Borah Advocates Peace Campaign Towards Mexico

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13.—Inauguration of a campaign of peace, with the abolition of the idea of force in the dealings of the United States with Central American countries, was urged in the senate today by Senator Borah, republican, Idaho, chairman of the foreign relations committee.

As first steps in that direction, he proposed a special election to permit the people of Nicaragua to pick their own president and the submission to arbitration of the controversy with Mexico over its land laws.

With these suggestions, the Idaho senator concluded in characteristically dramatic fashion, an attack of an hour and a half on the administration's policy in dealing with the Nicaraguan situation and in recognizing the Adolfo Diaz government which he contended was set up illegally.

"Inaugurate a campaign of peace," thundered Senator Borah, "abolish the idea of force; try friendly relations; seek to establish amity; seek to get in touch with the masses; with the people themselves and we can establish a policy in Central America which will protect our interests and respect our rights and which will do that which we are entitled to do—receive special consideration from those people."

Views Senator Borah unfolded his views both of the situation in Nicaragua and the administration's policy, practically every member of the senate now in Washington was in his seat and gave his remarks the closest attention.

Many members of the house crowded on the floor of the senate and the galleries were filled. There were few interruptions from other senators.

The address of the foreign relations committee chairman, however started a senate debate that brought out opinions on both sides of the controversy including a speech in defense of the administration by Senator Lenroot of Wisconsin.

Elsewhere, too, the day's events saw the Mexican-Nicaraguan imbroglio developing in several directions. The house foreign affairs committee, after another fruitless debate, voted by a majority of one not to call Secretary Kellogg before it.

Repatee Marks Iowa-California Evolution Debate

No Audience Vote Taken—Agreement of Debaters

"The evolutionists scoff at the belief that woman was created from a rib of man, yet they expect us to believe that the 'Heidelberg man' was constructed from a jawbone"—Louis H. Heilbron, A3 of the University of California, speaking. "A jawbone is not to be made light of," replies Charles B. Nutting, A3 of the University of Iowa. "None of us would be here on this platform today if it were not for our jawbones."

This ran the barrage of repatee in the intersectional debate between the University of California and the University of Iowa, on the question, "Resolved, That this House Looks With Disfavor Upon Anti-Evolution Legislation," held in the natural science auditorium at 4 p.m. yesterday.

Bristling With Repatee

A trifle weak on logic but bristling with repatee was the debate yesterday afternoon in which George B. Anderson, A3 of Hawarden, and Charles B. Nutting, A3 of Iowa City, defended the affirmative and Phillip S. Broughton, A4 of Sacramento, and Louis H. Heilbron, A3 of San Francisco, upheld the negative. Prof. A. C. Trowbridge acted as presiding officer.

The audience vote upon the merits of the question was not taken, due to an agreement among the debaters.

Scientific proof of the theory of evolution formed a large part of the affirmative arguments, in which the theory of evolution was shown to be a large part, if not the basis, of many sciences. Structural similarities in all forms of animal life were pointed out as evidence of a common source for all life.

Difficulties of Progress

Practical difficulties in the way of anti-evolution legislation were stressed by the affirmative. The difficulty of obtaining teachers who did not believe in evolution or textbooks not based upon evolution was held to be a strong consideration in the way of successful legislation against it.

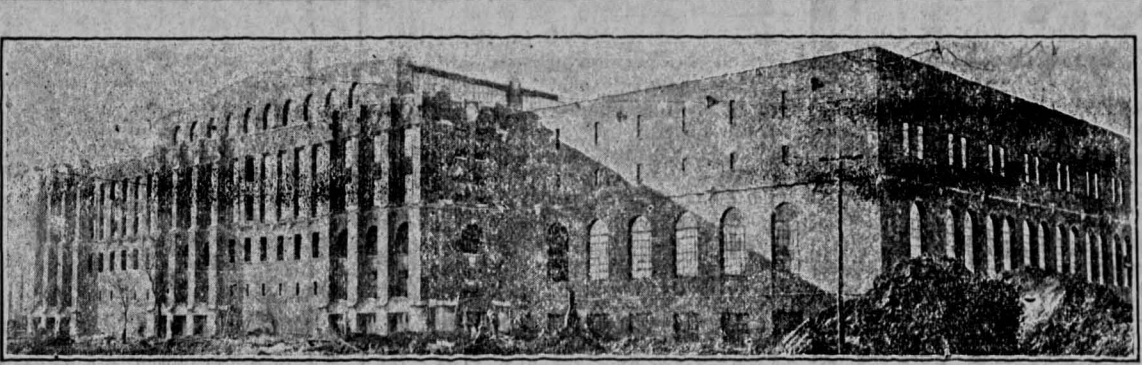

Religion and evolution, according to the affirmative, do not conflict, but rather evolution substantiates the divine theory of creation.

Branding the theory of evolution as unproven, the negative held that it was a dangerous practice to teach it in public schools.

"Who Is Inferior?"

In response to the charge that anti-evolution legislation was intolerant, the negative pointed out that if the majority of the voters did not want their children to be taught the theory of evolution, they had a right to legislate against it in the schools which they supported through taxation. "Which is the more intolerant," they demanded, "those who wish to forbid it in their own schools, or those who wish to forbid legislation against it?"

Smith to Present Papers to Senate

Will Attempt Entrance Next Week Despite All Opposition

CHICAGO, Jan. 13.—Frank L. Smith of Dwight, Ill., designated by Gov. Len Small to fill the unexpired term of the late United States Senator Wm. B. McKinley and Senator-elect for the long term as the deceased senator's successor, announced tonight that early next week he will present his credentials to the senate.

"In defense to views and circumstances which were entitled to due consideration, I have, until now, delayed action upon my constitutional rights," Col. Smith said concerning the controversy which has raged about his appointment and election. A senate investigating committee headed by Senator James A. Reed developed that a great part of the Smith campaign fund was contributed by the heads of public utilities over which as chairman of the Illinois commerce commission he had jurisdiction.

Further Delay Unwarranted

"A shifting of all circumstances leads inevitably to the conclusion that further delay is unwarranted," Col. Smith said. "I would prefer to be sworn in and to begin my duties at once, rather than to be in a position of uncertainty which would be a disgrace to the office of which I have been both appointed and elected."

Senate Should Judge

"Whether the United States senate, acting as a court, shall decide arbitrarily and without adequate hearing, whether caprice or personal animus shall set aside the supreme constitutional rights of a citizen and a sovereign state, with the floor of the United States senate the one place for adequately resolving these questions."

Soviet Minister to Mexico Says Kellogg's Accusations All "Absurd"; Mexico Mum

[By The Associated Press] MEXICO CITY, Jan. 13.—Mexico's internal disturbances and her relations with the United States give rise to much apprehension throughout the country and to no little alarm in certain quarters although those in high places apparently do not wish to make predictions at present.

The Mexican government thus far has withheld comment on the declaration of Secretary Kellogg regarding Communist activities in Mexico aimed at the United States. Soviet Russia's interest or participation in such activities is denied by the Soviet minister to Mexico, Mme. Alexandra Kollantay.

English Novelist Gives Third Talk at Iowa Today

Will Hold Round Table Discussion Saturday Morning in Old Capitol Building

High Walpole, one of the most consistently successful authors of the present day, will make his third appearance at the university when he will lecture this afternoon in the natural science auditorium at 4 o'clock. Tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock he will conduct a round table conference in the senate chamber of the Old Capitol building open to the literati of Iowa City.

Mr. Walpole's lectures, as well as his stories, have been given unstinted praise by literary critics.

When Mr. Walpole lectured in Pittsburgh The Pittsburgh Sun, commenting favorably on his lecture, said, "Mr. Walpole's genius as a writer is fully equalled by his talent as a speaker. His lectures have all of the fascination of the splendid prose that he writes in the privacy of his library."

Snowstorm Blinds All Central West

Train Slips from Icy Rails; Snowslide Injures Four

[By The Associated Press] CHICAGO, Jan. 13.—The heaviest snowstorm of the winter swirled through the central west today, reaching a depth of seventeen inches in some sections of Illinois. Tonight the temperature was dropping but extreme cold was not expected.

The Capitol limited, de luxe train of the Baltimore and Ohio from the east, slipped from icy rails on the south side of Chicago today but without injury to passengers or to equipment.

Street Car Wanders

A Chicago street car also escaped from its snowy right of way on 67th street and bounded into a garage.

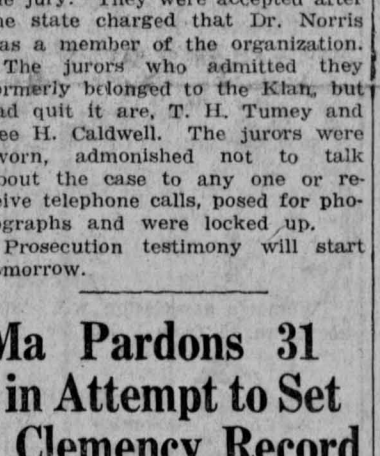

Four workmen were injured when the snow laden roof of a garage under construction in Chicago collapsed.

Several inches of snow in Kansas and Northern Missouri marked a return of real winter in that section as temperatures dropped to eight degrees above zero in northwestern Kansas.

Ma Pardons 31 in Attempt to Set Clemency Record

Judges in State Asked to Defer Sentencing Criminals as Defensive Weapon

[By The Associated Press] AUSTIN, Tex., Jan. 13.—Thirty-one full pardons were added today to Gov. Miriam A. Ferguson's record smashing list of clemency notes.

With only five days of her two year term remaining, the woman executive's clemency total had reached 3,241. One life sentence was commuted to four years in addition to today's pardons.

Meanwhile William McCraw, district attorney of Dallas county, sought to shut off opportunities for pardons for persons convicted there between now and Jan. 18 when Mrs. Ferguson's term expires.

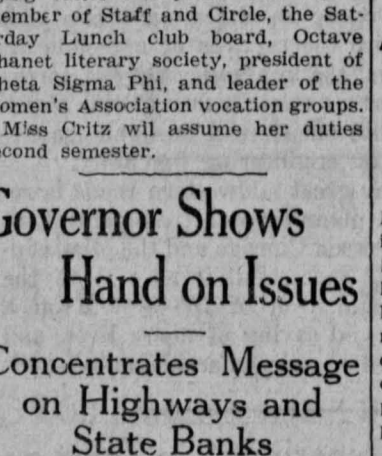

He presented motions to the two judges of criminal courts in the county asking that all sentences be deferred until after Jan. 18, declaring he was "just not willing to take any chances." No action was taken by the judges however.

The Dallas district attorney followed the lead of prosecutors of San Antonio and Houston who obtained permission of the criminal courts in their counties to defer the sentencing of all criminals during the remaining days of the Ferguson administration.

Governor Shows Hand on Issues

Concentrates Message on Highways and State Banks

[By The Associated Press] DES MOINES, Jan. 13.—Gov. John Hammill today started his second term as Iowa's chief executive by laying before the legislature a long list of recommendations covering important public issues, counseling economy in public expenditures, a strengthening of the state banking system, and a continuation of the highway improvement program.

The governor read his message after taking the oath of office before a joint session of the legislature. Inaugurated with him was Lt. Gov. Clem Kimball of Council Bluffs, who delivered his own inaugural address before the senate after the joint session was dissolved. The lieutenant governor urged a program of sane legislation to relieve Iowa of depression.

Choser Bank Supervision

Governor Hammill's recommendations included laws designed to provide closer supervision of banks on the theory that the institutions now doing business should be strengthened by guaranty law would end to such an extent that the need for a guaranty fund would be obviated. He declared he knew of no model bank guaranty act and cited instances of the failure of such statutes.

The roads, he declared, should be placed under supervision of the state, the county road allotment system abolished, township and county road systems consolidated and the gasoline tax increased to three cents per gallon. He told the legislature it was up to it to decide whether the people should be given an opportunity to vote on a road bond issue. His position on this question was taken to mean that he would not actively oppose such a plan although he has not approached an endorsement of the road bond program.

Governor Stresses Banks and Roads

Banks and roads were the issues upon which most of the message was centered. When he reached these subjects, the assemblymen's interest was notably revived and pronouncements on these subjects drew the applause of various factions.

Teacher Cleared of Telling Risque Stories to Pupils

INDIANOLA, Iowa, Jan. 13 (AP)—Miss Florence Cochran, 19 year old rural school teacher of Warren county today was exonerated by county superintendent Walter McGee of charges that she told risque stories to her pupils.

The decision of the superintendent to whom she appealed after a hearing by the rural school board, sets aside the board's dismissal of Miss Cochran. It does not mean, however, that she may immediately resume her work at the school, even if she so desired, for an injunction obtained by the board prevents that.

McNary-Haugen Bill Reported to House Favorably

Approved After Long Controversy Over Equalization Fee

[By The Associated Press] WASHINGTON, Jan. 13.—The McNary-Haugen farm relief bill with its controversial equalization fee feature was approved today by the house agriculture committee, party lines breaking on the 13 to 8 vote to report the measure. Four republicans joined with many democrats in opposition while eight republicans and five democrats supported it.

Chairman Haugen was instructed to ask the rules committee to provide for an early house vote on the proposal which is certain to face a bitter fight if it is called up before March 4 adjournment.

Although the vote to report had been ordered as the first business of today's meeting, the committee got into another controversy over the equalization fee which would be levied on basic crops with a view to controlling surpluses. A new move was made to substitute the Curtis Crisp bill, which would not provide an equalization fee but it failed, 16 to 5.

Throughout the long struggle over farm relief, the equalization fee has been the principal point of divergence. Among those who favored the fee are southern democrats who do not, however, want it imposed upon cotton growers because, they contend, the industry cannot stand it for two years.

"The fee," said Representative Aswell of Louisiana, ranking democrat on the committee in announcing he voted against reporting the McNary-Haugen bill, "is actually a tax, and that tax upon cotton would amount to from $10 to $10.50 a bale at the gin. The board which controls the levying of the tax would have only three members from the cotton states. The cotton growers can draw their own conclusions."

Representative Adkins, republican, Illinois, held that the equalization fee was "body and soul" of the bill. "It is the best bill we have ever had," he said, "and we must get it through congress with the equalization fee in it. Today was a great victory for the farmers."

Iowa Fetes Old Athletic Heroes

Tonight at Union Hawk-Wolverine Cage Battle to Climax Dedication

Old time heroes of Iowa's athletic teams will be feted this afternoon at 5:30 o'clock in a banquet at the Iowa Union opening the activities in the dedication of the new University of Iowa field house.

The Iowa-Michigan basketball game will climax the night of dedication. This game will probably be witnessed by 7,000 spectators, the largest crowd to ever attend a basketball game in Iowa City.

Proceeding the basketball game, dedicatory speeches will be given at 7:30 o'clock by Major John L. Griffin, commissioner of Big Ten athletics; George T. Baker, president of the state board of education; President Walter A. Jessup, and Prof. Paul E. Belting, director of athletics.

Pioneer Athletes Honored

Twenty-one members of Iowa's old athletic teams will receive their long overdue "I" sweaters following the speeches this afternoon. The pioneer athletes who will be honored are: Fustus M. Griffin '97 from Manson, football and baseball; David M. Knapp '96 of Mendon, Ill., football; Howard W. Powers of Davenport, football; Rodney M. Arey '96 of Muscatine, baseball; Robert Bonson '90 of Dubuque, baseball; Don D. Donnan of Independence, baseball; Arthur E. Goshorn '90 of Winterset, baseball; Fred M. Hopkins '95 of Fostoria, Ohio, baseball; Henry C. Hull '94 of Washington, baseball.

Edward P. Ingham '95 of Muscatine, baseball; George T. Lyon '98 of Dubuque, baseball; Fred G. Orelut '87 L '90 of Ottumwa, baseball; James L. Quinn '97 of Scotland, S. D.; Amos H. Sargent '99 of Cedar Rapids, baseball; George M. Schlatzer '95 of Bellevue, baseball; Nathan B. Barber '99 of Waterloo, track; William E. Chase '99 '98 of Des Moines, track; Curtis T. Drq '94 of Iowa City, track; and Leroy C. Hemsworth '04 of Waterloo, tennis.

Gigantic structure

The field house is the largest building of its type in the world. The building covers three acres and has an average height of sixty feet. It has seating capacity of 15,000 spectators. The building is composed of four sections; the gymnasium on the north, the swimming pool on the south, the field house proper between the gymnasium offices stretching across the front.

The rapid growth of basketball in popularity accounts for the fact that double decks of seats for 7,000 people are ready for the opening home game of the 1927 Big Ten season tonight.

Hundred Yard Straightaway

A cinder track measuring six laps to the mile, the largest indoor circuit in the country, with one-hundred-yard straightaways on either side, has been built for Coach Bresnahan's athletes. Spectators are accommodated in double decks of seats with a capacity of 3,500 in the swimming pool area.

Space for eight regulation-sized tennis courts, a football field of standard dimensions, a real base ball diamond, and a soccer field is contained in the field house.

Showers for 5,000

The gymnasium is 112 feet wide, 180 feet long, and 50 feet high. In the basement a room provides locker and shower space for 5,000 students taking required work in physical education. Above the main gymnasium, sixteen hand-ball and squash courts together with eight classrooms are built.

Iowa's athletic trophies and pictures of former heroes in sports will be on display in a hall 240 feet long, 30 feet wide, and 18 feet high across the front of the field house. Two stories of offices and classrooms lie above this trophy hall.

SOME hundred odd representative men underwent an experience Wednesday evening at the tenth annual Finkbine dinner that will remain fresh in their memory as long as they retain any reflections of university life.

To the average student in a huge educational plant, engaged as he is in an endless routine of classes, study, and social and athletic events, too few opportunities for intimate, personal glimpses of worthwhile personalities are given.

The Finkbine dinner fills this void to perfection.

Informality and sincerity was the keynote Wednesday. A group of faculty and alumni, known wherever the University of Iowa and the state of Iowa are mentioned, grey haired and startlingly keen, furnished four hours of discussion that kept every man in the room erect with interest.

The Finkbine dinner is something more than a chance to eat or just "another tradition." To gain an impression of the thought of the leaders of the campus of thirty, forty, or fifty years ago, to appreciate the sacrifices those men have made to be present, to see ideals personalized, is to gain a different understanding of the phrase "university life."

W. O. Finkbine has created a tradition that is something more than the "Rah, rah" type. Best of all, he has endowed the plan and it will live as long as the university exists. How impressive and worthwhile a monument! He has been a real benefactor to the university and the state, but not the least of his philanthropic achievements is the Finkbine dinner.

The Big Arena

TODAY Iowa formally dedicates her big new playhouse. It is without doubt the biggest arena for college athletics in the world. Yet the size and the facilities of the structure are only symbols of a much larger and more precious thing—a commendable "On Iowa" spirit. For the field house is being financed entirely without state appropriations.

On April 15, 1925, Director Belting announced that sometime Iowa would have the largest field house in the world. Just twenty-one months, lacking but a single day, after the project was announced the vision becomes a reality. Today Iowa throws open the doors of a $400,000 structure consecrated to the physical betterment of the men of Iowa.

The athletes who will play dedicatory games today and tomorrow well deserve such a building. Since March 3, 1925, the basketball team has won nine consecutive games on the Iowa floor. To sustain that record will be the main motive of the Iowans tonight.

Iowa will wrestle Wisconsin Saturday afternoon. Never in history have the Badgers been able to beat the Hawks on the mat. Iowa swimmers will match strokes with Illinois in the evening. They have won all three dual meets with the Illini, and they are pointing for the fourth—in a pool equal to the largest in the United States. Surely Iowa seems to have athletes who will do honor to their new arena.

A Word to the Wise

THE freshmen are writing investigative themes. If you don't believe it, step into the general library. And if you are still skeptical, ask one of the student assistants what the hurry is as he dashes by. It's nothing new. They do it every year. And every year the same old story repeats itself.

Step to the desk and present a call slip for your book. Notice how the lady who takes it scrutinizes it. Notice how the student assistant who gets it from her scrutinizes it. Why? While you are waiting—and you will have to wait a few minutes—notice what is going on around you and again ask yourself, Why? Think the whole procedure over and repeat the question.

The answer is that, although filling out a call slip is a comparatively simple thing, not one person in five can do it properly. Either the number is not copied correctly, the department is not given, the volume or year number is omitted, the author is left out, the title is not correct or complete, or all of these may be wrong. Hence this word to the wise, and you who would be wise—put down everything on the catalogue card except the publishers of the book, the year of publication, the price, and the number of pages. Write plainly, fill out the proper places on the call-slip, give all the information needed, and write plainly. Do this and you will not have to wait long—and you will earn the undying gratitude of the library staff—you will be one who really "knows his oats."

Train Control

A BALTIMORE AND OHIO freight train recently was wrecked in an eastern terminal. The engineer had suffered a stroke of paralysis and the train, deprived of its guiding genius, crashed into a yard engine, killing several persons. This is but an example of many like mishaps.

It seems that there is but one possible remedy for the prevention of railroad accidents chargeable to human fallibility. That remedy is train control.

The train control apparatus is electrically operated. As the proximity of one train to another decreases, the speed is automatically reduced. The trains are finally brought to a dead stop upon nearing each other. This is done without the intervention of the locomotive engineer. He may suffer a lapse of memory or sudden illness without endangering life.

It has been said that a chief objection to train control systems is the likelihood of faults developing in the apparatus which would require the services of a technician to repair, and the impracticability of carrying an expert on every train. If this objection is a valid one, it will no doubt be circumvented by engineering ingenuity.

One of our great midwestern roads is reported to be planning on a train control installation between Chicago and the Mississippi river. If successful, it may mean the eventual installation of the system on a large scale, and saving of many lives, and the reduction of railroad accidents to a very low point.

Our Experiment in Trust

ALARMING to some extent was the action of the house to support Coolidge's policy against new naval construction, when it voted to abandon the construction of war cruisers authorized in 1924.

Eastern democrats in the house were overwhelmingly in favor of constructing the cruisers, their stand being taken on the grounds that other nations had evaded the Washington arms limitation treaty by beginning the construction of smaller cruisers, not affected by the treaty, almost before the ink had dried on the treaty agreement. The minority vote was also the result of fears of naval unpreparedness, stimulated by threatening trouble at present.

Western representatives unanimously supported the policy of the president to abandon construction pending the outcome of negotiations for a second international arms limitation conference. The reluctance to rally to another program of competitive naval building, in the face of other nations which are strengthening their navies while in the throes of financial distress, and in the face of imminent war, is a step toward international peace. It takes courage and tolerance, as well as hope that our faith in other nations will gain their respect, for the United States to restrain from turning our prosperity into the most powerful navy in the world. As it is we prove our sincerity in regard to arms limitation by refusing to build even a few light cruisers.

Our experiment in trust, and our reserve in the face of violation of treaty spirit by other nations, is a stand against imperialism. We are setting an unprecedented example in striving for international peace.

You may have noticed that those government officers who donned silk hats when they greeted Queen Marie were appointed ones who do not have to go before the plain people and explain.

Probably a good many people explained their interest in the accounts of Aimee McPherson's trial on the ground that it was religious reading.

If your morals are of so flimsy material that they need constant guarding, they are not worth it.

Poems That Live

Tiger Lilies

My tiger lilies are not tame,
But lordly, like their name.
They aspire.
Their regal heads they hold up higher
Than all the other garden people,
Like a steeple
Thrusting skyward through the trees,
So does each of these
Gaudy standards bear
Aloft in air
Its galaxy of bloom.
So little room,—
So little light they found
Near the ground,
O'er-shadowed by tremendous bushes:
Wherefore each stalk pushes
Up and up, until at last,
All rivals passed,
In stature they excel
The other flowers that meekly dwell
Within my garden spaces,
Made lovelier by their untamed graces.
—ANNE WAKELY JACKSON.

Views and Reviews of the Latest in Print

"First Aid?"

GALAHAD. By John Erskine. The Bobbs Merrill Co. 1926. $2.50.

In offering to the public his "The Private Life of Helen of Troy," John Erskine apparently threw a bomb into the literary camp. Those outside the camp seized upon the book and read it with avidity. So did the critics! Being an ardent admirer of the classics myself, I can sympathize with and understand, to a certain extent, the point of view of those who bitterly accuse Dr. Erskine of sacrilege and insist that he has cheapened a great literary character by giving it a modern setting. On the other hand, I feel with his supporters that no amount of modernization can really detract from or make permanently ridiculous one of the immortals.

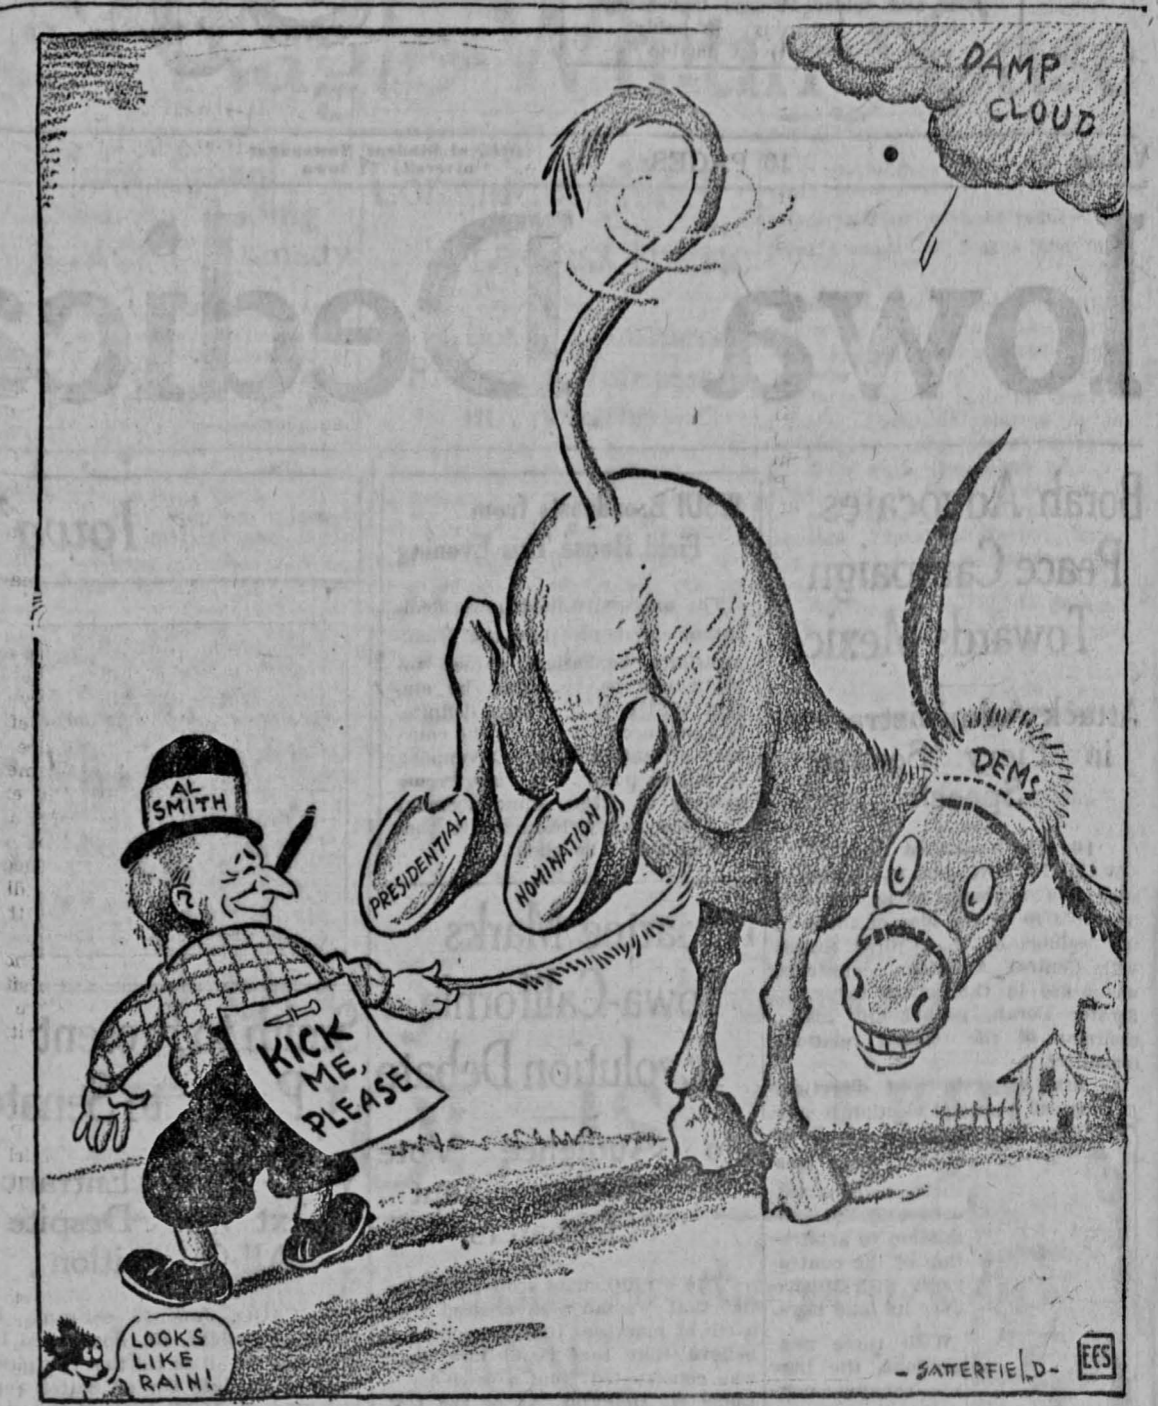

There are those who resent the efforts of certain biographers to give us lives of the great personages of history that shall dispel legend and approximate truth. They consider such authors dangerous iconoclasts. But why should we not know the truth about the great? Our reaction to that truth will show up not the subject of the biography, but ourselves. It is not the truth that can hurt us—only our fear of facing it.

The great will remain great, even when we come to realize that they were but fallible human beings like ourselves. Their greatness is the strongest proof that they were able to rise above our common weaknesses sufficiently to accomplish

It was the day after Christmas. To replenish their depleted shelves Black and White, stationers, had gone to their store an hour earlier than usual. They had been there less than five minutes when a frantic mob crowded to the door. Opening it to admit the customers, they learned that it was only a group of fifty Scotchmen who wanted to return the greeting cards they had received at Yuletide.

Once upon a time (this sounds like a fable; why shouldn't it?) it is a fable! There was a student named Styx. Styx had been a real student once but that was before he went to school. Incorrigibly lazy he was and during the first semester of 1926-27 he had suffered nothing to rob him of his renown. Styx began to study just a week before the finals. Since it was impossible for him to acquire in seven days what his classmates couldn't acquire in five months, he decided to submit to the inevitable and write the exams without more ado. And he—no he didn't for there weren't any finals that year. It all happened as if in a fable because this is a fable.

Arrangements are now complete for the Hawkeye short story and poem contest. The management is sparing no effort to make the literary chapter of the annual better than ever before, and to this end is offering a prize of $10 to the student submitting the best short story, and an equal amount for the best original poem.

Judges chosen to select the winning story and poem are: Professor Piper of the English department; Mr. W. G. Weyer, the university librarian; and Professor Hunt who conducts a course in the short story.

Prof. Charles H. Weller has been honored by an invitation to lecture on the Archeological Institute of America, before the St. Paul and Minneapolis societies of that association.

A severe shock to next year's football prospects, comes with the announcement that Hans Hoerlin, star end on last fall's varsity, will leave school in the course of the next few weeks. It is reported that he intends to go to the Flood River country, Oregon, and there locate on a fruit ranch.

Today will see a new enterprise—the publication of a students' directory. The need for such a book has been obvious for some time as hitherto any information regarding the students has been available only through the registrar's office. The work, consisting of listing of names with street addresses, telephone numbers, and organizations, has been done by Reed and Spill.

Newspapers do not always give the people the best possible news on any given day. Schools of journalism should contribute to making them more effective. It is certain that newspapers in the future must cover a wider field of interest and be better suited to the needs of their readers, in the opinion of Mr. Gallup.
The problem of meeting the demands of those readers who wish to be entertained merely, is one which challenges the newspaperman's ingenuity. It is his lot to make the important, and often uninteresting, meaningful and interesting. It is the duty of modern journalism to find the news of creative ideas as well as the news of incidents. Only years of training and a cultural background will develop this. It explains in Mr. Gallup's belief why the keenest thinkers of the day are journalists.

Students Eligible in Second Annual Literary Contest

Undergraduate writers at the University of Iowa will have a chance to compete with writers from colleges and universities throughout the country in the second intercollegiate literary contest held by Harper's magazine. First prize consists of $500, second $300, and third $200. According to Prof. Frank Luther Oltz, of the English department, the manuscripts submitted in the contest must reach the magazine by Mar. 5. They must be the original work of students enrolled in any undergraduate department of any American college or university, and may be in the form of stories, articles or essays, but must be prose suitable for magazine publication. There will be a 7000 word limit for stories, and 4000 words for essays or articles. Works which have been previously published in college magazines or newspapers will not be excluded, but any published previously elsewhere will be disqualified.
Judges of the contest will be Henry Seidel Canby, editor of the Saturday Review of Literature, who has spoken here at the university; Elinor Wylie, author of "The Orphan Angel"; and William McFee, who will speak before the Saturday Lunch club this year.
The manuscripts must be typewritten, bear the name and address of the author, and be accompanied by a self addressed envelope with stamps for the return of the manuscript.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13 (AP)—President Coolidge yesterday recommended to congress that the budget estimate for new airplanes to be purchased before July 1, 1929, be increased from $4,000,000 to $4,495,000. It was explained at the war department that the president had asked for the increase for the purpose of ordering twenty additional attack planes for the army air corps. The twenty additional attack planes will extend the order for twenty-five similar ships and are expected to be delivered with little delay. They will be assigned to the air corps attack group at Fort Crockett, Galveston, Tex.

Examination to Remove Geometry Conditions

Entrance conditions in solid geometry are facing an unusually large number of students in the college of applied science this year. More than thirty are enrolled in a night class which has been in session under Harvey A. Wright, graduate assistant in mathematics, for preparation toward removal of the deficiency.

Monday Jan. 17 a chance to remove the condition will be given through an examination in the deficient subject, announces Prof. Henry L. Rietz, head of the mathematics department.

Tutors Advised
Professor Rietz advises, "Those students who are above the average in ability and can carry outside work without lowering the efficiency of their regular courses are encouraged to prepare by some method of study or tutoring for the examination on the 17th. Students at or below average who cannot capably add extra study to their schedule are advised to remove the condition by taking solid geometry in the summer session." Another possible method of removing the condition is enrollment in the University high school, but this procedure proves impracticable for the majority of engineering students.

Broad Courses
As a means of preventing such a situation as has arisen, Professor Rietz says, "It seems fairly clear that the high school student who is undecided as to his field to specialize should introduce a factor of safety by taking such subjects as are required for beginning a number of specialized lines. Especially such subjects as will prepare for a field as widely entered as engineering is today may well be included in a broad course of study in the high school."

The examination in solid geometry to be given Monday Jan. 17, will be held at 7:30 p. m., in room 222, physics building.

Borah Advocates Peace Campaign Towards Mexico

ministration. Disputing the theory that was advanced in some quarters that the Monroe Doctrine is applicable in the present situation, the Senator argued that this doctrine should not be used to reach far beyond the mere protection of the rights or the property of American citizens and to interference with the sovereignty of a people.

Senator Borah undertook to show that as far back as 1909 the American government or its agents had undertaken to interfere with the international affairs of Nicaragua by supporting a revolution against the then President Zelaya and that after Adolpho Diaz first was made president in 1912 this country negotiated the international loan and inter-oceanic canal treaties with Nicaragua.

"Disgraceful Act"
Asserting that Diaz's government could not have lasted over night without the support of American marines, the senator declared that the United States had in effect made those treaties with itself.

"That transaction is as pronounced and unconscionable an act of imperialism as ever disgraced any nation with whom we have in the past been willing to exchange criticisms," he said.

Senator Borah said these treaties "were so obnoxious to a great part of the Nicaraguan people that there could be no peace there until the United States could obtain the judgment of those people on them."

MOUNT VERNON, Jan. 13 (Special)—Mount Vernon defeated Iowa City high 24-21 by a spectacular comeback in the closing minutes of the game here tonight. Two long baskets and an easy toss from directly under the basket put the game in the bag for the local five.

Iowa City high entered the last portion of the game on the long end of a 21-18 score but they were unable to hold the advantage under the barrage of tosses cast by the Deo brothers, who eventually scored the winning points.

The game was singularly free of fouls for such a close contest, only eight being called on both teams. Only two substitutions were made in the game, one by Iowa City and one by Mount Vernon.

Crouch, forward, led the assault for the winners with seven field goals. Mackey, center was far and away the best man for the losers.

Iowa Tank Team Primes for Illini

Old Gold Swimmers Face Stiff foe Saturday

Spurred on by reports from Illinois that the Blue and Orange swimmers are anticipating a Big Ten championship this season and the fact that Iowa is considered the first link in the chain that will eventually give them the title, Iowa paddlers went through their workouts last night with added zest in preparation for Saturday's meet.

During practice in Iowa's huge new field house tank last night, special stress was laid on starts, every varsity candidate practicing the starting take-off from the side of the pool.

Emphasis was also placed on the importance of making quick turns, while reaping contestants drilled on their touching off technique, which corresponds to the baton passing in track relays.

The varsity water polo team scrimmaged the second string again last night in an attempt to polish off their offense and defense.

The high diving apparatus at the west end of the new pool is now completed, and the divers were given an opportunity to practice on the new high board, in preparation for a diving exhibition to be given Saturday night.

Fine Plan for Leggers

ROCK ISLAND, Ill.—Bootleggers here are now paying fines on installment plan. Edward Simmons, assessed $2,000, was given his freedom on payment of $1,000 and promise of rest in regular remittances.

Iowa Again Formidable

Early season practice presupposes that Iowa will again move a formidable outfit of gunners into the national rifle ring. Competition is exceptionally keen as the time of the initial firing draws near.

Coach Gibney has been grooming his charges with a different coaching technique than has been used in former years. Instead of firing practice shots into the six small bulls-eyes on the target sheet, the men are firing most of their charges into one ring. Such a system is being used to accustom the squad centering its fire in the pre-season shooting. In another week good results are expected when the regular course of firing will be taken up again.

Need More Men

While competition is keen, Coach Gibney urges that more men try out for varsity positions because of the small number now comprising the varsity squad. There are many fine shots in the university now who are not out at the present time.

Hornby Denies That He Owes Debt to Betting Commissioner

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 13 (AP)—Rogers Hornby, former manager of the St. Louis Cardinals, now a member of the New York Giants, late today formally refused to recognize the claim of Frank Moore, race horse betting commissioner of Port Thomas, Ky., for $90,000.

Hawkeye Marksmen Fire from Coast to Coast in Dash for Rifle Honors

Hawkeye bullets will fly from California to Virginia and from Alabama to Maryland this year when Coach James J. Gibney's last year's Big Ten champion marksmen start firing against the heaviest schedule ever listed for the Iowa gunners.

Twenty-seven crack teams from the near and far corners of the country, exclusive of Big Ten competition, will furnish opposition that will push the Hawkeyes to the quick if they are to emerge in the championship column when the guns are cooled and stowed away at the close of the season.

The Big Ten rifle outfits under the supervision of the National Rifle association have not as yet arranged their firing schedules.

First Opposition Feb. 5

The Hawks will train their guns on their first opposition Feb. 5 when they fire against the University of Delaware and Rhode Island State Teachers college in the initial telegraphic meet. The following week will bring their competition nearer to home in their clashes with the University of Nebraska, Ames, Oklahoma Aggies, Cornell University will shoot against the Iowans in the last part of the week.

The two Dakotas and the Universities of Alabama and Georgia are scheduled for the middle of February. Virginia Polytechnic Institute, Culver, Kansas Aggies, Oregon, and Phoenix Junior college are expected to furnish some tough opposition the following week.

Wolverine Five Helps Hawks Dedicate New Field House Tonight

Past Six Games Give Two Teams a Three All Tie

Both Unbeaten Thus Far in Big Ten Title Race

Probable Lineups

IOWA	MICHIGAN
Twoood	R.F.R.P.
Van Deusen	L.F.L.F.
Wilcox	C.C.
Hogan	L.G.L.G.
McConnell	R.G.R.G.
Chambers

Officials: Referee, J. J. Schommer (Chicago); Umpire, F. H. Young (Illinois Wesleyan).

Realizing the strength of the Wolverines, Coach Justin M. Barry drilled his men carefully in their final practice last evening. The Hawks have been handicapped by shortage of practice time, getting in but three practices since returning from the Purdue, Chicago trip last Tuesday afternoon.

Each Sport Two Newcomers

The two teams stand even in point of new players. McCoy and Petrie are playing their first year in Big Ten circles, on the Wolverine quintet. The flash Hawk sophomores, Twoood and Wilcox, are the new blood in the Old Gold aggregation.

Among the Michigan veterans, Bennie Oosterbaan, All-American right end of last fall, will start at left forward. Oosterbaan is playing his third season with the Wolverines and his quick floorwork and keen basket-eye will give the Hawk guards much to do to prevent a Wolverine lead.

Captain Plays at Guard

Captain Chambers at right guard, and Harrigan Oosterbaan's running mate, have both been seasoned in collegiate basketball.

McConnell and Hogan, the Hawk guards, and Van Deusen at forward, have had three seasons on the Iowa quintet.

The two teams are among the four unbeaten schools in the Big Ten race thus far. Iowa has gathered two conference victories this season, and Michigan has one from the much punished Minnesota team.

Haskell Grid Star Enrolls Here for Second Semester

Mayes W. McLain, fullback on the Haskell Indian eleven last fall and one of the country's leading individual point scorers, will enroll in the University of Iowa for the second semester.

McLain was a student here during the second semester of 1926 and was a member of the spring football squad.

The nationally-known athlete, who is a one-eighth blood Cherokee Indian, weighs 210 pounds and is six feet tall. He is the driving, fast type of ball-carrier but his work on defense needs much improvement, says Coach Ingwersen.

It is uncertain whether McLain will be eligible for the Hawkeye football team next fall. He must pass a considerable number of hours of scholastic work, declare university officials.

St. Mary's Cagers Play Columbia at Dubuque Tonight

Local Team Expects Fast Game With Academy Five

St. Mary's cagers left this morning on an overland trip to Dubuque where they play the fast Columbia five tonight. St. Mary's leave with a record marred by only one defeat, that administered by St. Patrick's last Friday night.

The Columbia quintet is composed of three veterans and two new men formerly with St. Berchman's of Cedar Rapids. They play a short pass game and rarely shoot unless left completely open. They have won the tournament played in Dubuque several times and have twice gone to the national tourney in Chicago.

McDonald, a new player at the local school has shown up very well in practice and seems almost certain of breaking into the game. He is a guard and this is the first year that he has played any basket ball.

Fellman, has flashed at forward this week and will probably start the game instead of Scherrer. The remainder of the lineup will be the always reliable Bauer and Helmer at guards, Murray at forward and Moravec at center.

The Columbia five will play a return game with the local school Jan. 17.

With the Wolverines

Here are three of the Wolverine cagers who will help to dedicate the field house tonight. Left to right are Gawne, reserve forward; McCoy, center, who is playing his first year with Michigan; and Petrie, guard.

St. Pat's Quintet Meet Spaulding Cage Five Today

Local Irish in Good Condition for Hard Battle

Spaulding Institute, national parochial school basket ball champions three years ago and still one of the strongest cage fives in the middle west, will meet the local St. Patrick's quintet in the south siders' gym this afternoon at 5 o'clock. It will be the fifth game of the season for the Irish, who have gone through their early season tilts with record unblemished.

The Green and White cagers have been drilling hard all week in preparation for today's game, which promises to be the stiffest of the year. Captain Glasgow and Kelleher, offensive stars, have been finding the hoop with surprising regularity during the past week and may show the past national champions a thing or two in the way of fancy shooting.

Walsh, stellar guard who broke his nose in scrimmage last Sunday, has recovered from his injury sufficiently to allow him to play in today's contest. Reed, the other guard, and Wilkinson, forward, two newcomers on this year's team, have been improving steadily and, while their game still lacks the skill of their veteran mates, they are rapidly becoming first class performers.

The Spaulding team was the winner of last year's prep tournament at St. Ambrose college, Davenport. They play a fast floor game, working the ball skillfully through the opposing defense for short shots.

The game will be held in the afternoon to prevent a conflict with the field house dedication ceremonies tonight.

Vindication of Ty Cobb Expected by Chick Gandil

EL PASO, Tex., Jan. 13 (AP)—Vindication of Ty Cobb should follow the exoneration by Baseball Commissioner Landis of the players involved in an alleged "sloughed" series between Detroit and Chicago in 1917. Chick Gandil, one of the accusers of men cleared yesterday, declared here today.

"It would be a joke to clear those players in the 1917 scandal, with all the testimony there was against them, and then blacklist Cobb on the word of Dutch Leonard," asserted Gandil, who was expelled from organized baseball following the 1919 world series scandal.

"Cobb, in my opinion, is more honest and has done more to help the game than any player that was given a clean bill of health by Landis yesterday."

Bettors Offer 10 to 1 Odds Against Catalina Swimmers

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 13 (AP)—Those who back their opinions with greenbacks are said to be betting ten to one that not a single one of the 153 swimmers entered in the Catalina channel swim next Saturday will complete the test and win a prize.

Tides, low water temperature, and distance are the three factors on which the peddlers of these odds are making their wagers.

The landing place on the mainland, closest to the isthmus on Santa Catalina island from which the competitors are slated to start at 11 a.m. Saturday is Point Vincente. The gap between these two localities is 22 miles.

Yanks Get Two Sox Youngsters for Aaron Ward

Chicago Swaps Pair of Players for Veteran

NEW YORK, Jan. 13 (AP)—The New York Yankees jumped into the completion of the deal by which Aaron Ward, veteran second baseman, goes to the Chicago White Sox for two youngsters—Grabowski, catcher, and Ray Morehart, infielder, according to Ed Barrow, secretary of the Yankees. It was a straight trade with no cash involved.

Ward has been with the Yankees since 1917, being purchased from the Charlestown, S. C., club of the "Sally" league for a reported price of $500. He was a regular cog in the Yankee machine until last season when he was replaced by Tony Lazzeri. He is expected to play regularly for the Sox next season, occupying the post made vacant by the departure of Eddie Collins.

Manager Miller Huggins expects to carry both Grabowski and Morehart all next season, but both appear slated for utility roles. Grabowski, whose home is in Schenectady, N. Y., was obtained by the White Sox from Minneapolis in 1924. He batted .262 in forty-eight games last year. Morehart, who lives in Terrell, Tex., starred in the Western league in 1925 and subbed for Eddie Collins

Committee Arrives Today to Investigate Nagle-Whiting Contest

Fifth Ward Vote Probe Will Affect Outcome of Race

Legislators Due Here at 10:12 o'Clock This Morning

Investigation of alleged irregularities in the election of Samuel D. Whiting as representative of Johnson county in the state legislature, will be made today by a special committee from the house of representatives, as a result of the contest started by Lee Nagle, republican candidate, who lost the election by one vote.

The committee, which is expected to arrive in Iowa City this morning at 10:12 o'clock, will sit in the office of Ed. Sulek, county auditor. Authority to summon witnesses and investigate alleged illegal voting at the fifth ward polls where nearly 100 voters are claimed to have voted after closing time, has been given the committee by the house of representatives.

Call Witnesses
No more than five witnesses will be called by either side as a result of an agreement between the parties to the contest. The committee will take the testimony of the witnesses and will rule on the legality of the fifth ward vote after their return to Des Moines.

Should the vote be found to be illegal, precedent indicates that the entire fifth ward will be thrown out rather than to attempt to determine how the vote was cast by all the persons who are claimed to have voted after closing time.

Strong Majority
Loss of the fifth ward vote would mean immediate loss of the case by Nagle for a strong republican majority was returned by this ward.

The committee, which is composed of W. S. Kennedy of Lee, E. J. Cole of Harrison, Clyde Charlton of Polk, O. J. Reimers of Lyon, and Leonard Sinner of Wapello, will check the votes cast on the voting machines in Johnson county and will re-tabulate the votes cast by individual ballot.

Revolt Spreads in Mexico

President Calles is faced with necessity of dealing with many small revolts which are expected to flame into an organized movement when Adolfo de la Huerta, now in U. S., is able to get into Mexico. Alvaro Obregon, with 20,000 trained troops under his command, is being stirred by manifestos issued by Rene Garza, 28, who has proclaimed himself "provisional president."

Broadcasters Seek Debate on Radio Law Proposals

MUSCATINE, Jan. 13 (AP)—A three cornered debate on radio legislation proposals, to be broadcast by KNTT at Muscatine, is sought by Norman Baker, president of the American Broadcasters which own KNTT, in letters forwarded to Senator C. C. Dill and Congressman White at Washington.

A debate between the legislators and himself, Mr. Baker said today, would provide "a wonderful opportunity of giving the correct information which will eliminate all propaganda and result in real protection to the radio listeners."

Sharon Center Dedicates Rural School With Elaborate Program

By Louise Glackenmeyer
A quantity of food, a quantity of good cheer and an unusual quantity of enthusiasm and community booster spirit characterized the dedication last night of the remodeled rural high school at Sharon Center, located 12 miles from Iowa City. Approximately 300 persons attended the opening day services which were continuous yesterday from nine in the morning until nearly eleven last night.

Sharon Center people prefer to educate their children at home where they may be surrounded by the influences of home during their high school years instead of sending them to city schools, miles distant, where their visits home are infrequent. This conviction on the part of a large majority of the community led to the establishment of the Sharon Center rural high school three years ago as one of the pioneer rural high school projects of the state. Today the school has an attendance of 28, a faculty of three, and is financed entirely by tuition received from pupils from districts other than Sharon Center in the township, and by volunteer contributions.

$448.00 has been added this year. On yesterday's program were visiting hours from 9 to 12 a. m., a lunch at the school house at noon, a contest in spelling, arithmetic, grammar and geography yesterday afternoon between four rural schools of the district in which schools No. 3 and No. 4 tied for honors; a chicken dinner last night, a band concert by the 35 piece band, instituted for the first time last fall; a booster meeting; a program of speeches and informal talks by members of the school board, faculty, and out-of-town guests; and a talk by County Superintendent of Schools W. N. Leeper.

The financial obligations incurred by the recent improvements in the building will be met by voluntary contributions from Sharon Center people, $1270, having been raised for the purpose in less than 45 minutes last night.

Sharon Center Contributes

Those contributing $100.00 each for the new improvements on the building are as follows: Harry Grout, A. A. Ressler, W. D. Berkeley, Harrison Frank, F. J. Meer, Omer R. Yoder, Walter Weeber, J. T. Winborn, D. F. Gingerich. Other contributions were made by Theodore Ressler, E. E. Miller, Maas Bros., Mrs. L. E. Leeper, R. O. Shaw, Sally Gingerich, W. L. Snider, Chris Strickley, Mrs. J. A. Yoder, the Rev. M. E. Shank, L. W. Schumley, Gayle Morrow.

The teaching force of the Sharon Center high school includes Mr. G. F. Ludwig, B.A., M.A., as superintendent, Theodore Ressler, and Mrs. G. F. Ludwig. Directors of the district are Eli Miller, Calvin Stutzman and Joe Yoder. Officers of the Sharon Center high school association are Omar Yoder, president, Harry Grout and A. E. Ressler.

Belting Addresses Rotarians; Tells of New Field House

Iowa's mammoth new field house has brought the university widespread and favorable publicity in all sections of the country," said Dr. Paul E. Belting, director of university athletics and physical education, in a talk before the Iowa City Rotary club at its regular meeting at Hotel Jefferson yesterday noon.

Dr. Belting explained the elaborate three-day program which has been arranged in connection with the dedication of the new field house.

Finkbine Reminiscences
Mr. W. O. Finkbine, member of the Des Moines Rotary club and well-known benefactor of the university indulged in a few reminiscences of the early days of the university, describing several interesting personalities and incidents of the time when he was a resident of Iowa City.

Mr. Fred M. Hopkins, member of the Rotary club of Fostoria, O., and publisher of the Fostoria Review, also gave a short impromptu speech in which he commented upon the remarkable changes he has observed in both the university and in Iowa City since he graduated from the college of law here in 1895.

Board Buys Two Lots for Addition to School Ground

Monthly Report Shows Large Balances in School Funds

Two lots covering an area 80 by 100 feet in size situated west of the Horace Mann public school have been purchased from George Graveler by the Iowa City board of education and this tract will be added to the school grounds.

The board has not as yet made any disposition of the house standing upon the lots.

The monthly report of J. White Brown, secretary of the board, showed a balance of $69,170.75 in the general fund, and a balance of $36,566.70 in the school house fund.

Disbursements during the past month have been as follows: pay roll, $30,650.91; fuel bill, $1,284.96; insurance, $152.00; light and power, $226.21; water, $173.57; repairs, $407.74; teaching supplies, $192.10. Added to this there were enough miscellaneous expenditures to bring the total up to $33,521.34.

Additions to the fund during the month were: $19,286.59 from taxes; $1,369 from tuition, and $42.40 from various minor sources.

Plumbing and the installation of sewers at Lincoln school took $736.53 from the school house fund. Taxes amounting to $2,872.96 were added to the fund.

In absence of Samuel D. Whiting, president of the board, Mrs. Grace Weeber presided at the meeting.

Iowa City Rotary club to attend a dinner to be given by the West Liberty Rotary club on Tuesday, Jan. 25. Rotarian W. O. Finkbine of Des Moines was the guest of the Hon. Charles M. Dutcher, and Rotarian Fred M. Hopkins of Fostoria, O., was the guest of Rotarian Merritt C. Speidel. Mr. L. G. Arthurs of Des Moines, guest of Secretary LeRoy Spencer, and Rotarian R. B. Governor Shows Hand on Issues Concerning Banks

Rep. Geo. M. Hopkins, Guthrie county—"It was the best speech Governor Hammill ever made, but I do not agree with him on many of the major proposals. I do agree with him on the banking question in particular."

Both houses of the assembly adjourned this evening till Tuesday afternoon. When they reconvene Lieut. Gov. Kimball and Speaker Carter will have their committee assignments in readiness and the session will get under way in earnest. A flood of bills already have been prepared, some of them going direct to the all-important bank and road issues. The close of next week should find the assembly in the midst of its work.

New Field House Affords Quarters for Many Sports

Basketball Court and Pool Features of Building

Dreams that Iowa would some day have a field house second to none in the world have been realized with the dedication of the mammoth structure which takes place today, and Saturday. A small army of workmen started to clear the ground a year ago and to place the thousands upon thousands of brick which make up the building and the immense expanse of steel which forms the skeleton for Iowa's newest achievement.

With a length of 464 feet, north and south, and a width of 430 feet, east and west, and with an average height of 60 feet, the field house contains 5,500,000 cubic feet of space, nearly half the total amount of space in all university buildings east of the Iowa river.

Four Sections
Sixteen hundred and fifty tons of structural steel have gone into the building, while 500,000 face brick and 2,000,000 common brick form the walls of the building. Thirty-six carloads of lumber, and thousands of barrels of cement and lime were used in the building which covers three acres of ground.

The structure is divided into four sections; with the gymnasium on the north, the swimming pool on the south, and the field house proper between the gymnasium and the swimming pool while the offices and exhibition hall stretch across the front, on the east side of the building.

The basketball court has a seating capacity of 12,000 persons, the seats being arranged in triple decks. The arrangement of the doors in the building makes it possible to clear the place of a capacity crowd in four minutes.

A cinder track, the largest indoor track in the world, has been built for Coach Bresnahan's track aspirants. It measures six laps to the mile, with a 100 yard straight away on either side of the oval.

Largest Pool
The swimming pool is the largest in the United States. The United States Naval Academy's pool at Annapolis closely rivals it. The pool is 150 feet long and 60 feet wide and contains 500,000 gallons of water. It is estimated by the swimming coaches that 250 men can swim in the four sections of the pool at the same time. Spectators will be accommodated by a double deck of seats which holds 3,500 people. The authorities of the National Collegiate Athletic association have awarded the 1927 collegiate championship meet to Iowa.

Eight regulation-sized tennis courts will be put into the structure before it is entirely finished as well as a football field of standard dimensions, a base-ball diamond and a soccer field.

Modern Gymnasium
However, all the accommodations in the field house have not been given over to Iowa inter-collegiate athletes for a modern equipped gymnasium 180 feet long, 112 feet wide and 50 feet high has been put in on the north end of the building. In the basement there are rooms for lockers and showers which will accommodate 5,000 students who take the required work in physical education. Other facilities are varsity and freshmen team rooms, faculty and coaches quarters and a suite of offices for the medical supervisors. Above the gymnasium is space for sixteen hand-ball and squash courts—together with eight chess rooms.

Trophy Room
In a room across the front of the field house, 240 feet long, 30 feet wide and 18 feet high, will be displayed the trophies that Iowa athletes have won in the past—together with records of championship teams and pictures of stars of the past. Two more floors of offices and class rooms will lie over the trophy room.

It was in October, 1925, that the Iowa Board of education authorized the Athletic council to proceed with the erection of a field house, incorporating the present armory. The council issued $300,000 worth of five per cent serial gold note bonds which were readily sold. Structural steel was purchased in December, a year ago, and excavations and footings were begun in February. The steel was first set up in March. The general contract was let in April and work has been speedily progressing since a year ago.

Run on Profits
The sale on bonds and profits from inter-collegiate contests will finance the field house over a period of the next ten years. No state appropriations will be used for the structure.

The athletic council includes: R. E. Belting, director of athletics; H. C. Horack, college of law; R. P. Fleming, college of engineering; Louis Pelzer, college of liberal arts; Dr. H. L. Beye, college of medicine; Dr. R. A. Benton, college of dentistry; R. A. Kuyver, college of pharmacy; W. H. Bates, secretary and treasurer of the university.

Moody, New Head of Texas, Receives Only Meager Pay

First Lady of Lone Star State Plans to Economize

By W. Y. FERROL
Exclusive Dispatch, Copyright, 1927
AUSTIN, Tex., Jan. 13 (EPH).—Governors of American commonwealths are notoriously ill-paid, and only three states allow their chief executive less to live upon than does Texas. The Lone Star state, spreading out over an area larger than Germany, or France, or the Japanese empire, and more than four times as large as England, pays its governor a salary of $4,000 a year. Less, as is well known, than is earned by many a laboring man. Texas' senators and representatives in congress receive more than twice as much.

$4,000 Salary
But Dan Moody, the new governor, and his wife, bride of a few months, are determined to live within their income, which is the afore-said $4,000 a year, or less than $11 a day. They'll even try to save a little.

Mrs. Moody already is installing rigid economy in the executive mansion. She intends to do most of her work, irrespective of the fact that a governor's wife is expected to do considerable entertaining.

Mrs. Moody, whom the former attorney general married while he was campaigning to succeed "Ma" Ferguson as governor, was Miss Mildred Paxton, daughter of an Abilene, Tex., banker. She is a graduate of the University of Texas, and took graduate work in journalism at Columbia university, New York.

Popular as Lawyer
Moody, only 34, is not wealthy. His law practice has been his only source of income, and that was dormant during his stormy career as attorney general. Virtually all he amassed during the two-year term was enormous popularity and the reputation of being an alleged opponent of alleged graft in the Ferguson administration, recovering more than $1,000,000 in excess profits from road contractors.

There is the possibility that the next legislature will be induced to do better by its governor in the way of salary. But such action could only affect the future, and so the Moodys must practice rigid economy in order to make both ends meet in the governor's mansion. The bride can afford to burn no biscuits; the governor to lose his Sunday collar button.

Other Governors' Wages
Incidentally, Pennsylvania pays its governor best—$18,000 a year. Governor Small of Illinois gets $12,000. California, Massachusetts, New Jersey, New York, Ohio, West Virginia, have $10,000-a-year men as chief executives. New Hampshire, South Dakota, Vermont pay only $3,000. They are at the bottom of the list.

Where Iowa Athletes Will Play

Armory, Once the Talk of Campus, Now in Shadow of New Field House

Way back in 1919 the armory was the talk of the campus. It had just been completed and it was an imposing structure. Iowa at last had proper facilities for the R. O. T. C. unit, basketball, and indoor track. The state constructed the building and permitted the athletic department the use of it for the athletic council had agreed to construct the basketball floor, the running track and the bleachers for the basketball games.

The armory took care of the various activities for some time and then it became evident that the facilities of the armory were limited. Basketball required more time, and track was developing into an important activity. The R. O. T. C. unit was increasing and they were clamoring for more time. Other activities demanded the use of the building so that before many years the demands upon the armory were beyond the facilities.

Armory was Inadequate
Dr. Paul Belting, director of athletics, said, "we realized, and the military department realized, that the armory was too small to accommodate the increasing group of activities. Schedules were arranged and re-arranged in order to take advantage of every available minute but regardless of anything we could do, the armory was inadequate."

It was evident that something would have to be done in order to relieve the congestion, so plans for the new field house were started. Numerous methods of financing were considered, a suitable location was taken into consideration and various other problems arose.

Economy Practiced
They realized that several hundred thousand dollars would be saved if the State Board of Education would permit them to build onto the armory. This the state board agreed to do in view of certain considerations.

Two years ago the athletic council issued $300,000 worth of gold series, 5-12 percent bonds, to be retired by yearly installments within ten years. These bonds will be retired wholly by profits from inter-collegiate athletics. The state agreed to pay $50,000 for the construction of the swimming pool and the gymnasium.

$500,000 Structure
The total cost of the field house is $500,000 and with the exception of the $50,000 granted by the state the entire cost is being met by profits from athletic contests.

The field house is practically completed now but several new innovations have not yet been added. The basketball floor will be so constructed that it may be elevated in sections and placed along the wall.

When the men's gym is installed in the new field house it is planned to install the women's gym in the building now occupied by the men. Similarly the school of music will move to the building now occupied by the women's gym.

David H. Boot Hurt in Fall From Ladder

When David H. Boot, assistant instructor in the college of pharmacy, attempted to climb a ladder to obtain some provisions in the geology building, the ladder slipped and he fell, suffering head gashes and a badly sprained wrist. Dr. A. W. Bennett was summoned and removed the injured man to his office where his wounds were dressed. Although Boot's injuries are not thought to be serious, he was taken to the University hospital for X-rays.

Baconian Lecture Will Close Early for Game Tonight

The committee in charge of the Baconian lectures has made arrangements to close the lecture this evening in ample time for those attending to reach the field house in time for the basketball game.

The lecture this week will be the first to be given by a professor not connected with this university. Prof. George Grant MacCurdy of the Peabody museum of Yale university will speak on "Looking Backward with the Pre-historian."

Professor MacCurdy is an anthropologist of note throughout the country. He has done field work in this study in many parts of the world and his experience has especially qualified him for lecturing on this subject.

Dr. Carl E. Seashore, dean of the graduate college, considers this lecture one of the most important of the year, especially for students in psychology, sociology, and history.

Field House Built With Great Speed Took Over Year

Cost of Building Shouldered by University; Council Used No State Funds

On Oct. 1, 1925, the Iowa athletic council passed a resolution to erect a gigantic field house; today, Jan. 14, 1927, the field house is entirely completed and ready to be dedicated to the student body.

The athletic council, consisting of P. E. Belting, head of the department of physical education; Prof. H. C. Horack; Prof. B. P. Fleming; Prof. Louis Pelzer; Dr. H. L. Beye; Dr. R. A. Genton; Prof. R. A. Kuyver, and W. H. Bates, secretary and treasurer of the university, passed a resolution that a field house be constructed for the men, that the present men's gymnasium be used as the women's gym and the women's gym be used for other university purposes, and that the business and building committee of the council provide the council with $50,000 for the construction of the building. At this time the business and building committee of the council was given the power to accept or reject what bids and plans were set forth to the committee.

Not Built by State
It was also provided in the resolution that the building was not to be paid for out of any funds given to the university by the state, but that the building when completed would be under the supervision of the state board of education.

On Oct. 15, the athletic council accepted the $50,000 given by the committee and plans for the new field house were in progress. In a letter to persons interested in investing money in the new field house, P. E. Belting said, "We expect to borrow $300,000 with ten year maturity to be paid in installments of $25,000 a year plus interest and any other amount redeemable at par on any interest bearing date. We would also like to have the interest cancelled until the time we use the money."

The bid for a loan was let to Metcalf, Cowill, and Clark company of Des Moines with the conditions that $25,000 was to be paid back to the company for nine years while at the end of the tenth year $75,000 was to be paid to the Des Moines financial firm. The bonds were to bear the semi-annual interest rate of five per cent.

The bonds were put out in $100,

$500 and $1,000 forms and the First National bank of Iowa City and the Farmers Loan and Trust company of Iowa City to act as the trustees paying and disbursing agents.

Building Progresses Rapidly
At a meeting of the Iowa State board of education on Dec. 7, and 8, 1925, President Jessup made an informal report of the progress of the architect and the athletic council on the plans of the field house gymnasium to be built in connection with the armory. The board at this time approved the construction of the building and moved that the grounds and building department of the university be authorized to erect footings for steel and foundations walls for the structure at the expense of the athletic council.

On Jan. 27, 1925, a motion was passed that the director be authorized to purchase the face brick for the structure. An order was placed for brick, which matched the brick of the armory. A. H. Neuman of Des Moines was given the contract at a cost of $240,000.

So the work progressed in the paving of the plans for Iowa's latest achievement and addition. Work kept up all last summer when an army of workmen put in their time under a scorching July and August sun until today, when the building is to be dedicated to the Iowa student body.

Of athletic games which will be held in the field house, P. E. Belting said the following in a report of the division of physical education, to the university.

Belting Makes Comment
"The games furnish one of the best psychological situations in which to teach many of the so-called Christian virtues. The instincts of mastery and pugnacity have long been established in the human race. The fundamental active forces that these instincts provide should not be eliminated from athletics, but redirected toward the inculcation of such characteristics as perseverance against difficulties, tenacity of purpose, the will to overcome, obedience, self-sacrifice, subordination, cooperation, friendliness, loyalty, leadership, ability to lose without sulking and win without boasting, a spirit of fair play, and the insistence on right as the rule in one's relations with his associates."

Make Additions to University Museums

Chief additions to the university museum during the past year are some new specimens in the fish exhibits and a new moose group which includes a bull, a cow, and a calf, which will be given life-like positions in a glass case, and will be placed in the vertebrate hall.

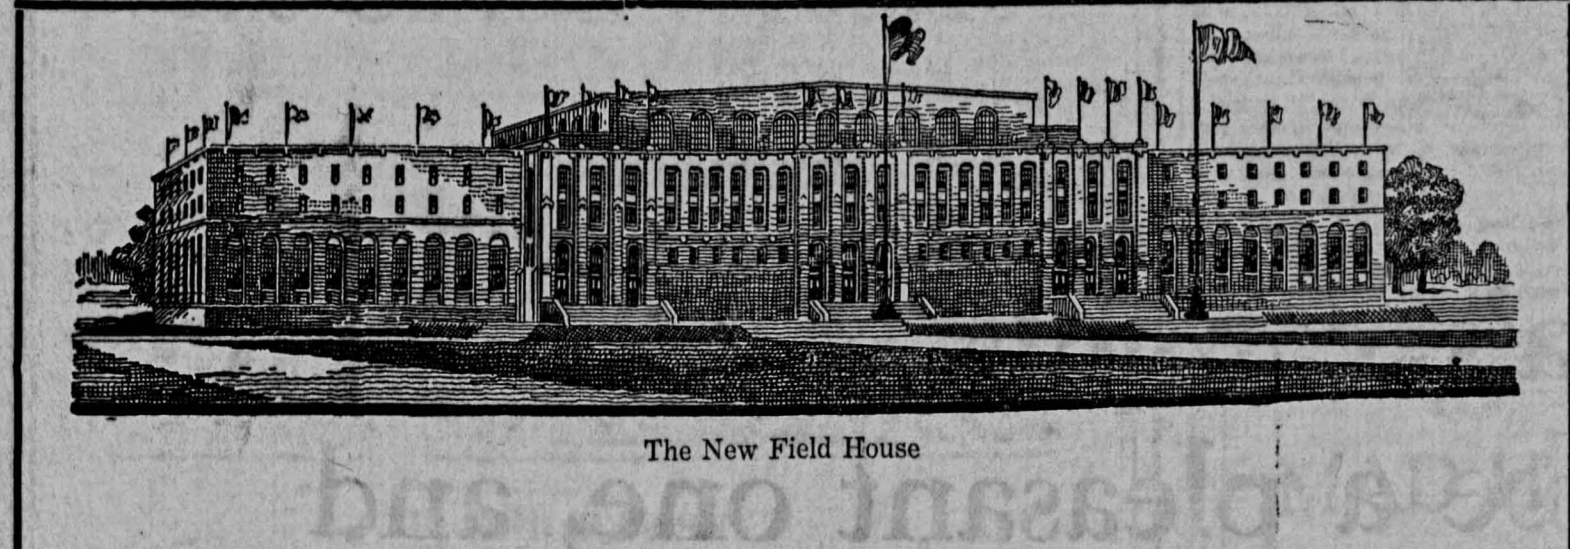

The plaster of Paris forms of the moose are completed now, and are ready to have the skins stretched over them. The hollow cast was made over a clay model, and the final plaster of Paris cast was made from this.

Additions have also been made to the fish group, and special efforts are being made to obtain a collection of all types of Iowa fish. Fifteen or twenty of the more common kinds are mounted now.

An ocean turtle weighing fifty pounds when it was caught is rapidly taking shape in plaster of Paris, and will be painted to make it look realistic before it is added to the exhibit.

Prof. Homer R. Dill, director of the museum, has returned from Chicago where he gave a lecture at the Chicago Academy of Science. The subject was, "In the Land where Birds are not Afraid," in which he described the tropical islands from which the Layson bird exhibit was secured.

Association Keeps Chicago Banks Safe
CHICAGO, Jan. 13 (AP)—For fifteen years, under a voluntary system, of examination adopted by Chicago bank members of the Chicago clearing house association, there has been no loss to depositors. The system is a simple accounting one, carried out in periodical examinations of member banks under an examination staff of the clearing house association.

The examiners report in detail to a clearing house committee only when they find evidence that calls for an explanation. This precautionary system is one entirely beyond the state law which only calls for an examination at least once a year by representatives of the state auditor.

Senate Committee Reports on Woods

Steck Charge Against Brookhart Features Negative Report

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13.—An unfavorable report on President Coolidge's nomination of Cyrus E. Woods of Pennsylvania to be a member of the Interstate Commerce commission was voted yesterday by a senate committee eight to six.

As a result, the now week old battle waged before the interstate commerce committee against the former ambassador to Spain and Japan, will be taken to the senate floor within a few days with the senators from Virginia, West Virginia, Kentucky, and Tennessee, opposing confirmation and those from Pennsylvania supporting Woods.

The chief grounds for opposition to Woods' nomination were that he formerly was counsel of the Pittsburgh Coal company, interested in the Lake Cargo Coal rate case now before the commission, and was appointed at the behest of Senator Reed, republican, Pennsylvania, who repeatedly has stated that the business and commercial interests of the Keystone State should have representation on the commission.

Besides acting adversely on Woods' nomination the committee directed a sub-committee to draft a report to the senate on the intimations last Monday by Senator Steck, democrat, Iowa, and withdrawn yesterday before the committee, that Senator-Elect Brookhart, republican, Iowa, was a "paid lobbyist for Woods" in his effort to have the senate confirm his nomination.

To bear out his statement that newspapers had published reports that Brookhart was lobbying for farm relief legislation before congress and was in the pay of farm organizations, Senator Steck presented to the committee an article from the St. Paul Pioneer Press, charging that Brookhart's expenses were being paid by such organizations.

The Iowa senator-elect, who was ousted from the senate at the last session in favor of Steck and who was re-elected last November, promptly denied that even his expenses were being paid by farm organizations and demanded to know whether Steck "backed up" the charges.

"No, I present it for the consideration of the committee," Steck said. Committee members predicted that the final report to the senate would completely exonerate Brookhart.

Farm Federation Meets at Capital City Convention

DES MOINES, Jan. 13.—(AP)—Delegates to the annual convention of the Iowa Farm Bureau federation, both men and women, attended a banquet last night at which Mrs. F. L. Smith, of Atlantic, Mrs. Edith M. Wager, of Michigan, and the Rev. C. H. Bigelow, of Adel, were the principal speakers.

State President Charles E. Hearst, who called the first sessions of the convention to order yesterday, presided at the banquet.

The delegates represent a total membership of 60,583 Iowans, they were told at the opening meeting, and Kossuth county leads the state with 1,273. Fayette is second with 1,188 but Montgomery county has the greatest membership with 928 on the basis of area.

Approximately 1,400 of the 1,613 townships in the state are organized for the women's work of the Farm Bureau, Mrs. Ellsworth Richardson of Pell, chairman of that work, reported. "I believe there are more women leaders in attendance at this convention than has ever before occurred in any state," she declared.

Heir to Millions Finds '400' Stupid, Turns to Stage and Films for Career

SISTER JANE HELPING BARTON HEPBURN WITH HIS MAKEUP

Exclusive Dispatch, Copyright, 1927 By MARY BLAIDE

NEW YORK, Jan. 13 (EFS)—He'd rather be an actor than a millionaire.

Twenty-one at last, and footloose with $500,000 in hand and a half of a $20,000,000 estate coming to him, A. Barton Hepburn is living his own life.

He's moved out of Park avenue and turned the cold shoulder to what is known as the "Smart Set," to live in a modest apartment and seek fame on the stage.

"About the only interesting people in the Social Register," he allows, "are a few old dowagers with a sly sense of humor who have learned a thing or two about life in spite of their environment."

"The average debutante party is the most boring event in the world, with a lot of homely girls who don't know how to dance and a very few pretty and charming ones who have been too sheltered from life to be interesting. They are attended by a lot of stupid people and young college men, most of the time."

Hepburn, grandson of the late A. Barton Hepburn, banker, and member of a family that has been moneyed and socially prominent longer than most of the New York claimants to social position, is making his debut on the stage as member of a stock company in a "Little Theater."

Young Hepburn's family objected very strenuously when he first announced his intention of entering the theatrical profession. But he remembered that his father, Charles Fisher Hepburn, asbestos and single king of Cleveland, was once offered the editorship of "Judge" and went through life regretting that he had gone in for business instead. He alone seemed to sympathize with his son's viewpoint.

"This is just a stepping stone, a way of learning," young Hepburn explains. "What I want to do is to direct and perhaps write plays. I should like to see better, more sophisticated, more mature plays on the American stage. But my real future, I hope, will be in the mov-

Gov. Ma Ferguson Defends Pardons

Postpone Sentencing of All Criminals until After Ma Quits

AUSTIN, Jan. 13.—(AP)—Gov. Miriam A. Ferguson today struck back at critics of her pardon policy, while the courts of a second county in the state postponed the sentencing of criminals until after the woman executive leaves office Jan. 18.

In a statement, Mrs. Ferguson challenged her opponents to cite any acts of clemency that "have not been justified."

To prevent the further pardoning of convicts from Harris county, Judge Boyd of the criminal district court at Houston yesterday agreed to withhold the sentencing of all criminals until Governor Ferguson's term expires. Judge Boyd acted at the request of Horace Soule, district attorney, who declared that one man recently convicted had been freed by the governor and that it was his understanding that another was to be pardoned.

There was no let-up yesterday in the stream of pardons that have been issued from the executive's office. Twenty-seven full pardons and one conditional pardon were granted by the governor, the total of her clemency acts amounting to 2,205.

In less than two years Mrs. Ferguson has exceeded by 765 the clemency record for Texas established by her husband, James E. Ferguson, before he was impeached as governor in 1917.

The report disclosed that Mr. Young carried life insurance amounting to more than $41,000.

Students Demand Emily Post and Selected Poetry Often—Librarian

"Several Bibles are distributed in the reading room at the general library and there is one at the reference desk," said Mrs. Sarah S. Edwards, superintendent of the reading room, in commenting upon campus reading as shown by the library cards. "They are called for sometimes, but not so frequently as Emily Post."

Emily Post is called into service occasionally, early in the evening, by students in holiday dress who thumb through the index feverishly, turn to some particular section, and read with Phi Beta Kappa intensity. Then, with the immediate problem solved, they dash out to meet the

Hassell Convicted in Murder Trial; Ask Death Penalty

FARWELL, Tex., Jan. 13 (AP)—Geo. J. Hassell, farmer who confessed to slaying thirteen persons including his wife and her eight children, yesterday was found guilty of the murder of step-son, Aldon Hassell, by a jury in district court. The death penalty was recommended. The jury deliberated less than two hours.

Hassell in his confession told of marrying his brother's widow after her husband had been killed while working with Hassell on an Oklahoma farm. He then moved to the Far Handle ranch here, bringing his brother's eight children who ranged in age from two to 21 years. He told of an argument with his wife when she accused him of attacking her oldest daughter. Hassell declared he killed her with a hammer and then fearing detection of the crime, choked and beat to death the children and placed them in a dugout.

Evidence Piles Up

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13 (AP)—Defendants in the Lake diversion case now being heard in chancery by Charles E. Hughes, special master appointed by the Supreme Court yesterday confined to pile up documentary evidence intended to establish federal and state approval for the construction of a commercial waterway between Lake Michigan and the Mississippi valley.

Dr. James Alton James, professor of history at Northwestern university, was still on the witness stand when the hearing was adjourned to Wednesday.

Assessors End Strike

NEVADA, Iowa, Jan. 13 (AP)—The strike of assessors in Story county ended yesterday. Last week thirty-one assessors adopted a resolution refusing to accept the wage scale reductions voted by the board of supervisors and a conference with the supervisors disclosed that group as determined to insist on the scale. In addition, the supervisors announced that if the assessors failed to qualify yesterday, their places would be declared vacant and others employed.

Insurance Agent Gets $27,000 Reward for $3,250,000 Policy

MRS. HENRY C. YEISER, JR.

Exclusive Dispatch, Copyright, 1927 CINCINNATI, O. Jan. 12 (EFS)—William R. Bass, the insurance salesman who started out the New Year by selling Mrs. Henry C. Yeiser, Jr., a $3,250,000 policy, will receive $27,000 as his first year's commission on the premium.

The policy, largest ever written on a woman's life, it is said, will cost Mrs. Yeiser more than $7,000 annually. She is the daughter of the late Julius Fleishmann, "yeast king," and the possessor of millions. She bought the insurance as an investment, she says, just as she might have put money into a business venture.

No one company ever handles so large a policy alone, and the Union Central, by which Bass is employed, distributed the total among 13 companies. Its own book was $450,000.

Other students take out this bible of etiquette for a quiet afternoon's reading. The "Students' Home Book of Verse" is also used frequently for recreational reading.

Exams in literature increase the demand for the "Students' Digest of Books," according to Mrs. Edwards. This is why students sometimes fall down on detailed questions in an examination.

The "Short Story Index" is especially useful because short stories are not listed in the card catalogue. Another book which is popular by compulsion is the "World Almanac," which contains various statistics.

Coal Contracts for State Institutions OK, Says Brown

DES MOINES, Jan. 13 (AP)—The state board of control violated no laws in the last awards of contracts for coal to be used at state institutions, E. P. Brown, accountant for the budget director, reported today to Gov. Hammill. Irregularities had been charged by Vernon Denman, Des Moines coal salesman.

Mr. Brown reported that two companies had not been required to post bond while the other bids met the requirement but he pointed out that the board is not legally required to demand bonds.

One of the charges was that the board in one instance bought a different grade of coal than that for which bids were asked. The accountant found that the grade bought was more economical. Another cited instance was non-acceptance of the lowest bid, and the accountant reported that the higher quality of coal obtained more than offset the difference in price.

Sculptor Predicts New Super-Roads

Gutzon Burglum Tells Road Convention of Future

CHICAGO, Jan. 13.—A broad ribbon of surfaced highways carrying the nation's commerce and tourists from coast to coast over four wide lanes, was visioned as "no idealistic dream" by Gutzon Burglum, renowned sculptor of Stone Mountain fame, one of the principal speakers before the American Road Builders association at its annual banquet here.

Mr. Burglum came from San Antonio Texas, where he is working on a monument to the "Trail Drivers" to lay before the convention plans for a four-track, wide, hard-surfaced highway from coast to coast.

One-Way Traffic These plans were originated by Coleman Dupont, of Wilmington, Del., in a bill drawn up for congress. One-way traffic would be the rule on this highway two tracks carrying each bound and two west bound vehicles. One track in either direction would be for fast moving traffic, and the other for trucks and other vehicles traveling under thirty miles an hour.

C. M. Babcock of Minneapolis, Minnesota state commissioner of highways, was elected president of the American road builders association at the annual business meeting.

Among a group chosen to fill forthcoming vacancies on the board of directors for three year terms were: A. E. Horst, Rock Island, Ill.; T. A. Little, Kansas City, Mo.; and Fred R. White, Ames, Iowa.

Engineer Students In Great Demand, Says A. A. Potter

"The demand for engineer students is greater than it has ever been before," stated A. A. Potter, dean of the engineers' college at Purdue, in a recent interview here concerning the opportunities that are open for the student in engineering. "This is due to the fact that we are living in an engineering age," declared Mr. Potter.

Mr. Potter added that engineering is a comparatively new profession, seen the development of transportation being about 100 years old, and it has seen the development of transportation, communication, illumination, and radio. The present world epoch is one of advancement and invention. Due to the work of scientists and other learned men, the world has reached the greatest engineering epoch in history.

"Is it any wonder, asked Mr. Potter, that engineer students can find thousands of opportunities open when there are twenty million automobiles daily covering a distance equal to 20,000 times the circumference of the world?"

Hahn Equity Case Rested Yesterday in District Court

Security Savings Bank v. Kinne Comes Before Judge Today

The Hahn equity case was rested yesterday afternoon in the Johnson county district court after five days' time was granted by Judge Otto, for both sides to file a written argument at the clerk's office.

The plaintiffs were again on the stand and told further of the instructions they had received about their parents' estate. The defense took the witness stand only on cross-examination, and did not offer any testimony regarding its side of the case.

Sue Relatives

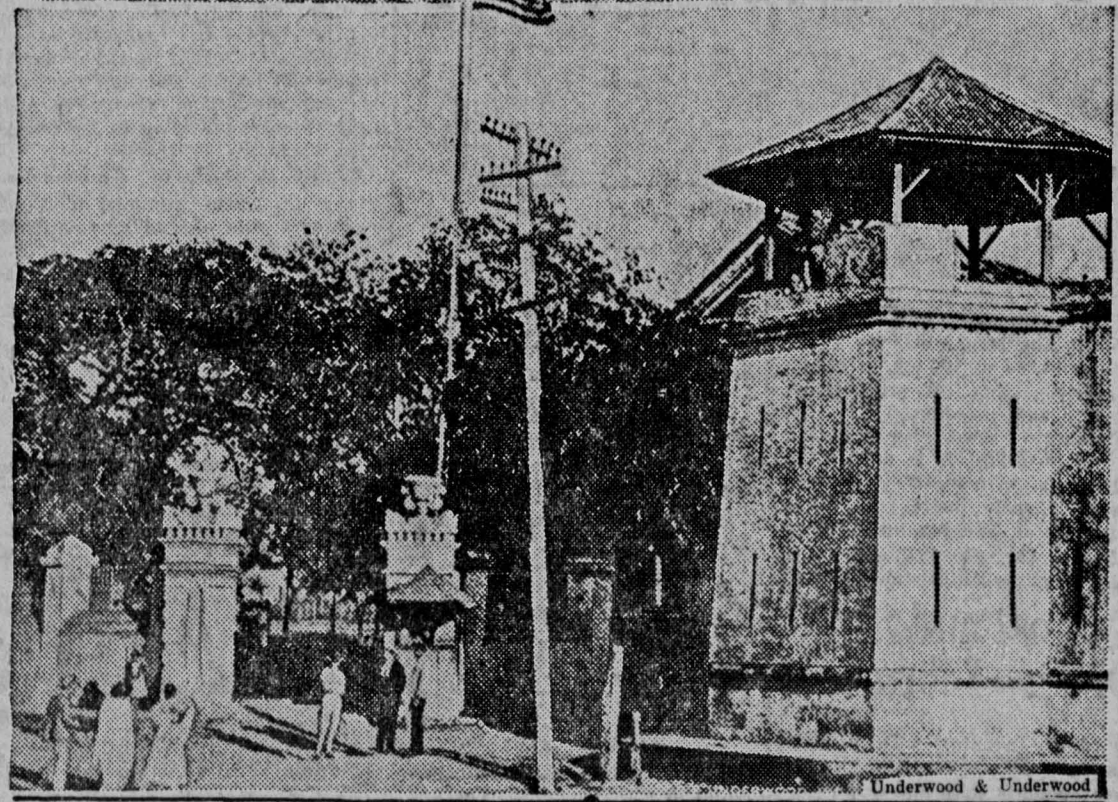

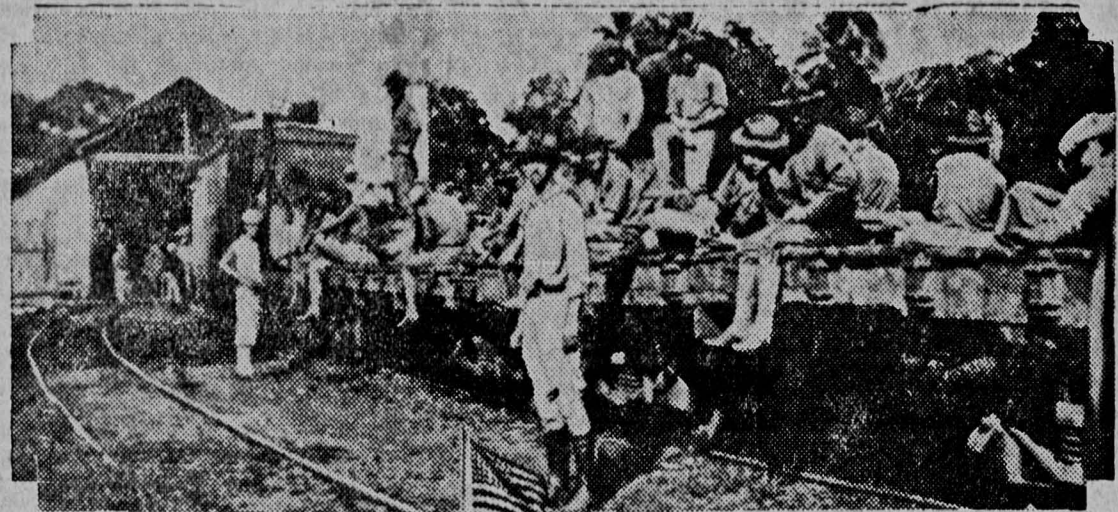

The defendants, William and Bessie Hahn were sued for $93,000, which their brothers and sisters assert is due them out of the estate of their parents, William Hahn, Sr., and wife, Louisa Hahn.

W. J. Baldwin, S. K. Stevenson, and C. Collins, were attorneys for the plaintiffs, while C. F. Russell and V. L. Sharp handled the suit for the defendants.

Foreclosure Suit

The case of Security Savings Bank vs. Kinne will be tried today before Judge Otto. The suit is for the foreclosure of a real estate mortgage and the appointment of a receiver, and involves approximately $13,000.

Two Weeks Left for Applicants to Get Petitions in

E. F. Rate Only Person Outside City Hall to Indicate Self

With but two weeks left in which to file petitions, only a few persons have definitely announced their intention of running for local offices in the approaching city primaries.

Ruth A. Gallaher, councilman at large, is at present circulating a petition to secure the two per cent of the voters of last year, necessary to filing for re-election.

Hayek for City Attorney?

Two of the councilmen, Charles B. Crain, and Charles W. McQuinn, could not be reached yesterday, and so far as is known G. A. Kenderline is the only alderman beside Miss Gallaher who will seek re-election.

he has announced. William J. White, city assessor, has announced his intention of trying for another term in his present position.

Grim Undecided

Because he has held the office three terms, J. M. Grim, city treasurer, has not made up his mind whether or not he will run again.

The city clerk and city inspector are both appointed by the council, while the mayor has appointive power over the offices of chiefs of the fire and police departments.

Outside of the city hall, E. F. Rate is the only person who has yet decided to run in the coming primaries, the attorney having announced his candidacy for city solicitor on the republican ticket.

West Liberty and U High Meet Tonight

Undeclared Teams to Play for First Time This Season

University high travels to West Liberty tonight to meet the fast five of that city in the local's third game of the season.

The West Liberty quintet has garnered a hard-fought victory from Grant high of Cedar Rapids and are expected to furnish plenty of opposition for the University high team.

Coach Skein has his boys on edge for the game and they will furnish their strongest line-up for West Liberty to overcome.

Last year the teams played two contests, each winning a game. This will be the deciding game of the series and furnishes an additional reason for both teams to struggle hard for a win.

Selecting Sound Securities

THE problem of selecting sound securities for the investment of surplus funds is one that should receive the careful attention of every one who is putting aside a part of his income to provide against the future.

It is a part of our business to help those who are endeavoring to select sound securities, and we naturally prosper most when our clients find that investments purchased from us are entirely safe and satisfactory.

We have available at the present time a very attractive selection of sound bond investments of different classes.

We shall be glad to explain the strength and attractiveness of these bonds to interested investors.
