An Easter Elegy

"When that April with his shrouds soote
The droghte of Marche hath perced to the roote,
And bathed every vyne in swich licour
Of which vertu engendered is the flour . . .
"Ere, just a moment please. You say that's all wrong."
"Well, look about you then. Lay off this sweet April stuff; don't you see you're out of time?"
"No kidding, that's the best April poem we can use."
"Yes, but Chaucer lived in London, not Iowa City. Anyway, go on, you may be right.
Chaucer didn't wear goggles when he wrote that, you know."
"When Zephrus eek with his swete breath Inspired hath in every holt and heeth
The tendre croppes, and the yonge sonne Hath in the Ram his bulke cours yronne, And smale fowles mken melodye, . . .
"Nope, can't believe a word of it. Why, man, there's nearly a foot of snow outside and all this yarn about "the tender shoots and the sun" sounds like a seed catalog in December. Look up the weather forecast and see what it says."
"Let's see: Saturday and Sunday probably more snow; continued cold. Prospects for Easter Sunday are dubious. It may be bright overhead, but underfoot it may be hard on Easter foot-gear. Digging out of the snow is the principal diversion of the middle west."
"But the editor says we've got to have an Easter editorial with some appropriate quotations.
Well, how's this?"
"When daisies peck and violets blue And lady-smocks all silver-white . . .
"Starts out bad, but the second line is more like it. Better try another for this Easter."
"If this doesn't suit, we'll give it up. This 1926 Easter's too hard to put in poetry. Listen to this."
"When daisies hang by the wall And flick the shepherd blows his mill
And Tom bears logs into the hall And milk comes frozen home in pail,
When blood is nipp'd and ways be foul,
Then nightly sings the staring owl,
Tu-whit,
Tu-who, a merry note,
While greasy Joan doth keel the pot."
"That's the stuff, but the editor wants something about Easter Sunday and church."
"Well, give Shakespeare time for the second verse . . .
"When all about the wind doth blow And coughing drowns the parson's saw And birds sit brooding in the snow And Marian's nose looks red and raw,
When roasted crabs hiss in the bowl,
Then nightly sings the staring owl,
Tu-whit,
Tu-who, a merry note,
While greasy Joan doth keel the pot."
"Not so bad. Somehow or other, though, it doesn't quite express the sweet sentiments of the bright Easter oxford which has just gone down in a foot of slush on North Dubuque street."
"Say, here's one. It's Ralph Waldo Emerson's idea of Easter Sunday in Iowa City this year, and it goes this way:
"Come see the north wind's masonry.
Furnished with tile, the fierce artificer Curves his white bastions with projected roof Beyond every windward stake, or tree or door.
Speeding, the myriad handed, his wild work So fanciful, so savage, nought cares he For number or proportion. Mockingly, On coop or kennel he hangs Arabian wreaths;
A swan-like form invests the hidden thorn.
Leaves, when the sun appears, astonished Art
To mimic in slow structures, stone by stone, Built in an age, the mad wind's night work
The frolic architecture of the snow."
"So that's the motif of your Easter editorial, is it? Now where's the editorial?"
"The editorial, eh? Well, you cares about an Easter editorial when you've got to take cough drops and snowshoes to church Sunday?"
"Oh, snows your old man."

This Thing Called Balance of Power

SINCE the globe has been circled by nations, It is no longer true that the country with the strongest military machine is the strongest political power. Her political power may be dependent upon industrial resources, economic strength, or population or area, but it is more likely to be built upon the attitude that other nations have taken toward her. Again, in this era of broadmindedness, political power does not mean the might to dominate the weaker or aggressively increasing territorial boundaries. It means the power to retain that which the country has with the privilege to develop its physical and intellectual resources.

Were this the day of the ancients, the country with the strongest army would rule the world.
But today there are too many nationalities to permit a single military machine to eclipse the combinations of all others. It is here that a fundamental truth lies: that a nation with abnormal military prowess incites fear in the weaker nations, causing coalitions among them strong enough to overthrow the more potent nation.

This was illustrated in the recent war. Beyond a doubt, Germany began with the most superior of all armies. With the exception of Austria-Hungary and Turkey, the world viewed with alarm the evident widespread conquest. No more allies would join Germany.

The same characteristic applies to human nature. If in a group a bully appears, the weaker fellows join together in overcoming him.

This is, of course, the old question of balance of power. The weaker nation always receives the support of others in defense against the powerful. The best example of this is the switching of Henry VIII of England from one side and to the other when during his reign the King of France and the Holy Roman emperor were at war. The striking feature about the balance of power theory is that invariably it aids the under nation.

The motive behind the Locarno pact was to guarantee one nation's rights against any other by a combination of those remaining. They agreed to maintain each other's innate privileges by uniting against any tyrant nation.

Diplomacy of a similar manner was engineered in the recent League of Nations bloc. The Latin nations, including the small entente grouping around France and Italy, are seen gradually drawing together against any possible combination that might line up with Great Britain and Germany.

United States is viewed by other powers as a powerful industrial nation. But should that power be turned to aggressive expansion and threaten other countries, she would find herself opposed, perhaps, by the entire remainder of the world.

These examples show how a nation may put itself at a disadvantage by fostering a military regime. A peaceful country will win friends to support it in the time of need while a warfar-ing nation finds only enemies. The world war demonstrated that struggles will include more than two nations—that the list of participants cannot but increase since commerce and diplomacy is conducted on a world basis. Since this is true, excessive armaments weaken a nation internationally and internally.

The Valley Writers

THE middle west has settled scarcely a hundred years, yet here a new, definite and different social order has evolved. While not so noticeable or variable as to eclipse the feeling of nationalism, new traditions have germinated and taken root. A sectional spirit is becoming more firmly established by fixed tendencies in art and literature. Specific interpretations of midwestern life for the understanding of posterity are resulting in clear-cut books and paintings. The individualistic penchant has become permanently expressed.

The sectional feeling in literature is dependent upon the province and period. James Fenimore Cooper was the earliest to distinguish a separate spirit in the west of his time. Later a large group of popular writers nationalized the romantic cowboy of the plains. Now a school of writers including Hamlin Garland, Ruth Suckow, Emerson Hough, Ed Howe, William Allen White, John T. Frederick, Edwin Ford Piper, John D. Neihart, Roger Sergel, and others has been at work immortalizing it may be, the middle west in a period of awakening self-consciousness. They depict a country whose destiny is more clearly discernable than was that of the background of pioneer days.

The writings of the middle west and other districts are more complete within themselves but only branches of the American nationalism.
Even as the people's life in the new world is different, so is their literature. With the meeting of strange conditions in life, new inventions have been appeared in literature. Some of these will perhaps fail, as shallow representations of developing change.

To continue to treat the middle west with absolute observance of truth should secure its literature upon a rock that time and wind cannot shatter.

Poems That Live

Wild Apples

What I was made for, no one knows,
Artist, wanton, wife or nun . . .
Weed to weed, and rose to rose,
Eon after eon grows;
On what plan was I begun?

When I was young, I made a vow, Pruned away all loves but one.
Orchard tree am I, but now On deep roots and outflung bough Hotter, hotter beats the sun.

On this quiet orchard tree Proper winter greenings grow;
On the fallen boughs of me Sweet despairing blossoms blow, Wild red apples, none shall see.

On what plan was I begun?
Now it is too late to know.
Artist, wanton, wife or nun,
Of the four I chose but one.
Long ago and long ago.
—Marjorie Allen Seifert,
in the Double Dealer.

CHILLS AND FEVER

IT'S vacation and we haven't had any rest yet.

Show me a paved road home
I'm tired and want to go to bed,
I just drove in an hour ago,
In mud clear to my head.
Everywhere I roam thru Iowa's mud and loam,
You will always hear me singing that song,
Build me a paved road home.

LET me live in a house by the side of the road, provided a street car runs by the door!
AND now, let us give three rousing cheers for the dance hall proprietors who made sure that Iowa City's home town collegians wouldn't suffer an intellectual re-lapse just because classes weren't meeting.

CONFESSIONS OF A LOTHARIO
(The Daily Iliad)
And then there was Cristobel—
She was diminutive
And shy—
And had a way of looking Up into your eyes
And trilling—
"Oh I'm so thrilled!"

There came an Apache dance
At the house—
She was thrilled again—
Because of its realism—
I could not disillusion her—
And so,
Carried the realism to its farthest extreme—
As I say, she was diminutive
And frail—

That is all, officer—

Letter to the Editor

Do Taxi Drivers Own Streets?
To the Editor:

Do the taxi drivers own the street of Iowa City? Or are they the common property of the city and all its people?

Don't city ordinances against speeding apply to taxis? They commonly race at from twenty to thirty miles per hour through our crowded streets, paying no attention to other auto drivers and pedestrians, and spattering people with slush and mud.

Don't ordinances demanding rear lights apply to taxi drivers? The latter are conspicuous for having none.

Don't city ordinances against turning around in the middle of a block apply to taxi drivers? From the frequency with which such drivers turn anywhere at any time, one would not think so.

Don't city ordinances against leaving motors running when the car is parked apply to taxi drivers? From the practices of such drivers, one would not think so. Just a day or so ago a friend of mine was called to the city hall to answer for leaving his motor running when his car was parked. While he was satisfying the city authorities, a taxi parked within view for 15 or 20 minutes and left its motor run all the while.

Don't such city ordinances apply to taxi drivers? Are the city's traffic ordinances and rules for everybody else, and not for taxi drivers?
Do taxis own the streets of Iowa City?

If so, I should like to know it, so that I might triple my accident insurance policy.

Dancers at Senior Hop Will Get Two Kinds of Programs

Programs for the Senior Hop Friday, April 16 will be of two types, a heavy card booklet with engraved design for the women's souvenir and a tab with a list of dances for the men, said Robert McDonald, L3 of Iowa City and chairman of the Hop committee. The Senior Hop will also carry out the policy of the Junior Hop of putting the greater part of its income in the dance and features, instead of the programs.

A special scheme of crimson lighting is being worked out for the Memorial Union lounge by the decorations committee, headed by Ross Reynolds' twelve-piece or-program of dance music for the Senior Hop. This orchestra makes its headquarters at the Delair Casdens, Chicago. It will play for the Senior Hop April 16, and a second night's engagement Saturday, April 17 at the Blue Goose.

The deans of the various colleges will be chaperons for the dance.
Tickets will be put on sale immediately following the Easter recess: 200 from committee members

'Journalist' Takes Up News Accuracy

April Issue Tells of Country Correspondent's Duties

The Iowa newspaper man who has but one interest in life, that being to "put out a presentable sheet," will in all probability profit by April's issue of the "Iowa Journalist" which will appear in a few days. Two articles of special interest are in the issue: one, "Professors and Newspapers" by the editor, the other, "Better Country Correspondents" bearing the initials, W.
S. M.

The first is a plea for better English in newspapers, the causes for errors that now exist, and the remedies. Perhaps Prof. F. J. Lazell pretty well summed up the reason why all errors can never be completely done away with when he spoke of the seeming impossibility of completely eliminating human fallibility. "It was a wise philosopher who said, 'All generalizations are fallacious, including this one.'"

Praises Radio Address
As for the article on "Better Country Correspondents," a letter received from H. W. Barnes of the Eagle Grove "Eagle," after having heard a lecture concerning the same material over the radio, will give an idea of its value. Mr. Barnes

MacMillan Got to Pole With Peary

Explorer Lectures at Iowa Tuesday on Arctic by Air

Capt. Donald MacMillan, noted Arctic explorer, who will lecture at the natural science auditorium Tuesday night, April 6, was with Peary when he reached the pole, and he is said to be the finest speaker on Arctic and Antarctic subjects since Doctor Nansen's tour in 1897.
Since that time he has had some breath-taking experiences of his own, but has succeeded in returning from the northern ice field unscathed and has brought with him a story which has thrilled many an audience. It is interesting to know that he was the first explorer to keep in daily touch with Washington by radio, and the first explorer to make successful aircraft flights in the Arctic, notwithstanding unprecedented conditions and storms in the Arctic, brought back all of his men and the two vessels the "Bowdoin" and the "Peary" in the best of condition.

Had Eskimo Toys
MacMillan's father was a fisherman who sailed yearly to the Arctic after halibut, and since the days when he used to bring back Eskimo toys, igloos, harpoons, and the like to the youth of Donald, he has lived and dreamed for the day to come when he could see the north with his own eyes. His chance came when Peary's interest was aroused in him. This came about when MacMillan was conducting a nautical school on an island in Casco Bay, Single-handed he had rescued ten people from drowning, seven from a sail boat capsized in a gale of wind, and three from an overturned canoe.
Peary heard of it and thought he was a man worth investigating. He sent for him and asked him if he would like to go north with him sometime. MacMillan replied that this had been the dream of his life.
The summons to the north was equally picturesque, MacMillan and some of the boys were swimming in the academy swimming tank when a telegram boy hove in sight. Waving a yellow envelope he called for MacMillan, who, guessing what it might be, made his best speed to the edge of the tank and got out. The wire read, "Meet me at Grand Union Hotel, New York, as soon as possible - Peary." MacMillan made his preparations as quickly as possible and sprinted for the station. He arrived at the hotel too late that night to disturb Peary but he called on him the next morning and was invited to breakfast. At the table, Peary outlined his plans, drawing maps on the back of the menu and the table cloth. When he had finished he said to MacMillan: "I should like to have you go with me on this trip but don't give your answer now.

Go back and think it over for three weeks and wire me your decision." MacMillan replied: "Commander, I have been thinking it over for thirty years, and I want to sign up right now," which he did. And this was the trip on which Peary reached the pole.

Works With Navy Captain MacMillan's work has been done in co-operation with the National Geographic Society and the United States navy. Although he has made successful airplane flights, it is his belief that exploration by flight is not feasible. Admiral Douglass E. Dimock, commandant of the Portsmouth Navy Yard made the following remark concerning Mac-Millan's belief on this subject: "In these days, with the development of aviation its takes a courageous man to say anything cannot be accomplished by airplanes."

To Name Athletic Head GRINNELL, April 2 (AP)—The new athletic director at Grinnell College will be announced within ten days, it was learned from authentic sources here today.

(By the Associated Press)
CHICAGO, April 2 (AP)—Fitchburg Mass. went to the semifinals of the national interscholastic basketball meet here tonight when it eliminated Nanticoke, Penn., the only other eastern team remaining in the title play, by a 22 to 14 score.

The game was the first one in the round before the semifinals in the invitational tilt sponsored by the University of Chicago.

Mykkanen starred for the victors with five field goals and three free throws. The score was tied, 6 to 6 at the half.

The Salem, S. D. team which upset Westport high of Kansas City last night continued its triumphant course with a 22 to 15 victory over Breckenridge high of San Antonio. Superior floor work and cautious handling of the ball gave the South Dakotans a margin over their taller and heavier Texas opponents, who were handicapped near the finish by the loss of their center, ousted on personal fouls.

Fargo N. D. high school advanced to the semi-finals with a 28 to 24 victory over Gaylord Minn.

The Fargo team won by coolness in the last quarter, when it nursed a one point lead to six points and then battled gamely to keep the Gopher quintet from overtaking it with a last minute assault.

The Fargoans meet Fitchburg, Mass. tomorrow, the winner entering the finals.

PINEHURST, N. C. April 2 (AP)—Baby Cruikshanks of New York, today won the United North and south open golf championship here, leading the field in medal play at the end of the 72 holes with a score of 293.

Sac City Forfeits to Local DeMolays

CHARITON, April 2 (AP)—This afternoon's games in the first round of the state basketball tournament of the Order of DeMolay resulted as follows:

Iowa City 2; Sac City 0 (forfeit)
Fort Dodge 31; Tama 20
Spencer 10; Belle Plaine 2 (forfeit)
Des Moines 12; Osceola 16
Eagle Grove 17; Creston 14

The Iowa City DeMolay basketball quintet struck it lucky in their opening day at the state tournament. They were scheduled to play Sac City yesterday morning at eleven o'clock but the boys from the northwestern section of the state did not turn up and the game was therefore forfeited to Coach Carroll's cage artists.

This break of luck will enable the locals to enter their game tonight against the fast Chariton outfit in good shape. Chariton was forced to play a hard game yesterday morning, and this gives the Iowa City boys better than an even chance to win. This contest should be one of the feature games of the big tourney, and the winner should make a strong bid for the championship honors.

Trackmen Remaining During Easter Hold Daily Practice

A few members of Coach George T. Bresnahan's conference championship track team will remain in Iowa City during the holiday season, and will hold workouts in the new armory every day. Workouts were scheduled for the track on Iowa field, but the reappearance of winter drove the hard working Hawks back to the armory.

Although the workouts will be strenuous affairs, the drills will keep the men in good physical shape for the coming outdoor season.

Quarter miler and candidates for the mile relay team form the bulk of the men who remain. Cabel, Beatty, Phelps, Swenson, Polce, Grusonik, Joy, Dyerlingham, and Moody passed the baton last night under the supervision of the coaches. Other men who are working this week-end are Mullen, Elliott, Hunn, Marchi, Sorenson, and Jack Boyles. Coach T. E. Martin had but two men to work with last night, Captain Dauber and Lapp, both place winners in the recent conference meet.

Indict Bull Moozer

NEW YORK, April 2 (AP)—John T. King, former national republican committeeman from Connecticut, and who managed the campaign in that state for Theodore Roosevelt when he ran on the Bull Moose ticket, was indicted today for perjury in swearing to his 1921 income tax returns.

Wilson Works Out Daily

Eric Wilson, former Hawk captain who is to race against Adrian Paulen at the Kansas Relays in two weeks, is working daily on the track. Wilson has not competed since the close of the 1923 season but appears to be in good condition. He has been working daily on the gym floor all winter and is cutting capers about the track as if he had been out all season.

Swenson Deserts Court for Track

To Remain with Track Team Probably All Spring

Coupled with the announcement that Ted Swenson, luminary of Iowa tennis circles, has forsaken the courts for the cinder path, and as result will not compete in tennis this spring, comes the glad tidings that George Lott, prospective candidate for the University of Chicago tennis team, No. 11 in the U. S. Lawn Tennis Association senior ranking for this last year, and probably the most colorful mid-westerner net star, is ineligible for conference competition.

Soon after the Christmas holidays Ted decided to devote his entire attention to track, in an attempt to develop his proficiency in both the high jump and quarter mile. Swenson had his eyes focused on a chance to run as a member of Iowa's record-breaking mile relay team, and worked diligently with this point in view.

Runs in Texas
Last week, realized the fruits of this ambition, when he ran as a member of the relay team in the Texas relays at Austin and the Rice Relays at Houston, where it annexed first and second places respectively.

When interviewed yesterday Swenson stated that if he should decide to take up his racket at all, it would not be until after the Drake relays, April 22, 23. It is highly probable that Ted will be seen in action against conference tennis competition this spring, because he seems very well satisfied over the outcome of his change to the cinder path.

Lutz and Swartz Good

With Swenson and Lott removed from tennis competition, the conference title revolves itself into a battle between Dubach of Illinois and O'Connell of Michigan, the two outstanding stars for competition.

While Swenson's absence from the team will about wreck Iowa's chances for a conference title, at least in the singles, Captain Jimmy Lutz and Julius Swartz, two veterans, are a prize winning combination in the doubles. The brunt of this season's work will of necessity fall on the shoulders of these two, and if they come through as expected Iowa will finish near the front.

Sillik Falls Into River; Implicated in Feud on Island

OMAHA, Neb., April 2 (AP)—Fred Sillik, farmer-fisherman, who was the center of an island feud near Fort Calhoun six years ago which vexed county and federal officers, fell into the river near his home Sunday and his body was swept away.

Sillik was stricken with heart disease while crossing the river in a row boat and the boat was capsized.

Sillik following a quarrel with a neighbor, was reported to have hurried himself in his island home and to have defied authorities to arrest him. However, reporters entered his home without opposition and found Sillik peacefully awaiting officers, and he later surrendered to the sheriff.

Convict Son Comes to Actor's Funeral

NEW YORK, April 2 (AP)—The teeming east side paused today in its grim struggle for the necessities of life to pay a last tribute to Jacob P. Adler, noted Jewish tragedian, who died last Wednesday. He was 71 years old.

The services were held in the Kessler Theatre, scene of so many of Adler's successes, where many of those present had laughed and wept with the dean of Yiddish actors. More than 3,000 persons taxed the capacity of the building; other thousands stood uncovered in the nearby streets, and fully 5,000 lined the route of the funeral cortege.

Some of the tragedy of the roles which Adler had portrayed so faithfully in his acting was brought to the funeral services by Irving Adler, the actor's son, who now is a prison convict, serving a sentence for counterfeiting. He was brought here from Sing Sing today by a prison guard to attend the services.

Trucks Carry Stock

SIoux CITY, April 2 (AP)—Over 100,000 head of stock were brought to the Sioux City market in motor trucks during March, this is an increase of 47,687 compared with the same month last year and a gain of nearly 4,000 compared with January, the previous record month.

Dickinson Speaks for Surplus Bill

examination of witnesses, the committee again heard Representative Little, democrat, in support of his bills to fix prices, provide for storage of surplus crops and prohibit speculation. He was followed by Representative Dickinson, republican, who explained provisions of his bill, which in principle, is similar to the corn belt measure, but provides for the collection of an equalization fee on more commodities.

Neither his proposal nor the corn belt bill in Mr. Dickinson's opinion would result in governmental price fixing.

Seeing Suffering Ahead
Appearing before the senate agriculture committee, William Hirth, chairman of the corn belt committee, said that unless farmers are afforded relief, many would migrate to cities and break the wage scale, with suffering and misery resulting.

"The patience of farmers is about threadbare, and something must be done," he told the committee, adding that there is still a wholesome spirit among them and that radicalism has made little inroad in the rural sections.

Modern Youth O. K., Says Kansas Dean

DES MOINES, April 2 (AP)—Extremes to which modern youth has gone in its search for thrills is not so much of a present day wonder as the fact that they haven't gone farther in their mad rush for stimulation and excitement, Dr. Raymond A. Schweiger, dean of the school of education at the University of Kansas told a meeting of teachers here today.

"If it is surprising that young people have done so well, caught up as they have been, in the rising tide of automobiles, radios and other new inventions," said Dr. Schweiger. "Human nature doesn't change. Girls and boys are no longer than formerly, but they no longer accept parental and state authority without question."

Cal Picks Ohio Man Filipino Observer

WASHINGTON, April 2 (AP)—A trip to the Philippines, and possibly Hawaii and Guam, to survey economic conditions will be made for President Coolidge by Carmel A. Thompson, of Ohio. The mission, it is emphasized will be political in any way. Announcement of Mr. Thompson's appointment as a special commissioner was made today at the white house, where it was said the step had been taken as one result of "the increased interest in congress recently" in the Phillipines.

Mr. Thompson later said he would assemble a group of experts, in part at least, from government departments, and probably would leave in June, returning in November so his report may be available for submission by the president to congress in December.

Day in Washington

(By the Associated Press)
The senate deferred until Monday consideration of the Steak-Brookhart election contest.

It was learned that President Coolidge expects passage of coal legislation at this session.

The Illinois watering development project was opposed and favorably before a house committee.

President Coolidge appointed Carmel A. Thompson special commissioner to survey conditions in the Philippines.

The president's opposition to American participation in the Geneva conference, the world court reservations was indicated.

More rigid dry enforcement regulations were proposed by the administration, a senate committee refused to subpoena wet witnesses.

American Innocents Abroad Scarcer Now Due to Florida

LONDON, April 2 (AP)—The winter just past was a poor season for most of the European resorts, due chiefly to a falling off in American patronage, and hotel men's associations and travel agencies are planning campaigns to insure that next winter will not see the decline continue.

Mule Resents Complimentary Slap; Kicks Master to Death

VILLISCA, April 2 (AP)—Tribute to his mule in form of a slap on the animal's haunch resulted in the death yesterday of Emil Hecke, a farmer living northwest of here.

Hecke took some friends into the barn to show them his mules. Pausing near one, he slapped the animal fondly on the haunch and said: "Here's a real mule." The mule drew up its hind feet and kicked, striking Hecke in the abdomen. He collapsed and died almost instantly.

35-Block Paving Project Gets Council's Final Action April 23

Total of $145,000 Will be Expended for New Project

Thomas Protests Alley Paving; Murphy Also Objects

At the regular meeting of the city council held last evening in the council chambers of the city hall a resolution of necessity was introduced at the petition of property holders for the consideration of approximately 35 blocks of paving, at an estimated cost of $145,000. A resolution of postponement was passed and no definite action was taken. The resolution proper will come up at the next meeting of the council on Monday, April 23.

After the reading of the resolution, W. S. Thomas, acting in behalf of the property owners, voiced strenuous objections against the paving of the alley in block 41, between Johnson and Van Buren streets, running east and west. W. E. Murphy, also representing the property holders, upheld the objections of Mr. Thomas, claiming that the paving of the alley was a useless improvement as it did not benefit anyone enough to warrant the expense.

No action is to be taken on the objections until the next reading of the resolution.

Street Car Co. Will Grade

In regard to the paving project on North Dodge street between Brown and Summit streets, Alderman Crain reported that the street car company was agreeable to bringing their tracks to grade if the street is paved. After some discussion it was moved and passed that the North Dodge street paving program be included in the next paving project.

Rundell Asks for Water

A petition for the extension of the water main on Rundell street from Sheridan to Jackson streets was referred to the water committee. A petition for the erection of a garage sign by the Hudson-Essex company was granted. The city health nurse's report was accepted and placed on file. The Mayor's report and the Police report were also accepted and placed on file. After the usual bills were allowed, the meeting was adjourned.

Parlor City Salesman Sells Cigarettes Minus License

W. R. Hart, city solicitor, put Frank N. Smith and Officer Rudolph Konvalinka on the witness stand and they testified to having purchased a carton of cigarettes at a low cost from McGinnis. Mr. Herman Amish, a member of the city fire department, also testified as to his ordering a carton of cigarettes which the salesman promised to deliver within a short time.

McGinnis outlined to the court his method of conducting the advertising campaign and declared that he had the sanction of the state cigarette revenue department. He also brought several witnesses to the stand and had them testify as to his activities in relation to the cigarette business.

The mayor's court found him guilty and assessed only a $17.95 fine instead of enacting the maximum fine of $100 which might have been assessed under the city ordinance.

Despite the mansion's magnificence, Mrs. Ross says "it is not like my modest home, where I lived from the early days of marriage and where my children grew up."

Receipts on Income Tax Show Increase

WASHINGTON, April 2 (AP)—The increase of almost $60,000,000 in income tax collections for the March quarter over receipts of a year ago when the rates were higher, was looked upon today at the White House as the result of improved business conditions fostered by taxpayers' anticipation of the rate reductions.

At the same time another warning to congress to hold down on proposed increases in permanent expenses of the government was issued on behalf of President Coolidge who believes a deficit in 1927 still is a dangerous probability.

Troop A Secures New State Honors

Unofficial reports from the adjutant general's office at Des Moines indicate that riflemen of Troop A, 11th cavalry, won the sixty per cent match in the opening event of the state program of gallery matches. This match was fired last December but the results were not compiled until now. Many of the men who ranked low in this event have since developed into crack shots.

Fire State Match Now

It is the requirement of all organizations of the Iowa national guard to fire sixty per cent of their strength in this event, and only by doing so will they be qualified to enter a sixteen-man team in the state team match. The state match is being fired now by the local troop and should be completed within a few days.

Railroad Cancels Lease for Signs on Gilbert Street

The Rock Island railroad company canceled their lease yesterday with the Lopman and Poster advertising company which was to permit the erection of billboards on their property at the foot of Gilbert street and near the intersection of Dodge and Page streets.

A short time ago the Lopman and Poster company was given a lease by the railroad company permitting them to erect their signs. Alderman Crain investigated the matter for the city council and reported the project as favorable. The city council, however, refused to grant the advertising company a permit for the erection of the signs and at the refusal of Mayor J. J. Carroll to sign the petition the matter of erecting the billboards came to an end.
