Powers Urge Curtailment of War Equipment

Naval Problems of United States Grips Conference

GENEVA, June 20 (AP)—Naval problems quite affecting the security of the United States were raised by Japan and Great Britain at the tripartite naval conference which opened today here. France and Italy have observers at the conference. Though carefully avoiding talking terms and figures, Japan virtually recommended the maintenance of the status quo in cruisers, destroyers, and submarines with prohibition on building of additional warships.

The opponent of the Washington conference decision, Great Britain, urged reducing the battleships, cruisers, and aircraft carriers and also the size of their guns. W. C. Bridgeman, first lord of the British admiralty, argued that the British proposals would involve a genuine reduction of armaments and bring great economy.

World Urge Freedom, Claim The first American reaction to the recommendation of Japan is that it would strangle future American freedom in naval construction, and to the recommendations of Great Britain that it would be at least difficult to have any thought of accepting them.

It is admitted that the British suggestions aim limitation downward, not upward. Aside from the objection of reconsidering the Washington treaty with France and Italy, consensually, absent the American generally doubts the wisdom of decreasing the size of battleships and cruisers and especially cruiser guns. This was fixed at Washington after due regard for the need of American national safety and with the approval of the five participating powers.

Hope to Combine Proposals The proposals from all three delegations will be combined if possible into a single harmonious project. All the delegates tonight are giving the suggestions of their fellows careful attention without anybody saying: "It is impossible."

The Japanese scheme admittedly is vague, but apparently means that Japan will maintain her present cruiser strength which is only slightly in excess of the American.

The British contend that by extending the life of battleships from twenty to twenty-six years, the United States and Great Britain will build six fewer battleships in the next decade from the number stipulated at the Washington agreement and Japan, four fewer.

Gibson Represents U. S. at Conference

President Coolidge worked at his desk in Rapid City for several hours today and then invited a South Dakota politician to the summer white house as his first dinner guest since coming to the Black Hills.

The guest was Ople Chambers, secretary of the Yankton, S. D., Chamber of Commerce, who in 1924 took a prominent part in Mr. Coolidge's primary campaign in this state, which was lost to Hiram Johnson by a little more than 1000 votes.

But tonight as the first summer white house guest, Mr. Chambers made it plain there was to be no politics discussed and that the visit was purely social.

While Mrs. Coolidge braved a rain in an attempt to equal the angling record of her husband, the president motored sixty-four miles to and from the summer white house to transact some business and receive callers at Rapid City.

Among the callers was Governor Bulow of South Dakota, who came to pay his respects before taking up the duties of a special legislative session in Pierre, S. D., and a group which invited the president to the Indian agency 100 miles from the lodge.

Storm on Capes Postpones Flight of Byrd to Paris ROOSEVELT FIELD, N. Y., June 20 (AP)—A storm centered on the Virginia capes acted as a barrier to hold the giant monoplane "America" on earth for at least another day for taking wing for Paris.

Good Will Fliers Circle City Today to Drop Message

America's good will fliers will visit Iowa City sometime today if weather conditions permit. They are not expected to land here, but will circle over the city and drop a message for D. W. Crum, local secretary of the Chamber of Commerce.

The flight is sponsored by Walter O. Lockner, president of the National Association of Chamber of Commerce secretaries, and is the longest flight of its kind ever made by a civilian. Major Dargue of the United States Army Air Corps is in command.

The fliers were in Cedar Rapids yesterday and will leave there some time this morning. They will fly from Iowa City to Davenport.

CEDAR RAPIDS, June 20 (AP)—The good will fliers, Major Herbert A. Dargue and Walter O. Lockner who are on an aeroplane tour to stop at the principal cities of the west arrived here at 6:30 this evening in a blinding rainstorm.

Their plane "the New York" stuck in the mud at the flying field.

The accompanying plane made a safe landing escaping the mud bath which greeted Major Dargue and his companion.

The good will fliers came here from Minneapolis flying in a rainstorm virtually the entire distance. On account of poor visibility they were forced to fly low.

Cross Ocean in Laps, Says Italian

ROME, June 20 (AP)—The time is ripe for serious organization of transoceanic aviation lines on the basis of the transoceanic journey being divided into several laps, in the opinion of Commander Francesco De Pinedo, Italian long distance aviator, as expressed in an interview with the Tribuna here today.

Use of machines like those of Lindbergh, Chamberlain and Ryan is impractical because of the frequent necessity for waiting for favorable atmospheric conditions, Commander De Pinedo was quoted as saying.

This was not true of the Santa Maria in which he crossed from Newfoundland to Portugal by way of the Azores, he said.

County Attorneys Discuss Problem of Enforcing Laws State Bar Association Opens Twenty-third Annual Meet

County attorneys of the state will meet at the court house Wednesday morning to discuss problems of law enforcement.

Thursday morning the Iowa State Bar association will begin a two day conference.

Attorney General John Fletcher will talk to the association of County Attorneys Wednesday afternoon. Round table discussions of problems that have confronted attorneys during the past year will be held.

Holthues, Nutting, Joy Win Laffey, Dillon Law Prizes

Charles B. Nutting of Iowa City was announced as winner of the Laffey law scholarship and Elizabeth M. Holthues of Linn Grove and Charles I. Joy of Perry, of the Dillon scholarships, yesterday by the committee composed of Professors Kirk H. Porter and Louis Pelzer, and President Walter A. Jessup.

The Laffey scholarship which is for $300 was open to those who are eligible for degrees from the college of liberal arts before the opening of the next academic year, and who possess superior records in scholarship and extra-curricular activities.

Donor Graduate of Iowa The donor, John P. Laffey of Wilmington, Del., is a graduate of law in the class of 1888 and is at present general counsel and vice president of the DuPont company.

The Dillon scholarships, established by the late John F. Dillon, formerly supreme court justice of Iowa and judge of the federal circuit court, who for nine years taught in the college of law, requires three years of undergraduate work in the college of liberal arts; other requirements are substantially the same as the Laffey scholarship.

Activities of Winners Nutting won first place in the freshman oratorical contest, the Jessup oratorical contest and was Iowa representative in the Northern Oratorical League series. He participated in the Australian, California, and Kansas debates. He was a member of the men's forensics council, president of Irving Institute, secretary of Phi Delta Gamma, professional forensic fraternity, member of Phi Beta Kappa, and A. F. L.

Miss Holthues is a member of Kappa Delta social sorority, has served on the Women's Pan-Hellenic council, and is a member of W. A. A. and the University chorus. She attended Ward Belmont before coming to Iowa.

Joy is a member of Chi Kappa Phi social fraternity, Irving Institute, and the University Band and Orchestra.

Lindbergh Travels Unknown in Car

State Conference on Child Training Begins Thursday Miss Cooper Reviews History of Iowa Welfare Work

The Iowa state conference on child study and parent education to be held here June 23, 24, and 25, is another step in the program for child welfare, said Miss Esther Cooper, assistant in the child welfare department, in giving a review of the history of the child welfare program yesterday.

According to Miss Cooper, Iowa is outstanding in developing skilled education in regard to child welfare.

Organization in 1917 In 1917 the Iowa child welfare research station was organized at the University of Iowa. In 1925 the station here was made the coordinating center of work in child study and parent education for the State University of Iowa, the Iowa State College at Ames, and the Iowa State Teachers college at Cedar Falls.

Miss Cooper said "Here the stress is put on the research end of the work, in order to find out facts and give information to parents. At Ames the emphasis is on pre-parental training, and at Cedar Falls the greatest emphasis is given to teacher training."

Carry on All Phases All phases of the work are carried on by means of nursery schools, pre-schools, and free kindergartens. "The service side, which consists of parent education, is just as great as the research side. The purpose of the conference is the further dissemination of knowledge about child welfare by bringing together the experts and holding round table discussions in all the various fields of the work."

Ralston Creek Floods South Portion of City

Residents of Benton Street Forced From Homes; Water Within Two Feet of Gas House; Railroads Covered

By HENRY WARD A miniature replica of the Mississippi flood swirled its way through east and south Iowa City last night and this morning when Ralston creek completely went out of its banks and inundated several streets.

At 2 o'clock this morning the rushing waters of the swollen creek were beginning to recede, the crest of the flood having passed shortly after midnight.

Fourteen hours of steady rainfall from 12 a. m. yesterday today spilled the creek out of its natural boundaries, converted streets into canals, marooned cars in the flooded areas, generally soaked Iowa City territory.

Gas House in Peril At the gas house on Burlington street, water came within two feet of the door of the plant. The night watchman reported that a slight rise would endanger the operation of the machinery.

Two years ago, when Ralston creek went on a similar rampage, the flood waters lapped the door of the building. At 2 o'clock this morning Burlington street was still impassable, although the water was flowing in a slightly narrower path.

Roundhouse Nearly Surrounded The Rock Island roundhouse on South Van Buren street was nearly surrounded by water. Four tracks in the Rock Island yards there were covered; the entire wheels of one coal car were under water.

John Drew Becomes "Slightly Weaker"

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., June 20 (AP)—John Drew, actor, was reported "a little weaker" this afternoon after an earlier bulletin issued from the hospital said rooming there was no change in the patient's plight of arthritis and rheumatic fever. Drew has been ill here since May 31.

People Hesitate to Tell Feelings Under Emotions Because people are hesitant about telling how they feel under emotional excitement, a psychologist's knowledge of emotions is being reported, asserts Professor Irving A. Rucknick of the University of Iowa.

It is not so difficult to have people report what they think, but finding how they feel is a different matter, he declares, adding that in the next ten years, when some of the difficulties which beset the psychologist have been smoothed out, much more knowledge on emotions will be obtained.

An emotion is an extremely forceful experience, Professor Rucknick shows. The experience can be analyzed only through habitual and frequent casual introspection.

Millionaire Drowns as Canoe Capsizes DULUTH, Minn., June 20 (AP)—John B. Irving, Kansas City, Mo., millionaire president of the Irving-Pitt Paper Company there was drowned this afternoon when his canoe from which he and a friend were fishing capsized in the St. Croix River, according to reports.

Mr. Irving was 67 years old.

Raiford Lectures Tonight on Sugar C. L. Raiford, assistant professor of chemistry, will give a lecture on the "Sugar Trail" in the chemistry auditorium at 8 o'clock this evening. This talk, which will be illustrated with moving pictures, concerns the scientific aspect of sugar, in its growth, manufacture, and use.

Wylie Says Comet Approaches Earth

The Pons-Winnecke comet, appearing as a patch of haze in the northeast sky, is now visible to the naked eye, says Charles C. Wylie, assistant professor of astronomy and mathematics at the University of Iowa.

Hurling toward the earth at the rate of between twenty and twenty-five miles per second, the comet will be 3,500,000 miles distant from the earth June 26. It will come no closer, says Professor Wylie.

Nearer Than Mars or Venus Even though it is fourteen and one half times as far distant as the moon, it reaches a point much nearer the earth than that of Mars and Venus, the two closest planets. Mars is 36,000,000 miles away and Venus 26,000,000.

"Between nine and ten o'clock in the evening is the best time to see the comet," said Professor Wylie. "First locate Vega, a bright blue constellation in the northeast sky, the brightest of any heavenly body in that area. The Pons-Winnecke comet will appear about the same height as Vega on Tuesday evening."

Change of Position Visible As the comet maintains its terrific pace toward the earth, its change of position will be visible each night. It sinks below Vega until June 28 when it may be seen for the last time. Then it will be slightly lower than the diamond-shaped constellation known as "Job's" Coffin."

Plymouth County Votes Road Bonds LEMARS, June 20 (AP)—Plymouth county today passed a $1,300,000 bond issue to finance road improvements by a vote of 3,140 to 751. Paving from Le Mars east to the Cherokee county line and graveling the Lemars to Akron road are the largest projects involved. All primary roads are to be graded or gravelled.

Tausch Will Speak "Ethics and Athletics" will be the subject of a lecture by C. F. Tausch, assistant professor of philosophy, at the liberal arts auditorium on Wednesday at 8 p. m.

This is one of a series of lectures on the psychology of physical education and athletics which is being given during the first session of summer school.

Students to Visit Hospital Building A tour of the university hospital building on the east side of the river will be made as the second weekly campus event.

Downpour Causes Delaying of Walk The bird walk, which was to have taken place this morning under the leadership of Frederick J. Lazell, associate professor of journalism, has been postponed to tomorrow at 5 a. m. Postponement was due to the inclemency of the weather.

University Chorus Practices Tonight The final opportunity to become a member of the university chorus for the summer session will be given tonight at the weekly meeting at the liberal arts assembly room at 7 o'clock. The chorus is under the direction of Mrs. Mildred B. Paddock, who has expressed the need of the chorus for more men's voices. Both bass and tenor are in demand.

Reports Petty Thefts The police docket of Chief of Police C. F. Benda showed that only minor infractions of the state and city laws were reported last week end.

New Ministers at Manchester MANCHESTER, June 18 (AP)—Three new pastors will be serving Manchester churches within a few weeks, and as there are only seven churches in the city, the Manchester association's membership will be largely changed.

Wind, Rain Brings Relief The low point to which the indicator fell on Sunday night was sixty-seven which is nine degrees higher than the normal average for that time of the year. The wind started out to beat the record of Sunday but a southeast wind brought the heavy showers. For the first part of the month the rainfall for June was far below the average of former years but the rains of yesterday will probably bring it up to at least about the average for the month.

Iowa City police were doing all in their power last night to afford protection from the flood. Red lights were placed at practically every corner along the banks of Ralston creek to warn pedestrians and automobile drivers.

Paternalism

ANOTHER blow has been struck in the great crusade to divorce the university student from his flivver. Dispatches state that the University of Michigan has followed the lead of Princeton and Illinois in prohibiting the use of motor cars by students.

This action is simply another manifestation of the paternalistic attitude so prevalent on the university campus today. In almost every activity of his daily life, the college student is carefully shielded from too close contact with the rough realities of existence. He takes physical training for the good of his body, and military training, presumably, for the good of his soul. The finances of his organizations are handled by the university. A social committee guarantees the purity of his parties. Even his literature is rendered innocuous by the use of a restricted list upon which all works of doubtful virtue are placed.

The value of this type of protection is at best a matter of conjecture. The college student is presumably a person of mature years and comparatively sound judgment. He is shortly to enter into active life in which he will be supposed to possess sufficient moral strength to conduct himself as a responsible citizen. No dean of men will intervene if he shakes a bad check; no board of regents will shake warning fingers if he is in danger of wasting his time in a motor car. If he fails to learn the lesson of self control in college, no excuses will be made for him when he has withdrawn from the shelter of academic privilege.

The increase of student responsibility would doubtless result in the elimination of a few weaklings. But to the majority it would mean an opportunity to grow in strength and to learn the proper conduct of life.

The Farmer—a Business Man

NATIONAL farm organizations have asked President Coolidge for a grant of $1,000,000 over the $5,000,000 already devoted to that purpose, to be used for research in the control of insects, weeds, and plant diseases, and for the development of better grades of grain and farming methods.

At last the agricultural population is realizing that the way out of the present depression is to depend upon the application of practical, businesslike methods to the industry of farming.

Neither increased credit, promises of political campaigners, nor favorable legislation will help in the fight against the corn borer and soil depletion as much as an effective system for their control.

Governmental research has done much in the past for the farmer. Bulletins, written in easily comprehended language and illustrated, covering every phase of the farming industry from onion culture to convenient arrangements of farm buildings, are sent free to anyone desiring them, on request.

These methods for blocking the leaks through which farm profits seep in the form of losses on plots of quack grass, and through hog cholera are the practicable ones employed in big business.

"Wildman?"

DISAPPOINTMENT will be felt if the report that Sen. Smith W. Brookhart has purchased a dress suit and plug hat, is verified. His principal claim to fame thus far has been his expressed disdain of culture and all that it implies. Capitalism to him appeared to represent culture.

Brookhart once addressed a representative gathering in New York in a suit of blue denim overalls and farm shoes. In the parlance, he "got over big." The press was receptive of such an odd fellow and he was elevated to the pinnacle once occupied by former Sen. Magnus Johnson. He was even complimented by the terms "radical" and "bolshievisit." At every opportunity he bolted the party in the senate deliberations.

But try to visualize Smith Wildman Brookhart in the full glory of "soup and fish" with a topper and ebony walking stick. Note the exquisite manner in which he removes his white kid gloves, delicately pinching a finger length of glove at a time. Reflect on the appropriateness of stiff linen collars and bat-wing white silk ties against a bronzed, rough neck. Stand this picture off at some length and look at it.

Is this the "dangerous man" we read so much about in the last two years? Surely not, else he played an ignorant hand.

Iowa City Sunsets

SMOKY orange bands of low hung clouds; a clear sky tinged with pink that fades into dirty purple on the far curve of the horizon; storm clouds burned by streaks of color; black skeletons of the hospital framework and domed laboratory silhouette.

Every evening Iowa City's western skyline presents a new and varied painting to anyone willing to turn his head as he walks along the crest of the ridge where Old Capitol stands, for a momentary glance at the panorama.

But it is merely an Iowa City sunset, lacking the glamour of the Rocky mountains, or the folk lore of Alpine heights; so it fades night after night despised or disregarded by the majority.

Robert Louis Stevenson said that life on a barren wind-blown Scottish heath taught him to appreciate beauty in the gauze of a bug's wing. Residence among the drab skyscrapers of a great city might teach citizens of Iowa City to appreciate the sunsets, but a little time devoted to looking at them would accomplish the same result more economically and simply.

America's Place in Modern Art

"THIS country leads the world in the field of modern architecture," says Ralph Adams Cram, famous American architect. His statement comes as a surprise to most of us whose inferiority complex has been sedulously fostered by repeated assertions that Europe leads in art of any kind.

American people have labored long enough under the belief that culture in this country does not exist to any extent. This attitude in no way has helped to overcome or remedy the situation. Instead it has tended to cause people to give little concern over the problem as it has so appeared. When an authority like Mr. Cram makes such a comforting statement, he flings a prop to our self-confidence that may result in further progress in a wider field.

If culture go with prosperity and leisure, as is often said, America should lead in all branches of the fine arts, as well as in industry and commerce.

Editorial Notes

Won't that divinity student who preached his first sermon to President Coolidge Sunday have a lot to tell his future grandchildren?

A Chicago boy was killed yesterday while shooting a toy cannon. That's right, Fourth of July is only two weeks hence.

The man who predicted a summerless year seems to have melted away.

The Rumor Department
(From The Daily Iowan)

The end of each school year always brings more or less rumor and speculation as to the conduct of the university affairs and administration during the ensuing year. Always are their stories of radical changes and stricter supervision of students by the university authorities. The rumor-mill has apparently been more than active this spring, although we are assured that not more than the usual number of wild tales have been turned out.

The surprising thing about all of this rumor and speculation is not that it originates on the campus, but that it gains such wide circulation among all classes of students. For some unaccountable reason, no doubt our early training, we have come to consider the person who is taken in by such tales to be of rather an inferior type.

Yet in the face of circumstances we are forced to revise our estimate of these students. There are too many of them to allow of classification as inferior merely because they listen to the fruitless stories of what is to happen next year. We imagine that the strain of the last few weeks of the school year are too much for the already over-fed brains of the student populace—yes, that must be it.

Only an erring judgment and an overdose of credulity could be responsible for the wide circulation given to the products of the university rumor department, wherever it may be located.

People Are Saying

"Men are more vain than women. I not only believe that statement—I know it. They want to look their best and they make a real effort to do so. They deserve lots of credit for it, too. While a woman may decide that she is overweight and plan to reduce, a man begins to reduce as soon as the scales begin to hint that his muscle is turning into fat."
—J. A. Chernoff.

"Wearing the coveted decoration of the Air Force Cross, given to him by the king's own hand, Captain Lindbergh goes to his own people, leaving behind him here (in England) the memory of an unassuming, smiling, skillful, fearless boy, who, to the people of this country, represents the best type of young American manhood."
—Editorial in London Times.

"There is a common impression that criminals mostly have dark hair, eyes and complexion. Actually in my own experience the great majority of malefactors are blond."
—Francis Carlin, former Scotland Yard detective.

"I think the rule of women in the United States is only temporary. I don't think either sex ought to rule the world. The only wholesome state is equality."
—Havelock Ellis, English philosopher.

"It is far too common for a man to make a speech on prohibition, saying thus and so, and then, privately, to laugh at what he has said. Aside entirely from the merits of the question I will say that prohibition, in this respect, has done infinite harm. We should have no quarrel with any one for the views he may sincerely hold on that question. But we should everlastingly quarrel with anyone, man or woman, who says in public one thing and then turns around in private and does the other thing."
—Senator Wadsworth.

Here's a Hot Sketch!
LOWELL, Mass.—The Mafia club threw a dance and Herbert Merrill was to play the cornet. He arrived in his Ford roadster, carefully parking his car the correct number of feet from a fire-plug. He carelessly flicked his cigarette butt into the air as he hurried into the hall. Three quarters of an hour later someone informed the musician that his car was smoking and the dancers had an impromptu intermission while Merrill visited the firehouse with his Ford. An extinguisher was used to put out the smoldering seat. The cigarette butt had fallen, not out of the car, but in.

Ye Merrie Wives (A Review)
The Merry Wives of Windsor, Oxford Press, Indian paper, $9.50, boxed, 1821, was written principally for production by Tong Sarg and his marionettes. And with futuristic scenery. However, Tony might well be forgotten his assignment and so the Merry Wives has yet to be staged successfully.

"That Shakespeare knew his comedians can't be denied. Sir Hugh Evans, Welsh Parson, and Doctor Caius, French Aesculapius, speak innocently well their several dialects, and remind us much of the vaudeville "Ikes and Mike" of a just-past era. With puppets strung to guide them, they might well be transplanted from the printed to the spoken word.

Just why Shakespeare dared, with the handsome reputation he had, to meddle with such a serious proposition as "wife-stealing" in a comic fashion, is, of course, the mystery. Let us wear the Stratford laurel again that matrimony is no laughing matter.

Sir John Falstaff, "Ye greasy knight," is the perpetrator of notions intended to disgrace the merry wives. And right well he acts the fat devil. Read it—and weep!

"Soz whom?" we queried more or less.

"De Mile," explained Otto lucidly, "told me when I was in Hollywood that if I wanted to write him a scenario, it should have the elements of religion, pathos, action, fashionable society and sex."
"And did you write him a scenario?"—G.

Monday, June 20:
The sun was just upping when I hit the feathers this morn, and straightaway did Orpheus knock me for a row of Athenian hamburgers. Arrog about noon, and what with the smell of liver and onions gassing up the dumbwater from my land-lady's laundry four flights below, I betook me with haste into my seven-league Bostonians and, running the comb through my top notch, all the while, started for the street.

What, ho! Who should I meet on the stair, but the new filly who's moved her trunk into the single on the floor beneath. She's slinkin' the high, wide, and hash down at the Broadway cafe, and taking class work in her spare time. And has she got class? I'll just the noise! Wondering . . . just wondering if she'd answer me if I tapped on the radiator.

World Population

(From the Boston Transcript)

One of the coming events which is casting its shadow ahead will be the world population conference which is to open at Geneva, August 2. Representatives of the United States, as well as those of Great Britain, France, Germany, Italy, Austria, Norway, Sweden, Belgium and probably other countries will participate. Birthrate, classes and strain within nations, heredity and emigration will be exhaustively considered.

One thing may be regarded as certain—the sociologists of Europe, in discussing emigration, are going to make it appear to be the duty of America to provide for the excess of Europe which is feeling the pinch of over-population. It is the province of sociologists to look at such matters internationally. They see our own countries over-crowded, and maintain others under-populated, yearning to their standards. What could be more natural than that the should demand that the latter countries should make room for the over-ful? In the list of countries participating in this conference are United States and Australia and only ones which are regarded as over-populated. Of these Australia's vices immigrants, but only those of European race.

Our reasons against such a justification of world population as biological as well as economic, we are interested in the quality of national stock which we wish to keep not only high but harmonious with our present population.

Over-population exists only in a large number of people in a country are unable to earn a decent living. Increase or husband less means, and emigration may not be necessary. As for the United States, all the unemployed need, we now possess may be long needed for provision for the mass increase of our population without immigration, or with only a small immigration.

We feel sure that a thorough study by the Geneva world population conference, where we are the only one of the sober ghost of Malthus as sitting by the president's side, can only add point to our representatives' demonstration of the error of expecting America to take on the human overflow of Europe simply because of Europe's over-ful.

Mahan to Conduct Trip to Arsenal

The official pass from Colonel D. M. King, commanding officer of the Rock Island arsenal, permitting an excursion of summer session students to visit the arsenal Saturday, has been received by Charles E. Young, assistant director of the summer session.

The excursionists will leave from the south entrance of the liberal arts building at 7 a. m. and will follow route No. 22 to Rock Island.

Students will have an opportunity on this excursion to visit the largest arsenal in the world, under the supervision of Bruce E. Mahan, who will be in charge of the trip.

Quantity of Materials Stored
"One who has never made this trip has no conception of the enormous quantity of war material stored here in the heart of the Mississippi valley. One warehouse alone contains 1,500,000 Springfield rifles of the latest model. Other warehouses are filled completely with guns and gun carriages, caissons, and enterpriser tractors. Thousands of Whippet tanks are all ready to be shipped for service at a moment's notice," said Professor Mahan.

Visit Confederate Cemetery
Other places which will be visited on the tour of the island are the Confederate cemetery, where hundreds of Southern soldiers, who died in the prison camp at Rock Island during the Civil war are buried; the Union cemetery, officers' quarters, soldiers barracks, and the machine shops.

In the afternoon excursionists will have an opportunity to visit the Palmer school of Chiropody and radio station WOC at Davenport.

Leaving Davenport in the afternoon the group will be back in Iowa City by 5:20 p. m.

All who plan to go on this trip, including those who have their own cars, are requested to register at the summer session office, room 6 in Old Capitol by noon Friday, June 24.

Beulah Kerns and Raymond Criswell Mary Saturday

Announcement was received yesterday of the marriage of Beulah Kerns, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kerns of Moline, Ill., to Dr. Raymond Criswell of Rock Island, Ill., son of Mrs. Margaret Criswell of Milan, Ill., Saturday, June 18. The Rev. H. A. Pepper, rector of the Trinity Episcopal church of Rock Island, performed the ceremony at the home of the bride's parents, in the presence of the immediate families.

The bride wore a gown of tan georgette crepe with an ecru lace trimming fashioned with an accordion pleated skirt of georgette. She carried an arm bouquet of pale yellow roses. Her attendant, Dorothy Evans, wore a frock of powder blue georgette and her flowers were Co. lumbia.

After a wedding breakfast the couple left for Chicago. Mrs. Criswell attended Swarthmore college, Swarthmore, Penn., and the University of Wisconsin. Dr. Criswell was graduated from the University of Iowa. He is a member of Sigma Alpha Epsilon, social fraternity, and Delta Sigma Delta, dental fraternity.

Dr. and Mrs. Criswell will be at home in Rock Island, Ill.

Mr. and Mrs. Kelley Celebrate Anniversary
Mr. and Mrs. T. Dell Kelley of 416 South Summit street celebrated their twenty-fifth wedding anniversary Saturday, June 9, by entertaining twenty-four guests at dinner and bridge.

The out of town guests were Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Hatch of Des Moines, Minn., and Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Hensch of Waterloo.

Series of Dinners
While members of the Iowa State Bar association ponder over weighty questions of law, their wives will be the guests of wives of the local organization.

They will be entertained Thursday at a 1 o'clock luncheon at the University club rooms at the Iowa Union. Mrs. Fred Stevens is in charge of the arrangements. Summer flowers will be used for decorations.

Military Inspector States Ames Unit Is Most Complete

AMES, June 18 (AP)—The field artillery unit of the Iowa State college reserve officers' training corps is one of the best and most completely equipped in the entire country. General William H. Snow, chief of field artillery of the United States army, declared this week after informally inspecting the unit.

General Snow is making a tour of the colleges in the country that have field artillery units. He was conducted on his inspection here by Major J. E. Mort, head of the Iowa State college military department, and officers of his staff.

Teachers at Ames Interest Women in Home Furnishing

MANCHESTER, June 18 (AP)—One thousand farm women interested in Delaware county farm bureau club work is the goal set for this year's achievement by club leaders. The rural population is less than eleven thousand.

Miss Esther Pond of Ames has completed the fifth and final lesson on clothing to the township leaders. They will pass their instruction on to the thousand women in follow-up meetings held in county farm homes.

Through the summer there will be no lessons, but a course on home furnishing will start in the autumn. Delaware county claims to be the leader in this line of work.

Colorado Students to Study Glacier

GLACIER PARK, Mont., June 18 (AP)—Combining education with recreation, an entire class of students from the Colorado Teacher's college, which starts from Denver, June 28 on a trip to Alaska, will stop over here enroute to make an examination of Blackfoot glacier, the largest mountain ice formation in the United States.

Their object is to prepare themselves for a thorough comparative study of the glacial formations in the far north. H. V. Kepner, principal of the West High School of Denver, will lead the party, which includes 150 persons.

They travel by special train. The expedition will be greeted by Governor Clark of Alaska on its arrival in Juneau.

Thirteen Year Old Twin Girls Start Record Swim
ALBANY, N. Y., June 20 (AP)—Bernice and Phyllis Zittenfeld, 13 year old twins of New York, Sunday started what they hope will be a record breaking swim down the Hudson river to New York.

The girls went into the water here at 11:15 and made Castlepoint light miles away, at 9:07 o'clock. There they halted for the day. The record of 58 hours and 14 minutes, for the 182 mile course was made last October by Mrs. Lottie Moore Schoemmel.

Junk Jinks Junk
GRAND RAPIDS, Mich.—Alfred Schmidt Junk has asked Probate Judge Higbee for permission to drop the name "Junk" from his official cognomen. The name, he says, causes him embarrassment, small boys hoot at him, and his friends hand him bunches of red raspberries because of his unfortunate handle.

What's more, said Alfred Schmidt Junk, his real name is Alfred Schmidt. The Junk part just excess baggage wished on him because in childhood he lived with an uncle whose name was Junk. The request was granted, and the Junk went to the junk pile.

Klema Blanks Atkins Nine as Mates Score Five

CHICAGO, June 20 (AP)—Earl Smith of the Pittsburgh Pirates was indefinitely suspended Sunday by John A. Heydler, president of the National League, as a result of his attack on Manager Dave Bancroft of the Boston Braves in Pittsburgh Saturday.

Koser Has Perfect Day at Bat; Hofer Whiffs Ten

"Red" Klema pitched shutout ball against the strong Atkins nine at the City park here Sunday and his mates touched Hofer, the opposing pitcher, for 10 hits which coupled with errors, gave the Iowa City Independents a 5 to 0 victory, the first of the season in four starts.

Koser, Iowa City, rightfielder, had a perfect day at bat with three hits and a base on balls in four trips to the plate. He scored one run, and had one stolen base to his credit.

Atkins collected 8 hits off the offense of Klema, while Iowa City pitcher Hofer, for 10, Klema, had perfect control and did not issue a single free trip ticket to first, while Hofer was more liberal and gave the locals 6. Hofer, however, whiffed 10 local men.

Iowa City scored in the first stanza when Treptow went down on a pass, abandoned on a sacrifice, and later scored on an error. They pushed over their second counter in the third when Glasgow singled, Crawford was hit by a pitched ball, Seemuth walked and Koser singled.

Heydler Suspends Earl Smith, Pirate Catcher, Indefinitely

CHICAGO, June 20 (AP)—Catcher Earl Smith of the Pittsburgh Pirates was indefinitely suspended Sunday by John A. Heydler, president of the National League, as a result of his attack on Manager Dave Bancroft of the Boston Braves in Pittsburgh Saturday.

Mr. Heydler came to Chicago from St. Louis where he had attended the National league flag-raising and Lindbergh celebration ceremonies Saturday.

He went into conference with Barney Dreyfuss, president of the Pirates, Manager Donnie Bush, Catcher Smith and several other members of the Pirates who are here playing the Cubs. He said that final disposition of the incident would not be made until after he had had an opportunity to hear the Boston side, and he left at once for New York for that purpose.

Manager Bush said he regretted very much the fight and hoped the matter would be straightened out. He expressed his sorrow at losing Smith at this time, but said he still admired his catcher as much as ever.

Armbruster Plans Twenty-Two Mile "Channel" Swim

Open to Faculty and Students; Event of Four Sections

A "channel" swim of 22 miles through the waters of the University of Iowa pool, open to faculty and students, will feature recreational swimming for men during the first term of summer session, announced Coach D. A. Armbruster yesterday.

The event will be held in four sections. At the rate of a quarter mile each day, contestants will cover the first two miles. For making the next fifteen miles, each man must swim a half mile each day. The rules provide that, for the third round, the four miles must be covered at the rate of one each day. All contestants will swim the final mile at the same time and the winner will be declared the champion.

Swimmers will do their daily distance across the width of the pool, says Coach Armbruster. A suitable prize, to be announced soon, will be awarded to the winner.

Entries are now being received at the pool in the field house. No fee is levied, except the locker charge of fifty cents which entitles the swimmer to a locker and to towel service. No contestants will be permitted to apply a foreign substance to his body, emulating the channel swimmers who coat themselves with axle grease, the rules state.

A daily schedule of work will be given by Coach Armbruster, so that in a short time, a swimmer will be able to cover a quarter, half or mile. Any stroke may be used by the channel swimmers, but Coach Armbruster advises the employment of the crawl.

Competitors may select their own time to cover the first twenty-one miles but must swim together over the final mile.

Mad Bull Leads Indian Marathon Runners 15 Miles

REQUIA, Cal., June 20 (AP)—John Mad Bull, Crook Indian from Oregon, continued in the lead today as the 480 mile Deadwood highway marathon run from San Francisco to Grant Pass, Oregon, having covered 362 1/2 miles since last Tuesday morning, averaging about 60 miles a day.

A distance of about 15 miles separated Mad Bull from his nearest opponent Flying Cloud also a Crook. Some 20 miles back of the leaders ran Melika Zumi, Indian from New Mexico, who, despite his 55 years was pressing the younger man.

Yanks and Pirates Continue to Set Pace in Leagues

Whitesox in Slump; Cards Take Four Out of Five

NEW YORK, June 20 (AP)—Chicago Americans and New York Nationals met serious reverses in the week of big league baseball just past while their principal rivals turned on full speed ahead.

After a phenomenal showing that carried them to second place in their circuit, the White Sox showed sudden loss of effectiveness and dropped four games out of six. Meanwhile their chief adversaries went on at a rapid clip, the Yankees and Senators winning four out of five and the Athletics three out of five.

Even more dismal was the showing of the Giants who trailed their league for the week's play with five defeats in six starts. The Cardinals were going strong again with four victories in five starts, while the Cubs gained a bit on the Pirates with five out of seven to the Buccaneers' four out of six.

Leaders of both leagues retained their reputation of being the hardest hitting and greatest scoring clubs. The Pirates averaged 6.6 runs and 11.6 hits a game, while

Charles Cochran Wins Suit Asking Sub-directorship Plaintiff Claims Board Did Not Recognize His Election

A writ of mandamus ordering the Oxford township school board to seat Charles Cochran as sub-director in sub-district No. 5 was decreed by Judge Ralph Otto in district court yesterday.

Roy Rourke, Joe Maresh, and the board of directors of the Oxford school township were named as defendants in the suit in which Cochran charged that he had been refused recognition after being duly elected to the directorship.

Full Judgment for Plaintiff The defendants were ordered to pay the costs of the case. Full judgment was found for the plaintiff, who had asked for a writ of mandamus requiring that he be declared elected and that a certificate of election be issued to him, and for a temporary injunction restraining Roy Rourke from exercising the duties of the directorship.

Rourke held the position during the previous term and had intended, it was charged, to begin another term on the contention that no one had qualified to succeed him.

Cochran Alleged Election Cochran alleged that he was clearly elected to the directorship at a sub-district meeting held the first Monday in March, at which Rourke and Maresh served as chairman and secretary, respectively.

Of the twenty-four votes cast, thirteen were for the plaintiff and eleven for Robert Mahoney, sr., according to Cochran's petition. The chairman and secretary failed to declare him elected and refused to issue him a certificate of election, he said.

He was therefore not recognized by the board and was unable to perform the duties of the office. Defendants Claimed Neglect The defendants contended that no such certificate was required under the Iowa law, and that Cochran's failure to qualify for the directorship was due solely to his own neglect.

They held that Rourke assumed continuance in the office from his previous term because no successor qualified.

Original hearing in the suit was held in April before Judge E. G. Popham. The plaintiff was represented by Byington and Rate, attorneys, while E. A. Baldwin was counsel for the defendants.

Electrician Draws Up New Plans for Lighting Iowa City

W. E. Schwob, electrical engineer, is drawing up plans and specifications for Iowa City's new lighting system for presentation to the city council within two weeks.

Following the submission of the plans, the council must set a date, at least two weeks after the resolution of necessity has been passed, calling an objectors' meeting. If the plan is not over-ruled by objections, the date of the final letting must be advertised for three weeks before the actual work of installation can be started. The work should be completed by October 1.

The original cost of the system will be paid by a special assessment on owners of abutting property. About 90 per cent of the property owners have approved of the installation, and the law requires only 50 per cent unless there is some special objection. Expense of operating the lights and of ordinary maintenance will be met by main floor tenants.

Corn Crops Late; Excellent Pastures An Aid to Dairies

CRESCO, June 18 (AP)—A recent survey of eight Howard county townships disclosed that about 30 per cent of the corn was not yet up. Planting on the heavier soils was finished only a few days ago.

Much of the corn is below normal and several weeks late. Cool weather is causing the small grain to thrive, but there is little wheat, rye or barley sown except as a feed mixture with oats, according to the survey.

Hay and pastures are reported in excellent condition, with livestock of all kinds on grass looking fine. Creameries are said to be doing a flourishing business, since an abundance of butterfat is produced by dairy cattle and high grade butter is bringing a good price.

Wieneke Families Hold Picnic Here

Forty-one members of the Wieneke family held a reunion and picnic at the Bortz place east of Iowa City Sunday. Representatives of fourteen families were present.

The Wienekes are all residents of Iowa City or the immediate community. Three of the families present were from West Liberty and one of the families is enroute from Florida to California.

The picnic started early in the morning and lasted all day. Some of the families living greater distances did not arrive until noon.

Judge Withholds Wildman Decision

The hearing in the case of the four dependent children of Mr. and Mrs. William Wildman, East Iowa City, which was held in juvenile court by Judge Ralph Otto yesterday, has been taken under advisement by the court pending final decision. Mrs. Wildman was placed under the guardianship of Mrs. J. A. Mace, sister of Wildman.

Wildman is still in the county jail, since his arrest last Tuesday, for violating his release from a thirty day sentence in order to care for his family. He had been arrested on charges of intoxication and was returned to jail again for the same offense.

An attack by Mrs. Wildman upon Mrs. Mabel Evans, probation officer, in the act of serving a juvenile court notice, resulted in the wife joining the husband in jail Tuesday.

Failure to Appear Costs James $15

George James who gave his address as Iowa City forfeited a $15 bond when he failed to appear before Police Judge Paul Custer, yesterday.

Arthur Shay of Iowa City was also arrested on charge of intoxication and will appear before Judge Custer today.

Otto Suspends Forger's Sentence

A suspended sentence of not more than 15 years at Fort Madison was passed upon Bert Black, of Tiffin, by Judge Ralph Otto in district court yesterday. Black pleaded guilty to forgery charges Saturday when brought into court on a county attorney's information drawn by C. B. Russell.

Black was ordered to pay the costs of the proceedings and was paroled to Sheriff Frank L. Smith. He remains under the jurisdiction of the court.

Information leading to Black's arrest was sworn by G. M. Gohring of the Iowa City Battery and Electric Co. A check made payable to Joseph Danils and signed with the name W. E. C. Foster was presented by Black in payment of a bill at the electric company. Both names on the check were believed to be forged.

Farmers Declare Tax Confiscatory

MAQUOKETA, June 20, (AP)—Declaring that the assessment of benefit against their farms was confiscatory, eleven farmers who own land in the new Green Island drainage district in Jackson county have filed formal objection to the report of the appraisal commission and have warned the board of supervisors through an attorney that they would allow their farms to be sold for taxes rather than pay the assessment.

The district affects approximately 7,000 acres, and the project will cost about a quarter of a million dollars. It includes the straightening of the Maquoketa river and diking and ditching in the bottom lands. Farmers who have lived in the valley for half a century have declared that the river is encroaching so rapidly on their farms that it will soon destroy them unless some such plan is put into operation. A number are said to be willing to pay more than $40 an acre, while others have protested against the $20 assessment.

Tony Lazzari, besides hitting three home runs in one game, is a pretty shifty person for the Yankees. When Joe Dugan, gripped with a batting slump, was benched, Tony stepped over to third. Mark Koenig had to retire owing to a slight attack of charley horse and Tony became the shortstopper. If anything happens to the Sox, Tony may be found in the outfield.

Racine to Remodel Kitty Mayme Shop

The Kitty Mayme shop recently taken over by Fred Racine is to be added to Racine's number three, it was announced last night.

The remodeling of the stores will begin some time this week. Mr. Racine plans to move his third store into the rooms formerly occupied by the Kitty Mayme Chocolate shop and to use the space now occupied by Racine's No. 3 for a billiard room.

Red Cross Meets

The annual meeting of the Johnson county red cross will be held today at 1:30 o'clock in the council chambers on the second floor of the city hall. All persons who have paid their 1927 dues to the red cross may attend and vote in this meeting.

Izaak Walton Chapters Will Organize New National Body Declares Shimek

That the Izaak Walton chapters breaking away from the national league will organize a new national body in the future is the belief of Prof. Bohumil Shimek, resigned head of the old Iowa division.

The action of the eleventh district, the largest in Iowa, which recently withdrew from the league, will have a strong influence on other districts, Professor Shimek believes.

First, however, separate state organizations must be established. The date for Iowa's reorganization convention has been set for the early part of July.

Already the league has broken up in Louisiana and Arkansas. In Kansas dissatisfaction with the game refuge bill is being shown. Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Michigan, and South Dakota are expressing resentment toward the inactivity of the Izaak Walton league during the past year and chapters are severing national affiliations.

"We have no axe to grind," said Professor Shimek, speaking of the leaders of the re-organization campaign. He insisted further that the leaders were concerned only with a constructive policy, and considered it time that some conservation work be done.

The eleventh district included thirty-seven chapters. Their vote with withdrawal according to Frank J. Marnette, director of the district, was unanimous.

Fire Chief Urges Extra Precautions

Clark Joining Forces With International Association

Fire Chief James J. Clark joined forces yesterday with the International association of fire chiefs in entering city to erect all new buildings with as low a degree of combustibility as comfort allows. "This is one of the most effective ways of reducing fire danger," he says.

Chief Clark in his plea pointed out the dangers of the old type of frame house which is highly combustible and endangers the surrounding buildings. He also showed how the new methods of construction eliminate this danger from fire and do not reduce the comfort of the home.

Chief Clark feels that preventing fires is as much a part of the fire department's work as fighting fires and is actively co-operating with the International association in its "1927 is fire prevention year" movement.

Opal Bolton Files for Divorce; Asks Custody of Child

Asking for divorce and custody of an eleven months old daughter, Opal Bolton filed suit against Roy E. Bolton in district court yesterday. Cruel and inhuman treatment and non-support were the charges brought by the plaintiff.

The couple was married at Sidney, June 1, 1924, and the plaintiff charges that during the first year of their marriage she was obliged upon several occasions to reside with her parents and to support herself and daughter.

Final separation was effected April 1, 1927.

Attorneys Begin State Convention at Court House

Old Graduates Start Registration at Jefferson

State county attorneys will begin a three session convention today at 10:30 a. m. at the Johnson county court house.

Headquarters of the convention will be at the Jefferson hotel where registration will take place.

About sixty of the ninety-nine county attorneys of the state are expected to attend. Of these about 70 per cent are old graduates of the college of law.

At the Thursday morning session John Weir of Davenport, chairman of the association, will talk. The resolution will be given by the Rev. W. C. Keeler of the Methodist church.

Russel Welcomes Guests

C. B. Russel, chairman of the local committee on arrangements and local county attorney will give the address of welcome. Irving D. Long of Manchester, Delaware county attorney, will give the response.

Judge Lawrence DeGraff of the Iowa supreme court and B. E. Rinehart of Anamosa, United States attorney for the northern district will speak in the afternoon.

Plans Not Known

The convention will be closed Thursday noon.

Attorney C. B. Russel, chairman of the local committee on arrangements stated last night that participants of the convention were not known here. Mr. Russel said he was unable to get in touch with O. T. Nagstad state secretary of the association, of Sioux City, county attorney of Woodbury county, who is in charge of the program.

Members of the committee assisting Mr. Russel are E. L. O'Connor, E. B. Wilson, and W. J. Baldwin.

Entertainment for the wives of the attorneys has been planned by a committee composed of Mrs. C. B. Russel, Mrs. W. J. McDonald, Mrs. E. L. O'Connor.

Women to See Hospital

This afternoon the guests will be taken through the natural science building, the Children's hospital and the Iowa Union.

Tonight at 6:30 o'clock a dinner will be served at the Jefferson hotel for the county attorneys and their wives.

Round table discussions are also on the program. They will be led by W. E. S. Hutcheon, attorney of Greene county, W. J. Barnhorst, of Cedar Rapids, Linn county, Frank E. Northrop, Council Bluffs of Pottawattamie county, John Weir of Davenport, Scott county, C. B. Hosen, of Anamosa, Sioux county, and O. T. Nagstad, of Sioux City, Woodbury county.

Election of officers will take place at the final session of the county attorney's convention Thursday morning.

State Bar Association

The thirty-third annual meeting of the Iowa State Bar association will swing into action at the natural science auditorium immediately following the close of the county attorney's convention Thursday morning. The state association is meeting in Iowa City at the invitation of the local association.

Charles M. Dutcher, local attorney, will welcome the visiting lawyers at the opening of the convention at 9:30 Thursday morning and Arthur Springer of Wapello will make the response. The Rev. W. E. Nagstad, rector of St. Patrick's church, will give the invocation.

The program of the day will include the annual report of the membership committee and the election of new members. E. F. Swisher, president of the state association, will deliver the annual president's address on the subject, "The Lawyer of Centuries."

On Thursday evening the convention banquet will be held. Members of the association and their wives will be in attendance.

Workers Clean Streets Muddied by Heavy Storm

The employees of the city were kept busy all day yesterday cleaning the dirt washed by Monday's storm from the streets and putting the city in an orderly condition.

The wagon bridge on Johnson street between Washington and Iowa streets was barricaded but the foot bridge was left open to traffic. The damage to the bridge is as yet unknown.

In the place where the dirt was washed from yards and parkways it was replaced and on the paved streets it has been removed from the gutters to allow the free passage of all water.

Many of the people whose basements were filled with water were occupied with the cleaning of them and the removing of the dirt which was washed in last night.
