Three Classes Worth It?
Agnostics
Oratory
Japan

By AL FULLER

ONLY three more classes; only two more; only one. Soon the senior will be through with his University work. He will go forth into a new environment and put his learning to the test.

People about him will say, "He is a college man. He is educated." They will expect great things of him, and however incompetent he may feel, he must attempt to vindicate their trust in him. He must put up a bold front and struggle to win the high place their idealism has already given him.

AS the senior looks back over four years, he finds they have been years of disillusionment. One ideal after another has fallen. He has won honors, but they have not meant what he expected. The honors have cheapened themselves to him; he has not risen to them. Most of the things he has learned will soon be forgotten. He has been subject to a discipline which has been irksome and unreasonable at times.

What, then, are the lasting, valuable things which the senior has acquired? What has made the four years worth while? The answer is hard to find, yet the senior is certain that all his time has not been wasted. Great and lasting friendships have been formed. Pleasant memories of happy days remain. And as the senior begins to work himself into his niche in the world, he will find much that comes back to him from his University work which aids him with each new problem.

SOME doubt has been expressed as to the possible influence which Mr. Darrow will have in the Tennessee trial. It is thought that Mr. Darrow's reputation as an atheist may have a bad effect upon the jury.

As a matter of fact, Mr. Darrow does not pose as an atheist. He is an agnostic. But the word agnostic, to some persons denotes all that is to be shunned. Without realizing how little man really knows, they cry "Down with him. He admits that he doesn't know it all. He is a doubter, an agnostic."

THE United States senate is not the only body to suffer from long-winded debates. The Canadian House of Commons has been subject to the same plague and has been considering rules to prevent unnecessary oratory. It has been estimated that the cost of talk in this body is $18,000 per day, and there is much agitation in favor of restricting the length of speeches without curtailing the right of members to express their opinion. The quality of the speeches has always risen when they have been cut short.

JAPAN is under no illusion that war may result from threatening antagonism between herself and the United States, according to an interview given out by Viscount Goto, former Japanese Minister of the Interior. Goto is right. If Japan continually broods on the probability of war with the United States and prepares for that war, and the United States broods on the probability of war with Japan and makes ready for the conflict, it will be only a matter of time until the first gun will be fired. But if both nations should forget this nonsense and should cease agitation about impending wars, the outcome might be different.

A SOCIETY has been formed in Persia to promote closer relationship with the United States. It will seek to persuade American business to come to Persia, and big business may be tempted to point out how it leads the way to peace between nations.

But such is not always the case. If Americans do invest in Persia, and their property is threatened, they will seek protection from the armed forces of the United States and may drag us into war. If investors must go abroad to make fabulous returns on dangerous ventures, they should do so at their own risk. We cannot afford to save the gold of big business with the blood of American men.

Watch American Loans

The suggestion that the Washington government hereafter might exercise stricter scrutiny of American loans abroad was revived in connection with the war debts situation.

Student Body and Faculty Pay Honor to DeWitt Burton

Academic World Joins Chicago in Mourning President

(By the Associated Press)

CHICAGO, May 28—Faculty and students of the University of Chicago and the academic world in general joined today in paying a final tribute to Dr. Ernest DeWitt Burton, third president of the University, who died Tuesday.

Two funeral services, each marked with simplicity, were held on the campus. The first was a commemorative chapel service at noon for members of the university only, and the second, a public ceremony in Kandell Hall. Doctor Burton's body during the first service remained at his home surrounded by a student guard until time for public ceremony. Later it was removed to Oakwoods cemetery for cremation.

At the commemorative service the speakers were Prof. Merle Coulter and Dean Ernest H. Wilkins. A procession preceded the public service with all members of the faculty and university officials wearing caps and gowns and colors emblematic of various academies.

As the procession wound across the campus the university chimes played "Jesus Lover of My Soul," one of Dr. Burton's favorite hymns.

Prof. Algernon Coleman led the procession, followed by the casket, those who were to speak, the university senate, the faculty, and the pall-bearers.

The procession passed slowly between double rows of students.

Socialists Refuse Painleve Support

Surprise Chamber by Move; Object to Alliance

(By the Associated Press)

PARIS, May 28 — The socialists sprang an eleventh hour surprise in the Moroccan debate in the chamber of deputies, throwing a bombshell into a serene situation of the renovated "Sacred Union" when, after hearing Briand's declarations they decided late tonight to abstain from voting. They thus refused their support to the Painleve cabinet although officially committed by their leaders to stand by the ministry.

Should the socialists maintain their present attitude their failure to endorse M. Painleve virtually means the destruction of the left group's majority which has been ruling France since the May 11, 1924, elections.

The socialists, while endorsing Premier Painleve's declarations today objected to M. Briand's reference to France's alliance with Spain against the Riffians. They felt that the foreign minister's policy was not in agreement with the promise of M. Painleve made them that the Moroccan war would be absolutely defensive. M. Briand told the chamber that France and Spain would probably soon reach an agreement to prevent supplies of arms reaching Abdul El Krim, the Moroccan leader.

Des Moines Boy, 14, Will Go to Marble Tourney

DES MOINES, Iowa, May 28 (AP).—Clean living and hard practice together with unusual faith in himself, are described by Vere Warner, aged 14, as essential for a successful marble player. Vere, winner of the Des Moines city championship is scheduled to leave tonight for Atlantic City, N. J., to take part in the national tournament which starts June 1.

Vere has trained for the national meet the same as a college athlete would for a track meet, under the supervision of his father and Dr. H. V. Haladay, chief of the Des Moines Still College of Osteopathy. He practices an hour before and after school.

Still Missing in Polar Fastness

Roald Amundsen

Captain Roald Amundsen hopped off a week ago for a trip via airplane to the North Pole. He sacrificed a radio set to carry additional gasoline. Nothing has been heard of him, and it is feared he may have perished in the fastness of the ice sheet. The Norwegian government, in whose name Amundsen was flying, contemplates a relief expedition.

Floating Pageant to Ride Iowater in Canoe Regatta

Exhibit Capsizing and Righting Canoes, Races, River Swim, Pyramids; Build Stage Below Island for Historical Performance

ON THE RIVER TOMORROW

1. 3:45 P. M. Men's open doubles canoe race.
2. 4:00 P. M. Pageant, "Iowa."
3. 4:35 P. M. Exhibition capsizing and righting canoe.
4. 4:45 P. M. Women's doubles canoe race.
5. 5:00 P. M. River Swin (Finish)
6. 5:05 P. M. Fancy Diving.
7. 5:10 P. M. Fraternity doubles canoe race.
8. 5:25 P. M. Novelty pyramids and formations.

Final plans for the biggest and best Iowater Regatta, to be held tomorrow afternoon on Iowa river just above the Park bridge, are practically complete, according to Ivan J. Klingaman, chairman of the committee in charge.

A gigantic pageant is the new feature. It will depict the history of Iowa from the time of its discovery in the days of Indian supremacy to the present.

Music will be furnished by a specially arranged orchestra and by the University band. The pageant and the remainder of the Regatta will take place immediately following the Notre Dame track meet on Iowa Field. The last event of the track meet will be run off at approximately 3:45 and the Regatta will begin immediately afterward.

The pageant will be staged on a huge platform to be erected in the center of Iowa river midway between the park bridge and the island just north of the bridge. Over a hundred people will take parts in the pageant.

Entertainments of a similar nature in other sections of the state in past years have been extremely popular, but this is the first time anything of this nature has been attempted in this part of the state.

Besides the pageant, there are seven events on the program. Four of these are distinctly competitive in nature and the other three are exhibitions.

Airplanes Carry Aid to Disabled Printing Presses

Presses broken down—no paper tomorrow!

This will be no longer the tale when the new system to be employed by the Duplex Printing Press company, which made the press used by The Daily Iowan, brings repairs by airplane service.

This company will have three planes ready for service at all times, and hurry-up calls for repairs can be easily taken care of.

Iowa City is on the air mail service line and has a regular landing field so it will be convenient for planes to stop here in case of a breakdown on the press. These planes can make an average rate of about 80 miles an hour, and since they start from Battle Creek, Michigan, they will reach here in a comparatively short time.

This is the first time that such a service has been offered by any machinery firm, in any field, newspaper or otherwise.

It is of particular value in newspaper work, however, for the matter of getting out the paper every day is an important problem.

Doheny Loses Elm Hills Oil Leases by Decision Given in Federal Court

United States Government Victor in First of Cases Involving Naval Reserves; Judge Holds U. S. Defrauded

(By the Associated Press)

LOS ANGELES, May 28.—Federal Judge Paul McCormick today decided in favor of the United States government in its suit to cancel contracts and leases held by the Pan-American Petroleum and Transport company and the Pan-American Petroleum Company in the Elm Hills naval reserve, California.

The trial of this suit in equity against the Doheny oil interests opened in Los Angeles on October 24, last, and continued for several weeks.

It was the first of the cases growing out of the United States senate investigation into the oil naval oil reserves to be brought to trial. The government asked that the court cancel two contracts and two leases entered into between the government and the defending companies, providing for the construction of wells in the Elk Hills reserve No. 1 and the building by the companies of tanks, pipe lines and pumping facilities for 1,500,000 barrells of fuel oil at the Pearl Harbor naval base, Hawaii. The contract also provided for deepening of Pearl Harbor and construction of docks.

Closing the government's case, Owen Roberts, formerly associated with Senator Pomerene, summed up as follows:

"First, the leases and contracts should be cancelled because it has been shown there has been a conspiracy between Albert B. Fall, former secretary of the Interior, and Edward L. Doheny, head of the oil companies, which resulted in the contracts and leases.

"Second, that the transaction whereby Fall received $1,000,000 from Doheny 'contained every element of a bribe.'

"Third, that a fraud was worked on the United States government."

Judge Wellborn, a member of the Doheny legal staff, who was present when the decision was filed, announced immediate steps would be taken for appeal to the United States supreme court.

Think Before Writing--Ruch

"Cram," Since System Demands It, Says Educator

"It would be an excellent thing if students took from fifteen to thirty minutes to think over the questions asked them on final examinations before beginning to write," is the opinion of Giles M. Ruch, associate in education and psychology.

Prof. Ruch believes that cramming in preparation for exams is a necessary evil under the present system. "It is natural that a student should cram," he says, "and I think that I should if I were a student. However, one might do much better by making an outline of the course he is studying for general review. When he goes to class he might spend the first few minutes outlining answers to the questions before definitely beginning to write.

"I remember that when I entered college the first A that I ever received on an examination was won by this method."

Prof. Ruch is opposed to the present method of placing great stress on the finals, and thinks that it might be replaced by a system of giving four or five hundred questions during the semester, a few being given without warning each time the class met. In this way he thinks that more distributed effort on the part of the student might be secured.

Long discussion questions often lead to unfair grading, in Mr. Ruch's opinion, and might well be replaced by objective, or true-false tests. However, he thinks that final examinations must be continued for some time under the present system as the instructor is often unable to determine definitely the student's knowledge, and adds that if it were not for the finals "it is doubtful if some students would do any work."

University Band to Lead Memorial Day Procession

The line of march for the Memorial Day parade will be from Clinton street across the campus, north to the President's home, east two blocks, north to Brown street and from there to the cemetery.

The University band will lead the group, together with students from the military department and the Roy L. Chopek post of the American Legion. The parade begins at 9:30 a. m. sharp.

Afternoon services will also be held at the cemetery where George Cosson, former attorney general, will make the address.

Alumnae Welcome to Senior Nurses

Twenty-four Students Honor Guests at Banquet

Twenty-four senior nurses who will soon become alumnae of the school of nursing were honored last evening at a banquet at Youde's Inn at which alumnae nurses were the hostesses.

The honorees were Maude De Witte, Marie De Witte, Ruth Johnson, Mary Heyen, Grace Chapman, Dorothy Bolt, Gladys Besore, Vera Caldwell, Geneva Gungoven, Emma Marjorowicz, Grace Appleton, Leora Ashbacher, Alice Wood, Ruby Hooke, Mary Dickson, Genevieve Fessler, Clara Kleiner, Anna Davis, Dora Kirchhefer, Gladys Megill, Lois McCaulley, Mary Thomas, Florence Culver, and Helen Edgar.

American beauty roses centered the banquet tables at last evening's social affair which was the fourth annual banquet to be extended graduating seniors of the school of nursing. Miss R. Zella Deeny acted as toastmistress, and among those on whom she called were: Pearl Showalter who gave an address; Henrietta Stegeman who gave the invitation to the seniors; Vera Caldwell who gave the response from the seniors; and Miss Cora Voris who gave the class prophecy interspersed with music from the nurses' ukelele sextet: Lois Connly, Martha Birk, Adeline Grasshens, Fannie Hayes, Esther Griess, and Ruth Williams.

During the dinner Miss Marguerite Emburg and Miss Adeline Grasshens furnished piano selections, Miss Anne Frederickson and Miss Cornelia Wells gave a clarinet-cornet duet and Miss Mildred Grant sang two solos. Also during the evening telegrams were read from many alumnae throughout the country. Among the letters were notes from Miss Lois Blanche Gorder, superintendent of nurses; Miss Lola Lindsey, instructor of nurses; and from Mrs. F. F. Faville, formerly superintendent of nurses.

A quartet of senior medics also had a part in the program and sang several selections.

Jardine Speaks at Chicago Over WLS

Secretary Emphasizes Importance of His Department

(By the Associated Press)

CHICAGO, May 28—William Jardine, secretary of agriculture, in a radio address here tonight emphasized the importance of the department of agriculture as "a work shop" cooperating with 16,000 representatives over hte nation for the benefit of the citizens both at work and at play.

Secretary Jardine arrived in Chicago today on the first leg of his seven weeks' journey in which he is scheduled to visit many centers of this work shop in farming regions west of the Mississippi river. His itinerary includes numerous points in the middle west. He is scheduled ot be in Ames in July.

"The department of agriculture is commonly said to be at Washington but that is merely its headquarters," said the secretary speaking through WLS tonight. "At Washington the department has 4,000 employees but there are 16,000 more of them scattered through the states. The service of the department reaches every person in the county," he said.

"Bryan Is Wrong"---Scientists

Nutting and Houser Call Assertions Unfounded

"William Jennings Bryan's assertion that a believer in evolution is necessarily irreligious is unfair and untrue," according to Prof. C. C. Nutting of the zoology department here.

"I have known intimately the instructors in both the physical and natural sciences at this University for nearly thirty-eight years and can say positively that they are not only high-principled Christian gentlemen but that many of them are very active in church work."

"In connection with the movement to legislate against evolution and the furore caused over the nation by the case of Professor Scopes versus the Tennessee legislature, it is interesting to notice that our last national census indicates the highest percentage of illiterate people anywhere in the union living within the boundaries of those states which have tried to exclude the teaching of science from their schools and universities."

"Mr. Bryan is making a big mistake when he says that science and religion are inimical," said Prof. G. L. Houser of the biology department yesterday afternoon. "He would persuade the youth of our country that they must choose between the belief in science, which necessitates the exercise of their reasoning faculties, and their religious faith Such a decision is not necessary. All our scientific studies indicate the basic presence of a divine power which is a creative force.

The scientists I have known are deeply religious men, their constant contact with the mysteries of the universe and the world about them only serving to increase their reverence for the Creator of these wonders. I have had ministers of established churches enroll in my classes with the acknowledged aim of studying science that they might better appreciate the Almighty. On completing their courses they all expressed gratitude for the heightened perception of the Maker which their work had given them."

"So you see our scientists are not undermining the religious faith of our young people as Mr. Bryan would have us think," he said. "They are doing much to define their religion to them in terms which their mentality can accept as logical."

London Pays Well for Relics of Napoleon Sold at Auction

LONDON, May 28 (AP).—Mementoes of Napoleon always bring good prices here whenever offered under the hammer. The famous draft manuscript of Napoleon's stirring appeal to his army in Italy in his own handwriting was sold at auction recently for $750.

Quixotes of Engine House Charge Gallantly on Fire

Fire!

A red chariot clanged down Clinton street at seven o'clock last night. Loungers from the University Bookstore corner to Whet's aroused themselves and followed.

A shirt-sleeved collegian discovered an ominous pillar of smoke behind the physics building, and ran in that direction. Co-eds followed. Small boys took up the chase.

They arrived behind the physics building to find "just common, ordinary smoke," as one disgusted townsman said, from a regularly functioning stack.

An automatic gas heater at 8 East Washington had exploded, the fire chief explained, but no harm was done.

Exams Account for Smaller Sales of Last Frivol Issue

Frivol did not sell so well this time. Only about 1000 copies were distributed among the colleges, liberal arts people being the heaviest buyers.

Richard Romey, the business manager, places the blame on the fact that exams—not frivolous reading—are occupying the time of the medics, the dents and the laws. In weight of numbers their patronage, or the lack of it, makes a big difference. But now!

"With exams nearing a close, Frivol looks to the professional colleges for support," according to the business manager. "If you passed the exams, celebrate with Frivol, but if the prof passed you—out on the street but not in the classroom, remember the slogan 'If you are tired of life, read Frivol' and all will be well."

"We have instructed the bookstores, as a special accommodation to all the unfortunate students who failed to buy Frivol, to offer the magazine for sale at the cut-throat price of two bits only for the rest of the school year."

Fifteen Hawkeyes are left for sale. They will be distributed today only in the liberal arts building. After today they will be distributed from the Hawkeye office.

"Most of those that were bought at the first of the year were called for today," said Lynn Swaney, business manager. "People were, on the whole, very prompt about calling for them. But there are still some left to be called for, too."

Delta Sigma Rho to Award No Cup

Cannot Agree on Basis of Award; Zets Keep Cup a Year

After a lengthy discussion yesterday afternoon, members of Delta Sigma Rho, national honorary forensic fraternity, decided not to award this year the Delta Sigma Rho cup, given annually to forensic societies for outstanding oratorical and debate work. The fact that no agreement could be reached either as to the basis for granting the cup, or as to the points earned by each society, was the reason given for the action.

The cup will remain in the possession of the Zetagathian Society, since that society has retained it for the last two years. The two possible contenders for the cup this year were the Zetagathians and the Irving Literary Society. It is the custom that the society winning the trophy for three consecutive years keeps the cup permanently.

Feeding the War Spirit

LAST Monday, Italy celebrated the tenth anniversary of her declaration of war upon Austria. A parade was held, flags displayed and speeches were made commemorating the ocasion as a notable one in Italian history. The streets of Rome probably echoed with as much war spirit as in the days of the empire of the Caesars.

One may well doubt the sincerity of efforts toward peace in the face of such a demonstrations. When a nation begins to look back with pride on an event which was a prelude to the loss of thousands of lives, millions of dollars and ended in a complete paralysis of industry, it is almost a sure indication that national honor would be fought for upon slight provocation.

French soldiers who survived the Prussian war of 1870 used to sigh for revenge for the Gallic defeat at Sedan. Their sighs were echoed by the generation which followed them, and they finally obtained their revenge. To*day the franc is at the bottom of the* exchange and France is in the midst of a political and industrial maelstrom.

Italy has regarded Austria with suspicion ever since the days of her unification. The war declaration in 1915 was a welcome event in most Italian cities and there seems to be no indication that the mental attitude of the people has changed. However, Italy might profit by the example of France and Germany and spend less time developing jingoistic ideals.

Cure for Leprosy

THE reward for the bravery of Joseph F. Rock, leader of the National Geography society expedition which brought back from the wilds of China the seeds of the chaulmoogra tree, has at last been realized. It is not a reward of gold. It is no Carnegie medal. It is something intangible, yet it is the greatest kind of a reward for which a man might ask for. Four lepers have just ben released from the national leprosarium at Carville, La., completely cured as the result of the use of chaulmoogra oil.

Due to the scarcity of the leprosy healing oil in the United States, and the probable scarcity of it in the future, Mr. Rock undertook a dangerous expedition, almost alone, into the heart of China to get the seeds of the tree which produced the chaulmoogra oil. The journey, taking many months, was full of danger, but he did not give up until he had attained his goal. And now chaulmoogra plantations have been established in Hawaii, where the oil is being produced in quantities large enough to meet the demand.

The bravery of a single man has made possible the opportunity to cure leprosy, and results already obtained have more than rewarded Mr. Rock for his great service to humanity. R. H.

From "Dear Me" to "Damn"

WOMEN play the game today; but not the same game that their grandmothers played. In yester years across the smooth green lawn, the dainty slippers of full skirted maids tripped as the coy ones followed a game of croquet. Now and then the laughter or exclamative "Oh" of one of them, whose croquet ball had been knocked out of position, could be heard. As she gracefully knocked her ball through one of the hooped wires, her figure swayed with the movement of the mallet. The young man with whom she played admired her for her inferiority in strength, her coy way of missing the ball, her pretty eyes that beseeched him not to put her ball too far away from the goal post.

But today the picture presents a young lady standing in the "rough." Drassed in a tight skirt, a manish sweater, or perhaps some knickers, she is the picture of despair. Across the greens a "damn" or a positive "Hell, where is that ball?" can be heard. If she finds the lost article, she wastes no time in attempting grace, but knocks the ball as hard as her strength and ability will allow. She is playing for ten cents a hole, and intends to best her male companion. The young man with whom she is playing admires her if she can drive a good ball, bothers him as little as possible, and even beats him a stroke or two now and then.

From croquet to golf, from feminity to freedom, from delicacy to strength, so the stream of womanhood has flown. But it is not so a dangerous a change as first appearances might indicate.

If a woman can forget herself long enough to play a good game of golf with a man, she has overcome many of the petty qualities of her nature. While the change of game has not improved her vocabulary at least it will help her health. Perhaps the rest may come later.

The Wonder Worker

THE motor has today become the miracle worker of transportation and industry. A modern Rip Van Winkle awaking from a sleep of twenty-two years would think himself transported to Mars after getting one glimpse of life in a city street.

He would miss old Dobbin. He would find in the stead of the surrey a long procession of automobiles. One could scarce convince him that the horse has so quickly been displaced as a means of transportation.

But one look in to the air would only serve to double his astonishment as he would see a pair of airplanes swooping gracefully among the clouds. For centuries man has envied the birds as they defied the powers of gravity, yet flight through the air was not made possible for human beings until the invention of the motor.

It was not until the advent of the motor that man achieved his ambition to travel under water with the submarine. The motor revolutionized the whole question of warfare, making it more deadly and efficient than ever before.

Yet our newly awakened friend would find that the motor was not satisfied to grow in a field in which it has no rival. It has begun to encroach upon the field in which steam claims priority. A few months ago a new Diesel-electric locomotive designed for the Russian railways by German engineers greatly impressed experts, who believe that it may drive the steam driven engines from the field of transportation.

Yet this is not all. The first motor-driven steamship, 600 feet long, completed its maiden trip as it chugged into Puget Sound only a few days ago. Many more of the same type are now being built.

The motor has changed the whole question of travel. No single invention has brought such changes on the face of things. It has broadened its influence upon life until it is now threatening to seize the crown which steam has held for years. Does this mean that steam will pass by the wayside while its growing rival holds unquestioned away? Or will electricity drive them both from the field? Only the future can tell.—R. H.

The Issue at Dayton

Milwaukee Journal

THE indictment of John Thomas Scopes for violation of the Tennessee law against teaching theories "that deny the story of the divine creation as taught in the Bible" means that a great issue is to be tried out in the courts and before the American people. Mr. Scopes becomes the Dred Scott of this case, and for the first time in history, it is possible to speak of "Dayton," instead of "Dayton, Tenn."

But the isue is not at all whether Mr. Scopes violated the statue; he says he did. The issue is not between "fundamentals" and "modernists." It is not whether evolution is true or false, or whether the Bible is true. No one thinks a judge or jury can decide that. Above all, it is not a question of whether Mr. Bryan is right or Mr. Darwin is right. These things it is important to see. All of them will be discussed; the air will ring with theological argument and scientific vagaries. But the question is not what is true or what theology shall triumph. It is whether the authority of government shall be put behind a theological doctrine.

That is why this is a national and not a religious matter. Can a state forbid the teaching of a subject because it is objected to by a theology? It is here that the fundamentals of our government and of the constitution which expresses them are concerned. If you can be taught, you can prescribe what must be taught. The constitution clearly says that congress may not pass a law "respecting an establishment of religion or prohibiting the free exercise thereof." Can the state of Tennessee do it?

All the struggle for religious freedom has been a history of denying the right of a state to force a religious belief on any man. Men have gone to the stake and the gallows rather than submit. There is no longer question of that. Mr. Scopes has shown the courage to take issue with the community in which he lives, and no doubt has alienated many of his friends. But he cannot be sent to jail, and the $500 fine, which is the most that can be imposed, need not concern him, for there will be many ready to pay it. Mr. Scopes comes into the picture and Dayton, Tenn., is on the map because there it is asked whether America wants now to go back on this foundation stone of its history, and begin to make religion not a matter of individual faith and freedom but of legality or illegality.

Athena Fetes Patron Goddess

A Review—By B. L. Ullman

The Athena Literary Society is named, for better or worse, after Athena, the goddess of wisdom. What could be more appropriate, therefore, than to honor its patron goddess by an annual festival? The suggestion that the celebration take the form of the Panathenaea was an obvious one, for this was the great festival in which the citizens of Athens honored the goddess after whom their city was named.

But the presentation of a Panathenaic festival presents great difficulties. It would be impossible to reproduce one faithfully except at great expense of time and money. The Athena Literary Society has wisely refrained from attempting a realistic performance.

I believe that no one realizes more clearly than the members of Athena that the performances thus far given have been nothing more than experiments. The society is to be strongly commended for its persistence in the experiment in the face of great difficulties. The encouraging thing is that every year the performance is undeniably better. Athena has a right to hope that in the course of time it will work out a performance as effective as it is unique.

This year, as last, the most striking feature was the living statue of the goddess Athena in the background of the performance. It is clear that this feature should be retained. The dances were good. They may in the future be made more elaborate. Color and grouping were better than they ever have been. The same was true of the singing. It is clear that chorus singing must hereafter be given a prominent part. The musical accompaniment was greatly improved over preceding years, though still too light for the open air.

One thing that has been made clear in the course of several years of experimentation is that open air speaking of any kind is impossible. No matter how excellent the voice and enunciation of the speaker it is impossible to understand connected discourse in the open air, even if five o'clock interurban whistles and automobile horns could be silenced. It will be necessary to develop future performances along the lines of music, action, and picturesque spectacle.

This year's performance, then, is an improvement over past performances and in that respect has justified itself as being a step towards the eventual development of a finished production which will attract attention far and wide by reason of its uniqueness.

Frame Houses Can Be Tornado-Proof, Engineer Claims

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., May 28 (AP). If engineering science were applied to the design and construction of dwellings and school houses they could easily and inexpensively be made proof against tornadoes such as recently visited the five middle western states, according to C. C. Williams, head of the department of civil engineering of the University of Illinois.

"That dwellings, school houses and churches readily collapse under such a storm is due to the fact that the design and details of framing, anchorage and ties have been left entirely to the tradesman, who has little knowledge of the character of stresses set up inside the structure that he is building," Mr. Williams declared. "He merely erects one part on top of another, and when the wind comes the pile offers very little resistance to the destructive force.

"A study of the design of a frame dwelling shows that a well sheathed house of average size can be made proof against tornado at an expenditure of less than one per cent of the total cost of the house."

Iowa's Fate in Triangular Meet Announced Today

University Loses High Scorer in Mishap of Hurdles

With the results of two of the three meets known to officials only, the women's triangular track meet will draw to a close today when the third angle of the three-sided competition is completed at Ohio state. Time results of the individual meets are being kept secret in compliance with official rules, until the conclusion of the final event in the third school, today.

Results of the meet at Ohio will probably reach Iowa City in time for the final placements to be made known at the W.A.A. banquet this evening at Youde's Inn. The university of Iowa won first place in the triangular meet last year and with several veterans of last year's competition still in the field, the chances for a high place for Iowa are good, according to authorities.

Thelma Whimpey, A4 of Albia, one of the high places in the meet last year and a dangerous competitor for the speed events this year, fell in attempting to cover one of the hazards in the 65 yard low hurdles. Her injuries, consisting chiefly of scratches about her face and arms, were not serious but prevented her entrance in any later events.

Although time for the winners will not be disclosed until tonight, individual placements for the various events were ascertained at the meet yesterday. They are:

50 yard dash. Blanche Bailey and Katherine Theilen, tie for first; Thelma Whimpey and Loraine Aldredge, tie for second; Bernice Lange, third.

75 yard dash. Genevieve Harter, first; Thelma Whimpey and Blanche Bailey, tie for second; Katherine Theilen and Josephine Buis, tie for third.

65 yard low hurdles. Blanche Bailey, first; Genevieve Harter, second; Helen Meinhard, third.

220 yard relay (by classes). Juniors, first; Seniors, second.

Standing broad jump. Genevieve Harter, first; Margaret Jones, second; Helen Zook, third.

Running high jump. Katherine Theilen and Elizabeth Abel, tie for first; Clara Bovenmyer and Edna Durst, tie for second.

Baseball throw. Mabel Franklin, first; Helen Meinhard, second; Margaret Axon, third.

Discus throw. Anne Doorninck first.

Shot put. Mabel Franklin, first; Frances Day, second; Elizabeth Abel, third.

Basketball throw. Katherine Fulton, first; Anne Doorninck, second; Thelma Whimpey, third.

Javelin throw. Mabel Franklin, first; Elizabeth Abel, second.

Miss Louise Boillin, of the department of physical education for women, had charge of the meet yesterday afternoon. Miss Helen Saum, also of the department, acted as official scorer.

Swanson-Cook Wedding Held Last Evening

Before a bower of palms and ferns in a candle lighted room Miss Lillian Swanson '23 and Walter Cook '23 were united in marriage by the Rev. A. L. Weatherley of the Unitarian church last evening. The ceremony took place at the Delta Zeta house at six o'clock and was followed by a wedding supper.

Lorraine Luthner acted as maid of honor and Esther Van Cleave and Audrey Von Housen as bridesmaids with Mr. Byrd Crist, as best man.

The bride was dressed in a simple dress of white with a veil of tulle and carried a sheaf of white rosebuds. Tall baskets of peonies formed the aisle through which the procession marched.

The bride and groom left immediately for Oakville, Iowa, where they will visit the groom's family. Next year they will both teach at Hazelton, Iowa, he as superintendent of schools and she as principal of the high school.

Guests of the evening were Miss Irene Bouton of Sioux City, Miss Helene Burns of Adel, Katherine and Jean Hicklan of Wapello and members of the Sigma Phi Epsilon fraternity.

Ruth Tamisiea To Lead Hesperians for Coming Year

Catherine Richter Receives Highest Seals Club Award

Miss Saum Presented With Token From Organization

At the last Seal dinner of the year, which was held last evening, the medals and emblems were awarded to the high point women of the Seal chart and members who passed off the improvement and life saving tests. Miss Helen Saum, instructor of physical education for women, was presented with a gold seal pin similar to the one awarded to the high point woman of the Seal chart. Miss Saum is leaving the University this spring to take post graduate work at the University of Wisconsin and the members of Seals as a token of their appreciation of her work and interest in the organization presented her with this emblem.

The members who received medals were: Catherine Richter, A3 of Davenport, gold medal; Gladys Brooker, A3 of Omaha, Neb., silver medal; and Mildred Augustine, A3 of Ladora, the bronze medal. All the medals are pins in the form of tiny seals. They are awarded for the highest number of points made in the work on the Seal chart. During the entire semester the Seals have been holding contests every two weeks with several events of different kinds. The winners of the largest number of events is awarded the gold medal at the end of each year.

Others placing in the events, in the order in which they placed are: Shirley Kinney, A4 of Mason City; Eleanor Wichelman, A1 of Davenport; and Margarita McGovney, A4 of Iowa City.

The winners of the Seal emblems are Shirley Kinney, Alice Timberman, A4 of Massena, Eleanor Wichelman, and Florence Nordman, A4 of Waverley. These emblems are awarded for the passing of the improvement tests and the Red Cross life saving test.

The dinner was served at Youde's Inn at 6:00 o'clock and was followed by the presentation of the medals. Gladys Brooker, president of the organization, presided.

Frosh Track Team Adds Another Victory to its List; Beats Wisconsin, 98 to 37

Yearling Stars Score Five Slams; Badgers Count One

Nelson, First Year Weight Man, Cracks Frosh Mark in Shot; Cuhel Takes Three Firsts, Taxman Two

Scoring five slams and taking ten firsts out of fifteen events the powerful Iowa freshman track team trampled over the Wisconsin yearlings by a 98 to 37 score in their dual telegraphic meet yesterday. The Hawkeyes came through with slams in the 100, 220, 440, hammer and discus throws, while the Badgers took all the places in the high jump.

This is the fourth victory in outdoor wire meets this year for the greenmen, Illinois, Michigan, and Ohio State being the other victims of the Old Gold crew.

This year's team appears to be well balanced as a whole with particular strength shown in the dashes, hurdles, and weight events. The performers in the jumps and the pole vault are not quite as consistent as the rest of the team but the entire squad will be a valuable addition to the varsity next year.

The results of yesterday's meet follow:

100 yard dash. Taxman, (Ia.) first; Harmeson (Ia.), second; Cuhel (Ia.) third. Time :10.

220 yard dash. Taxman (Ia.) first; Cuhel (Ia.) second; Harmeson (Ia.) third. Time, :21.9.

440 yard dash. Cuhel (Ia.) first; White (Ia.) second; Pratt (Ia.) third. Time, :50.5.

Half mile run. Bergstrom (Ia.) first; Sinning (Ia.) second; Reeves (W) third. Time, 2:01.4.

Mile run. Chapman (W) first; Hunn (Ia.) second; Speers (Ia.) third. Time, 4:29.3.

2 mile run. Chapman (W) first; Hunn (Ia.) second; Speers (Ia.) third. Time, 9:40.

120 yard high hurdles. Cuhel (Ia.) first; Moore (Ia.) and Hanson (W) tied for second and third. Time, :15.7.

220 yard low hurdles. Cuhel (Ia.) first; Eisle (W) second; Elgin (Ia.) third. Time, :25.1.

Pole vault. Mullins (Ia.) first; Lockhart (Ia.) second; Lemmer (W) third. Height 11 feet 6 inches.

Shot put. Nelson (Ia.) first; Lapp (Ia.) second; Vallincourt (W) third. Distance, 43 feet 8 1-2 inches. (New Iowa Freshman Record.)

High jump. Dunn (W), Barnes (W), and Deadman (W) tied for first, second and third. Height, 5 feet 11 inches.

Broad jump. Sappenfield (W) first; Bale (Ia.) second; Mann (Ia.) third. Distance, 21 feet 9 inches.

Discus throw. Nelson (Ia.) first; Marquis (Ia.) second; Lapp (Ia.) third. Distance, 130 feet 6 1-2 inches.

Javelin throw. Van Horn (W) first; Handy (Ia.) second; Mann (Ia.) third. Distance, 155 feet 7 1-2 inches.

Hammer throw. Lapp (Ia.) first; Nelson (Ia.) second; Lagomarcino (Ia.) third. Distance, 123 feet 7 1-4 inches.

Eleven Enter Novice Cross-Country Run Tomorrow

Hunn and Speers, Yearling Distance Stars, Signed Up

Eleven runners have entered the annual spring novice cross country run which will be held between events of the Notre Dame-Iowa dual track meet on Saturday afternoon. It is expected that many more last minute entrants will swell the field by time of the race. The men who have entered are Carroll, Hunn, Wasserman, Grove, Claassen, Hoffer, Eversman, Sinning, Vestermark, Handy and Ekstrand.

Two Mile Course

Racing over a course approximately two miles in length, the harriers will skirt the river road to the south, reversing and finishing in front of the west side stands at the place where they started. The course is the same that was used for the Iowa Cross Country club run on May 9.

The best prizes of the year will go to the place winners of the final intramural running event. Two hadsome silver cups will go to the winning upperclassman and the first freshman to finish. The former will win the Ida Grove Alumni cup while the yearling will receive the Cedar Rapids Alumni cup, both of which may be kept for one year.

Fifteen Medals Awarded

Fifteen medals are offered by the Department of Athletics: Gold for first and second, silver for third, fourth and fifth and gold-bronze for sixth to fifteenth, inclusive.

All men who have not won a varsity award in cross country or track are eligible and a great fight is expected to develop between Hunn, winner of the Iowa Cross Country club run, his teammate Speers and several of the second-string varsity runners.

Fraternity Sports

Sig Pis Win Semi-Final Game

Playing on the armory field in the semi-final game of the fraternity series the Sig Pis took the lead in the first inning and never relazed it. This leaves two unbeaten teams in the league, Sigma Pi and Delta Tau Delta, who will play the final game for the fraternity championship.

The game was featured by the hard hitting of both teams. Batteries; for Sigma Pi, Huffman and Van Deusen; for Sigma Chi, Berger and Christianson. Home runs: Heiserman, Watson; three base hit, Van Deusen.

Belting to Attend Athletic Meeting

Doctor Paul E. Belting, director of physical education, will attend a meeting of the athletic directors of the Western Conference at Columbus, June 4 and 5. On the day following, the directors will see the conference championship track and field meet in the Ohio State oval.

It is expected that one of the most important matters which the leaders will take up will be that of football schedules. While it is not definite whether or not some plan of rotation will be adopted as in the case of basketball, it is likely that the discussion will lead to some better plan of arranging football cards. As it stands now there is far too much inequality in the schedules of the ten conference teams.

Record Claimed for Amateur Low Power Radio Signalling

LONDON, May 28 (AP)—R. W. H. Bloxam of Blackheath, an amateur radio enthusiast, successfully intercepted daylight signals transmitted by John L. The Royal Geographical Society estimates the distance at 3,334 miles and the reception, it is believed, constitutes a daylight record for the low power used.

Blue Cross Society Appeals Against Needless Use of Furs

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., May 28. (AP).—Belief that the craze for summer furs is on the wane is expressed by the American Blue Cross Society in its third annual appeal for the protection of animal life, and the eradication of waste and cruelty in trapping wild animals.

The society does ot advocate total abstinance in the wearing of fur, but strongly opposes its use as a decoration.

Snyder's Home Run Wins for Giants in Last Tilt

BOSTON, May 28 (AP).—New York won the final game of the series from Boston today, 8 to 6, Snyder's home run over left field fence in the eighth coming as the winning score.

New York	300 300 101	8	12 3
Boston	300 010 200	6	13 3

Philadelphia	021 130 20x	9	13	1

Batteries: Johnson, Gregg, Ogden, and Ruell; Tate, B. Harriss, and Cochrane.

The Daily Iowan—$1 for the entire summer.

Three Groups Tied for Participation

In practically a tie for first place in the race for the great intermural participation trophy, Sigma Alpha Epsilon, Delta Tau Delta and Sigma Chi will battle it out for high honors this week end. The S.A.E.'s and the Delts are leading the race with 340 markers each with Sig Chi a close third with 339. The rest of the Greek letter clubs are training at some distance behind.

The three leaders have all entered teams in the Interfraternity Canoe race tomorrow and if one of them wins that event, its standing will be materially raised. Delta Tau Delta has a team in the finals of the baseball tournament and Sigma Chi will be represented in the finals of the tennis tourney, so the outcome of the race for the participation trophy is anything but settled.

Frosh and Varsity Cinder Team Pictures Taken Today

The varsity and freshman track and field squads will have group pictures taken on Iowa Field Friday afternoon at 5 o'clock.

Coach G. T. Bresnahan wishes to have all men on the two squads present on time—the varsity attired in their competition uniforms and the freshman in their green suits.

Music Recital, June 5 Begins 5-Day Commencement Program

Commencement this year officially begins Friday night, June 5, according to Prof. F. D. Higbee, general chairman. At 8:15 will be given the annual recital of the school of music.

Saturday morning, June 6, the Iowa-Chicago golf tournament will be held on the university golf course. At 8 p. m. the University band will give a concert on the campus. This concert will be broadcast from station WSUI. Following the concert there will be the usual informal parties.

Senior Processional

Sunday, at 4 p. m., the baccalaureate services will be held on the campus. Rev. Charles R. Brown, of the Yale School of Divinity, will be the speaker. The seniors, in academic costume, will form north of Old Capital at 3:45 and preceded by President Jessup, the speaker, Professor Patrick and the chaplain, Rev. Ira A. Houston, will walk in procession to the scene of the services. Music for the occasion will be given by the school of music. This will be broadcast and also amplified here. Another band concert will be given at 7 p. m. that evening on the campus.

Monday, June 8, at 9:30 there will be a band concert, immediately followed by the senior class wrangle. Arrangements have been made this year so that spectators may sit down while watching this affair. After the wrangle the seniors will depart at 11 a. m. for the Red Ball Inn, where the annual class breakfast will be served. A meeting of the executive committee and the trustees of the Iowa Memorial Union will take place in Old Capitol at 10:15. Another meeting will be held following this, with luncheon, at Youde's Inn. Judge Faville will preside.

Concerts Follow Fete

The June Fete will be given that afternoon at 4 o'clock in front of the natural science building. Following this, at 4:45, President and Mrs. Jessup will receive commencement visitors informally in Old Capitol. At 6 o'clock will be held the various class dinners as arranged by the classes. A band concert will be given at 7:30. Following this the commencement play, A Midsummer Night's Dream, will be presented at the out of doors theatre.

To Broadcast Address

The commencement exercises will be held Tuesday, June 9, at 9 a. m. on the campus. The address will be given by Pres. W. O. Thompson, of the Ohio State University. The address will be broadcast and also amplified here. The committee in charge has arranged so that traffic noises will not disturb the audience during this program. In the event of bad weather, the exercises will be held in the men's gymnasium. Immediately preceding the opening of the exercises the seniors in caps and gowns will form north of Old Capitol, and will then march to the natural amphitheatre on the campus. Approximately one thousand individuals will receive degrees at these exercises. The commencement luncheon will be held in the women's gymnasium. There will be an interesting program during the course of the luncheon. Among the speakers will be former Governor Frank O. Lowden and Harvey Ingham, of the Des Moines Register.

Iowa's First Mix With Notre Dame Staged Tomorrow

Eight athletes who have won many points for Iowa will appear for the last time before the home crowd. The last of the Hawkeye members of the Olympic team now in intercollegiate competition will step out when Captain Chan Coulter, 100 and 440-yard man and Harold Phelps, miler and two miler, fight for firsts in their events.

It is fitting that Coulter should enter the meet with the best 440-yard record of any university runner in the west—:49 flat while Phelps holds the best two mile time in the United States this season, 9:27.

But in addition to the two headliners, Paul Jones, joint holder of the University record in the broad jump; Fred Klindt, 1924 state champion in the high jump; Harry Daine, point winner in the conference shot put; John Hancock, place winner in the Big Ten discus throw; Lyman Hoyt, letter man in the dashes and John Marschall, javelin thrower will make their final bow before an Iowa crowd.

Rockne Brings Real Squad

Notre Dame is bringing a team of potential strength which will force the Hawkeyes to the limit. Coach Rockne has carefully groomed Captain Barr, Layden and Della Maria for the dashes; Stack and Coughlin for the quarter mile; Casey and Barron for the hurdles; Cox and Masterson for the half mile; Judge and Wendland for the mile and two mile; Milbauer and Boland for the shot put; Harrington and Carey for the pole vault; Cunningham and Layden for the for the high jump; Gebhard and Maxwell for the discus and DeVault and Frye for the javelin.

No Hammer Throw

The hammer throw will not be held because the Notre Dame faculty will not allow their athletes to train for it. An example of the fine sportsmanship of Coach Rockne is the fact that he offered to concede Iowa nine points in this event but Coach Bresnahan of course would not accept those terms and was willing to remove the event from the meet's program.

Four Iowan's on Team

On the Notre Dame team are four men from the state of Iowa and one of them competed on the freshman track team here in 1922. H. Dalmadge of Buffalo Center, two miler, was a teammate of Van Ness and Marchi on the yearling squad of that year; Elmer Layden, dash man and jumper is from Davenport; Casey, hurdler, competed for Mason City high school while Barron, his teammate over the barriers established a great high school reputation at Fonda.

Lightbody, Canty, Officiate

Two noted officials will add to the success of the meet. James D. Lightbody of Chicago, winner of four Olympic championships in 1904 and 1908 will act as referee and starter while Ted J. Canty of the Illinois Athletic Club will announce. Canty has announced all the big meets from coast to coast for the past few years. An added feature of the afternoon will be the attempt of Charles R. Brookins to shatter his world's record in the 220-yard low hurdles, being opposed by five freshman hurdlers. The annual novice cross country run will also be started and finished in front of the stands during the meet.

Summer Session Students to Visit Towns

Trips to Cedar Rapids, Ft. Madison, Keokuk, and Other Interesting Places to be Made

Trips to interesting Iowa towns will be part of the plan for summer session students this year. Similar trips are taken by students of commercial geography during the regular session, but in the summer anyone who wishes may take them.

The first six weeks will see Prof. C. W. Wassam in charge of journeys to Cedar Rapids where the Quaker Oats mill, the starch factory and packing plant will be inspected, to the arsenal at Rock Island, Ill., to the dam at Keokuk, stopping at Ft. Madison penitentiary en route, and to Amana, where all the villages will be visited and trips made through the stores, schools, bake shops, community kitchen, the gardens and the vineyards. To accomodate the large number of people who always want to make the Amana trip, there will be two made to that colony this summer.

Bruce Mahan will conduct the tours during the five weeks summer session. It has not been definitely decided just what towns will be visited then, but some of the above will be favored again. It is customary to ask students for the names of places which they would enjoy seeing, according to Mr. Mahan.

In former years, the groups have made visits to the Trappist monastery in northern Iowa, to John Brown's old underground railroad station near West Branch and to the State Reformatory at Anamosa.

Arrangements have been made for one trip each week during the six weeks session, but only four will be made during the second term.

$48,673.59, Iowa's Investment in Play

Recreation Year Book Just Issued Gives Data

DES MOINES, Ia., May 28 (AP)—Iowa invested $48,673.59 in public recreation last year, it is said in the Year Book of the playground and Recreation Association of America, just issued.

One hundred and eighteen public play areas, more than four times as many as were reported five years before, were maintained under leadership in twelve cities. Of these seventy-two were outdoor playgrounds, thirty-four community centers and twelve miscellaneous areas. Municipal golf coursese are provided by these cities, Cedar Falls, Davenport, and Des Moines.

The cities sending reports of recreation leadership for the Year Book were Cedar Falls, Davenport, Des Moines, Dubuque, Fort Dodge, Maquoketa, Marshalltown, Newton, Ottumwa, Sioux City, Traer and Waterloo.

Iowa is among the ten progressive states which have recreation laws making it possible for a small percentage of the voters of a city, town or county to petition a popular vote on the question of establishing public playgrounds, the report says.

Riot in French Parliament Causes Communist's Rebuke

PARIS, May 28 (A P).—The French parliament showed itself nearly solid behind the government's defensive policy in Morocco today in a five hour debate that the communists turned into a scene of turmoil for a while, causing president Herriot to accuse communist deputy Dorot of "treassonable utterances."

The communists attacked the army and the tactics in general in Morocco with such violence that M. Herriot had the chamber censure Dorot depriving him of his vote and pay for a month. Both premier Painleve and M. Herriot defended the Moroccan policy as justified resistance of Abdul El Krim's invasion and denounced the communist's assault on France's good name.

New Smoke Devised

CHICAGO, May 28 (AP).—A long horizontal gas burner playing a stream of fire into a pile of hardwood sawdust creates the smoke for curing hams and bacon in Chicago's packing plants. At one time wood fires were smudged to produce great quantities of smoke which came in direct contact with the meat, but this system has been discarded.

Union a Remote Possibility, Thinks Local Presbyterian

Congregationalists and Calvinists Favor Coalition Here

"A remote possibility." This is the manner in which the Rev. Robert Reed, pastor of the local Presbyterian church, designates the project of a Presbyterian-Congregational union which would cause local churches in towns throughout the country to move their pews into one building, dismiss half the choir, and hold joint meetings of the Ladies Aid.

"Not every flare-up in the family means a divorce," comments the Rev. Ira J. Houston, pastor of the Congregational church here, speaking of the threatened split. "A church's vested interests in property and its traditions are a strong tie, and I can't help believing that whatever differences there are, will be untangled."

Congregationalists Meet

The question of union with the Presbyterians will be officially considered by Congregationalists in October at their national meeting in Washington, D. C.

Many people in the local Presbyterian church would like to see a union with the Congregational church, Reverend Reed says. Several forward-looking liberals have expressed enthusiastic hope of an actual organic coalition here.

Congregationalists on their part, would warmly welcome union with Presbyterians, is the judgment of Reverend Houston.

That the Congregational church has no creed, while Presbyterian ministers and elders must subscribe to a body of doctrines, in the opinion of Reverend Reed, presents one obstacle to union.

The fact that William Jennings Bryan, who lost the important position of Moderator of the Presbyterian organization but only a few votes in a recent election, vigorously disfavors the union, might also mitigate against coalition in the near future.

Cleveland Churches United

A successful union of Presbyterian with Congregational churches has been effected, however, in Cleveland, Ohio. From here came the proposal of a national union which is at present under discussion in Columbus.

In some mission fields entirely satisfactory coalition has already been effected. In India, in December, 1924, a total of 186,000 persons in one day put aside distinctions between Congregational and Presbyterian churchees and merged into one church. The delegates of the two churches, meeting in separate rooms of a college building at Bombay, filed out simultaneously until the two lines coalesced. A service was held, and officers at once elected for the united church.

Fosdick Accepts Rockefeller Pulpit

nonconformity to fundamentalist theories, the Reverend Fosdick has been very wary of accepting the ministry of any established church. In the present case he has made his acceptance of the pulpit contingent upon three conditions, namely:

(1) That the church no longer insist on baptism by immersion.

(2) That its mebership be open to all Christians regardless of creed.

(3) That the congregation build a skyscraper church near Columbia university with living quarters, clubrooms, and other institutional features.

According to the Des Moines Evening Tribune, only seventeen out of the four hundred members dissented to his demands. Mrs. Marshall Clarke, the wife of one of the deacons, fainted after an impassioned plea for the upholding of fundamental creeds. She said she had prayed all day for divine guidance to make a righteous decision.

The Reverend Harry Emerson Fosdick was a University Vespers speaker during the month of February.

Disabled Veterans Pick Vander Beke New Commander

National Convention Delegates to go to Omaha

Old Gold Chapter No. 3, the Disabled American Veterans of the World war elected the following officers at their meeting last night:

Commander, George E. Vander Beke.

Vice-Commander, Carl Schwob.

Adjutant and Treasurer, V. R. Miller.

Chaplain, C. E. Fitzsimmons.

Historian, Clair J. Butterfield.

Sgt. at Arms, R. S. Acker.

State Executive Committeeman, Clair J. Butterfield.

Convention Delegates

The chapter is completing arrangements to send a delegation to the organization's fifth annual national convention, to be held in Omaha, June 22 to 27 inclusive. Advices have been received by the local wounded veterans from the convention city that this year's D. A. V. conclave is expected to outdo in brilliancy the elaborate national conventions of previous years, the colorful programmes and splendid entertainment programmes which have gained for the Disabled American Veterans' society the enviable position of being the most sought after of all ex-service men's groups by cities, for the honor of playing host to its national conventions.

National Commander Frank J. Irwin, D. S. C., of New York City, will preside at the coming national conclave in Omaha. Past National Commanders, Judge Robert S. Marx of Cincinnati, C. Hamilton Cook of Buffalo, and James A. McFarland of Dalton, Georgia, will be present, and expect to take an active part in the convention proceedings. General Frank T. Hines, Director of the United States Veterans' bureau, Washington, D. C., has accepted the disabled veterans' invitation to be present and address the conclave delegates. National Commander James A. Drain of the American Legion, Commander-in-Chief Louis F. Arensberg of the Grand Army of the Republic, the leaders of the Spanish War Veterans, Veterans of Foreign Wars and United Confederate Veterans are also expected to attend the big conclave.

Schumann-Heink Will Sing

Madame Ernestine Schumann-Heink, the famous singer and beloved "Gold Star Mother," has cancelled her European concert engagements, in order to follow her annual custom of attending the Disabled American Veterans' national conventions, and singing for her "boys." Madame Schumann-Heink will sing "The Star Spangled Banner" and "Taps" at the public initial session Monday morning, June 22, in the Omaha municipal auditorium; and will give a special recital for the wounded and disabled veterans, the following evening.

Local Delegates

The Iowa City delegates are T. J. McCabe, Jesse Rogers, Lee S. Coy, Clair J. Butterfield, George E. Vander Beke, Daniel Holcomb, Louis Zapf, Carl Schwob, V. R. Miller. The Iowa City delegation plans to board the special train which passes through Iowa City June 21.

Iowa Dames Club Honored Student Wives Wednesday

Officers Installed; Mrs. Travis is New President

The University of Iowa Dames' Club held their farewell party for twenty student's wives Wednesday evening in the liberal arts drawing room. Over sixty members were present.

A short business meeting preceeded the installing of the new officers for next year by Mrs. D. D. Corlett, retiring president.

The officers installed for the coming year are: Mrs. Roland Travis, president; Mrs. Merril Shutt, vice president; Mrs. L. E. Hackbarth, recording secretary; Mrs. H. W. Voltmer, corresponding secretary; Mrs. C. H. Post, treasurer.

A farewell program was arranged by Mrs. T. J. McCabe, chairman of the program committee, who introduced each number. The following program was given:

Piano solo, Mrs. Lee Travis.

When I was the wife of a student, Mrs. F. D. Francis.

Wife of a graduating student, Mrs. Lee S. Coy.

Just a Dame, Mrs. Peter Meis.

Vocal Solo, Mrs. D. W. Holcomb, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. R S. Acker.

Reading, Mrs. M. F. Metfessel.

Plans for next year, Mrs. Roland Travis.

Following the program, Mrs. Peter Meis presented to each departing club member a small leather address book.

Hostesses for the evening were Mrs. C. E. Leese, Mrs. Max Littlefield, Mrs. Walter Vander Wilt, and Mrs. Iver Opstad.

Paul Siepman, E. Rettenmeyer Spend Vacation in Mexico

Paul Siepmann of Stewart's Shoe Store and his uncle Ed. Rettenmayer are spending their vacation at Dedman, New Mexico.

They camped at the foot of an old Volcano Capulin, which has a crater 700 feet deep. This is located fourteen miles from Des Moines, N. M., which has been named by a Capitol City man from Iowa.

They left Iowa City on Mother's Day Sunday, May 10, and drove south through Illinois, Kentucky, Arkansas, Oklahoma, Texas, and New Mexico.

Officials Object to Floating Loans

Government May Use Moral Influence Against Bonds

(By the Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, May 28.—With officials convinced that Italy is making a serious attempt to accomplish a refunding settlement with the United States, methods of exerting mort pressure on other governments having unfunded obligations were given consideration today in government circles.

Talk was revived of employing administration opposition to flotation of loans in America by those governments which have taken no definite steps to reach a funding agreement.
