

Iowa Miners Return to Work

Operators, Men Agree on Plan of Settlement

Conclusion of Strike Sends 9,000 Men Into Mines

DES MOINES, Oct. 4 (P)—The Iowa coal strike was settled late this afternoon and miners who have been out since April 1, last will return to work tomorrow.

Settlement was made following a meeting of the Iowa Coal Operators' association at which the operators agreed to settle on a plan similar to the one formulated last Saturday in Illinois.

Immediately following the operators' meeting, Joe Morris, president of district thirteen and other United Mine Workers of America officials were called in. They agreed to accept the settlement.

Morris and George Heaps, Jr., president of the operators, both confirmed the settlement and said, "everything is ready to start digging tomorrow."

9,000 Men to Work

The settlement will send approximately 9,000 union men back to work.

The agreement ratified today will continue in effect until April 1, 1928.

In the meantime, a joint commission composed of two representatives of the operators and the miners' representatives will be named to consider all questions in the dispute over wages and working conditions, reporting to the full joint state committee next February 7. This report, it is agreed, will form a basis for adjustment of the entire controversy.

The union's so-called committee will be called to meet in the near future, Mr. Morris said tonight, for the purpose of selecting the two miners' representatives on the commission. The operators did not announce when their negotiators would be chosen.

Traffic Rules for Dad's Day Issued

Police Chief C. F. Benda announced yesterday that on Dad's day, Oct. 8, and at Homecoming, Nov. 5, no left hand turns can be made at the following corners: Clinton and Washington streets, Dubuque and Washington streets, College and Dubuque streets, Iowa avenue and Dubuque street.

Chief Benda requests that all Iowa City people leave their cars at home those two days in order to make more parking space for the out-of-town cars.

Merchants are asked to remove all rubbish heaps from alleyways to give the city a respectable appearance for the visitors.

The story is about a student at Ohio State. John Miller, "The Poor Nut," goes to school with high hopes of being very collegiate and popular. The story concerns itself with his overcoming of obstacles to become the hero of the campus, a successful track star and a Phi Beta Kappa.

The play was written by Elliott Nugent and J. C. Nugent. It had long runs in both New York and Chicago, and has recently been filmed.

Owners Give up Hope for Return of Missing Ship

GLoucester, Mass., Oct. 4 (AP)—On the eve of the day set as the ultimate limit for the return to port of the schooner Columbia, pride of Gloucester's fishing fleet, hope for the vessel's safety tonight had dwindled almost to the vanishing point. The owners of the Columbia, which sailed on a salt fishing cruise early in July, had allowed her until October 5th, to make port with her fare of fish.

News from the Coast guard cutter Tampa, which is searching the banks off Nova Scotia for the missing fishermen, served to intensify the gloom among the Gloucestermen. The Tampa reported by wireless that parts of two dories bearing the schooner's name, and six pairs of American-made oars, one marked "Columbia," had been picked up at the island, known to seamen as the "graveyard of the Atlantic."

The Columbia, in command of Captain Lewis Wharton, carried a crew of twenty men.

German Aviators Finish First Leg of Atlantic Trip

Hydro-airplane Lands in Holland Rather Than Lisbon

NORDERNEY, Germany, Oct. 4 (P)—The first leg of the latest attempt by German aviators to make the westward Atlantic passage by air ended today at Amsterdam, instead of Lisbon as was scheduled. Barely 130 miles from the island field here, where the start was made at 4:46 p. m., yesterday afternoon, the Junker plane came to earth after circling the Dutch metropolis.

The trip to Lisbon and thence to the Azores for the long ocean jump was resumed this morning.

NORDERNEY, Germany, Oct. 4 (P)—German aviators set out at 4:46 o'clock today to make a westward passage across the Atlantic by air. The Junkers hydro-airplane D-1230 took off from this place for the United States, by way of the Azores. A stop will be made at Lisbon, thence to the Azores, where the plane will be refueled for the long span to Harbor Grace, Newfoundland, the American port of destination has not been announced.

The D-1230 in command of Friedrich Loew, who was on the "Bremen" when she made her unsuccessful trans-Atlantic attempt in August, is a low wing Junkers model G-24, with pontoons. It is a twelve passenger plane, the cabin of which has been converted into a fuel storage compartment. The plane carries a complete receiving and sending wireless set and scientific equipment.

A woman passenger was smuggled aboard shortly before the D-1230 took off. She is Mrs. Leila Dillenz, a Viennese actress, and daughter of the painter, Carl Hoeller. No explanation was given of her presence aboard. Two sacks of mail originally put aboard the "Europa" and "Bremen" for the United States, were taken on the D-1230.

Third Year Laws Elect E. W. Ford President of Class

Edward W. Ford, L3 of Iowa City, was chosen president of the third year class of the college of law at the annual election held yesterday. The defeated candidates for president were Richard J. Thompson, L3 of Forest City, and Charles F. Stillwell, L3 of Sioux City.

Ford is a member of Phi Delta Phi, national law fraternity and of Beta Theta Pi, social fraternity.

Thomas J. Hanley, L3 of Davenport, was elected secretary and treasurer. Hanley will keep the names and addresses of the class members, and will be in charge of reunions and meetings arranged after graduation.

Dean Henry Craig Jones presided over the election.

"I'm Not Afraid of Girls"—Lindy

MEMPHIS, Oct. 4 (P)—A pretty girl reporter who asked Col. Charles A. Lindbergh why he refused to kiss girls had what fellow reporters interpreted as the "big chance" but let it go by.

A group of newspaper writers were interviewing the flyer in his hotel today when the girl reporter popped the personal question.

"I'm not afraid of girls," Lindy returned with emphasis "in fact I rather like them."

Then he dropped the golden opportunity that the girl missed.

"Can you name a specific instance when I have refused?"

The girl reporter giggled, the men reporters laughed out loud, and in the resultant confusion, Lindy's query went unchallenged.

Calles Orders Death of Mexican Revolvers

Revolution of Garrison Bloody; Insurgents Meet Defeat

TAMPICO, Mex., Oct. 4 (AP)—Jesus Gomez Vizcarra, nephew of Gen. Arnulfo Gomez, has revolted at Las Julias ranch, near Xicotencat, according to official advices given out at headquarters of the chief of military operations in Tampaulipas state tonight.

Gomez Vizcarra, with only a few followers, is reported to be marching on Santa Cruz ranch.

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 4 (AP)—The iron hand of Calles already has fallen upon the alleged instigators of the military revolt.

Less than twenty-four hours after the uprising started in Mexico City, Gen. Francisco Serrano, candidate for the presidency, former war minister and once close friend of General Obregon, declared to be the main leader in the attempt against the government, was captured, court martialed and executed. Thirteen of his most prominent followers also paid the supreme penalty.

With the mutiny of three companies of the twenty garrisons in Mexico City at midnight Sunday, and reports of threatened risings in various parts of the republic, President Calles and General Obregon, immediately prepared plans for crushing the rebellion. General Obregon declared that he would withdraw his candidacy, if necessary, and take the field against the anti-Calles forces.

Troops Pursue Mutineers

Loyal troops, aided by airplanes, were sent immediately in pursuit of the mutineers who had proceeded toward Puebla. How well they succeeded in their task is indicated by an official bulletin issued this morning. The bulletin gives no details regarding the capture and execution of these men, but states briefly:

"Gen. Francisco Serrano, one of the leaders in the uprising, was captured in the state of Morelos, together with a group of his companions, by local troops commanded by Gen. Juan Dominguez. They were summarily court-martialed and executed."

Lieut.-Col. Augusto Mazanilla, in command of the sixteenth battalion of the Torreón garrison and all the officers of his staff were executed. The mutineers in the rank and file were dispersed.

Plane Locates Rebels

The government declares that the mutineers who deserted the Mexican City garrison numbered only 800. Federal scout airplanes located them near Texcoco this morning, where upon 2,500 federals were dispatched to that place from Mexico City to give battle. Federal airplanes meanwhile were preparing to bomb the rebels out of their positions.

Congressman Soto Y. Gama, the Agrarian leader, has issued a statement that thousands of armed Agrarians throughout the republic are ready to take the field on the side of the government against the rebels.

Commerce College Sets October 19 for Class Election

Elections in the college of commerce will probably be held Oct. 19, according to Lee Flatley, C4 of Iowa City, president of the commerce club.

"With the exception of the nominating method, the election will be carried out in the same manner that the liberal arts elections are conducted," Flatley declared yesterday. "Candidates for offices in the college of commerce will be nominated by the Commerce club two days before the election instead of being nominated by general ballot as is done in the college of liberal arts."

Today marks the beginning of a membership drive for the Commerce club. Members of the club will appear in various commerce classes and will carry on their campaign there.

Two Fraternities Help Iowan Fund

More Money Needed Before Pep Club Has Uniforms

Two more fraternities contributed yesterday to The Daily Iowan fund for new uniforms for cheer leaders. Delta Upsilon gave $3, and members of Phi Kappa Sigma took up a collection totaling $275. These additions make a total to date of $72.61.

While several fraternities and a few societies have donated toward the campaign, many are yet to be heard from. The list of Greek letter houses on the honor roll of the fund should be 100 per cent.

Are some of the chapters going to be backward in helping the student body show its support of the cheer leaders and the football team by withholding contributions? A gift to the fund is a boost for Ingwersen's eleven, for the cheer leaders and the gridiron squad are working toward a common goal—the honor of Old Gold.

Let's finish the fund by Saturday. If every fraternity and sorority makes a prompt donation, the campaign will easily be put over the top.

Flight of "Dawn" Again Postponed

Sioux Citian Chosen as Radio Operator and Navigator

CURTIS FIELD, N. Y., Oct. 4 (P)—The need for a final check of the motors of her amphibian plane "Dawn" before its projected flight to Europe was expected tonight to delay until Thursday or Friday the take-off of Mrs. Frances Wilson Grayson for Old Orchard, Me.

Earlier in the day it was announced that Mrs. Grayson planned a one-stop flight from Old Orchard with Copenhagen, Denmark, as her destination and that she would take off tomorrow for Old Orchard to await favorable weather for the trans-Atlantic flight attempt.

Later, however, it was pointed out that the plane, in attempting the start so far from its base, would have to be in perfect condition before leaving Curtis field and it was said the final adjustment of the motors probably would delay the departure for Maine two or three days.

The flight to Copenhagen was planned by Mrs. Grayson in honor of Mrs. Ancker, of Copenhagen and S. C. Allen, financial backer of the flight who is awaiting arrival of the plane in Denmark.

Mrs. Grayson will be accompanied by Wilmer Stubbs, a native of Altoona, Pa., as pilot and Bruce Goldborough, a native of Sioux City, as navigator and radio operator.

First Frivol Goes on Campus Today

The first issue of Frivol, humorous magazine, will go on sale this morning when members of the Columbia Aircraft corporation of Long Island at a cost of $500,000, a monoplane capable of carrying fifty passengers across the Atlantic.

One of the new features is "Iowan," a takeoff on "Americana," the department of clippings in Mercury. There is also a letter from a college freshman, "As Others See Us," in which campus fraternal organizations are described.

Rhind Boy Still Unconscious States Attending Doctor

Scott A. Rhind, according to reports last evening is still unconscious as a result of the auto accident which occurred Monday morning. He is suffering from a fractured skull.

There is little change in his condition although he is taking some nourishment in the form of liquids.

The boy is the 3-year-old son of the Rev. and Mrs. John G. Rhind. The Rev. Mr. Rhind is pastor of the Presbyterian church.

Injured Driver Improves

The university hospital reports that Earl Eaves, Cedar Rapids youth who was severely injured in the accidental overturning of his truck, is slightly improved.

St. Louis Relief Funds Top Mark

Minimum Property Loss Placed at $50,000,000

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 4 (AP)—The Red Cross fund for relief of tornado sufferers here today passed the $50,000,000 goal, five days after the disaster, and a new goal of $100,000,000 was announced.

Harold M. Bixby, president of the chamber of commerce telegraphed thirty chambers of commerce throughout the country expressing thanks for offers of assistance, but saying St. Louis would provide for its own relief.

Bixby estimated the "total net property loss," in Thursday's tornado at $10,000,000 to $15,000,000 and explained this represented approximately 60 per cent of the loss which was not covered by insurance.

E. E. Christopher, building commissioner, has estimated the minimum property loss at $50,000,000.

A second day of sunshine helped Red Cross workers in their efforts to expedite moving of the 500 or more families still remaining in damaged buildings. The population of the storm zone, which comprises four square miles, was estimated at 52,000.

A total of 186 injured persons remained in hospitals today, of whom only eight were reported in a critical condition.

The coroner's list on dead from tornado injuries totaled 78 for greater St. Louis, or seven less than the number shown in unofficial newspaper tabulations which included several deaths indirectly attributed to the storm.

Sioux Citian Chosen as Radio Operator and Navigator

CURTIS FIELD, N. Y., Oct. 4 (P)—The need for a final check of the motors of her amphibian plane "Dawn" before its projected flight to Europe was expected tonight to delay until Thursday or Friday the take-off of Mrs. Frances Wilson Grayson for Old Orchard, Me.

Earlier in the day it was announced that Mrs. Grayson planned a one-stop flight from Old Orchard with Copenhagen, Denmark, as her destination and that she would take off tomorrow for Old Orchard to await favorable weather for the trans-Atlantic flight attempt.

Later, however, it was pointed out that the plane, in attempting the start so far from its base, would have to be in perfect condition before leaving Curtis field and it was said the final adjustment of the motors probably would delay the departure for Maine two or three days.

The flight to Copenhagen was planned by Mrs. Grayson in honor of Mrs. Ancker, of Copenhagen and S. C. Allen, financial backer of the flight who is awaiting arrival of the plane in Denmark.

Mrs. Grayson will be accompanied by Wilmer Stubbs, a native of Altoona, Pa., as pilot and Bruce Goldborough, a native of Sioux City, as navigator and radio operator.

First Frivol Goes on Campus Today

The first issue of Frivol, humorous magazine, will go on sale this morning when members of the Columbia Aircraft corporation of Long Island at a cost of $500,000, a monoplane capable of carrying fifty passengers across the Atlantic.

One of the new features is "Iowan," a takeoff on "Americana," the department of clippings in Mercury. There is also a letter from a college freshman, "As Others See Us," in which campus fraternal organizations are described.

Rhind Boy Still Unconscious States Attending Doctor

Scott A. Rhind, according to reports last evening is still unconscious as a result of the auto accident which occurred Monday morning. He is suffering from a fractured skull.

There is little change in his condition although he is taking some nourishment in the form of liquids.

The boy is the 3-year-old son of the Rev. and Mrs. John G. Rhind. The Rev. Mr. Rhind is pastor of the Presbyterian church.

Injured Driver Improves

Hydro-airplane Lands in Holland Rather Than Lisbon

NORDERNEY, Germany, Oct. 4 (P)—The first leg of the latest attempt by German aviators to make the westward Atlantic passage by air ended today at Amsterdam, instead of Lisbon as was scheduled. Barely 130 miles from the island field here, where the start was made at 4:46 p. m., yesterday afternoon, the Junker plane came to earth after circling the Dutch metropolis.

The trip to Lisbon and thence to the Azores for the long ocean jump was resumed this morning.

NORDERNEY, Germany, Oct. 4 (P)—German aviators set out at 4:46 o'clock today to make a westward passage across the Atlantic by air. The Junkers hydro-airplane D-1230 took off from this place for the United States, by way of the Azores. A stop will be made at Lisbon, thence to the Azores, where the plane will be refueled for the long span to Harbor Grace, Newfoundland, the American port of destination has not been announced.

The D-1230 in command of Friedrich Loew, who was on the "Bremen" when she made her unsuccessful trans-Atlantic attempt in August, is a low wing Junkers model G-24, with pontoons. It is a twelve passenger plane, the cabin of which has been converted into a fuel storage compartment. The plane carries a complete receiving and sending wireless set and scientific equipment.

A woman passenger was smuggled aboard shortly before the D-1230 took off. She is Mrs. Leila Dillenz, a Viennese actress, and daughter of the painter, Carl Hoeller. No explanation was given of her presence aboard. Two sacks of mail originally put aboard the "Europa" and "Bremen" for the United States, were taken on the D-1230.

Labor Head Praises Existing Restrictive Immigration Policy

Attributes Today's High Wage Scale to Present Law

Business Matters of Labor Meeting Move Slowly

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 4 (AP)—America's chiefs of labor, champions of more drastic immigration laws, heard from the lips of Secretary of Labor James J. Davis today, the statement that the present restrictive law was the greatest piece of legislation enacted in fifty years.

The cabinet officer addressing the convention of the American Federation of Labor, declared that the present scale of wages prevailing in American industries—the highest in history—would have been impossible without it.

Never before, he told them, has American industry been so free from strife as it is today. "We have in America only one serious labor controversy and that will always exist as long as the industry remains in its present condition."

Labor leaders construed the cabinet officer's remarks to pertain to the coal strike.

High Lights of Speech

Other high lights of Secretary Davis' address:

"The business of saving the nation's resources is not primarily the task of labor. We have been wasteful of our natural resources with criminal recklessness."

"We have been a great deal more interested in wealth than commonwealth."

"It is time we put an end to the enormous waste that has been and is still going on."

"An industrial plant is fine for any community if it pays good wages—wages high enough to supply the wage earner's wants."

Progress Slow

"No industry that does not set aside reserves for its future, no industry that pays poor wages, that is nothing but a machine for grinding out dividends for its owners, deserves anything of those who live within its shadow."

Little progress was made today in the real business matters of the convention.

Resolutions in committee for submission to the delegates included:

Demanding the withdrawal of the war fleet and marines from China, Haiti, Nicaragua and other countries occupied by United States armed forces.

Proposing that Mexico, Cuba, Haiti, Panama Canal Zone and independent countries of Central or South America, which are under the non-quota regulations of the immigration law.

Favoring amendment to the Sherman anti-trust law to prevent distortion by court decision.

Coolidge Speaks to Radio Experts

Group Elects Hoover First President of Delegation

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4 (AP)—Counseling a "policy of candid discussion, generous conciliation and wide cooperation," so that radio may contribute beneficial public service, President Coolidge today inaugurated the International Radio-Telegraphic conference.

He addressed more than 400 delegates and expects from seventy countries and forty-one communications companies who unanimously acclaimed Secretary Hoover, chairman of the American delegation, president of the conference. Mr. Hoover was nominated by G. J. Hofker, delegate from the Netherlands.

Coolidge Urges Cooperation

"In many fields our country claims the right to be the master of its own independent development," President Coolidge told the conference. "It cordially concedes the same right to all others. But in the radio field the most complete development both at home and abroad, lies in mutual concessions and cooperation."

"Like every invention which increases the power of man, it may be used for good or evil. It can serve the cause of understanding and friendship among nations, or it can be used to create ill will and dissension. The world will not be benefited by this increase in the scope of its power unless there is corresponding increase in moral development."

Danger of Uncoordinated Traffic. Secretary Hoover reminded the conference of the deficiency of existing international radio regulations by which the world, he said, "was threatened with chaos of uncoordinated traffic."

To accommodate the enormous number of radio activities among the available frequencies and to avoid interference, Secretary Hoover said the apportionment of radio frequency bands for each service, was necessary.

S. B. Davis, one of the American delegates, was nominated vice-president of the convention.

An Experiment in Traffic Laws

SPEED limits are generally considered to be an advantage, probably because they are about the only means ever tried to prevent accidents on a runway.

It is commonly known, however, that motorists do not adhere to a 35-mile an hour speed limit. And the conventional thing that legislators do when faced with such flouting of any law, is to deliver diatribes against the spirit of law breaking.

They satisfy their own sense of public righteousness, but accomplish little practical effect.

The Michigan legislature recently tried another means of preventing accidents. It decided to specify no speed limit at all, providing merely that a driver must have his car under complete control at all times in order to drive safely through traffic.

The regulation reads as follows: "No person shall drive any vehicle upon a highway at a speed greater than will permit him to stop within the assured clear distance ahead."

This law takes care not only of the reckless fast driver, but also for the reckless motorist who causes accidents even when driving a notch or two below the speed limit.

With such a law in effect officers and citizens have a chance to practice a little common sense and human judgment. The mechanical and detailed theory of regulation leaves little for this practice.

The Price of Art

A SPANISH violinist, 21 years old, committed suicide because he could not make a living except by jazz, and he preferred death to the desecration of his art.

This is only another instance of unappreciated genius. The world has known many such cases. Unappreciated critics made Keats miserable; Burns was considered an uncouth clod by the court circle.

An alleged incident at a meeting of barbers in a neighboring state shows the American brand of thorns for artists' flesh. A violinist of note had been invited to play before the gathering. He played beautifully, his eyes lighting with an inward glow. This was dispelled, however, when one of the gathering said impatiently, "That may be all right for music—but I don't care for music. Let's tell some dirty stories."

The callousness of mediocrity, unsympathetic rather than unkindly, oppresses the artist. The penalty for a sensitive nature is too often eternal suffering, or a self defense of misanthropic cynicism.

Yet why should a superior mind suffer from inferior criticism? A complete intellect should be its own sphere without regard for praise or blame arising elsewhere. How much better it would be if true artists could disregard criticisms of the mentally unequipped and go their way seeking to enrich the lives of future generations which may rise to their level.

Among Lesser Evils

THE London Evening Standard is to be commended for its campaign against the tipping evil. That newspaper contends that no man is worth more than his hire and that his services should be paid for at a set rate. It points out that tipping is the logical outgrowth of underpaid employes and comments on the fact that, in certain restaurants, the head waiter actually buys the privilege of holding his exalted position.

The Standard sees a remedy, but a remedy that is as ridiculous as the system itself. It cites many cases on the continent where hotel keepers have posted notices of tipping rates and that guests are requested to tip no more than the set requirements. The hotel keepers assure the guests that service will not be rendered on the basis of the amount of the tip.

The only fallacy with the above plan is that certain well-to-do guests, secure in the belief that they can get better service by a larger tip, will continue calmly in their old paths of wickedness. They are usually right; better service is to be had.

Australia, where a living wage is assured employes by government decree, is one of the worst victims of the system. And that seems to put the stamp of disapproval on paying the public caterer a standard remuneration. Iowa, where tipping is as general as most other places, has among its too many statutes a law decreeing "no tips." But the unsatisfactory results of this law are only too manifest. The law cannot enforce legislation that citizens persist in not recognizing.

The only remedy, and probably weak inasmuch as it is educational, is an appeal to the tipping public. No master-strokes, no "anti-tipping week," no sudden stratagem—but a slow and steady inoculation of the citizen with the theory that service is a commodity which should be manufactured and sold by the innkeeper in the same manner that a chicken dinner is sold over the table.

A Good Sport

WILLIAM T. (BIG BILL) TILDEN, dean of the world's tennis stars for so many years in succession, lost his second title in as many years in the Davis cup tourney to Rene LaCoste, the marvelous Frenchman. With his defeat went the Davis cup, the highest premium in world tennis, to France.

Nevertheless in both victory and defeat Tilden has always exemplified to the world the finest thing in sportsmanship. A few years ago he faced this same LaCoste in the first of his important matches against that opponent. "Big Bill" was suffering at the time, from an injured knee, which hampered his play to a great degree and forced him to favor the injured member.

Even so Tilden displayed fighting strength and when the match was over and the victory assured for LaCoste, "Big Bill" congratulated his rival and gamely ran from the court. He gave no evidence of a physical disability. Yet Tilden was badly hurt and had been suffering from the beginning of play. Yet he offered no alibi, no excuse. He had merely lost.

By running from the court Tilden displayed what every true American is always trying to maintain—good sportsmanship. Throughout the match the American star had continually winced under the pain of his injured leg, yet he did not complain, nor was the gallery of some 12,000 spectators at any time conscious of his injury. Tilden is the finest type of sport. Noble in defeat, calm in victory he typifies the substantial old proverb, "Let he who takes part in sport feel assurance in victory but let the assurance be his own. Let him be calm in defeat and let him sense it likewise."

"Go Slowly"

SIGNS in front of school houses warn motorists to "go slow." Then the pupils are expected to distinguish between an adjective and an adverb in the classroom. Their sentences in language class must read, "Go slowly."

This serves to make a distinction between the work of the school room and that of everyday life. A pupil loses his ardor if he thinks that he is learning unnecessary lessons. How can he realize that he is studying valuable material in school if it is contradicted at the first step outside of the door?

There is irony in pointing out the school with an illiterate marker. It is a jibe at the fruits of education. Near the school yard, at least, the knowledge which teachers drum so tirelessly into childish heads should be respected. For the sake of the children, let us ask the motorists to "drive slowly."

An 82-year-old woman in Tennessee has never seen an automobile. Another reason for longevity!

Frats and Frates

(From The Cornell Daily Sun)

Each year we vow "Never Again!" as the rushing season draws to a close and each year the rushing period becomes more intense, more desperate, and debased as over three score of fraternities pawn off high-speed salesmanship on the innocent freshmen. Although two days of rushing have passed we have heard a number of complaints, some of them justified and some of them inane. Under the present fraternity system rushing must necessarily be haphazard and more or less open and unregulated. There are, however, several suggestions that if adopted might make hell-week more livable.

In the first place, dates with freshmen should be limited. Quite often one fraternity which happens to interview the candidate first will fill two or three days with engagements, prohibiting the freshmen from visiting other houses. Second, rushing engagements should not last more than two hours. This would give a freshman an opportunity to obtain some quiet and rest from the incessant haranguing of upperclassmen.

Pledging should be done by written invitation only. Too often unsuspecting freshmen accept a button before they are aware of it or before they can avoid the clever oral traps of fluent rushers. Greater penalties should be imposed for violation of the rushing rules. A number of despicable persons who have no place in a university are continually performing mean deeds such as destroying calling cards of other fraternities or, worse, defaming another organization.

We will go on from year to year miring ourselves in the mud of utility unless the right thinking members of the Interfraternity association meet and consider these or similar suggestions with an aim to make rushing more human and endurable.

THE HOURS

Black eyed,
Voluptuous—
But not sinful . . .
In the halls
Of heaven
Are the hours . . .

Symmetrical bodies
Bathing in pools
Of milk and Roses—
Are the hours . . .

Soft, rippling music
Of dreams and
Love,
Singing, silver voices
With gold . . . Cymbals,
Felicity . . .
In the garden of Allah,
Are the hours . . .

Allah made them,
For you and I,
If . . . we behave
On earth . . .

Advertising — As a Game

One thing leads to another, in advertising, as well as in column-conducting, and the instructor was emphasizing efficiency of certain sorts of ads. Apparently, one young gentleman of the class was wondering why so many ads carry portraits of members of the weaker sex, and the instructor was on the explanatory end of the argument.

"Well, it's just natural," he said. "Everybody likes to look at a pretty girl—especially if her dress is a little short." (General snicker.) "That is . . . now . . . well, you can draw your own conclusions."

And then came the instructor's innings.

"Mr. Blank," he said, "suppose you were composing an advertisement for soap. Would you have a pretty girl?"

"Oh, assuredly," replied Mr. Blank. "And where would you put her?" "Well, now," responded Mr. Blank after considerable thought on the matter, "I reckon the logical place would be someplace in the vicinity of a bar of soap under the caption—'99 44-100 per cent Pure.'"

It was materia medica, and the medical lads were grinding up bitter almonds. Now bitter almonds are supposed, when stale, to have a certain amount of cyanide—and yet, oblivious to all danger marks, an Alpha Kappa Kappa lad was calmly eating the fool things.

"Don't do that," warned a class-mate hysterically, "they're poison." "Aw, they ain't either," replied the sophomore, in line with the unsusceptibility of his fraternity. "You can't feed me that line."

"All right, all right, ask the prof, then?" returned the class-mate— which course of action the A.K.K. immediately followed.

"I say, doctor, are these almonds poison?" The professor smoothed his chin.

"Well, I wouldn't say they were poison exactly," he replied, "but we dose 'em with chloroform to kill the magots."

And, too, according to the young lady who calls herself the Chicago Kid, there's the lecturer who absent-mindedly drops a piece of chalk and then steps on it.

As a last wistful line she informs us that she is a good-looking brunette and has "it." Now! what do you suppose she means by IT?

Joe College in Paris
He was with this perigrinating university that takes eight months and $1500 to get around the world. And he had stopped at Paris where he visited a stationery shop.

"I want some post-cards," he admitted, gazing fondly at a number which were fancifully engraved.

"How's this one?" The clerk submitted a card of various rainbow hues.

"Hm." The student paused and translated the inscription—TO THE ONLY GIRL I EVER LOVED.

"Well, all right, I guess. I'll take eight of 'em."

U High News Notes

Edna Patzig, instructor in graphic and plastic arts, has charge of the Saturday art class which meets weekly at the University high school from 9 to 9:30 a. m. There is no particular course of study and each student follows his own individual preference. The class is open to anyone and is still open for enrollment.

A large number of new Underwood typewriters will replace the old ones which have been in use for three years.

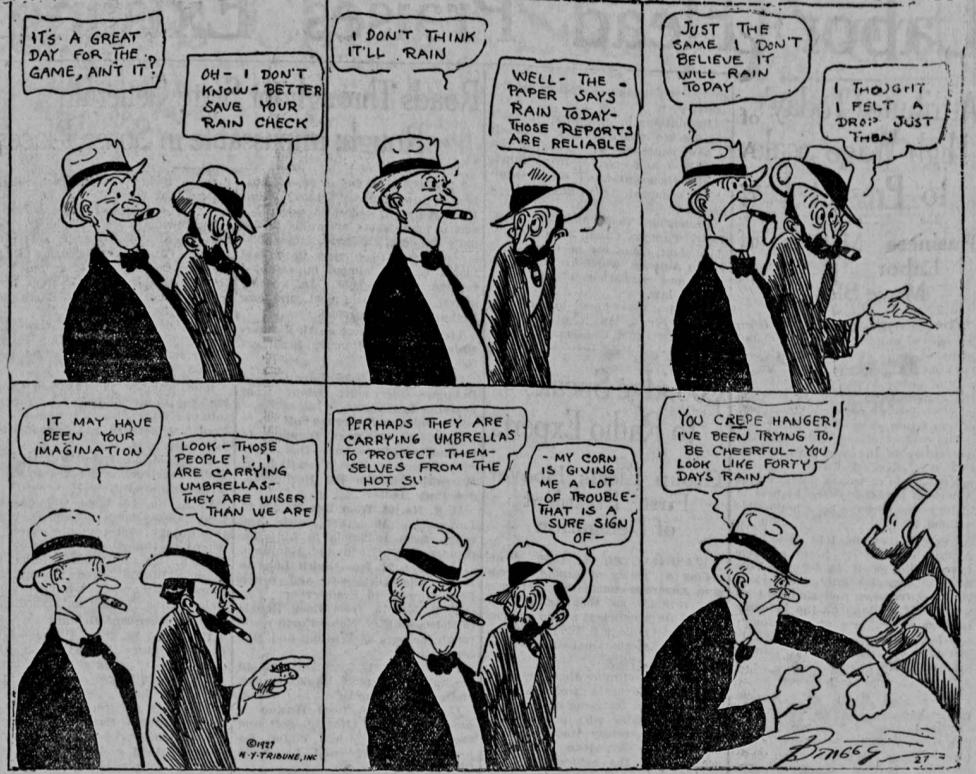

The first issue of U-Hi Life, the school paper published by the students of University high will make its appearance Friday. Adeline Taylor, 44 of Savannah, Ill., is supervising the publication. Ruth Weller is editor-in-chief of the paper, and Gerald Young is business manager.

The high school radio program for Oct. 5 is a group of soprano solos by Mrs. Margaret Ayres. Gerald Young, president of the student council of University high, will speak on "The student council from the viewpoint of a pupil."

These programs are arranged by the University high school, and are broadcast every Wednesday morning at 9:10 from station WSHF.

The Book World

By Edith M. Cobeen

MEANWHILE, by H. G. Wells; New York, George H. Doran company. $2.

"Meanwhile" is primarily a discussion of post-war conditions in Europe, social, political, and religious. The plot is of secondary importance, portraying a crucial period in the lives of a married couple who save themselves from the maze of triviality and intolerance which threatens to engulf them.

Many persons, Mr. Wells thinks, are "meanwhileing"; waiting inertly, that is, for an age of happiness which will come only after generations of people have really lived, facing responsibility and solving problems, instead of shoving them on to a weaker group.

The author probes into English political conditions at the time of the general strike, giving his views through the lips of a young man of wealthy family who is studying labor conditions from a sense of fairness, unbiased by his own interests. His sympathy rests with the overworked, underpaid laborer in English mines, although he satirizes the strike because even the strikers have no idea for what they are working.

Mr. Wells fills the book with allusions to contemporary events and persons. Officials are designated by name and position, while their various idiosyncrasies are analyzed with penetrating humor.

In contrast to the author's group of intellectuals who spread his own propaganda, is a group of shallow-brained tea hounds whose highest type of conversation is comparing notes on different tennis matches and "expressing opinions about the ankles of Miss Wills and the terrible and scandalous dispute about billy, and whether Suzanne was ever likely to marry."

"Meanwhile" is decidedly worth reading. There is probably more propaganda than the book as a work of art warrants; the writing seems often hurried; but through it all there are characters with articulate and unacknowledged ideas on modern problems.—Elizabeth Amlie.

U. S. Mail School Begins Enrollment for October Term

ATLANTA, Oct. 3 (AP)—The U. S. Mail School's largest correspondence school—that of the United States army—is preparing for a new term.

Twenty-six thousand persons from all walks of life took the courses last year and officers predict an even greater enrollment for the term beginning today and ending May 31, 1928.

"The war department has resorted to correspondence school methods of augmenting its other means of instruction and as a step toward making the United States army, with its meagre force of regulars, a live, vital force, abreast with modern developments," says Major G. H. Franke, of the general staff, attached to the fourth corps area.

"With the citizen soldier always forming the bulwark of our national defense, the bulk of enrollment comes from among the 110,000 reserve officers and the 12,000 national guard officers now carried on the rolls of the United States army and to be found in every corner of the country."

Many regular army officers and enlisted men also take the courses, which include basic and advanced studies in all branches of military science. Virtually all text books are loaned and students incur little or no expense.

Courses and examinations are generally prepared in the service schools of the army and distributed to the corps areas for conduct. Officers of the regular army grade the papers. Students in the organized reserves receive credit on the required number of hours of work they take.

"Our correspondence schools," Major Franke says, "keep us in touch with thousands of reserves, acquaint them with the latest developments in military matters. It has grown to be the world's largest educational institution."

Homecoming Committee Plans Unveiling of Kirkwood Statue

The unveiling of a statue of Governor Samuel Jordan Kirkwood, the Civil war governor of Iowa, which has been presented to the university by Gen. Richard L. Hoxie, is to be a feature of the ceremonies which will take place on Homecoming. The statue will be placed in Old Capitol to gratify the wish of the wife of the governor.

Shortly after the presentation of the original to the government by the state of Iowa an effort was made by his friends to have a replica erected in the university. Vinnie Ream Hoxie, the sculptress and a close friend of Mrs. Kirkwood, asked to present the statue, but died before arrangements had been made. It is her husband, General Hoxie, an alumnus of the university, who presents it now. The sculptress made her summer home in Iowa City for many years and is known here.

Organized Party
Governor Kirkwood, a native of Ohio, first came to Iowa in 1855. The following year he was prominent in the organization of the republican party of Iowa which took place in Iowa City. He served as a member of the state legislative body for two years, at which time, in 1859, he was elected governor. It was due to the vigorous and uncompromising patriotism of this man that Iowa won the enviable reputation for loyalty that she did during the war period.

He was a close personal friend of Abraham Lincoln and served as a member of the governor's advisory council with which Lincoln consulted so often. After the two terms that he served as governor he was elected to the United States senate and during Garfield's administration acted as secretary of the interior. After this career of public service he returned to his home in Iowa City and died in 1894.

Portrays Likeness
The sculptress, Vinnie Ream, is noted most widely for her statue of Abraham Lincoln which stands in the rotunda of the Capitol building. The statue was enlarged, after the death of the president, from a bust of him which she had made at the age of sixteen. The president, a personal friend of the young girl, had sat for her in the hope of helping her to gain some recognition for her work. It is thought now that in all her work there is shown an amazing ability to portray likeness.

The statue of Governor Kirkwood, portrays him in a relaxed standing position. It has been cast from the original plaster model which stands in the Hoxie studio and from which the one in Washington was taken.

The unveiling will take place in Old Capitol some time on Saturday morning, Nov. 5. Arrangements for the details of the ceremony are in charge of Prof. Louis Pelzer and Prof. Charles F. Ward, and will be announced with the complete program for Homecoming, which will appear at a later date.

Becky

A Serial of the Price of Glory
by RAYNOR SELIG

What Has Happened So Far
Becky McClosky, young good-looking trying to make her way alone in New York, finds herself without a position on New Year's Eve. Dan Scarlett, who lives by his wits, sees her huddled in a doorway, and persuades her to go to dinner with him. He kisses her. She slaps his face and threatens to brain him with a bottle. Scarlett sees Becky in a new light. She tells him she has no money and no prospects. Then she sings a little song for him. Scarlett realizes that she has a beautiful voice and makes a bargain to finance her until she gets started if she will let him share her profits.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

crooked heel of her right shoe snapped in the middle, and Becky, picking herself up amid the bravos of a few late revellers, regarded the wreckage of her shabby costume and concluded her song with the ironic epilogue: "I guess all that's a long way off yet!"

So Becky came to the fourth floor back, and turned a loose door-knob, and came into her home. There she lighted the stub of a candle—for candles were cheaper than gas—and, bending down, called softly: "Here Kitty, Kitty, Kitty."

It was not cheering, this room. There was something bleak, even something forbidden in the decayed remnants of tawdry splendor. The woodwork of the window, once or twice gilded to its last curling leaf, had come loose from the molding, so that a knife-edge of cold wind stirred the candle flame.

Where bright curtains had been there was now a frayed green shade, hanging at a rakish angle. The wall paper, covered with bouquets of hidous roses in maroon and greenish yellow, had peeled from the walls in some places, while in others the flowers, of a color that was more fast than it was pretty, had faded or smeared from the damp that seeped in from outside.

The furnishings were meagre. A table, an insultingly flawed mirror, a row of books along one side of the room, and iron bedstead with a thin, sagging mattress, and one rickety chair.

On the chair, with her feet stuck out and her head hanging awkwardly to one side, sat Charlotte Russe, rag-doll, boon companion of Becky who had come like Charlotte herself, out of the slums.

In the midst of these surroundings, her pale face and shining eyes illuminated by the flickering candle-light, Becky crouched on her heels, calling softly: "Here Kitty Kitty Kitty!"

And presently there emerged from beneath the bed, with graceful tread and gently waving tail, a black kitten, as thin and poor looking as her owner, but still proud, mysterious, and mottled with snow and confetti shrouded and sang and quarreled. Becky smiled confidently and shouted greetings to strangers. What matter that yesterday she went hungry? Last night she had been fed, and tomorrow she was to have her great chance, the chance for which she had not dared to hope, the chance to be heard, to sing!

She climbed the slippery brown-stone stairs of the boarding house gaily, her head in the air, singing under her breath:

"I'll have stockings of silk,
Shoes of fine green leather,
Combs to buckle my hair,
And a ring for every finger . . ."

On the top step she slipped, the

These she placed on the floor beside a saucer of stale, dusty water, and having ascertained that the kitten was enjoying its handsome fare, she turned to the rag doll.

"Charlotte Russe, my pastry faced lovely," she said, bowing to her companion, "I have brought you a most magnificent banquet of fine promises or what have you." Then, her quickly beginning to tremble, she quickly buried her face in the doll's lap. "Oh Charlotte, Charlotte," she wailed. "If only we're good and brave everything will come out right. And you're to have silk stockings, my darling, and a new coat of paint on your face, and a dress of finest velvet, and a string of honest to goodness rubies, yes you are. And mother's to sing and sing, and make people laugh and cry, and have her heart's desire. Isn't she, Charlotte, isn't she now?"

Becky lifted her head and looked at the doll, but the doll, her head hanging awkwardly on one side, made no sign of comprehension. Suddenly, for the first time since she had picked the thing out of a muddy alley, Becky felt her deadness, her uselessness.

"Charlotte," she said sadly, "You're a terrible dumbbell." Then she stood up, sighed, and began to unfasten her clothes. The room was cold, and she shivered as she sponged herself with icy water from the basin on the table. Then, noting that a cold greyish light was beginning to glimmer outside of the window, she blew out the candle, and kneeling beside her bed prayed aloud:

"Dear God, please let this be a prosperous New Year for Kitty and Charlotte and me. Please let me sing well and have enough to eat, and please, please dear God, let me meet Mr. Charge account number 366892, and to be worthy of his love and respect. Thank you dear God. Amen."

Then she crept into bed, and the room was silent except for the purring of Kitty, and the faint whistle of the wind in the chimneys.

And Becky slept, not in her dream that her prayers would be granted did any whisper of destiny unfold the secret of the price of fulfillment.

Stock Recovery Brought to Halt by Selling Wave

NEW YORK, Oct. 4 (P)—The recovery in stock prices which has been under way since last Friday, came to an abrupt halt today, when a flood of selling orders swept through the market and carried prices down in precipitous fashion. A wild outburst of buying in early trading carried nearly two score issues to record high levels, several of them five to eleven points above yesterday's final quotations, but these gains were substantially reduced, or wiped out and in many cases converted into net declines of three to six points. Total sales crossed 3,000,000 shares for the first time this year, with the stock exchange ticker at one time twenty-one minutes behind the market.

Although the sensational character of the early advance led to heavy profit-taking by conservative traders, the big selling movement launched by bear traders followed the marking up of the call money rate from 4 to 4 1/2 per cent, coincident with the calling of about $20,000,000 in bank loans. Several of the larger commission houses had urged their customers to take profits on the theory that the market was entitled to at least a technical reaction, and selling from this source swelled the volume of offerings.

After the market closed, the New York stock exchange made public its monthly report of brokers' loans showing the somewhat startling increase of approximately $241,000,000 in September, bringing the total at the end of that month to a new high record of $3,914,627,570, as compared with $3,218,937,910 at the end of September 1926, and a new low of $2,767,499,514 in May, 1926.

One-sixth of the day's tremendous volume of business was transacted in the new stock of the General Motors corporation, total sales of which

Bonds Hesitate, Develop Reactionary Tendencies

NEW YORK, Oct. 4 (P)—After continuing their recent rise in the early trading, bond prices hesitated late today, and in many instances, developed reactionary tendencies.

Various issues which had continued their march into new high territory, turned sharply about following hardening in the money market when banks called some $25,000,000 in loans. Volume of sales reached the highest total in several weeks.

Strength of the Italian issues was the outstanding feature. The government 7s and City of Milan 6 1/2s advanced to 98 1/2 and 92 1/2, respectively, while governmental 7 1/2s and Rome 6 1/2s gained strength from large buying orders. Belgian bonds also displayed a firm tone, particularly the 7s, which sold at their best price of the year.

exceeded half a million shares. The stock dropped from a record high of 141 to 135 1/2, and then snapped back to 137 1/2 off 1 1/2. The 4 1/2 stock tumbled from 23 1/2 to 22 1/2, closing 4 1/2 net lower at 27 1/2. General Electric fell from 140 1/2 to 136 1/2, and then re-bounded to 137 1/2, where it was up 2 1/2 points net.

Establishment of a new post-war high by sterling exchange at $4.86 1/2 for cables on London, featured the firm foreign exchange market. Japanese yen jumped ten points, regaining most of yesterday's loss, but the other advances were nominal.

Material Upturn in Wheat Prices Account Reports

CHICAGO, Oct. 4 (P)—Delays to threshing in Canada and to seeding in this country led to a national upturn in wheat prices today. Reports were current that as a result of persistent unfavorable weather, not more than 25 per cent of Canadian threshing has been done and that seeding of domestic winter wheat is much later than usual, especially in Kansas.

Closing quotations on wheat were firm, 1/2 to 1c net higher, with corn 1/2 to 3/4c off, oats 1/2 to 3/4c up, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 20c.

Snow-falls and rain were reported to be constantly interfering with the progress of Canadian threshers, and curtailing to a serious extent the time available for the main movement of Canadian wheat before the close of lake navigation. Besides, fears were expressed that the unfavorable weather prevailing would result in an unusual percentage of Canadian wheat being of tough grade.

Forecasts of lower temperatures and rain, with probable snow in places gave considerable strength at times to the corn market. Besides, receipts were the smallest in some time, selling increased on the upturn in prices, though, and gains were wiped out at the last.

Corn was under pressure at the start, but a lively upturn followed.

The bulge met a lot of selling, however, and prices eased off again. Receipts were only twenty cars.

Primary arrivals were 309,000 bushels, as against 447,000 bushels a year ago. There were rains in Iowa and northern Illinois, with the forecast for rain or snow and cooler weather west and northwest.

CHICAGO, Oct. 4 (P)—Cash wheat offerings were light. Receipts inspected for the day, twenty-seven cars, demand fairly good. Trading basis unchanged, firm. Prices steady to 1c better. Local sales 30,000 bushels. Warehouse receipts cancelled for the shipment of 56,595 bushels No. 2 red and hard. Deliveries on October contracts today, 10,000 bushels; warehouse estimated export sales of wheat at 250,000 bushels.

Corn offerings were also small. Receipts inspected showed only twenty cars. Prices advanced 1/4c trading limits, steady to 1c higher. Local sales, 59,000 bushels, deliveries were 12,000 bushels. Booked to arrive, 7,000 bushels, and there were sales of 25,000 bushels to go to store. Cancellations, 240,906 bushels.

Country Club to Hold Tournament for Golf Players

The Iowa City Country club will hold a 36 holes-open tournament Sunday Oct. 9, on the Country club golf links. The defending champion of 1926 is George Frohwein, 128 E. Davenport street.

A nine hole qualifying round-medal play will be from 8 a. m. to 10 a. m., played in flights of eight. The second nine holes will be a match play to reduce the number of players, flights from eight to four. The third nine holes is the semi-final match play starting at 1 p. m. This will be in flights of four. The final match play will be the last nine holes.

There are no reservations being made, according to the committee, George Frohwein, chairman, Chas. Ward, and Glenn Griffith. There will be a flight for every one and three prizes awarded for each flight. The tournament will be played in foursomes.

... BOWLING ...

Only two games were held in the Elks' bowling league last night, the Pirates defeating the Yanks all three sets while the Senators defeated the Cubs the same number.

High total for one game went to the Senators who topped 811 pins. High total for the three games also went to the Senators, tipping over 2,356 mapples.

Hogan of the Senator team won the high individual total for one game with 203. McInnery copped the high honors for the three games, scoring 519 pins. His teammate, Hogan who knocked over 501, was a good second.

Southpaw Injured by Line Drive in Batting Practice

Plans to Work Out Today Before First Game of Series

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 4 (AP)—Herb Pennock, southpaw star of the New York Yankees' pitching staff, injured during batting practice today, will be able to pitch Friday's game of the world's series in New York, Dr. J. R. Sholl, of St. Petersburg, Fla., announced tonight.

The injury to Pennock's leg, Doctor Sholl said, was not nearly so serious as had been first supposed. The swelling was going down rapidly and there was scarcely a mark to show where Pennock had been hit, the physician said.

Pennock, who has yet to lose a world series game, will be able to work out at Forbes field before the opening game tomorrow and will have entirely recovered for service on Friday should the hurling assignment be given him, Sholl added.

Pennock was pitching during Yankee batting practice today when a line drive by Cedric Durst, substitute outfielder, struck him above the knee, bursting a blood vessel. The veteran southpaw kept his feet but was in great pain as he limped to the club house. It was feared for a time that he would be out of the series entirely.

Pirates Even Choice

Ray Kremer, husky Californian ace of the Pirate staff, will oppose Waite Hoyt, the leading Yankee flinger, in tomorrow's opening skirmish. They have been slated for the job right along and the rival managers made their selection definite today.

The second game is due to pit Wiley Moore, the Yankee "sinker ball" star, against the Hoosier schoolmaster, Vic Aldridge, while Urban Shocker, Yankee veteran, and Carmen Hill, bespectacled corsair curver, appear likely choices for the third game in New York Friday.

Due to the confidence of Pirate rooters in Kremer, the National leaguers were an even choice tonight against their American league rivals for the opening game, but the Yankees remained slight favorites to capture the series.

The tremendous punch in the Yankee bats, particularly those of Babe Ruth and Lou Gehrig, is the factor expected to count most in New York's favor. The exhibitions of the Babe especially have impressed all observers, besides striking no little apprehension in the hearts of the Corsair fans.

Pirates Confident

Ruth, fresh from his record-breaking campaign, is "hot," the players and critics admit; as confident and sure of eye as he ever has been in his sensational career. In two turns at the plate this afternoon, the Babe shelled three balls into the right field grand stands, his pet target and hammered one mammoth drive to the top of the deep center field fence. Gehrig was able to put only one out of the field, but "Columbia Lou" is regarded as just as about as likely to break up a ball game as the Babe.

Yankee bats and Pirate pitching arms monopolize the advance "dope" but there are other factors that contribute to prospects of a close and exciting tussle for baseball's main rewards in fame and gold.

The Pirates, a young, confident and speedy array, go into the series with the same "do or die" spirit that carried them to victory in one of the National league's closest races. The Yankees, winning their own pennant without much serious

Baseball Men to Report at 4:00

Fall baseball candidates, after a lapse of two weeks because of the bad weather conditions, are asked to report to Coach John Beardsley on the diamond west of the field house for practice at 4 o'clock today.

Coach Beardsley is anxious that every man report as the coming of cold weather will soon drive the aspirants indoors. Practice games will probably be held this week, providing weather conditions are favorable.

Schroeder Plans Special Work for Graduate Students

Athletics for graduate students is to soon become a reality, according to E. G. Schroeder, director of men's physical training.

Soccer football, basket ball, and several other games will be on the list of events planned for the graduate students, says Mr. Schroeder. A number of graduate students have been asking about getting into some kind of athletic work, but none is provided for them yet. It will be some time yet before a program of this kind can be put into operation, mostly on account of the great amount of work that the athletics department has to handle this fall

Local Fans Predict Bush's Men Will Outwit Yanks

By LELAND E. SKELLEY

Yankees or Pirates, which will it be? Who is going to amble off with the coveted world's championship? Will the murderous bats of Ruth, Gehrig, Meusel, and Combs carry too potent a wallop for the brilliant pitching staff of the National league entry?

Nobody knows, nor will know for a week, during which time the process of crowning a new world's champion will create more controversy than did the famous "I do not choose to run" message in August.

Overlook Yank's Record
At every gathering of sport fans the topic of discussion is either the probability of an Iowa victory Saturday or the respective merits of the Yankees and Pirates. Regardless of New York's remarkable record, undoubtedly the most imposing in all baseball history, the Pirates are the ruling favorites among Iowa City fans.

The majority assert that Donnie Bush's men are too smart for the slow-thinking Yankees. Likewise New York fans are certain that Babe and Lou, ably assisted by the other members of the well known murderer's row, will break up the series with their big bats.

Walker Likes Pirates
An interview with Iowa City fans brought forth the following comments:

Doc Feisler: "I don't give a rap about baseball right now, but I have a hunch the Pirates will win."

Ed Walker, coach of the ends, is a National league man and feels this way about the series: "I am a National league man and feel that the Pirates will win. The Yankees with Ruth and Gehrig are always dangerous, but if the Pittsburgh pitchers can hold Babe and Lou, I predict a National league victory."

Frank Wiekhorst, who is helping Ingwersen with the Iowa line, is also a Pirate enthusiast. He remarked, "I'm like Ed, a National league man, and believe Bush's men will out smart the Yankees."

Ingwersen Admitted He wasn't much of a baseball fan, but insists he has his right of opinion which consisted of a trite expression merely saying, "The Yankees."

Coach Ingwersen is a Yankee supporter. He was quite emphatic in remarking, "The Yankees, but I am not worrying about that right now."

Baseball Coach Vogel who gave up a bright career with the Chicago Cubs to coach Iowa to its first Big Ten baseball championship, retains his loyalty to the National league by predicting a Pittsburgh victory.

Pirates Hold Edge
Since Coaches Barry and Williams are known to be American league fans there will be many a hot argument in Racine's No. 2.

Coast Brothers: "We think the Pirates will win, that's all."

Harry Bremer: "The Yanks are going to win, but it will be no walk-away, because the Pirates have some good pitchers."

Mr. Maruth: "Yanks were doped of win last year, but Pittsburgh has a stronger team this year than the Yank's had last year."

Slavata's are backing the Pirates. They say, "The Pirates have the best infield, better catchers, and the best reserve strength. Neither of the first basemen are outstanding, both are there because they can hit. The outfield is a toss-up. We pick the Pirates to win."

Yetter Says I'll be Close
Mr. Yetter: "If Babe Ruth and Gehrig can hit those good Pirate pitchers they'll win. Anyhow, it is going to be a close series."

Williams of Iowa Supply: "The Yanks will win. Babe and Gehrig will do their stuff. It takes hitters to win a ball game."

And so it goes down to Mayor Carroll who admits he isn't interested. Today the two clubs get in action at Pittsburgh. Who'll win? Gosh, we don't know, do you?

Ingwersen Drills Iowa Candidates on Ohio System

Varsity Stops Frosh Eleven on Buckeye Formations

Ohio State offensive formations executed by the freshmen eleven were for naught yesterday as Coach Burton A. Ingwersen sent his University of Iowa piskin aspirants through a long scrimmage. The varsity forward wall was like stone and the frosh backs were far from successful as they emulated Eby, Grimm, Houston, et al.

With Mayes McLain, highly touted Haskell Institute star, in their lineup, the frosh aggregation was expected to give the varsity a stiff tussle, but against the veteran line they could do nothing. Clad in a red jersey, the hue of those which the Buckeyes will wear Saturday, McLain attempted to skirt the ends, hit the line and forward pass. Very few of the frosh were successful.

Glassgow Gets Runs
Both the varsity line and backfield showed better yesterday than at any time this season. Before the scrimmage with the Ohio State imitators, Coach Vogel sent another group of yearlings in to test the Ohio defense against Iowa plays. But the varsity offense did not test them, because with Glassgow skirting the ends and hitting the line, the varsity reeled off yard after yard. Glassgow, stocky halfback, got several long runs and averaged close to twenty yards every time he took the ball.

The end problem, as well as the punting department, also received their share of attention. That Burt is dissatisfied with the work of his ends stands out all the more because he has shifted Myers back to his old backfield post and has tried "Bab" Cuhel at the flank position. Yesterday, two sophomores, Carlson and Cooley, played the entire game against the freshmen. Both men did exceptional work, especially when on the defensive.

Carlson or Cuhel?
Carlson, who holds the title of being the rangiest man on the squad with his 6 feet 4 inches, played the same game that stamped him as a good defensive end in the Monmouth tilt. Cuhel, whose work as an end while attending Washington high school at Cedar Rapids attracted much attention, also showed up well. If Cuhel can be developed on defensive work he is almost sure to be in there as he is good in snaring forward passes and also has more than enough speed which a flank man must possess.

The problem of finding a punter still confronts Burt, and judging from the showing of the men yesterday, it will prove to be the weakest point. Burt will not worry over his guards, tackles or center, and the end situation now is much brighter than it has been at any time during the present season.

Should Cuhel or Cooley play end, they will do the punting against the Buckeyes, but if neither of these men are in the lineup, Smith will get the call.

Skelley, who is still underweight, no doubt will see action against the Wilco coached aggregation although he probably will not be in the opening lineup. Much doubt is still expressed over the condition of Johnson, but chances are that he will be ready for relief duty.

Iowa Grid Notes

A special train will bring the Ohio State football team and a host of fans to Iowa Field Saturday. The Buckeye contingent leaves Columbus Thursday night and arrives in Cedar Rapids the following noon. On Coe Field, the gridlers will take a light drill in the afternoon. The entire group will journey down to Iowa City Saturday morning.

All steam railroads in Iowa are offering reduced rates of one fare for round trip to Iowa City for the Ohio State-Iowa football game Saturday. It is the occasion of Dad's Day and Iowa Day at the State University, as well as the time of the year's first Big Ten game.

The big "43" on the back of "Spike" Nelson's football jersey, means as much to the Iowa captain as "77" did to Harold Grange a few years ago. Nelson wore it last fall, and made several all-American teams. Number 15 was assigned to him this season but he refused to wear it, and will carry the old familiar figures.

Mayes McLain, the former Haskell Indian star, now a student at the University of Iowa, is helping to prepare the varsity football team for the Ohio State game. McLain, who is not yet eligible, impersonated Byron Eby, the great Buckeye halfback, on the freshman team which scrimmages Ingwersen's athletes.

Grinnell Drills
GRINNELL, Oct. 4 (P)—Fair skies for the first time in ten days favored the Grinnell college football squad and the men lined up for a good afternoon's work. A series of new formations was tried against the frosh. In these offense and defense plays were featured. Barnes, a promising guard, was used in the place of Cleveland who is ill. Macy and Locke were in the backfield, replacing Rose and Leitke, who are out with injuries.

J. Hinman Returns from Waterworks Association Meet

Jack J. Hinman, Jr., associate professor of hygiene and public health, has just returned from the Iowa division of the American Waterworks association convention, held at Council Bluffs. About 150 delegates from Iowa, Missouri and Nebraska attended.

Papers were read by Professor Hinman and by two former university students, Kenneth Armstrong, who is chemist of filtration for the metropolitan utilities district of Omaha, Neb., and Kenneth C. Beeson, Beeson, who is assistant chemist of the state food and drug laboratory of Vermillion, S. D., was accompanied by Mrs. Beeson, formerly Eleanor Neberchal, a graduate of the University of Iowa.

The next convention will be held in Kansas City, in 1928.

Community House Committee Ready With Floor Plans

Legion Bond Selling Campaign Starts Soon, Ward

The American Legion building committee has concentrated every effort during the earlier days of the week upon finishing every detail of the floor plans for the new community house, in order to go ahead with the bond selling campaign.

In a few days, a picture representing the building will be on display in a downtown store, which will give a good representation of the large edifice soon to be erected on the corner of College and Gilbert streets.

The style is that of the Italian renaissance. The structure will be four stories in height. It will be entered through a large and spacious lobby.

Community Headquarters
The building will serve as a headquarters for the various legion and community activities. It has already been stated that the house will be used by the Chamber of Commerce, Troop A of the 117th cavalry, and the hospital company.

No. 186. "It will be used for all worthy community enterprises," said Prof. Charles F. Ward, chairman of the building committee.

A special feature of the club house will be in the eastern wing, an athletic club. "This building is equal to those of clubs in Kansas City, Chicago, and Cleveland," commented Professor Ward.

Arranges Program
A careful program of hand ball, squash, volleyball, basketball, and other games is planned for the club. There will be facilities for women as well as for men.

A commodious ball room, will serve as a center of social life. This room will accommodate 500 persons. The dining room will seat 250 persons and will be the home of the chamber of commerce.

The business men of the city as well as the legionaires are behind the project.

Professor Ward said, "In a few days the bond sale will be on, and there is no doubt that in this, as in the events in France, a few years ago, the legionaires will go over the top."

National Officer of Gyro Club Speaks at Local Luncheon

In a speech before the members of Gyro club at the Jefferson hotel Tuesday noon, Edward Kazy of Cleveland, Ohio, national secretary of Gyro, told the group of the various activities of the club. He told what members were doing in other towns that he visited. He outlined something of the national organization of Gyro, but stressed the work of the local clubs.

Mr. Kazy is traveling about the country stopping in cities where Gyro clubs have been organized. On Friday and Saturday, Oct. 7 and 8, he expects to attend the district convention of Gyro at Milwaukee, Wis. H. I. Jennings, president of the local club here, will also attend the convention.

even know how to drink hot coffee. "Tubby" watched "Dick" at the dinner table the other night and instead of finding the Cedar Rapids boy blowing his coffee while it was in the saucer, "Tubby" found that his fraternity brother fanned it with a newspaper. "Not a bad idea, either," Chat told us.

Time out. Guess we'll step out awhile and get the beard removed.

Time in again. Ready? Go to it.

We wonder whether Tillie the Toiler really does love Mac, her office partner. We sorta like Tillie but Mac is so unconscious that he thinks the hose cart carries dry socks for the firemen.

Have you got your letter from "Dad" in which he says he's coming. Our kid brother is coming and so we're arranging a party after the game for "Pie," Leroy, and myself. We suppose Pete will want to come, because we're going to a movie on horseback.

Well, this looks like enough but can't tell you. Hope so anyway.

Out for lunch.

Popham Disposes of Many Civil Cases

Judge R. G. Popham recorded the following disposal of the cases on the court calendar for Oct. 4.

Mrs. Tressa Kresensky was assessed $35 and costs in the final verdict given out by the jury in the case of Charles Wilson vs. Mrs. Tressa Kresensky. Wilson claimed there was $35 due him on a sale of a team of horses.

Trial was begun in the case of J. B. Colt Co. vs. Chas. Eden, jr., involving a claim for payment of goods delivered to Eden at his home in Lone Tree.

Judge Popham made the following entries on the probate court calendar yesterday: The estate of Rose J. Hess, of which P. A. Korub is administrator, was relieved from an apportionment for state inheritance tax purposes; Frank A. Hohenschuh was appointed executor, without bond, of the estate of Theresa Hohenschuh; G. A. Benner was appointed administrator, under bond of $5,000, of the estate of Amelia Englert.

Frank Wicks and Homer Johnston, executors of the estate of Philip Murphy, were granted the right to sell estate in connection with this estate; Joe McCraith and J. S. Uich applied for J. S. Uich to be appointed administrator of the estate of Mary McCraith and this was granted; the final report of administrator, George L. Falk, of the estate of Adam Martin, is set for hearing Oct. 12 at 9 a.m.

Flickinger Speaker at City High School

Prof. Roy C. Flickinger, head of the Latin and Greek department, will be the principal speaker on the Iowa City high school assembly program this morning at 9 o'clock. Professor Flickinger's talk will be based on his recent trip to Europe and his experiences in the foreign countries.

Flickinger Tells Kiwanis of Trip

Speaker Denies Idea of Latin as Dead, Now Unused

Although Latin is supposedly a dead language, Prof. Roy C. Flickinger, head of the Latin department, informed the Kiwanis club at its weekly luncheon at Red Ball Tuesday noon, that in some parts of Italy it is very much alive.

In high schools that he visited during his trip to Europe last summer, he says all the recitations, classes, and programs are carried on in Latin.

In pursuing his research work, Professor Flickinger visited Salisbury, England, where excavations of old Roman amphitheatres of the time of the Roman conquest are being made. While in England he stopped at Kenilworth castle, famous as the scene of Sir Walter Scott's novel of that name.

Professor Flickinger supplemented his speech by photographs which he had taken and postals picturing various points of interest.

After the luncheon, plans for the meeting today of the Iowa City Kiwanis club with the Cedar Rapids Kiwanis club at the Hotel Roosevelt in Cedar Rapids were discussed. The meeting is to be in the form of a luncheon in honor of the opening of the "longest paved street between two cities in Iowa," according to the invitation sent by the Cedar Rapids club. Glen Haynes of Des Moines, executive secretary of the Iowa Good Roads association will give the address at the luncheon.

Those who were in attendance seemed to take quite kindly to the piece and, on several occasions, sat spellbound in their seats. There can be no quarrel as to the construction of "7th Heaven." Mr. Strong knows his theater and has built the present number with a shrewd sense of every advantage that can be taken.

That the play is more or less mechanical there can be no question. The action moves along rather conventionally lines swinging to a climax at the proper moment, then receding for a breathing spell, before it mounts to another peak. But at the same time it must be admitted that the story unfolded as the acts pass is a charming one.

The cast, last night, was of an uncertain nature. They fitted their parts, on the whole, quite satisfactorily but displayed no flashes of brilliancy.

Edward Shaw did some good work with the male lead in the role of Chico. At times it seemed that his gestures might have been a trifle more restrained. The feminine protagonist, Diane, was taken by Billy Meredith. The fact that her voice was modulated to the same tone throughout the entire three acts hindered the effectiveness of her playing.

Boul, the taxi-driver and chief comedian in the list of actors, was played by Joseph Lavalliere. His sallies brought forth a great deal of laughter from the spectators. Others in the cast who stood out included Joseph Diemer as Colonel Brissac, Sara Kyles as Nana, and Charles Newso as Pere Chevillon.

A word must be mentioned about the settings of the play, which were very well done and quite realistic. The irrefutable Boul, played by the actor, added no little part to the mirth engendered.

The Enclert orchestra, under the direction of A. Dwight Brown, furnished the overture, exit march, and music between acts.

Burdette Myers to Serve Ten Days on Liquor Charge

Police Judge Paul Custer fined Burdette Myers, 114 S. Clinton street, $10 and costs for intoxication yesterday afternoon. Myers was unable to pay the amount and was sentenced to ten days in the Johnson county jail.

Wesley A. Smith, 711 E. Burlington street, was fined $1 and costs for overtime parking.

C. K. Hurd, 320 S. Johnson street, was also fined $1 and costs for overtime parking.

"Seventh Heaven" Opens Fall Season

Austin Strong's Play Pleases Audience at Englert

By RUSSELL WILSON
Iowa City's theatrical season for 1927-28 was opened at the Englert theater last night when "7th Heaven," Austin Strong's comedy-drama which was staged in New York by John Golden, instigator of the "clean plays" movement, was presented to a rather small audience.

Those who were in attendance seemed to take quite kindly to the piece and, on several occasions, sat spellbound in their seats. There can be no quarrel as to the construction of "7th Heaven." Mr. Strong knows his theater and has built the present number with a shrewd sense of every advantage that can be taken.

$9,127.42 Taxes Collected

From mail already in the office of County Treasurer Charles L. Berry, a total of $9,127.42 in tax receipts was checked in yesterday, none of which will be assessed for the added penalty. It will take at least another day to clear up all the tax receipts received through the mails.

Held on Statutory Charges

Albert and Margaret Brenneman are being held in the county jail after arrest by Sheriff Frank L. Smith. They were indicted by the grand jury on statutory charges.

Birth Notices Filed

Birth certificates were filed yesterday in the office of County Clerk Walter J. Barrow as follows: born Sept. 30 to Mr. and Mrs. Walter F. Poggenpohl, 307 S. Madison street, a daughter, Dorothy Lucille, and Sept. 27 to Mr. and Mrs. Edward H. Wren, 1034 Rochester avenue, a daughter, Patricia Joan.

Fire at Shrader Store

The fire department was called to the Shrader drug store at College and Clinton streets yesterday morning to extinguish a slight blaze in the basement of the building. Some papers which had been thrown onto a pile of hot ashes caught fire. No loss was reported.

Entries in Annual Corn Contest Will Close Friday Noon

Entries in the annual corn contest sponsored by the Iowa-Nebraska district of the Kiwanis club, will close at noon Friday, Oct. 7. Twenty ears of corn are now on display at the Burkett-Updegraff garage, and entries are being made. Prizes of $7, $5, $3, $2, and $1 are offered for the five best ears of corn, which will be taken to the Kiwanis district convention at Kearney, Neb., Oct. 11, 12, and 13, by S. L. Updegraff and Cliff Palmer, district trustees.

Robert Adams, 223 Melrose avenue, Iowa City, will judge the corn next Friday. The judging is open to any who care to attend.

Entries in the contest up to Tuesday noon were as follows: Bernard W. Luster, Lionel J. Luster, Maynard Peckman, John F. Neuzil, Irvin Eggenburg, Harold J. Eggenburg, Eudina Eggenburg, Margaret Eggenburg, Ruth Hughes, Helen Hughes.

Lois Hughes, Kenneth Spivey, Elsie Lehman, Carl Lehman, Harold Zeilar, Wilbur Hughes, Blanche Hughes, Daniel Miller, Ethel Miller, Wanda Nutter.

Issues Marriage License

A marriage license was issued yesterday by Walter J. Barrow, county clerk, to Walter F. Schmidt of Oxford and Vilda G. Saxton of Oxford.

Bound to Grand Jury

E. R. Snider, charged with setting fire to his residence in order to collect insurance on his furniture, was arraigned before Justice B. F. Carter yesterday. He pleaded not guilty and was bound over to the grand jury on bond of $2,500.

1928 Features Put Whippet still Further in the Lead

EVERY recent new car announcement serves to emphasize the Whippet's leadership in engineering design. Introduced 17 months ago, it changed all previous standards of light car performance. And constant improvement forecasts its continued success.

The Whippet carries the enthusiastic endorsement of more than 125,000 owners who have put this modern car to the acid test of more than 400,000,000 miles of service.

Other manufacturers must inevitably follow the Whippet's lead with greater gasoline mileage, higher speed, faster pickup, the safety of BIG 4-wheel brakes, low center of gravity, more leg room, full-vision bodies and modern appearance.

You can buy the Whippet now, assured that a year from now it will still be the most modern car in its field—with resale value correspondingly high.
