Something to Worry About

WHILE on his way to a favorite fishing spot a Rutland, Vt., judge stopped long enough to fine a man, undeniably under the influence of intoxicating beverages, for non-sobriety. The law has been given various queer twists before this instance took place, but this is the first time, we believe, that a judge has ever imposed a fine under circumstances such as this.

What this may lead to remains to be seen. Many queer examples may easily be developed under varying conditions. For example, suppose a judge who wishes to do his duty at all costs, should be sitting beside an overly affectionate couple in a darkened film theater. Wouldn't the male portion of the necking party be more or less surprised when he heard a voice beside him exclaim, "You're fined $10 for mugging in public," or words to that effect? Or while out driving or walking suppose one of the gentlemen of the bar should come upon a "hen-pecked" husband while the "hen" was doing the pecking. No doubt the poor husband would be delighted to hear the profound disciple of Blackstone whisper, "Hand me $20 and I'll see that you get a divorce."

But one thing worries us. We wonder what the effect of the assiduous sentence imposer's threat, "I fine you $100 for carrying concealed weapons" will be upon the thug who is relieving him of his valuables at some future date?

Second Wind

IOWA'S baseball team finished the season with a rush. After dropping ten straight conference games and putting up a mediocre showing in the non-conference competition, the Hawkeyes descended upon the unsuspecting Indiana and Chicago nines and scored nearly as many runs in the two games as they have since the regular season began.

The sudden turning of the tables seems to indicate that the old slogan "Iowa Fights" is not merely a catchy phrase. Battered, bruised and beaten; shut out without hit or run the Iowans were the under dogs. The team batting average was less than .150 and the highest individual average was about .250. Second string pitchers on other teams toyed with the Hawkeye stickmen, while their team mates hit the Hawkeye hurlers hard, far and often. In the field the Old Gold performers were sensational but erratic.

On the whole the team was not so good. Everyone had his theories as to the cause of the failure to win games, but the most evident reason was the lack of ball players. The team had almost become a joke and all fans expected a perfect record of losses.

But the Vogelmen stayed in and fought. A whirlwind finish and some luck gave them a victory over Notre Dame. Then came the Maroons and the Hoosiers. The pitchers were easy for the Iowa batters and the Hawkeye hurlers caught the spirit and pitched great games.

Iowa could hardly be proud of the men for their baseball ability, but every loyal follower of Old Gold is proud of the fight they displayed.

Lightning Lockhart

WITH death staring him in the face at every curve, Frank Lockhart, a 23-year-old driver from Los Angeles, roared through a succession of showers at the Indianapolis speedway, Monday, to win the classic 500-mile speed crown of a nation and $40,000 in prizes. It was his first big race. He was serving as a relief driver and was given his chance when the regular pilot of the car was stricken with illness.

Much criticism of the evils of automobile racing is based on facts. But for absolute, death-defying courage and determination, this Indianapolis race should have educed a cheer from the most moth-eaten opponent of all speed contests.

On a wet track, the winner was traveling 130 miles an hour. The machine of an opponent who became blinded by a sudden downpour, crashed into a retaining wall, a complete wreck. Still the pace did not slacken. Lockhart took the lead at the end of 152 miles and held it until the race was called at 400 miles.

There may be evils in automobile racing, but such a performance should excite admiration in a stone.

Pinching the Saver

AMERICANS, as a whole, are a class of investors. They are savers; not misers, but possessed of the worthy habit of storing away a few shekels for a rainy day. Such firms as the Pennsylvania Railroad, Bell Telephone, and United States Steel each boast of more than a hundred thousand stockholders.

But this, too, has its evils. An annual loss of a billion dollars is the result of unwise investments. The greatest loss is suffered by the small saver who is not, and often cannot, be fully versed in the merits or demerits of the many security issues.

The most recent large failure, although one which has been given little publicity in spite of its magnitude, is that of the Durant Motor company. Two hundred thousand investors throughout the country supplied the capital to this firm. The selling price per share ranged from thirty to seventy dollars. Today's financial page quotes the stock at less than five dollars. And this was the firm which was to run Ford out of business!

Ethics and Nature

"ETHICS OF ILLINOIS," an article in The Daily Illini, rather smugly pats the school on the back and thanks fortune that the more secluded haunts of nature are not present near the school, and by their absence keep the moral status of the students on its high plane.

There is something very humorous in such a statement. After blaming every possible cause for modern moral laxity, a wise man arises to announce that one school feels that backsliding and back to nature are synonymous.

The obvious extreme of this viewpoint would be to house everyone in cities, away from the beauties or decays of nature, and moral delinquency will be reduced to a nullity. Somehow, this has never worked out. The moral tone of the strictly urban population is just as frequently low as that of the rural portions.

"Ethics of Illinois" may find that the only nature which may be blamed for moral laxity is human nature.

Render Unto Michigan

THE Michigan track team won the conference championship the other day, giving the Wolverine institution a championship in three of the four major sports and a tie for the championship in the fourth.

Last fall Coach Fielding H. Yost turned out a football team that was unstopable on every occasion, except the day that it lost a 3 to 2 battle to the powerful Northwestern aggregation in the mud. Even then the Wolverines outplayed the Purple, but some strategy coupled with great defensive play gave the Evanston eleven a narrow victory. So unusual was the Northwestern victory that the Purple supporters formally conceded the championship to Michigan although the standing showed a tie.

The Navy, Minnesota, Ohio, Wisconsin, and all the others were easy for the Yost machine, the final victory 36 to 0 over the Gophers being the most impressive of all.

Then came the basketball season and Coach Mather put a great quintet on the floor with "Bo" Molenda, the football star, in the leading role. At the end of the first semester Molenda got into scholastic difficulties and with him went Cherry, the other regular guard and a veteran performer. This halted the progress of the team for a while, but the Maize and Blue got together another aggregation that finished the season with a rush and tied with Iowa, Michigan, Indiana, and Purdue for Big Ten honors.

In baseball the nine was without the services of many of last year's men, but Coach Ray Fisher turned out a team that was just a little too good for the rest of the conference. It was not a perfect machine, but it held its own and then some.

Coach Steve Farrell always manages to produce some great track performers each year and fandom was not particularly astonished when the well-balanced outfit took the high honors without much trouble last week.

Michigan has a great staff of coaches, but other schools have great coaches. Michigan has great athletes, but other schools have great athletes. But Michigan has more of these great athletes and more athletes of medium ability than the rest of the schools. Occasionally the teams from some other school challenge the supremacy of the Wolverines for a certain title, but Michigan remains consistently among the leaders.

Crafty—"Dammie, Louis, if this isn't the place where that beautiful girl was rescued by the fellow who afterwards married her."
Hesitant—"Yeh, but I can't swim."
—Brown Jug.

Poems That Live

Villages

The inland villages are fair;
And shelter houses white and square
That front a quiet street.

And folk are there whose one desire
And there's a white church with a spire,
Is in all fellowship to dwell;
And doves about its bell.

And there are food and hearth and chair
For any traveler who asks,
And gentle maids with banded hair
Go safely on their tasks.

But villages beside the sea
Are rough as wind and fierce as light,
And brown-skinned girls dance wild and free
When fiddles play at night.

And love and death have equal rates,
And men are strong and loud of speech,
And make a housing for their mates
From wrecks that strew the beach.

In inland villages they grow
The herb called heartsease—would that we
Might find it there who long ago
Turned hawk-like to the sea.
—Theodosia Garrison, in the Century.

Has Played as Regular on Team for Past Two Seasons

Gerald M. Hoben of Rock Rapids, one of the leading first basemen in Iowa's history, will captain the 1927 Hawkeye team. It was announced today following the balloting by the letter men. Hoben will be a senior in the college of liberal arts next fall.

The new leader is one of the best hitters on the squad and is a steady fielder. He has played regularly in almost every game since Coach Otto Vogel took over the coaching job in 1925 and is spoken of as one of Vogel's best developments.

NEW YORK, June 2 (AP)—The New York Yankees twice defeated Washington here today the scores being 9 to 5 and 5 to 4. Bengough, starting his first game of the year for the Yankees behind the bat, won the second contest when he drove in three runs with a double off Johnson in the fourth inning. A crowd of 40,000 saw the two games, bringing the attendance for the last four playing days at Yankee stadium to approximately 180,000, a record outside of world series. The Yankees announced that they had signed George Davis, star outfielder of the New York University team.

Wells, Tiger southpaw, allowed but five hits. After sitting on the bench during the first game, manager Cobb went to center field in the second and in five trips to the plate hit two singles and two doubles, was given a base on balls, scored two runs, and drove in two others.

Sox Rally in Ninth

ST. LOUIS, June 2 (AP)—The Chicago White Sox rallied in the ninth today for five singles and four runs and won from St. Louis Browns 6 to 5. Thomas struck out nine men before he weakened in the eighth. Hargrave, who had fanned three times, hit a homer in this inning, starting a batting spree which brought in two additional Brown runs. Mostil got a single, triple, and home run.

Boyles won his letter in 1924 but was out of the University in 1925. He is a former Iowa City high school star, one-time holder of the state record in the pole vault as well as the Iowa interscholastic meet mark. He is the second field event man in succession to lead the Hawkeye team, succeeding Ray Dauber, shot putter.

Second Field Man in Succession to Lead Cinder Men

Joint Indoor and Outdoor Pole Vault Champion

Xavier P. (Jack) Boyles, joint indoor and outdoor Western Conference pole vault champion, was elected captain of the 1927 University of Iowa track team at a meeting of the letter men Wednesday noon. The new leader, whose home is in Iowa City, will be a senior in the college of applied science next fall.

Boyles is the best vaulter ever developed at the university. He is the holder of the Iowa record of 12 feet, 10 1/4 inches made this year in the dual meet with Michigan. At the conference indoor meet he tied for the title with Barnes and White of Illinois, clearing 12 feet, 6 inches and last week shared the outdoor championship with Northrop of Michigan at 12 feet, 9 1/2 inches.

Big Ten coaches commented favorably upon his form at the Western conference meet. He is noted for his excellent "jack-knife" and for the fact that, although he is small for a pole vaulter he has tremendous pulling power in his arms and shoulders.

Reynolds Wins Quad Singles Tournament

George F. Reynolds won the singles of the quadrangle tennis tournament when he defeated Slavin by a score of 6-4, 6-0, 6-4. Reynolds entered the finals of the tourney by defeating Dvorak in a bitter three set match and Slavin took the measure of Druker to win his way into the last contest.

Cub Hurlers Wild as Cards' Timely Hits Win Contest

CHICAGO, June 2 (AP)—Wildness of Chicago's pitchers coupled with some timely hitting by St. Louis gave the Cardinals the series three games to two, by winning the final game from the Cubs today 14 to 6.

Both Blake and Milstead were driven off the hill by the visitors while Keen was forced to retire after the first inning because of a broken finger suffered in knocking Dyer, was driven from the mound in the third inning, Haines pitching in fine form thereafter.

Braves, Robins Divide

BROOKLYN, June 2 (AP)—After knocking Jess Petty out of the box in the first game for a 12 to 5 victory over Brooklyn, the Braves won the ninth by 12 to 11 in twelve innings. It was the first time the Boston club triumphed over the Robins this season. The winning run in the second game resulted from a double by High, E. Taylor's sacrifice, and Smith's single which enabled High to score.

Cage Star Named to Lead Net Team for Next Season

Captain-elect Former State Prep Tennis Champion

Gordon "Hefty" Phillips, a junior in the college of commerce, and erstwhile wizard of the basketball court, was elected captain of the 1927 University of Iowa tennis team yesterday.

Phillips, an "IT" winner on Sam Barry's conference championship basketball team, played regularly on last year's net squad, but could not get into shape for competition this spring on account of an operation on his hand, until last week. He was one of the four Hawk netsters who competed in the singles at the Big Ten conference tourney at Chicago, and he annexed the only victory the Hawk netsters garnered against Wisconsin last Monday.

During his junior year in high school Hefty discovered latent ability with the racket, and soon developed into a star performer. In his first year of competition he battled his way into the semi-final round at the state meet at Ames, and the following year he defeated Mitchell, title holder of the previous year for the state high school singles team.

Graduation has taken its toll among the members of the net squad, and Captain Jimmy Lutz, Julius Swartz, Ted Svenson, and Bob Chaffee are lost to next year's team.

Red Sox, Macks Split

BOSTON, June 2 (AP)—The Red Sox and Athletics divided a double header today, Boston taking the first 5 to 4, and the visitors the second 5 to 1.

With none out in the eighth, four successive hits gave the Red Sox their only run. Then Grove relieved Quinn and struck out Bratche, Herrera and Hanev. Simmons hit his eighth homer of the season in the second contest.

Roose Wins Over Harter in Finals of Court Tourney

Victory Gives Roose 100 Points Toward "I" Sweater

Another addition to her long list of victories was made yesterday by Alice Roose, A3 of Iowa City, when she defeated Genevieve Harter, A3 of Iowa City, in the last round of the singles of the women's tennis tournament. Roose easily overcame her opponent with a 7-5, 6-1 victory.

In the final round of the doubles last week Roose, together with Gladys Brooker, A4 of Omaha, defeated Harter and Ruth Lechlitter, G of Lansing, Mich.

Last year the final match of the singles in the tournament was played off by the same combination, Roose and Harter. And as this year, Roose was victorious.

Besides her tennis victories, Roose has distinguished herself in several other lines of athletics. In the recent Iowan she carried off several honors in the canoeing and swimming events. She also won first over all in the girls track meet.

As winner of the singles she will receive a medal and 100 points toward her "I" sweater. Since her entrance into the University she has received one sweater by merit, having earned a total of 1000 points and will soon have gained 1000 more.

May Francis Says Public Schools in Danger of Attack

Self-Styled Educators Would Make Them Machines

By The Associated Press
DES MOINES, June 3 — An attempt is being made to take the control of Iowa schools out of the hands of citizens and voters and deliver it into the hands of a group of self-styled educators who desire to make a political machine out of it, Miss May Francis, republican candidate for reelection to the office of state superintendent of public instruction, declared today in a campaign statement.

"The very foundation of our public school system are attacked by them in their vicious efforts for political power," Miss Francis said. "Our schools are called the 'public' schools by the founders of our nation, who never intended that they should be betrayed into the hands of a self-styled educators' hierarchy."

Men behind this plan of taking the schools out of the hands of the public are raising a great "slush fund" to bring about their defeat, Miss Francis declared. Letters allotting quotas of sixty dollars per county in contributions, she said, have been sent out to teachers and school heads in all parts of the state, and this money, she asserts, is being collected by enemies of the present state school administration for use in the present campaign.

The sum asked to be raised, the statement concluded, is more than the amount permitted under the Iowa primary election law for the purpose named.

"The issue is clearly drawn. Shall the public have a voice in school affairs or shall a little clique of school organization politicians be placed entirely in charge of the public schools of Iowa?" asks Miss Francis.

have grown to be dependent upon each other. "Four of the greatest problems that confront men and women embarking upon the voyage into life may be said to be those of affording a proper parental home teaching and training for young children, elimination of all war, extension of prohibition, and support of the tenets of religion and the church."

Another problem touched upon by the speaker was the best means of utilizing time of leisure, which he predicted will come with increasing invention of labor saving machinery. He suggested that some of this time be devoted to work of Christian, progressive nature in promoting the welfare of the nation.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., June 3 (AP) — Baptist students from various southern, southeastern and southwestern educational institutions will come here October 23-31, to acquaint themselves more fully with the activities and ideals of the church and prepare for efficient work in local pastorates after they have been graduated.

The students will discuss religious leadership, home church relationship, preparation for life work, Christian amusement and conduct, personal influence, personal purity, student honor, recreation and leisure time, and materialism and religion. Students themselves will predominate in the discussions, while denominational leaders and inspirational speakers of national and international reputation will make addresses.

Speaker Praises Higher Education

Cedar Rapids Pastor Addresses Midland Graduates

By The Associated Press
PREMONT, Neb., June 3 — With a high school education, American youth has fifty-seven times the chance to perform distinguished service than youth with no such education; with a college education the ratio is 800 to 1 on performing distinguished service, the Reverend James O. Simon, pastor of First English Lutheran church, Cedar Rapids, declared in a commencement address at Midland college, here, today.

"When this intellectual training has been acquired in the atmosphere of a Christian college, a foundation of broad culture is laid that will enrich and deepen all life," Rev. Simon said.

Graduates of colleges are embarking upon a new world, because of changed conditions and changing times, the speaker said, adding: "There never was a time when people are thinking so independently as now. At the same time, people

American Colleges Called Excellent Matrimony Schools

Michigan Dean Thinks They Offer Women Great Training

ANN ARBOR, Mich., June 3 (AP) — American colleges offer an excellent opportunity for training young women for the responsibilities of matrimony, believes Miss Jean Hamilton, Dean of Women at the University of Michigan.

"The average girl goes to college knowing she probably will marry, and Miss Hamilton asks, in view of this, why they seek this additional and higher education unless it will benefit them as wives?"

"The reason," she said, "is that one of the great necessities of life is work. Even if a woman is so unfortunate as to have only play in her life, she has to make work of that play. The nature of woman's work has changed so in the last three generations that to be prepared for the majority of the interesting forms of work possible to a woman today, she must be trained in a new way."

"Work for women has gone outside the home—man took it out. It is a modern, man-made joke when a wife was said to 'sing about her work' for a skeptic to ask, 'What work?' Women know that there is much work still left at home, but it is only a fraction of what once was there."

"The number of self-supporting women in the United States has increased fourteen per cent in ten years. Decidedly, the preparation of his daughter to earn capably must be in the mind of every intelligent and just parent. This is the chief reason the number of women seeking higher education has so increased."

Miss Hamilton added, does not eliminate the "old cultural appeal." Formerly college women were represented only by those with "a burning curiosity for intellectuality." "There is this advantage," Miss Hamilton continued, "many girls who never were 'exposed' to cultural influences a generation ago and who never awakened to the joy of using their minds, are awakened today, although they may have come to the university for economic reasons."

MacMillan Hopes to Chart More of North Pole Area

Explorer Will Leave This Month for North Land

[By The Associated Press] CHICAGO, June 3 — The discoveries on Commander Donald B. MacMillan in his four years in the White North do not include the Pole but he has attained twenty-one objects which affect the maps of the world.

When the explorer leaves this month to lead another expedition into the polar regions, his ambition will be to make more of this uncharted area a matter of white man's record.

Found New Evidence
MacMillan's recent book shows he has disproved Crocker Land. He has found evidence of a new land far to the west of his last camp on the Polar Sea. Surveys of previous unexplored areas have brought much significant matter to light while the discovery of coal in Bay Fiord and his findings of records of the Kane and second Grinnell expedition, added credit to his work.

Compiles Dictionary
MacMillan has also done many things for inhabitants of that land, among which was his aid in compiling a dictionary of 3000 words of the Eskimo language.

The itinerary of the expedition, which sailed June 19 from Wiscasset, Maine, includes twenty stops on a voyage of about 5,600 miles. The Bowdoin, smallest ship ever taken into Arctic waters, will have a crew and personnel of but ten men, each of whom will take his turn at the wheel.

One of the chief purposes of the expedition is to survey the Norse ruins in Labrador, which are located on Turnitvik Island. The trip is financed by F. H. Rawson, Chicago banker, and made in the interests of the Field Museum of Natural History.

Tells of North
Commander MacMillan gives an inkling of the spirit which moves the explorer into the north land. "The weapons which assail the explorer are extreme temperatures, heavy snows, drift, bitter winds, treacherous thin ice, high pressure ridges; and often the result is starvation, diet, sickness, death," he says. "Through centuries man has struggled ever and on and out, over No-Mans Land, rushing the thin ice of leads, scaling towering ice caps, staggering along uncharted coasts and wearily planting his flag upon hitherto unknown truths, glorying in his struggle against the elements for the accumulation of knowledge."

Wood Stops Retiring of Able Bodied Men

[By The Associated Press] MANILA, P. I., June 3 (AP)—Hopes of several thousand government employes for retirement on pension at an early age were blasted by a ruling of Governor General Wood that none may retire unless unfit for further service.

General Wood said that by virtue of the discretion permitted him in the Retirement Act he would hold that Filipinos who are able, physically and otherwise, to continue at work will not be permitted to retire on pay although service and age requirements of the law's provisions may have been met.

Old Gridiron Injury Causes Man's Death

DES MOINES, June 3 (AP)—Injuries received in a football game three years ago caused the death Monday at Fort Madison, Ia., of Dwight L. Miller, former center on the Des Moines University team, it was learned here today.

Spencer Star, Medalist in Southpaw Golf Tournament
DES MOINES, June 3 (AP)—Dale Jones, of Spencer, won medalist honors here yesterday in the qualifying round of the first annual golf tournament for left handed Iowa players. His score was 45-33-78.

Phil Jarnagin, Drake university student from Storm Lake and Dr. A. E. Shaw, Des Moines each turned in a score of 45-35-80, to qualify. Joe Johnson, Des Moines, was fourth, while Phil Worth, Des Moines and G. W. Jones, Eldora, tied for fifth with 82.

G. W. Darling, George F. Thayer, F. A. Moscrip and R. O. Burr, of Marshalltown won the team championship. The porters play the first round tomorrow.

Directors Differ on True Value of Screen Prologue

Development Praised by Some; Condemned by Others

[By The Associated Press] HOLLYWOOD, June 3 — The screen prologue, whose developing strides in the last few years have carried it from a tabloid of ten minutes showing to an elaborate production rivalling widely heralded stage presentations, is praised by one group of picture directors but characterized by another as a curse to the silver sheet.

Sid Grauman, under whose direction the prologue rose to its greatest height in the Southwest, believes the picture preliminary will prove the agency which ultimately will span or lessen the gulf between stage and screen.

"I believe the playhouse of the future will divide its entertainment period half-and-half between foot-light and film production."

"I vision the highest salaried dramatic artist appearing in person in conjunction with the presentation of mighty screen productions," James Cruze is squarely behind Grauman.

"A good prologue," he said, "increases a picture's worth a hundred fold. It works up the spirit so that when the picture is shown the mind of the audience is in the atmosphere of the picture. A poor prologue, however, tends to disrupt the train of thought."

Marshal Nellan, producer-director, condemns the prologue. "They have come to be a curse of the motion picture theatre. One becomes so weary looking at them that he is not able to enjoy to the utmost the picture that follows."

Cecil B. DeMille philosophizes: "Making prologues for motion pictures is good showmanship, but making pictures for prologue is mighty poor production."

"The increasing use of the prologue has had the effect of encouraging producers to make pictures particularly suited for the preliminary tabloid. With such a picture a small town theatre owner with only an electric piano for additional attraction, finds himself in a predicament. To my mind a picture that cannot stand on its own merits without elaborate presentation is a poor picture."

Sidney Olcott does not consider the prologue beneficial to picture production unless it is light, short, and has no bearing whatever on the production itself.

"A prologue that gives an inkling of the cinematic drama which is to follow takes some of the spice from the surprise that should come with the unfolding of the screen story."

Rupert Julian believes the prologue is of great importance in providing a fitting background for a picture, while Herbert Brenon said they were hurtful to screen production.

"Good music is the picture's best support," Brenon asserted. "Prologues are so often not in sympathy with the picture itself, and are often the result of a theatre manager's effort to justify his position."

Iron Gates Bar Mrs. Wright in Her Attempt to Enter Husband's Home

[By The Associated Press] SPRING GREEN, Wis., June 3 — Iron gates and padlocks today prevented Mrs. Miriam Noel Wright from resuming her place as mistress of Talsen, country home of her estranged husband, Frank Lloyd Wright, internationally known architect.

Mrs. Wright made a futile attempt to enter the home late today during the absence of the architect. Accompanied by four newspaper reporters, the former sculptress and actress demanded admittance at the gates of the estate. The padlocked entrance prevented her from passing up the road to the mansion on the crest of the hill where she lived prior to her estrangement with Wright, three years ago.

Brought Sheriff
Mrs. Wright came to Talsen armed with a document containing a $500 peace bond and accompanied by a deputy sheriff carrying a warrant for the arrest of Mme. Olga Milanoff, Wright's former house keeper, who was named by Mrs. Wright in her cross bill to Wright's suit for divorce charging desertion.

The deputy sheriff entered the premises carrying the warrant for Mrs. Milanoff obtained by Mrs. Wright, in which misconduct with the architect was charged, and made a fruitless search of the house for the woman. He returned to the gates and told Mrs. Wright he could not find Mme. Milanoff.

"I want to get into my home," Mrs. Wright informed W. W. Weston, caretaker, who stood guard at the gate with two other men.

"Unlock that gate," she commanded. Weston refused and was greeted by a tirade of abuse by his former mistress. Mr. Wright's daughter by his first marriage then came to the locked gates.

"What are you doing here?" demanded Mrs. Wright. "And what are you doing here?" returned Wright's daughter. Further demands of Mrs. Wright for admittance brought the report that Mr. Wright, who was absent, had ordered her excluded. He is reported to be at work in Buffalo.

"I did have a gun but they took it away from me," Mrs. Wright said. "I wish I had it now."

Despairing of gaining entrance the woman picked up stones from the road and shattered the glass of two large signs on the gate. They read "Positively no admittance."

Breaks Down
"I'm going to get in here tonight," Mrs. Wright asserted as she was driven back to Spring Creek. Resting in the office of Dr. Frank Nee, the 54 year old woman broke down and sobbed. Asked what she intended doing, she replied resolutely: "I'm going to Talsen." Dr. Nee advised her to take legal steps if she desired to gain entrance to the Wright home.

"The courts, the courts," she replied. "Wait eternally for the courts and starve to death in the meantime. I have no money and no place to go but Talsen and they won't let me in." Today's chapter in the matrimonial difficulties of the Wrights followed the dismissal ten days ago of the suit Wright instituted charging his wife with desertion. He withdrew his suit when attempts to obtain her agreement either to obtain a divorce herself or permit him to without mention of Mme. Milanoff failed.

Wright Awaits Move
"Now it's her turn to move," Wright remarked when he withdrew his suit.

Mrs. Wright countered with the statement that she would return to the Wright home at Talsen.

Talsen was built by Wright when he returned from Japan with Mrs. Mamah Bortswick Cheney, of Oak Park, Ill., with whom he eloped in 1909. In 1914 when a crazed servant killed Mrs. Cheney and her two children and set fire to the bungalow, Wright rebuilt it, and occupied it with his house keeper, Miriam Noel, a Parisian divorcee.

Mrs. Wright divorced her husband three years later and Miriam Noel returned, remaining ten years. They were married in November, 1923. Three months later they became estranged.

Again tonight, Mrs. Wright made a trip from Spring Green to Talsen, this time going to the rear gate of the estate. Here again she was met by guards who refused to admit her.

Educators Experiment in Effort to Cut Down Percentage of "Flunkers"

Reducing elimination of students from the university by giving instruction in reading methods and other personnel guidance, has been the subject of a special experimental study carried on at the University of Iowa during the past year. The experiment has been conducted by Alban C. Lemon, dean of the liberal arts faculty of Internountain Union college, Helena, Montana, who has been here on leave of absence from his college doing special work in the college of education. The experiment has been conducted with the cooperation and interest of George F. Kay, dean of the college of liberal arts, under the direction of George D. Stoddard.

Reflects Movement
This experiment reflects the general movement to reduce elimination statistics in the universities and colleges of the country. Institutions of higher learning everywhere are greatly concerned over the high mortality rate of their student body. Approximately sixty-five per cent of all students are eliminated without finishing any definite course in the universities and colleges, according to Mr. Lemon. This represents a tremendous waste both to the university and to the individuals concerned.

Remedy Outlined
As a result of his study Mr. Lemon has devised a procedure which according to the results of his experiment, will materially reduce the amount of elimination and adjust the individual to successful college work without lowering the academic standard of the institution. He has outlined his plan under four main heads, guidance in the secondary school, adequate guidance during registration, the establishment of a student personnel bureau in the university, and the revision of the liberal arts curriculum.

According to Mr. Lemon this proposed procedure would reduce elimination at least twenty-five per cent. With a more refined technique he believes this could be made fifty per cent with very little additional expense to the university and with a great saving in the cost of "flunking" to individuals.

All in Iowa City—

Where is Archer avenue?
Bella Vista street?
Broadway?
Center?
Dearborn street?
Des Moines street?
McLean street?
Walnut Du Chien road?
Walnut street?

WE'LL guess with you—which leaves us both a bit in the dark when it comes to receiving or giving directions. If you can tell us offhand just where those streets are, we'll admit you know your stuff—we don't.

Mention of any street name but Clinton, North Dubuque, Iowa avenue, and a few others, usually brings wild stares and questions—and directions have to be given by some landmark—"It's so many blocks from here, and so many blocks that way, and then you're there."

How's a stranger going to receive advice or follow advice on finding anyone or any place in Iowa City? It will be a hard job until the city gets some better system of street names.

Why not institute a system of "number" streets for those which run north and south, and use names for the others? It would save us a lot of bother any many a poor, misguided student would know where he was headed.

Want a Wife?

"ATTRACTIVE young widow—aged 28, wt. 180, ht. 5 ft. 2 1/2. Brunette, fair complexion, having a very pleasing personality. High school education, plays piano. One-fourth Cherokee Indian. Has $20,000. Is willing to marry an honorable gentleman in moderate circumstances."

"339-H—Young and attractive lady, age 23, weight 130, ht. 5 ft. 3. Ruby lips and fair complexion, of the brunette type of beauty, very pleasant, sweet, and lovable. High school education. Plays mandolin, piano and violin beautifully. Has $5,000. Income $1,500 yearly. Owns real estate. Wishes to marry a gentleman of good character. Likes farm life."

Take your choice.
Amorous young swains in whose hearts the spring weather has stirred emotions which remain consistently unreciprocated, will be encouraged to learn that another avenue has been opened to a woman's affections, via the U. S. mail. A circular recently distributed announces the fact that a certain matrimonial agency in Kansas will solve conjugal difficulties for the very modest sum of five dollars.

The agency offers to bring the love-lorn together with a minimum of inconvenience generally incurred in wooing. Mental, moral and physical attributes are efficiently catalogued and financial potentialities carefully indexed. Whether the marriage is for "money, love, or position," satisfaction is guaranteed.

In view of the fact so many modern marriages are going on the w. k. rocks, this scheme is not without its admirable aspects. At least it gives the parties of the first and second part some leisure for deliberation upon each other's merits and upon the advisability of the project as a whole. Furthermore it places marriage upon a cold business basis, thus eliminating the pernicious influence of sentiment in matters of such serious nature.

More power to the Kansas bureau. The only other aid and advice upon matrimonial matters available at the present time seems to repose in the "advice to the love-lorn columns" in the daily papers. And there must be some antidote for that balderdash. Why not this? It is cheap. Satisfaction is assured. What more do you want?

Cats and Senators

ANOTHER instance of animal sagacity has been discovered in Lindsay, California. It seems that a cat by name "Mutt," is the only feline permitted about the city waterworks. Fearing no doubt, that other members of his race may be trying to usurp his high position as mascot of the plant, he takes drastic measures with all other cats who attempt to trespass on his realm.

The other morning the body of a big gray cat was found at the foot of the pole which carries high-tension wires into the plant. It is told that some time ago the jealous mascot learned that this particular power pole was a tree that spelled death to his enemies and that if he could chase them into the upper branches of wires carrying 11,000 volts of electricity they did not land on their feet when they fell.

To us this instance of the cat's sagacity shows more common sense than the recent example of the workings of the human mind as furnished by the United States Senate. In the midst of a debate as to whether President Coolidge's prohibition order constituted usurpation of power, the Senate did a little usurping itself, by up-setting dictionary definitions. At the same time it furnished an example of the trivialities to which a body of supposedly more or less learned men can stoop when the occasion offers itself.

Eagle Lake, which is partly in Warren county, Mississippi, and partly in Madison Parish, Louisiana, was declared by a resolution the august body of lawmakers adopted, "a non-navigable stream."

There was once a cat which looked at a king and there was once another cat, perhaps a great-great-grandfather of the former, which showed more common, horse sense than a whole chamber full of Senators. Which is really nothing new.

Nobody Cares, Until—

ASPIRANTS for office find campaigning such a quiet affair nowadays that they are complaining about the lack of interest among the voters. One candidate is said to have remarked that he might just as well have stayed at home and plowed corn as to spend his time meeting people in the interests of his candidacy. He added to his complaint by saying that nobody cares who is in office until after the election—then it's a different matter, for nine-tenths of the people find fault with the office-holder.

It seems that persons in this day and age are too busy with other matters to be bothered with issues and candidates. We believe President Coolidge sounded a warning worth heeding in a recent address when he said that the nation would most surely fall if citizens did not take the study of politics as it concerned prospective office-holders' qualifications.

Torchlight parades, fistfights, free whisky and cigars, and general excitement around election time were looked forward to not so many years ago, but it would take more than these inducements today to make persons forget their golf, automobiles, and business long enough to take an active interest in what is going on before an election.

This is a thing in which college people could do a great deal of good. The case, as stated, is all too common today and is one that should be remedied in the best interests of the city, county, state, and nation. College people are the present and coming voters of this country. If they would only realize what power for good or evil lies within their hands perhaps they would take an interest in the supposedly dry subject of politics.

Of course it would be too much to expect the older voters to do this. What was the saying about the old dog and new tricks?

A Punch in the Jaw

DOWN in Kansas City, Mo., there is a gas-line filling station attendant named Hugh McCandless. Not that his name makes any difference to this recital. He had been held up five times while on duty, and even to him the business grew a little tiring.

The other night two men made the sixth attempt. McCandless smote one on the jaw with his fist. The other lowered his revolver, plead for mercy, and backed out the doorway, making a getaway in his car.

Now perhaps there is a little moral to this tale and again perhaps there is not. We hesitate to advise anyone to take a poke at any modern highwayman while the latter is pointing a gun in his ribs, but again you never can tell. Maybe he'll shoot and maybe he won't.

And again we would hesitate to advise anyone to go unarmed, downstairs to investigate a suspicious noise heard about two or three o'clock in the morning. But once again . . .

Perhaps if some of the brothers at one of the several fraternity houses which were the victim of pilferers, had gone downstairs to see who was falling over the chairs, or stepping on the cat's tail, or doing whatever it was that caused the noise that several reported hearing, instead of merely blaming it on one of the other brothers, returning from a long session—with the books of course—he might have nabbed the pair who caused all the trouble and losses, and incidentally have had his name printed on the front page of The Daily Iowan. But again . . .

MORE ABOUT NO. 13

From THE MILWAUKEE JOURNAL

HOW can we account for the absurd superstition that 13 is an unlucky number? We do not know who is responsible for this belief, yet many a hotel omits 13 in numbering its floors. A big apartment house in Detroit has no room numbered 13. Seat No. 13 is hard to sell in the Pullman company's chair cars. Who among us has not somewhere in his list of friends a man, or often a woman, who declines to sit at a table with just 12 other persons? Now let us tell you why no American should be superstitious about the number 13.

"Thirteen" is written all over our country. First, there were 13 colonies; then the first flag had 13 stars and 13 stripes. "Revolutionary," which tells us of the greatest war, has 13 letters in it; so has "E Pluribus Unum" and "American Eagle," our motto and our emblem. Now take the quarter of a dollar; there are 13 stars over the head of Liberty, 13 leaves in the olive branch held by the eagle, 13 thunderbolts in his talons, 13 bars on the shield, 13 feathers in each wing and 13 letters spell quarter dollar. Perry's great naval battle was fought in 1813 and resulted in the writing of the "Star-Spangled Banner." John Paul Jones has 13 letters in his name and was 13 when he came to America. He carried the first flag of 13 stars to victory. The first fleet ordered by the American government consisted of 13 vessels.—Booknwrap.

Maria—"John, John, get up, the gas is leaking."
John—"Aw, put a pan under it and come to bed."
—Green Gander.

She: "But neckin' is against my principle."
He: "Ditch the principle and show a little interest."
—Caveman.

"My policy is to keep men at arm's length."
Don't be silly dear. Look what happened to Venus de Milo."
—Juggler.

CONTEMPORARY OPINION

Hubert Work, Secretary of the Interior, reports the discovery of a Coolidge-Democratic party in the West. This "party," A COOLIDGE-DR. WORK explains, DEMOCRATIC is made up of Democrats who subscribe to the policies of the present incumbent of the White House.

If Dr. Work is trying to convey the information that President Coolidge is considerably stronger in the Western part of the country than is the party of which he is titular head, he is not telling anything new or startling. The election of two years ago proved that this condition existed pretty generally throughout the Nation, South, North, East and West. And the indications are that the President has been getting stronger and stronger with the country since that time as his policies and methods have developed. On the other hand, there is very good reason to suppose that the Republican party as represented by its strength and prestige in Congress has been slipping, partly because of a lack of decent support for the White House from members of the Senate and House who were elected to office with the idea that they would stand by the Administration and help it, instead of giving it a covert stab in the back whenever there seemed to be a convenient opportunity to do so.

Whether there is a conscious crystallization of Democratic sentiment in the West or elsewhere which has for its definite object, support of President Coolidge and the selection of members of Congress, regardless of party, who will back up his policies and help him give the Nation what it desires and needs, is a rather different question. Dr. Work seems to hint that there is, and if so, and he is correct, he is offering the Nation at large some distinctly new and important information, which, incidentally, ought to be a tip to certain professional Democratic administration baiters, such as Pat Harrison, to pull in their horns a little.

Nothing is likely to come immediately of Secretary Mellon's suggestion of a law to prevent the sale of fraudulent securities, but unless the NECESSARY blue-sky laws of some of the States are soon strengthened action by Congress will become necessary.

The Democrats have paid $50 for a definition as to what a Democrat really is, but what will it cost 'em to pick out something that really is an issue? Clem Shaughnessy, the minority party, and Congressman Oldfield, the apparent actual leader of the Bourbons, are in disagreement as to the questions on which they will go to the people next time. And that is not surprising when we consider that the gentlemen were not certain what a Democrat really was until they had paid a $50 price for a complete answer. Now, a man who can successfully and accurately define a Democrat deserves much more than $50. It calls for plenty of gray matter to work out a truly standard definition, in view of the fact that Democrats in the North are wet and those in the South are dry traders, while Democrats in the South are protectionists, and Democrats in the North believe in Al Smith as part of their national platform, while those below the Mason-Dixon line in general adhere to McAdoo and his policies.—The Fir Wayne News-Sentinel.

When the show is bad, the commentators criticize. When it is good, they are apt to say nothing about it. They are saying in Washington that "HIS ADMINISTRATION President Coolidge's mail is lighter than that of any President since McKinley. Comparatively few people write to him. Maybe the same principal works in politics that is found in theatricals. It is generally conceded that the Coolidge administration has satisfied the great majority of the American people. Even the Democrats have found little occasion to criticize. The professional politicians in order to make a showing, of course, have found fault, but the people have taken the jobs at the President for what they were worth. When affairs do not run smoothly in the State or Nation, the executives hear from the people. When things go along well, the people do not take time to write to governors. Most letters that come to governors and presidents are letters of protest. Mr. Coolidge may safely assume that his administration is still pleasing.—The Houston Post-Dispatch.

The fact that the athletic activities of schools and colleges are cast by the most successful feature has not escaped the keen observation of Dr. Henry S. Pritchett, president of the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching. There is almost a plaintive note in his reference to what we still believe to be the major operation, meaning the work of the regular curriculum. Instead of blaming athletics, however, except for the usual complaint of commercialism, Dr. Pritchett acknowledges that sports are "perhaps the most genuinely educative features that our schools at present possess; they are honest, competitive and thoroughly objective." "Thirteen" is written all over our country. First, there were 13 colonies; then the first flag had 13 stars and 13 stripes. "Revolutionary," which tells us of the greatest war, has 13 letters in it; so has "E Pluribus Unum" and "American Eagle," our motto and our emblem. Now take the quarter of a dollar; there are 13 stars over the head of Liberty, 13 leaves in the olive branch held by the eagle, 13 thunderbolts in his talons, 13 bars on the shield, 13 feathers in each wing and 13 letters spell quarter dollar. Perry's great naval battle was fought in 1813 and resulted in the writing of the "Star-Spangled Banner." John Paul Jones has 13 letters in his name and was 13 when he came to America. He carried the first flag of 13 stars to victory. The first fleet ordered by the American government consisted of 13 vessels.—Booknwrap.

Obviously, there is some competition of that sort. The quote of Phi Beta Kappa is filled annually and boys graduated "summa cum laude." But their classmates have not struggled very desperately to make touchdowns in physics, belles lettres or sociology. They have no special incentive, in Dr. Pritchett's view, so long as they are kept on the intellectual squad, though worse than mediocre. The colleges can doubtless, if they choose, make requirements so exacting that only the grinds can survive. Possibly the grinds do correspond in their field to the "letter men," only their obscurity and their attainment do not appeal strongly to the average undergraduate.

It needs no uncommon insight to perceive that sport succeeds because it is sport, whereas study to the normal boy is a chore. It is true that coaches and trainers have made college athletics the hardest kind of work, but the game is there. If Dr. Pritchett or any other educator can inject the sporting element into lectures, recitations and examinations he should be made the captain of the all-American educational eleven.—The New York Herald-Tribune.

Senate Approves $85,000,000 Naval Air Building Program

House Refuses to Drop Illinois River Project From Bill

Naval Building Issue to Extend Over Next Five Years

[By The Associated Press]
 WASHINGTON, June 3.—Sixteen minutes after it was taken up today the house bill, which would authorize a five year building program for the naval air service, was passed by the senate. It was approved with some amendments, which means it must go to conference for adjustment of differences in the house and senate.

The measure, which provides for an estimated outlay of $85,000,000, during the next five years, was passed without a record vote. The entire sixteen minutes was taken up by a clerk in reading the bill.

Back Illinois Project
 Provision is made for the construction of 1,947 planes as well as two rigid airships, each three times the size of the wrecked Shenandoah.

WASHINGTON, June 3 (AP)—By a vote of 133 to 83, the house tonight defeated a move to eliminate the Illinois river project from the $36,000,000 omnibus rivers and harbors bill.

This action came after nearly three hours of debate, during which opponents contended the rivers and harbors committee had exceeded its authority in incorporating the project in the measure.

Approve Missouri Canal
 Representative Leshach, republican, New Jersey, presiding, sustained the contention of the opponents of the project, but the house overrode his decision.

The same vote defeated also a move to eliminate on preliminary maneuvering two other projects, one to extend the intra-coastal canal development along the Gulf of Mexico to Corpus Christi, Texas and one to connect Cravens Bay with Jamaica Bay, New York.

Agricultural Officials Combat Corn Borer

CHICAGO, June 3 (AP)—Canadian and United States agricultural officials met here to increase quarantine forces and intensify control measures to check the destructive work of the European corn borer, described by Dean C. F. Curtiss of Iowa State College, as "the most serious menace that has ever threatened the prosperity of American agriculture." The borer caused estimated damage of $3,000,000 to the corn crop of Ontario and the north-east United States last year.

Experts from Illinois, Iowa, Wisconsin, Missouri, Nebraska, Indiana, Michigan, and Ohio, will work on the western border of the infected area which extends through northern Ohio and eastern Michigan.

Yankees Advance in International Court Tournament

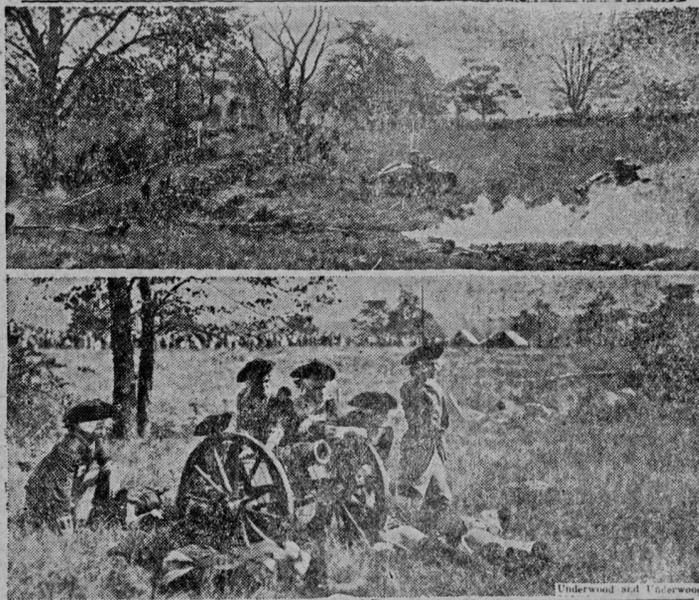

[By The Associated Press]
 PARIS, June 3.—Invading tennis players of America made further advances in the international hard court championships today after rain again had compelled postponement of many matches. Outstanding victories of the day were scored in the women's singles by Mrs. Marion Z. Jessup and Elizabeth Ryan, while Vincent Richards and Howard P. Kinsey won an easy triumph in the men's doubles.

Mrs. Jessup romped through her first round test against Mme. J. Benzelen of France 6-3, 6-2, but Miss Ryan was hard pressed to eliminate Mme. Danet of France 5-7, 6-2, 6-3. The day's play also marked America's defeat of the tournament, Isabella Mimmoff of Boston falling a victim to the flashing racquet of Mlle. Deve, one of France's fastest young players 6-3, 6-4.

Helen Wills and Suzanne Lenglen were sideline spectators as Miss Ryan began her match against Mme. Danet.

Fashion can usually be depended upon to make the next style worse.

Minutemen Fight Again With New Equipment

Five hundred regular army troops and members of citizens military training camps, some attired as minutemen, others as hated British red coats, reproduced battle of White Plains, important revolutionary war engagement, for the entertainment of crowds gathered about the historic battlefield. Only the moves were reproduced, however, for the equipment was modern, including planes, tanks, bayonets and gas.

60 Holsteins Sell at Des Moines for Sum of $30,000

DES MOINES, June 3 (AP)—Sixty prize holsteins sold today for a total of $30,000 at the seventh annual cooperative sale of the Holstein-Friesian association in convention here. The first four animals averaged more than $1,000 each.

Miss Mutual Rose De Kol, owned by Hargrove Arnold of Norwalk, commanded the highest price, going to F. E. Murphy, Minneapolis, for $3,500. A bull, Get-Dutchland Creamline Colantha, Ltd. of the Grahamholm farms, Rochester, Minn., son of a world champion, brought $2,225 from the Woodlawn Dairy, Lincoln, Neb.

More than 1,000 persons attended the sale from Michigan, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Iowa, Kansas, Nebraska, and California. The sale marked the close of the convention.

Senate Committee Shelves Plea for Dry Referendum

[By The Associated Press]
 WASHINGTON, June 3.—Short work was made today by the senate prohibition committee of the proposals for a national referendum of the wet and dry issue and for modification of the 18th amendment, and the Volstead act.

Three of the five members of the committee, which recently held lengthy public hearings on the measure, adopted a report by its chairman, Senator Means of Colorado, recommending that the bills be indefinitely postponed. This action still must be approved by the judiciary committee.

Senators Means, Goff, West Virginia, and Harrell, Oklahoma, republicans, signed the report, which also has the approval of Senator Walsh, democrat, Montana. Senator Reed, democrat, the other member and the one wet on the committee, said he would file a minority report later.

Bond Market Shows Shifting Buying

NEW YORK, June 3 (AP)—Buying interest in today's bond market shifted from one group to another, with the most effective results in the foreign and Van Sweringen group. The return of easier money conditions and a number of favorable news developments contributed to the firm undertone.

French obligations moved higher in reflection of the house ratification of the French debt funding agreement and predictions that it would be approved in France. At the same time the question of new French financing was clarified by cable dispatches from Paris announcing that a large consolidation loan would be sought late in the year. Strong buying support again was evident for German bonds, carrying a number of them to new high prices for the year before realizing sales were encountered. Serbian 8's, Swedish 6's and Graz 8's displayed important strength.

During the foreign list in trading interest was buying movement in bonds of the so-called Van Sweringen railroad which accompanied reports that a revised Nickel Plate merger plan would soon be submitted to the interstate commerce commission.

Senatorial Contest Most Important in Monday Primaries

Farm Relief, Record in Senate Main Points of Controversy

[By The Associated Press]
 DES MOINES, June 3.—Approval or disapproval by the voters of the senate action unseating Col. Smith W. Brookhart, the farm relief question and the senatorial record of Senator A. B. Cummins are the chief issues being debated in the Iowa primary campaign. Little interest centers in any other contest except that for the republican senatorial nomination. The primary will be held June 7.

Col. Brookhart has been touring the state telling the voters the senate overrode the Iowa election laws in ousting him, criticizing the attitude of Senator A. B. Cummins, especially on railroad legislation, and renewing his advocacy of farm relief measures and his denunciation of the "deflation" of agriculture.

Senator Cummins has been conducting his campaign through an organization here, while he remained in Washington as one of the leaders in the fight for farm relief measures. His supporters are basing their campaign largely upon the senator's long record and drawing the voter's attention to the break between Brookhart and the regular party leaders.

Howard Clark, a Des Moines lawyer and Dan B. Reardon of Council Bluffs, also are republican senatorial candidates.

The democratic senatorial contest centers upon J. Ray Files of Fort Dodge, Claude R. Porter of Des Moines, and James C. Murtagh of Waterloo, all lawyers.

Only five of the eleven republican congressmen have opposition in the primary.

Governor Hammill, republican, is unopposed. A new legislature also will be elected.

William and Mary Honors J. W. Davis at Commencement

LEXINGTON, Va., June 3 (AP)—President Coolidge was honored with the degree of L. L. D. by William and Mary college on May 15, and now another Virginia university plans to honor his democratic opponent for the presidency.

On June 7, during 176th annual commencement week, Washington and Lee university will initiate John W. Davis into Phi Delta Phi, honorary legal fraternity.

Mr. Davis was graduated from Washington and Lee in 1892, receiving the degree of bachelor of arts, and three years later the bachelor of laws degree. He also holds degrees from several other universities.

RUMFORD BAKING POWDER

Where two steam locomotives formerly pulled and strained to pull a 360-ton freight train up the steep slope of Maltrata incline, two electric locomotives haul a 560-ton train with power to spare.

Electricity levels the Mountains

In Mexico, romantic land of pretty señoritas and languorous minstrels, practical American engineers have harnessed streams so that mountains may be leveled.

The winding thirty-mile Maltrata incline on the road from Vera Cruz to Mexico City is now electrified. Ten electric locomotives replace twenty-three steam engines. The electric haul twice the tonnage of the steam locomotives—and in half the time, with obvious benefits to traveler, railroader, and shipper.

Yet Maltrata is but an example of electrical progress. For electricity is conquering the grades of railroads and of industry alike, the world over.

Impressive, no doubt, but still modest when compared with the possibilities of electricity in years to come. And it remains for college-trained men, with trained capacity for initiative and leadership, to become ambassadors for further electrical conquests in foreign lands.

The General Electric Company requires but eighteen months to electrify Maltrata incline—locomotives, power plant, transmission equipment complete. Engineering skill, backed by vast manufacturing facilities, has enabled G-E to serve humanity in many ways.

A series of G-E advertisements showing what electricity is doing in many fields will be sent on request. Ask for booklet GEK-1.

Arizona Polo Team Takes Eastern Tour

TUCSON, Ariz., June 3 (AP)—Developed from a "sand lot" organization to a contender for the national intercollegiate polo championship in three years, the University of Arizona "Wildcat" polo team is on a tour of the East. The first series of games will be with the Pennsylvania Military Institute at Chester, Pa., June 5, 9 and 12. The team was organized in 1922-23 and played with equipment gathered from the odds and ends of the cavalry unit of the university. This year the Wildcats have so far advanced they are once more ready to bid for the national title, if the games are arranged during their trip east. On this trip the handicaps of mounds will not be felt for the players are traveling without horses, intending to split the use of ponies with teams they meet.

Defense Ends Case With Brennan Story

Brennan Takes Stand to Refute Allegations; Expect Case to Go to Jury Today

With the testimony of defense witnesses taking up the entire day in district court yesterday the trial of George Brennan, charged with assault with intent to commit murder, was brought practically to an end. The attorneys' arguments and the judge's instructions to the jury are all that remain to wind up the case and it is expected that it will go to the jury late this morning or early in the afternoon.

Brennan Testifies

Brennan was the trump card of the defense witnesses yesterday. He took the stand in his own defense shortly after the morning session of court started and not only denied the charges made the day before by Miss Alice Reed, the complaining witness, but caused somewhat of a sensation in the courtroom when he testified that the Reed family owed him several hundred dollars. At this declaration the pretty school teacher, who sat back in the room with her mother, emitted noticeable gasps of surprise.

Brennan declared that on December 24 last Miss Reed asked him for $100 with which to purchase a coat and hat and that she had never said anything about returning it. Contrasting her testimony that she had refused money and gifts which he had offered her he declared that she had never made any effort to do so. He also asserted that he had never waited for her in his car until three o'clock in the morning, as she had charged, except once when she was with him.

Identifies Automatic

He denied completely any threats made against her and contradicted her testimony that he once chased her and her sister up a stairway in a downtown building. He met her on the street that day, he admitted but declared that he had not entered the stairway and did not have a pistol on his person at the time, as she charged he threatened her with.

When shown state's exhibit A, a small automatic, he asserted he purchased it last September as a precaution against robbery. He declared that he had purchased a box of cartridges for it but said that he had never even loaded the pistol and did not know how to do so. He said that after having bought the weapon he did not see it again until he had taken it to a friend at his pool room. This was on the day that he is alleged to have assaulted Miss Reed.

Tom Reed, brother of Alice Reed, who had worked for Brennan in his pool room at the time of the alleged assault, took the stand as a state witness and described the day's events at the pool room.

Award Diplomas to 131 Students

Judge J. B. Weaver of Des Moines Speaks

The first landing in the educational stairway was reached last night by 131 high school students when they received their diplomas at the annual commencement exercises of the Iowa City high school, held at the natural science auditorium.

Mothers, fathers, other relatives and friends filled the auditorium and heard the address given by Judge J. B. Weaver, of Des Moines. Judge Weaver has spoken in Iowa City several times, and was one of the speakers at the dedicatory luncheon of the Iowa Memorial union early this year.

The high school orchestra played preceding the invocation given by the Rev. LeRoy Munyon, pastor of the Christian church.

Elizabeth Baxter, salutatorian, and Robert Koser, valedictorian of the class of 1926, gave short orations. The class was presented for the awarding of diplomas by W. E. Beck, principal of the high school, to Samuel D. Whiting, president of the board of education. Mr. Whiting also presided at the exercises.

Two violinello solos, Cantilena, by George Goltermann, and Gavotte, by S. Lee, were played by Walter F. Potter. The boy's glee club sang Shadow March, by Protheroe, as their first number and Sonny O'Mine, by Moore, as their second.

The schools of the city will close this afternoon when final grades will be given out.

Car Strikes Miss Barer; Uninjured

Adelaide Barer, 106 South Dodge St., escaped serious injuries last night when she was knocked down and run over by a Ford touring car, driven by Clarence Barts, of Iowa City, at the corner of Dubuque and College streets.

Barts, accompanied by Hardin Alderman, owner of the car, was slowly driving down Dubuque street and as they turned the corner the car struck Miss Barer. She fell to the brick pavement and the four wheels passed over her body before the driver brought the car to a stop. She arose unassisted and walked to a nearby drug store.

Miss Barer sustained only a few scratches about the face. Her coat was torn.

Cedar Rapids C. of C. Sponsors Trip to Nation's Capitol

In order that the citizens of Iowa may have an opportunity to visit Washington, D. C., under the most favorable circumstances, the Cedar Rapids chamber of commerce is conducting a "Hawkeye Vacation Tour" to the nation's capital. The trip will cover a period of six days leaving Cedar Rapids Monday, June 14 at 9 a. m. and returning Saturday evening, June 19.

Tour Includes Mt. Vernon

The first stop after Chicago will be at Harper's Ferry, West Virginia, probably the best known historical town in the United States. The party will arrive in Washington Tuesday evening, June 15, and from then until Friday afternoon they will follow a well arranged itinerary which will enable them to visit all the interesting parts of the capital of the United States. In addition to a tour of all government buildings including the White House, there will be side trips to Alexandria, Virginia, visiting Christ's church where Washington worshipped, the Lodge room where he officiated, the Carlyle House, thence to Mount Vernon, the home and tomb of Washington. The return trip from Mount Vernon will be by steamer up the picturesque Potomac river to Washington, D. C.

Professional Men to Go

Large numbers of Iowans have already registered for the tour and the party will be made up mainly of business and professional men and teachers. Arrangements have been made for prominent citizens, both men and women, to accompany the tour and to chaperon the party.

The cost of the entire tour is $81.29, which includes round trip rail fare and pullman, meals while enroute and in Washington, hotel accommodations and all fees for guides and side trips while in Washington. The only possible expense to the individual will be such as may be incurred for amusements and other incidental expenses. Additional information may be obtained from N. J. Leonard, membership secretary, Cedar Rapids chamber of commerce at Cedar Rapids.

"Home, Sweet Home" is touching but there should be one verse about the garage.

Decrease in Wheat Estimates Causes Raise in Prices

CHICAGO, June 3 (AP)—Sharp curtailment of estimates of wheat yield in the southwest had much to do with a material advance in wheat values today. Closing quotations on wheat were strong, 1¢ 7-8 net higher. Corn finished 1¢ 1-4 up, oats at 3-4¢ 3-4, 7-8¢ gain, showing a rise of 10¢ 3-4.

Fear Rains Would Hurt

One leading authority cut down his previous forecast of the Kansas wheat harvest this season as much as 33,000,000 bushels. Throughout the day, speculative buying of wheat here was on a broader scale than of late. Fears were expressed that torrential rains in Oklahoma had done damage, advices stating storms mounted to a cloudburst in places. Talk of a wet harvest was current. Adverse foreign crop conditions, together with unexpected strength in wheat quotations at Liverpool, tended further to lift the wheat market here.

European Demand

Decided enlargement of European demand for wheat was in evidence. Winnipeg messages reported the best trans-Atlantic demand in months. Meanwhile, a liberal quantity taken in on May contracts here was disposed of to mills, and the cash wheat trading basis was 1-2¢ 2c higher with offerings limited. Simultaneously, cash wheat premiums in Kansas City rose 3c. One of the day's developments was the fact that Government reports on domestic wheat production as far back as sixty years have not shown a June condition as low as the average of the latest unofficial data here for 1925.

Previous Selling Helps

Corn owed its advance to buying in a big way on the part of previous speculative sellers. Unseasonably low temperatures were reported as delaying corn growth which has been further hampered by a light start. Oats sympathized with corn. The close in the corn market was at the best figures of the day. Offerings were relatively light. The cash corn trading basis was about unchanged, closing 1-2¢ higher to 1c lower. Shipper demand here was better with sales of 107,000 bushels. A trade authority pointed out that corn has a feeding value of almost double the price at which it is selling, and that all the advantages of possible crop damage is in the buyer's favor.

Provisions reflected an upward trend in hog values.
