Russell Scott Escapes Gallows by Hanging Self Old Gold Machine Outplays Buckeyes

Murderer of Drug Clerk Famous for Execution Escapes

Takes Life in Cell of Cook County Jail as Guard Absent

CHICAGO, Oct. 8 (AP)—Russell Scott, former wealthy Canadian bridge promoter who has been in the shadow of the gallows since his conviction on a charge of murdering Joseph Maurer in a drug store hold-up, tonight hanged himself in the Cook county jail.

His lifeless body was found in his cell at tier two of the jail by the jailer. He had hanged himself with his belt.

The jailer said that he had passed Scott's cell at 9:45 p. m., and that he was all right, but when he passed an hour later, he noticed the body.

Removed from Asylum
Scott had been in the cell since his return several months ago from an insane asylum where he had been discharged after a sanity hearing to again face the penalty of death. He had a new hearing in September which was postponed to sometime this month.

By his suicide, Scott finally won his sensational fight to defeat the courts of Illinois which time and again turned down his pleas of not guilty and decreed that he must die on the gallows.

Seven times was Scott in the shadow of the gallows in the four years since he is alleged to have slain Maurer.

Scott's conviction followed closely on his plea of guilty to the murder charge. A judge dragged from his bed one night granted him a stay of execution a few moments before he was to have hanged. All legal maneuvers possible under Illinois law were used to keep him from paying the penalty. Large defense funds were raised by general contributions and Scott's wife herself worked tirelessly in his behalf.

Was Declared Insane
A battery of lawyers and high priced alienists were enlisted in the fight to keep Scott from the gallows. He was finally declared insane and taken to an asylum at Chester, Ill.

It was not long before officials at the institution reached the conclusion that Scott was in full possession of his faculties and should be returned to jail. After he had been placed again under the jurisdiction of Cook county and a jury had found him sane, a date was set for his execution.

Fate Interfered Again, however, and the supreme court remanded the case for a new trial. It was while in the jail waiting the new trial that he ended his life.

Bomb Demolishes Tenement House; Find Four Bodies

Owner Gets Mystery Warnings Before Huge Blast

NEW YORK, Oct. 8 (AP)—Four persons were killed and more than a dozen injured today in an explosion that wrecked a four-story tenement building in West 35th street.

Police and building inspectors, after a preliminary examination, expressed the opinion that the explosion had been caused by a bomb or dynamite, adding that the demolition had been so complete that it was impossible to state definitely what had caused the blast.

The densely congested west side tenement district in which the explosion happened was thrown into a panic by the blast, requiring the efforts of a large force of police reserves to restore order.

The first body recovered was that of Mrs. Anna Katsilis, 62, which was found soon after police and firemen began to search the ruins. After digging more than four hours in the mass of broken masonry, twisted steel and splintered wood, they came upon the body of Mrs. Conchetta Bisco, 62. The next body found was that of Tessie Katsilis, 7, granddaughter of Anna Katsilis. The fourth body was that of an unidentified man.

Andrew Coviello, owner of the building, whose wife and child were injured told police that he recently had received threatening letters and also described two young men, former tenants in the building, whose actions he said had seemed suspicious. Detectives said they were seeking the former tenants.

The force of the explosion was so great that it lifted the building from its foundation and dropped it back a mass of ruins, witnesses said.

Doctors Meet at Kansas Conclave

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 8 (AP)—A notable post-graduate clinical demonstration in medicine, surgery and the specialties will be held here during the annual meeting of the Interstate Post-Graduate Medical Association of North America, Oct. 17 to 22.

The program will be provided entirely by men who have international reputations in the medical world among them: Sir John Bland Sutton, Bt., London; Dr. R. P. Ranken Lyle, professor of obstetrics and gynecology, University of Durham, Newcastle-upon-Tyne, England; Dr. Ersilio Ferroni, professor of obstetrics, Royal University of Florence, Italy; Garnett D. Wright, F. R. C. S., honorary surgeon, Salford Royal Hospital, Victoria University, Manchester, England; Dr. Giuseppe Franchini, professor of pathology, Royal University of Bologna, Italy; and Dr. Sigmond Frankel, professor of external medicine, Imperial Royal University of Vienna, Austria.

There will be from America, among others, Dr. John B. Deaver, professor of surgery, University of Pennsylvania school of medicine; Dr. Charles H. Mayo, and Dr. William J. Mayo, Rochester, Minn.; Dr. Walter E. Dandy, professor of clinical surgery, Johns Hopkins University, Baltimore; and Dr. Arthur Dean Deaver, professor of surgery, Rush Medical College, Chicago.

Between 4,000 and 5,000 physicians, surgeons and specialists from all parts of the world are expected to attend the meeting.

Seventy-five internationally known medical men will hold clinics and lead discussions on complicated cases and diseases.

Medical men say the assembly might be likened to a clearing house in which the ideas of the greatest medical men of the times are exchanged and discoveries will, other physicians sit in with note books and eager minds.

Dads Form New Group to Assist Seniors' Boards

A permanent organization of dads was formed last night at the Dad's day dinner at Iowa Union. This organization will do all it can to assist A. F. I. and Mortar Board to extend the scope of Dad's day, and to get many more dads to come to spend a day or two with their sons and daughters in the university.

The following dads were unanimously elected as the first officers of the association: president, Amos Sargent, Cedar Rapids; vice-president, T. P. Harrington, Algona; secretary-treasurer, G. M. Woodruff, Mason City.

The committee which presented the nominations was made up of Senator C. M. Dutcher of Iowa City, H. P. Reeves, of Bettendorf, and Dr. Childers of Oskaloosa.

358 Register
Registration was at least equal, and probably considerably larger than last year, according to the registration committee. A total of 358 registered this year, but the record has not yet been checked with last year's.

Today the dads will be entertained at the fraternity and sorority houses and at the residence halls. The concluding event of the week-end's events will be the special Dad's day program broadcast from the new WSUI studio in Iowa Union at 4 o'clock this afternoon.

The Four Solitaire quartet, Andrews, Luke, Smith, and Hardwick, will play "Potpourri," from the opera, "Martha," "An Evening Prayer," and "Inspiration." Harry Thatcher will give two piano selections and Edward Wright, tenor; Ellen Jones, violinist, and Walter Potter, cellist, will present a group of musical numbers. Katherine Kinney will give a reading, and Louise Carter will close the program with several piano solos.

The events of the program included the campus tour in the morning, the Iowa-Ohio football game, and the Dads' day dinner at Iowa Union last night.

The dads met for the tour at 9:15 yesterday morning at the east entrance to liberal arts building, where they were greeted by Prof. Charles F. Ward, of the department of Romance languages, chairman of the tour committee.

Visit Law Building
The first part of the tour included the law building, the dental clinic and the chemistry building. At 10:15 the dads were taken across the river in cars to inspect the new medical laboratories, the children's hospital, and the new field house. This was the first time that either the medical laboratories or the field house have been included in a supervised university tour, since they have just been completed.

At the field house, a special program was presented in the big indoor pool by members of the freshman and varsity swimming teams. The program included back-stroke, breast-stroke, and free style exhibitions, and a demonstration of life saving, and of diving from the high and low boards.

Ends at Old Capitol
The tour ended at Old Capitol where President Walter A. Jessup officially welcomed the dads to the university. President Jessup sketched the history of Old Capitol and described its place in university traditions.

"This building is a monument to the lives of those who carved out this state," he asserted, "not as a possession of the university, but as a life-long heritage for the students here."

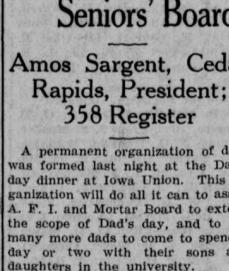

In the tour moved with punctuality, in spite of the unusually large number who attended it. About 300 dads took advantage of the chance to see the various departments of the university.

Phi Mu's Lead in Procuring Funds for Disabled Vets
This year's drive for the sale of forget-me-nots has already surpassed the receipts of previous years according to incomplete reports received by M. J. McGovern, chairman of the Disabled American Veterans, Old Gold chapter No. 3.

At 7:30 p. m., yesterday a total in excess of $807 had been collected, with an estimate of over $200 yet to be turned in. The goal for this year has been set at $800, and judging from the reports so far checked in, the figures seem to indicate the reaching of that amount.

The sororities now leading the field in collections are Phi Mu, first; Alpha Chi Omega, second; Theta Phi Alpha, third; with Sigma Kappa and Alpha Delta Pi tied for fourth position.

And Here's the Boy Who Caused Revolt

General Alvaro Obregon of Mexico, whose candidacy for presidency has led to revolt of troops, with prospect of warfare spreading throughout land.

Murder Loosens Balkan Relations

BELGRADE, Jugo-Slavia, Oct. 8 (AP)—M. Nechitch, Jugo-Slavian minister to Bulgaria, has informed his government of the results of his conversation with M. Bouraff, Bulgarian minister of foreign affairs over the recent border raids and the assassination of Brigadier General Michael Kovachevich.

Assurances were given him that Sofia is doing everything possible to put a stop to the activities of the Comitadjis, or irregulars, but the government is handicapped because of the small number of troops at its disposal.

Feeling in Belgrade is still running high. Fear was expressed that there will be public manifestations tomorrow morning when General Kovachevich is buried in Belgrade. The National Defense association has issued a manifesto to its members as well as all other patriotic organizations to attend the funeral in a body to protest against "the heinous outrage."

Semi-official Jugo-Slavian advices are that Bulgaria must follow up the conciliatory declarations of its minister of foreign affairs by the immediate suppression of pro-Macedonian organizations.

VIENNA, Austria, Oct. 8 (AP)—Informed from Belgrade reaching the newspaper "Korost" says that the Jugo-Slavian minister to Sofia has demanded the passports of himself and staff and is ready to return home at any moment.

Belgrade dispatches today said that the Jugo-Slavian minister in Sofia was under instructions to demand disbandment of Comitadj lands in Macedonia on the alternative of a diplomatic break.

The newspaper "Vreme" says that the political atmosphere is charged as before previous Balkan conflicts.

Bootleggers Kill Blackmail Gang

CLEVELAND, Oct. 8 (AP)—Jack Brownstein and Ernest J. Yorkell, both of Philadelphia, found shot to death here today, are believed by Inspector of Detectives Cornelius Cody, to have been members of a band of gunmen that travelled from city to city forcing bootleggers and speakshies to pay them tribute.

Inspector Cody declared tonight that Brownstein and Yorkell came here last Friday from Buffalo and were collecting data on the operations of Cleveland bootleggers and speakshies with a view to forcing them to pay tribute. If this was indeed, Cody said, reprisals were to follow.

Cody said he had information which he believes links the men with a series of holdups and robberies in Rochester, N. Y., and Buffalo.

Cody said he believed Cleveland run runners had been tipped off by the men were in the city and they were killed as a warning to outside gangs to stay away from Cleveland.

Rhind Remains Same

The condition of Scott Allen Rhind, 3-year old son of the Rev. and Mrs. John Rhind, remains the same according to reports at the University hospital. The child has been unconscious since the automobile accident Oct. 3 in which his skull was fractured.

Airplanes Bomb Mexican Rebels

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 8 (AP)—Generals Gomez and Almada with their revolutionary forces are in the mountainous Perote region of the state of Vera Cruz. Thus far they have avoided combat with the pursuing federal units under Generals Escobar and Aguirre.

This is the official information in Mexico City and it is augmented by reports to the newspaper El Sol, which say that the main body of rebels has been bombed by federal airplanes to the southeast of Perote. Engagements between the contending sides are still possible at any time, in the opinion of military observers, who, however, think that the rebels may succeed in prolonging the time by remaining hidden in the mountains, where pursuit is difficult.

The government continues to assert its complete control of the situation. Reference is made in the brief governmental communications to the unsuccessful De La Huerta movement in Sonora. The fact that General Obregon, the last remaining presidential candidate and strong supporter of the Calles government, is leaving for his home in Sonora state immediately, is taken as evidence of the government's confidence that the latest revolt is completely in hand.

The secretary of war, General Amaro, and General Alvarez chief of the presidential staff, are the president's right hand men, and Obregon has been one of his closest counsellors.

MEICO CITY, Oct. 8 (AP)—Federal airplanes, says the newspaper El Sol, bombed the main body of the Gomez-Almada rebels after scout planes had located them southeast of Perote, Vera Cruz. The insurgents are believed to have suffered some casualties and are reported to have scattered, panic-stricken.

Airplanes attached to General Escobar's pursuing troops report that he rebels are apparently attempting to move toward the southeast.

El Sol adds that the rebels are pillaging the country and robbing the ranches and villages.

Church Frowns at 'Inane' Hymn

BOSTON, Oct. 8 (AP)—The singing at funerals of "Beautiful Isle of Somewhere" is forbidden by Cardinal O'Connell, archbishop of the Roman Catholic diocese of Boston. His action has received public endorsement from several leading protestant clergymen.

The hymn, the cardinal says, is not only "vulgar" but "inane" and "trashy."

The Rev. J. C. Massee, Baptist pastor of the Tremont temple, said he would prefer never to have the hymn sung in his church.

Rescuers Dig for Buried Workmen

APPLETON, Wis., Oct. 8 (AP)—With a steam crane in place, lifting out the twisted steel girders and heavy wooden beams from the base of the boiler mill of the Kimberly-Clark Paper company, which collapsed Friday morning, burying and crushing thirty men, six of whom were killed, the task of digging out those still imprisoned was being hurried with the prospect they might be reached tonight.

Six men are still in the wreckage. The bodies of three who have died have been seen but it has been impossible to remove them. They are Herman Spranger, John Fiers and Peter Van Langveldt. No trace of the other three men still missing has been found, but it is doubtful if they are alive. They are John Despins and J. Manders, employees of the C. R. Meyer construction company, and Frank Johnson, a mill worker.

Debate Squad to Include Athletes

Three prominent athletes are on the Cambridge debate team which will argue with the university of Iowa team Oct. 24.

The Cambridge team landed in New York from Liverpool Oct. 4. It opened a tour yesterday in a debate with the University of Toronto.

M. A. B. King-Hamilton, the leader, took his undergraduate work at Trinity Hall, Cambridge and is now a bachelor of arts with honors. He was president of the university Law society in 1924, and has been a member of the Middle Temple since 1923. He was president of the Union Debate society of Cambridge.

At his preparatory school, Bishops Stortford, he was head prefect, and played on the hockey, cricket, and football teams. At Cambridge he continued his athletic career. In addition he represented his university in inter-university fencing.

Herbert Lionel Elvin, second speaker of the team, is also an athlete. He has been president of the College Athletics club and secured his "blue," which corresponds to an "A" in football and track. He won his event, the half mile race, against Oxford. Before leaving for America he participated in the Oxford-Cambridge track meet against Harvard and Yale.

He is now vice president of the Union society and will take the presidential chair when he returns to Cambridge Nov. 1. His father is a member of parliament.

Other Member Oarsman
The third member, Hugh McIntosh Foot, is a member of St. John's college of Cambridge university. During the last term he was president of the University Liberal club. He is an oarsman of wide reputation and is a member of the Lady Margaret club which raced last May.

A university team will debate the Cambridge men Oct. 24. The Iowa speakers are: George B. Anderson, A4 of Hawarden, Burton A. Miller, A2 of Newton, and Herschel G. Langdon, A3 of Gilmore City. All three of these men are experienced debaters and orators.

The Iowa debate team is under the direction of A. Craig Baird, associate professor of speech.

Ministers Judge Colleague Guilty

CHICAGO, Oct. 8 (AP)—A verdict of guilty was returned tonight against the Rev. John A. Logan Warren, suspended pastor of the Durand, Ill., Methodist church, who was tried by a committee of fifteen ministers on a charge of improper conduct with a 19-year-old girl.

The trial was a part of the 88th annual session of the Rock River conference of the Methodist Episcopal church with the board of fifteen fellow pastors sitting in judgement.

The defense of the pastor was based on a plea that the charges were concocted against him by a faction in the church.

The accuser was Hazel Lamb, a former maid in the Warren home, who charged that the pastor had intimate relations with her while she was employed in his home and while the pastor's wife was in the house.

Mr. Warren, when informed of the verdict, collapsed.

Van der Zee Tells of Peace Movement

The Study of International Problems by American Professors in Europe will be the subject of the talk by Prof. Jacob Van der Zee before the International council tonight at 7:30 in the Iowa Union.

Professor Van der Zee is one of the fifty-two professors of international relations who studied in Europe under the auspices of the Carnegie endowment for world peace in 1926.

The conference made a study of the world court, the League of Nations, and other international organizations. Professor Van der Zee will talk of this investigation.

All students, faculty, and townspeople are invited.

Ministers Judge Colleague Guilty

CHICAGO, Oct. 8 (AP)—A verdict of guilty was returned tonight against the Rev. John A. Logan Warren, suspended pastor of the Durand, Ill., Methodist church, who was tried by a committee of fifteen ministers on a charge of improper conduct with a 19-year-old girl.

The trial was a part of the 88th annual session of the Rock River conference of the Methodist Episcopal church with the board of fifteen fellow pastors sitting in judgement.

The defense of the pastor was based on a plea that the charges were concocted against him by a faction in the church.

The accuser was Hazel Lamb, a former maid in the Warren home, who charged that the pastor had intimate relations with her while she was employed in his home and while the pastor's wife was in the house.

Mr. Warren, when informed of the verdict, collapsed.

Van der Zee Tells of Peace Movement

The Study of International Problems by American Professors in Europe will be the subject of the talk by Prof. Jacob Van der Zee before the International council tonight at 7:30 in the Iowa Union.

Professor Van der Zee is one of the fifty-two professors of international relations who studied in Europe under the auspices of the Carnegie endowment for world peace in 1926.

The conference made a study of the world court, the League of Nations, and other international organizations. Professor Van der Zee will talk of this investigation.

All students, faculty, and townspeople are invited.

Church Frowns at 'Inane' Hymn

BOSTON, Oct. 8 (AP)—The singing at funerals of "Beautiful Isle of Somewhere" is forbidden by Cardinal O'Connell, archbishop of the Roman Catholic diocese of Boston. His action has received public endorsement from several leading protestant clergymen.

The hymn, the cardinal says, is not only "vulgar" but "inane" and "trashy."

The Rev. J. C. Massee, Baptist pastor of the Tremont temple, said he would prefer never to have the hymn sung in his church.

Rescuers Dig for Buried Workmen

APPLETON, Wis., Oct. 8 (AP)—With a steam crane in place, lifting out the twisted steel girders and heavy wooden beams from the base of the boiler mill of the Kimberly-Clark Paper company, which collapsed Friday morning, burying and crushing thirty men, six of whom were killed, the task of digging out those still imprisoned was being hurried with the prospect they might be reached tonight.

Six men are still in the wreckage. The bodies of three who have died have been seen but it has been impossible to remove them. They are Herman Spranger, John Fiers and Peter Van Langveldt. No trace of the other three men still missing has been found, but it is doubtful if they are alive. They are John Despins and J. Manders, employees of the C. R. Meyer construction company, and Frank Johnson, a mill worker.

Debate Squad to Include Athletes

Three prominent athletes are on the Cambridge debate team which will argue with the university of Iowa team Oct. 24.

The Cambridge team landed in New York from Liverpool Oct. 4. It opened a tour yesterday in a debate with the University of Toronto.

M. A. B. King-Hamilton, the leader, took his undergraduate work at Trinity Hall, Cambridge and is now a bachelor of arts with honors. He was president of the university Law society in 1924, and has been a member of the Middle Temple since 1923. He was president of the Union Debate society of Cambridge.

At his preparatory school, Bishops Stortford, he was head prefect, and played on the hockey, cricket, and football teams. At Cambridge he continued his athletic career. In addition he represented his university in inter-university fencing.

Herbert Lionel Elvin, second speaker of the team, is also an athlete. He has been president of the College Athletics club and secured his "blue," which corresponds to an "A" in football and track. He won his event, the half mile race, against Oxford. Before leaving for America he participated in the Oxford-Cambridge track meet against Harvard and Yale.

He is now vice president of the Union society and will take the presidential chair when he returns to Cambridge Nov. 1. His father is a member of parliament.

Other Member Oarsman
The third member, Hugh McIntosh Foot, is a member of St. John's college of Cambridge university. During the last term he was president of the University Liberal club. He is an oarsman of wide reputation and is a member of the Lady Margaret club which raced last May.

A university team will debate the Cambridge men Oct. 24. The Iowa speakers are: George B. Anderson, A4 of Hawarden, Burton A. Miller, A2 of Newton, and Herschel G. Langdon, A3 of Gilmore City. All three of these men are experienced debaters and orators.

The Iowa debate team is under the direction of A. Craig Baird, associate professor of speech.

Defeat or Victory?

THE score was against Iowa in the opening game of the Big Ten season yesterday, but from a standpoint of spirit, Iowa achieved a real victory.

The Iowa eleven played a wonderful game against Ohio State. They fought like tigers from start to finish.

The university is proud of its football team, even though the tally left much to be desired.

A School of Politics

AND so, since the insane asylum was full, they sent him to congress," says the chautauqua orator, expressing the view of the people as to those who enter politics.

In a way, these qualifications are influenced by our present form of government. While requiring government employees of the civil service to have a certain amount of knowledge about the work they are to do, our legislators have only the requirement of age.

Nor are those who make a study of governmental methods and procedure attracted to politics. Few, who have made intelligent efforts to learn of legislative duties are willing to assume the office-seeking sycophancy which is considered necessary to get votes.

A sort of civil service examination which legislators would have to pass, covering more or less knowledge of sociology, law, and finance would do much to eliminate the surplus of inefficient politicians.

Budget Your Time

THE average university student spends a minimum of two hours a day doing absolutely nothing. This period of loafing does not occur at one stretch, but is divided into five, ten, and fifteen minute intervals throughout the day.

With 5,000 students wasting 10,000 hours each day, something is wrong. Innumerable students complain of the amount of work that is required of them, how little time they have for anything else besides study, and how swamped they are with work and outside activities.

As a matter of fact these students have more time during the day than they know how to use profitably. The remedy for the evil, for such it must be considered, can come only when the student plans for himself a strict budget and follows it exactly.

Eating and dressing do not take more than four hours time of the most leisurely person. An average number of classes for a day is about five. Few students spend more than three hours daily upon actual concentrated study outside of classes. That leaves four hours for the student to fill and it is the activities during these hours which will show the real caliber.

Here are the alternatives for spending the time: sleeping, reading, writing, working, athletics, social activities, research work, day-dreaming, or loafing. Consider, then choose!

The Lowly Postal Card

FLAG-POLE sitters, marathon dancers, and baseball heroes will be forgotten, but the work of Prof. Emmanuel Herrmann will live on forever.

Seventy-five years ago Professor Herrmann discovered the efficiency of the postal card, and Austria so appreciates this useful discovery, that it will build a huge monument to his name.

If only the old Viennese could return today and see the results of his chance discovery! How surprised he would be at the green skies, purple lakes, fiery sunsets, and lurid landscapes with which his vacationing friends would bombard him.

It is easy to imagine how shocked he would be to find, perhaps, that one can pose with a long string of pseudo-fish in a seaside post-card studio, and deceive one's friends as to one's ability as an angler.

But for time saving old Emmanuel's invention can not be equalled. It is worthy of the brain of a modern efficiency expert. No one expects anything but "having a fine time—wish you were here" from a vacationist, and the size of the post card just fits such pleasantries.

It takes a certain length of time to fold a letter, place it in an envelope, lick the flap and paste it shut. The post card eliminates unnecessary motion. The adding machine, the typewriter, yes, even the airplane, have nothing on the post card for time saving, and Emmanuel Herrmann has truly earned his monument.

"Classy" Automobiles

AN effort to introduce the foreign type of automobile in America has been comparatively unsuccessful. Though the cars are much easier to drive, will travel many more miles on a gallon of gas at just as great a speed as our expensive cars, they can not seem to gain in sales.

It seems that this can be explained only by the characteristics of the American people. They want something showy. They want their cars big with a long hood. It gives them a feeling of grandeur, of success, and any one can see it. To them the foreign car is something like a roller skate.

The American does not care if the other type is less expensive. He wants "class," and class to him is in the large amount expended.

Dance and Prayer

Last Sunday night a large and happy group of young people assembled on a dancing floor in Kansas City. The orchestra tuned up and a minister announced that before the dance program there would be a "sing." Popular songs and church hymns were sung. Then the dancing began. Two hours later, the minister, who had acted as dancing master, blew a whistle. The young people sang another song and recited a prayer in unison. Then the benediction concluded the dance-prayer program, which Linwood Christian church had established in cooperation with a Kansas City military club.

The unusual program was the first of a series. Prayer, praise and dancing will be mixed each Sunday night "to the glory of God and the good of man." But that is not the end of this story. The dance-prayer program has created a greater sensation in Kansas City than Sinclair Lewis stirred with his book "Elmer Gantry," which was written after a series of conferences with Kansas City pastors.

Church folk in Kansas City are disputing whether the innovation has "captured dancing from the devil or whether the devil has captured the church by using dancing as a bait."

This is not the first time dancing has been associated with religion. Nor will it be the last, but Kansas City has something besides politics, crime and prosperity to talk about, morning, noon and night.

Becky

A Serial of the Price of Glory
by RAYNOR SELIG

"I want to kiss you," cried Estabrook.

What Has Happened So Far

Becky McCloskey, young and good looking trying to make her way alone in New York, finds herself without a position on New Year's Eve. Dan Scarlett, who lives by his wits, sees her huddled in a doorway, and persuades her to go to dinner with him. He kisses her. She slaps his face and threatens to brain him with a bottle. Scarlett sees Becky in a new light. She tells him she has no money and no prospects. Then she sings a little song for him. Scarlett realizes she has a beautiful voice and makes a bargain to finance her until she gets started if she will let him share in her profits. Becky goes to her room and prays the Lord to let her sing well, get enough to eat and help her to meet a man she has seen making purchases in the department store where she worked, of whom she has made an ideal. Through Scarlett's influence she gets a chance to join a Broadway chorus. Scarlett upbraids her for not playing the game and induces her to go to a studio party given by Boris Abelard on the chance that she may meet the rich John Estabrook, her ideal. At the party Becky is thrust into a fountain with her clothes on and faints. Abelard angrily sends his guests away and has Becky taken care of. Months afterwards Becky meets Estabrook in the studio. She is rather disillusioned. She tells him she wishes he had never come.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER VII

"Say!" The girl swung about and stared at him with angry eyes. "Do you think I'm drunk?" Estabrook's face, always stern as a face cut out of brown wood, did not change at all. "I don't know," he said, and moved toward the door. The girl caught his arm, and her voice, when she spoke, had dropped to a husky note of pleading. "I'm not," she told him. "And listen, I didn't mean to scare you off, Ambrose—I mean Mr. Estabrook. I'm naturally bashful, see? You needn't smile like a cat, either! The easiest way to cover it up is by kidding, that's a fact. And it puts boys in a good humor, too. But honest, Mr. Estabrook, I'll be quiet as a mouse if you'll overlook the slight social blunders, as they call them, and come in."

"Very well," Estabrook shrugged and his eyes, frigid in the habitual woodenness of his face, lighted for an instant.

"Oh you lamb!" Impulsively Becky squeezed his arm.

"I'm not a lamb," he said. "And I don't like flattery."

For an instant the girl merely looked at him. Then, in a voice vibrant with some quality that was alien to Estabrook—

"I wish I hadn't begged you to stay," she cried. "I musta been crazy wishing to see you again all these months. You aren't a man. A stone, that's what you are. A damn stone."

"I thought I was a lamb," observed Estabrook ironically.

There was a pause, a silence between them.

Then—"I wish to God you'd never come," cried Becky McCloskey, and with a flick of her scarlet skirt, she had gone, and Estabrook was alone.

Estabrook had hardly recovered from his amazement at Becky's behavior before he was joined by Abelard.

"A nice mess I've stumbled into," Estabrook grumbled, his eyes following the hall down which Becky's scarlet skirt had vanished. "Your flip young friend says I don't belong here. She wishes I hadn't come."

"So do you, eh what?" smiled Abelard, fixing his monacle and regarding Estabrook as though he were some curious sea monster. "Still, I'd like you to s-s-satay . . . and on her a-c-c-c-count."

"Holy Mackerel!"

"D-d-don't excite yourself needlessly, my good man," stuttered Abelard. "I don't mean to have you making love to her . . . although she's a jolly k-k-kid, and pretty as a picture. F-f-fact is, she has the voice of a nightingale. You must hear her s-s-sing."

"Oh if that's all . . ." Estabrook sighed his relief. "I suppose I can stand it. Still, I don't see how she can do much singing with that accent."

"Her d-d-diction improves every day. Someday she may even learn to speak English." Abelard took his friend's arm. "Come in, you've a p-p-pleasant surprise to look forward to."

Inside, in the high ceiled studio room, Estabrook found himself glancing again and again toward the girl in red. It was, he discovered, almost impossible to avoid noticing her. Her clothes and her manner were equally conspicuous.

Indeed, since Becky was sure of Abelard's protection, her timidity had gone. She romped like a child, secure and carefree. Only tonight, because of Estabrook's presence there was a sort of abandonment, even bravado, in her gaiety, as though she believed the mask of merriment a defense against her own heart.

To Estabrook she seemed to be everywhere at once, darting about, dancing with a succession of men and breaking suddenly away to lift up her skirts—already so disgracefully short—and dance, wildly, alone. Her voice, clear and singularly sweet, rose above the voices of others, piercing, insistent.

"For I ain't go no nobody."

"And nobody cares—for-me—"

"Shocking, don't you think?" The speaker, an affected blonde seated beside Estabrook on a settee, wrinkled her pretty nose in disgust. It was the same girl, addicted to powder and perfume in preference to soap and water, who habitually quarreled with Becky in the dressing room.

In answer to Estabrook's startled "What?" she nodded her flower like head in Becky's direction. "These little ghetto girls like Becky McCloskey, stealing the food out of good American mouths. Her mother was a factory worker who married an Irishman . . . At least Becky says they were married."

The slender stem of her neck moved delicately, like a lily stalk in a summer breeze. "I suppose you can't expect much of a girl like that," she added patronizingly. "Dragged up out of the slums—and not so far up at that. We of the upper classes . . ."

With an abrupt apology Estabrook made his escape.

Becky . . . yes, she did look foreign—oriental, rather. But there was fineness in her features, fineness in the nose that was very slightly aquiline, in the long deep blue eyes, the arched black brows. Becky . . . dragged up from the slums, and not dragged up very far . . .

Her legs, shapely in sheer silk, were uncovered, and as she danced she uttered queer, husky little shouts. A girl of the gutters, noisy, common, and—infinitely alluring.

Estabrook, who had scarcely looked at a woman for six months, felt the shocks of her allure as a sharp, physical thing. The consciousness of it offended, irritated him. And yet, why not? What were they for, these women, but the pleasure and service of men? Her dress, her face, her manner, were they not all designed to that one end, to attract, to conquer, to grasp?

A feeling of anger, of dark, corroding anger which was at the same time desire, burned through him. He had felt that way in college, playing football, he remembered. Feel that way later, fighting Germans in filthy trenches. A sort of haze settled about him as he moved across the studio, a haze in which a flame of scarlet danced and whirled.

And then they were together, in a narrow room where high stacks of coats made grotesque patterns against the walls, Estabrook and Becky McCloskey, who were destined to love one another very greatly, very soon.

Becky, leaning back against a heap of coats, sighed. "It's good to get out of the mob for a minute. It . . . it's terrible hot in there." She felt Estabrook's eyes on her face, and broke off in the middle of a sentence to demand uneasily, "What's on your mind, Ambrose? You look like you'd seen a ghost."

Estabrook said nothing, but took her wrists in his right hand. They were small, those wrists, easy for a man to hold, and he wondered fleetingly how many others had held them, as he did, for this same purpose. Then, still with the same strange, quiet intensity—which marks always the passion of Puritans—he took her chin and turned up her pale face.

She pulled away sharply, but he still held her wrists, drawing her forward against her will, disinterested in her will, obsessed by the force of his own intention.

"What do you think you're doing, anyway?" she cried, her voice suddenly grating.

"I want to kiss you."

"Well, you can't always get what you want, brother. Let me go, will you?"

"No." Then, as the jerking of her arms revealed strong flexible muscles—muscles still, of course, inferior to his own, as was everything about this dark alien girl—he added a little contemptuously: "I have no patience with coquetry. Don't pretend you've never been kissed."

Her bright eyes narrowed furiously.

"Don't you talk that way to me, you—you—" his mouth was close to hers, and she twisted back growling: "Anyway I kiss when and who I want!"

"Tonight," said Estabrook. "You will kiss when and whom I want, discipline should do you good."

And then—"Don't . . . please, oh, please . . ."

It was only a breath, but with the catch of a sob in it.

The haze cleared suddenly, and Estabrook saw that her eyes, still narrowed as if in anger, were veiled with tears. Shame for his own humiliating eagerness gripped him; shame that he, John Carrick Estabrook, should have been in the position to be rebuffed by a painted chorus girl. He dropped her wrists, shrugging.

"Did you expect me to beg for your favors? On my knees perhaps? Is that what you're used to?"

Slowly Becky's cheeks deepened in color; rose flowed beneath the pallor of her face, her throat, her blanched shoulders. She stood, rubbing red ringed wrists, looking at the floor and blushing; stammered: "I expected you—to be different."

Trial Stop and Go Lights Function at Corner of Clinton and Washington

An automatic electric stop and go signal was installed at the intersection of Clinton and Washington streets yesterday and functioned in the heavy traffic on that corner all day and evening.

The device is the property of the Herrington-Seeburg company of Moline, and was installed temporarily by the Bowman Electric company of Iowa City for purposes of demonstration. Permission for its installation was granted by the city council at its meeting Friday night, under the provision that the city would not be responsible for any damage which it might cause. Employees of the company were busy early yesterday morning and the light was in operation by 10 a. m.

The signal is of the one-pole variety, placed in the center of the intersection, and is one of the most improved types. It is equipped with green, amber, and red lights, meaning go, caution, and stop, respectively. However the amber flashes on only following the green and preceding the red, thus eliminating the congestion which results when the caution signal is given following both the go and the stop signals.

The light will be put in operation at 5 a. m. every day and will be continued until the traffic thins out, probably about midnight.

According to Mayor J. J. Carroll, these signals apply to pedestrians as well as to motorists. Not only is there a city ordinance against jay-walking, but any person so doing is on his own risk as far as injuries are concerned.

Purdue Defeats Harvard in Big Intersectional Game 19-0

Substitute Helps Hoosiers Crash Opponents' Line Untried Man Stars With Good Kicks, Runs, Passes

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Oct. 8 (P)—A Texas youth named Ralph Welch, playing his first game of college football, led Purdue university's eleven to a 19 to 0 victory over Harvard in the stadium today in the crimson's first intersectional game since 1921.

Young Welch played left halfback in place of "Cotton" Wilcox, Purdue's star back, who was kept out of the game by an injury. On the first play he crashed through the Harvard line for a gain of twelve yards. Whether in running, kicking or passing, the Texas boy came through. It was his day, almost to the exclusion of the other members of the Hoosier team.

Purdue outplayed the crimson from the start with the exception of a brief period in the final quarter when Harvard produced an attack that netted sixty yards. The advance was stopped, however, when Welch intercepted a forward pass and led his team on a march that ended with the final whistle, on the five-yard line.

Harvard made six first downs, three of them in the final period. Purdue scored three touchdowns, one in each of the first three quarters.

Baggers Outplay Kansas to Score 26 to 6 Victory

LAWRENCE, Kan., Oct. 8 (P)—Outplaying their Missouri Valley rivals, the University of Wisconsin eleven defeated the University of Kansas team on Memorial field here today, 26 to 6.

Taking the aggressive in the second quarter, Coach Glenn Thistlewaite's charges forced the Jayhawks to defensive tactics. Crofoot's punting and plunging featured the Badgers' play. Cochran's 90-yard run for a touchdown in the last ten minutes of play was the feature event for Kansas. Scooping up the ball after Mohardt had fumbled, Cochran ran from the Kansas ten-yard line to the goal line through the surprised Badger players.

Crofoot scored first when he caught Rose's pass behind the line. He then kicked goal. Another kick off and Wisconsin marched for its second touchdown. Rose going through tackle for the score. Crofoot missed the extra point.

Crippled Stars Aid Cornhuskers Down Missouri, 7-6

COLUMBIA, Mo., Oct. 8 (P)—Two crippled Missouri Tiger backfield men, Captain George Flammank and Bert Clark, and a Tiger substitute, flashed a brief offensive here today against the Nebraska Cornhuskers and won the twenty first football classic of the universities, 7 to 6.

A backfield minus three injured veterans backed started for Missouri and failed to hold the Nebbrakans until Flammank and Clark limped on the field.

The Huskers' touchdown came on the first play of the second period, but Howell, who scored, failed to kick goal from placement.

Coming back in the same period, Missouri started a baffling aerial attack which culminated when Flammank passed across the goal line to the diminutive Clark, Maschhoff, Tiger substitute, who was inspired for the try for point, kicked from placement squarely over the bar, giving Missouri the margin of victory.

An overpowering Nebraska assault, led by Presnell and Howell, gained the Huskers 346 yards from scrimmage, while the Tigers were able to penetrate the Husker line for only 46 yards. In aerial attempts Nebraska completed sixteen for 59 yards, and Missouri gained 67 yards on 14 losses.

Time after time the Nebbrakans battered the Missouri line for first downs, getting eighteen in all, but the Tiger front wall held when the goal line was endangered. Missouri gained only five first downs, but Nebraska passes that went awry and were intercepted accounted for the Tiger defensive success.

Dependables on Iowa's Eleven This Year

Gruelling Contest Goes to Buckeyes by 13 to 6 Margin

yards from scrimmage while the Hawkeyes lost but thirteen. It was a glorious defeat for Burt Ingwersen an dhis boys who have now lost eight consecutive Big Ten battles. But the glory was theirs because they outplayed and out-fought a team led by the nation's leading sport critics to finish on top in the conference race this season.

Captain Nelson, tackle; Glassgow and Smith, halfbacks, and Carlson and Cuhel, ends, were the big stars for Iowa. Westra at guard and Schlessner at tackle also played a commendable game. Eby was the big gun for the visitors, piling up three-fourths of their total yardage. He also intercepted two forward passes, did all the Buckeye punting, and directed the team.

Raskowski was the bright light in Ohio's line while their veteran pair of ends, Rowan and Robin Bell also did good work. They did not outplay the Hawkeye flankers, as had been expected.

A crowd estimated at 15,000, a small one for a Big Ten encounter, attended the game. Hundreds of dads who had come to back the Old Gold on "Dad's Day" were among the spectators.

The lineup and summary:

IOWA	Pos.	OHIO
Carlson	LE	Bell
Westra	LG	Urdill
Schlessner	LT	Cox
Ullery	C	Ullery
Roberts	RG	(c) Meyer
Nelson (c)	RT	Raskowski
Cuhel	RE	Rowan
O'Neal	QB	Grim
Schmidt	LHB	Eby
Glassgow	RHB	Alber
Hagerty	FB	Cory

Score by periods: Ohio 0 0 13 0-13; Iowa 0 0 0 6-6. Scoring: Touchdowns, Eby, Alber, Cuhel; points after touchdowns, Moler (Dropkick). Substitutions—Iowa: Cooley for Cuhel, Smith for Glassgow, Arnall for Hagerty, Glassgow for Smith, Smith for Glassgow, Myers for O'Neal, Grim for Carlson.

Ohio: Oshner for Cory, Schar for Cox, Young for Ullery, Huston for Eby, Carlin for Meyers, Eby for Huston, Ullery for Young, Meyer for Schar, Cary for Oshner, Messner for Schar, Carlin for Meyer, Moler for Messner, Young for Moler, Moler for Eby.

Officials—Referee, C. E. Eldridge (Michigan); umpire, A. H. Reid (Michigan); field judge, H. G. Hedges (Bartmouth); head linesman, H. L. Ray (Iinois).

First Quarter: Westra kicked off for Iowa to Eby on Ohio's 10 yard line. Eby dropped the ball on the ten yard line and was downed on Ohio's 31-yard line. Eby made a scant yard, off his own right tackle. Eby punted forty yards. Glassgow returned to the Iowa 35-yard line. Glassgow made a yard off left tackle. Hagerty added another on a center smash.

Cuhel punted from Iowa's 47 yard line to Ohio's 13 yard line. Cory carried the ball out of bounds for no gain. Eby punted to Glassgow who made a fair catch on Ohio's 5 yard line. It was a big gain for Iowa on the exchange of punts.

Ohio was penalized 15 yards for roughing, putting the ball on the Buckeye's 39 yard line, and giving Iowa a first down. Glassgow hit left tackle for 3 yards. Glassgow pushed through right tackle for 4 more. Hagerty picked up another on a line plunge. It was fourth down, with one yard to go, with the ball on Ohio's 30 yard line.

Glassgow made a first down through left guard. Iowa was penalized 5 yards for taking too much time in calling signals. A forward pass, Glassgow to Nelson, was incomplete. Another pass was intercepted by Cory on the Ohio 24 yard line.

Eby circled his right end for 9 yards. Cory carried it out of bounds for no gain. Cory made a first down on Ohio's 36 yard line. Eby made 3 yards off his left tackle. A right end run resulted in no gain, with Eby again carrying the ball. Eby punted 50 yards to Glassgow who was downed in his tracks on Iowa's 17 yard line.

Glassgow failed to gain, punning from punt formation. Cuhel punted 25 yards to Grim, who was hit almost simultaneously by three Iowa tacklers. Eby fumbled on an end run and Iowa recovered on its 40 yard line.

An Iowa pass was intercepted by Grim on Ohio's 35-yard line and he was thrown back to the 33 yard line. Eby pulled a surprise punt for 60 yards, which landed on the Iowa 3 yard line.

Standing in the end zone Cuhel made a miserable kick of 11 yards. An Ohio man fumbled the kick but a teammate recovered, giving Ohio first down on Iowa's 13 yard line. Iowa took time out.

Eby was thrown for no gain on an attempt to crash right tackle. A forward pass, Eby to Rowan, was knocked down by Carlson. Eby went over right guard for four yards. Grim attempted a dropkick from Iowa's 20 yard line, but it failed to cross the bar, and Iowa took the ball on its 20 yard line.

Cooley replaced Cuhel at right end for Iowa. O'Neal lost 2 yards. Cooley punted from the 15 yard line out of bounds on Iowa's 39 yard line. Ohio again took up its march for the Hawkeye goal.

Eby failed to gain off his own left tackle. A center smash by Eby gave the Buckeyes 3 yards. A forward pass, Eby to Robin Bell, was incomplete. It was fourth down with 7 yards to go and the ball on Iowa's 36 yard line. Eby punted out of bounds on Iowa's 15 yard line. Glassgow fumbled the pass from the 15 yard line.

Stagg Gives Page Another Lesson as Maroons Win 13-0

Hoosiers Victim in Chicago's First Big Ten Win

CHICAGO, Oct. 8 (P)—A. A. Stagg, dean of Big Ten football coaches, proved still able to teach his brilliant pupil of twenty years ago a few things and Chicago triumphed over Indiana today 13 to 0, for the first conference victory of Chicago since the middle of the 1925 season. Today's tilt not only upset the pre-season dope but uncovered some of the best material Stagg has had for three years. Indiana ran away with the strong Kentucky team last Saturday and today's score shows up Chicago as an outfit to be reckoned with in the Big Ten title race.

The twelve pounds by which the Maroon line outweighed its opponents took full in both the defensive and offensive play. Bennett and Rihardt, flashy crimson ball carriers being smeared repeatedly.

White Mendenhall, Anderson, Levers and Libby, substitute halfback, followed splendid interference through the Indiana line for three first downs prior to each of the two touchdowns.

The Hoosiers looked good in the first half with Bennett and Rihardt good for three and five yard gains every time they carried the ball. Starting the third period Indiana got near enough to let Cattell try a place kick, which went wide.

Then the Maroons tightened up and McDonough intercepted a pass. Libby and Anderson got loose for first downs and Libby, substitute halfback went through center for the last ten yards and a touchdown. Mendenhall's try for point missed.

The final period found both teams opening up with passes but Bennett and Harrell could not find anyone to catch their heaves and the Maroons marched down the field again.

Levers, Anderson and Mendenhall tore off runs and Anderson took it around right end for the second touchdown. McDonough's try for the point was good and the Maroons led 13 to 0. The game ended with the Maroons threatening to score again.

Switzer Files Suit Against City for Thousand Dollars

An original notice was served the city council, notifying the members that a petition is on file at the office of Walter J. Darrow, clerk of the county court, in which E. E. Switzer is asking a judgment of $1,000 against the city of Iowa City.

Switzer claims that he fell over an obstruction on the sidewalk between College and Burlington streets, Aug. 16. The petition states that a board was carelessly and negligently left protruding from beneath a stone on the sidewalk. The trial is set for the November term of court.

The Alert house, 294 East Linn street, is to be alarmed with a new tin roof, was the decision of the city council. The city clerk was instructed to advertise for bids to cover the work and material. The bids are to be in by 7:30 p.m. Oct. 11. The mayor and city clerk were also instructed to pay for thirty feet of section hose for use on a dishwash pump, from the consolidated fund.

F. Bush, 320 Muscatine avenue, was given permission to do some grading work at the south-east corner of Fourth and Muscatine avenues, the work to be under the supervision of the city engineer. Bush is to remove the dirt from a high bank.

32 Counties Unite to Eradicate T. B.

DES MOINES, Oct. 8 (P)—With Dallas and Greene counties in as modified accredited areas, the cleaned-up portion of Iowa now is virtually one-third of the state in bovine tuberculosis eradication work. M. G. Thornburg, state secretary of agriculture, declares. Thirty-two counties are now on the accredited list. Mr. Thornburg declares he expects to recommend four more counties to the accredited list of the government in the next four months. The work of eradication is receiving cooperation and support from cattle owners in all parts of the state he says.

Popham Fines Meyers

Burdette Meyers of Iowa City who was arrested and brought before Judge Paul Custer was sent to the Johnson county courthouse to appear before Judge R. G. Popham. He was fined $25 and costs and released.

Association Reports Dirt Roads Rough

DES MOINES, Oct. 8 (P)—Earth roads in Iowa were generally rough today, while mud in limited sections still retarded traffic, says the daily report of the Iowa Automobile association. Graveled roads were generally fair, and detours, although numerous were all passable.

Apple Crop Fails

DES MOINES, Oct. 8 (P)—The apple crop probably will not be more than 45 per cent of normal, R. S. Herick, secretary of the Iowa Horticultural society, says. He predicts high prices later in the season.

License Issued to Couple

Marriage licenses were issued to the following persons: Ernest Charles Lantz of Marselles, Ill. and Marguerite Brecken De Armond of Iowa City; John W. Reynolds, 28 years old, of Solon; and Lenora E. Krob, 18 years old, of Solon.

Good-Bye Dads

We Enjoyed your visit—

Your arrival in Iowa City brought another Dad's day for us to enjoy with you—your departure will be keenly felt.

We hope that you have enjoyed your visit with us as much as your sons and daughters have enjoyed having you here.

This Afternoon

at 4:00 p.m.

For those Dads who will be in Iowa City this afternoon, there is a special Dad's musical program which will be given for you in the new WSUI studio in the Iowa Union. And if Mother is still here, too, don't forget to bring her along.

The Campus, School and City, will miss you

May this visit bring back your own glorious college days--.

Many changes and additions have been made to the campus since the inaugural of Dad's day, six years ago. The gigantic new medical school stands foremost among the buildings on the west side—a great field house has become the new home of Hawkeye indoor sports.

Hosts of men have helped make countless small additions to the campus here and there—all of which are making Iowa one of the outstanding universities of today.

Yankees Grab World Series; Bambino Bags Second Homer

Wild Heave Ends Heroic Comeback of Johnny Miljus

Four Straight Wins Equal Record of Braves in '14

YANKEE STADIUM, New York, Oct. 8 (AP)—The last stand of a dazed and battered crew of Pittsburgh Pirates came to an inglorious climax today when a wild pitch by Long John Miljus in the ninth inning, with two out and the bases full, gave the New York Yankees the winning run and the World's Championship with a record-equaling streak of four successive triumphs.

Miljus made a gift of the fourth and final game to the American League champions, spoiling a courageous comeback by the Buccaneers and wrecking an otherwise sensational relief pitching performance. The score was 4 to 3.

Relieving the bespectacled Carmen Hill after the Yankee defense had cracked to help the Pirates tie the score and offset the lead provided by Babe Ruth's second home run, Miljus had curved his way two-thirds of the distance to heroic heights when he weakened, heaving a wild one past Johnny Gooch that enabled Early Combs to race across the plate with the winning run.

It was an anti-climax to an otherwise thrilling stand, for Miljus, seeing the bases filled with none out, had risen to bring the lights to fan two of the heaviest Yankee sluggers, Lou Gehrig and Bob Meusel.

The crowd of close to 60,000 wildly cheering fans, knowing that the outcome of a world's series hinged on every pitch, was nervously excited as Tony Lazzeri strode to the plate.

Miljus Almost a Hero
There was a feeling that Miljus, two thirds of the distance past, would get out of the hole he had dug for himself by passing Combs, permitting a hit by Koenig, advancing both with a wild pitch and then purposefully walking Ruth.

With Lazzeri at bat, there arose in the minds of onlookers a parallel situation in the final game of the series a year ago when Tony was fanned by Alexander with the bases full.

This time, as a year ago, Lazzeri cut a wicked drive that went into the left field stands. Then a ball, but the next pitch, getting out of control, flew wide of the plate. Gooch made a lunge for it but it only flicked his glove and bounced back to the stands as Combs sped in, standing up, with the winning run.

That single pitch broke up the last lingering hopes of the Pirates, badly outclassed at nearly every turn of the series, and sent them down to the most decisive defeat any National League team has ever sustained in World's Series competition.

This was the first time a World's Series had been literally tossed away but it recalled, and took its place alongside the famous wild pitch of Jack Chesbro, in 1904, that cost the Yankees the deciding game of a pennant race and enabled the Red Sox to top the American League.

"Sinker Ball" Wins Final
In dashing through four straight victories to climax the greatest and most spectacular season of their history, the Yankees equalled the record of the Boston Braves, who trounced the Athletics in 1914.

Wiley Moore, the big Oklahoma farmer, received credit for the deciding Yankee victory, but the master of the "sinker ball" twirling his first World's Series game, was lucky to win the duel he had with the combined curves of Hill and Miljus.

Each team scored a run in the opening inning but Ruth caught one of Hill's slow curves in the fifth and sent it high and far into the right field bleachers, scoring Earle Combs ahead of him with a brace of runs that looked big enough to settle the game.

The Pirates meanwhile were lacking Moore's sinker ball consistently but also, as consistently, getting no where because of the stone wall infield defense put up by Dugan, Koenig, Lazzeri and Gehrig. Twice double plays choked off Pirate threats, in the third and fifth innings, but the Yankees lost their sure-fire fielding skill in the seventh.

Moore himself paved the way for the Pirate rally in this inning, when, on Smith's failure to Gehrig, he muffed the first baseman's throw as he stepped on the bag. Instantly Pirate reinforcements were rushed in. The fans, like those in Pittsburgh, yelled vociferously for Kildy Cuyler, exiled outfielder, but Emil Yde, reserve pitcher, was sent in to run for Smith and Freddie Brickell substituted for Hill at bat.

Lazzeri Makes Error
It was not because of this strategy the series, boosting Brickell's grounders. Loyal Wauer sacrificed both runners along and Barnhart drove a long single to center. Yde scored, but Brickell started back to second and then retraced his steps too late to get further than third in the hit.

Paul Wauer, however, brought over Brickell with the tying run on a sacrifice hoist to Combs and the stands were in another uproar.

The Pirates seemed to take on a new lease in their baseball life, even if it was coming a trifle late. But, as it turned out, the final flash was not enough and the Pirates lost at the end, chiefly on their own lapses.

A pinch hitter there, might have put the Corsairs in the lead. But Bush gambled with his pitcher and lost.

The Yankees outplayed the Pirates, except for their surprising seventh inning lapse, but it was Babe Ruth's bat that dealt the mightiest blows to the American league champions.

Babe's second circuit clout saved the game, enabling the Yankees to hold the Pirates to a tie until the final ninth.

Ruth brought Combs home in the first inning with the first Yankee run, after Earle had singled and advanced on Koenig's one base blow. Combs, who made three hits during the afternoon, was again on base when the Babe landed his mighty stroke in the bleachers in the fifth.

Ruth Issued Pass
Again in the ninth, Ruth was swinging his mace menacingly with two runners on base, but this time Miljus intentionally passed the Babe on orders from Manager Bush.

In the first inning, Gehrig as well as Meusel and Lazzeri, struck out on Hill's slow curves or floaters, and in the ninth, Columbia Lou beat the air as he followed the Babe to bat with the bases full and no one out.

It was a tragic finale for Miljus to undo this fine work with a wild pitch, but it was typical, in a disappointing fashion, of the wobbly and uncertain work of the Pirates from the start of the series. At few moments of the battle were the Corsairs, tired by their hard pennant fight, able to match their foes in hitting, fielding skill or pitching.

While the Yankees made only one pitching substitution, that in the first game, the Pirates saw every one of the four starting pitchers—Kremer, Aldridge, Meadows and Hill—fade from the picture before the finish of any game.

Grueiling Contest Goes to Buckeyes by 13 to 6 Margin

center but recovered for a 6 yard loss as the quarter ended. Score: Iowa 0; Ohio State 0.
SECOND QUARTER
On a delayed punt formation through right guard, Hagerty made 3 yards. Cooley's 60 yard punt rolled to Ohio State's 28 yard line. On a wide right end run Eby was thrown for a 6 yard loss. The referee was knocked down by some of the players in the confusion of tackling Eby, but was uninjured. Eby punted out of bounds on Iowa's 40 yard line. Glassgow made 2 yards through right tackle. A forward pass Glassgow to O'Neil was incomplete.

Glassgow got off an unexpected punt which went 55 yards and was downed by a Hawkeye player on Ohio's 1 yard line. It was almost a safety for Iowa. Ohio took time out.
The crowd was beginning to pep up, and yelled enthusiastically. So far Iowa had gained 15 yards from scrimmage and Ohio 23 yards. Iowa had made two first downs, however, to Ohio's one. A penalty contributed one of the Hawks' first downs.

Eby punted to Glassgow on the 50 yard line, who carried it back 15 yards to Ohio's 35 yard line. Glassgow ran through right tackle for 2 yards. He hit left guard for a yard gain.
A long pass by Glassgow was intercepted by Cory on Ohio's 12-yard line. He was downed in his tracks. Eby on a sweeping right end run went out of bounds for a 3-yard loss. Cory went over left guard for four yards.

Eby punted to Glassgow, who caught the ball on his 45-yard line and brought it back to Ohio's 46-yard line. A delayed punt by Hagerty netted one yard through left guard. Glassgow was thrown for a 2-yard loss on an attempted right end run. Time out for Ohio.

Both teams were fighting hard, but in the opinion of a majority of the sports writers in the press box, Ohio was playing an unnecessarily rough game.
Glassgow made 3 yards through left tackle. Cooley punted to Grimm, who was down on his own 17-yard line. Ohio again took time out.

On a bolt through left guard Cory fumbled and Hagerty of Iowa recovered on Ohio's 29 yard line.
Don Smith replaced Glassgow and Armil went in for Hagerty.
Don Smith made a yard off left tackle. Armil picked up 3 yards on a center smash. It was third down, 7 yards to go. Don Smith made a yard off right tackle. Iowa was penalized five yards for taking too much time in calling signals.

A long pass by Don Smith was incomplete, and Ohio took the ball on downs on their own 21 yard line. Eby whirled and twisted through right tackle for an 8 yard gain. Cory crashed through center for first down. Oshner replaced Cory at full-back for Ohio.

Eby made two yards through left guard. On an attempted forward pass by Eby, Captain Nelson broke through and threw him for a 16 yard loss. Eby punted to Don Smith on Iowa's 40 yard line. Smith returned it to Ohio's 48 yard line.
A pass by Don Smith was intercepted by Eby, who ran the ball out of bounds on Ohio's 43 yard line. An Ohio forward pass was knocked down by D. Smith. Armil battered down another Buckeye pass and Ohio was penalized five yards for two incomplete passes in the same series of plays.

On a reverse end run Rowan was thrown for no gain. Eby punted to Don Smith on Iowa's 20 yard line. He fumbled and recovered and took the ball to Iowa's 23 yard line. Schear replaced Cox at left guard for Ohio, and Young went in for Ulery at center.

Rowan came in fast and smeared Don Smith's attempted left end run for a five yard loss. Armil punted almost straight in the air, and Ohio downed the ball on Iowa's 41 yard line. Huston went in for Eby at left half for Ohio.

A forward pass, Huston to Rowan, was good for 18 yards. Huston hit center for a yard. Carlin replaced Captain Meyer at right guard for Ohio. Armil knocked down an attempted Ohio pass on the Iowa 24 yard line. Armil intercepted an Ohio pass and took the ball to Iowa's 20 yard line. Armil hit right tackle for a yard as the half ended, with the ball in Iowa's possession on her own 21 yard line. Score Iowa 0; Ohio 0.

Glassgow went back in for Iowa at halfback replacing Don Smith. Armil Armil was still in at fullback, and Cooley and Carlson were still at ends.

Third Quarter
Ohio kicked off to O'Neil who took the ball on Iowa's goal line and ran it back to the 25 yard line.
Glassgow, on a left end run, broke loose but fumbled, and Eby picked up the ball and raced 22 yards for a touchdown. The attempted dropkick failed, hitting the upright and bounding back onto the field. Score: Ohio State 6; Iowa, 0.

Ohio kicked off to Armil who took the ball on Iowa's 15 yard line and carried it back to the Iowa 42 yard line. Time out for Iowa. Glassgow was hurt on the play, but went back into the game.

Armil hit left guard for 6 yards on a delayed punt. Armil got 2 more, again through left guard. Time out for Ohio State. Urdill was injured, but resumed play.

Glassgow went through left tackle, tucked back sharply, and raced 20 yards, putting the ball on Ohio's 30 yard line. There was only one man between him and the goal line, and Eby brought him down from behind. Armil hit center for 2 yards. Glassgow went off left tackle for 4 more.

Third down, 4 yards to go, with the ball on Ohio's 25 yard line. The crowd was yelling for a touchdown. Glassgow hit left tackle for 2 yards and then went over right tackle for a half yard, failing to make first down by inches. Ohio's ball on their 21 yard line. Eby was stopped with a yard gain. Iowa's team was tackling desperately.

Left end was blocked, and Eby cut back through center but hit a stone wall, making scant three yards. Eby punted out of bounds on the Iowa 43 yard line. Ohio was unable to gain against the strong Hawkeye defense. Glassgow went around right end for no gain.

A forward pass, Armil to Glassgow, gained 11 yards and a first down. Glassgow was nearly free, but stumbled. Armil took it out of bounds for no gain, fumbling momentarily but recovering.

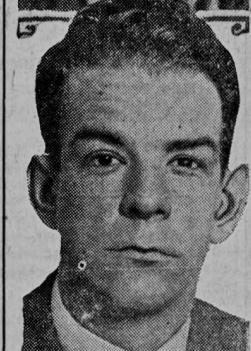

Glassgow hit left tackle for 2 yards. On an attempted forward pass, Armil was forced to run with the ball, but gained 3 yards. It was fourth down, 5 yards to go, with the ball on Ohio's 41 yard line.

Messer replaced Schear at center for Ohio. Cooley's punt went out of bounds on the Ohio 32-yard line. Eby made 3 yards through left guard. Eby punted to Glassgow on Iowa's 29 yard line, and he ran it back to Iowa's 32 yard line. Time out for Ohio State.

The highly touted Buckeye backfield could do nothing against Iowa's heavy line.
Armil hit center for 4 yards. Glassgow made a yard through right tackle. Armil got off a surprise punt to Grimm, who was run out of bounds on the Ohio 28 yard line. Carlin replaced Captain Meyer as right guard for Ohio, and Cuhel went in for Cooley at right end for Iowa.

Eby made five yards around his left end, and Oshner made it first down with a thrust through center. Eby failed to gain.
Oshner took the ball five yards on a center smash. A pass Eby to Alber was good for 48 yards and a

The crowd was going wild. D. Smith failed to gain around left end

Hawk I Association Membership Grows

Aubrey Devine Heads Alumni Group in Los Angeles

A group of former students of the University of Iowa, who now live in Los Angeles have formed an alumni association which is called the "Los Angeles Hawk I Association."

The present membership is given by Dick Smith, secretary, as numbering sixty-one, but the membership is "slowly but surely growing."

The organization was conceived and organized by Aubrey Devine, who thought it would be a good idea to hold luncheons "from time to time at one of the districtive cafes of the city where old friends might meet and discuss things pertinent to themselves and their alma mater."

"The luncheons," continued Mr. Smith, "are in no sense formal, the best of good fellowship prevails, and football teams, personalities and policies of the school form the topics of conversation."

Graduate Moves Practice of Law Takes Over Offices in Long Beach California

J. R. Files, '05, and E. P. Mulholland are establishing a new law firm in the Pacific southwest building in Long Beach, Cal., which will be known as Files and Mulholland.

The partners were previously members of the law firm of Mitchell, Files, and Mulholland of Fort Dodge.

They have taken over the library, furnishings and unfinished business of Judge Walter Desmond, who has practiced law in Long Beach for twenty-one years. This situation gives the two Iowa lawyers an opportunity to step into an established law business in California.

Leave Fort Dodge

"Much as we regret to leave Fort Dodge, we have an opportunity in Long Beach that neither Mr. Mulholland nor myself feel we could afford to pass up," declared Mr. Files.

During the World War, Mr. Files left his law practice and enlisted in the service. He is a member of the American Legion and was one of the first commanders of the Fort Dodge post.

Several years ago he was democratic candidate for governor and, prior to that, was a candidate for congress from the tenth Iowa district.

Taught Debating

In the years from 1906 to 1910 he was a teacher and debating coach in the Fort Dodge high school. Fort Dodge debating teams won state championships the four successive years that he was in charge.

In 1910 he resigned from the school and opened a law office in Fort Dodge. In 1914 he became a partner with M. J. Mitchell and in 1920 the two were joined by Mr. Mulholland who is now Mr. Files' partner in California.

Towner Reports on Porto Rico's Present Condition

Horace M. Towner, '09, governor of Porto Rico and former representative from the eighth Iowa district who is on the way to his home at Corning for a visit, declares that the change brought about by the presence of Americans in Porto Rico is marvelous.

"When they first went to the island there was no school established and no school building to be found there, he tells.

"Now," he stated, "about forty per cent of the insular budget, or over $4,000,000 out of $10,000,000 is expended for school. About 4,500 teachers are employed and about 225,000 students are enrolled."

"Then there were only two good military roads. Now there are over 3,000 miles of public highways, all of them macadamized, and a large number of them covered with asphalt.

"These are but some of the evidences of progress and prosperity at present existing in Porto Rico," he avers. "The prospect for the future is bright. There are many problems to solve, and the daily questions that arise in Porto Rico in government both insular and municipal are much the same as those that arise in the United States, and in all free countries where local self-government prevails."

"The general spirit of the people is in every way to be commended, and that the people are victors of the law there, but the people generally are honest, intelligent and anxious to succeed in bettering their conditions, in educating their children, and in building up each year better conditions than those existing the year before."

Mr. Towner will come direct from the east to his home in Corning, and will spend most of his vacation in Iowa.

Brookins Displays Form for Hurdling

Charles R. Brookins, '25, freshman track coach and head of the equipment department, is again engaged in bringing forth another Iowa aggregation to make a strong bid for Big Ten championship honors.

He recently donned track suit and spikes to demonstrate his hurdling form before a moving picture camera. The films will be used in teaching varsity candidates the proper stride and stretch to be used in clearing the low barriers.

Brookins, while at the university, made his mark in athletics in the 100-yard dash, 120-yard high hurdles, and in football. He holds the world's championship in the 250-yard hurdles, and was a member of two Big Ten champion mile relay teams.

Records Reveal Positions Held by Iowa Pharmacists

Paul J. Haudzik, '02, is head of the department of pharmacy at Leland Stanford university. He is the author of several books on pharmacology.

Plan Homecoming to Reach Alumni Groups of Graduates Will "Listen in" on Program

Knowing that not every alumnus will be able to come back to Iowa for the sixteenth annual Homecoming, the university is making plans to give as much of the program as possible over the broadcasting station, WSUI.

This part of the program will be in charge of Prof. Frederick G. Higbee and Prof. Edward H. Lauer.

The meeting at noon, the Homecoming football game, and the special program between halves will be heard by alumni all over Iowa and neighboring states.

Group meetings were established last year in connection with National Iowa Night, and efforts were made to organize the groups. At present more than forty such groups have formed organizations and elected officers. Many of these will "listen in" together to the Homecoming program.

Devines Continue as Coaches in Football Realm

The two Devines, Glenn and Aubrey, '22, famous for their work on the Old Gold gridiron have stuck to the pig skin and leather pants since their graduation.

Aubrey was assistant football coach at Denver university the first year after his graduation. Later he became an assistant coach to his former coach, Howard Jones, at Southern California. This year he passed the state bar examinations in California.

Glenn Devine has had a position as football coach at Parsons college at Fairfield since his graduation.

Both of these men made football history for Iowa back in the years of '20 and '21.

Dr. Jolly Returns From Eastern Visit

Dr. Roletta Jolly, '21, member of the psychopathic hospital staff, has recently returned from a short vacation, spent motoring in the southeast.

Dr. Jolly toured through Indiana, Louisiana, Florida, and other southern states, being particularly interested in the rural districts. He stopped at Richmond, Va., where she visited Dr. Sanger, president of the University of Virginia medical college.

Washington, D. C., afforded her much pleasure and interest because of her friends there.

She received her B.S. degree from Iowa in '21, being, at the time, a sophomore in the college of medicine. In 1923 she was graduated from medicine and served her internship at Iowa City.

News Briefs of Iowa Alumni

Graduates of Last Year's Commerce Class Begin Work

With the placement of twenty-three 1927 graduates from the college of commerce, comes the assurance that the commercial world is not too crowded for Iowa graduates.

No two graduates are engaged in the same kind of work.

Many of the class have not reported as to their occupation, but it is believed that the majority are located.

Reports are received from time to time concerning new appointments and before long every member of the class should be accounted for in some capacity.

Charter Member of W.A.A. Tells Tales of Early Days of Organization

E. Geraldine Shontz, '12, was one of the eight women, who, together with Mrs. Bates, nee Alice Wilkinson, physical director, formed the Women's Athletic Association of the University of Iowa.

One of their favorite games for class work was "Hare and Hound," which took them down through the woods along the river.

The point system was introduced in 1915 and a seal was made the emblem of the organization, and corresponded to the present "I".

Miss Shontz has been teaching in Iowa and Minnesota, and spent two years in Hawaii. It is her opinion that one never learns a great deal about another country or another people by mere visits.

Her vacation between terms at Hawaii was spent in the Orient.

Iowa Club Plans Program of Talks Purpose of Group to Interest Students in University

WATERLOO, Oct. 8 (Special)—Plans are being made by the University of Iowa club of Black Hawk county to arrange to have a program of speeches at its meeting this fall by members of the university faculty.

The organization was created Aug. 26, 1926 when alumni of the university met in Waterloo. It was felt that some organization should be open to alumni and friends of the university, and the club was formed to include everyone in the county who was interested.

The club gives as its main purpose the interesting of prospective students in Old Gold, and the educating of boys and girls in the community to the advantages of the state university.

Through the efforts of the club, literature about the university has been placed in the public library.

The present officers are: Nathan Barber, '09, president; and Ronald Reed, '19, secretary and treasurer.

Hundreds Hail Lowden Choice For Presidency

In the hope that Frank O. Lowden, '05 would announce his intention of accepting the candidacy for the republican presidential preference at next April's primary, hundreds of his central Illinois admirers flooded Lowden's estate, Slinsipp Farm, near Oregon, Ill., Oct. 5.

An excursion totaling more than 5,000 persons came from sixteen counties, under the leadership of Congressman Homer W. Hall of Bloomington, Bert Aston of Peoria, and Robert A. Cowles of Bloomington, to influence ex-Governor Lowden to make a favorable choice.

A huge open air buffet was set up around the court house square by the women of Oregon churches to accommodate the visitors. From Oregon the delegation resumed its pilgrimage to the Lowden estate.

Those who are intimately associated with Mr. Lowden thought he would consider it too early to make a positive announcement of his candidacy.

To the delegation he merely repeated the statement that no man ever has run away from the presidency.

Krueger Takes Over Work of Dean of School

Roy D. Krueger, '22, of Keokuk, has temporarily taken over the work of Harlan W. Mead, dean of the junior high school at Washington.

TILLIE THE TOILER

Iowa's Prized Collection of Art, Books Destroyed in Fire of 1897

(Editor's Note—The following is the first of a series of articles to be run every Sunday in the alumni section of The Daily Iowan reviewing major news events in the years of the university's past.)

The burning of the old library building in 1897 marked one of the epochs of the university's past. The building then stood directly south of the Old Capitol building, immediately behind the present location of the liberal arts building.

The fire began at 4 p.m., June 19, 1897. The three days preceding that of the fire were hot and sultry. Rain began to fall shortly before the blaze broke out. The odor of burning pine had penetrated into many homes in the city before it was actually known that the building had begun to burn.

Lightning Caused Fire

When the fire was finally located, it was believed that lightning had struck the southwest corner of the building. The fire was already beyond control, and spread quickly to all parts of the building.

Freeman Dies

"Through the thoughtfulness and courage of Mary E. Barrett, the reference librarian, the accession registers were saved," the writer told.

Dr. Logan, Once Pep Man, Heads Elks' Convention

Lodge Aims to Raise $20,000 Student Loan Fund

Dr. Charles R. Logan, president of the Iowa state association of Elks, presided over a meeting of that organization last night while activities in various fields of charity were discussed.

Dr. Logan, perhaps better known as "Shot" in the memory of old graduates, was graduated from the college of dentistry shortly after receiving his discharge from the army after the armistice was signed.

Led Cheers for Old Gold

During his first enrollment, prior to the war, he was a cheer leader at the university. Last year when he came back for Homecoming, he helped lead cheers for Old Gold at the pep meeting.

Dr. Logan is a past exalted ruler of lodge No. 106 at Keokuk, where he is now practicing dentistry. He was made president of the association of Elks at their meeting in Clear Lake, June 23-24.

Activities of the scholarship foundation were discussed at the meeting last night. This foundation is a corporation, organized under the laws of Iowa, for the purpose of aiding worthy students in the state. With this purpose in view they maintain a revolving loan fund.

Any student needing a loan may apply to the committee with the endorsement of an Elks or an Elk lodge. If his application is accepted, the student may borrow $100 a year. After he has finished school, the student is expected to pay back the money borrowed within a year, without interest.

Wish Permanent Fund

The fund now amounts to about $2,300, composed of donations from Elks lodges and individual members of the order. The lodge aims to raise $10,000 for the revolving fund, and an endowment fund of $10,000 from which only the interest will be used.

Statistics showing money expended for charity by the order were read. During the year ending last May 31, they expended $2,497, 023.97. The total sum spent for charity since 1880 amounts to $25,569, 818.06.

The meeting today of the exalted rulers, secretaries, and district deputies from over the state, will be for the transaction of business in the state organization. E. A. Baldwin, exalted ruler of Iowa City lodge No. 690, will deliver the message of welcome to all the visiting brothers.

Discussion of points brought up at the meeting of the grand lodge in Chicago has been planned for the meeting today.

Luncheon will be served in the Elks' grill to all the visiting members at noon.

Enter Three New Cases in District Court's Calendar

Judge R. G. Popham, of the Johnson County district court, made the following entries on the court calendars yesterday:

The application of Gertrude A. Murphy, administratrix of the estate of Charles A. Murphy, was granted. The administratrix has a lease with the Jefferson hotel giving her the privilege of operating a taxi stand there. Her contract with W. M. Griffith, who will operate the taxi stand, was presented and approved by the court.

In the case of J. B. Colt Co. vs. Charles Edinger, the plaintiff was given ten days in which to file any exceptions to the court's instructions and if desired make motion for new trial.

The plaintiff, in the case of Esther C. Peffer vs. Melvin M. Peffer, a suit for divorce, has made application that the decree given be modified and this application is set for hearing Oct. 10 at 10 a. m.
