Special music has been arranged for the program and all men interested are invited to attend.

Mathews Speaks at Annual Pan-Hellenic Banquet

With approximately 800 Greeks in attendance, the third annual Pan-Hellenic banquet, held at the Iowa Union last night, has passed into history.

The affair was held under the sponsorship of the Men's Pan-Hellenic conference.

Dean Mathews of the college of theology, University of Chicago, gave the principal address of the evening.

Dean Mathews' talk was informal and of the humorous type, disguising a message which did not fail to reach his audience.

Recalling a period of half a century during which he has been connected with educational and fraternal institutions, he touched upon the changes which have affected both.

The speaker also commented on the modern social situation. "We are now in the process of building up a morality that will fit changed conditions," he said, "we are in a process of transition at the very bottom of our social structure."

In this new order of things Dean Mathews doubted the effectiveness of old educational ideas in their training for the world, and hailed the fraternity system as an institution capable of much good to remedy the situation.

The evening's program was initiated with a three course dinner served in the lounge room of the Iowa Union. Following the dinner the Alpha quartet, colored singers from the Alpha Phi Alpha fraternity, sang a number of negro spirituals.

The banquet was presided over by Otto Esch, L3 of Des Moines. Dean Robert E. Rensow introduced the speakers, Ben Swisher of Waterloo and L. A. Brewer of Cedar Rapids presented short talks to the group.

Local Clubs Take Lead in Movement for History Week

The Iowa State Federation of Women's clubs and the state Historical society of Iowa are leaders in the movement this year for the observance of Iowa history week.

The week of April 15-21 has been set for the observance this year and the theme for consideration is "The Indians of Iowa."

During history week the State Historical society of Iowa will furnish a series of radio talks on aspects of Indian life in Iowa, over station WSUI. A pageant in two parts, the first showing the first meeting of white men and Indians in Iowa, and the second depicting the way in which the Indians gave up claims to Iowa territory by treaty councils. This pageant will be sent to schools and clubs that are interested in the project.

Entertain Guests at W.A.A. Party

Amid paper decorations of various sized red hearts, eighty-five persons were entertained at a W.A.A. Valentine party in the woman's gymnasium last night.

At a short business meeting before the party, class basketball captains and a woman to head basketball were chosen. The freshman captain is Esther Darmer, A1 of Perry; Lorraine Hosalroad, A2 of Newton, heads the sophomore squad; Marguerite Schmidt, A3 of Bath Creek, is junior captain; and Mary Bates, A4 of Bloomfield, was chosen senior captain. June Beers, A1 of Iowa City, is the new head of basketball.

It was also decided at the meeting to petition to have a member of W.A.A. on the student council.

After the business, a mock track meet was the first feature of the entertainment. The judges, Margaret Lea, and Marjorie Camp, instructors in physical education, chose the persons with the largest feet, the longest noses, the highest reach. The freshmen and seniors tied for the first place in the meet.

Dancing followed the mock meet with music furnished by the new pantatroups, and a three piece W.A.A. orchestra.

Deferred Pledging Discussion Brings Diverse Opinions

Members of Sororities, Fraternities Tell Pet Views

Continuing to sound out the opinions of the campus on the question of deferred pledging, several presidents and members of fraternities and sororities were approached yesterday.

Three reasons were given by Roy Porter, 33 of Waterloo, editor of the 1928 Hawkeye and a member of Phi Gamma Delta, in favor of the proposal. "It eliminates confusion at the beginning of the year for new men and women."

Porter Gives Reasons "In the second place, both individuals and fraternities are given a chance to look and be looked over. For the third reason, the plan would provide a short vacation period between semesters, when rushing might be done systematically."

W. A. Nibert, 44 of Cedar Rapids, president of Delta Zeta and the Panhellenic conference declared: "Such a plan is not advisable on this campus. Unless the freshmen live in dormitories, it would be useless to defer pledging."

Interview Chi Omega "I am very much against waiting to pledge," Phoebe Williams, 44 of Iowa City, president of Chi Omega countered, "for it is a strain on both sister and adviser. Induction should be held in the second semester, which would not be feasible with this plan."

Arguments for and against were advanced by George Van Voorst, 43 of Union Hill, Ill., president of Alpha Tau Omega. "It gives the freshman a better chance to decide, but on the other hand, if a man pledges when he first comes to school, he is more likely to remain, and to work."

She Opposes Proposal Corinne Parsons, 43 of Waterloo, S.D., president of Kappa Alpha Theta considers the proposal to treat a strain on both the sorority and individual. She believes that activities and studies would earn more attention if the question of pledging were settled early in the year.

The big objection to the plan is its financial impracticality, was the opinion voiced by James Hunkamp, 44 of Keokuk, president of Beta Theta Pi. "The plan would be fine if the fraternities were able to stand it."

Deans Return From Medical Congress Given at Chicago

Dr. Henry S. Houghton, dean of the college of medicine, and Dr. John T. McClintock, junior dean, returned last night from Chicago. They attended the annual congress of medical education, medical licensure and hospital held on Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday of this week.

The annual congress is a nationwide organization meeting once each year. At the yearly meeting of the congress, speeches, discussions and symposiums are heard upon the subjects of present day importance in the medical world.

Hickman Trial Nears Verdict

"I am as outraged by this crime as you are or the citizens of this community," Walsh said. "But a duty was placed in my hands, and I'm discharging it the best my conscience dictates."

Writes Plea for Life The defense attorney declared the much-mentioned instinct of self-preservation was entirely dead in "this boy," from the time he strangled the child for a "pittance of $1,500."

Walsh's closing argument for his client was delivered in an hour's time. "After a short recess, Richard Cantillon, youthful associate defense counsel, picked up the dangling threads of his chief's pleading for their client. After twenty minutes Cantillon paused to ask: "Your honor, may we continue tomorrow morning?"

Cantillon had argued quietly and rapidly on the legal aspects of insanity trials, the prejudice of the laymen against criminal defense lawyers, and the difficulties of such a defense.

Niebuhr to Lead Student Meetings

"Religion in Modern Life" Chosen as Main Theme

With the Rev. Reinhold Niebuhr pastor of the Bethel Evangelical church of Detroit acting as leader, the annual student religious conference will convene here Feb. 11-12 at the Iowa Union.

The Rev. Niebuhr, who is sought by religious organizations throughout the country as a leader of discussions, has chosen "Religion in Modern Life" as the theme of his series of addresses before the religious gatherings.

He is at present contributing editor to Christian Century, and is Rev. Niebuhr also a contributor to Atlantic Monthly. He recently published a book entitled "Does Civilization Need Religion?"

His first address "Religion in a day of disillusionment," will be delivered at the faculty luncheon in the river room at Iowa Union Saturday noon. Following this talk, those attending the luncheon will be given an opportunity to ask questions and to take part in the discussion.

The first general student meeting of the conference will occur Saturday at 6 p. m. Dinner will be served and it is at this time that the Rev. Niebuhr will address the conference on "Authority and Experience in Religion." A general discussion will follow.

Sunday at 4 p. m. the Rev. Niebuhr will speak at vespers and the subject of his talk will be "Religion, Rational and Ultrarational." The conference will be brought to a close Sunday evening with a union meeting consisting of members of the Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. and various young people's organizations of the churches in the city.

The meeting is scheduled to begin at 6:30 p. m. The Rev. Niebuhr will talk before this group with the topic, "Religion in Conflict with Life."

Change of Wind Ends Two Days of Heavy Rainfall

A change in the direction of the wind yesterday morning brought slightly lower temperatures and ended the two-day period of rain. The precipitation since Jan. 1 is up to normal now. Only .04 of an inch of rain fell Tuesday night.

The official forecast predicts rising temperature for today again and may bring more rain.

Board to Apply for Building Permit to Construct School

Authorization was voted last evening at the regular monthly meeting of the school board, to Dr. George Albright, president, to apply again to the city council for a building permit for the Henry Lathrop school on the west side which was refused previously.

Dr. Albright was also authorized to sign a petition for paving on West Benton street, which adjoins the property involved.

Members of the Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. and various young people's organizations of the churches in the city. The meeting is scheduled to begin at 6:30 p. m. The Rev. Niebuhr will talk before this group with the topic, "Religion in Conflict with Life."

Professor Martin Depicts Moral, Religious Value of Motion Pictures

Herbert Martin, professor in the department of philosophy, sets forth the moral and religious values of the motion picture in a recent issue of The Journal of Religious Education.

Taking into consideration that 20,000,000 persons attend the movies daily, Professor Martin states that "the movie bulks large as an institution in our current social life," and that it, consequently, has a great influence upon the people.

Attorney Reports Missing Girl Seen With Young Man

AMES, Feb. 8 (AP)—Mrs. Sarah Catherine Nicholson, 19 year old wife of Fred Nicholson of Gilbert, who disappeared late Monday evening, was last seen in the company of Lyman Morgan, a young man who had been working near Gilbert, County Attorney Earle S. Smith was told today by the missing woman's friend, Miss Evelyn Gasaway.

Miss Gasaway, the county attorney reported, denied the story she told yesterday that she and Mrs. Nicholson had gone to a school entertainment and parted afterward at Miss Gasaway's home. She said that Morgan took her and Mrs. Nicholson in his car Monday evening to Ames, and then to Boone, returning to Gilbert at 11 p. m. Morgan left them out but Mrs. Nicholson later went back to his car, Miss Gasaway said.

Mrs. Nicholson was married to Nicholson, who is 40 years old, three years ago.

Sheriff Takes in Delinquent Auto License Securers

According to the records at the office of Sheriff Frank L. Smith, twenty-two cars have been pulled in by the city and county officials since Feb. 1 because the owners had not purchased 1928 license plates.

Twenty-one of the owners have paid their licenses and penalty fees, the towing and storage charges, and have regained their cars. The last car is one from Wisconsin which was picked up by officials yesterday. The owner is having some difficulty in straightening out the engine numbers on his car and the bill of sale which he has.

Ruckmick Plans to Discuss Research in Field of Music

A psychological problem will be the topic of the next Baconian lecture, to be held at the Chemistry auditorium on Friday night, Feb. 10. The subject is "The Nature of Musical Sound," and will be discussed by Prof. Christian A. Ruckmick, of the department of psychology.

The talk will be illustrated with slides and apparatus. It will consider chiefly the psychological character of musical sound. The psychology department of the university has been a leader in experiments in this field.

Workmen Cause of Fire

BOSTON, Feb. 8 (AP)—The conflagration which destroyed or badly damaged thirty-five buildings in the downtown district of Fall river last week had its origin in a fire started by workmen in a steel drum at the Pocasset mill to give them warmth while at work, state authorities reported today. The drum in which the fire was made rested on a wooden floor in an engine room.

Alumni Plan Iowa Night Celebrations

Seventeen Clubs Make Arrangements for Anniversary

In response to letters sent out by Prof. Frederick G. Higbee, chairman of the committee on Iowa Night, reports have been received from seventeen alumni clubs who are planning to commemorate the eighty-first anniversary of the founding of the University of Iowa.

Professor Higbee has in his office a map of Iowa, on which he has represented with blue pins the towns which are organizing for dinners, Feb. 20; with green pins, those which are at work but as yet have no definite plans; with black pins, those which are making no preparations, implying that the latter are dead.

Those clubs which fall under the blue pin list with its chairman are: Centerville, Dr. Sam V. Carpenter; '17; Boone, L. R. Johnson; '24; Mason City, W. Earl Hall; '18; Clinton, Dr. Richard A. Emmons; '13; Adel, Blake Willis; '14; Colfax, Dr. Frank Boyd; '33; Albia; Shelby M. Edwards; '20; Clarion, Frank D. Riley.

Those towns which are marked by green pins are: Sheldon, Ida Grove, Onawa, Missouri Valley, Northwood and New Hampton.

Alumni clubs outside the state making plans to hold dinners and listen to the radio program are Los Angeles, with Carl A. Stutsman, '31, acting as chairman; Cincinnati, under the chairmanship of Donald Peterson, '22; and Philadelphia under Henry E. Radasch, '37.

The plans for the program which will be broadcast over WSTL, are to have dinner music from 6:15 to 7:15; from 7:15 to 7:45, an anniversary program; from 7:45 to 9:30, the Wisconsin-Iowa basketball game.

Victor Hugo: Prophet

LET it not be supposed that social order will depart with the scaffold," Victor Hugo wrote many years ago on the question of capital punishment. "The gentle laws of Christ will penetrate at last into the code and shine through its enactments. We shall look upon crime as a disease. Evil will be treated in charity instead of anger."

To a great extent Victor Hugo's idea, so much more charitable than the practice of his time, has been applied to criminals. A book of statistics collected by T. Roy Calvert, an Englishman, proves that the lightening of penalties for various offenses during the last century has been followed by periods of less crime.

Between 1820 and 1840 cattle-stealing, forgery, house-breaking, letter stealing, arson and riots were punishable by death. In proportion to population, the number of such crimes has decreased since the punishments have been reduced.

The death penalty, Mr. Calvert shows, is not a deterrent to murder. The savagery and brutality which the populace shows during an execution overbalances the warning of the act, and is often followed by a new crime wave. An execution takes from the public some feeling of the sanctity of human life.

Mobs who surround the death house or read avidly the details of an execution are losing their respect for life. Before capital punishment is excusable on the grounds of preventing crime, it must be proved that crimes decrease when penalties are severe. Studies on the subject show otherwise.

To Vagabond or Auditor

NOW is the time when all good seniors begin thinking of graduation, of caps and gowns, of handshaking, and of parting with school. On every side we hear, "I wish I had known about history of art when I was an underclassman . . . Sometime I'm coming back here and take some really worthwhile courses . . . it seems as if I have missed most of them . . . I wish I had known about that Shakespeare course."

After being around the university for three years or more, the student knows more about the curriculum than do those who are seeking interesting, worthwhile courses as sophomores and juniors. But it is too late for most of them. There is but one remedy for the disappointed graduate. At Harvard they call it "vagabonding"—at California, "auditing."

The "vagabond" or "auditor" attends the lectures of courses other than those for which he is registered. He relieves the weekly routine with samplings from other courses and professors. He goes with his friends to other departments, and at the end of the year he knows what his course of study will be for the next semester. No announcement or register of courses can hope to explain the content of classes, the personality of the instructor, and the worth of the courses in cold, academic words. It remains for the student to sample and find out for himself.

Professors and department heads should encourage the attendance of unregistered students in their courses. They should be flattered at the attendance of visitors. They should extend a welcome rather than a cold shoulder. Registration announcements should not bear the bald statement that students will not be permitted to attend classes for which they are not registered. The A. B. degree would then mean much more to the graduating senior than it has in the past.

Centers of Illiteracy

WHERE are the backwoods districts of America? According to the popular notion, the mountain regions where women smoke corn cob pipes and men punctuate their sentences with spurts of tobacco juice, the densest ignorance is found.

Statistics show, however, that literacy is higher among the people of the southern mountains than in New York City. For practical knowledge, such as which side of a street car to enter and how to stand up with the aid of a strap, the city poor would rank first. But in "book learning" the rating is a scoreless tie, or else the rural inhabitant holds the balance of knowledge.

The deepest ignorance of the country, therefore, exists side by side with the more advertised culture of New York—the literary center of America where so many publishing houses, schools, newspapers and magazines exist.

An Ex-Hobo on Education

JIM TULLY, author of "Jarnegan," "Circus Parade," and other books, has expressed himself rather loudly as being decidedly against the university educational system. Mr. Tully is one of those "self-made men," and he speaks with the wisdom gleaned from years of riding the rods and panhandling.

Be it set down to Mr. Tully's credit that he apparently has as large a store of knowledge and more genius than the average college graduate. But Mr. Tully, we believe, should be reprimanded for denouncing something of which he knows little.

His contention that books are the greatest educators in existence is probably true. Where, more than in a modern university, can one find a selection of books adequate for educational purposes? Not only are the books there and in abundance, but proper tutelage in their selection and use is given by men who know more about their particular fields than Mr. Tully does.

Mr. Tully gained his education from experience, but he has been a long time coming to the place where he can style himself a "self-made" man. The accumulated experience of experts in all fields is available in our colleges.

The former hobo says that modern education will not let the youth of today think for himself. If that is true, how does it happen that such a vast percentage of the creative work being done in America is coming out of the educational system? For one Jim Tully, America has a thousand brilliant, capable, college trained men.

Another Step Ahead

ADAIR county has swung into line under the new law for hard surface roads. An $800,000 bond issue was adopted, by a majority of twenty-one votes.

As usual the vote of citizens living in urban communities decided the issue in the affirmative. Only one rural district favored the proposed bonds.

Under the new road law it is highly improbable that a property tax will be necessary to carry the program into effect. Yet the majority of those voting against similar propositions do so because such a tax might forcibly be levied to meet the emergency.

In one of the southern countries where good roads can be constructed at only great cost because of the ruggedness of the territory, the battle became quite heated. The possible property tax was discussed at great length. In the end it was established that in event of a property tax the rate would be less than five cents an acre. And the issue passed by a good majority.

The ultimate method lies in a statewide issue for a unified program. The counties which have already authorized bond issues are not worried, nor do the rest seem to be. In all events why not complete the quilt at one sitting, rather than have it cover only part of the bed?

Remember how tired you were last June just because you decided along about the first of February that you'd worked too hard during examination week and had better take things easy for a few weeks and get some rest?

Children Cry for It

The Neenah, Wisconsin, Rotary club comes forward with the announcement that it has brought the gospel of Rotary to its city high school. The Neenah Rotarians have converted the high school boys and girls to the Rotary code of ethics. Hereafter, Neenah high school will play football and basketball to the tune of, "He profits most who serves best."

The missionary work of this struggling Wisconsin Rotary club is mute evidence of the worm-turning activities which are being tried out by Mr. George F. Babbitt all over the country. Probably the first beacon in this justification of the service clubs was Scribner's solemn announcement that under its new editorial policy this "scoffing at the obvious faults of our civilization" and "hokum exposures" are obsolete. The "Century" in a recent article endorses the return of oratory by virtue of the luncheon clubs. The "Forum" crucifies Messrs. Mencken and Lewis as "brawling vulgar-ians." The "North American Review" tops off the case of the defense with an article entitled "The Sorrows of Mencken."

There are outcroppings everywhere of this defensive move. Main street and Manhattan are trying to get on a common footing. Whether Mr. Babbitt will succeed in his counter-attack remains to be told. Yet much evangelism will be undertaken to uproot the erudite doubts of the Mencken fraternity in the months which are to follow.

LETTER BOX

Chillzenvefar: I have not decided just why I choose to pen this letter to you, but I'm sure that you can and will help me with my problem. I am just a normal university girl and I speak then in behalf of many others. The problem is this—

This morning on my way to class, I met a Mr. — who is in my English lit. class. He smiled rather apologetically and passed on. (Ed. note: "Out!") He's an awfully sweet boy but he always smiles at a girl as though he's afraid she will object. Just like many, many other boys here at the university, he's afraid of girls. My suggestion is this: why not have a certain day set aside when all boys may feel free to ask any girl on the campus for a date? We girls would be good sports.

These boys that are afraid of girls are boys who are often lonely and they would appreciate knowing girls of whom there are also lonely ones.

You get my idea, don't you? Another plan that might prove feasible is to have a "Leap Year Day" when girls might feel free to ask a man for a date.

Really and truly this isn't my letter; it's a letter from the many lonely boys and girls at the university who are only LOOKING on its social life.

—J.M.B.

My dear Jennie: Chillz is inclined to agree with you. About lots of fellows—and SOME girls. The situation as it now stands is rather flimsy, hypocritical, and frigid. It's the result of a social life of some few thousand years standing which has held that the male is ever the "aggressor" and the female the "aggrieved."

The man of whom you refer is probably the victim of an inferiority complex. And he's the sort of a fellow who isn't going to dash out into the cold world and pluck himself a Hawkeye beauty queen or a Tribune "peach." Sometime a woman will notice him, get a mother-child fixation on the lad, and hitch him up to buy shoes for her babies—and hats for herself. His type can't be helped.

As for the girls—the lonely ones—there's only one reason, under the present system, why they aren't wanted. Either they haven't brains, they haven't good looks—or they won't neck. Every fellow demands one of these three things. The average male student will go with a girl if she has brains. He will even go with her because she is ONLY good-looking. If she necks, all the better.

Girls, of course, don't GET brains. If they haven't any sense by the time they're in college, that's their hard luck. To a degree, every girl can be good-looking. The progress in cosmetics in the last ten years has won many a husband. Still, that doesn't suffice.

But—every girl CAN neck. She may not have sex appeal, "IT," to begin with, but a good dressmaker and a cosmetician who knows his stuff will erase this defect—at least, so it won't be noticed and "IT" will.

More girls are probably unpopular because they don't neck than for any other reason. I don't mean to say this is good or bad. That's merely a statement of fact. And the reason these girls don't and won't neck is due to a soppish pile of inhibitions, false ideals, and puritan standards. Girls without beauty or brains, take the lid off your repressions and let your libido lead you where it will. BUT, if you have beauty or brains, you won't have to pet, neck, jollygag, or spoon to GET YOUR MAN. —Chilz

Letter to the Editor

To the Editor: Ever since this Maude Royden aggravation started, I have felt called upon to say something, and I've just got to do it, duty bound, as it were. To begin with, I think this or any other American institution is mighty hard up for a lecturer when it takes on a notorious cigarette sucker to listen to, and I don't care what she may have to say, it will be of little or no benefit, as "Actions speak louder than words." In my family there are seven children, and it will be all right with me if they have seven different kinds of religion, or none at all, they are welcome to their own views in politics, evolution the same. But above all things I do want them to have clean, healthful habits, and it would be safe to say more than 90 per cent of the thousands of parents are as anxious for their children to avoid bad habits, bad company, and bad examples as I am, and she is so obviously objectionable. I wish that all university faculties would get the humble idea that they are in reality our servants and that they have in their care our greatest trust and act accordingly. Oh! you are a big, strong man, and you a fine type of modern girl. Well, whose fault is it that you've grown up in such splendid appearing types of humanity, and, you say you don't care for the future generations. You can't be a cigarette fiend and improve your stock. I claim our posterity and the perpetuity of our nation is worthy of being true to, and if you don't, you are yellow.

Dents and Derbies
Richard Clarion—Over at Iowa City where is located our state university, there is a dental school in connection. Scores of young men in fact all that are able, wear a distinguishing little fuzzy patch under their beaks about the size of a postage stamp—and their domes are crowned with little derby hats of the vintage of 1896 as another very distinguishing mark of importance. An English scientist startlingly announces that man is tending toward the day when he will be toothless. Now what's troubling us is what will become of all these bright young chaps that are taking up dentistry?

Mason City Globe Gazette—Can anybody imagine the alumni of the University of Iowa rushing into Des Moines for an indignation meeting because the scholastic standards falling down?

Maude Royden Again
Cedar Rapids Gazette—We are to have another investigation of the Iowa. The Iowa City chapter of the dent morals at the University of Women's Christian Temperance Union, rallying to the battle cry of Ida B. Wise Smith, its state leader, is said to have started this latest movement. Mrs. Smith has been aroused because university authorities refused to cancel the lecture engagement of Agnes Maude Royden, England's famous woman preacher, who admits indulgence in an occasional cigarette. As one who dares to enjoy this outrageous personal liberty Miss Royden is a menace to American womanhood, thinks Mrs. Smith. The Iowa City women are not to be questioned as to motive, but their method scarcely is fraudulent. Why try to bully President Jessup because he refuses to concede that one swallow makes a summer or cigarette a sinner?

Fort Dodge Messenger—Iowa university is big enough to do whatever it chooses if the right spirit is there.

Current Comment

Give Ingwersen a Chance
Toledo Chronicle—Now that this wrangle over the athletic coach at the University of Iowa is temporarily settled, let's give Coach Ingwersen a real chance. Iowa has the makings of a good football team for next fall. If the team does not materialize, then there will be plenty of time to blame Ingwersen. Judging from all of the squabbling throughout the state over the Iowa football situation, one might gain the impression that all that is taught in the state university is football. Anyone who has gained this impression, however, is entirely in error.

The Constant Flame

By WINIFRED VAN DUZER

When Kingdon Coles phoned Emily a, the shop she refused to see him.

WHAT HAS HAPPENED SO FAR Emily Day and her lively sister Kitten are daughters of a worker at the Rossiter factory. Both are prevented by poverty from mingling with the socially elect of the little town. Emily has made an ideal of Kent Rossiter. Marty Nolan, whose father keeps a "speakeasy" is devoted to her and she is astonished at his popularity with the rich girls who snub her. Mrs. Frances Halden, a wealthy interior decorator, gives Emily a job and tells her the only aristocracy is that of work. Emily grows jealous of Marilee Grainger, supposed to be engaged to Kent, but he follows Emily into a moonlit garden, after a party, kissing her and calls her beautiful. He leaves town to study law but remains a vivid memory to Emily. Marty tells her he too is to become a lawyer. Emily's father dies and Frances Halden introduces her to Kingdon Coles, a dramatic critic who is greatly taken with her. Emily sees Stella Brent, daughter of a neighbor and Skeets Bradley; a reckless young of wealthy parents, drinking liquor on the sly. Meanwhile Emily finds her hands full with Kitten. Stella confesses that she is in love with Skeets. She and Stella see Marty kissing Avis Rossiter and hear him tell her he wouldn't marry her in a million years. Kitten meets Ted Lanier, goes on an auto ride with him and promises to meet him again. Marty calmly tells Emily that some day he intends to marry her.

She had to be honest with herself. Her thought cast about in a panic, darting this way and that and finally was driven back upon itself. Changes might come about—anything happen. Wait for fate to step in and rescue her; that was the only way. Nevertheless when Kingdon Coles telephoned her at the shop she refused to see him. He invited her for a drive and dinner at one of the inns up the Hudson, but she felt she shouldn't accept. "I'm sorry, King. We're awfully busy right now." "Let me come and help you. I'm a great little old decorator." "Oh, no. Something I have to do tonight, really—" He told her good-bye, offended, and she turned to see Frances Halden watching. She might twist facts talking over the telephone to Kingdon Coles but she would have to tell Frances the truth. The sharp eyes demanded it. "Mother thinks I ought to keep to my own," she began miserably. "King isn't my own class. I'd better not see him any more." "What is your class, my dear?" "Well, I suppose Marty Nolan—" "The red-haired boy with the bad manners? You think he's like you? Why don't you forget what you call 'class,' Emily?" "Your constant fear of it—doesn't it strike you that's only inverted snobbery?" "Who is it makes class? Certainly not those who dignify by that name. From what I've been able to observe they go their ways not bothering much about the rest of the world. It's those who consider themselves underneath, the ones you'd call the 'mass' who draw fine social lines. "They seem to believe the ones on top are determined to push down and so they set about pushing up. The result is the whole arrangement distorted. "Each has part of the world's work to do. Why can't they go along side by side and forget everything excepting that they're all human beings?" "But some say—" "Who are 'some,' Emily? You have a good brain; why not think for yourself? There is no one, no matter what the relationship may be, with a right to dictate your thought. To do this is to steal individuality. That is a grave error." Frances was thinking, Emily suspected, of Muz. Begging her to be herself. Yet there are things you couldn't hold out against—an old hand going up in a helpless way. She thought of Marty and the promise she had made. As if in answer to that she saw him going slowly by the window. Anne Morrow was with him, smiling up at him. All her anger of the night before came searing back. She turned abruptly to the telephone and gave the number of the newspaper where Kingdon Coles was employed. She intended to tell him she wasn't so busy after all and that she'd enjoy a drive. But he had left for the day. Stella came through the hedge early in the evening. For the first time Emily noticed she no longer was plump. And she had left off rouging her cheeks and her eyes were very big in a white face. "Want to go for a walk, dear? I'm just finishing the dishes—with you in a second—" Stella nodded and went to the street to wait. The girls linked arms when they started out and it was then Emily saw her friend's hands clenched. "Is it Skeets again, Stell? If only you'd forget!" "Can't forget some things, Em. He—hasn't seen me for nearly two weeks. Wouldn't answer when I telephoned. Rotten—oh, boys of his class—" "Why do you thing of class, dear? Not important really," Emily tried to quote Frances Halden but it fell flat before Stella's fierce scorn. "Who says it's not important? You think he'd treat girls of his own crowd this way? He's over calling on Bess Tourney; I went around there and saw him. I hate 'em all, Em," she burst out. "Your father was right. Act as if we were dirt under their feet. All alike—oh—" Emily said, "I don't know." She thought of Avis Rossiter hysterically throwing herself at Marty Nolan; of Stella sneaking by the Tourney home to spy on Skeets. But she also thought of Kent. CHAPTER XVIII Emily went into the house and found Agnes in the shadow of the hallway. She had heard; even now she peered into her daughter's face with a stricken look. "You sent him away, Emmy? You told Marty to go away?" "He—oh, he's terrible, Muz. Telling me what I must do—can I stand that—" "He's a fine lad, baby, and I've no doubt knows what's best. I mind the time your father did the same. Two that's to be married—ah, it would break my heart—" She put up her hand with the gesture Emily dreaded, brushed it across her eyes. Pathetic, so helpless—its very helplessness, bound the girl. No longer free to walk lightly, go swing out to meet some vivid destiny. Caught by this unreasoning thing, a gesture of a tired old hand with knotted ropes at the back. "Well, see it through. Others did things which twisted their hearts. Without a whimper, the way of the thoroughbred. She could do that much even though she was only Emily Day. "It's all right dear," she said, rather dully. "He'll come back. Didn't you and father do that sometimes? Have little quarrels? Means nothing—" Agnes brightened at once. "It's a quarrel then, Emmy? Only your happiness I want, baby. I'll be leaving you one of these days—" "Muz darling, please!" "Yes, I'm getting along and there isn't a great deal in life. If I could see you safe with one that would cherish you! You'll listen to him, dear?" "Of course I will! He's been kind to us, hasn't he? Yes, of course I want to listen!" And she believed then that she did. The fine glow of sacrifice had faded the next day but Emily clung to the letter of her promise. Marty said he was going to marry her some time. All right, she would do this. Walk to the altar with him, promise to love and honor till death parted them. Love and honor—promise that! A sacred thing it should be, made with the heart, not just the lips. Do it because her mother wished it and because he came to her arrogantly and said, "Some day I'm going to marry you!" Would that be right? She could not see that it would!

Fast Buying Boosts Corn

Price Forecast of Dollar-a-Bushel Stimulates Trade

CHICAGO, Feb. 8 (AP)—Predictions of dollar-a-bushel corn before the end of the season had much to do with big buying which lifted prices fast. Closing quotations on corn were buoyant at the highest level since early in December and showing 1 1/2 to 2 1/2 net advance compared with yesterday's finish. Wheat closed 1/2 to 1/4 to 1/2 up, oats at 1/2 to 1/4 to 1/2 gain, and provisions at a rise of 2c to 10c.

It was not until near the end of the day that the corn market broadened out in earnest. Almost from the outset, however, increasing demand for immediate delivery corn began to be apparent, and unfavorable weather was given more and more emphasis to indications of a falling-off in the volume of receipts. Most conditions prevailed widely, and further rain or snow was predicted for tonight with no signs of any seasonable cold.

Large industries were reported meanwhile as having become active purchasers of corn, and with surplus offerings of future deliveries giving evidence of having been absorbed commission houses and speculators engaged in a general scramble on the buying side of the market. Extreme smallness of country offerings of corn to arrive, with increased competition for even the low grades of corn, gave impetus to the ensuing advance which lasted until the final gong. Incidentally, export buying was of only moderate volume, as holders raised their limits.

Wheat rallied at the last, sympathizing with corn strength. Beside, there were wheat crop damage reports from many sections of soft wheat territory. Earlier, the wheat market was depressed as a result of a break in vessel rates from Argentina and expected larger shipments from there causing a decided drop in wheat quotations at Liverpool. Oats traders took their cue chiefly from the action of corn. Provisions went higher with hog values and with grain.

Trade Continues Dully Following Rate Increases

NEW YORK, Feb. 8 (AP)—Traders continued to feel their way carefully in the bond market today. High grade mortgages were steady, but selling was general among issues of a semi-speculative order. Expectations that new offerings this month will exceed those of January probably was a factor contributing to caution, while traders still were awaiting developments in the money market. Advances in the Dallas and Boston rediscount rates attracted little more than cursory interest, inasmuch as it is generally accepted that all banks of the federal reserve system are headed toward the 4 per cent rate. New offerings were moderately large in volume, and included $14,000,000 of Oklahoma natural gas corporation bonds.

American Sugar Refining 6's dropped a point on news of the omission of the dividend on the common stock, and a few other sugar issues were affected, including Cuba Cane Sugar 8's and East Cuba Sugar 7 1/2's. Pathe 7's again declined and Seaboard bonds continued to sag. Northern Pacific prior lien 4's were in brisk demand, and Baltimore & Ohio bonds gave a fair account of themselves. Buffalo Rochester & Pittsburgh 5's, on the other hand, dropped about 3 points. The foreign group was irregular and dull, French and Italian obligations continued their gradual movement upward. Firm prices ruled the United States government department.

Illinois Upsets Dope by Defeating Purple Basketeers, 32 to 20

Mills Scores Six Baskets for New Ruby Cage Five Walters, Wildcat Star, Ejected Because of Personals

URBANA, Ill., Feb. 8 (AP)—Illinois upset the Big Ten basketball dope bucket tonight by defeating Northwestern, 32 to 20.

The Illini, despite the loss of their captain and two other regulars by ineptibility, jumped into an early lead with five free throws and were never headed, leading 17 to 12 at the half.

The Northwestern defense wilted before the surprise attack and let the Illini break through for short shots, while the Purple failed to roll the ball and took most of its shots from the center of the floor.

Walters, Northwestern's star center, was ejected from the game near the end of the last half with four personals, although he led his team's scoring with seven points. Mills led the Illini with thirteen points.

The defeat knocked Northwestern out of second place, moving Wisconsin up behind Purdue in the Big Ten race.

Seven State High Schools Enter in Bresnahan's Meet

Beside being the date of the birth of George Washington, Feb. 22 will mark the day on which the University of Iowa will be host to the inter-state high school track meet.

This meet, which is held at the field house, is an annual affair, and invitations to participate have been sent out to more than 2,000 high schools.

Seven schools have already sent in entry blanks to Coach George T. Bresnahan.

Marengo high school has entered David Kruse in the quarter-mile run, while the Abraham Lincoln high school of Council Bluffs has one man, Moulton Graham, slated for two events, the sixty-yard high hurdles and the sixty-yard low hurdles.

Ellsworth Miller will represent the North English high school in three competitions, the sixty-yard high and low hurdles and the fifty-yard dash.

Perry high school will send John Peddicord to run the one-half mile and DeLoss Osburn to compete in the high jump.

Two high schools from Chicago, Lindbom and Oak Park, are also scheduled to appear. Oak Park high school won the meet last year, and is hoped to furnish some stiff competition in this year's running.

Vogel Calls for Frosh Infielders

Coach Otto H. Vogel requests that all freshman infielders report for practice in the field house Monday at 7:30 p.m. Starting at this date practice will be held three times each week—Monday, Wednesday and Friday evenings.

The fundamentals of fielding will be stressed for the first few practices. Before long a complete infield workout will be held. In a few weeks there will be hitting drills held to see who can apply the ash.

The battery men have been out for about two weeks. Most of them are getting in fair shape. A little more pep is evident each night due to the nervousness being worn off. Beginning next week battery men are requested to report on Tuesday and Thursdays at 7:30 p.m.

Phi Deltas Defeat Phi Beta Delta in Greek Cage Tilt

Tau Deltas Take Easy Game from Chi Kappa Pi

Two dull and uninteresting encounters were played in the championship round of the inter-fraternity cage tournament last night. No team played good basketball and the games were too one-sided to force the winners to exert themselves.

Delta Tau Delta beat Chi Kappa Pi with the long end of a 20 to 4 score. The losers played a miserable brand of ball and it was only because of the poor basket shooting of the Deltas that the score was not much larger. A point significant of the dullness of the game was that out of the seven personal fouls made, neither team scored a counter.

The winners led at the end of the second period by a score of 12 to 0. Jones sunk the only two baskets for Chi Kappa Pi and played the best game for that team. Hass was high-point man for the Deltas but Kidd, as usual, was the best man on the floor.

Phi Delta Theta again emerged victorious by defeating Phi Beta Delta 17 to 10. The winners were way off form and need to improve their game over that of last night if they intend to defeat Alpha Sigma Phi. Phi Beta Delta bewildered the victors in the early part of the game by their team work but were unable to keep up the pace. The game was one of the roughest yet played in the tournament and most of the fouls were on the winners.

The superior height of the members of the winning team contributed greatly in saving it from defeat. O'Connor was the only man of the Phi Deltas who played a good game. Steinberg starred again for the losers.

In the worst game yet played in the quadrangle tournament, the lightweight of section B defeated those of section D by a score of 11 to 7. Most of the time the ball was outside or rolling around the floor. Neither team watched the ball closely and no man on either side could hold onto it if he did get it. Few passes were used and each man tried to dribble the entire length of the floor to shoot. Section B led at the end of the half by a margin of 9 to 2. Jacobs was the best player for the winners and Tolson for the losers.

Hawk Gym Team to Open Season

Illini, Gophers Battle Old Gold Here Saturday

As a result of intensive daily drills the Iowa gym team is rapidly rounding into shape for the opening of the season at the field house Saturday afternoon. Illinois, Minnesota and Iowa teams will compete in the first three-cornered meet ever staged here.

Last year both the Illini and the Gophers defeated the Hawkeye aggregation, but the scores were too close to show any decided superiority over the Iowans. Illinois won by the score of 118.5 to 116.5 and Minnesota won by the score of 1,130 to 1,109.

Five Veterans

The roster of the 1928 Iowa gym team contains the names of five men who were with the 1927 team and four new men.

W. B. Henderson, M1 of Independence, will lead the squad this season. He was high point man on the Iowa team last year, and tied for the conference championship in the parallel bar event. Although he will be handicapped throughout the coming meets due to a slight hip injury, great reliance can be placed on his scoring heavily.

K. M. Peterson, A4 of Delliiver; H. W. Swift, L1 of North English; P. C. Houser, C4 of Iowa City; and L. Unglenk, D4 of Ames, were consistent scorers last season. These four men together with Captain Henderson are the five veterans.

Four Freshmen

R. A. Nelson, A3 of Keokuk; H. C. Gee, A2 of Anamosa; W. J. Tenby, A2 of Des Moines; and R. Keller, A2 of Hoboken, N. J., are all entering their first year of competition. With the exception of Nelson, these men were on last year's freshman squad and won their numerals in gymnastics.

Next Saturday these men will compete on the following apparatuses:

- Parallel bars—Keller, Henderson, and Swift.
- Flying rings—Keller, Henderson, and Peterson.
- Tumbling—Gee, Tenby, and Swift.
- High bar—Peterson, Henderson, and Unglenk.
- Side horse—Houser, Unglenk, and Nelson.
- Indian clubs—Tenby.

Keller takes the place of J. C. Drake, M3 of Holland, who was declared ineligible for competition after the close of last semester examinations.

Kansas to Attempt Repetition of Wins

KANSAS CITY, Feb. 8 (AP)—Hopeful of duplicating Kansas university's triumphs of last week over the three Iowa teams in the Missouri Valley conference, the Kansas Aggie basketball team today started northward to open the week's basketball hostilities.

Kansas, having defeated Drake in Des Moines last week, expects to take the Bulldogs into camp tomorrow night when they come to the Jayhawk court.

Scrambling to keep out of the cellar position, Nebraska invades Ames tomorrow night to play Iowa State. The latter now rests on the bottom, and cannot rise higher with a single victory.

Cagers Smother Freshman Five in Practice Tilt

Hoosier Quintet Tied for Fourth; Iowa in Seventh

If the Hawkeyes can maintain the hot pace they set against Coach Rolle William's freshmen Wednesday, Indiana is going to be in for a tough evening when the Iowa team invades the Hoosier court. The varsity ran wild, scoring baskets from all angles, with the frosh standing by stupefied.

Coach Justin M. Barry opened the practice with the usual long shooting drill, followed by ten minutes of individual defensive work. The coach is anxious to develop a strong defense for the high-powered Hoosiers. The Indiana offense is easily one of the most potent in the conference, as is evidenced by their forty-nine points against Kentucky, a supposedly strong non-conference team.

McCracken Like Murphy

The Indiana center, McCracken is a long, tall boy with capabilities similar to Murphy of Purdue whom the local fans had the pleasure of seeing not long ago. In the Purdue-Indiana game, McCracken held Murphy to one basket, and his play was adjudged to be the equal of the Purdue stringbean. "Rags" Wilcox will be a busy man if he can take care of the Hoosier.

Knox Drills Five for Cedar Rapids

Team Rests Until Tilt With Tigers Here Friday Night

In the practice session yesterday Coach Walter S. Knox polished off the new offensive drive which he plans to have his Iowa City high cagers use in their game against Washington high of Cedar Rapids tomorrow night. Following the workout he announced that the team would take a rest today and asked the men to forget basketball until they renew hostilities with the Tigers at the local gym Friday night.

Yesterday's practice saw the Little Hawks getting plenty of scrimmage, both of the dummy and scrappy variety. The session started out with a dummy scrimmage against the third team, the chief factor stressed being accurate passing. Later the third team took on the first squad in actual warfare and after a period of this, the second team was also injected into the fray.

While the floor work of the Red and White was much better than earlier in the week, Coach Knox was still distressed about the basket-eye of the team.

Sprinters Develop 13.7 Horsepower

LONDON, Feb. 8 (AP)—Professor A. V. Hill of University College has made recent experiments on athletes, which show that when a man runs 100 yards in 10.45 seconds he expends as much energy as if he were to jump 650 feet vertically into the air—almost twice the height of St. Paul's cathedral.

A sprinter traveling at that pace develops 13.7 horsepower, almost equivalent to that of some four seater motorcars.

A message from the brain to the muscles travels at the rate of 400 feet a second, equal to about 280 miles per hour and almost equivalent to the pace achieved by the winning plane in the Schneider cup trophy race.

to penetrate the stiff varsity defense, and their scoring was done mostly from the foul line.

First 1928 Meeting

Iowa and Indiana have not met before this winter. The Hoosiers are tied for fourth place and the Iowans are seventh in the conference standing.

The all-time series tie will be broken by the game. Each team has won nine games since relations were started in 1915. Iowa last played Indiana in 1926, breaking even in two games.

Hahn Wins at Newark

NEWARK, N. J., Feb. 8 (AP)—Lloyd Hahn, Boston A. A., middle distance star, romped away with his ninth straight victory of the present season tonight when he captured the 1,000 yard handicap at the eighty annual games of the Newark A. C.

Howard Selects Hawk Grapplers

Battle Today Decides Competitor in 175 Pound Class

With the choosing of two more members of the wrestling team, there yet remains the selection of the grappler who will fill the 175-pound berth. The choice lies between Frank Voltmer of Sigourney and R. E. Jarrard of Lone Tree, who will settle the matter on the mat this afternoon. In order to meet Jarrard, Frank Voltmer hosted the only other competitor in this class—his brother, Earl J. Voltmer.

To represent Iowa in the 175-pound division, L. G. Maley of Pilton pinned down P. G. Amble of Peterson in yesterday's elimination wrestling.

E. W. Aherns of Conroy eliminated E. C. Krottmeyer of Bettendorf in the 145-pound class.

The other members of the team so far chosen by Coach Harold M. Howard are M. W. Edwards, Williamsburg, who, as the smallest Old Gold wrestler, will fill the 115-pound berth. R. A. Weir of Griswold, who was 115-pound titlist two years ago, represents the 125-pound position.

The other two members so far selected are L. B. Beers, Iowa City, 158 pounds and J. M. Gilchrist, Keosauqua, formidable 235-pound contender.

The Hawkeye wrestlers will meet Chicago here Saturday night at the field house. Bob Hunter, former Old Gold wrestler, will officiate.

Sixty-Two Swimmers Enter Mid-Western A. A. U. Meet Here

Records Tremble as Aquatic Stars Prepare for Trials

Winners May Try for Berth on Olympic Swim Team

With sixty-two entries listed in the Mid-Western A. A. U. swimming meet and sectional Olympic trials here this weekend all previous entry records have been broken. The meet will have some of the best aquatic stars in the mid-west competing and there is still a possibility that the list will grow before the time of the meet.

All records are threatened and some new champions will undoubtedly be crowned as a result of their swimming. The 500-yard free style and the 150-yard back stroke seem to be the records which are doomed, both of them have stood since 1926. Also the 200-yard breast stroke record is likely to fall, with a fast field competing in the event the record should come tumbling down.

Nebraska Represented

Schools in Nebraska and Iowa will be represented and some of the best of the Missouri Valley and Big Ten conferences will be battling against each other. Several veterans of the water will again enter competition and some new experienced men will take their places to try for berths on the Olympic team.

The meet will be held on Friday and Saturday with the preliminaries in the afternoon and the finals at night. On Friday the events which will be contested will be the 400-yard relay, 200-yard breast stroke, low spring board diving, 300-yard medley relay, 200-yard free style. The events for Saturday will be the 100-yard free style, 150-yard back stroke, high spring board diving, 300-yard individual medley swim and the 500-yard free style.

Places to First Three

Places will be awarded to the first three to finish in each event and a place will be awarded to the team which has the highest total number of points.

The entry list:

400-yard relay: Unattached team, Iowa City.

200-yard breast stroke: Walter Wicks, Iowa State college; Frank A. Conway, Lincoln High School, Des Moines; M. J. Carter, University of Iowa; R. J. Goldman, University of Iowa; A. Tracksters Report at Iowa City High

Coach G. Wells Enters Group for State Indoor Meet

Although at present most of the energies of Iowa City high are devoted to basketball, several track aspirants have started working out under the direction of Coach George Wells, in preparation for the interscholastic indoor track meet to be held at the field house, Feb. 23.

Only two of the squad which has reported thus far are veterans, but Coach Wells thinks that a strong team may be developed from the new men. Captain Charles Dalton is a half-mile of some experience and will be in good shape by the time of the meet. The other experienced man is Eugene Lewis, who will compete in the mile.

Campbell Shows Promise

Of the new men, Theron Campbell is showing by far the most promise. Campbell is a former New Sharon high athlete who enrolled at Iowa City high in the fall, and is the best all-around man on the Little Hawk squad. He can run anything up to the quarter mile and is a hole vaulter of some degree as well.

Nebraska Takes Navy's Place on Army Grid Card Contest Scheduled for Nov. 24; Huskers Play in East

WEST POINT, N.Y., Feb. 8 (AP)—The University of Nebraska, one of the strongest eleven in the mid-west, takes the Navy's place on the 1928 football schedule of the army. The game will be played in the West Point stadium on Nov. 24.

In scheduling the Cornhuskers, who disputed the Missouri Valley conference leadership with the University of Missouri last fall, the Army wrote the final chapter to the events growing out of the now famous break with the Navy over the eligibility standards, at least for 1928. The midshipmen already have booked Princeton for a game at Philadelphia on the date originally set for the annual service classic.

No True Mentioned

No word of a possible resumption of relations with the Navy in 1929 was contained in the Army's official announcement made by Major Philip Fleming, the graduate manager of athletics. Neither was there any comment on reports that the cadets had been approached with a proposal to play the University of Chicago at Chicago in 1928.

This year's slate, characterized by Major Fleming as "probably the most strenuous schedule ever attempted by an Army team," was completed after an unsuccessful effort to switch playing dates so that Nebraska would be met here on Nov. 10, the date now assigned to Notre Dame, and the Hoosiers reserved for the climax opposition on Nov. 24 in New York.

Notre Dame Willing

Notre Dame, it is understood, was willing to make the shift, even though it gave the Rockne men an interval of only two weeks between games in New York and Los Angeles, with Southern California. However, Nebraska found it was unable to change its previously scheduled game with Oklahoma on Nov. 10 to permit coming east on that date and the plan was abandoned.

Nebraska made the army an attractive offer to play the game at Lincoln but this was not accepted because of the opposition of military authorities to the team making more than three trips away from West Point. Harvard, Yale, and Notre Dame will be played away from home next fall.

Hospital Team Plays Cosgrove Tuesday

The basketball team of the 136th hospital company has returned to the point of veterans under the coaching of Dr. L. J. Griffith. The team was first organized a year ago and had a successful season.

Dr. Griffith, an instructor in the college of dentistry, and Lieutenant in the hospital company, has been coach of the guard team since its organization.

The first string men on the company's case team are: F. Stutzman, center; T. Jackson, T. Watkins, M. Brown, and J. Idema, a former member of the Iowa City high school team and captain of the high school football team last fall. All the men are former players of the Iowa City high school team.

So far this season five games have been played, three of which were won by the hospital company. Two games were played with the Williamsburg Independents, two with Cosgrove and one game with Springfield. Another game with Cosgrove was scheduled for last night but was postponed until next Tuesday night due to the fact the roads were so bad the Cosgrove team was unable to get to Iowa City.

Liddle Entered

100-yard free style: B. N. Liddle, unattached, Iowa City; E. Van Horn, University of Iowa; J. C. Crookham, University of Iowa; C. M. Stewart, University of Iowa; A. Peterson, University of Iowa; M. Wright, University of Iowa; W. B. Hoaglin, University of Iowa; W. L. Murrree, unattached, Iowa City; M. Mivalsky, unattached, Iowa City; J. E. Bray, unattached, Iowa City; H. J. BOWLING

Two ties between two teams in the Business Men's league featured the bowling at the Dees a few nights ago.

Dee of Mac's Sporting Goods store tied Drum of Gartner Motor for the high individual honors for a single game with 204, while for three games, Moffitt of Mac's Sporting Goods and Wharton of Gartner Motor both chalked up 542.

Mac's store won the high team score for one game with 859, while the three game high total went to Gartner Motor, who topped the mables for 2509.

Mac's store bowed to Gartner Motor with a two to one game defeat, the Pink Tire shop winning a two to one game victory over the Checker cab pinsters.

Friends of Runner Obtain Special Train

FALLS CITY, Neb., Feb. 8 (AP)—Home town friends of Lloyd Hahn will travel to Kansas City in a special train Feb. 18 to see the famous middle-distance runner race in the Kansas City Athletic club invitation meet. It will be their first opportunity to see him in a major event, for he has not appeared in a middle western meet since high school days ten years ago.

The train may run from Lincoln and Omaha, where Hahn has many friends. At least 125 persons will board the special here for the 115-mile trip.

Ingwersen Scouts Northwestern Game

URBANA, Ill., Feb. 8 (AP)—One hundred and thirty eight men answered Coach Robert Zuppke's spring football practice call at the University of Illinois today.

Two Big Ten football coaches, Dick Hanley of Northwestern and Burt Ingwersen of Iowa, a former Illinois football star, watched the initial practice and then viewed the Illinois basketball victory over Northwestern.

Peltzer Meets Dodge in Special Event of 1000 Yards

Iowa's two mile relay team, with Wilmoth as head-off man, Speers the probable second man, with McCammon his alternate, Gunn, third, and Moulton anchor will leave for Chicago tonight.

The team will be accompanied by Coach George T. Bresnahan and will reach Chicago in time for a workout on Friday morning.

The Chicago Riding club will be the battle ground for the I.A.C. meet on Friday evening. The club has a clay track which is shorter than the one in the field house.

The university two mile relay is scheduled for 10:10 p.m. Michigan, Ames, and Notre Dame are the other schools entered in the event.

According to advance hope the relay is likely to develop into a struggle between Iowa and Ames. Michigan, however, will be a strong contender, and Notre Dame is usually represented with several good middle distance men.

The race Friday night will be the first intercollegiate competition of the year for the members of the track squad. The team will stay at the Drake hotel and will return home Saturday.

The feature event of the evening is the race in which the German runner, Peltzer will match strides with Ray Dodge, for many years one of the outstanding distance men in the United States. The distance has been set at 1,000 yards.

Dodge who is closing his career on the track tomorrow night will seek to avenge the defeat suffered at the hands of Peltzer in New York last week.

Iowa City High May Enter State Wrestling Meet

It is possible that Iowa City High School will be represented in the state high school wrestling meet to be held at Ames Feb. 17 and 18. Although the Little Hawks have no regular team to send to the competition, Coach Walter S. Knox, athletic director of the school, and George Wells, who has been in charge of the wrestling workouts, both indicated that Lyle Sangor would probably be entered in the meet.

Sangor, who was one of the Iowa City's best linemen on last year's football squad, has been showing considerable ability and hopes to compete in the meet. It was indicated that the principal thing which stands between Sangor and the meet is the expense money necessary to make the trip, and it has not been definitely decided that the athletic association shall finance the venture.

City Republicans Favor Candidacy of Frank Lowden

Party Leaders Believe Sentiment Favors Ex-Governor

By VIRGIL LEWIS
Iowa City and Johnson county republicans favor Frank O. Lowden for president. Even old members of the democratic party are declaring themselves for the former Iowan who recently announced that he would be a candidate for nomination on the republican ticket.

Prohibition, tax reduction, religion, immigration, and scores of other large and small issues, may figure in the coming conventions and elections, but farm relief has come to the front and left the other minor points in the background.

Farm relief is becoming recognized as the real problem of the day and coupled with the flood prevention problem seems to be definitely in the foreground of political consideration.

Harley Hunt, former county agent of Johnson county, believes that nearly all farmers, regardless of the party they belong to, are in favor of the Illinois man.

In speaking of Lowden's possibilities, Hunt said, "This is a chance for the country to pick a man who has a real knowledge of the farm problem. Without a doubt that is the main issue at stake now."

S. K. Stevenson, Iowa City attorney, who is a member of the executive committee of the Iowa Lowden-for-president movement, believes Johnson county republicans to be fully 90 per cent behind Lowden.

"There will be no contest locally," Stevenson said. "I feel sure that the republicans are solidly for Lowden. Farm relief is the big issue and there seems to be no other man who will be able to handle it as Lowden can."

"I have talked with many democrats in the county who are for Lowden and will vote for him regardless of who is nominated on the democratic ticket. On the other hand there are numerous republicans who will swing to the democratic side if any other republican except Lowden is nominated," Stevenson added.

He referred to the campaign of 1880 when a capable leader was needed. "... the people, through their chosen delegates passed over the brilliant Senator Seward of New York and the aggressive Governor Chase of Ohio and came to the prairies of Illinois to select Lincoln. Will history repeat itself?"

Prof. Frederick J. Lazell, of the school of journalism, former editor of the Cedar Rapids Republican and past president of the national association of journalism teachers, favors Lowden for the presidential chair.

He says, "I think Lowden would be a good president. My regret was and is that Lowden was not nominated in place of Harding. I thought him a much better man and still think so. I think Lowden would make an able, energetic, and popular president."

Mrs. S. K. Slemmons, republican committeewoman for the second congressional district, had the following to say in regard to Lowden, "Iowa farm people as a whole feel that while Lowden as a president would not solve all problems confronting present day agriculture, he would at least be a man at the head of the nation favorable to that industry and one possessing a better understanding of those problems than any other known candidate."

Lowden is a graduate of the University of Iowa and alumni have been loud in their support for him. Mrs. Carl Seashore, Iowa City leader in women's political circles, is

Motorist Draws Fine for Parking Without Tail Light

C. A. Russell, 1005 E. Burlington street, was fined $1 and costs in police court yesterday after he pleaded guilty to a charge of parking a motor vehicle without a tail light. Russell had parked his car Tuesday night in front of the Burlington apartments where it was struck by a car driven by Elmer Johnson, 121 E. Burlington street.

Johnson suffered a fractured arm, cuts and bruises when his car was overturned on the street car tracks by the force of the collision. He was forced to break the windshield in order to signal an approaching street car to avoid a second crash.

Make Record for Number Changes in Business Block

With the filing of the transfer in the sale of the building occupied by Mueller brothers shoe store yesterday, a record for real estate transactions in one block were broken.

Since Jan. 1, 1928, four pieces of property on Dubuque street between Washington street and Iowa avenue have changed hands. This is the largest number of transactions ever recorded in one block in an equal number of days.

James Luscombe, 9 S. Dubuque street, purchased the building in which he now has a photography studio from the Welch estate. Rol and Smith, 11 S. Dubuque street purchased his present restaurant location from the Welch estate. Joe Rinello, 15 S. Dubuque street, bought the building in which he has his cigar store from the Epinetor estate, and Mueller brothers, 16 S. Dubuque street, purchased the site where they now operate a shoe store from the John G. Mueller estate.

Birth certificates were filed at the office of the county clerk yesterday as follows: Abbie Ann, born Jan. 18 to Mr. and Mrs. John M. Tudor of Iowa City; Cecilia Marie, born Jan. 24 to Mr. and Mrs. Alvin C. Lantz of Linc Tree; Dale Harrison, born Jan. 10 to Mr. and Mrs. Olliver Strong of Lone Tree; Fern Juanita, born Sept. 22 to Mr. and Mrs. Earl Krupp of Iowa City.

Fined for Disturbing Peace
Bryant Albaugh, Iowa City, was assessed $1 and costs in police court yesterday afternoon by Judge Paul E. Custer after Albaugh had pleaded guilty to a charge of disturbing peace.

Birth Certificate Files
Birth certificates were filed at the office of the county clerk yesterday as follows: Abbie Ann, born Jan. 18 to Mr. and Mrs. John M. Pleds Not Guilty
C. W. Smith, 311 S. Clinton street, driver of the car that struck Ed Wahl Tuesday night at the intersection of College and Clinton streets, pleaded not guilty to a charge of reckless driving in police court yesterday afternoon. Judge Paul E. Custer set the time for his hearing at 10 a. m. this morning. Wahl was slightly injured.

Funeral services for Mrs. LeEtta Madden of Tiffin will be held at 2 o'clock today in the Methodist church in that place.

Police Picks Up Car
A 1924 Chevrolet coupe bearing no license plates was found by police in the one hundred block of Dubuque street south of Iowa avenue at 11:15 p. m. yesterday.

The cover of the spare tire on the rear of the car bore the Chevrolet trademark and the following words: "Dirje Motor, 6523-36, W. Roosevelt Rd."

Very favorable to Lowden as a candidate. "I believe he is a fine man and the university should be proud to have an alumni nominated and elected. I have just returned from California and have not had time to sound out opinion locally but everything I have heard is favorable to Lowden," she said.

Other men and women politicians believe that Lowden has the farm interests at heart more than any other candidate mentioned.

Hoover was born at West Branch but has not kept as closely connected with agricultural interests as Lowden, Iowa City republicans say.

City Briefs

To Hear Road Petition

A petition has been filed with the county board of supervisors in reference to the improving and widening of the township road running through West Lucas, Clear Creek, and Union townships, and connecting federal highway no. 32 with the I.W.V. road. The hearing on the petition has been set for Feb. 17 at 2 p. m.

H. I. Jennings Asks Judgement of $666 for Unpaid Contract

Asking a judgment of $666, H. I. Jennings, insurance agent, began action in district court yesterday against the Day Construction company and H. M. Michael whose addressees were not named. He also asks a writ of attachment against the property of the defendants to secure the payment of the judgment.

Jennings asserts in his petition that on Dec. 15, 1927, the defendants employed him to secure someone to finance the building of a fraternity house for the Nu Sigma Nu fraternity, promising to purchase $40,000 life insurance in the name of H. M. Michael from the plaintiff if he succeeded.

Jennings claims that he has fulfilled his part of the contract, but the defendants have not, and that he has therefore lost the $666 commission on the sale of the insurance.

Burrell, Holloway, Nagle Win Contest

The annual declamatory contest of the Iowa City high school given yesterday at 7:30 p. m. in the school auditorium, was won by Gwendolyn Nagle, first in dramatic with "The Money Spider." Josephine Burrell, first in oratorical with "The Wandering Jew," and Merritt Holloway, first in humorous with "The Debate in Society."

Second places were awarded to Jeanette Huff, dramatic, with "Elizabeth," Woodland Woodward, oratorical, with "John Miller," and Grace Donovan, humorous, with "Mary Carey." Judges were Erma Taylor, Marion Powers and Abbie Anna McHenry, students in speech from the university.

Northern Veteran of Civil War Dies

Andrew J. Kimes, 84 years old, died at his home in Pleasant Valley township yesterday morning. Funeral services will be held Friday at 1 p. m. at the Hohenschuh mortuary. Burial will be made in Pleasant Valley cemetery.

Mr. Kimes was a Civil war veteran. He has lived in Pleasant Valley township for forty years.

He is survived by one sister, Mrs. A. D. Barnes of Pleasant Valley, and three daughters, Mrs. Joe Lewis of Lone Tree, Mrs. Jake Wildman of Iowa City and Mrs. Fred Abbey of Hills.

Manufacturer's Cooperative Marketing Plan

A New Departure in Retailing

We have never been, nor are we now, converted to the rather questionable habit of dignifying every reduction in price that takes place here, as a SALE.

Prices are reduced here in and out of season as occasion arises or necessity demands.

We pose neither as philanthropists nor panderers.

The iron hard rules of business are competitive. Intensely so.

With this in mind, we are now concerned with the promotion of an event of prime importance, combining the final reductions on all fall and winter goods with fresh, new spring stocks of every description, that are to be sold at considerably less than regular prices.

For this event we have called upon and have received favorable replies from eighty-six outstanding manufacturers and wholesalers.

Many of these replies will appear in reduced form in Thursday's Cedar Rapids Gazette, and with that announcement the MANUFACTURER'S COOPERATIVE MARKETING PLAN, a future annual event, becomes a part of this store's history.

Eight intensive selling days, beginning Friday morning February 10th and continuing uninterrupted until Saturday, February 18th, inclusive, involving the lowest prices and the last reductions on all fall and winter goods combined with the selling of crisp new spring goods bought at less than regular rates, and to be sold on a basis of the concession made by the Manufacturers and Wholesalers cooperating with us for this important occasion.

Herewith, a partial list of the Manufacturers and Wholesalers contributing.
