Hickman's Words Used by State in Trial Proceedings

Confessions of Slayer Mashed into Sanity Evidence

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 6 (AP)—William Edward Hickman's own purported words that he knew before he stole Marian Parker from school and slew her that kidnaping and murder were crimes punishable by life imprisonment and death were weighed against him at his sanity trial today.

Langworthy and Roach Lead Play

'What Every Woman Knows' Set for March 20

Helen Langworthy, instructor in the speech department, and Walter Roach, also instructor in the speech department, will play the leading roles in "What Every Woman Knows," a comedy by Sir James Barrie to be given March 20, 21, and 22 by the university theatre in the natural science auditorium.

Matter of Protection

Outstanding in testimony adduced today was the statement by Dr. Victor Parkin of the Los Angeles county insanity commission, that Hickman told him the killing of the schoolgirl was a matter of self-protection to him. She had to be cut up, Dr. Parkin quoted the prisoner, and "when I saw it had to be done, I just did it."

Testified Hickman Lied

That Hickman did not believe his mother, Mrs. Eva Hickman, was insane, was another statement of Hickman quoted by the witness.

Dr. Herman Schorr testified Hickman showed evidence of lying when he related his story of being directed by providence in killing and mutilating the school girl.

Dr. Parkin declared Hickman admitted to him about three weeks ago that it had only been the day before that the idea of claiming "divine guidance" had occurred to him.

The witness testified Hickman had stated he killed the child as a "matter of self protection" because he feared after the kidnaping that Marian "was losing confidence in me."

Knew Right from Wrong

To support his conclusion that the defendant knew right from wrong, Dr. Parkin quoted a statement of Hickman's that it was a "terrible thing to do, wasn't it." Hickman referred to turning over the child's torso to her father in exchange for $1,500 ransom, the witness said.

Under cross examination by the defense Dr. Parkin admitted that Hickman's family history could be interpreted as constituting a "pre-disposition" to insanity. He added, however, that this did not mean that insanity necessarily would follow.

Faculty Members Attend Conference

Seven members of the college of engineering faculty will attend the Iowa Engineering society to be held in Waterloo Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday, and the meeting of the state section of the American society of civil engineers, which meets Tuesday evening in Waterloo.

Sherman M. Woodward, head of the department of mechanical engineering will speak on a national policy for flood control. Floyd Nagler, professor of hydraulic engineering, will speak on "Iowa Floods."

Other faculty members attending the meetings are: C. C. Williams, dean of the college of engineering; R. B. Kittredge, professor of transportation engineering; B. J. Lambert, head of the department of civil engineering; E. L. Waterman, professor of sanitary engineering; and A. H. Holt, associate professor of civil engineering.

Nurses' Regulations Uniforms Change

Beginning Feb. 1 the regulation long-sleeved uniform of the school of nursing has been changed to one with short sleeves and stiff white cuffs.

The insignia of the seniors, formerly white cuffs, is now a narrow black band worn on the cap.

Registrar Lists Four Grahames

It is not unusual to find both a brother or a sister in the university, or perhaps either two brothers or two sisters from the same family. And occasionally there are even three students on the campus from the same family, all writing checks on the same dad.

But it is unusual to find four brothers and sisters all enrolled in the university. However, such is the case in the Grahame family of Shellsburg.

Russel C. Grahame, the eldest brother, is a graduate student in the department of economics. Orville is a junior law student, Bernice is a sophomore in liberal arts, and Dorothy, a freshman.

Lady Sybil Tenterden—Alice M. Van Law

Many members of the cast have appeared a number of times before university audiences. Miss Langworthy will be remembered for her work in "The Admirable Crichton," as well as Sir James Barrie, and in Ibsen's "Pillars of Society."

Mr. Roach had major roles in "Number Seventeen," "In the Next Room," "So This is London," and "The Swan."

Three of the cast had parts in the recent production of "St. Joan" by Bernard Shaw. They are: Gale W. Reynolds, A1 of Waukeg; Albert Henry Tanswell, A1 of Iowa City; and Joseph O'Brien, A3 of Waukon.

Dorothea Bostwick has just entered the university from the University of Colorado. Alice Van Law will make her first appearance in the university theatre in this play.

Brookhart Backs Bank Legislation

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6 (AP)—Provision for a co-operative banking system in the United States entirely independent from the commercial system, was proposed in a bill introduced today by Senator Brookhart, republican, Iowa.

Under the proposed legislation, present intermediate credit banks would be converted into a co-operative reserve system, giving to them all the powers of the federal reserve system. State co-operative banks would be permitted to become members of the proposed federal co-operative reserve.

Earnings of capital stock would be limited to five per cent which Senator Brookhart said, is deemed to be a reasonable return to the United States. Other earnings would be distributed by holding one-fourth in surplus and paying back the remaining three-fourths to depositors and borrowers in proportion to the interest received by the one and paid by the other.

Kidnaping Plot Ends in Arrests

LE MARS, Feb. 6 (AP)—An effort to extort $100 from Miles Cunningham, prominent Akron business man, through a letter threatening kidnaping and possible death of his 10 year old daughter, Mildred Irene, resulted today in the arrest of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Sheets of Akron.

The couple have confessed and are in the Plymouth county jail here awaiting arraignment of charges of extortion. The grand jury met late today to consider the case.

The letter, received last Thursday morning, instructed that $100 be left by a fence near the Cunningham residence. If the demand was not met, the note said, "you will never see your daughter again," according to Cunningham. The paper was unsigned. Belton Barr, Akron marshal, placed a decoy envelope containing blank paper, and when Mrs. Sheets and her mother, Mrs. Arthur Bellwood, picked it up, they were caught Mrs. Bellwood was released after questioning.

American Eagle Lands in Haiti; Flying on Time

PORT AU PRINCE, Haiti, Feb. 6 (AP)—After circling lazily in a great white cloud bank at an elevation of 6,000 feet, so that he might arrive at Port-Au-Prince on the exact minute, Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, flying from Santo Domingo, made a dramatic appearance over the flying field here today. The Spirit St. Louis had been sighted at 1:30 about twenty miles to the north, and then was lost to view. The flyer made a long detour, and suddenly approached the city from the south at an elevation of 500 feet.

The plane then dropped to the field like an arrow to a safe, easy landing. It came to a full stop exactly at 2 o'clock, the hour Lindbergh had said he would be here.

In the aerial trip from Santo Domingo, where he took off at 11 a.m., Lindbergh passed over and was reported from Santiago de Los Caballeros and Cape Haitien.

A crowd of 6,000 spectators in holiday mood and attire greeted the famed pilot.

Woman Pleads Self Defense

SIoux CITY, Feb. 6 (AP)—Mrs. Loraine Stiglitz, charged with shooting and killing her husband Arthur Stiglitz, in their hotel room last Thursday, will plead self defense, her counsel announced today.

Letter Causes Bank Run

MIAMI, Feb. 6 (AP)—Anonymous letters predicting the failure of one bank caused that institution to suspend business here today, resulting indirectly in the temporary closing of two others and brought about a run on a fourth which called for $7,000,000 from the federal reserve branch bank in Jacksonville to bolster its cash reserves.

Unmasked Men Rob Bank

GOOD THUNDER, Minn., Feb. 6 (AP)—Three unmasked men held up two assistant cashiers in the Good Thunder State bank here today and escaped with between $4,000 and $5,000.

Pastor Would Be Mayor

DES MOINES, Feb. 6 (AP)—State Representative E. A. Elliott of Polk county, former city finance commissioner, and a Polk county clergyman, is considering entering the spring election race for the office of mayor to succeed Ferd Hunter, he indicated today.

Plan Endurance Flight

FORT WORTH, Tex., Feb. 6 (AP)—In an attempt to break the world's endurance flight record, Al Henley and Joe Hart, Oklahoma aviators, will take off here in their specially built monoplane Wednesday or Thursday. The plane is equipped to carry 525 gallons of gasoline.

Threat Negro on Marriage

ROCKVILLE, Conn., Feb. 6 (AP)—A flaming cross burned on Pillsbury Hill here tonight as Clarence Kellew, Negro, was warned first by mail and then by telephone not to marry Beatrice Fuller, 19 years old. Miss Fuller claims to be a direct descendant of a Confederate general and says her father's ancestors came to America on the Mayflower.

Berger Introduces Bill

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6 (AP)—The manufacture and sale of four per cent beer and 12 per cent wine would be legalized under a bill introduced today by Representative Berger, socialist, Wisconsin.

'Cat Burglar' Sentenced

SIoux CITY, Feb. 6 (AP)—Sentence of two terms of 20 years each, to run concurrently, was given Carl Lamphere, Sioux City's "cat burglar" today. He pleaded guilty to robbery charges. He was arrested by police following a search covering many weeks during which his daring operations baffled officials.

Dubuque Pioneer Dies

SIoux CITY, Feb. 6 (AP)—John McDonald, 87 years old, prominently connected with the development of Dubuque during the 70's and 80's died here Sunday night. Mr. McDonald was one of the most active promoters of the high bridge enterprise. For 23 years he was secretary of the Dubuque High Bridge company, and was identified with numerous other community enterprises.

U. S. Marshal Improves

SIoux CITY, Feb. 6 (AP)—Charles Kloster, U. S. marshal for the northern Iowa district, who is critically ill in a hospital here following an operation, was reported slightly improved tonight.

Senate Seeks to Gain Dismissal of Stewart Writ

Retains Wickersham to Fight Case in High Court

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6 (AP)—With George W. Wickersham, attorney general in the Taft administration, as its counsel, the senate tomorrow will seek dismissal of the writ of habeas corpus by which Robert W. Stewart, Standard Oil magnate, obtained his release Saturday from senate custody on a charge of contempt.

The case will be heard before Justice Jennings Bailey in the District of Columbia supreme court and Mr. Wickersham will combat the contention of the Chicago oil operator that the senate Teapot Dome committee was without authority to ask that he tell what he might know of the disposition of the Liberty bonds bought by the Continental Trading company of Canada. Wickersham argued the Fall-Dougherty contempt case in the supreme court for the government.

The hearing tomorrow is expected to consume a day or more and, whatever the decision of Justice Jennings Bailey, the case probably will be carried through the District of Columbia court of appeals to the United States supreme court.

Meantime, District Attorney Gordon will seek indictment of Stewart by the grand jury now sitting here on two counts of contempt of the senate by reason of his refusal to answer a number of questions—whether he had knowledge of anybody receiving Continental bonds and whether he had discussed their disposition with Harry F. Sinclair, his business associate.

With Stewart's case in the courts, the senate committee went ahead today with its inquiry as to what became of the $1,987,000 profits of the Continental company besides the sum Sinclair delivered to Fall and the $800,000 which James E. O'Neil former chairman of the board of the Prairie Oil and Gas company, returned to the company in 1925 after the Continental transactions in American oil had been brought to light during the trial of the civil suit at Cheyenne for the recovery of Teapot Dome from Sinclair.

Two witnesses were examined—Sheldon Clarke of Chicago, vice president of the Sinclair Refining company, and H. L. Phillips, president of the Sinclair Crude Oil purchasing company—but both said they had no knowledge either of the transactions of the Continental company or of any Liberty bonds it might have acquired with its profits in purchasing oil from the late A. E. Humphreys of Denver, and selling it at an advance of twenty-five cents barrel to the Sinclair Crude and the Prairie Oil.

'Cappy Ricks' to Be Given by U-Hi

The University high maskers have started work on the play "Cappy Ricks," a comedy in three acts by Edward E. Rose. The play is being directed by Agnella Gunn, head of the speech department. Miss Gunn is being assisted by Edna Dahlin.

It is not likely that the play will be presented before the beginning of March.

Fleet of New Airplanes to Care for Public Demands of Aerial Service

Despite attempts to take the United States airmail contract from the Iowa City airfield the transcontinental port remains as it was since its location here eight years ago. Cedar Rapids, Mason City and Waterloo have already made their bids for the contract but were refused. Davenport is the last city to try for the airport according to a recent news story in a Davenport paper.

Since the Chicago and Omaha airmail route was established Iowa City has been the principal landing station between the two cities. Although small emergency fields are provided at short intervals the only regular stop made by the mail plane is at the local Smith field.

Mail from many Iowa towns is received and dispatched here.

Field at Its Best

Through continual service the field has expanded and grown until now it is the best and most complete of any in the state. Improvements have been made and training of the field is planned in order to take away the dangers of slippery landings.

Huge planes carrying 800 to 1,200 pounds of mail and passengers land and depart from Smith field every night. The large hangar with which the field is equipped will house several disabled planes in event any are forced to stay over in Iowa City.

Has Passenger Service

Last June saw the first passenger service from Iowa City when arrangements were made to carry one or two persons in the regular mail planes. The increasing demand for this type of transportation has made it possible to realize the importance of the business and it has been announced that starting next June a fleet of passenger planes will be employed to take care of the regular passenger service.

As it now stands reservations must be made months ahead of time in order to get transportation. The planes are always carrying their quota of people and it can hardly accommodate the public demand. The great speed by which travel is made possible in a plane can be realized when one thinks that Iowa City is ten hours out from New York and twenty hours from San Francisco, if the trip is made directly in one plane from Smith field.

Ohioans Launch Boom for Hoover

Hoover Campaign Started in Ohio

Petitioned to Run in State Primary; Taft Named

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 6 (AP)—Formal efforts to induce Herbert Hoover, secretary of commerce, to enter the Ohio primary in April, and contest with United States Senator Frank P. Willis for Ohio's delegation of fifty-one votes to the Kansas City convention, were launched here today in the formation of an "Ohio Hoover for president" committee.

About seventy-five men and women, many of them prominent in Ohio politics, comprised the organization which adopted the resolution urging Mr. Hoover to enter the contest in the state, and signed a petition making a similar request which was wired to him tonight.

The Hoover committee is headed by former secretary of states, T. H. Brown of Columbus, who presided at today's conference, Robert A. Taft, Cincinnati, son of the chief justice of the United States, was named vice president.

Senator Willis last week received the endorsement of the republican state central committee.

Announces Refusal to Discuss Politics

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6 (AP)—Secretary Hoover when apprised of the Ohio action looking toward his entrance into the republican presidential primaries in that state, refused to change his frequently announced refusal to discuss politics.

The petition drawn up at Columbus by a group of his supporters, asking his permission to begin a campaign in his behalf had not reached the commerce department, through friends of Mr. Hoover who have interested themselves in the campaign were known to be in touch with the Ohio activities.

A positive decision by secretary Hoover either to accede to or decline the Ohio request is expected, however, within a few days, as the law in that state requires that the personal assent of a candidate to the filing of his name must be obtained. This is regarded as a considerable embarrassment since Mr. Hoover has steadfastly clung to a policy of refusing to make any personal effort or statements in his own behalf.

Women Debaters to Meet Missouri

Audience to Determine Winners; Iowans at Columbia

Upholding the affirmative of the question: Resolved that the governmental policies of Mussolini are justified, Dorothy Anderson, A4 of Iowa City and Betty Kellenberger, A2 of Davenport, will meet the women's debate team of the University of Missouri at Columbia tomorrow night.

A women's debating squad is a new venture for the University of Missouri, and Wednesday's encounter will be the first scheduled. The discussion will be followed by an open forum and decided by an audience vote before and after the debate. The decision will be determined by shift of audience opinion on the question.

Miss Anderson has had three years of experience in debate on this campus, having debated against the University of Wisconsin in 1926, and the University of Minnesota in 1927. She also took part in contests with Iowa State college and Knox last year.

She is president of Sigma Delta Phi, women's inter-collegiate forensic organization, and a member of Delta Sigma Rho, debating fraternity.

Miss Kellenberger has had no previous experience in debate but has won honors in high school declamatory. She is a pledge of Alpha Chi Omega sorority. Both women are members of Erodelphian literary society.

Pathé Cameraman Arrives to 'Shoot' University Scenes

The Pathé news cameraman who is to take "movies" of the university, arrived in the city last night. He will stay here a week to take the pictures, and longer if necessary.

The picture, which is to be shown in all theatres holding a Pathé contract in Iowa, will also be distributed to Pathé theatres scattered over the United States.

Among other "shots" to be taken will be a group picture of all students registered from foreign countries and insular possessions of the United States.

Ethel Young Hurt When Hit by Car

Blinded by the rain which streamed down over the windshield of his car, Lorne Kennedy, A3 of Council Bluffs, ran into Ethel Young, A1 of Kellogg, at 8 p. m. yesterday, knocking her down and cutting her hand severely.

Miss Young, with two companions, was crossing the street at Capitol and Jefferson streets when Kennedy turned the corner. Miss Young's companions were unhurt.

She was taken to her room at Currier Hall at once.

America-France Hope to Abolish War with Treaty

Paul Claudel Claims Idea Practical and Great

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6 (AP)—A new arbitration treaty with France, signed today under unusual circumstances—the clicking of motion picture cameras and in the presence of a score of newspapermen—marked, in the words of the French ambassador, Paul Claudel, the start of the outlawry of war.

With the under-secretary of state, Robert E. Olds, he signed and sealed the two exchange copies of the new treaty supplanting one negotiated in 1908 by Secretary Elihu Root and Jules J. Jusserand, which expires Feb. 27. The French ambassador remarked that it was with deep emotion that he affixed his seal on the 15th anniversary of the signing in Paris of the first treaty of alliance between America and France.

The treaty for the outlawry of war carries out a specifically American idea, which M. Claudel characterized as being both great and practical and for which he predicted a great future. While the text of the agreement was not disclosed, a declaration for the outlawry of war is known to be contained in its preamble. The treaty will be a model for similar agreements which the United States intends to negotiate with other powers.

President Coolidge transmitted the new French treaty to the senate without delay. After it has been considered in executive session, its terms will be made public.

Window Robber Still at Large

Several Questioned by Police; Search Continues

Despite vigilant watches kept on highways and outgoing trains as well as extensive search spreading to neighboring towns, no trace has been found of the man who escaped with five watches from the show window of the Hands and Son jewelry store, 109 E. Washington street, at 1 a. m. Monday morning.

The robber gained entrance to the display by throwing a brick through the plate glass window. Attracted by the crash of falling glass, Joe Dolezal, night policeman who was making his rounds near the intersection of Washington and Dubuque streets, turned the corner in time to see the man running west to Clinton street where he turned south. The officer fired four shots but the fugitive disappeared in the alley near the Connel plumbing shop on S. Clinton street.

An all night search by police and detectives failed to reveal any trace of the man.

This was the second time the jewelry store has been robbed in the same manner. In the spring of 1925 a similar display of watches was disturbed when the window was broken with a brick. The watches which were taken were later recovered when the thief was arrested.

The heavy paving brick which was hurled into the window made a hole measuring thirty by twenty-four inches. Five Bulova watches were taken and two women's strap watches. The loss of the watches was not covered but the window was protected by insurance.

Police have taken a number of suspects into custody for questioning and are continuing the search with only a meager description of the burglar on which to work. As near as could be determined the man was wearing a light colored coat and cap and was of medium height.

Professor Reilly Predicts Further Rain for Locality

Nearly an inch of water fell between noon yesterday and 7 p. m. According to the rain gauge of Prof. John Reilly, weather observer, the exact amount was .93 of an inch. At that time it was still raining, with little prospect of clearing skies.

Yesterday rain brought the precipitation nearly to the normal for the first thirty-seven days of the year. The mean for the year so far is slightly over an inch and one-half.

Besides yesterday's .93 of an inch, .29 of an inch had already been recorded since Jan. 1 making a total rainfall of 1.22 inches.

The thermometer has hovered around the freezing mark for the last two days, the highest temperature being 34 degrees and the minimum on the freezing point at thirty-two.

The various temperatures were as follows: highest Sunday, 34; Sunday 7 p. m., 34; lowest Sunday night, 32; yesterday, 7 a. m., 32; highest yesterday, 34; 7 p. m. yesterday, 34.

Professor Lampe Called to Chicago

Prof. M. Willard Lampe, director of the school of religion, left Monday night for Chicago to take care of business connected with the school. From Chicago, Professor Lampe will go to Philadelphia to transact business in connection with the board of Christian education of the Presbyterian church. He will return to Iowa City Friday.

Cedar Rapids Man Sentenced

ALLIANCE, Neb., Feb. 6 (AP)—Oscar Johnson, 17 years old, Cedar Rapids, was sentenced by District Judge E. L. Meyers, to a term of one to ten years in the state reformatory at Lincoln here today, on a charge of burglary.

Minnesota Sinks Lower in Cellar Mire; Iowa Rises

Wilcox, Harrison Star in Exciting Game; 5,000 Attend

Iowa's fighting Hawks, staving off a dangerous Gopher rally late in the game, pushed Minnesota deeper into the confines of the Big Ten cellar last night. The Iowans whipped the sturdy invaders 30-27 before an estimated crowd of 5,000 that braved a raging rainstorm to witness Iowa's resumption of conference play. The victory elevates the locals to fourth place in the conference rating.

Led by the lanky "Rags" Wilcox and little "Pops" Harrison, the Iowans consistently outplayed the Minnesota team from the opening whistle. The Hawks held a safe lead until the middle of the second half. The Gophers then discarded their policy of waiting for a short shot and started to take chances from far out in the court. The change was beneficial, and the Iowa lead was cut down considerably, but the dependable Wilcox, aided by Harrison, crashed through for the counters that kept a three point margin to the end.

Minnesota started a revamped line-up, shifting Otterness, the scoring star, to a guard position and Chapman going to the forward position vacated by Otterness. The offense of the Gophers was slow and it had difficulty getting through for a shot. The crowd urged the visitors to shoot, but evidently they thought their coach knew better.

Two Good Scores First

Captain Two Good opened the scoring in his customary style by sinking a field goal while the battle was still in its infancy. Minnesota missed a pair of set-ups after which the stocky stark held "Rags" who promptly sank the counter, making the score 3-0. A quick double-pass gave Wilcox a shot under the hoop to add two more to the Iowa total.

The Iowa defense was basket tight during the first seven minutes. After a series of short passes, Chapman eluded Harrison to score from the field for the first Minnesota tally. The game was slow and uninteresting at this juncture with the Hawkeyes content to let the Gophers pass the ball around as long as they were harmless. There was an over abundance of traveling by both teams. It was a case of one out of bounds play after another, none of which led to any scoring.

Start Out on Fouls

Plunkitt, the Hoosier school boy, nicked Chapman for a personal foul, and the Minnesota made the two. Two good was due again, this time from far out after a nice pass from "Rags." Iowa took time out when Two Good was hit a rebounding rap by an aggressive Gopher. The Iowa captain was not seriously hurt and resumed play after a water-drenching. Shortly after a

Prof. Bessie Pierce Speaks to Iowa City League of Women Voters; Excoriates Thompson

Bessie Pierce, assistant professor in the department of history, spoke to thirty-six members of the Iowa City League of Women Voters at the regular monthly luncheon yesterday at Younde's inn.

Miss Pierce discussed the anti-British drive which William Hale Thompson is carrying on in Chicago. She tells of various history text books and the things they either omitted or emphasized.

"Thompson's campaign will lead to deep water," she said. "If one thing can be censored in the text books, there are many others that can receive the same censorship."

Many persons criticize our texts because it is not mentioned in histories that Washington's staff was composed almost entirely of German soldiers. Like objections are raised to every part of a history.

In other ways Miss Pierce showed how history writers have had a hard time writing true accounts of historical events. Different localities and sections have demanded types of books different from those used in other sections. Historians have been forced to write books to please the people for whom they were writing.

The usual thing, Miss Pierce pointed out, has been to write the books so as to show up the other countries as in the wrong and to show that United States made no mistakes.

Mrs. R. H. Volland gave a brief report of the conference on the causes and cure of war which was held at Washington, D. C., last month. Mrs. Volland attended the conference and her report gave some of the most important events for the local club.

Mrs. George Martin, president of the Iowa City League of Women Voters, announced the radio lecture to be given by Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt at 6 o'clock tonight. Mrs. Catt's talk will be on the conference with which Mrs. Volland's report was concerned.

Art Association Campaign Begins

With all workers out yesterday the membership drive of the Arts association for finer art exhibits in Iowa City was successfully started, according to Mrs. George W. Hall, jr., committeewoman. The campaign will continue throughout the week.

Previously handicapped by the lack of a suitable exhibition gallery the association is now able to hang exhibits in Iowa Union. This is the only fire proof building in the city in which pictures of great value may be displayed.

Mrs. Ernest Horn, finance chairman, hopes to double the funds of the Art association during the campaign. If the drive is successful it will probably result in Iowa City being placed on the art circuit with Cedar Rapids, Davenport, and Des Moines.

In conjunction with the department of graphic and plastic arts the association has already sponsored two exhibits this year. The works have included pictures by local artists and have been favorably commented upon by critics.

Mrs. H. P. Wickham of Iowa City is serving as chairman of the exhibition committee. She will be assisted by Catherine McCartney, assistant professor in the department of graphic and plastic arts. The pictures will be hung in the lounge of Iowa Union, under the supervision of these two committeewomen and their assistants.

Prof. Sherman M. Woodward, of the college of engineering, is president of the Arts association, and will act as general chairman for the drive.

Five types of membership are included in the campaign. They include group membership, $10 annually; life membership, $100; sustaining membership $5; active membership $1; and associate membership $2.

Literary Group Celebrates Twenty-Sixth Anniversary

Celebrating the twenty-sixth anniversary of the club, the members of the Shakespearean club entertained at luncheon in the private dining room of the Iowa Union at 1 p. m. yesterday.

The tables, which were set for twenty, were arranged with centerpieces of white carnations, the club flower. A color scheme of green and white was carried out in the decorations.

Following the luncheon a program of short speeches and selections from Shakespeare was given. Mrs. E. H. Lauer and Mrs. R. H. Fitzgerald were hostesses.

Former Iowa Man Wins $100 Prize in Club Contest

"Fog on the Hudson," a painting by Lynn Nelson Stacey, former University of Iowa student, has been awarded the $100 purchase prize at the Women's club exhibition in Des Moines.

Stacey spent three years here, majoring in the department of graphic and plastic arts. He has studied one year at the Cummins school of art in Des Moines, and is at present attending the National Academy of Design in New York. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Stacey of 912 40th street, Des Moines.

The contest was open only to residents of Des Moines, and the painting becomes part of the permanent exhibition of the women's club.

St. Catherine's Guild to Meet Tomorrow

Mrs. Burton P. Fleming, 629 North Dubuque street, will be hostess at a social meeting of St. Catherine's guild of the Episcopal church tomorrow at 2:30 p. m.

The committee is composed of Mrs. Fleming, Miss Elizabeth Hess, Mrs. Charles F. Ward, Mrs. Mae Anderson, Mrs. R. P. Baker, Mrs. John Cameron, Mrs. Hayes Carson, and Miss Ada Culver.

Humanist Club Meets at Union

The Humanist club met yesterday at Iowa Union at 8 p. m. The hostesses were Mrs. Elena M. Close, Madeline Doran, Mrs. Elfleda Dennis and Mrs. May Brown. Beulah Crawford assumed her duties as the social chairman at this meeting.

Prof. Hardin Craig, head of the English department, talked about "The new theory of the Renaissance."

Historical Group Entertains With Valentine Dinner

Twenty-three persons were present at an annual dinner given by the members of the Athens Historical society for their husbands at the Town and Gowen tea room last night.

Red candles and Valentine place cards decorated the tables. A three course dinner was served.

Entertainment for the after dinner hours was planned by Mrs. Franklin Potter and Mrs. Joseph Walker.

Phi Kappa Sigma

Stewart Bauch of Gladbrook was a week-end guest at the chapter house.

James Wareham, G of Creston, spent the week-end in Des Moines.

L. Pettibone of Des Moines was a week-end guest.

Former Mason City Women Broadcasts Over WHO Today

Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, internationally known lecturer and leader in women's suffrage organizations, will broadcast tonight from WEAF as part of the "Voters' Service" of the National League of Women Voters organization.

Mrs. Catt's talk will be broadcast at 6 o'clock and will come through stations WOC and WHO.

Mrs. Catt attended Iowa State college at Ames, and was at one time superintendent of schools at Mason City. She organized the Iowa Women's Suffrage association, and has been president of the International Women's Suffrage Alliance since 1904.

Pan-American Discusses Plan for Continuance

Optional Membership Agreed Upon by Assembly

HAVANA, Feb. 6 (AP)—The question whether the Pan-American conference should conclude a convention to regulate the status of the Pan-American union, or whether the union should continue to exist, as heretofore, by virtue of unanimous resolutions of the conference, came again today before the committee on Pan-American union affairs.

This question, it was supposed, had been disposed of a week ago. After two hours' discussion today it was referred to the sub-committee, which is preparing a preamble to the convention.

Charles E. Hughes, head of the American delegation, Honorio Pueyrredon, Argentina, Gustavo Guerrero, of Salvador, and Judge Urdinola, of Mexico, took part in the debate.

Any Republic Can Withdraw

One of the first acts of the committee was to agree to the motion of Dr. Pueyrredon that any republic could sever its relations with the Pan-American union at any time, but it must pay its share of the expenses for the current fiscal year.

At a previous meeting the committee had voted unanimously in favor of a convention to establish finally the objects and powers of the Pan-American union. Today, however, it was pointed out that the convention would not become effective until all of the twenty-one republic had ratified the agreement. Several speakers pointed out the likelihood of some powers refusing ratification, in which case the union would cease to exist.

Effective Upon Ratification

Senor Guerrero, of Salvador, said it was certain that at least one country would not be able to agree to the convention. He suggested that the convention stipulate that it should become effective upon ratification by a majority of the American governments.

Charles E. Hughes contended that this would be impossible, since no provision on the convention could become binding on any government without its express ratification. In view of the difficulties which confronted the application of a collective instrument, with the dangers implied in the necessity of twenty-one ratifications, he favored the Pan-American union working on the basis of unanimous resolutions adopted by Pan-American conference, as had been done thus far.

Send Body to Dubuque

Anton Thiele, 23 years old, died in a local hospital Sunday evening. The body was sent by the Harmon funeral home to Dubuque yesterday morning for burial.

Two University Professors Talk at Grinnell Today

Two University of Iowa professors will speak at the fourteenth annual fellowship conference of Congregational ministers and laymen in Grinnell this week. The sessions commence today and will last until Friday morning.

Prof. Avery E. Lambert of the college of medicine will speak today on "The Physical Basis of Christianity." Thursday afternoon Prof. Charles L. Hawley of the school of religion will address the delegates on "Teaching Religion at the State University."

The Rev. Ira J. Houston, pastor of the local Congregational church, left yesterday to attend the conference.

Teachers to Hold Joint Conference

Research Workers in Commerce to Meet March 15-17

Among the varied conferences scheduled for the year at the University of Iowa is the joint teachers' training conference and the research conference on Commercial Education, which will take place March 15, 16, and 17.

The research conference will consist of a series of research papers. Some of the reports to be made will be those on Wisconsin typewriting survey, testing typewriting and bookkeeping in Denver, eye studies in shorthand, the Iowa follow-up study of commercial students, clerical training investigation and measurement in bookkeeping.

"How to secure better training for commercial teachers" is the basis of the teachers' training conference which will be held in conjunction with the research conference. The meetings are planned as a part of the activities of the national American association of commercial training institutions, and are to be devoted to the problems of clarifying objectives, of arriving at standardized terminology and procedure, and of planning future investigations.

The programs will be held on a discussion basis and everyone engaged in commercial work of this sort is welcome to attend the meetings and contribute his ideas.

Iowa Graduate Gets Smithsonian Award

A trip to the West Indies for the purpose of studying land shells, is the reward of Paul Bartsch, a graduate of the university in 1896, who has been awarded a two years research fellowship by the Smithsonian institute, Washington, D.C.

Mr. Bartsch, who has been serving as a curator of mollusks in the National museum in Washington, received his first degree from the university in 1896, and later a master's degree, and doctor of philosophy degree.

Players Present "The Persians"

World's Second Oldest Drama to be Given at Iowa Union

The second oldest drama in the world, "The Persians," by Aeschylus will be presented by the university theatre Feb. 10 at the studio theatre in Iowa Union as a feature of the tenth classical conference.

The university theatre is the first theatre in the United States, so far as is known, to produce this play. It deals with the wars of Persia and is the only existing example of the Greek historical tragedy.

This tragedy is being directed by Vance N. Morton, associate director of the university theatre, who is attempting to produce it in such a way that it will have an appeal to the theatre goers of the present day. He is doing this by combining the parts in two translations that lead to dramatic effectiveness in production.

Aeschylus, who wrote this classic twenty-four hundred years ago, was the first dramatist of his time to use more than one character. This tragedy includes a cast of six characters and a chorus of six. The cast follows: Xerxes, King of Persia—Sydney Smith; Atossa, Mother of Xerxes—Gertrude Bowers; Ghost of Darius, father of Xerxes—Albert H. Tanswell; Messenger—William J. Loufek; Leader of Chorus—Milton Lomask; Chorus of Persian Elders—Preman Gruber, Donald Harter, Adrain Darland, George Zalesky, Charles Akre, Robert Kuhl.

Women to Meet for Open Forums

The inauguration of a woman's discussion group, an open forum for the free discussion of questions of general interest to women, was announced yesterday, and will function under the sponsorship of Sigma Delta Phi.

The first regular meeting of the group will be held in the women's lounge of the Iowa Union, Thursday, at 7:15 p. m.

The question for discussion at this meeting will be "The Double Standard of Morals." In view of the excitement caused by the coming lecture of Agnes Maude Royden, English woman prelate, it is thought the subject is timely and appropriate. The discussion will be led by Bernice Rutherford, U. of Kansas City, Mo.

The meeting is open to all women of the University.

Nurses Entertain

Graduate and student nurses in the university entertained with a Valentine dance at Youde's inn Saturday evening, Feb. 4. Strings of red hearts festooned the ceilings and doorways, adding to the Valentine decorations.

Chaperons were Dr. and Mrs. H. R. Sears, and Dr. and Mrs. A. C. Pfahl. Dr. and Mrs. H. L. Dage were special guests.

Music was furnished by George Jones' orchestra.

Two Instructors Added to Geology Staff for Summer

News of two more visiting professors who will teach at the summer school session of the university have been received by Dean George F. Kay, head of the geology department, and Edward L. Bartow, head of the chemistry department.

Dr. W. O. Blanchard, of the University of Illinois, will teach three courses in geology namely; introduction to geology, geology of North America, and geography of Europe.

Professor Henry F. Lewis, of Cornell college, who is an expert in dye intermediates, will teach elementary organic chemistry, and will direct research in organic chemistry.

Professor Lewis is a graduate of the University of Illinois and was an organic chemist in the color laboratory of the Bureau of Chemistry in Washington. He also taught in the University of Maine.

Plans Mature for Fraternity Fete

The interfraternity banquet, to be held at the Iowa Union Wednesday evening, at 6:15 p. m. is scheduled to be a complete success if ticket sales are used as a basis for judgment. According to officers in charge, a record attendance is expected.

The banquet is an annual affair sponsored by the Interfraternity council. The speaker of the evening will be Sailer Mathews, dean of theology at the University of Chicago. Dean Mathews is a lecturer, and an author, having published works in the field of religion, history, and social science.

The banquet will be in charge of Francis Mullins, U. of Minnesota, acting as chairman. Otto Bauch, U. of Des Moines will act as toastmaster. An invitation has been extended to local alumni and faculty members to attend the banquet. Tickets are on sale at Whetstones.

O'Leary Returns from Show

J. A. O'Leary of the O'Leary Auto company, 114 S. Linn street, has returned from the auto show and exposition at Chicago. Mr. O'Leary representing this district for Oakland, Pontiac and Velie, through appointments sold four eight cylinder automobiles to local persons attending the show. Deliveries will be made in ten days.

WSUI Broadcasts Boy Scout Program

Iowa City Boy Scouts will broadcast over station WSUI this noon in celebration of national anniversary week. They will be on the air from 12:45 until 1 o'clock this afternoon.

Paul R. McGuire, local scout executive, will give an introductory talk. Each of the four troops will give a short program including a miniature patrol meeting, musical selections, talk on scouting, and a group of campfire songs.

Faville Condemns International War

Justice Discloses Cost of War, Appeals to American Youth

"God save humanity from another war. Civilization could not stand another such catastrophe as the World war." With these words Justice F. F. Faville of the Iowa state supreme court launched a vigorous attack upon international conflict in his address at the natural science auditorium Sunday evening. The subject of the lecture was "Outlawry of War."

Justice Faville's address included a disclosure of the cost of war, an argument in defense of means for abolishing war, and an appeal to the younger generation of America to lead the way to international brotherhood.

The speaker expressed a faith in the destiny of the American people. "The opportunity has come to the United States," he said, "to lead the nations of the world to a newer, greater, higher, conception of civilization than it has ever before known. The young men and women of today will live to see war banished from the earth if they have the courage to lead the fight against it."

Justice Faville supported the League of Nations. As the next best thing he recommended a disarmament treaty and the world court. This nation ought to be a member of the world court, he argued.

War has been the destroying force for all the civilizations of the past, continued Justice Faville. The speaker pointed out ancient Egypt and Greece as examples of civilizations thus destroyed.

Senate Committee Raps Trade Board

Condemns Dismissal of "Bread Trust" Monopoly

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6 (AP)—Majority and minority reports condemning and denouncing the department of justice and the Federal Trade commission for dismissal of the anti-trust case against the continental banking corporation were filed today with the senate judiciary committee by a sub-committee which conducted an investigation at the last session of congress.

Sensors Walsh, democrat, Montana, and Borah, republican, Idaho, sponsored the majority report, while Senator Deneen, republican, Illinois, the third member of the sub-committee considered the reports for nearly two hours and then deferred action until next Monday.

The complaint against the continental corporation, brought under the Clayton Act, was dismissed at the time of the entry of the consent decree in the federal district court at Baltimore April 3, 1926, under which the Ward Food Products corporation, of which the Continental was a subsidiary, agreed to dissolve within a few weeks after it was organized and came under senate attack as a "bread trust."

At the same time, the department of justice dismissed a dissolution suit which it had brought against the Continental at Baltimore and the majority report charges that the action of both branches of the government was pursuant to an agreement by which the ward corporation entered into the consent decree.

In a resolution prepared to accompany the majority report, Senator Walsh, of Montana, would have the senate declare that the action of the two arms of the government "merits public reprehension and constitutes a dereliction of duty."

In his minority report, Senator Deneen declared that the consent decree "was an effective check on the 'mania for combination'."

The chaperons' club will meet for luncheon today at 12:30 o'clock at Youde's inn. The hostesses are: Mrs. Lillian Sharp, of Sigma Kappa; Mrs. Laura Lewis, of Pi Beta Phi; and Mrs. Maye Stump, of Delta Gamma.

Helene Blattner Fails to Present Specified Reading

Helene Blattner, associate professor in the department of speech, was unable to give her reading of Slean O'Casey's, "Junio and the Paycock," at the Iowa Union Sunday because of a severe cold. Miss Blattner made an attempt to give the reading to the audience of 1,000 persons, but was forced to postpone it until a later date.

It was announced that the next recital will be a reading of Herman Heipermanns' "The Good Hope," by Mrs. Alice Macleod Mills in the senate chamber of Old Capitol, Feb. 16.

World Exhibition to Receive Iowan

An exhibit representing practically all types of college Journalism will soon be sent by Prof. Frederick J. Lazell of the school of journalism to New York city, from where it will be taken to the Cologne Press Conference, Cologne, Germany, this summer.

The selection was made at the journalism convention which met in Iowa City during the Christmas vacation. Professor Lazell, president of the national association last year, appointed the committee which chose the material for the exhibit. Among other examples of college journalism will be copies of The Daily Iowan and The Daily Illini, the student publication of the University of Illinois.

The Cologne conference will be held from May 11th to 15th. There will be exhibits there of everything related to the printing industry. College journalism is one of the sections to be represented.

There will be new buildings, especially built for the conference, on the Rhine river opposite the Cologne cathedral. Landscaping and buildings will be made on a plan similar to that used in preparation for the World's Fair.

Cafeteria Luncheon at Baptist Church
Wednesday, Feb. 8, 11 to 1

Alumni Will Meet on Anniversary

WSUI to Broadcast Program of Iowa Night Dinner

Eight alumni groups are planning to meet for dinner and listen to the program broadcast over WSUI National Iowa Night, Feb. 20, according to letters received by Frederic G. Higbee, chairman of the committee.

The most distant group to observe the founding of the university is the one in Los Angeles, presided over by Carl Stutsman. A meeting in New York city will be presided over by William F. Brush; one in Cincinnati by Donald Patterson; and one in Philadelphia by Dr. Radasch.

The alumni club in Boone will meet with L. R. Johnson in charge; and the club in Mason City with Earle Hall presiding. There will also be a meeting in Albia, under the direction of S. M. Edwards, and one in Adel, under the direction of Blake Willis.

This National Iowa Night is the second one to be observed and also marks the eighty-first anniversary of the founding of the university, Feb. 25, 1849.

The program, beginning at 6:15 and continuing to 9:30, will consist of music, talks, an account of the Wisconsin-Iowa basketball game.

WHAT CHICAGO THINKS OF ITS CURRENT PICTURE HIT

Al Jolson

—in—

"The Jazz Singer"

Starting a Simultaneous Run at the Strand Here Today

Al Jolson's magic makes "The Jazz Singer" brilliantly effective entertainment. . . . Aside from its value in transferring a famous play to a new field "The Jazz Singer" has a world of emotional appeal. . . . It fulfills the old formula of the showman, "makes 'em laugh, makes 'em cry, makes 'em wait."—Genevieve Harris in The Post.

Jolson's picture is serious and fine. . . . it is gripping, tender and religious. There is, of course, but one Jolson, and he made the boy who ran away from his orthodox father's home to become a cabaret singer a very real young man. . . . aside from the wonderful Jolson there are other fine actors in the cast. Warner Oland gives a notable characterization. . . . Eugene Bessner appears in one of her inimitable mother portrayals. . . . May McAvoy is charming as always. The Garrick was crowded last night. It is likely to be throughout the engagement with two performances daily.—The Chicago News

Jolson's magic is magic still. . . . rare personality shines out of silver sheet. The picture has been cannily directed and "Singer" is a winner.—If I know a winner when I see one.—Mae Tinee in The Tribune.

Film raises stage king to new heights. . . . what he lacks in motion picture technique he makes up in touching sincerity. I have been told that he is as proud as a child over this achievement—although certainly success is no new experience to the highest-paid and most admired entertainer in the world, Carol Frink in Herald and Examiner.

The cameras brought the incomparable charm that is Jolson's into the theatre. There is no reason why the Garrick shouldn't be reserving seats now for the film's performance in March. For "The Jazz Singer" is going to be with us a long time.—Arthur Sheekman in the Daily Journal.

Al Jolson has achieved triumphs galore, but never one which compares, in the opinion of this column, with his success in the film version of "The Jazz Singer." It is another "Humoresque," and yet much greater for its mother love theme and the conflict between filial duty and ambition will appeal to all races—instead of just one—Rob Reel in Evening American.

Quality or Quantity

THE modern college or university is torn between two masters—an impressive enrollment figure and a sincere desire to educate its students thoroughly. In the last decade the size of higher educational institutions has doubled and redoubled. Going to college has become an accepted step in the routine of life.

Now, however, the trend is toward greater selectivity among students. The greatest step which has been taken in this respect was announced Saturday by the University of Wisconsin. Twelve hundred of the 2,900 members of the freshman class were told that they need not return next fall. The "child" enrollment has been culled "because of their inability to climb the academic level required at an institution of higher learning."

The action is a sensible one, and other schools could profit by a similar drastic cut.
In former years a college carefully hid the fact that it forbade a sizable group of students from re-entering at the beginning of the second semester; now such a discharge is received by the public as inevitable.

The same idea is entering specific courses.
On this page is printed a letter from Prof.
Stephen H. Bush and Prof. Ralph House of the department of Romance languages, which decries the fact that many students register for Spanish in the belief that it will be a "pipe" course. The professors point out that only 72 per cent of the freshman Spanish classes received passing grades.

It is encouraging that educators are willing to admit—and that the public accepts the statement—that too many persons are receiving knowledge which will not benefit them. In the case of the Spanish classes, many of the students might better take French or German. In the case of college education as a whole, many persons might better stay on the farm or behind the grocery counter.

Scowflaw America

"AMERICANS are the most lawless people on the face of the earth," says Prof. William E. Dodd of Chicago university. And no one can honestly gainsay the truth of the professor's condemnation.
Americans are lawless. Hundreds of laws on the statute books of every state are violated daily. Almost every state has a code of blue laws. They are enforced only in localities where a righteous majority of the body politic demands it.

The most notable example of the day is the eighteenth amendment and the Volstead act. Violation of the prohibition laws is so common that enforcement officers have all but abandoned their task in despair. Many of the younger violators drink simply for the thrill of transgressing the law.

The trouble lies not with the people but with the laws. Americans are inherently, no more refractory than the citizens of any other state.

The American citizenry is, however, oppressed with an undue sense of importance.
It has not yet recovered from the intoxicating effect of universal suffrage. American legislators believe that the extent to which they fulfill their duty to the people is in direct proportion to the number of laws they pass. And our legislators are nothing if not dutiful.

The result is a multiplicity of laws of doubtful quality. More time is spent in debate and roll calls than in intelligent investigation of proposed legislation. Our laws are passed before the majority of people want them—before they are ready for them. And laws cannot be enforced unless they bear the approval of public opinion.
Nor can we blame the legislators. Those senators and representatives who sponsor the most laws and participate oftenest in debate receive the most publicity. When they run for reelection they point to their legislative activity as an evidence of merit.

The more conservative legislators—those with intelligence enough to examine proposals before lending their support—have no record upon which to base their campaign. And the public reelects the man who has "done big things."

The culpability for lawlessness comes back directly to the electorate. We shall have a minimum of intelligent law-making until we have a maximum of intelligent voting. And until we have intelligent law-making we shall have lawlessness. It is a thought to bear in mind when considering the aspirants for office at the next election.

A New Schedule

THE problem of second semester pledging has been brought to the attention of the readers of this paper. It has brought forth comment, both favorable and dis-favorable. We wish to present to the critical a plan whereby this method of selection might be seen to bring about a decidedly better condition for fraternity rushing.

In the first place we believe that there are too many new students on this campus who do not have the chance or advantages of seeing the right side of fraternity life before they are pledged. For this reason we advocate the immediate adoption of this plan. By taking this course of action it will clear from the ranks of the "desirable" a number of men who have had no chance to become acquainted with a Greek letter organization.

A remark that is made often by fraternity men will bear out this statement. "Oh well, we can pick up some good boys along about the middle of the semester. There are plenty of good ones in school." This merely means that unless entrance has been at the first of the year, there is not a great deal of chance of a really good man "making" a fraternity.

The new plan takes in these considerations:

1. Elimination of "rush week" at the beginning of the next semester.
2. Make the entire semester a period of observation with severe penalties inflicted on those organizations which pledge men out of season.
3. A period of four days between semesters during which any man may be bid and pledged. It is understood that no bids are to be offered until this period starts.

This program is not to be considered perfect, but it does present food for thought which should bring opinions. It is THE DAILY IOWAN's hope that this need may be well considered one of the things of prime importance.

Seeking the Air

DAVENPORT is after the Iowa City transcontinental airport. It has no hesitancy in saying so.

This is not the first time that a larger city has attempted to take the contract away from Iowa City. Cedar Rapids, which was after the port in great earnestness, was refused only last week. Mason City and Waterloo have both been turned down by the company having the airmail contract.

If Davenport fails in its attempt to secure it, there need be little fear that the port will be moved from this city.

The Iowa City station is the most modernly equipped airport in the state. Its hangar, beacon lights, and repair equipment are the best. In addition a fleet of passenger planes is to be installed here in the spring. This will make Iowa City the flying headquarters of the state.

Smith field is the logical transcontinental airport in the Chicago-Omaha airmail jump. With its facilities for handling all plane emergencies and the railroad connections which bring the mail to Iowa City in as short a time as possible, there is no reason for moving the station to another Iowa city.

And You, Too, Porto Rico?

(From The Milwaukee Journal)
Of all the places that Lindbergh is visiting, Porto Rico is the last from which one would expect an appeal for freedom. For the reins on Porto Rico are held loosely. Its people have been granted the franchise and the island is represented in the United States congress by a resident commissioner. Yet Porto Rico, of all the places visited by Colonel Lindbergh, is the only one to send an official message to the American people asking for freedom. "Grant us the freedom that you enjoy, for which you struggled and which you worship; which we deserve and you have promised us," they plead.

There is no rancor in Porto Rico's words "to the land of the brave and free." No doubt most Porto Ricans would be satisfied if the island were permitted to become the forty-ninth star in Old Glory. They want to be allowed to elect their governor, instead of having him come to them by appointment of our presidents, and to have in other respects the rights of a state. When one recalls some of the political henchmen who have been rewarded for their party endeavors with this appointment to the governorship, one can sympathize with the aspirations of the Porto Ricans.

But the significance of the moment in this message is the revelation of how peoples everywhere cling to the ideal of freedom. Our hard boiled imperialists argue that backward countries ought to be tickled pink to have this wealthy nation manage their affairs for them. Don't we give them business and good roads and more clothes upon their backs than they ever had before? If they do as we say, won't they get to be like us—so well off that the greatest worry of our women is to hold down their weight, and of our men, to hold down their blood pressure? If any country ought to be grateful it is Porto Rico; and Porto Rico does express its gratitude. Yet it talks about "freedom."

Strange thing, this desire in the hearts of men, whatever the color of their skins, to have what they conceive to be independence. It doesn't seem to have changed a bit through all the years since Washington's ragged men left the bloody print of their bare feet in the snows of Valley Forge.

Fairy Tale

"Student Council Starts Drive For Cleaner Elections."

—News Item

Otto—C'mon, Lee; jump in!
Lee—Where we going?
Max—We're driving to Cleaner
Elections.
Lee—Where's that?
Roy—Oh, we don't know. But come on, anyhow.
Lee—Has anybody driven there before?
Otto—Oh, we've all started that way time and again.
Lee—Couldn't you make it?
Otto—Well, yes and no. Once we got lost. Another time somebody threw a ballot box at us and we got scared.
Lee—What did a ballot box have to do with it?
Roy—Why, don't YOU know?
Lee—Of course not!
Roy—Why, the ballot box . . .
Max—Yes, sure, the ballot box . . .
Otto—You see, the ballot box . . .
Chorus—Yes, yes; it was all the fault of the ballot box. It got in our way.
Lee—And so you couldn't find your way to Cleaner Elections?
Otto—That's it, exactly. You see the ballot box scared us so we got turned around and took the wrong road.
Lee—O-h-h-h-h.

Lee, (after pause)—But I say,
are you most ballot boxes stuffed?
Max—Well, yes and no. But this particular ballot box was very much alive.

Lee—Of course. What did it do, make faces at you?
Otto—Oh, terrible! It even stuck out its tongue at us!

Lee—You poor boys! I'm sorry.
If there's anything I can do . . .
Roy—You're brave and strong. If you come along with us, you can protect us from the wicked ballot boxes.

Lee—Oh, are there more than one?
Roy—Yes, there's a whole family of them. One might say a tribe.

Lee—How do the poor creatures live?
Max—Why, they live off of ballots.
You see, they spy some nice clean ballots out for a stroll and they ambush them and eat them alive.

Lee—I see.
Roy—(expansively)—But the ballot boxes would starve if they kept to a steady diet of nice ballots. So what do they do but go hunting for the nice ballots' third cousins—the naughty ballots. And the ballot boxes eat them, too. Usually they eat more than they do nice ballots.

Lee—Isn't that odd?
Chorus—Ain't it, though! !
Lee, (after reflection)—Where do these wicked ballot boxes live?
Otto—Just this side of Cleaner
Elections.

Lee—And if there weren't any ballot boxes, am I to understand we could "drive" to Cleaner Elections without any trouble?

Roy—Right!
Lee—Then let's start out and exterminate them!

Max—By Jove! Brilliant idea!
Roy—I'll get my typewriter.
Max—I'll get my tin sword.
Otto—I'll get my bean-blower!

Lee—And I . . . I will get MY pop-gun.
Chorus: Bravo! Bravo! Down with the ballot boxes! Long live student council!

(So, dear children, the four brave and fearless knights each armed himself after his own fashion and, straddling a collegiate flivver, rode forth to make war on the ballot boxes. After many years they arrived near the Land of Cleaner Elections and at once sought out the ballot box family whom they found gnawing on the bones of a few old and decrepit ballots.)

Otto, (brandishing his tin sword)
—Ho, guard of the royal council, Charge!

Chief Ballot Box—What do you want?
Lee—We've come to exterminate you.

Chief—What's that? Again?
Why do you only here a few months ago?

Lee—Yes, yes; we know. But we're going to kill you for good this time.

Chief—Aw, have a heart! We ain't done nothing wrong.

Lee—You're in the way of Cleaner
Elections.

Chief—We won't eat you up. Go ahead to your Cleaner Elections.
Only forget us in peace.

Lee—Nothing doing. We're going to clean out this den of iniquity once and for all. We mean it this time.

Chief—Didn't you mean it before?
Chorus: Yes, of course. But we got tired.

Chief—(turning to all the little ballot boxes)—Hear that? Ha, ha.
They got tired. Now they're going to exterminate us. Ha, ha!

Lee, (astounded)—Why, what are you laughing at?
Chief—All of you!

Chorus: This is abominable! Down with the ballot boxes! !
Lee—Don't you see?

Chief—We never see anything.
Chief—Of course, of course! I quite forgot. Well, it's this way. If you kill off our poor ballot boxes, how can you hold an election—clean or otherwise?

Chorus—Hear, hear!
(So the four brave and fearless knights withdrew into privy council, and for many hours pondered the question. Undenably, they admitted, no ballot boxes, no elections—and what would student council be able to do without elections for something or other? Ah, children, it was a serious matter—but always broadminded they finally admitted the truth of the wise Chief and scraped their feet and made their bows and flattered off to other lands and other adventures. And the Chief Ballot Box and all the tribe of little ballot boxes lived happily ever after. Nish bebb; ett opp

Spanish as a "Snap" Course

To the Editor—I wish that we could explode
a campus legend, an ancient tradition at Iowa going back more than five years. Students who think themselves wise sent freshmen trooping to first year Spanish as a snap course that will take them in triumph through the foreign language requirement.

I find that 72 per cent of the students in this class last semester got credit for the course. The number of D's was formidable.

Students often gravely announce to us, "I cannot get foreign language." Perhaps they would not be so ready to admit this damaging fact if they knew that foreign language grades correspond surprisingly to all known intellectual tests. No subject comes so close.

When students take a course in order to get by and merely to achieve a letter after their names in the registrar's office, they commit an educational crime. Their attitude in the classroom goes a long way to spoil the class for other students. Even their chances of getting by are not good.

Such students are only a nuisance and the Romance language department prays to be delivered from them all. We hold up a high standard and we do our best thereby to eliminate the unfit. These students are only parasites, doing themselves no good and costing their parents and the state no end of harm.

The foreign language requirement is almost universal in American universities for good educational reasons: Languages do not demand any particular knack or special powers. They require only some intelligence and sustained work—that which nothing is so irksome to many. They are a necessity to highly educated men in all lines of thought. Spanish is important in view of its magnificent literature and our extensive interests in Spanish-speaking countries. From the standpoint of scholarly research alone all students should be warned that German and French are the two important languages of today, and anyone with serious intellectual interests cannot easily escape them.

The Romance languages department is seriously troubled by the presence in its classes of numerous frivolous students badly advised and convinced that foreign languages are only something to escape from as soon as possible by the easiest possible road.

Perhaps if it is understood how many fail to escape at all, some of these students may go elsewhere to more merciful instructors, if any there be, or at least attack their work in a different spirit.

Very sincerely yours,
PROF. R. E. HOUSE,
PROF. S. H. BUSH.

Selfish Motherhood

November Night, by an anonymous author. Indianapolis; Bobbs-Merill. 1928. 325 pages. $2.50.

Emancipation of women brings with it problems about the respective rights that fathers and mothers have for their children.

When Denise Vynor decided to have a child, she did so with the determination that it would be her own exclusive possession, an individual creation motivated by her own desire, and not by a herd concept or a herd need.

To provide for herself and her mother, Denise married a self-made materialistic business man, after her fiancé had been killed in the war, but she was more concerned with the preservation of her individuality than she was with the affairs of her husband.

Our Racial Duty
A child, she thought, would bring a purpose into her life. Denise saw motherhood as a selfish state, and the story of "November Night" is the story of her battle against a society and a family that claimed a right to an interest in her child.

If you could speak of your children as shared possessions—could see the paternal claim as equal as your own, didn't that imply that you were bound down to the physical plane? Denise was haunted by the fear that her child would in some way belong to Horace, that he would establish a claim to it, and she wondered "—just what kind of difference he expected a child to make to him?"

Horace who knew nothing of values that money could not buy, who blundered helplessly against Denise's walls of reserve, who dared to confide in Denise's garrulous, sentimental, tiresome mother, that he hoped the child would be a son and that he could some day turn over his business to it!

Denise, determined on a final step which she felt would secure the child from the father, announced that she would have it baptized in the Roman Catholic church.

The Constant Flame

By WINIFRED VAN DUZER

In the mirror Kitty saw the big car halted—the driver was leaning out, watching.

WHAT HAS HAPPENED SO FAR

Emily Day and her lively sister Kitten are daughters of a worker at the Rossiter factory. Both are prevented by poverty from mingling with the socially select of the little town. Emily has made an ideal of Kent Rossiter, Marty Nolan, whose father keeps a "speakeasy" is devoted to her and she is astonished at his popularity with the rich girls who snub her. Mrs. Frances Halden, a wealthy interior decorator, gives Emily a job and tells her the only aristocracy is that of work. Emily grows jealous of Marilee Grainger, supposed to be engaged to Kent, but he follows Emily into a moonlit garden, after a party, kissing her and calls her beautiful. He leaves town to study law but remains a vivid memory to Emily. Marty tells her he too is to become a lawyer. Emily's father dies and Frances Halden introduces her to Kingdon Coles, a dramatic critic who is greatly taken with her. Emily sees Stella Brent, daughter of a neighbor and Skeets Bradley, a reckless youth of wealthy parents, drinking liquor on the sly. Meanwhile Emily finds her hands full with Kitten. Stella confesses that she is in love with Skeets. She and Stella see Marty kissing Avis Rossiter and hear him tell her he wouldn't marry her in a million years.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XVI

It was late afternoon and three little girls were rushing along Main Street. Skirts flying, high heels clacking, bare heads jerking with every dancing step. One head covered with tight black ringlets much as Stella Brent's had been once; a brown one clipped short like a boy's. A head with hair like curling flame. People stared at this one—turned and stared again. Little, rounded face, all mischief; long, yellow eyes under long, dark lashes. Pale green dress short, so very short; wide, thin sleeves floating behind gracefully, strikingly, in the breeze of hurry.

Innocence, an air of daring like a challenge about the small figure. And with it all a rare beauty drawing as a magnet.

Kathryn Day, called Kitten by those who loved her and thought long, anxious thoughts about her. Dottie Brent and the forbidden Flossie Gaines.

Three girl-kids going out to meet adventure, seeking it in unlikely places, all a-quiver with eagerness. Three youngsters who considered life a bright thing to be tossed back and forth from one hand to the next.

"Look, Floss, the shiek in the big car. Oh, he's smiling. What d'you s'pose he's doing out all by himself?" "It's the Norris car—you know, that's their place up on South Mountain. Tea bathrooms, I heard . . . Probably he's a relative."

"Well, he's looking back—"

Giggles. Heads tossing, the black, the brown, the red. Three slender figures pausing before a window, pecking out among the reflections there that of the big car. It was turning in the middle of the street, loitering along the curb. The "shiek" was leaning out, watching them intently.

"Well, for goodness' sake—" "Oh, shut up, Kitten. It was you gave him the joyful eye."

"Kitten drew herself up stiffly and turned a cold look upon the others. It was a scathing burlesque of dignity. "I'll thank you to remember I'm not that kind of a girl, if you'll please be so kind."

"Ho, any ole time! You hear that, Floss? Not that kind of a girl, oh, no! Little white sister, Kitten is, I guess maybe. Ho!"

The two put their arms around each other and screeched with laughter. People stared.

Kitten picked up the vanity case which dangled from her wrist, snapped it open with a grand duchess manner, ran a wafer of lamb's wool over her pert nose. In the mirror she saw the big car halted; the driver still leaning out, watching.

"Well, come on if you're coming," she said.

They went into the ice-cream shop and found a table at the back where they ordered "Dream of Love" sandwiches.

The boy who took their order bent over the table with a knowing leer. "Youse gals say sandwiches? 'Cause they're other kinds of them dreams and I'm the lad knows 'em all."

"Want to drop in?" he asked, watching her face.

Shrieks of "Oh, let's!" from the back seat and doors being torn open. Kitten looked at the Inn, felt a little thrill of longing, another of caution. The last was stronger.

"How about it, Red-head?" "Not today, Mr. Norris."

"Say, it ain't Norris; it's Lanier and the handle's Ted. Going to remember that till tomorrow when I see you again?"

"Who says so?" "Your new boy-friend, Reddy."

"Any ole time—" "But she did promise to meet him. Not the next day but the one after,

she said, when the other girls had gone and they were saying good-night a block away from home. (To be continued tomorrow)

Copyright 1917 King Features Syndicate, Inc.

Skeets Bradley played 'em young or not so young; it mattered little to him as long as there was variety.

Now there might have been high words and a scene had not Kitten interrupted quickly.

They faced about the three heads, the black, the brown, the red, drew together. The "shiek" was coming into the front of the store; he was pausing at the counter sending a questioning look around.

"Well, of all the nerve—" "Gosh, he's a good looking. I like 'em dark and thin. S'pose he's a Norris? Class, I guess!"

Kitten, who said nothing, was the one his glance picked out. He half smiled, snatched off his cap and came forward with a show of diffidence.

"Haven't I met you somewhere?" he asked softly, eyes on the flaming hair. "Seems I remember that mow."

Red splashed the other girl's face and went creeping up under the short hair. Not so many months ago it was before her door the lemon-colored roadster stopped after dusk—always after dusk—and it was to her the horn bared its message.

Kansas City Bans Jury Card Games

KANSAS CITY, Feb. 6 (AP)—Justice no longer will hinge on the turn of a card here nor will jurors while away their time dealing the pasteboards.

Signs have been posted in the jury rooms in the county court house, warning against card playing and bailiffs are enforcing the order.

For forty years it had been the custom of jurors locked up for deliberation to take time out for a sociable game of cards, court attaches say.

The ban was put on, however, when it was learned that some verdicts were the result of card playing. In one recent case, according to court officials, the jury was divided six to six on the sentence of a man charged with burglary. The opposing sides chose a representative and these two jurors played casino, the difference in their scores being accepted as the prison sentence recommended for the defendant.

Re-discovers His Favorite Tobacco

Charleston, W. Va., March 4, 1927

Larus & Bro. Co., Richmond, Va.

Gentlemen:

Recently I stopped in a little village that consisted of about nine houses and a small hotel, which I entered. A little old man wearing a skull cap was seated in a rocking-chair smoking an enormous pipe. I had come to buy a can of Edgeworth, but when I caught a whiff of the tobacco he was smoking I changed my mind. The aroma of that tobacco was so delightful that I made up my mind right then and there that I wanted some of the same brand, regardless of the cost.

I began with: "I beg your pardon, sir, but I came in to buy a can of tobacco, and I would like the same brand you are smoking if you don't mind telling me." He looked at me for a moment, grasped his pipe with one hand and said: "I'm smoking Edgeworth. Would you like some?"

Of course I did, and I secured a supply from the old fellow. The joke, of course, was on me, but I went on my way rejoicing.

Yours very truly,
Dr. John R. Koch

'Double Barreled' Names Rouse Ire of London Editors

LONDON, Feb. 6 (AP)—Double barreled names are not so popular as in days of old.

Newspaper editorial writers, in defense of the "sub-editors," as head writers are called here, have opened an offensive against them, especially those whose names appear frequently in front print. Such historic names as Pitt, Penn and Peel, are recalled as being ideals for newspaper head lines.

There are five ministers of the front rank with hyphenated names. These names, it is pointed out, become still more awkward when their possessors have titles which necessitate addition of a first name to their description.

Of the politicians with double barreled names Sir Phillip Cunliffe-Lister, president of the board of trade, stands first, which the writers consider a handicap. He was born with one hyphen and inherited another.

Copyright 1917 King Features Syndicate, Inc.

Formerly he was entitled Sir Phillip Lloyd-Greame.

The four other ministers are Right Hon. Sir William Joynson-Hicks, home secretary; Right Hon. Sir Arthur Herbert Drummond Ramsay Steel-Maitland, minister of labor; Right Hon. Sir Laming Worthington-Evans, secretary of war; and Right Hon. Sir William Mitchell-Thomson, postmaster general.

The home secretary was at one time William Hicks, solicitor, and he married Miss Grace Lynn Joynson, "who brought him not only a charming personality but a considerable fortune," the Daily Mail recalls.

Fort Dodge Man Secures First in All-Prize Event

Crescent Biscuit Five Leaders in Team Competition

Ed Kehm, of Fort Dodge, took the all-event prizes in the fourteenth annual bowling tournament, which officially came to an end yesterday. Kehm leaves Iowa City exactly $67.50 richer. His total score of 1,846 enabled him to beat his closest competitor, Vinnal of Davenport, who took $60 in prizes. Vinnal won the singles and was a member of the Crescent's Biscuit company team which carried off the honors in the five man team title match.

E. McFarlane, of Waterloo, was runner up to Kehm in the all-event contest with a score of 1,842. Daniels, of Des Moines, was third. McFarlane also set a new alley record in a doubles match Sunday with a mark of 279. This was the highest score run up on the Dee alleys.

Gus Petersen and Paul Haas, of Burlington, are the champions of the doubles. With a score of 1,233 they managed to keep their title clear through the tournament.

The five-man title was captured by the Crescent Biscuit team, of Davenport, which had 3,062 pins to its credit. A prize of $100 goes to this team, while the Pfaff Baking company team, of Fort Dodge, took second prize with a score of 2,814 pins. Second place money is $85.

George Vinnal, of Davenport, also won the singles with a score of 662. He led Ed Kehm, of Fort Dodge, his nearest competitor, by six points.

Thursday
7:00—Phi Beta Delta vs. Delta Tau Delta.
7:40—Phi Delta Theta vs. Alpha Sigma Phi.
8:20—Chi Kappa Pi vs. Acacia.

Two games will be played in the quadrangle tournament this week. Tonight the heavyweights of section B will play those of section D at 9 o'clock. Wednesday the lightweight of section B will play those of section D at the same time.

Cuhel's Effort of Saturday Fails to Tie World's Record

Coach Bresnahan to Hold Time Trials in Half-Mile

After a check-up had been made of "Bab" Cuhel's time trial in the 70-yard high hurdles, it was found that he had not tied the record as it was first believed. Although the Old Gold skipper did break the tape in 9 seconds, time which equals that made by George Guthrie of the Illinois A.C. at the senior track meet in New York last winter, he was two-fifths of a second short of the recognized record.

Even though Cuhel had tied the record, his effort would have been classed as unofficial, due to the fact that he was timed by but one watch. Records of races less than a hundred yards in length are seldom known as world's records. However, they are tabulated as outstanding performances.

Cuhel's work in the high sticks last Saturday makes him the logical winner of the event in the conference indoor meet to be held here in March. It is probable that he will be entered in the two hurdle races and the dash, in addition to running anchor on the mile relay team.

Coach George T. Bresnahan's tracksters were handicapped last night by the fact that the erection of bleacher seats interfered with their workouts. Time trials will be held some time for the first part of the week to determine the personnel of the two mile relay team which will compete at the Illinois A.C. meet Saturday. Moulton, Wilmoth, Gunn, and McCammon appear to be the best of the group, although Wagner, Coffie, Elliot and Speers must be reckoned within the final selection.

Among the weight-men, Charles Forward is tossing the shot the farthest, closely followed by E. W. Nelson, V. W. Lapp, V. L. Schleusner, R. E. Roberts, and G. E. Lashbrook. Only one freshman is reporting to Coach Henry Daine. Ralph Haynes of Chicago is the sole representative of the neophytes.

Little Hawkeyes to Meet Tigers

Red and White Mould New Offense for Cedar Rapids

The Iowa City high school hoopsters will present a new mode of attack when they tangle with Washington high of Cedar Rapids in their last home conference game Friday night. Coach Walter S. Knox has been working on the new offensive style in an effort to outwit the Tigers' man-for-man defense which proved so effective in the first meeting of the two fives.

In the early part of the practice session yesterday Coach Knox drilled the team in the rudiments of their new method of attack and then gave his proteges an opportunity to show their worth against a team composed of seniors.

Hold Scrimmage
Although the scrimmage was of short duration, the Little Hawkeys demonstrated the effectiveness of their new weapon and showed their opponents under with a barrage of counters.

While Coach Knox was pleased with the way the plays were functioning, he bemoaned the fact that the shooting of the team was not up to par. At times the Red and White centers did not follow in their long shots and gave the opposition too much leeway to recover the ball. On the short set-ups under the basket there was a noticeable improvement but this did not satisfy the mentor.

Although the Iowa City offense was not up to standard the defensive play of the locals was gratifying, and few opportunities to score were given the seniors. During the session they scored only one field goal.

Teams Rate Low
The Friday night tangle with the famous Washington Tigers promises to be one of the most bitterly contested battles seen on the local court this season as both teams are low in the league standing and are anxious to raise their ratings. On the basis of the Dubuque win over the side golfer of San Antonio, stole a lap on the Texas open golf field here today and moved into first place at the halfway mark with an aggregate of 144 for the first 36 holes of the 72 hole tournament. Harry Cooper, Buffalo, was one stroke behind Lally.

Lone Star Golfer Wins First Round

WILLOW SPRINGS GOLF CLUB, San Antonio, Tex., Feb. 6 (AP)—Tom Lally, a reformed pro-

The Texan improved his 73 of yesterday, which had put him in second place behind Ed Dudley of Hollywood, by shooting even last today. Lally, as a boy in Boston, was a left-handed golfer, but he learned to play from the right side years ago and became a pro.

Cooper shot the best score of the day, a sparkling 70. He went into second place with an aggregate of 145. Bobby Cruickshank of Purchase, N.Y., and Horton Smith of Joplin, Mo., were tied for third and fourth with 149 strokes each. Tommy Armour of Washington, and Bill Melhorn of Pittsburgh, had 150's to tie for fifth and sixth.

Ed Dudley, whose 72 yesterday led the field, had rough going today. Finding roads, ditches and creeks, he went eight strokes over perfect figures. This gave him 151 strokes and placed him seventh.

Sixty-five players qualified for tomorrow's final 36 holes. None of the favorites were eliminated.

Golfers to Start Workouts in New Cage for Sport

Kennett Invites Men, Women to Attend Night School

No longer are University of Iowa students forced to wait until spring to start their golf practice. On Jan. 30 the varsity and freshmen candidates reported for the initial practice in the new golf school.

This new cage at the field house affords all the opportunities of the outdoors links. In the school are places for driving, iron shots, approach, putting, and pitching. In fact every shot in the game of golf may be performed within the cage.

Expects More Men
Varsity and freshmen are working out from 4 to 6 p.m. on Monday to Friday. A very favorable number of men has answered the call for practice, and Coach Kennett expects a bigger and better year than ever before. The squad, totalling over forty, is eager to get going and is jubilant about the coming season.

Evenings after 7 o'clock the new "gold links" is open to the students, faculty, and others who are interested. Private lessons may also be arranged by calling Coach Kennett. The lessons will be given after 7 o'clock and women as well as men are urged to take advantage of this opportunity. Those wishing to enroll for the course should do so as soon as possible as the schedule will soon be filled up.

The following varsity men will continue to use the practice school until they take up work on Pinkbine field which will be as soon as weather permits.

Varsity Candidates
E. L. Schott, A2 of Cincinnati; R. H. Blackledge, A2 of Keosauqua; H. L. Beman, C3 of Glenwood; R. M. Macy, A2 of Adel; H. E. Boyesen, A2 of Harlan; E. A. McCardell, A2 of West Liberty; R. Miller, A3 of Iowa City; Sherman Brose, L1 of Mason City; D. A. Jackson, A2 of Council Bluffs; E. M. Nelson, A2 of Sioux City; H. E. Dahlberg, C3 of Des Moines; E. E. Beman, C4 of Keosauqua; F. Kurtz, C3 of Des Moines; R. L. Rieckhoff, A2 of Orange City, and P. G. Weaver, A2 of Sioux City.

The members of the freshman squad are as follows: H. J. Adams, W. P. Ellwood, R. D. Reynolds, J. J. Vosmek, and F. R. Simpson, Cedar Rapids; M. M. Stewart, Iowa City; R. J. Fisher, Knoxville; M. R. Wetterspen, Bridgeport; S. D. R. H. Nies, Charles City; E. L. Carmody, Davenport; S. H. Nichols, La Grange, Ill.; F. E. Barber, Sioux City, and S. Bowen, Muscatine.

Tunney's Opponent?

This is the latest picture of Jack Skien, who since the voluntary withdrawal of Jack Dempsey, is considered as the best of the challengers for Gene Tunney's crown. Tunney's next opponent is to be selected by an elimination series of bouts with Delaney, Uzundun, Heeney, and others as the contestants.

Yale Coach to Help Select Successor

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Feb. 6 (AP)—Thomas A. D. Jones, Yale's football coach who retired with the close of the 1927 season, will still have his guiding hand on the game. His selection as chairman of the newly appointed graduate advisory committee on football for 1928 was made known by the Yale athletic association tonight.

The new committee will nominate a head coach for football for 1928.

Lindsay Ineligible

URBANA, Ill., Feb. 6 (AP)—Coach Craig Ruby of the University of Illinois lost his third basketball star within a week today when Frosty Lindsay, towering center, was ruled ineligible for further competition because of scholastic shortcomings. Coach Ruby also lost Captain Olson and Short, veteran members of the team via the same route.

U. High Battles Marion Tonight

Junior Quintet Meets Iowa City Five in Curtain Raiser

Following the thrilling battle with the "fighting" Irish last week, Jack Skien's basketballers have eased up a bit in preparation for the game with Marion high school five which is billed to begin at 8 o'clock tonight in the U High gym. The junior high team will tangle with the Iowa City junior high boys at 7 o'clock as a preliminary attraction.

As a bit of history, it will be remembered that the Blue and White juniors won the city championship last year, playing teams from the other three high schools.

Considerable effort is being made by supporters of the Irish and U High basketball teams to bring the two quintets together for a third game, preferably on the field house floor where a larger crowd could be accommodated.

Although Coach Skien does not anticipate having his basketball shooters walloped by the Marion crew, he does expect the invaders to put up a stiff battle and believes his men will be forced to put everything they have into the game in order to win, regardless of the fact that U High trimmed Marion earlier in the season 29-18.

Advisory Committee Announces Three Grid Changes for 1928

Coaches Believe 1927 Greatest of All Grid Seasons

New Rules Deal With Fumbling of Punts and Passes

NEW YORK, Feb. 6 (AP)—Three important changes in the gridiron code for 1928, each designed to correct abuses or confusion growing out of the previous rules rather than to effect a fundamental alteration, were announced today by the national football rules committee after a secret week-end tussle.

In a nutshell they removed a good share of the protection afforded the lateral or backward passes, doing away with the confusing distinction between a muffed or fumbled punt and a deal a blow to use of the so-called "screen pass." They provided:

- 1)—That a backward or lateral pass must be tossed at such a height as to be classed as such and that it may be recovered by the defensive side if grounded but not advanced, thus doing away with the protection afforded under the rules last year to hidden ball and other trick passes behind the scrimmage line.
- 2)—That either a muffed or fumbled punt may be recovered by the kicking side, but "fob" advanced beyond the point of recovery.
- 3)—That no player on the side making a forward pass and who has crossed the line of scrimmage until the ball has been touched, thereby doing away with what the committee believes has been unfair blocking and checking, to screen the pass received, by players who themselves are not eligible to receive the pass.

Only Changes

These were the only changes effected by the rules committee, which in its week-end session at Abasco, N. Y., rejected such other suggested alterations as return of the goal posts to the actual goal line. The committee went on record as declaring that it "had never seen a season of better football" than under the 1927 rules.

Two of the three changes made, those affecting the lateral pass and muffed punt, represented a compromise with the opinion of a majority of college football coaches who at their December meeting, went on record as favoring a return to the 1924 code on these points.

New Committee Function

This point of view was put before the committee by the newly appointed advisory group of three coaches—Eugene D. Bostick of Notre Dame, Hugo Bezdek of Penn State and Bill Spaulding of the University of California at Los Angeles. In obtaining a clarification and modification of these rules so as to make them easier to apply on the field, however, the coaches were considered to have gained their major objective.

The new lateral pass rule probably will have the most decided effect since it eliminates from protection on the short passes between ball carriers in close line plays and gives a definite yardstick by which officials may determine their decisions, at the same time, in the opinion of the committee, it retains a sufficient measure of protection to encourage the continued development of backward passing as a real strategic feature of the offense.

Mumma Prepares 1928 Indoor Rifle League Schedule

The 1928 schedule for the Big Ten indoor rifle league has been announced by Col. Morton C. Mumma, league executive officer.

Iowa has been matched against Wisconsin, Minnesota, Indiana, Northwestern, Ohio and Illinois. Wisconsin will be the first team the Hawkeyes will fire against.

No shoulder to shoulder matches have been scheduled with other Big Ten league teams for the Old Gold team and all firing will be done in the field house galleries.

Illinois and Ohio requested the executive officer to not schedule matches for their teams on Feb. 11 and March 17, respectively. This makes it necessary for scores to be counted against these two teams on one date.

Northwestern's score will be counted against two teams on one date also.

On Feb. 11 the following matches will be fired: Minnesota against Ohio, Wisconsin against Iowa, and Indiana against Northwestern. Illinois will not shoot.

The next week, Feb. 18, Iowa will fire against Minnesota, Illinois against Ohio and Indiana and Wisconsin against Northwestern.

Illinois will meet the Minnesota aggregation, Indiana will fire against the Ohio team, Illinois against the Northwestern team.

The last week will see Northwestern pitted against Minnesota, Iowa against Illinois, and Indiana against Wisconsin. Ohio will not fire.

Hawk Catchers Scrap for Posts

Thompson Defends Job Against Four Receivers

Five catchers are working out daily in preparation for the coming Hawkeye baseball campaign. Only one "I" man is included in this group. The rest are sophomores and all are fighting to see who will be Thompson's mate behind the bat.

Clayton B. Thompson, A3 of Harvard, is out to defend his position as ace of Big Ten hitters. Thompson was the leading hitter of the conference last year. He swatted out one home run, and three triples in his first year at Iowa. His average for the year was .455.

Good as Ever

From his present work this year he seems to have lost none of his ability with the willow. He is throwing more accurately than last year and seems to have a little more confidence. Last year he had honorable mention as all-conference catcher and has his heart set on being the best catcher in the circuit this spring.

Mace Brown, A2 of North English, is furnishing the stiffest kind of competition. This boy's arm is deadly. He can shoot the ball like a rifle bullet. Brown has large hands which are one of the main requirements of a catcher. He is a big fellow and should pound the ball hard and seems to have a little more experience than he should in there his share of the time.

Another catcher of promise is Orville Mathway, A3 of Glenwood. Mathway was not in school the last semester of last year so has three years of competition left. His work in the cages gives promise that he will develop into a good receiver. He smacks the ball hard and if he continues the competition will keep getting hotter for the back stop job.

Hillier Tries for Post

Jasper Hillier, A2 of Charles City, was not out for last year's freshman team and not much is known as to his ability. He is a demon for work and a little later we may hear more from him. He is from the football squad.

Marion Chance, A2 of Zearing, although an outfielder, is being used to receive. Chance is a left handed hitter, the only one of the bunch by the way. He seems to have the knack of connecting pretty regularly. Whether he will continue to be used to catch or will be sent to work as an outfielder is a question.

Practice starts today at 3 o'clock sharp. If the light permits there will be a resumption of the hitting drill which was dispensed with last night due to darkness in the field house.

Wins by Decision

NEW YORK, Feb. 6 (AP)—Willie Harmon, rugged New York welterweight, tonight won a judges' decision over Hilario Martinez of Spain, after ten fast rounds of boxing at the Broadway arena.

Minnesota Sinks Lower in Cellar Mire; Iowa Rises

resumption of hostilities. Kinnan held Stock who made both tosses.

Kinnan started the Iowans on a short scoring spree by counting on a beautiful criss-cross play which was followed by Twogood's charity throw. "Twogie" again was fouled, this time by Stark who registered his contempt for the referee by bouncing the ball disgustfully on the floor. The official, also disgusted, promptly called an additional foul. Twogood, perhaps feeling sorry for the offending Gopher, missed one of the throws, and the score stood 11-5. Plunkitt followed with a neat tip-in under the basket.

Game Gets Rough

The game was getting rough, and Williams, the big center, bounced the helpless "Pops" Harrison against the mat for a count of nine. The fighting Hawkeyes guard got up to make good both throws. Another free throw by Wilcox ended the Iowa scoring for the half.

Minnesota took the ball up and down the floor, Stark finally shooting one as Harrison fouled him. The basket counted, but Stark missed both shots. The half ended 16-7.

Harrison Scores

At the resumption of play, Iowa added to its lead when Harrison dribbled in for a neat basket and "Rags" made a free throw. Minnesota, desperate to score, started a barrage of shots from any angle, and to the surprise of everyone they went through the net. Nydahl started the action, and Otterness copied his leader by caging two beauties, bringing the count to 18. 14. Iowa called time. Stark came through with a double-decker and Williams tied the score with a shot from the side. Wilcox regained the advantage after a fine pass from

Chicago Defeats Buckeyes, 27-24

CHICAGO, Feb. 6 (AP)—Chicago defeated Ohio State, 27 to 24, in a ragged Big Ten basketball game tonight. The victory pushed Chicago into sixth place and Ohio State into seventh in the conference races.

The game was featured by wild shooting and poor defenses. The half ended with a series of wild shots by Chicago players and the score was Chicago 14, Ohio State 9.

The Buckeyes crept up soon after the start of the second half, but Chicago shot time and again from mid-floor and managed to cage enough to lead 23 to 14 with five minutes to go. Then Ohio State adopted the same tactics and, by a few freak shots and several free throws brought their total to within one of Chicago's, 23 to 22. Then Gist and McDonough of the Maroons

Two Champions Enter A.A.U. Tilt

Two Mid-Western A. A. U. outdoor swimming champions are among the nine recent entries in the championship meet and sectional Olympic trials to be held in the University of Iowa pool Friday and Saturday, Coach D. A. Armbruster announced today.

The tiltists are Jack Groat, Omaha A. C., outdoor high board champion of 1927; and Irving B. Weber, Dolphin fraternity, Iowa City, holder of the 220-yard backstroke championship and record. Groat, who appeared in Iowa City last week as a member of the Creighton basketball squad, will compete in both the low and high board diving.

Athletes from Iowa State college, Grinnell, and State Teachers college have entered the meet. From Ames, Coach Jake Daubert, member of the National Collegiate A. A. rules committee, will bring Walter Wicks, 220-yard breast stroke swimmer, and Lynn Hummel, 200-yard medley relay team member. Daubert already had entered I. D. Butler, free style swimmer, and Archie Dahl and Neil Chickon, fancy divers.

Other recent nominations are Captain Sherman Allison, diver; and Carroll Dewey, 100 and 220-yard free style, Grinnell college; F. E. Mueller, State Teachers college, 100 and 220-yard free style; Karl Silkebakken, unattached, Grinnell, 100-yard free style; and Raymond Trotter, Boone high school, fancy diving.

Late entries for the meet will be received up to Wednesday afternoon, said Coach Armbruster, in announcing extension of time.

Editor Speaks to C. of C. Members

Says There is Threat of Interference in Business

There is a threat of government intrusion into the processes of business, said Chester Leasure, associate editor of the Journal of National Business, at the weekly luncheon of the local chamber of commerce yesterday. "But if business can be regulated, either from within or without, and definite standards of business conduct can be set up all necessity of government regulation of business can be obviated," he added.

He further contended that if the government becomes too over-loaded with economic functions its political capacities become less effective.

Mr. Leasure asked the question, "Can American business really get together?" He declared that the business of getting together conferred great advantages but carried with it a distinct responsibility.

"Interest is the common denominator of business," the speaker declared and further added that the welding together of business enterprises could be obtained primarily by this element of interest. Mr. Leasure contended that getting together does away with sectional suspicions and fosters the American system of government.

Jack Turley Opens New Sweet Shoppe

After thirty years of operating cafes, restaurants, and sweet shops throughout the state and on the campus of the University of Illinois at Champaign, Jack Turley will open the Sweet Shoppe at 205 E. Washington street this morning.

The new sweet shop, completely repaired and redecorated in a cream yellow, with soft red and yellow lamps on the tables and walls, is featuring specialties in candy, sodas, breakfasts, lunches, and dinners.

Mr. Turley's sweet shops have been especially famous for their home-made candy and pastry.

With Mr. Turley is Mrs. Elizabeth Mims who has been pastry cook for Mr. Turley's firms for twelve years. Mr. Turley at the present time is making his home at 819 Iowa avenue with his wife and four children.

Boy Scouts Stage Test Mobilization

As a test of their ability to mobilize quickly in case of an emergency requiring the services of the Boy Scouts an assembly scheme will be tried out this week, which is Boy Scout anniversary week.

Col. Morton C. Mumma, scout commissioner, will give the signal, the time of which has not been announced. When the signal is given, Paul McGuire, scout executive, will call by phone the troop leaders. These in turn will call the assistant leaders, who will summon the scouts. Place of assembly will be the Boy Scout headquarters.

In order that the mobilization may not interfere with school, the signal will be given between 7 and 8:30 a.m. and 3:30 and 5:30 p.m.

Dubuque to Nominate

DUBUQUE, Feb. 6 (AP)—Nominations for the special Feb. 20 election to fill the place of T. J. O'Donnell for representative in the Iowa legislature will be made Wednesday, Feb. 8, by the democrats in the forenoon and the republicans in the evening. Mrs. Emily Hogan Becker and James Hayes are the democratic candidates. The republicans have no avowed candidates.

Williamsburg Man to Speak

John P. Gallagher of Williamsburg will be the speaker at the meeting of the Johnson county democratic central committee Saturday noon at the Jefferson hotel. Mr. Gallagher was formerly a member of the Iowa house of representatives and was a recent candidate for national representative from the second district of Iowa.

Board of Supervisors Meet

The Johnson county board of supervisors held its regular fortnightly meeting yesterday at the office of the county auditor. No business except the allowing of bills and claims was completed.

Gyro Club Meets

The regular monthly business meeting of the Gyro club will be held tonight at the Jefferson hotel. Dinner will be served for members at 6 o'clock.

House to Talk on Spain

Prof. Ralph E. House of the department of Romance languages will deliver a lecture on "Spain" at the weekly luncheon of K. Kappa club this noon at Red Ball inn. An autobiographical sketch will be presented by William E. Beck, principal of Iowa City high school.

Title Transfers

Three title transfers were filed yesterday at the office of the county recorder: William Marech and Ella Marech transferred lot 8, block 7, East Iowa City to Della A. Grizel; Don M. Griswold and Bernice Griswold conveyed lot 4, block 49, East Iowa City to Arthur Sexton and Carrie Sexton; Anton A. Novatny and Anna Novatny conveyed part of section 16, township 81, range 7, to Frank W. Melsa for $800. A quit claim was also filed in which Frank Kanak and Marie Kanak conveyed lot 8, block 4, Dewey's addition, to Anna M. White and William J. White.

Start Old Ironsides Campaign

A picture of the U. S. frigate, Constitution (Old Ironsides) has been posted in the lobby of the Iowa City post office as part of a national campaign to rebuild the battleship. The money from this sale will be used to partly defray the cost of reconstruction of Old Ironsides. The campaign started June, 1927.

Work on University Hi Bulletin Starts

Work has been started at the university high school on the preparation of the summer school bulletin. Arrangements are being made for a nine-weeks summer session this year with work in every department and a larger offering than ever before.

L. R. Kilzer, principal of the university high school, said that a more definite announcement would be made in two or three weeks.

February Grand Jury Impanelled Returning Indictments Takes Place Latter Part of Week

The grand jury for the February term of court was impanelled yesterday afternoon when the new term of court, with R. G. Popham acting as judge, was opened. The new jury began work at once upon the evidence presented by the state in various cases.

Although the program of work for this grand jury term is rather light, according to County Attorney C. B. Russell, officials do not think that the indictments will be returned until the latter part of the week.

Will Rowland, of Union township, was appointed foreman of the grand jury. The other six men who were drawn as grand jurors for this term from the list of twelve drawn for the year are: E. A. Heinsius, fourth ward; W. J. Simpkins, Oxford; C. M. Wolfe, Clear Lake; Walter R. Hughes, Sharon; Rudolph Prybil, East Lucas; and Emil Dvorak, Monroe.

Bremner Speaks on Transportation

William H. Bremner, of the Minneapolis and St. Louis railway company, will be the principle speaker at a banquet held in connection with the power conference which will take place here Feb. 15 and 16.

Mrs. Bremner, formerly president of the M. and St. L. and at present a receiver in the same company, is an alumna of the university. He received his bachelor degree in civil engineering in 1911, and his L.L.B. in 1915.

After leaving the university he practiced law in Des Moines until 1908, when he became interested in the railway company, in whose service he has been since for the last twenty years. His talk at the banquet will be a discussion of the relation of transportation to industrial development.

Grain Prices Lower

General Rains, Large Exports Cause Reaction

CHICAGO, Feb. 6 (AP)—Soaking rains giving relief from drought which has threatened domestic winter wheat prospects gave a downward swing to the wheat market today. Corn advanced on account of big export business, but later reacted owing partly to a question of allowing buyers the privilege of federal appeal as to disputes concerning grades.

Closing quotations on wheat were unsettled, 1c to 1c net lower, corn 1c to 1c down, oats a shade to 1/2c off, and provisions showing 10c to 22c decline.

Wheat underwent a material setback in price at the outset, the southwest and west reporting the best rain in months. The liberal supply of moisture did much to banish crop damage fears, and the market effect was increased by unexpected downturns in wheat quotations at Liverpool. Meanwhile, the amount of wheat afloat for Europe was shown to have increased 6,356,000 bushel last week, making the total exceed both that of the previous week and a year ago.

Estimates on corn export business today varied from 750,000 bushel to 1,000,000 bushel. The export buying was done at a comparatively high trading basis, with ocean freight rates also firmer. Unfavorable weather for the movement of corn was likewise a good deal responsible for early upturns in price, but the gains failed to hold in the face of enlarged pressure to sell.

Export bids for Chicago corn were reported on a working basis, but no business was heard of.

World's shipments were 4,292,000 bushel and on passage stocks showed a decrease of 1,895,000 bushel for the week.

Oats eased down as a result of sympathy with wheat as well as with corn.

Hogs receipts for above expectation sent the provision market to a new level for the season.

Competition of New Offerings Produce Dullness in Market

NEW YORK, Feb. 6 (AP)—Steady prices ruled the bond market today, but there was an easy undertone. Competition of new offerings, $92,000,000 of which came into the market last week, undoubtedly contributed to the dullness of the list, while traders were given further reason to limit their commitments by the advance in the federal discount rate at Minneapolis, the fifth increase among the twelve banks in the system.

Considerable liquidation took place among bonds which are not usually active. Pathe Exchange 7's, with warrants, lost 6 1/2 points, and Cuba Cane Sugar 7's and 8's were notably weak. New York Traction issues, which followed a strong tendency all last week, declined on the certainty that the state transit commission will deny the Interborough's appeal for higher fares.

Railroads in the main were dull.

Committee Signs for Chautauqua Here August 11

A contract with the Redpath Vawter chautauqua system was signed by the Iowa City chautauqua committee Sunday afternoon. The agreement calls for a five and one-half day program to begin Aug. 11.

A motion not to have a chautauqua was passed at a meeting of the committee late last year but the patrons protested so much that at a later meeting it was decided to hold the usual program.

H. A. Spencer, 222 Melrose avenue, is president of the local committee.

Louis Manis Will Operate New Cafe

Another new cafe will be formally opened in a few days when the Old Gold Cafe at 16 S. Clinton street, under the management of Louis Manis, will be completed. Definite announcement of the opening will be made as soon as the remainder of the equipment arrives.

The new cafe will make a specialty of regular meals, short orders, and confections and will be completely equipped at an approximate cost of $14,000. Features include an imported Italian marble soda fountain, artificial foliage partially concealing the booths, and an orthophonic Victrola. An orchestra will play on the opening night.

Mr. Manis is in business previously to this in Fort Dodge where he owned and managed the Colonial cafe. He has been in the restaurant and cafe business for fourteen years.

Meyers Organizes Credit Association

The Johnson County Credit board, an institution to improve credit conditions, is now being organized in Johnson county by F. W. Meyers. The board furnishes monthly reports to its members showing those who do not pay their accounts and finally resorts to newspaper advertising to aid members in making collections.

The board is a part of the Pioneer Service company's organizations, now operating in seventy counties in Iowa, which exchange credit information.

Mr. Meyers was graduated from the college of liberal arts of the university in 1922.

Local Amateurs Reach 30 Countries With 300-Watt Broadcasting Outfit

Approximately thirty foreign countries have been communicated with since the first of the year by means of an amateur broadcasting set at the Triangle fraternity house.

The set is owned by Drew MacDougal, E3 of Nichols, and his brother Ted, both of whom are operators at the WSUI station. Broadcasting at a wave length of around forty meters. They have been able to carry on conversations with other amateur broadcasters in every continent, and with ships at sea.

On one occasion the operators of 9DAU, as the station is known, were able to converse with three other stations at the same time, by having them adjust their sets to the same wave length.

Make Many Friends
The little radio set is the means of making many friends for the operators and it is a custom to correspond by mail with the different persons reached over the air. Some times, however, when the station is a distant one, it takes as long as six weeks to receive acknowledgment of the message.

Once, while communicating with Antigua island, near Cuba, Ted MacDougal asked his listener, in a matter-of-fact way to drop him a line.

The man replied that he wouldn't be able to do so because of difficulty in getting mail out of the island. Later it was discovered that the man was in a leper colony. He begged other broadcasters to call him often, as the little radio set was his only means of hearing from the outside world.

The set is handy for learning of happenings in far away places. Its owners can find out at any time just what the weather is in California, or elsewhere, and thus make their own predictions for weather in our part of the country.

Low Wave Length
The wave length for amateur stations is comparatively low, ranging from five to fifty meters. The Morse international code is used, and the general call number is WQ.

The answers, which are usually almost simultaneous, are apt to come from any part of the world. The United States leads in the number of such stations, with 15,000. Australia is second in number.

It takes very little power to operate the set at the Triangle house. The maximum amount of power used is 300 watts, which is equivalent to four light bulbs of seventy-five watt power; and often much less power is used.
