Primary Candidates Rest Political Oars

Farm Relief, Unseating of Brookhart Prove Big Issues; Cummins in Washington; Samuelson, Francis Fight Hot

[By The Associated Press] DES MOINES, June 5 — Candidates in the Iowa primary had rested their political oars tonight, and Monday the voters will express their views upon numerous national issues involved in the republican senatorial battle and at least one important state issue.

In the senatorial contest, Senator Albert B. Cummins, Colonel Smith W. Brookhart and Howard Clark have made exhaustive campaigns, either personally or through state wide organization reaching the issues of farm relief, farm credits, the tariff, transportation costs and the world court.

Farm Issue Important
Good roads is the most important subject involved in the state contest.

Several candidates attempted to divert the voters in the prohibition question, but with little apparent success.

Colonel Brookhart's fight for re-instatement in the senate, from which he was ousted two months ago in favor of Iowa's new democratic senator, Daniel F. Steck, has enlivened the campaign throughout. He has told the voters that unless he is nominated, congress by previous agreement in Washington, would drop all farm relief legislation now pending. Disputing this, however, Senator Cummins, who is fighting to retain a seat he has held for more than eighteen years, contends that congress will be held in session until some satisfactory settlement is reached, regardless of Dolly's vote.

Cummins in Washington
Supporting this contention, Cummins headquarters today pointed to a conference in Washington during the afternoon, in which Senator Cummins and other senate leaders interested in the agricultural situation, reached some tentative agreements on provisions of a bill before the senate.

Senator Cummins has refused to leave his duties in Washington to campaign in the state, contenting himself with one speech, last night, by long distance telephone and radio from the capitol. In that he pledged his continued effort on behalf of the farmers, and the speech was hailed by his supporters here as sufficient assurance for the overwhelming farm vote of the state.

George W. Clarke, Cummins campaign manager, tonight estimated that the senator would be re-nominated by about 50,000 votes. Frank J. Lund, claims the unseated senator will be nominated by "a good majority." From some sections of the state, he said, his preliminary reports "indicate a Brookhart landslide."

Clark Makes Wide Appeal
The colonel has made the farm problem and his unseating his chief talking points, declaring that the senate disregarded the Iowa election laws in ousting him. His supporters say this has aroused widespread sympathy among the farmers, who, dissatisfied with the delay in Washington on farm legislation, are in a temper to again support Brookhart.

Mr. Clark, a Des Moines lawyer, has made a wide appeal as a candidate who could erase much of the international dissension of the republican party which has continued since Brookhart ran against Cummins in 1920, and which reached its most intense stage in 1924, when the state central committee "Read Brookhart out of the Party" for his denunciation of President Coolidge.

Other republican candidates are Dan B. Richardson of Council Bluffs and L. E. Ekeberg of Waterloo. Richardson has declared himself a "Coolidge candidate" and also advocated modification of the Volstead Act.

On the democratic ticket, Claude Porter, former Assistant United States Attorney General, J. C. Murtagh, of Waterloo, J. Ray Files of Fort Dodge and George Finch of Sioux City, seek the senatorial nomination.

Governorship Not Involved
Murtagh has revived the issue with Porter of control of party organization in the state, a revival of the feud that bobbed up in the New York National Convention and was fought out there on the question of the unit rule. Both have headed their party ticket in past campaigns. Murtagh also is an advocate of dry law modification as is Finch. Files, a former candidate for governor, has not entered into the factional fight, campaigning on a farm relief platform.

The governorship is not involved in the primary, no candidate having appeared to oppose Governor John Hamill, and the democrats selecting a single candidate in state caucus.

Half a dozen counties are voting on hard road bonding issues and two of the candidates for Lieutenant Governor have touched lightly upon the policy of bonding the state for a complete road system. These are William C. Edson of Storm Lake, and John Price, of Albia. The former is regarded as friendly to the state bond program, although he has not definitely committed himself, while Price is an outspoken opponent of that plan, supporting a lay as you go program.

The Alpha Delta Pis are now building on a lot two blocks north of their former location, and expect to enter their new house by September.

Would Deny Women's Entrance to Script

EISENACH, Thuringia, June 5 (AP)—At a heated discussion on the present status of women curates before the Thuringia synod, some of the theologians insisted that it would be wrong to trust women with the Holy Script and sacraments.

One delegate declared that the church had never called women to officiate in the interest of religion and that it would be reprehensible to permit the "modern" imprint on the church by the introduction of such customs.

Farm Conference Gives New Life to Relief Measures

[By The Associated Press] WASHINGTON, June 5 — Forces supporting agricultural relief measures took a new lease on life today when it was announced that Vice-President Dawes had taken economic direction of farm legislation.

The announcement was made by Senator Watson, republican, Indiana, after he had attended a conference of farm leaders in and out of congress and at which the vice-president was present. The house of representatives was to agree upon a farm measure which it was believed the president would assign.

They favored reducing the revolving fund from $250,000,000 to $175,000,000, and the $75,000,000 would be used for the disposal of surplus cotton.

Five Commodities Aided
Another amendment agreed upon would authorize the immediate operation of the equalization fee provision on all of the five basic farm commodities, wheat, cattle, swine, cotton and corn.

But the actual operation of the fee would be left in the hands of the producers of any of the commodities, who would determine by a referendum when they wished it to become effective.

The bill in its original form provides that the embargo and the tariff provisions contained in the Haugen bill, which was defeated by the house and which is similar to the McNary measure.

Among those attending the conference was George N. Penk, Moline, Ill., who was active in support of the Haugen bill, and Chester Davis, representing the American farm bureau federation, others present, all republicans, were Senator McNary, Oregon, in charge of the bill on the floor; Cummins, Iowa, A. S. Gooding, Idaho and Representative Purnell, Indiana, who was chairman of the agricultural group committee.

Announce Federal Building Program

To Spend $19,000,000 Appropriated by New Law

[By The Associated Press] WASHINGTON, June 5 — A $19,000,000 federal building program for this year with provisions for fifty-seven cities was announced today by Secretary Mellon as the first step under the $165,000,000 public building law recently enacted.

First attention was given to cities in which congress authorized new structures in the last public building bill, passed in 1913 but which, due to the increased construction costs were not completed for lack of funds.

In addition the first year's program calls for appropriations for the purchase of sites or buildings at Chicago and Pittsburgh at costs of $3,375,000 and $2,050,000 respectively. It also would be procured for buildings in Des Moines and Mount Caire, N. J., and in thirteen cities in which structures were authorized in 1913.

The program will be forwarded to congress immediately for the necessary appropriation so work may be started soon after July 1.

The program will be forwarded to the west only, the purchases of two Illinois post offices, and an appropriation of $65,000 for a court house site in Des Moines.

Iowan Buys Up Last of old '1733' Ranch

KEARNEY, Neb., June 5 (AP)—One thousand eighty acres of land representing the last of the famous Watson ranch land known in recent years as the "1733" ranch was sold for $46,320 at a public auction today.

C. C. Cadwell of Dunlap, Iowa, acquired the main property with its world's famous barn and other buildings for $23,800. The average sale price was $45.50 an acre, which is a fair price as much of the land is used for grazing only.

The sale broke up the once famous ranch property which was developed nearly half a century ago by the late H. D. Watson.

Insurgent Senate Leaders Request Brookhart Victory

Cummins Campaigners Unperturbed by Message

[By The Associated Press] WASHINGTON, June 5 — An appeal to the voters of Iowa to nominate Smith W. Brookhart to the senate in the primary in that state Monday was issued today by five republican senators and the one farmer-labor member, Shipstead of Minnesota.

The five republicans, most of whom have been identified as insurgents, are Norris and Howell of Nebraska, Frazier and Nye of North Dakota and La Follette of Wisconsin.

Without mentioning Senator Cummins or other candidates in the primary, the appeal said the result of the contest would have an enormous influence upon the determination of "certain great public functions now hanging in the balance at Washington."

An Opportunity
Charging that the unseating of Brookhart was in defiance of the will of the electorate of Iowa, the appeal asserted that the people of that state, had an "opportunity at one blow to assert their right to name their own representatives in the senate and to have those representatives seated, free to serve their people without censorship from any other quarter."

The text of the appeal follows: "The eyes of the nation are upon the primary election to be held in Iowa on Monday, June 7.

"The undersigned desire to call the attention of the people of Iowa to the results within the state, of which the people are the best judge, the result of the primary Monday will have an enormous influence upon the determination of certain great public questions now hanging in the balance at Washington.

Unseating a Violation
"Above all, the primary will be regarded as a test of the assumed right of the United States senate to override the statutes of a sovereign state and to expel from the senate a member duly elected under the laws of his state by a majority of the ballots legally cast in an election.

"The unseating of Senator Smith W. Brookhart was in deliberate violation of the laws of Iowa and in defiance of the will of the electorate as it was solemnly expressed at the polls.

"This unprecedented action raises an issue greater than any man or any political organization, Iowa will decide Monday whether or not that action is to receive the stamp of public approval and to stand as a precedent for the future.

"Senator Brookhart was a brave, able, and faithful member of the senate. In the courageous discharge of his duty here, in the service of his state, he incurred the lasting enmity of certain powerful interests.

"The people of Iowa should also know that the action they are to take Monday will be accepted at Washington as an expression of the attitude of the people of the great central west toward the question of farm legislation. The nomination of Senator Brookhart will convince the country that the farmers can no longer be deceived by mere gestures from Washington and that their just rights and interests cannot safely be trifled with."

Clark Unperturbed
DES MOINES, June 5 (AP)—George W. Clarke, campaign manager for Senator Albert B. Cummins, tonight issued a statement declaring Iowa preferred "to clean her own house" when informed that group of senators in Washington had made public a statement criticizing the senate for the unseating of Colonel Smith W. Brookhart, Cummins opponent in the primary for the republican senatorial nomination.

"Iowa republicans are not apt to be moved to tears nor, in fact, much stirred over the interference of the Iowa primary of this little group of arrogant and meddling insurgents. The statement that the senate in unseating Brookhart did so in defiance of the will of the people of Iowa is ridiculous on its face.

Senate Counted Votes
At the November 1924 election 300,000 republicans in Iowa voted for the polls and deliberately voted for the democratic candidate in preference to Brookhart. This was the voice of Iowa. It was the republican vote of Iowa that unseated Brookhart—not the senate. All the senate did was to count the votes.

"Iowa republicans also know that Senator Cummins has been and now is their greatest champion in the battle for farm relief legislation. He has focused the eyes of the nation on the cause of agriculture. The battle is on and must be fought out—Cummins with his commanding ability, executive experience and great prestige will carry that fight to its conclusion. Iowa republicans are no longer to be deceived either by Brookhart's demagoguery or by already-repudiated senators from the meddling of this little group of outside states.

"Iowa is able and much prefers to wash her own linen and clean her own house."

The senators referred to are Norris and Howell of Nebraska; Frazier and Nye of North Dakota and La Follette of Wisconsin, all republicans, and Shipstead, Minnesota, farmer-labor candidate.

Fair Sky Greet Seniors at Baccalaureate Today

Former Iowa Man to Direct Service

Reverend Wylie Talks This Afternoon at Baccalaureate

The Reverend Dwight Witherston Wylie, pastor of the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian church of New York, will deliver the Baccalaureate services this afternoon on the campus at 4 o'clock.

Dr. Wylie is the former pastor of the Presbyterian church here, a position which he held from 1902 until 1916.

New Traditions
This is the first time that Baccalaureate services have been held on the middle campus in front of the old capitol building. Previous services were given from the steps of the liberal arts building. The committee believes that the new position is not only more appropriate, but will be quieter and give better seating position than the old.

Music opened and music will close the commencement program this year. This evening when the only event left on the program will be the formal graduation exercises tomorrow morning, the university band will give a concert in the old capitol oval at 7 o'clock.

Music Program
The program will open with an overture by Reissiger, Mill on the Cliff. Clarence J. Andrews, A2 of New London will play the second, the Columbia Polka by Rollinson. The concert suite, L'Arlesienne by Bizet, will be followed by a symphonic poem, the Dance Macabre, by Saint Saens.

The remaining music events will be Elsa's Dream from Lohengrin by Wagner, sung by Anne Pierce, A4 of Iowa City; Grand Military Fantasia by Rollinson, played by Carleton Stewart, D2 of Pontanelle, and Clarence J. Andrews, concluding with a march, Men of Iowa, by Van Doren.

Reception Follows Fete
From the dance event the crowds went their way down to the Memorial Union where they were entertained with a reception by President and Mrs. Walter A. Jessup, with the university deans and their wives in the receiving line.

A commencement supper followed the reception, and in its turn this gave way to a band concert given at 8 o'clock on the athletic field just south of the union. The program of the commencement party, the concluding event for yesterday, which was held in the union, was unique in that the dance selections were those to which members of the earlier graduating classes had danced to, as a 1901 waltz, a 1906 waltz, 1911 two-step, a 1916 fox trot, and the party ended with a 1926 fox trot, "Horses."

Senate Lays Aside Good Roads Bill for Farm Relief
WASHINGTON, June 5 (AP)—Amid charges and denials of a filibuster and threats that there would be no adjournment until the federal aid good roads bill is passed, the senate agreed today to consider it next week with delay limited.

Senators Bingham of Connecticut and Reed of Pennsylvania, both republicans, led a preliminary assault on the measure today and Senator Wadsworth, republican, New York, announced he was drafting an amendment.

The bill, already passed by the house, would extend for two years the present system of giving federal aid to the states in road building. The senate voted 64 to 9 to take it up, but it was forced aside soon afterward by arrival of the hour set for resuming the farm relief debate.

Quake Frets Needle at Official Station
WASHINGTON, June 5 (AP)—A "very severe" earthquake was registered today on the Georgetown University seismograph. Doctor Tondorf estimating the disturbance at 2,700 miles from Washington in a southerly direction, said that the disturbance commenced at 2:57 o'clock and tremors were still being recorded at 5 o'clock. The maximum occurred between 3:16 and 3:22 p.m.

Mrs. Wright Gives Up Siege of Home After Three Days
SPRING GREEN, Wis., June 5 (AP)—The walls of Talliesen, the home of Frank Lloyd Wright, internationally known architect, were still intact late today, when his estranged wife, Miriam Noel Wright, after a three day siege of the place, took her departure by automobile for Madison, enroute to Chicago.

The siege was marked by an amazonian attack on the gates of the home over which she at one time ruled as mistress and wife.

Falling in this, Mrs. Wright's strength became exhausted after a day of watchful waiting, she was forced to her bed yesterday, and early today complained of a heart attack. Her physician could find nothing organically wrong with her heart, and advised her she could make the trip to Chicago if she were so disposed.

Mrs. Wright changed her mind several times during the early part of the day, but toward mid-afternoon, decided to leave Spring Green and started the trip to Chicago by motor, with Madison scheduled as her first stop.

Last Days Bring Final Farewells to Graduates

Commencement events for today and tomorrow are:

4:00 p.m. Baccalaureate services, Reverend Dwight Witherston Wylie talks on "The Sanctity of the Future." Old Capitol campus.

7:00 p.m. University band concert in old capitol oval.

9:00 a.m. Commencement exercises and presentation of diplomas on old capitol campus. President Henry Suzzalo of the University of Washington speaks on "The Mind of Liberalism."

Yesterday Yields Share of Closing Events for Grads

The sod of the university campus which for nine months has borne up under the tread of "apiko" heels and golf clogs, yesterday was trampled down by the orthopedic "last" and rubber soles which ease up the lives of the "grads" just turned fifty, the "way back wheners," here for the 1926 commencement.

Yesterday went on record as the most strenuous day in this year's commencement schedule with at least eight major events to be attended. The day began with selections from the university band, played in front of liberal arts, which program was followed by a meeting of the Union trustees in the building they helped to erect. At noon a luncheon and meeting of the University of Iowa association was also held in the union rooms.

Dancing Classes Entertain
The annual June fete was next presented by the physical education classes in interpretative dancing, at 8 o'clock on the lawn east of old capitol. There, as slave or pirate, by Peter Pans or Raggedy Anns, these girls dressed in the purple blue, green, orange and pink gowns, gave their several ballets and dances.

Reception Follows Fete
From the dance event the crowds went their way down to the Memorial Union where they were entertained with a reception by President and Mrs. Walter A. Jessup, with the university deans and their wives in the receiving line.

A commencement supper followed the reception, and in its turn this gave way to a band concert given at 8 o'clock on the athletic field just south of the union. Turk History Barren of all Family Names

CONSTANTINOPLE, June 5 (AP)—That the Turkish people have long been democrats at heart is indicated by the absence throughout Turkish history of family names.

No Turk receives the tag of a famous or infamous ancestor, but each starts fresh with the new name whispered in his ear at birth by his parents.

President Kemal, for instance, is known to the world as Gazi Moustapha Kemal Pasha. Only one of these four names, that of Moustapha, was given him at birth, and as plain Moustapha he passed his boyhood. As this is a common name in Turkey, one of his school-masters added "Kemal" to distinguish him from the numerous other Moustaphas in the class. His other names were added for various accomplishments.

Advices Clean-up of Corrupt "Jobs" Candidate for Lieut.-Governor to Alter Banking Laws

[By The Associated Press] HUMBOLDT, June 5—Elimination of state house jobs "created for the sole purpose of furnishing salaries for friends of the political crowd that has controlled state affairs for more than thirty-five years" is advocated in a platform of campaign principles issued today by L. W. Housel, democratic candidate for lieutenant governor.

Mr. Housel also would modify the state banking law "making it impossible for a state banking commissioner to place politicians in control of defunct banks to the loss of depositors in and creditors of such banks." Incorporation of principles of ordinary business into state administration to the exclusion of political expediency, also is advocated by the candidate.

Referring to the road question in Iowa, Mr. Housel says: "I favor the arrangement of a road program of improvement which will be in keeping with the means of payment therefore by the people of the state make our roads, secondary and an economical program which will make our roads, secondary and township as well as primary, conveniently useable."

Mr. Housel is a former newspaperman, having served as reporter and city editor for more than nine years on a large daily newspaper. He is a former member of the Connecticut legislature and a former auditor of New Haven county, Conn. He now is practicing law at Humboldt.

Where two steam locomotives formerly pulled and strained to pull a 360-ton freight train up the steep slope of Maltrata incline, two electric locomotives haul a 650-ton train with power to spare.

Electricity levels the Mountains

In Mexico, romantic land of pretty señoritas and languorous minstrels, practical American engineers have harnessed streams so that mountains may be leveled.

The winding thirty-mile Maltrata incline on the road from Vera Cruz to Mexico City is now electrified. Ten electric locomotives replace twenty-three steam engines. The electric haul twice the tonnage of the steam locomotives—and in half the time, with obvious benefits to traveler, rail-roader, and shipper.

Yet Maltrata is but an example of electrical progress. For electricity is conquering the grades of railroads and of industry alike, the world over.

Impressive, no doubt, but still modest when compared with the possibilities of electricity in years to come. And it remains for college-trained men, with trained capacity for initiative and leadership, to become ambassadors for further electrical conquests in foreign lands.

The General Electric Company required but eighteen months to electrify Maltrata incline—locomotives, power plant, transmission equipment complete. Engineering skill, backed by vast manufacturing facilities, has enabled G-E to serve humanity in many ways.

A series of G-E advertisements showing what electricity is doing in many fields will be sent on request. Ask for booklet GEK-1.

Old Timers Return in Hordes to Review Many Changes in Campus

Many Class Groups to Attend Annual Commencement

There were but two buildings on the campus when I was graduated with the class of 1891," said A. P. Heald, professor of history in North High school, Des Moines.

"One of the two was this old capitol. The other was South hall. Later South hall burned, or was burned, I am not sure which. Any way the loss was turned to gain. Look around, and see what the University Phoenix has done.

"But we had much fun in those days. The Zetaganians and the Irvings were rivals for popular favor. But the audiences were hardly large enough for two meetings the same night. One night when dual meetings were to be held some one shut off the gas from the Zet hall, and the Irvings got all the crowd. They said I did it!"—and the professor of history smiled.

"I waited thirty-five years for my football sweater and just got it last year. We didn't have anything like that when I went to school. We felt laws had to pay our way when we went away to games and bought our own uniforms. It's different now—they don't play football any more, they work at it."

He looks young and active. But he vouchsafed the information that one of the boys in the first class he taught is now a great-great-grandfather.

Emma F. White, who was a leading student at the university when he first met her here. Later they were married. She was one of the few who never cease to be students. She did three years work in two years under Dean Currier. Then she had to leave the university to accompany her husband to St. Paul, but she continued her course by correspondence and later returned and earned her B.A. degree. Later she took her master's degree at the University of Washington, and at the time of her death thirteen years ago was just ready to take her doctor's degree. They had three children. One son is a graduate of the University of California. A daughter is a graduate of Leland Stanford university, a second son had completed two years in college when the world war took him and since he returned he has been engaged in business.

Thrilled With Great Growth

"I am simply thrilled with the great growth this institution is making under President Jessup," said Dr. O. A. Kabrick, of Grand View, Louisiana county. He drove up for the exercises and spoke of his constant enjoyment from the programs given from WSUI radio station.

Registering for the First Time

Among those registering the alumni roll for the first time was C. D. Kerringer of the class of 1926, who leaves immediately after graduation to open a dental office in Davenport.

J. J. McConnell Here

J. J. McConnell, formerly a member of the university faculty and later superintendent of the public schools in Cedar Rapids, drove up with his son, J. J. McConnell, Jr., from their farm in Washington county. Dr. McConnell chatted with Parker Holbrook of Onawa, John M. Geiman of Cedar Rapids, and other friends.

Dr. McConnell used to live on Summit street and give cool drinks of living water from his cistern to thirsty travelers. Now he is a retired educator, a farmer by hereditary proxy, and as loyal as ever to this university and the men who are carrying on the work in which he once was active.

Believes in Youth

"I think the young people of today are superior to those of the past," said Laura Ensign of the class of '76. "The girls dress much more sensibly," she added, "and I like the new fashions. Altogether they show much more promise than the girls of the past generation." She also believes that all this talk and condemnation concerning the younger generation to be merely pessimism.

"It is hard work to find anything around here that looks natural," she said, "but I'm glad they renovated the old capitol, it looks natural." Miss Ensign has not been here for ten years and during that time a great deal of change has come about. She thinks the Memorial Union wonderful and could not be enthusiastic enough in her praise of it, not only of its beauty but of its architectural perfection.

Literary Days

Laura Ensign received her B.A. degree from the university in '76, and her M.A. in '78. In the class of

'75 there were 24 graduates, 14 men and 10 women. Of these 11 are living and seven are present for commencement exercises. At that time there were no sororities on the campus and literary societies held full sway. "I received more and better training from the part I took in my literary society than from all my class training," said Miss Ensign. "We really worked for that, gave debates, orations and took part in all kinds of dramatics. We were very active."

Since leaving school Miss Ensign has taught in Cedar Falls for sixteen years, in Minneapolis for nine years, in Baltimore for nine years, and at the Iowa National Bible Training school at Des Moines for the past nineteen years, where she expects to continue.

John Campbell, L'11 of Sioux City, has not forgotten Iowa. He telegraphs: "Greetings and best wishes from an absent member."

The roll of returning alumni is called as far back as 1867, who remember when German, French and Latin was taught by Professor Berger on the first floor of old capitol.

When the students weren't prepared, they used to get the prof. to talking about the Franco-Prussian war, and then no preparation was necessary, as he would entertain them all the period on that subject.

And there was Jimmy Barry, the old janitor, how good he was to the boys. "Whenever he was questioned as to the identity of any of the unruly boys playing tricks on the campus, he always had the ready reply that he couldn't tell who they were, they were running so fast.

The older alumni remember him letting the little boys into the school games free, and label him the most loved man in the university during his time of service.

The girl who apportions the class badges pulls for the class of '96. They have formally adopted her into the class and she wears their tag proudly.

Ribbon Quilt

"I bet I could make a quilt of the '17 ribbons that I have collected," said Blanche Shellady Kinney as she received the ninth decoration in her life as an alumna.

"This is the first time I have registered without a job," she added as she inscribed "married" in the column of the registration book labeled "occupation."

Flora Clapp Ransom of the class of '34 remembered only the old capitol building as the campus has changed so much since that time.

"I remember that we had classes in either the northwest or the northeast room of old capitol when that was the only building on the campus."

She is from Hempstead, R. I., and is a charter member of the Iowa chapter of Kappa Kappa Gamma. She wears a Kappa key different from those in use at present by members of her sorority, being wider and thinner and set with rubies.

Norris Brown, '33, of Omaha, is back to Iowa for the first time. "Do I remember the old capitol? Why, I remember having my picture taken on its steps many a time. It was just the same then as now."

The rest of the buildings are all new to him, but it is his opinion that the campus is much better now with its new additions than in '33.

"That was a large class," said T. W. Simonton, Law '01, "135 of them in all, but there are not many back this year, although it is our twenty-fifth reunion."

Simonton is practicing law at Riverside, Iowa, now.

"We had our classes in the old extension building I think it is now, on the other side of the home economics department," Dr. Robert L. Bolland, D'16, mused. "Since I graduated they have put all those new buildings across the river."

Blind Student to Realize Ambition With LL.B. Today

Realizing a life-long ambition, Arthur Julius Petrie, L.B. of Ottumwa, who has been blind since he was two years old, will graduate tomorrow from the college of law. In spite of this handicap, Petrie will end his college career with one of the highest scholarship averages in the law class.

Began Here Last Year

Receiving his high school education at a school for the blind at Jacksonville, Ill., Petrie first enrolled at the University of Wisconsin. Last year he transferred his work to the University of Iowa, and within two weeks was well acquainted with the campus and found his way about with but little difficulty.

Petrie took his class notes through use of a special device with which he raises a system of characters on a sheet of heavy paper, a process much faster than that of longhand notes.

When taking examinations, Petrie uses a special typewriter which raises the letter characters on a sheet of paper. He used this in copying the questions and referred to the sheet in answering them on a regular typewriter.

To Practice in Ottumwa

His text books were read to him by a high school boy. His memory serves him well. While not participating, Mr. Petrie is fond of all kinds of sports, and follows these with great interest.

Petrie knows the steps and voice of his classmates and can call most of them by name. He possesses a fine sense of humor and is extremely popular in the hall of the law school.

After graduating, Petrie intends to practice law at Ottumwa.

Kiwanis President Tabulates Year of Service With Club

MONTREAL, June 5 (AP)—John H. Moss of Milwaukee, president of Kiwanis International, who will end his administrative duties following the tenth annual convention to be held this week, said upon his arrival here that "the last year has been productive of great results."

"What the Club Does"

"The field of usefulness service has been shown to the world by what Kiwanis has been accomplishing in civic and many other ways," he said.

"We have furthered the work of aiding the underprivileged child, made efforts to create a better understanding between the town and country people, promoted vocational guidance, and dedicated the President Harding International Good Will Memorial at Vancouver.

Attracts Attention

"Kiwanis is attracting attention because of its accomplishments. Its appeal has always been to public opinion, but this appeal has been for activities of the highest social type."

"What Kiwanis is doing in every department of human endeavor shows that its service has been wide enough to include the many needs of humanity."

Ballots Half-Way Checked Indicate Neglect of Voter

[By The Associated Press]

DES MOINES, June 5—In the last state primary election approximately 525,000 votes were cast for heads of the state ticket on the republican side, and out of this number 92,000 voters neglected to vote for the party candidates for the office of state railroad commissioner, Charles Webster, incumbent in the office declares.

"Voters fire of marking a ballot from the top down," Mr. Webster says. "They quit about half way down."

Notwithstanding this odd trait of the average voter, Mr. Webster says he and Dwight N. Lewis, chairman of the board of railroad commissioners, both republican candidates for re-nomination, hope to salvage enough votes to obtain their nominations.

"One of the pleasures of running for office," says Mr. Webster, "is the making of a large number of friends who recognize what good you may have accomplished."

Lives by Trick Dying

HOLLYWOOD, Calif., June 5 (AP)—Warner P. Richmond makes his living by dying. Fate, scenario writer or director have decreed death for him in every picture he has played. He now is getting ready to "kick the bucket" in "The Fire Brigade," which Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer is producing. Directors no longer tell him to die. They await his suggestions.

with the experience of a flogger in the Union Stock Yards. That Mr. Otte has found that even in so menial a life as a flogger there are moments when existence takes on the hues of the poetic—when men, with the alth and stench of the stockyards about them are lifted up to a fine plain; and cattle, while waiting to be driven to the slaughter-house take on the air of the prairie—is something worth while in itself, and certainly worth while setting down in as native terms as possible. That Lowell Otte has done this, is the best thing that one can say.

FLOGGER SONGS—Lowell Otte

(Reviewed by John F. Denman, editor of Iowa Literary Magazine, 1925-1926.)

For anyone who has been a part of the Iowa campus for the past three or four years it comes as a difficult task to pass an unbiased judgement upon the volume of poems published by Lowell Otte through the medium of the Torch Press of Cedar Rapids. Few men that have ranged the campus have imparted a more colorful touch to it than has Lowell Otte. He has become a tradition, and what is more, a rare tradition of a man who could blend all that is appealing in a fine football player and the prestige of a man whom Phi Beta Kappa honored as its ranking member for the year 1925. Upon the completion of such a significant achievement Mr. Otte went to work in the Union Stock Yards at Omaha, and in this little book of verse tells of his experiences and his reactions to them.

As he himself says in the preface: "It has been a pleasure to write these little verses. They have been scribbled when and where you will: in the chute-house, at the scale-house . . . while driving cattle . . . yarding hogs . . . during 'bull-sessions' with fellow-floggers."

And the dedication is as characteristic as any, but it is equally certain that Mr. Otte shows himself at his best when he deals with the sights, sounds, and smells of the stockyards.

Every now and then Lowell Otte, Phi Beta Kappa crops out. The poem "Aberdeen-Angus" is Lowell Otte the student as well as the poet looking at a massive, indomitable Aberdeen-Angus "chieftain." The poem itself is a fine piece of description, with touches of vivid coloring.

One can only conclude as one begins. This volume of poetry is transparently sincere—it is above all things, authentic. Most of it is from verse—very free, some might say. Where Mr. Otte has a chance to show what he can do with the more conventional verse forms he does not do so well. But one does not associate correctness of verse forms

Big Ben's Day

ONE often guesses at what must be passing through the mind of the graduate as, a little flustered and confused, he gropes his way down the steps of the graduation platform with his diploma in hand. Probably a thousand things, a medley of past associations and experiences, flash before him—and as he resumes his seat, it is not unlikely that he passes in review all the factors that bore him on to the final consummation of a B.A. degree from the state university.

He pays inward tribute to the patience of instructors, to the associations with classmates, and to a thousand and one things that helped him to "make the grade."

One wonders if he forgets anything. In other words what about that patient friend of his, that asked no questions, suggested no remedies, but patiently and efficiently saw to it that he made his classes on time, that he got up in time to shave, that he was not too late to keep a date.

Almost any graduating student tomorrow would concur in the fitting significance of the thing, if, above the presidential chair, as a symbol of final success, there would be hung the indefatigable alarm clock—the student's best friend—that is, with apologies to the Dean of Men.

Vote!

THE DAILY IOWAN doffs its editorial high hat and condescends to comment on the morrow's election in just one word—Vote!

This is a democracy, a representative democracy, wherein the vote of Sweeney the garbage man counts fully as much as that of Bloozy the millionaire or Gertie the school teacher.

This republic will remain a democratic country, dedicated to ideals of common sense and tolerance, so long as people make the most of their responsibilities as citizens.

Rain or shine, automobile or walking shoes, the road to the election booth must become the beaten track of representative government.

Commencement and Crime

IN a recent issue of the "World's Greatest Newspaper," there is a cartoon by the ubiquitous McCutcheon entitled "Relief in Sight." It showed a group of police captains in some sort of a crime break-up conference. Evidently the problem is too complex for them. At the point of their greatest difficulty in comes a callow college graduate, all dressed in cap and gown, with his diploma under his arm, and advancing with the engaging question, "Well, gentlemen, have you any difficult problems you want solved?"

Of course the college graduates, in this particular cartoon, is the very soul of naive and general greenness, and the whole thing is intended for a satire on the collegiate theorist. However, one can indulge in one or two reflections. At least, the police captains seem to have failed in the job for which long experience ought to have fitted them, and if the history of a good many of our cities can be taken as the norm, the failure has laid just as much at the door of the police, riddled as it often is with political graft, as to the cleverness of the criminal class.

At any rate, honesty in the ranks of those who are supposed to police our cities, is the first step toward an effectual blow at the present crime wave and honesty, united with a scientific knowledge of the working of the abnormal mind, for criminals are largely abnormal, may do a great deal more to rid our cities of the lawless groups against which the police seem to have fought, so far, an unequal battle.

Intellectuals to Order!

THE SATURDAY LUNCH CLUB concludes its first year with an announcement of the speakers retained to appear here for the coming year.

Lunch clubs, and "groups" are too frequently the bane of our society and a literature, concerned with Babbitt and his fellows, has appeared in this country, due no doubt to our prevalent tendency of "grouping" and organizing every individual.

But here at Iowa, an experiment in tailoring intellectuals over the coffee cup has proved to be one of the most interesting innovations of the year. Perhaps no other activity of the school term has so successfully represented the very best that a university can, and must, produce if higher learning is to be anything but a grating joke.

The group around which the Saturday Lunch club has revolved personifies the idealistic college group, well rounded and balanced, carried away by no passing literary fad, but concerned with that intellectual curiosity that is the pledge pin of worthiness.

The Yearly Harvest

WITH the passing of another school year. Another group of fraternity pledges have gone through the strenuous labors of probation and are now members of a Greek letter group. The sacred cows of the chapter have staged the ghostly ceremony known as the ritual and the boys are now privileged to indulge in all those sports fraternity men are wont to practice.

Whether these men will make use of their opportunities, and labor to raise the standing of the groups is a question to be settled next year. There is an opportunity to realize the too often unrealized ideal of fraternalism, that of inculcating a respect for worthwhile things into the hearts of the brothers who are often brotherly but not worthwhile.

Scholarship, activities and culture should be the attainments of the organized man; if he fails to acquire these things during his university career the work of pledgship is worthless and the symbolism of the pin empty.

Mrs. O'Leary's Cow

ANOTHER good old tradition is all shot. For years we have been believing that Mrs. O'Leary's cow kicked over a lantern and started the Chicago fire. Now someone comes along, and after looking up the records of the time, announces that if Mrs. O'Leary had a cow, and it kicked over lantern, that happened several days before the outbreak of the fire.

At least, it is a good thing that the cow is no longer alive to hear her reputation so slandered. Believing this tradition of her, she is a historical character, without it she is only a myth of a probably very ordinary cow.

Someone is always taking the joy out of life. Since we learned that George Washington was not the patron saint he had been reported, it is almost too much to learn that Mrs. O'Leary's cow is shorting out on us, too.

When events are known only with a truthful background, think what a prosaic world this will be! Really, we hate to assign Mrs. O'Leary's cow to the limbo of myths.

Petticoats and the Girl of 40

GENERATION ago the woman of forty was an old lady. She wore voluminous petticoats and skirts of many yards, and was content to remain at home with her crocheting—but times have changed and customs have altered.

Today the woman of forty looks twenty, is able to play golf and tennis through the day and dance far into the night; and then to be first down to breakfast in the morning, and not with the temper of the bear.

Emanipated in body and mind, she appears to have discovered the fountain of youth, but in reality she has only discarded her superfluous clothing.

Soft, beautiful, shimmering silk has displaced the old wardrobe. Short skirts and low necks allow more light and air to reach her body and as a result she has retained the youth, beauty, and health of girlhood.

Poems That Live

The Senior

You will go out this June from cloistered halls Of academic wisdom, from quiet walks Beneath the campus trees, from stilted talks Of youth and life and God. Your future calls You into the swirl of cities and of men; You will not come this way again.

You touch my hand and speak sweet, awkward words Of thanks and parting. You will remember me As long as singing birds and stars shall be— And yet— You will forget.

I watch you go— I who have trembled for you, hoped, rejoiced, And stretched a careful finger forth to guide you.

Your soul is a clean, white book whose pages glow Scarlet and gold and blue—I shall not know The ending of the story therein voiced. Your soul is a fragile moth with pale gold wings.

New-broken from its chrysalis; it clings Vibrant upon youth's stem; I shall not see The beauty of your flight, radiant and free. Your soul is a delicate plant I have watched unfolding.

Green leaf by clear green leaf; But you will flower far from my beholding, So frail remembrance is, so rare, so brief. Your soul is a small brown bird whose hesitant flying

I follow anxiously; I cannot shield You from rough winds and storm. You flutter on. A gleam of sunlight round you prophesying Your soaring strength. Across the ripening field

You drift, and lift above the wood—on—on—until You flash beyond the hill—

And you are gone. —Irene H. Wilson, in Scribner's for June.

The University of the Past—the birthplace of our ideals, the cradle of our human ambitions, the witness of the joys of our youth and the springtime of our loves. THE COLLEGE OF LAW

R. H. McDonald
In toasting the College of Law I might tell you of its beginning back in 1865 when it was the lone law school in the West, or of its growth from a single lecture room in the Old Capitol to that stately edifice at the brow of the hill. I might speak of our traditions, such as the time-honored senior canons, the ancient love of the laws and the engineers, and the embalmed Law Jubilee. I might tell you of our great law faculty, that which there is no better. Again I might tell you of our distinguished alumni who grace the benches of the highest courts of the land, or of the well-known alumni who do battle for their clients at the bar. But tonight I cannot. Suffice it for me to say that through these sixty-one years the law college has been great. We the class of 1926 pay our tribute to that greatness. Here's to the College of Law—may she always go rolling along!

THE COLLEGE OF DENTISTRY

Fritz W. Witt
The College of Dentistry—how different are the ideals it teaches from those the novelist Morris gives to the dentist McTeague whose sole ambition was the accumulation of wealth, whose motives were utterly selfish. Contrasting indeed are the principles given us by our College, chief of which perhaps is that we are dedicating ourselves to a life of service to our fellow men.

The extent to which its aims are realized depends entirely upon the steadfastness and unflinching with which we, its graduates, carry on its ideals. It has given us the foundation of rock; we must build upon that.

We must prove that the old truths are not trite—that it is a fallacy for the cynic to say that "A moral truth is like a hollow tooth which must be propped with gold."

SO WE TOAST TO IOWA

GIVEN AT COMMENCEMENT DINNER

This recognition can be attributed to a great extent to its dean, Chester A. Phillips, its faculty and its alumni.

Progress cannot always be measured in numbers but in the caliber of the men and women graduating from an institution. Already some of the graduates of the first class three years ago have attained success and brought credit not only to themselves but to the institution which was largely responsible for their success.

Through its student organizations and publication, the Journal of Business, business men throughout the state have learned of the progress of the College of Commerce and have become interested in its growth. This interest will not diminish and this progress will continue to increase. That is why I say, "Here's to the College of Commerce, the greatest school in the greatest university in the country."

THE COLLEGE OF APPLIED SCIENCE

Ernest T. Schuler
I toast Iowa's fighting school, the College of Engineering. I toast the college that has raised its professional standing to that of any school in the country in spite of the fact that its existence has at times been threatened; the college that has forged its way to the top while fighting with its back to the wall.

I toast the alumni who are holding their own alongside the graduates of the best engineering schools in the country. I toast the present students who are loyal to a man and who are upholding the reputation of the College of Engineering for being Iowa's most loyal school.

The College of Engineering has achieved great things, and with the proper support it will accomplish much more. It needs more financial support, but even more it needs the moral and spiritual support of every student, of every alumnus, and of every man and woman in the State of Iowa.

THE COLLEGE OF MEDICINE

Ben E. Goodrich
In a state institution one college can demonstrate the achievements of state education. The Medical College, organized in 1870, now stands a living memorial to the men who have gone before. "Much has been accomplished."

The present college, rated so highly by the National Committee, needs no praise. Her highly trained faculty, her illustrious Dean, and her admired President insure that standing. From the beginning years when we learn something of the science of medicine, on through later years when we try desperately to discover the art of medicine, we have daily proof of that ultimate called "service." No observing citizen but knows that that service—to crippled children, to the sick of mind or body, to all the state of

THE COLLEGE OF COMMERCE

George P. Lloyd
Here's to the College of Commerce, to its faculty and student body through whose support and united cooperation a spirit of good fellowship has been developed which is equalled by few and surpassed by none. Although the College of Commerce has been in existence only four years it has become recognized not only on the Iowa campus but by professional schools everywhere.

The alleged charm of a woman in being various and mutable is nothing compared with the appeal which strength in all the British critics, GLORIOUS UNCERTAINTIES FOR A OF GOLF. They love the game because they never know what it will do next. Surely its uncertainties were never better exemplified than in the ups and downs of the British amateur championship this week. Nearly every prediction of the experts went wrong. Champions fell by the way like duffers. Not one of the British players confidently picked as possible winners survived the early rounds. The comparatively unknown and unnoticed came through to the end. This is not true of the one American who fought his way to the finals, Mr. Swetser, but it is worth remarking that on the opening day it was doubtful if he would be in condition to play at all, and few dreamed that he would outlast Outmet and Guilford and the redoubtable Jones.

The latter began the tournament badly, but quickly got back on his game, and went on from strength to strength. All the British critics, who said that on Thursday they had seen in him the best golfer in the world at his best, believed that he had the championship at his mercy. But the malignant that so often seems to haunt the golf links would not suffer itself to be flouted by such confident prophecies, and on Friday Bobby Jones went off his game and out of the picture. For consolation he may have sought out the company of the four British ex-champions who had gone down to defeat much earlier in the fray. They had all vindicated once more the claim of golf to be as uncertain as an oracle of Apollo and as inscrutable as the Sphinx.—The New York Times.

TALKE AND THOUGHTS

(Being various conjectures on what people think when they are saying such things as.)

"SORRY."—(Our guess follows): 1. You big bum, look where you're going. 2. There, that ought to show him what I think of him. 3. I'm damn glad I did it.

"GLAD TO KNOW YOU."—1. Now whom is this goof? 2. Hasn't he got funny eyes? 3. I wonder why Harry took the trouble to introduce me? 4. Oh, the devil, some more of this blah to go through.

"I'DEM IT A GREAT PLEASURE TO HAVE THE PRIVILEGE OF ADDRESSING A GROUP OF WISCONSIN STUDENTS." . . . 1. I'll be lucky if there is a big enough box office receipt to pay me my $25 for this lecture. 2. These coeds wear even less than those at Michigan. 3. I wish that guy'd quit yawning. 4. Hope my tie is straight; I don't dare feel.

"WE HAVE A VERY INTERESTING ESSAY TO STUDY TODAY." says the English prof, while he probably mutters: 1. I wonder if the wife'll want the car this afternoon? 2. Why the devil doesn't that woman wear a few buttons on my BVD's? 3. Thank the Lord, June isn't far off.

"THERE WAS SOMETHING DIFFERENT ABOUT YOU THAT GOT ME THE FIRST TIME I MET YOU."—1. Wonder if she'll fall for that. 2. Lessee that makes six girls I've told that same line of boloney. 3. That cynical one said she'd heard it all before. 4. I never did like her.—The Daily Illini.

Yester-Friends

BY ROXANA B. WHITE
Ten miles I walked, through wind and rain,
Ten miles, up hill and down;
Ten miles I trudged to meet you at Our Inn at Yester-Town.

Ten miles? Ten years I traveled to Our one-time trying place,
And then I found at Yester-Inn A stranger—with your face.

What seems like courage is often merely resilience.

THE COLLEGE OF LIBERAL ARTS

Catherine Richter

Four hundred graduates raise their voices tonight with mine in honor of our college, the cornerstone for other colleges of a great University. We praise her as our educator who has inspired, guided, strengthened, and lighted our paths toward life. Few students, a challenge has been placed in our hands. Harken to it!

We are challenged to give to Liberal Arts some manifestation of the many riches she has bestowed upon us. One bit of advice—let us prove to the world that our knowledge has not been gained in vain. In so honoring our Alma Mater, we shall benefit ourselves beyond measure. And then, as now, she shall hear her loyal sons and daughters say, "A toast to thee, O college of L. A!"

TO THE UNIVERSITY OF IOWA

President W. A. Jessup

What wonderful words, what fancy, what images, what memories cluster about the name! The University; with students ranging in age from babes to patriarchs, from the naive simplicity of the freshman to the sturdy strength of the mature post-graduate; with a faculty ranging from amateur to the sage deriving into the mysterious beyond; in a community made up of persons ranging from the careless and indifferent to the devoted, loving patron; with alumni embracing the raw recruit of to-day and the greatest citizens of the world; the state, including the short-sighted individual and the far-seeing statesman. These, and more, come to mind, with the utterance of these magic words, "University of Iowa."

All these pictures are but a part of university life, all lived in the past and to be lived by the countless generations to come, a magnificent patrimony not through accident but through determination, sacrifice—yes, through tears—a priceless heritage from the pioneers—all the expression of the ideals and will of a free people dedicated to high living and serious social purpose making up the Commonwealth of Iowa.

May we catch step and carry on, to the end that our children's children may come to know, to lean upon, to love the university of Iowa as a cultural arm of this great state.

Here's to the University—may we do our part.

TUNES OF HOPE

From THE BOSTON TRANSCRIPT

FOR young parents wondering in what kind of a world their boys and girls will grow up, a few shifting straws begin to make a change in the prevailing breeze of the times. Jazz still blows universally, but no longer exclusively. Echoes stir once more of the tuneful love-song so popular in musical comedy fifteen and twenty years ago. Whole operettas of the earlier sort, such as the Prince of Pilsen and the Student Prince, have won wide acclaim in revival. The great success of Rose-Marie, as a freshly written piece of the kind, has proved that lyrical composition is neither a lost art among musicians nor a loss at the box-office. In the motion-picture houses the new influence has to some extent been observable in occasional songs and the reception given them. Even jazz itself shows transformation, in the increase of such numbers as Irving Berlin's "Always," known to the profession as "sweet jazz."

No one can predict of a surety whether the change will become general, but if it does, certainly it will not be without social importance. The hopeful prospect does not rest alone upon the contrast between the two kinds of music but more especially upon the contrast between the verses of the popular song which go with each type. Of course the verses of the popular song were never great poetry. Usually they were over-laden with sentimentality. But at least they did not exalt vulgar selfishness. They were struck with admiration. They bespoke chivalry and fidelity. They knew something of the beauty of girlhood. A crowd of high school boys and girls, singing together at one of their homes Clare Kumer's "Dearie" or Herbert's "Because You're You," or waltzing to these tunes while the words waltzed in their minds, may have been lifted into realms of too airy romance. But at least they were far from the gutter. There was no "Red Hot Mama" for them to shout and applaud. They did not join in extolling the prosaic miscues of "Oh, What a Girl!" Charm was not to them a cheap. If again it is to be held more dear in the songs of the people, in the tunes whistled on street corners, in collegiate house parties, young parents have substantial grounds for rejoicing.

Colorado School Wins National Interscholastic Track Meet

Arkansas Boy Beats World Javelin Mark

Carroll, Iowa, High School Places Eighth With Total of 6 1-2 Points

CHICAGO, June 5—A little band of rugged athletes from Fort Collins, Colo., today won the national interscholastic track and field championship for the second consecutive time. The mountaineers captured the title from a record breaking field of 877 athletes from 190 high schools in thirty states, in 2 days competition in which a world's interscholastic record was smashed and three others equalled.

The Colorado youths won by their heavy scoring in the field events, in which they piled up 18 of their 24 points.

East High of Columbus, Ohio, was second with 17 points, Senn high of Chicago third with 14, Main Avenue High of San Antonio, Texas fourth with 13, Vernon, Texas, fifth with 11, and Wenatchee, Washington, sixth with 10. Senn had only three athletes in the competition but they came through with flying colors, winning two firsts and a second place.

The other points were divided as follows:

Central High Kansas City 7; Westport High, Kansas City 7; Carroll, Ia. 6 1-2; Muncie, Ind. 6; Bristow, Okla. 6; Tilden, Chicago 6; Wichita, Kansas 5; Emerson High, Gary, Ind. 5; Lockhaven, Pa. 5; Little Rock, Ark. 5; Cambridge, Neb. 5; Michigan City, Ind. 5; Prescott, Wash. 5; Atlanta, Ga. 5; Arcadia, Fla. 3; Oneida, So. D. 3; Kallah, Tex. 3; Central High, Fort Worth, 4; Sweet Springs, Mo. 4; South High, Grand Rapids, 4; Jonesboro, Ark. 4; Elgin, Ill. 4; Bellmore, Ind. 4.

More than half of Fort Collins' points were scored by Danny Beattie, competing for the last time for his school. He was the highest individual point winner, piling up 12 in four events. He won the discus, finished third in the hammer and shot, and picked up fifth place in the 120 yard hurdles.

Kiser of Wenatchee, Washington, and Simpson of East High of Columbus, Ohio, were the next highest individual point winners, each scoring 10.

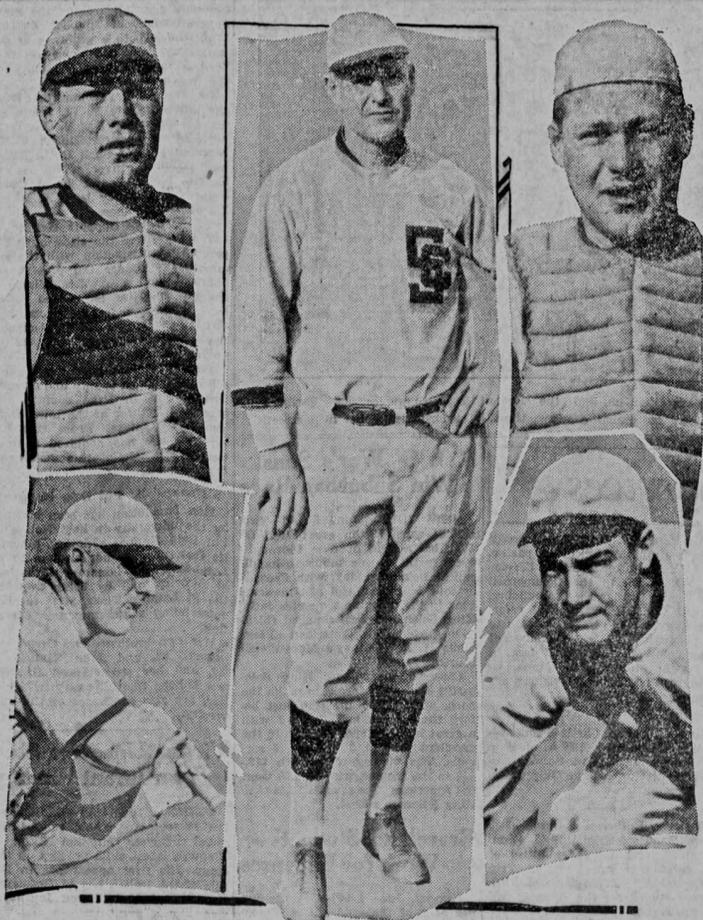

Simpson tied the world's record for the century, breaking the tape a stride ahead of Wilcox of Westport High, Kansas City, in 39 8-10 and a few minutes later captured the 220 yard dash in 21 8-10. Kiser won the second section of the 880 yard, rolling it off in 1:58 4-10 and also raced to victory in the first section of the one mile run.

Breaks Javelin Mark

The world's record breaking performance was the work of Douglas Graydon, Little Rock, Ark., who in the finals of the field events yesterday, tossed the javelin 199 feet 5 inches. This was more than 12 feet better than the previous interscholastic mark. The other records equalled, besides the century, were the 120-yard high hurdles, and the 880 yard run.

Trumble of Cambridge, Neb., tied the mark for the hurdles by leaping

Many Stars on U. S. C. Nine

By ROY GROVE

Under the tutelage of "Wahoo" Sam Crawford, whose major league baseball career with Detroit was clipped short a few years back because his legs went bad, the University of Southern California baseball squad has developed into one of the most dangerous aggregations of diamond stars in California and the southwest.

Southern California has already ended its conference baseball season, the "Big Three" play ending early to make way for spring football. The Trojans broke even with California. Playing a three-game series with Stanford, U. S. C. won two of the games and carried away honors in the competition. Lee Guschard, a junior, turned in both wins against the Cardinal team from Palo Alto. He hurled a shut-out game for the final contest.

Ted Sahlborg, a sophomore, ranks with Guschard as one of the best college pitchers in the state. In the California series here he went into the first game after the Bears had found Guschard for a 7 to 1 lead. He pitched the last six innings of that game and held the Bruins to one run while his teammates ran six, counters, barely missing a victory by a 7-6 margin. He then remained on the box and twirled nine innings of classy baseball for a 3 to 1 victory in the second game.

Gridman Captain

Perhaps the greatest Trojan baseballer is Harold "Hobbs" Adams, captain of the team. Adams holds the unique distinction of having been the only man in the history of the university to hold two major sports captaincies in one year. He was chosen baseball leader at the close of last baseball season. Last fall when Capt. Thomas was declared ineligible, the Trojan football men elected Adams, who plays end, as captain. Adams is a senior this year. He plays center field, a position he has played through four years of high school and the same number of years of college baseball. He has led in batting for the last two years.

Webb Gibson, a sophomore, has starred behind the bat this year. He has been termed the greatest catcher in California college ranks this season. He has a wonderful peg to second and is a strong batter.

Orsatti at Third

At third is a lad who has already received offers to enter Pacific coast baseball. Vic Orsatti, whose brother is playing professional baseball, has been a star at the far corner of the diamond. Orsatti, while at Manual Arts High school here, won the local Babe Ruth batting trophy for preps. He is a quarterback in football and wants to earn a name on the gridiron, so has turned down baseball offers.

When eligibilities knocked out the regular second baseman, Coney Galindo, a sophomore went to the key-stone sack and has been starring there. He is a heavy hitter and has broken up more ball games with his bingles than any other man on the squad.

Many Nationalities

Fans call Crawford's team the "League of Nations." The pitchers are: Roy Gormsen, Swedish; Sahlborg, Swedish; Harold Lukin, American; Tim Rafferty, Irish, and Guschard, Italian. Behind the plate are: Gibson, Swedish; Walt Scott, English; Barnes, American, and Coffman, Scotch. The first sackers are: Ferd Manlove, French; and McGuigg, Irish. Galindo at second is Spanish. Mose Moore, a sub there, is Irish. Maloney and Welch at short are both Irish. Vic Orsatti at third claims Italian descent. In the outfield are: Capt. Adams, Scotch-Irish; Pullen, English; Laraneta, Italian, and Red Badger, Swedish. Henry Segretti, manager is another Italian.

Bradley Entries Finish First and Second at Latonia

Bagenbagg Winner With Boot-to-Boot in Second Place

LATONIA, June 5—The Roughbred team, Bagenbagg and Boot-to-Boot, representing the Idle Hour Farm owned by Colonel E. R. Bradley, won the Latonia derby here today without being extended. Rhinock finished third while Blondin and Navigator, prizes of the East, came along in the rear with Recollection. Bagenbagg's margin was a half length.

Won at Stretch Turn

The race was a truly run contest and there was no doubt the two which finished just as Bubbling Over and Bagenbagg did in the Kentucky derby were pounds the best. It was not a battle of skill between the riders as the charges under the other jockeys failed to show the class with the winner, which holds the year's record for winning derbies, as he scored a victory in the Louisiana derby when he defeated Boot-to-Boot and Navigator.

This was the fourth time that Bradley has finished one-two in derbies contested in this country. The first was at Churchill Downs in 1921 with Behave Yourself and Black Servant; the second at New Orleans this winter with Bagenbagg and Boot-to-Boot which was two lengths in front of Rhinock with Blondin tiring to a walk at this stage.

Race Won $27,500

Down the stretch the two leaders centered and Bagenbagg went over the line winner, his stable mate second, and Rhinock third. The Idle Hour entry was the betting choice at odds and the winner paid $3.20 for a $2 straight ticket to win.

The race was worth $27,500 net to Bradley as he scored in first and second position. Rhinock finished for the show end and his owner was given $11,500.

Build Golf Course at Camp Foster

SPIRIT LAKE, June 4 (AP)—A golf course is under construction at the state Young Men's Christian association Camp Foster, James W. Fisher, golfer of Spencer, announces. The course will provide a new sport for the 600 boys expected to visit the state camp this summer. Among special conferences arranged are those of the H-Y training camp, Aug. 18 to 28, and the state employed officers conference, Aug. 28 to 30. It is expected that the first Iowa state boys' golf assembly will be held in connection with these conferences.

Independents Clash With Wilton Today

Vogel and McGuire Scheduled to Appear in Local Lineup Again

The Iowa City Independents will face their second foe of the week here today when they battle the Wilton Junction Boosters on the city park diamond this afternoon. The visitors, always a strong aggregation, will have the assistance of some outside talent and will probably be one of the best teams to appear on the local diamond this year.

The Independents, following their drubbing at the hands of the Chicago Giants on Friday afternoon started work in earnest and are out to remove the stain of defeat this afternoon.

Notre Dame Wins New Track Classic

First Annual Meeting Won by Versatile Irish Team

MILWAUKEE, June 5—The University of Notre Dame track squad demonstrated its versatility here today by coping first honors in the first annual central intercollegiate conference track and field meet conducted by the Marquette University. Notre Dame scored 72 1-2 points. Michigan State was second with 47. Marquette third with 35 1-2, and Butler fourth with 19.

The winners registered well in every event except the two mile, to win. In the two mile, Melvin Shimek of Marquette was first in 9 minutes 46.2 seconds and Michigan State took the other three places.

Fred Alderman, of the Michigan Aggies, was high individual scorer of the meet with 15 points on impressive firsts in the broad jump, 100-yard dash and the 220.

Herman Phillips, the Butler star, won both his events, the 440 and the 880, to take second, while Heineman of Marquette, and Moes and Judge of Notre Dame, were tied for third each with 7 points.

No national or world's records fell in the meet.

Red Sox Bunch Three Hits in Second for Only Counters

[By The Associated Press]
CHICAGO, June 5—Howard Ehmke, star right hander of the Red Sox, was batted freely today, behind his wildness and forced off the hill in the second inning, Chicago defeating the eastern invaders 8 to 2. Ted Lyons let the visitor down with five hits. They bunched three of these in the second inning for their only scores. Lyons was given perfect support, the fielding of Shively, Hummel and Mostil being outstanding. The box:

Babe Gets Homer, Though

CLEVELAND, Ohio, June 5 (AP)—The New York Yankees today sustained their worst defeat of the year, being beaten 15 to 3 by Cleveland.

The contest was replete with unusual happenings. In addition to holding New York to six hits, Pitcher Buekye of Cleveland made two singles, a double, and a home run in four times at bat and started a triple play in the seventh inning.

The bases were filled when Koenig hit a line drive to Buckeye. The latter's throw to Lutzke caught Gazella off the bag and Lutzke's throw to Burns found Paschal some distance away. In the third inning, Babe Ruth made his nineteenth home run of the season, five days ahead of his 1921 record. There was one on at the time.

George Burns, who leads the league in doubles, made his twenty-first and twenty-second two-base hits of the year and Meusel, leading base stealer, stole his twelfth base.

Prior to today, Penneck who was knocked off the rubber in the sixth inning, had won eight games in a row. On the other hand it was the first game started by Buckeye that he finished.

Prior to the game, Manager Tris Speaker of Cleveland was presented with the American League diploma in honor of his having been the most valuable player in the league in 1912. In honor of the occasion, Speaker returned to the game after a week's absence and made two hits, drove in a run, scored one, stole a base and accepted eight chances in center field.

DETROIT, June 5 (AP)—Ruel's hitting and Coveleskie's steady work in the box were too much for Detroit and Washington won the first game of their western invasion today 8 to 4. Ruel's single in the second and accounted for another, and his home runs in the sixth brought one other run besides his own. Johns and Daus were ineffective.

Double Defeat Lands Phils in Cellar Position

[By The Associated Press]
PHILADELPHIA, June 5—Philadelphia dropped into last place in the National League today by losing a double header to the Cardinals, 4 to 0 and 7 to 4. Flint Rhem hung up his ninth win of the season by blanketing the Phillies with six scattered hits in the first game. Hornsby hit a home run with one on base in the first inning of the opening fray. A cluster of four runs in the fourth inning knocked Clarence Mitchell out of the box and cinched the second game. In both contests the Phillies' rescue pitcher stopped the Cardinals in their tracks.

BOSTON, June 5 (AP)—Scores by Banerett, Welch, and Burrus in the first inning were sufficient to give the Braves a win over Cincinnati here today, 5 to 1. Two more runs were scored in the fourth and sixth frames. Benton held the Reds to six scattered bingles and struck out nine men.

VOTE FOR BROOKHART

—a step toward

—Prosperity for the farmer;
—Prosperity for the laborer;

—Prosperity for the merchant;
—Prosperity for all—except Wall Street Gougers.

Brookhart's Record

He Voted For:—

- McNary-Haugen Farm Bill
- Revenue Bill to Penalize Profiteers
- Daugherty Investigation
- Increase of sur-taxes on large incomes
- Aluminum Trust Investigation

He Voted Against:—

- The Cummins-Esch Bill
- Newberryism
- Ship Subsidy
- Mellon Tax Plan to Benefit Millionaires
- Charles Beecher Warren, Attorney for Sugar Trust
- Repeal of tax on big estates

To the People of Johnson County:

Do you wear the collar of the eastern political ring? Or do you do your own thinking? Are you going to vote next Monday to perpetuate the power of the coterie of eastern money changers who are now controlling the Republican party and pauperizing the people of the agricultural sections? This is not only the farmers fight for existence, but the merchants of Iowa City cannot prosper unless the farmers have the money with which to buy. It is the fight of all who depend upon the farmer as a customer.

Do you know what caused corn to drop in price from $1.80 to 25 cents per bushel in 8 months? It was the ukase of the Federal Reserve Board to the effect that farmers paper was worthless as security, that he should be given no further credit, and that he must forthwith redeem ten per cent of his notes. This is what is known as the "deflation" of the farmer. A small matter you say but sufficient to start the ball rolling, and it has been rolling ever since May 18, 1920 when the ukase went into effect. Since that time nearly 1,000,000 farmers in U. S., became bankrupt, and 300 banks have closed their doors. Shall the same bunch of radicals who care nothing for the woes and misery of the millions who suffered, be retained in power?

If you think so vote for Cummins, the artful dodger. He stood by Mellon, Fall, Denby, Daugherty, Doheny, Newberry and the entire "bunch" of "patriots" now controlling the destiny of the nation.

If you are a post master, ex post master, tentative candidate for postmaster, or other federal position, then vote for Cummins, he stands in with the bunch who hand out the "plums." But if you love your state, your homes, your family vote for a man who defies ring rule, and has labored in the interest of all the people of Iowa. If you are looking for a political sinecure if you are too lazy to work for a living vote for Cummins, and maybe he can procure a "job" for you.

Eleven per cent of the people of Iowa are holding down political jobs, everyone of whom will support Cummins. If Cummins ever put forth an effort in behalf of the people of Iowa (as distinguished from its office holders and office seekers) his campaign managers have been unable to point it out.

Secretary Wallace was crushed by the eastern autocrats when he tried for years as a cabinet member in behalf of throttled agriculture to get justice, but he got no aid or encouragement from Cummins. Senator Kenyon fought for years in the Senate in behalf of farmers, but he got no assistance from Cummins, and finally had to give up. The same bunch in Iowa that are now backing Cummins built back fires to the efforts of Secretary Wallace and Senator Kenyon. This same bunch of radicals attempted to have the office of United States Senator declared vacant because Brookhart was elected—attempted to deliberately rob him and the people who elected him, and then pretend to be shocked at bank and mail robberies. To their mind the honest man who exposed the secret meeting of the Federal Reserve Board and Daughertyism, is no real Republican or fit companion for political bucaners of the Cedar Rapids variety. This attempted robbery was dropped only when the machine decided that it would look better to oust him on a pretended contest. The Contest Committee adopted one rule where the rule would be a gain for Steck and an entirely different rule where the gain would have been for Brookhart.

Quoting from the speech of Senator Norris, which illustrates the high handed disregard for fair dealing, pursued by the Committee: "In one precinct, there were 20 ballots short, 20 less ballots sent the Committee than the number of persons who voted in that precinct, and Brookhart lost just exactly twenty votes. Does anyone think for a minute that it could be an accident that twenty votes should be taken out and every one of these votes would be a Brookhart vote? In Estherville Township, Emmett County, there was a shortage of twenty ballots, and later somebody sent the Committee 34 more ballots and said they belonged to that precinct. The Committee counted the ballots and in that case it was to Steck's advantage and Brookhart's loss."

In every instance where there was a discrepancy between the number of votes and the number of ballots, Brookhart lost. Why should we be surprised at the wave of crime sweeping over the country?

The return of Cummins to the Senate would be an acknowledgment that the people of Iowa are willing to be robbed—are willing to be "deflated"—are willing to be reduced to a state of peasantry—willing to have interest rates raised from 5 to 6 per cent to 6 and 8 per cent, at a time when there was more money in the United States, than ever before—when two-thirds of all the gold in the world was in the United States—are willing to have nearly a million farmers made bankrupt and over three hundred banks in Iowa closed; all in order that Daughertyism may be perpetuated and political jobs handed out to the "faithful," by a Senator who claims to have "influence" in the Mutual Admiration Society at Washington, and when that influence is used only in the advancement of himself and his political henchmen. A man whose only contribution to the laws in twenty years, is the Esch-Cummins law, that permits 5 3-4 per cent net income to the railroad's bond holders, regardless of mismanagement and extravagance—railroads which allow from $25,000.00 to $100,000.00 per year salaries to their officers; is not representing the people of Iowa.

Iowa Bank deposits shrunk from March to December 1920, $248,000,000.00 and Chicago and New York bank deposits increased in that period, $243,000,000.00. What did Cummins do to stop this bleeding of the people of Iowa, by the Eastern Machine? Nothing. During the World War, washerwomen, laboring men and all classes were ordered and forced to buy Government Bonds at 100 cents on the dollar. A few years later, when the Federal Reserve Board decided to deflate the Agricultural districts, these men and women were forced to sell these bonds at from 79 to 83 cents on the dollar to meet their taxes. Did Cummins ever raise his voice to prevent the big capitalists from making millions on this deal by buying up these bonds at 80 cents on the dollar and holding them until they are now worth 100 cents on the dollar?

Cummins' Record

He Voted For:—

- Cummins-Esch Bill
- Newberryism
- Ship Subsidy
- Mellon Tax Plan
- White-wash of Tea Pot Dome Scandal
- Seating Charles Beecher Warren, Attorney for Sugar Trust
- Suppression of further debate on World Court
- Aluminum Trust

He Voted Against:—

- McNary-Haugen Farm Bill
- Investigation of Attorney General Daugherty

MR. VOTER:

When you enter the ballot booth tomorrow let your conscience be your guide. That should mean the overwhelming election of SMITH W. BROOKHART

Grass will grow in the streets of Iowa City, and every town in Iowa if farmers are not given economic justice soon.

Cummins' record on farm relief is represented by a cipher.

American farmers' combined capital has shrunk $5,000,000,000.00 in last 5 years.—Frank O. Lowden.

The fate of farm relief hangs on Monday's primary election. If Cummins is chosen farm relief will be killed in Congress, if Brookhart is chosen agricultural legislation will be passed at this session. Which means the most to the people of Iowa City and Johnson county? Vote for that which will do the most for your home.
