New York Dean
Stresses Value of Own Judgment

Don't Believe All You Hear, Caution of
H. C. Jackson

The value of experience lies in the care with which we weigh the facts we accept, according to Dr. Holmes C. Jackson, dean of the medical college at New York University, who gave a lecture on that subject yesterday afternoon in the chemistry building.

"When we think of science as applied to business," said Dr. Jackson, "we usually think of procedures in business which have accurate scientific demands. But accuracy is not restricted to methods alone. The mental attribute is the most important and the one that is the most neglected."

Judging Superstitions

We are continually having facts thrust at us, but we should not take them at their face value. We are all potential scientists, not vitalists, and the lecturer also assumed that we were determinists, meaning that if we knew the physical and chemical laws of the system of atoms we could determine the change brought about by the change of a part of that system.

None of us would admit the cause and effect relationship in such superstitions as a broken mirror, a leaf clover or a charm. Doctor Jackson state, however, that wearing a charm is not far removed from statements made in medicine. For example the beneficial results from applying certain drugs is related in a certain way to the beneficial results received from wearing a charm. Such things, however, are judged as superstitions until proven true.

Observation of Scientist

The next problem is how to prove their truth. One way is by chance observation. Another is the reasoning which says that because two events follow each other they have direct relationship. This method accounts for the faults of reasoning of most superstitious people.

The real basis for judging the truth of a statement is by accurate observation, but nothing is so difficult as this. For example, an auto accident is never seen the same by any two persons. The reason for this is that the observation goes through a mental filter. So a scientist must make observation with no mental bias.

Don't Absorb Everything

A mental bias neglects negative results. Doctor Jackson said that he could judge a student's worth in the laboratory by watching the way in which he treated his negative results.

Before concluding his lecture the doctor added a caution to those who are going to weigh their experiences. The caution is to beware of your authorities, for there are false ones in many disguises. One disguise may be that of personality, another of success, but to see through these one must have a mind that does not swallow everything, hook, line and sinker.

"Don't absorb things like a sponge, and pay no attention to whether it is good, bad or indifferent," was Doctor Jackson's advice. "For the characteristic of man which puts him above the lower animals is his ability to make judgments."

92 Per Cent of U.
Supplies Product
of Iowa Industries

Home industries will have nothing to fear from outside competition if the University of Iowa's buying record can be very generally duplicated throughout the state.

Ninety-six per cent of the food bought by the university for its hospitals and dormitories, during the year just past, was purchased in Iowa. Flour, potatoes, and coffee form the bulk of the supplies purchased outside of the state.

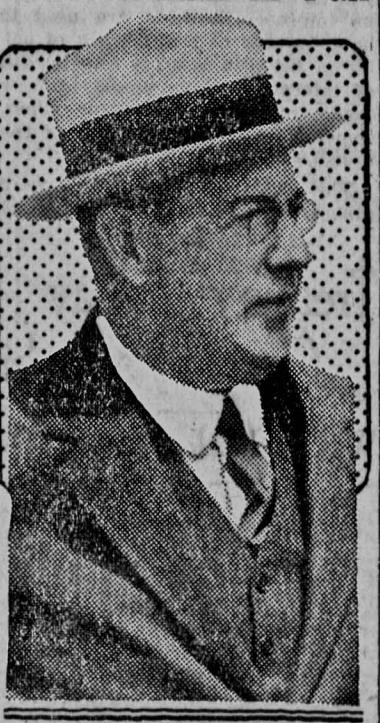

Not in dozens or in gross, but in carload lots are many of the food-stuffs purchased, including spinach, canned tomatoes, apricots, apples, corn, peas, and peaches. Eighteen hundred pounds of dried prunes were used during the course of the year, and 45,000 pounds of butter.

The relative food values of these articles explains their purchase in such large quantities. With a green leaf vegetable as a daily requisite for the well-balanced diet, spinach has found increasing popularity with dietitians and nutrition experts who choose the daily menu for the various hospitals and dormitories.

III Student Recovering

August Kruskop, A1 of Lytton, is now well on the way to recovery from an operation for appendicitis on last Sunday. After a slight attack, Kruskop was taken from his room at the Phi Kappa Rho house to the university hospital, where the operation was performed. This was his second attack of this nature in the past six months.

Congress Takes Definite Action on Prohibition Issue

House Passes Bill to Put Officers Under
Civil Service

(By The Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Mar. 29—Out of the continuing din and clatter of the prohibition controversy there emerged today some definite action by both congress and the administration to further reconstitute the much re-constituted enforcement machinery of the federal government.

The house passed without a record vote the bill favored by the treasury and favored by both wets and dries to place all except the highest officers of the prohibition forces under civil service. Coincidentally, Assistant Secretary Andrews created and filled two new posts in his enforcement staff. One of the new officials, will have supervision over brewery permits for withdrawal of wine.

Accused of Drunken Spree
Even though the leaders were in agreement in support of the civil service bill, its passage was opposed by Representative Blanton, democrat, who supplemented his remarks by reading a letter from a minister accusing another minister of going on a drunken spree.

In the senate both wets and dries held their peace while they prepared for next week's committee hearings on pending modification bills. The wets summoned Assistant Secretary Andrews and District Attorney Buckner at New York as the first witnesses to appear next Monday and promised that other distinguished persons would be asked by them to appear later.

Just as he was receiving the senate summons General Andrews disclosed that he proposed to do some investigating of his own, and to that end would begin on July 1, an inspection trip taking him along the southern boundary to the Pacific coast and back through the chain of enforcement outposts on the edge of Canada.

Borah Introduces Amendments
Another batch of petitions and legislative proposals, including the memorial of the Rhode Island house for a nationwide prohibition referendum were passed during the day on both senate and house. Senator Borah, a dry, introduced an amendment to make more specific a pending referendum proposal.

Chairman Graham of the house judiciary committee, which has been urged both by the administration and the Anti-Saloon League to provide more judicial machinery to handle prohibition cases, presented a bill to create ten new federal judges scattered over most of the country.

French Ministry
Totters on Crest
of Financial War

PARIS, Mar. 29 (AP)—Untoward events today again cast their shadow over the Briand government on the eve of the crisis in the discussion of financial restoration for France the seventh such crisis since Etienne Clement abandoned the finance ministry one year ago.

The government was defeated in the Chamber today on the question of credits for military operations in Syria and the franco again sagged to a new low level because of the impression created by the communists' success in yesterday's special election.

The cabinet did not pose a question of confidence on the request for the Syrian credits, so the defeat did not involve the fate of the Briand government. It was regarded, however, as a significant revelation of the government's weakness on the eve of another struggle to obtain parliamentary sanction for new taxes.

Mr. T. C. Byerly, of the zoology department, will give a report on "The Method of Observations of the Development of the Chick" at the meeting of the Zoology club in room 19 in natural science this afternoon at 4 o'clock. Mr. Byerly will demonstrate the apparatus used by which the embryo could be entirely exposed so that the parts as they appeared, developed, and functioned could be observed.

Mr. H. O. Haterius, of the zoology department, will give a report on "The Fate of the Quadrat in Mammalia." There has been considerable discussion as to whether or not mammals had a quadrat bone. Mr. Haterius will summarize the work that has been done.

Report Says Lead
of Democrat 1,420

Gives Democrat 450,169 Votes, Brookhart
448,749; Stephens Contends Majority
Report Ignores Law of Iowa

(By The Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Mar. 29—The majority report of the senate elections and privileges committee, made public today said that the final number of contested ballots upon which it was required to pass in the Steck-Brookhart election contest from Iowa was 3,892. Of this number 2,729 were claimed by Brookhart and contested by Steck and 1,063 claimed by Steck and contested by the senator. After these had been disposed of Steck was found to have received 450,169 and Brookhart 448,749.

Senator Stephens concluded that Brookhart received 449,276 votes, including 1,344 which the committee did not count for either candidate and Steck 448,145.

Find Voter's Intent
In determining for whom the votes should be counted, the majority report said, "your committee sought to ascertain the true intent of the votes. In reaching this conclusion it took into consideration every circumstance that might shed any possible light upon such intent. It disregarded all claims put forward to disfranchise the voter, either by a contention that certain marks, or that the voter had not complied technically with the provisions of the statute.

"In any and all cases of doubt the advantage was given the incumbent because he had the certificate of nomination."

1,344 Not Counted?

Senator Stephens vigorously assailed the majority, declaring that it had disregarded the law of Iowa and had not counted 1,344 votes for Brookhart "because of disaffection of the Republican party in Iowa and cordial dislike of Brookhart by many members of that party."

The refusal to count the 1,344 ballots was declared by Senator Stephens to have been "arbitrary, unfair and in the face of the law that should govern this matter." He added that the committee "absolutely ignored the law of Iowa."

Old-World Play
Makes Auspicious
Opening Success

Student Players Enact Tragedy, "Romeo and Juliet"

Critical comment by members of the department of English and drama on this evening's production of "Romeo and Juliet" will appear in tomorrow's Iowan for the benefit of the Wednesday night audience.

By RICHARD L. WILSON

Natural science auditorium rang with the words that made London's Globe theater famous last night when the University Theatre gave its first presentation of William Shakespeare's "most excellent and lamentable tragedy of 'Romeo and Juliet'."

The drama was played before a medium sized, but appreciative audience. Advance ticket sales indicated that tonight's and Wednesday night's performances will be played before full houses.

Effect of Death Scene

No attempt was made by the theatre to follow the division of the play into acts. The first section included the first and second acts of the play, the second section the third act, and the last section acts four and five.

Murmurs of approval in the halls of natural science after the last curtain had fallen on the tomb of the Capulets and the spectators filed out, were evidences of a highly pleasurable audience. A flutter of white handkerchiefs during the last scene wherein Romeo (Philip Foster) and the young Juliet (Vivian McCarty) kill themselves for love of each other demonstrated a deep emotional effect upon at least the feminine portion of the theatre goers.

One Set Through

Prof. E. C. Mable, director of the University Theatre, could not be located after the performance last night to give his impression of the first night efforts of his protégés.

Seeking to give only the intent of the voter and sweeping aside all technicalities and irregularities, the majority held that Daniel F. Steck, the Democratic candidate, received a plurality of 1,420 votes.

On the other hand, the minority report contended that Senator Brookhart had a plurality of 1,301, on a proper count of the ballots before the committee, in the light of the law of Iowa.

The majority report was filed by

Historical Society
Plans New Study

Municipal Government
Research Occupies Organization

May 11 and 12 have been set as definite dates for the annual meeting of the association of administrative officers of colleges of Iowa to be held here this year. Advance indications are that an unusually large number of college officials will attend, including one or two volumes that will form a part of the "Iowa Applied History Series."

The research will cover every phase of government interest and activity in all classes of towns and cities in Iowa. Every officer and every function of municipal government will be thoroughly studied, as far as possible, to determine what the work will not be confined to perusal of only the statutes, ordinances, decisions, and reports.

The usual and more formal study of printed matter will be supplemented by field work that will lead the researchers to visit many towns and cities throughout the state. The work, which will actively begin with the summer session, will be under the direction of Benj. F. Shambough, head of the political science department.

The published material will be somewhat like the book, "County Government and Administration in Iowa," which was published by the same society in 1925. According to Professor Shambough, this book has been received with highest favor, especially by the county officials, who have praised the work, and have commended the suggestions for improvement which the volume contains.

Two Iowans Take Places on History Research Council

Two Iowa men, United States Senator A. B. Cummings of Des Moines and Harvey Ingham, editor of the Des Moines Register, have accepted membership on a national advisory committee to raise an endowment fund of $1,000,000 for the American Historical Association.

The object of the movement is to develop research so that the serious gaps in American history can be filled. The president of the association is Prof. Dana C. Monroe of Princeton. Former presidents have been Woodrow Wilson and Theodore Roosevelt.

Senator Albert J. Beveridge, chairman of the committee, has issued a public statement that he thinks the raising of a million dollars for American history is a patriotic duty because through a knowledge of historical sources, much foolish and impractical handling of public affairs may be averted.

This research he believes can only be done by trained scholars. The sources in America are scattered all over the continent and to get hold of the facts a great deal of traveling will be necessary.

Give Party for Veteran Member of Acacia Here

Campus Friends Honor Alfred A. Clement, 82 Years Old

"Al" Clement had a birthday Sunday. That statement might mean little to a stranger, but to the hundreds of friends of the 82 year old veteran of the Acacia fraternity here it means much more than that.

Mr. Clement, whose full name is Alfred A., was born in Doncaster, England, April 1, 1844. Early in life he left his home and came to America. His family is widely scattered and he has only a handful of relatives on this side of the Atlantic. He has been a Master Mason and a member of the Acacia fraternity for years.

H Means Something

He has lived at the house at Iowa for fourteen years; he has seen every member of the local chapter initiated; and he receives over two hundred post cards every Christmas from his friends. He is still a boy and admits he never will grow old. He calls hundreds of students and townspeople by their first names and can hold his own both physically and mentally with the best of them.

Small wonder, then, that when "Al" Clement has a birthday, it means something.

Sunday, President Walter A. Jesup, Col. Morton C. Mumma, Prof. Forest C. Ensign and many more of his friends staged a birthday party in his honor.

Gets Permanent Pass

The party was held at the Acacia house with the toast program taking the form of a radio broadcasting program with Colonel Mumma as the announcer. Mr. Clement was presented with a permanent pass to the Pastime theater by the chapter and with a steamer robe from the alumni. The latter will come in handy when he visits his birthplace in England next summer. An angel food cake patterned after an Acacia badge was the gift of Mrs. Fred Shuppert bore the inscription, "To Al, 82 years."

The station A. L. C. was made up of the following parts: Announcer, Col. Morton C. Mumma as toast master; the tubes, President Walter A. Jesup; for the university, the battery, O. F. McMillan; the loud speaker, H. G. Walker of the alum; the switch, Dale McLaughlin, of the seniors; the aerial, G. A. Kenderline, a charter member; the dials, John Stein, of the pledges; and the ground wire, C. W. Keyser of the alumni association.

The Guests

Guests who came for the party were Col. Morton C. Mumma, President Walter A. Jesup, Prof. O. A. Thomas, Prof. C. W. Wassam, Prof. F. C. Ensign, Prof. R. B. Wylie, Prof. C. L. Robbins, L. D. Upton, H. ## Investigators Oust Score of Lawyers, Announces Mellon

WASHINGTON, Mar. 29 (AP)—A three years' investigation of practices of attorneys before the treasury department, especially in tax cases, culminated today in an announcement by Secretary Mellon that during that time twenty-four lawyers had been denied the privilege of further practicing before the departments and that fifteen others had been suspended pending

In addition the secretary ordered that employees found guilty of any improper activities in connection with such cases should be dismissed from the service.

Some of the lawyers have been banned for some time, Secretary Mellon said, but his investigation will be continued to make sure that no improper methods are used in handling tax cases. Charges of collusion between lawyers and bureaus of internal revenue employees were made recently by Senator Glass, democrat, a former secretary of the treasury.

The disbarred attorneys were practically all from the east.

The Faculty Plays Hooky

A NUMBER of observant undergraduates criticized the faculty severely after the Christmas holidays for the way in which it observed the regulation concerning attendance at classes before and after holidays.

The administration has designed a penalty for students who miss such class meetings, the object of the measure being to insure full classes up to the time school is officially dismissed, so that work may go on unimpeded.

Faculty men and women are not bound by the regulation. They may give an examination under the supervision of some graduate student, they have found, and take a few extra days off. Thus the real purpose of the regulation is thwarted.

It is not easy to see why it is any worse for students to fail to attend these classes, than for instructors to give an examination. Examinations even at times of less stress do not add to students' knowledge and in this circumstance indeed they are admittedly mere blinds to give the instructors more time over the hills and far away.

A large number of instructors have assigned examinations for the present week. They will not meet their classes, but the students must be kept busy.

This is no criticism of the faculty's rule, but rather a serious comment on the way in which some of the instructors live up to it.

One of two things should be done by the administration. The rule should be revoked, or something done to assure that its purpose is not thwarted by certain members of the staff of instruction.

A Profitable Adventure

TWENTY-SIX students of the school of journalism will go to Des Moines over the spring vacation to take charge of the April 3 issue of the Des Moines Register. To them it will be a wonderful experience, a real insight into the methods used by great dailies.

To the Register it will furnish a good bit of advertising and insight into the quality of newspaper men and women that will leave the school this year and to a large extent in future years.

This plan by which students edit the Register is not a new one. It has been tried several times before and always has been successful. The Register's management is to be congratulated on the attitude it takes in allowing the Iowa students to issue their publication. It is to be hoped that the Des Moines newspaper may gain some lasting benefit from this group of Iowans which will in a way make up for the trouble they take to make the plan a success.

The Old Oil Can

EVERY DAY accounts of fatalities by carelessness in pouring oil from cans on slow burning fires meet the reader of newspapers. Within the past two weeks two families have lost their lives by just such thoughtlessness.

Now that spring is here, bonfires will begin to appear on the horizon, and thoughtless persons in the rush of spring cleaning will pile trash too near buildings or forget to watch it until too late, with the result—loss of property; or to stimulate a feeble flame douse it with coal oil, and puff—puff—another fatality. When will grown-ups learn from the old, old story, "Play with fire, sure to get burned" is all too true?

We have campaigns on fire prevention and fire protection, and we teach school children the terrible losses occasioned by carelessness with matches, but why can't we conceive a remedy for the old time oil can and its partner in crime?

Education vs. Expense

SEVENTEEN years ago between 4,000 and 5,000 students attended the three Iowa state institutions annually. Last year more than 1,300,000 Iowans were in some way benefited by the educational activities of these institutions. High school attendance has more than trebled in the past ten years and each year a greater percentage of high school graduates enter college.

The demands upon the eastern colleges such as Yale and Harvard has been so great that in a few years admittance to these will be almost impossible to an Iowa student; then it will be necessary for the state institutions to take care of all Iowa's higher educational needs.

The University of Iowa has held back on expenses to such an extent that it loses many outstanding men to other universities. Of five middle western universities Iowa ranks lowest in salaries paid to professors, next lowest to assistant professors, lowest to associate professors, and fourth lowest to instructors. Yet complaint is made concerning the amount of money spent here. With the future citizenship and the prosperity of the state in the hands of the institutions of learning, the best facilities possible should be provided without begrudging of expense.

Not Such a Joke

RUBBER NIPPLES are passe in France and her colonies.

By an overwhelming vote recently the French Chamber of Deputies voted to abolish the "nefarious nipple" within three months. The charge was made that the use of rubber nipples exposed the babies of France to dangers ranging from stifling to poisoning.

Attacked by the American press as a joke, because of its passing at a time when the financial problem threatens the government, yet in the background is to be seen a worthwhile motive in the passage.

France's manpower suffered greatly during the World war. She is depopulated, and as a measure of self protection, the government has undertaken the problem of rebuilding her population. Every precaution is taken to save the lives of the babes.

Possibly in this move the United States could see something worth following, and certainly deserving of commendation rather than ridicule.

First Degree

THE initiation of a West Virginia boy into a college fraternity has been postponed. He happened to have both feet cut off when he fell from a freight train upon which his friends put him to steal a ride as part of a preliminary test of his fitness to become a full-fledged brother.

In a few months he hopes to leave the hospital and equipped with wheel chair and crutches, he will be able to present himself to his chums but after a lengthy trial and cross-examination by the Council the case went to the jury and on the weight of evidence he was convicted and fined.

Fortunately a case such as this is not the usual one. Very few fraternities on this campus that we have knowledge of compel their pledges to do stunts which might endanger their lives. The effect of this accident at West Virginia will be felt not only in the student's life but also over the entire campus of the institution he attended. It will work hardships on all the fraternities existing there and all because of the thoughtlessness of a few actives who decided to have a little fun with one of the pledges. It were easy to say that it is fortunate no such condition exists at Iowa, due to the fact that Iowa men have too much "horse" sense, but after some of the things that have happened lately we are inclined to doubt it.

Uneasy Money

"FINANCIAL imperialism is at the bottom of a continued series of difficulties framed to embarrass the Mexican government, and at the bottom of the unjustifiable threats of the United States secretary of state protesting these laws."

That is the charge made against the United States by her swarthy neighbor to the south regarding the land laws through Heriberto Sein, former member of the Mexican consulate in New York city before the Boston Foreign Policy association. And what is there to refute the argument? American investors, lured by the rich promises of oil profits, have invaded the country, impressed the natives into a condition not far removed from actual servitude and in short, taken the law into their own hands. Then when the inevitable reaction to this financial tyranny asserted itself, and these unscrupulous speculators began to fear for their own safety, the United States must needs bluster into the matter demanding a showdown. After Mexico had been sufficiently intimidated to promise these "Americans" immunity from their just desserts, things again went on their wonted course. And so it goes.

A settlement of this irritating situation depends apparently upon a friendly adjustment of the Alien Land law and the Petroleum law. The United States is protesting against that law on the grounds that it takes away from Americans land which is legally theirs under previous constitutional provisions. The Mexican defense is that stated by Sein.

Private ownership of oil interests will always engender a certain amount of friction and present an obstacle to a friendly settlement of the question. It apparently remains with the governments of both countries to agree to approach the situation from a logical angle—to act as a check upon the avarice which has thus far actuated business between them. The Boston Foreign Policy association is a definite step in that direction.

Poems That Live

The Flight

Look back with longing eyes and know that I will follow,
Lift me up in your love as a light wind lifts a swallow.
Let our flight be far in sun or windy rain—but what if I heard my first love calling me again?

Hold me on your heart as the brave sea holds the foam,
Take me far away to the hills that hide your home;
Peace shall thatch the roof and love shall latch the door—but what if I heard my first love calling me once more?

—Sara Teasdale.

CHILLS AND FEVER

Well, anyway, the King of England reads Life every week.

But the president of women's pan-hell, so we are told, reads Chills and Fever.

WE own the only photo in existence of the Prince of Wales on a horse.

WE also own the only photo in existence of a (censored) girl washing her neck but no one believes us.

Growth of the Soil
Though pretty tunes the artists played
Our youthful friend was sore dismayed
And heartily his fate inveighed
Her wisdom to disclose.

For though he tried to see the grace
Of laughing girl or matron's face
All he could watch within the place
Was hose, silk hose, just hose.

As round the floor with whirl on whirl
Danced handsome boy and breathless girl
A purpose lurked in every twirl
Gay garters to expose.

With flesh and pink and mauve and gray
And white and scarlet o'er the way
The dancing spirit seemed to say,
"Boy, look! Here's hose, silk hose!"

—A. Feye.

A letter was read from Professor Howard Murray—Three students smoking and one student accused by Professor Bronson denied his guilt, but after a lengthy trial and cross-examination by the Council the case went to the jury and on the weight of evidence he was convicted and fined.

Further proof that the Younger Generation is going to Hell supplied by the eminent Vassar College:

Undergraduates of Vassar College will be permitted to smoke in one of the rooms in the students' building following the recent action of the Student Association.

Committee Declares Stock Winner Over Smith W. Brookhart

Senator Caraway, (Dem., Ark.), on behalf of himself and nine other members of the elections committee, while the minority report was filed by Senator Stephens, (Dem., Miss.), on behalf of himself.

Although friends of Senator Brookhart have been urging action for weeks, the reports probably will not be called up in the senate for debate and a final vote until after the return here Thursday or Friday of Chairman Ernest Gruening of the elections committee, who is attending the Kentucky Republican state convention.

Stephens Assails Report

Senator Stephens based his conclusions upon these grounds:

That there is no evidence.

The ballots brought to Washington to be counted by the committee were preserved in the manner required by law so as to make them admissible as evidence.

That a recount of all the ballots cast in the election had not been made.

That on a proper recount of the ballots presented to the committee, Brookhart received more votes than Steck.

Taking up the first ground, the senator said it was apparent from the face of the record that the law was not complied with in many instances. Sixty-seven mail bags containing ballots were received unsealed, he said, adding that there were 1,068 precincts in which there was a discrepancy between the number of names on the polling lists and the number of ballots found in the boxes when they were counted, here. Senator Stephens placed this discrepancy at 3,300 and demanded to know what had become of this number of ballots cast. He added that it was possible that a count of these would overcome the lead claimed by the majority for Steck. Taking up the question of the 1,344 votes which the majority refused to count, Senator Stephens argued that these were marked, in one of the three ways provided for in the Iowa law and that consequently they should have been counted. Brookhart claimed that all were cast for him.

Turning to the several hundred so-called "arrow ballots," Senator Stephens declared that since they had distinguishing marks on them they could not be counted under the Iowa law, but the majority did count them "thus making a considerable change in Steck's favor."

The majority report declared that "a substantial compliance with the laws of Iowa has been shown in this, that the ballots were found in the custody of the various county auditors, the legal custodians of the ballots, and out of the large number of Iowa precincts in only two, do the county auditors show that there was any defect in the envelope in which the ballots were contained.

The majority also stated that the testimony and exhibits offered by the Iowa Republican state central committee were found irrelevant and competent only to explain certain marks including arrows on certain ballots and the large number of votes of those registered as Republicans who seemed not to have voted for Brookhart.

Noisy Senators Debate Violently on Italy's Debts

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, March 29.—The Italian debt settlement kicked up a real rumpus today in the senate, with rules going by the board as senators engaged in a running cross fire of attack and defense. Premier Mussolini came in for a few broadsides and the conflict even extended to who was responsible for writing the republican party platform for 1924.

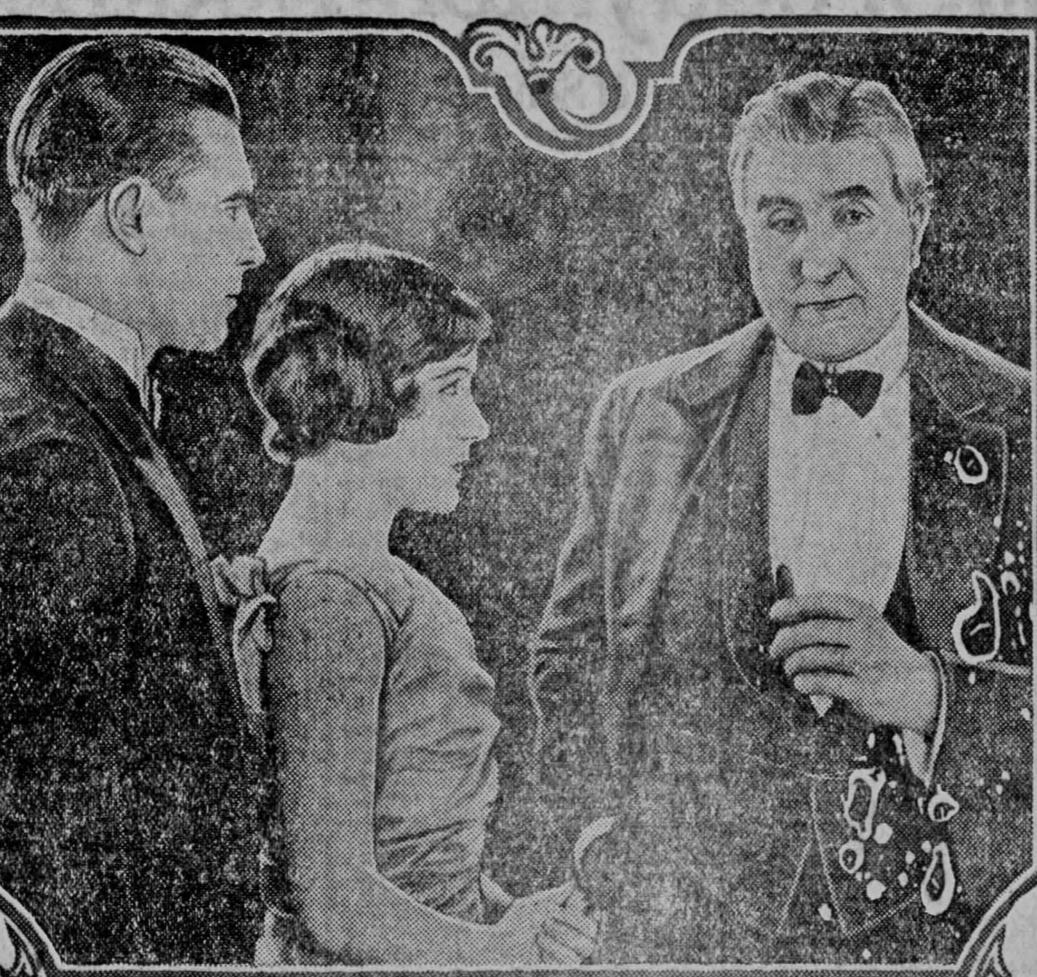

While the debate of three hours was reaching its climax the American debt commission was accused of having used a new "system of mathematics" in figuring the Italian settlement.

Smooth Measures

This accusation came after Senator Smoot, republican, a member of the commission, and generally regarded as a financial wizard, had made an error of $23,000,000 in calculating yearly interest on a hypothetical settlement.

Before the discussion ended, Senator Reed, democrat, offered a resolution directing the senate foreign relations committee to investigate Italy's ability to pay her war debt; the extent and terms of private

Why Do We Come?

To the Editor: Why do these foreign students come here to study? Don't they have universities in their own countries? Such questions are often heard on the campus. Let me offer some explanation through this column.

Although we have universities and colleges in our own countries, we like to study abroad to broaden our minds and increase our knowledge just as so many American students go to study in England and European countries.

Many of us are sent here by our governments in order to correct misunderstandings and promote international friendship.

The rest of us have come on our own initiative, because we love America and want to know more about its manners, social customs, family life, etc., than we can get from books.

Finally, the day has come when the Gospel of Peace and Love can be more effectively preached to the world not by missionaries but through the medium of these temporary visitors—the foreign students.

Thus we have come through our weary journey with a sincere heart to make friends, an earnest purpose to study the Western culture, and a Christian motive to promote international good-will and world-friendship. May we secure better cooperation on the campus?

Vogelmen Wind Up Drill Today for Southern Training Trip

DeMolay Quintet Ready for State Meet at Chariton

Will Meet Sac City in First Game Friday Morning

Coach Carroll's DeMolay cage outfit went through their final practice last night before they leave for the state DeMolay tourney. The boys and their coach will leave for Chariton on Thursday morning and are scheduled to play their first game at eleven o'clock Friday morning.

Old High School Stars
The men that Carroll has been working on first string are Koser and Strickler at the forwards, Watkins and Wallen at the guards, while Geiger has been tipping the ball at the pivot position. This combination will no doubt start all the games at Chariton. The other men that will make the trip are Lörack, Robinson, and either Dennis or Brown.

The Iowa City boys will play Sac City in their opening game. Although the opposition is somewhat of an unknown quantity they are not rated as one of the strong teams in the tourney. If they weather the first encounter they will play the winner of the Alba-Chariton game.

Chariton Strong

Chariton, who is favored to win this game, will be able to give the locals plenty of competition as they are playing their high school team intact, which was rated among the best prep quintets in the state. They lost to Boone, one of the running-ups in the high school tourney, by a single point. The fate of the locals rests in this second game for if they can win this they will have easy sailing until the final rounds.

Tunney Signs With Tex

NEW YORK, Mar. 29 (AP)—Promoter Tex Rickard today announced he had signed Gene Tunney to a blanket contract under which the former American light heavyweight champion agrees to fight any opponent Rickard may select for him during the 1926 outdoor season.

Although Rickard made no explanatory comment, observers expected his action today as the first official move in his announced intention of bringing Tunney and Jack Dempsey together this summer in a heavyweight championship battle.

Hoppe Leads Schaefer in First Block of 18.1 Match

NEW YORK, Mar. 29 (AP)—Willie Hoppe, the defending champion, today led Jack Schaefer of Chicago by 300 to 232 at the end of the first block of their $6,000 point billiard match for the world's 18.1 balk line championship. Hoppe ran out his string in ten innings, posted a high run of 148.

U High Track Men Back From Chicago

Cozine Takes National Title in One Mile Run in 4:42

University high school's two representatives in the national interscholastic track meet returned from Evanston Sunday afternoon with five points to their credit, which gave the local school a tie for seventh place in the big classic.

The baseball candidates have been working in the open for the past week and are showing a good brand of pre-season ball. They have been looking forward to the long jaunt into the warmer climate like a Washington street club girl anticipating a quadriga dinner date—just thrilled to death.

Won Three Last Year

Out of a five game schedule played on the training trip a year ago Coach Vogel's men grabbed three wins, a tie, and one loss. If the hopes of the departing squadron materialize this spring the baseball nine will return at the end of the Easter resting season with a perfect average.

Adams is the only letter man member of the hurling staff this year and he has without a doubt a slight edge on Towne, another right winged pitcher, who saw considerable action at the start of the season a year ago, and on Corbin and Stegman, two sophomore south-pawes, who are likely to be included in the flock leaving tomorrow. There is a possibility of a last minute change that would include either Hoyek or Hollister with the ball tossing quartette doped to make the journey.

"Skimmer" Miller and Beardsley have been working behind the bat this year. Both of these men wear letters from a year ago. Miller having played as part of the batteries last season and Beardsley worked in the outfield. The latter was shifted to the stopping end of the balls and strikes this spring.

Hoben at First

Hoben is the safe bet at first sack. This man has the experience of one year to his credit, and he has little or no competition for the berth on the first angle of the diamond this season.

The men who clash swords are Christensen vs. Brønneke, and Geer vs. Clifton.

Gamble is the most likely man to take part in the southern journey as guardian of second base, however he has plenty of close competition in Verne Smith and Hutchison, who are both good infielders.

Captain in Center

Captain "Eddie" Flinn in center field is the mainstay of the Hawkeye outfield. Supporting the Iowa ball general is Sabs, in right field, and either Wayne Miller or Terry in the left field territory. Flinn is this year in his old form, covering the ground beyond the bases like the grass. Sabs is playing his second year with the varsity. Last year he was rated as first on the reserve outfield list.

Coch Vogel may see fit, in the last minutes, to take Broders or Bolinger on the southern journey in place of Miller or Beardsley and Verne Smith, Hutchison and Gibbs are all handy men in the infield. In the outer gardens Wards, Aafs, and Soesbe may get into action. It is also probable that Beardsley might be shifted to his old berth on the green when his services are not needed behind the bat.

Frat Baseball Tonight

The fraternity indoor baseball artists will get together tonight for two games, one between the Sigma Chis and the Phi Delta Theta and one with the Theta Xis and the S. A. E.'s as opponents. These will be the last games before the spring vacation.

Tiger Trackmen Get to Berkeley for Bear Meet

BERKELEY, Calif., Mar. 29 (AP)—The University of Missouri track and field team arrived today for the intersectional meet Saturday with the University of California. Twenty-two athletes followed Bob Simpson, coach and former world's greatest hurdler, off the train and to the field where they will attempt to dull the claws of the Bears of California. A brief workout was held.

Although it is possible that Merlin Carter, Big Ten 200-yard breast stroke champion and holder of the conference record for a 75-foot tank might win the event and that Stan-dish Lambert would place high in either the 220 or 440-yard free style events, the length of the trip will prevent their attendance.

The meet was held at Evanston last year and a squad of Iowans competed. Individual championships in all events only are decided.

Vogel to Post Final Selection for Trip Sometime Today

By MONTE STEWART

Coach Otto Vogel and fourteen Iowa baseball players will bounce into Pullman cars tomorrow night at 7:30 ready for the first stretch of the second annual spring training trip, way down south. In seven days the Hawkeye diamond squadron will be all over the warmer part of the United States. The first of the five games listed on the pre-season combat card will be staged Thursday against St. Louis University.

The baseball candidates have been working in the open for the past week and are showing a good brand of pre-season ball. They have been looking forward to the long jaunt into the warmer climate like a Washington street club girl anticipating a quadriga dinner date—just thrilled to death.

Mid covered figures trailed off Iowa Field toward the showers yesterday afternoon after Coach Vogel had sent his squad through an extensive sliding drill that ended with the infielders and battery men loosening up their arms and the outfielders spending an hour chasing fly balls to all parts of the field.

The field was too wet to allow the coach to send his men through a game or infield practice and the wet ground was utilized for the fundamentals of base stealing. Two bags were placed on the soft ground of the outfield and the men instructed to hook it and be off again in case of an overthrow.

Activities will be resumed this afternoon when the regulars and the seconds line up for another practice game. This will be the last hard drill in preparation for the southern training trip. A light practice will be held on Wednesday afternoon and the team will leave on Wednesday evening for St. Louis for their first game to be played on Thursday afternoon. The selection of the fourteen men to take the trip will be announced on Wednesday morning.

McNabb took over the job at the third bag with the varsity this year after playing regularly in the outfit last spring. The North Wisconsin man seems to have little to fear in the way of competition for his infield berth.

Smith is a veteran of a year ago with the Iowa varsity, but he is romping around the short-stop territory this year, his only position at third being filled by Ed McNabb. Smith looks good covering the ground between second and third sacks and there is little doubt that he will hold down his position for the remainder of the present season.

Cuhel's Driving Finish Wins Three Mile Relays

OMAHA, Nebr., Mar. 29 (AP)—Withdrawal of Omaha high schools from competition at the annual state interscholastic basketball tournaments at Lincoln on account of alleged drinking and petting parties by students resulted in acrimonious discussion in state athletic and social circles this year.

Pressed for concrete instances of moral misconduct, Omaha school officials related they had proof of a drinking party at a Lincoln hotel on the last night of the 1926 tourney, the former part of this month.

Break Up Party

The school officials said fourteen girls and boys had been caught in the hotel drinking and carousing, and that they had confessed but were not punished. Instead, it was explained, decision was made to withdraw from the tournament to "prevent such recurrences."

Lincoln business and social leaders said they were simply "flabbergasted" by the charges. "Why, Omaha has always said Lincoln was too holy and too dead to live in," said Walter S. Whitten, secretary of the Lincoln chamber of commerce, "it seems that only in a dream that such a quick change could take place."

Only Tournament

High schools hold but one tournament in the season instead of district meets. The tournament is the largest high school meeting in the United States and at the one in dispute more than 500 teams participated. Despite Omaha's withdrawal, however, the tourney will continue, officials say.

Football Men, Attention!

Coach Ingwersen has issued a special request that all his football men report for drill tonight at 4 o'clock. The bad weather of the past few days has tended to discourage some of the boys and the turnout has been gradually decreasing.

Decorate yourself with the degree of P. A.

THAT means "Pipa Amoroso" in the Latin, or "pipe-lover" in plain campus English. P. A. has certainly endeared a pipe to more men than any other letters in the smoke-alphabet. Because Prince Albert lets a fellow smoke all he wants to—and makes him want to!

Cool as the stare of a marble Venus. Sweet as the approach of vacation. Fragrant as spring blossoms. Think up your own similes, Fellows. You will when you pick P. A. and a jimmy-pipe for permanent roommates. Prince Albert is great tobacco, and that's not blah.

Get yourself a tidy red tin of Prince Albert today. Fill the bowl of that old jimmy-pipe to the brim and borrow a match. Then you're set for some great smoke-sessions, as sure as you're a foot high.

Thirteen Matches Scheduled in Six Difficult Weights

Fast Action Expected in Middleweight Division

Followers of theistic art will gather tonight in the wrestling room of the men's gymnasium to witness the preliminary rounds of the all-university boxing tournament. With the exception of the 115-pound class, where there will be no matches except the final, and in the 145-pound class, where the entries are too numerous, the bouts tonight will serve as the semifinals.

Jimmy Flanigan will again officiate as referee and Jimmy Hungerford will serve in the capacity of timekeeper. The boxers will weigh in at four o'clock this afternoon.

With the withdrawal of Bass from the 115-pound division, Rouse and Yuco are the only aspirants left and the first bout of the evening will take place in the 125-pound section where Johnson will battle Elm and Dykstra will meet Carter. Johnson was runnerup in this class last year, but very little is known of the other entries.

Collins Doped to Win

In the 135-pound contest Collins, the 135-pound champ, will meet Dixon and Houser and Bannister will tangle in the other fray. Collins has a great record and should not have a great deal of difficulty in the weight.

Three bouts will be held for the 145-pounders, Hearst meeting Horton, Kramer vs. Andrew and Hoag and Minkel taking the floor in the last one. Hearst, champion last year and interfraternity winner this year, seems to be the class of this division.

Beers Entered

The middleweight section is doped to be the scene of much activity this time when N. N. Jones, champion last year and Franklin get together for the first bout and "Red" Beers, mat leader next year, mixes with Gray in the other. Jones should get the decision in his bout and Beers is doped to show up well in the other.

Lowell Otto, poet, student, cattleman and football player will take the floor against Arthur in one of the 175-pound battles. In the other G. Fillenworth and Coughlin will mix.

Lambert, of fraternity boxing fame, should have an easy time in the heavyweight division with Ohlemacher tonight, and should have little difficulty when he meets the winner of the S. Fillenworth-Adams scrap in the final bout following the vacation period.

TOKYO, Mar. 29 (AP)—A nationwide movement to prohibit the drinking of alcoholic liquors by men under twenty-five years of age has been launched by eleven different bodies in Japan, including the Japanese temperance union and the women's reform society. Leaders of the movement hope the Diet will enact a bill raising the drinking age, which now is twenty years.

Tommy Milton, "Terrible Tommy," will take part in the annual Decoration Day 500-mile classic in Indianapolis May 30. And this despite the fact that he has retired from the track to enter the real estate business in New York city.

Tommy will be in the pits during the Indianapolis race. He has resolved, though, never again to ride the Roaring Road to Fame.

Tommy Milton became internationally known during his thirteen years of racing in the United States and Europe. Tommy is the only racer ever to win the Indianapolis classic twice and has traveled faster on four wheels than has any other human being. He is independently wealthy, owning a large cheese factory in St. Paul, Minn. His brother Bob, tends the factory and Tommy between races has made his home in California.

Beginning his speed tricks as a lad in short trousers, when his father bought him a motorcycle, Milton soon joined a state fair racing team. He was discharged, however, when he persisted in defeating men he was ordered to follow in the races. Then he entered "big league" racing.

Milton established many world records in speedway races. He holds three dirt track records, for 50, 75 and 100 miles all made at a speed of more than 79 miles an hour, in 1923, at Syracuse, N. Y.

Milton won the Indianapolis classic in 1921 at a speed of 89.62 miles an hour, and again in 1923 at a speed of 90.55 miles an hour for the 500-mile grind. Milton also won the American Automobile As-

Cheese Keeps Speed King Away

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., March 29—When a man lives in the roaring realm of racing cars for thirteen years, eats splinters, breathing gasoline and oil fumes, and flirting with death, he can no more sit down at a desk for the rest of his life than can a congressman quit making speeches.

So, Tommy Milton, "Terrible Tommy," will take part in the annual Decoration Day 500-mile classic in Indianapolis May 30. And this despite the fact that he has retired from the track to enter the real estate business in New York city.

Tommy will be in the pits during the Indianapolis race. He has resolved, though, never again to ride the Roaring Road to Fame.

The question of who will take his place is on many lips. The finger seems to point to young Bob McDonogh, whom Milton converted from a stunt airplane pilot into a capable automobile racer. McDonogh finished fourth in A. A. A. standing last year. He knows all Milton's tricks of the trade and some of his own.

Decade Old Case Comes Into Court for New Decision

Riddle Sues for Amount of Old Judgment Plus Damages

Proceedings in a ten year old case were started in the district court here yesterday. A judgment handed down in this same court in 1916 was appealed from and the plaintiff, who was the defendant in the first trial, is now asking a redress in damages.

The trouble started when H. H. Herring, one of the defendants in the present suit, dammed a stream flowing through his property which also flowed through and drained the property of Henry Riddle, the plaintiff.

By damming the creek and increasing the height of the dam at various intervals there plaintiff claims that the course of the stream was diverted. The diversion of the water flooded about an acre and a half of the plaintiff's land, depriving him of the use of that property.

Ex-Defendant Sues

In 1916 the defendant in the present case obtained a judgment for $100 against Henry Riddle. He ordered out an execution for the judgment by placing it in the hands of the sheriff, J. S. Martin, and co-defendant, who levied on the plaintiff's land to collect the judgment.

The plaintiff answered that it could not be levied upon because he was entitled to forty acres having homesteaded it, and that it is free from levy or execution sale.

In the present suit the plaintiff alleges that the defendant owes him many times the amount of the judgment and for that reason he has ostensibly assigned the judgment to Ed. Syble, the third defendant, in an effort to collect it.

Wants Injunction

For these reasons Riddle is asking an injunction to restrain the defendants from levying on his property, that the injunction be made permanent, that the defendant, Ed. Syble, be restrained from attempting to collect that judgment, and that the plaintiff be awarded the damages due him for loss of property because of the flood alleged to have been caused by the activities of the defendant, H. H. Herring.

In the examination of witnesses yesterday the attorneys for the plaintiff attempted to show that he had suffered loss of property because of the damming of the creek. The defense tried to build up the argument that the plaintiff had attempted to divert the stream back onto the property of the defendant by building cross ditches, and otherwise diverting the natural course of the stream.

Cavalry Troop Prepares for Annual Armory Inspection

Members of troop A, 113th cavalry, are preparing for the annual armory inspection set for Friday, April 9 at the troop armory under Major C. C. Chandler, cavalry instructor stationed at Topeka, Kan.

The regular drill period last night was devoted to the instruction of non-commissioned officers in the command of their units in preparation for the inspection. This was followed by a smoke and eat.

Those who received their first shot of vaccine against typhoid last week were given the second treatment last night.

Samuel Lentz Dies

Samuel Lentz, 64 years old, a farmer of Spirit Lake, died at a local hospital Saturday. The body was sent to Spirit Lake last night for burial.

"Peep" Brings Cops to Rescue

"There's someone peeping in the window next door," cried a voice over the phone to Night Captain Gus Mahnke at 9:15 last night. The voice was that of Thomas H. Morford, 118 East Bloomington street. Mr. Morford described the man as having a dark slouch hat, dark overcoat and suit. He was about five feet seven inches tall.

The "Peeping Tom" was looking in the window at 112 East Bloomington street when Mr. Morford saw him between the houses. After the phone call had been put through to the police station the peeper left his hiding place and escaped by way of Bloomington street before the police arrived.

County Engineer Mum on Red Ball

County Engineer G. M. Griffith declared last night that he could make no comment in regard to the paving of Red Ball route between here and Cedar Rapids.

According to press reports Saturday, Linn county officials received word that the state highway commission would appropriate $102,000 to help in paving the Red Ball road from Cedar Rapids south to the Johnson county line.

Linn county will take the remaining $55,000 or $60,000 needed from current revenues without using any of the $225,000 bond issue voted in 1924. Pouring of concrete is not expected to begin this summer.

As to Johnson county's part of the work Mr. Griffith said shortly after the voting of the bond issue early in the year that there would probably be an improved road to Cedar Rapids by the end of the year.

To the question of whether Johnson county might receive added help from the state highway commission's development fund as did Linn county Mr. Griffith replied that he could express no opinion.

Cavalry Shooters Win Again Over New York Team

Fire Department Rushes to Quench Chimney Blaze

An urgent call last evening to the local fire department from the Alpha Sigma Phi fraternity house brought the force post haste to the Greek letter club's abode, 603 E. College street.

Upon its arrival, it was discovered that the much heralded fire was confined entirely within the chimney—in other words, the chimney was burning out. Preventive measures were all that were necessary to keep the fire from spreading.
