from all reports they are in exceptionally fine condition.

Kinderman, Illini Ace

Without a doubt the Dixie jaunt has been of unestimable value to the Hawkeye men. Coach Vogel is, however, faced with the situation of using men who have not had much previous experience. Letter men are few but the southern trip and the ideal training season have provided ample time for new recruits to be worked into form.

The Iowans today will probably face Kinderman, a veteran pitching ace and one of the best men in the conference. He will have for his support 3 lettermen, Captain Simonich, first base; Margolis, out-fielder; and Jestes, shortstop. The ability of the remaining squad cannot be determined.

Play at Evanston Monday

Marshall is likely to be called upno to hold down the mound position for Iowa. "Hub" performed in a creditable manner on the southern trip. In the fourth game against Louisiana he held the Baton Rouge outfit hitless for seven innings. He weakened in the eighth and ninth and with erros on the part of his supporters, the Louisiana nine scored three runs. With the bases full and a pinch hitter up Marshall struck out the last man and Iowa won the game 4 to 3.

Before the Iowa team return to Iowa City they will play the Northwestern nine at Evanston Monday.

Champion Athletes Meet at Lawrence

LAWRENCE, Kansas, April 17—Champion athletes from east, west, south, and north were gathering here tonight in readiness for the Kansas relays which will be run tomorrow.

Charles Brookins of the University of Iowa and Ivan Riley of I. A. C., world's hurdle champions, will meet in a 220-yard low hurdle race.

Attention centers, however, on the relay races of which there will be fifteen. Six relays in the university class will bring into competition fleet dash, middle distance, and distance men of twenty-five institutions. The Missouri Valley conference teams are looked upon as strong contenders in these events.

In the mile relay Wisconsin and Notre Dame have been chosen by some observers as favorites. The Oregon Aggies are considered as likely contenders in the four mile relay and Iowa State as a strong two-mile relay team.

Injury Robs Berne of Southern Trip; Iowa Chances Slim

Iowa's small squad which will compete at the Kansas Relays this afternoon was cut down one man on the day of departure when it was decided that Clarence Berne's arm is too lame to permit him to throw the javelin at the southwestern classic.

So only eight varsity men; Everingham, Roberts, Jones, L. Phelps, H. Phelps, Hancock, Daine, and Marshal left last night for Lawrence. Charles Brookins, who will run a special race accompanied the team.

Hawks Unlucky in Draw

Results of the drawings for the quarter and half mile relays, the only two which Iowa teams will enter show that the Hawkeyes are not near the pole. In the quarter mile, with twenty-one teams entered, the Hawkeyes drew fourteenth lane but it is likely that last-minute withdrawals by some teams or the dividing of the race up into several heats will place the Iowans in a more advantageous lane. Fourteen teams have been nominated as starters in the half mile relay event in which Iowa has lane six.

Illinois and Butler Formidable

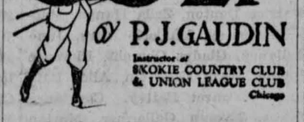
Butler, winner of the event at the Texas Relays, has some great sprinters for the quarter-mile relay. Illinois, whose team missed the world's mark by three-tenths of a second in practice, is dangerous, while Kansas, and Texas A & M. are other strong teams. The entries and their positions are: Lane 1, Wisconsin; 2, Drake; 3, Nebraska; 4, Butler; 5, Kansas Teachers; 6, Marquette; 7, Notre Dame; 8, Texas A. & M.; 9, Oklahoma; 10, Occidental; 11, Minnesota; 12, Kansas Aggies; 13, Oklahoma Baptist; 14, IOWA; 15, Illinois; 16; Missouri; 17, Peru STC; 18, Kansas; 19, Grinnell; 20, Missouri Wesleyan; 21, Oklahoma A. & M.

What little dope there is shows that Iowa's chances for a first are better in the half-mile relay. In that speed event, Butler, winner of a first at Texas and a tie for first at the Rice Relays is not entered, but Illinois, led by Evans, conference 220-yard champion will be very much in the running. Oklahoma, Texas A. & M., Kansas, and Grinnell are rated among the more powerful quartets. The drawings are: Lane 1, Missouri; 2, Kansas Aggies; 3, Nebraska; 4, Marquette; 5, Texas A. & M.; 6, IOWA; 7, Oklahoma; 8, Drake; 9, Kansas; 10, Illinois; 11, Northwestern; 12, Grinnell; 13, Minnesota; 14, Wisconsin.

KFKU to Broadcast

Hawkeye track fans may hear the results of all events by tuning in at 275 meters with KFKU, the Kansas University radio station, which will broadcast the meet starting at 1:30 p. m.

Iowa's team will leave Lawrence Saturday evening and reach Iowa City Sunday morning.



22—The Ball

One must develop a good swing and have an excess of muscular power to get the best results out of the modern golf ball. It is too heavy and too small for use by the player of less than average skill. Nearly all women and any man until his golf swing is well along will do better with a larger and lighter ball. Even the floater type is better for these players than the so-called standard ball.

Most Balls Good

The manufacture of golf balls now has been perfected until all ball on the market must be good. The core must be well and truly wound, must be glued firmly to the cover and the cover itself must be tough, yet thin enough to permit the resiliency of the rubber core to be effective. The markings are a matter of taste. All have been tried out thoroughly before being put to use, and all lend themselves to true flight. As a rule, Americans prefer the dimple marking and the British prefer mesh marking.

Vary in Sphericity

But while all balls are fairly good, it will be found there is a considerable difference betwene balls out of the same box. Supposedly all of them have been tested for sphericity but balls not perfectly round sometimes pass the severest test. If the ball is not round it will not roll straight. Also it will not roll straight nor fly straight if its center of gravity is not exactly in the middle. A rough test can be made by rolling the ball with straight overspin on a billiard or other flat table. A ball is round and centered corectly if it does not roll off when it comes almost to rest. An expert will not use a ball that does. If it wabbles at all in play, another ball is put in play at the next tee.

True Balls Last Long

On the contrary, if the ball seems to be absolutely true, it may be used for a full round or more. Al Watrous scored a 64 at French Lick. In the previous round he used fourteen balls on the first fourteen holes. On the fifteenth the ball worked perfectly. He used it on the remaining four holes and the full eighteen of the record round of 64. A ball which has proved its worth has often been used on more than a hundred holes. There may be a slight loss in resiliency but not enough to be noticed by the average player.

Tickets for Drake Relays on Sale at Griffin's Office

A block of 192 tickets for the Drake Relays has been received at the department of athletics and are now on sale there. The pasteboards are for Saturday, April 25 and will sell for $2.50. There are no reserved seats for the events on Friday.

Iowa's block is close to the finish line on the east side of the Drake stadium. Many of the principal university relay races will start and finish on the east side so Hawkeye followers will have an advantageous position.

According to Kenneth E. Griffin, manager of ticket sales, all unsold tickets must be returned to the Drake Relay management early next week so it is advisable for all those who wish to sit in the Iowa section to purchase their seats at once.

Remaining Track Men to Hold Meet

While Iowa's squad of eight athletes is performing at the Kansas Relays on Saturday afternoon, the men who remained at home will battle each other in a series of trials which will help to determine the Drake Relay team. Competition will be held in all events starting at 3 o'clock.

Because of the proximity of Des Moines, it is probable that a large squad of runners and field men will be taken to the relays on Friday and Saturday of next week. Coach G. T. Bresnahan has entered men in each of the nine special events and the five relays. Athletes at Drake will compete for honors in the 100-yard dash, 120-yard high hurdles, high jump, broad jump, pole vault, shot put, discus throw, javelin throw and hop, step and jump of the special events. Relays on the program are 440-yard, half-mile, one-mile, two-mile and four-mile.

Only four sprinters and one distance man will be at Kansas so the quarter milers, half milers, and milers will take a good work-out on the Iowa track, simulating competition in a regular meet. All of the field event men except Hancock, Daine, and Marshall, who will be at Lawrence, and Dauber, who will compete at Columbus, will strive for their best marks.

Coach Burton A. Ingwersen has taken up work with the jumpers and vaulters since Coach Barry started spring basketball practice. In addition to Klindt and Thomas who have cleare close to six feet with regularity, Paschal and McCool have been coming to the fore in the high jump under the tutelage of Coach Ingwersen.

Schroeder's Net Men to Open With Coe Squad Today

Coach Ted Swenson, former captain of the Hawkeye tennis team and letter man in track, will bring his Coe College tennis team here this afternoon for a practice dual with Iowa on the courts at the men's gymnasium. The matches will start at 2 o'clock. No admission will be charged.

This will be the opening net meet of the season for both teams and the strength of neither is known. The Hawkeyes have four men with previous experience to call upon and it is probable that Dorsey, Lutz, Swartz, and Searle will be the members of the team, although there are sixteen candidates for places on the Old Gold team.

Athletic Show to Feature 3 Sports

An athletic evening is in prospect for Thursday, April 23, when finals in the University boxing tournament, the fencing championships, and the freshman wrestling tourney will be held in the men's gymnasium at 7:30 p. m. An admission charge of fifty cents will be made for the triple feature program.

Who will compete in the finals of the boxing tournament will be determined by the last of the semi-final bouts staged at the Quadrangle mixer on Saturday night. Winners of first and second in each bout will receive gold and silver medals emblematic of the University championship and runner-up position. In the fencing tourney, the same plan will be followed and the winners will receive medals for their work.

Yearling wrestlers have already had their preliminary rounds and fourteen men now stand ready to fight for their numerals in the seven classes. Fifty-eight men were orginally entered and it was necessary to hold forty-one bouts to reduce the field to the finalists. These men in the finals are: 115-pound class, Leffler vs. Mains; 125-pound class, Logan vs. Kelly; 135-pound class, Montgomery vs. Stapley; 145-pound class, Flater vs. Mealey; 158-pound class, Resler vs. Beers; 175-class, West vs. Schwartz; heavyweight class, Yegge vs. Beving.

Married or Single? Klindt Issues Denial, Records of County Clerk Start Rumor

"No, I'm not married," he asserted emphatically, glancing furtively around to ward off any attacks of old boots or rice.

Fred Klindt, varsity high jumper, denies that he has entered the bonds of matrimony although the records of County Clerk C. F. Berger of Cedar Rapids show a marriage license issued to Fred Klindt of Rowley, Iowa.

"I live in Chattanooga, Tennessee, but here's a cigar anyway," he added big-heartedly.

Hungry Rats Eat Record Book After Vitamine Diet

BERKELEY, Cal., April 17 (AP)—Some white rats, under observation for the effects of a newly discovered vitamine, recently tipped over their cages in search of food and, seeing nothing else handy, started in to devour the record book of their activities made in the household science department of the University of California.

When the class conducting the experiments gathered next day, the record book was found in bad shape. Several valuable pages had been chewed out. The rats were still milling orund looking for something more edible.

Milota Leads Team in National Match

Milota stepped out in front of his teammates in the second stage of the National Rifle match with a score of 196. Wiggins, his nearest rival, followed close on his heels, but one point behind. Brauer also showed up well, when he jumped into third place with a score of 194.

Wiggins, Brauer, and Carlson did commendable work in the prone position when they each turned in a perfect target. The nearest approach to a perfect score from the kneeling position was made by Milota, who received a total of 97 from that position.

The fore part of next week should mark the finish of the four stages of the National match in which forty of the best rifle teams in the United States are participating. A switch in rifles from a .22 short to a .22 long at the outset of the National matches had a telling effect upon the Iowa rifle team but after a little practice the men made a strong come back with the new weapon.

A group of fifteen men participated in the match and the ten who placed, ranked as follows:

	Prone	Kneeling	Total
Milota	99	97	196
Wiggins	100	95	195
Brauer	100	94	194
Allen	97	96	193
Carson	97	94	191
Cosson	99	92	191
Scheyli	99	92	191
Carlson	100	90	190
Sheehan	95	93	188
Weldy	98	90	188
Totals	984	933	1917

Dieting Co-eds Are Slapped by Chauncey Depew

"Eating and not drinking is the curse of man," declared Chauncey M. Depew, veteran statesman in a recent article in Colliers weekly.

Not only the college sheiks agree with this, but the University dieticians as well.

"Of course this starving on raw tomatoes and hard boiled eggs for three days is ridiculous," said the dietician, "but a steady diet with balanced foods is of benefit to anyone. Dieting is like taking medicine, however, you can get poisoned if you do it blindly and are uninformed. There are a great many people," she continued, "who have idiosyncrasies for various kinds of foods. Eggs affect one particular patient in such a manner as to produce the effect of intoxication and dizziness. Often meat or strawberries will cause an eruption of the skin." Chauncey Depew, who is 91, April 26, has never eaten any meat except poultry for the past 30 years."

"Of course dieting is a good thing" said a co-ed 'phys-ed' major. "Get up from every meal feeling a little hungry; eat lots of vegetables in the spring, meats produce too much heat, and count your calories. Dieting is of benefit, however," she declared, "only as it supplements physical exercise."

But as long as dieting is a fad, co-eds will continue to order their calories on the half shell.

Indians Don Aboriginal Splendor to Stage Ancestral Spring Dance

DES MOINES, Ia., April 17 (AP)—Clad in their aboriginal splendor, thirty Indians from the Tama reservation will come to Des Moines tomorrow for a spring festival inaugurated by their ancestors, in supplication to their gods for a bountiful sugar making season.

The pow wow will be divided into three parts. In the morning the Indians will show Des Moines school teachers and children how the red man's young were taught to obey, to select and take care of food and to share the burdens of the camp and trail.

The "boy scouts" of the earlier day will display their ability with the bow and arrow.

Edgar R. Harlan, state curator, in charge of the pow wow, says there is "not in all America a more beautiful and brilliant sight in nature than these lithe, graceful people in their beads and plumes dancing their friendship dance, nor is there anything more exciting than the dancing contests of the boys of from four to twelve."

In the afternoon the Indians will show how the red men, as he came into manhood, learned self respect and self reliance, disclosing by song and ceremony the Indian maturing ito the hunting ,scouting and industrial periods. His religious faith and the emotional impulses will be clearly defined in the various parts of the festival.

The dances will be explained as related to their ancient worship and the songs and music will be drawn from both religious and domestic sources. A dancing contest by groups of young men and boys will illustrate the ordinary pastime festivities of the race.

The evening program will be devoted to mature Indian life. This will show the heights of emotional flights in love and war; all of the joy there was in the ancient contests of wit and humor and in their play, erroneously called the "snake dance," all that can be done to exemplify the valor of the American Indian in the world war which the government rewarded with the right of suffrage to all Indians.

"The pow wow," Mr. Harlan says, "will be the finest native story without words ever seen. It is the Indian's way of imparting in his dance and pantomime to the appropriate music of his tribe, his remembrances and his thoughts. The few who will do this are the descendants and successors of the 2000 warriors of this region when France owned the country."

Radio Wrecks Dirigible

TOKIO, April 17 (AP)—Dr. T. Terada, science professor in Tokio University, says that the destruction of the dirigible SS3 last March with the loss of her crew, was caused by a broadcast radio wave.

Coating a miniature of the airship with the aluminum paint that was used on the SS3, he found that radio waves directed against it produced sparks measuring nearly an inch, and while he has not fully disclosed the nature of the experiment and its results, he expresses his conviction that he has found the cause of the disaster.

English Capture Errant Dirigible

Runaway Aircraft Is Rescued From Air After 30 Hours

(By the Associated Press)

PULHAM, England, April 17—The broken nose, gritty dirigible R-33 was brought back to her hangar this afternoon after battling for thirty hours over the North Sea against a gale that tore her away from her mooring mast early Thursday morning.

Twenty Britons which brought the errant airship safely to earth were the nation's newest heroes tonight in the minds of everyone except themselves. To a man they looked upon their victorious battle with the elements as just another part of their job. None of them thought the world had followed the news of their flight.

Flight Lieut. Saleigh Booth, who commanded the R-33, never before had been in command of an airship.
