Big Ten Schools Set Restriction on Recruit of Players

Adopt Four Year Grid Plan Formulated Last Week

CHICAGO, Jan. 28.—(Special)—Drastic measures to curb the increasing tendency toward improper recruiting by university alumni officials, and alumni or undergraduate groups loomed in the offing as the gathering of sixty presidents, faculty, alumni and student representatives, athletic directors, and football coaches of the Big Ten conference closed at the Hotel Sherman here tonight.

A definite group of resolutions governing proper recruiting of high school students was approved at the meeting, and a measure presented by President Max Mason of Chicago accepted to put teeth in the ruling.

As adopted, discussion of rotating and round robin schedules, and consideration of a policy of a simultaneous home game schedule, occupied most of the meeting. No action was taken on this matter. However, the meeting formally accepted and approved the four-year schedule adopted by the athletic directors last week.

[By The Associated Press]

CHICAGO, Jan. 28.—A rigid code of ethics on recruiting of prep school athletes was adopted today by the committee of sixty of the Western conference and the four year football schedule framed last week by the Big Ten athletic directors was approved and commended. Each football candidate the committee ordered, will be required to sign and abide b ythe code.

The conference, initiated by the university presidents, included six representatives from each Big Ten member, the president, chairman of the board of regents, a prominent alumnus, faculty athletic chairman; athletic director; and football coach.

Five topics were drtawn up for consideration by Prof. O. F. Long, of Northwestern, Thomas F. Moran of Purdue and James Paige of Minnesota.

On the first question, increasing the minimum of four intro-conference games, it was voted that the situation be left as at present.

The second question, on the adoption of a rotating schedule which would make the conference virtually a "playing league,' was referred to the faculty committee of the Big Ten and John L. Griffith, commissioner of athletics, for further study.

No action pending further study, was taken on the third question, similar to the second exeept that it included the athletic directors in the scheme for working out a "rotating schedule."

The fourth question, suggesting simultaneous football games on the fields of each institution, was tabled for good after a long discussion.

The fifth, recruiting, and proselyting, occupied the greater part of the day's debates, and resulted in the formulation of the code which embraced points regulating recruiting.

Four Die From Leak in Gas Pipe in Clinton Home

CLINTON, Iowa, Jan. 28 (AP)—The bodies of Mrs. Mina Longhurst, 65 years old, her son, Wm. F. Trainer, 50 years old, and her grandson, Donald Laurant, 4 years old, were discovered here late today in their gas filled home.

As all gas jets in the house were closed it is believed a leak in a pipe caused the fatality. Coroner Robert L. Fenlon will hold an inquest tomorrow morning in an effort to determine where the gas came from.

While helping to remove the bodies from the room in which they were found, Fred White, attendant at a nearby oil station, was overcome by the gas.

Gas company officials said tonight there had been a break in the gas-main outside of the Longhurst home, and expressed the belief that the gas crept along the pipe into the house to its unsuspecting victims.

Britain Offers to Give Up Chinese Trade Advantages

PEKING, Jan. 28 (AP)—Great Britain notified both the Peking and Nationalist governments today that Britain was disposed to grant a large share of the rights which the Chinese contended were theirs.

While nothing official was obtainable, concerning the British proposals, it is believed that they offered virtually to give up the British concessions as such at Hankow and Tientsin and to substitute therefor international settlements in which the Chinese would have a very large voice in government of the municipalities.

Coffey Aids Men to Recover Head of Slain Woman

Thousands of Curiosity-Seekers Rush to Spot; Discover Other Lost Parts

[By The Associated Press]

PLATTESVILLE, Wis., Jan. 28.—Supported by two deputy sheriffs and nearing a stae of collapse William N. Coffey, bigamist husband of Mrs. Hattie Hales Coffey, tonight pointed to a spot on Pennypacker Ridge and aided officers in recovering the missing head of the woman which he buried with other dismembered parts of her body.

Coffey, unemotional and appearing to be in a daze, had to be led to the point on the ridge. After he was given an hour's rest late this afternoon, he promised he would then be able to find the burial place of the head. It was found to be caked in mud, but in apparently good condition for identification purposes.

When more than a thousand curiosity seekers learned of the find they rushed to the spot, and authorities were finally forced to lay the head on the ground, while the farmers, and hundreds from distant points filed by in a long line to gaze at the gruesome find.

Before digging up the head, Coffey pointed to the burial place of the missing hand and arm, and this was sent to an undertaker. Only the missing half of the torso now remains to be found, further search being postponed until daylight tomorrow.

Coal Strike Looms Railroad Stocks Up

Freight Rates Likely to Increase With New Expense

[By The Associated Press]

OMAHA, Neb., Jan. 28.—Railroads of the country are storing coal in anticipation of a coal strike, L. C. Fritch, Chicago vice president of operations for the Rock Island railroad testified at the interstate commerce commission rate hearing here today.

"There is talk of a coal strike," Mr. Fritch explained, "and the railroads are starting to store coal. We are storing a sixty day supply, while some roads are storing a five months supply. No one knows how long the strike will last if it comes. It costs money to hoard coal. The strike of 1922 cost the Rock Island $1,500,000."

Mr. Fritch gave this testimony as part of his argument to the commission in support of the western trunk line carrires' request for a general upward revision of class freight rates of approximately five per cent in eleven middle western states.

"Also there is a demand for increased wages which, if granted on the Rock Island, will cost us about $6,000,000, an amount that would just about wipe out our net earnings," Mr. Fitch added.

"Another source of worry of western carriers, the Rock Island official testified," is the 1927 crop, the total shipments of which are still problematical."

Faculty to Confer Degrees on 111

Will Dismiss Classes From 10 to 12 on Wednesday

Commencement supper at the Iowa Union Tuesday, Feb. 1, and mid-year convocation Wednesday, Feb. 2, when 111 degrees will be given to mid-year graduates, marks the close of the first semester of the 1926-27 term.

Classes will be dismissed from 10 to 12 a.m. Wednesday, Feb. 2, for the convocation program to be held in the natural science auditorium.

Degrees to be Awarded

Degrees to be awarded are: Bachelor of Arts, forty-eight; certificate of internes, two; certificate of graduate nurses, fifteen; certificate of education, three; natural science and commerce, eleven; natural law, one; pharmaceutical chemistry, one; doctor of dental surgery, two; bachelor of engineering, two; and bachelor of science (from school of applied science), two.

Advanced degrees which are to be awarded are: Master of Arts, eight; Master of Science, nine; Doctor of Philosophy, five; Civil Engineering, one; and Electrical Engineering, one.

In addition to academic degrees, there will be awarded at the convocation a number of commissions in the military science department.

Commencement Supper

Both faculty and graduates will be present at the commencement supper to be held Feb. 1 at 6 p.m., in the Iowa Union. The supper will be in honor of the graduating students, and will be an innovation on the Iowa campus.

The toastmaster for the evening, Edward H. Lauer, will preside. On the toast program will be Benjamin F. Swisher, Henry G. Walker, Raymond A. Wright, and Pres. Walter A. Jessup. The chairman in charge of the commencement supper is Frederick G. Higbee.

February Brings Six Conferences

Past Semester Shows Average of Over One a Week

Though Des Moines is called "the convention city of the mid-west," the University of Iowa earns the name of "the conference center of the state" by virtue of number of state and national conerences held here throughout the year.

Six major conferences are already scheduled on the university's program for February, and it is probable that other conferences not yet recorded may be added to that number. The schedule for the initial month of the new semester shows: Feb. 4-5, history conference; Feb. 11-12, classical conference; Feb. 18-19, YMCA and YWCA student meeting; Feb. 21-22, dental alumni clinic; Feb. 25-26, national commercial education conference; and Feb. 25-26, modern language conference.

The university calendar for the past semester shows that, during almost every month of the school year, there are six to eight state and national conferences of such organizations. The average through the past semester has been more than one conference a week.

McAdoo Maintains Silence Concerning Presidential Race

TOLEDO, Jan. 28 (AP)—If William Gibbs McAdoo has any intention of heeding the advice of friends who wish him to become a democratic presidential aspirant he gave no hint of it to Ohio barristers here tonight.

The former secretary of the treasury made an address before the state bar association in which he delivered a broadside of criticism against prohibition law violators, but made no mention of politics. He attended a private luncheon with association officials. Later he declared that he had not come to Toledo for any conference of a political kind and said that he had nothing to say on political questions.

Mr. McAdoo contended in his address that the return of liquor is not the solution to the cases of "widespread corruption among officials" in the enforcement of the prohibition laws. Law enforcement, and not the legalizing of intoxicants is the remedy for corruption, he said.

Expressing the belief that the constitution makes it obligatory for the states to define what may be considered intoxicating liquor, Mr. McAdoo declared that the repeal of state enforcement laws by New York and Montana must be considered void.

Entire Second Unit of Iowa Union Open for Occupancy in Few Weeks

Within the first few weeks of the second semester the entire second unit of the Iowa Union will be ready for occupancy. Painters are putting the finishing touches to the lower interior and electricians are installing fixtures.

The second and third floors, which are to be occupied by the Triangle club, are completed except for electrical fixtures and the club has moved the equipment from the old club rooms into the new quarters. New furniture is to be added as soon as it arrives.

The second floor of the Union is composed of nine large rooms, one-half of the floor being devoted to the Triangle rooms. The north half of the floor is one large room and will later be used by the University club.

University Club Rooms

The rooms of the latter include a lounge, library, dining room, kitchen, sun porch, and lobby, together with smaller supply rooms, lavatories and telephone booths.

The third floor is entirely devoted to the men's club. A beautiful, arched ballroom, fifty by eighty feet, is the feature of this floor, and is only rivalled in Iowa City by the more spacious lounge of the first unit. This room can serve as a banquet hall and has an adjoining kitchen, which is directly above the kitchen of the second floor and both are connected with the main kitchen by dumb waiters, so that small parties or large banquets can be served with equal efficiency.

Billiard Room

A large billiard room occupies the north quarter of the floor and is adjoined by a sun porch on the west The south quarter is divided into a smaller recreation room and kitchen, with another sun porch on the west. With the exception of the kitchens, which are in gray, the finish throughout the building is in tints of cream and green with woodwork of dark oak. The ball room has a hard wood flooring. All other floors are of concrete or mottled terraza.

The mainentrance of the building opens directly into the first floor of the unit, which is on the same level with the main lounge. All of this floor will be utilized by the Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A., the rooms having been especially fitted for them in the original design. A gen-

Committee Gives Conference Plans

Gilkey Meeting Will Last Over Three-Day Period

The complete program for the Gilkey Religion conference, which will be held Feb. 18, 19, and 20, has been worked out by the committee in charge of the preliminary arrangements.

Friday afternoon The Reverend Gilkey will meet with some of the chairmen of the conference. In the evening he will speak on the subject, "What is the Relation of Religion to Life?"

After the evening's address a reception will be given for the Chicago minister.

Will Meet With Cabinets

The Ministerial union has been invited to meet with the cabinets of the Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. and the young people's orgnaizations of the churches.

At this time an informal discussion wil be held, the subject of which will center around cooperation between churches and campus groups to promote religion on the campus.

Saturday evening a student-faculty dinner will be given and at this time the question "Class room Influence on Student Religion" will be discussed informally.

The Reverend Gilkey will speak at the regular Vespers hour Sunday afternoon. In the evening all the young people's societies will meet in the Iowa Union. "Personal Responsibilities to Students" has been selected as the theme for consideration. This will conclude the three day conference.

Conference Provided For

Opportunity for personal and group conferences has been provided for. These conferences will take place from 10 to 10:30 Saturday morning.

The committee in charge of arrangements consists of delegates to the Milwaukee conference, who met with Reverend Gilkey at that time. Others on the committee are representatives from the Y. M. C. A. and the Y. W. C. A. and the religious young people's organizations.

Committee chairman have been appointed as follows: General chairman, Pamelia Dulaney, A4 of Cleveland; Saturday luncheon, Lyman White, A3 of Iowa City; student-faculty dinner, Miss Nelle Summers and Harry Terrell, secretaries of the Y. W. C. A. and Y. M. C. A. respectively; Union young people's meeting, Thomas Thompson, L3 of Iowa City, and promotion, Pier D. Aldershof, J3 of Iowa City.

The conference this year has been patterned somewhat after the Tittle meetings.

Day in Des Moines

Senator Skromme of Story county introduced a new anti-trust bill which defines a monopolistic conspiracy as any ocmmission that results in monoply, regardless of the intent.

Representative Lovrien redrafted his bank guaranty bill to place some of the cost of the bank insurance on the banks and the state. This would be accomplished by the state refunding taxes to a bank equal to one half the amount the bank paid into the insurance fund. The banks originally shared the cost equally with the depositors.

A senate committee reported out favorably, the Lange resolution for creation of an interstate bridge commission.

A public hearing was set for next Friday on the bill proposing an inspection fee of one-half cent a pound on oleomargarine.

Nebraska Sheriff Has Murder Clue

Information May Lead to Quick Arrest of Slayer

[By The Associated Press]

PAPILLION, Neb., Jan. 28.—Information which may lead to the arrest within forty-eight hours of the man believed to have murdered R. A. Walker, Strasburg, N. D., is in possession of Sheriff Hugo Olderog of Sarpy county, the sheriff said late today.

Walker, who was found bound and beaten into unconsciousness in a pasture near La Platte last Monday night, died Wednesday night, without regaining consciousness.

Sheriff Olderog's announcement followed a coroner's inquest at which it was found Walker met death from being hit on the head by a blunt instrument in the hands of a person or persons unknown.

Robbery was found as the motive.

Sarpy county authorities today broadcast the description of a tall heavy-set man, wearing blue overalls and probably a new sheepskin coat, believed to have been Walker's companion and slayer. Sheriff Olderog believes the companion was about to rob Walker when scared away by A. L. Martin, who found the victim and who said he saw two men run from the scene.

Gladstone Named in English Trial

Author Calls Patriot Arch Humbug in Libel Suit

[By The Associated Press]

LONDON, Jan. 28.—Asserting that England's grand old man, the late William E. Gladstone was an "arch humbug," Captain Peter E. Wright today defended his recent charge that Gladstone was a hypocrite in the matters of morality.

Wright who is suing Viscount Gladstone, the 73-year-old son of the elder Gladstone, for libel because the latter called him a "liar, coward and fool" in connection with the immorality charges, was scheduled to a searching cross-examination by Norman Birkett, counsel for the defendant. The testimony which brought up incidents alleged to have occurred more than thirty years ago, was heard by a crowded court room.

Mr. Birkett asked Captain Wright if he had ever made any inquiries into the truth of his allegations that the elder Gladstone was father of an illegitimate son or that he had been intimate with the noted French actress Brassine. "Why should I?" Wright asked. Later, however, he withdrew his suggestion of the existence of an illegitimate son.

When Mr. Birkett called attention that the alleged intrigue with Brassine had occurred when Gladstone was seventy-two years old, Captain Wright replied:

"That's the astonishing thing about Gladstone. He had these affairs between 70 and 80."

Mother of Former Rapids Editor Dies

CEDAR RAPIDS, Jan. 28 (AP)—Mrs. Ellen Wilson, mother of R. E. Wilson, associate editor of the Denver Express, was buried here today. Mrs. Wilson died in Denver Wednesday. Mr. Wilson was formerly city editor of the Evening Gazette and was once connected with the Omaha Daily News. The family lived in Eastern Iowa for more than 50 years.

McPherson Invited to Capitol; Absent

Assembly Asks Her to Address Houses, Offer Prayer

[By The Associated Press]

DES MOINES, Jan. 28 — Aimee Semple McPherson, did not get up to the state capitol today in her speaking tour of Des Moines and probably will not appear before the Iowa assembly tomorrow. She had been informally invited to offer the opening prayer or to address both houses but the plans miscarried somewhere.

Meeting at 10 o'clock the house felt it had too much business on its calendar to devote any time to speechmaking outside the order of business, and spent an hour discussing comely committee clerks, listening to a brief address by the mayor of Fort Dodge and in deciding whether the members could with grace accept some onyx trinkets from a Dyersville concern which feels grateful for a resolution memorializing congress on a higher onyx tariff.

The nervousness extended to the senate side also, where the proposed joint convention to hear Mrs. McPherson was not unanimously received with joy. It was reported that an effort to adjourn the senate over Saturday might have grown out of a feeling that some one might suggest formal recognition of the evangelist tomorrow.

Forty-Nine Places Up Hudson Valley Get 'Dry' Padlock

New York Officials Direct Army of Deputy Marshals Into Wet Rendezvous

[By The Associated Press]

NEW YORK, Jan. 28—The shadow of a giant prohibition padlock fell across a hundred mile strip of land today, from fashionable Park avenue in Manhattan two-thirds of the way up the Hudson valley to Albany.

During the day summons and complaint were served on forty-nine places between New York and Kingston, seventy-five men and nineteen women being named as defendants.

The first thunder of today's enforcement storm reverbrated early this morning about a Park avenue night club, just below the Grand Central Terminal, known as La Basque. Prohibition agents who raided the place which they said paid an annual rental of $200,000, seized $3,00 worth of choice liquors and made three arrests.

There were one hundred fashionably dressed couples in the place, who were allowed to go home after they had been huddled together and flashlight pictures taken of them. A list of patrons found on the premises was said to include many socially prominent names.

At Greenwich Village a big alcohol denaturing plant was discovered. A warehouse across the street was broken into and 175 fifty-gallon drums of alcohol seized. Two men were arrested.

First indications that the raids were more than a flurry in the usual prohibition raid, came with the announcement that a small army of deputy marshals had been ordered up the Hudson valley to "mop up" a half hundred places against which evidence had already been obtained.

In each instance summons and complaint were served on the proprietor, bar tender, and owner of the offending building.

Day in Washington

White House approval of Secretary Kellogg's Chinese policy was announced.

The senate passed the deficiency bill, without a tax reduction amendment, and took up the naval supply bill.

Sponsors of the Boulder dam bill expressed a willingness to accept amendments to protect Utah's rights.

President Coolidge signed the Longview, Wash., bridge bill, and vetoed the Shoshone Indians claims bills.

The post office department contracted for the private operation for the western section of the transcontinental air mail line.

La Guardia's resolution for impeachment of Federal Judge Cooper, of New York, was referred to the house judiciary committee.

Another seizure of Pennsylvania ballots, cast in the Vare-Wilson election, was ordered by the senate campaign funds committee.

The American Cynamid company's offer to lease Muscle Shoals was considered by the house military committee.

The senate public lands committee aproved the Stanfield proposal for investigation of the Herrick lumber contract in Oregon.

Secretary Kellogg restored the embargo on aircraft shipments to Mexico.

Class Cuts February 1 to Entail No Credit Loss

Cuts in classes Tuesday, Feb. 1, the first day of the second semester, will not be counted as an absence for the first class after a vacation period, according to the office of the registrar.

Absence the first day of school of a new semester is not included in the university regulations as absence after a vacation and will netail no loss of credit. This ruling was established and put into effect last year.

Cablegrams Have Exaggerated Real Dangers in China

American Officials Believe Plans for Precaution Will Cope With Any Situation

[By The Associated Press]

SHANGHAI, Jan. 28.—The hostility of Chinese toward foreigners has not inspired white residents of Shanghai with the degree of fear for their safety that is evidenced in cablegrams received from anxious relatives and friends at home.

Numerous inquiries received by Shanghai Americans and by the American consulate general reveal a state of mind in America which prominent Americans here characterized today as unduly alarmed over the immediate anti-foreign situation in this city.

American business men, who have been feeling the effects of the anxiety at home in arranging transactions, said the commercial perils in Shanghai had been exaggerated in America.

American consular and naval authorities, it is authoritatively stated, have worked out plans which are believed adequate to cope with any situation, but the authorities said emphatically that they did not believe it would become necessary to put the entire precautionary program into effect.

American missionary leaders took the position that whenever plans were under way to bring women and children from inland points to the coast were motivated not by actual danger to American lives, but from the possibility of incidents that might adversely affect the cause of the whole missionary body.

Jury Sends Verdict of Guilty for Korth

Charged With Death of Jarlais; Died From Coffee

[By The Associated Press]

SIOUX CITY, Jan. 28.—Guilty of manslaughter was the verdict returned by a district court jury after more than seven hours of deliberation in the case of Alfred Korth, charged with the death of Louis Des Jarlais, who died from drinking coffee containing a narcotic drug which Korth was attempting to smuggle to his wife, Dorothy Korth, in the city jail.

Korth sent the coffee and some sandwiches to the jail by a Western Union messenger boy. The police refused to let the lad deliver the food and he took it back to the Western Union office where Des Jarlais is alleged to have drunk the coffee.

Korth's attorney stated his intention of appealing the case to the supreme court. If the case is appealed the supreme court no doubt will be called on to lay down some new rules in law as few cases ever have raised more questions of law than the Korth trial. Judge Robert H. Munger presided at the hearing.

Chicago Editor to Read Own Poems at Latin Banquet

Mr. Keith Preston, literary editor of the Chicago Daily News, will read from his oringinal poems at the informal dinner, given Friday, Feb. 11, at Youde's inn. He is remarkable for his sense of rhythm and rhyme," commented Prof. Roy C. Flickinger, head of the Latin and Greek departments here.

The dinner is given in connection with the ninth annual convention of Latin teachers, but is open to journalism students, English majors, and all interested in seeing and hearing Mr. Preston.

Legislature Hears Proposal of New Anti--Trust Law

Skromme Introduces Bill Overhauling Present Law

[By The Associated Press]

DES MOINES, Jan. 28.—A new anti-trust law was proposed to the Iowa legislature today when Senator Skromme of Story county, introduced a bill completely overhauling the present statute which has seldom been invoked.

The measure is framed with a view to easier conviction for trade conspiracy and monopoly and centers enforcement in the state department of justice.

If it can be shown that the result of the formation of a combination is monopolistic, a conviction may be had under the proposed law, while the present statute requires that it must be shown that a monopoly was intended.

Any combination which fixes any standard of prices or rates upon a commodity is declared illegal and defined as a monopoly subject to the anti-trust law.

Senator McFarlane of Black Hawk county introduced a bill that would permit the supervisors of his county to fix the salary of the assistant county attorney. A limitation of $2,000 is specified.

A bill authorizing the state board of control to remove inmates of the men's reformatory to the state hospital for the insane upon proper showing of their mental condition, was offered by Senator Kimbler of Scott county.

Adjourns Until Monday

DES MOINES, Jan. 28.—The Iowa senate was mildly taken to task this afternoon by Senator Shinn of Harrison county, who objected to a proposal that adjournment be taken until Monday afternoon, and finally won his point by a vote of 17 to 15.

Invoking the compulsory voting rule for the first time in this session in the senate, the Shinn forces succeeded in making the adjournment until 10 o'clock tomorrow. Numerous members already had departed however, and a quorum tomorrow is doubtful.

Require One-Year Term

DES MOINES, Jan. 28.—At the request of the state health board a bill has been framed for introduction in the general assembly next week, requiring that all young physicians shall serve one year as internes at hospitals before they are granted licenses to practice medicine.

The department has been holding up licenses to graduate physicians who have not served their internship but some question recently arose as to this practice and a ruling against the department was rendered by Attorney-General Ben J. Gibson before the latter retired. The proposed law would remove all doubt as to the board's action.

Bridge Bill in Senate

The Lange resolution proposing a state commission to confer with like bodies from Illinois and Wisconsin on the acquisition of Mississippi river bridges was reported out in the senate this afternoon and will be ready for action early next week. The committee rewrote the resolution so that it now calls for appointment by the governor of three Iowans, not necessarily members of the legislature.

Another border river bridge measure will be introduced Monday when Representative Pritchard of Woodbury county offers the administration bill on the schedule providing for purchase from the primary road fund of bridges over either the Mississippi or Missouri.

This measure follows out Governor Hammill's suggestion that Iowa cooperate with neighboring states in the operation of free bridges at important junctions of main highways along the borders.

Iowa and Garibaldi

THROUGH the university lecture course, speakers of enormous variety are brought before the student body. They represent leaders in literature, history, and science. They have the flavor of romance which they give for a moment to the audience, and then they return again to their careers.

Perhaps no more picturesque character has ever graced the natural science lecture platform than Col. Riccotti Garibaldi, grandson of the famous Italian liberator. He smacks of a daring ancestry and is himself now being charged with "international intrigue."

Inspector Benoit of the French Surete Generale, in accusing Garibaldi at the trial in Paris, said: "Garibaldi was the agent provacateur in the pay of fascism. He was appointed by Lapolla of the special surete in Rome. He confessed to receiving money from Lapolla. He organized plots against the Italian government and then denounced to that government those he had recruited for execution of his plots."

That Garibaldi may be guilty of treason is not a question for this editorial. But it is amazing to see how one year may change the course of circumstances in the life of one man. A year ago he was complacently lecturing to an Iowa audience—today he is charged with disturbing the peace of two nations.

Miss Briggs Crashes Through

THE chief college association in the United States has chosen a woman as its president. The organization, "The American Association of Colleges," representing more than 300 liberal arts colleges, elected Miss Lucia R. Briggs, president of Milwaukee Downer college, to its highest office at its thirtieth annual meeting.

This marks another triumph for the American woman. Officers who elected her attested that she had won the honor solely on her own merits: "She had administered in a very effective way a very good woman's college."

This event predicts greater successes in the new era. Before the World war scarcely a woman engaged in business unless necessity drove her to it. Even then the only "respectable" fields open were nominally: school-teaching and house-work. But the World war changed the order of things very quickly. It initiated women into the intricacies of many positions vacated by men, and moreover added prestige to their labors. Women found themselves enjoying their economic freedom. When the war was ended, feeling the exhiliration of independence, they refused to return to their former status and tenaciously held to their positions. Of course the more timid souls relinquished their jobs and returned to their cook-stoves, but the pioneers stood fast in the face of the strongest competition.

That very competition has developed the "New Woman." She is one who can manage a home, hold a responsible position, and play—all in the time she formerly spent on her household drudgery. She has mingled with the world and has learned how to live a fuller and richer life.

Restricted Waters

NOW that we have two swimming pools there should follow an extension of swimming privileges to those who love this sort of exercise.

In the past, recreational swimming has been so restricted that very few who were not members of the swimming team or of physical training classes ever reached the central interior of the aquatic chamber. Recreation hours at the pool were maintained with more or less irregularity, but at such times that few could take advantage of them, and often these hours were dominated by regular swimmers to such extent that the poor or average swimmer only found himself in the way. On Saturday afternoons, when students had time to swim and when some pleasant recreation was wanted, the pool was closed.

Privileges were, of course, not restricted in any sense of favoritism to certain classes of swimmers, but many have wondered why the pool was so often closed. It is necessary to have a member of the swimming staff, or a life guard, at the pool when it is opened for recreational swimming, and it is possible that this inconvenience to instructors, or added expense to the university, may have been the objection to keeping the pool open for longer hours.

With all the facilities here for recreation and encouragement of healthful exercise, it seems that arrangements for greater swimming privileges must be a part of Iowa's athletic plans.

Farewell—Bold Charger

CHICAGO'S mounted police have gone into history. Instead of being mounted on beautiful horses, the keepers of the law will be obliged to depend entirely upon gas-propelled vehicles.

In the maelstrom of traffic which is Chicago's loop, the mounted police long have afforded pleasing diversion to the eye, a touch of contrast between the Now and Then.

It is true that one could scarcely see what real service the mounted police performed outside of affording a fine looking exhibit of a man on a horse, and of occasionally riding out into the stream of traffic and issuing some mandatory order.

Perhaps the mounted police could have performed their duties to better advantage if they had had a little room—as it was, the poor nags were effectually hemmed in.

The passing of the mounted police is but one more incident in the transition from the age of flesh and blood to the age of machinery plus.

Another Step Up

TWO neighboring stories in the columns of THE DAILY IOWAN recently chronicled another step up on the ladder of university growth: plans are being made for the construction of an addition to Currier hall, women's dormitory, and the medical laboratories across the river are ready for occupancy for a part of the classes which will soon be permanently lodged there; significant stories those, and only two of many that appear in the student paper almost every week.

President Jessup frequently speaks to university and state audiences on his favorite topic, always engrossing, that of the growth of the university in the past years, both in national standing and in actual physical size. Dear to his heart as the topic is, his audiences often appreciate it almost as much as he, for even a casual onlooker can see such change as that of the appearance and size of the Iowa campus and school as a whole.

The significant aspect of any side of the university growth is not what has been accomplished: but the fact that every addition to the physical plant, every added intellect to the university instructional staff, only proves an entering wedge in the accomplishment of still greater expansion; the field seems almost limitless; the need always outstrips the fulfillment; and so long as education itself makes such strides and the popularity of higher learning becomes more marked, no school will ever be able to quite reach its goal in the steady march to achievement that is progress.

Heart O. K.

THE Duc de Trevise, president of the society to safeguard French art, announces that San Francisco and St. Louis have adopted the French cities of Rouen and Toulouse in order to preserve their art treasures.

The action is typically American. We are enthusiastic, full-hearted, generous. We respond to the calls for Red Cross aid for starving Turks or Armenians, Congomen, or Eskimos. We sometimes consider canceling our foreign debts. We have the breadth of mind to value a rival's art in the face of criticism of our own.

The Duc, speaking for the French, welcomes this protection. We are glad that we can be of service. Mutual satisfaction in this transaction suggests a further step towards international peace.

Poems That Live

Amber

Flies were caught in amber—
The veined wings we see
Stilled, the blind eyes staring
Out of antiquity.

Somewhere caught in amber—
Since we discover flies—
We hope for a peacock's feathers
Spread to the sun fan-wise.

Or rippled gold of tresses
Amber held wistfully
From gods' dancers shaking
In a comet-showered sea!

Or, failing such a splendor
As we fail glorious woes,
Enough if amber saves us
An antique wild rose.

Radio Notes

HARTFORD, Conn. Jan. 28—By handling more amateur radio messages than any other amateur operator for three consecutive months, Frederick E. Best, radio 1BIG, of 13 East Crescent street, Augusta, Me., has been awarded a handsome silver trophy testifying to his ability as the premier amateur operator of the United States. The trophy, a silver placque elaborately engraved, was donated by a retired businessman whose hobby happens to be amateur radio, and was awarded under the terms of a contest conducted by the American Radio Relay league of this city, the national association of amateurs and experimenters.

Three Successive Months

The accomplishment of Mr. Best in winning the coveted award is no mean one, since the terms of the contest stipulated that in order to win it, an amateur must for three consecutive months turn in the largest message total of any operator in the United States or Canada. So keen has been the competition that the trophy had been posted for nearly two years before being won by Mr. Best. At various times some operator would manage to win two legs of the prize, but would find it impossible to maintain the pace during the third month. In comenting on the award, F. E. Handy, communications manager of the league, stated that the performance of Mr. Best was unique in the annals of amateur radio, and indicative of the highest type of operating ability.

Less Than Two Feet Square

Not the least surprizing fact in connection with the award is the transmitter used at 1BIG. This is a lower-power short-wave transmitter, constructed in the usual amateur style, and utilizing only a single five-watt amplifier tube for supplying energy to the antenna. The entire transmitter equipment occupies a space considerably less than two feet square. While built for message handling primarily, the set has established an enivable record for distance, and has frequently been heard in England, South America, and on the west coast of the United States. During the summer of 1926 a regular schedule was maintained three times a week with a station in Florida, and this schedule did not fail on a single instance.

Mr. Best, a member of the American Radio Relay league, and in charge of its traffic activities in the Maine territory, first became interested in short-wave amateur work in the navy, in 1923. While still in the navy he became a member of the league, and immediately upon receiving his discharge, he built the station which won him the trophy.

TALK 8,000 MILES IN DAYLIGHT

LONDON, England, Jan. 28 — What is believed to be a record for daylight amateur communication on short waves was established recently when M. Samuel, operating British amateur station 5HS, of this city communicated in broad daylight with Lyndon Farwell, operating at station 6ZAT, at Los Gatos, Calif., U. S. A. For half an hour the two amateurs talked with each other over the 8,000-mile gap, reception at each end being reported unusually satisfactory. The transmitters, which were home-made, consumed about 200 watts, and were operated at a weavelength of 20 meters.

Seek Holy Grail Legend in Ireland

EVANSTON, Ill., Jan. 28 (AP)—Irish, now almost a forgotten language, played a big part in the vernacular literature of western Europe, Arthur C. L. Brown, professor of English literature at Northwestern University, has found in years of delving into the ancient tongue.

Among other secrets which Irish literature holds, Dr. Brown believes, may be that of the origin of the story of the Holy Grail, and he will go to Dublin in February to look into that possibility.

Half a million people in Ireland can still speak the difficult language, which a thousand years ago when the Irish were known as the world's best story tellers, was rich in imaginative legend, he says. The oldest Irish consists of comments written about 700 A. D. between the lines of Latin bibles.

The Book World

Long before there were skyscrapers in New York, Edinburgh knew them. "For Old Edinburgh," says Mr. Bone in his latest book, "The Perambulator in Edinburgh," "was the forerunner of new New York in its skyscrapers. At the end of the eighteenth century Edinburgh astonished the world with its 'apartment' lands of twelve and fourteen stories, with kailwives and porters at the bottom and linksmen and caddies at the top, and lords of sessions and country bentry on the middle stories. There were no elevators then. Edinburgh was built, like New York, on a rock and confined to its rock by defensive walls, and, on one side, by a lake. It had to grow upwards. Its citizens still look down on the fourth estuary as the New Yorkers look down on the Hudson and East river. "The Perambulator in Edinburgh" is a handsome volume with sixteen illustrations by E. S. Lumsder.

Stage-fright, it appears, is not necessarily tthe result of a close contact with an audience. Celebrities who are asked to spread themselves on the radio waves frequently suffer from a special form of stage-fright, aptly termed "microphobia." Even the great Thomas A. Edison, when confronted with the instrument he had such a hand in developing, could only make his excuse and say, "Good night." His biographer, George S. Bryan, whose book, "Edison; the Mand and His Work" has just appeared, was recently put in a similar situation. Arrived at the broadcasting studio "microphobia" seized him; a curious situation for a man who had intimately studied the origin of radio and who as well is just completing a critical edition of Barnum's autobiography.: But Mr. Bryan is also a poet and his fear did not master him. He launched out in verse and thus warmed up to his talk; so proving that whatever science may accomplish, Apollo is still lord of the air.

Who's Who AT IOWA

Frederick G. Higbee

Examination week be a busy one for students and others but not for everyone, at least as far as examinations alone are concerned. Other things, however, serve to occupy the time instead. So Frederick G. Higbee, professor and head of the department of descriptive geometry, feels about the university's semi-annual calamity.

"Although I have only two examinations," he said, "the rest of the time is well taken up with attention to much correspondence which has been piling up for some time. I hope that by the end of the week I may be a bit cleared of part of the great bulk of letters which demand attention."

So you see, friends, others have worries too.

Plans for the celebration of National Iowa night will undoubtedly occupy most of his spare time in the near future. As chairman of the committee on National Iowa night Professor Higbee is at present vitally interested in the program for that celebration.

"It is the greatest thing the university has ever done of that kind," he said. "My own opinion is reflected in that of the alumni: one of enthusiastic endorsement. From present indications I believe that more Iowa people will hear the program on National Iowa Night than have ever listened in before.

"The primary purpose of the celebration is in commemoration of the eightieth anniversary of the founding of the University of Iowa. The secondary purpose is that it fur-

Zone Law Hounds Complaining Hoboes

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Jan. 28 (AP)—The army of hoboes, lame, halt and blind, which like the "tin can" tourists journeys to Florida each winter, stopping en route to replenish dwindling funds, now has a complaint.

Silver is not falling as freely this season as in other years. One of the reasons is the passage of zone laws to keep them from the most lucrative stands. The presence of numerous beggars in the most crowded thoroughfares of the city caused officials to take the step.

One man lamented he only collected a bare $3 a day on a corner one block from a forbidden bonanza, which he declared would bring not less than $10 a day.

On the other hand, a legless man who has been coming to Florida each winter for 10 years, lives comfortably and has saved money.

Cork Leg is Clue

NEW YORK.—Police near airports are on the watch for a stolen airplane. Custer Davis, sheriff at Iola, Kans., asked them to be on the lookout. The machine was stolen from the flying field at Iola and Kansas officials believed the thief had headed east. The fugitive is said to have a cork leg and is an expert aviator. A reward of $100 has been offered for his arrest and the recovery of the plane, the theft of which is the first of its kind ever reported here.

High School Journalistic Society Adds Twenty-five New Chapters

Twenty-five new chapters of Quill and Scroll, honorary society of high school journalists, have been established recently, making 150 chapters in the organization at the present time. Every state in the union is represented, and with few exceptions the largest high schools in the country hold membership in the association.

The society was first organized last spring with Iowa City as headquarters, and the Iowa association is now helping five states to organize. State press associations of high school papers are also sponsored by the society.

Publication Out Soon

The February issue of Quill and Scroll, monthly publication of the organization, will be out next week and will be sent from the central office of Quill and Scroll at Iowa City to 3000 of the largest high schools in America. The chief article in this issue is an account of the achievements of Kent Cooper, the founder of the society and general manager of the associated press, written by Merrill Gaffney, J4 of Mason City.

Almost no organization has had such a rate of growth as this society which was founded less than a year ago and already has a strong foothold in the best high schools of the country, according to Prof. George H. Gallup, instructor of journalism at the university and secretary of the Quill and Scroll society.

Publication Important

"Few people realize the proportions to which high school journalism has grown in the past few years," said Mr. Gallup, who is editor of the Quill and Scroll publication. Three million of the four million students in the United States high school are represented by publications of one kind or another. A number of these publications are of a higher quality than the run of college papers."

Contests of creative writing, including short stories, book reviews and humorous articles, are being conducted by the society to encourage literary production among high school students. Manuscripts are already coming in to Mr. Gallup. The contest does not close until April 1. Separate state and national prizes are offered.

Sectional Convention

North Carolina, South Carolina, and Virginia are planning a sectional convention of Quill and Scroll society to be held sometime in April.

New chapters added to the organization are: Walla Walla, Washington; Neenah, Wis.; South High School, Minneapolis; Coeur d'Alene, Idaho; Rochester, Minn.; West High School, Akron, O.; Topeka, Kan.; Tilden Technical High School, Chicago; University High School, Oakland, Cal.; Independence, Kan.; Vicksburg, Miss.; Cheboygan, Mich.;

Bellevue, O.; Asheville, N. C.; Lincoln High School, Cleveland, O.; Monongahela, Penn.; Mandan, N. Dak.; Bridgeport, Conn.; Berwick, Penn.; J. Sterling Morton High School, Cicero, Ill.; Circleville, O.; Commercial High School, Atlanta, Ga.

Humanists to Meet at Flickinger Home

Speakers Will Report on Meetings Held at Harvard

The first meeting of the Humanist society held since the installation of Prof. Roy C. Flickinger, head of the Latin and Greek department, as president, and of Miss Hilda Taylor, of the department of English as secretary, will be Monday night at the home of Professor and Mrs. Flickinger, 112 South Governor street, at 8 o'clock.

The program of the meeting will consist of reports on the societies whose meetings weer held at Harvard university during the Christmas holidays, which were attended by several members of the Humanist society and other of the faculty.

Members were present at the American philological meeting, modern language association meeting, linguistic society meeting, and the Archaeological institute of America.

The reports will be made by Prof. Hardin Craig, head of the English department, Prof. B. V. Crawford, of the English department, Prof. E. P. Kuhl, of the English department, and Professor Flickinger.

Rainbow Searchlight Features Auto Show

ST. PAUL, Minn., Jan. 28 (AP)—An artificial rainbow visible for forty miles will arch the sky above the Twin City automobile show the second week in February.

Twelve great arc seachlights, with a combined candle power of 96,000 000, will throw diffused light in varying hues almost a mile into the air, blending into a perfect rainbow.

On the roof of the building housing the show, the world's largest talking machine will create a volume of sound audible a mile away. It is sixteen feet high, but plays ordinary records.

nishes an opportunity for the alumni to join together for a moment in that common bond which seems to unite members of the university."

Professor Higbee is also interested in the development of the engineering college and in efficiently discharging the obligations which the college has to the students who come here for an engineering education.

He says, "Just now engineering education is confronted with a number of important revisions which have been recommended from a study recently completed by the Society for the Promotion of Engineering Education. The society has asked each institution where engineering is taught to study and report on the ways in which the findings of this investigation will affect engineering education. We are now carefully studying the problem and making reports to the society with recommendations. No marked change will result in general but the revisions will no doubt affect the school here.

"We have been in the past shaping our curriculum and policy toward a five year course. The committee now recommends a four year undergraduate course with an additional year of work if the student so desires. It is thus probable that we will adopt a definite four year course. The investigations have already passed through the fact finding stage and we are now trying to conform our policy to the facts as determined."

Professor Higbee has served on the faculty at Iowa for twenty-one years. He was born at Fremont, Ohio, in November, 1881. He received his education at the Kenyon military academy and at the Case school of applied science. Prior to accepting a position here he was an instructor at his alma mater.

Professor Higbee is a member of Sigma Xi, the society for the promotion of engineering education (formerly vice president), chairman of the legislative committee of the Iowa engineering society, a member of the Iowa City Chamber of Commerce; a fellow in the Iowa Academy of Science, and is director and secretary of the Johnson county chapter of the American Red Cross. He is also chairman of the university committees having charge of Induction day, mid-year convocation, Foundation day exercises, and commencement day, and he is a member of the senate board in charge of intercollegiate debates, dramatics, and oratory, and of university lectures.

Mike McTigue Scores Technical Knockout Over Berlenbach

Butler Five Meet Barrymen Tonight in Crucial Game

Record of Opponents Indicates Strong Opposition

Determined to tie the Butler-Iowa cage series which started in 1923, the Butler university basketball five will reach Iowa City today to meet the Old Gold warriors who will play their last 1927 non-conference rival.

The Hawks have been seriously hampered in their training this week by the university semester examinations which claim a part of the players' time.

Hawks Hold Aadvantage

The Barrymen hold a slight advantage over the Hoosier quintet in their past three games. In 1923 and again in 1925 Butler bowed in defeat before the Iowans, each time by a dangerously narrow magin. In 1924 Butler triumphed over Old Gold, defeating them 26 to 22. The two teams did not meet last year. In the total points of the three games, however, Iowa leads by but one point, 74 to 73.

The strength of the Butler aggregation has been tested by only one conference five this season. Early in the season they defeated Chicago 30 to 28. The thirty points garnered by Butler seriously concerns Coach Barry, and the Iowa cage men have been given much opportunity to drill their defenses in the scrimmage practices this week.

McTigue Scores Over Berlenbach in Four Rounds

Champion Not Able to Withstand Drives of Opponent

[By The Associated Press]

NEW YORK, Jan. 28—Mike McTigue scored a technival knockout over Paul Berlenbach tonight in the fourth round of a twelve round match at Madison Square Garden in one of the biggest upsets the ring has seen in some time. McTigue battered his foe from pillar to post, the referee stopping the bout as Berlenbach went down for the third time.

NEW YORK, Jan. 28 (AP)—Mike McTigue and Paul Berlenbach, each a former world's light heavyweight champion, met tonight in a twelve round match, the first of the year to figure in Rex Rickard's elimination tournament. Mike conceded eight pounds to his rival, weighing 169 to Paul's 177 pounds.

The Fight by Rounds

Round One

They lost no time going into action, Berlenbach working both hands to the body while Mike retaliated with a right uppercut. The veteran Irishman smashed a hard right to the jaw. Mike was forcing the fighting but he took two sharp lefts to the head. Paul missed with his left and took a hard right hand wallop to the head. Mike received a terrific ovation when the bell ended the round.

Round Two

Round Three

They sparred and clinched without much damage until Berlenbach hooked his left to the jaw. At close range McTigue worked both hands to the chin. McTigue missed two leads to the head, but connected with a hard right. The Irishman rapped Paul with two solid smashes to the head. Paul stumbled and almost fell. At close range Mike battered Paul and knocked him down with a smashing right hook as the bell rang. Berlenbach was bleeding profusely from the mouth and groggy from his battering.

Round Four

McTigue met Berlenbach with two smashing rights and hammered him viciously along the ropes. Paul fought back gamely and hung on desperately in a clinch. Mike sent Paul down with a hard right but he was up at the count of nine. Paul gamely leaped in but he was punched back under a shower of vicious rights. He went down again for a count of nine. Berlenbach met a shower of rights and lefts as he struggled to his feet again. He reeled back to the ropes under the impact of a smashing uppercut, then sank toward the floor, grasping McTigue around the waist to keep from going down. Referee McPartland stepped in to stop the bout and save Berlenbach from further punishment. The end came after two minutes, four and one-half seconds had elapsed.

Woods Wins

NEW YORK, Jan. 28 (AP) — Joe Woods, Los Angeles light heavyweight, won over Harry Fay, of Louisville in the eighth round of a ten round match, preliminary to the McTigue-Berlenbach bout at Madison Square Garden tonight. The referee stopped the fight as Fay was being severely pummeled but still on his feet. Woods weighed 173 and Fay 168 1-2.

James Braddock, of Jersey City, N. J., knocked out George La Rocco of New York in one minute and twelve seconds of the first round of a four round match. La Rocco went down from a stiff right to the jaw but quickly got on one knee to take a long count. He was so dazed, however, that he failed to rise until after the referee counted ten and was waved to his corner.

Braddock weighed 165 1-2 and La Rocco 174.

Minnesota Sinks Chicago Matmen by Count of 23-0

MINNEAPOLIS, Jan. 28 (AP)—The veteran wrestling team of the University of Minnesota opened its Big Ten season here tonight by scoring a clean sweep over Chicago university's grapplers, 23 to 0.

Teachers Win 35 to 22 Over Penn College

WATERLOO, Jan. 28 (AP)—State teachers defeated Penn college 35 to 22 at Cedar Falls tonight, coming from behind in the second half to cop the honors. Tollefson, Huges, and Artus, played a sparkling floor game for the tutors. F. Rinden, center on the Quaker team, led the scoring for his mates, getting 11 points.

Startling Theory of Life Claims Cell Infection Causes New Organs

If a new theory of life, advanced by a University of Iowa graduate, is true, medicine, biology and philosophy will be revolutionized.

Dr. Ivan E. Wallin, who was graduated from the university in 1905, now professor of anatomy at the University of Colorado college of medicine, announces his theory in a book which was published this month. Details of his discovery were first made public in the Denver Rocky Mountain News.

That organic evolution in animal and plant life is caused by a more or less accidental introduction of bacteria into life cells such as compose the human body, is a concise statement of Doctor Wallin's theory.

The former Iowan, who has labored for seven years on the problem, declares that his theory is designed to fill the gap left when scientists were forced by conclusive evidence to discard Darwin's explanation of evolution based upon survival of the fittest and natural selection.

New Organs Produced

Suporting his theory, Doctor Wallin has proved to his own satisfaction that bacteria do live in animal and plant cells. This contention was formerly denied by scientists. Introduction of new bacteria causes a readjustment in the cell and often new tissues and organs are thus produced in the organism.

Doctor Wallin declares that this might explain the development of increasing complexity of animals, down through the ages, the culmination of which was man.

"Man did not necessarily develop from the monkey," Doctor Wallin says in the Rocky Mountain News. "That is a mistaken conception that has been taken by the general public for the reason that monkeys so resemble humans in structure.

"The monkey may be another branch of development entirely—we do not know."

Disproved Old Idea

Small granules in cells of many animals and plants were discovered by biologists in 1890, but, although these had the appearance of bacteria, the idea that they might be such was finally abandoned. Biologists regarded the granules as secretions for condensations in the cells, according to Doctor Wallin.

Not being satisfied with this explanation, the Iowa graduate finally succeeded in making these granules grow independent of the cell, just as bacteria do.

The new theory is not an irreligious one as the factors which cause this bacterial infection of the cells and the resulting evolution are "unknown forces which make scientists deeply religious."

Doctor Wallin has announced the name of his theory as "Symbiontiсism."

Mack and Speaker Hold Secret Session

Both Decline to Discuss Meeting; Speaker Not to Retire

[By The Associated Press]

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 28—Manager Connie Mack, of the Philadelphia Athletics and Tris Speaker, former manager of the Cleveland Indians, were in conference today. They emerged from it smiling but silent as to the possibility of Speaker's signing a contract.

Both declined to discuss the nature of their talk, asserting that Speaker's visit was merely a social call. Eddie Collins, recently returned to the Athletics, who was present at the conference, also said that business had not been discussed. Manager Mack, however, made no secret of the fact he would like to have Speaker.

Speaker, exonerated of baseball scandal charges and free to sign with any American league club, is here as the guest of Eddie Collins to attend the annual dinner of the veteran athletics of Philadelphia tomorrow night.

The former Cleveland manager said he had no intention of retiring from baseball but that he would not be with the Indians again.

Tex Gets Maloney Back in Lineup for Tournament

Uzcudun Still Holds Out on Rickard's Tourney Plans

[By The Associated Press]

NEW YORK, Jan. 28—Tex Rickard closed up one gap in his slightly shattered heavyweight ranks today with the restoration of Jimmy Maloney, Boston contender, to his original place in the elimination battle line.

After a series of conferences, the missing promotor effected an agreement under which Maloney will fulfill his scheduled engagement with Jack Delaney Feb. 18.

Paolino Fight Off

A second breach, resulting from the request of Paolino for a postponement of his fight with Knute Hansen of Wisconsin, apparently was widened, however, when the Spanish fighter announced he would not comply with an order of the New York state athletic commission, to go through with the bout on Feb. 7.

Paolino was examined this afternoon by the commission physician, Dr. W. H. Walker, who found evidence only of an old injury and pronounced the Basque fit to do battle now. Paolino complained that this injury was aggravated in his recent fight at Tampa, Fla., with Homer Smith. If Paolino sticks to his refusal to fulfill the commission's requirement, he will be suspended.

Ace Suspended

Dan Carroll, Maloney's manager, agreed to put off the Boston fighter's contest with Johnny Risko in Cleveland until after his engagement with the light heavyweight champion.

Maloney's original contract with Risko called for the Cleveland contest to be staged next Monday. The Cleveland boxing commission already approved Chuck Wiggins as a substitute.

Ace Hudkins, Nebraska welter, who is involved in charges of "framing" a match in Kansas, was indefinitely suspended by the commission pending an investigation of the complaint by Kansas boxing authorities, thus forestalling prospective engagements here.

Choicest of Iowa's Quarter Milers May Enter Rice Relays, Texas Games

Four of the University of Iowa's best quarter milers, rounded into a mile relay team, may travel to Texas in March for the Rice Relays and the Texas games, declared Coach G. T. Bresnahan today.

Whether the Hawkeyes defend the title and record won at the Texas relay last March and attempt to take the event at Rice, will depend upon the form shown by the team in the indoor meets. The other consideration is the length of the trip. University authorities will not announce their decision for some weeks.

The Rice games are scheduled for March 25 at Houston, and the Texas relays at Austin are March 26. The meets draw the cream of the southwest athletes, Missouri Valley conference men, and several stars from Western conference universities.

At the Texas affair last year, the Hawekeye team of Beatty, Swenson, Phelps, and Cuhel defeated the great Georgetown university quartet, champions of the east. The Iowans were timed in 3:23 5-10; a meet record.

After journeying over to Houston, the two teams met again and this time Georegtown won the decision in the time of 3:21 6-10, which established the Rice relays record.

Of the team which raced in the southwest last year, Beatty, leadoff man; Phelps, third lap runner; and Cuhel, the great anchor man, are in competition this winter.

BOWLING

The Iowan Advertising bowling team, after getting off to a poor start in their first game last Friday night, came back last night and defeated the DeMolays two out of three games in the second week's matches in the Mohawk league. The winners took the first two games, but dropped the last one.

The Athens Press team continued their winning streak by defeating the Barbers three straight games, and the Bankers decisively defeated Student Publications, Inc., in three straight games in the third match.

The Bankers game ran off with all the high honors of the evening. They had the largest team total score with 2223, and Taylor of the Bankers had high individual score for single game with 188 and Pillars of the same team, with a score of 479, took first in the individual totals.

Labor Insurance Co. Plans Opening Feb. 1

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28 (AP)—With a cash capital of $600,000 paid in, the Union Labor Life Insurance company is ready to begin writing policies Feb. 1. It was organized and will be controlled exclusively by the trade unions of America, every share of stock being held by a labor organization or a member thereof.

The planning and financing of the new company enlisted the voluntary efforts of forty-two men and women prominent in the labor movement. The cost of promoting the enterprise was less than three per cent of the capital acquired.

The company, with headquarters here, will write all kinds of life insurance in conformity with national and state laws. Although the company was sponsored by the American Federation of Labor and affiliated organizations, it is an independent institution.

St. Pat's Win 25-22 in Last Period Rally

Illinois Military School Unable to Score Last Quarter

Irish Overcome Lead of Twelve Points to Win

ALEDO, Ill., Jan. 28 (Special)—A spectacular last quarter rally gave St. Patrick's of Iowa City a 25 to 22 victory over the Illinois Military academy basket ball five here tonight.

Trailing at the end of the third quarter by a 22 to 10 count, the Iowa boys turned seeming defeat into a thrilling victory by piling up fifteen points in the last eight minutes of play while they held their opponents scoreless. The Hawkeyes had been blanked in the third quarter, but their frenzied comback was not to be denied.

Led by Kelleher and Glasgow, St. Patrick's scoring aces, the Irish boys from the wester city took advantage off the ejection of Pflugselter, Cadet star, on personal fouls, to pile up the winning margin. Glasgow was sinking baskets from the center of the floor, while his running mate was following in furiously to scoop up the sphere for a close attempt.

Iowans Lead at Half

The Iowans led by a 10 to 9 margin at half time, but they failed to add to the score during the third period. Meanwhile, the locals made thirteen points and had an apparently safe lead as the third quarter started. But Glasgow took the tip-off and shot a ringer from the center circle. From then on they continued to gain and, as the locals tried desperately to stall in the last two minutes, Kelleher got a short shot to put the Hawkeyes ahead. Glasgow put the game on ice with his final shot from the side.

Only one free throw was made during the game, that by Kelleher in the final period. It gave him high point honors with eleven counters, while Glasgow and Pflugselter were one point behind with five baskets apiece.

The Summary

Chicago 40; Minnesota 29

CHICAGO, Jan. 28 (AP)—The University of Minnesota swimming team defeated the University of Chicago tonight in a dual conference meet, 40 to 29.

STRAND NOW!

He Can Really Hold the Ball

Basketball develops unusual strength and agility of the fingers, but few players have digits quite as educated as those of Robin Bell, forward on Ohio State's quintet. Bell can take a pair of basket balls and hold them at arm's length—not forever—but long enough for the camera to record the feat. And to make the trick more difficult he used two of the new balls without lacing.

If you thing it's easy, just try it with one ball.

The picture show that Bell didn't succeed the first time, or even the second.

He can't account for the knack, but the fact that he was the best forward passer on Ohio State's football squad last fall may shed some light on the matter.

Bell's home is at Erie, Pa. He is a junior and has another year in both football and basketball.

Collegiate Splashers Meet at Iowa April 15 and 16

CHICAGO, Jan. 28 (AP) — The National collegiate swimming championship will be held at the University of Iowa, Iowa City, April 15 and 16, Fred H. Luehring, director of thletics at the University of Minnesota announced tonight.

Luehring is chairman of the swimming rules committee.

The championships will be conducted in Iowa's new $500,000 field house, which has a pool 150 feet long and 60 feet wide. The meet a year ago was held at the naval academy.

Business Executive Captures 8 Gorillas

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Jan. 28(AP)—Ben Burbridge is Jacksonville's champion extremist.

Part of the time, he is a business executive, a reticent, mild mannered man behind spectacles. At other times, he is a bold follower of far trails, a seeker of strange beasts.

"Miss Congo," one of the few captive gorillas now living, cost Burbridge two and a half years in the heart of Africa, a near fatal attack of jungle fever, a hand-to-hand combat with a band of gorillas, and the scars of many other battles.

During his four expeditions to the Congo, Burbridge captured eight gorillas and brought back a remarkable pictorial record of how the beasts live and die. On each return trip from the wilds, he says he will never go back, but in the end he always goes.

Rare Book Leaves Presented to School

SIOUX CITY, Jan. 26 (AP)—Two bona fide leaves from books printed in the early seventeenth century, one from "Twelfth Night" and one from an early edition of King James' Bible, have been presented to the library of Morningside college.

The older of the two leaves, the one from King James' version of the Bible, was printed by Robert Barker in London in 1613. The other is from the fourth folio of Shakespeare's "Twelfth Night," printed in 1865. Because of its rarity, specimens from this fourth folio are highly prized among collectors, it is said.

U. High Cagemen in Windy City for Englewood Game

Meet Chicago Five in Hardest Contest of Season Tonight

Meeting Englewood high of Chicago tonight Coach Skein's University high basketball quintet will face probably the hardest game on their schedule. The Englewood team, which is the strongest that school has produced in years, holds a record of no losses against them this year to any team in their Chicago high school city league. Thus far they have suffered only one defeat from any school, St. Johns Academy of Delafield, Wis., having beaten them by a small score.

Coach Skein's team, after starting the season with two victories, were forced to take the small end of the score in games against the West Liberty, Iowa City high, nad St. Patricks fives. Leaving last night for Chicago, Coach Skein was accompanied by a squad of seven men, Captain Jones, Dennis, and Hunter, forwards, Blackmeme, center, Johnson, Rose and Bowers, guards, making the trip.

Troops Pay Bills; Surprise Chinese

CHICAGO, Jan. 28 (AP)—China has found in the Cantonese army a new type of soldiery, paying for what it buys and refraining from arson, looting and abuse, says Edward H. Hume, president of the College of Yale in China.

Paradoxical as it may seem, Hume declares, China is more unified today than it has been for decades, because, "the aggressive conduct of western nations is goading all Chinese to assert their national unity."

"The Cantonese army," Hume explains, "is of a new generation of younger men, beginning to understand what a republic means. In the turbelent years since the revolution of 1911 a military expedition has been a terrible thing, with soldiers who robbed and abused and officers who encouraged arson and looting. In surprise the populace sees the new type of soldiery."

Spears Reserves Decision on Northwestern Coaching Offer

CHICAGO, Jan. 28 (AP)—Dr. Clarence W. Spears, head football coach at the University of Minnesota, said tonight he had reserved decision on the offer to become head coach at Northwestern university, succeeding Glenn Thistlethwaite.

"I want a few days to think it over," Spears explained. "The offer is attractive but I am well satisfied at Minnesota."

Spears attended a Dartmouth banquet here tonight. He once was a member of the Dartmouth coaching staff. He plans to return to Minneapolis tomorrow night.

Iowa State Grapplers Win From Penn State

AMES, Jan. 28 (AP)—Iowa State college wrestlers easily won a dual meet with Penn State college 24 to 3 her tonight. Kaiser, Penn State champion in the 115 pound class, gained the only decision for his team by winning over Myers of Iowa State with 4:33 time advantage. The Iowa grapplers won three falls and three decisions.

Red and White Five Tangle on Grinnell Court This Evening

Opponents' Record for Year Shows Only One Defeat

Coach Henry Souchek and eight of his Red and White cagers leave at 9 o'clock this morning for Grinnell where they will meet that aggregation in the first of a two game series. Although the school colors are red and white, all the members of the local squad can see is red for they are going over to the college town with blood in their eyes, determined to revenge the two defeats suffered last year at the hands of their traditional enemy.

During the past eighteen years the locals have won a majority of games but last year the Little Hawks were sent home carrying the light end of a 19-16 score.

In the return game at Iowa City the Grinnell squad led at the end of the third quarter, 15-3, but in a spectacular comeback the Little Hawks made it 18 all. In the overtime period, Grinnell nosed out the locals by a single free throw, making the final score 19-18.

The work of the Red and White squad has been considerably handicapped the past week on account of having to practice in the University men's gymnasium and the new field house. Due to the strange floors, their showing has been rather ragged, but if determination will have any effect, they should return victorious.

Grinnell has been going well this year, losing only one game and that to the powerful Oskaloosa five. The collegians undoubtedly have a good chance to duplicate their victory of last year.

The starting lineup for today will probably be Captain Sheeley and Rinehardt, guards; McGuire, center; and B. Brown and Idema, forwards. Rinehardt, flashy guard, will be playing his last game for the Red and White. Norris, Allen, and Ketelson, reserves, are making the trip.

Take this with you!

If you are an athlete you have been eating SHREDDED WHEAT regularly at the training table. If you've leaned more toward the studious side you have probably long since recognized the energy-value of Shredded Wheat to those of sedentary habits. But, in either case, don't let down on that good Shredded Wheat habit.

SHREDDED WHEAT

provides all the BRAN, SALTS, PROTEINS, CARBOHYDRATES and VITAMINS of Nature's good whole wheat in digestible and palatable form. Its daily use will stimulate the entire system, clear up the complexion, and improve muscles and mind.

Shredded Wheat is as appetizing as it is nourishing. Two biscuits make a real meal—give strength and energy for the day, every day. Take this thought with you—

Ten Candidates File Papers at Last Minute

Undetermined as to Hayek at Late Hour Last Night

F. J. Lazell Files His Papers for Park Commissioner

At 1 o'c'ock this morning it was undeterminable whether Will J. Hayek had filed his papers for the office of police judge at the coming city primaries, Feb. 28. A message to his home resulted in an answer that he would call later, but up to press time he had failed to do so.

A long procession of candidates toward the city hall began yesterday in the last hours before the deadline of filing papers for the city primary Feb. 28. A total of ten candidates placed their filings in the hands of the city clerk in the twenty-four hours prior to closing time, bringing the total number up to twenty-two.

W. J. Hayek's papers for police magistrate had not been received yet, despite his boom at the democratic rally Thursday night. The democrats claim that they were forced to nominate a man in self-defense against the republican candidate, Paul Custer, who filed his papers with the city clerk yesterday afternoon.

That J. J. Carroll will have an opponent in his race for the mayorship was definitely decided yesterday afternoon when Edwin T. Davis filed his papers for that office with City Clerk George J. Dohrer. Davis' candidacy has been expected and he has had a petition circulating for some time, but it was not until yesterday that official action took place.

Two men from the Iowa City Savings bank, Edwin B. Raymond, republican, and L. J. Messner, democrat, have filed for the office of city treasurer. These two make a total of four that are out for the office.

Fred J. Lazell, republican, associate professor of journalism, filed papers for the position of city park commissioner. G. W. Schmidt, democrat, has filed his papers also for the city park commissioner job. Mr. Schmidt is up for re-election.

Two Men for Alderman

Two new candidates for the office of alderman-at-large filed with the others yesterday afternoon, these being C. O. Paine, republican, and W. F. McRoberts. Mr. McRoberts was formerly an alderman from the first ward and an alderman-at-large, and Mr. Paine is at present a member of the school board.

M. E. Taylor filed for the republican nomination for city treasurer Thursday afternoon.

J. W. Brown, secretary of the school board, filed his papers for the republican nomination for city assessor yesterday afternoon with the city clerk.

Mine Fire Takes One Life; Others Were Endangered

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Jan. 28 (AP)—A fire in the number 1 mine of the Connelsville By-Products Coal company in the Scott's run district, endangered the lives of 200 miners for a time today, and was the indirect cause of one death. The fire was brought under control after a fight of several hous and it was expected that operations would be resumed tomorrow.

The victim, Harry Sheldon, 53, Fairchance, Pa., died from a heart attack shortly after he reached the surface safely with fellow workmen, who were in the underground tunnels when an old fire broke out anew.

Judge Otto Downs Council's Objections

Overrules Objections to Appeal of Five Paving Cases

The city council's objections to the appeal of five paving cases to the district court were heard and overruled yesterday by Judge Ralph E. Otto, of the district court.

The cases appealed from the city council, are suits against Iowa City resulting from difficulties over paving assessments levied by the city. The council objected to the appeal of the cases on technical reasons involving discrepancies in the manner in which the petitions were drawn up.

Five Separate Suits

The five separate suits, are those of Hunzinger and Co. vs. Iowa City; W. E. Schneider vs. Iowa City; J. A. O'Leary vs. Iowa City; F. H. P. Edwards vs. Iowa City; and Elmer Coulton vs. Iowa City, will all be tried in the approaching term of court following Judge Otto's decision on the jurisdiction rights of the cases, to appear in district court.

A motion for change of venue to Iowa county, in the case of Brant and Osmon, which formerly was slated for the February term of court, was sustained by Judge Otto, and the case will be transferred for hearing to that county.

Adams vs. Stevenson

In an action for the collection of a $6,000 promissory note, sued by Isabel Adams against S. H. Stevenson, the request of the plaintiff, Isabel Adams, for a more specific statement of the case by the defendant, was also sustained by Judge Otto.

Judge Otto made no decision yesterday in the hearing of the objections of the creditors of the M. J. Kelley estate to the report of the administrator, Tom O'Neil, which was up for hearing at 9 o'clock yesterday morning. The case was taken under advisement by the judge and will be decided later.

Eight Killed; One Hundred Injured in Glasgow Storm

GLASGOW, Jan. 28 (AP)—Eight persons were killed and one hundred injured in Glasgow today in a southerly hurricane which swept Great Britain from Land's End, the southernmost point in England to John O'Groats, on the northernmost tip of Scotland.

The storm was especially severe in Scotland and the districts north of Edinburgh. All Ireland and the Scilly Isles were completely cut off from telegraph and telephone communication with London.

The weather observatory at Renfrew registered a record gust of 102 miles an hour.

Several old houses collapsed in Glasgow and pedestrians and vehicles were tossed about. Street cars were overturned and a section of the roof of the Central railway station was lifted. Firemen were busy all day extricating victims from the wreckage.

Janning Stars in "Faust" at Garden

What is supposed to be one of the best pictures of the year started a run at the Garden theater yesterday when the UFA production of Faust, starring Emil Jannings admittedly one of the best character actors now playing before the cameras, was flashed on the screen.

Jannings, who is famous for his parts in "Passions," "The Last Laugh," "Variety," and many other films, portrays the role of Mephistopheles in the current offering with the same grace, skill, and finesse that distinguished all his performances.

A European "find," Camelia Horn, essays the role of Marguerite with a great deal of credit to herself.

The film is adapted from Gounod's famous opera, which in turn, was taken from Goethe's epic poem of the same name.

Attendance at Ball Reaches 500 Mark

WATERLOO, Jan. 28 (AP)—More than 500 persons were present for the governor's ball, sponsored by the local companies of the Iowa National guard here tonight.

The guest list included Governor John Hammill and prominent military men from Iowa and Nebraska.

The governor was a guest at a special governor's dinner held earlier in the evening and gave a short talk on the value of the national guard. Major General Mathew A. Tinley Council Bluffs, also spoke.

Cedar Rapids Fire Chief Suffers Effects of Fire

James Kennedy, chief of the Cedar Rapids fire department, underwent an examination at the university hospital yesterday for sickness relative to the muscles of his heart.

Chief Kennedy has been ill for the past few months, but the shock of the work in connection with the Quaker Oats mill fire early this week is thought to have brought a show-down in his condition. The chief was in bed when the alarm was sent in but refused to be deterred from his line of duty.

Inspector Finds Schools Ineligible

Schools Received Six Dollars Per Pupil From State

All unwittingly Johnson county has been receiving a $500 gift from the state educational department on "false pretenses" according to Jessie M. Parker, state inspector of rural schools, who visited Johnson county, Thursday.

Miss Parker's inspection disclosed the fact that from schools, standarized by the state school department some years ago, are not entitled to their ranking, and resulting from the mistake the schools have received a bonus of $6.00 per pupil each year, since their reported standardization. The schools are Swisher, Tiffin, Sharon No. 5, and Washington No. 5.

Miss Parker also inspected twelve other schools in Johnson county, in view of ranking them as standardized schools. The decision following her report will probably not be reached before next summer.

Twelve remaining schools wil also be examined for the same purpose, by the inspector some time in the future.

Second Unit of Iowa Union Open for Occupancy

eral lobby for use of either group divides the various offices, those of the Y. W. C. A., on the north and those of the other on the south.

The south half can be entirely enclosed by means of sliding oak doors. The women's organization will not be ready for some time to move from their present quarters in the liberal arts hall, but the men will move into the new rooms as soon as the furniture arrives. Checking and clerical equipment occupy most of the floor exclusive of the office.

The space on the stair landing midway between the first and second floors, opens into the big lounge through French doors and gives an elevated view of the room. It is to serve as a mezzanine or orchestra balcony and was made a part of the architectural plan by a gift from the class of '26.

To Move Electric Grill

The one large room forming the basement of the new unit will be given over to the grill, which is to be moved by the end of the coming week. The electric grill and steam tables are to be installed to the south and east of th room, adjacent to and opening into the general kitchen, thus permitting the ready transfer of food from the source of cooking to the serving tables.

Admittance to the grill is either by way of stairs from the interior or the double stairs directly beneath the main entrance on the east. A smaller room adjoining on the northwest will be used as a barber shop and beauty parlor. The room being vacated by the grill will in time serve as a canoe and locker room.

Whiting Issues Charges Against Late Proceedings

Accuses Legislature of Steam Roller Tactics; Nagle to Reply at Later Date

Lee Nagle, up until a late hour last night refused to make any comment regarding S. D. Whiting's statement. Mr. Nagle stated that he would have a reply pertinent to the situation within a few days.

Charges that 247 challenged votes were never reconsidered by the house of the representatives election contest committee, that the majority reports of the committee recommending that Lee Nagle be seated as Johnson county's representative were railroaded through the house, and that steam roller tactics in general, were used by the republicans of the house to accomplish his defeat, are contained in a statement issued yesterday by S. D. Whiting, defeated candidate for the office.

His statement is as follows:

Mr. Whiting's Statement

I went up to Des Moines with a majority of one, gained twenty-four votes on the recount, and was declared beaten by a fictitious majority of forty-four. During the whole recount I challenged only four votes, one in Union township because it was not endorsed, and three others because of mutilation.

My opponent challenged all unendorsed ballots in the first, second, third, and fourth wards of Iowa City, and also nine others for trivial reasons. I then demanded that the unendorsed ballots in the fifth ward, which had been counted, be laid out until the end of the count. On adding up the unchallenged votes Nagle hade a lead of 44.

Here the majority of the committee stopped; they never passed on the challenged votes, 247 in number, and gave Nagle a majority of 270 in the fifth ward, counting all the illegal votes cast after 7 o'clock in said precinct in order to make his majority.

More Ballots Than Voters

Also in one precinct, Oxford township, the recount found two more ballots in the sack than persons voting, and in this precinct, Nagle gained two votes. This was considered too unimportant a matter to delay the steam-roller.

Among other matters the recount showed that a total of 658 voters had failed to mark their ballots for representative.

On last Tuesday at 1:30 p. m., as soon as the house was called to order, the contest committee's report was made a special order for Wednesday, 9:30 a. m., although at that time neither report had been filed. The minority report did not get to the printer until late Tuesday evening.

On Wednesday morning the two reports were printed and on the desks of the members for their consideration.

Simmers, Charlton Speak

Simmers of Ottumwa, and Attorney Charlton of Des Moines, laid down a barrage of fictitious facts, imaginary law, and partisan appeal. Representative Reimers of Lyons county moved to substitute the minority report for that of the majority. The minority report declared that I was fairly elected by a majority of 233 and should retain my seat.

Three republican representatives moved that the vote be taken by secret ballot, but the chair would not even recognize them. At 11:30 a. m. Representative Knudson, of Hamilton county, moved that the house adjourn to think over the matter until 2 p. m. Motion voted down. A record vote on the minority report was then demanded by Representative Forsling of Sioux City.

Final Vote 22 to 80

The vote was 22 for and 80 against the minority report, and the battle was over. I am not saying that I would have won if the reports had been considered for a day before voting and a secret ballot taken, but someone was afraid I would. I did not object to being hung because I was a democrat, but I did desire a decent funeral. I enjoyed my stay at Des Moines very much, but the best part of it all is getting back to Iowa City.

Crime Occurs in Cycles—Carroll Calls January "A Month of Peace"

That there have been fewer major crimes this January than during any month in 1926 and that crimes, like business conditions, come in cycles, were two of the outstanding statements made yesterday by Detective O. E. Carroll in commenting on criminal conditions in general.

Detective Carroll is the founder and organizer of the Business Men's Protective and Detective association which was started here in 1914 among the local merchants.

"There will be weeks," said Detective Carroll, "when crime after crime will come before the public eye. Then there will be spells equally as long when all will be peaceful. January has been a month of peace."

Crime Not Decreasing

"Do you believe that crime in general is on the increase?" he was asked.

"As to that, I can't say. One would have to look over all the records of the past twelve months and compare them with those of previous years. You have to have statistics before you can make statements of that nature. However, it is my opinion that crime is not decreasing anywhere."

When asked what method should be taken in combating the laxity of morals which has been so general since the war, Mr. Carroll commented that idealists everywhere had a numbers of ideas along this line, but that the standard methods of detective bureaus and police departments were omer efficient than the theories of the reform societies.

Merchants Should Organize

This led him to a discussion of his own work, both private and as supervisor for the merchant's association of this city.

"We've been running thirteen years," he said, and added laughingly, "and we've just had our birthday. We have caught a lot of crooks in that time, and it is my belief that merchants and business men everywhere would be safer if they would organize for protection against crime."

He recalled case after case in which both his private bureau and the association had been instrumental in apprehending criminals.

In this course of the interview Mr. Carroll mentioned that the protective association here was the first of its kind in the state. The home office is here with a branch at Cedar Rapids.

Crooks Easy to Catch

"It's easy to catch a crook," stated Carroll, "when you're organized against him. If the merchants and business men here had not organized they would probably be suffering much more from shop lifters, bad check artists, and crooked debtors than they do."

Asked if the organization brought much comment from other cities, Mr. Carroll replied:

"It does, extensively. Sometimes a lot of cold water has been thrown on us, but I notice that in practically every city some kind of an association has been formed by the merchants for their own protection."

When asked if stolen merchandise and money were often recovered, the detective replied that this was quite often the case.

Fines Aid Public Fund

"Through the organization here against crime, public funds have been greatly increased, being augmented by fines. Further, there is something in the morale of organization that deters criminals," he added. "Experience has shown that when business men are protected losses from petty theft almost immediately ceases."

Mr. Carroll spends much of his time out of Iowa City, and his absences are invariably explained as 'chasing someone down." He left last night to spend four days in Sioux City in criminal apprehending business of a minor nature.

Beg Your Pardon

In The Daily Iowan for Jan. 18, there appeared a sentence reading, "Hearing was also given Arthur Stillwell, son of the deceased Byron Stillwell, whose case was cleared later in the November term of court."

The statement should have read, "brother of the deceased Byron Stillwell;" the latter had no children.

Training Course in Scout Leadership Begins Monday

Mrs. Josephine Soesbe, local director of the Girl Scouts, announces that the college of education training course in Girl Scout work begins Monday, Jan. 31, and lasts for two weeks. All students enrolling for this course will be given two hours credit. Classes will be held every afternoon beginning at four o'clock and every evening at seven o'clock.

Miss Edith Conant of New York City, a representative on the national educational staff will instruct the first week, and Mrs. Soesbe will handle the second week's work.

Following the completion of this course, each student will be assigned a troop in Iowa City where she will work until the end of the semester.

This is the outcome of the movement which was started to improve leadership in Girl Scout activities and eventually place it within the university curriculum.

Hogue Overrules Bonding Objections

City Will Issue Bonds to Pay Third of Viaduct Cost

Objections by Milton Remley and others to the issuance of municipal bonds for $15,000 to pay the city's share of the cost of the College street viaduct now under construction were overruled by E. L. Hague, director of the state budget, in a written decision received here today.

The appeal from the action of the city council in ordering the bonds sold was made by Mr. Remley and five other tax payers, two of whom later withdrew their names from the petition, to Mr. Hogue several weeks ago and the budget director held a public hearing here Jan. 3, the ruling being his decision formed on the evidence presented before him by Mr. Remley and City Solictor W. R. Hart.

It was the contention of the objectors that the proceedings by the council was illegal and that floating of the bonds, which represent the city's one-third share of the cost of the viaduct, constructed jointly with the Rock Island railroad, would be in violation of the law.

After reviewing the evidence, Mr. Hogue found that the council had acted legally and for the best interests of the city and dismissed the objections.

A bill for $14.02 covering the budget director's expenses in conducting the hearing here accompanied the ruling and it will have to be paid by the city.

Hofeditz, Janitor of Old Armory, Dies

Word was received yesterday noon of the death of John Hofeditz, for ten years janitor in the old armory building before moving to Tacoma, Wash., seven years ago. Mr. Hofeditz, who had been ill for some time, died of spinal meningitis at 8:15 p. m., yesterday.

Mr. Hofeditz is survived by his wife, two sons and two daughters, a sister, Mrs. C. W. Lewis living on Burlington street, this city, his brother Will of Union township and a half brother, Fred Brant of Omaha.

Local Man Jailed After Wife Files Assault Charges

W. D. Merveaux Fails to Raise Bonds of $1,500

Charged with assault with intent to commit great bodily injury, Walter D. Merveaux, 1150 Highland street, was confined yesterday afternoon in the county jail in default of bonds of $1,500 set by Justice of the Peace B. F. Carter.

Merveaux, a furniture repairer, was arrested after information had been filed with Justice Carter by Mabel Merveaux, his wife, charging that Thursday evening her husband had come home drunk and, at the point of a .45 calibre revolver, forced her to take off all her clothes.

"Threatened to Kill Her"

After threatening to kill her, Mrs. Merveaux said, he took all the clothes she had in the house and burned them, together with the garments he had stripped her of. Mrs. Merveaux later borrowed wearing apparel from the neighbors in which she came down town and notified the justice of the peace.

After this assault, according to the wife's story, Merveaux retired to the cellar where he held a half-hour of target practice, using all the dishes in the house and some of the furniture for shooting marks.

He was not apprehended, however, until yesterday afternoon when Officers John McQuiston and Joe Dolezal, forcing their way into the house, found Merveaux lying on the bed in a drunken stupor. The police had been warned the man would shoot to kill, but when they searched him they were unable to find a revolver in his possession. Both officers reported that the cellar and much of the furniture in the house gave evidence of violent treatment.

Suicide Attempt Frustrated

When Merveaux was brought before Justice Carter he had about thirty dollars on his person. After his arrest he threatened to kill himself as soon as he was set free, but this plan was frustrated when Justice Carter sent him to the county jail in default of bonds.

An attempt to raise the bond money met with no success when Merveaux, who is about thirty years old, telephoned his parents at Cedar Rapids. He pleaded not guilty to the charge that his wife had placed against him and made the declaration that he was the victim of a "dirty deal."

Mr. and Mrs. Merveaux have been married eleven years.

So That Was It!

TRENTON, N. J.—Brigadier General L. S. Upton, U. S. A., told the New Jersey Anti-saloon league convention here that booze caused the World war. "The kaiser was drunk when he ordered mobilization of the German army," he explained.
