New England Flood to Reach Climax Today

Cold and Hunger Endangers Lives in Flooded Area

New England States Suffer Loss of Life, Property

BURLINGTON, Vt., Nov. 5 (AP)—The names of thirteen known victims of the flood at Waterbury were brought here tonight. Reports from refugees indicate a death list in the town of 28.

Six members of a family named Sargent were drowned. Others known to be dead are Mrs. Harry Cutting, and her three children; Howard Heaton; Mrs. Nora Canerby; and George Sherman. Serious conditions in the town developed when the waters of the rivers were diverted to the main street.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Nov. 5 (AP)—Memorial bridge, spanning the Connecticut river, was closed to traffic here tonight as west Springfield dikes burst, releasing flood waters into the township. Five square miles of Chicopee was reported inundated and many rescues were made. Nearly 1,500 men were engaged in a night battle to save the north end of this city from the waters and many streets were impassable. More than 100 persons were ordered out of their homes at Agawam.

BOSTON, Nov. 5 (AP)—Cold and hunger stalked the hills of New England tonight in the wake of the most disastrous floods of this section's history.

Substantial reduction in the apparent loss of life furnished the one bright spot in late reports today. Apprehension over the fate of Montpelier, capital of Vermont, was removed with the establishment of direct communication.

Although thirty square miles in and near the city had been completely inundated, only one known death had resulted.

Crashing through power dams, reservoirs and all other manmade obstacles, scores of ordinarily peaceful mountain streams now are raging toward the valley towns, bearing with them debris of mill, store and cottage.

Reach Climax Today

The crest of the flood and the crisis in the cases of scores of towns will not be reached before tomorrow noon, but already there has been recorded a toll of two scores and more known dead, and a property loss which will run into many millions.

Shortage of food and of medical supplies to meet the grave condition left by the rushing waters is the immediate problem of the most stricken districts.

The exact number of deaths is impossible to ascertain because of interrupted communications.

Seven persons, including Lieut. Gov. S. Hollister Jackson, had lost their lives in Barre, Vt., was definitely learned this afternoon through a radio message from Barre Times to the Associated Press. Later word was that thirteen others were believed dead.

Lieutenant Governor Brown, the lieutenant governor fell into a pool in Potash brook while trying to reach his home yesterday and was drowned. The message said the city of Barre had been damaged to the extent of $2,000,000.

A radio message to Army headquarters in Boston from Fort Ethan Allen near Burlington, Vt., said that there was "stitch known dead in Vermont, but did not give names or locations and it was uncertain whether this included those in Barre.

To the deaths previously reported there were added today two at Newport, Vt., and one each in Rutland, Vt., Westfield, Mass.; Hadley, Mass.; Ferrisburgh, Vt.; and Berlin, N. H.

It was learned that the village of Gayville in Windsor county, Vt., had been virtually wiped out by the flooded waters of the White River.

Authorities Seek Woman's Slayer

DUBUQUE, Nov. 5 (AP)—Authorities tonight were still seeking the slayer of Mrs. Elizabeth McKittrick, wealthy 73-year-old woman, killed at her home in Zwingli last Tuesday night, but Sheriff Frank Kennedy declared there was no truth in rumors that an arrest was impending. The person being sought left fingerprints on furnishings in the home, from which it is believed nearly $24,000 was taken after the slaying. The sheriff declines to reveal whether the slayer is known, or at least suspected, clinging to the statement that "we are seeking the person who left the finger prints." Impressions of these marks have been obtained by a finger print expert.

Phi Gams First in Parade Floats

Alpha Xi Delta Cops Sorority Trophy; Kappas Next

Phi Gamma Delta fraternity, picturesque but airily dressed in an expanse of blackened skin and grass skirts, captured first prize in the Homecoming parade yesterday, by an appropriate representation of Fiji Islanders. A large truck decorated in imitation of a Fiji jungle, carried the howling capering natives down the street.

The Alpha Xi Delta sorority's noble efforts in "cleaning up" on Illinois' sent the first prize for the sorority floats. Their float carried a large bathtub in which reposed a rejected dummy of Illinois who was being energetically scrubbed by several of the well-known Dutch Cleanser dames. A large sign on the side bore the words, "Clean up on Illinois."

The parade, scheduled for 10:30, started a few minutes after that hour from the law school, with a motley collection of c'owns and take-offs on Illinois in the lead.

Attract Much Attention

In spite of the sharp tang of the wind, people lined the sidewalk three deep along Clinton street and catered out on the pavement. The parade, while not as large as expected, made up for its lack of quantity by quality. There were about fifteen floats in all, carrying out various ideas of "Beat Illinois" and the Homecoming spirit.

Second place in the fraternity parade went to Sigma Nu for its representation of "sorority pins." The float carried several Sigma Nu's covered by a white curtain except for their legs below the knees, which seemed to be suffering from a bad case of gooseflesh from exposure to the chill breeze. Under each pair of legs was a sign bearing the Greek letters of various sororities—sorority "pins."

Kappas Second

A riotous bunch of Kappas, riding a rattlesnake float, and dressed in the Old Gold with a football for a mascot carried away the second sorority prize.

Honorable mention goes to Delta Zeta sorority and Sigma Chi fraternity. The prizes were silver loving cups, one of which was given by Phi Epsilon Phi fraternity and three by the Gyro club. The judges in the contest were Prof. C. S. Tippeck, Roy Slavata, H. I. Jennings, president of the Gyro club; and Claire Schaepe, head cheer leader.

Age and Unsteady Nerves Endanger Fall's Condition

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5 (AP)—A definite turn in the serious illness of Albert B. Fall is expected within the next few hours. The former interior secretary, confined to his bed in a hotel here is attended by Dr. James J. Kilroy, who believes his chances for recovery to be more endangered by unsteady nerves and his advanced age than by the congestion that has developed in his throat and lungs.

The former cabinet member remained very weak. His temperature wavered around 100 through the day.

Colorful Scenes Evident in Annual Homecoming Tilt

Thousands Jam Field for Iowa-Illinois Engagement

They may be down but they're never out! Disappointed in their long-cherished desire to make "Beat Illinois" come true, Iowa Homecomers nevertheless reacted quickly and made the remainder of Old Gold's sixteenth annual Homecoming celebration a gala affair.

Their enthusiasm apparently little dampened by the 14 to 0 defeat administered by Illinois yesterday afternoon, the thousands of alumni and guests in the city, as well as the students in the university, continued their celebration of the temporary return of the "grads."

No Bonfire

Denied the chance of burning the historic corn monument, which is sacrificed wherever Iowa's victorions in the Homecoming struggle, Iowans turned their attention to the dozens of parties and entertainments given last night by various campus groups.

A crowd of about 25,000 was said to be in the city for the week-end. Attendance at the game was estimated at 25,000. The excellent condition of the roads in every direction helped very much to bring a large part of the crowd to the celebration in cars.

Cold air and piercing winds greeted the homecomers yesterday, although the sky was clear. Blankets, fur coats, made their appearance at the game.

The great golden chrysantheums, emblems of Iowa Homecoming, were everywhere yesterday. Coeds wore them against the soft fur of their coats, old "grads" carried them with a reminiscent thoughtfulness, business houses placed great masses of the gorgeous blooms in their windows and around their doors.

Pep Boys Have Uniforms

The crowd at the game was a colorful gathering with the hundreds of Old Gold and brilliant Indian blankets, the chrysanthemum-adorned coats, the Iowa hand with its Old Gold capes and bright instruments, the Phi Epsilon Phi boys with their gold and white uniforms and gold megaphones, and the Big Ten banners on the walls of the stadium waving briskly in the wind.

The Iowa cheer leaders in their striking uniforms were the brightest color note in the picture as they went through their performances before the packed stands.

In the interval between the halves, the Iowa band took the field and, forming a block "I" before the Illinois stand, played the stirring Illinois "Loyalty" song, with the "PEP" boys singing. The performance brought applause from the stands but the big ovation was reserved for the formation of the word "Iowa" before the Old Gold stand, and the playing of "On Iowa."

Conduct Tour of Buildings for 750 Returning Alumni

Returning alumni were entertained at Iowa Union yesterday. Special tours of the campus and important buildings were conducted for the visitors. An opportunity was given for the first time to inspect the new medical laboratories, by Dr. Charles S. Chase of the college of medicine.

More than 750 alumni registered during the day according to the class in which they graduated. The greatest percentage was noticed in the past ten years. The class of 1873 was the oldest represented.

General reception committees met the visitors and directed them to different parts of the city. A directory of rooms was available for those who wished it. The general reception was good in the opinion of the committee in charge.

Report Sixty Dead in Vermont Flood

MONTPELIER, Vt., Nov. 5 (AP)—A total of 61 dead in the Winooski river valley, between Montpelier and Burlington as a result of flood was revealed in a check up of the towns between the two cities tonight. The greatest loss of life was reported in Waterbury where there are twenty-six bodies in the morgue. In Bolton, the next town, twenty-five are reported dead. In Richmond, six bodies have been recovered, with four other dead reported. Middlesex and Jonesville reported no fatalities but a large property damage.

Frat Decoration Honors to Betas

Sigma Nu and "Zips" Rank in Tie for Second Best

"Beta Theta Pi wins the silver cup offered for the best fraternity house decoration," was the verdict of the judges, representing the Kiwanis club, yesterday evening.

The Betas won the reward because of their "colorful decorations," the welcome arch, neat and tasteful arrangement, and miniature football players," reported the judges.

Sigma Nu and Xi Psi Phi tied for second honors. Sigma Nu featured the Old Capitol dome. The house was also decorated in the Iowa and Illinois colors and the Sigma Nu insignia reigned above all. The balance of the decorations won distinction for the Sigma Nus.

Xi Psi Phi had placed the Iowa seal as the main feature of their decorations. Black and old gold radiating streamers, "Hello Illinois," "Fight Iowa" and "Let's zip thru Illinois" signs, were the features ranking Xi Psi Phi a tie for second place.

Phi Kappa Rho, through its cemetery, bearing the inscriptions of the years that Iowa triumphed in football games over Illinois and its hawk sitting on a nest termed "Illinois," was the winner of third place.

Autos Crash on East Bloomington

A light colored Paige roadster bearing an Illinois license plate, smashed into a Ford sedan, belonging to Earl Knutt, which was parked in front of the T. H. Mortford residence, at 118 East Bloomington street at 8 p.m. yesterday.

The roadster had been coming north on Clinton street and turned east on Bloomington street where a girl who was driving apparently lost control and hit the Knutt car.

After striking the sedan, the roadster swerved into the alley, past the Phi Psi fraternity house where it smashed into a tree and stopped, badly wedged into the alley that several men were needed to get it loose.

The occupants of the roadster got out soon as the car was freed and their names were not learned. There was a man and a girl besides the girl who was driving.

The accident was reported to police but no trace of the car was found. The body of the sedan was badly smashed and the roadster was also injured by the impact with the tree, but not enough to prevent it from running.

Kanawha Youth Dies

John Robertson, 19 years old, of Kanawha, died at a local hospital at 10:12 a.m. Friday. The body is in charge of the Harmon funeral home and will be taken to Kanawha for burial.

Subpoena Marine in Effort to Clear Sinclair Oil Tangle

Grand Jury Will Ask Catchim to Tell of Jury Fixing

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5 (AP)—A newly enlisted United States marine, who was all set to go to Haiti, may prove a material witness in the grand jury investigation of charges of jury tampering laid against Harry F. Sinclair and one of his most confidential agents, Henry Mason Day.

This marine is Douglas Catchim, until recently assistant manager of the Washington Office of the Burns detective agency, whose detectives were engaged for days and nights in keeping under surveillance jurors in the Fall-Sinclair oil conspiracy case in which a mistrial was ordered last Tuesday.

Enlisted Oct. 28 Catchim enlisted in the marines here on Oct. 28, the day the activities of the government agents trailing the juror trailers began to become known. He was sent to the Hampton Roads naval base and just missed a naval transport which sailed for Port au Prince on Nov. 1.

Government agents trailed him to Norfolk and there served upon him a subpoena for his appearance here Monday before the grand jury, which held an extraordinary session for two hours today to hear the testimony of a high school girl, a juror fond of horse racing, and one of the October panel, who just missed service on the oil jury.

A bit of confidential gossip led to the trail of Catchim, whose name was even unknown to the federal agents working on the case.

"Fixed for Life"

When Catchim goes before the grand jury he will be asked about a report that he told a friend that if he could get out of the country and remain out for some time he would be "fixed" for the rest of his life.

The bit of information which led to the service on Catchim is only a small part of that which has flowed into the district attorney's office since the oil jury was discharged last Tuesday.

All of the communications are anonymous and those sent through the mail are penned in printed form so that the senders may not be traced.

Alpha Delta Pi Wins Badge Race

An over-the-top sale went on record yesterday when a total of 16,501 Homecoming badges were sold to loyal alumni, students, and citizens of Iowa City. This is the largest sale made during the years that badges have been the means of financing the Homecoming celebration.

The members of Alpha Delta Pi sorority led the race, selling a total of 6,780 badges. Their final report for the Saturday sale was 2,973. Delta Delta Delta turned in the largest sale, Saturday's sale for them amounted to 1,000. Third were the members of Gamma Phi Beta, whose total sale was 5,013. The final day of the sale for them amounted to 1,301.

This year's sale was carried on not only in Iowa City, but in the cities of Cedar Rapids, Davenport and others nearby.

"I am more than satisfied with the results of the sale which has been the largest that Iowa City has known for the Homecoming week-end," said Prof. Rudolph A. Kuever, chairman of the committee in charge. "The fact that almost every student and faculty member, as well as the homecomers, wore a badge during the entire week and displayed thus their support of Old Gold has been an encouragement."

Ballooning Dies in Making Record

Cutting Oxygen Tube Believed Cause of Disaster

SPARTA, Tenn., Nov. 5 (AP)—A severed tube, apparently cut accidentally by a knife in his own hands, stopping the flow of life-sustaining oxygen, was believed tonight to explain the death above the clouds yesterday of Capt. Hawthorne C. Gray, army aviator, after he ascended to an unofficial world's altitude record for free balloons.

Gray's log, taken from the basket of his wrecked balloon after its recovery, together with the aeronaut's body, six miles from here today, related that at 3:10 o'clock Friday, the balloon ascended to 40,000 feet. That was the final entry. What transpired afterward can only be construed from mute evidence found in the wrecked basket. Indications are that he took out his sheath knife possibly to cut away superfluous equipment in order to rise higher, severing the oxygen tube, presumably cut by a knife, closed the story.

Local officials and aviators who examined the balloon's barograph and instruments said they indicated Gray finally reached an altitude of 43,000 feet; several thousand feet above the present official mark. The instruments will be forwarded to Washington for examination.

Initiate Graduates to Mortar Board

Twenty-six Alumnae Attend Breakfast Held in Union

Three former Staff and Circle women were initiated into Mortar Board, honor society for senior women, following the breakfast for the women organizations yesterday at Iowa Union. The women initiated were Victoria Boyles Houston, '24 of Davenport; Esther G. Dyke, '26 of Rock Island, Ill.; Helen Starbuck, '25 of Iowa City.

Staff and Circle was the women's local honorary organization on Iowa campus before the national chapter of Mortar Board was organized here a year ago.

Twenty-Six Attend

The breakfast, sponsored by members of last year's Mortar Board, was attended by twenty-six former Mortar Board and Staff and Circle women. The initiation following the breakfast was planned by members of this year's Mortar Board.

The women who attended the breakfast were: Adelaide Burs, '00 of Iowa City; Victoria Boyles Houston, '24 of Davenport; Genevieve Harter, '24 of Iowa City; Meta L. Giddings, '17 of Iowa City; Esther G. Dyke, '26 of Rock Island, Ill.; Katherine Talbot, '25 of Iowa City; Ethyl E. Martin, '12 of Iowa City; Helene Blatter, '20 of Iowa City; Margerita McGovney, '25 of Iowa City; Helen Wylie, '25 of Iowa City; Esther Van Cleave, '25 of Iowa City; Hazel Samuelson Miller, '25 of Des Moines; Helen Starbuck, '25 of Iowa City.

Katherine Schultz Here

Katherine Townsend Schultz, '18 of Grinnell; Jean Dayton West, '16 of Des Moines; Eleanor J. Gamble, '27 of Cherokee; Catherine T. Wright, '23 of Des Moines; Frances Rose, '26 of Des Moines; Constance Evans Frohwein, '26 of Iowa City; Beatrice Gates Shuttleworth, '23 of Iowa City. Helen Waldron Latham, '12 of Iowa City; Lucile Waldron Roberts, '17 of Clarksville; Dorothy Wilson, '27 of Jefferson; Ruth Tamisla, '27 of Cherokee; Cornelia Van Oosterhout, '27 of Emmetsburg; Catherine Richter, '26 of Urbana, Ill.

Mrs. Mills Reads at Union Today

The final feature of the Homecoming festivities will be Mrs. Alice Macloed Mills' reading recital this afternoon at 4 o'clock in the main lounge of Iowa Union. Mrs. Mills will read "Molly-Make-Believe," by Eleanor Howell Abbott.

Illini Backs Pierce Old Gold Wall Twice

Armil, Nelson and Pignatelli Mainstays in Eleventh Consecutive Conference Defeat; Illinois Retains Big Ten Lead

Two hard hitting boys from Illinois, named Fred Humbert and Art D'Ambrosio, ruined Iowa's chances to stage a successful Homecoming here yesterday when they tore the Iowa line to shreds and gave the championship headed Illini aggregation a 14 to 0 victory over the fighting Hawkeyes.

It was a clean-cut victory for the Illinois eleven who kept their record for the season without a blemish. There were no serious breaks of the game, and of the minor breaks Iowa got her share. It was just a case of the Illini deceptive offensive plays being too strong for the Old Gold eleven to overcome.

Statistics of Game

	Ia.	Ill.
Yards gained from scrimmage	124	393
Yards lost from scrimmage	27	18
Kickoffs	2	3
Yards kickoffs returned	31	48
Punts, average yards	41	35
Passes attempted	6	7
Passes completed	2	1
Passes intercepted	0	2
Passes grounded	2	6
Yards gained on passes	7	7
First downs	8	19
Yards penalized	10	11
Fumbles	0	1
Fumbles recovered	1	0
Ball lost on downs	1	2

While these two boys, who alternate at the fullback position, were playing such an important role, a new gridiron star loomed on the Iowa football horizon by the name of Carl Pignatelli, a Rock Falls, Ill., youth. It was the first game that Pignatelli had started this season and the first chance he has ever had in Big Ten competition.

Runs Fifty-four Yards

Another man, one Mr. Walker, who leaped into the sports limelight when he got away for a fifty-four yard run around Iowa's left flank for the second Illinois touchdown in the third period. The opening Illinois counter was made in the second half immediately after Iowa had twice held its opponents in the shadow of its own goal line and recovered the ball on downs.

It was a gallant showing for the Hawkeyes even if they did leave the battlefield on the short end of the score, after 25,000 frantic rosters had seen four quarters crowded full of real football thrills. Underdogs, because of their two conference defeats this season, Iowa started out after the opening kickoff with an offensive threat that gained them twenty-nine yards in the first five plays. The highly touted Illini line soon braced however and the Hawkeyes never seriously threatened to score again until in the fourth period when they worked the ball to the Illinois 15-yard line only to lose their opportunity when a forward pass was intercepted by Humbert, the biggest gun of Coach Bob Zuppke's eleven.

Iowa Has Best Punters

Only in the punting department did the Old Gold machine make a better showing than did its opponents. Illinois coined 393 yards from scrimmage while Iowa made but from scrimmage and Illinois 18. Illini netted 19 first downs against 8 for Iowa.

Led by Cooley and Armil, Iowa outpunted the Illini, averaging 41 yards while their opponents had a mean of 35. Iowa attempted six punts, completing two for a total gain of 7 yards while Illinois attempted seven aerial advances, and completed one for 7 yards.

The game was the best exhibition of football seen on the Old Gold battle field this season. Only one fumble marred the conflict, Illinois committing this one and Iowa recovering. Only three penalties were called, a very small number compared to most games. Both teams lost ten yards through violations.

Functioning almost as well as the Minnesota backfield did against the Hawkeyes two weeks ago, the Illini ball toters broke through Iowa's forward wall in practically every spot. Most of their gains were made however, through Iowa's better showing than did its opponents in the grid, a position held down by the usually reliable Roberts. Before the tilt was over, however, Fuhrman, Jessen, Strickland, Humbert and Myers were given a chance but none of them were able to stop the hard Illini thrusts.

The Iowa flankmen were also outclassed. Grimm played a good game the first half but faltered in the second and after Walker, the substitute halfback got around his end for the 54 yard sprint, he was jerked and the diminutive Moore was given a chance. Moore looked as good as any of the Old Gold ends that saw action.

Even Captain Nelson was forced to yield before the vicious onslaughts of the Illini. However, the Hawkeye leader outplayed his opponent most of the time and was the leading light of a strong Old Gold middle forward wall.

Most of the Iowa glory is due to the backfield. Armil, Glassgow, and Pignatelli broke away for several good gains and although their interference was far from as good as that furnished the Illini ball carriers, they were able to reel off good gains against the line which is heralded as the best in the Big Ten.

It marked the eleventh consecutive conference loss for Iowa and the third game out of the four played (CONTINUED, PAGE 7, COLUMN 2)

Cadle Illustrates Bushman Lecture

Motion Pictures Show African Native, Animal Life

"The Bushman of South Africa" is the subject of the third university lecture which will be given in the natural science auditorium Monday evening, Nov. 7, at 8 p.m. by C. Ernest Cadle.

Mr. Cadle was the leader of the Denver African expedition into the interior of Africa. This group of explorers sought to examine the lives and habits of this almost extinct race of bushmen, for the purpose of historical research.

Mr. Cadle will illustrate his lecture with eight reels of motion pictures which the explorers filmed while in Africa. The pictures show the people in their native dress and environment, and illustrate the manner in which they live. The pictures are more than of entertaining value, and have been highly recommended as being of educational merit by critics in Colorado, where they were first shown.

Mr. Cadle was born in Cape Province, South Africa, and at the time of the expedition, was well acquainted with conditions for the trip. The district in South West Africa where the Bushmen live was one of the few remaining spots on the map where modern civilization had never penetrated.

The animals native to the country are illustrated in detail. Some views of the herds of leaping antelope, and closeups of giraffes have never been filmed before. It has been said that without reservations, Mr. Cadle has made a great drama of the life of the Bushman.

The Rev. Stewart Speaks Thursday

The Rev. George Craig Stewart, rector of St. Luke's Episcopal church, Evanston, Ill., will speak on "The Conference on Faith and Order at Lausanne" in the north chamber of Old Capitol at 4:15 p.m. Thursday.

The Rev. Mr. Stewart, who is being brought to Iowa City by the school of religion, was an American delegate to the world conference on Faith and Order at Lausanne, Switzerland last summer.

A graduate of Northwestern University, he holds the degree of Doctor of Divinity from that institution and the degree of Doctor of Letters from Kenyon college. He began his work in the Episcopal church in Chicago nearly twenty years ago when St. Luke's was one of the smaller churches in the city. Today his parish numbers over 1500 communicant members. He is a member of the National council of the Episcopal church and has, for many years, been a delegate to the church's national convention.

The Rev. Mr. Stewart is the author of several brochures, among them "Evolution—A Witness to God." He is one of the contributing editors of the Witness, a weekly publication of the Episcopal church.

Humbert and Myers were given a chance but none of them were able to stop the hard Illini thrusts.

Hockey Contest Ends Deadlocked

The women's exhibition hockey contest yesterday morning between a team of students and a team made up of alumnae and members of the faculty of the women's physical education department ended in a scoreless tie. The match was played on the women's athletic field at the foot of Old Capitol campus.

During the three ten minute periods of regular play, both teams found it impossible to score, and the tie was not broken in the extra ten minute period. Last year the alumni-faculty team won the match by a small score.

Four alumnae played yesterday morning: Geraldine Bartz, '27 of Manitowac, Wis.; Ruth Brookhart, of Waterloo; Geneva Millet, '27 of Iowa City; and Dorothy Westfall, ex-'28 of Mason City.

Members of the student team were chosen from the hockey players of all four classes.

Alumni Gather in Small Groups to Revive Past Days

Insufficient Number From Each Class Bars Reunion

What class reunions there were at Homecoming took the form of tea-tables by whatever groups of classmates happened to find each other.

Insufficient number of alumni from any one class made organized dinners and other get-togethers impractical. The time for these is at commencement.

The few members of each class who were able to find each other lived again the early Homecomings. Old stories were recolored and old football and baseball fans told again with renewed vigor of the games they witnessed and the "chumps" of the season saved the day with a touchdown in the last few minutes of the game.

Passing small groups, one not infrequently heard some grey beard, sitting on the edge of his chair, saying with enthusiasm, "When I was up to bat that time . . . that was the year of years . . ."

Pioneers Gather

The oldest classes represented were from the years 1850-1880.

Seven of this group attended Homecoming. They were, E. W. Weeks '75, Grundy Center; J. J. Clark '76, Mason City; O. H. Brainard '76, Iowa City; O. P. Thompson '76, Iowa City; Henry Regenstein '75, Davenport; C. B. Hutchins '74, Manchester; and Euclid Sanders '76, Evanston.

These old alumni beamed upon everyone who came into the Iowa Union, and seemed to enjoy talking with the younger students.

Classes from 1880-1890 were represented by a few more alumni:

Charles J. Traxler, '82, Mount Pleasant; Charles Clay, '81, Burlington; Charles L. Powell, '85, Chicago; J. M. Weaver, '82, Des Moines; J. A. Grimm, '89, Cedar Rapids; O. A. Bryington, '89, Iowa City; Marion Day, '87, Iowa City; O. W. Schaffner, '89, Anita; Leon Gessman, '89, Newark, N. J.; A. R. Leith, '82, Wilton; C. W. Newberry, '87, Strawberry Point; and Dr. F. W. Powers, '89, Waterloo.

Alumni Swam Union

As the years advanced the number of alumni attending Homecoming this year increased. The greatest number from any one group was registered as 256. The classes from 1890-1900 were represented by forty-two alumni, from 1900-1910 by eighty-five, 1910-1915 by forty-five, 1915-1920 by fifty-seven and 1920-27 by 256 representatives.

The oldest and youngest alumni have the same things in common, as is witnessed by their conversation. Sports and the retelling of their own adventures furnished conversational material lasting through the Homecoming period.

The Union teemed with alumni coming from far and near to be with their alma mater once more.

Placards in black and gold designated the various places of alumni registration. Banners were posted at the alumni desk arranging the classes in ten year periods.

Iowans Celebrate by Group Meetings

The host of Old Gold graduates who could not "come home" for Homecoming were enabled to join again with their alma mater and classmates through alumni gatherings over the country which listed in on the Homecoming program broadcast yesterday over radio station WSUL.

The Alumni association of Philadelphia celebrated with a group dinner. Alumni associations of both Iowa and Illinois assembled in Kansas City, receiving reports of Saturday's game by means of a special wire in the chamber of commerce rooms.

A weiner roast was held by the Old Gold graduates in Oklahoma City.

The St. Louis association met with the group of Illinois graduates of that city to listen to reports of the game together.

Groups of graduates throughout Iowa assembled to celebrate Homecoming in their towns or counties.

Noted Contractor Sees Ingwersen's Warriors Practice

Archibald Alexander, '12, one of the most successful engineers of the college of engineering has produced, has formed the habit of daily attending football practice on Iowa field.

Alexander, whose offices are in Des Moines, is building for the university a new $400,000 heating plant which adjoins Iowa field.

In the days when Jess Hawley piloted the Hawkeye team with only one assistant, Alexander was a member of the team.

Hazel Samuelson Miller Returns to Visit University

Mrs. Hazel Samuelson Miller, a graduate of the school of journalism in 1926 was a Homecomer in Iowa City yesterday. Mrs. Miller is at present office manager of the American Institute in Des Moines.

Last summer she helped edit the "Code of Iowa." Mrs. Miller is handling all the publicity for the institute.

Mr. Alex Miller, the husband of Hazel Samuelson Miller, also a graduate of Iowa in '26, was present at the Homecoming celebration yesterday. Mr. Miller graduated from the college of law and is at present employed as the assistant county attorney of Polk county.

Daughter Born to Mr. and Mrs. Snow

Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Snow of Tulsa, Okla., formerly of Iowa City, are the parents of a daughter born Oct. 23.

Mr. Snow received his A.B. degree in '23, and his M.S. degree in '24. He received his Ph.D. degree from the department of chemical engineering in June, 1926.

He is, at present, employed by the Mid-Continental Oil company of Tulsa, as one of the company's chemists.

Mrs. Snow was formerly Millie Patterson of Iowa City.

Graduate Dies in Los Angeles

Kingley A. Pence, '80, recently died at his home, 1810 North La Brea street, Los Angeles, according to announcement received from Mrs. Pence.

Mrs. Pence, in announcing the death of her husband to the office of the dean of the college of law, offered the diploma which Mr. Pence received when he was graduated.

The diploma is forty-seven years old, and will be displayed at the college of law upon its arrival here.

Nelson Crawford Dies in Lincoln

Formerly Served as Commissioner for Iowa District

Nelson A. Crawford, '83, died at his home in Lincoln, Neb., Oct. 20. He was 74 years old.

Crawford was born in Fairfield, O. From there he moved to Iowa with his parents. He was graduated from the college of law.

For a few years after his graduation he was a teacher and superintendent in public schools. He later practiced his profession at Council Bluffs for several years. While in Council Bluffs he served as United States commissioner for southwest Iowa.

He moved to Lincoln, in 1912 where for one year, he was a lecturer in the college of law in the University of Nebraska.

Finkbine Work to Promote Iowa

William O. Finkbine, '80, of Des Moines, has for the last few years been known as one of the most enthusiastic of Homecomers. For a number of years Mr. Finkbine reserved a special suite at an Iowa City hotel for some of the Des Moines homecomers.

As a substitute for this, in the last few years, he has adopted an even more efficient method of avoiding overcrowding by bringing to Iowa City a special car.

For a number of years the Finkbine alumni golf tournament has been held during Homecoming. Since the golf course was formally opened this tournament has been one of the features of the day.

Another well known event of which Mr. Finkbine has been the promoter and host is the Finkbine breakfast at Des Moines. The breakfast this year was held Friday at 7:15 a.m. at the Wakodana Country club. E. C. Finkbine of Pasadena, Cal., was host with his brother, William O. Finkbine, to faculty members of the university. Present were: Raymond A. Hughes of Iowa State college, Dr. H. D. Starbuck of Iowa State Teachers college, and a group of Des Moines men.

Have Many Guests

Iowa City guests included Pres. Walter A. Jessup, Col. Morton C. Mumma, Prof. S. H. Bush, Dean P. C. Packer, Prof. Elmer Peterson, Prof. T. J. Kirby, Prof. C. L. Robinson, Prof. Harry A. Greene, Prof. Everett Lindquist, Dr. Roy Finkbine, Prof. Fred M. Bowdell, Prof. P. L. Mott, Prof. Edward Bartow, Bruce E. Mahan, Dean George F. Kray, Richard Foster, Prof. E. K. Mapes, Prof. A. O. Thomas, Prof. Edward H. Lauer, Prof. F. G. Higbee, Prof. P. A. Bond, Prof. Paul Belting, Prof. C. J. Lapp, Prof. P. C. Ensign, Prof. M. F. Carpenter, Prof. E. M. Mabie, Dr. C. H. Woolbert, Dr. Edwin D. Starbuck, Dr. C. Williams, Prof. J. D. Whitney, Dr. Bird T. Baldwin, Mr. Simmons, R. H. Fitzgerald, and Prof. Ernest Horn.

Among the Des Moines guests the following alumni were at the breakfast: Justice F. F. Faville, '91, Harvey Ingham, '81, and James B. Weaver, '82.

Seydel Receives Rank of Major in Welfare Reserve

Frank E. Seydel, '13, has been commissioned major in the chemical welfare reserves. He is, at present, assistant general counsel to the national board of fire underwriters at New York.

Major Seydel, who served throughout the World War, has risen from the rank of second lieutenant awarded him at the first officers' training camp at Ft. Snelling, Minn., in 1917.

He was editor of the 1913 Hawkeye, and a member of the interstate debate team. He was also on the university track team.

His two brothers, Fred and Harry, both attended public schools in Iowa City. Maj. Fred Seydel is now stationed at Ft. Leavenworth, Kan. Maj. Harry Seydel holds his commission in the chemistry welfare reserves.

Scott German Returns

Scott German, '89, of Newark, N. J., drove to Iowa City from Des Moines, Friday, to attend the Iowa Homecoming. He was accompanied by his brother, Bert German, with whom he had been visiting in Des Moines. He was graduated from the college of law.

Returns for Visit

Florence Johnson, '26, of Gowrie, returned to Iowa City for a visit with friends during Homecoming. While at the university she majored in education.

Evans Coaches Winners

Winning their last three games, the Perry high school Bluejays are having a good year under Coach Gwilym Evans, '21. Plans are also being made by Evans for the entrance of his basketball team in the county meet.

Rayner Locates

Merwin D. Rayner, '26, is now connected with the International Business Machine corporation. He is located in their offices at Boston, Mass.

Supervisor Visits Campus

Dallas H. Conn, '26, of Belmont was in Iowa City for Homecoming. He is a graduate of the college of commerce and was president of the senior class. He is now state supervisor of the Shaffer Oil and Refining company with headquarters at Fort Dodge.

Physicists From Iowa Department Locate Positions

Two Head Graduate Schools; Many in Education

During the seventeen years that doctors degrees have been awarded in the physics department, only twenty-two men have been so honored. The men who have received these Ph. D. degrees are all physicists now.

Two men are now deans of graduate schools. L. P. Sieg, '10, is dean of the graduate school at the University of Pittsburgh, Pittsburg, Pa. H. L. Dodge, '14, holds the same position at the University of Oklahoma, Norman, Okla.

Enter Research Field

Eight men do physics research work in industrial and other laboratories. William D. Crozier, '27, is with the Newcombe Hawley company. E. O. Dieterich, '16, is research physicist for the Goodrich Tire and Rubber company of Akron, O. H. B. Peacock, '25, is working for the Geophysical Research corporation. A. J. Stoyens, '25, is doing research for the Physics Union switch and signal company, at Swassville, Pa.

J. C. Stienberg, '27, is connected with the Bell Telephone company. In New York City. Others doing this work are W. E. Tisdale, '17, G. A. Wait, '20, and R. V. Zurnstein, '24.

Teaching in colleges and universities are twelve of these men. Charles B. Croft, '23, is assistant professor of physics at the University of Maine, Orono. Mr. Elmer Dershem, '17, has the same position in the University of California. R. L. Edwards, '25, is a professor of physics at Miami university at Oxford, O.

W. P. Gardner Dies in Nebraska

Hold Funeral Service for Alumnus in Wellman

The funeral of Dr. W. P. Gardner, '86, was held Nov. 1 at the Methodist church at Wellman. The ceremony was conducted by the Rev. R. J. Arms, assisted by the Rev. W. S. Gardner of Muscatine. Burial took place in the Mt. Pleasant cemetery.

Dr. W. P. Gardner was born in Lexington in 1858 and died in Omaha, Oct. 29, aged 68 years. He attended school at Iowa Wesleyan college and was later graduated from the college of medicine at the university.

He was married to Josephine Gardner in 1886. He began the practice of medicine in Lexington, later moving to Wellman, where he practiced for twenty-nine years. He retired from active practice in 1906.

He was a member of the Knights of Pythias, of the O. E. S. and Masonic orders, and of the county hospital board.

Former Speaker in Iowa Hospital

Willie Edson, '01, of Storm Lake, has been in the Methodist hospital at Des Moines. His condition is reported not serious.

Mr. Edson served four terms in the house of representatives from Buena Vista county, and acted as speaker of the house in 1925 and 1926. He received an L.L.B. degree from Iowa.

Famed Alumni Return to Iowa for Homecoming

Many alumni of the University of Iowa who have attained prominence came back this year to celebrate the sixteenth annual Homecoming of their alma mater.

Among this number was Frank O. Lowden, '85, possible republican candidate for presidency. Lowden received his L.L.D. degree in 1918.

Gov. John Hammond, '97, took part in the presentation of the Kingwood memorial at Old Capitol. He reviewed the life of the Civil war governor before the ceremony of presentation and the acceptance of the memorial.

W. O. Finkbine came Friday, with a group of Des Moines business men, in a private car chartered for the occasion.

William H. Bremner, '91, president of the M. and St. L. railroad, was here.

Harvey Ingham, '80, editor of the Des Moines Register, who spoke in Iowa City a few weeks ago, was back again to take part in the Homecoming celebration.

Arthur M. Hyde, '00, former governor of Missouri, attended the celebration.

Pres. E. H. Lindley of the University of Kansas, who received his L.L.D. from the University of Iowa in 1923, was a guest of the university.

Keep File of Degrees

The fourth file of all people who have received graduate degrees from the university.

The files are maintained by means of clipping bureaus, reunions, correspondence, alumni circulation, service bulletins, newspapers, telephone directories, and large city alumni organizations.

Registration at Homecoming, commencement, the state teachers convention and the state fair are other aids. Information is also gained through the various colleges.

The alumni office has charge of all special events which concern alumni. It arranges for rooms at

Graduate Moves

Glenn B. Cook, '23, writes that he has moved recently from 2374 South Thirty-ninth street, St. Louis, to 1447 King street, Toronto, Ont., Canada. He was a graduate in the school of commerce and was a member of Sigma Pi.

Nurses in Harry

James J. McLean, '21, is a member of the nursing staff at the King's Daughters hospital at Perry. She was graduated from the school of nursing of the university.

Returns from Trip

Dr. Harold O. Cobb, '15, returned to Perry last week after a week of hunting and fishing in Minnesota. He has offices for the practice of dentistry in Perry.

Attorney Visits Campus

Blake V. Willis, '14, was in Iowa City for Homecoming. He is at present county attorney for Dallas county. He received his law degree from the university in 1916.

Works in Des Moines

Melvin Neuzil of the engineering class of '25, is employed in Des Moines.

Visits Mother

William H. Woltman, of Chicago, who graduated from the college of medicine in 1903, visited the city yesterday. Mr. Woltman stayed with his mother, Mrs. Henry Woltman of 314 Market street.

"Dead" Alumnus Returns to Life

"George Wilson, '93, is very much alive," writes Samuel C. Smith, '96, from Winterset to the college of law.

For some time the alumni file of the college of law has shown that George Wilson, a graduate of that college, was dead. Recently word received from Mr. Smith tells that Mr. Wilson is living at 210 W. First street, Ft. Worth, Tex.

The files were changed and Mr. Wilson is again on the roll of the living.

Iowa Teachers Hear Graduate in Des Moines

Lauer Directs After Dinner Program for Iowans

F. T. Vasey, '18, was president of the Iowa State Teachers association, which met in Des Moines last week. Secretary of the association was Charles F. Pye of Des Moines. Clay D. Slinker of Des Moines was treasurer.

Mr. Vasey, who retires this year, is superintendent of schools at Mason City. It has been the custom of the association to choose its presidents from the divisions in rotation.

The president addressed the convention Thursday evening, choosing for his subject, "What Next?"

Alumni Reunite

Nearly 7,500 teachers attended the convention. All meetings were held in the new Shrine temple, except the concert Friday night, which was held in the Coliseum in order to accommodate the larger crowd.

Alumni of the University of Iowa reunited at a dinner, Thursday evening, at Hotel Fort Des Moines. There was an informal reception between 5 and 6 p.m., at which President Walter A. Jessup, with other members of the university staff, extended greetings to Iowa graduates, former students, and friends of the university.

The program after dinner was in charge of E. H. Lauer of the extension division of the university. Harvey Ingham, '80, editor of the Des Moines Register, turned the "Headlights on Europe."

Goodell Leads Cheers

President Jessup spoke on "Dilemmas on the Iowa Campus." Ray Latham showed the "Spotlights on the graduate college." Abbie Anne McHenry, A4, turned the "Slide lights on the Footlights."

The singing was led by Frances Camp, director of the teachers' placement bureau of the university. I. A. Opstad, superintendent of Iowa City schools, and R. H. Fitzgerald, director of Iowa Union.

William Goodell, '23, of Des Moines, led the cheers. Mr. Goodell was a member of Eels club and the swimming team. He was president of Y.M.C.A., and is member of Sigma Phi Epsilon.

Activities of Graduate Groups Keep Alumni Office at Iowa Union Busy

Homecoming and commencement, and takes care of the Finkbine dinner each year.

A directory is compiled through this office every five years, the last one being in 1924.

Issue Service Bulletins

Service bulletins from the university are sent out from the files a the office. These bulletins are mailed every month to all alumni. Special bulletins and letters dealing with alumni affairs go from this office also.

Lists or information pertaining to alumni can be obtained here.

Lloyce Fisher, '17, is the paid secretary of the Iowa Alumni association. F. C. Ensign, '97, being the acting secretary. Miss Fisher says it is a difficult task to keep in touch with all the alumni, and makes a plea that all alumni who do not receive a bulletin, or whose address is incomplete, send her their complete address.

When mail is returned, the card of the alumnus to whom it was sent is taken out of the geographical file. To keep the files complete, it is necessary to know the address of every alumnus.

"The alumni office was again the center of registration at Homecoming. Alumni registered according to classes. Standards were set up for classes from 1890-1927 and for every ten years after that, the last being 1920-1927. All others who registered did so under the miscellaneous standard."

Graduates Meet in Independence

On the day of Iowa's Homecoming, alumni of the university met in the Gedyney hotel at Independence to hear the program broadcast by WSUL.

The graduates, with their families and friends, met at 12:30 a.m. for a dinner, after which they heard the report of the Iowa-Illinois game and the special program between halves.

A. N. Todd, '76, and other graduates living in Independence were sponsoring the affair.

There were many such meetings given to the state among old graduates who could not come back to the university for its Homecoming celebration.

Last Year's Law President Returns Over Homecoming

Raymond H. Wright, '27, was in Iowa City for the Homecoming festivities this week end. Last year he was elected to the office of all-Iowa president and also to the position of president of the senior law class.

Mr. Wright registered from Wapello upon entering the college of law. He had served there as clerk of courts for two years. He is now connected with the law firm of Hirsch and Riepe of Burlington. Mrs. Wright accompanied him. They visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Mezik, Manville heights.

Commerce Graduate Returns

Earl L. Wilkins, '22 of Hartley returned for the Iowa-Illinois game. He was graduated from the college of commerce, and is now working for the Chicago Automatic Electric company. He is a member of Delta Upsilon fraternity.

Grimm "Comes Home"

Louis L. Grimm, '24, returned Saturday for Homecoming. He is sales manager of the Grimm Portland company at Chicago. He is a member of A. F. U., Phi Delta Upsilon, Beta Gamma Sigma, Phi Beta Kappa, Delta Sigma Pi, and the Order of Artus.

Back for Celebration

Dr. Cecil H. Bliss, '22, graduate of the college of dentistry, was at the university for his sixteenth annual Homecoming celebration. Doctor Bliss is now practicing in Sioux City.

Lewis Visits City

Ralph W. Lewis, '27 of Albany, Ill., visited in Iowa City last weekend.

Visits Alma Mater

Paul E. Pascoe, '26 of Park Ridge, Ill., visited here last week-end.

Capper Declares Lowden Strong

Senator Curtish of Kansas Vice-president Dawes or perhaps Hoover is likely to be nominated for president on the republican ticket, according to Senator Arthur Capper of Kansas, in doing a bit of campaign forecasting.

Frank O. Lowden, he believes, is the strongest candidate in Illinois and Iowa.

At a meeting of the corn belt and southern farm conference recently at St. Louis, many delegates spoke in favor of the presidential candidacy of former Governor Lowden.

Hull Looms as Next Governor

Iowan May Succeed Former Philippine Administrator

That a graduate of the University of Iowa may receive appointment as governor general of the Philippine Islands became a possibility last week when John A. Hull, '95, received serious consideration for the post by officials at Washington.

The necessity for the selection of a governor general of the Philippines results from the death of Major General Leonard Wood.

Meets No Objection

The report of the consideration of Major General Hull for the post was lent additional credence by the arrival in Washington of Manuel Quezon, leader for independence in the Philippine senate, and Sergio Osmena, leader in the house.

Both these men affirm that their visit is solely for the purpose of discussing with President Coolidge the future policy toward the islands.

Hull, who is a major general in the United States army, and judge advocate general of the war department, would not meet with opposition from either Quezon or Osmena. Neither of these men object to the naming of a military man for the governorship.

The appointment of Major General Hull would, however, translate itself into the policy of retention of the military control of the islands.

Received Law Degree

In favor of the Iowa graduate are the facts that he has seen previous service in the Philippines, and that he has had a great amount of legal training and practice which would fit him for the administrative post.

His early legal training was at the university where he received his degree in law in 1894.

Mr. Hull, who is the son of Capt. J. A. T. Hull, for many years representative in the Iowa congress, now has offices in the war and navy building at Washington, D. C. He is a member of Phi Kappa Psi fraternity.

Dr. Charles S. Chase Recalls Many Old Battles in Athletics, Societies

"Classic battles—football—literary societies—are they all not written in the book of Chronicles?" smiled Dr. Charles S. Chase, '81, as he reviewed his early days at Iowa.

The life of the university at the time of Dr. Chase's attendance savored then as now of the spice and enthusiasm which is Iowa's. Despite the fact that the student body was not more than 400, and the campus boasted of but three buildings, the spirit of competition and sport were very much in evidence.

"When I came to the Iowa campus," said Dr. Chase, "four literary societies held sway. They were the Zetaphians and Irving for the men, and the Hesperian and Erodophilan for the women. Zetaphian and the Hesperians were then what the Delta Gammas and the Sigma Nus are today.

"If college marriages occurred, they happened between the Zets and the Hesperians. The Irvings and Erodophilans flocked together, being a more sedate crowd.

Literary Groups Battled

"The Zetaphians prided themselves as the campus debaters, as well as the social dancers. They professed no love for either the medical or the laws.

"We had real scraps, too. How well I remember the commencement of March, 1881," ejaculated the jovial doctor. "We were snow bound for six days and were obliged to remain in the city. While the roads were being cleared, the Zetaphians announced an all mede party, with a special program. A goodly number of trusting ones attended in good faith. During that program we medics were roasted to a finish, and the door was locked behind us. Although our number was small a real scrap followed."

No fraternities lightened the burdens for the medics in the old days, said Dr. Chase, for they were offered nothing but "good hard digging."

"Football at Iowa in the early days was real rough-house football," beamed the old alumnus with pride. "The flying wedge formation was used and it was extremely effective."

Had Good Teams

"Coach Knipe, in '99 and '00, put out teams that for two successive years trounced Chicago within an inch of their lives. I remember well of attending those games at Chicago and seeing the flying wedge worked out perfectly.

"In the eighties there were several campus papers, and according to Dr. Chase, Harvey Ingham, now editor of the Des Moines Register, took an active part in the publications.

Dr. Charles S. Chase is known as the grandfather of the university. The medical buildings during the doctor's college career, consisted of a portion of the old South Hall which was later taken over by the dental students.

In 1882 Dr. Chase came to Iowa as a member of the medical faculty. He has been here ever since, this year completing his thirty-fifth. A book on the history of the first fifty years of the medical college is now being prepared by him.

Iowa Graduate Builds Up High School Weekly

Love of journalism, followed by intense work, enabled Hildegarde Stolteben, '12, to build up one of the best newspapers of its kind in the state. The publication is "The News," published weekly by Dubuque senior high school.

Being asked for advice in starting a newspaper for the Dubuque high school in 1919, Miss Stolteben responded enthusiastically and started her career as supervisor of "The News."

With little actual journalistic experience, Miss Stolteben determined to establish the paper as an approved high school weekly. Through her efforts the paper became a member of the C. I. P. A.

Realizing that trained journalists were necessary to a good publication, Miss Stolteben established a semester course in journalism. The task of teaching this subject was given to its sponsor, who up to this time had taught business English.

"The News" is now affiliated with Quill and Scroll and is considered one of the best of small high school weeklies.

Miss Stolteben attended the conference held here Oct. 28 and 29 and received many compliments on her work.

The staff of "The News" was present at the convention with 100 per cent attendance.

Half of State's Lawyers Alumni

Approximately one-half of the practicing attorneys of law in the state of Iowa are graduates of the University of Iowa college of law, is the conclusion reached from recent statistics compiled at the college.

At present there are 1,317 living graduates practicing in Iowa. The figures may be compared with the 2,708 total number of attorneys in the state.

Each county in Iowa is represented by Iowa graduates. Polk county leads with the number of 126. Scott county is second with seventy-three, and Woodbury county is third with fifty-nine.

Forty-nine graduates are now living in Black Hawk county, while Muscatine has thirty-four, Osceola, Winnebago, and Union counties are at the bottom of the list with two graduates each.

Figures showing the relative attendance of students by counties for the year 1926-27 have been announced. There were 224 students enrolled in the college last year, representing eighty-three counties. Johnson county leads this group with twenty-four students.

Weddings of Iowa Alumni

Thompson-Grimm

Annette N. Thompson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. Thompson of Clarinda, was married recently to George L. Grimm, '23, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Grimm of Shambaugh.

The wedding took place at the Christian church parsonage at Creston with the Reverend Twyford officiating.

Mrs. Grimm attended Simpson college for three years. She is a member of Delta Delta Delta sorority.

Mr. Grimm is a member of Delta Upsilon, Delta Sigma Pi, Phi Beta Kappa, and Beta Gamma Sigma fraternities, and the Order of Artus. He is a member of A.F.I., and winner of the Delta Sigma Pi scholastic key.

Mr. and Mrs. Grimm will make their home in Chicago where Mr. Grimm is in the advertising business.

Derwent-Smid

Marjorie Derwent of Chicago was married Oct. 22 at Austin, to Melo V. Smid, '16, of Lone Tree.

The wedding took place at the First Baptist church with relatives and friends of the couple present.

A sister of the bride, Iola Derwent, was maid of honor, and Edward Smid, brother of the bridegroom, was best man.

Mrs. Smid has been employed in an insurance office for the last few years.

Mr. Smid was graduated from the college of engineering. Following his graduation he spent a year on a chautauque circuit and later enlisted and served in the war.

He is now associated with the Western Electric company.

Keep Up the Fight!

THE Hawks have lost their third conference game of the season.

Every man on the Iowa team feels "pretty low" today after Illinois' victory. For seven weeks they have drilled on the practice field. They have gone over and over the same plays hour after hour, day after day. They have suffered injuries and bruises, all in the hope of winning a conference championship for Iowa. And so far their work has meant nothing.

Enough to discourage anyone, isn't it? It is going to be a hard job for those men to "buck up" and go on the field next Saturday, confident that they can win.

They can not do it unless you make them feel that you still have confidence in them; that you think they can win. They will not feel even like trying if they think the student body does not care whether they win.

Let them know that you do care. You'll see them on the street this week. Tell them that you don't even consider the possibility of your losing to Wisconsin. You'll see them in class. Tell them again!

It's hard to cheer when there's little to cheer.

But when there's little to cheer is exactly the time when the cheering is most needed. Let's see if there are more than eleven men in the university who have the old Iowa fighting spirit.

Fruit Basket Upset

INDIANAPOLIS varies the monotony of municipal government by introducing a political version of the time honored game, "fruit basket upset."

The four somewhat doubtful "fruit" who landed successively in the mayor's chair were John L. Duvall, Claude E. Negley, Joseph Hogue, and Walter Myers. Of these John L. Duvall, found guilty of corrupt office getting in his 1925 election, is most assuredly a lemon.

We who thought the multitude of mayors a gesture in the direction of absolute democracy, permitting each citizen to try his hand at the municipal steering gear, have been disillusioned to discover that the council's efforts to oust Duvall and his efforts to be ousted are responsible for Indianapolis' surplus of executives. The difficulty is said to be directly traceable to the ku-klux introduction of "gutter politics" into Indianapolis government.

What a disillusionment!

A Farm Buying Corporation

A PROPOSED farm buying corporation, backed by Charles H. McNider of Mason City, Governor Hammill, and others, may be organized to try to stabilize land values and to make money for the stockholders. This is to be accomplished by the purchase of land in any part of the state at sacrifice prices and by buying up the surplus that is depressing the market.

What is to be done with this purchased surplus? No corporation can afford to have such an investment on its hands as a total loss, and the sale of the surplus of a single agricultural state, however slowly and steadily it may be done, cannot maintain prices far above the normal level.

Then, too, there is a distinct relation between the price of agricultural products and the value of land on which those products are raised. High prices bring relatively high land values, and low prices are accompanied by relatively low values. To keep land values high or moderately so, prices must therefore be on a similar scale. No one is willing to pay high prices for land which will produce a total of only half the purchase price.

A single agricultural state in competition with a score of others in the market can not stabilize the price of products. Only by cooperative action can such a price be maintained.

The Canadian wheat pool is such an example. The wheat producers of Canada sell their grain on the market through the medium of this pool, which so regulates the flow of the product to the market as to keep the price at a fairly stable mark. It is obvious that a single state with such a diversification of farm products as Iowa, can be of little influence in the market. The Canadian pool has not been entirely successful in its original purpose, but it has proved better than the old individual competitive method.

If prices can be stabilized by the operation of such a proposed farm corporation, land values will accordingly rise. The outlook, however, in this regard is doubtful and should be deeply considered before any costly experiment is attempted.

Bread for Sunday

"THEY shall not pass." This is the edict of staid old Boston. Who? The bakers' wagons on Sunday. It is illegal to sell bread on Sunday between certain hours and in stores not devoted to bakery products. Terrible! The city is out now to prosecute or enjoin 200 violators of the "blue" law.

When juries are tampered with, prohibition unenforced, and attacks are made by navy officials against the government, it's a shame that the taxpayers' money does not go for something more important than seeing that the day of rest is rigidly enforced on atheist, Christian, and non-believer alike.

With Tongue in Cheek

THE well known phrase, "keeping up with the Joneses," seems adequately exemplified on this campus. Certain groups and some individuals set the standards and the rest of the students follow like a flock of sheep.

With co-eds, it is the eternal race to wear the most unusual clothes, and to get the most dates. With men, it is dating, also clothes, in many cases, and a contest to ascertain who can drink the most beer or maintain the greatest reputation for being "speedy."

How some youths manage to keep up the show is indeed a miracle. Regardless of limited finances—and living beyond one's means is not at all uncommon—the continual going, the cry for something to do, never ceases.

A few can take in all of the gay events, and do "A" work at the same time, but these persons are rarities. They set an example for those who can little afford to spend so much time on the social aspects of university life.

Parents find that the expense of a college education is four or five times greater than when they attended. It is absurd that students, nowadays, must have as much as they do.

The problem is, unfortunately, that they do not desire the constant pleasure seeking, but rather they feel that they must do as much, if not more, than their associates. It is quite unheard of for a girl to refuse a date, saying that she prefers to stay at home and enjoy a good book. She drags herself to a dance, regardless of how tired she may be, to give the impression that she is popular.

It is answered by the fact that students wish to "get by." And they all try the same methods to realize this ambition. The situation becomes almost humorous, when a young man and woman may spend an evening together, bored to distraction, because they have wished to accompany the crowd.

The problem is not one for university regulation—it is rather for each student to solve for himself. He needs to decide finally what he wants to do, what he wishes to accomplish, while he is attending the university, to stop catering to the Joneses and to cater to himself at last.

Maybe a week's ride on Calvin's electrical horse would cure Senator Fess of his pesterousness.—Milwaukee Journal.

College Grades

THE majority of fraternities at the University of Iowa have been placed on probation because of low grades. This action should serve as a gentle reminder that learning is still the most important thing in a college career.

Fraternities, as well as other organizations on a college campus, should be sympathetically regarded only so long as they bear the proper relation to the school. The primary function of a college or university is obviously the dissemination of knowledge, and if any outside activity of college life conflicts with this in a serious way, then it has no place on the campus.

Cases such as those at the University of Iowa are probably in the minority. In most schools, undoubtedly, as at Iowa State, a man must receive a certain definite scholastic average before he may become a member of any fraternity. Since the fraternities, therefore, represent more or less of a scholastically "picked" group, it would seem that they should be especially concerned with upholding a high scholastic standard.

While in most cases fraternities are viewing in their proper relationship the various phases of college life, there are still a few who seem to follow steadfastly the old slogan, "Don't let your studies interfere with your college education." When such an attitude is held by an entire organization, some means must necessarily be adopted by those in authority whereby matters can be brought back to normal.

If a student is in college because he really wants to learn, he will realize the importance of a certain unity in all the activities which go to make up a college career. He will see that such organizations as fraternities have their place on the campus. They must be made an added means to the one end—a thorough and well-rounded education.

Letter to the Editor
To the Editor—
Your paper Wednesday carried a news item giving the reasons why an obscure professor in an Iowa college thinks that military training is such a wonderful thing for all the youth of the nation. In this item the statement is made that only the persons who are not taking this training and know nothing about it, are opposed to it.
Now, I happen to be one of the persons who are not taking this course. I am also opposed to it, but since I was excused on account of previous military service during the fight for democracy, I believe I know something about it.
However, if the professor is correct and we who do not take this training about something we know nothing about, we must be as he intimates, a bunch of windbags, and also be consistent and logical those who are not being drilled and are advocating it for others are also more or less the same.
Perhaps the professor is taking

Iowa Literary Magazine

By BARTHOLOW V. CRAWFORD, Associate Professor of English
On the day the Iowa Literary Magazine appeared, one of my students who, I am sure, had no idea that I was to be its reviewer, asked me if I had read the editorial. On my replying affirmatively, he inquired, "Doesn't it sound to you as though they were apologizing for the things included in this issue?"
If the editorial created this impression among others, as it certainly did not with me, it is unfortunate, for the number as a whole is one of the best which the magazine has issued, and apologies are not in order. The material has freshness, vitality, and popular appeal.
The reviews, which occupy so prominent a place, exceeding in number any other class of work, are excellent. The first essential in the mastery of the craft of writing is acquaintance with the best that has been and is being written. Our Iowa literary circle is clearly abreast of the times.
So good are all the reviews included in the present number that I hesitate to choose any for particular mention. Mr. Graham, who is evidently not among those who found "Jurgens" a stupid book, writes at length concerning Cabell's latest work, "Something About Eve." The review should stimulate its sale.
Mr. Myhre says of Michael Arlen some things which I am particularly glad to hear said, even though the style of the review is at times smart and mannerish. The shoddy tinsel and sentimental dishonesty of Arlen have never been better pointed out. The remaining reviews also are both vigorous and interesting.
The poetry of the issue I should call mediocre. Mr. Myhre's gift for phrasing, one of the most dangerous of gifts, serves him well toward the end of his poem, "If On Thursday," where he has hold of two genuinely poetic ideas; but well nigh his undoing elsewhere. Miss Wickard's three poems, though agreeable, are not arresting; and the same thing may be said for the anonymous contribution of Columbine.
Mr. Weber, who will one of these now true, they do not find it difficult to work together, for they share common ideals of justice and they feel the binding force of common traditions and loyalties.

But in an ever increasing larger measure they are actually seeking cooperation, and that, too, in spheres of tremendous importance, thus demonstrating a community of interest far greater than most of us are aware of. For example, they are discussing from common platforms crucial questions of public welfare, frankly stating their distinctive viewpoints, but limited in desire to find the best solutions.
But this voluntary cooperative activity is going far beyond the relatively safe domain of public speech making. It is entering the field of organized service for the common good. Take, for example, the Church and Drama Association of New York City, which is composed of leading representatives of the Catholic, Protestant, and Jewish faiths, and which issues a weekly bulletin of unobjectionable plays and movies.
The problem of providing vital religious instruction in a tax supported school is a complicated one, partly because of the American principle of separation of church and state and partly because the religious groups themselves have hitherto been unable to agree among themselves on a common plan of approach. The American Association on Religion has been born out of opportunity, for increasing thousands of students of all faiths are attending the state colleges and universities, and under the guidance of this association plans are being worked out where by the churches in cooperation with the universities may teach re-

Becky

A Serial of the Price of Glory
by RAYNOR SELIG

WHAT HAS HAPPENED SO FAR

Becky McCloskey, young and goodlooking, trying to make her way alone in New York, meets Dan Scarlett who lives by his wits. He realizes she has a beautiful voice and offers to finance her for a share in her profits. Becky has made an ideal of John Estabrook, a very rich young man of high social standing. Through Scarlett's influence she joins a Broadway chorus. At the studio of Boris Abelard, a close friend of Estabrook's, Becky meets her ideal. She interests him and he kisses her. She stands dazed and tells him she expected him to be different. He apologizes. Estabrook hears her sing, takes her to her shabby little room in his car and tells her he loves her. Becky shows she is in love with him. Scarlett urges her to get what she can out of Estabrook and not to delude herself with any idea that Estabrook will marry her. Becky greatly worried, confesses to Abelard, who has proven a devoted friend, that she loves Estabrook. Abelard realizing the social chasm between them tells her she must be mad. Estabrook takes Becky to his home and she meets his sister, Nan, who is loved by young Lord Travars. Scarlett forces Becky to introduce him to Nan and makes violent love to her. Scarlett tells Becky he is to marry Nan and she begs him to leave Miss Estabrook alone and to give back the love letters she has written him. Scarlett refuses. Becky takes the key to his apartment as she leaves. Later she goes with Estabrook to his house and discovers that Nan is missing. She rushes to Scarlett's apartment and faces Scarlett and Nan as they are preparing to leave to be married. She convinces Nan that Scarlett is a scoundrel and blackens her own character in doing it. Nan escapes. Estabrook notices Becky's nervousness and she asks if he doesn't care a little for her. He agrees to meet her that evening. Estabrook tells Becky he loves her, but says it in such a way that she imagines he does not wish to marry her. He offers her $100,000 provided she will leave the country and educate herself abroad.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER 31
"That's no use," he said. "You've gotten all you can get that way. You've put your cards on the table, and it's too late to raise the ante."

"Or perhaps you don't like my conditions? Well, my dear, the offer is made, and stands. A hundred thousand dollars paid to a foreign bank. And a cabin de luxe on the first steamer that leaves. Take it or let it go."

Becky gave him one long look, and he met it squarely. She searched his face, and in it saw only contempt. And Becky flung the hair back from her face and grinned—painfully.

Estabrook called for his check. And while he waited he noticed that very softly, Becky was singing that lilting Irish tune she had sung on the night of their first meeting. She sang:

"I know where I'm going,
I know who's going with me,
I know who I love,
But the dear knows who I'll marry."

And then, "So long Ambrose!" she said, rising with a sort of swagger to conceal the agony in her heart. "Let me know the name of the bank." And with that she left him. A moment later the man with the blonde mustache arose from his table, and followed her into the street.

Once outside the restaurant Becky started to walk at a brisk pace, but without sense of direction or destination. Estabrook's car waited at the curb. She passed it with a pang, turning her face to avoid the chauffeur's recognition, his pleasant, respectful smile. Already it seemed impossible to her—that this same Becky McCloskey who walked onward in the blindness of despair—could have known luxury, happiness, love. It all seemed like some convincing dream from which one had awakened, disappointed, to face the crude realities of existence.

Wave upon wave of suffocating heat seemed to sweep over her as she walked. Her feet and the back of her neck, where the dark hair made tiny, soft curls, and the tips of her fingers, all burned as if some biting acid had been shot into her veins. And still she was cold—about the forlorn emptiness where her heart must be there a chill aura, as of death.

She knew now no thought neither fear nor bitterness entered into her mood; she was abandoned to the tide of her despair, her nerves tingling and quivering, straws upon turbulent waters, and dark.

In her ears was a tolling of deep funeral bells, or of some raging surf beating endlessly upon a distant shore. Her eyes looked on the world, without registering the impressions they received upon her brain. And she walked and walked, endlessly, eternally, mechanically, without knowing or caring why she went, or where.

A fine drizzle had started, not heavy, but cold, penetrating. The sky appeared to hover phantasmagorically over the house tops; the glittering signs spread themselves on the haze, diffusing a yellowish aura which merged into the bleakness above.

The wide river of Broadway glistened like some mysterious sea monster coiling into the city. Across its shining surface taxis and limousines glided, purring and honking. In illuminated nookways little knots of people cowered covering back from the damp, laughing, or complaining.

A man with bowed legs and a thick set body which seemed to crumple them under his weight, hovered at Becky's shoulder holding out a dripping umbrella. He spoke, and she looked at him blankly, vaguely. Looked, indeed, not at him but past him, as if toward some horrid vision painted on a neighboring wall.

The man felt back, a slight shudder shaking his massive frame, and, freeing one hand from the umbrella shaft, hastily made the sign of the cross. Becky walked on.

Westward now, toward the river, she went, her footsteps beginning to lag a little. Before her, when she had passed Eighth avenue, desolation spread near and far. Small lights pricked holes in unfathomable darkness. The streets stretched empty, nightmare thoroughfares, wrapped in gloom. Somewhere—out there where the darkness thickened, lay the wide, stirring stream of the river, forever silently moving on its way toward darkness and the dark sea.

Becky passed, with bent head, the street lamps which illuminated little but the silver points of the rain. Once she seemed to hear footsteps behind her. Waking for an instant, she turned sharply, seeing only a long shadow fall from a neighboring doorway. And she walked on.

So, at length, she reached the water front, and, crossing a blank unit gap of roadway, found herself staring down into the watery depths, murky, mysterious, on which little pieces of wood and paper floated.

Becky sank down on the heavy wooden bulwark which rose between the river and the walls of the nearest warehouse, and felt for the first time the chilling dampness of her clothes. That was good—good. It cooled the fever heat of her flesh. And the water too... peace there, peace and rest... see how tranquilly those bits of flotsam swayed back and forth, soothed by the Hudson's soft and sinister lullaby.

The river... and peace. That was the answer. It was as though some supernatural force had led her wandering footsteps to this point, where the answer presented itself so simply, so sweetly. With a perfectly steady hand Becky opened her wet bag, and took out a package of cigarettes, and a match. She had some trouble in lighting the thing... the matches were damp... matches were bothersome anyway, but cigarettes were good... yes... a cigarette was one of the good things of life. And Becky was going to enjoy this one, her last.

She wondered, for an instant, whether there would be a sequel to the grim comedy called life... a hereafter. She had believed in God, in a kind God, who noted the falling of a sparrow. And in a soft heaven too, where there was love, and music, and eternal joy. Now she wondered why God let people suffer so cruelly. She had had enough of this life.

Now she wanted sleep, unconsciousness, she would take the final deep plunge, that the waters of Lethe might sweep gently over her with their panacea of forgetfulness. She thought, puffing on the damp cigarette, of her two friends, the black kitten and the rag doll both rescued, as she had been, from the city's slums.

Well, she would have liked to say goodbye to them. Kitty would be lonesome, but the landlady, a kind woman enough, would feed her and keep her warm. But Charlotte—poor Charlotte with her faded linen face away—Charlotte would be disappointed. Becky had made Charlotte promises which would never be kept... clothes of velvet and cloth of gold... a cushion all for herself... a string of real pearls for her twisted neck.

And Charlotte would go back to the gutters, poorer than ever. But perhaps some other child, poor and forlorn and lonely as Becky had been, but bright with dreams, as Becky had been, would rescue her again, and be comforted in dark hours by the fatuous delapidation of her rag doll loyalty.

They said that in the hour of death you remembered... saw everything clearly. And even now Becky's past appeared vividly, the high points lighted as if by the Rosy rays of a setting sun. The day she had first seen Estabrook, when she had waited on his mother in Belding's department store.

The night Dan Scarlett had taken her from the streets and fed her. The moment when, falling onto the stage, she had been given her job without the opportunity to sing a note. Estabrook's first kiss, in the velvet darkness of a moving cab.

Gophers Battle Fighting Irish to 7-7 Tie in Blizzard

Scores Come as Result of Fumbles in Scoring Zone

Both Coaches Start Second Stringers in Big Fray

CARTER FIELD, SOUTH BEND, Ind., Nov. 5 (AP)—Converting each others errors in the scoring zone into a touchdown apiece, Notre Dame and Minnesota battled to a 7-7 tie in a wintry blizzard today.

Undeclared in 22 years on the home gridiron, Notre Dame made a touchdown out of their only real opportunity in the first period and stopped the furious drives of Minnesota until the last few minutes of the game. Then from the 14-yard line, where one of the numerous Notre Dame fumbles was grabbed up, Captain Herb Joesting, who had failed to smash through for a touchdown, tossed the ball across the Rockne goal to Walsh to even up the score, and Art Pharmer was rushed in to kick the extra point that ended the battle with honors even.

Bronko Nagurski, alert Minnesota end, who grabbed the Notre Dame fumble in the closing minutes, shared honors of the day with Johnny Nigemic, Notre Dame halfback, who circled the Minnesota end for 17 yards and a touchdown early in the first period.

Nagurski's feat in the waning moments of the game brought to tie for Dr. C. W. Spears, Gopher coach, a game that for three periods and a half appeared to have been lost by his experimentation in starting a second team.

Second Team Starts

The Gopher second stringers, who started against a half and half Irish eleven, held their own until Hoyde, quarterback, muffed a punt after ten minutes of play, and Captain Smith of Notre Dame recovered. On the first play, Niemc skirted the Gopher left wing for a 17-yard run for a touchdown.

Spears thereupon sent in a first team that provided Notre Dame with a large measure of stout battling the rest of the way.

With fingers stiff from the penetrating cold that caused a half dozen fumbles, both teams kicked frequently.

Outside of the break by which Niemc scored, play was desultory in the first half.

Kick on First Down

Spears changed tactics in the second half. He deliberately handed the Irish the offensive by kicking time and again on first down, but Rockne's versatile carriers, except for occasional flashes by Flanagan, Collins, Dahman and Niemc could not penetrate beyond midfield. The Gophers late in the period took the offensive and marched down the field, holding the ball inside the Notre Dame 10-yard line when the period ended. In the final play, the ball was carried to the three yard line, where it was halted by Notre Dame.

Another Gopher offensive was started but it lacked the power of its predecessor and the South Bend aggregation again took the ball, on an attempted kick that permitted Nagurski to make his decisive recovery. Two smashes penetrated the Notre Dame line and then Joesting passed to Walsh and Pharmer, sent into the game, made the score tying kick.

Having kept their aerial game under cover in the hope it could be saved for future games, Notre Dame cut loose and attempted a desperate passing rally. Two passes grounded, another was incomplete, but the gain was allowed for interference with the receiver and a fourth never left the hands of the passer. Niemc being tackled ten yards back of his line of scrimmage as the gun cracked.

Cyclones Unleash Late Pass Attack to Down Drake 7-0

DES MOINES, Nov. 5 (AP)—Fought to a standstill for three periods, Iowa State unleashed a late passing attack to score a 7 to 0 victory and mar Drake's homecoming.

With running plays checked by the playing of the Bulldog line, the Cyclones were forced to open up with passes when Miller and Lindbloom, star halfbacks, were unable to score.

The winning score came when Lindbloom caught a 19-yard toss over the goal line from Hall, substituting for Miller. Hall, who had previously tried dropkicks from the 34 and 6 yard lines, added the extra point. Hall starred as the passer on the successful attack that resulted in the score and in another drive that took the ball to Drake's ten-yard line at the final whistle.

Rated as pre-game underdogs, the Drake team thrilled a homecoming crowd of 10,000 by refusing to give ground until Ames started to throw passes, the nemesis of the Bulldogs during the season. In the second period Captain Wales of Ames ran 65 yards to the Drake five-yard line, only to see his eleven fail to cross the goal.

Princeton Tigers Maul Ohio 20 to 0

Wittmer Scores Three Touchdowns Against Buckeye Team

PALMER STADIUM, PRINCETON, N. J., Nov. 5 (AP)—Ohio State's battling Buckeye's invaded the Tiger lair today and emerged badly battered and torn after a one-sided fray on a water-soaked gridiron. Princeton's flashy eleven exhibiting a stone wall defense as well as a sharp hard-hitting attack, swept the Ohioans off their feet and won by the decisive score of 20 to 0.

While the chilled crowd of close to 40,000 spectators looked on, Princeton's brilliant sophomore half-back, Ed Wittmer scored all three of the Tiger touchdowns. Wittmer's slashing, plunging drives were the outstanding features of a game that kept Princeton's unbeaten slate clean.

Outplayed by a wide margin for three periods, Ohio forces cut loose in a last desperate charge in the closing minutes. Led by twisting dashes of Ely, Ohio swept down the field from their own 18-yard line to Princeton's three-yard line where Ely made it first down.

Four plays were unable to budge the orange and black wall and the Tigers took the ball on downs as the final whistle blew.

Princeton profited greatly by the "breaks." The Tigers got two of their touchdowns as the direct result of blocked kicks, but the other was the product of a substituted 70-yard march. Wittmer, ably supported by Miles and Norman, finished the scoring punch each time.

Hagan Stages Up Hill Battle to Cop Golf Championship

CEDAR CREST COUNTRY CLUB, DALLAS, Tex., Nov. 5 (AP)—Walter Hagen, veteran of many classic struggles of the links, came from behind today to shake off the challenge of youth and successfully defend his title of champion of the Professional Golfers' association.

Joe Turnesa, handsome 25-year-old pro from Elmford, N. Y., played a versatile game and led the old master most of the way, but cracked for a moment in the last six holes and lost the match, one down on the thirty-sixth green.

In winning the title, Hagen added the professional crown to his collection for the fourth consecutive year and for the fifth time in his career. Ten Professional Golfers association tournaments have been held and Hagen has won half of them, in addition to being runner-up in 1916. He first won the coveted championship in 1921, after which Gene Sarazen of New York ruled for two years, but Hagen came back in 1924 and has occupied the throne since that time.

The champion's game was frequently ragged today but he betrayed no emotion as hole after hole wore away with Turnesa still in the lead.

Penn Upsets Dope to Defeat Harvard in Thrilling Game

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 5 (AP)—The "gun that wasn't loaded"—a Pennsylvania eleven with a death grip defense and supposedly little offense, blew up in the face of Harvard today in the first football meeting of the ancient rivals in twenty-two years.

While 60,000 frenzied fans looked down from the broad reaches of the Franklin field horseshoe, the Red and Blue team that had bowed to Chicago, Penn State and Navy on successive Saturdays, kicked the "dope bucket" all over the field to trounce a stubborn Crimson eleven 24 to 0.

A bulldog defense that held Harvard once for downs on the one-yard line and smothered every Crimson threat to penetrate deep in home territory thereafter, was expected from a team that has fought desperately with its back to the goal line all last season.

But a seething offense when scoring opportunities offered, a hidden ball attack masterful in execution, and a ball-hawk defense that plucked Harvard passes from the air for the conversion into touchdowns and made the lives of Crimson kickers miserable, was a sight Pennsylvania had saved its supporters for this one day alone.

Michigan Defeats Stagmen 14 to 0

Gilbert, Oosterbaan Passes Subdue Chicago

CHICAGO, Nov. 5 (AP)—With their backfield ace, Louis Gilbert, returned to the lineup and furnishing the fireworks, the Wolverines came back today to serve notice on the football world that they still must be considered as a championship possibility of the Western conference.

The fighting Wolverines, beaten a week ago by Illinois, with Gilbert on the sidelines, crushed "Old Man" Stagg's Maroons, 14 to 0, before a record smashing crowd of 57,000 shivering spectators. The speed, deception, and punch of the Wolverines was convincing today, with Gilbert in the backfield. The famous passing combination of Bonnie Oosterbaan, Michigan's all-American end to Gilbert and Gilbert to Oosterbaan worked to perfection.

Sharing the glory was George Rich, fullback of Lakewood, O., who ripped the Chicago line to shreds time after time.

Oosterbaan and Gilbert scored the touchdowns with their thrilling passing, but Rich lugged the ball down the field to the point where their passes resulted in touchdowns.

Rich, on the march preceding the first touchdown, carried the ball eight successive times, finally winding up at Chicago's one-yard line. The Maroons were dangerous only for a few minutes in the first period. Captain Kenneth Rouse, rated as the greatest center in the Big Ten, succumbed to injuries in the third period, when Rich was making his drive, and the Maroon defense crumpled.

Welch Shines as Purdue Wins, 18-6

LAFAYETTE, Nov. 5 (AP)—Purdue university's Boilermakers hammered a definite spike in the Western conference championship hopes of Northwestern today with an 18 to 6 victory. Before a homecoming crowd of 17,500 Purdue battled the Purple to a draw in the first half but in the latter part flashed a superior attack that Northwestern was unable to stem.

Ray Welch, whose playing is well remembered by Harvard, again scintillated. After Northwestern had drawn first blood with a touchdown by Gustafson, the shifty Welch evened the count on two plays. He made a fifty-five yard run to Northwestern's twenty-six yard line and completed the distance to the goal on the next play.

Purdue's second score came as the result of alertness on the part of Hook, the Boilermaker right guard, who grabbed a blocked punt and traveled twenty-five yards for a touchdown.

Captain Cotton Wilcox who teamed up well with Welch in the Purdue attack completed the Purdue scoring with a twenty-yard run through left tackle in the final period. Just before Wilcox made his score Welch had made fifty-five yards after grabbing a Northwestern forward pass.

Northwestern's attack was strongest in the second period. The Purple's score at this time was brought about by a forward passing attack that placed the ball within striking distance of the Purdue goal. With only a yard to go, Gustafson plunged across.

Hawkeyes Lose to Illinois Cross Country Squad

Iowa lost a close cross country run over the Lincoln course to the undefeated Illinois team 27 to 29 this morning.

Captain Jack Hunn of the Hawkeyes won first place, establishing a record for the four mile course when he finished in 23 minutes and 4 seconds. Brady of Iowa was second followed by Abbott of Illinois.

Hunn had a fifty yard lead at the tape over his teammate Brady, and Brady in turn had an even larger lead over Abbott of Illinois.

Illinois men finished third, fourth, fifth, seventh and eighth while the Old Gold runners took first, second, sixth, ninth and eleventh.

A stiff gale handicapped the men, forcing them to face the wind most of the distance.

Here is the way the men finished: Hunn, Iowa, first; Brady, Iowa, second; Abbott, Illinois, third; McElwee, Illinois, fourth; Stine, Illinois, fifth; Moulton, Iowa, sixth; Novak, Illinois, seventh; Fairfield, Illinois, eighth; Cuo, Iowa, ninth; Ponzar, Illinois, tenth; and McCammon, Iowa, eleventh.

Little Hawks Defeat Davenport in Close Struggle, 7 to 6

Idema Makes Only Score for Knoxmen

Horrabin Makes the Extra Point for Little Hawks

Iowa City has earned a well deserved 7 to 6 victory over the state championship contending team of Davenport this morning before a crowd of more than 700 spectators. The game was a battle royal from the very start.

Davenport played a brilliant brand of football but the Little Hawks outshone them in every department of the game. The long and short passes that flew from the hands of Captain Idema were always a fear of the Davenport aggregation.

When the two teams lined up at the beginning it appeared that Davenport had a right to boast of a strong eleven. They also had good reason to believe that they were going to trounce the Iowa City boys. A line that could compare with a good many college forward walls was in preparation to meet the Knoxmen and the backfield had men that appeared to have plenty of speed.

The forward passing game that the Little Hawks have been polishing all season came in for its share of use right at the start. So baffling were the pass formations that the Davenport from Davenport were completely bewildered by this style of play. The Captain Idema to Don Brown or L. Hain combination was always functioning in a proper form.

Balzer, Dahl Shine

The Davenport lads had some fine men representing them but their individual playing could not come up to the splendid work of the entire Iowa City eleven. Captain Hartman for Davenport, along with his backfield mates, Balzer and Dahl, did some good offensive and defensive work but with a continuously changing line that the Iowa City high had representing them today, no team could make much of a gain. In the line Davenport had a good man, Foster. He had the greater share of the defensive work on his shoulders.

The game was more of an exchange of punts the first quarter than a demonstration of clever football, with both teams having about the same advantage. In the second quarter Davenport received its first and only touchdown as a result of a twenty-five yard run by Tofanille and a penalty on Iowa City for slugging. This carried the ball down to the Iowa City one yard line and with two attempts Tofanille took the ball over for the touchdown.

Not to be outdone the Little Hawks Hawks on the next play recovered Davenport fumble and with Moffet in possession of the ball took the ball down to Davenport's seven yard line. A pass attempted by Idema to Don Brown was intercepted by Tofanille behind his goal line and Iowa City lost the ball just as the half ended.

The second half found some substitutions on the Davenport team. Sunderburg going in for Balzer at quarterback. For Iowa City C. Brown took Chelf's place at right half.

Iowa City Scores

After an exchange of punts and attempts at line plays, Davenport eleven passed, but it was intercepted by Idema on his twenty yard line and, with some splendid field running and perfect interference, he returned the ball eighty yards for a touchdown. The point after touchdown was made good when Horrabin booted the ball between the goal posts.

The game during the last quarter was filled with excitement watching the Davenport make a final effort to recover what they had thought was impossible for them to lose. The air was filled with Davenport passes in the closing minutes of the game and the excellent pass defense of the Knoxmen was brought into action. Captain Idema played an all-state game, his passing and planning being responsible for many yards. Don Brown and L. Chelf also did well by their team and showed their ability throughout the entire game. In the line Linden Hain and Horrabin did some brilliant work. They stopped the oncoming Davenport backs time and again.

Baseball Practice Resumes Monday

All baseball rehearsals which have been carried on regularly since the beginning of the school year have been suspended until Monday afternoon due to homecoming activities.

The candidates for the 1928 varsity squad have been working out every afternoon in order to get in shape for another fitting at the Big Ten conference time. Programs consisting of fielding and portions of the fall season although a few practice games have been held.

Assistant Coach John Beardley is well pleased with the ability his men are displaying and predicts an even greater season than the Old Gold experienced last year.

Army Life to Big Leagues in Year

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 5 (AP)—Chalmers Cissell, a 21-year-old youth who rode a horse into Des Moines, a few months ago, seeking baseball fame, next year will ride into the big leagues in style. He is the principal in one of the biggest deals ever consummated in minor circuits.

Cissell, shortstop for the Portland Coast league baseball club, has been purchased by the Chicago American league club in a deal involving $125,000 in cash and players. Dan W. Long of San Francisco, western scout for the White Sox, completed the negotiations today with Tom Turner, president of the Portland club.

Last year Cissell bought himself out of the army for $80. He borrowed a horse from his father to ride into Des Moines, looking for the Western league club, his playing attracted such attention that in two months President Turner of Portland paid $13,000 for him.

Frosh Swimmers Hold Varsity 4-3 in Early Contest

The freshman swimmers showed their potential strength yesterday by holding the varsity to a 4-3 score in the water polo game played for the benefit of homecomers at the field house pool this morning. Although the freshmen were defeated they exhibited ability for having worked together such a short time. With more experience and practice there is little doubt that they may be able to reverse things with the varsity.

The game was won by the upper classmen in the last minute of play, the score being tied at two all when half time was called, and was tied at three apiece through most of the last period.

Liddle played an exceptionally fine game for the first year men at center for the extra point.

Many Graduates Attend Luncheon for Homecomers

George Rodman Wins Prize for Oldest Alumnus

Many prominent alumni of the University of Iowa attended the annual chamber of commerce luncheon for homecomers. After the luncheon there was a program of informal talks. Senator Charles M. Dutcher was toastmaster.

Governor John Hammill made the first speech. He told of the great progress Iowa is making. He said, "You can't stop the wheels of progress in education or in roads of Iowa."

George C. Rodman, who was graduated from the college of law in 1872, has the distinction of having graduated before any other alumnus here for Homecoming. The Rotary club presented him with a picture of Old Capitol.

Jessup Presents Prize
President Walter A. Jessup made the presentation. Mr. Rodman told several reminiscences of his days as a university student. He told of his stage-coach trip to Iowa City from his Washington home, and of his thrill at his first glimpse of Old Capitol.

F. O. Finkbine brought ten Des Moines men to the affair. The "Finkbine Gang" as they call themselves, is present every year.

Walter St. John, of Des Moines, spoke of Finkbine Field. He said in years to come it would be a greater part of university life, and would be still more appreciated.

James Brockway, a member of the championship team of 1900, spoke of the changing teams. He said that every member of the squad playing today was born after he had ceased playing. He is still an ardent rooter.

White Here
Fred White, of Ames, head of the Iowa state highway commission, mentioned the progress our highways have made and said that it would soon be possible for alumni to drive to Iowa City and get home again without the old mud-road nemesis.

James C. Davis of Des Moines, spoke of the need for progressive state leaders.

Harvey Ingham, editor of the Des Moines Register, told of the amazing progress this state has made in the last decade. "Europe," said Mr. Ingham, "looks at our progress in amazement. There, they ask what the United States will be like after they have a thousand years of tradition behind them."

Davenport Bank Sues for $18,000 in County Courts

The Scott County Savings bank of Davenport yesterday filed a petition against James Mahoney and Catherine Mahoney et. al. in which it demands judgment of $18,000 representing four promissory notes.

The plaintiff claims that the defendants gave these notes June 24, 1924, and later to secure payment of them gave a mortgage.

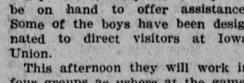

Included in the defendants are the Tiffin Title company, John W. Floerchinger, the Amana society, Mary Mahoney, Farmers Savings bank of Oxford and Marguerite O'Brien who claim to have some prior and superior interest in the premises represented by the mortgage.

Besides the judgment asked the plaintiff requests that there be a special sale of the mortgaged premises. This case will be heard in the November term of court.

Scouts to Practice "Good Turn a Day"

Iowa alumni will have a chance to see how Iowa City Boy Scouts are still practicing their "good turn a day" creed, today when they will be on hand to offer assistance. Some of the boys have been designated to direct visitors at Iowa Union.

This afternoon they will work in four groups as ushers at the game. Because of their experience on Dad's day and on Boy Scout day Paul R. McGuire, scout executive, feels that they are worthy of handling their share of the homecoming crowd.

Relief Corps to Dedicate Tablet
Dedication of a bronze tablet bearing Lincoln's Gettysburg address, on the north side of the walk leading into the Johnson county court house, will be sponsored by the Woman's Relief corps Tuesday afternoon. This tablet will be dedicated to the memory of the army of the republic.

Mrs. Tina Holubar will present the tablet and Judge Ralph Otto will give the speech of response. Ollie Nelson of Slater, state commander of the G.A.R., will deliver a brief address. Amelia Hildebrand is in charge of the program, which will be held on the court house lawn beginning at 4:30 p. m.

The program of the afternoon and evening will include several talks, a picnic supper and a camp fire. Many state officers of both the G.A.R. and the W.R.C. are expected to attend.

Mrs. Clara Weeber of Iowa City, past national junior president of the W.R.C., will deliver a talk at the camp fire.

Iowa Gets Statue of Gov. Kirkwood

Judge Byington Gives Presentation Talks; Baker Speaks

In spite of the echoes of cheering and clanging cowbells which filled all of Iowa City this morning, the presentation of the Kirkwood memorial statue was imbued with an impressive dignity which was the greatest tribute that could have been paid to Iowa's civil war governor.

The great bronze figure stands under the roof of the west portico looking out from Old Capitol with a simple dignity which penetrated the crowd listening to the ceremony with an enthusiasm as great as any of the noisy "Iowa fights" spirit that prevailed in all other parts of the campus.

Gov. John Hammill opened the program with a short resume of the life of "Iowa's great old man," following his advance to the positions of national importance. Three times governor of his state, twice state senator, twice United States senator, and a member to Lincoln's cabinet, he was one of the foremost statesmen of his time. His strong convictions during the civil war and his devotion to them and to the cause which he upheld marked him as one of the greatest men of history and the greatest Iowan.

Following this introductory talk on Samuel Jordan Kirkwood, Judge O. A. Byington presented the statue, as a member of the committee by which the funds for its purchase were raised, to the university, to the city, and to the state.

George T. Baker of Davenport, president of the state board of education, accepted the statue in behalf of the university. He spoke briefly of his acquaintance with the wartime governor during his childhood and with great feeling dedicated it to the members of the university, for their care.

Prof. Benj. F. Shambaugh introduced the speakers.

What Christians Have in Common

ligion in these schools without sacrificing or vitiating any fundamental political or religious principle. Indeed, at the State University of Iowa a school of religion of this type is actually in existence, and courses are being conducted by three professors, a Jew, a Catholic, and a Protestant, all of whom have full professional standing in the university. Here is cooperation of the finest kind even in the divergences of religious faith.

Of course one would be foolish to minimize the differences between Jews, Protestants, and Catholics. These differences exist, and in the cooperative activities in which reference has been made it is expected that each group will be loyal to its own faith without weakening compromise.

All of these groups believe in God and in the moral responsibility of the individual to achieve goodness. They all believe that no education is complete without religion, and that in religion are to be found the great motives and controls of life. Deeper, therefore, than any difference between Jew, Catholic, and Protestant is the difference between the common ideals they all hold and any philosophy which is obscure about the existence of a spiritual universe or the reality of moral obligations. To fight the battle of religion against all forms of secularism, immorality, and irreligion offers much common ground in a spirit of happy fellowship and without the sacrifice of any sincere religious loyalty.

E. J. Gifford of Iowa City was issued a building permit from the city inspector's office yesterday. Mr. Gifford will erect a $4,500 residence on Muscatine avenue.

Strength Shown in Stock Markets as Rail Shares Boom

NEW YORK, Nov. 5 (AP)—The stock market gave an impressive demonstration of strength in today's brief session. Some irregularity developed at the opening as a result of the usual evening-up of speculative accounts, but a sudden demand for the investment railroad shares soon turned the course of general prices upward.

Large Crowd in City Orderly; Few Arrests by Police

The Homecoming crowd yesterday was one of the most orderly ever in Iowa City if business at the police station can be taken as a criterion. A few arrests were made for intoxication but little trouble was reported.

A. R. Crawford of Waterloo was arrested for selling badges on the streets, contrary to the order of Mayor J. J. Carroll. Crawford posted an appearance bond, and will be tried next week. Last year several men were arrested for this same offense.

Many requests were made to the police for aid of one sort or another usually for location of lost property. No cases of pickpocketing were reported.

City officials believe that such a large portion of the crowd driving to the games has considerably decreased the violation of the law. Many persons living nearby come here about noon and leave immediately after the game, thus cutting down the crowd that must be taken care of.

"Sensations" Seats Put on Public Sale at Box Office Today

Reserved seats for Charles George's musical revue, "Sensations of 1927," which comes to the Englert theatre, Wednesday, Nov. 9, go on sale tomorrow morning at 9:30 a. m.

"Sensations of 1927" is extravagant in everything in stage settings, scenery and costumes, rich and lavishly and varied to a bewildering degree; in delightful melody and charming songs; in fascinating electrical effects and in talent. The pictures presented by the players during the seventeen scenes are said to surpass anything in modern stagedom in abundance and beauty.

The cast is headed by the dainty dancing star, Barbara Bronell, supported by a company, including Beulah Delmore, comedienne; Kenneth Christy, humorist; Alice Munson, prima donna; Gates Austin, comedian; Ames Harper, tenor; and Jamieson Reilly, juvenile.

Edward J. Connors, 72 years old, of 601 Maiden Lane, died at his home at 7:30 a. m. yesterday. Funeral arrangements are as yet incomplete.

Wheat Upturns in Price Following Reports of Loss

CHICAGO, Nov. 5 (AP)—Swift upturns in the price of wheat here today followed reports that rust had developed in northern Argentina. The fact that on the Argentine crop, now nearing harvest, appears to depend largely the size of breadstuff supplies from the southern hemisphere made the market unusually sensitive to developments indicating that the Argentine production might be seriously curtailed.

Attorney's Car Held for Inquiry by State Bureau

A car belonging to County Attorney C. B. Russell, which was found at Joe's Auto Laundry Friday, is being held there pending inquiry by the state bureau of investigation.

The automobile was discovered there by V. L. Sharp, who informed Russell where it was. Joe Williams of the Auto Laundry declares that he received a call to take an Oakland car from Clinton street for washing and greasing. He says that he did not understand the name given over the phone, but he was told to keep the car until the owner called for it. The office records show that the car has been there since Oct. 18.

Clarion Youth Dies

Byron Coates, 19 years old, of Clarion, died at the university hospital at 1:20 a. m. yesterday. The body is in charge of the Harmon funeral home and will be taken to Clarion today for the funeral.

Gamma Phi's Win First Prize For House Decoration

Gamma Phi Beta was chosen winner of the first prize in the Lion's club contest for the most attractive decorated sorority after two inspections made by the committee. Delta Gamma received second place and Pi Beta Phi ranked third. The reward made to the winner is a silver cup.

Many sorority houses on the campus were decorated and the task of the committee was reported as somewhat difficult. The cup became the permanent possession of the winning organization.

The committee which did the choosing was composed of representatives of the Lions club, Herbert Ries, chairman, Harold Evans and George Nagle.

The fraternity winning the loving cup offered by the Kiwanis club has not yet been chosen. The committee reports that the competition is especially keen. The members of this committee are Donald McClain and George Koser.

Gamma Phi's Win First Prize For House Decoration

Gamma Phi Beta was chosen winner of the first prize in the Lion's club contest for the most attractive decorated sorority after two inspections made by the committee. Delta Gamma received second place and Pi Beta Phi ranked third. The reward made to the winner is a silver cup.

Many sorority houses on the campus were decorated and the task of the committee was reported as somewhat difficult. The cup became the permanent possession of the winning organization.

The committee which did the choosing was composed of representatives of the Lions club, Herbert Ries, chairman, Harold Evans and George Nagle.

The fraternity winning the loving cup offered by the Kiwanis club has not yet been chosen. The committee reports that the competition is especially keen. The members of this committee are Donald McClain and George Koser.

Attorney's Car Held for Inquiry by State Bureau

A car belonging to County Attorney C. B. Russell, which was found at Joe's Auto Laundry Friday, is being held there pending inquiry by the state bureau of investigation.

The automobile was discovered there by V. L. Sharp, who informed Russell where it was. Joe Williams of the Auto Laundry declares that he received a call to take an Oakland car from Clinton street for washing and greasing. He says that he did not understand the name given over the phone, but he was told to keep the car until the owner called for it. The office records show that the car has been there since Oct. 18.
