Dawes Renews Attack on Senate Procedure

Existing Conditions All Wrong, He Says

(By the Associated Press)

NEW YORK, April 21 — Vice-Pres. Charles G. Dawes, addressing the twenty-fifth annual luncheon of the Associated Press in the Waldorf Astoria today continued his campaign for cloture in the United States senate and called upon the people, countless numbers who heard him by radio, to impress upon their individual senators the need for this reform.

Introduced by Frank B. Noyes, president of the Associated Press, as a "radiant personality" and a public official who has "cut out for himself a man sized job," Mr. Dawes drove home his arguments with characteristic energy, shaking his fist vigorously as he taked of the effects of unlimited senatorial debate.

The audience of 1100 persons, publishers and their guests, ap plauded enthusiastically when he assured them he had been elected "by the people," not by the senate, and he believed it is duty to further non-partisan patriotic movements for reform in senate procedure.

Mr. Dawes prefaced his prepared speech, which he assured the audience would be only twelve minutes long, with an extemporaneous tribute to "to the pioneers of the Associated Press," referring particularly to Mr. Stone and Victor S. Lawson, who established the association in its present form twenty-five years ago.

Picking up his address Mr. Dawes said: "Now I'll get down to business. I hate to do this," and proceded to reach his speech. The issue involved, he said, was "shall the senate continue unchanged its existing rules which admittedly make possible at times the exercise by a minority or even one senator of power to block the purpose of a majority of the senate to legislate?"

National Y. Man Here April 24-5-6

May Solve Student-Faculty Problems

Henry P. Van Dusen of New York City, a graduate of Princeton and of Columbia university and national student committeeman of the Y. M. C. A., will be in Iowa City for a number of student discussion meetings Friday, Saturday, and Sunday.

The relation between faculty and students has been chosen as a genuine problem in the modern university for a joint meeting discussion among the cabinet members of the Y. M. and Y. W. C. A.'s Friday evening at 6 o'clock at Youde's Inn.

All students may hear Mr. Van Dusen. He will be accompanied here by E. R. Hinckley, state student secretary of the Y. M. C. A. and will speak Friday evening in Zet hall, journalism building, when the Iowa Forensic union will have charge of an open forum discussion on various student interests.

Members of the women's freshman commission, and a equal number of freshman men, under the chairmanship of Eleanor Thomas, A1 of Fort Dodge, will meet with the visitor in liberal arts drawing room for an open forum discussion of problems that have been encountered by the first-year students.

Rienow Attends Convention of Deans at North Carolina

Dean Robert E. Rienow is attending a convention of college and university deans held at the University of North Carolina, at Chapel hill. He left Monday night and is expected back a week from today.

Germans Revive Ping-Pong

BERLIN, April 21 (AP) — Ping-pong has returned to favor in Berlin. A table tennis club recently was established and 50 organizations joined it. A tournament is being planned for next fall.

Coolidge Gives Talk From Movie Screen

NEW YORK, April 21 (AP)—An address by President Coolidge, in which he sounded a message of peace and prosperity, tonight was broadcast from a special prepared fono-film made a week ago at the White House, marking what was said to be the first attempt ever made to broadcast a voice from the motion picture film.

The film which recorded both the movements and voice of the president was shown at the Friars club to visiting editors and publishers in New York, dinner guests of M. Konegsberg, president of King Features syndicate, International News service and Universal service. Dr. Lee De Forest personally supervised the making of the film and its projection while the Radio Corporation of America took care of the broadcasting.

Social Service Worker Needed

Devine Says Field of Service Enlarging

"The field of social service workers is always enlarging," said Edward T. Devine of Columbia university, "and there are many places to be filled by trained college men and women." There are twenty social service schools scattered throughout the country either as separate institutions or in connection with universities which give training for the professional social worker.

The recent lecturer here is a broad shouldered man of average height with steel grey hair. The friendliness of his deep, brown eyes suggests a sympathy for people.

Before coming to Iowa City he was in Great Falls, Montana, which he left on the opening day of the trial of Senator Wheeler. Mr. Devine stated that the trial was of great interest throughout that section of the country, and that a brakeman on his train had stated that he was going to take two weeks from work to hear it.

In addition to his lectures, Mr. Devine conducts institutes lasting five days at various centers for the training of social workers. The social worker has become as much of a professional worker as the school teacher and new methods, technique, and helpful discussions are in much demand.

Mr. Devine has been secretary of the New York Charity organization society for twenty years. He has been editor of The Survey magazine and is still a contributing editor.

Willie Rittola Goes West; Won't Run at Drake Relays

DES MOINES, April 21 (AP)—Willie Rittola, famous Finnish-American runner, will not compete at the Drake Relays Friday and Saturday, it was learned tonight when word was received from Chicago that he had parted for the Pacific coast to appear at a meet at Los Angeles.

Dent Meeting in Des Moines May 5

Doctor Rice Slated as Chief Speaker

"Hit the trail to Des Moines to the 3rd annual meeting of the Iowa State Dental Society, May 5, 6, and 7," is the word which has been sent out to all "Iowa Dents," to the dental faculty, and to senior students of the college of dentistry.

Dr. Weston A. Price who spoke before the dental alumni clinic held here recently will be the chief speaker for the general sessions.

Other eminent men who will speak at the various section meeting will be Doctor Gardner of the Mayo clinic; Doctor Winters of St. Louis; Dr. M. M. House of Deener Institute, Kansas City; and Doctor Hugh Tanzey of Kansas City. The subjects will be on phases of oral surgery, full denture, and orthodontia.

Three prizes are to be given this year for the best general clinics, the first prize to go to the district presenting the best clinic, second prize to the district wih he largest representation in clinics, and the third prize will constitute three awards which will be given to individual members, or groups, presenting clinics.

Entertainment will be plentiful. A golf tournament with prizes will take place at the Hyperion club, starting Sunday noon, and continuing through Monday, while tennis matches will be held Monday and Tuesday at the Wauconda Club.

The annual banquet will be held on Wednesday evening of the meeting, and will be in honor of Dr. Charles Woodbury. A program and dancing will follow the banquet.

Pharmics Get Pinus Palustrus Specimen

The college of pharmacy has just received a specimen of the longleaf pine (Pinus Palustrus), cut from a turpentine permit on the Florida National Forest with the tools used to obtain the turpentine from the tree.

The tree was cupped in January, 1923, and the specimen cut in March 1925 after the first streak for the 1925 season had been chipped. If this tree had not been cut it would have been worked for six years more, rested one year and worked six years. Then at the end of the time it would have been cut for saw timber.

Year's Attendance Passes 8000 Mark; Reports Maruth

Registration Doubles in Four Years

Statistics released yesterday by Charles H. Maruth, assistant registrar, reveal that the total attendance of the University has almost doubled within the last four years. Mr. Maruths reports that the total University registration for 1924-25 reached 8,012, exceeds his previous estimate of 7,800, and shows an increase of 589 over the 7,423 reported last year.

Much of the increase has been due to the added attendance at last year's summer sesson, although there has been an increase in both semesters of the current year. Details have not yet been compiled by the registrar.

In 1914-15 the attendance was 2,996, in 1916-17 it totaled 3,523, two years later it was 4,102, and in 1922-23 it reached 6,837. During the last four years the figures have been increased by almost 1,000 the year, and attendance has practically doubled itself during that time.

University Attendance remained for nine years in the region of 2,000, three years at 3,000, two years at 4,000, and during the past four years it has increased by 4,000.

Iowa U. Professors Read 59 Papers at Cedar Falls in May

Fifty-nine out of the total one hundred twenty-three papers are to be read by members of the University when the Iowa Academy of Science meets May 1 and 2 at Iowa State Teachers' college at Cedar Falls.

All papers on psychology and most on physics will be given by members of the university department.

One of the most important talks will be by Prof. C. C. Nutting, head of the department of zoology, on "The Coral Reefs of Fiji."

The Iowa Academy of Science is composed of people from the cities and colleges of the state interested in science. Prof. A. O. Thomas, of the departmen of geology, is treasurer of the association, and Prof. Dayton Stoner, of the department of zoology, is chairman of the zoology section.

Men Beat in Needlework

LONDON, April 21 —(AP)—The exhibits of two men were adjudged the best in a sphere of work peculiarly belonging to women at the annual Royal Amateur Arts exhibition. An embroidered panel by V. Bowring and a wool rug, the work of Major Davenport, were regarded better than any of the exhibits worked by women.

Mayor Carroll Fines Two on Speeding Charge $1, Costs

George Maxey, 220 North Dodge stret, and Alex M. Miller, 804 North Dubuque street, were fined $1 and costs yesterday for speeding, by Mayor Carroll. Motorcycle Officer Leeney made the arests.

Maxey was said to be making 30 miles an hour on the Red Ball road and Miller, with a Ford crippled by a dead cylinder, was overtaken on north Dubuque street while traveling at the rate of 27 miles an hour.

Mayor Carroll declared yesterday that the campaign against speeding is beginning to show results and that he will continue to enforce rigidly the ordinance against it.

Japanese Steamer Sinks; 38 Seamen, Entire Crew Lost

Cunnarder Ships Heed S. O. S. in Vain

(By the Associated Press)

NEW YORK, April 21— Thirty-eight Japanese seamen, the entire crew of the Japanese steel freighter Raifuku Maru, were drowned in the raging North Atlantic seas today when their ship sank as the Cunnarder Tuscania and the Homeric of the White Star line stood by, unable to help because of the heavy seas.

"Regret unable to save life," read a laconic message wirelessed to the White Star offices here by Capt. John Roberts of the Homeric a few minutes after the Raifuku Maru sank.

Riding the air close upon Captain Roberts' message came this from the Tuscania: "Tuscania arrived at S. O. S. in time to see her sink with all lives aboard. Rescue impossible."

A detailed report of the disaster which occured 180 miles south and west of Sable island will not be known until the Homeric, New York bound from Southampton, arrives tomorrow. All that is known now has been pieced together from the meager reports sent through the air from the stricken steamer and the ships who sought to aid her.

As the racing boats lunged ahead tragic bits of the Japanese captain's broken message were picked out of the teeth of the gale. Then at 9 o'clock the last message in staccato words: "Now very danger—come quick."

German Actors Ill-Payed

BERLIN, April 21 (AP)—Fears are entertained of a German theatrical season next year without any stars. The leading actors have organized solidly in opposition to the managers' agreement not to pay any actor or singer more than 300 gold marks, about $75 a night.

Five University Players Elected to "Purple Mask"

Mabie Predicts Finer Theatre's Coming

Five players were accorded the highest honor of the University theatre, election to Purple Mask, honorary senior dramatic organization, at the annual University Players banquet at Youde's Inn last evening.

"Artist Must Dream"

"To be an artist, it takes time for dreams," said Prof. E. C. Mabie, who concluded the after-dinner talks. "The theatre is not a thing of bricks and steel and stone. It consists of young men and women with youth and passions and ambition.

"Nobody owes Iowa a theatre," he went on, in answer to previous speakers who had deprecated the handicaps under which the organization has worked. "The theatre will be realized when the group who are working here have earned it, and it is even now bound to come."

Donovan Rhynsburger, Cm4 of Oskaloosa, presided as toastmaster, and informal responses were given by Dean George F. Kay of the college of liberal arts, Prof. W. H. Trumbauer, Helen Langworthy, Jeanette Selby, Paul Foley, Margaret Blackburn, and Peter Janss.

Baird Works Dice

A dice-throwing puppet and others was the novel contribution to the entertainment of the evening by Bill Baird, A3 of Mason City, while a patch-work of familiar lines from plays of the season was written and produced by Melba Carpenter, A4 of Iowa City.

Other features were presented by Josephine Engle, A4 of Mason City, Mary Thompson, A3 of Sioux City, and Phyllis Martin, A2 of Van Meter.

Plays of Initiates

Those honored by election to Purple Mask have done what was considered outstanding work for the University theatre. Margaret Blackburn, A3 of Le Mars, has played this year in "Children of the Moon," "The Devil's Disciple" and 'Why Not?" Ellenora Von Hoene, A4 of Williamsburg, played last year in "Twelfth Night," and this season in the title role of "Alice-Sit-by-the-Fire," as well as in "Why Not?"

Mildred Major, A3 of Mason City, last year was a member of the cast of "The Torch-Bearers" and played Gladys Cady in "Beggar on Horseback," this spring. Harvey Carter, A3 of Shell Rock, played several parts last year, and appeared in "Children of the Moon" last autumn.

Paul Foley, A3 of Corwith, has been actively interested in the theatre since his coming to the University, and has played many parts, both in regular and summer-session plays. His most recent work has been several parts in "Beggar on Horseback," including The Prince of Xanadu and Homer Cady, and the butler of "The Silver Box."

Special Lecturers in Public Health Work This Summer

The summer session of the school of public health will create greater interest in health teaching, is the promise of its director, Miss Helen F. Boyd. "Many experienced nurses will return for further work, together with untrained nurses," Miss Boyd said.

Special lecturers will take charge of some courses. Anna McMillan Drake , director of the bureau of public health nursing in the state department of health of Iowa, Edna F. Foley, superintendent of the visiting nurse association at Chicago, Ruth Houlyon, superintendent of public health nursing, division of child hygeine in the Minnesota department of health, and Robert Virgil Scarborough, superintendent of Oakdale sanitarium, are expected, as well as lecturers from others departments of the University.

Mass Meetings Aim to Arouse Athletes

Women Gather in Auditorium, 7:30

"More enthusiasm in women's athletics," is the slogan of the mass meeting which is being held this evening in the natural science auditorium at 7:30. The women of the University will be addressed on the subject of "Sports and Morale."

Mrs. Carl E. Seashore will preside at the woman's meeting to be held at the same time that the men of the University are meeting in the men's gymnasium. The speakers will be: Miss Carol Preston, educational staff of national headquarters of the girl scouts of America! Burt Ingwersen, head football coach; Prof. Clara Daley of the history department; Prof. Paul E. Belting, director of physical education for men, and Miss Elizabeth Halsey, head of physical education for women. The speeches will be short and each one will take up one particular subject.

"The women who are doing required work in the department of physical education will be given credit as the third appointment of the week," Miss Halsey said. They are requested to obtain attendance slips on the balcony.

This new schedule of sports for University women has been prepared by the women's department of physical education in an effort to tie-up with the actual work the plea which will be made in the mass meeting tonight.

Canoeing (swimming test required): Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays at 1:50 and 2:30; Tuesdays and Thursdays at 1:50 and 2:50.

Golf: mornings and early afternoon hours.

Swimming: Tuesdays and Thursdays at 3:30.

Baseball: juniors — Mondays and Wednesdays at 5:00; seniors —Tuesdayse and Thursdays at 5:00.

Speed ball: Mondays and Wednesdays at 4:30.

Track: Tuesdays and Thursdays at 4:30.

Informal practice hours are:

Swimming: 4:30 daily.

Riding: information at women's gymnasium.

Tennis: before 8:00 and after 12:00.

Canoeing and golf: all day.

The general idea is to unite the University in supporting the athletic program. The upper-class women as well as those who are required to take physical education courses should become interested in sports. These are sports to interest every woman in the University and this is the aim of the mass meeting.

Due to a growing interest in sports which has been evinced among upper-class women, the department is publishing a corrected schedule of all class sports. This schedule offers a range of sports including swimming, golf, horseback riding, and canoeing as well as games and track.

Day at Washington

Advices were received that two distinct anti-government movements are under way in Honduras.

Secretary Hoover decided to call another national radio conference, probably in September.

President Coolidge decided he would be unable to attend the Bunker Hill celebration at Boston June 17 but probably will speak at Cambridge July 3.

The internal revenue bureau ruled that users of gasoline in business activities may deduct special state taxes from their federal income tax returns.

Western railroads filed a brief with the interstate commerce commission declaring their inability to mantain service under present rates.

R. N. Larson, Fort Dodge Alumnus, Visits School

Mr. R. N. Larson of Fort Dodge, graduate of the college of pharmacy, visited the school Monday.

Men Meet at 7:45 in Gymnasium

The men of Iowa will meet in the men's gymnasium tonight at 7:45 for the first mass meeting in recent years to seek more timber for University athletic teams.

Seven minute talks will be made by Coaches Bresnahan, Ingwersen, and Williams, and Doctor Fieseler of the department of athletics, by Charles R. Sellers, A4 of Davenport, A. F. I. president, and by Wilbur E. Scantlebury, L1 of Hampton, baseball captain. Kenneth E. Griffin, office manager of the department, will preside.

The meeting is arranged as the climax of the week's campaign, during which men's organizations on the campus have been given talks by members of the staff in the division of physical education. Speakers will tell of the opportunities every man has at Iowa to take an active interest in the athletic situation.

"It has not been scheduled as an entertainment, but rather as an attempt to show how University of Iowa athletic teams may be made more formidable contenders for the conference championships in every branch of sport," says Prof. Paul E. Belting, director of physical education. "Problems have arisen which must be solved soon, or the teams of Iowa will sink back into the rut from which they were lifted in 1922 and 1923 when the football teams won the championship."

The University band will be at Whetstone's corner at 7:30 ready to lead the procession of Iowa men to the gymnasium. University men of all colleges and classes are requested to be present at the meeting.

Rho Chi Initiates Honor Pharmacists

Election Based Solely on Scholarship

Rho Chi, national honorary pharmaceutical society, announces the initiation of Lloyd L. Boughton of Platte, S. Dak., Charles M. Nielsen of Underwood, Fred J. Johnson of Red Oak, Harry H. Hackler of Creston, Kenneth W. Montgomery of Montour, Ernest B. Toalson of Hannibal, Mo., and Calvin C. Beauchamp of Lake Forest, Ill.

Election is solely on a scholarship basis. Candidates must be nominated by the dean of the college, this nomination being made after a careful summing up of the points earned.

Boughton Rates Highest

Boughton, who will receive his bachelor of science degree in June had the largest number of points of anyone of the group. He is a member of the Beta Phi Sigma fraternity and was the winner last year of the prize offered by the Rho Chi chapter to the student attaining the highest average in all subjects.

Nielsen, who was a close second is also a member of Beta Phi Sigma.

The others chosen, Johnson and Hackler are members of the Phi Delta Chi fraternity. Montgomery, Toalson and Beauchamp are members of the Beta Phi Sigma fraternity. Toalson completed the two year course in 1924; all of the others do so this year. Toalson won, last year, the prize of nomination to membership in the American Pharmaceutical Association offered by Dean Teeters to the student rated highest in recognition and description of organic drugs, the rating being decided by competitive examination.

Founded at Michigan

Rho Chi was founded at the University of Michigan in 192. Delta chapter of Iowa was established in 1923. Charter may be granted only to colleges of pharmacy that are members in good standing of the American Conference of Pharmaceutical Faculties. It is the only national honorary pharmaceutical society in America.

The officers of the local chapter are: Joseph J. Pfiffner, '23, president; Charles F. Lowry, vice-president; Pierre McK. Schafer, '24 secretary; J. Clinton Marshall, '25 alumni secretary.

France Must Go Bankrupt if United States and England Fail to Forgive Her War Debt---Says Sir George Paish, English Economist

Sir George Paish Said—

If France fails, almost no bank in the world will be able to stay open.

World debts have increased from $40 billions to $160 billions since 1913.

America has the most efficient industrial system in the world and need not be afraid of competing against cheap labor.

France cannot pay England 60 million pounds when she receives only 25 million pounds from Germany.

Germany physically cannot pay when 75 per cent of her continental trade is ruined.

"Americans' Outlook Good, But Must Buy More Goods"

By Russell Jones

"The French situation must be adjusted or the United States as well as the rest of the world will be plunged into a great financial crisis," declared Sir George Paish, noted British economist and statesman in an address before University commerce students last night. "If France fails, almost no bank in the world will be able to stay open. Find out what the condition of your Iowa banks is. The other banks of the world will be in a worse condition if France goes bankrupt."

"I think that we should forgive French debts if she will reduce her army and agree to peace. The only reason that Great Britain hasn't done this is that the United States hasn't. It's good business."

In discussing the outlook of the United States as a great world banker, the speaker said that the nation had a very great future as a food producer, but the position of Amreicans would depend upon their ability to buy as well as sell goods to other countries.

U. S. Must Buy

"The world needs of the food which the United States can produce, but Americans must buy goods which the other countries have to sell or there can be no exchange. There are seven billion people in the world, three fourths of which are on the poverty line with insufficient food and clothing. One thing which has hindered the United States from becoming a great world trader is the fact that efforts have always been toward selling products rather than making provision for a long run of exchanges.

"Great Britain is still a great banking nation at present with thirty billions of dollars out on loans as compared with fifteen billions by the United States. Great Britain did much to finance the United States before the war, having invested three billions of dollars in American railways alone and had been called upon constantly to finance the southern cotton crop until the war changed the trade balances."

"France Suffered Because of Us"

In discussing the problem of foreign debts yesterday afternoon, especially French and German, Sir George declared that "France might have come through, had we (Britain) forgiven the debt. Everybody in England knows that we can't get our money but in America you don't know that you can't get your money. There is no chance to get 60 billion dollars from Germany. Britain loaned Germany 40 million pound sterling and as long as Germany borrows money she can buy. Germany physically can't pay."

The speaker assigned as reasons to substantiate this the collapse of Russia, Roumania, France and Belgium, which took 75 per cent of German pre-war trade. He said that the standard of life was at present very low in Germany, as German industry must sell at knock out prices to obtain any livelihood at all.

Sir George declared that French payments to Great Britain are obstructed by an almost entire loss of foreign trade and condition to receiving only 25 million pounrs ceiving only 25 million pounds million to England. He stated that world debts had risen from 40 billion dollars in 1913 to 160 billions at present.

"My conclusion," he declared, "is that we ought to forgive French debts on condition France reduces her army and agrees to peace. The only reason Britain hasn't done so is because the United States hasn't. It's good business."

Dawes' Battle

CHARLIE DAWES is at it again. Yesterday he berated the senate, and Saturday, as the main speaker at the Boston banquet commemmorating the midnight ride of General Dawes' great-great-grandfather warning the colonists of the Britishers' coming, he lit into the senate with both feet. And there, with a thousand Bostonians cheering and yelling their approbation, he made Senator William Butler, Lodge's successor who opposed the Dawes' nomination at the Cleveland convention, promise that he would do everything he could to change the senate rules which allow filibustering.

"Unless I can serve as a conduit for the pressure of public opinion on the United States I can't do anything," says "Hell Maria," and with that thought in mind, he has started out to ascertain just what public opinion thinks of the staid rules of the senate. He found out Saturday that at least a thousand in Boston are for him, and Boston is no center of radicalism.

When Dawes ripped into the senate March 4, it became angry; then it laughed and turned the incident into a joke. But Dawes has set a lot of persons thinking, and it appears that he is going to find a lot of favor with the people. Sovereignty finally rests with the electorate, and if that body thinks the senate rules should be changed, they probably will be changed.

Whether or not the senate rules are changed, General Dawes deserves credit for making this effort. At least, he has found something for a vice president to do. And that is something.

Barring Crime News

The rapid steady increase of our murder and suicide rates has continued; and it is particularly gratifying to note the marked improvement in the artistic quality of our murders. Murder, of course, is our national art, and we are fast becoming a nation of artists. We are producing more and better murders every year. A "Murder Day" is indicated; and some patriot should offer a $50,000 prize for the most beautiful murder, the judges to be chosen from the citizenry of Herrin, Ill. All in due course too, we should address ourselves to the artistic improvement of our suicides; but one thing at a time.

THUS Henry W. Bunn, writing in the January issue of Harpers magazine, takes a thrust at the criminal record of our country during 1924. And our progress during 1925 has been even more marked. The papers have been full of highly colored stories of murder, divorce scandals, robberies, and debaucheries. They have crowded the solid and constructive news from the first pages.

And now the Des Moines Register, one of the leading dailies of the middle west, has recognized the universality of crime and criminal news and has established a separate department for news of ths type, elevating it to the dignity accorded sports, financial articles, farm news, editorials, and book notes.

Nevertheless, the Register has performed a worthy experiment. By segregating crime news the Register relieves its readers of the necessity of plowing through such stuff in search of sound material. It also shows at a glance the seriousness of the crime situation in this country.

Treating crime news in this fashion suggests a further step, that of leaving out such news altogether. In the many letters the Register has received, commenting on the experiment, various opinions have been expressed in regard to news of this nature. One writer says, "It would be still better to have cut out crime news and sensational stuff altogether." An other says, "The public is entitled to know the bare facts of crime in order that we may not live in a fool's paradise."

The omission of crime news entirely is a debatable question, but the second writer seems to have a sound argument for his contention. There is no need denying that crimes and criminals exist. The public should know the exact situation so that it may take proper steps to protect its own interest. A newspaper is designed to present all of the news, not to censor and direct the reading of the public.

Some persons have charged that the Register, having established a crime page, has made every effort to keep the page full of crime news, has searched high and low, utilized every bit of scandal, and played up whatever sensational material came into its hands. If this is true, it is unfortunate. A search of the Register's files, however, disproves the charge. The paper has evidently made an honest effort to segregate the crime news and not give it undue emphasis. By this treatment, the Register seems to have hit upon the happiest solution of the problem, and it is to be commended for its experiment. A. F.

The Turning Leaves

DISPERSAL
Aline Kilmer

What will become of me now I am dead?
For my heart divided and went two ways,
Devil-driven, angel-led,
Bewitched, bewildered all my days.

Angel from fiend I cannot tell,
Twin shapes alert, intent to fly;
One goes to Heaven, one to Hell,
And I—I know not which is I.

From "The Poor Kings's Daughter"

Stephen McKenna, who was formerly so concerned about British and world politics and wrote long novels about them, has surprised his clientele with a light-comedy novel, "An Affair of Honour." The story deals with the predicament of a group of Oxford undergraduates. who, conspiring to put over a local publicity stunt for a friend's expiring newspaper, discover, to their panic, that they have set in motion forces which threaten havoc to their affairs, to say nothing of the overturn of cabinets and the stability of the empire itself.

Cosmo Hamilton has changed not his milieu but his genre. We hope those are the right words. At any rate, he is writing, with Paul Kelly as accessory, a movie scenario. Not that there are other kinds of scenarios, but we want you to get it right. The opus concerns itself with the fads and foibles of English society—as do Mr. Hamilton's novels. Peggy Joyce will play the lead.

Dr. Abraham Myerson, author of "When Life Loses Its Zest," says he loves all his fellowmen except the chap who whispers in the moving picture show. We are afraid we are not blessed with such an embracing, we mean comprehensive, human affection. We can think, of two other enemies of ours in the movies, not to branch out into the world.

Jay House, conductor of the "On Second Thought" column in the Philadelphia Public Ledger, enjoyed "Drag," William Dudley's Pelley's novel. We endorse Jay's judgment. We warn you not to start it unless you have time to finish it at the same sitting. It is not great, but it is interesting.

While we are about it, we want to recommend Gilbert Keith Chesterton's "Man Who Was Thursday." We should have read it years ago, but we missed it until January. Now we insist on having everyone read it. Al did, and he agrees with us. If you don't try it we will never speak to you again.

Wilbur C. Abbott, in his "The New Barbarians," attacks the following statement of an intelligentsium, "Broadly speaking, there are two kinds of colleges in this country. First there are the gentlemen's clubs for the prolongation of adolescence. There are, in the second place, the colleges associated with technical, professional, graduate and trade schools. The so-called 'liberal arts' work in a little while will have no reason for existence except to afford an introduction to technical and professional training. This ought to be a source of congratulation. Mankind makes advance by shedding delusions, and when we get rid of the idea that a college education is connected with wisdom or has any fixed content worthy of note, we shall have cleared our minds of just so much rubbish."

Mrs. Harriet Lummis Smith has written annor Porter's Pollyanna. It will be published other novel carrying on the fortunes of Elenthis fall by L. C. Page.

Review of Lambert Murphy Concert

By Mildred Blanxius Paddock

Monday evening, in Natural science auditorium, before a large and responsive audience, Lambert Murphy, tenor, accompanied by Philip Greeley Clapp, head of the department of music, gave the final concert of the University series.

From the first few notes of the difficult Handel aria, the audience, satisfied, settled back to an evening of enjoyment, and seemed unwilling to call "enough" even after Mr. Murphy had generously responded with encores after each group.

The program was one to satisfy every listener, for it included songs and arias rarely heard, as well as a group of more familiar American songs and folk tunes.

Mr. Murphy seemed to enjoy Dr. Clapp's excellent accompainments, and after his third group, sang "The Power of Spring," a song written by Dr. Clapp several years ago and performed by them when they were in college together.

Throughout the program Mr. Murphy's unusual versatility was aparent, for to sing Fourdrain's wild "Chevauchee Cosaque" and the delicate "Avril" by Paulin with equal effect is pure art. His faultless diction, exquisite pianissimo, and great ease and sincerity made the evening a memorable one.

England to Aid Emigrants

LONDON, April 21 (AP)—A new migration agreement between the Overseas settlement department and the Australian high commissioner is shortly to be signed which will expedite the flow of emigrants from this country to Australia. Great Britain, under the new agreement, will provide a loan of $170,000,000, at a low rate of interest, part of which will be expended in preparing acres of unkilled fertile land for reception of British settlers.

Iowa Professors Aid Californians in Studying 1,000 Child Geniuses

By One of the Iowa Representatives

The names of a number of University of Iowa faculty members have been mentioned prominently in connection with the recently published report on the mental and physical traits of 1,000 juvenile geniuses. This report makes up the first volume of a series of monographs which summarize four years of investigation of gifted children permitted by a grant of about $25,000 from the New York commonwealth funds.

The studies were carried on in California by Dr. Lewis N. Terman, assisted by a number of special investigators, including four Iowa faculty members, Bird T. Baldwin, G. M. Ruch, J. B. Wyman, and Beth Wellman. Dr. Ruch, associate professor of psychology and education, served for fifteen months as the chief office assistant in the building of tests and information blanks and in shaping the general program for the selection and study of the 1,000 or more children.

Dr. Baldwin and Miss Wellman of the child welfare station spent a number of months in California giving an extensive series of physical and physiological measurements. Dr. Baldwin has written one chapter of the first volume of the report. Dr. Jennie B. Wyman of the child welfare station has also contributed a chapter on the tests of intellectual and social interests of these gifted children.

These investigations define genius in terms of the children's performance on well known mental tests like the Binet-Simon scale. Cases were classified as geniuses if they earned an I. Q. of 140 or more. Some of the I. Q.'s found tested as high as 190 or more. Some notion of the meaning of an I. Q. of 140 is had when we remember that only the brightest four children in 1,000 reach this score.

That these bright children are not all of the bookish type is shown by the fact that there are many juvenile authors, painters, mechanics, movie stars, etc. About one fourth are related to members of the hall of fame. One family alone has 34 known relatives in Who's Who. Another family by itself provided five gifted children. One child, a movie star, who tested an I. Q. above 140 is earning $400 a week.

The state of Iowa ranks fifth among the states of the Union as the birthplace of the parents of these California children, the only states contributing more geniuses than Iowa are: California, Illinois, New York, and Ohio, all with larger populations. Fifty of these gifted children came from parents born in Iowa. The Iowa parents furnished more than five per cent of the total number of gifted children studied.

Funds have been set aside by Stanford university to follow the children classified as potential geniuses for the next twenty-five to fifty years to see whether these children actually do become famous as their early mentality suggests.

The second volume of the report will be printed in September and will contain a full account of 300 geniuses in all history with special reference to the mental and psychological traits which characterized these great men in early childhood.

Mixed Babies and Quick Satire Add Smiles to Opera

'Pinafore' Production Here Monday

"Pinafore," a satire on the Royal navy of Great Britain, written by the incomparable duo, Gilbert and Sullivan, will be presented in the Englert Theatre on Monday, April 27, by members of the University glee clubs.

The part of the Rt. Hon. Sir Joseph Porter, K. C. B., First Lord of the Admirality, will be taken by Ray Whitehead. Sir Joseph is the "Monarch of the Sea and Ruler of the Queen's Navee," bringing out the satire of the well known combination who wrote the comedy. The part of Josephine, the captain's daughter, for whom Sir Joseph shows his great love, is played by Esther Dyke, who has been prominent in University musical presentations.

Eric Erickson, is cast as Captain Corcoran, commanding H. M. S. Pinafore. Little Buttercup, a Portsmouth boat woman, who clears up the situation resulting from mixed identity of babies, will be taken by Eleanor Chambers. Ralph Rackstraw, who takes Capt. Corcoran's place as commander of the good ship when it is found that it is his right, wil lbe played by Marlin Lerch.

Dick Deadeye is the villain of the piece and this part will be taken by Harper Allen. Hilda Ohmann is cast as Hebe, Sir Joseph's first cousin, and Marion Seashore and James Koolbeck are cast as Boatswain and Boatswain's mate.

The authors, Gilbert and Sullivan, form a pair whose fame has traveled far in the realm of comic opera. Sullivan was prominent in the musical world and Gilbert was known as a writer of drama, and by casting their lots together, they increased their fame to a high degree. Besides "Pinafore," the pair have written two startling successes "The Mikado," and "The Pirates of Penzance," both of which have been presented in nearly all parts of the world.

The election of officers for Matrices for the coming school year will be held tomorrow afternoon at 4:30 o'clock in Philo-Thanet hall. At this time, president, vice-president, and secretary-treasurer will be elected. The vice-president will have charge of the programs. The candidates will be nominated from the floor.

Matrices, the organization for all University women interested in writing, is recognized by the Woman's Association, and points are given to the three officers.

Mildred Augustine, A3 of Ladora and president of Matrices, states that she is especially anxious that at the business meeting Thursday afternoon there be a representative group of women of the University, whose interests center around the different phases of writing. Plans for the enlargment of this organization for the coming year will be considered.

Matrices was organized here at the University last October under the direction of the Theta Sigma Phi, honorary journalistic sorority, and meetings have been held practically every two weeks since. Informal talks have been given on criticism, short story writing, poetry and many phases of journalism by different faculty members. The talks have been followed by open discussions.

Phelps Lone Iowa Track Star to Run in Eastern Relay

Harold R. Phelps of Iowa City, holder of the western conference indoor two mile record and winner of the 3,000-meter run at the Kansas Relays last week will be the only Iowa athlete at the Penn Relays. He will run in a special two mile race on Friday at Philadelphia and will leave Iowa City on Tuesday night.

After his brilliant performance at Kansas, the Hawkeye should be one of the favorites among the star distance men at the Penn classic. In winning the 3,000-meter event last Saturday, Phelps outdistanced his nearest competitor, Esquidal of Texas, by fourteen seconds and his time of 8:48 3-10 was better than that of Paavo Nurmi who beat Ritola in a match over the same distance at Chicago on Sunday.

While there is no western runner whose time can approach that of Phelps, eastern distance men will furnish all the competition necessary. Tibbetts of Harvard, also a member of the American Olympic team made 9:32 6-10 to win the eastern intercollegiate indoor meet and in doing so equalled the best time of Phelps which he made to win the Big Ten title in March.

The track on Franklin Field at Philadelphia is an exceptionally fast one. Ray Buker of Bates college in 1923 set the two mile record of 9:25 for the event at the Penn Relays. Last year, the race was won by Booth of Johns Hopkins in 9:40 2-10 and Phelps was third, five yards behind.

Hoosiers Open Ball Season With Depauw on Jordon Field Diamond This Afternoon

BLOOMINGTON, Ind., April 21—The Indiana University home season in baseball will open tomorrow afternoon when the DePauw Tigers invade the Jordan Field diamond. Returning from their ten-day trip through the South last Thursday, the Crimson batsmen prepared to meet DePauw and Rose Poly.

Both of these teams will come to Bloomington seasoned by several early season games in the state and will provide plenty of competition for Coach Dean's Big Ten title chasers.

Fijis Fail to Cross Plate; Sig Pis, Phi Kappa Rhos Win

Beta Theta Pi's baseball team shut out the Phi Gamma Delta nine 5 to 0 in a contest played on Iowa field at 5:30 yesterday morning. This was the third game of the interfraternity series. Two games were played Sunday, Sigma Pi trouncing Kappa Sigma 19 to 2, while Phi Kappa Rho won from Phi Kappa 6 to 3.

A new schedule for the remaining contests was announced yesterday by G. W. Tompkin, in charge of the tournament. The dates following the pairings below indicate that the games must be played off before that date. All arrangements for games are to be made at the intramural office, room 105, men's gymnasium. Dates when Iowa field or the west side diamond may be had for games will be given out by Tompkin.

The new schedule follows: Section I: Phi Kappa vs. Sigma Pi and Phi Kappa Rho vs. Kappa Sigma, before May 7; Phi Kappa vs. Kappa Sigma and Phi Kappa Rho vs. Sigma Pi, May 14.

Section II: Phi Epsilon Pi vs. Delta Tau Delta, April 29; Beta Theta Pi vs. Phi Epilon Pi, Phi Gamma Delta vs. Delta Tau Delta, May 7; Betas vs. Delts, Phi Gamma Delta vs. Phi Epsilon Pi, May 14.

Section III: Triangle vs. Chi Kappa Pi, Sigma Phi Epsilon vs. Psi Omega, April 29; Triangle vs. Sig Eps, Chi Kappa Psi vs. Psi Omega, May 7; Triangle vs. Psi Omega, Chi Kappa Pi vs. Sig Eps, May 14.

Boxers, Fencers, and Mat Artists End Preliminaries

The last of the preliminary bouts in fencing and boxing were held last night in the men's gym. The preliminaries held last night determined the last of the men who will compete in the University tournament which will take place Thursday evening at the men's gymnasium.

The fencing preliminaries and semi-finals were held in a series of twelve bouts. Coach Tyrell M. Ingersoll was the referee.

The semifinals eliminated all but two men, who will compete for first place Thursday night. These two men are Prochaska and Brownell. A consolation bout for third and fourth place will also be held between Davis and Kirchner.

The bout which is to be held Thursday night between Prochaska and Brownell for first place in fencing promises to be a fast and hard fought contest. Both these men are experts with the foils. Brownell was on the University fencing team this year, was accroded place number three on the team, and competed in the fencing contest with Wisconsin. Prochaska is one of this year's finds in fencing. He is lightning fast with the foils. The freshman flash easily won the novice fencing tournament held a short time ago. His match with Davis in the finals for the tournament was the first time he has ever failed to win a match without at least a three point lead. Brownell has the advantage of two years' experience in fencing, but Prochaska has the edge on him in speed both on the attack and on the repost. They are pretty evenly matched.

The final boxing bout, between Clark and Adams, light-heavyweights, was won by Adams in the fourth round. Coach Roscoe Hall refereed. It was a hard hitting affair from start to finish The first three rounds were draws. The first of each of these rounds was won by Clark, but he lacked the endurance to keep his lead, and Adams succeeded in retrenching himself during the latter part of each round.

The fourth round began with a rush, each man going strong and hitting hard. But, as in the preceding three rounds, Clark was unable to keep the pace and about the middle of the round dropped exhausted into his corner and took the count. Adams, who was awarded a technical knock-out, finished strong.

Host of Novice Track Stars in Meet This Week

The first section of the novice track and field meet will be held on Iowa Field and on the West Side field on Wednesday afternoon at 5:10. On the entry lists are 317 men representing eighteen fraternities and five athletes who will compete unattached.

One of the largest intramural track meets ever held at Iowa is in prospect for Wednesday and Thursday. The events will bring out a large number of men who have never had experience in competition and inasmuch as members of the varsity and freshman squads are barred, those men will have a chance to show their ability on an equal basis.

Points will be awarded for the frist four places in each of the sixteen events and the team champion will receive twenty points towards the participation trophy while the runner-up gets ten markers. In addition, fraternities entering men will receive credit under the scoring system used by the Department of Physical Education for men towards the trophy.

The time schedule of the meet is:

Wednesday

Track — 5:10, 120-yard high hurdles; 5:20, 100-yard dash; 5:30, one mile run; 5:40, 220-yard dash.

Field—Javelin throw (West Side); 5:10, shot put (West Side); pole vault (Iowa Field); high jump (Iowa Field.)

Thursday

Track—4:15, 440-yard dash; 4:25, 220-yard low hurdles; 4:35, two mile run; 4:50, half mile run; 5:00, half mile relay.

Field—4:15, discus throw (West Side); hammer throw (West Side); broad jump (Iowa Field.)

GOLF

by P. J. GAUDIN

Instructor at HOKIE COUNTRY CLUB & UNION LEAGUE CLUB Chicago

24—Muscles Must Not Be Tense

Perhaps the worst error, certainly the commonest, in the average golf swing is the tensing or stiffening of the muscles. Much of that stiffness is in the hands and wrists but by far the greater part is in the legs.

There is no wish in the above to minimize that co-ordination of muscles that culminates in the timing, when the club and ball are in contact. There is the very decided wish, however, to emphasize the fact that tense muscles are not effective muscles when it comes to making the golf swing. With the rest of the swing going properly, there can be no such thing as what is known as "pressing." Until the forward swing is well on its way, there should be no feeling of stiffness and very little of muscular exertion. In the latter half of the forward swing, with everything going right, no harm will be done in using every particle of your available strength. The harm comes in applying muscle too soon; often on the back swing, where there is no need of exertion other than to lift the club back into the right position.

One of the reasons, then, for a player's staying in the average class is that there is a misapplication of muscular force, oftenest evident in tense muscles. And the worst offenders are the legs. Careful examination of the stroke by going through it slowly is a self-cure for this fault. You do not need a ball nor to be outdoors. After a few practice swings, sole the club and go through the whole swing very slowly. Nine chances in ten you will be able to locate one or more muscles that tense themselves involuntarily. Now begin again with the club soled and relax everywhere, especially the knees. If you can look into a mirror during this relaxation, you may note that the top of your head is a fraction of an inch lower than it was. Now take the club back regularly, keeping the knees relaxed, not bent, and go through the whole swing again. You may locate other tense muscles. If so, try the swing over and over until they are all relaxed. Gradually increase the speed of the swing with the certainty that there is no tenseness and you have removed the greatest stumbling-block in the way of golf progress.

175 Tickets for Drake Race Available at Athletic Office

One hundred seventy-five tickets for the Drake Relays are on sale at the department of athletics. The seats are near the finish line on the east side of the stadium and sell for $2.50.

All unsold tickets must be returned to Des Moines by the middle of the week so Iowa fans who want to sit in the Hawkeye section are urged to purchase their tickets now. The paste-boards admit to the events of Saturday; there is nothing but general admission on Friday.

Purple Mix Shows Old Gold Nine to Be Improving Play

After breaking even in the games of the first conference trip, Iowa's baseball team has returned to Iowa City and will settle down for a series of six games at home. The first of these is against the University of Chicago on Saturday. Coach Vogel will not take his men on the road again until May 16.

The Iowan's showed batting improvement in the game with Northwestern on Monday which was won, 9 to 6. At Illinois, Kinderman's pitching was too good and only three hits were collected but nine were tallied against two Northwestern pitchers. Of these nine, Captain Scantlebury collected four, and Hoben two, for the batting honors of the day.

Seven of the conference teams have opened their schedules and with these games played, Illinois Wisconsin, Ohio State and Chicago have each won one tilt and lead the standing. Iowa has won one and lost one, Northwestern has won one of three while Purdue has dropped both starts. Minnesota, Michigan and Indiana have not yet swung into action.

Chicago, Iowa's next opponent, beat Northwestern last week, 4 to 1 in a good game. The result of this battle has caused a large amount of optimism to manifest itself on the Maroon campus and Coach Norgren will bring a different team to Iowa City than was defeated by the Hawkeyes in two games last year. The Maroons boast four veterans—Captain Cunningham, first base or shortstop; R. Howell, second base; J. Howell, centerfield; and Gubbins, a good pitcher.

Send Out Blanks for Annual High School Tennis Tournament to Be Held May 15-16

Two hundred entry blanks for the third annual interscholastic tennis tournament which will be held on the Iowa courts May 15 and 16 have been mailed to the larger high schools of the state by hte department of athletics. The affair is held under the auspices of the Ahtletic Council.

Preliminaries and semi-finals will be staged on Friday, May 15 at 9 a. m. with the finals on the following day at the same time. Doubles and singles championships will be decided with gold and silver medals for first and second in each class. A statuette will go to the school winning first in the singles and first in the doubles.

It has been announced that all entrants will be furnished lodging while they are in Iowa City. Entries are limited to two singles players and one doubles team from each school. The closing date of the entries is May 13 with E. G. Schroeder, University of Iowa.

Barry Drills Cage Team

Eleven Hoopsters Go Through Hard Work Daily in Spring Practice

Led by Captain McConnell, Van Deusen, and Raffensperger, about a score of hoop-flingers bombard the backboards of the men's gym every night. Apparently a short lay off had no effect on the propensities of the trio to locate the hoop for a big percentage dropped through the net.

In addition to the regular sophomore trio of last year's squad "Buzz" Hogan, P. E. Smith, "Army" Armstrong, and Boysen have also reported for spring cage practice. From the frosh squad "Pops" Harrison, Kiel, Young, and Gaffney have appeared. Marshall Watson, who captured the all-University free throw championship with forty-six counters out of fifty is being worked at guard on the floor plays of the Barry system.

Stress Individual Style

Coach Barry emphasizes the importance of the spring training to candidates for the team next year. The winter cage season usually starts with the opening game but a few weeks distant. Emphasis on the essential form in shooting and correction of individual faults of the men is more difficult while priming for the first tilt.

Jimmie Laude, who broke the conference record for free throws tossed in a single game last season, is aiding the Old Gold mentor in smoothing out the floor plays. The daily workout consists of thirty minutes of basket shooting followed by an hour of work on advancing the ball.

No Real Rule Reforms

The big changes in basketball anticipated by many mid-western coaches when the rules committee met recently did not materialize. It was advocated by many that the dribble be eliminated entirely.

But three amendments to last year's rules provide only for the dropping of the zoning system, the holding of one arm behind the back on a jump ball, and the continuance of play in case the ball strikes the edges of the backboard and rebounds within the court. Two throws will only be given the man fouled when the foul occurs while he is shooting at the basket.

Hawk Track Coach Drills Men Daily for Drake Relays

The Drake Relays, being held for the sixtenth time will be the mecca of Iowa track and field men this weekend. One section of athletes will leave Iowa City on Thursday afternooon and will go into competition on Friday; the last section of competitors will depart Friday ready for the big program of Saturday afternoon. Trials being held this week in all events will determine the number of men that Coach G. T. Bresnahan will take to Des Moines.

An Iowa one mile team will be in that race to the defend the John L. Griffith travelling trophy, it was announced by Coach Bresnahan. Injuries and illness caused the team to be withdrawn at the Illinois indoor relays and the three-times won title was forfeited. Last Saturday, the Hawkeye strength was swung into the sprint relays after the injuries which forced out Captain Coulter.

Mile Win is Tradition

But barring further ill luck, a team of fighting Iowans will be in the classic mile on Saturday with all the strength that it is possible to muster for the event.

Quarter milers who will be called upon include Captain Coulter, conference outdoor champion of 1924; John Everingham, member of the two fast short relay teams at Kansas; L. Phelps, another short relay star; Orthel Roberts, veteran of the 1924 team which won the event at Drake; William Boice, who has been improving steadily and Ernest Beatty.

In 1923, the team of Morrow, Noll, Brookins and Wilson won the race by fifty yards setting a new world's intercollegiate record of 3:16 9-10; least year a quartet of Morow, Roberts, Coulter and Brookins again won with the time of 3:21 5-10. A Hawkeye win in the concluding event of the Drake program has become somewhat of a tradition.

Half-Mile Team Good

Because the mile team is entering will not force great strength to be taken from the sprint relay quartets. The 440-yard event is scheduled for Friday which means that Coach Bresnahn will be able to use his men who ran :42 4-10 at Kansas—L. Phelps, Jones, Roberts and Everingham.

It is entirely possible that the same four men will be available for the half mile event on Saturday, since the 220 which each man must run is regarded as a good warm-up for the quarter which comes later in the afternoon in the mile relay.

Iowa's half mile team at Kansas broke all records for Iowa quartets when the four men stepped the distance in 1:27 6-10, averaging :21 9-10 for the 220-yards for each man—three of whom had a running start.

Many Special Men

It is uncertain what other relays will be entered by the Iowans. If the milers show enough speed in the trials this week, a team will be entered in the four mile relay. The same situation holds true with the half milers who may form a two mile relay team.

A host of special event men will compete at Des Moines. Foremost among these are Ray Dauber, winner of the shot put in the Ohio relays; John Hancock, discus man; Fred Klindt, high jumper; Marshall and Berns, javelin throwers. It is not likely that Coach Bresnahan will have entries in the special 100-yard dash for he must save his best sprinters for the relays.

Plan for Annual Iowater Regatta

The annual Iowater Regatta, sponsored by the Dolphin fraternity, honorary swimming organization for men, and the Seals club, similar organization for women, will be held on Memorial Day, May 30, was the announcement from Ivan Kingaman, chairman of the committee.

According to those in charge, plans are already being formulated for the event and some new stunts are promised. One of the features is the annual river swim which has been standardized to a distance of one mile. Standish Lambert, present holder of the record, is again in competition and some of the other potential winners are starting workouts in preparation. for the distance event. Canoe races for both men and women are other features of the program which hold over from year to year but which will be supplemented by original events this spring.

Offer Field Trips in Summer Courses

Black Hills, Wisconsin, on Geology List

Plans for the summer field courses in geology have been completed and a bulletin issued containing the different courses open to the various classes.

There are two field trips, the Baraboo Highland course in Wisconsin and the Black Hills course, which are open to all students who have completed a course in geology. This is especially designed for first year students. Prof. A. C. Trowbridge is in charge of the first named course and Prof. J. J. Runner, of the second.

The Medicine Bow mountain course, in Wyoming, is open to those students who have had one or the other of the introductory courses. The northern Iowa field course is open to advanced students who seek and secure special permission from the instructor. Enrollment in the courses is accomplished precisely as in any other course in the summer session.

The field parties live in fully equipped camps which are owned by the University, the student providing only his bedding and personal belongings. Food is provided out of the common fund of the camp and is prepared by a hired cook. Exclusive of tuition and railroad fare the expenses for each of the Baraboo and Black Hills course are about $50 per student and those for the Medicine Bow Mountains course will probably not exceed $75.

These courses are limited as to number and those registering first, if equally qualified will be given the first opportunity for admittance.

DETROIT, April 21 (AP)—Cleveland was defeated for the first time today when Detroit won the last game of the series 4 to 3.

Detroit made three runs in the second after Fewster, Indian second baseman, made a wild throw trying for a double play with two men out. Cleveland tied the score again in the 6th when Stephenson knocked a home run and Burns and Fewster each doubled. The score

Dennis Explains America's Part in Chile-Peru Dispute

Prof. Wiliam J. Dennis, of the department of Romance languages, who for several years lived in the region of Chili and Peru, where there has been so much controversy over the Tacna-Arica question has made a special study of the situation and particularly from the point of view of the action of the United States in the matter.

Professor Dennis has written a number of articles for leading newspapers and magazines, including "Our World" and the "Springfield Republican," giving a digest of his views and study of the matter.

Quite a sensation was created in South America after President Coolidge had given his award of the Tacna-Arica question to the ambassadors of Chila and Peru, March 9. Occasioned by Coolidge's ordering a plebecite to determine the sovereignty of the territory which has been occupied by Chili since the war of the Pacific 1879 to 1833.

Full Text Not Known

The full text of the award, according to Mr. Dennis, was never given out in Washington because of its length, which included some 20,000 pages. Daily newspapers in Chile, Peru, and Argentine carried more comprehensive stories of the situation, March 11, and 12, and the reactions and opinions of the people concerned than did the newspapers of the United States.

"Papers which I have received from those South American countries indicate the occurrence of dramatic scenes, when the news was first received," Mr. Dennis went on to say. "There was complete disappointment inPeru," he added, "where it was taken for granted that a plebicite would be decided upon owing to the fact that so much time had passed since the occupation of the provinces of Chile."

Charge at Police

South American newspapers indicate that great parades of protest were organized in Lima, Calloa and other cities. Some injuries resulted in Lima, when the crowds charged the mounted police, who had been called to disperse them.

After several years of close friendship with the United States, North American residents were surprised to hear shouts of, "Down with the arbitration," "Down with Coolidge," "Viva-Tanna-Arica," "Peruvian forever."

"Although," continued Mr. Dennis, "President Leguia cabled President Coolidge thanking him for his efforts, he implied that the award favored Chile and that justice had been miscarried."

Civilist Arbitrates

"In Chile," stated Mr. Dennis, "there was as much joy as surprise for the hope for the provinces had been given up, when a civilist president Allesandri agreed to the arbitration. President Alessandri had been driven out of the country and was on his way back. So he was met by enthusiatstic delegations in Buenos Aires who went to escort him back to Chile.

Interviews from Argentina indicate a diversity of views on the award. D. Alfredo Palacios the internationalist said that while the award wasn't based on justice it should be accepted out of homage to the United States. He further said, Peru had made a mistake in having the United States arbitrate the question and lamented the United States' intervention in Spanish American affairs. But for the sake of peace which is so much needed in South America the award should be accepted.

Dr. Montes de Oca, an Argentine publicist says that the award is fair considering the complexity of the case and that it is a victory for the cause of arbitration of principle for which Argentine has contended.

Ruiz Moreno, a professor of international law in the University of Buenos Aires, approves the award. He gives a queer statement, however, about the triumph of the Chilean policy, which he says has followed the German policy, after the annexation of Alsace-Lorraine.

Just Accept Awards

Most interviews in the opinion of Mr. Dennis, show a disposition to accept the award even though with reservations, as offers a way out of the long contest between Chile, Bolivia, and Peru.

"Peru," I believe "has not yet appointed the third member of the plebiscitary commission, but has signified her intention of abiding by the result of the award," added Mr. Dennis. If Peru doesn't name a member within thirty days, Mr. Pershing, by the terms of the award can name the third member. The commisison must meet at Arica within four months. The award provides for the opening of registration for voting in at least four places by sub-commissions, the chairman of which will be named by our commissioner, and the qualification of voters defined. The award seems complte in every detail, thinks Mr. Dennis.

"In the protest which the Peruvian representatives at Washington filed against the award is a grammatica point," pointed out Mr. Dennis, "which is of interest to students of Spanish. The clause in the Treaty of Ancon providing for a plebiscite for the two provinces captured by Chile stated that the election should take place after ten years.

"Peru maintains that it meant immediately after ten years and that since it wasn't held then that clause of the treaty would void and the ownership of the provinces should be decided by open arbitration or the Hague tribunal. Mr. Coolidge held that the clause could mean any time after ten years."

Peru also maintained that the plebiscite clause was void in view of the expulsion of Peruvians that has taken place from time to time, the changing of the Peruvian priesthood for Chileans, the construction of unnecessary public works, and other acts of Chilinization.

The President held that there had not been enough evidence produced to maintain those points and that a plebiscite would be the best way of determining the ownership.

The expenses of the arbitration, or at least the plebiscite will be shared equally by Peru and Chile and the one winning the provinces will pay the other $10,000,000.

Nitrate wasn't found here as in the other provinces taken by Chile, Tacna and Arica have little value commercially, but they have great sentimental and military value.

Old Plays Revived by London Producers Draw Big Profits

(By the Associated Press)

LONDON, April 21—Revivals in the theatrical world of London came in with a rush early this spring and held the stages of various houses until they were pushed into the discard late in the season, when a number of brand new plays appeared from the other side of the Atlantic.

In the eyes of the theatrical managers, revivals have been popular for some months, and for a number of reasons.

Old Plays Save

There has been no dearth of new plays, operettas and other pieces to select from, aver the managers, but to bringing old favorites to life again it has been founded that they can always be counted upon to take fairly well with the theatre-going public, and in addition save little fortunes so far as royalties are concerned. They also spare the managers' pocketbooks.

In one case a manager went back 150 years for his material, which was brought out to fill certain houses which otherwise would have stood idle while new pieces were in the course of preparation. It is nearly always safer to put on a favorite of some years ago, say the London managers, especially where a play is desired for a short run, than it is to attempt to introduce a new piece, drama, operetta or otherwise.

Again "Merry Widow"

"The Merry Widow" early in the season started the ball rolling, and within a few weeks it was being whistled over all the town, just as it was sixteen years ago when brought here from Vienna. Then came "The Dollar Princess," which had its first performance here in 1909 when it ran for 428 nights.

"Sumurun," which, to some extent, set the fashion which in after years brought forth the Eastern pageantry and magnificence of such productions as "Chu Chin Chow," was another revival, this having its premiere here some fourteen years ago.

"Chu Chin Chow" Always

"Chu Chin Chow" is perhaps the most successful play ever produced in London, having run continually at His Majesty's theatre for more than five years, and since has been playing the provinces and the London supberbs without a let up. "Charley's Aunt" and "It Pays to Advertise" are other successes which still hold the stage in the suburbs and boroughs of the English metropolis.

But of the dives into the past to revive old favorites, by far the most successful play this season has been "The Ware Case," which drew splendid houses for months. A list of the others includes "Old Heidelberg," "A Kiss for Cinderella," and "The Thief." And then too, there is Sheridan's "The Rivals," which was first produced in London at the Covent Garden theatre in 1775.

Fruit Crop in Danger of Frost, States County Agent H. Hunt

Trees Now in Bud Stage Susceptible to Frost; 20,000 Fruit Trees in Johnson County Sprayed This Spring

Frost at the present time would almost totally destroy what is commonly supposed to be the biggest fruit crop that has been seen in Johnson county for several years. Harley Hunt, county agent for the Farm Bureau of the county stated that a frost now would totally destroy the fruit crop for this year.

Danger Point Is Now

Mr. Hunt continued that at the present time, the fruit trees of the county just in the bud stage are very susceptible to frost. A week earlier, they would have been safe, and in a week or more there will probably not be so much danger, but right now a frost would totally destroy the crop prospects.

Monday night if the temperature had continued to go lower, down to about 30 degrees Fahrenheit, the crop would have suffered a great deal of damage. The spring has been dry and that fact helped as frost does more damage with damp material. The more water that is in the plants, the more easily the frost is able to work its damage, according to Mr. Hunt.

Every year, the fruit crop of the county becomes more valuable. This season, more than 20,000 trees in the county have been sprayed. The number of farmers who use the spray service as offered by the Farm Bureau has increased more than 100 per cent a year for the last three years.

Local Source Necessary

With the gradual increase in freight rates, it is imperative that a local source for fruit be developed. Iowa grown fruit is noted for its flavor, but until very recently, the great majority of it was so small, stunted and wormy that it was impossible to ship it or even sell it in competition with the sprayed fruit of other districts.

As soon as a few standard varieties of apples take the place of the forty or fifty varieties that are commonly found in Iowa, and these are grown in quantity so that a market can depend upon a ready supply, Iowa apples, and in fact fruit in general will be recognized and marketed on equal rating with the fruit products of other parts of the country.

Back in 1830 Iowa City Students Paid Their Tuition With Cash, Bricks, Laundrywork

"Schooldays, schooldays, dear old golden rule days" could have been a popular song with the youth of Iowa City in pioneer days, for as early as the year 1840 the arts of reading, writing and arithmetic were being taught to the husky heirs of the community. An interesting account of the first school to be opened in the town is told in a short history of Iowa City by Prof. Benjamin F. Shambaugh.

It was in 1840 that Jesse Berry, one of the sturdiest pioneers, opened the first school in Iowa City in a one-story building which he had erected on College street. In this building, which was also used as a church and courthouse, the boys of Iowa City first met to obtain the rudiments of an education.

Jesse Berry was a schoolmaster of the "Old School" of which the present generation knows but little. The following extracts are from an original notebook of his which has been preserved in the library of the State Historical society. These extracts are fitting illustrations of the cost of an education in a pioneer community, of the way in which tuition was paid, and of the annoyances with which the early school-master had to contend.

Cattle Turn Gladly to New Sunflowers

EDMONTON, Alta., April 21 (AP)—Despised as a worthless weed a few years ago, sunflowers have developed into an important silage crop in western Canada, according to a bulletin of the department of agriculture.

Alberta produced a sunflower crop of nearly 200,000 tons last year, the largest output yet recorded. Two dollars a ton was the estimated cost of all production. Considering the high food value of the crop, the bulletin declared it to be the cheapest silage or fodder crop ever raised.

Development of the crop is due to the expansion of the dairy industry, said the bulletin. The gospel of the sunflower was first preached by experts. Many farmers sowed small fields to the plant. The experiment was successful. From 20 to 25 tons an acre can be expected from sunflowers and, as they are succulent, stock find them palatable, the bulletin asserted.

London to Treat Children

LONDON, April 21 (AP)—Twenty thousand school children are to be taken to theatres to see Shakespearean plays during the year. The cost, $6,000, will be borne by the London county council.

City High Glee Clubs Show Talent in Production of Musicale, "Memories"

Old fashioned songs, snappy dances and original costumes made "Memories," a musical playlet presented by the Clef club and the Boys' Glee Club of the Iowa City High School last evening in the school auditorium, a praiseworthy performance, which gave an evening of real entertainment to the large and appreciative audience.

Story of Old Man

"Memories" is a characterization, with the musings and reflections, of an old man who has spent his life seeking fame in the fields of music and art, only to be left alone and desolate in his old age. His one companion is his butler, and in the opening scene the two discuss their bygone days and wonder what would hapen if they could turn back the wheel of time and live again the days of their youth. This is just what happens in the remainder of the play.

George Jones, who has had experience in high school plays in the past two years, ably took the part of the old man. His solo "On the Road to Mandalay" was well received by the audience. Dan Dutcher, another experienced performer, played the part of the butler.

"Kids" Make Hit

"The Kids," as part two of the performance was entitled, really merits the honor of having made a real "hit". Attired in clever overalls and rompers of brightly colored gingham, six couples gave a most pleasing entertainment of songs and dances. A solo and dance by Bert Tanswell was a feature.

"Mud Pie Days," in this part, and later "Look for the Silver Lining," sung by Lucille Nelson and George Jones, were outstanding numbers of the evening.

A group of charming old fashioned songs, topped off with a variety of more modern ones, by the girls of the Clef Club, were pleasing. Solos by Ellen Jones and Mary Plum, and a cute Irish dance by Rose Miller and Betty Baxter received their share of applause.

Old Favorites Sung

The boys' chorus sang a number of old favorites, including a clever sketch entitled "Clancy's Wooden Wedding," "The Bells of St Mary's" and "Let Me Call You Sweetheart." A waltz by Bert Tanswell and Elva Bickley was a fitting conclusion for the program.

"Memories" was arranged, directed and staged by Frances Cronin and Harry G. Barnes. A built in stage was constructed by Mr. Barnes in the assembly room for the performance and an elaborate lighting equipment, provided which helped to make the show a success.

Performance Repeated Tonight

The perforance will be repeated tonight in the school auditorium at 8 o'clock.
