Traveling Library Visits Campus on Tour for Publicity

The library car of the Iowa library association visited the campus yesterday. The car is making a tour of the state in an effort to create interest in the foundation of county libraries. It is used for publicity purposes only. The 400 books in its care are not loaned.

The library is carried in a specially built car which cost $674. It is driven by Malcolm Daily. It appeared in the parade, July 4, at Ottumwa and was exhibited at the state fair last fall. Any county in the state may get one for a one-half cent fee.

The state has a traveling library but is unable to reach all in the state.

Councilmen Award Paving Contract to Horrabin Company

Work Begins June 18; Expense Totals $56,875.19

Approving the recommendations of the paving committee, the city council last night awarded the paving contract for $56,875.19 to the William Horrabin Contracting company of Iowa City. Work on the paving will begin July 18.

On a petition entered by Frank Pysaf, 1065 N. Summit street, the action providing for seven-inch concrete paving was amended to allow for two blocks of brick curbing on N. Summit street. All other street paving will be seven-inch concrete. All paving will be black concrete.

The new paving contract provides for the hard surfacing of Johnson street from the pavement now in place on Iowa avenue to the present paving on Jefferson street. Davenport street will be paved from the pavement in place on Center street east to the center of Reno street and east to the east side of lot one. Ronalds and Summit included. Ronalds street will be paved from the pavement now in place on Dodge street east to the east side of Governor street. N. Summit street will be paved from the pavement on the south side of N. Dodge street south to the pavement now in place.

College street will be paved from the pavement now in place at Fairview avenue east to the east side of Morning side drive, and Ellis avenue from the pavement in place at Reno street north to the pavement in place.

Hutchinson avenue from the pavement in place on the north side of West street north to the south side of McLean street will be paved. The paving contract includes 6, 30 square yards of excavation at three cents per square yard; 21,000 square yards of curb and sidewalk at eight cents per square yard; 1700 yards of six inch pipe at $2.10 per square yard; 14,049 square yards of seven-inch street paving at $2.29 per square yard; 2,111 square yards of two and one-half inch brick paving at $1.00 per square yard; and a five inch base at $3.08 per square yard.

Rundell Street Listed Next
Rundell street was included in the new paving program upon the verbal petition of several residents. Councilman Charles McGowan made the motion to approve the paving. It was agreed that, in as much as the street railway company had not signed the petition for paving, to have on either side of the tracks. The space between the rails will be filled with crushed rocks except on the intersection, which will be paved. In her plea for funds with which to pay transportation expenses exceeding the $15 maximum set by the council, Miss Marcella Mellanby, city nurse, invited councilmen to accompany her on trips about the city so that they might learn how the other half of Iowa City lives.

Allow Nurse Extra Fund
She explained that there were 300 families in Iowa City requiring her attention. The council voted to allow Miss Mellanby a reasonable amount for transportation above the limit specified in the budget.

L. R. Sydebotham, 635 Clark street, entered a claim of $372 for twenty-six drowned rabbits. Sydebotham claims the rabbits were drowned during the heavy rains June 20 when Ralston creek overflowed his banks.

Because of the small culvert at Sheridan avenue, Sydebotham claims the water was dammed and backed over his property, flooding his rabbit pens and drowning his rabbits. Twenty-six fur bearing rabbits were lost. The petition was referred to the claims committee for investigation.

Benda Gives Report
Police Chief C. F. Benda's quarterly report which was read and approved by the council showed a total of 219 traffic violations and 136 citations cases besides numerous other routine tasks, handled by the police department during the period ending June 30.

Warmer Weather Turns Citizens to Strolling Gypsies

DES MOINES, July 8 (AP)—Union park tourist camp, finds itself host to more registered, from Alaska, Florida, Maine and southern California. The hot weather brought the influx to pack a frying pan, road map and army cot in the family car and travel.

Tourist travel this year has been better than usual, due to the late opening and cool weather, says Dan Quinn, custodian. Heavier registration is expected as the summer progresses.

Camp accommodations, furnished at a small fee include gas plates, hot and cold showers and a screened dining room.

John D. Rockefeller Celebrates Birthday

NEW YORK, July 8 (AP)—His four-score and eighth birthday John D. Rockefeller, Standard Oil magnate, attending to business, playing a little golf, and enjoying a motor trip over the countryside with nothing by way of celebration to mark the day specially significant. Tonight he had arranged to be host to a small group of friends at dinner.

Hannah M. Hands Dies at Her Home

Old Resident Settled Here Thirty-Two Years Ago

Mrs. Hannah M. Hands, 77-year-old partner in the firm of Hands and Sons, jewelers and opticians, and a resident of Iowa City for thirty-two years, died at her home at 423 Economy street at 4:30 p. m. yesterday. She had been ill for three weeks.

Since the death of her husband, John Hands, in 1916, Mrs. Hands has been associated in business with her son, Harold L. Hands.

Since she moved here with her husband in 1895, Mrs. Hands had been prominent in Iowa City affairs. She was a member of the Eastern Star lodge, the White Shrine, the Trinity Guild, and belonged to the Episcopal church.

Mrs. Hands was born in Coventry, England, and was married there in 1872. With a family of four children, she and her husband came to the United States in 1884.

The Hands family lived in Elgin and Aurora, Ill., before moving to Iowa City. John Hands, who was an English watchmaker, worked at Elgin and soon after moving to Iowa City started the firm of Hands and Son.

Mrs. Hands is survived by three daughters, Mrs. H. W. Anderson of Waseca, Minn., Mrs. C. P. Winter of Paynesville, Minn., and Miss Amy Hands of Iowa City, and three sons, Stanley M. Hands and Harold L. Hands of Iowa City, and Dr. Sidney G. Hands of Davenport.

The funeral will be held Monday at 10:30 a. m. at the Episcopal church. The Rev. Henry E. Longley will officiate. Interment will be made at Oakland cemetery.

Service Stations Strike in Chicago

CHICAGO, July 8 (AP)—Virtually every gasoline service station in Chicago's metropolitan area was closed and tank wagons off the streets when the operating companies today turned a threatened strike into a lockout.

Early in the day union officials called out in strike approximately 1,500 station employees and truck drivers of the Sinclair company and within a few hours the Standard Oil company of Indiana, the Roxana Petroleum corporation, the Texaco company, Apex Fuel company, and nineteen smaller companies ordered filling stations closed and tank wagon service abandoned.

The two orders affected approximately 800 filling stations and 3,000 men. Tonight the first effects of the trouble began to be apparent on the streets where cars out of gas were drawn to the curb and parked or were being towed in by service cars.

Bigger Denies Charges
BENTON, Ill., July 8 (AP)—Charles Bigger, southern Illinois gang chieftain, on trial here with Art Newman and Ray Hyland for the murder of Mayor Joe Adams of West City, issued a statement late today declaring that accusation of murder and robbery made against him by Newman, his former lieutenant, were utterly untrue and resulted from animosity.

Wife of Slain Man Admits Conspiracy With Physician

FRANKLIN, La., July 8 (AP)—Their names linked by small town gossip for the past two years, Mrs. Ida Le Bouef and Dr. Thomas Draher, prominent Morgan City physician, today admitted the conspiracy which caused the husband James J. Le Bouef, to be lured to a lake and slain.

As a result Emile Vuilleumot, district attorney, announced that a special term of court would be called soon to try Mrs. Le Bouef, Dr. Draher, and James Beadle a trapper, who did the actual slaying according to the confessions.

Mrs. Le Bouef said she had planned the boat trip and had insisted that she and her husband take separate boats because she did not wish to be in the skiff when her husband was killed.

Coolidge Praises Diplomat's Service

Sheffield Resigns as Ambassador to Mexico

RAPID CITY, S. D., July 8 (AP)—The courage and ability with which James E. Sheffield met difficult situations at Mexico City has contributed greatly to the continuation of peaceful relations between the United States and the Mexican government. President Coolidge wrote Mr. Sheffield today in accepting his resignation as ambassador to Mexico.

The president notified the ambassador that his resignation would become effective upon the appointment and qualification of his successor.

In a formal letter to President Coolidge, Ambassador Sheffield thanked him for the "unfailing kindness and generous support" which made his services in this important and difficult post always a pleasure.

Several names have been suggested to the president as successors to Mr. Sheffield, including P. T. Campbell, former governor of Arizona, Charles Beecher Warren, of Detroit, John Garrett of Baltimore, and Silas Strawn of Chicago. He expects to make a choice within the time which would ordinarily be consumed by the ambassador in leave of absence.

Mr. Sheffield was named ambassador to Mexico in the fall of 1924, shortly after Mr. Warren and John Barton Payne had concluded negotiations with that country on the basis of which relations were resumed between it and the United States.

The oil and land laws controversy has been bubbling almost ever since and there are indications that a critical stage in this situation is approaching.

Another conference on foreign affairs may be held here by the president in the possible visit of Myron T. Herrick, ambassador to France. However, it has been left with Mr. Herrick to decide whether he will come and be ambassador, as indicated that he would like to hurry his return to France for the American Legion convention there in the fall.

Two Cars Crash on Red Ball Road

A Franklin sedan driven by William F. Leinbaugh, 420 N. Clinton street, and a Jordan sedan driven by E. C. Luey, and bearing a Minnesota license, were badly wrecked when they crashed together near Young's crossing late last night. No one was hurt.

The two cars are said to have been approaching each other on U. S. 161 when the Minnesota car suddenly swerved and sideswiped Leinbaugh's machine. Blinding lights were blamed for the accident.

Both cars were hauled into North Liberty by a wrecker. Luey had offered to settle for the damage, according to Leinbaugh.

Arnold Edle Dies at Local Hospital

Arnold R. Edle, 15 years old, 216 South Madison street, died in a local hospital yesterday following an operation for appendicitis Sunday morning.

He is survived by his mother, Mrs. Helen Edle, and two brothers, Francis and Nicholas.

The funeral services will be held at St. Mary's church at 9 a. m. Monday. Burial will be made at St. Vincent's cemetery near Riverside.

Brigham Lectures
Prof. J. M. Brigham of Grinnell, will deliver the last classical lecture of the year Wednesday, July 13 at 4:10 p. m. in liberal arts drawing room. He will speak on "Teaching the Study of Third Conjugation Verbs."

Two Locomotives Crash Together on Branch Track

Wrecking crews at 7:44 p. m. yesterday, had cleared the Rock Island branch line south of Iowa City, which had been blocked since the collision of two locomotives at 8:35 a. m. yesterday.

The smash-up occurred when Montezuma local train No. 815, heading south out of the city, crashed into the engine of sand train No. 1245, which was backing north from the sand pit with a string of empty cars. They collided at the junction of the spur with the branch line road. No. 815 rammed into the rear tender of the sand train engine. Both engines were derailed, the tank of No. 1245 was crumpled in for several feet, and the tender was jammed part way into the cab. The front end of No. 815 was smashed in and the pilot broken. Two sand cars were derailed.

Engineer Ned Christensen, of No. 1245 was severely cut about the head and two passengers on No. 815 were badly shaken up. A local physician pronounced Christensen's injuries not serious. Engineer Lew Curtis and Fireman Sampson of No. 815 jumped to safety as the engines collided.

Wrecking crews from Cedar Rapids arrived at 1:30 p. m. and began immediately the work of getting the engines back on the rails and of repairing the short stretch of track which was torn up during the crash. The work was finished at 7:44 p. m. and the line was opened for traffic.

The Montezuma train was held up while the wreckage was cleared away, since there was no other track on which it could get through. The crew of No. 815 apparently believed that the sand train was still on the spur line and continued south until too late to avoid the smash-up.

Bankers Discuss Economic Views

Statement Declares Visitors Fail to Mention Franc

NEW YORK, July 8 (AP)—Mystery which has clouded the informal conversations here and in Washington by high executives of the central banks of four countries, was partly dispelled today by issuance of an official statement giving a general outline of the purposes of the meeting.

The announcement given to the press in person by Benjamin Strong, governor of the Federal Reserve bank, stressed the fact "that there has been and could be no discussion of any reparations questions nor the stabilization of the French franc."

Mr. Strong received the newspapers in his private offices. The visiting bankers, Governor Montagu Norman of the Bank of England, Deputy Governor Charles Rist of the Bank of France, and President Hjalmar Schacht of the Reichsbank were not present.

The statement read: "during the past week their time has been devoted mainly to exchange of views regarding financial and economic matters, the policies of the bank of issue and like subjects of concern to the institutions."

These subjects naturally include the relationship of their respective rates of discount, the operation of the so called gold standard which has had so extensive a development since the war, the extensive shipments of gold which necessarily affect the reserves of the banks of issue, the purchasing power of gold and various proposals to promote closer cooperation."

Amplification of the statement that stabilization of the franc was not under discussion was made in the declaration that such action was purely a domestic matter and could not be construed as the business of the bankers.

Open discussion of this phase of popular surmise concerning the conversations was characterized as "unpleasant" not only to the Federal Reserve Bank but to the visiting bankers as well.

Urges Use of Iowa Coal
DES MOINES, July 8 (AP)—Governor John Hammill today asked all state officials to refrain from contracting for any coal other than from Iowa mines during the virtual suspension of mining in the state, because of the miners strike. The request was intended, it was explained, to insure Iowa miners and operators a large share of state orders when mining was resumed.

Fire Injures Eight
YANCOUVER, B. C., July 8 (AP)—Eight persons were believed to have been fatally burned in the fire of Royal Alexandra apartment house in the west end of Vancouver this afternoon.

French Shower Final Honors on American Fliers

PARIS, July 8 (AP)—The hectic week of receptions and honors which Paris has been showering up on the heads of the six American trans-Atlantic aviators who have been here, came to a close today.

Tomorrow at noon, exactly one week from the hour at which they arrived in Paris, after their dramatic landing near the beach of Ver Sur Mer, Commander Richard E. Byrd, and his companions will leave for Dunkirk.

Although he is not leaving France until he boards the Leviathan at Cherbourg next Tuesday, Commander Byrd this evening made his speech of farewell to the people of France, speaking over the radio.

The commander tonight told French newspapermen at a dinner in his honor that he planned to start on his projected South pole aerial expedition before the end of the year.

Visit South Pole
"We will go first to New Zealand and thence by steamer to the center of operations on the great ice field which is 400 miles long," he said, "our first task will be to establish a series of Eskimo dog posts at intervals of 100 miles and next form airplane bases at every 200 miles. We will use two planes, one with a single motor and one with three motors."

"The difficulties of the trip are exceptional, that I know, but it has only stimulated my imagination in view of the exceptional results we may hope to attain. South polar exploration is much more dangerous than that of the north. To reach the south pole we will be obliged to fly at a height of 4000 feet, and the winds make flying most arduous and perilous."

Animal Life There
"From what I was able to observe during the recent expedition I am sure there is some animal life there. The study of which will be full of interest and as the expedition will be there in the season when there is little or no snow we ought to have facilities for observing under good conditions."

"Our party some forty or fifty strong will include experts in various branches of science."

Men's Gymnasium to House Library

Alterations on the former men's gymnasium on the corner of Washington and Madison streets were begun recently by the department of physical education, preparatory to housing a part of the university library there next fall. Temporary partitions are being put up, and walls torn down for the convenience of the library. The interior of the structure is being painted.

The reserve library and reading rooms, located in the basement, will house the department, the binding department, and the directors' offices will be located in the building.

Professor Goes Abroad

Prof. Roy C. Flickinger of the Latin department will sail for Europe July 20. He will return to Iowa City Sept. 19 in time for the opening of school in the fall.

Officers of Walton League Try to Discredit Shimek Personally, He Claims

As the breach between the Isaak Walton League and the Iowa League of Conservationists has widened, the battle between Prof. Bohumil Shimek, of the University of Iowa, leader of the conservationists, and national league officers grows hotter.

Those officers, against whom he brought charges concerning their official acts, refuse to meet his accusations and have entered on a campaign of personalities, intended to discredit Professor Shimek, the local man says in an open letter.

The document is full of misrepresentations such as he would have expected only from a "cheap pettifogger hired to defend a bad case," Professor Shimek continues.

Convention in Marshalltown
He sweeps the whole personal affairs from the main issues of next week's proposed convention by saying, "I hope no true friend of conservation will permit himself to be influenced by this manifestly vicious attempt to cover up a weak case."

Persons unfavorable to the purpose of the convention of ex-members of the Isaak Walton league which will

Two Men at Leon Still Free After Shooting Officer

LEON, July 8 (AP)—Sam Petty and his son-in-law, George Pollard, who fled last night after the fatal shooting of Deputy Sheriff Clint McConnell, were still at large tonight despite efforts of an armed posse of more than 100 volunteers and police officers from six counties.

The officer was shot three times when he attempted to stop an automobile, in which it is believed Petty and Pollard were riding. That the deputy died fighting in an effort to arrest the two on bootlegging charges was shown by bullet holes found in the back of the car, which was deserted on a farm near Lineville, Mo., where the hunt was in progress today.

May Settle Suit With Henry Ford

Expression of Regret for Publications Spread Amity

DETROIT, July 8 (AP)—Probability of out of court settlement of all litigation pending against Henry Ford as a result of articles reflecting on the Jewish people published in his Dearborn Independent looked today as the immediate after effect of a statement by Mr. Ford. He repudiated the articles and announced that such writings never again will appear in the columns of the Independent.

Mr. Ford's statement copyrighted by the New York American and given out by Arthur Brisbane, expressed "great regret" over any injury the articles may have caused and added that a survey he had made showed him that "this journal (The Independent), intended to be constructive and not destructive, has been made the medium for resurrecting exploded fictions."

Offers Friendship
"The statement concluded with the assurance that "henceforth they (the Jews) may look to me for friendship and good will."

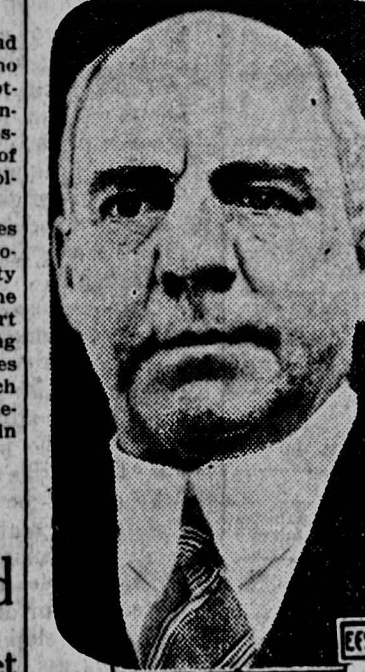

William Henry Gallagher, chief counsel for Mr. Sapro, said here that negotiations had been under way for some time and added, that he "confidentially expects settlement out of court of the Sapro suit."

While Mr. Gallagher was voicing the expectation that the Sapro suit would be settled out of court and that Mr. Ford's statement gave Mr. Sapro some possibility that a suit filed against Mr. Ford by Herman Bernstein, New York writer, might also be affected by the Ford repudiation was seen in the fact that Lewis Marshall, New York attorney who holds the original signed statement of Mr. Ford is counsel for Bernstein.

Mr. Ford's Counsel Skeptic
While Mr. Gallagher was voicing the expectation that the Sapro suit would be settled out of court and that Mr. Ford's statement gave Mr. Sapro some possibility that a suit filed against Mr. Ford by Herman Bernstein, New York writer, might also be affected by the Ford repudiation was seen in the fact that Lewis Marshall, New York attorney who holds the original signed statement of Mr. Ford is counsel for Bernstein.

Efforts to reach Mr. Ford and W. J. Cameron, editor of the Dearborn Independent, today brought the information that both were "out of town for the day" and the intimation that they had gone together.

May Be Appointed Wood's Successor

In spite of General Wood's declaration that he has no intention of quitting the Philippines, several candidates to succeed him in the event of his retirement, have been mentioned, among them Harold M. Pitt, of Oakland, Cal. (above), who is supported for the office by Senator Smoot.

Mrs. Chamberlin Greets Her Son

Flier Tutors Aviator Chosen to Pilot Plane Home

CROYDON, England, July 8 (AP)—An elderly, silver-haired, sweet big woman stood for hours at the big airfield here this afternoon eagerly scanning the sky for a sign of the son she had not seen for seven years.

She was Mrs. Jessie Chamberlin of Dennison, Iowa, proud mother of the lad who with Charles Levine broke all trans-Atlantic airplane records for distance two weeks ago.

After making a masterly landing which evoked cheers from thousands of spectators, Clarence Chamberlin embraced his mother affectionately while her eyes became suffused with tears.

He then took the six year old nephew Bobbie Moffett in his arms and hugged him ardently as movie men filmed pretty scenes from thousands of spectators, Clarence Chamberlin embraced his mother affectionately while her eyes became suffused with tears.

"Kiss your mother again" shouted one photographer who missed the first scene and the smiling American accommodated him good naturedly.

At Mr. Levine's solicitations Chamberlin acted as tutor to Maurice Drouhin, the French aviator who is to pilot Levine on the westward flight over the ocean. Levine sat in the cockpit of the Columbia as a passenger.

Scarcely an hour after he landed, Mr. Levine returned to Paris in the Columbia with Drouhin. He will come back to London tomorrow with Mrs. Levine and begin preparations for the western flight across the ocean from Le Bourget. Prior to his departure he said that relations with Chamberlin were still cordial, but they had disagreed upon the question of returning to America together in the Columbia.

Medical Course Attracts More Students to Iowa

Ten more students have been admitted to the University of Iowa college of medicine and about the same number of applications are pending as on July 1, 1926, according to Herbert C. Dorcas, university registrar and examiner.

The freshman class at the beginning of the semester last fall numbered 132 students. It probably will be slightly larger this year, officials believe.

Applications from non-residents of Iowa are maintaining about the same pace as last summer, says Mr. Dorcas. Some 45 out-state students sought admission to the Iowa medical college then, he declares.

University Faculty Has Ten Divisions

When state universities were young, instruction was given entirely by the professors, the only division of the faculty.

Times have changed, however, for during the past year the instructional staff of the University of Iowa comprised ten divisions with 561 men and women in its ranks.

On the faculty were 115 instructors, 108 professors, 86 graduate assistants, 72 assistant professors, 49 associate professors, 41 research assistants, 35 assistants in instruction, 27 associates, 16 research associates and 12 lecturers.

Naval Conference Crisis Suddenly Becomes Worse

GENEVA, Switzerland, July 8 (AP)—The crisis in the tripartite naval conference suddenly became worse tonight.

Moving from defense to attack in explaining the British position, W. B. Bridgeman, first lord of the British Admiralty, used the words "offensive" and "aggressive" in describing the large sized types of warships and special cruisers which the American delegation has been insisting on as best suited to the national needs of the United States.

Lord Bridgeman, talking to the press, pictured a Great Britain which seeks only to protect her security by possessing a desirable number of small sized "defensive" warships. While alluding to the United States he declared that it is impossible to reduce the total tonnage in the various categories of warships if the maximum tonnage of individual warships is to be pushed up until they become aggressive types.

The first Lord's declaration caused a reaction in American circles which he characterized as "unfavorable." He created the impression in Geneva that to the British way of thinking the United States is seeking large sized individual warcraft because such warships are offensive and even aggressive, he says.

The American and Japanese have taken this attitude because they are convinced that a genuine move toward disarmament and economy can be achieved only by a treaty which limits total tonnage and establishes levels beyond which the nations agree not to go.

The British demand for the right to maintain and replace cruisers whose total tonnage would far exceed the limits suggested by the United States and Japan.

Acceptance of this, it is contended, would force both the United States and Japan to increase instead of reduced building program.

As one Japanese said today, "It would nominally be a treaty of limitation, but really would be a treaty of expansion."

Kagy, Galloway Resign Positions at Des Moines

DES MOINES, July 8 (AP)—Dean F. O. Kagy of the college of pharmacy, Des Moines university, has just announced his resignation. Dr. J. E. Galloway instructor of materia medica in the college, will also sever connections with the school, it was learned.

Dean Kagy's and Dr. Galloway's resignations were announced by several others which have been handed in recently to the new board of trustees from the Baptist Union which has announced that university teachings will, in the future, adhere strictly to the principles of fundamentalist religion.

A group of Des Moines druggists and pharmacists headed by Carl Weeks, millionaire cosmetic manufacturer, are considering the purchase of the school, it was learned. Trustees to consider this offer favorably. "We (the Baptist Union) took over Des Moines university when it was about to close and we took it over on our own terms. We intend to maintain the highest standards of scholarship. It just happened that Dean Kagy was affiliated with the denomination which denies everything that we believe. Therefore, he would not be fitted to remain with us."

Dean Kagy is a Unitarian.

Automobiles Crash; Occupants Unhurt

A Studebaker touring car bearing license number 47-6670 and driven by Mrs. L. R. Adrian of Coralville, crashed into a Ford touring car driven by Russell E. Pogemiller of the state highway commission at Iowa avenue and Temple road at 4:30 p. m. yesterday.

Two rear tires were torn from the Ford, the fender was smashed, and the top torn. The left rear wheel was broken. No one was hurt.

The Ford was going south on Temple road and had reached the middle of the intersection when struck by the Studebaker which was going west on Iowa avenue. The Studebaker's steering gear then became locked. The car kept on and struck the guard rail fifty feet further on the south side of the road.

Radical Conventions

The People's Reconstruction League is holding a convention at Washington. According to newspaper reports, the members propose to discuss the suppression of civil rights and the growth of imperialism in the United States.

Just what is to be accomplished by this gathering is a matter unknown to the public. To date seventeen of the more notorious radicals of the country have registered. Arthur Garfield Hays, who has something of a reputation as a defender of civil liberties, was to have given a speech at the conference, but was forced at the last minute to decline.

The faculty of such a gathering is obvious. People are distrustful of any group which can do nothing but condemn the existing order and cry for the blood of officialdom. Although their platform may contain desirable features, the very lack of balance and practicality evinced by the delegates themselves is sufficient to wreck their hopes of revolutionizing the world.

Pen or Penitence

MANY persons who discourse freely on proper disciplinary measures for prisoners apparently think that the word penitentiary was derived from the word "pen" instead of the word penitent.

Contrary to popular belief, criminals are imprisoned so that they may set up a new standard of morals and ideals, not so that society may be freed from danger for an interval.

Unjust and unduly severe punishment arouses resentment, desire for revenge, and unwholesome attitudes in the criminal. The purpose of his imprisonment is defeated.

Iowa Is Not Poor

THE record enrollment of 3,645 students in the first term of the summer session means at least two things: there is an increasing demand for higher education, and there must be enough money in Iowa to permit the students to pursue their scholastic work.

Often the cry is heard, "There is no money in Iowa." Calamity howlers like to make the worst of the situation. When a bank fails, the report is sounded that Iowa's financial condition is rather precarious.

low them to take excursions to the lakes and the nation's largest cities. Many more Iowans who have not the inclination to go to the lakes or interesting cities, find both plenty of time and money to go to theaters and other places of amusement.

If Iowa were as poor as some reports might indicate, none of these luxuries would be possible. Farmers would count their half dollars many times before spending them at a cinema house, or at some summer resort. Undoubtedly a poor financial condition would be reflected in a decreased registration figure at the university, rather than a notable increase.

The Movies as an Educator

MOVING pictures were highly lauded as an educational medium by a speaker at the convention of the National Education association in session at Seattle this week.

Many educators have realized the instructional value of movies. Hundreds of schools have moving picture machines.

The moving picture industry has been instrumental in developing among its patrons a sense of beauty, which in some cases has been strengthened to an appreciation of art. Thousands of persons not familiar with the niceties of society and conventional behavior have become acquainted with them through the movies.

Although some movies leave a trace of character demoralization, most of them portray humanity in all its frailties, its successes, and its ambitions. The better pictures on the silver screen create a beneficial effect on the public's mind. Young boys strive to be like the movie hero.

It cannot be questioned that the movie has done a great deal of good in the development of America's education. As time goes on, the movies will become better, the taste for the clean and artistic type of pictures will be developed, and America's education will progress one step further.

Training Saves the Day

THE other day in a small town in Oklahoma a theater caught fire. The only real danger was a stampede, but fortunately this did not occur.

Just what is to be accomplished by this gathering is a matter unknown to the public. To date seventeen of the more notorious radicals of the country have registered. Arthur Garfield Hays, who has something of a reputation as a defender of civil liberties, was to have given a speech at the conference, but was forced at the last minute to decline.

The faculty of such a gathering is obvious. People are distrustful of any group which can do nothing but condemn the existing order and cry for the blood of officialdom. Although their platform may contain desirable features, the very lack of balance and practicality evinced by the delegates themselves is sufficient to wreck their hopes of revolutionizing the world.

Servant and Master

A GROUP of forty American professors and students who are touring Europe gained an unexpected insight last week into the way Hungarian professors handle stubborn servants.

The party was taken to the dermatological clinic under the guidance of a professor, and on arrival, found that the clinic was closed because of a national religious holiday. During the quarrel which ensued between the porter and the professor, when the porter refused either to open the clinic or produce his keys, the professor struck him on the head with a cane.

CONVICTS AND DROWNING MEN (From The Milwaukee Journal) WHAT should a prison guard do? The guards who at Sing Sing on the Fourth held back 1,200 men while three men drowned in the Hudson before their eyes did the thing that is written down as the first duty of a guard.

If a man is to become a penitent and useful member of society, he must live and work as a prisoner under better conditions than those which contributed to his becoming a criminal.

Fewer ex-convicts will err when the general public stops regarding penal institutions as "pens" only.

Often the cry is heard, "There is no money in Iowa." Calamity howlers like to make the worst of the situation. When a bank fails, the report is sounded that Iowa's financial condition is rather precarious.

New York Today

By BURTON RASCOE NEW YORK, July 8 (E.P.S.).—A trip into Westchester county by way of the Boston and Westchester electric railway is always an adventure.

Whereupon Oldfield said: "Well, Hank, if that's the case, I guess you'll admit that I made a damn sight better job of 'making' than you did."

Pushcart to Polo "From pushcart to polo in two generations" is the way Edgar Solow expressed to me the quick progress of shrewd and resourceful members of his race under the especially advantageous conditions in America.

Where Hands Speak On the Boston and Westchester, a man and woman enter and sit in the seat opposite mine. The woman is deaf and dumb, but talks continuously and very excitedly with eloquent hands.

On West Forty-ninth street there is a speak-easy in which hang out movie critics, stage people, and a peculiar class of nattily-dressed young men who are commonly known as magots.

Buy in Wholesale Lots The pushcart man buy direct from the manufacturers in wholesale lots, or from big wholesalers, from whom they buy left-overs, seconds, sample goods and soiled articles.

And even by selling them at 50 cents, the pushcart men make a clear profit of 30 cents on each one of them, because they have bought them in lots from samples that are no longer salable by the wholesalers.

They hallyhoo their wares with enthusiasm and with the go-getter spirit and they haggle with buyers or prospective buyers in true Ghetto fashion.

Once a passerby has shown an interest in an article, it is in a point of honor with the pushcart man not to let a prospect get by without a purchase. I have seen one of them gradually reduce the price of a string of imitation pearls from $4 to 25 cents.

The Book World

One Way of Diplomacy

There are as many ways of making an agreement as there are diplomats, but John Hay's method of negotiating the open door treaty regarding China has its points. In John Latane of Johns Hopkins university tells about it in his new book, "The History of American Foreign Policy," (Doubleday, Page & Co.)

The Air's Conquest

Under the title "The Conquest of the Air" by C. L. M. Brown, the Oxford University Press, American edition, announces an important addition to its World's Manual. The author has avoided making a technical treatise of this book, but has compiled a brief history of the development of aeroplanes from its beginnings to the present.

Giving a Show

A book which seems to warrant the promise that it will keep any boy out of mischief many summer afternoon when he might otherwise get lost in the undergrowth of American books in some unexpected manner, is Dutton's "The Boy Showman and Entertainer."

The Week-End Library

It is jolly to have something extra to read over the week-end, but far too great a bother to take along a book for every mood and minor. Hence "The Week-End Library," which Doubleday, Page & Co. have just published will save the situation. It contains a full length novel, short stories, sketches, a play and light verse. There are "The Constant Nymph" by Margaret Kennedy, "The Old Soak's History of the World," "Don Marquis' most popular book," "Dollie" from Booth Tarkenton's "Women," Edna Ferber's best story, "The Afternoon of 11 P.M.," from "Gigolo," nine thoughts about books, London, Paris, and what not by Christopher Morley, a one-act play, "The Man in the Bowler Hat," by A. A. Milne of "When We Were Very Young" fame, and "There," a book of fresh and merry verse by F. P. A.

The Most Unkindest Cut of All

The greatest of all human fears perhaps, is the dread of appearing ridiculous. And the sting of ridicule is the truth which lies buried in it. For ridicule is but truth decked in clown's garb. No one objects being called a fool, so long as he knows he isn't one. It is the knowledge of the truth that is the hurt of ridicule. From "That Ridiculous Woman," Leonard Rossiter's new novel, published by the Duttons.

Simpson Speaks on Connecticut Board

The method of choosing the state board of education of Connecticut, and its powers and duties were described in a lecture on "The State Board of Education of Hartford, Conn.," by Prof. A. D. Simpson, of the department of education, yesterday at 3 p. m. in the senate chamber of Old Capitol. He further explained the type of divisional organization that exists in the office of the state board.

Professor Simpson is the superintendent of the division of teacher preparation of the Connecticut board.

Women Golfers Hold Tournament at Country Club

Women golfers played yesterday morning at the local country club. Alice Coast won the prize in the putting contest, and Mrs. Glenn G. Ewers won the favor for the flag tournament.

At noon a luncheon was served at the club house. Covers were laid for twelve at one long table decorated with summer garden flowers.

Mrs. Burton Ingwerson was in charge of the luncheon yesterday.

A number of women golfers of the club are planning to motor to Cedar Rapids next Tuesday, July 12, to participate in the all-day tournament at the Cedar Rapids country club.

BEACON AS AVIATORS' MEMORIAL

Merrill Gage of Los Angeles designed this memorial which is to stand at Santa Monica, Cal., on the spot where the round-the-world fliers took off. The monument, when completed will stand 192 feet high. The globe is of glass and would act as a beacon to aviators seeking the field. The picture shows Mr. and Mrs. Gage with the model for the statue.

Wylie Tells How to Locate Planet Venus With Naked Eye

Since the planet Venus is now visible to the naked eye, star-gazing during the hours of daylight has become quite prevalent.

The planet, which resembles a mere pin-point of light when viewed against the glare of the sun, can be seen any time after noon. It was first perceptible two weeks ago and will reach its point of greatest brilliancy Aug. 5. Traveling south toward the sun, the planet will no longer be apparent during the day after that time.

When Venus is nearest the earth, it is 26,000,000 miles away, but at present it is more than twice that many miles distant. It is the brightest of the wandering heavenly bodies.

When viewed through the telescope, Venus has the appearance of a half-moon, as the side turned away from the sun is in darkness.

Prof. C. C. Wylie, who has charge of the university observatory explains how to find the planet. His instructions are to look for it from a shady place late in the afternoon when the rays of the sun are not direct.

Once located, it is easy to find Venus even when the sun is right overhead, he says. At 3 p. m. the planet will be at the point where the sun was at noon, as it travels three hours behind the sun.

Dr. H. Hunzleman, Graduate of Iowa, Dies of Pneumonia

Dr. Harry Hunzleman, of Woodward, a former university football star and graduate of the college of medicine, died of pneumonia yesterday morning at his home.

Dr. Hunzleman was thirty-three years of age. He was graduated from the college of medicine in 1921, and served as interne at LaCrosse, Wis. He has been practicing at Woodward since that time.

He won four "I's" playing guard on the football team under Coach Howard Jones, and was given a place on the second all-conference eleven one year.

Dr. Hunzleman lived formerly on a farm near Marengo, and attended high school there.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hunzleman, of Marengo, were with their son when he died. Funeral arrangements have not yet been made.

Free at Last—But It Cost Her Plenty

CHICAGO, July 8 (EFS)—In the simple philosophy of Peter Kryiakos, finding's keeping, and finders are keepers. It was a piece of bad luck for Peter that the Chicago police department has a less simple and more cynical slant on matters.

For his living Peter shines shoes for one dime, or the tenth part of a dollar, per shine. Occasionally he gets a generous customer who slips him a nickel for a tip. Otherwise Peter's day is just one shoe shine after another, his horizons of two colors only—black and tan.

Walking home from work the other night Peter picked up a package wrapped in tissue paper. It didn't look as though it was an important package. There were beads in it. A single strand of pearl beads.

"Nice for my girl," said Peter to himself, and slipped the beads into his pocket.

At Peter's boarding house lived a friend who labored daily in a jewelry repair shop. Peter showed his find. "See," said Peter, "the beads I found. Pretty, eh?"

"Beads, my eye," came back Peter's friend. "If them's not real pearls, then I'm the mayor of Chicago."

"But," complained Peter, who was puzzled, "you're not mayor of Chicago."

"And," declared his friend, "them's not beads. They're pearls, worth anyway $20,000."

Peter did some swift calculation which showed him that $20,000 is the equivalent to 200,000 shines at a dime a shine, which was equivalent to a whole lot of hard manual labor. He went out with his beads, seeking a purchaser.

"Finders," said Peter to himself, "is keepers; and $20,000 is more money than I ever believed there was in all the world."

But the first jeweler to whom Peter showed his pearls was suspicious. He called the police. The police in turn called Peter, and what they called him was a plenty.

"Finders, keepers," declared Peter, stoutly.

"Like heck," said the police and confiscated the pearls. More, an unsympathetic judge fined Peter $10 for concealing his discovery of valuable property, which is against the law in Illinois.

Now Peter is back shining shoes, and his black and tan horizons engulf him. He must shine a great many shoes. He has to make up that $20,000 somehow. (Exclusive Dispatch, Copyright, 1927)

Summer Students Claim Many States

Of the faraway towns of the United States which are listed as the home towns of university students, ten are state capitals, with at least one famous university in the immediate vicinity. Denver heads the number of distant state capitals with four representatives of the six from Colorado. Of forty students from Kansas, one is from Topeka.

In Arizona, Phoenix sends one out of the four from that state. Little Rock, Arkansas, sends two, while the rest of the state is responsible for four more. Helena is claimed as the home of one of the six from Montana. Raleigh, North Carolina sends two of the three from the state. Providence sends the only representative from the union's smallest state.

Portland, Oregon, is the home of two of the students from the west-coast state. One is listed as coming from Cheyenne the capital of Wyoming.

South Dakota, the choice of the president for the site of the summer White House, sends a delegation of fifty-three. One is from Rapid City, the President's vacation home.

New York City, sends two of the eight students from the Empire state. One citizen of New Orleans is one of nine from Louisiana.

Neshawt, Mississippi, sends two of its daughters, along with five other Mississippians, to the Hawkeye university. Memphis, Tenn., is the home of one student.

Letter Threatens Alimony Club Head

CHICAGO, July 8 (EFS)—Married women who are gold-diggers rather than wives, are facing bitter opposition from the newly formed Chicago Alimony Club, founded by Vernon P. Cooley, a Chicago dentist, who has been through the alimony mill himself.

His organization is engaged on a campaign to amend divorce laws in such a manner as to afford proper protection to wives who are victims of circumstances, while at the same time clipping the wings of those matrimonial birds of passage who go through the marriage ceremony with one eye on the divorce court and an income for which they will not have to work.

It will be a fight, too, Cooley's Alimony Club was emblazoned across the front pages a car ago when he announced his determination to oppose alimony graft. Recently, as his organization began its active campaign, he received an anonymous letter.

"Cooley, you lay off, or you will suffer," the letter read.

As a reply the militant anti-alimonyist called a meeting of the Chicago Alimony Club, at which he said plans will be completed for a final drive for a revision of existing divorce laws, and the exposure of husbands who had been bankrupted by their efforts to appease the voracious appetites of gold-digging women, backed by the power of a court order.

NOTHING NEAR ABOUT THIS BEER

He had to fly to get it, but a lot of people who are old enough to remember what a real stein of honest to goodness beer tasted like will think Clarence Chamberlin's adventurous voyage to Germany well worth the effort when they see this picture of the aviator being entertained at Munich in true Bavarian fashion.

Broken Promise Puts Notorious Outlaw 'In' Again

Matt Kimes Sits in Cell Staring at 'The Chair'

By HARGIS EARLYWINE
OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., July 8 (EFS)—Because he disregarded that ancient underworld law that there is honor among thieves, Matt Kimes, Oklahoma's most celebrated modern bandit, fell into a statewide police net, and is now in a cell here with the shadow of the electric chair cast over his head.

Kimes must stand trial for the murder of W. J. McAnnally, chief of police of Beggs, Okla., who was killed when Kimes and his bandit gang of eight robbed two banks in that town.

There were nine men in the Beggs robberies. Some time before the affair they held a conference and solemnly swore to meet in the Grand Canyon June 18, and to deliver any of the members that should be jailed previous to that date. The robbery was done May 18. On May 24 "Blackie" Wilson, one of the gang, arrested in Oil City, Tex., and taken to Oklahoma, Okla., where he has been languishing in jail ever since. At last he got tired of waiting for the expected jail delivery, and "squealed." Arizona officers were notified.

Ben Kimes, under the name of "Watson," arrived at the Bright Angel hotel at Phoenix, Ariz., with Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Kady, who had given him a ride in their car from Dodge City, according to their story.

Thursday afternoon Kimes parked his car next to Sheriff J. O. Parsons of Coconino county. When he wanted to drive out he yelled to the sheriff, "I guess I'll give that car behind me a shove."

"Didn't Look the Part" "Better not. It may be in gear," the sheriff called. "What's your name?" he added.

"Watson," called Kimes. "You don't look like Watson," Parsons answered. "Come along to the park service office with me."

Parsons climbed into Kimes' car, and then began a wild ride that ended in a ten minute fight between the two. The noise of their struggle attracted people, and Kimes got away just in time to slip over the edge of the canyon. After descending thirty feet he found he could go no further unless he wanted to jump to his own death. He looked up and saw ten guns turned on him. He gave up. And Parsons stands a good chance of claiming the $4,000 reward offered by the state and the bankers' association.

Iowa Ranks Third in Legion Contest

DES MOINES, July 8 (AP)—Iowa ranks third in the nation in membership of state departments of the American Legion, latest figures received from national headquarters at Indianapolis show.

For three years South Dakota had held the leading place in membership of state departments, but this year it dropped into sixth place. Florida leads the list, with Arizona, second; Nebraska, fourth; and North Dakota, fifth.

The ratings are based on membership as compared with the number of persons in each state who are eligible to membership by reason of their service in the World War.

Membership campaigns are still in force in the various states which are engaging in a contest to decide the winner of a trophy offered by the national organization. The contest closes in thirty days before the annual national Legion convention, which occurs this year on Sept. 19. The ratings given above are based on report of campaign work, as of June 24.

Artists Compete in Statewide Contest

DES MOINES, July 8 (AP)—statewide art contest for Iowa painters, both amateur and professional, in which cash prizes totaling more than $662 will be conducted by the management of the 1927 Iowa state fair, Secretary A. R. Corey announced today.

The contest, for the purpose of encouraging Iowa art, is open to any artist who is a resident of the state. The senior division, for artists 18 years old or over, carries with it cash awards of $550 and comprises competition in oil painting, water color, and pastel, black and white or monochrome drawing, posters and decorative designs. The junior division offers prizes of $112 and covers the same fields as the senior division except that poster classification is omitted.

The entries will be exhibited in the new $350,000 education building now being completed on the state air grounds. The awards will be made during the fair, Aug. 24 to Sept. 2.

Thirteen Oklahoma College Men Milk Their Way Through School

By HARGIS EARLYWINE
STILLWATER, Okla., July 8 (EFS)—Thirteen students in the Dairy department of the Oklahoma Agriculture and Mechanical college have been able to "milk their way through college."

Starting in 1920 with one boy, the plan worked out by Prof. A. C. Baer, head of the department, has developed until in 1927 six boys owned and cared for cows. Thirteen different boys have taken advantage of this opportunity over the seven years' period.

Wendell Emmons was the first of the "cow milking" boys. He had been a 4H club boy and came to college in 1920, handicapped by lack of funds. He explained his position to Professor Baer who permitted him to bring his club cow and another given him by his father to the college dairy barn. The college sold Emmons the feed at cost and the milk was sold to the college creamery.

The two cows gave Emmons a net profit of $240 over and above the cost of feed for nine months of the school year. This paid all of his expenses.

Makes $380 a Year The next year, 1921, Robert Richardson was added. He had two Jersey cows and the sale of milk and two bull calves gave him a net income of $380 for the college year. Both Emmons and Richardson are now in the dairy business.

Each year the barn facilities were increased until last year six boys cared for animals at the barn. Professor Baer says the average net income per student for a college year of nine months has been $198.72 for the milk. In addition, some calves were sold, ranging in price from $25 to $150 each.

The student does all his own work in connection with the milking, feeding and care of his cows, keeps daily milk records and fed costs. At the end of the year he is required to turn in a complete record.

Phantom Outlaw

Kimes had been at large since November when he escaped from the Sallisaw, Okla., jail, where he was beginning a thirty-five year sentence for the murder of Perry Chuculate, deputy sheriff, who attempted to catch the outlaw after they had robbed the bank at Covington, Okla. He claims he bought his way out through one of the guards.

"It's an internal lie," John Johnson, sheriff, answers.

Since his escape Kimes has been a phantom outlaw, accused of every robbery and murder that happened in the southwest, no matter how impossible it would have been for him to appear everywhere in the same hour.

He points out that at one time he was accused of three robberies that took place in two hours within a radius of 300 miles.

Ye Pirate Story

CALDWELL, N. J.—The stage was set. All about were legs and windlasses and a cutlass or two, Jolly Roger flags and belaying pins. It was the last scene in "The Pirate's Bride," the school play given as part of the commencement exercises in the Grover Cleveland high school. Everyone waited breathlessly for the last and most important number, the class prophecy.

"And now," began the class prophet. "Shut up!" came a harsh voice. This was not part of the program. Necks were stretched.

John Fitch Receives Recognition Accorded Robert Fulton as Inventor

LOUISVILLE, Ky., July 8 (EFS)—One hundred forty-two years after he invented, designed, constructed and operated the first steamboat, public recognition came for John Fitch in the unveiling of a $15,000 monument at Bardonia, Ky., where he died in 1798.

Textbooks taught that Robert Fulton was the inventor of the steamboat, and the public accepted that teaching. But records that could not be disputed were produced proving that the inventive genius of John Fitch, a lieutenant in the Continental army during the Revolutionary war, applied steam to navigation in the year 1783, more than twenty years before the Clearmont plied the Hudson as the product of Fulton.

Among the records was a drawing of the Fitch boat, advertising trips on the Delaware river from Trenton to Philadelphia.

Fitch, who gave much to the world and received in his lifetime only disappointment and disillusion, was a Connecticut Yankee who came to Kentucky and adopted that state as his own.

D.A.R. Memorial The John Fitch chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, inaugurated a movement that resulted in a $15,000 congressional appropriation for the memorial monument to Fitch. Mrs. Ben Johnson, wife of the congressman who represented the Bardonia district for twenty years prior to his retirement in March, gathered data which Mr. Johnson presented to congress along with a bill providing for the memorial appropriation.

The measure put the United States government on record as officially recognizing Fitch as the inventor of the steamboat.

Many Notables Attend Among those attending and participating in the unveiling of the marble monument were Charles F.

and Emerson Fitch, great-grandsons of John Fitch, and the Misses Frances and Charlotte Fitch, great-great-granddaughters of the inventor. Col. Deymour Bullock, of Chicago, assistant secretary of Rotary International, who worked for years in gathering data and assisting in bringing the facts concerning the inventor of the steamboat before the public; Mrs. Ben Johnson, representative of the army; Mrs. Grant E. Lilly, Richmond, Ky., state regent of the Daughters of the American Revolution; Gov. William J. Fields, of Kentucky, and Marvin H. Lewis, Louisville, former president general of the Sons of the American Revolution.

The biscuit and the ad

THERE'S a blank sheet of paper lying white on the window sill. A can of baking powder rests on it, and a white, fluffy pinch of the powder itself. Taste it. It seems good. Yet you'd have to consult your chemist to make sure it is good. And have to mix that powder with flour, milk, eggs—make biscuits, cakes with it—to make sure how good it is. Then keep it a month, try it again, to make sure it continues good.

Yet if that sheet of paper were an advertisement about baking powder—you'd see a name that stands for quality and purity. You'd read about the fluffy cakes and biscuits that that powder makes—and will continue to make. You'd know more about that powder than if you held the can in your hand.

Advertisements are short-cuts to finding out truths. The truths about everything you want to buy. The names in advertisements are names of solid reputation. The labels in advertisements are symbols of satisfaction. It pays to read the advertisements, for then you know what is good. The products they tell about are being bought, tested constantly. The fact that they're still being advertised is alone proof of their worth.

An easy, frequent glancing over these advertising columns is better than fallen biscuits, soggy cakes—and other failure buys. If you know what's advertised, you can buy always what's good.

Buying advertised products cancels risk

Trenton's Mayor Gives Pet Burial Site for Children

Canary Cause of City Official's Donation to Animaldom

By MARION McROBERT
TRENTON, N. J., July 7 (EFS).—Because a gay little canary with its nightly song and frolic made life happier for the hardest worked man in this busy town, boys and girls of Trenton are to have a beautiful cemetery in which to inter their pets when the latter have passed on to whatever reward comes to dog, cat and bird pals who fulfill their mission in life.

The pet cemetery is the gift of Mayor F. W. Donnelly, for twenty years mayor of Trenton. It comprises several acres of woodland and meadow, owned by the city. Officials say the ground will not be needed in the city's plans for growth for generations to come and so it is to be turned over to the S.P.C.A. to be made into a burial ground in memory of the bird that was the mayor's constant companion for several years.

Feathered Sympathizer
In the rearing of his own husky boy and girls the mayor has had many loved pets in his family. There was Mike, an Irish setter, who knew every corner of the city and made friends with everybody. Mike was the most democratic of dogs and would have made a wonderful campaigner if his services had ever been needed in that direction. There were other dogs, too, not quite so well known to the public, and any number of cats and the progeny. None were nearer to the heart of their master, however, than the little bird.

It seemed to save its sweetest song for him and no matter what hour of the day or night he came home the bird would flutter about its cage until he took it out for play. Then, perched on his finger, it voiced its happiness at his grave "coming. Through the dark two years that threatened him with invalidism the remainder of his life its song cheered him, and when politics and city affairs grew oppressive with their intricacies he had at least one bright burlesque bird in the yard.

hour to look forward to, he declared. And then came the day when the little bird could sing no more and the next day the master carefully placed it in a small box and buried it in a grave in his yard. Ever since that time Mayor Donnelly says the sight of the tiny grave brings a lump in his throat.

In his talks with children they have often told him about pets that have died and they have expressed the wish that the dog or cat could have been buried somewhere where they might visit the grave "and show that we still remember and love." So the mayor looked about him and after discussing the idea with city officials it was agreed that the vacant plot of ground be placed at the disposal of pet lovers. The S.P.C.A. will improve the place and help to keep it a beauty spot.

Independents Meet Cedar Rapids Nine at City Park Sunday

When the Iowa City Independents take the diamond against the Cedar Rapids Athletics Sunday at the city park they will endeavor to get revenge for two early season defeats handed them by the Parlor City club.

With "Red" Kiema in form the Athletics will find the going tough. Kiema has been invincible so far this season. The remainder of the lineup will be the same as that used in last week's games.

The Independents are the only local team that will see action this weekend. The Black Hawks have no game scheduled.

Pirates Add Two to Casualty List

PITTSBURGH, July 8 (AP)—The Pittsburgh Pirates who held the National league leadership for forty-five days despite injuries to several players, suffered two more casualties as they dropped the leadership to the Cubs here yesterday.

Hal Rhyne, shortstop, injured his leg as he slid into second, while Johnny Morrison, of the pitching staff, is temporarily out of the lineup with a bruised hand, suffered in a fall at his home.

Kremer, Cuyler, Wright, Traynor, Harris and Aldridge have been among the casualties of the present season, while Earl Smith, catcher, is still under suspension for a recent tiff with Manager Bancroft of the Boston Braves.

Plan Open Tourney for Des Moines Links

DES MOINES, July 8 (AP)—An open golf tournament, the first held in Iowa, will be staged July 26 and 27 at the Hyperion club, it was announced yesterday.

Professional players will be able to compete here and then play the last 36 holes of competition to decide the state pro-title, July 29 and 30 at an undetermined course in the vicinity of Lake Okoboji.

Medal play will start with 18 holes in the qualifying round the first day. Sixty-four will qualify, with a second flight of 18-holes to be staged for those eliminated on July 27.

Owners Reclaim Various Articles Stolen by Penn

The loot taken by Clarence Penn, confessed house robber, which was found after his arrest Monday afternoon was returned to the owners yesterday. It consisted of watches, diamond rings, knives, clothing, and other less valuable articles.

Miss Nell Murphy and Mrs. F. A. Hall received their rings and Mrs. J. W. Osborne called to claim her watch. The remainder of the loot will be returned to the owners as rapidly as it is identified.

tion were reported by Chief Benda. Six were arrested and held on gambling charges and five faced police court trial for assault and battery. One hundred eleven auto collisions and five bicycle-automobile collisions were reported by the chief. Twenty-seven persons were injured in automobile accidents.

In his concluding report Chief Benda said, "I believe that every man on the force has given more than his share of time, diligence and faithfully performing his duty. Every officer has put in extra time, more or less continuously since the increase in the robbery cases, without additional pay. Their services continued seven days out of every week."

The council voted to commend the chief on the manner in which he had handled his report.

Will Apportion Light Cost
Following the report of the chief the council voted to have the finance committee attend to the quarterly report of the police judge.

Asked concerning the street lighting system, City Attorney Will J. Hayek reported that the expenses of installing the new system would have to be determined according to area.

The plans are now in the hands of the city engineer and the cost will be assessed to property owners on the same basis as paving expenditures. It was estimated that the proposed plan would come before the council at its next meeting July 15.

An ordinance asking for the vacation and direction of a deed to Ernest Haemerle for the southeast corner of lot eleven, block five in the Rundell addition was given its first reading. The ordinance will give to Haemerle the ground ten feet east along Sheridan avenue, north 150 feet, west ten feet, and thence 150 feet south.

Staged Mixed Four-some Tourney at Country Club Today

Golfers of the Iowa City Country club will tee off this afternoon at 1:30 o'clock in a mixed foursome tournament. It will be a handicap event thus giving all who participate an equal chance.

This event which is popular elsewhere has not been held recently at the local club. There are already sixteen entries. Entries may still be made, but must reach the club house office by noon today.

Boy Scouts Back From Camp Trip

E. Starbuck Awarded Eagle Rank for High Rating

Boy Scouts representing Johnson, Cedar, Washington, and Iowa counties have just returned after spending three weeks at the summer camp at Springdale on the Cedar river.

At a meeting of the executive board of the Boy Scout Council last evening in the scout rooms, Paul R. McGuire, scout executive, made a report, telling of the successful completion of the camp.

During the three weeks sixty-eight boys were present in camp at different times. All the Iowa City troops were represented. Mr. McGuire showed pictures of camp activities.

The boys engaged in leather work, rope-making, and bow-making, besides the regular scout tests, swimming, archery, baseball, volleyball, and other sports.

The rank of eagle scout, highest honor rating in the organization, was conferred upon Edmund Starbuck, son of Prof. Edwin D. Starbuck of Iowa City.

Anti-Saloon Group Charges Coolidge With Malfeasance

Defeat Publication Proposition by 5-4 Vote

NEW YORK, July 9 (AP)—The New York American in a copyrighted article says a proposal to issue a proclamation charging President Coolidge publicly with malfeasance in office was defeated by a 5-4 vote of the anti-saloon league in Chicago, November 8, 1925. The proposition was defeated 4 to 5 after a lengthy debate.

Members of the committee voting for issuance of a proclamation embodying the charges according to the American were Arthur J. Davis, superintendent of the New York anti-saloon league, L. Brock Moore, Alabama millionaire, Superintendent Leughbaun of the Oklahoma anti-saloon league and W. M. Forgrave of Massachusetts.

Those voting against the proposition were A. H. Briggs, superintendent of the league in California, H. C. Carr of Tennessee, the superintendent of Pennsylvania and Indiana and Bishop Thomas Nicholson, president of the league.

The proclamation which was drawn up read in part: "There has been presented at the Biennial convention reports of delegates and utterances from the platform which clearly indicate malfeasance or malfeasance in the executive branch of the federal government."

"The anti-saloon league asserts the obvious truth that these facts constitute an indictment of the Federal Administration in respect to prohibition enforcement.

"The constitution specifically places the duty of enforcing the laws on the president of the United States, he is the only officer charged in the federal constitution with responsibility for enforcement.

The resolution was drawn, the American says following an address by Governor Pinchot of Pennsylvania in arranging the administration generally and secretary Mellon specifically for failure of enforcement.

"On the day after the adverse vote a 'personal communication' was addressed to President Coolidge transmitting a copy of the Pinchot address as containing 'certain statements of such serious nature as to justify us calling the matter to your attention.'

While the conference did not attempt to pass upon those statements the letter said:

"There is a widespread feeling throughout the country that the treasury department and other departments having in charge enforcement of the prohibition law are neglecting their duty."

"Our people will not consent to the proposition that a great republic should enforce its laws insouciantly as the chief responsibility in the matters rests upon the president who are respectfully bringing them to your attention."

This letter was signed by A. Barton chairman of the executive committee, Ernest H. Sherrington, secretary, F. Scott McBride general superintendent of the league and president Nicholson.

One month after the resolution vote December 8, the American said Dr. A. G. Barton chairman of the executive committee addressed a personal and confidential letter to prohibition commissioner Roy A. Haynes, suggesting that the president and his closest and most influential advisors" be warned of the danger of a successful candidacy by Governor Smith of New York.

"If Al Smith should succeed getting the democratic nomination in the present confused situation the letter was alleged to have stated 'he will defeat Coolidge or any other man the republicans may name.'

How Iowans Make Second Excursion to Amama Colonies

Of the 137 persons who went on the second university excursion to the Amama colonies yesterday, only one half of the number were from Iowa.

The trip was made under the direction of Bruce E. Mahan, of the state historical society. It was staged at 8:30 from the liberal arts building.

The tour was led through the Amama colonies, the community store, kitchen, dining room, kitchen, and cemetery. Dinner was served at 11:30 at South Amama. The party returned to Iowa City at 8:30 p. m.

"Red Book" Ready July 15
DES MOINES, July 9 (AP)—The Iowa Official Register, more commonly known as the "red book" of legislative governmental functions, will be distributed about July 15. The book, compiled by Howard N. Whitney, was compiled by authority granted by the legislature. The 1927-28 edition contains much new material. It covers approximately 750 pages.
