Denver Mountaineers Swoop Into Hawk's Nest Today

Pignatelli and Johnstone Enter Today's Lineup

Scouts and Journalists Guests of Athletic Department

Gridiron tactics of the middle west, as executed by the University of Iowa team, and of the far west, as exhibited by the University of Denver eleven, will be matched on Iowa field this afternoon. The Denver aggregation, members of the Rocky Mountain conference, arrived in Iowa City last night after holding a short workout at Omaha yesterday afternoon. At the same time Coach Burton A. Ingwersen sent his Old Gold pigskin aspirants through a short but snappy drill.

Today's encounter is the only inter-sectional tilt of the season for the Hawkeyes. It is the final tuning-up exercise for the Iowans before they are forced to face Illinois, Wisconsin, and Northwestern on successive Saturdays. The game will be witnessed by hundreds of Boy Scouts who will be guests of the athletic department. Many high school journalists who are gathering here for the annual high school journalistic convention have also been given a special rate so that they may see the game.

Revised Lineup

Coach Ingwersen will start a revised lineup against the Mountaineers. Today's plans call for two

Drake Girls Date English Debaters

DES MOINES, Oct. 28 (AP)—First-hand knowledge of American college social life tonight was offered the trio of English students from Cambridge university who are making a debate tour of the United States.

"Dated" with three Drake university co-eds, the British trio after their debate with Drake tonight were scheduled to attend their first American college dance.

The couples are Miss Ruth Bolton of Des Moines and H. L. Elvin, Miss Gertrude West of Des Moines and M. A. B. King-Hamilton, and Miss Mildred Goddard of Emmetsburg and Hugh M. Foot.

Tomorrow the Cambridge men will attend an American football game at Ames when Iowa State and the Kansas Aggies meet in a homecoming battle.

Quill and Scroll, Embryo Writers Hold Convention

High School Students From Four States Hear Talks

The first day of the Iowa institute of high school journalists and the regional convention of Quill and Scroll, national honorary society for high school journalists came to a close with more than three hundred delegates registered. Thirty schools from four states are represented by the visitors.

Important speakers for the day were Miss Elizabeth White, national president of Quill and Scroll, from Central high, Omaha; Frank Luther Mott, director of the school of Journalism; Frank B. Peers, of Highland Park, Prof. Frederick J. Lasell of the school of Journalism, and John Towner Frederick, editor of the Midland magazine.

Miss White Talks

Miss White welcomed the delegates to the convention, saying, "You are representing a large group of young writers, and I welcome you gladly."

Luncheon followed registration, introduction and announcements of the morning. From 11:30 a. m. until lunch, the delegates attended three round tables, presided over by George H. Gallup, editorial staffs by Mr. Lazell and business staffs by Harry S. Bunker and W. Harry Hart.

The guests were entertained at luncheon in the former grill room of Iowa Union by George Anderson, J. A. of Hawarden, with his mystifying act of "Exposing the Medium." Floyd Poetzinger, A. 4 of Cedar Rapids played several original compositions and then obliged with numerous request numbers. "Gossip celebrities" were then introduced in formally.

Mott Shows "Opportunity"

Mr. Mott opened the afternoon session with his address on the "Opportunities of Journalism," offering many helpful suggestions to the beginners in journalism. Section meetings were held at 2 o'clock for those interested in newspapers, annuals and magazines.

Mr. Peers, who has recently established a feature and advertising service for high school publications spoke on the subject "Making High

Human Chain of Three Saves Life of Detroit Woman

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y., Oct. 28 (AP)—Two women and a man forming a human chain, tonight saved Mrs. Blanche Race, 57 years old, of Detroit, from going over Niagara Falls, near the American shore. The woman was taken from the water about 150 feet above the cataract.

The rescuers were Dan Vandergriff of Peoria, Ill., his wife and his wife's sister, Mrs. W. J. Taylor, of Cleveland.

EXTRA Volendam Rescues Nine Survivors of Sunken Schooner

S. S. VOLENDAM (by wireless to the Associated Press) Oct. 28—The captain and the crew of nine men of American schooner, Horatio G. Foss of Boston, were rescued today by the Holland-American liner Volendam en route from Bermuda to New York.

The men were picked from a small open motorboat in which they had been floating since Oct. 22 when their vessel sank in the heavy seas about 200 miles northeast of Bermuda.

The captain of the schooner, W. D. Potter of Cambridge, Mass., and the crew of the abandoned schooner were all exhausted and suffering from lack of food and exposure. They said they were trying to make Bermuda in the open boat. Captain Dekoning said that he thought it would have been impossible for them to reach Bermuda because of the bad weather and the high seas.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 28 (AP)—The schooner Horatio G. Foss, sailed from this port on Oct. 10 for Point-a-Pitre, West Indies, where she was due about a week later. No report that she was in distress has been received here. Officials of the Maritime exchange expressed the opinion that the schooner had reached the West Indies safely and have met with the accident on the return voyage.

Parlor City Rum Ring Investigation Now Under Way

Self-Acclaimed Leader Boasts Control of Dry Agents

CEDAR RAPIDS, Oct. 28 (AP)—A dry agent's story of bribery, corruption and wholesale liquor running made public last night with the arrest of three men, one of whom publicly boasted of being Cedar Rapids' biggest bootlegger, was being investigated today by County Attorney Walter J. Barngrover.

As self-acclaimed leader of the rum-ring, E. D. Maloy is quoted as saying that he "controlled every dry agent in this territory except two," that he received protection from the police department for his liquor running expeditions, and that he planned to elect his own candidate for county attorney next year.

With Maloy were arrested Sam Holtman and Floyd Dewitt, both of Cedar Rapids, upon arraignment today before a United States commissioner, they demanded preliminary hearings in both federal and state courts. They were held in heavy bail, which was provided.

Brings Thousands of Gallons

The arrests were declared tonight by R. C. Adams, Des Moines, district prohibition agent who conducted the raid, to be the most important made in Iowa since the advent of prohibition, since Maloy is believed to have brought thousands of gallons of alcohol here from Chicago and to have sold it throughout Iowa in recent months.

The gang, which had been watched for several weeks by both state and federal agents, was arrested last night after an alleged delivery of alcohol had been made to an under-cover agent posing as a bootlegger.

A fourth man sought in the ring activities has not been located.

The dry agent's car had been taken to the edge of town, according to his story, where Maloy had it filled with liquor. As the car started on its way, supposedly for Des Moines, the party returned to a local hotel where the arrests were made.

Search for More Liquor

Search is being made for liquor which Maloy claimed to have planted on every important road leading out of town, according to the under-cover agent.

Maloy, Mr. Barngrover has been held, thought $300 fines followed by jail and penitentiary sentences as imposed by the local courts were too heavy. His alleged plan was to elect a county attorney under his influence, and then have dummy bootleggers come here to be arrested and sentenced. The county agent would receive his fees, and public suspicion would be diverted by a series of arrests of planted bootleggers, whose fines Maloy intended to pay.

Agent Poses as Bootlegger

When the under-cover agent arrived here, it was told today, he posed as a bootlegger and got another liquor salesman to introduce him to Maloy. Other members of the ring suspected that he was a dry sleuth and demanded that he be searched. Letters from Glen A. Brown, dry administrator for Iowa, and Senator Brookhart were found which established his identity.

Benda Announces Pedestrian's Rule

Chief of Police C. F. Benda announced yesterday that any pedestrian crossing a street while the green light of the traffic signal is on, does this at his own risk.

Motorists are not liable in case an accident occurs when they have the right of way. Several persons here have narrowly escaped injury by walking across streets without regard for traffic lights and city officials are trying to stop the practice before any serious accidents result.

Pedestrians have the right of way while the red light is on, and then only. Whenever the green light is on, motorists have use of the street.

Wrecked Victims Tell Weird Tales of Ship Disaster

Passengers Dancing Black Bottom as Shaft Breaks

PERNAMBUCO, Brazil, Oct. 28 (AP)—The Italian liner Rosetti arrived tonight with a number of survivors from the sunken steamship Princessa Mafalda. Two of those picked up by the Rosetti died on the way into port.

A wireless dispatch to the Associated Press from the British Empire Star said there were twenty-seven survivors aboard the Rosetti.

Reports of sharks attacking victims in the water were reiterated by those aboard the Rosetti, who said the seabats were of the hammerhead variety.

RIO JANEIRO, Oct. 28 (AP)—The ocean's toll from the ill-fated Italian liner Princessa Mafalda tonight was placed tentatively at 293 dead and missing, as rescue ships in port completed discharging their unexpected passengers.

The actual story of the disaster also began to take definite form as the accounts of survivors were pieced together. Terror gave those rescued almost as many views of the tragic scene as there were survivors, but many points stand out as agreed upon by many or all of those who lived to tell the tale.

Of the 1,256 persons said by the Italian embassy to have been aboard the vessel, 963 were accounted for tonight. The French liner Mosella took 52 survivors into Bahia last night.

Ships Rescue 963

The French steamer Formosa, first rescue ship on the scene, brought 353 survivors here today, and the Dutch vessel Alena brought 531. Twenty-seven more have been reported en route to Pernambuco aboard the Italian steamer Rosetti. The total on these ships is 963, and it is not believed here that there are any survivors on any of the three or four smaller vessels that answered the Mafalda's distress call.

The survivors are almost all agreed that dancing, laughter and festivities on a beautiful tropic afternoon were suddenly turned to gloom by the crash of a breaking propeller shaft and the sound of water rushing into the vessel's stern. From this point on, accounts diverge as to details.

Sharks Terrorize Victims

Some told of sharks devouring terrified victims as they struggled in the water, while other survivors who did not see sharks were skeptical. One of the most vivid and gruesome word pictures of the sea beasts before their prey was painted by John Lyra Chavez, a passenger aboard the Mosella.

Ghostly medallions picked out of the darkness by the searchlights of rescue ships, he said, revealed shrieking men, women and children swimming or clinging to wreckage. Some of them were frantically trying to escape huge fierce sharks, he declared. One man was saved from a shark as he clambered aboard a life boat by the flashing of a pocket searchlight into the beast's eyes, Chavez said.

Catalao Carmine, a member of the crew, said the ship's band was playing: "That mad-man's dance, the 'Black Bottom'" when the propeller shaft broke.

Indianapolis Has Two Systems of City Government

Controversy Arises Over Deposition of Duval

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Oct. 28 (AP)—With two more or less complete systems claiming control, the official business of this city of nearly 400,000 inhabitants was at a standstill tonight.

Action in the Marion county supreme court on an injunction suit tomorrow is expected to clear the way either for Claude E. Negley of Ira M. Holmes to become mayor.

Meanwhile John L. Duval, who announced his formal resignation as mayor today, spent his time raking leaves in his yard after the city council had pronounced the official vacant because of Duval's conviction September 22 for violation of the corrupt practices act. The council named Negley, its president, as temporary mayor pending selection of a permanent mayor November 8.

Wife Claims Office

When Duval resigned his wife, Mrs. Maude E. Duval, claimed the office by virtue of being city controller and next in line. Fifteen minutes after taking oath of office she resigned in favor of Holmes, who had in the meantime been appointed city controller.

Negley got the jump on Holmes today by obtaining a temporary order restraining the city's business.

When Negley arrived he found Mrs. Holmes in the executive office. Nonplussed, he stood around until Holmes appeared, Mrs. Holmes then arose. The two claimants each drew up chairs at the executive desk. The doors were opened and a crowd gathered to watch the performance.

Contestants Laugh

Negley and Holmes joked about the whole affair, addressing each other in a friendly manner.

The engineers' arch, which extends across Washington street between the engineering building and the physics building, was put in place yesterday afternoon, lacking its festive trimmings which will be added next week.

The words of welcome which it habitually carries have not yet been added. The construction of the arch has for the first time this year been made with an idea of permanency in mind and the arch has been more carefully constructed than in former years.

The corn monument, which has previously stood at the corner of Washington and Clinton streets, because of the traffic signal which is at that place, will be situated at the corner Clinton and Iowa avenue, immediately in front of Old Capitol. Engineering classes, under the direction of Prof. Thomas G. Claywood, began the construction of the monument yesterday and it is to be set up sometime today.

The sign of the senior electrical engineers, which as previously announced, will follow the design of the Homecoming bridge, is also being made and will be placed on top of the physics building at some time next week.

Boy Scouts Pour Into City Today for Celebration

Five Special Trains Chartered; Parade to Iowa Field

Several thousand Boy Scouts will march today to the music of the university band and two visiting drum bugle corps in the parade in celebration of Boy Scout day. The line will form in front of Iowa City at 1:15 o'clock with the Iowa City area scouts in the lead, others following in alphabetical order.

Registration will be at Iowa Union this morning. As soon as one group has registered, two local Boy Scouts will start with them on a tour of the campus, and local points of interest.

Tours will be in process until 11 o'clock when those desiring to swim will leave for the field house. Through the courtesy of Prof. P. E. Belting, the pool will be open all day to visitors.

Boy Scouts who have not had the opportunity at their own headquarters of passing their swimming tests, may do so at this time, using men of their own group as examiners.

Men Banquet at Noon

The visiting men with the scouts will eat at the Iowa Union cafeteria at 12:15 p. m. as an informal get together and program is planned. Boys are to eat at any of the downtown restaurants, or may carry lunches and eat them at the field house.

This is the first time that such an event has taken place in Iowa. It has become a traditional annual affair at Illinois, Michigan and Northwestern. Special invitations were extended by both Paul R. McGuire, scout executive of Iowa City area, and Professor Belting. In addition to this the invitation was broadcast from station WSUI by Mr. McGuire.

Five Special Trains

The invitations were enthusiastically received in ten cities: Fort Madison, Waterloo, Davenport, Burlington, Des Moines, Cedar, Rapids, Dubuque, Clinton, Muscatine, and Ottumwa. Special trains have been chartered by sponsoring clubs at Davenport, Clinton, Muscatine, Cedar Rapids and Ottumwa.

The line of march for the parade will be east on Jefferson to Clinton street, south on Clinton to Iowa avenue, east on Iowa avenue to Dubuque street, south on Dubuque to Washington street, and west on Washington to Iowa field. A section has been reserved for the visitors, who will be guests of the university at the Iowa-Denver game.

Murder Charges Flung at Remus

Wife Ready to Testify Against Husband on Day of Death

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 28 (AP)—An allegation that George Remus, former millionaire bootlegger, killed his wife to silence her, was made today by Charles P. Taft, II, prosecuting attorney of Cincinnati, here for a defense deposition hearing.

The prosecutor said the state would show as a motive for the slaying, that Mrs. Remus had pleaded on the day of the killing to testify in her divorce suit that Remus killed Sheriff William Van Camp near Brookville, Ind., four years ago, while running Jack Daniel's whiskey from St. Louis to Cincinnati.

Remus, in jail at Cincinnati, promptly characterized Taft's statement as "ridiculous." Bert Morgan, former federal prohibition commissioner for Indiana, said at Indianapolis that while there had been rumors Remus had something to do with the Van Camp killing he "never came across any tangible evidence to that effect."

The known circumstances of the Van Camp slaying were that farmers at Mount Carmel, Ind., eight miles from Brookville, reported two men were acting suspiciously in a nearby wood. They had parked their automobile in a ditch when Sheriff Van Camp approached to question them, they fled into the brush. He ordered them to halt and one fired a shot which killed the sheriff and resumed their flight.

A few months later two men known as Carter and Webb were arrested at Greenville, O., for robbing a bank. They were convicted and sentenced to serve twenty years each in the Ohio penitentiary. In prison Webb was reported to have confessed he fired the shot which killed the sheriff.

Drake Students Visit Lawrence in Old Flivvers

DES MOINES, Oct. 28 (AP)—Denouncing the cinder-infested freight as a means of collegiate travel and disclaiming any serious intentions of promoting a "hobo" derby via "side door Pullmans" to the Drake-Kansas game at Lawrence, Kan., tomorrow, the editors of the Drake Delphic, student weekly, left here tonight in the rickety "flivver" which was awarded the prize for carrying the most passengers to Grinnell in the cross country race a week ago.

Before leaving, an announcement that an article appearing in the Delphic telling of the great self-satisfaction to be derived from running the blockade of railroad detectives and of the greater hospitality of way-point bastilles was not meant to incite hobo racing was made by Paul Cotton of Des Moines, editor, Paul Cotton of Des Moines, editor, assistant editor of the Delphic.

Whether other potential freight-hoppers headed toward Kansas followed their advice was not known, although no ceremonies were held at the freight yard where the suggested contest with police and timetable was to begin.

Albanians Murder Five, Stab Others in Belgrade Attack

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia, Oct. 28 (AP)—Five men were killed and a dozen more stabbed and beaten in a desperate but futile effort to save a score of their women folk who were overpowered and carried into the mountains by Albanian tribesmen Thursday.

As on previous occasions the Albanians chose the season when the women leave the villages carrying fruit and other products to sell in the towns leaving their husbands at home to guard the children and cattle.

A party of women left the Psad and Djakovac district for the markets at dawn. They were hardly outside the village when ambushed Albanians pounced upon them. The women's cries were heard by the men who had escorted them to the village boundary. They ran to the rescue but were overwhelmed by the raiders who killed five and wounded a dozen of them and escaped with the weeping women.

An expedition was started after the robbers but success was regarded as doubtful as the mountains are already covered with snow.

Steamer Sends S.O.S.

VINEYARD HAVEN, Mass., Oct. 28 (AP)—(Saturday)—Calls for assistance from the Italian steamer Labor were picked up shortly after midnight by Royal Baggett, a wireless operator here. The vessel reported her position as approximately 100 miles south of Nantucket lightship and said she had lost her propeller.

Bank Safety Box Fails to Reveal Hidden Fortune

CHICAGO, Oct. 28 (AP)—Nine official observers hovered expectantly over a little man drilling into a black safety deposit box in the vault of the Rogers Park National bank here today. Suddenly his tiny, whirling drill bit into the secret of the lock, the lid flew back, and there was revealed—nothing, absolutely nothing.

Astonishment and chagrin overtook the features of the intent watchers for some of them had expected to find the box a cache for possibly $1,000,000 worth of the assets. George Remus, former Chicago lawyer and later Cincinnati bootleg king, asserted the wife he recently slew, had made away with it while he served in the federal penitentiary at Atlanta, Ga.

The safety box was held in the name of Mrs. I. A. Holmes, believed to have been an alias used by Mrs. Remus, who formerly was Mrs. Imogene Holmes.

Disappointment but still believing that ultimately much of Remus' money and securities would be found in Chicago, Harry N. Pritzger, attorney here for Remus, said he would continue his search through four other banks and for holdings under seven different aliases. Remus had written that Mrs. Remus might have used.

Grayson Pilot to Stay With Ship

OLD ORCHARD, Me., Oct. 28 (AP)—Rumors that Wilmer Stultz, pilot of Mrs. Frances Grayson's projected air expedition to Copenhagen, was on the point of retiring from the flight were dispelled tonight by Stultz in his first public statement concerning his reported difficulties with Mrs. Grayson. Admitting freely that he wished to resign as pilot, Stultz said he would remain with the expedition under his contract with the commander.

Since the amphibian plane "Dawn" was forced last Sunday by motor trouble to return to Old Orchard from a point off Nova Scotia, reports had been current of a disagreement between Mrs. Grayson and her pilot.

Will Not Replace Stultz

Today when Mrs. Grayson went to Boston for a conference with Clarence B. Chamberlin, trans-Atlantic flyer, it was rumored that she hoped to replace Stultz by the man who already had conquered the Atlantic. Mrs. Grayson asserted, however, that she had sought merely to discuss aviation in general with Chamberlin in view of his ripe experience.

"I would be delighted if Mrs. Grayson would get some other pilot for this expedition because I do not believe we will have any suitable flying weather this season," Stultz said. "I have other work which I would like to be doing."

Special Car Brings Denver Pep Group

Seventy-five Denver university students arrived in Iowa City last night. The students came in a special car, to support their team in the Denver-Iowa game today.

Among the passengers, the car carried the Denver pep squad known as the Trail Blazers. They will perform between halves at the game this afternoon.

Coroner to Send Charred Bones to University Medical

ONAWA, Oct. 28 (AP)—Coroner Bernard Todd recommended to the county board of supervisors that the bones found in the ruins of a barn destroyed by fire Tuesday night on the farm of George White, five miles east of Whiting, be sent to the University of Iowa medical college to determine whether they were those of a human.

White, according to the coroner, said his family was awakened Tuesday night when the barn was blazing. He said there was livestock in the barn. Neighbors advanced the theory that a tramp might have taken refuge in the barn and either accidentally or intentionally set the fire and was caught before he could escape. Coroner Bernard, however, declined to advance a theory.

Explosion Causes Fire

MASON CITY, Oct. 28 (AP)—Fire caused by a gasoline explosion at noon today damaged the Decker Packing company plant to the extent of $10,000. Several automobiles and the company garage were burned.

men to start their first intercollegiate game of football. They are Pignatelli, who will replace O'Neal as quarterback, and Johnstone, who will be at the left end position instead of Conley or Cubel. Grimm, blocking halfback last year, will also start his first tilt of the 1927 season, replacing Carlsen at left end.

Although Coach Ingwersen has been shifting the Iowa lineup considerably this week, the above changes are the only ones expected. Brown and Roberts were on the second team in the signal drill yesterday. It is thought that they will start against the rugged Denver aggregation. If any other changes are made it will be at right guard where Fuhrman will take Robert's place.

Pignatelli and Johnstone this week have caused fans who have watched them work predict that they are coming stars.

Denver a Puzzle

Little is known of the Denver team here but by virtue of their victory over the Colorado School of Mines last Saturday, 29 to 0, Hawk-eye mentors fear that they will make it an interesting afternoon for their team. Today when Mrs. Grayson went to Boston for a conference with Clarence B. Chamberlin, trans-Atlantic flyer, it was rumored that she hoped to replace Stultz by the man who already had conquered the Atlantic. Mrs. Grayson asserted, however, that she had sought merely to discuss aviation in general with Chamberlin in view of his ripe experience.

"I would be delighted if Mrs. Grayson would get some other pilot for this expedition because I do not believe we will have any suitable flying weather this season," Stultz said. "I have other work which I would like to be doing."

Grayson Pilot to Stay With Ship

OLD ORCHARD, Me., Oct. 28 (AP)—Rumors that Wilmer Stultz, pilot of Mrs. Frances Grayson's projected air expedition to Copenhagen, was on the point of retiring from the flight were dispelled tonight by Stultz in his first public statement concerning his reported difficulties with Mrs. Grayson. Admitting freely that he wished to resign as pilot, Stultz said he would remain with the expedition under his contract with the commander.

Since the amphibian plane "Dawn" was forced last Sunday by motor trouble to return to Old Orchard from a point off Nova Scotia, reports had been current of a disagreement between Mrs. Grayson and her pilot.

Students Speak on College Drive for Endowment Funds

SIoux CITY, Oct. 28 (AP)—Approximately $165,000 has been pledged in a campaign to increase by $1,001,000 the Morningside college endowment fund.

Student speakers have been active in aiding the campaign committee this week while the drive is being pushed in Sioux City. Last week, when the drive was held in the college, the students pledged at most $17,000.

The largest enrollment in Morningside's history, more than a thousand students, with a corresponding increase in facilities, has resulted in college authorities deciding to increase the endowment rather than limit enrollment.

Fleming Addresses Commerce Classes

"The total annual fire loss in the United States, including the cost of fire prevention, is $1,112,000,000, one-third hundredth of our national wealth," declared T. Alfred Fleming, of Cleveland, who spoke before classes in the college of commerce, Thursday.

Mr. Fleming, who is supervisor of the conservation department of the national board of underwriters, said that 789 women were burned last year while cleaning clothes with gasoline.

"In the Collinwood fire," the speaker said, "73 children were burned because the outside door opened in instead of out."

Ten thousand persons are burned to death, and 20,000 are injured every year because of fire in the United States. 87 per cent of the property loss and 92 per cent of life loss is due to carelessness and could be avoided.

Texas Guinan says, "Queena Mario's advice won me to Luckies"

Famous Star of "Padlocks of 1927" urges a group of her girls back of the stage to adopt Lucky Strikes.

"I always thought that it was a peculiar coincidence that most men and women of the Opera preferred to smoke Lucky Strikes. Upon inquiry I learned that they all felt it was the one cigarette which gave complete enjoyment without the slightest irritation to their throats. I, too, now can say that of Lucky Strikes. I enjoy them greatly and have no worry that my voice will be affected."

You, too, will find that LUCKY STRIKES give the greatest pleasure—Mild and Mel-low, the finest cigarettes you ever smoked. Made of the choicest tobaccos, properly aged and blended with great skill, and there is an extra process—"IT'S TOASTED"—no harshness, not a bit of bite.

"It's toasted"

No Throat Irritation—No Cough.

Guernsey Speaks on Public Utilities

American Telegraph Official Tells of State Control

Nathaniel T. Guernsey, vice-president of the American Telephone and Telegraph company, concluded his annual series of lectures before the public utilities course of the college of law yesterday.

It is the opinion of the faculty of the college of law that Mr. Guernsey's lectures are particularly valuable to students because of the varied experiences which the speaker has had in the utilities field.

In the lectures, Mr. Guernsey stressed the power of the state to regulate utilities as a legislative power. The power to regulate, however, does not include the power to confiscate the property of a corporation, since confiscation would be taking property without due process.

One of the practical points brought out by Mr. Guernsey is that the public is more interested in good service than in low rates. Few persons would appreciate a slight reduction in rates, but the public generally would greatly appreciate improvements in service.

The lecturer pointed out that the "capitalists" of today, that is those who own stock in utilities, are scattered throughout the United States. They include people from all walks of life, bankers, hod carriers, stenographers, barbers, and even dressmakers.

Mr. Guernsey concluded his course with the statement that the public utility of today is not an organization separate and distinct from the public, but is rather to be identified with the public. It is subject to regulation for public interest.

School Papers More Professional. His lecture was followed by the photographing of the entire group on the steps of Old Capitol. "Getting the Most Out of Publications Work" was the topic Mr. Lazell chose. He advised the writers to live intensely, all the time and all their lives.

The Iowa Union was again the scene of the annual banquet. Entertainment was furnished between courses by Virginia Capell, A4 of Council Bluffs, "blues" singer, and Fred Jarvis, A3 of Charleston at the piano.

Mr. Frederick gave valuable advice to the young writer in his address on "Getting a Start in Writing." He summarized his advice in three points: first, get acquainted with the folks at home; second, read, for though no one ever learned to write by reading, neither can one learn to write without reading; and third, learn to write by writing constantly.

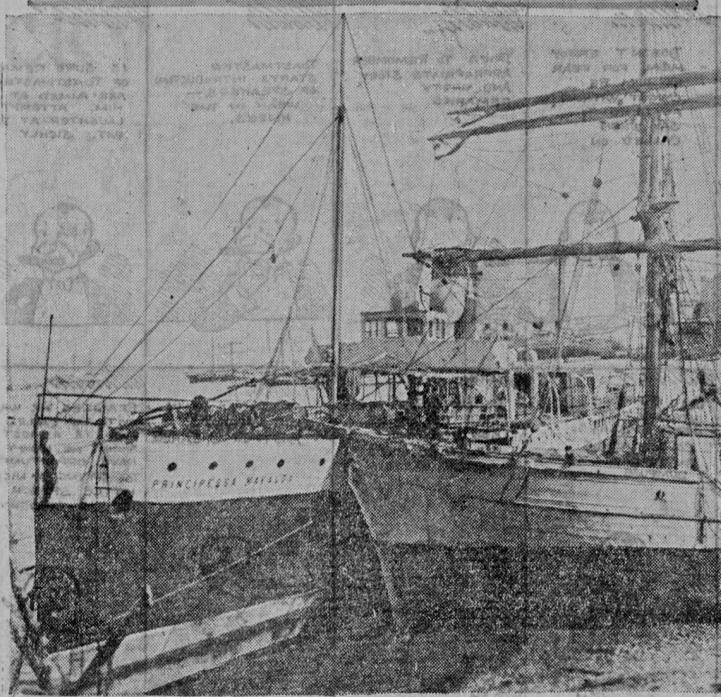

Will Initiate Today. This morning will be spent in initiating twenty new members into the Quill and Scroll organization, a joint meeting of editorial and business staffs and contests in all fields of journalistic writing.

This afternoon the visitors will be guests at the Iowa-Denver football game and a tea given by Theta Sigma Phi. Delegates will also have charge of Sunday's Daily Iowan. The closing event on the program will be the carnival dance at Iowa Union tonight, sponsored by Sigma Delta Chi. The New England Ragadors will play for a program of dancing, beginning at 8:30 o'clock.

Growers Sell Apples

DES MOINES, Oct. 28 (AP)—Nearly all of Iowa's apple growers this season were able to dispose of their crop quickly in their own neighborhoods. R. S. Herrick, secretary of the Iowa Horticultural Society, declares. Shortage of apple yields in the United States and in Iowa, especially, was responsible for good sale and early cleanup of the crop, he says. Good prices were paid.

ITALIAN LINER SINKS WITH LOSS OF 300 LIVES

Here is first picture of ill-fated Italian liner, 'Principessa Mafalda,' which sank 130 miles off Brazilian coast with loss of 300 lives after striking a reef. The steamer was bound from Genoa to Rio de Janeiro with 1,600 passengers, many of whom were rescued by heroic effort of crews of four ships which responded to frantic S.O.S. calls. Most of the huge loss of life was in the steamer. Many rescues were made by French ship 'Formose.' Photo shows 'Principessa Mafalda' when it collided with sailing ship, 'Romeo,' near Naples, recently.

Quill and Scroll Has Rapid Rise

High School Society Boasts Members in 45 States

The growth of Quill and Scroll, national honorary society for high school journalists has been phenomenal in the year and a half of its existence. Since April 10, 1926, when the organization was founded at the University of Iowa, the membership has grown to 2,500, with chartered chapters in more than 200 schools, representing forty-five states.

The actual achievements of the society during this comparatively short time have been many. Perhaps the most important project has been the attempt to find America's most gifted young journalists in conducting twenty-five national and state contests in creative work. The result was the book of "Best Creative Work in American High Schools, 1926-27." These contests and the book will be annual events.

The society has been particularly active in advancing information and advice to business staffs. In this work it has aided in the establishment of an advertising cut service. A great deal of research work has been made possible through the cooperation of the many members of the society. In this way, it has been able to ascertain amazing statistics concerning high school journalism.

There are 6,000 year books, 7,000 papers and 800 magazines published by high schools in the United States. The total expense of these publications annually reaches the high mark of $7,200,000. This is equal to an expenditure every year, of two dollars per student, regardless of age. However, the most of this figure is paid by advertising which these publications carry.

Engineering Group Holds Initiation for Seven Honor Men

Seven men were initiated into Tau Beta Pi, honorary scholastic fraternity for engineers, at a meeting Thursday afternoon.

The new members are: Roland L. Roy, E4 of Reno, Nev.; Raymond N. Waley, E4 of Iowa City; William E. Christiansen, E4 of Ricketts; James A. Taylor, E4 of Davenport; Marvin J. Reid, E4 of Cedar Rapids; Frank W. Edwards, E4 of Wyoming; and Marlin E. Fogle, E3 of Diagonal.

Following the initiation, a banquet was held at Iowa Union. Carlton H. Lewis, E4 of Bellevue, acted as toastmaster. Talks were given by the three Greek letters of the society's name. John F. Well, represented Tau; Frank Edwards, Beta; and Dean C. C. Williams, Prof. Floyd A. Naster, and Prof. Donald D. Curtis, Pi.

record which reads slightly better than Iowa's with two victories and two defeats. The Hawkeyes, however, hold a better record in inter-sectional tilts than does Denver for Iowa has won six of its seven inter-sectional battles while Denver has won two and lost eight in the past twenty years.

Coached by Fred Dawson, former University of Nebraska mentor, who coached Cornhusker teams to four Missouri Valley conference championships and turned out an aggregation which defeated Notre Dame, will bring a squad of twenty-two men here who are noted in western circles for their offensive power. An aerial attack, said to be the best on the eastern slope of the Rockies, is the chief ground gaining weapon of the visitors.

Team in Good Condition

With the exception of Lauer, quarterback, the Iowa team is in good condition for the fray. Lauer has a bad knee which may keep him out of the game for Coach Ingwersen wishes that he should be in the best of condition for the Illinois game here next Saturday. The defeat at the hands of Minnesota, instead of discouraging the Iowa men has installed additional flight and spirit in the players. Hawkeye fans expect the team to make its best showing of the season today.

The Hawkeyes will hold a weight advantage of seven pounds to the man over the Pioneers. Denver boasts two men who tip the beam in excess of 200 pounds; Hatton, center, and Brostman, tackle. The latter will play against Captain Nelson of the Hawkeyes. Iowa will also have two men who weigh over 200 pounds in the lineup. Brown at center, and Westra at guard.

The probable lineups:

IOWA	DENVER
Johnstone	LELE Jacobs
Schleuser	LT LT Carbiener
Westra	LG LG De Rose
Brown	CC CC Hatton
Roberts	RE RE Saunders
Nelson (c)	RT RT Brotzman
Grimm	RE RE Poe
Pignatelli	QB QB Spöcken
Schmidt	LB LB Panek (c)
Glasgow	RB RB Albers
Arnall	FB FB Smith

Average weight of lines: Iowa 190, Denver 181.
Average weight of backfields: Iowa 170, Denver 165.
Average weight of teams: Iowa 183, Denver 176.
Officials: referee, J. H. Nichols (Oberlin); umpire, W. D. Knight (Dartmouth); field judge, P. Graves (Illinois); head linesman, C. Dortic (Maimo).
Time of game: 2 p. m.

Governor Towner Leads Discussion

Gov. Horace M. Towner, of Porto Rico, will lead a discussion of the problems connected with the administration of the United States' insular possessions, at a round table conference to be held this morning at 10 o'clock in the senate chamber of Old Capitol.

Governor Towner came to Iowa City last night from Des Moines, and was the guest of his nephew John Towner Frederick, professor in the English department.

At noon he will be guest of honor at a luncheon held in Iowa Union. The governor formerly of Corning, holds an honorary degree from this university.

From Iowa City he will go to Washington, D. C. and then to Porto Rico.

Iowa Teachers Meet in State Convention

DES MOINES, Oct. 28 (AP)—Advance registration indicates that the Iowa state teachers' convention, which opens Thursday, will be the largest in the history of the organization. Charles F. Pye, secretary, said today.

At present 4,400 reservations have been made by mail, this number exceeding previous years by several hundred. The general sessions will be held at the Shrine temple with the annual concert Friday night in the coliseum as in previous years.

The Dome of Old Capitol

If funds could be provided, an outstanding improvement on the campus would be the illumination of the dome of Old Capitol at night. Since the restoration of the building some four years ago, there has been no illumination.

Two years ago plans to light the structure were to be tried out to determine the best method, but there the enterprise stopped. Why not continue the process and establish some method of lighting the dome?

The cost of this venture can certainly not be prohibitive, as the walks which lead to Old Capitol are illuminated far into the night. The Quaker Oats company at Cedar Rapids is now installing a 7,000,000 candle-power light at the top of its mill. Old Capitol is certainly worth more to the citizens of the state than any one factory in the commonwealth.

In years previous when the dome was illuminated, it was a landmark of this community. Graduates of the university will soon be returning to Iowa City for the annual Homecoming festivities. Why not greet them by having Old Capitol extend its welcome while they are still on their journey?

Fights and—Fights

FEDERAL authorities are exerting every effort to prohibit the transfer from state to state of films picturing the Dempsey-Tunney fight. Having hauled in heavy taxes on gate receipts, the government has right-about-faced and has established itself protector of the public morals.

"The land of the free" shows signs of becoming an amplified day nursery, but what nurse ever imposed such a regulation? You may see gambling, racing, robbing, murder, in the movies, but prize fighting you may not see.

This brings up the question, Is it more disastrous to public morals to see the fight filmed than to hear radio announcers bawl, "Tunney swings left at Dempsey's bad eye; Dempsey lands a smashing right on Tunney's jaw!"

Nay! Nay! Public morals, having survived movie murders innumerable, will not be degraded by such innocent sport as a prize fight.

Raise the Awnings

IOWA CITY soot and the material of a dark suit mix well. But Iowa City's low, smudgy awnings and the new shades of light greys and tans in fall headwear will not mix.

Many of the awnings on downtown streets are several inches too low to permit the safe passage beneath of the individual of average height. If the city were composed of a homogeneous population of men and women, five feet five inches high, the present low hanging awnings would pass unnoticed. Since nature cannot raise and lower the hanging of awnings to coincide with the length of her charges, the city of Iowa City should make provisions for her handicap.

It is bad enough to dodge clouds of flying soot, but when in the course of one of these dodges, the victim gets a slap on the head from one of our low-hanging, sooty awnings, his remarks are best not repeated.

It is not going to do any good to change the color of the fall and winter hat shades, for black hats are in the minority. Let's raise the awnings!

The Vogue for Epithets

GEORGE SELDES, Chicago Daily News correspondent in Italy, ousted by Mussolini for reporting fascist violence, is dubbed a "fat swine" by the fascist press. Calvin Coolidge is—in the brutal metaphor of Senator Reed—a "Boston oyster;" Harry M. Daugherty is in the fierce invective of the same gentleman, "as vile an insect as ever crawled across the page of time." H. L. Mencken has in "Mencken's Book" slung the word "booboisie" at a long suffering and fairly intelligent public.

Now if Mr. Seldes will come back at the fascist press with the appellation "spaghetti gobbler;" if Mr. Coolidge will talk long enough to say that Senator Reed is a "Missourian wind-bag;" if Mencken-haters will take the word "booboisie," reverse it, revise it slightly, and call Mr. Mencken a "noisy boob," then a new war will have been launched—more unique, more stimulating, and quite as reasonable as most heretofore staged.

There Are Smiles—

WHY does Colonel Lindbergh shun the smiles of the American girl? Only Thursday fifteen pretty chorus girls failed in an attempt to speak to the world's hero. Only one girl can rightfully claim intimacy with "Lindy." She rode with him on his motorcycle, but that was before he took up aviation.

There are rumors which might be enlightening if true. The New York Times had a series of stories which were withheld because of the doubtfulness of their veracity. The most vicious rumor attributes his dislike for the fair sex to disagreements with his mother. It was common property among the gossips that "Lindy" and his mother had not been on speaking terms since the death of his father. They held that the relations between the mother and son were forced. The Times came to the conclusion that the story was coined by gossips and discredited it.

The average American boy would gladly welcome the attention of beautiful girls, but "Lindy" is different. Because he was different, he became the idol of the world over night.

Lindbergh is a good second for President Coolidge. Nothing seems to disturb him except the smiles of women.

A Day of Rest

SUNDAY as a day of rest has lost its appeal, especially to university students. After working at maximum pitch throughout the week, one would naturally expect a normal student to be willing to take things easy on Sunday. He isn't. The reaction is too great. Something must be done to fill the time. And the activities must be mental and physical.

Of course, there are religious exercises which fill part of the day for many students on Sundays, and they are commendable. But for the rest of the day, what does the university itself offer? It closes the libraries. It closes the swimming pools, the gymnasiums, and most ridiculous of all, the tennis courts. The tennis season is extremely short, the time of the students during the week is very limited, and then on Sundays the courts are locked.

Whether or not a movie, a car ride, or an afternoon of absolute laziness is better for the student than a healthy game of tennis is a matter of conjecture, but that matter should be left for the student himself to decide.

Most students have a hard enough fight to break down habits of laziness. Each Sunday offers the relapse which prevents the maximum energy habit from becoming fixed.

Commenting on the fact that a monument is to be erected to Jesse James in his home town, the Burlington Gazette says someday about 1990 you'll read about the unveiling of a memorial to a wrestling promoter.

Ruth Elder once won a bathing-beauty contest, but obviously did not score that particular victory by posing in a non-sinkable suit, says the Sioux City Tribune.

No Illegal Scars

(From The Iowa State Student)

The menace of collegiate liquor seems to have stirred national prohibition authorities to added effort. According to a report from the United Press, the commission is starting a nationwide campaign against campus bootlegging activities. The object is to check the widespread drinking on the part of college men.

It seems that it is not an exaggeration to state that perhaps as many as one-fourth of the male college students in the country are occasional drinkers—occasional enough to present a nut that the national prohibition authorities expect to have difficulty in cracking.

That drinking of intoxicating liquor is one of the major problems of most schools is quite apparent to school authorities. At Iowa State this problem does not exist to such a large extent as at similar sized institutions. Whether it is because the morals of the student body are of a higher standard or whether the pocketbooks of the group are too near the empty stage can only be approximated. Evidently the conditions here are not conducive to much drinking.

With the advent of Homecoming, many alumni will be returning who perhaps have not quite the same standards or ideas about the drinking question as the majority of students. In fact, they may be so radically inclined toward a negative interpretation of the eighteenth amendment that they will even unwork means of demonstrating this attitude from the depths of their satchels.

Of course it will be a passing thing, but oftentimes this influence can be far-reaching and detrimental. It depends upon the group who are doing the entertaining whether drinking will be tolerated. May the fraternities come off the battlefield of Homecoming festivities without any scare of illegal conflict.

Chills and Fever

Astrabilious Bards

Having leaned on their pens since the Sacco-Vanzetti case, the editorial writers of the New York World have been tormented by the crusading bug. The bug has, like a French cootie, put in its dirty work. Result: Bigger and Better Poems!

That this campaign should receive serious consideration is manifest in the "Conning Tower" column of the same paper. Therein, above the signature of "Dugald Dhu" the following—

BAGATELLE
 Again we have the season
 When nature falls to please
 And Boreas turns his breeze on
 Debilitated trees,
 That, chilled by cool caresses,
 All foliage discard—
 This annually impresses
 Each astrabilious bard.

For each the autumn urge is
 To tell us what it means
 By gull and dismal dirges
 In decked magazines.
 But youngsters, bent on pleasure,
 No weighty problem grieves—
 They chant some tribal measure
 In gutters, scuffling leaves.

However, a World writer asserts that the poet was disoriented. He writes—

"We had as lief debate with a bucket of paint as with a poet, perhaps a little liefer. Yet in this instance we cannot afford refrain from pointing out to Mr. Dhu that his effort is based on a false set of premises. This is not conspicuously the season which impresses bards, astrabilious or otherwise."

As proof for his statements, the critic calls for aid upon Mr. Bartlett's "Familiar Quotations." And scanning the index, he observes the following number of poems per month—

January	0
February	1
March	7
April	8
May	14
June	6
July	2
August	0
September	1
October	2
November	2
December	6

"Thus it can be seen," continues the critic, "that any of the autumn months are as far in the second division as the other seven clubs of the American league. And if Mr. Dhu wants to do a poem which will really stand up under critical analysis, he must wait until next May and then revise, perhaps this way—"

BAGATELLE
 When nature sure does please,
 And Hephaestus turns his breeze on
 Debilitated trees,
 That, warmed by hot caresses,
 New leaves and buds sprout—
 This annually impresses
 Each psychopathic lout.

"For each the springtime bliss is
 To tell us what it means
 By doggerel such as this is,
 In decked magazines.
 But youngsters, bent on pleasure,
 No gooty passion wraps—
 They chant some tribal measure
 In gutters, shooting craps."

Chil's Speaks—
 Behind this movement we are in the front. And from time to time we present verse which undeniably should drive the castor oil jobbers out of business. Hjalmar often has an idea. Omar, The Big Cigarette Man, is realistic. Rio & writes rhymes. Sappo indulges in verse libre. Box writes of love and Dizzy is sick—which amounts to the same thing. El Producto is romantic and Scholtz gives us the low-down on Cleopatra. We believe that we have a literary clique that should knock Doc Johnson for a string of Boswells. And we're ready to match pens with Ted Cook's "Cook-Cook" or R. H. L.'s "Line-O-Tripe" any day.

As to Art, that is a different matter. We don't pretend to Art. We believe Art will take care of itself. He's a capable fellow and shouldn't be mixing drinks with this column. Naturally, if Homer or Bill Shakespeare or Dante should come around some night and say—
 "I am a ghost. Here is a poem."
 "We wouldn't reply,
 "Why, that's ghastly!"
 No, indeed! We would take the poem and shut up. We know how to treat ghosts. We aren't rude to them. It's bad business to be rude to ghosts. For there's nothing like a ghost when it's been insulted.

But we quite naively declare that American poetry must be jazzed-up poetry. It must be free verse—just as free as Americans even if they have prohibition. It must speak of pop-corn, baseball, student suicides, and that other American institution—divorce.

Further, we don't use any terms we would have to hunt up in the dictionary. The dictionary is across the room—and this weather isn't encouraging to calisthenics. It might give us sun-stroke. It would be good exercise for the Y. W.'s on a secret hike or the Elphis with their "hunting party." (What in heaven's name do they intend to hunt for?) But whoever heard of a modern girl using a dictionary? It just isn't fashionable. It went out with brains and long-hair.

Naturally, we would prefer long poems. Get to our dates earlier. But above all, American poems—"may they always be right, but right or wrong, American poems!"

TO GRADUATE STUDENTS

The graduate catalog states that the doctor's qualifying examination shall be taken at least one academic year before the degree is conferred. The graduate council has recently voted that this shall be interpreted to mean that at least twenty-four of the credits required for the doctorate must be earned after the qualifying examination for the doctorate has been taken. The graduate council is of the opinion that this examination should be taken earlier than has been the tendency the last two or three years because the only purpose of the examination is to determine whether or not the student should be encouraged to be a candidate for the doctorate.

"Blue Grass" Country to Attract Fox Hunters for Annual Trials

RICHMOND, Ky., Oct. 24 (AP)—Fox hunters of America turn to Madison county, the cradle of the sport in this country and the birthplace of the Walker strain of fox hounds, for the annual field trials of the National Fox Hunters' association this year.

Over the same blue-grass carpeted hills and vales, where in 1866 the Walkers, Maupins, Terrills and other pioneer Kentuckians coursed their hounds in the first organized American field trials, the seventh annual Chase Futurity and the 34th National All-Age races will be run from Oct. 31 to Nov. 5.

Among the 300 or more hounds competing will be many with pedigrees reaching back to the foundation stock of the Walker and Trigg strains and the first imported Cumberland Gap from Virginia.

A single prize, a silver dog collar, was offered in the first trials. In contrast, more than two score silver trophies will be awarded this year in addition to $1,000 in cash divided among the Chase Futurity winners.

The origin of the present trials probably dates from 1828. It was then that General Washington Maupin and John W. Walker, founders of the Walker strain, began breeding along blood lines to improve hounds and vied with others hunters in running their packs.

Nominations for the Seventh Chase Futurity total 195 hounds, registered and less than two years old. The All-Age stake will begin at daybreak Nov. 3 and a field of about 150 dogs will start in the hunt, which leads to the National Field Trial championship and possession of the Ed Walker cup for one year.

Hollowed with traditions of a quarter-century, the cup is awarded the hound making the highest general average. An owner whose hounds win the cup three times may keep it, but the only sportsman who has ever accomplished this feat returned it to competition. Ona Stride, the 1926 champion, is owned by Burton brothers, but his past victory means nothing this year, for never has a champion repeated.

Grade Trailing, Running. The entries are graded on hunting and trailing, speed and driving and endurance. They are strictly "on their own," as owners and handlers are forbidden to lend encouragement in any manner. Among strange pack mates and without the familiar voice to urge them on, the hounds must pick up scent, trail and then join the general hue and cry when the fox is routed and started on the race for life.

In the Blue Grass country it is a race, for red foxes abound and, being more courageous and hardy than their gray-furred brothers, will run for miles, using all cunning to throw off the pack before "holding up."

Attended by many of the nation's leading sportsmen and their ladies, the trials always are marked with colorful social events.

Bank Legislation Not Needed Now. Lovrien Believes Improved Economic State Lessens Necessity.

DES MOINES, Oct. 27 (AP)—Residents in northwestern Iowa are not now taking so kindly to bank guaranty legislation as they did a year ago and the next legislature will not witness an insistence for a bank guaranty law, on their part, in the opinion of State Representative Fred Lovrien of Humboldt county.

The reason for this, Rep. Lovrien said, is a change in economic conditions for the better in the last few months.

"The seven years of adversity have passed," in the opinion of the majority of residents of the section of Iowa hardest hit by the slump in farm prices," Representative Lovrien said.

"In communities where bank failures were common, one now finds financial institutions pulling out of their difficulties, and the farmers and business men retiring their old obligations."

During the last session of the legislature, Mr. Lovrien was the principal champion for various measures of bank guaranty nature.

If he is returned to the legislature next year, Mr. Lovrien said, he would not make bank guaranty legislation his principal objective. The statement, however, was conditioned upon continued improvement and stability of the banking business.

something." He walked to the table, unlocked a flat leather case, and took out some papers. Becky's heart throbbed painfully, approached and looked over his shoulders. "Do you see this?" Scarlett held up a printed square. "Know what it is? A marriage license, taken out in Greenwich. And these—" Scarlett opened a long envelope, revealing half a dozen letters on heavy cream colored paper surmounted by the Estabrook crest. "These," he remarked, "will come in very handy if you persist in throwing bars in our victorious path."

"Oh . . . Becky's low voice shook, "It is blackmail, then?" "That's an ugly word, Miss McCloskey," said Scarlett. "But it may turn out to be a boomerang. Tell Estabrook if you dare. Sure—tell him you've introduced his sister to a blackmailer . . ." Scarlett, chuckling, replaced the letters in the brief case, locked it, and pocketed the key. "I think," he observed, "you know which side your bread's buttered on. On Monday morning Miss Estabrook and I will be married in Greenwich. If you behave in the meantime we'll invite you to our first party. And I'm sure that, in gratitude, Miss Estabrook will help you in every way to become her sister-in-law."

Becky caught Scarlett's arm. "Dan—aren't you human at all? Haven't you any feelings? Dan, for pity sake give me those letters. You're doing a terrible thing." "Nonsense," said Scarlett. "I'll make an excellent husband, see if I don't." He crossed the room toward the decenter, and Becky, desperate, picked up the briefcase and swung toward the door. But the door—as she had, for the moment forgotten was locked. Scarlett turned and commanded levelly: "Put that down before I take it away from you. I've had enough of your interference, and I'm in the humor to stop it."

Wheat Goes Down Again as Corn's Price Sent High

CHICAGO, Oct. 28 (AP)—Undoing of spread trades between wheat and corn was largely responsible today for a downturn in wheat values whereas the corn market simultaneously went higher. The undoing of spreads consisted of sales of wheat against purchases of corn. Wheat closed nervous, 3c to 1c net lower, corn at 5c to 1 1/2c advance, oats 1/2c up, and provisions changed to a rise of 35c.

Favorable conditions for moving the Canadian crop were coincident with indications of a pause in export demand for wheat from North America. Besides, Liverpool quotations were a good deal lower than due, crop reports from Argentina were bearish, and European wheat production outside of Russia was estimated at 75,000,000 bushels more than last year, although of poor quality in some countries, especially Germany and France.

Big arrivals of wheat at Winnipeg, 2,679 cars today compared with 1,637 a year ago, counted further as a bear influence, as did word that country marketings in Canada yesterday totalled 6,111,000 bushels.

Prospective unsettled weather tends to strengthen the corn market. Husking returns continued to be disappointing. Oats were responsive to upturns in corn.

Market and Financial News

Bear Pressure in Stocks Acts to Weaken Market

NEW YORK, Oct. 28 (AP)—Stock prices today were unable to withstand the pressure which bear operators put upon them. A weakening all along the line of so-called pivotal issues developed marked uncertainty in the entire list, and when those working for a decline forced out a number of weak spots in addition to the leaders, recessions of two to four points or more became numerous.

In many instances the lowest prices of the day were recorded in the final hour. Such favorites as U. S. Steel and General Electric fell to new low levels on the reaction. Little was presented in the way of news. Lower earnings by Bethlehem Steel, added to the shrinkage of steel income, and the continued tardiness of the expected annual recovery of the trade, caused further selling of the steel shares. Railway earnings reports appearing during the day gave little cause for rejoicing, and the dividend paying carriers, which had been resisting pressure with some success, joined in the general rout.

The decrease of more than $90,000,000 in brokers' loans, reported last night after the close, gave the market early strength, but operators for the advance, unable to obtain a large following in view of the unsettled conditions, were forced to retreat.

Recently strong issues were undermined in some cases by realizing. This was particularly true in the insurance division, in which large advances were sharply reduced, or turned into losses.

Call loans were quoted at 3 1/2 percent despite the calling of about $15,000,000 by banks. The weekly mercantile reviews, sounded a rather indifferent note on the business outlook, which continued to present marked irregularities.

Particularly hard hit shares in today's decline were Dupont, which plunged down eleven points, Houson Oil, Union Pacific, Freeport Texas Steel Common, and General Motors. The list of declines ranging from one to two points was unusually formidable, and extended to all sections of the list. The average of ten leading stocks dipped at most three points, with the dividend payers suffering the heaviest losses.

Foreign exchanges were generally firm, with a 4 1/2 point drop in Spanish pesetas by way of contrast. Japanese yen gained about four and Dutch guilders two. Demand sterling was quoted around $4.86 11-16, and francs just below 3.92 1/2 cents.

Smaller Volume of New Bond Issues Results Firm Prices

NEW YORK, Oct. 28 (AP)—A smaller volume of new issues was reflected by more general activity and firmer prices in the bond market today. However, with money easy, bond owners were still reluctant to part with their holdings so that transactions, except in a few cases, were rather small. Doubtless the unsettled condition of the stock market caused some investors to shift their attention to mortgages, which led to renewed improvement of some of the high grade issues.

The week's new offerings fell short of the $200,000,000 mark for the first time in three weeks, but the amount rose to a formidable total above $150,000,000. Some of the new issues, are still awaiting absorption.

Although the demand for high grade railroad issues was good, profit-taking toward the close reduced fair sales by Erie 5's, Chesapeake 5's, Rock Island 4 1/2's, and several others. "Frisco" 4's and Lake Shore 4's (new), established a new maximum.

Loew 6's with warrants, were active, but other industrials were quiet. Aside from a drop of 1 1/2 in Brooklyn Union Gas 5 1/2's, there was little of interest in the utility group.

Firm tendencies ruled the federal government list, treasury 4's and 4 1/2's selling at new peak prices for the year. The foreign group appeared to be improved but declines nevertheless were numerous enough to offset the gains.

WHAT HAS HAPPENED SO FAR
Becky McCloskey, young and good-looking, tries to make her way alone in New York, meets Dan Scarlett who lives by his wits. He makes love to her, but discovers she has a share in her profits. Becky has made an ideal of John Estabrook, a very rich young man of high social standing. Through Scarlett's influence she joins a Broadway chorus. He upbraids her for not picking out a millionaire admirer and getting what she can out of him. At a studio party given by Boris Abelard, a close friend of Estabrook's, Becky is thrown into a fountain with her clothes on. She faints, and Abelard angrily sends his guests away and has her taken care of. Months afterward Becky meets Estabrook in the studio. She interests him and he kisses her. She stands dazed and tells him she expected him to be different. He apologizes. Estabrook hears her sing, tells her she has a wonderful voice, takes her to her shabby little room in his car and tells her he loves her. Becky shows she is in love with him. Scarlett urges her to get what she can out of Estabrook and not to delude herself with any idea that Estabrook will marry her. Becky greatly worried, confesses to Abelard, who has proven a devoted friend, that she loves Estabrook. Abelard realizing the social chasm between them tells her she must be mad. Later Estabrook tells Boris he is fond of Becky and Boris urges him to treat her gently. Scarlett cashing in on a shady deal leaves town, but is kept informed of Becky's activities by a woman friend. Estabrook takes Becky to his home. She meets Nan, his sister, loved by Lord Travlers, a young Englishman. The girls agree to be friends; the next day they meet by an accident, go to tea and Scarlett walks in and forces an introduction. Nan is fascinated by him. He takes her home and Becky meets with an accident which lays her up for ten days. When she recovers Scarlett informs her that if her dreams come true and Estabrook marries her she'll have him (Scarlett) for a brother-in-law. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXIV
"Now, now, now," said Dan Scarlett, setting down his empty glass and wagging a warning forefinger at Becky: "Why all the wild excitement? Supposing we are married, what then? Is that any reason for breaking good glass and calling on the name of the Lord in vain?"

"You aren't then?" Becky pushed aside a bundle of newspapers and sat—or rather sagged—down on the long table opposite Scarlett. "Not yet."

"Thank heaven for that. Oh, you threw a terrible scare into me." Scarlett's straight eyebrows drew together over his straight, finely modeled nose. His voice, however, showed no sign of irritation; it remained even, rather patient. "You're an illogical little devil, Becky," he said. "You don't see anything queer in the fact that you want to marry Estabrook, and still you make an infernal row at the mere idea that I might marry his sister."

"Well, brother, there's a difference and you know it," Becky smiled, but her fingers, clasped at the nape of her neck, twisted together like agonized serpents. "I didn't pick out John Estabrook, it just happened. I fell in love, see?"

"And don't you think I can fall in love? Eh?"

"Yes, with your own face in a looking glass, maybe."

"Ah, of course. You're one of these splendid creatures with an eighteen carat heart." Scarlett leaned forward and tipped the decenter again. His eyes, peering slantwise at Becky, held just the shadow of a sneer. "Your choice was purely disinterested, to be sure. You didn't know who Estabrook was. You'd never heard that he had one of the largest incomes in the state of New York. You hadn't had a look at his mother's pearls. Oh no, not you, you little angel."

"You know I didn't. Oh—"

Becky swung down from the table and faced Scarlett accusingly. "Oh, how can you be so rotten unfair?" Then, with a little pleading gesture: "Please Dan. Let's not quarrel. We're friends, aren't we?"

Scarlett looked at her inquiringly, and Becky, remembering that the part she played was for a good cause, came toward him and allowed him to draw her down on the arm of his chair.

Looking at him sideways, "It wasn't very nice of you to meet Nan without telling me a thing about it," she murmured. "Especially as I introduced you. Anyhow, she's just an innocent kid, Dan. You ought to leave her alone."

Scarlett, catching hold of her wrists, drew Becky toward him. "Listen," he said, "you asked me to keep clear of your affairs, to give you a free field. Well, I've done it. I've let you have your way. Turn about's fair play, so you mind your own business and I'll mind mine."

"It's different Dan, can't you see it's different?" Becky, staring down at her trapped wrists, felt a sort of panic descending upon her. "You aren't in love with the girl. She'd bore you stiff in a week. And she . . ." Becky caught her breath. "She doesn't understand you. She's been shut up and taken care of all her life; you're something new. But she couldn't love you, she couldn't."

"Oh is that so?" Mr. Scarlett's fingers tightened viciously. "How'd you figure that out, Miss Wisdom?"

"Well, you aren't either of us—good enough by half," Becky returned sulkily. She laid her free hand over her heart, as if to still the sudden stab of pain that had pierced it. "Let her go, Dan. You'll only hurt her and not get yourself anything. She won't marry you."

"You're damn sure of yourself, Cinderella. But she's not such a snob as her brother," Becky twisted back, but he held her. "She'll marry me right enough, don't worry your head about that."

"I don't believe it," Becky said breathlessly. "She's engaged see? To an Englishman. And—"

"And by Monday this time she'll be Mrs. Dan Scarlett."

"You're lying!"

"Yes? Think just because you haven't managed to get an offer—"

"Shut up," Becky's voice rose pleadingly. "You won't get away with this. I'll go to Estabrook and tell him, I'll—"

"You'll cook your own goose nicely if you do, Cinderella. I've ample means to keep that young man's mouth shut—and his pocket book open."

Scarlett pushed Becky away from him and stood up. "Now come here, and I'll show you something." He walked to the table, unlocked a flat leather case, and took out some papers. Becky's heart throbbed painfully, approached and looked over his shoulders. "Do you see this?" Scarlett held up a printed square. "Know what it is? A marriage license, taken out in Greenwich. And these—" Scarlett opened a long envelope, revealing half a dozen letters on heavy cream colored paper surmounted by the Estabrook crest. "These," he remarked, "will come in very handy if you persist in throwing bars in our victorious path."

"Oh . . . Becky's low voice shook, "It is blackmail, then?" "That's an ugly word, Miss McCloskey," said Scarlett. "But it may turn out to be a boomerang. Tell Estabrook if you dare. Sure—tell him you've introduced his sister to a blackmailer . . ." Scarlett, chuckling, replaced the letters in the brief case, locked it, and pocketed the key. "I think," he observed, "you know which side your bread's buttered on. On Monday morning Miss Estabrook and I will be married in Greenwich. If you behave in the meantime we'll invite you to our first party. And I'm sure that, in gratitude, Miss Estabrook will help you in every way to become her sister-in-law."

Becky caught Scarlett's arm. "Dan—aren't you human at all? Haven't you any feelings? Dan, for pity sake give me those letters. You're doing a terrible thing." "Nonsense," said Scarlett. "I'll make an excellent husband, see if I don't." He crossed the room toward the decenter, and Becky, desperate, picked up the briefcase and swung toward the door. But the door—as she had, for the moment forgotten was locked. Scarlett turned and commanded levelly: "Put that down before I take it away from you. I've had enough of your interference, and I'm in the humor to stop it."

Sample Breaks Javelin Record in Winning Rotary Cup Meet

Yearling Weight Candidate Shows Midseason Form

176 Feet 2 Inch Toss Leads Old Mark By 3 Yards

C. M. Sample, A1 of Webster Grove, broke a record that has been standing four years when he hurled the javelin 176 feet and two inches in the Rotary javelin throw held yesterday at 4 p.m. on Finkbine field.

The former record of 167 feet and two inches was made by Roy Mann of Des Moines in the first Rotary meets held four years ago on this fall. The five men who have won the cup since Mann took it for the first time have failed to break his record.

F. M. Geneva, A1 of Albia, was second in the meet yesterday with Earl Voltmer of Iowa City third. J. S. Green of Des Moines fourth, and Glen Salisbury of Glidden fifth.

Cup Awarded

Sample will receive possession of the traveling Rotary trophy awarded to the winner of this event every six months. Any man who has not previously won the trophy is eligible for the meet. The present holder of the cup is M. E. Thomas of Lavilla.

In the all university fall championship track and field meet here last week Sample won first in the shot put and javelin and second in the discus.

Before coming here this fall Sample has made some enviable records with the weights. In the annual interscholastic track meet held here last spring he won first place in the shot put, discus, and javelin, and second in the hammer throw. He also placed second in the broadjump.

Daine Pleased

Henry M. Daine, university weight coach says the next events on the program for the weight men this fall is the Fall Weight Triathlon which will be held about two weeks after the close of the football season. This is held for the benefit of the weight men who are on the football squad who have not had an opportunity to compete in the early meets. The shot, hammer and discus will be the events held in this meet. Five medals will be awarded to the first five men in both the freshmen and varsity squads in each event.

Field House Pool Open for Scouts

The field house swimming pool will be open to visiting Boy Scouts this morning from 8 to 12 o'clock. A short program will be given for the benefit of the scouts at 11 o'clock.

Boyd Liddle of Davenport, an expert diver and crawl stroke man and one of the most outstanding men on the freshmen squad will be in the exhibition along with about a half a dozen others.

The Boy Scouts may go into the pool any time between the hours indicated and David Armbruster, swimming coach, will be on hand to see that the young fellows have a good time.

Harriers Compete for State Honors on Finkbine Field

Record Entry List to Clash in Annual Prep Race

One hundred fifty-eight athletes representing twenty-six high schools of Iowa, Illinois and Wisconsin, will compete for individual and team honors in the annual University of Iowa cross country run at 11 o'clock this morning on Finkbine field.

Fort Madison has entered three men in an endeavor to uphold the team title won last year. Curtis, who was a member of last year's team, will again run for the Fort Madison school.

Wisconsin will be represented in the meet by East Division high school of Milwaukee. The Milwaukee team is coached by Charles Kahle who has developed such stars as Reinke brothers, Jung and Arndt, former University of Wisconsin track luminaries.

Deatur, Ill., an undefeated team in the F section this year, have entered seven men.

Schools on the list, together with the number of men each has named are: Birmingham, 5; Burlington, 4; Dysart, 5; Deatur, Ill., 7; Dubuque, 5; Elkport, 23; Fort Madison, 3; Geneseo Consolidated (Buckingham), 6; Harvey, 3; Hillsboro, 4; Iowa City, 7; Kalona, 11; Kenwood Park, 6; Keokuk, 6; Knoxville, 3; Maquoketa, 6; East Division high school, Milwaukee, Wis., 5; Mount Union, 6; Ottumwa, 8; Seymour, 1; University High, 5; West Waterloo, 5; East Waterloo, 5; Webster, 1; Washington, Cedar Rapids, 12; and Hudson, 4.

The following are the officials for the meet:

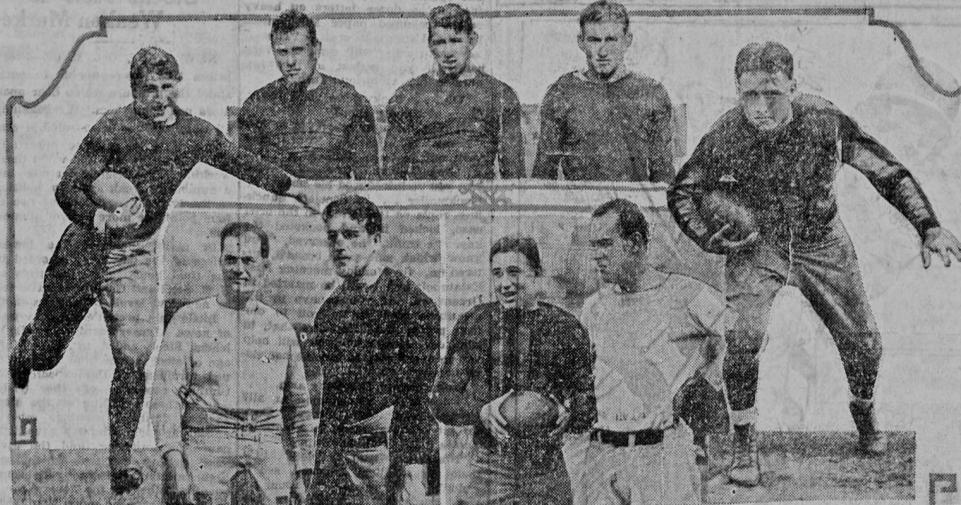

Referee and starter, B. G. March; Timers: Prof. S. L. Miller, J. Hann, M. G. Speers, and L. F. Carroll.

Inspectors: L. W. Burns, T. J. Kelly, W. H. Everingham, F. H. Stutzman, L. A. Schulz, M. A. Hakes, M. M. McCall and J. B. Hay.

Callers: V. W. Lapp, C. A. Ford, H. H. Kyvig, K. Petersen, H. E. Coffie, J. A. Moulton, W. H. Wagner, R. B. Dep, H. J. Claassen, J. P. McCummon, H. Vestermark, and K. McFarland.

Dartmouth, Navy Cornell Favorites in Today's Games

Indiana Holds Odds Over Harvard in Hard Contest

NEW YORK, Oct. 28 (AP)—What odds there were tonight were favoring Dartmouth over Yale, Cornell over Columbia, Indiana over Harvard, and Navy over Pennsylvania, as the east looked forward to a series of close and hard-fought college football battles tomorrow.

No fewer than ten of the major games, including those four, looked as "naturals" in which anything might happen. The prospect assured capacity crowds at all the big games with probably 250,000 at the half-dozen best-lit, 70,000 of which were expected at New Haven.

Feature Yale-Dartmouth

In two of the main renewals of annual rivalries—the Yale-Dartmouth game at New Haven and the Cornell-Columbia battle at Ithaca—the team which won last year appeared to be the under dog.

Dartmouth was favored because of its unbeaten record this year, and the power of its backfield, Lane and Marsters, although there were many to back Yale and its great star, Caldwell.

Both beaten once, Cornell and Columbia on paper appeared closely matched.

Renewing relations with the navy at Philadelphia, Pennsylvania had most of its cripples ready to return to the lineup, but this fact did not prevent the Middies from being made the favorites.

Syracuse Meets Nebraska

Indiana's selection over Harvard was based on the reverse another mid-western team, Purdue, inflicted on the Crimson three weeks ago and on the weakness of Harvard against Dartmouth last Saturday.

In another big inter-sectional battle, Syracuse meets Nebraska at Lincoln with the outcome apparently depending on whether the Orange will be able to use its captain and fullback, Barout, who was out of last week's losing battle with Penn State because of injuries.

Bucknell's undefeated outfit meets the Army in West Point. Besides Dartmouth, Bucknell and New York university, Princeton also will be seeking to maintain an unbeaten record, and should win easily from William and Mary, Washington and Jefferson and Pittsburgh of the unbeaten brigade, also have drawn unimpressive foes in Ohio and Allegheny. New York university meets Colgate at the Yankee stadium.

Teachers Wallop Luther 41-7 for Fourth Grid Win

CEDAR FALLS, Oct. 28 (AP)—Iowa State Teachers college ran its string of Iowa conference football victories to four here today by walloping Luther, 41 to 7.

The Teachers rang up twenty-seven first downs to seven for Luther. The only Luther touchdown came in the first period on a long pass, Olson to Sheffield. Cooper scored seventeen points for the Teachers, with two touchdowns and five goals after touchdowns. Stevens provided the feature by intercepting a Luther pass and racing sixty yards for a touchdown in the last period.

Penn Wins Over St. Ambrose Team

DAVENPORT, Oct. 28 (AP)—Penn college of Oskaloosa defeated St. Ambrose 16 to 6 in an Iowa conference game here today. Penn made 14 first downs to St. Ambrose's eight.

A lateral pass, Covey to Hay and Quire, scored twice for Penn, during the first period. In the fourth Swin made a drop kick of 15-yards for three points.

St. Ambrose scored in the second period after a series of passes, Pelzer smashing over.

A penalty in the fourth period stopped Penn on the one yard line.

Mississippi Valley Meeting Increases Admission, Salary

CEAR RAPIDS, Oct. 28 (AP)—The Mississippi Valley baseball league at its fall meeting here today voted to increase the general admission fee from 40 to 50 cents, and lifted salary limits from $2,200 to $2,400, exclusive of managers.

The salary limit rule, however, will not become official until Ottumwa, which was not represented at the meeting, submits its vote by mail.

No action to modify the rookie rule, which caused much difficulty last season, was taken. Neither the Marshalltown or Ottumwa clubs made any move to withdraw, an action predicted in some quarters because of their poor showing this season.

The report of President Belden Hill showed that the league sold $47,550 worth of players this season, believed to be a record for a class D circuit.

Telegraphers Defeat Still

DES MOINES, Oct. 28 (AP)—A deceptive criss-cross of tackle play, combined with an aerial attack, enabled Western Union college of Le Mars, to defeat the Still college Osteopaths here today. Koch was the stellar performer for the visitors, while Devine was outstanding player for the Osteopaths.

Skeinmen Show Rare Form in Doing Unexpected

Playing their best game of the season and against one of the finest teams in this section the "dark horse" University high eleven defeated the West Branch aggregation by 6-0 score there, yesterday afternoon. The "miracle" team did what most critics thought it impossible when they took this strong grid team into camp because West Branch is considered to have a flashy line and backfield.

From the very first the Skeinmen showed their superiority. They had the better defense and their offense worked like a million dollar machine. On the first play Dennis for the U High boys took the ball from his thirty yard line and cut forward and backward till he had eluded all of the West Branch tacklers and ran for U High's only and winning tally. Dennis showed plenty of ability as a broken field runner and an elusive back when he once broke loose.

Losers Look Sick
The West Branch aggregation which had heretofore been undefeated this season and had not been scored upon during their last five games looked quite sick after the Skein coached men finished the game with a victory over them. The determination of the Blue and White combined with the overconfidence of the West Branch eleven made the game what it really turned out to be, a game in which the best team should win.

The West Branch boys would take the ball down the field from time to time but the stone wall line of U High always held at the critical moment and the West Branchers would lose the ball on downs. Only once did they have a chance and that when they blocked a U High punt on the Skeinmen's twenty yard line. They were held, however, and could not make any gains against the Iowa City representatives.

U High Lacks Punch
When University High had the ball they could advance consistently but not enough punch was exerted at the right times to run up the score. It was the splendid mixing of long end runs and off tackle plays that completely took the West Branch lads off their feet. The brilliant running of Dennis and Kay was responsible for most of the yardage gained by way of end runs. As for individual stars University high had eleven of them, with only a few showing more ability than others. Kay and Dennis were splendid on the offense, their stunning and spectacular running being largely responsible for the Skeinmen's yardage. Captain Bowers did exceptional work on defense and never was his side of the line pierced for any great gains. Another man who did nobly for his school was Stinchert, fullback.

Missouri Valley Gridders Clash in Important Games

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 28 (AP)—Cloudy skies, sinking temperatures and threats of rain were in prospect tomorrow as all ten of the Missouri Valley teams square away for the half way hurdle in the fall football campaign.

The prospect of an unmet Valley record and a coveted trip to California November 24 for the players who display an adequate brand of skill and fight, may carry Drake to victory over the lagging Jayhawkers. Both teams are at maximum strength.

Iowa State, though indicating a fine offensive game in its last time out against Illinois which resulted in a tie game, will have to extend itself to the limit to halt the confusing mixture of passing and line attacks that Coach Bachman's squad will unleash at Ames tomorrow.

Thundering Herd
Minnesota's irresistible against Iowa a week ago, will have strong opposition when it faces Wisconsin. The Badgers, although defeated by Michigan, showed signs of strength against Purdue, while the Gophers, with Herb Joesting tearing up the sod, are determined to keep their winning streak unbroken.

Outside the conference Coach Rockne's army of goal-line occupation will entertain the Georgia Tech team at South Bend. The Georgians are rated as one of the two strongest teams in the south. This game will eliminate one of the season's undefeated teams.

Cyclones Fit to Give Kansas Ags Stiff Grid Fight

AMIES, Oct. 28 (AP)—The Kansas Aggies will find every Iowa State gridder in good condition and primed for a hard game in tomorrow's homecoming contest, Coach Workman reported today after the Cyclone squad went through a light workout today. Two weeks layoff has put the team in good shape.

Although the Cyclones are out-weighted seven or eight pounds to a man, dopers give them the edge. The regular lineup will start the game, but Workman expects to replace Gabriel, guard, whose ankle has not entirely healed, with Schlenker before the final whistle. Johnson, injured end, will be used only if necessary to kick field goals.

TILLIE THE TOILER

Illinois, Michigan Feature Big Ten Grid Encounters

Chicago Battles Ohio, Wisconsin Takes on Minnesota

CHICAGO, Oct. 28 (AP)—The football championship of the Western conference hangs in the balance tomorrow as Illinois and Michigan, undefeated in Big Ten competition or outside of it, meet at Urbana, in the outstanding game of the day.

Two other games will have a bearing on the championship situation, with Minnesota engaging Wisconsin at Minneapolis, and Chicago, conqueror of Pennsylvania, Purdue and Indiana, trying to find out what, if anything, is the matter with Ohio state. These battles, together with Michigan-Illinois, are all that have bearing on the title, for Northwestern, Purdue, Indiana and Iowa will take on opponents outside the conference.

Northwestern will battle Missouri at Evanston, with Iowa encountering Denver at Iowa City, and Purdue mixing with Montana State at LaFayette. Indiana has gone east for a fling at Harvard, already cuffed about by Purdue and Dartmouth.

Many Spectators
Conservative estimates are that 67,000 to 70,000 will witness the Michigan-Illinois game in the Illinois Memorial stadium, with upwards of 55,000 viewing Minnesota and Wisconsin at Minneapolis and 50,000 to 60,000 at Columbus.

Experts were unwilling tonight to hazard a guess on the outcome of the Illinois-Michigan encounter. The Wolverine eleven is the only team in the Big Ten that has not had its goal line crossed this season, while rolling up 89 points against its opponents. Illinois provided a sensational upset last Saturday in knocking out Northwestern, and gives evidence of having swung into form.

Illini Has Not Scored
Illinois, for the last two years, has not scored on Michigan and the defensive strength of the Wolverines again will be a factor in tomorrow's battle. Michigan has a remarkable way of scoring without wasting much effort in futile ground gaining, employing Louis Gilbert's great kicking ability to keep opponents in a hole and then letting loose with a series of surprise passes from Oosterbaan to Gilbert with touchdown possibilities.

The game between the Maroons and Buckeyes at Columbus promises to be one of the sort that every team dreads. The uprising against the coaching system of Ohio, and feats by Northwestern and Michigan, may cause the Buckeyes to take it all out on "Old Man" Stagg. Stagg believes that the criticism of the Ohio coaching will be beneficial to the Buckeyes. Coach Wilce will send a new backfield into the game, composed of Fouch, quarterback, Grim and Kris halves with Rowan at fullback.

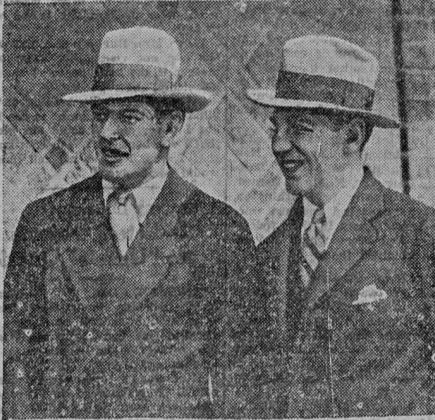

Thundering Herd
Minnesota's irresistible against Iowa a week ago, will have strong opposition when it faces Wisconsin. The Badgers, although defeated by Michigan, showed signs of strength against Purdue, while the Gophers, with Herb Joesting tearing up the sod, are determined to keep their winning streak unbroken.

Outside the conference Coach Rockne's army of goal-line occupation will entertain the Georgia Tech team at South Bend. The Georgians are rated as one of the two strongest teams in the south. This game will eliminate one of the season's undefeated teams.

The Hotel Needs of Iowa City

I noticed an article referring to a new hotel in Iowa City. We are building a new sixty room addition to the JEFFERSON, also a ball-room and banquet hall, in the spring, which we are certain will take care of all the needs of Iowa City for some years to come, and give Iowa City a splendid hotel, the equal of any in the state. Marshalltown, spoken of in the article, had no fireproof hotel. Of course, we can't prevent anyone doing foolhardy things. If another hotel is built in Iowa City in addition to the new rooms we are adding to the JEFFERSON, neither one will make a dollar, and as an investment would be a very sorry investment for anyone.

The hotel situation today all over America is full of foolish and wasteful hotel projects, with great financial loss to those interested. A sixty room addition to the JEFFERSON is all and more than Iowa City will stand. It is far better to have a prosperous and healthy institution rather than two hotels both losing money. Any sane or sensible hotel man will tell you that a 150 room hotel, such as the JEFFERSON will be by next fall, is ample and enough for Iowa City. If there is money to be invested in Iowa City it can be invested, I feel sure, more safely than in another hotel project, in view of the JEFFERSON addition.

The country is full of hotels in the hands of receivers, built by promoters. Look at Mason City, even Des Moines. We are giving Iowa City a larger and finer hotel, ample for all its needs and the equal of any in the state. The writer can give data and hotel names of hundreds of hotels in cities and smaller towns where hotel investors have lost all they invested in overbuilt hotel accommodations. Iowa surely has had its lesson in inflation and promotion schemes.

If you have money to invest, I strongly advise anyone to keep it out of a new hotel in face of the addition to the JEFFERSON, which will be ready and open next fall. The writer urged his friends in Danville, Illinois, to keep their money out of a new hotel there. It has been open one year, is in the hands of a receiver, and is to be sold at auction. Mason City has two hotels,—find out if they are paying investments. Don't be fooled by promoters who have nothing to lose but time.

State Commission Hampers Paulino Match With Gene

NEW YORK, Oct. 28 (AP)—Entanglements with the New York State Athletic commission that has refused to hamper Paulino Uzcudun's attempts to fight his way into a title match with Gene Tunney multiplied today with the decision that the Spanish heavyweight must fight Phil Scott of England before escaping the suspension that now hangs over him.

Paulino was "set down" two weeks ago for refusal to go through with the match, scheduled for November 4 at Madison Square Garden. He pleaded a sprained back and arm at that time but the chairman of the Spaniard's managerial board, Al Mayer, told the commission today that Paulino refused to fight Scott because of contract differences with Tex Rickard. Knute Hanson, Minnesota Dane, was substituted for Paulino several days

Parsons in Surprise Win Over Simpson

INDIANOLA, Oct. 28 (AP)—Simpson college upset the dope bucket here today, when they defeated Parsons, 13 to 12, in an Iowa conference game. Simpson scored in the first period after a series of passes. Here McCoy added the extra point that won the game.

Parsons scored in the second. Simpson scored again in the fourth, and Parsons retaliated, but again failed to add the extra counter.

Hawk Harriers Drill for Illinois

Fast Time Recorded in Time Trials; Hunn Leads

Coach George T. Bresnahan sent the Iowa cross country runners through a long time trial yesterday afternoon on Finkbine field. Running over the four mile course, the harriers seemed to show a good spirit with plenty of stamina.

Capt. Leonard E. Hunn led his mates to the finish line in 22:40. But he was closely followed by Brady with Coffie only a stride behind. Moulton, Cue, and McCarron finished in a tie for fourth only a few paces behind Coffie. Wagner came in seventh, Hakes eighth, Classen and Depping, ninth, and Welter eleventh.

Following a week of intensive coaching the Hawkeye harriers seem to be recovering in fine shape from the unexpected defeat by the Gophers last Saturday. If further improvement is shown by the Hawkeyes during the remaining days until the Homecoming duel with the strong Illinois harriers they should be able to take the maize and blue hill and dalers into camp.

Although Hunn, Brady, Coffie, and Hakes are doing first class work over the hill and dale paths, there are others of the squad that do not see into being bettering themselves as well as they are capable of doing. Another week of hard workouts should iron out any irregularities.

That Illinois will be represented by a strong team here when it clashes with the Iowa team next Saturday is very apparent. Especially since the maize and blue harriers took the first four places in their decisive defeat of the Notre Dame team last Saturday.

Committee Plans to Present Statue

Kirkwood Memorial to Become Property of University

A completed program for the presentation ceremony of the Kirkwood memorial statue, by Vinnie Ream, has been announced by the committee in charge of the exercises. Prof. Benj. F. Shambaugh will preside at the program which begins at 10:30 a. m. Saturday, Nov. 5. The service will be held on the west portico of Old Capitol.

Governor John Hammill, a graduate of the class of 1897, will open the ceremony with an address on the life of Governor Samuel Jordan Kirkwood. This talk will be followed by the presentation of the statue to the university by Judge O. A. Byington, chairman of the Kirkwood Memorial committee in charge of soliciting funds for the statue. George T. Baker of Davenport, president of the Iowa State Board of Education, will accept the gift in the name of the university. At the conclusion of the program the university band will play "America."

"Everyone is invited to attend this ceremony, when the statue of Iowa City's greatest man, the Civil War governor of Iowa, is presented to the university," said Prof. Louis Pelzer, chairman of the committee in charge of the ceremony. "I feel that it is a thing of great importance to Iowa City as well as the members and alumni of the university and that a large attendance at the ceremony is to be expected."

No decision has yet been made as to the permanent situation of the huge statue which stands now in the corridor of Old Capitol waiting its official presentation to the university. The actual property of the University of Iowa.

Designer Keokuk Dam to Address Local Engineers

Hugh L. Cooper, an engineer of world-wide reputation, will speak to the faculty and students in the college of engineering and any others who may be interested, Tuesday, Nov. 1 at 3:30 p. m., in the liberal arts auditorium. He will speak on some subject of his profession, water power engineering.

Mr. Cooper is the designer of the Mississippi Power company dam at Keokuk, of the Toronto Power company plants at Niagara Falls, and of the Pennsylvania Water and Power company works at Holtwood, Pa. This is the largest project of their kind in the United States. At the present time he is engaged in designing the power project to be established at Muscle Shoals and one to be built in Russia, which is attracting the attention of engineers all over the world.

Hawkeyes Lead Nation in Crops

DES MOINES, Oct. 28 (P)—Iowa again is the leading corn state, yield reports of the United States department of agriculture shows. Illinois dropped into third place for the first time in a generation. It's place, this year was filled by Nebraska. The total yield for the United States will be 2,603,437,000 bushels, compared with 2,646,853,000 bushels last year, or a decrease of 43,416,000.

Good corn crops in the southwest this year will have the effect of making farmers in more northerly corn states make some adjustments in the distribution of the 1927 crop.

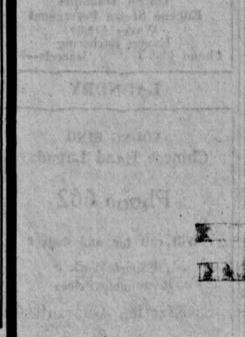

Farmers' Union in Sessions Asks for Agricultural Relief

DES MOINES, Oct. 28 (P)—Farm relief legislation, and renewed support and endorsement of the McNary-Haugen bill will be the principal items under discussion at the national Farmers Union convention, here, Nov. 15-17. Cooperative marketing will be an outstanding issue.

Southern members of the union are expected to be most emphatic for endorsement of the McNary-Haugen farm relief measure, whereas in the past they were only lukewarm toward the project.

Colorado Makes Military Gesture

Dispatches Airplanes to Agitated Mine Localities

DENVER, Colo., Oct. 28 (AP)—The first military gesture of the state of Colorado in the strike of coal miners called by the Industrial workers of the world came today when Governor Adams dispatched three national guard airplanes to the southern Colorado coal fields.

In the meantime, the state national guard prepared for mobilization in case conditions in the coal fields become too serious for county authorities to handle.

Quiet was reported in the northern coal fields of the adjoining state of New Mexico, where Governor Dillion yesterday detailed a company of national guardsmen to investigate reports that the I. W. W. strike movement would invade that state.

Guardmen at Raton and Dawson reported the rumored spread of the strike had not materialized.

The situation in Colorado appeared most serious near Walsenburg in Huerfano county where several hundred striking miners and I. W. W. members were massing. The "big grime" of miners from northern Colorado arrived in Walsenburg late today.

Amelia Sablich, 19-year-old girl, who has been a leader of picketing activities, was severely injured today when she was trampled by a mine guard's horse. The girl, a mine guard's wife, was struck in the head and her arm was broken and bruised, but her condition tonight was not serious.

Waterloo Legion Selects Iowans

WATERLOO, Oct. 29 (Special)—At the recent election of officers of the Becker-Chapman post, number 138, American Legion here, Harry M. Reed, '15, was chosen commander for the coming year.

Reed will succeed Arthur A. Zimmerman, '15, in this office. Other alumni of the university elected to offices in the past are John W. Gwynne, '14; Dr. John H. Butts, '17; and Leslie H. Schrubbe, '23. A number of other Old Gold graduates are active in the work of the post.

The Waterloo post has a membership of 660. At the state convention last summer Waterloo won the Barton membership trophy as well as the Hanford McNider community service trophy, both cherished awards.

Beuter Recovering

Chase Beuter, who sustained serious injuries a week ago in an explosion of a gasoline tank which he was welding, is on the road to recovery. He is confined to the university hospital and Dr. H. L. Beye, his attending physician, states that the injured man's condition is very much improved.

Mercury Shows October Weather Breaks Records

The heat record for October was broken again Friday when the thermometer rose to eighty-six degrees. This maximum was reported by Prof. John F. Reilly, government weather recorder. There was a report of eighty-seven from Des Moines.

Although there have been intermittent stretches of warm weather in October of other years, this wave has broken all records.

The last day on which the maximum day-time temperature fell below seventy degrees was a week ago. The nights also have been unusually warm, the temperature having remained above forty degrees for the past five nights.

Chicago Mayor Invites Others to Join League

CHICAGO, Oct. 28 (AP)—"America First," Mayor Thompson's campaign slogan, drove the British lion out of the spot light today as an aftermath of Chicago's investigation to determine whether its school children and its citizens are reading propaganda inspired by England.

Mayors throughout the middle west received letters signed with Mayor Thompson's name inviting them to join the "America First Foundation" and send in $10. Mayor Thompson was one of the incorporators of this organization, formed only this week with the announced intention of promoting "better citizenship based on loyalty and patriotism."

Milwaukee Mayor Declines
About 100 replies out of 1,000 invitations sent out last night are said to have been "mostly favorable." Mayor Daniel Hoan of Milwaukee and Mayor Victor Miller of St. Louis were among those sending early replies declining to become affiliated with the organization, while Mayor Swarthout of Grand Rapids said he would think it over.

Besides mayors of the larger cities, congressmen, senators and governors also were sent invitations. John J. Murphy, one of the incorporators, said:

Unfurled Silk Pennant
Meanwhile a white silk pennant bearing an "America First" slogan and hanging on a staff above the American flag in the offices of the board of education, came in for criticism by opponents of the mayor.

They said the pennant flying above the flag constituted a "rank insult" to the colors, and have asked President Lewis Coath of the school board how it came to be there. President Coath explained that Mayor Thompson presented the pennant to the board along with the flag.

Tracing of Bonds Involves Sinclair

Everhart Refuses to Tell History of Securities

WASHINGTON, Oct. 28 (AP)—Harry F. Sinclair was linked directly today by government witnesses with the operations of the Continental Trading company, Ltd., which at one time had possession of $230,500 in Liberty bonds. They eventually found their way into the hands of M. T. Everhart, son-in-law of Albert B. Fall, shortly after the lease of Teapot Dome.

The government failed, however, in its effort to force Everhart to tell from whom he received the bonds, Justice Siddons upholding his contention that he had constitutional immunity because for him to reveal this information might tend to incriminate him.

Recall Everhart
This ruling was a distinct disappointment to special oil counsel, but after recalling Everhart and putting him on record as refusing to answer several other questions on the same grounds and in the presence of the jurors, they set out upon the winding trail of the bonds and their coupons.

As this trail was explored, the jury was taken rapidly from New York to Pueblo, Colo., to El Paso, Tex.; to Carrizozo, N. M.; to Denver, Colo.; and finally to Washington, where the cancelled coupons were safely locked away in the federal treasury and from which the oil counsel obtained them.

Bonds Purchased
The day's testimony was that by direction of H. S. Osler, of Toronto, Can., president of the Continental company, the New York agency of the Dominion Bank of Canada, purchased $300,000 in Liberty bonds through three New York brokerage houses.

This was on April 13, 1922, six days after Fall and Sinclair attached their respective signatures to the lease by which Teapot Dome passed from control of the government to that of Sinclair's mammoth oil company.

There the trail of the bonds was momentarily broken. It was in the following month that Everhart says he was in New York. From that city he came to Washington, he told the jury yesterday, and conferred here with his father-in-law.

Miscreant Steals Safety Telephone From Park Bridge

An odd theft was made public yesterday by Chief of Police C. F. Benda. The telephone at the life saving station near the city park bridge was taken recently.

The phone is the only one in the vicinity and was donated by the telephone company so that quick communication would be possible if an emergency arose at the city park. It was installed in the life saving station where the public would have easy access to it.

City officials feel that the thief did not realize the gravity of the crime, and intimated that if the telephone is returned at once, no charges will be pressed.

In addition to a charge of larceny, the thief could be prosecuted for an act against the public safety.

Poverty Stricken, Cripple Falls Heir to Actress' Estate

NEW YORK, Oct. 28 (P)—An aged and poor sister of Clara Morris—famous emotional actress of the '30s and '40s—whom the tragedienne never saw since their parents, a serving maid and a cabman, parted when the children were babies, is now sole heir to the actress' $15,000 estate.

Had it not been, however, for an apparently trivial entry in a diary of Clara Morris, speaking of a lost sister, Mrs. Eliza Burtis, 78 years old, crippled with rheumatism and threatened with blindness, might have lived out in her life in her tenement, in the Hell's kitchen district suffering privations of poverty, alleviated only by a $30 a month pension paid for her dead husband's Civil War service.

Surrogate Slater visited Mrs. Burtis and took her testimony, considered documentary evidence and at the end of the hearing, by the light which came through a begrimed window half above and half below the ground, signed an order declaring her a sister of Clara Morris and sole legatee.

When Mrs. Burtis was asked why she had not visited her sister and mother if she had suspected the relationship, she replied:

"When I heard Clara was growing blind and sick, I yearned to see her but I never did. I could not prove that I was her sister. I did not know I would be received."

Creston Banker, Indicted, Objects to "Unfair" Queries

CRESTON, Oct. 28 (P)—Henry Read, indicted Shenandoah banker on trial in federal court here on a fraudulent banking charge, took the witness stand in his own defense late today.

After Read's testimony was completed, a conference of attorneys was held, after which it was stated the case probably would reach the jury early tomorrow afternoon, as only a small amount of testimony remains to be heard.

Henry Read, who was left the sole defendant when his father and brother, Thomas A., and Elbert A. Read, were acquitted on a direct verdict, is charged with making false entries in a report on the bank's condition just before its close in May 1925.

The defendant denied knowledge of details of the dividend accounts which were alleged by the governother as "mayor" and otherwise finding the situation funny. To many city employees, however, it was a grim event, for regardless of which man finally wins a few heads are due to be lopped off by the political axe.

County and City Treasurer Edward A. Ramsey brought cheer to some employees when he announced he would honor salary warrants issued under the Negley "administration."

Wholesale firing and appointments in various city departments was the order of the day for both Negley and Holmes. Each announced the make-up of a board of safety, board of works and other departments.
