Both Sides Stand Firm; Government Enrolls Volunteers

Strikers Threaten to Employ "Second Line of Defense"

[By The Associated Press] LONDON, May 7.—Neither side of the strike dispute shows the slightest disposition of yielding to the other. On the contrary there is a tendency to use stronger forces on both sides. The government is enrolling thousands of additional volunteers to substitute the strikers and announces it will reinforce the police by recruiting, if possible, 50,000 special constables.

On its side, the trades union congress is talking of bringing in its second line of defense, which, it is claimed, would add another 2,000,000 to the strikers.

Conditions Improve

So far as the general public is concerned things seem to be growing easier daily. The organization provided by the government and volunteer efforts, especially for transport, is continually improving, with consequent lessening of public inconvenience.

Deaf Lickering

"The British Worker," mouthpiece of the strikers, in tonight's issue says that a council of the trades union congress wishes it to be clearly understood that no official or unofficial overtures have been made to the government by any individual or group of individuals either with or without the sanction of the council. The council declared further that it is ready at any moment to enter into parliamentary discussions regarding withdrawal of the lockout notices and ending the general stoppage of negotiations.

Features of British Strike Conditions

[By The Associated Press] The British strike has brought a holiday to workers at the American embassy and consulate offices except for those who have been given strike details.

Try to Carry On

In the meantime the country is trying to carry on in as near normal manner as possible. There have been disorders in London, especially attacks by hoodlums on volunteer transport workers.

Ask Junior Women to Verify Posted List of 350 Names

Annual May Breakfast to Vote on Staff and Circle

Preparatory to the May Breakfast, to be held within the next two weeks for the entire class of junior women, a list of approximately 350 names was posted this morning on the bulletin board at the north end, first floor, of liberal arts building by the members of Staff and Circle.

These names, compiled by the committee on invitations for the May Breakfast are drawn from records in the dean of women's office. Through oversight at the time of registration, the number of semester hours which indicate a student's standing, were in several instances not indicated, so that an accurate list was not available.

To make sure that every junior woman is a guest at the May Breakfast, and is so represented on this ballot, all junior women are asked to report any corrections they wish to make to the dean of women's office at once. These changes may be either the addition or subtraction of names or corrections in spelling.

Copies of the revised and corrected list will be distributed at the May Breakfast to the junior women, who will then be instructed to check off twenty names of the girls they believe most representative in their class. From this list of twenty, the active members of Staff and Circle will elect twelve new members.

Reports of changes in this posted list must be made by Wednesday of next week.

Loyal Sons and Daughters Pay Tribute to "Mother" Tomorrow

All over the country loyal sons and daughters will be paying tribute to "mother" tomorrow. The custom of observing Mother's day is of recent origin having been started by Miss Anna Jarvis of Philadelphia in 1907. She set aside the seventh of May that year to honor her mother who had died the year before.

In 1908 Philadelphia celebrated Mother's day as a city holiday. In 1913 it became a state holiday in Pennsylvania, and by 1914 the whole nation observed it. The idea back of this holiday dates back much further than 1907, however.

Tribes Honored Her
Ancient tribes and nations around the Mediterranean honored "mother" in this fashion while paganism still flourished. In Asia Minor people worshipped Rhea, the mother of the gods, by ceremonies consisting of weird music and dancing. They designated certain trees which were sacred to Rhea, namely the oak and the pine. In the animal kingdom lions were sacred to her.

Spreading from Greece, these ceremonies were adopted by Rome about 250 B.C., where they took the form of a "festival of hilarity" which occurred during the Ides of March. The festivities conformed to the Greek program, generally, and were characterized by music, dancing, and sacrifices to the mother goddess Juno.

With the coming of Christianity, the church became mother to great numbers of people who paid tribute to her, as their ancestors had to pagan goddesses. In these early days of Christianity, mid-Lent Sunday became Mother's day, a time when people went to the churches where they had been baptized and left gifts on the altar. In mediaeval times there was the celebration of Mothering day, when once a year apprentices came home to their mothers bringing them some kind of gift.

Our modern ways of observing Mother's day are varied. It is the subject of sermons in churches, it is celebrated in theatres and amusement places, it is recognized and written up in newspapers. Gift shops, florist shops, and candy kitchens advertise the date for weeks ahead. Placards with "Send her a card on Mother's day," remind the forgetful son or daughter of a duty unfulfilled.

A Relic of Christianity
Various Forms of Tributes
Our forms of tribute vary too, even as the sacrifices which the ancients brought to the altar differed in character. Flowers seem to be generally regarded as the most suitable gift for the occasion.

Well-meaning sons who cannot tell a carnation from a tiger-lily often meet the requirements by sending along a box of candy, jewelry, novelties, and cards all en masse.

Will Gather in Church Tomorrow morning on the second Sunday of May, sons and daughters of the land will gather in churches, as their remote forbears grouped themselves around the altar and the two widely separated generations will be bound together for a time by the common tie of Mother's day.

Bright flowers will designate the fortunate children whose mothers still live while the white blossoms scattered through the congregations will honor the mothers who are gone. Thus a holiday which was celebrated while the gods still dwelt on Olympus will be observed tomorrow by the devoted children of 1926.

Post Names of Junior Co-Eds Eligible to May Breakfast

All women classified as juniors are asked to examine the list of names posted on the 1st floor bulletin board in the north end of liberal arts building tomorrow morning, to make sure that the list is accurate.

This group of names, compiled by the committee on invitations for the May breakfast to be held within the next two weeks for the purpose of naming twenty Staff and Circle nominees, is intended to include all junior women.

In order that every woman so classified be a guest at the May breakfast, those juniors whose names are omitted or whose names do not appear correctly on these sheets, are asked to make desired changes as quickly after the list appears as possible, at the dean of women's office in Old Capitol.

It is from this corrected list of junior women that the twenty most representative will be picked by the entire class when they are guests at the May breakfast.

Law Students Must Clear Mental Hurdles to Win Dillon Scholarship

The two winners of the Dillon first-year law scholarships at the University of Iowa for the year 1926 will be chosen by intercollegiate examinations on May 22. These are a new thing in this state.

This examination will be a law aptitude exam, and will be given simultaneously at any of the twenty-three state colleges that respond to the invitation. The awards will be made to the two persons having the highest marks on the examination who will register in the college of law of the University as first year students in the fall of 1926.

Mental Hurdle Race
The mental hurdles, as Dean Henry Craig Jones has termed the examination, is a true-false test which will try the students' ability at logic, memory and reasoning. In case either or both of the persons having the two highest marks should fail to register for law study at the University, the scholarships will be awarded to the next highest on the list. Juniors, seniors and graduates are eligible to take the exam.

This type of examination was tested in the law school here last fall. The freshmen were given a test and records were kept of the fifteen lowest and the fifteen highest, eight were included in the first year persons wishing it had to make application to the law faculty, who in turn would decide upon the two that they wished. Persons not taking the aptitude exam will not be eligible for the awards.

Brain power alone will serve to award the scholarship. Prior to this year persons wishing it had to make application to the law faculty, who in turn would decide upon the two that they wished. Persons not taking the aptitude exam will not be eligible for the awards.

Dillon Starts Scholarship

John F. Dillon, the donor of the scholarship started out of this University in 1850 to practice medicine. Then he changed to law. From 1863 to 1875 he held different judicial positions, the last of which was Judge of circuit court of appeals. While in this office, he lectured and was a professor in the law college here. He wrote several books on law.

In 1879 he went to New York City and made a name for himself as one of the corporation lawyers. He served as president of the American Bar Association in 1892. In 1893 he received his honorary degree of L. D., from this University. He died in 1914 and left in his will $10,000 to be used for law scholarships, which sum has increased to $11,500.

Thousand Singers Form Kaleidoscopic Array in Prep Ensemble Concert

By KARL KOHRS

One of the most striking musical events of the season here had its setting under the huge arched roof of the armory last night, when the combined high school glee clubs, gathered at Iowa City for the first annual state musical contest, joined in the festival ensemble concert. Under the batons of Dr. P. G. Clapp, head of the school of music, and Prof. Walter Leon, the thousand singers, banded in kaleidoscopic array upon the bleachers, swept through the choral numbers with magnificent vigor.

The program, in view of its huge proportions, was a rather difficult proposition. Yet the chorus, closely following the conductor made the necessary discrimination in tempo and shading with comparative facility and artistic effect. The vivacity of the singers, who had spent the greater part of the day in exciting competitive sessions, is to be attributed to thoughts of possible glory in the announcement of the winners at the end of the program. They had come, these eager young musicians, from widely separated parts of the state to bring to a climax months of insistent rehearsing, to carry away honors to the "Folks back home." None were oblivious of the honors which "first place" held in store for them. As a consequence, every chorus selection, both for male and female voices, received unstinted support.

Flute Solos Please

Mouquet's "Pan et les Bergers," played on the flute by Mildred Hunt, rippled through the vast assemblage without a single tremor. Firm, yet lightly flexible, the soloist's interpretation of the number bespeaks a mature conception of the possibilities of the instrument as a medium of musical achievement. Through the rendition of the ever-popular Wagnerian number, "Evening Star" and Poper's "Tarantelle," Paul Nielsen, violinist, displayed equal facility in bringing from his instrument two widely varying phases of technique. The first based its claim for superiority upon the rich voluptuousness of its tone color—the second upon singular versatility of its dancing rhythm and double stopping.

Individual Artists Star

The more intrinsically artistic part of the program, however, rested in the individual performances of the instrumentalists: Robert Mayer, oboe soloist, Mildred Hunt, flutist, and Paul Nielsen, violin-celloist, all state winners in contests in North Dakota, Kansas, and South Dakota, respectively. Playing under rather adverse conditions these three displayed remarkable confidence and sureness in technique. The enthusiastic applause of the audience attested duly merited success. That Mayers' 600-mile trips to Minneapolis for oboe lessons had born fruit was evidence in his rendition of the difficult "Scenes Ecosaisies," by Godard. The tone quality throughout was consistently marked with an intelligent appreciation of the motif of the selection.

Standard Oil company Reports Big Profits

NEW YORK, May 7 (AP)—The Standard Oil company of New York had an unusually profitable year in 1925, the annual report today showing net profits of $41,530,386, almost double the net profit of $22,020,943 for 1924. This is equivalent to $362 a share on its $286,418,000 capital stock of $25 par value outstanding at the close of 1925, compared with $2.42 a share the year before. The capital stock was increased to $358,447,425 in 1925.

Court Fines School Head for Punishing Small Boy

VALENTINE, Neb., May 7 (AP)—J. E. Warwick, local superintendent of schools, was fined in county court here today for assaulting a five-year-old boy who voluntarily confessed to him that he had torn a small strip of bark from a newly planted tree on a school campus. The tree had cost fifty cents.

The child's injuries were displayed before the court. Numerous bruises and welts made by the lashes with a garden hose covered his hips and legs.

Warwick had a two-year contract but a petition probably will be circulated requesting his resignation.

City Seeks Beds for Many Guests of Music Festival

C. of C. Aids Lauer in Taking Charge of Overflow

Lodging conditions for the hundreds of high school visitors became acute as the visitors continued to swarm into the city via auto and interurban. Appeals were made to all the clubs and organizations of the town, Currier Hall and the Quadrangle. Edward H. Lauer, director of the extension division assured everyone that the visitors would be taken care of with the cooperation of students and citizens.

An urgent appeal to the citizens of Iowa City to help in providing sleeping quarters for one-third of the 1800 high school musicians and singers attending the Music Festival here today and tomorrow was made by a special Chamber of Commerce yesterday afternoon.

600 Seek Hospitality

With 600 Iowa boys and girls without a place to sleep, the problem of caring for these guests became one for Iowa City as well as the University. Chamber of Commerce members realized that if these children were not given adequate accommodations, adverse advertisement of Iowa City would be state-wide.

The Elks club, the Mercy hospital and other public places have been turned into temporary sleeping quarters for the visitors. D. W. Crum, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce made an appeal to every citizen of the city and has been cooperating in the work of extending hospitality to the incoming contestants.

Contestants Enthusiastic

"It is not the fault of the University Extension division, under whose auspices the Musical Festival is being held, nor of any individual or committees in charge," said Mr. Crum. "The trouble lies in the fact that the invitations were received with an unexpected enthusiasm, and attendance is greater than was anticipated."

The League of Women Voters made a house to house canvas for sleeping quarters, but were received with very little enthusiasm on the part of householder.

Local high school students, Boy Scouts and others have aided in directing and guiding the visitors to the houses assigned to them.

Pi Lambda Theta Sponsors Tea for Teacher Prospects

Pi Lambda Theta, honorary educational fraternity for women, will sponsor a round table discussion to be held Thursday, May 13, in the old capital conference room.

Packer, dean of the college of education, Miss Maude McBroom, supervisor of the elementary school, and Miss Frances Camp, director of the teacher's appointment bureau.

Immediately after the group discussions, members of Pi Lambda Theta will preside at a tea in liberal arts drawing room with the professors of education and their wives as guests.

All women of the university who are planning to teach are invited to attend the conferences.

Priest Publishes 320 Page Manual of Indian Grammar

SANTA FE, N. M., May 7 (AP)—A manual of the Navajo Indian Grammar has been prepared by Father Bernard Halle, O. P. M., of the Cincinnati province of St. John the Baptist, and which has just been published.

The work contains 320 pages, and is the first comprehensive study that has been made of the language of the Navajo Indians, nomads of the desert of northern Arizona and New Mexico. They closely resemble in many ways the Mongolians of Asia, but whose language, the manual shows is far more difficult than even the Chinese.

News Writing One of Greatest Liberal Arts Says Lazell

Iowa Press Association Hears Robert's Address

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

DES MOINES, May 7—Newspaper writing is one of the greatest of the liberal arts, Fred J. Lazell, editor of Cedar Rapids, declared in an address before the annual meeting of Iowa Press association, here today. Like the painter, the writer must have the urge of the artist; he must be so deeply in love with his art that he will never be so happy as when he is at it; he will be forever trying to set forth truth and beauty with the style of his sentences and the medium of his words, Mr. Lazell said.

Writer Should Watch Lead

In journalism, Mr. Lazell declared the writer of news should exercise extreme care in the selection of his opening sentences or "leads" drawing upon all his facilities and information for the one catchy expression that will bring quickly to the readers attention the nub of the story in the most attractive style.

"The artist with words will not fall to write for every issue of his paper little human interest stories of life and behavior—stories of success and failure, humor and pathos, cruelty and kindness, grief and joy, suffering and charity, that he sees and hears every day, declared Mr. Lazell.

Essential Requirements

"Whatever style or method the reporter may employ, there are some essential requirements which he may not ignore. Every sentence of his story must be grammatically correct as well as factually correct. He must tell enough to make his story truthful and impartial. His story should leave a truthful and complete picture in the mind of the reader as the reader would have obtained had he attended the meeting or whatever the occasion.

Asks War Against 'Slickers'

The Iowa Press association, in annual convention here today, was urged by R. R. Roberts, editor of the Britt News-Tribune, to take action toward obtaining legislation that will not only require a peddler to pay a license but would include the "slicker" who goes into a town and takes orders one day and delivers them the next.

Address on Mathematics

Monday at 12:30 soprano solos will be sung by Mrs. Dorothy Spencer. Following the solos, an address will be given by Prof. R. P. Baker, of the mathematics department.

At 4 p. m. Women's Club Hour, under direction of Mrs. Mable Voland, local chairman of the Iowa Federation of Women's clubs, will be broadcast.

A music program will be broadcast by members of the faculty of the university school of music at 8 p. m.

Music Coming Into Its Own Says President Chicago Musical College

By WALTER GRAHAM

"Music is coming into its own as an educational factor. Until it does there can be no American school, no great American composers."

The speaker was Herbert Witherspoon, president of the Chicago Musical college and for fifteen years baritone with the Metropolitan Opera company of New York City, one of the judges in the Music Festival yesterday. He was strolling slowly through the downtown street of Iowa City, watching with interest the groups of college people gathered around the well known meeting places.

Educational Value

"Music is an influence, not a concrete something. It is meant to stir the emotion. . . . Yes, I enjoyed judging the contests. We had some very good voices to experiment with."

Not a Jazz Enthusiast

The talk turned to the subject of jazz music and the influence of the negro upon it. "I'm not very enthusiastic about jazz, in fact I don't know much about it. I doubt if it has contributed anything. It's not American. What we need is an American music, expressing American emotions. Let the negro take care of his own."

He had reached his hotel. Just as he was about to go in he turned. "This is a typical Iowa town, isn't it. Flat and sort of spread out."

British to Control Crowds at Spring Golf Championship

ST. ANNES-on-SEA, May 7 (AP)—Elaborate plans have been made to control the crowds during play for the British open golf championship here in June, when for the first time in this country, gate money will be charged. It is hoped the arrangements will prevent a repetition of the chaotic scenes of the final play last year.

Five play-boxes will be erected with police attendants at each. On payment of the two shillings and sixpence entrance fee, the spectator will receive a numbered badge as evidence of his right to be on the course. Special police will keep the greens and fairways from being over-run and control squads will assist them, as well as keep the teeing grounds clear.

Cedar Falls, May 7 (AP)—Mr. Sellers found Betty when the LeRoy act played at a theatre here nine months ago and immediately started court action for custody of his daughter. The lower courts refused to return her to him and he appealed to the supreme court. But the LeRoy act recognized his claim and consented to his wishes.

Girl Eight Years Old Finds Father After Five Years

DES MOINES, May 7 (AP)—Betty Jane Sellers, 8 years old, who has been in every state in the union and practically every city of any size, is with her daddy at last. The victory of the father, Carl A. Sellers, local drug store clerk, marks the happy close of a five and a half years search followed by a nine months' court battle.

"The lost daughter" case dates back to April, 1920, when the girl's father and mother became estranged and shortly afterward the mother died. The mother's sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. LeRoy, vaudeville stars, took the child with them when they returned to the road. At times they left her with relatives in different parts of the country to go to school.

Mr. Sellers found Betty when the LeRoy act played at a theatre here nine months ago and immediately started court action for custody of his daughter. The lower courts refused to return her to him and he appealed to the supreme court. But the LeRoy act recognized his claim and consented to his wishes.

Iowa's Junior Guests

THE university campus presented a new multi-colored picture yesterday when almost two thousand high school students and advisers from all over the state appeared as guests for the first Iowa High School Music Festival. It was a tremendous undertaking simply to house, to direct, and to feed this great influx of guests. It was possibly a greater task to supervise just competition along musical lines for this widely varied host of high school students. That arrangements were made and contests and concerts executed in an orderly manner is in itself a distinguished piece of work.

That eighteen hundred students from every Iowa high school community should be drawn toward the state university for an event of this magnitude is a tacit tribute to the institution which is their host.

The music festival is not alone an attempt by the university to sensitize the state to its educational facilities, but more properly a short course in culture for the young people of Iowa. It is ample proof that a university need not hide itself perpetually behind the hide-bound and static bushel of book instruction. The province of a university is not delimited to the teaching of those on the campus, but extends beyond to the state itself. A conference of junior musicians is but one of the progressive services which Iowa can render to the state.

The community has been generous in offering the use of its rooms for the hundreds of guests who could not be lodged in dormitories and fraternity houses.

The Iowan trusts that the university's guests will have a pleasant week-end in competition and will return culturally refreshed from their trip.

Doing Europe

MR. AND MRS. AMERICAN ATHLETE wish to announce that, owing to the exigencies of the season, they will be "at home" only after July 1. Doing Europe has become just as popular athletically as socially, and while some of the relations will be about the premises from time to time, the immediate family will not be receiving before that date.

As a matter of fact they hope to be taking, and among the things they hope to acquire are the British amateur and open golf titles, the Walker and Wightman cups, the French international trophies in tennis and golf, and the Wimbledon tennis championships in both sexes. They may also acquire a coat of tan, a British accent, and the trick of swimming the channel with both feet off the bottom at all times.

The greatest of all athletic argosies is about to begin May 5 when the Walker cup team sails for England and end the Fourth of July, when most of the invaders will be turned toward home. During this time the sport situation here is very likely to draw a blank, except for the daily routine of baseball and the daily blat of boxing promoters who hope to stage the Dempsey-7 box fight sometime, somewhere.

But despite this the situation has its enjoyable aspects. For one thing American athletes are reaching a point where they are almost supreme; they should annex a great many of the titles they are going after. Then too, this will bring a better feeling between the various countries whose teams will compete with those of the United States, and this country.

At any rate the eyes of all sport enthusiasts will be focused sharply on foreign shores for the next few months.

Why Tempt Fate?

Now welcome summer with thy some soft,
That has this winter wedged over-shake,
And driven away the long nights black!
—Chaucer.

WHOLE fleets and flocks of canoes—the surest sign of summer on this campus—are making their appearance. With their coming, students and townspeople face another dread—that of a drowning.

Deaths by drowning, while they are few and far between, come all too frequently. Canoeing is one of the best of recreations and the safest if any degree of common sense is used.

But always there is the man who rocks the boat.

He can't be kept off the river, although he should be. He has a devil-may-care attitude, bred of ignorance. Those who have seen a limp, blue, lifeless body dragged from the depths never play in a canoe. The incident sticks too closely in their memory. Of course, there are accidents that are unavoidable, but they are in the great minority. Usually they can be traced to some thoughtless individual with a foolhardy tendency to "show off."

The river is one of the greatest assets to the Iowa campus, but it is endowed with a treacherous strength. Why tempt fate?

Waiting for the Knight

THE bitter irony of it, they say: that Peggy Joyce—frivolous, trifling, fickle,—should win husbands by handful, only to throw them away, while the deserving little Mauds and Minnies in the stores, the country schools, and libraries can't get one apiece.

But no matter what qualities Peggy has that the other girls need not envy, she has to her advantage the gentle art of play—a talent indispensable in winning husbands. This the deserving Mauds and Minnies failed to cultivate, confident—in their smug, untried virtue—of being irresistibly propelled into bliss. Somewhere in the big, wide world the One Man is waiting for them, they have come up to believe. They need only continue unflinchingly in the path of "duty," and he will some day ride up and throw himself at their feet. Play they score as "coquetry," and relapse into passive respectability because it is easier.

But they forgot that the One Man will undoubtedly be human, and cannot possibly be expected to discover—except by mere accident—the kindred spirit beneath their invulnerable shells of complacency. So probably the One Man will pass them by, and choose the wrong girl—because she condescended to play.

Peggy got the husbands—not because she deserved them, but because she got acquainted with them. The Minnies and the Mauds are waiting still—for lessons in Peggy's gentle art.

Our Meaningless "Hello"

IN the old days the word "hello" meant "Go chase a wolf."

Today the word is used as an expression of greeting, and as a favorite method of opening a telephone conversation. Yet how exasperating it is.

The word "hello" is meaningless. It is time consuming when answering the telephone. How much easier it is to answer by announcing the name of the firm or residence and the name of the person speaking. This permits the person to proceed with the unnecessary exchange of meaningless words, and inquiry as to whom is talking.

A study of the history of the word shows an interesting history. "Hello" had its origin in the days of the old French wolf hunts. When a wolf was sighted, the hunters shouted "Au Loup" (pronounced oh loo) which means "to the wolf." The English changed the word to "ha loo" and later it became "hello."

Those Bad Checks

INCREASING every day" said a local business man some time since when asked about the number of bad checks he received. To the ordinary individual, the amount of bad checks received by local merchants daily, is astounding. Every day they come in, dozens of them to Iowa City banks to be returned, marked in red "No Credit."

True, they are for the most part, the result of carelessness. Few students will knowingly write an order for money, knowing they have no credit to back up their checks. Most of it is the result of indifference coupled with an unusually bad system of bookkeeping. A lack of responsibility and the knowledge that the cheque will eventually be made good add to the mess.

Credit, in the world of business, is prized above all other things. We wonder how Bradstreet would rate the average student. Probably at the end of the string.

Some day, the student who today so carelessly scribbles his name on a cheque, may find himself seriously hampered by the habit. It might be wise to think twice before the next draft is made out.

Elvin J. Tilton and John F. Webber knew "the thrill that comes once in a lifetime" when they learned that in their hands will rest the executive duties of editor and business manager, respectively, of The Daily Iowan for the year beginning June 1.

To the students who fill them from year to year these positions come as an extraordinary and tangible honor, and the constantly increasing facilities and enrollment of the school of journalism insure the new editor and business manager of opportunities unequalled in the past. With the wider editorial and financial horizon will come high responsibilities and a recurrent necessity for wise and quick decisions in unpredictable matters of genuine importance to The Daily Iowan and to the university.

The personality, experience, and integrity of the two men who will pilot The Daily Iowan through its twenty-sixth year combine to assure the university that its official newspaper during their regime will be both successful and prosperous.

Poems That Live

Why Should I Listen?

Why should I listen to the Wise
Though every word they say is true? . . .
I grant that love is king of lies,
And that his greatest lie is — you!

The old men lift their warning hands,
They move their mouths and tell of shame—
Yet there's not one but understands
If he were young he'd do the same.

In vain the generations learn,
In vain men mete each sober rule—
Ah, who would not grave counsels spurn
When 'tis so sweet to be a fool!

—Harry Kemp.

CHILLS and FEVER

AL TILTON, elected as next year's editor of The Iowan, is a darn good newspaper man, and a darn good boy even if he is a Phi Psi.

AS HAS been previously suspected, Mark Time, the erudite poet, is in love. Witness the following charmingly, ambiguous piece of verse.

MISOGYNIST
When it's dark and cold and icy,
And the wintry breezes blow,
The boys would rather stay at home
Than struggle through the snow;
And so we sit around the fire
And smoke and tell tall tales—
It seems to make small difference
—then
That one hates all females!

But when the springtime comes around,
And the weather's nice without;
When the boys all climb into their cars
And start to chase about
Most every night on wild, wild dates;
And you, in spite of all, persist
In hating women as before—
It's tough to be a misogynist!
MARK TIME

A FEW INCHES up the column Al Tilton was being talked about. He doesn't live at the Phi Psi house, he lives at home. Which probably accounts for what was truthfully said about him.

MANNERS IS MANNERS
Dear F. R. E.: However much we are in sympathy with today's musical festival, and however much we enjoyed the entire program, we cannot refrain from a citation. One of the bigger men of the campus (neither of us, by the way) went up to one of the boy contestants and said, "My name is So-and-So." The other boy gave his name. At which juncture this big man said, "I'm glad to know you, I'm sure." The boy contestant looked up coyly and said, "Oh that's all right." Much, needless to say, to the big man's discomfort. But they're good boys, we like 'em.
—Both of Us

INTELLECTUAL ITEM
THERE IS a young man in this university who has given up the habit of taking a crib to class. He finds he can sleep in his chair.

SOME PHI MU girls are so dumb that they think a violin is some kind of a dirty, low down road house. (If you can figure this one out, you have brains, my dear)

THE MAJOR was telling the other day about a girl with a long, racy automobile who wanted to sell it because it was spoiling the boys with whom she drove around. They wouldn't buy any gas.

HOWEVER a local gas station proprietor informs us that the girl never buys over a gallon at a time, which lets her out. And, by the way, lets Chuck McConnell in.

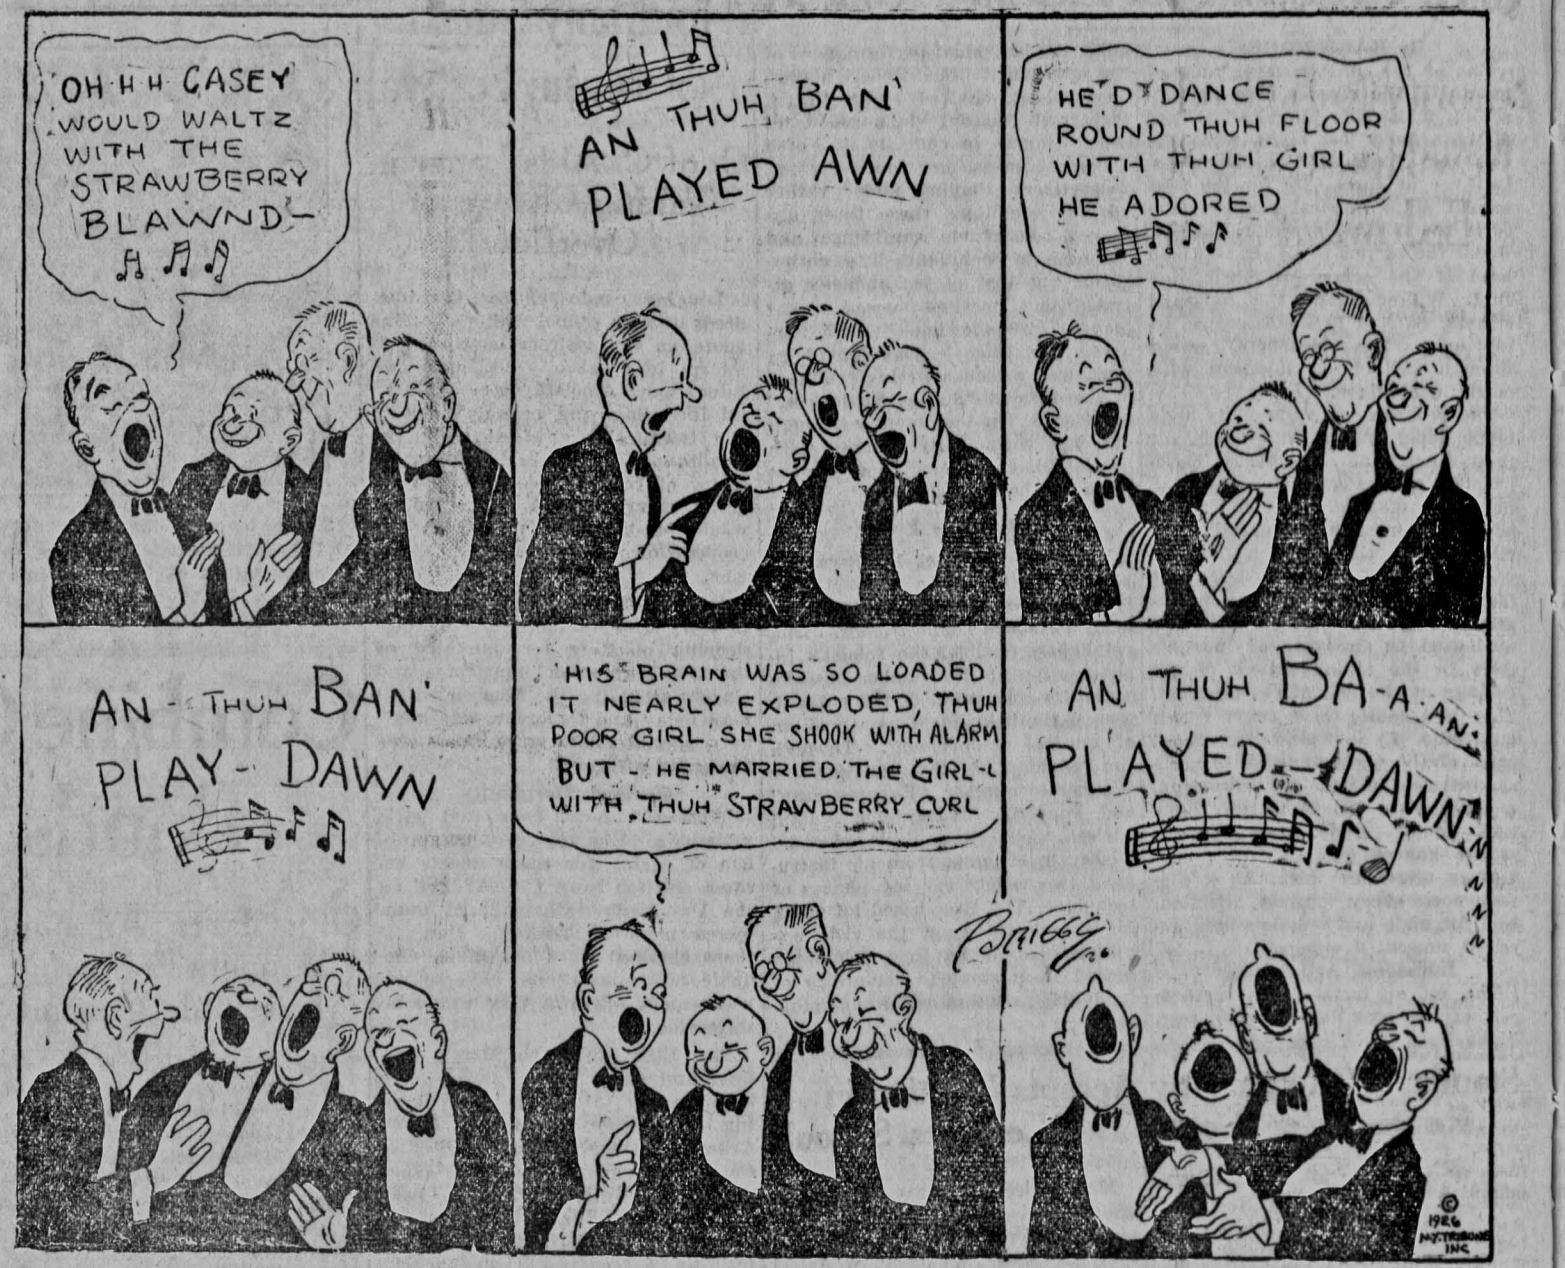

A LOT of people are beginning to wonder just who owns that Tri-Delt Chrysler, anyway.

DAILY FAIRY STORY
A Y. M. C. A. secretary once asked a Delta Gamma to use profanity in a sentence. She said, "Gosh darn it."

LAST LINE
"Can you drive with one hand?"

Trim Greenwich Dwellings
NEW YORK, May 7 (AP)—Greenwich Village realtors seem to expect a spring influx of Bohemians. Old brick dwellings are being refitted with new "arty" interiors. If you scribble, there is the writer's studio, the largest room of the apartment being a combination library and living room with one wall devoted exclusively to bookshelves. If you paint or sculpt, the inevitable skylight is provided. All apartments have the "homey" open fireplace, reinforced, however, by up-to-date steam radiators.

THESES CATALOGUE CARDS MISSING
Some one has removed from the card catalogue of the university library the "series cards" (twenty-five or more) on which we have listed all the University of Iowa's theses accepted prior to 1925. These cards have been removed for at least two weeks and their absence seriously handicaps the work of the library. It would take weeks to replace these records. We shall be grateful for any information as to their whereabouts or for their return. No cards should be removed from the library catalogue at any time except by the members of the catalogue department staff in connection with their professional work, and in all such cases special cards are installed indicating the temporary removal of regular cards.

FOR THE DEGREE OF MAMMON A. B.

An Oration by CHARLES B. NUTTING

Far in the shadowy past, traditions have caused some of our colleges to become suppliers for students. Instead of careful and rigid selection of the few, there has been and is a universal acceptance of many. Bigness has been attained, but at the cost of much that is precious.

The enormity of our colleges results inevitably in a changing of emphasis, from the beautiful to the merely practical, from quality to quantity, from the exceptional to the average. Having acceded to the demand for universal education, we must accept the responsibility of furnishing that type of learning which is universally desired.

We Must Educate Crowd
We must educate the crowd, and the crowd apparently does not want to be educated, save as an unavoidable accessory to the accumulation of wealth. That ancient trinity long sought by scholars, the good, the true, the beautiful, is as dead as are all forgotten gods, and the hard, the ugly, the obvious are exalted. And their altar is a bargain counter where all the faded remnants of learning are exhibited, but the things of value are hidden away.

This craze for the purely practical has so dominated our institutions that we seek in vain for those cultural subjects which once formed the basis of our learning. The classics, formerly the property of every educated man are fast sinking into an undeserved oblivion.
Study of ancient civilizations, so rich in beauty and wisdom, is giving place to exhaustive investiga-

Our Taste in Taxi-Drivers

I remember that I should have changed my will a long time ago, and that my life insurance is absurdly inadequate. At this moment we go on one wheel (I don't mean actually, I mean sensationally) around a corner and bring up sharp, with the taxi's nose one inch from a limousine ahead, and my nose one inch from the front window-glass. The limousine, for reasons of its own, stands still. My driver jams his horn—"Squacccccckkkk-accceckkk! sockkk!"—Dumbells, ah! they! he shouts sideways to me. The limousine glides forward. We stutter after with hasty jerks, take an unexpected swoop, speed past the limousine and, in passing, shout to the liveried driver, who looks like an English Chief Justice, "Hey, you dumbell! Why'n't you get out on a crawl!"

In the infinitesimally short interval of the limousine incident and death my driver has lighted a cigarette. I hope it will quiet his nerves—never mind about mine. It does not. It shows signs of most marked irritation when a cab ahead of us does not please him. He shouts as he goes to the driver of another on the other side of him. "Look at that guy riding on a flat!" But his is not the end of it. He jockeys for place, falls, succeeds, at last is cabrest of the offending cab, and leans out and shouts to its driver. "Hey, Dooz, you're riding on a flat! Who let you out!"

This does not conform with my idea of deportment. I should like to draw to the recesses of the cab, but nerves forbid me. I remain on the very edge of the seat. The next

Harm in Crowd Rule
The ordered and static universe of our fathers has become a thing of movement, constantly presenting different aspects. To attempt a return to the unchanged methods of former years would be indeed futile. But the present situation is far from satisfactory. Some means of betterment must be found lest we succumb to the perils of the crowd rule.

Genius is Reduced
The laggard and the genius alike are brought to the dead, monotonous level of the average, and where the one is bettered, the other loses that talent which is beyond price.

The Dancer Lies in Confusion
During this time the undergraduate should be in the best sense a dilettante, pursuing his investigations for the sheer joy of discovery. When the time comes for him to specialize, he will then be able to do so with open eyes. In a word, there are two types of education, general and technical, and the

$50,000 Chi Omega House Forecast in Purchase of Lot Site

Sorority to Build New House at 804 E. Iowa Avenue Plans Call for Home for Thirty-two; Three-Story

Announcement was made last evening of plans for a $50,000 chapter house to be erected by Psi Beta chapter of Chi Omega at 804 Iowa avenue. It is at present expected that the new home will be ready for occupancy at the opening of the autumn semester, according to Louise Polders, A2 of West Liberty.

Purchase of the residence at 804 East Iowa avenue from J. H. Huntzinger was completed yesterday. The house is occupied by H. N. Norris, foreman of the composing room of Student Publications, Incorporated, who will vacate the property immediately. The house will be torn down and construction on the new home started at once. The consideration was not made public.

Old English Motif

Plans for the structure, which will be of the old English design, have been completed and it is expected that the contract will be let next week.

Rooms for thirty-two women will be provided in the new chapter house. The lower half of the home will be in brick while the upper portions will be half timber and brick. There will be three stories, with the dining room in the basement.

Plan Long Living Room

An oblong shaped living room will form the outstanding portion of the ground floor. The length of the reception hall and the living room will be sixty-two feet. A chaperon's suite will also be on the first floor. The Chi Omegas are at present living at 427 N. Dubuque street.

General education is to develop the soul; technical education is to develop the pocketbook. These are as far apart as the poles; they are separate in purpose and function, they must be kept separate in fact. Already recognition of this situation has been indicated in the rise of professional schools, requiring advanced standards for admission. This tendency is to be encouraged. Professionalism is essentially a field for graduate schools. It must not be confused with liberal education.

But let us not forget the potential genius whose sorrows we have just been lamenting. The leader of tomorrow must not be educated into a conventional and soul-less automation whose thoughts rise no higher than the accumulation of riches. He must be rich in sympathy, broad in understanding, venturesome in intellect, noble in soul. To circumscribe such a spirit to burden him with the dead weight of crowd inertia is to destroy those very qualities upon which his genius depends.

A Foundation of Inequality

Higher education, then, is inherently aristocratic; its very heart is inequality. In the end its prime function must be the singling out and developing of the exceptional student. There can be no dallying with lagards, for they have no lace in our system. So long as we attempt the education of the unfit to the detriment of the superior, we are losing sight of our purpose.

That this fact is being recognized is evidenced by the increasing effort on the part of colleges to give greater opportunities to those proving themselves worthy. Honor courses are being established, more credit is being given for superior work, and here and there the old tutorial system of instruction is coming into its own.

These things all indicate a renewed interest in ability. Instead of placing a premium on dullness, authorities are rewarding skill. And more important than this, they are giving to the deserving student opportunity of working out his own salvation. Rather than remaining in a state of suspended animation while others overtake him, the talented student may now work to the full limit of his ability.

His accomplishment is checked, not by the limitations of his fellows, but by the bounds of his own genius.

Hope of Future Exist

It is this that gives us hope for the future and when the discovery and development of genius is considered of greater importance than the prodding of the half educated, our colleges are being true to their purpose.

Our aim must be the development

not of characterless machines, but of men; our aspiration not the accumulation of daily bread, but the discovery of truth and beauty. Upon the realization of these desires, the hard monotony of the present age will give place to an existence of rich and varied experiences. Once again, the colleges will teach men how to live.

Genuine Furs Aid Screen Artists to Feel Their Parts

HOLLYWOOD, May 7 (AP)—Motion picture producers believe that an actress can not assume the necessary poise and feeling of assurance unless she knows that she is clothed in accordance with the environment pictured.

John McCormick, general manager of First National's Coast unit, had examined every possibility of a huge saving in production cost by using less expensive materials for dresses. However, he authorized an expenditure of nearly $100,000 for gowns alone in the fashion revue, and was well satisfied.

"You might say it was foolish to spend that amount on gowns that were worn only for one picture," he says, "but we have surveyed the matter from all angles and because of the hard usage movie gowns are put to, we consider it a saving to buy good materials in the first place. Another reason is atmosphere. Cheap gowns would give actresses a feeling of indecision."

Cora McGeachy, gown designer, said that all gowns in the revue were just as pictured. "All the silks were silk; the features were ostrich; the furs were fur; and the woollens were wool."

No matter how expensive a gown may be, it is not again worn by a star after a picture is made. It is either kept in wardrobe for extras, or it is sold.

Office Aspirants Swamp Auditor in Last Minute Rush

Sheriff Seekers Head List With Six; 24 Petitions Filed

Midnight last night was the deadline set for the filing of petitions for county offices. The primary will be held June 7. Before the office of the county auditor closed at 5 p. m. yesterday 24 petitions had been filed, two of which were incomplete. The files were accessible to nominees until midnight.

Petitions filed at five o'clock were: W. A. DeFrance for sheriff (incomplete); J. B. Kroll for supervisor; C. B. Ruesel, county attorney; Walter J. Barrow, county clerk; Ed. Sulek, seeking reelection as county auditor; Thomas J. Walsh, sheriff; Dr. George Maresh, county coroner; Paul Custer, county attorney; R. P. Jones, of Oxford, George E. Ranshaw, of Iowa City, J. W. Carey of Lone Tree, George Zauschek of Solon, and J. B. Kral, for county board of supervisors.

James S. Martin is seeking reelection for sheriff; John M. Kadtek county recorder; Frank L. Smith, sheriff; John G. Scheetz, county supervisor; Ed. L. O'Connor seeking reelection as county attorney; H. C. Colwell, sheriff; Rudolph Prybill, sheriff; J. B. Kral, county board of supervisors (incomplete); J. H. Donohue, seeking reelection as coroner; Charles L. Berry, seeking reelection as county treasurer; Robt. N. Vogt seeking election to the office of sheriff; Clifford H. Smith, treasurer.

Seven county offices will be filled at this election with an average of three competing for each office. The office of county clerk has only one contestant however, Walter J. Barrow who has been serving for several years as deputy clerk. C. C. Benda, who has held the office for more than a decade has announced his intention to retire. The office of sheriff seems to be most popular, six persons having filed petitions for nomination to that position at five o'clock yesterday evening.

Paris Dressmakers Lose Trade of Elite

PARIS, May 7 (AP)—Every important dressmaking house in Paris which was asked by Candide whether French society women were spending less on dress declared that it was so, and added that French women were abandoning the great houses which now looked almost entirely to foreign custom.

Paul Poiret was among the most pessimistic. "The dressmaking industry is in its death agony," he declared. "In three years we shall have passed out of existence! French customers? They stopped coming long ago! Why should they come? They've got no more money! And why should they dress? There are no more full-dress ceremonies, and no more autocratic rules prescribing what must be worn. People dine and go to the theatre in afternoon dresses and they don't buy those afternoon dresses from me! The foreign woman alone is able to pay. But as the foreigner only dresses to outvie the native, when the French woman has given up dressing, there will be no competition, and no more fashion!"

"We may hold out for three years—with difficulty."

time we actually give the fender of the car ahead a jolt. A policeman sees us. But just when I think we are to be mercifully arrested and I shall have an opportunity to apologize, off we go at a worse pace, the driver swearing, by way of the horn, at intervals of two seconds, all the way, "Squaceckkkk!"—Acckk! Squaceckkkk!"

The excitement is beyond everything. I sit on the edge of the seat, am bounced off it, and scramble back to it, and continue riding with my hat completely shutting off one eye, because I do not dare let go the window-casing, to set it straight. People fly with their elbows spread, like terrified chickens, as we come. One starts nervously to dash across our path, takes a terrified look at the driver, and dashes back into an advancing old gentleman, who raises his cane and pulls down his hat at the impact. One portly woman, who escapes our front wheels by an inch, adds a scream. It all harmonizes. I watch anxiously for the next crossing. "Hey! You big boob!" shouts my driver as we come to it, to an ecclesiastical-looking gentleman whom I take to be a bishop, and who seems to be bent at all hazards, on preserving his dignity, but whom we cause to fling his legs suddenly in a very unchurched manner.

At the next crossing it is a nun. She takes no chances with her saints, but skims, skims, her cloak floating, and taking her white wings with her, church or lady, it does not matter.

"Did you see that?" my driver shouts aside at me.

I certainly did.

By this time my nerves are shattered. I am tempted to shout after her, or anyone, "Hey Bozo! Save yourself! Save yourself!"

These are some of the reasons—and I could give many more—why I should welcome color, emblem, catchword, or other form of classification for taxi drivers. I would suggest that ribbons of different colors round their caps might do—pale pink; a gentle, Ben Bolt nature; purple, for age and experience; green, for kindly and considerate; and scarlet, unmistakable scarlet, for the "All-But-They" Pozo!—When did you get out?" kind—something that would enable those who have a taste in taxi-drivers to exercise that taste if they wish to.

Expect Hung Jury in Case of Davis

Jury Asks Exhibit of Grain of Poison; Judge Refuses

[By The Associated Press]

MCCOOK, Neb., May 7—A hung jury appeared a strong possibility tonight in the case of Bert M. Davis, former Beaver City grocer and wealthy stock grower, who is charged with poisoning his first wife, Blanche, last fall so he could marry her. His fate was placed in the hands of a district court jury last evening and tonight no indication of a verdict was made.

The first and only knowledge of the jury's deliberation came this morning when the court was asked for additional instructions and for a grain of poison alleged to have been fed Mrs. Davis. The judge, however, refused the poison exhibit and the jury returned for deliberation. The judge intimated that the jury would have until late Sunday afternoon to return a verdict.

Davis said if freed he would seek to reunite his family and Mrs. Kate Resler-Davis, whom he married shortly after his first wife's sudden death. If he is found guilty Mrs. Resler-Davis will be tried as an accessory in the alleged poison plot.

Team in Good Shape for Cinderpath Duel With Irishmen

Twenty-seven men compose the Iowa track team which left last night for the dual this afternoon with the "Fighting Irish" outfit at South Bend. In the trials held last night only one new man, E. J. Von Hoene, was added to the list as published yesterday.

Von Hoene will compete in the javelin throw. The Iowa athletes left last night and will arrive in South Bend at 10:30 this morning and after the meet will entrain at 6:50 p. m., reaching Iowa City at 7:30 tomorrow morning.

All the Hawk athletes are in the best of condition, Roberts and Everingham, sprinters, who have been bothered with injuries, are again cutting capers on the cinder path. Hunn and Speers, two-milers, who were beaten in the Michigan dual last week, have been benefited by a week's rest and should finish one, two in the race today. A new point winner is likely to appear in the half mile event for Iowa today, John Forwell, member of the champion mile relay team this winter, has changed his efforts to the shorter distance and has been turning in some creditable times.

Hawk Milers Improved

Van Ness and Elliott have made a decided improvement during the past week, but will be forced to run against one of the fastest milers in the middle west as Judge, the Irish miler, won the distance in the triangular last Saturday with the time of 4:26. Young is another miler who is expected to place high. These two are the same men who finished one, two in the Notre Dame dual on Iowa Field last year.

Independent Nine Prime for Contest With Rapids Team

The Iowa City Independents will play their third consecutive home game here Sunday afternoon when the Rock Island Shop team of Cedar Rapids takes the field against them at city park diamond. The game, which is scheduled to start at 2:30, will be the second one with a visiting team. Marengo opened the season here several weeks ago.

Both teams have good records behind them and an interesting mix-up is assured local fans. The Independents have a perfect record to date, Marengo, the first victim found Manager Alexander's defensive front too strong and his artillery too accurate, and a 5-2 victory for the locals resulted.

In the second game, the Blackhaws, local colored nine, played hot with the Independents' scorching eight run lead, but failed to deliver in the final pinch. The difference was only one run, but a run is a run, in baseball as well as hockey, and the Independents closed the score book on a hard earned win. Cedar Rapids now is counting on the third time being the charm, and have been playing some good ball to back up their contention.

Manager Alexander has been scouring the surrounding country for apt talent that will be ready for any emergency call, and has a line-up for Sunday that he believes will ease any rumors of degeneracy that may have arisen after last week's game. Cap Waller will be behind the shin guards and Hicks and Frohwein are sure starters. The pitcher for Sunday has not been chosen as yet. There seems to be some secret about the remainder of the line-up, for even Verne Miller, secretary of the local club, is in the dark as to what will be the final arrangement.

Playing weather like that prevalent during the last few days will assure a fast game, as city park diamond is in the best of shape and both teams are good at base springing.

Local Cinder Star Declared Ineligible

Cadwallader, Red and White Star, Lost to Team

Iowa City high school's prospects for a good showing in the district track meet at Davenport today went glimmering yesterday when Max Cadwallader, star hurdler and quarter miler, was declared ineligible because of the eight semester rule.

Superintendent Troe of Durant high school, where the local star formerly attended, contested Cadwallader's eligibility and a close check-up proved that he had been in school for more than eight semesters. Cadwallader made a remarkable showing in the indoor meet here and was conceded an excellent chance in the hurdles at the state meet.

Coach's Soucek and Wiesman and eight members of the local squad will leave by automobile early this morning for Davenport for the district meet. The men making the trip are Captain James, Burger, Rabas, Roose, Brown, Gardner, White and Isaacs.

Rabas and Roose have been entered in the 100 and 220 yard dashes, James in the half-mile and 440, Brown broad jump and 220, Gardner half-mile, White and Isaacs in the mile, and Burger in the shot put and discus.

Ten U High Track Men at Davenport

Powerful Team to Represent Local School at River City

Ten University high school athletes will compete today in the district track and field meet at Davenport. Every member of the Blue and White squad that places in the River City affair will be taken to the state meet at Des Moines later in the month.

Coach Carpenter is counting on Brown to come through in both the hundred and two twenty dashes. He has lost but one race in Iowa in both the indoor and outdoor seasons and is ranked as one of the best sprinters in the state. He has run the hundred in :10.2, which is the best time that any prep sprinter has made this year. Cozine will run only the mile race, as Carpenter is not going to try to take the meet, but wants his athletes to establish records if possible in the races that they run. While Cozine could easily win both the half and the mile, Carpenter believes that by holding him out of the shorter race he can come through with a new state record, which means more to the boy.

Lindeman, broad jumper, Dennis sprinter, Alt, Rose, Caut, Saunders, and Fairchild, middle distance men, Kay, pole vaulter and broad jumper, and Callies, weight man, will all make the trip to Davenport.

Wolverines Down Badgers 6-4 in Closing Stanzas

MADISON, Wis., May 7 (AP)—Michigan came from behind today after a bad start to defeat the University of Wisconsin baseball team six to four. The wolverines bunched hits off to win the game in the closing innings, halting several promising Wisconsin rallies with fast fielding.

Seven Athletes Try Out Brookins' Shoe

Charlie Brookins' new invention, the combination sprinting, hurdling and jumping shoe will soon be worn by seven Iowa athletes, he announced today.

The crack hurdling and quarter-mile running squad of Cuhel, Phelps and Beatty will be outfitted with the shoe as soon as the shipment arrives. Ray Mann, the star high jumper will wear a pair as will John Everingham, sprinter and broad jumper, Don Smith and Belding who do nothing but broadjump.

Brookins said that the men will try out the shoes thoroughly and may wear them to compete in the Western Conference meet May 28 and 29.

Kent's Wildcats to Battle Against Hawkeyes Today

Coach Maurice Kent of Northwestern will unleash his tribe of Wildcats onto Iowa Field this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock to do battle with Coach Otto Vogel's flock of Hawks. A short hitting drill put the Vogelmens on edge yesterday and the team will take the field prepared to swat the horsehide to all corners of the outer garden and annex their initial win of the season.

Coach Vogel has not made any selection as to who might do the hurdling but plans to start the pitcher that looks the best at game time. The infield will be the same as started the Minnesota game but there may be a change in the outfield.

The Northwestern coach, a former Iowa player and captain, is again coaching the Wildcats. His men have beaten Chicago 12 to 5 and Indiana 9 to 4. The Purple crew have lost to Purdue, 6 to 6; Minnesota 5 to 1; and Wisconsin, 3 to 2.

Captain Christman is one of the best third sackers in the conference and a hard hitter. Janetz and White are experienced outfielders. Seidel and Solheim are veterans at first and second respectively. Ellis, catcher, forms part of a good battery with either Palmer or Mills in the box.

New York Batters Fail to Get Men Past First Base

[By The Associated Press]
CHICAGO, May 7.—Chicago bunched hits off Jack Scott and Jimmy Ring today, driving the former off the mound in the sixth inning, and shut out the New York Giants 6 to 0. Tony Kaufmann held the visitors to four scattered hits and did not issue a pass.

Kaufmann did not allow a Giant to reach second base, three of the six New Yorkers who reached first base were stranded on the initial sack.

"Iron Joe" Deplores Weakening Pitchers

NEW YORK, May 7 (AP)—Joe McGinnity, who claims to have thrown more curve balls than any other two pitchers in organized baseball, says that "iron men" have passed out of the major leagues because most modern hurlers grasp the pellet improperly and fail to take the mound often enough.

McGinnity, whose pitching career extended over a period of thirty-two years, maintains that "curve pitching, properly done, is no greater strain on the arm than fast ball pitching."

"After pitching a game, the young fellows of today lay off for a week," he continued. "I don't think I ever went a season in the majors without pitching at least fifty games."

McGinnity was first called the "iron man" when he pitched six games in seven days and won them all. He has signed this season as a pitching coach with the Brooklyn Nationals.

France Produces Rival for Suzanne

PARIS, May 7 (AP)—Suzanne Lenglen is not the only woman champion that France possesses. The country, and Bordeaux in particular, is proud of owning Madame Catherineau, champion light rifle shot in the world at 164 feet.

Madame Catherineau won this honor at Rheims, during Olympic Games shooting competitions. Since that time she has accomplished a score of 397 out of 400 and has made 395 and 396 on several occasions.

Madame Catherineau and her husband run a game painting business. She was persuaded to try her hand with a rifle in 1923 and the next year scored her Olympic success.

Finance Committee Offers Plan to Build College Street Bridge

Propose Special Tax to Promote Project

Health Officer Recommends Condemning of Ragler Shack as Unfit for Living

A plan to enable the city to build a new $76,000 bridge on College street to replace the present obsolete structure was reported last night at the city council meeting by Miss Ruth A. Gallaher, as chairman of the finance committee. The plan proposes that the city's share of one half the $76,000 be raised by a special tax levy of 1.14 mills, thus bringing in $25,000 in ten years.

This plan is in line with that considered by the Rock Island railroad company through its chief bridge engineer, C. C. Simmons, to the effect that the city pay half the expense of a new viaduct and the railroad the other half.

In making the report, the finance committee gave serious consideration to the plan and dismissed the suggestion that the Iowa City street railway company pay part of the cost of the project since that company feels unable to pay their share of the expenses.

Accept Hart's Report
City solicitor William R. Hart's report on the ownership of the streets and alleys in Chautauqua Heights was accepted and placed on file.

This report gave some interesting facts to the present council, inasmuch as the council that held office on August 7, 1914, accepted the streets and alleys in Chautauqua Heights when they were not even offered to the city.

In 1907 Mrs. Anna Rider's plat of Chautauqua Heights gave to all of the property owners in that addition the streets and alleys, but made no distinction or preference for those properties that abutted the streets and alleys.

Until the present property owners of Chautauqua Heights deed to the city the streets and alleys of this addition there can be constructed no improvements such as paving and sidewalks.

Change Zoning Law
The first reading of the resolution for an amendment to the zoning ordinance was read last night. This change of the ordinance has reference to sub section No. 2 of section 179 of the revised ordinances for Iowa City.

The changing of the ordinance will place into the industrial zone the property of Hugh McCabe and Mary O. Thoman, which include the north eighty and four-tenths feet of Lot 5, Block 59, O. T. This property is located on the northeast corner of Jefferson and Linn streets.

Because of the provision in the ordinance which requires a notice of the proposed change to be filed fifteen days before a hearing is held, the hearing was set for June 4.

Extend Water Mains
Water mains were ordered extended on Fairchild street, between Linn and Gilbert streets and on Russell street, between Sheridan and Jackson streets.

Remonstrances on the paving of Capitol, Dubuque, Benton, Van Buren, and LaFayette were received and placed on file.

The complaint filed with the city clerk relative to the switch on LaFayette street across Capitol street was referred to the streets and alleys committee and the city engineer. This switch extends out into South Capitol street for about ten or twelve feet.

The bond of $1,000 and the permit to sell cigarettes was granted to Harvey Seor.

Would Condemn Shack
City Health Officer George A. Scanlon, reported to the council that the property of Mrs. Edna Ragler should be condemned as unfit for human habitation.

The monthly bill of the city health nurse, for the month of April, was accepted and placed on file.

The resignation of Frank L. Smith as Fire and Police Commissioner was accepted. Mayor J. J. Carroll appointed Charles A. Bauer to fill the vacancy.

A storm drain was ordered constructed across Lee street about fifty feet south of River street.

The air mail field was ordered to be re-leased to the United States government. The new lease will expire July 1, 1927.

A warrant for $50 was ordered paid to W. J. White for furnishing a pool tax list to the city.

Regulate Pool Halls
All pool halls and billiard halls were ordered closed at 12 o'clock, midnight, every night. This is in compliance with section 431 of the revised ordinance of Iowa City.

The renting of the cemetery to C. G. Sample for $3.50 per acre subject to the provision that the committee on public grounds and buildings be permitted to do anything they see fit in further improving the cemetery, was ordered.

George Koser asked the council to permit him to connect his sewer, which will serve University Heights additions, with the Benton street sewer. This matter was referred to the sewer committee, the city solicitor, and the city engineer, to report at the next meeting.

The council will meet again Friday, May 14.

Carroll Appoints Charles A. Bauer New Commissioner

Charles A. Bauer, 911 E. Market street, was late last night appointed as fire and police commissioner by Mayor J. J. Carroll, to succeed Frank L. Smith who resigned from the commission last Thursday.

Mr. Bauer who is a pioneer resident of Iowa City is the senior partner in the Bauer Brothers Broom manufacturing plant located on North Lucas street.

Mr. Smith was appointed as a member of the commission April 1 but handed in his resignation following his filing of papers for nomination on the democratic ticket for the office of sheriff. The state law requires that no office holder or candidate for office be a member of the civil service commission.

Two Slight Blazes Call Firemen Out

Two small fires gave the fire department a little exercise yesterday. Burning rubbish which was fanned by the wind caused a slight fire to start on the side of a garage at the home of Coach Sam Barry about 10:30 yesterday morning.

A small roof fire on a barn in back of Smith's Machine Works gave the fire department their second run of the day. Sparks from the factory's chimney caused the blaze.

Reilly Predicts Showers as Mercury Takes Drop

Probabilities of showers for Iowa City before this week ended was forecast last night by Prof. John F. Reilly as he took his final reading for the day at 7 p. m. At that time the mercury stood at 73 degrees, a drop of ten degrees from the maximum during the afternoon.

The minimum for the twenty-four hour period ending at 7 p. m. yesterday was 60 degrees and the official gauge registered 64 degrees at 7 a. m. yesterday.

Not much change in temperature is foreseen for today and cloudiness is expected to prevent the thermometer from climbing as high as it did yesterday.

Disillusioned; Officer Quits After One Day on Force

It's not as easy as it looks," said John W. Pluhar who yesterday morning turned in his resignation to Mayor J. J. Carroll and resigned as motorcycle policeman after just one day on the force.

Pluhar was appointed as new motorcycle cop last Wednesday by Mayor Carroll to fill in one of the vacancies left open by the death of former Officer Edward Leeny and the suspension of Rudolph Konyvalinka.

Under the terms of his appointment he was to serve a thirty day trial period, but decided his talents lay elsewhere.

Mr. Ray Morgan, of the fire department, who has been serving as motorcycle policeman since the vacancies in the police department, will return as policeman until a new officer is appointed.

C. of C. to Hear Clinton Judge on Municipal Court

Former Ireland Smith, judge of the municipal court at Clinton for the past four years, has been secured to speak on the workings of the municipal court, before the members of the Chamber of Commerce Monday at their regular luncheon in the Chamber of Commerce rooms.

Much agitation has been created as to the desirability of establishing a municipal court in Iowa City and Judge Smith will discuss the operation of the court at Clinton.

Persons interested in creating a municipal court here have communicated with Judge Smith and learned that the court has netted the city of Clinton a profit of $25,000 since it was established seven and one half years ago. It abolishes the mayor's court and also justices of the peace and has jurisdiction throughout the entire county in criminal cases which otherwise would be tried in the mayor's court or before a justice of the peace, and handles all civil cases involving amounts up to and including $1,000. Judge Smith is a candidate for Clinton county attorney. He is a graduate of the University of Iowa college of law of the class of 1916.

Gambling House Charge Develops From Ax Killing

Mrs. Edna Ragler, Negress, was brought before Justice E. F. Carter yesterday on a charge of running a gambling house at her home on West Lafayette street. After pleading not guilty to the charge Justice Carter set her trial for next Tuesday at 9 a. m. in the same court. She will be represented by Attorney Edward F. Rate.

Preferring the county jail instead of being freed on a bond Mrs. Ragler was returned to the county jail where she is already serving time on a charge of intoxication. She was found guilty before Mayor J. J. Carroll Wednesday and preferred a jail sentence rather than paying a fine of $5 and costs.

Mrs. Ragler was arrested early Sunday morning at her home on West Lafayette street in connection with the murder of Lewis Blair, Negro, as the aftermath of a drinking and gambling party.

Take to Soccer

MANILA, May 7 (AP) — Growing popularity of soccer football in the Philippines has resulted in the formation of the Philippine Amateur Football League. It will strive for the development of the game here and the creation of a team able to compete in the biennial Far Eastern games with China, Japan and neighboring countries.

Veterans on Tour of World Exhibit Curios Gathered From 47 Countries

"The less said about the war the better. Every veteran that's been in it knows it's hell. That's all." Such was the opinion of the three disabled veterans of the World War who stopped in Iowa City last night on their tour of the world.

Al J. Posner, Robert Kuhn and P. E. Mavel were released from the government hospital in California in 1920 and decided among themselves that extensive travel would be the best thing for their health and education. Fitting up a Ford "a la covered wagon" they started going, camping out on the way.

Six years of wandering through forty-seven foreign countries have already relegated four Fords to the junk heap. The doughboys have traveled through South and Central America and are now making their way to New York where they intend to take a boat for England.

From the Philippines they acquired Maggie and Jiggs, their pet monkeys. Jiggs died from pneumonia quite a while back and Maggie is now convalescing from a bruised shoulder which she sustained recently when she fell from the speeding car.

With them the men carry many relics and souvenirs and a large movie camera. They finance their way by selling souvenir cards for

Efforts to Obtain Result NOL, Futile

All attempts to obtain the results of the Northern Oratorical League contest, which was held in Madison, Wis., last night, proved futile at an early hour this morning.

Iowa University was represented by Charles Bernard Nutting, A2 of Iowa City. His oration will be found on page 4 of this issue.
