Coolidge Opposes Tax Reduction

Congress Begins Legislative Work of Final Session

Budget Message, Tax Reduction, Supply Bill Introduced

[By The Associated Press]

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8 —With formal preliminaries of the new session out of the way, congressional leaders signaled today for a clear track in the hope of going through an assortment of legislative policies before final adjournment early in March.

Although the senate was in session only a few minutes, adjourning out of respect to Senator McKinley of Illinois, who died yesterday, the house got down to business in earnest.

President Coolidge's message transmitting the budget was read by the clerk, the democratic $335,000,000 tax reduction bill was shot into the hopper by representative Garner of Texas, and consideration was begun of the first supply bill—a mammoth measure carrying nearly one billion dollars for the treasury and postoffice departments.

Senate Defers Reading

Reading in the senate of the president's budget message, which forecast a $383,000,000 treasury surplus for the fiscal year ending June 30 and $200,000,000 for the next year, and reiterated the executive's opposition to permanent tax reduction at this time, was deferred until tomorrow.

The budget bureau recommended total appropriations for the coming fiscal years of $4,014,571,124, or $16,543,728 more than has been provided for this year. Reductions in the expenses of some branches of the government including $30,000,000 in interest on the public debt, were more than offset by increases made necessary by higher civil and Spanish war pensions and mounting costs of operating the veterans' bureau and postal service.

In expressing opposition to any immediate slash in tax rates, the president, in his message of transmittal, renewed his suggestion that another year's test should be given to the present revenue law and the extent of present prosperity sounded before permanent levies are altered.

Offer Tax Reduction Bill

He reiterated the proposal made in his annual message yesterday that the wise course would be to apply this year's surplus to a reduction of the public debt or return it to taxpayers. He left determination of which should be done to congress.

Informally offering his tax reduction program, representative Garner lost little time in challenging the president's position. His bill has the approval of Senator Simmons, of North Carolina, recognized spokesman of the minority in the senate on revenue questions, and of democratic leaders in both houses. It was referred to the ways and means committee, on which Garner is the ranking democrat. There it is expected to encounted the opposition of republicans, a number of whom, however, appear a bit lukewarm also to the president's recommendations.

The estimated $335,000,000 reduction in taxes called for in tre Garner program would be effected by a decrease in the corporation tax from 13 1-2 to 11 per cent and the repeal of automobile, amusement club dues and produce levies.

Appoint Funeral Committee

Today's session of the house lasted till mid-afternoon, when adjournment was taken out of respect to the late Senator McKinley who for years served as a representative. A committee was named to attend the funeral.

Selection of a senate funeral committee was announced at the brief session after a resolution of regret had been adopted. That was all the business transacted in the senate, although its elections committee gave to sub-committee, headed by Senator Goff, republican, West Virginia the task of investigating the reputed payment by Arthur R. Gould, Maine's new senator, of $100,000 to a Canadian official in connection with a railroad deal.

The appropriation bill which got before the house, provides among other things more than $27,000,000 for prohibition enforcement, about $12,000,000 for the prohibition unit and the balance, to finance coast guard warfare on rum runners.

Touching on appropriations for the national defense, the president urged congress to postpone construction of three light cruisers authorized at the last session. This, he said should be done in view of negotiations now in progress looking to further reduction of armaments.

League Proceeds Slowly on Plans for Disarmament

Chamberlain Warns Members to go Slowly; Believe United States Much Interested

[By The Associated Press]

GENEVA, Dec. 8 —The council of the League of Nations has adopted a policy of "making haste slowly" in its attitude toward world disarmament.

The council tonight took a distinct forward step for the limitation of armaments by requesting the preparatory commission of the dis- when an internation conference could be reasonably called, but coupled this request with the warning that it was wiser to move slowly than to risk wrecking the conference through insufficient preparations.

This warning, uttered by foreign secretaary Chamberlain of Great Britain was intepreted in League circles as directed especially to the people of the United States who are felt to be intensely interested in the reduction of armament burdens.

Appropriation Bill Stirs Prohibitionists

Liquor Question Splits House Committee; Question Bill

[By The Associated Press]

WASHINGTON, DeDc. 8 — The house today received the first of the annual appropriation bills—that for the treasury and postoffice departments, but after an hour's discussion adjourned before a threatened fight over prohibition could reach the floor.

Rumblings of the impending battle, however, entered the chamber with the committee report, disclosing that prohibition was the cause of a split in the appropriations committee that prevented a unanimous report—a rarity in supply bill history.

LINCOLN ANDREWS

The bill, which will provide $753,483,000 for postal service and $137,371,000 for the treasury, including $11,990,000 for the prohibition unit, came out of the committee with the opposition of three members who refused to concur in the enforcement appropriations. Gallivan, of Mass., and Cullen and Griffin, of New York, democrats, also objected to the proposed appropriation of $15,349,000 for the coast guard's dry law activities.

Two other members of the committee, representatives Vare of Pennsylvania, and Tinkham of Massachusetts, republicans, reserved the right to vote against certain prohibition provisions.

More "Under Cover" Agents

The request of assistant secretary Andrews for permission to increase to $500,000 the present $250,000 fund for expenses of "under cover" agents bore the brunt of representative Gallivan's attack. He plans to carry his opposition to the floor when consideration of the bill is resumed, probably on Friday.

Beer and wine were coupled with farm relief in a measure offered today by representative Black, democrat New York, which would creat a federal alcoholic board in the department of agriculture.

MANDDAN, N. D., Dec. 8 (AP) —A masquerade as a man for more than a year, during which she worked as hotel clerk, cement worker, miner and rodeo rider, ended today for Mrs. Dorothy Halling when she joined her husband on a farm near Price, N. D.

Her unmasking came when she cashed a check in Bismarck without having sufficient funds in the bank. She made good the amount of the check and paid a fine but police authorities of Bismarck and Mandan were suspicious, and called in a nurse and a physician. Discovery followed.

Known as "Bob" Watson, Mrs. Halling lived here for more than a year, doing a man's work.

Finkbine to Give Dinner Jan. 17

Representative Men of University Will be Guests of Honor

William O. Finkbine, '78, Law of Des Moines, alumnus and patron of the University is planning to give his ninth annual dinner to representative men of Iowa campus on Wednesday evening, Jan. 12.

At the request of Mr. Finkbine, Professor Forest C. Ensign of the department of education, has charge of the details of the dinner and the sending of invitations. The guest list of about one hundred names will include the president, or heads of the various men's organizations on the campus, such as fraternities, literary societies, boards of publication and captains of athletic teams. The deans of the various colleges will be guests at the dinner as well as several prominent alumni.

Personal invitations to the dinner will be issued immediately after the holiday vacation. Definite plans as to where the dinner will be held have not yet been made, but according to Professor Ensign, it will probably be held at the Iowa Union if satisfactory arrangements can be made. Professor Ensign asks students who know of men's organizations which have not formerly been represented at the Finkbine dinner to report the name of the organization and president to him.

The date for the ball was changed from Jan. 14 to Jan. 7. This change was made in order to avoid any interference with the Iowa-Michigan basketball game and the dedication of the new field house.

Fear No Shortage of Oil for Many Years

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8 (AP)—Danger of an oil shortage is not immenent," Delos D. Potter, of Denver, told the American Mining congress today, "as the Rocky mountain oil shale deposits have a potential oil production sufficient to supply the United States for several hundred years."

Stabilization of mineral production and eradication of labor difficulties were discussed by a half dozen speakers representing coal and metal mining industries.

Dramatic Critics See Play on Both Sides of Curtain

Interior Scene Altered to Forest; Limited by Small Stage

Editor's Note: The review of the University theatre play, "The Romantic Age," is given here in two sections. Milicent Smith writes one review, as she saw it from the audience. Allan Wortman records his impressions from behind the scenes.

When the curtain was raised last evening for the second performance of "The Romantic Age" by A. A. Milne, the audience was again entertained with incidents of ordinary life.

The audience saw before it in the first act a cheerful, well-furnished English country living room on a midsummer evening. Moonlight, streaming through the French doors added to the magic of the scene. The colorful and ultra-modern gowns of the women in the play interested the feminine element of the spectators. The second act carried the action to a scene in a forest early in the morning. It presented a fitting background for the meeting of the prince and Melisande.

Before the foot-lights the play progressed smoothly. The plot gradually unfolded, and the actors portrayed their characters to stimulate the right response from the audience.

Behind the Scenes

"Few audiences realize the great amount of work necessary effectively to produce a play," said Mr. Walter Roach, A4 of Iowa City, and stage director for the University Players. We were behind scenes during the first presentation of "The Romantic Age," and Mr. Roach was busy putting last minute touches to the set for the first act.

The stage was ready showing a living room in a modern home, the actors took their places, the orchestra signal was given, the house lights went out, footlights on, and the curtain rose. Some of the actors waited at the wings, listening for the cue. The stage crew sat behind the set where they could hear the conversation on the stage, waiting for their cue to change the set.

A peal of laughter was heard in the audience. "Different audiences will have different reactions to the same play," said Roach. "Tomorrow night the audience will not laugh at those lines, but will see something funny in lines that had no effect on tonight's audience."

Change Scene Hurriedly

"Get ready for the curtain," whispered the prompter who stood

Virginians Fill Flivvers from "Old Oaken Bucket"

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., Dec. 8 (AP)—Residents of the Marshall college section of Huntington today reaped a rich harvest of gasoline from their gas pipes when the pumps at the Standard Oil company storage tanks became connected with the mains of the Huntington Development and Gas company. Several hundred gallons of gasoline were pumped into the gas mains.

Stoves below the level of the gas mains spouted gasoline while many of the residents were said to have drained quantities of automobile fuel from meter connections.

Defense Objections Slow Murder Trial

Attempt to Discredit Testimony of Eye Witnesses

[By The Associated Press]

ALGONA, Dec. 8—Attempts of the defense to impeach the testimony of an eye witness to the fight in which the state alleges John Sipes of Spencer killed Dan Detling, Bemiji, Minn., required most of this afternoon's session of Sipes' trial here on a first degree murder charge.

It is claimed that Sipes, a garage man, quarreled with Detling over a repair bill.

The witnesses called to attack the evidence of Oscar Cunningham, who claims to have seen the fight, all swore that Cunningham's reputation for truth and veracity was not good. They were Mayor A. H. Avery of Spencer, Sheriff John N. Lidman of Clay county, and J. S. Markley, J. B. Duffy, Miss Barringer, book keeper at the Sipes' garage, and C. W. Baldwin, all of Spenser.

The transcript of evidence given at Sipes' first trial at Spencer by Clarence and C. W. McClurg, was introduced by the defense attorney over the strenous objections of the prosecution. This testimony was to prove Detling made threats against Sipes.

Corpse of Senator Wm. B. McKinley Arrives at Home

To Hold Public Services Friday in Champaign; Relatives Accompany Body

[By The Associated Press]

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., Dec. 8—The last journey of Senator William B. McKinley, one of the most widely traveled of America's statesmen was concluded today when his unpretentious casket was taken from the train which had borne it from Martinsville, Ind., where he died after a protracted illness.

The senator's nephew, George Mattis, with his siters, Mrs. Alan MacDonald and Mrs. T. J. Camp, accompanied the body to Champaign. A change in the funeral arrangements has eliminated the family services, which were to have been held at the home of Mrs. Ross Mattis, Mr. McKinley's sister. Mrs. Mattis, an elderly woman, was considerably worn by the strain coincident with her brother's illness and will attend public services Friday afternoon at the First Presbyterian church.

Line Up Farm Legislation

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8 (AP)—Quiet maneuvering is under way in the senate in an effort to line up enough southern senators behind the revised McNary-Haugen farm measure, now known as the "farmers equality bill," to assure its passage.

Farm Bureau Unified, Asks Aid; Fights Tax Refund

[By The Associated Press]

CHICAGO, Dec. 8 —At the head of twenty-eight resolutions adopted at the closing session of its convention today, the American Farm Bureau federation placed a demand upon congress for farm relief legislation providing for the handling of surpluses through a federal farm loan board empowered to assess an equalization fee distributing among producers of each commodity the cost of handling that surplus.

For the first time, cotton growers represented at the convention joined with growers of other crops in indorsement of the equalization fee, and farm bureau leaders hailed their act as insuring the passage before the end of the next session of congress, of farm legislation which agriculture chiefs have said will restore agriculture to an equal basis with industry and labor. Acquiesence of the south to the equalization fee principle, it was said, will bring to the support of the measure enough southern votes to pass it.

Order Muscle Shoals Sale

The farm bureau, in another resolution, scored the administration policy of refunding treasury surpluses to income taxpayers, and urged the use of such funds for retirement of the national debt.

Muscle Shoals, the convention asserted, must be speedily disposed of to a company which will supply fertilizer at low cost to the farmer. The federation went on record as favoring the proposal of the American Cyanamide company, and urged a farmer board of supervise the manufacture of fertilizer and its distribution.

"No Child Labor Law"

The farm bureau's opposition to the proposed twentietr amendment to the federal constitution, enacting child labor legislation, was reasserted after the resolutions committee had brought in no recommendation on it.

A school of cooperative marketing was urged for every agricultural college. Congress was asked for adequate emergency appropriations to halt the European corn borer. Revision and reduction of the freight rate structure, in accordance with the Hoch-Smith resolution was favored.

The delegates endorsed movements for a better understanding between agriculture and industry. The merchant marine, a resolution held, must be kept under American ownership, and provision should be made so that such ownership can more equally meet foreign competition.

Stop State Spending

The farm loan system "is not operating as efficiently as farmers have the right to expect," another resolution held," because of unsympathetic administration of the law and failure of the government to vest control of the system in hands of its farmer owners."

Tre convention urged completion of the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence waterway, as well as development of all inland waterways.

Phantom Robber Reappears in Phi Omega Pi House

Ascends Fire Escape, Ransacks Trunks; Gym and Other Houses Suffer Loss

The Phi Omega Pi girls are the latest victims of the daring dinner hour robber, who for the fifth time this year has succeeded in relieving sorority women of cash and valuables.

The thief showed painfully little initiative in his expedition last night for he entered and left in his routine way. He used the fire escape entrance, and ransacked trunks and coats. Only money was taken, the amount of which could not be ascertained.

Thefts at the women's gymnasium have occured during the lapse between the inter-sorority robberies, and the invader is undoubtedly sufficiently equipped with dancing costumes and swimming suits now and preferred a little more pocket money.

The other houses which have been entered this year are Alpha Chi Omega, Pi Beta Phi, Chi Omega and Delta Gamma. Delta Zeta and Kappa Alpha Theta have seen mysterious evidence of attehpts.

The series of sorority robbery tales this year breaks all precedents. If the robber imitates his predecessor of last year,he is about due to hibernate until May, when the attack will be begun upon fraternity houses.

Erdman Olson

Consider Offering $5,000 Reward for Erdman Olson

Board Chairman Authorizes the Acceptance of Subscriptions to Employ Detectives

[By The Associated Press]

PRAIRIE DU CHIEN, Wis., Dec. 8— Crawford county's board of supervisors today was called to hold a special meeting Friday to vote on a proposal that the county officially offer a reward of $5,000 for Erdman Olson dead or alive.

James Fisher, county board chairman, called the meeting in answer to popular demand following the suggestion of a citizen's committee that District Attorney J. S. Earll and Sheriff Harry Sherwood accept popular subscriptions to raise money for employment of private detectives.

Trace Olson's Flight

The proposed official reward does not contemplate engaging detectives It undertakes to furnish incentive to police and volunteers to bring to trial the missing 18 year old college student for the death of Clara Olson 22, who was beaten to death after going to a midnight meeting, with Erdman on Sept. 9, in obedience to a letter from him giving plans for elopement that their child might be born in wedlock.

Tracing Erdman's flight from the college at Galesville not far from La Crosse, it was found that he apparently made his get-away through Winona, Minn., on Oct. 1, three days after he left Galesville, according to county officers.

Erdman Seen in Winona

Winona police reported that on the day John H. Firth, Winona, gave a "lift" to a young man whom he said he was certain was the youth whose pictures and descriptions were broadcast as wanted for the murder.

Test Applicants for Rhodes Scholarship

One of Seventeen Will go to Oxford; Make Award Tomorrow

A Rhodes Scholarship will be awarded Friday morning to one of the seventeen remaining aspirants, who will be personally interviewed by the committee at that time. This evening at the Iowa Union, these men will be the guests at dinner of the committee, headed by Pres. Walter A. Jessup.

The committee which will individually interview each man Friday morning before making the award, consists of Pres. Walter A. Jessup and three former Rhodes scholars, J. H. St. John, acting secretary of the committee; Prof. David T. Nelson, Luther college, Decorah; and Prof. J. W. Woodrow of Iowa State college.

The scholarship, two of which are assigned to each state, consists or a sum of 400 pounds, about $1,600 a year for three years. The award this year is to replace an Iowa man who finishes at Oxford in June. The motive behind the award of these scholarships is to promote a feeling of understanding and harmony between England and the United States, by bringing well educated men of both countries into contact, rather than for any philanthropic reasons, according to St. John, secretary of the committee.

The three requirements upon which the award is based are; factor; interest in athletics, to keep the mind and body fit; civic interest and qualities of leadership.

Present Tax Bill to Silent Senate; Deadlock Possible

Republicans Hostile to Democratic Plan of Reduction

[By The Associated Press]

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8—The $335,000,000 democratic tax reduction bill was presented to congress today without a word of comment from the floor by its sponsor, Representative Garner of Texas. It was referred to the ways and means committee, in which he is the ranking minority member.

Endorsed by democrats in both houses, the measures proposes reduction of corporation taxes from 13 1-2 to 11 per cent and repeal of the automobile, amusement, club dues, and produce stamp taxes.

It is confronted by a hostile republican majority.

Coolidge Expresses Views

President Coolidge has come out in opposition to permanent tax reduction bill at this time, while chairman Green of the ways and means committee today announced he would oppose it.

Although Garner refrained from discussing his bill on the floor, he estimated in a statement that the treasury surplus at the end of the fiscal year would be at least $500,000,000, more than $100,000,000 above present expectations.

Senator Simmons, of North Carolina, the democrat's tax spokesman in the senate, said that if it should reach the senate he would propose amendments further reducing the rates on small individual incomes, also a slight reduction in tobacco taxes. He estimated his amendments would cut $20,000,000 from small individual incomes and $15,000,000 from tobacco.

Madden Agrees With Coolidge

In the house today the revenue question was touched on during debate on a supply bill by Chairman Madden of the appropriations committee, who asserted he was in favor of the presidents proposal for a tax credit and also a tax reduction measure. As members of the house took stock of the situation today, there was an apparent feeling that the president's plan for a tax credit could not muster a majority in both houses; and this led a number of house ways and means committee members to predict there probably would be no tax legislation at this session.

If a deadlock should develop and all tax proposals are buried, it was pointed out that existing laws provide for application of the treasury surplus to the reduction of the public debt.

Besides the democratic bill, the house received another tax measure. It would eliminate a $5 tax which the present revenue law will impose on American legion members who attend the Paris convention next year.

Jugo-Slavs "Don't Like" Italian Pact; Receive Cautions

Italo-Albanian Treaty Upsets Jugo-Slavia; Nation Plans Appeal to Powers

[By The Associated Press]

GENEVA, Dec. 8 —"Don't get excited; take it easy!" This is the counsel of the governments of Western Europe to Jugo-Slavia in connection with the strain put on the relations between Jugo-Slavia and Italy by reason of the Italo-Albanian pact, which Belgrade deems the first step towards an Italian protectorate over Albania.

Claim League Spirit Hurt

The Jugo-Slav spokesman denied tonight the Hungarian report trat Jugo-Slavia would quit the League of Nations unless it contrived cancellation of the treaty. On the contrary, he said, while his country regarded the pact as violation of the spirit of the league covenant, it must, like others, await some definite act by Italy of a nature to destroy the territorial integrity of Albania before applying to the league.

In the meantime the Jugo-Slavs insist that the Italo-Albanian pact is a flagrant violation of the protocol of 1924 between Jugo-Slavia and Italy, whereby these countries agreed to consult each other before concluding any arrangement of a political nature with Albania. They say that Jugo Slavia has been kept in the dark and that Premier Mussolini has been told frankly that Jugo-Slavia does not like it.

Want Balkans for Balkans

Furthermore, the Jugo-Slavs say they will demand a guarantee that there shall be no spoiliation of their neighbor Albania, under the terms of the four power convention of 1921 by which Great Britain, France Italy and Japan engaged not to violate the independence of Albania. Under the same instrument the powers have given a mandate to Italy to protect Albania provided any non-signatory power menaces that country.

Millicent Rogers' Count Forgets the Date He Married

Salm Recalls Financial Difficulties After Ceremony

[By The Associated Press]

NEW YORK, Dec. 8—Count Ludwig Salm-Hoogstraeten could not remember the date of his marriage to Millicent Rogers, Standard Oil heiress, when he took the stand in his separation action today but he told in detail of financial benefits, which he derived from the ceremony.

Under a rattling fire of personal questions by counsel for his wife, the count told how a penniless nobleman who married an American heiress could maintain himself in ease without work even fter his wife abandoned him.

Several times during the ordeal the count, a dashing figure in formal attire completely lost his composure and he and the oppossing attorney shouted at each other as if physical conflict were the only possible sequel.

Count Forgets Marriage Date

The high spots of the day's session was reached with the introduction of three long letters from the countess to her mother-in-law in which she repeatedly expressed her love for the count and the hope that her expected child would serve as an agent of peace between her husband and her father, Henry H. Rogers, who withheld his approval of the match.

"What was the date of your marriage?" Albert Conway, counsel for the countess, shouted, and the count leaned forward tensely in the witness chair, his face red with anger.

"I don't know," he shouted back even louder than the questioner.

Knew His Finances

The quizzing then turned to financial matters and the count's memory proved equal to the occasion. He said that expenses immediately after the wedding were defrayed with $2,500 paid him by a tabloid newspaper for a series of articles run over his name on "How I Wooed and Won Millicent Rogers." He said he did not write the articles, but authorized the use of his signature as author with his wife's approval.

When that money was gone, he said, the remaining expenses of the honeymoon on the Riveria were defrayed with money furnished by the bride. He also admitted under questioning that since his wife left him he never had done a day's work living on between $10,000 and $12,00 she had given him. When she left him, he said, she gave him an automobile and deposited $2,000 to his account, sending him other sums later.

The most heated clash of all came when Conway asked him if it was not true that a hotel bill he owed at the time of his marriage had been paid with the proceeds of bonds he got from his wife and sold. The count misunderstood the lawyer to have said "stole" instead of "sold."

Countess Paid for Ring

In connection with the financing of the honeymoon and the later life of the couple together, and after the wife left the count on Jan. 1, 1925. Conway asked Salm if it was not true that he had not even paid for the wedding ring. It was admitted that he had not specifically paid for it though he made obscure statements about its being a part of jewels he presented to her.

Countess Salm was not in court at today's session which was adjourned until tomorrow with the plaintiff still on the stand.

When the case was called, Conway told the court it was conceded that the count had a prima facie case because abandonment by the countess was admitted. He asserted, that the case would be fought since the defense held the New York court had no jurisdiction in that it considered the count an Austrian subject.

A pennant was presented to the junior class of the University high school by L. R. Kilzer, principal of the school, during Monday morning assembly. The pennant was awarded as a mark of appreciation for the services of the class in the preparation for the carnival recently sponsored by the school.

The pennant is finished in the class colors of Old gold with a dark blue background and shows the name of the class and the year in which its members will be graduated from the school.

W.A.A. Initiata to be Held Nex 15

Medals and Numerals Will be Given at Party

Women's athletic association has set Wednesday, Dec. 15, as the date for initiation of new members and awarding of numerals and medals.

The initiation will be in conjunction with the annual costume party.

Since early this fall the one hundred prospective members have been working for points through various athletic activities. A majority of girls earned points by taking fifteen half-hour swims. The next largest group hiked their way into W. A. A. Still others made first teams in hockey or volley ball and will count these points toward entrance. Three girls paddled to Coralville and back four times for points, and a few of the candidates were not required to earn points because they had passed the Seals swimming club try-outs.

After the initiation, awards will be made. Ruth Kennefick, A1 of Eagle Grove, and Mary Lingenfelt-awarded tennis medals, Constance Newell, G of Cedar Rapids, and Doris Rowe, A1 of Chicago, will receive medals for tieing for first in the novice swimming meet.

Other awards will be class numerals. Twenty 1930 numerals will be given to the freshman girls who made the class hockey or volley ball team. A number of other numerals will be awarded to sophomores, juniors, and seniors who have not previously made a class team.

No "I" sweaters will be given.

The party is being planned under the supervision of the playground class. Thelma Schomler, vice president of the association, is in charge.

Diversified Farming

NOW that Congress has convened again, the middle west once more turns toward Washington in search of farm relief. Agricultural conditions are bad; at least, the farmers think so.

And with the coming of the nation's solons to the capitol there also comes the newest edition of the Haugen-McNary farm relief bill.

Since the war the question of what to do with the farmers has cluttered up every meeting of Congress. The farmer sits at home and talks about relief, and every two or four years he makes a trip to the polls to vote for some candidate who has stood nobly upon a soap box, a hay rack, or some other convenient platform, and called forth to the several "votes" present that "I am heartily in favor of legislation that will give you farmers, you men who are the true backbone of the country, a fair price for your crop. And if I get to Washington I am going to introduce—." And so on—and so on—."

The fair price problem will never be solved as long as every farmer in each region continues to plant half of his acreage in one crop. As soon as the word diversification means more to the farmer than a way of preserving the fertility of his land, then the top-heavy surpluses in a few agricultural commodities will be done away with.

Should every farmer in Iowa, instead of planting half of his land in corn, a fourth of it in oats, and leaving the remaining fourth in pasture or hayland, divide his land up into several smaller groups and raise a variety of products—corn, oats, vegetables, rye, wheat—and feed a good sized herd of cows and hogs, the situation might be changed.

At present the market is usually flooded with corn from the corn belt, wheat from the wheat states, and cotton from the south. The other crops are raised as sidelines and sold at good prices, while the few large crops are crowded onto the market at a relatively much lower price.

Let's try a little program of education for farmers, instead of a lot of idealistic academic solutions from voluble politicians who get their statistics from political handbooks written by themselves.

Dancing Days

THE students of Cornell college, Mt Vernon, danced Saturday evening at a college party, for the first time in the history of the institution. And they danced without the approval of the powers that have been.

By a vote of 248 to 48, they over-rode the request of Joseph Meade, dean of men, that they await action by the board of trustees, and participated in the innocent pleasure of the dance.

Cornell is a Methodist college and has always banned dancing, although many of the nearby denominational schools have given in to the increased demand for this form of entertainment, and found themselves no worse for the sacrifice. To dance or not to dance has been a bone of contention between students and trustees for a number of years. Last year, the board agreed to act upon the matter. They did—long enough to consign the petition to the waste-basket, much to the disapproval of the majority of students.

It is evident that the majority of these students know how to dance and enjoy the pastime, or they would not be so anxious to participate in it. To them, dancing does not appear as a device of the devil. If they are old enough to attend college, to go out into the world and teach others, they are old enough to form their own opinions of wright and wrong and to adhere to them.

The board of trustees cannot follow these several hundreds of students into the world and insist that they hearken to a certain set of commandments or morals all their lives. Sooner or later, these young persons are bound to be thrust into a social life where dancing is the main recreation. If they have never been allowed to dance, then they will have a tendency to carry it to excesses undreamed of by those who have taken it as part of their education in school.

Any tolerant man must heartily comment the action of the students in maintaining their natural rights, and hope that officials of the school will be big enough to rise to the level of the students and approve school dances in the future.

Our Rights

STATES are very similar to persons. One must be careful, in using metaphors, that they be truly symbolic; but this is hardly a metaphor. States are persons, grouped together for the sake of economy and safety. It is therefore permissible to judge that states, under certain circumstances, will act something like persons under the same circumstances.

Every individual is his own government. He has within his mind executive, legislatie, and judicial branches, and the more perfectly these function, the more effective is his life.

Every person has also his diplomatic problems, and as one "state" comes into contact with another, the diplomatic corps must get busy. A simple recognition of the sovereign rights of each "state" will generally promote smooth "international" relations.

Of course there are always a few outlaws who refuse to recognize this moral law and who march boldly into another's domain, reaking injury as they go. But does the injured "state" find it necessary to "knock him in the jaw?" Not if he is wise. The organization of "states" has created certain agencies for the enforcement of the law, and by the use of these agencies, order is quickly restored.

Of course, human nature has learned by experience to guard itself against its own weaknesses. Our first impulse following an insult comes to us from the "Stone Age," and we would be likely to shoot if we could immediately lay hands on a gun.

It seems very strange that, recognizing the efficiency of this arrangement among individuals, the United States cannot see its possibilities with regard to actual states. Why should a nation be armed with large forces of men any more than individuals should be armed? Why cannot a system of international legislatures, international courts, and international police be as effective as our national ones?

As individuals we are a civilized world. We are organized and we trust the representative institutions we have created; but as states we are still in the dark ages. As individuals we recognize the rights of the weak, of the minority, but the small, weak states are forever in danger of their lives and they have no rights that cannot be easily disregarded.

Can the United States, who believes so thoroughly in government and organization for herself, continue to be an anarchist defying organization of the great World State?

Reparations

THE ways and means committee of the house has outlined a tentative bill to provide for the immediate return of 80 per cent of German property held by the alien property custodian, for payment of 50 per cent of the value of the German ships, patents, and radio stations, and for the full payment of the smaller awards and 70 per cent of the larger awards. The remainder in each case will be paid when funds are available.

This bill is assured of non-partisan action and should pass both houses easily. Representative Green, republican from Iowa, is chairman of this committee.

From $50,000,000 to $100,000,000 will be needed to meet these payments.

The plan to return property seizures made during the war, when nationalistic spirit was running high, is highly commendable. These seizures were perhaps necessary and made from justifiable motives, but all that is past history now.

The German and American people no longer bear the hatred that was part and parcel of the great war. Both realize that their hatred was stimulated by propaganda and now is cold. The Germans are facing their situation with a bold heart and we can no more than live up to their standard.

The return to war-time spoils is a tribute to Wilsonian ideals. It is an effort to reconcile the inequalities arising from the world conflict. The bill outlined by the ways and means committee should be passed so that all lingering animosities may be cancelled and so that both nations may be reinstated in amicable relations.

Poems That Live

The Sea Gypsy

I am fevered with the sunset,
I am fretful with the bay,
For the wander-thirst is on me
And my soul is in Cathay.

There's a schooner in the offing,
With her topsails shot with fire,
And my heart has gone aboard her
For the Islands of Desire.

I must forth again tomorrow!
With the sunset I must be
Hull down on the trail of rapture
In the wonder of the sea.

Views and Reviews of the Latest in Print

Jerome K. Jerome, famous as the author of "Three Men in a Boat" and "The Passing of the Third Floor Back," has just published "My Life and Times." It is full or anecdotes and denunciations of America. "Three Men in a Boat" was pirated in America and he never received a cent from the American publishers. And after writing "The Passing of the Third Floor Back" for David Warfield and David Belasco, they turned it down and repudiated the contract, he says. They were sorry afterwards, of course, when Sir Johnston Forbes-Robertson brought the play to America and made a fortune out of it. But these experiences and others did not endear this country to Jerome.

Once Jerome had hopes of selling a play to Daniel Frohman. "My Wife," writes Jerome "thought it would be an artful plan to lunch him well first and talk business with him afterwards. He accepted our invitation.

"We felt we had him in our hands. It was a gorgeous lunch. There was caviare and a stuffed bird with tricky things in French. For two days and a half my wife had lived with Mrs. Beeton (author of a cook book). I saw to the cocktails myself, and after there was Chateau Lafitte and champagne.

"I can still see my wife's face when Froman, in his grave, emphatic way, explained that his digestion did not allow him to lunch; but might he have a few of the greens and some dry toast with a glass of apollinaris?"

* * *

After one experience Jerome never attended an opening night at one of his plays. Throughout the progress of the play the audience had applauded vigorously; but when he was called before the curtain he was loudly booed from the gallery. The logic of the London audiences, says Jerome, is curious: they think that if a man is willing to be lauded he ought also be willing to be kicked. And he tells of a fellow playwright who refused to be called before the curtain and cries from the gallery came: "Come and take your punishment like a man!"

* * *

I could never have imagined that an expert contriver of tales of mystery and horror like Sir Arthur Conan Doyle would ever be taken in by the fictional inventions of another author. But Jerome relates that he gave Sir Arthur a copy of Arthur Machen's "The Three Imposters" and Doyle returned it the next day saying that it had given him the creeps so he could not sleep all night.

* * *

William J. Locke, according to Jerome, used to relate stories of the descendants of Baron Munchausen, whom he lived near in France. The whole family kept up the tradition for tall-tales begun by their famous ancestor. An heirloom they particularly prized was the sling used by King David in his victorious contest with Goliath. Locke had examined it and judged it to be at the most 25 years old.

* * *

The reason Anthony Hope quit writing, according to Jerome, was that he inherited a large sum of money and since he had written only because he had to, he quickly relinquished the oppressive trade.

Of W. W. Jacobs, the novelist, Jerome says: "All he wants is a pipe, two Scotch whiskies a day, and a game of bowls to make him happy. I once asked him why he was afraid of Socialism. I promised him—I offered to personally guarantee it—that under Socialism all his simple desires would be assured to him.

" 'I don't want things assured to me,' he answered crossly. 'I'd hate a lot of clever people fussing about, making me happy and doing me good. Damn their eyes'."

Dear Sir—My stenographer recently had a diamond ring lost. She has not accused me of taking it but I think she suspects me. For the last several days she has been rummaging through my drawers in the evening when I leave. I DO NOT LOVE YOU NOW

Your eyes that smile at all the world beside
That once have smiled at me
Your mouth so red—though just a trifle wide—
Oft kissed and made to be.
That mad delirium full of shattered stars
Steals like a soft perfume
And makes your doom
To haunt a tomb;
That's life with glittering gilded bars.
And yet I do not love you now; today
Enchantment binds me not to think and say
My love; my heart heeds not your bid.
Faithless? Well, not exactly, for it never did.

Who's Who AT IOWA

"Athletics provide the best opportunity there is of the proper construction in how to live, and the best opportunity there is for the proper development of the physical and therefore, the mental side of plastic young manhood. Too few of the male students take advantage of the opportunities that athletics afford. That is my pet peeve—to see a husky, healthy boy, big enough to do something in athletics not taking advantage of the opportunities afforded. The reason is that too many are willing to concede the fact that they have no chance for the team. They think it is harder than it really is. The only difference in high school and college athletics is that the boys are older and as a natural result faster, stronger, hit harder, and are perhaps, a bit more conscious."

"Doc" Fieseler, as he popularly called, is, if E. G. Schroeder of the physical education department be excluded, the oldest man in point of service to the present athletic department. He assumed his present position in the university on Jan. 1, 1921. "Doc" was born in Iowa City on Valentine's day in the year 1895. He is a graduate of the Iowa City high school (1913), and of the Iowa college of medicine (1920). During the year 1917 he was director of athletics at Cherokee high school. "Doc" won a varsity "I" as guard and center on the Iowa basket ball five and prior to the assumption of his present position he held an internship in the University hospital.

He is one of the busiest men in the athletic department, as he is medical supervisor to Iowa's athletic team and is continually handling all sorts of cases from broken bones to minor injuries such as, jammed fingers, etc. His office is literally filled with pictures of Iowa athletes, and he can tell you all about any of them. Athletics are his sole interest. One little clipping above the doctor's desk caught my eye. It was entitled, "Today's Prayer," and read something like this; "Please, God, help me each day to keep my damn nose out of everybody else's business." Quite a valuable little bit of philosophy—that.

The doctor has made an unusual study of the success of athletes after they leave school. "From reports of over six hundred former athletes, they are as a rule successful. Athletic ability does have something to do with it. If a man is successful in one thing he is liable to succeed in most things he undertakes. Athletes usually show good judgment in choosing their life vocation and they carry the athletic thought and determination into their work. Good athletes are generally above the average as students."

Iowa Alum "No Spicks English;" Iowa Professor Takes Wrong Cue

George Cram Cook, alumnus of Iowa and afterwards Professor of English in the university was a "hero without a novel," according to Roy C. Flickinger, head of the Latin and Greek department.

"In 1923 I visited Delphi in a party. The first evening in the dining room of the Pythian Apollo hotel a large, dignified gentleman came in and sat down at an adjoining table. He was clad in the national Grecian costume including a short skirt (funestella) and big red pompoms on the points of his shoes.

"Naturally, we all thought he was a Greek, and in English we began to talk about him. One member of the party said, 'The Greeks are often thought of as small people but isn't that a magnificent human specimen at the next table?' All of us chimed in with our own opinions—which fortunately, were not uncomplimentary— and the stranger did not by the flick of an eye disclose the fact that he understood every word we were saying.

"A few minutes later a lady, in the conventional costume of western Europe, joined the gentleman at the next table and immediately struck up an animated conversation in English, to the surprise and consternation of our company. We availed ourselves of the first opportunity to inquire of the landlord who these people were. He said that the guest was an American, George Cram Cook, and his wife was an English novelist. They were not merely visiting Delphi but residing there with the idea of seeking local color for a story, so Mr. Cook was trying to facilitate this process by dressing in the costume of his intended hero.

"A few months later we learned in Athens that Mr. Cook had taken sick at Delphi and had died before the nearest doctor could be summoned—since there are no doctors available in the tiny hamlet that has sprung up around the sight of the ancient precinct of Apollo."

Mr. Cook's third wife, Susan Glaspell, the English novelist, has written a book, "The Road to the Temple," which is a biography of her husband.

George Cram Cook attended the University of Iowa from 1889 to 1892. In the year 1893 he attended Harvard. He taught English at this university from 1895 to 1899 at Leland Stanford university from 1902 to 1903. When he gave up teaching he became a farmer. "In this, as in almost everything else he did, he was not inefficient," says the review in the London Times Supplement.

Prof. Harry G. Plum, of the history department, who was a student at Iowa when Professor Cook taught here, says of him, "He was thoroughly democratic, a great favorite of the students, and enthusiastic in his teaching. He always kept open house, and many students visited him."

Christmas Cantata Planned for Next Vespers Service

Orchestra and Choir Give The Righteous Branch

The Righteous Branch, a Christmas cantata by Henry Clough-Leighter, especially orchestrated under his direction for use at the coming vesper service, will be presented under the auspices of the school of music in natural science auditorium, Sunday Dec. 19, at 4:30 p. m. Prof. Phillip G. Clapp, head of the school of music, will direct the work, assisted by Prof. Frank Kendrie and Prof. Walter Leon of the instructional staff.

Players Honored

The program will start at 4:30 instead of the regular hour as Kenneth V. A. Forbes, G4 of Burlington, university orchestra president and cellist, and Donald Weider, J4 of Iowa City, first basoon, will play in the Tri-Cities Symphony orchestra at Davenport in the morning. Membership in this orchestra is an unusual and unique honor for members of the university orchestra.

The vesper choir of over 100 men's and women's voices, and the entire university orchestra, numbering more than 90 pieces, will take part in the cantata. The solo parts will be taken by Mrs. Onabelle Ellett, G of Iowa City, soprano; Mrs. Mildred Blanxious Paddock, instructor in voice, contralto; Marlin Lerch, A2 of Davenport, tenor; and Brenton M. Hammill, M4 of Onawa, bass.

A Well-known Composer

Henry Clough-Leighter, composer of The Righteous Branch is one of Iowa's best-known composers, choir masters, and musical editors. He has gained a nation-wide reputation through his connections with such publishing houses as Oliver Ditson and company, the Boston Music company, the A. P. Schmidt Music company, and others. His best-known large work is the festival cantata, Christ of The Andes.

"The vespers committee deeply appreciates the splendid cooperation given by the school of music in making our programs a success," said Prof. C. E. Cousins of the romance language department and acting head of the vespers committee. The Christmas musical program has always been one of our most popuar and gala attractions. It never fails to attract large numbers of students. The auditorium was jammed at last year's vesper program when Handel's Messiah was performed, and those who wished good seats came unusually early."

Rabas Elected Captain

George Rabas, a senior at Iowa City high school, was elected captain of the track team for 1926-27 at a meeting of the track team which was held last night.

Nutting Will Give Baconian Lecture

Prof. Charles C. Nutting, head of the zoology department, will give the next Baconian lecture tomorrow evening at 7:00 o'clock, in the chemistry auditorium. He will speak on "The Evolution of Zoological Science and its Present Trend."

Professor Nutting has been connected with the zoology department of the University of Iowa for forty-one years. He has seen the development of systematic zoology to which he has contributed and he is thoroughly informed on the present trend toward experimental zoology.

Next Debate Sees Iowa vs. Illinois

"U. S. Should Cancel War Debts" Will Be Argued

The second intercollegiate debate of the year will take place Thursday, Dec. 16, when the University of Illinois team comes to the local campus. On the following night, another University team will debate at the University of Illinois. In each case the home institution will present the affirmative of the proposition: "Resolved, That the United States should initiate a movement to cancel the allied war debts." The debates will be decided by the vote of the audience and by the vote of the critic-judge.

The Iowa representatives at home are Fred W. King, A3 of Hawarden, Henry N. Newman, A3 of Davenport, and Fred Webber, A1 of Fairfield. Neuman debated against the University of Kansas last year, but the other two team numbers are without intercollegiate debate experience.

The team that will represent Iowa at Illinois is composed of Edward Robinson, A4 of Fort Dodge, who was in the Minnesota and South Dakota debates last year; Alfred F. Riedel, A1 of St. Paul, Minn., who has had intramural experience as a debater; and James Bellamy, A3 of Knoxville, who represented South Dakota Wesleyan at the national Pi Delta Kappa debate tournament at Estes Park, Colo., last year.

The dual debate with Illinois replaces this year the Minnesota-Illinois-Iowa triangle, which was abandoned last year when Minnesota and Illinois failed to agree over the judges.

Students May Study First Editions of Shakespeare in Case at Library

Were Shakespeare to walk through the reading room of the main library and look into the glass show case in front of the desk, he might frown: for there on exhibition are facsimilies of two quartos and two folios of his play, "Hamlet." Shakespeare wrote not for the reader but for the theater-goer. His plays were first given on the stage then copied from the lips of the actors during the performance, and published in book form in the quartos.

The recent reproductions of quartos in the library present earliest form in which it was made accessible to the reading public. One play is included in each quarto. In one of the library copies of the Hamlet quarto, dated 1603, is a reproduction of the title page of the very first quarto printed. The second quarto, of 1604 is also there in exact likeness.

Invaluable Volumes

Two folio editions are in the case, Folio of 1623. The folio is a collection of plays. The First Folio is intrinsically the most valuable volume in the whole range of English literature, and intrinsically is only exceeded in value by some half dozen volumes of far earlier date and of exceptional typographical interest," according to Sir Sidney Lee, Shakespearian critic. Only fourteen of the First Folios are in a quite perefct state, with the portrait printed (not inlaid) on the title page and the fly leaf facing it, with all the pages succeeding it intact and uninjured.

Monument Without a Tomb

One of the library folio reproductions shows the printed picture of Shakespeare. The fly leaf contains Ben Johnson's verses attesting the truthfulness of the portrait. In the Second Folio is a remarkable tribute to Shakespeare by Ben Johnson, his rival—more studious but less renowned. "Thou art a monument without a tomb," he wrote in the peculiar spelling of the day.

A folio is the size of a newspaper folded four tims; a quarto the size of a newspaper folded eight times, or to half the size of the folio. The Hamlet reproductions are of unusual interest in view of the fact that the play is now being studied by English classes, 23, and will be given on the stage by the University Players in February.

This is the second exhibition of its kind, the first having been a display on Chaucer. The works have been placed on exhibition by request of Prof. Ernest P. Kuhl, of the English department.

"Football prospects for next year," he went on, "depends on how many of our freshmen stay in school. As far as the present varsity is concerned we will have a good nucleus for next year. We lose only Capt. Smith, O'Neal, Rice, Hines, Olson, Hogan, and Voltmer. We need every man available, however, but nevertheless, I predict a much better team than the 1926 eleven, judging from the experience the boys have gained in conference competition."

The Big Ten quality of basket ball which will be displayed this season, he thinks, is destined to be better as a whole. There was no outstanding team last year in Big Ten basket ball circles. Michigan and Wisconsin seem to be sure of top positions this year, but in general, each contender will be somewhat improved over the 1925 teams. Thus in order to win the title,, the victor must be a stronger club than any team was last year."

Tryout for Annual French Play Soon

"Pattes de Mouche" by Sardou, Presented in February

The first tryouts for the annual French play, this year, "Pattes de Mouche" by Sardou, will take place Saturday, Dec. 11 at 1:30 o'clock in the liberal arts auditorium. According to Mrs. Dorothy Carr Murray, graduate assistant in the romance languages department and director of the play, all students who are interested in French are invited to try out. The play will be presented in the natural science auditorium, Feb. 25 and rehearsals will begin immediately after Christmas.

Prof. Charles E. Young, Prof. E. K. Mapes, Prof. A. J. Dickman, and Miss Josephine M. Daus, members of the romance language department, will be the judges of the tryouts.

"Pattes de Mouche" is a mouern French comedy which has often been played under the English name "A Scrap of Paper." The plot centers around "Les Pattes de Mouche," an old love letter of wnich the protogonists are both trying to get possession. There is a minor plot built around a romantic young couple for whom the course of true love never does run smoothly.

Copies of the play have been placed on reserve in the romance languages library, room 3 LA, and can be read in the library.

Latzo Slugs Way to Ten Round Win Over Joe Simonich

Whirlwind Rally Gives Welter Champion Decision

[By The Associated Press]

NEWARK, N. J., Dec. 8 —Rallying gamely in the last five rounds, Pete Latzo of Scranton, Pa., world's welterweight champion, slugged his way to a ten round victory over Pete Simonich of Butte, Mont., in the Newark armory tonight.

Returning to the ring after an absence of six months, Latzo caught a rugged and aggressive foe in Simonich, who carried off the first four rounds of the fight with a battering two handed attack.

The Montana man tired in the latter rounds under his exertions, however, and Latzo, carrying the battle to his foe with a whirlwind comeback received the decision of newspaper critics at the ringside.

Latzo's title was not at stake, both boxers fighting at catch weights.

Monte Munn, former Nebraska football star, stopped Gordon Munce of New York in the second round of a ten round heavyweight preliminary match.

The referee interrupted hostilities to save Munce from further punishment after he had been felled eight times by the mid-westerner's heavy clouts. Munn weighed 213 1-2; Munce, 205 1-2.

The semi-final produced ten rugged rounds of slam bang fighting with Phil McGraw of Detroit outpunching Johnny Ceccoli of Scranton, Pa., in the opinion of newspaper men.

Simpson to Open Ames Cage Season Dec. 22

AMES, Dec. 8 (AP)—Iowa State college will open the basket ball season here Dec. 22, in a game with Simpson college, athletic authorities announced tonight.

The schedule as announced after the Missouri Valley conference meeting had Marquette as the first foe, on New Year's day, but it was later discovered the Wisconsin school's letter of acceptance was intended for Iowa University not Iowa State.

Mrs. William Mousley Buried

BOX AT SIOUX CITY

SIOUX CITY, Dec. 8 (AP)—Eddie Morris and Morrie Schlaifer, Sioux City welterweights, have been signed to box ten rounds in the main event of a card to be staged here on the evening of Dec. 20.

Schlaifer, who was one of the leading contenders for the welterweight crown, has been doing little fighting for the past year. He has announced that he intends to stage a comeback. Morris has won both of his last fights by knockouts.

Approve Date for Prep Track Meet

Hold Cinder Carnival in New Field House February 22

Sanction for the date of February 22 for the sixth annual invitation interscholastic track and field meet held by the University of Iowa has been received by Coach G. T. Bresnahan.

The national federation of state high school athletic associations, through C. W. Whitten of DeKalb, Ill., has given official approval of the date.

For the second time, the meet will be given an interstate aspect. Invitations will be dispatched to high scrools in the states of Minnesota, Illinois, Indiana and Wisconsin as well as to the 750 schools in Iowa.

Eight track and four field events are on the program. The meet will be the first large track affair held in the new field house where the cinder circuit will be the largest indoor one in the country.

Sport Briefs

[By The Associated Press]

George Sisler, deposed playing manager of the St. Louis Browns, postively will play first base for that club next summer, says Dan Howley, his successor as pilot.

George Duncan thinks it would be Britain's advantage to move its open golf championship to the first week in June, thus avoiding conflict with the date of the American open event. The dry hard condition of British courses late last June aided the "drive" and "pitch" game of conquering American players, says the former British title holder.

His quest of heavyweight honors in America temporarily terminated, Franz Diener today is returning to his native Germany. Diener was decisively beaten last week in a ten round bout at New York by Jimmy Maloney of Boston.

Barney Dreyfuss will stand pat on his present Pirate team for the 1927 race. "Nothing to buy and nothing to sell," says the Pittsburgh team owner. "There will be no change except that we'll win the pennant."

Columbia University has approved the classification of basket ball as a major sport. Columbia's quintet in the eastern inter collegiate basket ball league last season carried off the championship for the first time in twelve years.

Illinois Boxing Body Backs Yanger's Verdict

CHICAGO, Dec. 8 (AP) — The Illinois athletic commission in an official ruling today backed up the decision of Referee Benny Yanger, last Friday night in which he awarded a decision to Mickey Walker, crallenger, in his ten round fight with Tiger Flowers for the middleweight championship. The commission ruled it was not warranted in changing the decision and also decided there was no collusion or crookedness on the part of the referee in rendering his decision in favor of Walker. The commission also decided that after Jan. 1, two judges in addition to the referee will decide all contests, the same plan used by the New York athletic commission.

Twenty-Nine Men Work Out Daily for Weight Triathlon

Twenty-nine weight men are now reporting daily to Coach Thomas E. Martin in preparation for the annual weight triathlon to be held Saturday at 1 o'clock at Iowa Field. All of these men will compete in the triathlon, sixteen in the freshmen division and thirteen in the varsity. Martin states that there still is a shortage of freshmen and he would like to have more first year men enter the meet. There are several freshmen in school who made good records in high school but they have failed to report.

It is doubtful if Emerson "Spike" Nelson, winner of the varsity division last year will be able to compete. His leg has not responded to treatments and the old football injury may keep him out of the meet. He has done no work on the weights since the football season, but if his leg is O. K. he will enter the meet Saturday.

Blacks Win 9-7 in Color Cage Tourney

One basket decided the winner of the Black-Yellow game last night in the women's color basket ball tournament. The Blacks won by a 9 to 7 score. This is the second game of the tournament.

Rosemary Royce, A1 of Iowa City was high scorer for the Black team with three baskets. Dorothy Denkmann, A3 of Durant, playing guard for the Blacks often spoiled a possible score for a Yellow goal. Claire Cotton made all of the Yellow team's points.

Two more games of the round robin color tournament will be played tonight at 4:30. Gold and Lavender will play first, to be followed immediately by the Whites and Pinks. Names of members of these squads are posted on the gymnasium bulletin board.

The lineup for the Black-Yellow game was: Blacks—McClure and Royce, forwards; Epperly and Stevens, centers; Denkmann and Lohman, guards; Yellows—Travis and Cotton, forwards; Jenkins and Studer, centers; Lang and Sargent, guards. Genevieve Miller, refereed.

Hannigan Leads Navy

ANNAPOLIS, Dec. 8 (AP)—"Ned" Hannigan, of Washington, D. C., today was elected captain of Navy's 1927 football team. Hannigan has played quarterback for two years.

Season Tickets Responsible for Gridmen's Trips to Dances, Movies

If, each time you go to the Varsity dance hall on Friday or Saturday, or the Englert, Garden, or Strand theaters and see varsity "I" men in football drop in one by one, don't worry about their health or dissipation, for they are not breaking loose from training and making up for the strenuous fall season, as it would seem. They are merely taking advantage of the season passes given them by these entertainment houses.

Neither Bob Sibert or Eddie Flinn of the Varsity, nor Al Davis of the Englert and Garden theaters, nor Charles Brown of the Strand would comment on the passes when asked abot the details of the liberality, but it is said by their friends that they wanted to show their appreciation for the fight which the team put up this year and for the hard and unselfish sacrifices they made this fall.

The Varsity and the Englert and Garden theaters issued twenty-three season passes and the Strand presented eighteen to the fighting gridmen.

After all, it's lots of fun to be an athlete—at least after all the hard work is over and he begins to reap the gains.

But the nightly attendance at theaters and dance halls by men clad in Old Gold sweaters must not be construed to mean that any sudden inheritance has dropped into the Hawkeye football camp. And the craze for the movies and continued indulgence in the terpsichorean pastime from week-end to week-end is easily explained if you just stop to "ask the man who owns one."

Des Moines Five Makes 81 Baskets to Win 168 to 0

DES MOINES, Dec. 8 (AP)—Eighty-one baskets and six free throws for a total of 168 points., were scored tonight in a game of the city amateur basketball league. The Old Pal quintet ran up the big score over the Combat Train five of Fort Des Moines, which failed to get a single tally.

Dramatic Critics See Play on Both Sides of Curtain

close to the stage near the front wing, nervously watching the manuscript of the play. The stage crew got ready for the shift of the set. The cue was heard and the curtain dropped.

Immediately the scene on the stage changed. The furniture was removed to behind the set, rugs were carried out. A large tree was brought in and placed, a stump was set near it, and several pieces of logs were scattered on the floor. A few pieces of the set were removed and a piece fitting a forest scene was fastened in place. The other pieces of the set were covered by long, black cloths. The stage spots were refocused on the new playing centers.

Second Act Proceeds

Behind the scenes the actors were changing costumes for the next act, and arranging the portable properties. Those who started the act came on stage, and the stage crew withdrew to the wings. Again the orchestra signal was given, lights fixed, and the curtain rose for the second act.

The perspiring stage crew gave a sigh of relief. "We rush through a quick change of sets, and trust to God that it is up right and stays up," Roach said. "We are hampered by the close quarters of this stage and must use unusual means to get the right effect. In a larger stage, where there is plenty of room at both sides, two complete sets can be built, and when the change is made, one can be shifted to the side, and another brought on stage. This is quicker and much easier. There is less danger of getting the wrong lights then too, for the lights can be fastened to the sets, and moved with them.

Here he slowly pulled a rheostat and more light was thrown on stage, giving the effect of the sun rising. The change was made slowly and evenly, not to distract attention from the actors.

Scene Building Interesting

"The scene-changing is hard work, but interesting," he added. "Perhaps the least interesting work of all is the tearing down of sets after the last presentation. It is interesting to plan a new set and build it, for the results of the effort can be seen."

We listened to the conversation on stage. As the play ended, the curtain dropped, then rose again for the first call. The actors came behind scenes talking and laughing, and were congratulated by other members of the cast. It was more like a party than the end of the presentation of a play upon which weeks of preparation had been spent.

As Wally Roach said, "Not all the art is seen by the audience. The acting must be good, the set must be good, and the work behind the scenes must be equally as good."

"Ducky" Holmes Made Prexy of Lincoln Club

ASHEVILLE, N. C., Dec. 8 (AP) —"Ducky" William Holmes, well known as a player, umpire, and manager in baseball for more than twenty-five years, announced today that he had been made president of the Lincoln club of the Western league.

Holmes said he hoped to buy the club later. L. F. Arnold, former president, announced his retirement in a telegram to Dale Gear, president of the league.

Legion Bowlers to Meet Cedar Rapids Quintet Tomorrow

First bowling competition with a foreign team will take place tomorrow night when the bowling team of the local American Legion post meets the Legionnaires of Cedar Rapids at Dee Brothers alleys.

The match will begin promptly at 7:45 p. m. The Cedar Rapids bowlers, under the management of Rufus Culver, are reputed to have a strong team, but the Iowa City men have a picked team of Legion men from all the teams in both leagues. The five who will represent the Iowa City Legionnaires will be chosen from the following men, according to L. A. Linder, the local bowling manager; McInnerney, Wilcox, Barrows, Records, Swain, Hungerford, Hogan, Linder, Cox, and Snaveley. These men have the highest bowling averages and are the logical candidates for the team.

Two Veterans in Lineup as Irish Start Campaign

Alumni Battle to Test Power of New Green and White Five

St. Patrick's basket ball team will meet its first opposition when it opposes the Alumni on the St. Patrick floor tonight at 8 o'clock. After three weeks of intensive drill in fundamentals, the Irish are ready for one of the stiffest schedules in the history of the school.

The Alumni fray tonight is merely a test battle to give Father Volz, Irisr mentor, a chance to size up his material. Faced with the lose of three men from last year's quintet, which went through the regular season undefeated, the outlook for another successful season is not so bright.

Glasgow, Kelleher Back

Captain Glasgow, center, and Kelleher, forward, are the only remaining members of the 1925-6 team. Glasgow, however, was the main factor in the Irish scoring machine last year and made the most points of any prep cager in the city. Kelleher, who played center last year, has been shifted to forward and his mate will take over the pivot job.

The task of replacing Kelly and Grady, guards, was the biggest task facing Father Volz this year. In Walsh he has a small, but aggressive defender who can also contribute a few points during the course of the fray. Reed and Mulhern are the leading candidates for the other guard berth and Reed will probably get the call tonight.

New Men at Forward

Wilkinson and Roberts, both inexperienced men, are fighting for the other forward berth with Wilkinson getting the call most of the time. He will probably start the game tonight.

The Alumni, boasting a group of former Green and White stars, should put up a hard battle. Their lineup is uncertain, but Malone and Walsh will probably start at forwards, Clark at center, and Kelly and Tobin guards.

Builders of a National business

Operating more than three hundred stores, throughout the East and middle West, the Kresge chain constitutes a great national merchandising institution.

The remarkable success of the S. S. Kresge Company will be surpassed by still greater growth. New stores are frequently being added. These require experienced managers—competent men, Kresge trained.

There are now a limited number of openings in the Kresge organization for young men—college men—to learn every phaze of this great national merchandising business, from the ground up. The men who start now will be in line for future managerships with excellent opportunities to make money for themselves.

This is an opportunity well worth considering. If you are interested, send today for an application blank. We will then arrange for a personal interview with one of our representatives who has already found success in the Kresge organization.

"I joined the Kresge Company because I found that a mercantile life appealed to me, that the prospects for financial remuneration were much greater than in the field I had previously chosen, that the opportunities for advancement would be limited only by the efforts put forth. Landis Voices Indifference to Re-election as Baseball Boss

Thanks Diamond Moguls for Aid During Regime

Fiery Speech Arouses Enthusiasm of Convention

[By The Associated Press]

ASHEVILLE, N. C., Dec. 8—Commissioner K. M. Landis told the national association of professional baseball leagues today that "it makes no material difference to me whether I am re-elected commissioner of baseball or not."

Speaking vigorously and interrupted often by outbursts of applause, the commissioner said that if he were re-elected he would try to perform his duties with the "same impartiality I have tried to show the past six years."

Commissioner Landis appeared before the body by invitation after it had gone on record in an executive session during the meeting as endorsing him for re-election with no curtailment of authority.

"I wish to thank you gentlemen," he said, "for your splendid support in the difficult duties I have been called upon to perform during the past six years. You have stood by me, have worked with me and when a ruling has come from me you have observed it with utmost fidelity.

"In my dealings with basball during these past six years I have tried to do what seemed to me the fair thing for major leagues, for minor leagues, and most of all, for that great unnamed part of our business—the public.

"I warn you, gentlemen, that if I am re-elected, and it makes no material difference to me personally whether I am or not, I shall continue to guard the interests of that great unnamed body. On it you depend for support and I shall protect it every way humanly possible."

E. C. Tucker, Iowa Law Grad, Dies from Apoplexy

MUSCATINE, Dec. 8 (AP)—E. C. Tucker, prominent attorney here for fifty years, died today from apoplexy while conversing with a friend in the lobby of a bank. Mr. Tucker was a graduate of the University of Iowa law school.

The widow and a son, William Tucker of Aberdeen, Wash., survive.

Set New Record in Annual Midwest Bowling Tourney

SIOUX CITY, Dec. 8 (AP)—R Simmons-R. Spear doubles team of Des Moines rolled into sixth place in the two man event of the middle west bowling tournament here with a score of 1,215. The day's action marked the close of the nineteenth annual tournament— a meet that has seeen unusually fine rolling in all departments and a new middle west record in the five man event, the 3,087 score rolled by the L. W. Jordan team of St. Paul.

The doubles total of S. Thoma-T. Kartherier of Chicago stands as the third highest ever to win first in middle west history, 1,294, while the singles score of H. Everett of Kansas City, 679, has been bettered in six other tournaments and the all-events lead of D. Devito of Chicago 1,914, ranks fourth among winning totals of other years.

Charlie Ashley of Sioux City rolled the highest single game of the tournament, his 279 in the doubles giving him a special prize of $25.

Tenth Second Watches Will Again be Used by Big Ten

The tenth-second timer will be used in western conference track meets again this season, said Coach G. T. Bresnahan today. No action was taken by the Big Ten coaches on the question of banning the tenth second watches and resumption of the use of fifth second timers.

Plunkitt, Frosh Cage Star, First Casualty

A torn ligament in the knee is the first basket ball casualty of the season. Doyle Plunkitt of Frankport, Ind., star member of the freshman cage squad, is the initial victim. The injury occured while the young Hoosier was scrimmaging with the yearlings against Coach Sam Barry's five.

The seriousness of the injury has not yet been determined, but Plunkitt will probably be out of the game for several weeks, at least.

Hawkeye Cagemen Prime for Battle With Wabash Five

Anticipating a hard struggle with Wabash next Monday, Coach Sam Barry is paying little attention to the one-sided results of Saturday's game. The Hawk cage squad is drilling steadily in an effort to get smooth, effective playing.

Eighteen men are regularly showing up at the field house to help build the Hawk machine. Coach Barry is using the entire squad in his scrimmages with the frosh quintet as he wants a strong reserve force which he can send in when needed. Led by Harrison and Phillips, "I" winners of last season, the reserve strings are often hard to distinguish from the starting five.

Intramural Athletics

The intramural board of strategy, after much deliberation and disagreement, finally wish to announce the official selection of the 1926 interfraternity all-tournament water polo team. Here it is are you represented?

Bo'ce, Delta Chi forward.
Mann, Chi Kappa Pi, forward.
Shaffer, Sigma Nu, center forward.
Mullen, Delta Chi, center forward
Krasuski, Sigma Alpha Epsilon, goal guard.
Pease, Sigma Nu, guard
Fabian, Phi Epsilon Pi, guard.

* * *

Delta Chi received twenty additional points for winning the water polo tourney, and Sigma Nu an additional eleven points for runner-up. All teams received fifty points for participating. The official standing of all fraternities is as follows:

Delta Chi, 270; Delta Upsilon, 140; Phi Kappa Sigma, 50; Phi Kappa, 150; Phi Epsilon Pi, 130;; Chi Kappa Pi, 100; Theta Tau, 200; Sigma Alpha Epsilon, 130; Kappa Sigma, 50; Delta Tau Delta,, 75; Phi Kappa Psi, 50; Sigma Pi, 246; Sigma Nu, 144; Beta Psi, 40; Alpha Sigma Phi, 90; Sigma Phi Epsilon, 126; Theta Xi, 30; Alpha Chi Sigma, 40; Alpha Tau Omega, 85; Phi Kappa Rho, 20; Phi Delta Theta, 126; Chi Delta Psi, 70; Sigma Chi, 50; Phi Delta Chi, 90.

* * *

Each team received fifteen points for participating in the swimming meet. The winners received an additional ten points, and the second place winners an additional six points. Delta Chi now leads the field with Sigma Pi, Theta Tau, Sigma Nu, Delta Upsilon, Phi Kappa, Sigma Phi Epsilon, and Phi Delta Theta following with relatively high positions.

Interfraternity basket ball will begin immediately after the Christmas holidays. Interest in this sport has grown greatly in the past few years and the committee expects a record breaking number of entries this year. Schedules will appear later.

* * *

Novice swimmers will hold a meet at the men's gym Dec. 10 and 11. Eight events, 40, 100, 220, 440 yard swims, 60 yard medley relay, 150 yard back stroke, 200 yard breast stroke, and fancy diving, will be on the program.

Gold, silver, and bronze medals will be awarded to winners of first, second, and third places, respectively. Anyone who has not won a letter in swimming or who has not placed first in a high school or other organized tank meet is eligible to compete.

Preliminaries will be held Dec. 10 at 5 p. m., and the finals Dec. 11 at 2:15 p. m.

The university championships swimming meet will be held Dec. 15 at the men's gym. The 40, 100, 220, and 440 yard swims 150 yard back stroke, 200 yard breast stroke, and fancy diving will comprise the list of events.

Gold, silver, and bronze medals will be awarded in each event.

New Field House Fine for Basket Ball Games, Says Captain Hogan

One basket ball captain, one coach, an athletic director and 4,500 who thronged to the new field house for the Iowa-St. Louis game, were unanimous in their laudations of the new Hawkeye athletic plant across the river.

"Everything was fine," said Capt. Buzz Hogan, at the close of the game as he finished dressing in the locker room. "The new floor is springy, and there's plenty of rebound for dribbling. It isn't a bit slippery," he added. "The new lights are great—they're even better than those we had on the old court in the armory."

"Did the black emptiness to the rear of the west basket bother you in your shooting?" he was asked.

"Everything Fine," Says Buzz

"Not in the least. Last year we usually had some of the temporary bleachers at that end but the blackness didn't bother at all tonight. The temperature was just right for good snappy playing."

"And did the absence of fans in the uncompleted balconies make any difference?"

Buzz smiled, "Gosh, I didn't even notice that."

Coach Justin M. Barry was well pleased with the new court and the seating arrangement. "Everything was very satisfactory," he commented.

Big First Night Crowd

"This was by far the biggest first night crowd that ever attended a game here," said Paul E. Belting, director of athletics. "Between 3,300 and 3,500 fans were here."

"Everything went fine—great," he added. The building emptied the fans in about three minutes, which is much faster than we could expect from the old court in the armory."

Mr. Belting was pleased with the fact there was not the slightest confusion among the crowd as it poured out of the two exits in the field house proper, and the two to the rear of the armory.

Carl Menzer, announcer for radio station WSUI when asked how the new broadcasting booth, which is perched high above the crowd on the steel girders of the second balcony, worked, stated, "It's the best we've ever had. The new booth is placed so that it is much easier to see the floor and follow the players than it was in the old armory."

U High Meets Mount Pleasant Cagers Here Tomorrow Night

University high and Mount Pleasant basket ball teams will clash at the University tomorrow etaoinnn the University high gymnasium tomorrow night in the second game of the season for the locals.

Playing the alumni in the first game Tuesday night, they came through victorious by a 24 to 13 score. This tilt brought forth spurts of good basket ball, and prospects are hopeful for a successful season. Rush Dennis, veteran forward, led the scoring attack, while Walter Rose at guard, featured in University high's defensive play.

City High Awards Letters to Athletes in Special Assembly

Reward Twenty Men for Football, Cross Country Work

At an athletic assembly yesterday morning at the Iowa City high school, which marked the closing of the football season and the opening of the basket ball season, twenty monograms including both football and cross country, were awarded.

Chester I. Meade of the university department of athletics, gave a talk to the students stressing athletics as a stepping stone to greater things when they had finished school.

Coach Henry C. Souchek introduced each boy as he came to the platform to receive his letter from the principal, W. E. Beck. The yell leaders, Jack Lubchansky and Clarence Tomlin, arrayed for the first time at assembly in their uniforms of red and white, led the cheering.

Those receiving football monograms were: Ray Collins, captain for 1926; Harold Schuppert, Burnell Horrabin, Karl Ketelson, Lyle Sanger, Robert James, Donald Brown, William Stevens, William Norris, Alden Curry, Charles McGuire, Everett Idema, Julian Reinhardt, Tracy Sheley, and Charles McComas. William Bachman received a reserve monogram.

Cross country monograms were awarded to William White and Charles Dalton. Fremont Isaacs and Russel Gardner received reserve monograms.

College gentlemen prefer P. A.

BLOND gentlemen and dark-haired gentlemen, diffident* freshmen and august seniors . . . Prince Albert is the overwhelming campus-favorite of every type and every pipe. (Yes, the pipes do have a voice in the matter. They can act in a docile, friendly manner or they can be mean. It depends on what you feed them.)

Open a tidy red tin of good old P. A. That first fragrant whiff will tell you why gentlemen prefer Prince Albert. Tuck a load into the bowl of your pipe and light up. Fragrance and taste alone are enough to win you.

But P. A. doesn't stop there. It is cool-smoking. It is mild as Maytime, yet it has plenty of body. It is kind to your tongue and throat. You can hit it up all you like and it never hits back. Try a tin of P. A. You'll certainly prefer it after that.

*Not too diffident.

P. A. is sold everywhere in tidy red tins, pound and half-pound tin humidors, and pound crystal-glass humidors with sponge-moistener top. And always with every bit of bite and sarch removed by the Prince Albert process.

Night School for English Instruction Will Open Monday

First Meeting at Henry Sabin School; Form Three Classes

The first night school session for instruction in the English language, ideals and customs, will be held next Monday evening according to an announcement yesterday by City Supt. I. A. Opstad. The Iowa City board of education has maintained night schools for the last five years.

The first meeting will be held in the Henry Sabin school, 508 South Dubuque street, and will open at 7:30 p. m.

Good Citizenship Fostered

The purpose of the night school is to give the students a better insight into American customs, ideals and aspirations. Emphasis will be placed upon the duties and responsibilities of a citizen in a democracy.

Although the main purpose of the school is to aid those who have recently come to this country and wish to perfect their use of the English language, any adult who feels that he can profit from the course will be welcomed.

Arranged in Classes

The customary grouping in classes according to skill in the use of the language will be followed if the enrollment is sufficient to provide for three classes.

Persons who wish to enroll but are unable to be present at the first meeting are asked to notify either Miss Emily Davis, principal of the Henry Sabin school, or the city superintendent's office of their intention to enroll.

Dismiss Fletcher from Hospital; to Return Next Year

Boone Fletcher, A2 of Aberdeen, S. D., has sufficiently recovered from a broken back sustained in an automobile accident Oct. 16 to return to his home.

The accident occurred during a trip to Urbana, Ill., when the car in which Fletcher was riding skidded in loose gravel and overturned. He was taken to the Brokow hospital at Normal, Ill., where he remained until last week.

According to Howard Fletcher, L3, brother of the injured boy, he will resume his studies at the university next semester. Fletcher was a student here last year and is a member of Phi Delta Theta.

Ayers Leaves for Penitentiary Today

Arthur Ayres of Iowa City was taken to Anamosa yesterday afternoon by Deputy Sheriff Arthur Jones, to begin his sentence in the state penitentiary. He plead guilty Monday to a forgery charge and was sentenced to an indeterminate term of one to fifteen years by Judge Ralph Otto of the district court.

"Santa" Will Aid Poor Through Service League

The Social Service league of Iowa City, will play "Santa Claus," again this year to a number of destitute families, and has begun to make its plans for the annual campaign to give the poor of the city a real Christmas.

Miss Powell, secretary of the league, declares that they are willing to act as a clearing organization between groups of people who wish to aid famines for Christmas, and in this way duplications may be prevented.

In 1925, nearly 75 families were helped through the Social Service league, by Iowa City people.

Brant Testifies in Divorce Case; Asks Freedom in Appeal

Lodges Charges of Cruel and Inhuman Treatment Against Wife

Judge Otto's district court was busy yesterday with the Brant divorce case, which was convened from last week.

Ralph Brant, who was sued for divorce by his wife, Elizabeth Brant sometime ago, and later filed a cross-petition asking that he be divorced from her, took the stand. Brant, the defendant in the case, was examined by his attorney, Walter Davis and cross-examined by Korab and O'Connor, lawyers for the plaintiff.

Brant accuses his wife of cruel and inhuman treatment. Mrs. Brant who orginally filed the suit for divorce, charges her husband with cruel and inhuman treatment and of frequent accusations which she says were unjustifiable.

Joe Vondrosick, witness for the defense, told the court about some of Mrs. Brant's wild parties in Cedar Rapids, of which he had knowledge.

The case was adjourned when Mr. Brant came off the stand, and will be resumed next Saturday at 9 a.m.

Missing Defendant Appears in Court

Broken Car Kept Geo. Lorence from His Larceny Trial

George Lorence, who failed to appear for his trial at the court room yesterday, to answer a charge of grand larceny, voluntarily returned to the court house yesterday morning. He arrived only a few minutes after the jury for his case had been excused by Judge Otto until 2 p. m. next Monday, when the case will start again.

Lorence was incarcerated in the county jail by Sheriff Martin to await his trial next Monday. Authorities had been unable to locate Lorence until the time he appeared yesteraday.

Lorence claimed that he was told Monday night by his attorney, E. A. Baldwin, to go home and change his clothes before the trial on Tuesday morning. Starting for his home near Solon, his car broke down and he was compelled to walk the distance, making it impossible for him to be present for his trial Tuesday.

Ray McCook, co-partner in the same crime as Lorence, who failed to appear for trial but out under a separate bond for a separate trial, was not seen yesterday, but will not be guilty of contempt of court if he appears at the court house for his trial later.

Letts Takes Seat in Congress; Legal Action Continues

DES MOINES, Dec. 8 (AP)—Representative F. D. Letts of Davenport, will assume the second Iowa district seat in the seventieth congress regardless of what legal actions are instituted against him in Iowa, it appeared today when attorney-general Ben J. Gibson, made public his opinion holding a congressional representative to be a federal officer.

The opinion was given secretary of state Walter C. Ramsay who asked for it when J. P. Gallagher of Williamsburg, defeated democratic candidate for representative, filed notice of his intention to contest the Letts election on the ground of ineligibility.

The constitutional provision on ineligibility of district judges applies to state offices only Mr. Gibson's opinion held in effect. It does not apply to federal officers and the attorney general regards a congressman as a federal officer.

Mr. Gallagher has obtained a temcouncil from issuing Letts a certificate of election. A hearing on a petition for permanent injunction probably will be held next month.

Churches to Give Away 1000 Christmas Presents

One thousand Christmas packages will be given away at the Christmas party, sponsored by the Young Peoples societies of the churches of the city. The order for the gifts was placed recently by Thomas Thomsen, 13 of Iowa City, chairman of the party committee, with the Iowa City Fruit and Grocery company.

This is the first time that the various church organizations have united for an informal party. A crowd of 800 is expected. It is to be held Saturday evening, December 18 in the Iowa Union. Tickets may be procured from any of the officers of the various church organizations.
