

Chamberlin Crashes on Take-off

Huge Monoplane Shatters on Byrd Field Runway

Aviators Plan Fourth Try on Endurance Record Soon

RICHMOND, Va., Feb. 4 (AP)—Clarence D. Chamberlin and Roger Q. Williams, whose big Bellanca monoplane crashed at Byrd field here today when they attempted to take it off for a third attempt to break the world's endurance record, were making plans tonight for their fourth effort at the mark of Johann Ristler and Cornelius Edzard, German holders of the record.

A. R. Martine, financial backer of the flight, talked to Joseph Bellanca, designer of the plane soon after the crash. He said that the wreck of the plane would be sent to New York for repairs after which it would be brought back to Richmond for another try.

Make It Next Time

The two men were quickly out of the plane and after waving to the crowd that surged onto the field, began to inspect the wreckage. Williams was smiling and told the spectators:

"We'll make it next time."

Martine was obviously disappointed but emphatic in his praise of Chamberlin and Williams, accrediting the New York to Germany flyer with preventing serious injury or death to the flyers by his skill. He also expressed confidence in the Bellanca plane.

Great News Center

In an address prepared for the introduction of the president Mr. Essary noted how the political capital had become not only "the chief nerve center" of American social, economic, and political life, but also "the chief news center of America, perhaps the greatest news center of the world."

Mr. Noyes paid a tribute to the ethical standards and practices which govern American journalism today, declaring that in his fifty years of experience in active newspaper work these had never seemed to him higher than they were at present.

Praises Journalists

"It is of course true," he added, "that there are excesses on the body politic of journalism but even the armies of the crusaders had their venal camp followers and panders and we recognize no responsibility for the wrong doing of those who masquerade as journalists totally disregarding the high code that governs real newspapermen."

"Any necessary analogy should be made by those who make these practices profitable—those who buy the wares."

Paying Tribute to Washington

Mr. Noyes said he considered it a privilege to voice, on behalf of the newspapers throughout the country, the high appreciation "of those who compose your ideal and fine fulfillments of those ideals, of your courage and the high level of your ability and your sense of fairness."

The building dedicated tonight was constructed at the cost of approximately $10,000,000.

Helene Blattner to Give Reading

Helene Blattner, associate in the department of speech, will read "Juno and the Paycock" this afternoon at 4 o'clock, in the main lounge of Iowa union.

"Juno and the Paycock" is a play by Sean O'Casey. It is a tragedy and tells the story of an Irish family during the revolution of 1922.

The recital will be open to the public.

Issues Extradition Warrant

SACRAMENTO, Calif., Feb. 4 (AP)—Governor Young today issued a warrant for the extradition of Joseph M. Grober, arrested at Monterey, Calif., by Des Moines, where he is wanted on a bigamy charge. Grober is charged with having married Sara Branson Grober in Des Moines, while still the husband of Mrs. Lillian Grober, of Philadelphia.

Flyer Lands at Key West

KEY WEST, Fla., Feb. 4 (AP)—Capt. Joseph F. Donnellan, Chicago, to South America flyer, arrived here this afternoon, after flying from Miami in an hour and forty-five minutes and plans to take off with the pan-American mail and Panair flyer plane tomorrow morning for Havana and thence to Yucatan.

Flying Student Sets Loop Mark

ST. PAUL, Minn., Feb. 4 (AP)—Gene Shank, the flying St. Paul law student, established a world record for airplane looping when he made 515 loops in 258 minutes over St. Paul airport today.

This number exceeds by 200 loops the record of 315 aerial somersaults turned in France by Bevilin W. Maynard, "the flying parson."

Taking off from the air field at 12:05 p.m., in the same plane he used in his attempt to beat Maynard's record Friday, when he was forced down by engine trouble after 137 loops, Shank climbed to an altitude of 3,000 feet in five minutes to start his looping.

Dipping the nose of his plane downward, he started the swift plunge on the first great arc at 12:10 p.m., and thereafter with unceasing regularity he rolled off his loops at the rate of two a minute.

Calvin Coolidge Dedicates Press Club Structure

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4 (AP)—The National Press club's new building, an imposing structure of limestone and steel in Washington's business section was dedicated tonight with exercises which centered around President Coolidge, with millions of Americans listening in.

A radio hookup of thirty stations had been arranged to carry to an unseen audience a sound picture of the dedication in the auditorium of the club, including addresses by President Coolidge; J. Fred Essary, president of the club, and Frank Noyes, president of the Associated Press.

Faculty, Students Favor Revise for Campus Elections

Dean Kay Hopes for Method of Fair Expression

By DANNIE BURKE

The efforts of the student council to perfect a "safe and sane" method of student voting in the future is meeting with enthusiastic response from both students and faculty.

Prof. George F. Kay, dean of the college of liberal arts, said yesterday, "Student elections are held for the purpose of getting the expressions of voters on a matter in which they are interested, and they have every right to feel that such safeguards will be taken as to assure them that this will be a fair expression."

"A majority of students want clean elections and it shouldn't be hard to find a method to insure this," was the conclusion reached by Dean Kay.

Shambaugh Makes Suggestion

Prof. Benj. F. Shambaugh, head of the political science department was also hopeful for improvement in the campus political situation. He remarked, "It is the desire of the student body of the University of Iowa to have fair, clean, and impartial elections, it is only necessary for them to follow the forms and methods of electing city officials in this state." He suggested that the student council committee might gain much information from an investigation of American government books.

Prominent student leaders when interviewed were quick to deplore the present system of balloting and suggested various remedies. They all asserted they were actuated by a sincere desire to see election conditions bettered.

Favors Registration

Lee T. Flahley, C4 of Iowa City, president of student council, is in favor of registration of voters two days before balloting, and then checking each voter's name at the time of election, as is done in city and state elections. He pointed out that this would do away with last minute rushing of deciding faction votes to the polls, as there could be no anticipation, at the time of registration, as to which political group would need votes most.

William O. Gamble, A4 of Missouri Valley and president of the senior class, said, "I feel that some method should be devised whereby a fair expression of student opinion may be taken. What form this change should take I am not prepared to say, but think it might be something in the way of an identification card for every student, placed in a file which would be in the hands of the election judges when ballots were cast."

Students Anxious for Change

"There must be an elimination of the present 'hit and miss' conduct of student elections," is the opinion of Viola A. Naibert, A4 of Cedar Rapids, president of Women's Panhellenic council. She also declared, "The present situation is deplorable and I believe that a plan of registration will exclude the ignorant, disinterested voter as well as the dishonest one."

Otto C. Baum, I3 of Des Moines, president of A. P. I. and Iowa Men's Panhellenic council, summarized the consensus of the campus, as indicated by these interviews, when he asserted, "Both administration and students are anxious for Iowa to set a high standard for student elections, and with their combined efforts—I feel sure that it will not be long before Iowa will have solved the problem of dishonesty in student voting."

Co-Eds Establish Dunning Agency

CHICAGO, Feb. 4 (AP)—Writing letters home for money, long considered an art among college students, has been raised to the dignity of a profession.

Three Northwestern university girls have opened the Northwestern letter shop and plan to pay their way through college writing letters—for others. They are Irene Harris, Terre Haute, Ind., owner; Floretta Gibson, Huntington, Pa., business manager; and Maxine Boord, Omaha, publicity director.

Dunning Dad for Dollars—A feat for diplomats—is undertaken for a fee of 10 per cent of the proceeds.

Love letters, less certain, require a $10 fee in advance.

Routine "thank you" letters to relatives or friends cost $2.

While the proprietors admitted they never wrote home for money themselves, receipts for the first few days have paid a month's rent, they said.

1,700 Students to Leave Wisconsin

Only Half of Fresh Class to Register Next Fall

MADISON, Wis., Feb. 4 (AP)—Approximately 1,700 "children" who entered the University of Wisconsin during the present school year will not return next fall to enter the sophomore class, Frank O. Holt, registrar, reported to the board of visitors today.

Members of the board applied the term "children" when they were advised that these students were being excused from re-entrance because they are lacking in ability to "climb the academic ladder" required at an institution of higher learning, because they believed they would find a "glorified playground" on the campus or because they were truly "mere children."

The freshman enrollment last fall was slightly more than 2,900, so that if 1,700 are not to be present next September less than half the original freshman class will become sophomores. In addition to the 1,700 many students will have been dropped at the opening of the second semester Monday.

Mr. Holt, with cooperation of the faculty, is making a study of academic "mortality," its causes and means of its elimination. His work is carried on in the new "bureau of academic records and vocational guidance."

Three Addresses Yesterday

Three addresses yesterday morning closed the annual conference for Iowa high school history teachers. Sponsored by the history department of the university, sessions were held in Old Capitol.

Prof. William E. Dodd, head of the history department at the University of Chicago, spoke on "Historical Interpretations," and stressed the variety of ways in which historical incidents may be described.

Lee's Gettysburg Campaign in the Civil War was used as an illustration of varied historical accounts arising from one event.

"How diplomats decided the war of independence," was discussed by Prof. C. H. Van Tyne of the University of Michigan. He also gave an address at Friday's meeting.

Prof. J. A. Kinmenan of the Illinois State Normal university used as his subject yesterday, "The place of administrators in improving high school history courses."

Acid Victim Dies in Sanitarium; Bride Paroled to Mother

SANTA MONICA, Cal., Feb. 4 (AP)—Darby Day, Jr., 24 years old, son of a wealthy Chicagoan, died at a sanitarium here today. The coroner's office reported that Day was about to undergo an operation but died during administration of the anesthetic.

As a result of a quarrel in February, 1925, Day's 20-year-old bride, Bernice Day, threw acid into his face. She was tried, convicted, and sentenced to San Quentin penitentiary where she served thirteen months. Last October she was paroled to her mother for the remaining two years of her sentence.

Day's face was badly disfigured by the acid, but most of the scars were eradicated by face lifting.

Yankee Airmen Cross Caribbean

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 4 (AP)—For the second time in three attempts in as many months, United States marine corps aviators today succeeded in making a nonstop line of duty flight over the long Caribbean air route to Managua, Nicaragua.

Lieutenant George Towner and two companions took off in a huge land transport plane here at 5:15 o'clock this morning, and turning the nose of their craft southward, swiftly faded into their moonlit path. At 4:15 o'clock eastern standard time, they arrived at Managua.

Radio messages from their plane enroute stated that it passed off Corrientes bay, Cuba, at 9:45 a. m., over Cozumel island, off the coast of Yucatan, Mexico, at 11:25 a. m., and over Tela, Honduras, at 2 p. m.

The plane carried 600 gallons of gasoline and despite its great weight was lifted easily. Radio communication was perfect from the start.

Second Lieut. James B. McHugh, as a radio operator and relief pilot, and Corporal Robert Wene, mechanic, were Towner's companions.

Of the two previous attempts to bridge the 1,000 mile passage, that made by Major L. M. Bourne was successful. Major E. H. Brainerd, the first to try the route, was forced down at Tela, Honduras, by darkness.

"Mystery" Youth

Accused of horse stealing, 14-year-old Edward Petratis, son of William Petratis of Cleveland, baffled the authorities at Washington, Pa., for four days before he finally admitted his identity. Then his dad came along and took him in charge—possibly to the woodshed.

Lindbergh Flies to Santo Domingo From Porto Rico

Lone Eagle Celebrates Birthday by Taking Short Flight

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic, Feb. 4 (AP)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh today celebrated his twenty-sixth birthday by a 250 mile air jaunt from San Juan, Porto Rico, to this city where fully 100,000 enthusiastic spectators witnessed his arrival.

The American air hero, now steadily drawing nearer to the end of his great good will argosy that has carried him to the Central American states and around the curve of the Antilles which border the Caribbean, came to earth at 2:25 o'clock this afternoon. His next hop will carry him to Port Au Prince, Haiti, and thence he will fly to the pan-American conference at Havana. Then he will make a bee line for home in a nonstop flight to St. Louis.

Although as far as the colonel was concerned his birthday was just another good day for flying, today was one of tremendous interest to the inhabitants of the Dominican republic. Hundreds of automobiles were lined up at the landing field and the thousands of spectators massed about the aviator giving him a tremendous ovation.

President Vasquez was on hand to receive the colonel and the various ministers, diplomats, consuls and military figures were waiting to greet him.

When he arrived Lindbergh was escorted by the airships Santa Maria and La Nina. He was received by President Vasquez, the American minister, and the diplomatic corps.

The enormous crowd cheered him enthusiastically and President Vasquez in welcoming him linked Lindbergh's name with that of Columbus.

The flyer was greeted with a presidential salute of twenty-one guns from a Dominican fortress. After he had landed he was given a key to the city of Santo Domingo and a gold medal on behalf of the republic.

President Vasquez, who made the presentation, also gave him a gold nugget in behalf of the authorities of the nearby town of Santiago.

There was a brilliant reception in the afternoon at the presidential residence, attended by the Dominican elite.

There was a brilliantly lighted military concert in the evening at a public square, with the young men marching in one direction around the square and the young women in the opposite direction with their duennas, in accordance with Spanish custom.

Senate Petitions Coordinate Power

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4 (AP)—For the first time in history a petition was filed today with the United States supreme court by the senate asking for the maintenance and preservation of "the coordinate authority of the senate and the judicial branch of the government."

The petition was sponsored by the special senate slush fund committee and grew out of the refusal of the federal district court at Philadelphia last summer to order the election authorities of Delaware county, Pennsylvania, to turn over to the committee ballots and other documents used in the contested senatorial election in which William S. Vare, republican, and William B. Wilson, democrat, were the candidates.

The petition of the slush fund committee, headed by Senator Reed, democrat, Missouri, came as a surprise and is designed to bring about a decision which will be binding upon the federal courts in such cases in the future.

Coe Student Says Aristotle is Here

"Who is Aristotle?"
"He is a professor at the University of Iowa."

This isn't a new version of a popular game, but is an excerpt from a semester examination at Coe college, Cedar Rapids. A professor innocently asked the question, and a student innocently gave the answer.

The identity of the flattered Iowa City pedagogue, however, remains a mystery.

Other students at Coe declared that "Plato was a savage," "rubber and various other fruits are raised in Hawaii," and "the camel is a large animal with long hair used for traveling in the desert."

A paper in Bible history was returned with the statement, "Ruth had an awful time with Naomi, but finally married him anyhow."

Youngster Finds Buried Treasure on Deserted Farm

Many Hunters Swarm Near Spot Where Gold Rests

Unearthed and discarded by one of the first to find the spot, ignored by several others, the box containing The Daily Iowan-Strand treasure was found at 9:30 a. m. yesterday by Eldon Schnoebelen, 15 years old, 839 E. Davenport street.

Buried beside the well on the deserted farm, the treasure lay waiting for the fortune hunters while three-quarters of a mile down the road dozens of students and townspeople searched in vain. Without exception the fortune seekers misinterpreted the clue taking the road to plenic point rather than that to the farm.

Fifty Persons Dig

Every blade of frozen grass, every shrub and tree in and around plenic point was thoroughly overhauled for evidences of gold. Armed with shovels approximately fifty persons dug and scratched in every possible nook and corner of the grounds, in and around the cabins and trees.

At the warning that the wrong spot had been selected by every contestant a mad scramble for cars and bicycles took the treasure hunters to the proper road. Once there the crowd assembled around the deserted house.

Many Come Close

Rubbish was given a thorough inspection. The remains of an old woodpile received careful attention. Francis Murray overturned the box beside the well under which the treasure lay hidden. Prodding the ground with a stick, he completely unearthed the $50 concealed in a tobacco can.

Contentants swarmed about the old well tramping upon the can and utterly ignoring it. The search continued first on one side of the house then on the other.

Schnoebelen opened several tobacco cans looking for the treasure, finally hitting upon the right one.

Contentants Search Banks

Several contentants who had ignored the vacant house continued along the road to the river where they searched the banks for several hours not knowing that the treasure had been found.

The youngest contestant was Paul Bortwell, 6 years old, 111 E. Bloomington. He was ready for the hunt at 3 o'clock and was well on the road to the treasure before 5 a. m.

Women Voice Opinions

HAVANA, Feb. 4 (AP)—Women of pan-America will have their day in court Tuesday when delegates to the pan-American conference, in plenary session, will hear a plea of feminist workers for the inclusion of an equal rights for women treaty in the projected codification of American international law.

Pathe Cameraman to "Shoot" 5,000 Feet of Film on University Campus

Selecting the University of Iowa as representative of American universities, a Pathe news camera man will arrive in Iowa City tomorrow morning to take 5,000 feet of film of the university—its buildings, sports, faculty, and student body.

The film is to be shown in all theatres holding a Pathe contract in Iowa, as well as to 361 high schools in the state which hold Pathe "current events" franchises.

The pictures will be given a complete coverage in Iowa.

The reels will also be distributed to all Pathe theatres in the United States.

An agreement has been reached whereby a local theatre will obtain the film within two days after it has been completed.

Interior and exterior views of all the main buildings on the campus will be taken, among them being: Old Capitol, the field house, women's gymnasium, the quadrangle, Currier Hall, fraternity and sorority houses, the chemistry building, the office of The Daily Iowan, the medical laboratories, and the hospital.

Pictures will be taken of various members of the faculty.

On a day, to be announced later in The Daily Iowan, the student body will collect in front of Old Capitol for a group picture.

Arrangements are being made to take airplane views of the campus and of Iowa City.

Various phases of athletics will be represented in the film. Portions of the film are to be used in the Grantland Rice Sports reel.

The venture is said to be the first of its type in the country.

Supreme Court Halts Action of Senate on Stewart

Grant Habeas Corpus on Violation of Constitution

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4 (AP)—The judicial arm of the government reached into the senate today to remove Robert W. Stewart, outstanding Teapot Dome witness, from immediate jeopardy for contempt.

Stopped by the District of Columbia supreme court from imposing instant sentence on the wealthy Chicago oil operator, the senate turned at once to that court, asking that Stewart be imprisoned by judicial process for his refusal to answer questions as to the disposition of continental Trading company Liberty bonds.

Under the writ issued by Justice Bailey, the chairman of the board of the Standard Oil company of Indiana was taken from the custody of the assistant sergeant-at-arms of the senate and released under $1,000 bond for appearance in court next Tuesday.

Large Crowd Present

The writ was obtained fifteen minutes before the senate convened with galleries and floors jammed and with all arrangements made for receiving and sentencing Stewart if he denied to the senate itself the information he had twice declined to furnish its oil committee.

In the meantime that committee had uncovered the trail of an additional $800,000 in Continental Liberty bonds, tracing them from James E. O'Neil, missing witness in the Fall-Sinclair conspiracy trial, to the treasury of the Prairie Pipe Line company of which he was the head.

With the discovery of this $800,000 of the Continental Liberty bonds the committee now knows what became of $1,033,000 of the $3,000,000 in profits the Continental made by selling oil at an advance of 25 cents a barrel to the Prairie Gas and the Sinclair Crude Oil Purchasing company. The other $233,000 passed from Sinclair to Albert B. Fall after the lease of Teapot Dome.

The decision to seek a writ of habeas corpus was reached with barely time for its execution before the senate met at noon. The court was in recess over the week-end, but attorneys located Justice Bailey, who presides in one of the equity courts, and promptly laid their application before him.

Not Legal Action

Stewart, through his counsel, asserted that the questions at issue were not pertinent to any legislation which congress must pass, that they constituted an attempt to investigate into personal affairs of citizens of the United States; that they were not within the jurisdiction of the senate under the resolution empowering the oil investigating committee to act.

The writ was issued forthwith and a deputy marshal served it upon John McGrain, the senate deputy standing guard over the oil operator. McGrain immediately surrendered his prisoner, who was taken at once before Justice Bailey, who fixed next Tuesday for the hearing, and admitted Stewart to bond.

While the court was acting, senate officials had completed their plans for receiving Stewart, who was to have been marched to the ban for such punitive action as might be decreed should he reiterate his refusal to testify.

Police Help Guard

City police had augmented the capitol force and guarded the lanes through the capitol grounds to the senate wing over which Stewart was scheduled to pass. Photographers, with flashlights ready, were banked around the entrance where the oil man was expected.

But all were doomed to disappointment. As the gavel of Vice President Dawes opened the session Davis S. Barry, the sergeant-at-arms, appeared at the main entrance doors, without his prisoner.

"Mr. President," said Barry, "acting under instructions of a warrant issued to the sergeant-at-arms by the president of the senate, Robert W. Stewart was taken into the custody of the senate. He has applied for and obtained a writ of habeas corpus, which is returnable Tuesday, Feb. 7."

A sigh of disappointment ran through the galleries and evidences of resentment were reflected in the scowls of numerous senators.

Scotland Honors Haig With Tokens

EDINBURGH, Feb. 4 (AP)—Among his own people Douglas Earl Haig rested tonight with tokens of Scotsmen's love about him.

Men and women by the thousands who had known him as a man rather than a field marshal came through snow and blank winds to view his flag-wrapped coffin where it lay in St. Giles cathedral after being brought from London. All day long a column of quiet folk streamed through the church laying paper dopples and simple flowers near the great soldier's insignia of rank.

Sororities Fraternities Women's Clubs Social Events

Series of Parties Mark Post Examination Week as Gay One; Alpha Delta Pi Gives Dance

With semester examinations "a thing of the past" the social life of the campus has taken a turn for lighter things. This week-end has been filled by a constant round of fraternity and sorority parties.

A valentine color scheme in table appointments and programs was carried out at the formal dinner-dance given by the members of Alpha Delta Pi last night at 7 o'clock at Red Ball Inn.

The twelve tables, forming a semi-circle, were gayly decorated with red roses and red tapers. Nut cups tied with red tulle and bronze desk calendar favors, wrapped to resemble valentines, completed the table decorations.

Show Crests

The sorority crest in gold on a formal background of white with red faintly blended into the white background formed the covers for the programs.

Fifty couples danced to Chaplin's Illinois Five which furnished the music for the evening.

Mrs. Laura Montgomery, Dr. and Mrs. J. H. Wick, and Dr. and Mrs. George Marech chaperoned.

Helen Saul of Des Moines and Ruth Edson, '27, who is teaching at Peterson, were out-of-town guests.

Four other Greek organizations were among the first to entertain at February parties.

Pi Beta Phi entertained at an informal dancing party at 9 o'clock last night. A valentine theme was also carried out in their programs and decorations.

"The Stompers" furnished the music. Forty-five couples attended the party.

Mrs. Laura Lewis and Mr. Fred Lazell were chaperons.

Out of town guests were: Helen Joyce of Keokuk and Betty Rossman of Des Moines.

Theta Tau Gives Party

The Park Pavilion was the scene of an informal party given by Theta Tau, last evening.

Forty couples were entertained. Dean Swanson's collegians played. Y. V. Price and S. M. Jennings of Centerville and Thomas McClain of Davenport were out-of-town guests.

Prof. and Mrs. L. J. Law and Prof. and Mrs. E. L. Waterman chaperoned.

Nu Sigma Nu entertained at an informal dancing party last night at which forty-five couples danced to the music of the Frivolity Five of Burlington.

Guests of honor at the party included Dr. George Scanlon, Dr. Ralph Proctor, Dr. Carter Hamilton of Durant, Dr. Max Foster of Cedar Rapids, Dr. Homer Scott, Dr. and Mrs. E. M. McEwen, Dr. John Kenefick, Dr. William Grieves of Oregon and Dr. Henry J. Prentiss.

Chaperoning at the party were Dr. and Mrs. Frank Peterson and Dr. and Mrs. John Dorsey.

St. Catherine's Guild to Have Social Meeting

The social committee of St. Catherine's guild will entertain at a social meeting at the home of Mrs. Burton P. Fleming, 629 N. Dubuque street, Wednesday, Feb. 8, at 2:30 p. m.

The social committee is composed of Mrs. Burton P. Fleming; Elizabeth Hess, Mrs. Charles Frederick Ward, Mrs. Mae Anderson, Mrs. P. P. Baker, Mrs. John Cameron, Mrs. Hayes Carson, Ada Culver.

Congregational Church Ladies Aid to Meet

The Ladies Aid society of the Congregational church will meet Wednesday afternoon, Feb. 8, at the home of Mrs. T. D. Davis, 611 S. Clinton street.

The Women's auxiliary will meet that same afternoon with Mrs. D. P. Checock, 732 E. Bowery street.

Business, Professional Women to Elect Officers

Members of the Business and Professional Women's club will have their annual election of officers Tuesday, Feb. 7, at 7:30 p. m. at the public library board rooms.

Society of Friends Meets This Morning

The regular weekly meeting of the society of friends will be held this morning at 11 o'clock at the Y. M. C. A. rooms at the Iowa Union.

Nonpareil Dancing Club to Have Party

The Nonpareil dancing club will have its annual mask party on Tuesday evening, Feb. 7. The committee has arranged special features for the entertainment of the members.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Munkhoff are chairman of the committee and will be assisted by Mr. and Mrs. Fred Gartzke, Mr. and Mrs. Chris Serup, and Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Wagner.

Students Announce Engagement With Traditional Candy

The engagement of Elizabeth Paisley, A2 of Farmington, and Harold Nelson, A3 of Clinton, was announced last evening at the Alpha Delta Pi formal dinner-dance at Red Ball Inn.

The five pounds of candy was presented by Mrs. Laura Montgomery, chapter house mother, at dinner.

Miss Paisley is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. C. L. Paisley of Farmington, and is a member of Alpha Delta Pi sorority.

Federal Agents Figure in Auto Smashup Friday Mistake in Identity Gives Name as Flangren

In the account of an accident with the Ford coupe driven by Robert Hemphill of Coralville, The Daily Iowan yesterday gave the name of the occupant of the other car as Richard Flangren of Des Moines. The story should have read Richard Frienburgh of Des Moines, who claimed to be a federal agent driving through Iowa City.

Frienburgh, however, was not the driver of the Ford sedan which smashed into Hemphill's car on hospital hill. According to Frienburgh's statement, the car was driven by a man named Patrick McSheffrey, who Frienburgh claimed was also in the employ of the federal department of justice.

Faville to Talk on War Outlawry

Des Moines Justice to Speak for Peace at Auditorium

Justice F. F. Faville of the supreme court of Iowa will be the speaker at the natural science auditorium this evening at 7:30 o'clock, lecturing on "Outlawry of war."

Justice Faville has been brought to Iowa City in the interests of several organizations, including the Iowa City council of world peace, the Y.M.C.A., the Y.W.C.A., and the Iowa City Ministerial association. Ministers of the various congregations of the city dismiss evening services so that the lecture may be attended.

A graduate of the University of Iowa in 1891, Justice Faville has for years been prominent in Iowa legal circles. He is a member of the American Bar association and has been a member of the state supreme court since 1921.

The Rev. John Gray Rhind of the Presbyterian church will act as pastor of the services.

North Liberty Man Faces Liquor Charge

Raymond Hansen of North Liberty pleaded not guilty to a charge of intoxication at his arraignment before Justice of Peace Elias J. Hughes yesterday afternoon. He provided his $100 bond and will appear for preliminary hearing Thursday afternoon.

Information was filed against Hansen by County Attorney C. B. Russell as a result of phone calls from North Liberty. Hansen was brought over to Iowa City by Sheriff Frank L. Smith.

Mayor of Detroit Sets Aviation Week

DETROIT, Mich., Feb. 4 (AP)—Mayor John C. Lodge in a proclamation issued here tonight set aside the week April 14-21 as aviation week, and extended an invitation to the nation to participate in the observance. At the same time, invitations were sent to chambers of commerce over the country to place exhibits in the all-American aviation show to be held here in conjunction with the observance.

Temperance League Discusses Lecturer

Members of the Iowa City W.C.T.U. at their meeting Thursday afternoon discussed Maud Royden, English preacher and lecturer, and her coming lecture engagement at the university but at that time did not record as either for or against the appearance of Miss Royden here.

However, a resolution supporting the Iowa state president of the W.C.T.U., Mrs. Ida B. Wise Smith, in her disapproval of Miss Royden's appearance here, was passed at the January meeting of the local body.

In speaking of Miss Royden, Mrs. Smith said that because of the Englishwoman's cigarette smoking she should be kept from appearing here. She believes the fact that Miss Royden is of high moral character, her habit of smoking has a more dangerous effect on students than that of an ordinary person would be.

County for Road Bill Says Nagle

Nearly 90 per cent of Iowa City and Johnson county voters are for the state road bill which has been proposed in the state legislature now in session, according to Lee Nagle, Johnson county representative.

"I am positive that 75 to 90 per cent of Johnson county citizens are for the bond issue," Representative Nagle said yesterday.

"Personally, I am 100 percent for it. I have been from the start and have been doing all within my power to get the bill passed. It is what the people want and I will vote for it," he said.

Frances Jones Dies
Frances Jones, 22 years old, formerly of Iowa City, died at 3 a.m. yesterday in Los Angeles, Cal., according to word received by her aunt, Mrs. Thomas Reese, who lives at Grand avenue court. Miss Jones died from complications resulting from spinal meningitis. John L. Jones, formerly with the Folwell china store of this city, was her father. Miss Jones had spent most of her life in Iowa City and received her grade and high school education in this community.

Prentiss to Talk at Davenport Meet

Dr. Henry J. Prentiss, head of the anatomy department of the college of medicine, will be the first speaker at the annual meeting of an organization of ear, nose, and throat specialists in Davenport Monday, Feb. 6. He will talk on "The Anatomy of the Larynx."

Professionally the society is known as the American Laryngological, Rhinological, and Otolological society. It is the middle section of the American Society of Physicians.

Dr. Gordon F. Harkness, of Davenport, chairman of the middle section, is in charge of the arrangements.

Dr. George C. Albright and Dr. Dean M. Lierle of Iowa City, will also be present at the meeting of the Dean Clinic society Sunday in Davenport.

Rain and Possibly Snow Predicted by Weather Observer

One-tenth of an inch of rain fell in Iowa City yesterday between the early hours of the morning and 1 p.m. The precipitation came in the form of a slow drizzle which fell intermittently.

More rain is likely to fall in the next twenty-four hours, according to the weather forecast, with the possibility that it might turn to snow as slightly lower temperatures are promised.

The amount of precipitation for the year of 1928 so far is still nearly 1.20 inches under the normal for the first thirty-five days of the year. Up to early this morning only .19 of an inch was recorded here since Jan. 1.

Following are the temperature readings made by Prof. John P. Reilly, official observer here: lowest Friday night, 40; 7 a.m. yesterday, 42; maximum yesterday, 49; 7 p.m. yesterday, 43.

National Officers on Program
DES MOINES, Feb. 4 (AP)—Two national officers of the American Legion, two national officers of the 40 and 8 and assistant Secretary of War C. D. Robbins are announced on the banquet program of the state commanders and adjutants conference here Feb. 22.

Seeking Justification

AT last student council has assumed a worth while task. It proposes to find a method by which student elections can be conducted in a peaceable, legal manner, without their being the joke of the campus.

For some time student council has been the biggest figurehead among an ever widening group of useless organizations. Its chief duties are two; sharing in the control of university parties, and management of student elections. The first is a matter of routine; the second is a matter of chance. If the student body is honest, an election is a success; if it is not, what is the difference? That is the assumption on which the council has acted in the past.

If, however, the present group can succeed in evolving a system that will make it difficult for students to participate in a fraudulent election, the existence of the council will be justified. The members deserve the cooperation of the entire campus in their effort to raise the name of student council to a position of dignity and service.

Patrick Henry, 1928

THE Philippine islands are no longer alone in their desire to shake off the exploiting rule of the United States. Porto Rico, with a population of one-tenth that of the Philippines, has expressed its desire for freedom.

The legislature of the dependency was diplomatic in its plea. The occasion was the reception for Lindbergh. Tribute was paid the American flyer, after which he was given a message for the government.

"The good wishes of Porto Rico will go with you," it read, "to the land of the brave and the free, and to your country and to your people, and will convey a message of Porto Rico not far different from the cry of Patrick Henry—'liberty or death!'"

Can the United States fail to recognize such a plea? Is it consistent for a nation which won its independence valiantly to play the role of tyrant? America is now as grossly imperialistic in its colonial policy as was George III of England. It must hark to the cry of freedom from the Philippines and from Porto Rico.

Second Semester Pledging

"SECOND semester rush week" is just over. It bears no such recollections as that period in the fall when the university is invaded by literally hundreds of new men and women. The bustle of the ordeal has passed; but there still remain a few memories that make us cogitate on a "problem."

There is in effect in a number of schools all over the country a second semester pledging rule which has been observed to be a successful enterprise. It allows the new student to get acquainted with the group which is rushing him. It creates for him experience in the matter of facts. And it allows him to get to school with an idea that he is not literally being "rushed off his feet."

Second semester pledging does another thing. It makes the organizations on the campus that are willing and eager to do the work of orienting the new student to the environment, plan and accomplish their aims. Fraternities in a large part take over their duties in an effort to create an impression of helpfulness and friendship. It obligates to a certain extent the man who is the recipient of these favors.

Consideration should be given to putting a rule concerning second semester pledging into effect on this campus.

Spare Ireland!

ST. PATRICK drove the snakes out of Ireland. If the United States accepts William T. Cosgrave's invitation to exploit the land of Erin, the venerable shade of that saint may return to drive a greater scourge from his beloved country.

Think well, President Cosgrave, before you invite us to your Ireland to make money. We will make it. We will harness the river Shannon; we will build funicular railways up the purple hills of Connemara; we will broaden the ancient streets of Ireland's cities; we will level the castles where once the high deeds of Finn were sung, and substitute for them oil stations. We will make money and break romance. The old Ireland of Dierdre, and the sons of Usna will become a riot of factories, a cluster of smoke stacks.

Ireland has strong sons of her own. Capital—we have that, but what matter deity there is who guards the fates of nations prevent an alien hand—so matter of fact a hand as Uncle Sam's—from shattering the age old beauty of Erin.

Four students of the University of Iowa flew to Chicago to spend the weekend. Thus looms a new problem to gray the hair of Deans Burge and Rienow.

Government Interpreters

THE plea that President Coolidge made yesterday at the dedication of the new National Press club building in Washington for the cooperation of American newspapers with the government comes at a time when such a relation is much in need.

There is little doubt that the president's message was thinly veiled attack on the recent action of one of the best known newspaper administrations in the country. This syndicate of papers recently intervened, for purely personal and selfish reasons, in an affair which involved, not only the honesty and fair play of the national government in regard to its international relations, but also the personal integrity of four United States senators.

No such blot has been cast on American journalism since the Spanish-American war when the same newspaper organization intervened in an affair which had no connection with journalism only insofar as publicity could help the United States.

The recent situation growing out of the forged documents which were alleged contracts made between the Mexican government and four United States senators has made an indelible impression on the country. Can we expect men of highest type to run for positions of responsibility and trust in our national government when they are constantly open to such unjust attacks?

But there is a bright side to the question. The majority of newspapers are slowly but steadily building up confidence and hope in their readers.

They realize that without the cooperation of the press, the administration is powerless. The voice of the editor is the government; it is also the voice of coming more and more to be the voice of the people. And when such an attitude is reached, then can we hope for peace and understanding between the national government and the citizenry of the United States.

A Scholar Leaves

THESE paragraphs from the Waterloo Courier are representative of the sense of regret which will be felt not alone by the university, but by scholars throughout the state, when Prof. Hardin Craig leaves Iowa:

"Iowa's loss will be California's gain when Hardin Craig, professor and head of the English department at the state university, goes to Leland Stanford. His resignation is announced to take effect at the beginning of the next school year.

"Centre college, Kentucky, was recently famous for its football teams; possibly sometime it will again be famous as the alma mater of a great Shakespeare scholar and lecturer on literature. At Stanford Dr. Craig expects to have greater opportunity to pursue his studies and to write. He is in every way qualified for such a career, his academic background including work at Princeton and Oxford.

Carelessness and Life

THE smoking ruins of Fall River's $7,000,000 conflagration are a bitter reminder that fire is still a menace to any community. This last destruction indicates clearly that man's natural enemy, fire, is ever alert to swoop down on the careless.

With the equipment and organization for preventing fires existing in every town, persons are apt to forget to be circumspect in the use of fire. But sooner or later the careless community pays for its carelessness. Destruction to property, and loss of life accompanied by misery are the results of a lighted match in the hands of the heedless person.

A community can legislate laws to eradicate fire hazards, but it can do nothing to the thoughtless individual who blindly throws his lighted cigarette to the winds. The community can only pray that this little spark of fire, which has in it the power of a holocaust, will go out harmlessly.

Chills and Fever

A Decalogue

If you don't feel book wormish today, as The-Girl-We-Drag says, and want to read something funny then turn over to the society page and read about the activities of Alpha Chi Omega. Or if you feel in a sportive mood, read on the sports page about the big wiggle out at the D. G. house Friday night.

In the book world—as well as on the section page—the first hundred years is the hardest. And sometimes it takes a thousand before the Plato Menckens discover that a book is worth reading twice.

Referring, of course, to Samuel Pepys whose worth has just been recognized, notwithstanding that he was a woman hater.

Most of us cannot see farther than the ends of our noses. Which may account for the number of recent books I have included in the following list. These are, however, not the world's greatest works—only the ten best which I, personally and without the aid of sophomore lit. instructors, read.

The Odyssey by Homer
Judges by Moses
Peregrinations by Marco Polo
The Autobiography of Benvenuto Cellini

The Rubaiyat of Omar Khayyam
The Idiot by Dostoevsky
Anna Karenina by Tolstoy
The Octopus by Frank Norris
Thus Spake Zarathustra by Nietzsche
Jurgin by Cabell

"Nostromo," by Joseph Conrad, might easily be substituted for Norris or Cabell; the "Crime of Sylvestre Bonard" (France) for either of the Russians; and Dante's "Inferno" for Marco Polo.

Other great books there are by the dozens. Turgenyev, for some, is thought the supreme Russian genius. Perhaps this is because most of his novels are shorter than the orthodox. "First Love," for example, can be read at one sitting—if you sit long enough. And "Rudin" takes up about five hours.

The "Odyssey" needs no mention. If you haven't read it by now, you never will. "Judges" (there aren't many of us who read the Bible any more) is savage, barbarous, and breathes the strength that is not born from civilized bridge parties, afternoon tea dances, or bum gin.

Marco Polo, about 1270-90, left his happy Venetian home and skipped off to China. He there got a knock-down to the Grand Khan, was appointed royal traveling man, and saw all Asia. Years later he dictated his travels to another Venetian. He was derided, and suffered the fate of most poets and other alleged morons. He died, as most great men are supposed to do, and as the great misunderstanding geniuses of the ages, he took with him a broken heart—necessary appendage to those who seek far-flung and belated fame.

To read "Marco Polo" is to know the Orient. The Asiatics don't give two whoops in Hades for anything but life, never have, and—unless the Standard Oil doesn't intervene too greatly—never will.

Benvenuto Cellini needs little mention. He was frank, coarse, crude, egotistic as F. Scott Fitzgerald, and as boastful as Mussolini. Still, he gave us an autobiography which gives more light on the Renaissance in Italy and France than any other one work or collection of works.

Omar Khayyam undoubtedly had the only philosophy that has ever been worth while. A Nordic king banqueting his warriors in a great, long hall, once noticed a bird fly in from the darkness, through the lighted room, and out at the other end into the darkness again. Ut spake a warrior:

"King, old top," he quoth, "that bird is likened up to the human soul's flight through life. Out of darkness, in the light awhile, into darkness."

That's Omar from head to heel, only the tent-stitcher made an acrobatic out of the bird, gave it a drink (or perhaps some birdseed), and sent it on its way. "Make the most of what you yet may spend . . ."

Bennett was right. (So was Darwin.) Bennett's ten greatest novels are from Russians. Dostoevsky, probably because he interpreted the submerged seventeenth of man the iceberg. Turgenyev, perhaps because of his supreme artistic genius. Ivan seldom saw anything but the beauty in Russian life, anyhow. Though he understood men and women (and passion) probably better than any other writer since the first cave man chisled three words on a slab of granite and hurled it at his valentine.

The only quarrel I have with Tolstoy is the inevitable moral that he tacked on the end of a story; much as Senator Borah, after a truly magnificent speech, will mention the W. C. T. U.

Tolstoy forgot this, however, with "Anna Karenina"—and "Anna Karenina" remains great.

As for Jurgin, I can only say—read it. I understand it is here blacklisted. It is a comedy of disillusion, wholly romantic in material, and yet written in the most ironic tone of the most ironic realist.

Needless to say, none of these books have ever had "million mark" sales. Judges, perhaps, because it came along free with the Bible. The rest—well, it's hard to see that "In His Steps" (sale, 20 million) is as good as half a dozen words of the former.

American Mennonites Find Peace and Quiet in New Paraguay Homes

ASUNCION, Paraguay, Feb. 4 (AP)—Mennonites from Canada and the United States have found in a colony at Chaco Paraguayo the peace and prosperity they sought.

Disatisfied during the World war with the attitude of neighbors toward their religious beliefs and their scruples against warfare, they conceived the plan of migrating to South America.

Now comfortable homes, orchards and farms dot the 725 square miles of land purchased for their new abode, and officials know of no difficulties or complaints about the conditions they have found here.

Under the law by which their concession was obtained the Mennonites have complete freedom in teaching and practicing the simple precepts of their faith.

The settlers who already have come to the Chaco colony number some 2,300. Additional Mennonite immigration is expected to increase the population to 60,000. The colony has an option permitting it to add about 1,450 square miles to its territory when growth of population necessitates such expansion.

At the outset some of the early settlers became discouraged over differences in climate and customs in Paraguay and returned to their old homes. But now, according to the Paraguayan foreign office, several villages have been formed.

From their first settlement at Puerto Casado, on the Paraguay river, about 900 miles from Asuncion, the Mennonites have pushed more than a hundred miles into the interior of the Chaco region.

They are raising cattle and growing sugar cane and cotton as well as quantities of corn and vegetables, and they are experimenting with other crops.

The thriving condition of the colony is said to be shown by deposits of considerable sums in banks at Asuncion. Their affairs are administered by a board of directors. Dr. Eusebio Ayala, a prominent Paraguayan lawyer and politician, presides over this body.

Produce from the colony is sent by rail to Puerto Casado over a line about forty miles long, but which is being extended to the heart of the colony. Steamers carry the merchandise from this river port to Asuncion and Buenos Aires.

Flood Committee Completes Three Months' Session

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4 (AP)—The longest and most comprehensive study of the problem of curbing the Mississippi valley floods ever made in congress was brought to an end Friday when the house flood control committee completed its hearings which have been in progress for the past three months.

A huge mass of information was accumulated by the committee including 2,000,000 words of testimony by witnesses and an additional 2,000,000 words in documents, plans and reports, placed in its record. Among the witnesses were a cabinet member, senators representatives, state governors and leading army officers, civilian engineers and scientists.

While the house committee has completed its public sessions, the senate committee which also is studying the problem will continue its hearings tomorrow with Maj. Gen. Edgar Jadwin, chief of army engineers, and author of the flood plan recommended to congress by President Coolidge, as its principal witness. The senate committee commenced its hearings two weeks ago while the house group had been in session since Nov. 7.

Frederick Smith Recants Charges Against Mormons

INDEPENDENCE, Mo., Feb. 4 (AP)—Defending his actions in casting the recent disinterment at Nauvoo, Ill., of the bodies of Joseph and Hyrum Smith, Frederick B. Smith, president of the Reorganized Latter Day Saints church, Thursday said charges that he made for sensational effect were "unkind and absurd."

Officials of the Latter Day Saints (Mormon) church at Salt Lake City yesterday denied that the resting place of Joseph Smith, founder of the church, and his brother had ever been a mystery and criticized the president of the reorganized church for exhuming the bodies.

"Even to the family in which the secret was so long guarded, the exact location of the graves was unknown because the 'land marks' had been obliterated," Frederick Smith, a grandson of Joseph Smith, said today.

"It has not been unusual for remains of persons who have died for a cause to be disinterred and reburied for the purpose of adequate marking the spot."

However agreeable to its possessor, the superiority complex makes a man an exasperating neighbor, Dean Inge.

Senator Reed of Missouri Makes Plea for Defense

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4 (AP)—Asserting that "inadequate preparation is an invitation to the invader," Senator Reed, democrat, Missouri, Thursday night entered a vigorous plea for the maintenance of America's national defense at a point where "no other nation can successfully attack our shores."

In an address delivered at the opening session of the women's patriotic conference on national defense, the Missouri senator, who has been prominently mentioned as a presidential candidate, urged that the United States adhere to a policy of isolation so far as possible from "all world embroilments and controversies."

The Constant Flame

By WINIFRED VAN DUZER

WHAT HAS HAPPENED SO FAR? Emily Day and her lively sister Kitten are daughters of a worker at the Rossiter factory. Both are prevented by poverty from mingling with the socially elite of the little town. Emily has made an ideal of Kent Rossiter, Marty Nolan, whose father keeps a "speakeasy" is devoted to her and she is astonished at his popularity with the rich girls who snub her. Mrs. Frances Haiden, a wealthy interior decorator, gives Emily a job and tells her the only aristocracy is that of work. Emily grows jealous of Marilee Grainger, supposed to be engaged to Kent, but he follows Emily into a moonlit garden, after a party, kissing her and calls her beautiful. He leaves town to study law but remains a vivid memory to Emily. Marty tells her he too is to become a lawyer. Emily's father dies and Frances Haiden introduces her to Kingdon Coles, a dramatic critic who is greatly taken with her. Emily sees Stella Brent, daughter of a neighbor and Skeets Bradley; a reckless youth of wealthy parents, drinking liquor on the sly. Emily finds her hands full with Kitten. Stella confesses that she's in love with Skeets.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XV
There was a bench pressed close to the bank at the far side of the road half covered by shrubs and swinging vines and standing in deep shadow.

An out of the way spot this was, for the road went on down to the beach and it was too early in the season for bathers.

Cars came to the end of the River Road, circled the tiny park and headed back toward Lyall. They made a pleasant rushing sound in the quiet and down below the river flowed darkly, peacefully—so peacefully.

"Let's sit here, Stella. I'm sorry dear. If I could do anything."

"No one can. Thought I could take care of myself—why are girls like this, Em? Wanting me after you no matter what they do, how rotten they are, always wanting them back."

"A girl's a fool to fall in love. Why can't we take it the way they do? Something to play with a couple of minutes? Why, I haven't looked at a fellow since I've been going around with Skeets. Not that he'd have given a darn. Every last one of 'em—rotten—"

Emily was staring out over the river, watching a boat gliding up with the tide. A littleaching sadness kept turning in her thought like the sense of a cherished thing that has been and is not.

She did not believe as Stella did, she told herself. Love—oh, a radiant thing between two who could meet fearlessly and in the beauty of mutual understanding. Many women and some men were like that. They must be, else how could ideas go on?

Wheels rolled softly above the hill and stopped. A moment later two came down the road; they walked to the railing and stood there, facing each other. Emily had a fleeting impression of ruddy hair as branches moved and light filtered through for an instant; the man was Marty.

Instantly she knew the girl to be Avis Rossiter.

"Let's go, Stella."

"Wait till they move."

But they didn't move. Their voices, very low, nevertheless carried clearly to the bench. Impossible not to hear what they said.

"You weren't very gracious when I phoned, Mart. Don't care as much about sneaking out for an hour or two as you did."

Marty answered gruffly. "That's it—sneaking. What's it all about? Can't I walk up to your front door as well as some of those cake-eaters? Could take a chance on me couldn't you?"

"Ah, now, Marty, not mad with Avis? You know how we stand—"

Emily saw her hand slide up his arm, curl around his neck, draw his head down; she saw Avis kiss him on the lips. And she saw Marty thrust his hands into his pockets, straighten up, stand unmoved.

His indifference seemed to inflame her; she threw out her arms, brought them together at the railing and bowed her head on them.

"You—oh, you'd let me go?" she sobbed. "You'd do that! Listen: I'm ready—do anything. Drive down to Jersey—married tonight—you will? You did care?"

He jerked about and caught her shoulders, not gently; spoke in an evil growl with a hint of Tim Nolan whirling through his speech.

"So it's anything you'd do now, is it? Anything to be gettin' your own way. That's it; your own way is what you want."

"Marry you?" Not in a million years! Think I want a painted doll for a wife? I picked out one long time back and she doesn't speak your language. Snap out of it now and don't be havin' any more dreams.

"But Marty—" The daughter of the Rossiters put out a restraining hand trying, it seemed, to hold him back. "You don't love me? You never loved me?"

"Certainly not! What did you think? Another thing; don't come pestering around me after you're married. That's out."

With this she stalked away and Avis followed slowly, handkerchief pressed to her lips.

The girls on the bench heard an engine roar—wheels turning on the gravel. The two had taken their sordid little affair away; they were gone.

Emily was shaken; she drew a hand, excited breath and spoke in a fury of contempt. "How could he, Stella! Be such a brute—oh, and that poor girl, Benging so."

But Stella laughed harshly and told her not to be a fool. "It was her or him, wasn't it? He's got her number. Those society dames! Yes, and the men too. I ought to know. Watch out for their kind, Em."

But it didn't seem reasonable Emily thought as they walked home-ward. Supposing Kent had remained here and they had fallen in love—supposing, rather, he had got to feel about her as she always had felt about him.

Would he sometime have treated her as Skeets Bradley was treating Stella? As Stella said Avis was acting toward Marty? Flirting a little, inviting love, throwing it away?

Kent—no, never do this. Never a thing not stalwart and fine. Well, Kingdon Coles? Frances had told her of his loves.

She decided to be careful about Coles. Not let him talk to her in a corner all evening, call her "little"

Hickman's Skin Provides Defense Insanity Grounds

Prosecution Alienist Claims Confessed Slayer Sane

HALL-OF-JUSTICE, Los Angeles, Feb. 4 (AP)—An expert's attempt today literally to write on the skin of William Edward Hickman proof of the sanity of the confessed killer of Marian Parker, provided the youth's defense with the claim that by this test at least, his insanity had been established.

Dr. Paul E. Bowers, prosecuting alienist, stated on the witness stand that "dermatographia," or skin-writing, would show whether Hickman's skin was in the condition which would necessarily be present if his mind was affected as claimed by the defense.

Standing in the middle of the court room, Hickman, obviously embarrassed, was stripped to the waist and the experiment tried. On the prisoner's back and chest, Dr. Bowers drew with his thumb nail the letter "H."

Three Minutes
If the skin condition of insanity were present, said the physician, the marks would remain after three minutes; if not, they would disappear.

Watches were produced, three minutes were ticked off and the defense contended that the letters were visible at the end of the 180 seconds. The doctor himself admitted there was present a slight indication of a diffused skin writing condition but asserted that the diffused condition was not proof of a diseased condition.

Prior to the dramatic experiment, Dr. Bowers had repeated a statement which he said was Hickman's own denial of the "divine guidance" insanity plea set up by the defense in the sanity trial of the confessed killer of the school girl.

Bowers Denounces Plea
Dr. Bowers said Hickman had denied he had such a delusion and had added "it wouldn't have been a very kind providence" if the kidnaping and killing had been so directed.

Dr. Bowers aimed another stiff blow at the defense when he deduced from statements made by Hickman that the prisoner knew right from wrong, the test of sanity under the California law.

Dr. Bowers summed up his conclusions with the statement that "would say Hickman was sane."

Corn Rises; Wheat Falls

Unsettled Weather Develops Opposite Results in Market

CHICAGO, Feb. 4 (AP)—Directly opposite results from unsettled weather developed in the grain markets today, corn going upward in price, and wheat down. Good export business in corn helped to lift corn values.

Closing quotations on corn were firm, 1c to 1c net higher. Wheat finished unchanged to 1c off, oats at 1c decline to 1c advance, and provision 2c to 6c down.

From the outset, the corn market showed an upward trend, widespread wet mild conditions prevalent being adverse for the movement of the corn crop. Besides, new export business in corn was estimated at 250,000 bushels or more, with purchasing going on both at the Gulf of Mexico and the Atlantic seaboard.

The trading basis at the Gulf especially was firm, 6c over the Chicago May price being paid and offerings scant even at 7c.

Buenos Aires reports that the corn market there had finished 1c to 1 1/2c higher, with new crop months showing the most strength, received particular notice, and so too did advices that Liverpool corn values were at the highest point yet this season.

On the other hand, the cash corn trading basis in Chicago was unchanged to 1c lower, the decline being on the poorer grades. Bookings of corn to arrive in Chicago were small, mostly from other markets rather than from growers.

Influenced by corn strength, wheat rallied a little at the last, but throughout the day was chiefly dominated by the fact that scattered rains had fallen in parts of Texas, Oklahoma and Kansas. A sharp break in wheat prices at Liverpool was also a bearish factor.

Oats prices kept within narrow limits. Active selling of hard by eastern houses and foreigners pulled down the provision market.

Traders Uneasy; Brings Increase of Profit-Taking

NEW YORK, Feb. 4 (AP)—Further easing of bond prices resulted today from the uneasiness of traders over the financial outlook. There was considerable week-end profit-taking in issues which had been buoyant earlier in the week, and a spurt in new offerings, bringing the largest total of the year, close to $202,000,000, gave the listed market considerable competition.

New York traction liens which have been going up on the strength of the Interborough's movement for higher fares, turned reactionary.

In the railroad mortgage Sea-board 6's and 5's, Northern Pacific 3's and Lehigh Valley 4's, all sustained losses of more than a point. Such leading issues as the Missouri Pacific bonds, Erie 5's, Rock Island 4's and Southern Pacific 5's showed resistance to selling pressure.

Public utilities turned extremely quiet after the week's firm movement, and industrials showed only slight activity.

There were a few firm spots in the foreign group, but prices on the whole eased off. Fractional advances were made by several of the leading French issues.

Moulton, Elliot, Derry Capture Firsts in Time Trials

With "Bab" Cuhel equaling the world's record in the 75-yard indoor high hurdles in the tryouts, Coach George T. Bresnahan's hopes for a successful track season were given a considerable boost. Cuhel skinned over the hurdles in 9 seconds flat. Close upon his heels were Allison, Saling and Morrison. Cuhel took the lead at the very start and kept it continually. Allison, winner of the 75-yard high hurdles last year at the Illinois relay in 9.4, pushed "Bab" until the half-way mark, where the winner gradually drew away from the field.

Half Milers Prepare In the track event, Coach Bresnahan laid particular emphasis on the half mile event, in preparation for the selection of the four-man team which he will send to the meet in Chicago on Feb. 10.

Three heats were run off, Moulton capturing the first, Elliot the second and Derry the third. Gunn, McCameron and Speers came in second, third and fourth in the first heat, as did Wilmoth, Hunn and Wagner in the second and Kelly, Turner and Depping in the third.

Good time was recorded in the 40-yard dash, Baird breasting the tape first, with Sexton, Jordan and Stevenson trailing him closely in the order named.

In the first heat of the 440-yard run, Baird also rated first in first heat, Stevenson in the second. Second and third in the first heat in the quarter were Jordan and Edridge, in the second, Oram and Ferguson.

Mann Wins Jump

The high jump tryouts yesterday afternoon ended with Mann jumping the highest of the contestants. Forward heaved the shot the furthest to place first, while next in line were Nelson and Lapp.

In the half mile freshman competition, Frohn came in first, with Stanley and Weir second and third. Coach Charles Brookings will meet all freshman tracksters at 4:30 p.m. Wednesday at the field house, at which time the schedule for the coming indoor telegraphic meets will be announced.

Kansas Wins Third Battle of Iowa Tour

DES MOINES, Feb. 4 (AP)—Kansas University finished its invasion of Iowa with three victories by nosing out Drake, 28 to 27, in that last minute of play here tonight when Thompson scored a sleeper shot. Drake piled up a 12 to 6 advantage early in the game, but the Kansas quintet swung into action and harrowed the score to 14 to 10 at half time. The last period was evenly contested with Drake having a slight advantage until the closing seconds of the game.

BOWLING

No new names appear among the leaders in the Bowling Congress as the results of last night's efforts. H. Erwin of Davenport had the best chance of crowding into the money, but cracked in his last game, bringing his total to 614. Hicks of Marshalltown is in tenth place with 619.

Last year's state champions in the five-man class will be here today when the Kies Boodle of Dubuque appear at noon. The players are the same who won the title last year under the name of the Newkirk Service Station with a score of 2,973. Teams from Ottumwa, Des Moines, Davenport, Boone, Dubuque and Waterloo are slated to put in an appearance tomorrow. The Lime Rock Spring Sodas of Dubuque, entered here today, won the Fitzgerald annual tournament on their home alleys last week by scoring 2868.

Ohio State Bests Gophers in Five Minute Overtime

Michigan Tramples on Chicago for Third Straight Win

MINNEAPOLIS, Feb. 4 (AP)—Coming from behind with an unstoppable rush the Ohio State basketball team hammered out a 42 to 40 triumph over Minnesota in a hard fought overtime western conference clash here tonight that marked the dedication of the new $600,000 Gopher field house.

Center Van Heyve's snappy short looper toward the waning moments of the second overtime period, gave the Buckeyes a triumph after Hector had slipped through a minute previously to tie the count.

Grim's two neatly executed baskets in the overtime period knocked the count and kept the Buckeyes in the running. The contest was furiously fought from start to finish with a Minnesota record-breaking crowd of 12,000 kept in a constant frenzy by the frequent shifting of the lead.

At one stage in the second half, the Gophers with Williams leading the attack, piled up a 32 to 24 advantage but Van Heyve and Hinchman whittled this down until the score was knotted just as the gun boomed for the close of the second half.

Referee: Schommer, Chicago; umpire, Getchell, St. Thomas. CHICAGO, Feb. 4 (AP)—Michigan ran its string of consecutive conference victories to three and went into a tie with Indiana for fourth place on the Big Ten basketball race by defeating Chicago, 28 to 19, tonight.

Chicago seemed destined for victory until the last five minutes of play, when its powerful defense crumbled and Captain Harrigan and Bennie Oosterbaan pushed Michigan into the lead.

Michigan Leads at Half Michigan took a 7 to 1 lead in the first five minutes and finished the half leading 14 to 11. In the second half Chicago rallied and went into the lead, 17 to 16 with five minutes to play. Then the Oosterbaan-Harrigan combination started to work

Customer Soliciting Becomes Unethical

BERLIN, Feb. 4 (AP)—Employing touts for soliciting customers from the street was designated by the Prussian Supreme Court of Appeals as "an unethical and highly reprehensible business proceeding."

The proprietor of a shop for men's furnishing goods, who had been accused by a competitor of this malpractice, was discharged with a reprimand and the admonition that if he or anyone else ever repeated the offense he would be fined 3,000 marks.

Peltzer Watches Hahn Win Mile

BOSTON, Feb. 4 (AP)—As Dr. Otto Peltzer, famous German runner, looked on with 6,000 other spectators, Loyd Hahn, the Boston A. A.'s crack miler, won his eighth consecutive victory of the present track season here tonight in the Hunter mile, the outstanding event on the Boston A. A.'s 39th annual track program. Hahn had about a half lap lead on Ray Conger of the Illinois A. C., the second man. J. A. Sivak of the Illinois A. C. was third.

Hahn's time of 4 minutes 22.45 seconds was two seconds slower than last year, when he won the same event. With Bob Dalrymple, his B. A. A. teammate, acting as pacemaker, Hahn finished his first quarter in 59.45. He was at the half mile mark in 2:05.15 seconds and finished the third quarter in 3:15.15 seconds.

When Dalrymple dropped back Conger, former Iowa State star, jumped into second place and held the position, although Sivak attempted to pass him several times.

Phil Edwards, New York university's negro marvel, had but little competition in the 1,000-yard run, although the field was an impressive one. He had a good margin on Leo Larivee of the Chicago A. A., who finished second. Ray Dodge of the Illinois A. C., last year's winner, was third. Edwards' time was 2:18.

Leo Lermond, Boston A. A. flyer, gained his second leg on the Gardner B. Williams cup by repeating his last year's win of the three-mile race. Lermond led an impressive field by a half lap at the finish line in 14:45.25. "Blondy" Romig, the old Penn star and inter-collegiate three-mile champion, finished second and Edward Kirby, of the Newark A. C., was third.

Levine Plans Hop to Havana; Plans Start Early Today

ROOSEVELT FIELD, N. Y., Feb. 4 (AP)—Charles A. Levine failed to get off on a projected flight to Havana today, but planned to start with his monoplane Columbia of trans-Atlantic fame at 6:30 o'clock tomorrow morning.

Levine said definitely that he would fly to Havana, but would not explain why he had loaded the plane with enough gasoline for a 4,000-mile flight, while Havana is but 1,200 miles away and speculation was rife. Also he declined to explain why David H. Strother of the National Aeronautics association was present to seal all the barographs, which is done ordinarily for the purpose of establishing record flights.

Levine was as close-lipped about his plans as he was when he hopped into the Columbia last summer without any announcement and accompanied Clarence Chamberlin on his flight to Germany.

Bowls 298 in Game

BURLINGTON, Feb. 4 (AP)—Paul Haas, local bowler, spilled the maples for 11 straight strikes here this afternoon but split on his twelfth try and took a score of 298 for the game. He was bowling with Gus Peterson who also got 11 strikes in the game but split in the fourth and was forced to take a 264. Peterson and Haas rolled in the state tourney at Iowa City last week and are holding the top position in the doubles there with a three game total of 1233.

Oklahoma Aggies Win

LINCOLN, Neb., Feb. 4 (AP)—The Oklahoma Aggies quintet displayed a speedy offensive and made ten out of fifteen free throws good to win from the University of Nebraska here tonight, 32 to 21. The Oklahomans held a 22 to 10 advantage at the half.

NEW YORK CRITICISMS

Of Broadway's Current Picture Hit

Al Jolson

in

"The Jazz Singer"

To Play Simultaneously in Iowa City Next Week at The Strand

Only twice before in the last ten years has so sincere and so thunderous a storm of applause broken over a cinema as that which arrived at the conclusion last night of Al Jolson's movie, "The Jazz Singer." To me, last night's acclaim represented the natural reaction of an intelligent gathering to a phenomenally beautiful episode woven out of tragic loveliness. —Quinn Martin in The World.

An impressive triumph... the audience applauded ecstatically... another victory for one of the great personalities of the modern theatre. The entertainment at the Warner is a great show.—Richard Watts, Jr., in The Herald Tribune.

If enthusiasm is any barometer indicating the black-faced star's success at the cinema, he is that which is known as "made."—Regina Cannon in The American.

And Al did a lot last night. He began at 8 o'clock by tying up traffic for an hour and a half in front of the Warner theatre. He saw all the most influential of Broadway turn into the blazing entrance over which was an announcement of his picture covering the upper stories of the building. He heard his friends and all others who could get into the theatre in ovals, greater perhaps than even he had ever before been given. He heard them whistle and shriek their applause, and he saw tears sparkling on the eyelids of most of the women in the audience when the lights finally went on.—Hettie Cattell in The Mirror.

"The Jazz Singer" is a welcome addition to the galaxy of worthwhile film specials now showing on Broadway. It is an exceedingly worthy effort.—George Gerhard in The Evening World.

The star gives a performance worthy of his reputation. He brought the audience to cheers.—Eileen Creelman in Evening Sun.

The audience wildly greeted the film which will undoubtedly be a success and have a healthy run on the road as well as at the Warner theatre.—Betty Colfax in The Graphice.

Jolson accorded ovation as "The Jazz Singer."—Rose Pelswick in Evening Journal.

It is marvelous, compelling and superbly Winter Gardenish.—Donald Thompson in Evening Telegram.

Mr. Jolson's efforts were received with rousing applause. It was a happy idea to persuade him to play the leading role for a few men would have approached the task as he does in this photoplay. All that disappointed people in the packed theatre seemed to be the fact that they could not call upon him or his image at least for an encore.—F. Mordant Hall in The Times.

Hawkeyes Resume Competition Against Minnesota Quintet

Gophers Victor in Early Season Tilt With Hawks

MacMillan's Cagers Use Short Pass Style of Play

Iowa's basketball team is set to resume play in the Western conference tomorrow evening against Coach Dave MacMillan's fighting Gophers. Minnesota defeated the Hawkeyes by a one-point margin in an early season affair, and the invaders are out to repeat the performance.

Coach Sam Barry and his Hawks, however, are determined to thwart any ambitions the Norsemen may have of victory, and hope has it that the Old Gold quintet is due for another Big Ten triumph. Iowa is noted for mid-season comebacks after a rather mediocre start, and there is an air of confidence in the Hawkeye camp.

Drop Three

After the Iowa game, Minnesota has had tough sledding in the conference, dropping close games to Wisconsin, Chicago, and Northwestern. In losing, however, MacMillan's men showed a style of basketball that is bound to make the game interesting for any opponent.

The Gopher coach, introducing a new type of play into the conference, depends upon a short passing game, instructing the players never to shoot unless well within the scoring zone. In order to make his game a bit more deceptive, MacMillan permits the use of an occasional long pass which has been employed rather successfully by Captain Nydahl and Stark, the two Minnesota ace.

A Team of Veterans

The invading team consists of a group of veterans who have profited by their experience in conference competition. Leading the attack is Nydahl, a tricky and elusive guard, and Stark, forward, who is small and stocky. The latter is blessed with a powerful throwing arm, the accuracy of which is illustrated by an unusual feat in the Northwestern game when he shot a basket while sprawled flat on the floor.

Ottersness, who plays opposite Stark, and Tanner, a back guard, are regulars back from last year's Gopher quintet. Ottersness is a versatile athlete, being a high scorer on the track team, and his basketball ability is not provocative of sneers.

Lawson Out

Iowa will start the game minus the services of Fred Lawson, high scorer of the team in conference games. Lawson was wounded in the "Battle of the Books," but insists he will be sufficiently recuperated to finish the season after the Minnesota game.

Doyle "Buck" Plunkitt, whose ability to "plunk-it" from the center of the floor won the Illinois encounter, will step in to fill Lawson's vacancy. The lad from the Hoosier state is an artist at dropping the ball through the rim, and if his weak knee would only permit him to mingle with the rest of the boys as effectively on the defense, Iowa would need have no fears relative to the left forward position.

Hawks in Cellar

As a whole, the Iowa aggregation seems ready to emerge from the cellar of the Big Ten. The basement is not the most pleasant position in the business, and none realize it more clearly than the occupants. The game is the last home appearance of the Hawkeyes until Feb. 20.

Probable lineups:

Time and place: 8 p.m. Iowa field house court.

HAWKEYES BATTLE MINNESOTA TOMORROW

Under the direction of Coach Dave MacMillan, who turned out many winners at the University of Idaho before coming to Minnesota, the University of Minnesota basketball team was prepared to storm through to a high rating in the Western conference championship scramble this winter.

The Gophers opened the season with a one-point victory over the Hawkeyes, but have not kept up their winning streak. They are now resting in the lower half of the percentage table. Both the Hawks and the "Knights of the North" are determined to secure a victory tomorrow.

The field house will be dedicated between halves with an address by the conference commissioner, Maj. John Griffith, and by President L. D. Coffman of the university. In the picture "1" is Captain Nydahl, guard; 2 Coach MacMillan; 3 George Ottersness, forward; 4 John Stark, D. Coffman of the university. In the picture "5" is Glenn Williams, the new Gopher center.

Iowa City Cagers Rest After Defeat

Knoxmen Succumb to Davenport Quintet in M. V. Game

Coach Walter S. Knox rested his Iowa City high cagers yesterday after their defeat at the hands of the Davenport five Friday evening. The Davenporters continue to hold the lead in the Mississippi Valley basketball league.

The Red and White team with one victory and five defeats is at the bottom of the scale. They have two more league contests in which to raise their standing, with Cedar Rapids here, Feb. 10, and Clinton Feb. 17.

Although Friday's game was closely contested throughout there was no doubt but that the best team was victorious, and no "sour grapes" are being passed out by the local boys. Davenport jumped into the lead early in the first quarter and never was headed.

Davenport Gets Lead

The first period was hotly contested, but the second quarter proved fatal to the Little Hawks, and Davenport piled up a five point lead which was too great to be overcome. At half-time the score stood 19 to 6.

The beginning of the third quarter saw the Knoxmen make a desperate effort to gain the lead, and they scored two field goals before Davenport was able to count. Balzer, Davenport captain, proved the ruin of the Iowa City aspirations when he ran wild and sunk three field goals within two minutes.

Little Hawks Rally

From that point the game settled down to a see-saw affair, first one team registering and then the other.

Play Basket Ball Finals on Feb. 9

The finals in the class basketball tournament for boys at Iowa City high school will be played Thursday, Feb. 9, at 4:30 p. m., between the seniors and freshmen. These teams will compete for the championship as a result of the seniors defeating the juniors by a 30-8 score, and the freshman victory of the present contest.

Davenporters Function Well

Despite the "bear dope" put out by Davenport, the new combination worked fully as well as the early season team which was reported as wrecked by the loss of Hartman and Tuffanelli.

Trio of Infields Practice to Fill Gaps in Lineup

Four Continue Battle for Post Vacated by Hoben

With one week of work out of the way, competition for the Hawkeye infield becomes keener and fiercer. Three complete infields are working out daily, with a hot battle being staged for each base.

The position left vacant by the graduation of Gerald Hoben, captain of last year's team, is being sought by four men. A. L. "Doc" Sals of Salem, S. D., and Carl Nelson of Des Moines have the inside track at present. Sals is the only left-hander of the quartet. Last year as an understudy to Hoben, he saw action in a few Big Ten games. He seems rather wild in tossing the horsehide, but is death on ground balls. Sals is a strong and consistent hitter.

Nelson at First

Nelson has been transformed from a catcher into a first baseman. He has not yet had time to adjust himself to his new position, but has the actions of a real ball player. After a longer introduction around the bag he should conquer his wildness, and be able to toss the ball with plenty of accuracy. Nelson is a powerful hitter.

A new candidate for the post is Ben Eyre of Council Bluffs. Last year he was a member of the freshman team, but did not report at the opening of this practice season. As soon as he gets into condition he should give a strong account of himself.

Jacobs Tries

The fourth candidate is Gilbert Jacobs. He was not out of the freshman team last spring, but his actions about the bag betray the fact that he has played ball before. The varsity went through a lengthy hitting drill yesterday afternoon. With two months of this the hitters should be in good condition for the southern trip.

Practice starts promptly at four o'clock Monday. Coach Vogel still wants to see more freshman catchers.

over the sophomores, 22-14.

The consolation game between the sophomore and juniors will be played Friday, Feb. 10, at 4:30 p. m. The girls' basketball tournament will start soon after the completion of the present contest.

Military Companies Select Officers as Coaches of Relays

Cadet officers who will act as captains of the military company track teams in the relay races on the program of the indoor track and field meet between the Iowa varsity squad and the Chicago athletic club Feb. 18 have been named by Capt. H. P. Gibson.

Ten infantry companies and two engineer companies will each be represented in the relay contest by a four man team. Six men may be entered, according to George T. Bresnahan, university track coach, and four of these may compete. The cadet captains will not take part in the running but will have charge of the team for training and during competition.

Members of the regular varsity track squad will assist in training the men. Several of the teams have already started training for the meet and the coaches expect some close competition.

Four medals will be given to the winning team by the athletic department. They are suitable for wear on a watch chain or as a fob. Ribbons will go to members of the teams placing second, third, and fourth.

The men who will captain the infantry teams are: Flory Della Vedova, Co. A; Gerald R. Imbody, Co. B; Harold Claassen, Co. C; Kenneth

M. Peterson, Co. D; Frank C. Rubee, Co. E; W. C. Parks, Co. F; John B. Kirchner, Co. G; J. F. Vogler, Co. H; Thomas G. Cox, Co. I; and Don A. Workman, Co. K.

J. T. Jones will be captain of Co. A of the engineering unit and F. P. Brock will have charge of Co. B.

Graduates Address Doctors at Meeting

Speakers at the annual winter meeting of the Sioux Valley Medical association at Sioux City, Jan. 25, included four University of Iowa graduates.

Dr. G. R. Albertson, '10, of the college of medicine at the University of South Dakota, who received his master's degree in 1912; Dr. William Jesspn, '88, of Sioux City; Dr. Palmer Findley, '90, of Omaha; and Dr. I. E. Nervig, '02, of Sioux City, were included in the program.

Alumnus Plays on Lockridge Team

In a basketball game scheduled for Feb. 7 between the "rubes" and the "dudes," two teams representing the care skill of Lockridge and the rural area surrounding that town will play off the annual championship match. H. E. Graber, '24, will wear the colors of the town team in the game.

The Lockridge paper, naming the Iowa graduate, says, "none spoken of always in the hushed and awed tones as is due to the athletic great."

Iowa Graduates Win Prominence in Literary Field

Myers, Muilenburg, Crawford, Sergel Write Novels

Many Iowa alumni are making national wide reputations in the field of literary activity. Nelson Antrim Crawford, '10, has written a new novel, "A Man of Learning," which will be published Feb. 8 by Little Brown and company. The novel, which takes the form of a satirical biography, is a new phase of American literature.

Crawford has also written a volume of poems, "The Carrying of the Ghost," which was published in 1922. He is an associate editor of The Midland. He received his M.A. degree from the University of Kansas in 1914, and is now in Washington, D.C. working as director of information of the United States department of agriculture.

Walter L. Meyers, '08, is prominent in the field of short story writing. "The Later Realism," a book which is a criticism of current English, was published in 1927 by the University of Chicago press. A short story, "Foolsaces," appeared in the Nov. 26 issue of The Midland.

The story was included in Edward J. O'Brien's roll of honor of fifty best stories of the year. Myers received his M.A. degree at the University of Iowa in 1913. He is now a professor in the English department of the University of Pittsburgh.

"Prairie," a novel by Walter J. Muilenburg, '15, has the distinction of being the first publication of the Viking press.

Mr. Horack was driving west on Fifth avenue when the crash occurred. A delivery truck going north on Sixth street struck his sedan. The impact swung the car completely around and it crashed into the curb.

The sudden jolt when the car hit the curb forced the door open and threw Horak to the pavement. His head was fractured from the blow.

An ambulance took Horak to Mercy hospital, but he never regained consciousness. Funeral services were held yesterday at 2 p.m. from the Turner chapel, and burial was in the Bohemian National cemetery.

Robert W. Cooper Reveals Candidacy in County Election

The name of Robert W. Cooper, '24, is added to the rapidly growing list of Iowa graduates who are seeking city, county, and state offices in Iowa.

Cooper, a graduate of the college of law at the university, who has been practicing law at Newton for the last two years announces his candidacy for nomination in the republican primaries as county attorney of Jasper county, of which Newton is the county seat.

He has served as coroner for Jasper county for a year.

Alumnus Receives Bacon Fellowship for Foreign Study

Paul Bartsch, '06, Curator of Mollusks in the National Museum at Washington D.C., Has Been Awarded the Walter Rathbone Bacon Research Fellowship for the Years 1928 to 1930 according to recent announcement by the Smithsonian Institution.

Dr. Bartsch has declared that he will make use of the fellowship to collect material for the completion of a monograph on the land shells of the West Indies. He has been working on this monograph for a number of years.

In his work of studying and classifying mollusks, Mr. Bartsch has also prepared a large collection of life pictures of them, using an underwater camera.

The fellowship which he receives was established by the terms of the will of Mrs. V. P. Bacon of New York who died in 1919. The will bequeathed $50,000 to the institution to create a traveling scholarship for the study of the fauna of foreign countries.

The curator received his master's degree at the university in 1899, and his doctor's degree in 1905.

Graduate Dies in Automobile Crash

Hold Funeral Service for F. Horak in Cedar Rapids

Frank E. Horak, '09, aged 37, manager of the Horak pharmacies No. 2 and No. 4, of Cedar Rapids, died in Mercy hospital there at 10:30 p.m. Thursday from injuries received in an automobile smash up at Fifth avenue and Sixth street Thursday afternoon.

Mr. Horak was driving west on Fifth avenue when the crash occurred. A delivery truck going north on Sixth street struck his sedan. The impact swung the car completely around and it crashed into the curb.

The sudden jolt when the car hit the curb forced the door open and threw Horak to the pavement. His head was fractured from the blow.

An ambulance took Horak to Mercy hospital, but he never regained consciousness. Funeral services were held yesterday at 2 p.m. from the Turner chapel, and burial was in the Bohemian National cemetery.

Franklin Leaves for Honolulu Trip

Thomas Franklin, '08, a member of the instructional staff in the department of civil engineering at the California institute of technology at Pasadena, left Jan. 28 for a three weeks trip to Honolulu.

Mr. Franklin is the president of the Los Angeles Hawk-I association.

Medical Services Bring Honors to Graduate of Iowa

Official Coast Guard Magazine Lauds Dr. Middleton

The record of another Iowa graduate who has "made good" in the service of the military department was made public in a recent issue of "The Guard," official organ of the United States coast guard service.

Dr. E. D. Middleton, '04, is the subject of a story in that publication which tells of his services in connection with keeping 1,500 men and their families healthy.

A former Davenport man, he is well known in medical circles in Iowa. He saw his first service for the government as a soldier in the Spanish-American war.

He had not yet finished his medical course at the university and was not, at that time, connected with the medical division of the service.

He was known at the university as a player on one of the best football teams that Iowa had ever produced.

His father, Dr. D. W. Middleton of Davenport, was, for several years, dean of the college of medicine at the University of Iowa.

Entering the World war in 1914 in the service of Great Britain, the Iowa alumnus served both on land and on sea for the allies. He was cited for service in the Gallipoli campaign.

During 1925 and 1926 his duties kept him near New London where he was responsible for the health of the men in the section base there, as well as the health of their families and of several hundred men at the academy.

At present he is an officer in the public health service on board the Yamacraw, one of the coast guard fleet engaged in suppressing rum running activities off the coast of Florida.

John Fletcher to Try Re-election as Attorney General

John Fletcher, '00, is running for re-nomination at the June primary on the republican ticket, for his second term as state attorney general.

Mr. Fletcher practiced law at Avoca for ten years after his graduation, holding the positions of city attorney and mayor of Avoca.

He was appointed assistant attorney general to Attorney General H. W. Byers in 1910 where he continued later with Attorney Generals George Cosson and Ben J. Gibson.

Mr. Fletcher received an appointment by Governor Hammill in May, 1925, as judge of the district court of Polk county, where he presided over the court of domestic relations.

He received his theological training at Boston university and Harvard. Since then he has served as pastor to congregations in Cincinnati, Boston, and Oakland, Calif.

While in Oakland Dean Brown served as a special lecturer in ethics at Leland Stanford university. For six years he was a representative of the ministers of the city in the Oakland central labor council.

From this pastorate Dean Brown was called to the deanship of the Yale school of divinity, being known there by his Lyman Beecher lectures given at Yale in 1905. In 1916 he was appointed pastor of the Church of Christ at Yale. Since he took the chair of the Yale school he has lectured in almost all of the prominent institutions in the United States.

Dean Brown, in asking for the acceptance of his resignation, said that he desired to spend several years in travel. He plans to visit many of his former friends who are now in missionary work in Africa, India, and China.

Paul I. Noble, of Glidden, former student in the school of journalism, is now the owner of the Newell Mirror, at Newell, which he purchased of R. E. Lee.

Weddings of Iowa Alumni

The wedding of Frances Mildred Kellogg, '24, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Ray Kellogg of Davenport, to Richard Toll, '27, son of Mrs. Alma Toll of Davenport took place Jan. 28 at the bride's home in Sioux City.

Eighteen guests were in the wedding party of relatives and close friends. A four course dinner was served following the ceremony at the home of the bride.

Mrs. Toll is a member of Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority. Mr. Toll is a member of Sigma Nu fraternity and of Phi Delta Phi law fraternity.

The engagement of Emma Veum, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eric Veum of Edgerton, Wis., to Vera E. Holland, '25, has been announced and the wedding date set for Feb. 11.

The wedding will take place at the Little Brown church near Nashua.

The bride-to-be attended the Milwaukee State teachers college and was graduated from the Layton Art school of Milwaukee.

Mr. Holland, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Holland of Collins, is a member of Aecia fraternity.

At present, he is actuary for the Great Western Insurance company.

James B. Weaver Lauds Pioneers' Foresight in Establishing University

"A piece of chiseled Greek beauty," is the characterization given Old Capitol by James B. Weaver, '82, who spoke at the eleventh annual Finkbine dinner in Iowa City last week.

The dinner is given by W. O. Finkbine, '78, of Des Moines, president of the Green Bay Lumber company. His guests each year are leaders among students, and prominent alumni of the University of Iowa.

Carrying out the idea that it was the farseeing farmers of Iowa who incorporated the art ideas of the ancient Greeks and the Italian renaissance, Mr. Weaver said that the wonder of it is that those farmers could see that they were building something that would outlast their period of time in the development of Iowa.

He told that they were working for and were expecting progress in the state. From this example he drew the conclusion that it is the duty of all students to make similar preparation for the future.

"Iowa is the greatest place in the world to live," he said in speaking of the future of the men to be graduated from the university. It holds as much opportunity now as it ever did for the pioneers.

"The university has grown wonderfully," he continued and in the future will be one of the greatest institutions in the world.

"Daddy" Devine Now Boasts of Glenn the Third

Glenn D. Devine, '22, former all-conference halfback, and now athletic coach at Parsons college had a busy day Jan. 28. He is the father of a son born at Fairfield that night.

In addition to the arrival of the new member of the family, Mr. Devine had to take charge of his basketball team that evening in a game with Central college.

The "young Devine" weighed nine and one-half pounds and is the third son. His father boastfully declared that they "needed only two more for a future Parsons basketball team."

Glenn Devine won three letters at the position of halfback while playing on the team at Iowa. He won his first letter in the fall of 1919 during his sophomore year. It was a combination work of Glenn Devine and his brother Aubrey that helped bring to Iowa a conference championship.

Charles R. Brown Resigns at Yale

Yale university has announced the resignation of Charles R. Brown, '33, who, at the end of the academic year, will leave the chair of the Yale school of divinity which he has held since 1911.

The university also made public a vote of the Yale corporation expressing the highest appreciation of Dean Brown's work, his services, and the regret felt at his resignation.

Dean Brown, voted one of the twenty-five most outstanding preachers in the United States in the Christian Church poll, also received his M.A. degree at the University of Iowa.

He received his theological training at Boston university and Harvard. Since then he has served as pastor to congregations in Cincinnati, Boston, and Oakland, Calif.

While in Oakland Dean Brown served as a special lecturer in ethics at Leland Stanford university. For six years he was a representative of the ministers of the city in the Oakland central labor council.

From this pastorate Dean Brown was called to the deanship of the Yale school of divinity, being known there by his Lyman Beecher lectures given at Yale in 1905. Dean Brown, in asking for the acceptance of his resignation, said that he desired to spend several years in travel. He plans to visit many of his former friends who are now in missionary work in Africa, India, and China.

Noble Buys Newspaper

Paul I. Noble, of Glidden, former student in the school of journalism, is now the owner of the Newell Mirror, at Newell, which he purchased of R. E. Lee.

Warriner Receives Praise for Work

A recent issue of the Okmulgee, Okla., high school paper calls attention to the outstanding record of the "prexy section" under C. C. Warriner, '25, who received his M. A. degree at Iowa and is now teaching in the Okmulgee high school.

In scholarship and school activities Mr. Warriner's group is given as deserving special mention.

George Keller Recalls Spirit of Iowa Engineers During Mecca Celebrations

That the Iowa college of engineering has made innumerable changes in the last fifteen years, is the claim of George J. Keller, '13, of the Iowa City Water corporation.

Mr. Keller came to the university in 1908, and at that time the college of engineering was housed in a building between the liberal arts and physics buildings, which has since been removed. The foundation of the old building can still be traced, as it was covered over with dirt when the campus was graded after the erection of the physics building.

The college of engineering at the university had its beginning as a department in 1905 under the direction of Leah Raymond, who came that year as its head.

The new engineering building was built in 1908, and the old building on the campus was used as a shop for the next four years when the present shops building and the physics building were erected.

The most prominent feature of the college of engineering at that time in the memory of Mr. Keller was the engineers' show and the resulting spirit during Mecca week.

The Mecca parade and show was originated at Iowa in 1910, and the tradition, though the spirit has somewhat cooled in the last fifteen years, according to Keller, has continued since that time.

Report Locates Geology Majors Since 1920 Class

Ben B. Cox Plans Return Following Work Abroad

Graduates of the geology department since 1920 have, for the most part, continued in the field of geology.

Glenn Dille who took his M.S. degree in 1924, is now with the geology department as a graduate assistant and is working for his doctor's degree. Receiving his B.S. from Iowa in 1921, Waldo S. Glick finished his graduate work at Yale and took his Ph.D. degree in 1925. He is now assistant professor of geology at Ohio state university, and assistant geologist of the U.S. Geological Survey on a part time basis.

Lloyd North, '22, has charge of the southwest Texas district of the Texas company with headquarters at Houston. He was recently promoted from district to regional geologist.

The Bureau of Economic Geology and Technology in the University of Texas is now employing John T. Lonsdale, '17, who took his M.S. degree and his Ph.D. degree from Virginia university.

C. L. Foster, who took graduate work at Iowa during two years, as an years apart, while on furlough from a Mission born in West Columbia, and who was for a year professor of geology in the University of West Virginia, is now an instructor in geology at Syracuse university.

Leroy T. Patton, '16, holds the position of professor and head of the department of geology at Texas Christian college, Lubbock, Tex. A. J. Williams, '14, is associate professor in geology at the University of Oklahoma.

Receiving his M.S. degree in 1915, and his Ph.D. degree in 1922, J. V. Howell has charge of the West Texas office of the Maryland Oil and Refining company, and is located at Porters City, Okla.

E. B. Hartmore, '24, is now professor of geology at Graceland college, Lamoni.

Those who are taking further study are: J. J. Petty, a graduate student for two years at Iowa, who is at Harvard. J. R. Moseley, a graduate student here from 1925 to 1926. Robert King is doing graduate work at Yale.

George Marshall Kay, '24, took his doctor's degree at Columbia university and is now an instructor here. John Adams, '22, completed his work at the University of Texas and is now with the California Oil company at Colorado, Tex.

From 1925 to 1926 A. W. Quinn was a graduate student in geology here, later teaching at Williams college in Massachusetts. He is now doing graduate work at Harvard.

Includes Monte Carlo Monte Carlo will also be one of the features of his tour. He is planning to make the trip between Paris and Monte Carlo in a plane.

During his stay in Europe, Dr. Hageboeck will write ten or twelve articles for The Daily Times of London. These articles will deal with the political conditions in the countries of his visits, the Fascist movement, and with his observations in the art centers of Paris, Rome, Naples, Sicily, Vienna and Berlin.

He expects to return to the United States in April or May.

Hageboeck Starts on European Trip

Seeks Interview With Mussolini; Plans Study of Art

Dr. A. L. Hageboeck, '89, Davenport physician and president of the board of trustees of the Davenport Municipal Art gallery, is on his way to Europe for a three months' study tour of France, Italy, Germany and Austria. Dr. Hageboeck left last week for New York. He will sail on the steamship Albert Ballin.

His primary object in going abroad at this time is to get first-hand information on the Fascist movement, and in connection with this he expects to secure an interview with Mussolini, Italy's dictator and the head of the movement.

Will Observe Fascism It is the opinion of Dr. Hageboeck that there are only three really great political experiments in the world today: namely, the Soviet government of Russia, the dictator form of government in Italy under the leadership of Mussolini, which has swept aside all the institutions of democracy, and that of our own republic.

One of the interesting objectives of Dr. Hageboeck's journey will be the little island of Sicily, which, despite its turbulent history of changing governments, has ever been marked by its love of freedom.

Includes Monte Carlo Monte Carlo will also be one of the features of his tour. He is planning to make the trip between Paris and Monte Carlo in a plane.

During his stay in Europe, Dr. Hageboeck will write ten or twelve articles for The Daily Times of London. Senator Campbell to Seek Election

State Senator Edward H. Campbell, '06, a graduate of the college of law, has announced his candidacy for republican nomination as congressman from the eleventh congressional district, succeeding representative W. D. Boies of Sheldon who will not seek reelection.

Senator Campbell now represents the Cherokee, Ida and Plymouth county district in the state senate. He is a member of the law firm of Campbell and Campbell of Battle Creek. He has also served three terms as mayor of Battle Creek.

Senator Campbell first entered the legislative service as representative, serving with the thirty-fourth general assembly from 1914 to 1915. He next obtained the election to the senate and the thirty-ninth general assembly found him representing the forty-sixth district in the state senate. He served in that session and in the fortieth, the fortieth extra, the forty-first, and forty-second general assemblies. His term as senator will expire this year.

Alumnus of Iowa Leaves Practice to Join Hubbard

Dr. V. E. Herbert, '02, who has been a dentist for fifteen years at Storm Lake has become associated with Paul Hubbard of Des Moines in the Herbert-Hubbard Ford Sales company at Hawarden.

Dr. Herbert played end on the championship football team of the university in 1900 and 1901. Following his graduation he located at Alta where he remained for several years.

While in Storm Lake Dr. Herbert has been active in civic and city affairs, serving as mayor four years and on the directory board for the chamber of commerce several terms.

Dr. Herbert, who is an enthusiastic democrat, has served as secretary of the democratic state central committee and appeared on the state ticket as candidate for state auditor several years ago.

Davenport Alumni Plan Enlarging of Association Scope

Fifteen graduates of the University of Iowa attended a meeting held Friday noon by the Davenport Alumni association. The graduates gathered for a luncheon at the Hotel Blackhawk.

A report of the proceedings of the alumni delegates meeting held recently in Des Moines was read by Martin H. Smith, '10, delegate from Davenport.

A vote taken favored including the alumni living in Rock Island and Moline into the Davenport association. Plans for such a union are already under way.

Alumna Serves as Overseer of Poor

Grace Darling, '16, Davenport social service relief worker, has for some time held the position of county overseer of the poor of Scott county.

During the year Miss Darling's office granted 1,550 office interviews and she and her assistants made 1,229 visits in the city and county. She has filed 3,368 separate reports compiled on relief cases and fifteen out of town inquiries were made by Miss Darling.

Last year Miss Darling arranged physical examinations for 376 persons, of whom 533 were sent to public institutions, and a total of 1,241 received credit extensions due to the efforts of her office.

In her report, Miss Darling states that aid to the poor given thoughtlessly does more harm than good. Those who receive continued charity are prone to lose their pride and self-dependence. It is also observed that such persons become lazy and would rather live in misery than work.

Three Pass State Board Examinations

Three University of Iowa graduates, Elmer L. Miller, '28, Raymond E. Leazenby, '28, and Ray Swanson, '28, have passed the Iowa state board examination for license to practice dentistry in Iowa.

Students Lay Plans for Improved Annual

"The Vision of Sir Launfal" has been selected for the theme of the year book at Iowa City high. The art work, including the opening pages, the division pages and borders will be based on this topic. An innovation this year will be the use of stiff, imitation leather covers, instead of the suede covers which were used formerly. The work is progressing rapidly under the direction of Florence Churchill, faculty advisor, Martha McDowell, editor-in-chief, and Harriet James, business manager. The panels of the senior pictures, the staff, and the faculty have been submitted to the engravers. A feature section of baby pictures of the seniors has also been completed.

Plaintiffs Submit Petition for Suit

The second petition on the docket for the May term of district court was filed yesterday at the office of the county clerk. The action was filed by S. T. Morrison against Paul and Mary Brown for the payment of a promissory note and the foreclosure of a mortgage. The plaintiff asks a judgment of $1,500 in payment of the promissory note which was given by the defendants for the payment of rent. The plaintiff also asks a writ of attachment against all property owned by the defendants.

Candidates Tardy in Filing Papers

County Officials Slow About Nomination Credentials

Although the battle for county offices is already well under way in many counties throughout Iowa, relatively little action has been taken in Johnson county. If there is to be a bitter contest for any of the positions, there is little indication of it as yet.

No nomination papers have been filed for either county or township offices. County Auditor E. Sulek, at whose office the papers will be entered, does not expect any papers to be filed for some time yet.

Nomination papers for county or township offices must be filed at the office of the county auditor at least thirty days before the primary election, which will be held June 4. The last date for filing will be May 4.

Any person running for a county office must file a petition giving his party affiliation and other information, and signed by two percent of the total number of persons who voted for the head of that party ticket in the county. Since there are about 5,000 members of each party in Johnson county, about 100 signers are required for the petitions.

Persons running for a township office may become candidates in two ways. The candidate may either file a petition signed by ten voters from the township, or he may file an affidavit for office.

Hughes Announces Junior Play Cast

The cast for the Iowa City high school junior class play, "Captain Kidd, Jr.," has been announced by Lola Hughes, director, and will be presented one night during the first week of March at the Engert theatre. The definite date has not been set.

The roles and players are as follows: Andrew MacTavish, Clyde Burnett; Expressman, Lyle Sangor; Mary MacTavish, Grace Donovan; Jim Anderson, Allen Barth; George Brent, Paul Harper; Marion Fenton, Gwen Minish; William Carleton, Harry Burrell.

Lemuel Bush, Robert Cornog; Samuel Dickens, Robert Barry; Lulla Bush, Georgia McCollister; Grayson, Harold Wickham; Brown, Carl Unrath; Lucindy Bush, Marie Mott; and Sarah Jane Simms, Jane Dutcher.

"Captain Kidd, Jr.," is a farcical adventure by Rita Johnson. The story is based on a treasure hunt.

File Birth Certificates

The following birth certificates were filed yesterday at the office of County Clerk Walter J. Barrow: Merwin Eugene, born Jan. 25 to Mr. and Mrs. Donald H. Soper of Iowa City; Robert David, born Jan. 17 to Mr. and Mrs. Paul R. Slevick of Iowa City; Margaret Jean, born Jan. 22 to Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Cook of Iowa City; Lyle George, born Jan. 20 to Mr. and Mrs. William Seydell of Windham; Dorothea Margaret, born Jan. 14 to Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Copper of Iowa City; William Albert, born Jan. 14 to Mr. and Mrs. Albert Ranshaw of Oxford; Carroll Maurice, born Dec. 27 to Mr. and Mrs. Willard Irwin of Iowa City.

Jailed on Intoxication Charge

Francis Shay was sentenced to fifteen days in the county jail yesterday after he had been found guilty of intoxication. Shay was picked up on the street yesterday by police and was sentenced in court the same morning by Police Judge Paul E. Custer.

Married

Charles Reeves, 26 years old, and Mary Astrosky, 24 years old, both of Cedar Rapids, were married yesterday afternoon by E. J. Hughes, justice of the peace.

Fort Dodge Man Dies

Elmer Smith of Fort Dodge died in a local hospital Friday morning.

Issue Marriage License

A marriage license to Ben Turner, 24 years old, of Iowa City, and Alberta Hamlin, 22 years old of Iowa City, was issued yesterday at the office of the county clerk.

Assign Costs to Defendant

Payment of the costs in the case of Frank Fairall against Frank Douglas was assigned to the defendant by Judge Ralph Otto yesterday. Fairall sued Douglas for $5,000 damages last fall, charging slander. The jury awarded Fairall $1 damages and vindication of his character when the case was tried in district court in December. The question of the payment of costs was reserved by Judge Otto for future decision.

Court Adjourns

The November term of district court was officially adjourned yesterday by Judge Ralph Otto, who has acted as judge during the term. The February term of court will start here tomorrow with R. G. Popham as judge. Judge Otto will return to Marengo to continue work on the term of court which began there last Monday.

Divorce Granted

On the grounds of cruel and inhuman treatment, Gladys Beasley was granted a decree of divorce from Jess Beasley by Judge Ralph Otto yesterday. No alimony was asked. The couple was married in Iola, Kan., on June 26, 1926, and lived together for several months. They have no children.

Postpone Decision

Judge Ralph Otto has taken the motion for a new trial in the case of Ben Rarey under advisement and will give his decision sometime next week. The hearing was held yesterday morning. Rarey was convicted in district court Jan. 21 on the charge of maintaining a liquor nuisance. If the motion is allowed, the case will come up again during the February term of court. If it is not allowed, Rarey will be sentenced at once.

Iowa City Students Make High Grades During Semester

Six Iowa City high school students earned all "E's" the highest grade given, during the last semester. They are Agnetta Christensen, senior; Allen Fleming, sophomore; Josephine Burrell, Herdis Christensen, Margaret Mapes, and Beryl Weeks, freshmen.

Ten students received all "E's" but one. The boys were outclassed entirely, for of the complete honor roll, which is made up of all those students who have earned a grade of "G" or above, there were thirty-two boys and ninety girls.

The junior boys were not represented, but the seniors rated eleven, the sophomores twelve and the freshmen nine. Senior girls, with thirty-four on the honor list, were represented by the greatest majority. The junior and freshman girls had twenty each, and the sophomore girls sixteen.

Iowa City Shops Show Modes in Spring Displays

Fine pleats, straight lines, and plain trimmings feature the new spring modes for the costume of the up-to-date woman according to the fashions displayed at local shops. Tailored suits will lead in popularity for all occasions. One department store is featuring tailored coat and suit ensembles. The long coat is separable and may be worn with light dresses. The suits have large box pockets which are often trimmed with silk braid. Some may be found with all silk lapels.

Butter mole is a popular spring fur and is being used effectively on evening wraps and street coats alike. The mole is a soft cream brown color and is made by bleaching the regular Scotch mole. Fitch, squirrel, and beaver will continue to be used by those who favor the best in furs.

Printed patterns are to be used in many combinations. Flowered chiffons and printed crepes will be favored for afternoon bridge parties and informal dances.

Soft colors will be the most popular hues for the college wardrobe and may be found in light shades of blue and a cream rose. A dash of red and some greens will be worn for contrast.

Many buttons and tiny tucks will feature the best styles and are to be seen on the coats and suits of the debutante and matron. Navy blue is being featured for all ages. Hats will match the costume and will vary only in choice of materials. Straw and felt are being combined in some of the latest styles. Gloves and slippers will carry out the similarity in the costume.

Seydell to Celebrate Seventy-Third Anniversary as Member of I.O.O.F.

Seventy-three years of active membership in a fraternal organization will be the record established by M. A. Seydell of Iowa City, when he celebrates the seventy-third anniversary of his entrance into the Odd-fellow lodge tomorrow.

Mr. Seydell's record of membership is acknowledged to be longer than that of any lodge member in the United States. For many years local lodge officials have been unable to learn of any person whose period of service even approaches that of Mr. Seydell. It is definitely known that no lodge member in Iowa can better the Iowa City man's record.

Mr. Seydell will celebrate his ninety-sixth birthday May 7. At the time when he joined Eureka lodge No. 44, I.O.O.F., on Feb. 6, 1855, he was only 22 years old. He was one of the first to join the lodge after its foundation here in 1853. It is said that his father was one of the charter members of the local organization.

Receives Medals

During his youth, Mr. Seydell was also a member of the Cadets of Temperance and the United Order of Workmen, but he has lived to see both organizations become extinct.

In commemoration of his long period of membership in the organization, the Iowa City lodge presented him with a gold-headed cane on the fiftieth anniversary of his joining. That was twenty-three years ago. On the sixty-eighth anniversary, they presented him with a gold piece known as the 65-year-jewel. Both cane and medal are among Mr. Seydell's most prized possessions.

He is still as active and healthy as the majority of men far younger than he is. He reads practically everything without glasses; his voice is strong and vibrant; his memory is clear and active; he foregoes the pleasure of a long daily walk only during the most unpleasant weather. Practically his only infirmity is the failure of his hearing.

Helped Erect Capitol

He often goes to the lodge rooms during the day, and occasionally attends entertainments there. His deafness prevents him enjoying the latter as much as he otherwise would.

He was born in Berwick, Penn., May 7, 1832. His parents moved to Iowa in 1834, settling in Louisa county. In 1847, they moved to

Iowa City Debaters to Discuss League

"Resolved, that the United States should join the league of nations," will be the subject for debate at the next meeting of the Iowa City high school debate club, Wednesday, Feb. 9, at 7:30 p.m.

Kenneth Hodges and Oliver Brown will uphold the affirmative and Albert Horack and Albert Fleming the negative.

The debate will be followed by two talks, one on Lincoln by William Donovan and one on Washington by Merritt Holloway. Current events will be discussed by Harry Long. A critic's report will be given by Lin Hain.

Methodist Minister Recovers

Although he will be unable to be in the pulpit for several weeks, the Rev. Wilfred C. Keeler, pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal church here, will attend the regular Sunday morning worship at the church today for the first time since his recent illness. Dr. E. H. Lauer will give the sermon on "The Work of the Church."

Chautauqua Board Arranges Program

Arrangements for next year's chautauqua program will be made at a meeting of the chautauqua association in the chamber of commerce rooms today at 2:30 o'clock. The future program will be decided upon by this association, of which H. A. Spencer, 232 Melrose avenue, is the president, in cooperation with Mr. Bottorf, the representative from the Redpath Chautauqua bureau of Chicago.

Every summer a chautauqua program lasting five or six days is given in a tent pitched in College Hill park which is located between College and Washington streets.

Business Man Changes Swamp to Mink Farm

Property which appeared to be nearly valueless several years ago has turned into a little "gold mine" for Thomas H. LaVora, proprietor of Paris cleaners, of this city. Mr. LaVora owns 120 acres of swampy agricultural land near Conesville, Louisa county, and has leased forty more acres, which he has turned into a profitable mink and muskrat ranch.

The land is an ideal place for muskrats and mink to live. It is surrounded by a marsh from one to four feet deep in which the muskrats live. Cabbage and carrots have been planted on the land to provide food for the fur-bearing animals.

Jack Wilson and John McBride, tenants on the ranch, have been trapping them and thus far this year have captured 700 muskrats and sixty minks which will bring approximately a profit of $1300. It is expected that before the end of How Would You Invest a Hundred Thousand Dollars?

You would logically buy high-grade bonds. You would diversify as an added measure of safety. You would deal with a house that could not only help you make the right selections, but also afford you relief from detail in caring for the securities.

We have a very large list of bonds purchased by this bank with its own funds after careful investigation. They are offered with our full recommendation for investment of your funds. After you purchase them from us we are here each day, interested in your bonds. Our profits are very small as we have no extra expense, or traveling salesmen. We are interested in selling only good bonds, rather than those carrying large commissions. When buying, think this over—"Who will I consult a year from now about my bonds?" Possibly the agent who called on you this week may not be calling on you then. The truest thing in bond buying is—do not risk a thousand dollars in principal to gain ten dollars in interest.
