French Seize Two German Ships Off Coast of Morocco

Expert Decisive Action by Spain Against Riffians Soon

(By The Associated Press)
EL ARAISH, Spanish Morocco, June 11.—A dispatch received here from Fez, general headquarters of the French, says a French torpedo boat today seized two German ships, the Leipsiz and Dortmund, off Agadir in the southernmost part of Morocco on the Atlantic ocean, and took them to Mogador to make an examination of their cargoes.

Expect Action

(By The Associated Press)
FEZ, Morocco, June 11.—Decisive action against the invading Riffian tribesmen is regarded here as imminent due to Spain's intention to land a force reported to number 20,000 men in an attempt to seize the naval base of Alhucemas now held by the Moors.

Abdul-El-Krim is expected to oppose te Spanish attack to the uttermost and apparently in preparation for the engagement has withdrawn to the north a number of his best warriors and has moved other chosen troops towards Adjir where a council of war is reported to have been held. If these movements are confirmed it is thought the French will abandon the defensive attitude they have previously observed and assume the offensive

Senator Bowman Backs Brookhart

Tells Dubuque Miners He Will Stump State In Primary

(By The Associated Press)
DUBUQUE, Ia., June 11.—State Senator M. L. Bowman of Black Hawk county, declared in addressing the Iowa State Federation of Labor convention here this afternoon that he "would stump the state" for United States Senator Smith W. Brookhart in next years primary campaign if Brookhart should chance to become a candidate against Senator A. B. Cummins.

His statement was greeted by applause and cheers from the convention delegates.

Senator Bowman's statement came in reply to a query from the floor asking "what he would do in the event that the present United States senatorial contest is undecided by next year and Senator Brookhart should become a candidate for the 1926 nomination.

"The manner in which the question was put revealed that it was taken for granted by the delegate that Senator Bowman expects to become a candidate against Senator Cummins.

"There are those seeking the U. S. senatorialship," Senator Bowman said, "who have practically announced their candidacies. Other are mentioned as possible candidates and several newspapers have even suggested that the meeting here might be destined to place an endorsement upon my candidacy. The senator from Black Hawk is not here for that purpose. Senator Brookhart has my letters written to him recently in which I said that in case the difficulty in Washington is not settled before the primaries he should become a candidate against Senator Cummins and that I would stump the state for Brookhart."

"In the event Brookhart resigns his present position to run in Senator Cummin's place and I have announced my candidacy," Senator Bowman continued, "I will withdraw and fight for Brookhart."

Machine Gun Fire Turned Loose on Armory Invaders

Fighting Continues at Canton; American Boat Fired On

(By The Associated Press)
HANKOW, June 11.—After a series of anti-foreign disturbances here today, the rioters attacked the British volunteer armory. Fire hose was used against them but proved unavailing and a machine gun was turned on the rioters, eight of whom were killed and many wounded. The rioters first proceeded to the Bund and destroyed the seats and Japanese shops, severely mauling one Japanese shopkeeper.

Later they rushed the barricades and invaded the armory. The rioters completely outnumbered those in the armory and the defenders finally, on orders from naval authorities, opened machine gun fire.

Fighting at Canton

SAN FRANCISCO, June 11. — Nearly a score of apparently disconnected incidents featured today's news from China.

In the south the fighting around Canton continued with increasing casualties while the American gun boat Pampanga was fired upon and returned the fire. At Shanghai students who took part in the rioting which brought anti-foreign feeling to a climax May 3, were ordered by the mixed court to furnish bonds for their future good behavior.

Chinese Reply To Note

At Mugdan, Manchurian headoffice replied to the note from the diplomatic corps saying it was impossible for the Chinese government to admit that Chinese demonstrators were responsible for the Shanghai dsturbances.

At Mukdan, Manchurian headquarters of Chang Pso-Lin, students held a demonstration but efforts to promote a general strike were reported to have failed. Reports from interior China were encouraging with no serious outbreaks apparent.

Students Leave on Geology Trips

Trowbridge, Runner Are Instructors in Field

Tuesday afternoon a large University truck filled with the necessary equipment and carrying a group of students with Mr. Arthur E. Trowbridge as instructor started for Baraboo, Wisconsin, where one of the University geology courses is to be offered. They planned to reach camp Wednesday and to begin work Thursday in the "field." Four weeks will be spent studying the rocks and other material of interest to geologists after which the group will be required to write papers about the amount covered.

With work along this same line and the same requirements, another group with Mr. Joseph James Runner of the geology department as instructor, left last week for the Black Hills to study the type of rocks and fossils there. These men are staying at a camp close at hand where the expense of room and board is covered by the money pooled by the group. The work will last four weeks, after which time the camp will be broken up and each member will go home to write a paper on the work accomplished.

According to information from the other members of the geology department here, this is the first summer for several years that women did not register for the course.

Arctic Expedition Will Fly June 17

McMillan Carries No Instructions About Arctic Lands

(By The Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, June 11. — The McMillan expedition, when it departs for the arctic June 17, Secretary Wilbur said today, will carry no special instructions concerning the course it should pursue in claiming lands it may discover in flying over disputed territory.

The question was brought up in a letter to Mr. Wilbur from Donald B. McMillan, head of the expedition, who asked if there were any special instructions in view of the statements at Ottawa indicating an interest on the part of the Canadian government in the plans for the undertaking. It is understood the position of the department is that no question has been raised as to the right of navy planes to fly over Ellsmere island or any other territory, including that claimed by Canada north of its generally recognized boundaries.

Shows 22% Increase

In President Jessup's greeting to summer session students printed in Thursday's Iowan the second sentence should have read, "This is particularly true here at the University of Iowa where last year's summer session enrollment of 3,128 exceeded that of the previous year by twenty-two per cent."

A typographical error caused the increase to appear as but two per cent.

Alumni Celebrate 25th Anniversary

St. Mary's Graduates Gather Here; Attend Dinner

One of Iowa's oldest private high schools graduated its twenty-first class Wednesday evening and yesterday celebrated the silver anniversary of the graduation of its first class. Former students, graduates, friends and patrons of the school joined in the ceremonies which opened yesterday at nine o'clock with a solemn high mass at St. Mary's church, and closed with a program at the auditorium at which Rt. Rev. Edward D. Howard, auxiliary bishop of Davenport, was the principle speaker.

Another feature of the day's events was the annual Alumni Banquet which was served in St. Mary's assembly hall last night. Covers were laid for 225 alumni who were gathered from all parts of the middle west for this occasion. Eleven priests, pastors of neighboring parishes, and students of the University, were among the guests. At this time the class of 1925 was welcomed into the organization which now numbers 290 members.

At the solemn high mass which opened the anniversary ceremonies, Rev. Father Ulrich A. Hauber was celebrant; Rev. Father Jacob Schoenfelder, deacon; Rev. Father R. A. Kinnavey, sub-deacon. Father Hauber graduated from St Mary's high school in 1901 and has since received his master of arts degree from the University of Chicago and the degree of Doctor of Philosophy from the University of Iowa. His nephew, Ulrich Hauber, who graduated in this year's class from St. Mary's was among the acolytes.

The value of and necessity for moral as well as intellectual training was stressed throughout the program. Loyal alumni expressed their appreciation of the services rendered to the congregation and to the community by Very Rev. Father A J. ## Young Heads Summer Session in Illness of Weller

Summer session registration at the end of the first day was about 57 per cent larger than that on the first day last year, according to Associate Prof. Charles E. Young, assistant director of the Summer Session, who will take over the work as director of the Summer Session during the illness of Prof. Charles H. Weller.

Professor Young declared that although this seems to indicate an even greater increase than was expected this large growth should not be estimated too confidently. Various circumstances may modify the speed of registration. In the first place, the summer session this year begins a little later than is usual and the registration may be proceeding faster. However, this report is very encouraging.

Will Continue Two Days

Registration for the Summer Session had begun in earnest yesterday morning to continue through to Saturday evening.

Registration Proceedure

Starting in room 1 of the University Hall the students gain their admission cards which are in the form of booklets and from there proceed to room 309 at the end of the hall. Here there are large tables about the room above which are large placards indicating some department in the University which is offering work. It seems to an observer that the tables over which are the signs naming various sciences and required courses are the most in demand although the other tables receive their share of attention. In the center of this same room there are several tables and chairs which students stop to use while filling out the long registration blanks.

Passing out of this room several long tables are placed where each student has his fees assessed. After completing this he goes once more for the basement, this time going to room 3, where the payment of the fees is made. From there the student goes into room 7, where the materials are checked and collected.

First Class Monday

After the process of registration is completed he may wander about freely until Monday morning when work will begin in earnest the first class commencing at 7 o'clock.

To Stand as Monument For Principles of Pioneers

(By The Associated Press)
GLENCOE, Ill., June 11.—Originating in 1869 as a reading circle then step by step into a circulating library and literary club, the Woman's Library Club of Glencoe, affiliated with the Federation of Women's Clubs, plans the construction soon of a clubhouse which will stand as a monument to the principles and achievements of its pioneers, and headquarters for the activities of the present day woman.

The club is the fourth oldest woman's organization in the United States and from its inception has shared its purpose with the development of the community. That spirit is carried into the building program of the new structure, which will be the first unit of the Glencoe Plan of future commercial and residential growth. It has been designed to fit in harmoniously with the village plan of building.

With its ground site, the clubhouse will have a value of aproximately $250,000. The cost will be met by the club membership. From the sources which are expected to use the clubhouse, the building committee estimates an income of $24,980 and disbursements of $15,760, leaving an annual surplus.

The Things That Really Count

(Davenport Times)

WILL ROGERS, of Follies fame, is a humorist of the first water. He is universally loved for his wholesomeness no less than his faculty for poking fun at the great and the near great. Each week he contributes a column to a number of metropolitan papers, in which he comments in his inimitable manner upon current events. He was in no mood for poking fun last week. He had been called back home by the death of his sister. Instead he penned this beautiful tribute to a life of service, which appeared in the Chicago Herald-Examiner:

A few days ago I was asked by one of the big ministers of New York City to come to a luncheon and speak to over 300 ministers and prominent laymen. He sat in my dressing room for over an hour. I tried to explain to him that I would be all out of tune with the audience he would have. He is the Methodist minister here who is building that wonderful big church which will be the tallest building in New York. A club, a home, a meeting place, a recreation place for everybody that is interested in trying to live a nice, clean, wholesome life, and wants to be thrown with people interested in the same thing.

Well, I had worked at affairs for every denomination in the world here in New York, because one is just as worthy as the other. Old New York, the so-called heartless city, houses some great people in every denomination in the world, and I can't see any difference in them. I haven't been able to see where one has the monopoly on the right course to heaven.

I told him I didn't know what to talk about, saying the erection of this wonderful church and worth while center was, of course, understood, as every one knew that it was a wonderful undertaking. But anyway, I went and never in my life did I face an audience with as little preparation. Well, I floundered around from one subject to another. The minister in introducing me had said that I had been raised a Methodist and I had. So when I got off on that I just couldn't help but speak of a thing which I didn't want to speak of. I knew what would happen if I did.

Out of a large family of which I am the youngest, I have two sisters living. And I couldn't speak of any church without bringing in the work that these two sisters have done, in the little own in which they both live. It's Chelsea, Oklahoma, which means nothing in your life, but it has meant a lot to people who have lived in association with them.

They started in this little western town some thirty-five years ago. They helped build the Methodist church, the first church there. They have helped every church, they have helped every movement that they knew was for the best upbuilding of their community. They have each raised a large family of boys and girls who are today a credit to their community. They have carried on the same as thousands of women have carried on in every small and big town in the world. They don't think they are doing anything out of the ordinary. They don't want credit. They do good simply because they don't know any other thing to do.

The reason I spoke of this personal thing is because I couldn't help it. My wife was waiting at the train right then for me to see her off to the sick bed of one of these sisters. I didn't tell this to the ministers because they are my sisters, but because none of them who has given his entire life and time to God could have given any more than they have. They have given their all.

Now when I had finished my little talk to rush to the train to see my wife off, I had something happen that had never happened before and I have spoken at a great many affairs. The entire 300 stood up and offered a silent prayer for my good, afflicted sister. That was days ago.

Today, as I write this, I am not in the Follies, the care-free comedian who jokes about everything. I am out in Oklahoma, among my people, my Cherokee people, who don't expect a laugh for everything I say.

That silent prayer that those 300 ministers uttered didn't save my sister. She has passed away. But she had lived such a life that it was a privilege to pass away. Deah didn't scare her. It was only an episode in her life. If you live right, death is a joke to you as far as fear is concerned.

And on the day that I am supposed to write a so-called humorous article I am back home. Back home, at the funeral of my sister. I can't be funny. I don't want to be funny. Even Ziegfeld don't want me to be funny. I told him I wanted to go. He said: "I would hate you if you didn't." I told W. C. Fields, the principal comedian of the show. He said: "Go on, I will do something to fill in." Brandon Tynan, my friend of years, said: "Go home, where you want to be and where you ought to be."

After all, there is nothing in the world like home. You can roam all over the world, but, after all, it's what the people at home think of you that really counts. I have just today witnessed a funeral that for real sorrow and real affection I don't think will ever be surpassed anywhere. They came in every mode of conveyance, on foot, in buggies, horseback, wagons, cars and trains, and there wasn't a soul that come that she hadn't helped or favored at one time or another.

Now, we are in the south of the south, and according to northern standards, we don't rate the Negro any too high. Well, I wish you could have seen the Negroes at her home on the day of the funeral. Before her death she said: "They are my folks; they have helped me for years; they are all my friends. When I am gone I don't want you children at my funeral to show any preference." That's the real south's real feelings for its real friends. Death knows no denomination. Death draws no color line. Some uniformed newspaper printed: "Mrs. C. L. Lane, sister of the famous comedian, Will Rogers." They were greatly misinformed. It's the other way around. I am the brother of Mrs. C. L. Lane, "the friend of humanity." And I want to tell you that as I saw all these people who were there to pay tribute to her memory, it was the proudest moment of my life that I was her brother. And all the honors that I could ever in my wildest dreams hope to reach would never equal the honor paid on a little western prairie hilltop, among her people, to Maud Lane. If they will love me like that at the finish, my life will not have been in vain.

Will Rogers is as much a part of Broadway as Flo Ziegfeld but it hasn't adversely affected his sense of values. This intensely human and homely appraisal of those virtues which are the essence of the finest Americanism, explains the popularity of this smiling, gum chewing lariat twirler. Beneath his humor is a rich vein of philosophy founded upon knowledge of human affairs and an appreciation of the highest qualities of mind and heart.

The Light of Fifty Years

(The Milwaukee Journal)

My definition of a university is Mark Hopkins at one end of a log and a student on the other.—James A. Garfield.

If I have chosen between scientific investigation and buildings, I will live in a tent—and I mean that, too.—President Birge of Wisconsin.

Parallel expressions, these, of the vital forces that make up a university. James A. Garfield was speaking before a body of alumni when he gave his famous definition. He was trying to show that the human factor of teaching was the great thing. President Birge was before a legislative committee, pleading for a few thousand dollars to carry on scientific explorations. He was saying that there can be increased learning and benefits only as we lay an increasing foundation.

Here are words by which we can measure our own attitude toward our university, as evidenced by the support we, as a state, have given it. Dwindling appropriations, cramped buildings, the man at the other end of the log leaving when conditions become unbearable, pleadings for appropriations to widen the circle of our knowledge falling on deaf ears. The answer is that we have not seen in the university the vital institution that it really is, We have not been in a small measure comprehended it as Presidentt Birge comprehends it after 50 years in the service of Wisconsin.

Poems That Live

Mother of Quiet

Quiet clings to her tread like sandals,
Her vestment moves with no sound,
Wheresoever she walks, there
Is holy ground.

Her fragrant body is a soft fire
Burning honey and wheat;
I shut out tumult, hearing
Her still feet.

I would be as the moss, a depth
Under her step, for she
Touching my restless heart
Would hallow me.

—Joseph Auslander.

Vogelmen Leave For Notre Dame Tonight; Trackmen Leave

Three Honored by I-Club, for Iowa Feminine Athletes

In spite of the secrecy which shrouds location of the ceremonies, news of the initiation held by the I-Club, here Saturday night has leaked out. Membership in the I-Club is limited to girls who have won their "I" for their participation in major athletics.

The initiated were: Thelma Whimpey, a senior from Albia, Florence Nordman, a graduate from Waverly, Jean Issenhuth, of Parkston, S. Dakota, and Alice Roose, a junior from Iowa City.

At the election which followed initiation, Pauline Spencer, a last year's graduate from Des Moines, was named honorary president, Alice Roose was named acting vice-president. Other officers are: Gladys Brooker, of Omaha, Neb., secretary, and Genevieve Harter, of Iowa City, treasurer.

Rotary President Shapes Convention

Everett W. Hill, president of the International Rotary Clubs, is completing arrangements for the annual convention of the organization, in Cleveland.

Twelve Men Make Baseball Journey to Irish School

Twelve baseball players wearng the Old Gold and accompanied by their coach, Otto Vogel, will entrain this evening for the final diamond contest for the year for the Hawkeye crew, that with Notre Dame at South Bend on Saturday.

The battle will mark the final appearance for two men on the baseball field for Iowa. Captain Wilbur Scantlebury and Derrill Fisher are the duo of performers who are playing their last college game.

Game to Be Close

Indications pont to a close, exciting game at South Bend. The fact that the veteran pitcher, "Hub" Marshall, will not be in the box for the Old Gold is certain to weaken Coach Vogel's aggregation somewhat but the team should not be hurt to any material extent with Adams handling the twirling end of the affair for Iowa.

The slants of the Vail, Iowa sophomore, have bothered the hitters of the Conference to no small extent all year and dope would seem to indicate that the Irish batsmen will have plenty of trouble connecting safely off his deliveries.

Lost First Game

In the first contest of the year between the two nines, Elmer Beston, Notre Dame hurler, won for his team from a Pauba-Sheakley pitching combination. In that affair Sheakley worked nicely and he too will make the trip this week-end and may have a chance to meet the Irish again.

At any rate, Iowa cannot win by its pitching alone. If the Hawks can strengthen the weak hitting they have displayed all season they should be able to take the contest for their fielding during the whole year has been far above the average.

The players making the trip are: Captain Scantlebury, Fisher, Miller, Sheakley, Adams, Hoben, F. Barrett, M. Barrett, Smith, Flinn, McNabb and Beardsley.

Must Go to Prison Under Anarchy Law

Benjamin Gitlow, former N. Y. socialist assemblyman, must serve the five year sentence meted out to him in 1920 on the charge of advocating overthrow of the government, the supreme court has just decided. His is the first case in which the anarchy law has been invoked since it was enacted, following the assassination of President Garfield.

Conesville Signed for Iowa City Nine

Conesville, with a highpowered, full salaried baseball team is slated as the opposition for the local Independent nine here next Sunday. The Independent crew, after their decisive defeat of the Sylvis nine at the City Park last week-end, is drilling hard in an effort to pile up a string of three successive wins.

Under the management of Alexander, the local team has lost but one contest, that with Bettendorf in a battle some weeks ago. The following Sunday, the Iowa City men mixed with Oxford and emerged on the long end of the count.

Then last Sunday the locals behind the pitching of "Doc" Schreiber, turned back the supposedly powerful Sylvis machine by an 8 to 1 score. The game this week-end is scheduled to start at 2:30 p. m. at the City Park with Schreiber probably again on the mound for the Iowa City aggregation.

Dozen Members of Track Team Leave for Chicago Meet

Coach George T. Bresnahan and twelve members of his Iowa track team left by auto yesterday morning for Chicago, where they will compete in the National Intercollegiate track and field meet today and tomorrow.

The men making the trip and their events are: Captain Coulter, quarter mile; Roberts, dashes; L. Phelps, hurdles; H. Phelps, two mile; Thomas, high jump; Jones, broad jump; Dauber, shot put; Daine, shot put and discus, Hancock, discus; Williams, hammer; Handy, hammer; and Rice, javelin.

In this week's meet the Iowans will face some of the strongest competition they have met in years when the athletes from all over the country gather. Over two hundred schools are members of the association sponsoring the meet and most of them will have representatives there.

Calls Shephard Lazy Panhandler in Trial

(By The Associated Press)

CHICAGO, June 11.—Castigated in the prosecution's opening statement as a constitutionally lazy man who with his wife lived as panhandlers upon the bounty of a boy whom he greedily slew with typhoid germs when the youth indicated an intention to assume control of his million dollar estate, William Darling Shephard, Chicago lawyer, went on trial today for the murder of his foster son, William Nelson McClintock.

Judge Olson, instigator of the investigation culminating in the trial, spent a brief few minutes as the first state witness. Judge Olson was denied the privilege of expounding upon his accusation that Shephard took young McClintock's life as a part of a sixteen year old plot to obtain the lives of Mrs. William McClintock, Sr., and Dr. Harry Olson, brother of the judge.

Iowa City Home of One of Oldest Parochial Schools in State of Iowa

St. Mary's high school here is one of the oldest private institutions of learning in the state. The first parochial school in Iowa was founded in 1846, the year that Iowa was admitted to the union, by Rev. Father Anthony Godfert, pastor of St. Mary's church at that time. This little school held its sessions in a small room in the basement of the church. It boasted of only very meagre equipment, a handful of students and a single faculty member, yet it is to this unpretentious beginning that parochial school education in Iowa City owes its inception.

St. Mary's free school, of which the present high school is an outgrowth, was founded in 1864. This suplemented the work of St. Agatha's seminary and St. Joseph's institute and had an important place in the educaional system of Iowa City when it was one of the more important cities of Iowa.

The cornerstone of the present school was laid Sept. 11, 1892, by Rt. Rev. H. Cosgrove, D. D. Since 1896 the Sisters of Charity, B. V. M., have taught in the elementary and high school departments. In 1897 it was decided to organize a high school and three years later the first class was graduated.

St. Mary's was the first parochial school in the state to be affiliated as a secondary school with the University and accredited to it. Under the direction of Very Rev. Father A. J. Schulte, who has been head of the institution since 1891, it has advanced to the respected position it now holds.

Court Hear's Claims

Hearing of claims against the receiver of the Commercial State bank, begun Wednesday in district court, was continued yesterday and will probably occupy the court again today.

Marshall Allows Four Hits But Errors Lose Game, 5-2

(By The Associated Press)

DUBUQUE, Ia., June 11.—"Hub" Marshall pitched a shut out ball game for Dubuque today but poor playing on the part of his mates allowed Marshalltown to get away with the second game of the series by the score of 5 to 2.

Marshall allowed the visiting club but four hits, but three costly errors lost the game. Hicks playing third base got one hit out of four times at bat. McGuire, center fielder, got one hit out of four times at bat.
