One Bottle Gives Weird Spree to Crimson Clock

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Feb. 4(AP)—Harvard's "big ben," the clock in the tower Memorial Hall, is in disgrace. The timepiece has gone on a spree after years of sobriety.

For three days Ben has been acting queerly, but the crowning misbehavior came yesterday. Horologist Walford went up to see what was wrong. He took along a bottle of something or other, gave a little to the clock and straightway things began to happen.

The hands leaped from 11:15 to 12:30, hesitated and reeled to 3:30. Here they abandoned the last vestige of dignity and Charlestoned back and forth between 3:30 and 4 o'clock. Tired at last, Ben flopped to 12:30 as neighboring clocks sounded 1 and there the hands stuck.

Walford plans to let him sleep it off today. Then he'll resume the investigation.

Patrick Secures Vesper Speakers

List Includes Famous Names of Rabbi and Social Worker

"Four of the best speakers that could be procured in the country have been booked to come here next year for vesper services."

This statement was made by Prof. G. T. W. Patrick, chairman of the vesper committee. Because of the popularity of the speakers, it is necessary to engage some of them a year in advance, so the program for next year has been already planned.

Jane Adams of Hull House

On Jan. 16, 1927, Miss Jane Adams who is known for her work at Hull House, will be here. Miss Adams expects to take a trip to Europe during the coming summer, so she will have a fresh message for her audience here. She has had wide experience speaking in all parts of the country, and was greeted with enthusiasm when she spoke here a few years ago.

Mr. Charles W. Gilkey, who may be considered to be the best speaker for students in America, will be present on Feb. 13, 1927. Mr. Gilkey has served as university preacher at Harvard, Yale, Princeteon, Cornell, Chicago, Toronto, Wellesley, Stanford, and Purdue.

Book Rabbi Wise

March 13 is the date set for the appearance of Rabbi Wise who has spoken here twice, both times before a packed house. He is said to be the most distinguished Jewish speaker in America, and is identified with local, national, civic, charitable, and social work.

Albert Parker Fitch, who will appear at vespers on Oct. 17, is a successful speaker. He is also a writer of note, having written "The College Course and the Preparation for Life." "Religion and the Undergraduate," "Preaching and Paganism," and "None so Blind."

Mystic Teacher to Speak

Rufus M. Jones will be here Nov. 21, and Mr. Linn Harold Hough is booked for May 1. Both are celebrated speakers and authors. Mr. Jones is professor of philosophy at Haberford college, and according to Professor Patrick, is one of the most outstanding teachers in the particular field of mysticism.

Mr. Hough has been here before and is a well known minister in Detroit, Michigan.

Besides the above-mentioned speakers, the vesper program next year will also include two musical services given under the direction of the school of music.

House Argues on Military Budget

Delafield Accepts Full Responsibility for Campaign

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4—A row in the House military sub-committee revolving around the application of the "gag" clause of the budget law to inactive reserve officers of the army, was disclosed in the committee's hearings on the current army appropriation bill made public today.

John Ross Delafield, president of the reserve officers association, a general officer in the reserve, told the committee he accepted full responsibility for a nationwide campaign to increase the appropriation for the reserves $1,400,000 over budget figures. He produced a ruling by the judge advocate-general holding that the clause of the budget act forbidding any officer of the government to submit recommendations for budget increases to congress did not apply to reserve officers on inactive status.

Nevertheless Chairman Madden of the appropriations committee declared General Delafield was "taking the place of the president" in investigating the campaign for an increase, and the position of the reserves was "an insult to congress."

The reserve chief said he was "head of a big civilian organization of taxpayers" and that the circulars distributed by the organization were "an appeal to congress."

As to application of the "gag" law, he pointed out that the court of claims had held that reserve officers could prosecute claims against the government despite their federal commissions.

Alcohol League Protests Report of Episcopalians

NEW YORK, Feb. 4 (AP)—The World League against alchoholism in a statement made public today by Robert E. Corradini, of its research department, took issue with the report yesterday of the Rev. James Empringham, national secretary of the church temperance society of the Episcopal church, purporting to show that prohibition has been a failure.

The statement challenged every point in the result of Dr. Empringham's survey of prohibition enforcement which caused the Episcopal organization to reverse its attitude toward the Volstead Act and announce that it would work for the legalization of light wines and beers. It also denied that the League had "brought pressure from across the Atlantic" to bear upon Dr. Empringham to prevent the report from being published, as was intimated in press reports.

"Alcoholism in the United States before prohibition, was decidedly beer and wine alcoholism and the legalizing of these beverages would bring back ninety per cent of the old liquor traffic" said the statement.

Congress Angry at Cal's Attitude on Coal Problem

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4—The attitude of President Coolidge on the anthracite suspension drew fire again today in congress.

The senate debated the subject for nearly an hour, while Representative Black, (Dem., N. Y.), issued a statement replying to a pronouncement made recently to newspaper correspondents by the official "spokesman" of the White house.

Copeland Opens Senate

Senate discussion was reopened by Senator Copeland, (Dem., N. Y.), who wants the president to call in the representatives of the miners and operators, and before it had been concluded, Senators Harrison, (Dem., Miss.), and Norris, (Rep., Neb.), had joined in the suggestion for presidential action along that line.

Norris Suggests Seizure

Senator Norris declared that he believed the suspension could be ended if the president would call in the spokesmen for the two sides and inform them that, unless operation was resumed immediately, he would recommend to congress that some of the mines be seized so as to furnish an adequate supply of coal to the country at reasonable prices. Saying that the chief executive had "used his influence" with senators for adoption of the world court resolution of adhesion and for a favorable report by the Senate agricultural committee on Muscle Shoals, Senator Harrison said it was "a pity" that the president had not made a similar effort with the coal men long ago.

Litte Hope for Resolution

Senator Copeland told the Senate that he had little hope that his resolution requesting the president to initiate a conference with the coal men would be passed, but he wanted to make it clear what "the failure of the administration to act means to the suffering poor."

Interrupting the debate, Senator Reed, (Rep., Pa.), again suggested that Senators bring forward some legislation pointing a way out of the present situation. He reiterated his belief that the proposals thus far advanced were ineffective.

Senator Norris said he was satisfied that the president did not have authority to act without legislation from congress, but he insisted that a suggestion of "nationalization" of some of the mines in such an "emergency as now exists," would bring about resumption of anthracite mining.

Dr. Rifer to Talk Here on Questions Facing the Tourist

Dr. Van Rifer, formerly of Rockford college, and Chicago manager of the Temple tours, will talk about travel tomorrow in room 118 of the liberal arts building at 4 o'clock. The meeting is for all students interested in a European trip this summer or later.

Dr. Van Rifer is an experienced world traveler. The Iowa Students trip will be explained, but the meeting is meant for everyone who is interested in European travel.

Roger Knight's Play Headlines Mecca Week Exhibits

"Infinity," written by Roger L. Knight, S4 of Iowa City, is the choice of the Engineers for this year's Mecca play. The story of the play is a secret but it is said to be a comedy characterized by depth and extent of plot.

Thomas to Discuss Evolution in Talk

To Explain Relation of Paleontology in Address

Paleontology, or a study of the past life of the earth as shown by the record of rock formations, will be the basis of the lecture to be given by Prof. A. O. Thomas of the geology department in the chemistry auditorium at 7:30 tonight. This is the third of a series of five talks sponsored by the Zoology club on the subject of evolution. The evidences of evolution will be set forth from the paleontologist's point of view.

According to Prof. Thomas, every animal large and small can trace its ancestry back through the rocks for an incredibly long period of time. The earth is very old and life has been on the earth continuously for tens of millions of years. During all this time forms of life have gradually evolved from lower to higher orders in a long process. Certain animals have disappeared forever, new ones emerging slowly have risen to take their place only to disappear in turn. The life of today, even including man, is the product of long development.

The lecture will be illustrated with views and restorations of the strange animals of the past, and the speaker will present evidences to show how this long continued story is an open book to the student of earth history.

He has been occupying the position of chief prosecutor in the office of the county attorney of Scott county and now announces his candidacy for the republican nomination for the office of Attorney-General of this state.

"More News, More Influence, More Ethics" in Newspapers Today, Declares Lazell

"The American newspapers are the best in the world," declared President Coolidge recently, according to Prof. Frederick J. Lazell, of the school of journalism, in a radio talk over WSUI yesterday at 12:30. His topic was "Have Faith in the Newspapers."

The newspapers of today are printing more real news and solid editorials in a day than the newspapers of Dana's time did in a week, averred Professor Lazelle. They have added amusements and entertaining feature stories without subtracting a single column from the news stories and editorials.

Personal Journalism Alive

As for the weekly newspaper editors of Iowa or any other state in the union, practically all of them own their own newspapers and they are far more independent in utterance than the editorial writers for magazines.

"Personal journalism dead? No, indeed. It never was more alive than now," he declared.

Newspaper Ethics Good

The newspapers make some errors. So does every other business or profession. There is probably no business or profession which takes so much pains or goes to so much expense to avoid error as do the newspapers. Humanity is always fallible and sometimes an error slips through—but not very often.

The newspapers have voluntarily adopted a code of ethics which compares favorably with those of the medical and legal and other professions. The standards of a majority of newspapers and the ideals of most newspaper men are high.

Influence of Papers

"President Coolidge is right when he says that the newspapers today are better than ever before. They print a lot of what the people want to read, but this is always less than the amount of printed material which they believe the people ought to read. They have more news, more influence, and more ethics today than at any previous time," stated the journalist.

"National newspapers, state newspapers, county newspapers, township newspapers, taken collectively, are the mightiest force in the civilization of America and they will continue to hold their readers, no matter what may be said by biased magazine writers, and other critics, who have not taken and do not care to take pains to get the whole truth."

Senators to Lose Sleep Over Tax Slicing Measure

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4(AP)—After a seven hour session today in which it virtually marked time in its consideration of the tax reduction bill, the Senate tonight voted fifty-four to thirteen to meet an hour earlier than usual tomorrow, to speed up the work.

Objection to the early session program was made by Senator Couzens, (Rep., Mich.), who had the floor at the end of the debate today and said he was unprepared to meet at the early hour tomorrow.

Demand Night Session

Demanding night sessions as well as the early session to speed up consideration of the bill, Senator Heflin, (Dem., Ala.), joined Chairman Smoot of the finance committee in moving the early meeting tomorrow. Seven republicans, five democrats and one farmer-labor voted against the proposition.

Completing its first week of work on the bill, the senate tonight still faced the most serious fights impending against provisions reported by the finance committee. Consideration of one of these controversial provisions—repeal of the provision in the present law allowing publication of amounts of income tax payments—was begun today. The proposal to repeal the inheritance tax, the other controversial point, remains to be taken up.

Start Publicity Fight

The income tax publicity fight began only a short time before the day's debate ended with an amendment by Senator Norris, (Rep., Neb.) to make all income tax returns open to public inspection, the vehicle for discussion.

Prior to taking up this proposal which Senator Couzens supported, the senate agreed to several changes in the administrative proviso of the bill as amended by the finance committee. One of these would exempt life insurance companies from the one per cent increase in the twelve and one-half per cent corporation tax already voted into the bill by the senate.

The exemption was allowed because the companies could not take advantage of the proposed repeal of the capital stock levy. Senator King (Dem., Utah) protested against the "favored treatment of the insurance companies."

Solons Call Unfair Newspaper Attacks

Get Publicity Only by "Jazzing It Up" Johnson States

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2 — The attitude of many newspapers toward congress was criticized in the house today by representative Johnson, democrat, Texas. He declared a member of congress must "jazz it up, or make ridiculous statements" in order to get publicity.

"Many newspapers show a surprising lack of judgment in what the public wants," he said, "and still less judgment in their baneful attacks on congress."

Defending newspapers in general, Representative Howard, democrat, Nebraska, said it was true that some were guilty of "unethical procedure" and "lack of respect" for congressional procedure.

Grange, Financier, Plans to Take Dad on European Tour

CHICAGO, Feb. 4 (AP)—Red Grange, having caught a personal and profitable glimpse of professional football from the playing field, wants to try his luck in the box office. He will seek to obtain the franchise of the Chicago Cardinals at the meeting of the national professional football teams.

Grange, who is considerably more wealthy and none the worse for wear after having followed a coast to coast trail in the last month, returned to his home in Wheaton today. The former Illinois star and the leader of the Chicago Bears, for whose professional colors he discarded his famous "77" jersey last fall, arrived this morning from the west coast.

Wheaton will bask in his presence for three weeks, after which Grange will depart again, this time to fill a movie contract. It was announced today that he will return to the University of Illinois next fall and in the interim he hopes to take his father for a European trip.

America's best known young financier declines to discuss his bank account beyond the comment that "Dad, brother and I don't have to worry about any finances from now on."

Engineering Faculty Hears Talk by Kay

Dean George F. Kay of the liberal arts college was the speaker at the engineering faculty luncheon at Youdes Inn yesterday. Dean Kay discussed the methods which the university should employ in assisting students to orient themselves in order that the best in every student may be developed in the line in which his superior talents lie. The discussion is certain to be taken up in a future meeting.

Damage Heavy in Worst Storm of Winter; 20 Perish

Shipping in Confusion as Hurricane Hits Atlantic Coast

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Feb. 4 —The northeastern section of the United States tonight was digging itself out from under the heaviest snowfall experienced this winter.

The storm, after wreaking its fury for eighteen hours upon the Atlantic seaboard from Georgia to Maine, lifted this afternoon as suddenly as it had rescended and went whirling its way along the ship lanes toward Newfoundland. In its wake it left a snow blanket varying in depth from a few inches in the south, to two feet in the Allegheny mountains.

Nearly a score of deaths, some property damage and partial disruption of transportation were recorded throughout the storm area.

Passengers Snow-bound

Shipping, harried by more than a week of severe storms, suffered new disasters. Thousands of passengers on coast wise liners were snowbound in Long Island Sound where the steamers anchored to await clearing weather.

Two ships were reported in distress at sea, and a third, the Dutch freighter Stad Zalt-Bommel, wirelessed that she was burning coal from her cargo to reach port at Providence, R. I. The Furnace freighter, Manchester, bound from Halifax to Manchester, was drifting with a broken rudder about 800 miles from Halifax. The German steamship Hanover has come to her aid. The collier Selwyn Eddy was reported in danger off the Delaware capes.

Seven Lives Lost

Seven lives were believed to have been lost in the sinking and grounding of three barges off the New Jersey coast. Three men were rescued, but two of them died from exposure after they were brought ashore. Six other barges broke loose from their tugs and were left to the mercy of the storm. Some of these were believed to have crews aboard.

Three persons lost their lives in New York; at least six persons were killed at New Britain, Conn., and other fatalities were reported from scattered points in the storm region.

Trains Suspended

Train service out of Boston was suspended late today. At the same time, passenger congestion in two mid-city subway terminals became so serious that the stations were closed. Motor snow sweeps were put to work to keep the main thoroughfares open. In New York City this force numbered more than 19,000 men and it was estimated the cost of clearing the streets would total $1,000,000.

Five Hundred Enroll in Graduate College

Registration in the graduate college, according to Dean Carl E. Seashore, has been completed more rapidly this semester than ever before in the history of the college. The approximate enrollment for the present term is five hundred students.

Day in Washington

The McFadden banking bill was passed by the House.

A $133,740,000 naval air program was outlined by Rear Admiral Moffett.

The tax bill continued to furnish the main subject for the Senate discussion.

The army appriation bill, carrying $339,581,000 was reported to the House.

John W. Thompson, convicted with Charles R. Forbes, appealed to the supreme court.

Prohibition discussion was engaged in by the wets and drys, both in House and Senate.

A special Federal Trade commission investigation into the Ward Food Products corporation was ordered.

Prominent Guests Attend Ball; Forbid Spectators

Realizing the fruits of six years efforts, friends of the university will witness the inauguration of Iowa's beautiful Memorial Union tonight when the thirteenth annual military ball will hold sway in the lounge room of the first completed unit.

The ball tonight initiates a two day celebration in observance of the significant event. The climax will come at a dedication luncheon tomorow noon, at which time the union will be formally presented to the university.

No Spectators Allowed

Many prominent alumni and military officials, including Governor John Hammill, Frank O. Lowden, Judge F. F. Faville, Fred T. Sargent, Major General Benjamin A. Moore and Brigadier General Louis G. Lasher, will be in attendance.

The ticket committee reports a complete "sell-out", 600 tickets being disposed of. Deans of the university, speakers of dedication, members of the board of trustees of the union, army officials including the military staff of the governor, and their wives will serve as patrons and patronesses of the affair.

Because there is no balcony about the room, no spectators will be allowed at tonight's formal.

Two Orchestras Play

At this time the lounge room, which is of singular beauty in combining magnitude and symmetry, will be opened to the public. Also the grill room, tastefully decorated, will be open to guests.

Two orchestras will give continuous music throughout the evening. Punch will be provided by the military ball committee at several places in the sun porch.

Since the ball this year will have as its setting a spacious, artistically designed ballroom, the affair promises to outshine considerably the ones of former years, which were held in the men's gymnasium.

Brick Wall Falls and Kills Seven Foundry Workmen

NEW BRITAIN, Conn., Feb. 4 (AP)—The collapse of a brick wall at the foundry of the North and Judd Manufacturing company in East Main St. today brought death to at least seven workmen. Eleven others are in the New Britain general hospital some in a serious condition. Six men are unaccounted for. The accident was a direct result of the blizzard, which swept this section last night and today, snow gathering on the roof of the one story building causing the wall to buckle. It fell into the street and the roof of the structure dropped on the workers below leaving a pile of twisted steel and masses of bricks.

A search for the dead and injured was begun, handicapped by huge drifts of snow and by the condition of the wreckage.

Coal Consumption on Increase Here, Nagler Estimates

There may be a strike in the coal fields this winter but Iowa City furnaces are working full time. According to data computed by Prof. Floyd A. Nagler of the college of applied science the average Iowa City householder will probably consume from one to two more tons of coal this winter than usually if normal temperatures continue for the remainder of the winter.

The estimate is based on temperature figures covering the cold months from October to April. Compared with the figures of former years this year's temperatures show the winter of 1925-26 to be the coldest so far since that of 1917-18. Thus if normal temperatures prevail for the remainder of the cold month period the result will be an increased consumption of coal according to Professor Nagler's estimate.

Methodists Endorse Prohibition Agencies

CHICAGO, Feb. 4 (AP)—The board of education of the Methodist Episcopal church today affirmed the loyalty of the church and all its agencies to prohibition. Bishop A. W. Leonard, of Buffalo, N. Y., offered the resolution, which was unanimously adopted, declaring:

"We record our appreciation of the strong and uncompromising position taken by the presidents of our educational institutions in support of the Eighteenth amendment and the Volstead act and assure them of the unqualified support of the board of education of the Methodist Episcopal church and all the interests which it represents in the efforts which are being made to secure professors and teachers concerning whom there is no question of their loyalty to prohibition and law enforcement."

LEW SARETT, nationally known poet and professor of speech at Northwestern university, says that "Metropolitan life has nothing worth possessing or essential to happiness which cannot be found in the woods and their villages." He has gone to the woods of northern Wisconsin "fed up" on the stereotyped life of the big city. He would not swap his freedom of thought for the Denver mint.

Many will envy his assertiveness and praise him for his stand. Others will read nothing but defeat in his statement that "Much of our civilization is a farce, modern society is a fraud and life in a metropolitan center a tragedy." In his belief that the modern emotional stress, social complexity, hot-house coddling and hectic jazz life are destructive of happiness and manhood, the joyous youth of his classes will probably recognize poetic justice, but they will not heed it.

It is true, of course, that we can find much that is wrong in any place, even the tall timber. There are rotten Denmarks all over the world. As for social complexity, hot-house coddling and hectic jazz, metropolitan life has nothing on the brawny, countryside, Mainstreet university environment. But it is also true that it is most difficult to maintain an independent attitude toward the standards that demand automobiles, fine raiment, and sophisticated manners when one is literally engulfed by them. It is impossible to subscribe wholly to the way of the crowd and possess any real freedom of thought.

Freedom of thought and liberty to think have been held dear in all centuries, so dear that few can express them even if they would. Many would like to take to the woods who do not. But whether one approves of the method of "escape" or believes that he who runs away to find himself encounters a new foe, no one will wish that Lew Sarett should do otherwise than to repair to the forest primeval for a guide to his inspiration when one reads such of his lines as for instance his "idealization of the beauty of death" mentioned in a review in the January Midland:

"Let me go down to dreams and dust
Gently, O Lord, with quiet trust
And the fortitude that marks a child
Of earth, a kinsman of the wild.
Let me go down as any doe
That nods upon its ferny bed,
And, lulled to slumber by the flow
Of talking water, the muffled brawl
Of far cascading waterfall,
At last lets down its weary head
Deep in the brookmints in the glen;
And under the starry-candled sky,
With never the shadow of a sigh,
Gives its worn body back to earth again."

Sneaking Into Canaan

WHILE it is probably bad form to begin an editorial with as musty a bromide as "It's an ill wind that blows nobody good," that particular saw may well express the sentiments of federal government agents concerning prohibition. At least must be true when they think of things like this:

"With the advent of prohibition border patrols were established to prevent night rum-running, and these federal agents have made it dangerous for the former operators of row-boats and power boats to endeavor to transport immigrants across the river. The result is that the practice has been largely, if not broken up as an organization."

For years immigrants of every country lured by the promise of this comparative Canaan have streamed over the Canadian border unmolested and in many ways. Some have huddled in the bottom of a chugging river launch swishing its way across the Niagara river to the American shores; some have taken their lives in their hands and crawled inch by inch over the girders of bridges; still others have squeezed themselves under the seats of cars crossing the border. No means has been left untried whereby these foreigners can eliminate the inconvenience of a legal entrance into the United States.

Those who cross the borders of this country by such clandestine routes are obviously undesirables. The honest European or Occidental who seeks greater opportunities for education and livelihood and is in earnest about it will not risk his chances for entrance by crossing the boundary in a smuggler's launch. That stream of immigration breeds the dope-peddler, the ignorant labor, the criminal, three classes of society which are increasingly menacing the status of the sociological and economical situation of this country.

Does prohibition prohibit? Its effectual damming up of this rather rank stream of humanity flowing from the north indicates that it is not quite as spineless a piece of legislation as its bucolic adversaries point out. It all resolves itself into the paradoxial situation in which the eighteenth amendment, instead of dashing the cup from the lip, limits the number of lips which have access to the cup.

The New Pankhurst

HOW the mighty have fallen! Christabel Pankhurst, former suffragette leader extraordinary, is now helping to establish a tea-room in Cannes, France.

A few years ago, with her hunger strikes, and general disturbing of the pecae, she attempted to force the British government to give women the vote. Front page banners on every paper in the world, and wide reputation were hers a short time past. The least to be expected of her was the first feminine prime-minister; and now she has opened a tea shop.

The pastime of "gentlewomen in reduced circumstances" scarcely seems to be the logical occupation for the fiery Christabel. She is not even to help in the popular fight of Englishwomen to have the voting age reduced from thirty years to twenty-one years.

The next thing we hear she may even be contemplating marriage!

Letter-Writin' Fools

SUPERSTITION recalls stories of Salem witchcraft, "special providences," and "mysterious portents." Thirteen had always been an unlucky number until scores found that it had been their lucky number. Walking under a ladder, opening an umbrella in a room, and breaking a mirror are still considered catastrophies.

Recently a flood of "chain letters" have been loosed upon the campus. One of them is signed by a former emperor of Japan, and several brigadier generals. It has circled the globe three times. The correspondent is directed to send the letter to nine friends, directing them to do likewise. In case these directions are not carried out, "years of disappointments and failure" are in store for the recipient.

Strange to say, the threats expressed in these letters usually gain their point. But to take them seriously even for a second, is a step backward. Letters might be described in the same terms that Don Marquis attributed to poetry: "The clinking of an unexpected coin in the shabby pocket of life." But they lose their beauty when impelled by a selfish motive. Originality of the thoughts prompted by friendship alone makes the letters of many an author some of his most delightful and representative works.

An Unworthy Contribution

RELATIVES of Martin Durkin, Chicago's bandit without a conscience, plan to capitalize his penchant for producing first page news. The money obtained is to be used for his defense.

Without a doubt the story of Durkin's life would be as interesting as any dime novel. Durkin as a sand lot baseball player; as a marksman training his trigger finger; as a Robin Hood who scorned autos parked at the curb and took them from dealers' show rooms; and as a heart-breaker would thrill thousands.

But every person buying this literary trash would be contributing to an unworthy cause. The money is to be utilized to thwart justice. Will Chicago, after crying for Durkin's capture, now aid in his release?

A Son of the Stars

BENGT STROEMGREEN, a sixteen-year-old student at Copenhagen university, Denmark, has amazed the scientists of that country by his construction of an electrical apparatus which automatically registers the movements of the stars, thus saving astronomers long hours of watching through the telescope. His apparatus consists of a photo-electric cell connected with a telegraphic receiver.

When only fourteen years old young Stroemgreen astonished the international astronomical world with a highly technical article on an astronomical problem. Since then he has been a student at the university, where his father is a professor.

His instructors find themselves in the embarrassing position of having to admit that they are unable to teach him anything more. It is here that his father has shown true wisdom. Instead of taking him from school, he has insisted on the boy continuing his studies for the sake of the companionship of boys of his own age and to prevent the too rapid development of his son's brain power. Youthful prodigies are sensitive beings and many have exhausted their possibilities through unwise early activity. Few have developed into real geniuses.

Our nomination for the Hall of America's Dumb is the guy who stopped for half an hour at the railroad crossing waiting for the stop sign to change.

Poems That Live

Complexity

Believe me not, if, honest and intense,
I say I love you;—for you know not what
Dark hatreds I shall feel a moment hence,
And still feel truth: be wise, believe me not;
Believe me not, if, frozen and apart,
I say I hate you;—dear, a mood more mild
Will see me press your likeness to my heart
Absurdly, like a sentimental child;
Believe me seldom, for the trickling hours
Are rain to rust and acid to corrode
The steel of all my truths; my last vow cowers,
Cringing to falsehood, under a day's light load.
Believe a girl so strangely made as I
Not even when I tell you that I lie.

SUGGESTED REPORT FOR IOWA CITY STREET CLEANER

Four score and seven months ago, our civic commissioners brought forth upon our boulevards a street-cleaning brigade, skilled in scrubbing and dedicated to the proposition that the pavement should gleam spotlessly. Now, we are endowed with the mud of many months, testing whether the patience of our citizens, so mired, or of any other citizens can long endure. We are gathered amidst the filth of these streets to set to work some husky men that this pavement our forefathers scrubbed might shine. But is it altogether fitting and proper that we should do this? For the tailor and the launderer we should not extinguish this dirt, eradicate this filth. Will their profits from bespattered suits and spotted dainties be beyond our poor power to reimburse? Is it for us to continue tribute to the speeding taxi and city railroad business, which the mud and rain, so far, have nobly advanced. It is rather for us to shake off the mud about us—that from our frosty friends the cleaners we acquire increased desire to have their job done again. That we here highly resolve that these men shall not have swept in vain, but that our boulevards, beneath new brushes, shall have a new birth of sanitation, and that the mire of mud, clouds of smoke, pools shall forever vanish from our city.

What! lad, no Jubilee? Why say,
I recollect when I was a kid
Loafin' my way thru Lazyarts
We used t' wait th' whole year long
T' see the Jubilee.

We'd stand in line fer hours,
Swimmin' in mud up to our necks
To get the tickets furthest front.
The whole durn school was lined up there
Pushin' and tuggin' to get in front.

An' say, the guys that got left out
Would mope around fer weeks and weeks.
We used t' say that if a man
Was both a Phi Bete and the captain
Of the football team, but missed
The Jubilee, he was a failure.

Why lad, they might as well move
Th' river and Old Capitol away
An' then say the school was just
The same, as to stop the Jubilee.

The Jubilee is just as much
A part of Iowa as Reinow
Or the Engineering school.
We could get along without 'em,
But just the same, you've got t' keep
Them here or else alums 'll think
That they're in Ames or Morningside
When they come back fer Homecoming.

Move to Investigate Tariff Commission

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4— Resolutions urging the abolition of the federal tariff commission and a congressional investigation of its acts and procedure were adopted unanimously at the final sessions yesterday of the national board of farm ganizations.

The action was based principally on the course of the commission in its consideration of the butter tariff case, and generally on what the resolutions characterized as "unwarranted delay in arriving at decisions."

In the butter tariff case, it was charged in the resolutions that the commissions, subsequent to public hearings, had held secret hearings with interested parties without giving notice to others interested.

Chairman Marvin of the tariff commission, declined to comment on the resolutions beyond saying that the commission would welcome an investigation.

Writers should limit themselves to 200 words. Full names and addresses must be given. No manuscripts returned.

SHUEYVILLE, Ia.—To the Editor: Now before the voters; a comparison of the hard surfacing of two roads,—one to be graveled, the other to be paved.

For comparison, take the two roads out of Iowa City north, one known as the Red Ball No. 40, north from Iowa City by way of North Liberty and Shueyville to the Linn county line to be paved. The other road north of Iowa City by way of Solon to the Linn county line to be graveled.

Length of Red Ball No. 40, 15.82 miles.

Length of Solon road, 15.21 miles.

Estimated cost for Red Ball No. 40, for grading, bridging, draining and paving, $582,475.

Estimated cost of Solon road from Iowa City to county line, for grading, bridging, draining and graveling, $151,086.

Compare the cost of maintenance for twenty-five years.

The county engineer tells us the cost of maintenance of one mile of dirt road is $350 per mile for one year, $300 per mile for one year for graveled road, paved road $40 per mile for one year.

There is only 61-100 of a mile difference in length of these two roads—for comparison, we will call the two roads the same distance—fifteen miles each.

Why compare the cost of the roads for 25 years? Because, Griffith, the engineer, states the life of the paved road is from 20 to 30 years; the average, that of 25 years.

The cost of the paved road upkeep at $40 per mile per year would be for fifteen miles, $600, for twenty-five years, it would be $15,000; add to this estimate, the original cost, which is $582,475, and you will have the total cost, $597,475.

Cost of upkeep of Solon road, north from Iowa City, to the county line, $300 per mile, for gravel, for fifteen miles, would be, one year $4,500. For twenty-five years upkeep $112,500. Original cost, $151,086. Total cost and upkeep for twenty-five years is $263,586.

Now for the comparison: Red Ball route original cost and maintenance for twenty-five years of paved road, $597,475. Solon road, graveled, $263,586. The difference is $333,889.

Comparison No. 2

On the other hand, go back to the original cost of the paved road, which is $582,475. From it, subtract the first cost of the graveled road, $151,086. The difference is $431,389. Taking out the cost of the upkeep of both roads, $5,100 every year, and putting the remainder of the amount left at 6 per cent interest for twenty-five years, one arrives at the approximate sum of $1,606,968. This is the amount made and saved at the end of twenty-five years on the graveled road plan.

The Hammill plan is what we should work for, unless something better should be put forth.

Mexican Quail Used by Kansan Farmers

TOPEKA, Kans., Feb. 4 (AP)—Kansas has found a way to import farm labor without running afoul of the immigration authorities.

The state has just imported 5,000 quail from Mexico to help out the Kansas farmers. They are expected to eat up 125,000 insects during next summer, and, with their brood of young "bobby whites" to destroy at least a quarter of a billion weed seeds by autumn.

The Mexican quail is slightly smaller than the native bob white of Kansas, but the state game warden is assured that the two will interbreed. He estimates conservatively that the purchase of 5,000 birds will bring 25,000 young quail next summer.

Current Comment

STERN REQUIREMENTS
(The Washington, Ia., Journal)

Seventy years ago! There comes into the Journal office from some friendly source a copy of a Vinton Eagle of recent date and it contains clippings from the Eagle of "Seventy Years Ago." One interesting item reads thusly:

The following is the first circular of the Iowa State Normal School at Iowa City, which is being held this year in the Hall of Representatives. Some of the conditions for entrance are:

1. The applicant must be 12 years of age if a female, and 14 years of age if a male.

2. Each pupil at entrance must be supplied with slate, pencil, blankbook, Webster's dictionary, and Mitchell's or McNally's Geography and Atlas.

There are two terms in the year of 20 weeks each. Tuition free.

Why the discrimination versus the male? Scientists have proven within recent years that the male human being has just as big a brain as the female.

And here we find the great state of Iowa seventy years ago insisting that a boy must be two years older than a girl before he would be permitted to go to state Normal school with a slate, pencil, dictionary and geography.

We are living in a faster age today. The effects of more finished education are being felt abroad in the land. It takes more than a pencil and a slate, a geography, and a dictionary to get a boy or a girl into state normal school now.

That's just the grade school standard today; hardly up to the grade standard either. Then we have the junior high and the wonderful high school with all its advantages; a course in itself far superior to the full college course of seventy years ago; and sixteen year olds make the grade easily, frequently.

There may be some children born into the world still that cannot carry a very great amount of education, but the more they carry the more their progeny will be able to carry. We are producing a race of young people who are capable of carrying about twice as much learning as the most cultured of the old timers received.

There is probably not much limit to the possibilities of brain expansion. Man has risen to pretty good heights already. Give him a peon track and watch him go on and on. Those of us who missed the higher school advantages of thirty or forty years ago, feel that loss in this day and age. Don't let any child of today who can possibly carry it miss the thing that he will need so desperately forty years from now.

BRITISH EMPIRE ONE UNIT
(Emil Daniels, in the Preussesche Gahrbucher)

No British colony will try to secede from the British empire. What could an independent Australia do against Japan? She had far rather be protected by the imperial fleet than build one of her own. To be sure, she might appeal to America for aid in time of stress, but in such an alliance she would be but a skiff behind a steamer instead of an equal partner as at present.

Neither has Canada anything to gain by leaving the empire. She, too, worries over a possible conflict with Japan. Her connection with England, moreover, discourages whatever annexationist designs the Americans may cherish.

To be sure, the Canadians might not regard absorption by the Union as a hopeless disaster, but they prefer autonomy. Every great community has the same instinct for self-preservation.

W.A.A. Purchases Setting for Dances

Members to Sell Two Tickets Each for Show Feb. 17

The W. A. A. board voted to buy a black screen which can be used as a drop background for the dancing acts of the vaudeville to be put on Feb. 17 at the Englert, at the meeting held in the women's gym Wednesday night. The curtain will be ordered immediately and will arrive in the city in time for the show, which is being rehearsed for now.

All members of the organization were given two tickets each to sell for the vaudeville. One ticket will be given to any member who succeeds in selling ten.

Practices for all the acts are being held every afternoon and evening. The dancing numbers, which play an important part in the performance, are in charge of Thelma Shomler, A1 of Cedar Rapids.

Engineers to Star With "Infinity," New Mecca Play

will open the engineer's week.

On With the Dance

The show will take up the 24th and 25th of the week, and the Mecca dance on Saturday, March 27, in the Memorial Union will ring down the curtain on the 1926 Mecca festivities. A combined fourteen piece "Chuck Sullivan-Bromo Seltzer" orchestra will furnish the music for the Mecca dancers.

One of the features of Mecca week is the exhibition that leads the spectators through exhibits which portray nearly every phase of engineering work. Some interest in this year's exhibit will be the work of the freshman engineers in the engineering shops; sophomores with surveying instruments; juniors in the power laboratory and the hydraulics laboratory.

Exhibits Electrical and Chemical

Of equal interest will be the electrical exhibit in charge of the senior electricals, senior mechanicals in the power lab, and an exhibit of the senior sanitary engineers showing the purification of water and a small sewage disposal plant. The chemical exhibit is not planned.

As a part of the junior hydraulic exhibit the hydraulic laboratory on the west side of the river near the dam will be shown for the first time in several years. The lab is one of the best equipped in the country.

Beaver Cutting Adds to Natural History Museum

A representation of a large beaver cutting is a new exhibit in mammal hall. It is significant in that it is unusually large and is a portrayal of the mechanical skill employed by the veaver in felling trees. "Without a doubt," says Prof. Homer R. Dill, director of the vertebrate museum, "this is the largest known cutting."

The exhibit is the stump of a cottonwood tree measuring two feet and two inches in diameter. The shrewdness of the little wood cutters is revealed by the deep cut gnawed on the lower side of the tree. This cut sufficiently deep the clever animal began on the opposite side and gnawed away enough to insure that the tree would snap and fall in the direction desired.

The cutting is a gift to Professor Dill from Mr. J. D. Figgins, director of the museum of natural history, in Denver. It was presented to him last fall when he was in Colorado on a beaver expedition for the university. The gift was shipped recently and is now in a case in mammal hall.

"By Their Perfumes Shall Ye Know Them" Sounds the War Cry

Poets frequently quote that famous line mentioning Helen of Troy as the woman who had "the face that launched a thousand ships." But it may have been Helen's perfume rather than her face which charmed so many swains. At least it is known that Helen was adept in the use of perfume and that she introduced the taste for it into her native Greece.

Through the long years which have elapsed since Helen brought war and death to the unfortunate Trojans her introduction of perfume has helped to lure other men on to destruction. In Greece perfumery became a recognized art the process of which was carried out very elaborately by slaves who massaged great personages with sweet smelling oils, salves, and spices. Grecian ladies wore perfumed beads with each bead containing a different fragrance. Contact with warm flesh expanded the beads so that they gave off a greater fragrance.

To Clarify the Atmosphere

From the ladies of Greece and Rome it is but a step forward to those of feudal times. In that long ago age when water was scarce and washing was regarded with superstitious horror it would have been almost impossible to survive if there had not been strong perfumes used to clarify the atmosphere. After the medieval times came the regime of Louis XIV with its "perfumed court" where a different scent was decreed for every day of the year. There was Queen Elizabeth, too, with her fondness for scented gloves which consequently became quite the rage in her court.

Even in this country many people can still recall the "romantic 'sixties' when young ladies tied their love-letters with blue ribbon and laid them away in a case scented with lavender. This sentimental period was succeeded by the Oriental craze when the fashionable world went wild over sandalwood and other eastern perfumes. Incense rose in choking clouds from the dressing-table of the fastidious woman's boudoir.

Mix for the Best Results

Still the evolution of the perfumer's art goes on and one hears now about "personality" perfumes. Artists of this industry no longer advocate that a woman should use one definite variety of perfume. She should take several kinds and mix them up into an aroma which just fits her type. Manufacturers in France are now making boxes which contain eight or more small bottles of different odors which the lady can mix into a variety which matches her mood.

With a touch of foresight it is easy to predict a not very distant day when psychology will have been entirely superseded by personality perfumes. Instead of fixing a stranger with that keen, penetrating glance so dear to the character reader, we will simply draw in a deep breath and say to ourselves. "That woman is of the independent mannish type. She uses new-mown hay perfume."

Lauer Outlines Problems Faced by Church Today

Two problems facing the layman in the church today, according to Prof. Edward H. Lauer, director of the extension division, are to awaken the real spirit of evangelism and to mold the church into a teaching church.

In his address to the men's brotherhood of the Presbyterian church of West Liberty, Professor Lauer challenged the laymen of today with these problems, saying, "It is up to the laymen to see that the church is adequately equipped to carry on this work. Every one knows that at the present time the church is in no position to meet the situation."

Senators Discuss Prohibition Issue to Air Audience

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4—Coincident with the controversy aroused by the announcement in favor of the light wines and beers by the Episcopal church temperance society, the prohibition question was debated tonight on the air by two members of the Senate.

Speaking from the studio of WRCA, the station here of the Radio Corporation of America, Senator Edge, (Rep., N. J.), took the side of those advocating modification of the Volstead Act, while Senator Dill, (Dem., Wash.), made the rejoinder on behalf of those opposing any change in that law.

Edge Speaks First

Addressing an audience over the country reached through a series of linked up stations, Senator Edge opened the debate with a talk of ten minutes and then the New Jersey senator was heard for five minutes in rebuttal.

The speakers agreed that corruption of public officials and a widespread illicit traffic in liquors had followed enactment of the Volstead act, but they were far apart as to the means of correcting these conditions.

Senator Edge contended that modification of the Volstead law "within the clear terms of the constitution would partly subdue the spirit of protest and challenge now so apparent."

Attacks Prohibition

"Would not it be far better for the morals of the nation to have a temperate condition," he asked, "than to have prohibition that does not prohibit but rather breeds defiance and in addition leaves in its wake a rapidly broadening trail of misery and corruption?"

Declaring that the "bootleggers and the extreme drys are together resisting all efforts for modification" Senator Edge said "public opinion, as now daily expressed from the pulpit and the forum, is demanding action and freely admitting the error we have made."

"We are not enlisted in an effort to tear down but rather to build up," he added. "To amend an unworkable law is not to violate it, but rather to make it worthy of the great republic in which we live."

Dill Explains Case

Senator Dill told his audience that to legalize the sale of beer and light wines would be to return to conditions in pre-prohibition days, which he contended were far worse than those existing after six years of legal prohibition.

"There is only one course to follow if we are to remedy the evils that confront us," he said.

Spanish Aces Hit Brazil in Spain to Argentine Voyage

Cheering Mobs Meet Commander Franco at Rio Janeiro

(By The Associated Press)

RIO JANEIRO, Brazil, Feb. 4—With the precision of an express train and to the enthusiastic shouts of watching thousands, Commander Franco and his comrades pulled into Rio Janeiro at 5:25 o'clock this afternoon, completing the fifth stage of the flight from Palos Spain to Buenos Aires. They left Pernambuco at 5:50 o'clock in the morning and traversed the 1,264 miles to the Brazilian capital in twelve hours ten minutes. Commander Franco said he would do it in twelve hours. Only 1,328 miles separate the aviators from their goal—Buenos Aires, a comparatively easy flight so far as distance goes, many times attempted, but never yet made on a non-stop schedule.

While soaring over Bahia, the residents of which had hoped the seaplane would make a stop, Commander Franco dropped flowers.

After being received by the authorities and numerous committees, Commander Franco, Captain Ruize de Alda and Mechanician Rada, led a parade through the business section of the city. The streets were lined with cheering crowds, decorations were hung everywhere and the workers abandoned their labors.

The fliers are the guests of the city and many entertainments are in store for them. It is not known when they will take off for the last leg to Buenos Aires.

University Hi Five to Battle Iowa City

Ancient Enemies Appear Evenly Matched for Tonight's Clash

Tonight at 7:30 Iowa City high and University high, ancient enemies on the basket ball court, will get together on the U high floor for the first clash of the annual series. Every year these games hold the spotlight of local prep circles and interest is even higher this year since the Blue and White will be a much more worthy opponent for Souchek's men than last year.

On the other hand the Iowa City quintet is minus the services of last year's stars and have had a very successful season so far. Coach Engeseth's men have lost only three games to date, two to Mount Vernon and one to Washington high of Cedar Rapids.

Coach Souchek has been shifting his men about during the last few weeks in an effort to strike upon a winning combination and their showing in the Clinton game and in practice the last few days seems to indicate that the Red and White has met with a certain degree of success.

The University high squad will not have Means in the lineup for the contest tonight as he has been declared ineligible because of the eight semester rule.

However, Callies, an elongated center, becomes eligible at this time and should prove a valuable addition to the team.

The probable lineups:

U High	Position	Iowa City
Dennis	rf	Burger
Lindonjan	lf	Idema
Jones or Callies	c	McGuire
Bowers or Myers	rg	Sheley
Johnson	lg	Lorack

Entries for Free Throw Tournament End Next Saturday

Entrance blanks for the all-University basket ball free throw tournament must be in the office of the interfraternity manager by Saturday evening.

The price for each man entering is five cents. Each fraternity will receive one participation point for each man entered up to twenty, if the men are eligible according to interfraternity rules. A team trophy will be given to the winning organization. Individual medals will be given to the winners of the contest.

The tournament is being pushed forward so that the high scorers will have a chance to enter the national free throw tournament if they wish to do so.

Delta Tau Delta, Phi Psis, Acacia Win Frat Games

Delta Tau Delta beat the Phi Delta Chi cagers and are now entered in the interfraternity elimination tournament as the champion of Section V. The score was 11-4.

The second game was won by Phi Kappa Psi, who beat Kappa Sigma with a score of 15-6. Young and Tilton, forwards for the winners each made three field goals. This team has yet to meet the Chi Kappa Pi aggregation before they can claim the chmpionship of Section VI.

In the third game Acacia defeated the Xi Psi Phi men 13-8. Duncan as forward starred for the winners and Tone playing forward for the losers made seven of the eight points scored.

The last game was won by Alpha Chi Sigma. They defeated Sigma Phi Epsilon with a score of 17-12. Craig, forward for the winners scored 1 points.

30 Baseball Candidates Work-out at Armory; Stress Hitting

Practically every man on the baseball squad has been present at the practice sessions since the fielders have joined forces with the battery men in the work outs in the new armory each afternoon. The thirty candidates have to share the armory with the basketball and track men, but Coach Vogel is seeing that each man gets his share of the practice.

Hitting is being stressed and one of the batting nets has been lowered to give the stickers and battery men a chance to acquaint themselves with real work. The majority of the men are badly in need of batting fundamentals and daily practice is in order for them.

The fielders are putting in much of their time in trying at ground balls and in pepper games, when they are not busy in the cages. Workouts similar to these will be held for some time, and a definite practice program will be announced later.

The squad will report this afternoon at four o'clock and Saturday afternoon at 1:15. Freshmen players will report later next week in order to relieve the congestion in the armory.

Suzanne Downs U. S. Woman Champion in Two Love Sets

NICE, Frnace, Feb. 4 (AP)—The first opportunity for a direct comparison of the tennis game Suzanne Lenglen is playing this winter with that of Helen Wills came today when the French champion met Mrs. C. F. Aeschlimann in the Nice tournament and the comparison was impressively favorable to Mlle. Lenglen.

Suzanne, attacking vigorously, downed Mrs. Aeschlimann, former Leslie Bancroft of Boston, in two love sets.

THE CAST

Prince Rupert Richard Barthelmess
Linda Lee Stafford ..... Lois Moran
Toni ..... Geoffrey Kerr
General Baron Karnaby ..... Henry Vibert
The King ..... George Spelvin
The Crown Prince ... Harry Short
Mrs. Stafford ..... Bijou Fernandez
King's Private Secretary ..... Prince Rokneddine

"Just Suppose," in picture form, has been transformed into a story of an imaginary kingdom's prince, instead of dealing, as it did in the stage version, actually with the Prince of Wales. It is nevertheless a charming light comedy with a nice little romance. Mr. Barthelmess smokes a pipe, fidgets with his necktie, and otherwise imitates Britain's prince. He even goes so far as to fall off his horse while playing polo.

Geoffrey Kerr, who incidentally played the part of the Prince in the play, renders a great help to this picture by his restrained acting and his show of good natured annoyance. He has a pleasing personality and facially is quite different from Barthelmess.

Lois Moran, whose characterization of the daughter in the production of "Stella Dallas" met with high praise, proves her right to screen distinction as the heroine of this picture. She impresses one as being thoroughly sincere in her efforts which are portrayed with a keen idea at all times of the character's mood.

* * *

Kenneth Webb, the director, has inculcated into this pictorial effort some pleasing ideas, and although the light narrative deals with a mythical kingdom it is depicted with enough originality to make it different from other stories of this type. Even the uniforms worn by Mr. Barthelmess are interesting, and the comedy touches are unfailing in their appeal to the spectator.

The organ accompaniment is good as usual and the "William Tell" overtures pleased yesterday's audiences.

Hawkeye Gymnasts Face Gophers Tonight Without Breckenridge

Gophers, Conference Champions Last Year

Loss of Captain Breckenridge, Blow to Iowa Aggregation

Minnesota's gymnastic team, the first of two Gopher aggregations which will visit the university this week-end, will furnish the competition for the Iowa performers this evening. The opening meet of the season will be held in the men's gym at 7:15 p. m.

Reports on the personnel of the Gopher team have not been forthcoming from Minneapolis. It is known, however, that Perlt, the star, who won three firsts in the Iowa dual at Minnesota last winter, has been lost, and, that several other point-winners from the conference champion team have completed their careers.

Minnesota never turns out a weak team in gymnastics and it is probable that another strong one will be in Iowa City this evening.

Coach Briceland of Iowa has nominated nine men to compete against the Gophers. The loss of Captain Breckenridge, unbeaten tumbler of last year, has left the Hawkeyes with untried material in this event. Faust, Noe, Harris, Lamont, Fuller and Drake were in intercollegiate competition last winter. Faust, star on the side horse and Indian clubs and Noe, high and parellel bars and flying rings were awarded the "I-g".

These are the Iowa entries: high bar—Edwards, Harris, Peterson, and Noe; side horse, Faust, Lamont, and Fuller; parallel bars — Doormink, Noe, Drake and Harris; flying rings —Noe, Edwards and Faust; tumbling—Doormink and Peterson; Indian clubs, Fuller.

Both races were features of the Melrose A. A. track and field carnival in Madison Square Garden.

Coach Armbruster announced today that all of the men, upon whom he is depending, came through their examinations in good shape and are eligible for the first dual meet of the season.

Cagers Complete Strenuous Drills for Gopher Game

Show up Well Against First Year Team

With but one object in mind and that "Beat Minnesota," the Hawkeye cagers went through their final hard workout of the week last night on the armory court.

Work on Defense

After working on tip-offs for some time the varsity shifted into their five man defense. At this stage the regulars began to show signs of life and the freshmen's Gopher attack was smothered at all stages. What few shots the first year men did get, were attempted from far out on the floor. The Hawks were also using their fast break to a good advantage at this time. The coach, then seemingly satisfied with the defense, gave his first five a rest, while the seconds were put through a similar session of work.

Calls Regulars Back

When Coach Barry again called his regulars back to the floor he let them try to work the ball through the yearlings set five man defense. The offense worked well at times, permitting some easy shots at the basket. At other times it looked poor and the frosh guards would either tie up the ball or gain possession of it altogether.

To Prevent Jazz Babies

Cyclone Grapplers Trounce Oklahoma

AMES, Feb. 4 (AP)—Iowa State college wrestlers tonight defeated the mat men of Oklahoma University 27 to 0 in a Missouri Valley dual wrestling meet. The matches were closely contested despite the fact that no Sooner grappler was able to best an Iowa man. Prunty, Cyclone star 158-pounder, won a fall from Cooke in 4:26, in the feature match of the meet. Oklahoma is coached by "Polly" Wallace, former ace of Cyclone mat men and all-American football center.

Liquor Sold Here Contains Deadly Poison, Dean Teeters Finds

Runs Test on Booze Seized in Two Raids

Finds 5 Per Cent Diethylpthalate in Samples, Enough to Kill Man

By PIER ALDERSHOF

Illness and death lurk in bootleg liquor being sold here, tests made by Dean Wilbur J. Teeters of hootch seized by police in raids last Saturday night reveal. The samples contained diethylpthalate, a poison, which brings on in some cases an acute attack of gastritis, and in others death, to an occasional drinker.

The case is the first one of its kind to come before County Attorney E. L. O'Connor in his three years in office, he said yesterday.

Test 4 Samples

Four samples of the alcohol seized Saturday night were taken to Dean Teeters for examination. The first sample, one taken from the Carney brothers, contained 81.36 per cent of alcohol by weight, 86.61 per cent by volume.

Five per cent of the remainder was diethylpthalate. Tests recently made in Cedar Rapids prove that booze containing two per cent of this poison have been fatal, so that five per cent would be extremely hazardous to the health of a drinker.

Second Poorer Stuff

A second sample, from that confiscated in the Carney brothers Ford, ran slightly below the first in alcohol content, the figure 81.04 per cent by weight and 86.36 per cent by volume, and consequently was of inferior quality.

Approximately the same amount of the poison diethylpthalate was found in this sample Dean Teeters said.

Samples from the liquor taken from the Urban Jacqualt home and from a bottle sold by Baird Plummer contained similar quantities of alcohol and poison.

Rerun Before Sale

One explanation of the finding of poison in the alcohol was said yesterday to lie in the fact that much of it may have been obtained by running denatured alcohol through a process to remove some of the deadly ingredients.

Booze made in this way provides the dealer with a huge profit at little expense of money or labor, the county attorney pointed out.

Longley Explains Position of Club to Rotary Members

The Rev. Harry S. Longley, pastor of the Episcopal church, spoke to members of the Rotary club yesterday at their regular weekly luncheon. His subject was "The Place That a Luncheon or Civic Club Holds in the Life of Men." He emphasized the need for men getting together and told how the luncheon club met this need.

Next Thursday the club will celebrate national anniversary week for boy scouts. Each member will bring a boy to the luncheon.

Tapager Company Gets Contract for New Grade School

Acceptance Marked by Numerous and Close Bids

The contract for the new grade school to be built in Chautauqua Heights was let to the Tapager Construction Company of Iowa City Tuesday night by the board of directors.

The bids for the contract were numerous and close. The accepted bid of the Tapager company was for $28,000. The plumbing contract went to the Darrah Plumbing and Heating company of Cedar Rapids for over $5,000.

The vote on the accepted bids were four to one, S. D. Whiting casting the single negative vote.

The new school will replace the Kellogg school, which was sold to the University for $45,000, and will consume nearly the entire amount received for the Kellogg school. The site for the new school was purchased for $6,000, the contract for building and plumbing will total over $33,000 and sewer connections and equipment will no doubt consume the remainder. This eliminates the possibility of building another grade school south of Melrose avenue from the sum received for the Kellogg school.

Tomorrow Last Day to Register

Polls Open From 8 a. m. to 9 p. m. for Good Roads Voters

Tomorrow is the last day to register to vote on the county good roads proposition on next Tuesday. The registration polls in Iowa City will be open from 8 a. m. to 9 p. m. on that day.

Those who registered and voted in the presidential election in November, 1924, or in the city election last March, and have not changed their place of residence since are automatically registered.

The registration places in the five wards of Iowa City are: first ward, court house; second ward, city hall; third ward, C. S. P. S. hall; fourth ward, first door west of Unique cleaners, E. Washington street; and fifth ward, Shrader Drug company, S. Gilbert street. The fourth ward will vote in the Carson building, S. Gilbert street.

The first ward consists of that part of Iowa City south of Washington street and west of a line on Linn street to Court street, east one-half block to Maiden lane, and south to the city limits.

The second ward consists of the area north of Washington street, and west of Linn street to Bloomington, on Bloomington to Van Buren, and north to the city limits.

The third ward consists of that part north of Bloomington street and east of Van Buren.

The fourth ward is that part east of Linn street between Bloomington and Court streets.

The fifth ward consists of the area south of Court street and east of Maiden lane.

Carter Disposes of Bad Check Cases

Zack Keeley pleaded guilty to a charge of issuing bad checks when brought before B. F. Carter, justice of the peace yesterday. After finding Keely guilty, Justice Carter remitted the fine upon payment of value of the checks.

Alfred Roseland started serving a fifteen day jail sentence Wednesday after being arraigned in the same court and found guilty on the same charge as Keely, and not on the charge of forgery as previously stated.

Highway Program of Johnson County Superior--Hammill

State Road Gravelling Plan Temporary, Says Davis

That Johnson county's good roads program is superior to the state program was recognized by Gov. John Hammill in a letter received yesterday by M. W. Davis, chairman of the county good roads committee.

The letter stated that the gravelling of such important highways as the county's primary roads, which carry such a large amount of travel, under the state plan "would be only a temporary improvement," and "it was understood and recognized at the time the three year program was adopted" that "such roads should, as soon as funds could be made available therefore, be surfaced with a more durable type of construction."

If the county roads program fails in either the rural or urban precincts of the county, the whole program fails, even though a majority of those voting in the county vote for it. This same rule holds at any later election that might be held should the primary roads be surfaced under any state plan. Neither town nor country can vote a bond issue on the other.

If the county road program fails, instead of 38.05 miles of paving and 130.08 miles of gravel connecting up all parts of the count, the state program will go into effect and only those roads that were to be paved, primaries 40, north of Iowa City, and 7, east and west through the county, will be gravelled.

Robert Carson, president of Red Ball route, characterizes the gravelling of the county's heavily travelled primary roads, as provided in the state program, as "financial suicide."

Epeneter's Billiards, Oldest Establishment in City, Sold

The building of the Epeneter Brothers billiard parlor, 7 South Dubuque street, one of the oldest establishments of its kind in the state, having been organized in the seventies, changed hands yesterday and became the property of Joe Rinella. The business had remained in the family for nearly sixty years.

Thomas Epeneter, 430 North Gilbert, the owner of the business, will leave Iowa City for Harlington, Texas, where he will give his time to his orange and grape fruit orchard.

Mr. Rinella is the proprietor of the Kitty Mayme Chocolate shop and of a fruit orchard near Iowa City.

The amount involved in the transaction was not disclosed.

Experience of Local Garage Man Emphasizes Need for Good Roads

Further evidence of the disturbing condition of Johnson county roads was demonstrated last night through the lamentable experience of H. W. Smith, local garage man.

Mr. Smith, quietly investigating the inward portions of a Ford motor car in his garage, was called to the phone, and asked to travel four miles east of Iowa City to assist a motorist who had had the misfortune to sever his differential. Armed with a wrecking car and the human sympathy of all good garage men he sallied forth on the rescue trip and by careful piloting reached the spot of the mechanical disaster.

The Tale of a Tire

With a block and tackle he attached his wrecking machine to the distressed automobile and heaved in the direction of Iowa City. On the way back a tire, mercilessly tortured by the rough going, shook itself from the rim, but Mr. Smith did not discover this until some time later, so bumpy was the riding anyway.

After which, very suddenly, and without warning, the front axle of the towed car disconnected itself from the chasis and Smith found himself towing nothing but a front axle. He stopped to swear, sweat, and improvise a way to tow an axle-less car to town.

The radiator, realizing it had a big job, took the opportunity to boil profusely, causing two halts on the journey for refilling.

Costly for Both

The customary charge for such service with good roads is four dollars, but Smith was forced for economic reasons to charge the victim ten dollars, besides having to overhaul the towed car at an expense approximating $22.00. The loss of the tire from his own car involves an outlay of $15.00.

According to Mr. Smith the eight-mile trip, which took four hours, could be made easily in less than an hour with paved roads. The persons in the towed car had driven all through Illinois and reported that the roads there were excellent. What they said of Iowa roads cannot be printed.

Council to Consider Sewer Plan Tonight

The city engineer's report on the trunk line sewer for the west side, which is to serve Black Springs addition, Suburban Heights, Chautauqua Heights, and a part of Manville Heights, routine business, and bills for the month of January to be allowed, will be considered at the council meeting tonight.

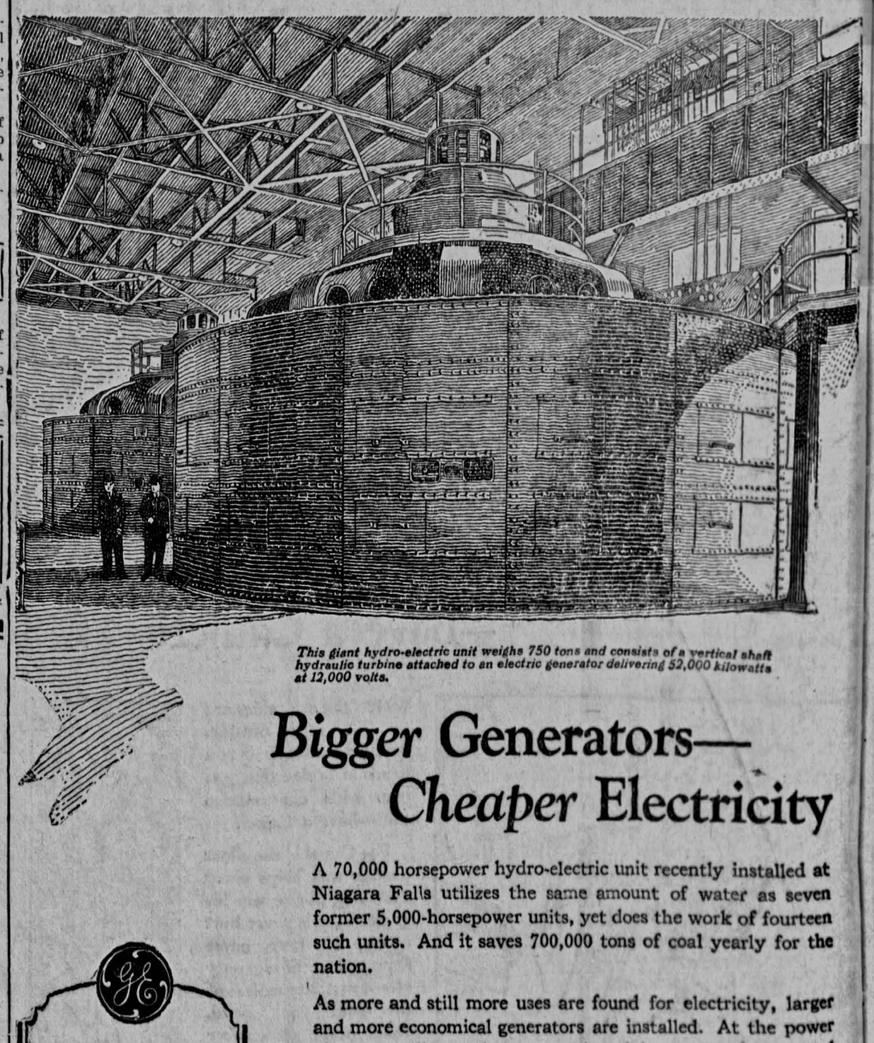
FOR GOOD ROADS



This giant hydro-electric unit weighs 750 tons and consists of a vertical shaft hydraulic turbine attached to an electric generator delivering 52,000 kilowatts at 12,000 volts.

Bigger Generators—Cheaper Electricity

A 70,000 horsepower hydro-electric unit recently installed at Niagara Falls utilizes the same amount of water as seven former 5,000-horsepower units, yet does the work of fourteen such units. And it saves 700,000 tons of coal yearly for the nation.

As more and still more uses are found for electricity, larger and more economical generators are installed. At the power plant, as well as at the consumer's end, important changes and startling developments have steadily reduced the cost of electricity for light, power, and heat.

And wherever electricity has blazed its trail—in towns, cities, industrial centers, and rural communities—comfort and progress have come to stay.

Generating and distributing electricity concern the technical student. But electricity's application in the betterment of industry, the professions, and home life concerns every educated person. Cheap electricity means many startling achievements today, but countless and unbelievable possibilities tomorrow.

1-92H

The General Electric Company, as of December 3, 1924, had 37,716 stockholders, of whom 45 per cent were women. The average number of common shares held by stockholders was 55. In ownership, policies, past and present activities, G-E is unselfishly dedicated to the cause of electrical progress.

A new series of G-E advertisements showing what electricity is doing in many fields will be sent on request. Ask for booklet GEK-1.
