

Accept Bid for $238,000 Plant

Board Lets Power Unit Contract to Des Moines Firm

Begin Work Monday on First of $700,000 Plant Project

By N. N. JONES
A $238,000 contract for construction of the first unit of the University of Iowa's $700,000 heating and power plant project was awarded to A. A. Alexander, Des Moines contractor, by the special building committee of the state board of education here yesterday. Mr. Alexander's bid was $8,000 under that of the next lowest of the five other bidders.

Construction on the plant will begin at once and it is expected that it will be finished in time to furnish heat next fall for the buildings on the west side campus. Contracts call for completion of the work within 300 days.

Cheaper Light and Power

President Walter A. Jessup stated yesterday after the contracts were let that the most important factor in the coming of the new plant would be "the great reduction of cost of heat, light, and power for the university," which the modern equipment of the new plant will make possible.

The plant will be erected at the east terminal of the dam below the Burlington street bridge and the hydro-electric plant there will be raised another story in height and will contain the switchboard of the new plant. One generator already present in the hydro plant will be used in connection with the new plant and another added later.

Descend Thirty-Two Feet

Proudfoot, Rawson, and Souers, architects for the state board of education, are designers of the new building which will be of brick, stone trimmed of re-inforced concrete with steel frame. The building will stand only one story above the ground but will go down thirty-two feet to bed rock below the surface of the ground.

Under the plant a reservoir of 44,800 cubic feet will supply the university with water for heating and for other purposes except drinking water. Pumps located above the reservoir and in the portion of the building just back of the old hydro electric plant will drive the water across the river to the west side campus.

Highest at South End

Just above the pumping rooms, condensers and water softening boiler equipment will be installed, and above these, two steam turbine generators will generate the light and power currents of the new plant.

The highest wing of the plant will be at the south end. Bins located here will hold a twelve days' supply of coal ready to be fed to the boilers. Automatic conveyors will carry the coal from railroad spurs running to the portion of the building. Automatic stokers feed the furnaces, and automatic conveyors handle the coal and ash of the plant. One stack on the river side of the plant, will handle all the smoke from the unit at present.

Eradicate Smoke

Automatic coal and ash handling equipment, modern boilers and automatic stokers will keep coal consumption at a minimum and eradicate all smoke nuisances.

The present unit of the plant will furnish heat for all buildings on the west side of the river and the heat plants on the west side will be discarded as soon as this unit is completed. The completed $700,000 project of which this is the first unit will contain three more units like this one, each a complete central plant to furnish heat, power, and light for the entire university. It is not certain when the entire project will reach completion.

Board is Satisfied

Mr. Alexander is the same contractor who built the steam tunnels on the east side of the river which will link up the new unit with the heat and power plant below the engineering building.

The board said yesterday after the contract was awarded that they had entire confidence in Mr. Alexander's ability to complete the plant satisfactorily.

Arthur Hits Cab

H. R. Arthur, an employee of Harter Motor company, reported to the police that he smashed a fender on his car when he hit a Checker cab in front of the Jefferson hotel on Dubuque street.

Iowa Graduate Who Gets Contract

Archie A. Alexander, S'12

Engineering Graduate Returns to Alma Mater to Construct New Plant

In 1912 Archie A. Alexander, a young negro of Des Moines, was graduated from the college of applied science here and received his bachelor's degree of engineering degree. For three successive years he had won his "I" as a member of the Old Gold football team.

Yesterday the same Archie A. Alexander, now a successful contractor in Des Moines, was awarded the $238,000 contract for construction of the first unit of his Alma Mater's $700,000 heating and power plant project which will eventually supply heat, light, and power for the entire university.

Dean Raymond Praises

William G. Raymond, dean of the college of applied science, paid the Negro graduate another compliment when he said yesterday that "Mr. Alexander was an excellent student and he has made a fine success as an engineer since his graduation."

Born at Ottumwa, Iowa, in 1887 Mr. Alexander attended the public schools in Des Moines in his youth and made a fine record in scholarship and athletics at West High school there and at Highland Park college (now the University of Des Moines). He entered the University of Iowa in 1908 and received his bachelor's degree in civil engineering in 1912. Last year the University of Iowa awarded him an honorary degree for his achievements in his chosen profession.

Kinley Defends Modern College Illustrates How Work of Science Proves Presence of Ideal

(By The Associated Press)
URBANA, Ill., Mar. 15 — The modern university as an institution of ideals and service was defended today by President David Kinley of the University of Illinois against charges of commercialism he said had recently been made.

President Kinley cited the recent discovery of the missing chemical element, number 61—illiumium—by Professor B. S. Hopkins, University of Illinois scientist as a reminder that Illinois institutions, like many others had made many high contributions to the scientific world.

As a result of these university accomplishments he challenged "some published statements and certain comment that universities were existing for athletics alone, that there was not the old time idealism present, or the same idea of service in the scientific world."

WSUI to Broadcast Lectures, Music

Today at 12:30 an address "Why Children Need Other Children," will be given by Miss Katharine B. Graves, of the child welfare research station.

Mezzo-soprano solos by Jeanette Rothschild will precede the lecture. Wednesday at 9 a. m. J. E. Stronks, vice president of the Standard Publication Co., Inc. will give an address on "Training for Salesmanship."

Piano solos by Sarah Welner will also be broadcast.

At 12:30 soprano solos will be given by Mrs. Floyd A. Nagler.

Prof. E. W. Rockwood, of the chemistry department, will give an address on "Composition of the Foods."

Radio correspondence course lectures will be broadcast at 7:30.

Sub-Committee Reports Steck Elected

Hawkeye Snipers Grab Title to Big Ten Championship

Rifle Team Adds One More Scalp to Old Gold Standard

Final Standing of the Teams	W	L
IOWA	7	0
Minnesota	6	1
Ohio	5	2
Wisconsin	4	3
Illinois	3	4
Indiana	2	5
Michigan	1	6
Northwestern	0	7

Another Big Ten scalp, in the form of an undisputed championship for the rifle team, was added to the Hawkeye hall of fame last week, when the Iowa sharpshooters annexed the title by defeating Ohio 3790 to 3733 in the last meet of the season.

Minnesota, who already had one defeat against itself and that, at the hands of Iowa was doped to place third but the Gophers came out of a slump with which they began the season and also defeated Ohio. However the Minnesota score was two points lower than that made by the Iowa team and although close, the Hawkeys not only won the conference matches but were never beaten in total scores in any of their meets by teams against which they were not competing.

First Conference Tilt

This is the first year that a regular conference was held among Big Ten teams and the score of 3809 which the Hawkeys fired in their match against Indiana and Northwestern two weeks ago stands as a conference record. Out of a possible 20,000 points, Iowa was high with 15,985, Minnesota second with 14,954, Ohio third with 14,874, and Wisconsin fourth with 14,726.

In the individual scoring of the men on the Iowa team, out of a possible 1600, Ballard scored 1553, Milota was second with 1548, Dean third with 1532, and Drum fourth with 1514.

Iowa Wins Cup

Russell Wiles, a prominent athlete of Chicago and a member of the board of directors of the National Rifle association has offered a trophy cup to the winners of the Big Ten meet. Iowa won this cup and will have possession of it for one year.

Coach James J. Gibney has worked his men hard all year to turn out a championship "ten." Frank E. Horack, A4 of Iowa City, is captain of the team.

National Meet Starts

Varsity competition rules as to eligibility are encountered in the selection of the members of the Big Ten team and the total scores are therefore lower than those which will be turned in during the National matches which are starting this week.

The members of the rifle squad are: Aagerson, Ballard, Brauer, Brock, Drum, Carson, Dean, Della-Vedova, Camp, Hageboeck, Hempfling, Horack, Huffman, Milota, Poetsinger, Weldy and Wickham.

History of "Mecca" Reviewed in March Number of Transit

The March issue of Transit, publication of the college of applied science, to be released today, contains a review of Mecca week celebration from the time of its founding in 1910 to the present, the history being in the form of letters from alumni printed and illustrated with scenes from each year's "whirlingdances."

The first yearly celebrations were held on March 17 and were known as St. Patrick's Day Celebrations, the students of applied science stoutly maintaining that St. Patrick was an engineer. It was not until 1913 or 1914 that the St. Patrick's idea was abandoned and the Mecca idea substituted.

Transit's March issue is dedicated to William Galt Raymond, dean of the college of applied science, who celebrated his sixty-seventh birthday on March 2. The campus section of the magazine is devoted to views of the Memorial Union.

Woman Hangs Self With Silk Stocking

CHICAGO, Mar. 15 (AP)—Mrs. Leroy Anderson, 50, wife of a real estate dealer and who formerly lived in Washington, Iowa, ended her life today by hanging herself with a silk stocking in a closet of the Shore View Sanitarium. She was said to have suffered from a nervous breakdown and had been a patient at the sanitarium since January 2.

Claire Dux Sings in Much-Heralded Concert Tonight

Changes & Additions Make Complete Program

Perhaps the greatest tribute Miss Claire Dux, soprano, who will appear this evening in the natural science auditorium at 8:15 was received at the Royal opera in Berlin at the time of her appearance with Enrico Caruso, singing "Mimi" to his "Rodolfo." On this occasion, Caruso stepped out of his role to lead the applause for the young singer after her aria in the first act. This was an unusual tribute by the distinguished tenor, and helped to establish Miss Dux.

Announce Program Changes

Several changes have been made in Miss Dux's program for this evening. One number which Miss Dux will sing has been composed by Frederick Schauwecker, formerly of Cedar Rapids, Miss Dux's accompanist. Mr. Schauwecker is a graduate of the American conservatory of music in Chicago from which he received the gold medal in theory and honors in piano.

In the last issue of "Musical America" in an article concerning Miss Dux, it states that "I Wonder" by B. Fenner, which Miss Dux will sing this evening was composed by a discovery of Miss Dux. The composer, the article states, is a blind girl only nineteen years of age.

Varied Program

The program which Miss Dux will sing this evening with the changes made is:

- Ride in the Calma . . . . . Mozart
- Pregliare . . . . . Gordiniani
- Les Belles Manieres . . . . . Arr. by Deems Taylor (18th Century Folk Song)
- Deh Vieni Non Tardar . . . . . Mozart
- Die Bist Die Ruh . . . . . Schubert
- Wohin . . . . . B. Fenner
- Der Jungling An Der Quelle Schubert
- We Maria . . . . . Schubert
- Me Volla Seula from "pecheurs de Perles" . . . . . Bizet
- Serenade Francaise . . . . . Leoncavallo
- Christmas Folk-song . . . . . Schauwecker
- I Wonder . . . . . B. Fenner
- Little Star . . . . . Frank La Forge
- The Pipers of Love . . . . . M. Carew

Visiting Student Meets Hold-up in Cedar Rapids

George Wain, C4 of Cedar Rapids, was a victim of two bandits while he was in Cedar Rapids Saturday night. They took his loose change and other articles which they found in his pockets but missed his bill fold, which contained $5.00, and his watch.

While he was visiting a friend, he heard someone tampering with his car, which he had left in front of the house. He immediately dashed out of the house and discovered that "two men had turned the car around and had pushed it about a half block down the hill. One of the men was seated in the car and the other was pushing.

He ran over to the car, opened the door and shouted "Where are you going?" Both men immediately covered him with revolvers and ordered him to "stick 'em up." He complied and the bandits proceeded to search him making away with his loose change, gloves, and other personal articles. While they were making the hurried search Wain's friend became aroused and shouted from the house.

The bandits then disappeared in the darkness toward Beaver avenue. Wain reported the hold-up and police hurried to the scene in automobiles but no trace of the robbers could be found. It is believed that the hold-up men had another car hidden a short distance away. Wain stated last night that the bandits also missed a valuable violin which was in the back seat of the automobile.

March Hares Turn Brookhart Out

The laborious drone of ballot counting which has for months absorbed committees and sub-committees in Washington, came to a pointed silence yesterday when it was formally reported that Daniel F. Steck, democrat (left) had received a plurality of votes over Smith W. Brookhart, republican, and should be seated.

Washington, Mar. 15 — The senate sub-committee investigating the Brookhart-Steck Iowa senatorial contest today reported formally to the full committee that Daniel S. Steck, democrat, had received a plurality of votes over Senator Brookhart, republican, and should be seated.

Medics Will Open Clinic to Doctors

Experts to Address Meetings Here April 13-14

A medical clinic open to all the doctors in the state will be held here by the college of medicine April 13 and 14.

Dr. McKim Marriott, dean of the medical college of the University of Washington, will address the meeting on Tuesday on "Recent Studies Concerning the Nature and Treatment of Nephritis." He is the guest of the college of medicine.

On Wednesday C. P. Howard, professor of medicine at McGill University, Montreal, Canada, will talk on "Aortic and Complications."

The rest of the conference will consist of clinical demonstrations by members of the faculty of the college of medicine here.

On Tuesday from 9:20 to 9:30, Pres. Walter A. Jessup will deliver the address of welcome. Tuesday evening dinner will be served at the Memorial union, followed by a smoker.

"Candida" Ticket Sales Reach High Mark Yesterday

Ticket sales for "Candida," the university play to be given Wednesday and Thursday, had reached the high water mark last night of sales for any play this year at this time, according to Mrs. Donald L. McMurray.

A demand for seats is expected Wednesday morning and it is expected that it will be difficult to get reservations.

Frat Initiation Costs Student Both Feet

KEYSER, W. Va., Mar. 15 (AP)—Herbert Bennett of Parsons, W. Va., a freshman student at the Potomac State School here, was reported in a serious condition today following amputation of both feet as a result of injuries suffered Saturday in an accident while being initiated into the Theta Sigma Chi fraternity. Ordered to walk from Keyser to Piedmont as a part of the initiation, Bennett instead leaped aboard a passing Baltimore and Ohio freight train. After riding a short distance he jumped off. Both feet were crushed.

Metfessel Shows Emotion in Speech at Humanist Club

Anger, joy, fear, pain, and all the emotions have their characteristic speech sounds, thinks Dr. Milton Metfessel.

In his lecture delivered before the Humanist club last night, Doctor Metfessel delved deep into this subject. He pointed out that instinctive facial expressions and bodily movements connected with the various emotions limit the range of interjections that can be made. For example, he cited the natural uncoversing of the teeth in anger, and this expression therefore would have its characteristic vowel sounds.

Joy is characterized by a freedom of body movement, and "ah" is the sound most frequently used to express this emotion. Doctor Metfessel illustrated this point with the aid of moving pictures of the negroes of North Carolina.

Graduate Enters Law Business at Hampton

Kirkwood R. Mallory, of Hampton, who was graduated last February from the law school here, has entered partnership with J. M. Hemmingway, attorney, of that city. They will maintain offices there under the firm name of Hemmingway and Mallory.

Mr. Mallory was admitted to the bar in this state last June but attended school here last fall to do occasional work.

Death of Judge Pruyn Chops '67 Graduate List to Three

Judge Edward Pruyn, one of the nine members of the second class to graduate from the University of Iowa law school, died recently at Ellensburg, Wash., at the age of 82.

Death of Judge Pruyn, who was graduated from the law college in 1867, was a member of the federal court commission for fourteen years and served as the city attorney of Ellensburg.

Only three members of the class of '67 survive.

Claims Plurality Vote; Unanimous Brookhart Lost

Entire Committee to Meet Today for Final Decision

(By The Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Mar. 15 — The senate sub-committee investigating the Brookhart-Steck Iowa senatorial contest today reported formally to the full committee that Daniel S. Steck, democrat, had received a plurality of votes over Senator Brookhart, republican, and should be seated.

Vote Unanimously

The sub-committee was unanimous in its conclusions that Steck had received a plurality, but Senator George, democrat, Georgia, differed with the other members on some details.

The report held that Steck had a plurality of 1,420 votes under the committee rule that the "intent of the voters" should be the deciding factor in election contests and that regardless of the intent of the voters, Steck still would have a plurality of seventy-six ballots.

After Senator Caraway, democrat, Arkansas, who drafted the report had presented it, Chairman Ernest announced that the entire committee would meet at 2 p. m. tomorrow, to reject or accept the sub-committee's recommendations and prepare a report to the senate.

Brookhart Protests

"After the sub-committee hearing had been closed," said Senator Caraway, "Senator Brookhart appeared three times before the committee and raised the point that ballots from sixty-seven precincts should be thrown out because they reached here in unsealed sacks, which were enclosed in sealed mail pouches."

"Investigation by the committee disclosed that only two of the mail pouches were unsealed and the committee held that they were broken in transit."

Steck Sure of Seat

"Following the rule of the committee, and I think of the senate, that the intent of the voter should govern, Steck has a plurality of 1,420 votes but if the rule of the committee was not followed he still would have a plurality of seventy-six. We would have to cross the rules to continue Brookhart in his seat."

Will Contest Case

Senator Brookhart plans to contest the case to the very end, as he believes the voters of Iowa intended to elect him to the senate. Having lost in the sub-committee, he next will wage his fight before the full committee, and if he fails there, will carry it to the floor before the senate. He hopes to obtain a majority of the entire committee in support of his claims, but he feels certain that he at least will have a substantial majority on which to base his fight in the senate.

He has made it plain that if unseated he will oppose Senator Cummins in the primaries this summer.

Ford to Enumerate Radio Virtues at Chemistry Meeting

A popular "radio" talk will be given by Arthur H. Ford, head of the department of electrical engineering, under the auspices of the Chemistry club, this evening at 7:30 p. m. in the chemistry auditorium.

Professor Ford will indicate that the trend of radio is toward improvement of the quality of received music, the newer models giving better quality sounds. Demonstration will be made by actually receiving a program on one of today's common sets, along with a comparison of the same program as it is received on the very latest set made in the electrical engineering laboratory.

The difference will show the improvement in quality tone which has been effected up to the present time. Professor Ford will discuss four or five of the standard types of receiving sets showing the advantages and disadvantages of each.

Rumors of Florida Failures Bring Unrest on Wall Street

NEW YORK, Mar. 15 (AP)—Widespread rumors that one of the largest Florida promotion companies was in financial straits, which have been in circulation for several days, created sufficient uneasiness in Wall street today to bring about heavy liquidation of some of the Southern Railway shares. Atlantic Coastline broke 13 1/4 points to 205 and then rallied to 215; Seaboard Airline common dropped 5 1/4 points to 33 3/4 and snapped back to 34, and the preferred closed 2 1/4 lower at 37 3/4, the minimum quotations in all cases representing new low records for the year.

Fourfold Victory

THE Idea of March dealt kindly with the athletes wearing the Old Gold of Iowa, for the otherwise ominous March 13 lavished four conference championships upon the Hawkeyes. Olympus must have heard the prayers which have been raised from the army these past weeks, and the celestial order probably went forth for "A third of a dozen Big Ten championships for the University of Iowa this week, and make it snappy." Thus upon old capital now rests the diadem of victory, encircling whose periphery are the emblems of track, basket ball, wrestling, and rifle marksmanship.

In basket ball Iowa shares first place with Purdue, Indiana, and Michigan. The quadruple tie arose from the fact that four teams won eight and lost four games. It is the second time that Iowa and Michigan have reached the top of Western conference basket ball, only to find the championship halved. Iowa triumphed because of its indefatigable drive at the finish and its late succession of home games. To those who screamed and prayed Saturday while the pivotal game was alternately point-ahead and point-behind, there can be no doubt of Iowa's indomitable fight. As for the schedule, Iowa found that charity and victory begin at home. The Hawkeyes won their six home games and lost four of their six matches on other courts. The struggle which raged in Kenwood armory and the two-point lead at the finish will make the little gold basket balls to be engraved "Championship 1926" the most honored trophies of Old Gold.

The track victory at Northwestern climaxed an orderly and systematic carnival of record-breaking. First in the mile relay, the shot put, and a scattering of second and third places gave Iowa a comfortable lead of twenty-four and one-third points. Unlike the basketball and wrestling honors, Old Gold shares an undisputed first in track.

Iowa wrestlers divided first honors with the men of Ohio State, two men from each university winning championships in their weight. With a team aggregate scoring of 3,809 out of a possible 4,000 for six Big Ten gallery rifle matches, the Hawkeye rifle team won the first Western conference title championship and set a new record for 22 calibre team shooting. The record of the past week in athletics constitutes one of the most inspiring tributes to Old Gold. Each victory is not alone a team, but an individual and coaching triumph as well. Once again Iowa is a capital in the sports universe, and a quadruple brilliant glow tints Old Gold.

Five Facets of Life

LEADERS in American life have been particularly concerned of late over education. There are those who think it is wisely missing its mark. Among these are many members of the teaching profession. But there are just as many or more who believe that it comes as near to hitting the bulls-eye as any system subject to such elastic demands could. There has been fault-finding with our liberal arts courses. It has been stated that most curriculums are so liberal that they fail actually to accomplish anything.

President Butler of Columbia university, always to the fore with some new idea, believes they are liberal enough. Here is what he has to say in his annual report:

"Five separate and irreducible elements constitute the spiritual environment of the child. These are the literary, the scientific, the esthetic, the ethical and institutional, and the religious. A youth who is deprived of opportunity to gain insight into each one of these and some understanding of it, has thereby been deprived of a portion of his inheritance. Either his parents or his teachers, or both, will have filched something from him to which he is entitled."

If President Butler has outlined the minimum requirements of an education, American young men and women, by and large, are not getting even that. They get a good deal of the literary, quite a bit of the scientific, a very hazy reckoning of the esthetic, and there the average education stops. There is almost nothing of the religious, almost nothing of the ethical.

Thus the side of youth that deals with character is left open and unprotected. Whether it is the fault of the schools, or of the parents and the church, that youth is receiving a three out of five sided education, is hard to say.

Less specialization and more emphasis on all sides of education to obtain a more solid background, is President Butler's plea. Of all things which come into a man's life, religion matters most, he says. His observations deserve sincere reflection from parents, churches, and schools.

After Seven Years

SINCE 1789, the United States has been torn by war on an average of once every twenty years. Every decade since the Constitution was signed, blood has been shed in battle.

Seven years ago last November the last and greatest conflict came to an end. Already some United States diplomats are assuming a belligerent attitude in their dealings with foreign representatives and foreign representatives are intimating that their country is none too friendly with us. Here and there it is possible to detect the germ of suspicion and hate. The old European diplomatic combines are beginning to function again in their ceaseless struggle for supremacy.

Frankly, the outlook can hardly be called bright. In spite of all the optimism in the country, the situation at present differs little from that seven years after any other war. The European tangle still remains unsolved and America's foreign policy is just as precarious as before the war.

Something seems imbued in the blood of man that longs for strife. Youth all over the world has an unconquerable desire for conflict, and statesmen are prone to forget too easily and satisfy that desire. But some of us have not forgotten. Some of us remember every detail of the last affair. The draft, the long dreary weeks of training, the embarkation for France and then the hopeless anxiety of watching the daily casualty list will ever remain clearly before some of our eyes. The fiendish tales of wartime propaganda we can remember easily. We were tired of it all then, and we want no more of it now. What some of us, at least, wish is more straight from the shoulder conferences, man to man, and a give and take attitude instead of the present diplomatic negotiations mental disease that has attacked our statesmen. One trip, we believe, through a disabled veterans' hospital would effect a permanent cure.

Son but not Heir

EVIDENTLY Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., is not a chip off the old block.

As the liner on which he and his party were returning from Europe was warping into the dock, the first-class passengers were waiting behind a rope until the signal was given for their going ashore. Suddenly young Roosevelt ducked under the rope and started for the gangplank. The deck steward arrested his progress and, taking his arm, told him that he must go back and wait his turn. According to one of the companions of the former assistant secretary of the navy, Roosevelt exclaimed: "You don't know who you're talking to. You can't push me around. I'll do as I please." With these words he hit the steward on the jaw, knocking him down. Then he proceeded down the gangplank.

The deck steward got up from the ground and made no further attempt to stop Roosevelt. However, he said: "I wish the company would let me give him a good smash in the face."

We too are sorry that he was not allowed that privilege, and we are inclined to believe that "Teddy" himself would agree with us. Certainly among the doctrines he promulgated and practiced there was not included that of striking a man unable in the circumstances to protect himself.

Pugs and Pigs

DEMPSEYS, Tunneys, and Striblings are trading punches every night in the intramural boxing tournament held in the local men's gymnasium. But they are not genuine pugs. For skillful as they may be in handling boxing gloves they are woefully ignorant of the "financial footwork" which is part of the education of every modern fighter. All they receive for their efforts besides physical fitness is a black eye or a distended jaw. The modern pugilist would never endanger his movie career by stepping in the ring with a dangerous opponent.

Dempsey has lollied in ease for two years after relieving thousands of spectators of their hard-earned money, paid out for the privilege of seeing the champion exchange swings with the "Wild Bull of the Pampas" and the suave "Idol of France." Dempsey received nearly a million dollars for the one fight. He received $500,000 for his encounter with Carpenter. Recently he has been in Chicago arranging another coup d'etat.

The Gene Tunney-Willie Stribling combination is the latest to fall in the line of pugilistic plots to corner the sporting dollar. Stribling's manager has decided on the eve of the fight that his protegee cannot enter the ring for the good of the game or the fair name of Miami or any similar poetic consideration. Several thousand fight fans already have purchased their tickets for three or five or twenty-five dollars each. It seems that they have lost again.

Poems That Live

From "Renesance"

"O God," I cried, "no dark disguise can e'er hereafter hide from me Thy radiant identity! Thou canst not move across the grass But my hushed voice will answer Thee, Nor speak, however silently, But my hushed voice will answer Thee. I know the path that tells Thy way Through the cool eve of every day; God, I can push the grass apart And lay my finger on Thy heart!"
—Edna St. Vincent Millay.

CHILLS AND FEVER

THE instructor forgot to meet the eight o'clock this morning, and so we had an extra hour to spend in his composition.

Scraps, the journalist, is dead. In his lifetime he saw the chain newspaper developed from a pipe-dream to a disgustingly successful reality. But at least, he resurrected editorial policy and made the editorial page count for something in his journals.

A girl remarked the other day that she was dying for warm weather so she could go without. We'd like to get outdoors ourselves.

HERE we sit, with Denman to our left, Doc Miller to our right, volleying and thundering, the walls behind us; we must go ahead because we can't dodge the job.

MORE hope for the Iowa Supply crowd.

WE'LL go crazy if we see another movie based on the attempted seduction of a mannequin.

(The Daily Iowan)
CONVICT MOTHER FOR BEATING HER CHILD TO DEATH
THE old lady must have died first.

TO the old fogies clattering up the universe, the stale minded profs with last year's ideas under their hats, we suggest a reading of Van Loon's "Tolerance" which is, we think, as good a book as Ring Lardner's "How to Write Short Stories."

THE GREAT OPEN SPACES
Nan adjusted the green hat and went forth in search of bread. She didn't care much for May-fair; the fish was rather salty. And the Hispano-Sizzles needed more gas, which may or may not be an index to the width of a woman's viewpoint.

She met Henri at Ricardo's, where all the gay young blades gathered to sip ginger ale and discuss life, life with a capital letter.

"Good evening," remarked Henri, flicking wintergreen from his cravat.

But the girl didn't reply; why, I know not, but then in our society there is no reason for anything.

"When do we return to Moscow?" she queried the man, crossing her legs with intoxicating grace, disregarding the inhibitions of the middle class.

"When the moon rises on yonder hill, or what have you," he parried smartly, "yes!" and then they all laughed smartly.

Ricardo's was a mass of purple, green and violet, silks blending in satins with all that ultra something which one finds among the very alkalis.

Lightly the music played, lightly the bodies of people moved in the dance, lightly they lived—and died.

Down the long road that winds to nowhere a boy and a girl were racing, wading knee deep in pancies as they absorbed the historic beauty of this, or that.

Soon a deafening roar shook the universe, or perhaps it wasn't so deafening as all that.

And canaries froliced with crows and realism played tag with romanticism, but Nan continued reading Van Vechten, who was a certain writer living in America not so many years ago.

When will our society learn that nothing counts save the nothings; and they only count insofar as nothing counts, which isn't especially literate.

One time Nan met Karl, a surgeon from Lansing, and they lived together for many a year before he returned to his office practice, dusty garden, and red flannels; but then, who will criticize the sun for not standing still?

BUT tomorrow we forget Arlen and peruse Shaw, through the elusive medium of the university theater.

Came the dawn, but our hero went right back to his midnight oil and continued studying.

MORE proof that we should be in Stalk and Cleveland; last night four men spoke to us between Reich's and the Iowan office, and we didn't know one of them! There!

THE LAST LINE
I don't remember.

House Considers Bill to Regulate Radios

WASHINGTON, Mar. 15 (AP)—Consideration of the White bill to regulate radio was begun today by the house with a number of amendments regarding its progress.

Without a record vote the house adopted an amendment by Representative Lehlbach, republican N. J. to provide that after passage of the measure all existing broadcasting licenses upon expiration must come under provision of the bill. This is designed to prevent existing broadcasters from escaping control of the regulatory machinery proposed in the measure.

An amendment by Representative Blanton, democrat, Tex., to provide that slanderous or abusive language used by a broadcaster would be punishable under federal libel and slander laws, was rejected on a point of order.

Official Daily Bulletin

The University of Iowa

Bulletins and announcements for the Official Daily Bulletin column will be in the office of the university editor, Prof. Charles H. Weller, room 101 Journalism building, by 4 o'clock in the afternoon to appear in the following morning's Daily Iowan.
VOLUME 1, No. 140 MARCH 16, 1926

FACULTY OFFICIAL NOTICES

THE THEODORE SANXAY FELLOWSHIP

By the will of the late Theodore Sanxay the University will be enabled to honor the Liberal Arts senior who graduates with highest promise for achievement in graduate study with the generous stipend of $500 a year. It is limited to students who are native or residents of Iowa and may be awarded for graduate study in any subject in which adequate facilities for graduate study are available, either in this University or in another approved university. On the basis of meritorious record the holder may be reappointed for a second year.

The Graduate Council will consider methods of administering this award and it is hoped that this may furnish one of the fine attractions in the way of competitive prizes open to seniors annually.

For the present year the award will be made in the most informal manner. Each member of the Graduate Faculty is hereby asked to consider available candidates and send to the Graduate office before March 15 the names of persons that deserve to be considered in the competition. In making recommendations members of the staff should take into account promise for achievement in a learned career, definite plans on the part of the student for graduate study, and the adequacy of facilities for the graduate work.

The undersigned will be glad to give information to competing candidates in regard to conditions of the award and the Council will seek full information in regard to the qualifications of candidates whose names have been suggested. Suggestions from students or members of the staff in regard to method of making this award will be welcomed.

CURRENT COMMENT

The Sheik Defined by an Editor

(The Waukon Republican)

WE hear a lot these days about "sheikhs" and "shebas." And that often brings the question, "what is a sheik?" Well, to begin with, a sheik is that species of the genus homo that used to part his dandruff in the middle and comb it dry but now smears it with axle grease and lays it smooth with a towel.

He wears four-bushel pants legs instead of the regulation three-gallon of the former sport days and holds 'em up with a surcingle instead of the old one-gallon.

He can shiver the Charleston to the notes of a groaning saxophone till three a. m. but has three kinds of fits if mother asks him to carry out a pan of ashes from the kitchen range.

He wears his trousers out in the seat from rolling on someone's parlor sofa and never snagged a pair of breeches on a barbed wire fence.

He can drink modern moonshine out of a bottle without batting an eye and blow his breath over the paint-concealed cheek of his shebg for hours, but if mother scurches the spuds for the evening meal, he leaves the house in disgust.

He knows every jazz orchestra in the country by its first name but couldn't for the life of him tell what the interest on a thousand-dollar government bond would be for thirteen months at five and a quarter per cent.

He could tell you the name of every bootlegger from seven counties but would be lost if asked the name of the congressman from his district.

He is mortified over a dissipation pipple on his face but never thinks of the blisters on mother's hands caused by rubbing out dirt from his shirt cuffs.

In fact the modern sheik in most respects is a man that ain't.

Why Hell Week?

(The Daily Northwestern)

ELEVEN University of Illinois fraternities have abolished paddles, regarding them as the root of most of the evils of "hell week." They show wisdom.

Hell week is a carrying over into civilization of the barbaric custom of torturing young men as a test of physical prowess before admission to tribal war councils. Since modern man is trying to shift his ascent from scalping to science, it is hard to see why that primordial practice should be perpetuated in purpose on the twentieth century college campus.

Hell week apologists assert that in wielding the paddle they are not competing with the forehead for honors in creating sheer animal misery. Rather, say they, paddling is a tradition-hallowed means of inculcating into neophytes the principles of fraternalism.

It is true that fraternities have much to teach new members. It is equally true that it is high time to do away with the hypocrisy of hell week and turn the light of common sense on the sadistic practice of paddling. Even the most sophisticated psychologist knows there are a hundred better methods of driving ideas into the head of a college frosh than by forcing him to assume the angle and belaboring it with clubs.

Old fraternity men, when they are frank, say that many intra-fraternity dimensions which years of close association have failed to obliterate, were originally rooted in personal animosities started during some hapless hell week.

Few critics object seriously to a bit of horseplay in the days immediately preceding initiation to a fraternity. Admittedly, it is foolish, yet a little of it is relished by the best of the fraternity men. But it is a decided mistake to carry physical torture so far, as is being done annually on Northwestern's quad, that it defeats fraternalism, the very object is essays to promote.

Conversation Between Two Grads

First grad: Bill, you old bottlesbaby!
Second grad: Jim, you lemon-snatcher!
(Long pause.)
First grad: Funny how the old gang disappeared, isn't it?
Second grad: Yeh. Saw Paul today, though.
First grad (excitedly): You did? Good old Paul; didn't know he was in town.
(Pause.)
First grad: Seems funny to see all the youngsters in our places, doesn't it?
Second grad: You bet it does.
(Pause.)
First grad: Wisconsin isn't what it used to be.
Second grad: Nope.
First grad: Married yet?
Second grad: Yeh. Two kids, boy four and girl two.
First grad: I have only a girl, three.
(Pause.)
Second grad: Well, well, how times do change.
(Pause.)
First grad: Well, I have an engagement at four.
Second grad: So's I.
(They shake hands.)
First grad: Well, so long. It's been good to see you.
Second grad: You bet. Write to me, will you?
First grad: You bet; so long.
Second grad: So long.

Charlie: Just got engaged yesterday.
Howdy: Congrats. Who's the lucky one?
Charlie: She is.

W.A.A. to Vote on Officers Tomorrow

Gymnasium Kid Party to Follow Election Results

Balloting for the next year's officers, and a "kid party" make tomorrow an important day at the gymnasium.

The party will be more interesting because of the announcement of the results of the election, the polls being open from 8 o'clock in the morning until 8:15 o'clock in the evening. Ballots will be counted, and the winners announced as soon after 8:15 o'clock as possible.

Eva Mae Prunty, A3 of Des Moines or Ruth C. Bruechert, A3 of Omaha will receive the office of president. Thelma Shomler, A2 of Cedar Rapids, and Helen Springer, A2 of Leona, are the candidates for vice-president.

Other candidates are Helen McLellan, and Helen Andrews for recording secretary; Alleen Carpenter and Cornelia Van Oosterhaut as treasurer; Kathryn Meyers and Perle Van Alstine, historians; and Winifred Starbuck and Fern Davis, corresponding secretary.

For senior representatives Lois Klemp, Alice Rose and Geraldine Barz have been nominated, while Catherine Osgood, Verda Wirth, and Dortha Starbuck will run for junior representative; and Theo Clifton, Ruth Beard, and Constance Ford are on the ticket for sophomore representative. The freshman representative is chosen in the fall.

Women may cast their votes any time during the day, or just before the party, voting for one candidate for each office, with the exception of the class representatives. Only one representative for the class one will be in next year may be voted for.

The "gym" floor will be made attractive for the party with many "kid" toys. Swings, little red wagons, ropes and rope jumping will furnish entertainment as well as the Lawson's three piece orchestra which will furnish music. An

Anna Owers to Advise Women

Y. W. Worker Comes Here Wednesday, Thursday

Whether a girl intends to find a position in Y. W. C. A. work after she has finished her school work or not, Miss Anna M. Owers, who will be here Wednesday and Thursday of this week, will have advice for her concerning her life work.

Miss Owers is travelling in the interests of the personnel bureau of the national board of the Y. W. C. A. She will come to the university from the Ames campus and her next stop will be at Galesburg, Illinois, where Knox and Lombard colleges are located.

The various types of positions open to women in the work of the Y. W. C. A. will be the subject Miss Owers will present to the Iowa coeds. For the trained girl there is work of all sorts to be done.

In the past few years the organization has grown so that the division of work has been made upon closer lines than formerly done. Miss Owers will explain this division.

At the regular Wednesday afternoon vespers service Miss Owers will speak. Appointments for personal interviews may be made by calling Miss Nelle Summers, general secretary of the Y. W. C. A. Already several girls have made appointments so that but little free time is left for Miss Owers during the two days of her stay here.

The freshman and sophomore teams are rumored as being exceptionally good while the junior and senior teams are not more than fair. The teams will be handicapped, however, because ineligible bars several from participation at their regular positions.

Illinois and Michigan as well as Iowa are interested in basket ball this week. At Illinois fourteen teams are enjoying the tournament, four first teams and ten color teams. The finals will be played there this afternoon. So far the juniors are in the lead with the seniors and sophomores tied for second place.

At Michigan the seniors won the first game of the class tournament against the freshmen 25-7 on Saturday and the remainder of the tournament will be played off this week. They are also up to the semifinals in the intra-mural tournament. Both tournaments will run throughout the week because both are being played off at once.

Northwestern is now engaged in weekly rifle matches with other schools. Teams are chosen each week according to the scores of the respective candidates. This week the University of Oregon, Cornell University, the Agricultural School of Utah, the University of West Virginia, Syracuse University, and South Dakota State School will be taken on.

In The World Of Society

Phi Omega Pi

Prof. William L. Sowers, Prof. and Mrs. Roy C. Flickinger, and Miss Bailey were dinner guests at the Phi Omega Pi house Sunday noon.

Florence Sharp of Davenport was a week-end guest at the Kappa Delta house.

Mrs. Austin, formerly Pauline Sheppard, visited in Muscatine over the week end.

Virginia Wulhuter visited Bernice Richardson over the week end at the Delta Delta Delta house.

Mrs. W. E. Algee of Manila was the guest of her daughter, Alice, over the week-end.

Harned-Arp

Announcement of the engagement of Miss Eleanor M. Harned of Davenport to Dr. Louis C. Arp of Moline Ill.

Miss Harned is a graduate of St. Katherine's school and Sweet Briar College in Sweet Briar, Va. She was a member of the Delta Sigma sorority.

Dr. Arp is a graduate of the University of Iowa and of the Medical School of Minnesota University. He is the son of Dr. A. H. Arp who was a prominent Moline surgeon.

No date has been set for the nuptials.

if they were quite stylish, but often both watches were wrong and the young men angered the ladies by being late to their appointments in spite of their splendid time-pieces.

Switzerland soon came to the front as a leader in watch-making. In the seventeenth century the most popular Swiss watches were very elaborate, having paintings on the case and precious stones inlaid for ornaments. One watch of this period was made in the shape of a skull so that each time the owner read the time he would be reminded that death was coming nearer. As a herald of our own freakish styles of wearing watches one gentleman had his time-piece set in the head of his cane.

France offered an improvement to the industry in the shape of a musical repeater. One French watch now preserved in the Metropolitan museum could play three different tunes. Napoleon gave one of these musical curiosities to Murat in 1800. In shape these early nineteenth century watches were varied—guitars, lyres, and beetles were some of the popular figures they represented.

In America the Waterbury watch made its appearance about 1880. What boy can forget how Waterburys used to be given away with a new suit of clothes? Their best feature was the long mainspring which required endless winding. Every small boy took delight in this operation and for a consideration he would even let his friends assist him in the thrilling task.

When women gained their rights on an equal with men, they clamored for watches. The first ladies' watches were not much smaller than a medium-sized watch for a man. They had fobs and an intricate device to pin them onto the lady's dress. One has only to look at the pictures taken about 1900, to see how the lady with a watch pinned on her shirtwaist held her head higher than her sisters. Some ladies wore their watches on a long gold chain around their necks.

Today we change the style of wearing watches so rapidly that we hardly know when we are in style or out of it. Wrist watches have given place to ring-watches and those in turn to ankle-watches, time-pieces in shoe buckles and now the latest fad, a watch in an umbrella handle. We have come a long way from Mrs. Caveman patiently waiting for the sun to cast its shadow across a handy boulder before she starts supper for her lord and master.

Umbrella Handle Time Keepers to Replace Wrist and Ankle Watches

Ages ago when the caveman lived his primitive life, some big husky with a leopard pelt over his shoulder would say to his wife in their barbaric language, "I'll be home when the shadow falls across that rock." So he employed the sun for his domestic time-piece.

After his time, males with inventive minds improved on his method and told time by the stars, by sundials, and by water clocks. But not until much later did they think of making portable sundials which are the ancestors of our modern watches. These sometimes had folding dials, while others were cubical or round like a napkin ring. In 1511 Johannes Coelius made a time-piece run by a mainspring and small enough to be carried in his pocket.

Watches in Shakespeare's time were only pretty toys which wealthy people all wanted, but which were not very successful as time-keepers. In the American colonial period young gallants carried two watches

By KATHRYN MEYERS

Swimming
The women's gym is a busy place this week, and besides a W. A. A. "kid party" and election of officers for 1926-27 there are two important class contests towards which the W. A. A. athletes have been working for several months.

The class swimming meet will be held today at 4:45. This is the inter-class competition between teams, entirely different from the W. A. A. swimming meet for individual points which will be held March 23. Each woman chosen to fill a berth on the class swimming teams will receive 100 W. A. A. team points.

Although the seniors and freshmen will be handicapped because of incomplete teams, the members are of sufficient worth to provide interesting competition. Barbara Kittredge, Constance Ford, and Leota Koefenback will swim for the freshmen, Alleen Carpenter, Winifred Starbuck, and Helen Miller for the Sophomores, Eva Mae Prunty, Nell Van Oosterhaut, Ethel Reed, and Verda Wirth, for the juniors, while Gladys Brooker will enter as many events as possible for the seniors.

Basket Ball

Thursday afternoon at 4 o'clock the first games of the W. A. A. class basket ball tournament will be staged. Contests will continue Friday and Saturday, as many games as possible being played off in the afternoons. Although the drawings have not yet been made for the games it will probably be done Wednesday and complete the announcements of the personnel of the teams. It is hard to know the time the tournament will take. Each class plays each other class, but there will be no means, previous to the actual tournament, of estimating the comparative strength of the differ-

Relief Bill Calls for New Surplus Marketing Plan

House Committee Gets Measure Formed by Farm Body

WASHINGTON, Mar. 15 — Draft of a bill to set up federal machinery to handle surplus crops was completed today by a farm delegation from eleven middle western states and it probably will be submitted to the house agriculture committee tomorrow.

The measure would establish a federal farm board with authority to contract for the sale of any surplus at just and reasonable prices. To pay for any losses incurred by guaranteeing such a price, an equalization fee would be paid by the possessor of each of the four products designated as basic agricultural commodities — wheat, cotton, cattle, and hogs.

Calls for Board
The twelve members of the board, one from each federal land bank district, would be appointed by the president from a list of eligibles presented by a farm advisory council, elected by farmers' organization. So far as practicable, crops would be marketed by the cooperative associations.

Birth Control, Man's Mobility Make Population Unsteady—Reuter

The increasing mobility of men and the increasing ability to control reproduction are the two relatively new and unknown quantities which, according to Edward B. Reuter, professor of sociology, make predictions of the rate of population increase even in the immediate future, hazardous speculations.

With this summation Professor Reuter closes his research entitled "Population Growth in the United States" which is the first of three chapters stating the argument of the new book "Population Problems in the United States and Canada." Twenty-five authors contribute to this book in the form of research essays.

Professor Reuter in his research bargo against its importation would be put into effect for one year. There would be no equalization fee on corn but it would share in the benefits of the other commodities.

The general scheme is embodied in the Dickinson bill pending before the agriculture committee but that bill has no tariff or embargo provisions.

Parties Wrought
Concluding his testimony before the committee today, Carl Vrooman, former assistant secretary of agriculture, charged the republican party with failing to aid the farmers during the five years it has been in power and Chairman Haugen challenged him to show that any democratic congress had done more.

has traced the growth of population in the United States from the colonial days to the present day. Gleanings from various sources in the absence of an official census seems to indicate that the average increase of the population from the founding of the Jamestown colony in 1610 until the year 1790 was an average of 1.88 per cent each decade. This of course was due to the immigration into the colonies. From the beginning of the national life in 1790 until the Civil War period in 1860, the population doubled in each twenty-five years, with only a small per cent natural increase and a large per cent due to immigration and addition of territory.

Immigration was checked in the decade of the Civil War and natural increase fell to a low per cent due to the war and the camp demoralization it brought. Following this decade, however, with the change from an agricultural to an industrial society, higher standards of living, the increasing necessity and expense of education, the growing independence of women and the widening of their interests, and the spread of contraceptive information, natural increase was retarded.

Increases 27 Times
Per cent of increase over the previous decades in 1920 was 1.690 per cent while the last census shows an increase of only 1.49 per cent over the preceding decade. In 1920 the number of inhabitants of the United States had increased twenty-seven times that enumerated in 1790 at the beginning of our national life.

"Immigration becomes more and more a question of labor opportunities," says Professor Reuter. Future increase and decrease of population in the United States will be determined, not so much by the aberrations of statesmen as by economic and social forces which are outside the orbit of political control."

Psi, national fraternity of which Mr. Alexander is a member, carries a story telling of the award of the Laurel Wreath, merit award of the fraternity of whose chapter here he was a founder, to Mr. Alexander for the year of 1924-25.

The account of the Old Gold alumnae's life as given in the fraternity journal tells how, after his graduation he was employed as designing engineer by the Marsh Engineering company. In 1914 he went into business for himself and starting with minor paying jobs soon was awarded a half million dollar contract for the new west side sewer system in Des Moines in the brief eleven years that he has been contracting he has completed contracts totalling $4,500,000 and has become one of the most successful engineers in the state.

Travels Abroad
In 1920 he studied abroad at the University of London graduate college and toured the British Isles, France, and Belgium.

The success of the alumnae can best be expressed in the words of his fraternity journal, which says: "He has broadened the scope and possibilities of the race in new fields of human endeavor and has successfully demonstrated to the youth of the race that character, scholarship, and many achievements are efficient eradicators of race prejudices." And to use the expression of one of his fraternity brothers here "He's just a regular guy and a fine fellow."

Commerce "Grads" Invited to N.Y. and "Chi" Bond Schools

A letter sent by the Guaranty company of New York to the college of commerce here states that the company would like to have three or four members of this year's graduating class in commerce come to Chicago or New York for three month's training in the bond school of their company.

The graduates who avail themselves of this opportunity must have scholastic standing and knack for a commercial position. This is one of several opportunities offered commerce students every spring for credit in American colleges because of its cultural value.

U. S. Grand Jury Accuses 112 for Wet Conspiracy

Ringleader Answers "Guilty" Shortly After Report

(By The Associated Press)
CLEVELAND, Mar. 15—Conspiracy to violate the national prohibition law is charged against 112 persons in twelve large cities of the country in an indictment returned by the federal grand jury here today.

Fifteen minutes after the indictment was returned, Harry Volpe, Providence, R. I., one of those indicted and who was largely responsible for the investigation entered a plea of guilty before Federal Judge Paul Jones. He was released on personal bond of $10,000. Sentence was deferred.

Handling of seventy-five carloads of pure grain alcohol aggregating 375,000 gallons is described in ninety of the over acts. Sixty-one of the separate allegations recite the contents of telephone and telegrams alleged to have been used in the illicit traffic. Remaining overt acts deal with alleged exchange of money between those involved for quantities of alcohol, for protection from officials, and for storing and transferring the contraband liquor.

Sixty-nine of the 112 persons indicted were arrested before the true bill was returned. Berntsen declared that nearly every one of the remaining forty-three have been so closely watched by the intelligence unit men that their arrest speedily can be effected.

Walter Schoewe Seeks Reason for Sinkage of River

Walter H. Schoewe, associate professor of geology at the University of Kansas, Lawrence, who is investigating the phenomenal sinking of the Smoky Hill river bed, a western Kansas stream, is an Iowa graduate. Mr. Schoewe received his degree about five years ago in the department of geology, and since that time has been teaching at the University of Kansas.

With startling suddenness this river bed sank 200 feet leaving a great funnel shaped hole. Water pouring into the opening crumbled away the sides of the cavern until it reached a diameter of more than 150 feet. The water is gradually rising indicating that a lake may be formed. The phenomena was accompanied by a rumble and cloud of dust, but no earth disturbance was felt any great distance from the river bed. An earthquake or subterranean explosion is the conjecture of persons of the vicinity.

A. A. U. Meet Brings Many to Iowa City

Athletes From South Dakota, Iowa and Nebraska Enter Matches; Iowa Squad Large

Local wrestling fans will get a chance to see some of the best grapplers in this part of the state in action here Friday and Saturday, when the amateur matmen of Iowa, South Dakota and Nebraska get together in the mid-western A. A. U. wrestling meet. Iowa, Nebraska, Cornell and the State Teachers college from Cedar Falls have entered thus far.

It has been several years since Iowa and Ames have tangled in any athletic contest and a battle royal is expected when the Hawks and the cow colleges ruffle cauldrons. Nebraska and Cornell are other bright stars with the Cedar Falls teachers twinkling in the distance.

Cornell has entered fourteen men, but so far the other schools have not sent in the list of names. For Iowa Yerge and Fillenworth will work in the heavyweight class, Voltmer in the 175, Grattan in the 158, Beers and Scott in the 147, Michaels in the 135, Strubbe and Pfeffer in the 125, Weir and Ward in the 115, and Boyd in the 112.

Regular A. A. U. rules will be followed. All entrants must weigh in at 11 o'clock Friday morning and the matches will start at two in the afternoon. The semi-finals and finals will be held Saturday.

Fraternity Boxers to See Action in Tourney Tonight

Sixteen men mix tonight in the semifinals of the interfraternity boxing tournament at the men's gym on the wrestling room floor at 7.30.

The semifinals of the 135, 145, 155 and 175 pound classes will be held at this time.

The schedule of bouts are as follows: 135: Sharp vs. Sibert; Collins vs. Lomas.

145: Oehlert vs. Smith; Tessman vs. Fearst.

155: Hutchison vs. Rushton; O'Neill vs. Faulkner.

175: Blackmore vs. Boyles; Collins vs. Lomas.

The final bout in the 135 pound class will probably be a mix between Collins and Sharp, with Sharp favored to win. Collins entered in the semifinals this afternoon when he took three rounds from Rittgers without much trouble. He won all three rounds. Coach Flannigan was the referee to the match.

Diamond Squad in Battle for Places as Season Nears

Baseball Stock Rises as Team Prepares for Trip South

Stiffer competition has developed among the Hawkeye baseball candidates as a result of Coach Voegel's cutting the squad to thirty-five men. Some fourteen or fifteen of the number will journey south on the training trip with the arrival of spring vacation on the thirty-first of March.

"Skimmer" Miller has traded in his basket ball outfit for baseball garments and worked out with the squad yesterday afternoon for the first time this year. "Skin" is in good condition from the past basket ball season and will fight for the receiving position.

More Room Now

The team now has access to the greater part of the armory as the basket season is over and the infielders are now doing regular diamond workouts. Twelve infielders were retained by the coach from which he hopes to weld together a strong inner defense. None of the men have showed any exceptional ability over the others in the early practice sessions and no one man has a position cinched. It is quite likely that the competition among the group for a place on the team is going to remain keen during the entire conference season with the possibilities of a position seeing a different guardian occasionally.

Only Fourteen Practice Days Remain

Only fourteen practice days remain before the team will leave for St. Louis. Until outdoor conditions are favorable, the team will continue to practice indoors.

Sellhamer Out

Sellhamer, the outfielder who was injured in hitting practice over a week ago, is still out of practice and eye specialists state that he will be unable to rejoin the squad until after the team returns from the southern training trip. The blow badly deflected the sight of the right eye and may keep the gardener out for the entire season.

Personnel of the Squad

The personnel of the squad that Coach Voegel is now working with are as follows: catchers—Miller, Beardsley, Broders, Botsinger, and Burn-

Inns; pitchers—Adams, Corbin, Stageman, Peterson, Towne, Yepsen, Mauer, Hayek, Hollister, and Southwick; infielders—Foben, Smith, Terry, Kutsch, Heiserman, Gamble, Gibbs, Hutchinson, Johnstone, Grau, Beatty, and Aalfs; outfielders—Captain Flynn, McNabb, Sabs, Soesbe, Wirts, Staneco, Miller, and Sellhamer.

Officials and Former Stars Laud Hawks' Fighting Spirit

Coach Justin M. Barry says of the Hawkeye cage team this year: "I never coached a team with more spirit and morale. Most teams with four defeats and two wins, as we had at the first of the season, would have lost hope. Our team was fighting every minute and were battling to the final whistle."

"Chuck" McConnell, captain of the Hawks, says, "We have had a fighting team of players. It has been the spirit and the coaching of 'Sam' Barry that has enabled us to make the showing we have this season."

Burton E. Ingwersen, head football coach, says, "Regardless of whether the University of Iowa basket ball team won or lost at Minnesota, they have made a remarkable showing in the Big Ten conference race. The team showed the real Iowa spirit when they came back and won six games straight after they had lost four out of the first six games."

Dr. Walter R. Fieseler said, "The outstanding feature of this season's Iowa team, to me, is the remarkable spirit shown after having lost four of the first six games played. This spirit, together with the unexcelled coaching ability of Mr. Barry, has resulted in a successful season for Iowa regardless of the outcome of the Minnesota game.

O. H. Vogel, baseball coach, said, "Iowa's prospects were very uncertain at the beginning of the season. However, Coach Barry showed his marked ability as a basket ball coach when he built his team play to fit the men with whom he worked. The outstanding feature of the team has been the remarkable spirit and enthusiasm which every man on the team had under the leadership of Captain McConnell, an all conference guard."

Wayland Hicks, all conference guard and captain of the Iowa five of 1923, said, "I've seen the team play a great deal this year and they are a great defensive team. Captain McConnell should make all conference. Van Deusen has had some tough luck in his shooting. I think he is better than his record indicates and I believe he will go even better next year."

Hector Janse, captain of the Hawk teams in '25 says, "The team this year has been the best defensive team the school has had. It has shown a wonderful fighting spirit and displayed fine co-operation and team work in executing plays."

Bresnahan Keeps Cindermen Busy on Armory Track

Hawk Flyers Training for Kansas Relays on April 17

Although the 1926 indoor track season has closed and Iowa has been crowned conference champions, Coach Bresnahan's men will continue with their work indoors at the armory until weather conditions permit them to work out-of-doors.

The first meet of the outdoor season, the Kansas Relays, will be held on April 17, and the men will have to be in the best of shape if they are to carry on the championship exhibitions which they have shown this winter.

Work was started last Saturday on the track on Iowa field, getting it in shape for the first home meet of the year which will be a dual with the Michigan team which placed second in the indoor meet last Saturday. Michigan has a mile relay team which is second only to the Iowa aggregation. At Evanston Saturday Cuhel finished but a step ahead of the Michigan anchor man and a close race can be expected when the two teams exchange batons on Iowa field in May.

A. C. Bergstrom, the freshman half miler of last year who was never beaten in a wire dual, has again reported for drill. Bergstrom has been out since the Illinois meet with a turned ankle but the injury has healed sufficiently for him to take light workouts. Bergstrom also runs a speedy quarter mile and performed on the crack cross relay team last spring. Coach Bresnahan may organize a two mile relay team as he has five half milers, all of whom have stepped the 880 in less than two minutes.

Locke to Coach Western Reserve

Will Also Practice Law With Cleveland Law Firm

Gordon Locke, Iowa's assistant football coach, and former all-American fullback in 1922, has accepted the position of head football coach at Western Reserve university, at Cleveland, Ohio.

Locke and his wife will leave Iowa City early in June, for Cleveland, where he will be associated with Day and Day, one of the best known mid-west legal firms. Justice Day of the United States Supreme court was the founder of the firm.

Locke made the connections with Day and Day last summer to practice law and his acceptance of the post as head coach at Reserve was made subsequent to his connections with Day and Day.

Locke has received several flattering offers from schools throughout the entire country during the last two years, but did not accept because of his arrangements with the law firm.

Western Reserve boasts an enrollment of 3,000 students, and is one of the larger members of the Ohio conference. The announcement to the effect that Locke had accepted the post of head coach, has brought forth much favorable comment not only on the campus, but also in the Ohio athletic circles, as his reputation as an athlete and coach here at Iowa have attracted attention throughout the country.

This announcement has been a distinct surprise to friends who believed that Iowa's famous grid star would wind up his gridiron interests when he began his law career.

Frosh Wrestlers Start Training for Mat Tournament

Now that the wrestling season is over Coach Howard is turning his attention to freshmen wrestlers who look like material for next year's team. The freshman tournament will be held the last of this month.

About twenty of the yearlings have been working out regularly in preparation for the tournament. Numerals will be awarded to winners of each class, a freshman being eligible to compete. There are some good men in the 125, 145, 158 and heavyweight classes.

The men entered are, Left in the 115, Beman in the 125, Terry and Boyer in the 135, McMeans, Scott Duff and Bennett in the 145, Lindlahr, Wilson, Goodell and Jatzrad in the 158 pound and Fillenworth in the heavyweight classes.

Four Fraternity Teams to Swat Indoor Ball Tonight

Four more teams will take swats at the soft padded baseball in the interfraternity indoor baseball tournament tonight in the men's gym at 7:00 o'clock.

The teams to play are: Sigma Nu vs. Phi Delta Theta at 7:00 o'clock.

Sigma Pi vs. Sigma Chi at 8:00 o'clock.

BURLINGTON, Mar. 15 (AP)—"Pep" Young, shortstop with the Moline Club of the Mississippi Valley League last season, will be a member of the Burlington club in the same circuit for the coming season, according to an announcement here today.

Lapp Throws Shot Farther Than Ever Before at Conference Meet

V. W. Lapp, one of the big guns on Coach Martin's weight squad, sent the dope bucket spinning when he annexed fourth place in the shot at the Conference indoor meet, at Evanston last Saturday.

Considered an outsider, with little chance of breaking into the inner circle, Lapp sprung the surprise of the meet, and surpassed even the fondest hopes of his coach, when he tossed the brass ball forty-three feet eight and one-half inches, to nose out Barge of Northwestern, for fourth place.

On his final put Lapp was confronted with the task of surpassing Barge's mark of forty-three feet five and one-half inches, a mark which he had never before approached. Nothing daunted, he spit on his hands, brushed the smoke out of his eyes, and did just that—tossed the ball some forty-three feet eight and one-half inches, to nose out Barge of Northwestern, for fourth place.

This mark exceeded by two feet eleven and one-half inches his best previous effort made under competitive conditions, when he won third place against Wisconsin with a put of forty feet and nine inches.

St. Mary's Receives Invitation to Tourney

The local St. Mary's five have been honored by receiving a special bid from Loyola University of Chicago to attend the national Catholic prep basket ball tournament that will be held in that city Mar. 18, 19, and 20.

The national tournament is an affair that is attended by only the strongest teams of their respective section of the country. It was mainly because of their strong showing at the central states prep tournament at Davenport last week that the local boys have been honored.

Committee Launches Local Fire Prevention Drive Tomorrow

Tonight's Meeting Begins Inspection

Forces Gather for Examination of City Fire Traps; "Smoky" Rogers Instructs

A mass meeting at the Chamber of Commerce tonight to discuss fire inspection procedure, will launch the two day fire inspection of Iowa City by the Iowa State Fire Prevention association.

Local Boy Scouts, firemen, and fire insurance agents will be present at this meeting in addition to the association inspectors and the Chamber of Commerce fire prevention committee.

Will Plan Inspection

The entire inspection will be planned in detail so that actual inspection may begin tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock. There will be instruction of the Boy Scouts and local firemen who will assist the association inspectors through a study of the inspection manual and the procedure, according to the program made out by Will Harrison of the Fire Prevention association.

"Smoky" Instructs

The program calls for a Boy Scout or local fireman to accompany each pair of inspectors to educate the firemen and Boy Scouts along lines of fire hazards and their remedy.

Tomorrow "Smoky" Rogers, the fire prevention clown, and other speakers furnished by the Fire Prevention association will call at the schools and entertain and instruct the pupils along lines of fire prevention.

Iowa City Officers Arrest Suspect on Auto Theft Charge

Arrest of a "John Doe" yesterday in Marengo by Detective O. E. Carroll and Sheriff James Martin, clears up the theft of a Chevrolet coupe, stolen from the Mann Motor Co. of Oxford, March 3.

The suspect, after a short quizzing by the two local officials, signed a confession to the effect that he had stolen the car. Charges will be filed upon further investigation.

The motor car, the property of W. H. Daniels, Waterloo, was found in a garage in Rock Island. It had just been purchased at the time of the theft and was without license plates. The plates, 58-3886 were stolen from another car in storage.

Detective Carroll will drive the car back to Iowa City, pending the arrival of the owner.

Start Construction of New Apartment on Summit, Soon

Carpenter Will Begin Under Commission Compromise

Construction will begin on the $60,000 Tittel apartment at the corner of Burlington and Summit streets as quickly as weather permits, according to O. H. Carpenter, architect. The building will be ready for occupancy next September.

The same general plan will be followed as in the present apartment located at that corner. Either light face brick or stucco will be used for the exterior. There will be sixteen, five room apartments all with outside light insulation against sound and complete modern equipment.

A building permit was taken out Saturday after the compromise decision by the zoning committee in regard to the distance the building must be set back from Burlington street.

The dispute involved the consideration of Summit and Burlington streets as fronts whether the building should be set back from each accordingly.

Church-Goers Watch Ten Students Enact Religious Episode

A capacity congregation attended a religious drama "Rebekah" at the Methodist church Sunday evening which was given by the students of the speech department under the direction of Frances M. Kleaveland, A4 of Jewell.

The principal parts were taken by G. Harry Bassett, A3 of Port Dodge, who took the part of Eliezer, a servant and messenger of Abraham, and Mary Josephine Hummer, A4 of Iowa City, who portrayed Rebekah. Marshall Thomas, A1 of Madison, as Laban; Ralph Lanning, A2 of Iowa City, as Kemuel; Maxine McElrath, A3 of Merville, as Milcah; Clara J. Clemmer, A2 of Cresco, as Deborah; Genevieve G. Taylor, A3 of Cedar Rapids as Tarmah; Marie Krieg, A4 of Burlington, as Zillah; Orval B. Austin, A1 of Biloxi, Miss., as Bethuel; and Philip D. Foster, A2 of Mason City, supported the principals giving the characteristic Biblical setting.

The lighting effects were directed by James J. R. Eyre, G of Iowa City. Oriental costumes were used.

Iowa City Engineers Plan Campaign Against Local Smoke, Soot Nuisance

University students, Boy Scouts, and a goodly supply of pamphlets can whisk the coal smoke out of Iowa City within a year in the opinion of local engineers and city council members after the discussion by the Iowa City engineer's club last night.

Water Company Aids

Personal recollections and new suggestions broke into the program after discussion of the subject of coal smoke prevention from both technical and legal angles by Prof. Merrit L. Fox and Prof. Frank E. Horack.

Prof. Frederic G. Higbee, head of the department of descriptive geometry and drawing, dug up his college days in Cleveland when the mayor annihilated the smoke evil in spite of all the town.

William T. Casey Dies Here Sunday

Prominent Scott Township Farmer, Victim of Heart Attack

William T. Casey, 32 years old, a farmer of Scott township, died at Mercy hospital Sunday night after a recurrent heart attack from which he had been suffering for the past two years. He was secretary of the Johnson county good roads committee and was a strenuous worker during the recent campaign.

Was Sig Chi

Mr. Casey was born in Scott township, Jan. 14, 1894, and attended the county schools. He was a member of the Sigma Chi fraternity at Ames where he attended Iowa State college and later made president of the alumni chapter.

His parents, both deceased, were Mr. and Mrs. Edward C. Casey. After leaving Ames, he married Miss Agnes Donohoe, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Donohoe, of Holbrook. Since then he had resided on a farm in Scott township.

Funeral Thursday

Surviving are his wife, three sisters, Mrs. F. S. Barnes, Mrs. Paul Read, and Mrs. Thomas Farrell, all of Iowa City, and four brothers, Edward P., Denver, Colo., Bernard, and Lawrence, Iowa City, and Steve, Miami, Fla., a former attorney here, who arrived yesterday morning.

Funeral service will be held Thursday at 9 a. m. at the St. Mary's church. Burial will be in St. Joseph's cemetery.

Members of the Sigma Chi fraternity from Ames are expected to attend the funeral service.

Transwell Wins First in District Dramatic Contest at N. English

Albert Tanswell of Iowa City high school won first place in the dramatic class at the district declamatory contest at North English last Thursday evening.

"Tom O'Clean" was the title of the speech given by Tanswell. He has been coached during the year by William Fulton, the dramatic instructor at the local high school. Robert Hanley accompanied Tanswell to North English. Those who won first place in the oratorical and humorous events were representatives from Millersburg and Brooklyn.

Cedar Rapids Woman Dies; Will be Buried Here Today

The body of Mrs. Clara Marshall, 76 years old, Cedar Rapids, will arrive in Iowa City this afternoon for burial in the Oakland cemetery. The Rev. W. C. Keeler of the Methodist church will officiate at the burial.

Mrs. Marshall died Sunday night at Cedar Rapids from burns received when her clothing caught fire from a gas flame. The clothing and nearly all the flesh were burned from her body.

Lawrence Proksch Dies

Lawrence Proksch, 39 years old, baker at the Federal bakery, died at Mercy hospital Sunday night, a victim of pneumonia. He had been there since last Tuesday.

The body was sent to Davenport, his home, yesterday morning for burial.

At the Hospitals

Eugene Sheldrup, M1 of Minneapolis, Minnesota, entered university hospital Sunday.

Arvie Tabbert, A1 of Kinsett, re-entered university hospital Saturday, after having been released recently. He is improving.

Mrs. O. P. Thompson, 309 1-2 East Burlington, entered university hospital yesterday.

West Side Group Petitions Board for New School

Ask for Equalization of Kellogg School Sale Fund

The new board of education started their term with zest last night when fifteen delegates, representing the southwest district of the West Side, presented the board with a petition asking that the $45,000 realized from the sale of the Kellogg school, be divided equally between the north and south portions of the West Side.

Southwest District, Short

Upon the sale of the Kellogg school, the understanding was that each part of the West Side was to receive an equal share of the proceeds to go toward the erection of a new school house for each district. At the present time construction has been started on a school house in the northwest district which will take, according to contract, $39,345.00. The southwest district has received no apportionment.

About three months ago a similar petition was presented to the board asking that, for the convenience of the eighty-three children of the southwest district, they receive their half of the money to erect a school building, but the decision of the board was that the twenty-eight children in the northwest district, having a longer distance to walk, were in greater need of a school. And in order to erect a suitable structure, the greater part of the sum was to be used.

Appointment Committee

The outlook for the future of the petition seems very favorable for a committee for action consisting of Charles O. Paine, William J. Weber, and Frank Nayler was appointed to start investigation concerning the erection of the desired building.

Suggestions from the majority of members favored cutting down the cost of construction of the Chautauqua heights building in the north west district, and adding to this a tax levy of not to exceed one and one-fourth per cent on all taxable property in the Iowa City district, which would easily cover the cost of the proposed building.

New Members Installed

At the regular business session the old board swore in the following new members: S. D. Whiting and Charles O. Paine for three year terms, W. J. Weber for the two year term, and Claude Miller for the one year term. S. D. Whiting was elected to succeed Mrs. Grace Weber as president of the board. Thomas Farrell was the only one of the two members of the board whose term had expired, to leave the board as Sam D. Whiting was re-elected.

Honor Barry, Bresnahan

Professor Wassam explained how fire losses are not made good directly by the company but by every person who carries insurance.

The final report of the inspection will be made at the banquet Thursday night.

Coaches Sam Barry and George T. Bresnahan were guests of the Chamber of Commerce and were complimented on the victories of their respective teams.

Rhonnda Singers Entertain C. of C.

The famous Rhonnda Welsh Male Singers were guests of the Chamber of Commerce yesterday at the regular Monday luncheon and following the meal they entertained the membership with several selections.

This organization is making its third tour of the country and has entertained in forty different states. They sang last night at the Lions charity concert at the Methodist church.

Stress Community Chest

Following the concert, Col. Morton C. Mumma, of the military department, briefly called the attention of the members of the Community Chest drive to begin March 22 and emphasized the necessity of each member doing his part in filling the chest.

Prof. C. W. Wassam, chairman of the Chamber of Commerce fire prevention committee, outlined the fire prevention program which begins today, and explained the purpose of the campaign and the final inspection of Iowa City tomorrow and Thursday.

State Rests Case in Brennan Liquor Trial

State's Witnesses Testify; Defendant Asserts Ignorance of Alcohol Seized

The state, represented by County Attorney Ed. O'Connor, rested its case against George L. Brennan on trial for operating a liquor nuisance late yesterday afternoon and examination of the witnesses for the defense began. Brennan himself was put on the witness stand in his own defense by his attorney after four witnesses for the prosecution had testified and his examination continued until court adjourned.

Brennan was arrested following a raid on a pool hall at 213 South Clinton September 4, 1925, when a number of bottles of alcohol were found. Previous to this time the hall was raided and a number of bottles of alcohol taken and John Cox who was then operating the place was convicted of maintaining a liquor nuisance as a result of the seizure February 25, 1925. The state has tried to show that Brennan was actively connected with the pool hall at that time.

Bender Testifies

Four witnesses for the state were put on the stand yesterday afternoon and at some time during the examination each one of them identified each exhibit as having been taken either in the raid of September 4, or February 25.

W. H. Bender, deputy sheriff at the time of February raid, was the first to go on the stand after court convened shortly before two o'clock. He testified to having entered the hall. After searching through the main floor, basement and a bar at the rear about eight bottles of alleged alcohol were taken. All were identified when presented to him.

Officer R. P. Kovalnick, when the stand, told how several bottles of alcohol were found in a sack in some ashes in one corner of the basement. He identified them all as having been taken in the raid.

Asserts Innocence

Former police chief J. J. Lorack was the third witness to tell his story of the raid, corroborating the testimony of the previous witnesses as to the appearance of what was called a bar but which was described simply as a counter, the finding of the liquor and the identification of the exhibits. Frank J. Belzer followed him to testify to having sold the hall to the defendant previous to the raid of September 4.

In his own defense, Brennan asserted that at the time of the first raid he was operating a grocery store and had no connection with the pool hall what ever. He admitted however, that he was in the hall when the raid commenced and that he did take the money out of the register. He also admitted having a key to the place. He positively refused however to identify any of the fifteen bottles of alcohol and testified that he had never seen any of them before.

Son Born to Chervinka's

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Frank Chervinka, 18 N. Lucas street, yesterday morning a son. He will be known as Frank Jr.
