SENATOR WANTS TO OUST MELLON

Lindy Takes Congressmen for Ride Over Washington

Plans Additional Flights to Take Other Legislators

To Get Congressional Medal of Honor Tomorrow

WASHINGTON, March 20 (AP)—More than a score of members of congress went sightseeing over Washington today in company with a distinguished taxi driver—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh.

A portion of the ninety-odd senators and representatives who accepted Lindbergh's recent blanket invitation to fly with him, went up with the trans-Atlantic ace in an army Fokker transport monoplane and a Douglas transport biplane. By groups they took off from Bolling field for twenty minute spins over the city.

In the passenger list were two of the four women members of the house, Representatives Rogers of Massachusetts and Langley of Kentucky.

Gives Practical Knowledge

The flights, Lindbergh's idea of the best way to give congress practical education in aviation, served also to create a setting for the presentation of the congressional medal of honor to the flyer at the hands of President Coolidge tomorrow. The medal was voted last December by congress as another tribute to the first man to fly from New York to Paris.

The ceremony of presentation will be simple, probably in the president's office, and will follow the precedent set when a similar medal was given to Commander Richard E. Byrd for his aerial accomplishments.

Enjoy Flight

If the congressional flyers had any fears before or after their flights today they did not reveal them. They appeared eager to fly and delighted with the experience when they alighted. Part of tomorrow and most of Thursday have been set aside by Lindbergh to take other legislators for rides.

While one load of guests was up, another trans-Atlantic flyer arrived at Bolling field, Clarence Chamberlin, with an escort of three planes.

Among the passengers in addition to Mrs. Rogers and Mrs. Langley, were Senator Harrison, republican, Maine; and Bingham, republican, Connecticut; Representative Swing, republican, California; Letts, republican, Iowa, and his wife and daughter; Williamson, republican, South Dakota, and his son; Maas, republican, Minnesota, and Howard, democrat, Nebraska.

Mortar Board to Entertain Women

As a part of the program for Union week, March 18-24, women of the university will be entertained at an afternoon tea-dance from 4-5:30 o'clock in the lounge at Iowa Union today.

All university women are invited to attend the affair, which is sponsored by a committee of Mortar Board with Barbara Kittredge, A4 of Iowa City as chairman.

In addition to dancing for which George Jones' orchestra will play, the following program will be given: Violin solo, Ellen Jones, A3 of Iowa City; reading, Gertrude Bowen, A3 of Great Bend, Kan.; vocal duet, Myrtle Van Peursen, A4 of George; and Lyla Mae Moran, A2 of Fullerton, Cal., Dutch dance, Ila Fox, A3 of Pella and Mae Plette, A3 of Pella; dance, Ruth Caster, A3 of Seymour and Margaret Gustin, A3 of Moville; piano solo, Irma Sedgwick, A1 of Davenport.

Mrs. Robnett Tells of Many Vocational Fields for Women

A few years ago when a woman was graduated from the university, there were two alternatives open to her—getting married or teaching.

Today, in the words of Mrs. Florence Robnett, acting director of the college bureau of occupations at Chicago, there are from 200 to 300 different lines of occupation that college women are entering.

Emphasizing the importance of knowing at the beginning of the college career, the line of activity one wishes to follow, Mrs. Robnett addressed university women in the lounge at Iowa Union yesterday.

"Personality," Mrs. Robnett declared, "without question counts more than ability in getting a job in any profession. That is not to say that ability is not necessary, but quite often we have found that women with mediocre ability but brilliant personalities win position over the more able person of less personality."

Walsh, Nye Disagree on Sinclair Publicity

Investigating Group Questions Waterloo Man Today

WASHINGTON, March 20 (AP)—A rift in the senate Teapot Dome committee between the youthful chairman, Gerald P. Nye of North Dakota, and the silver haired prosecutor, Thomas J. Walsh of Montana, appeared on the horizon today as the committee prepared to reopen its public hearings tomorrow.

"It is singularly unfortunate," Senator Walsh said, "that publicity should have been given to some of the plans of the committee, or what individual members conceive to be its plans, and equally that there should be allowed to become public, information affecting priceless reputations until it is confirmed upon inquiry to such an extent as to warrant the development of the facts through witnesses."

Investigate Harding's Acts

The precise reasons for Walsh's structures on the chairman were not specified, but those closely following the investigation accepted them as referring especially to Nye's announcement yesterday that the committee would investigate the records of the Harding estate and the permitting of reports to leak out of Chicago which since have impelled both Associate Justice Frederick L. Siddons, of the District of Columbia supreme court, and Chief Justice George E. Martin of the District of Columbia court of appeals to issue statements.

Question Waterloo Man

While Walsh's statement was in preparation, the chairman amplified his previous statement about the Harding estate inquiry by saying that the investigation would be comprehensive enough to encompass the question of whether the late president became the recipient of "any returns whatever from any of the interests involved in the Continental Trading company and these other oil deals."

At its session tomorrow, the committee is to question Wilbur W. Marsh of Waterloo, formerly treasurer of the democratic national committee about democratic party financing in 1923 and other years, and also on other matters.

British Empire Tied by Sentiment

English Historian Says Subjects Dictate Own Affairs

The British Empire of the future will be an association of commonwealths, bound together only by the bonds of sentiment and the individual interests of the dominions. This was the conclusion reached by Prof. Herbert Heaton, British historian and economist, at a round table conference at Old Capitol Monday.

In answering the question asked by his topic, "Where is the British Empire going?" Professor Heaton said: "Where the British Empire is going depends very much upon the common sense of its component members. At present the Empire is held together by common ties of race, history, language, and tradition, as well as by economic and defensive interests. These interests will persist but in the future the Empire must follow a united foreign policy or Britain will pay the piper."

"Since the war, two things have become apparent," continued the speaker. "One is that if one member of the Empire wanted to leave the group, the others could not prevent it. The second is that in the future Britain cannot thrust a war on the dominions without their consent and approval."

Declaring that intelligence on conditions of the future may be found by studying the past, Professor Heaton traced, step by step, the colonial history of the British Empire up to the present day. He showed how Canada had led the fight for autonomy, with the other nations following in her footsteps. He declared that the story of the past eighty years has been a recognition of the fact that the colonies should govern themselves.

Inspection of S-4 Reveals Only One Victim's Message

Note From Dying Man Directs Disposal of Body

BOSTON, March 20 (AP)—But one of the six men imprisoned in the torpedo room of the sunken submarine S-4 wrote a message during their last seventy-four hours of life, a thorough inspection of the vessel indicated today.

This message, a brief one, was found in the clothing of Seaman George Pelnar at the Chelsea naval hospital, where the bodies of the last eight of the S-4's crew were taken following the removal last night. It was written in red crayon on a small piece of cardboard, and read:

Gives Address

"My body to Pelnar, 5609 South 19th street, Omaha, Neb."

The address was that of Pelnar's mother, Mrs. Kate Meleziwa, listed in official naval records as his next of kin.

The finding of the message was announced by Secretary of Navy Wilbur, who came here today to inspect the S-4 in her drydock and to thank the officers and men of the salvage fleet for their successful efforts during their three months at Provincetown.

No Other Record Found

No record or note relating to the last hours which Lieut. Graham Fitch and his five comrades spent in the torpedo compartment has been found. The members of the naval board of investigation, however, have not given up all hope of finding one.

They said that such a message might be on the deck of the compartment, which has not yet been cleaned of its coating of mud.

Al Smith Denies Sinclair Support

New York Governor Accuses Senator of Slander

ALBANY, March 20 (AP)—Governor Al Smith tonight characterized as "demagogic slander" statements made by Senator Robinson, republican, Indiana on the floor of the senate yesterday that Harry P. Sinclair, a prominent figure in the oil scandal, had been a heavy contributor to the New York state democratic gubernatorial campaign in 1920.

In a letter to Chairman Gerald P. Nye of the Teapot Dome committee, Governor Smith declared that "a careful search of the official records made at my request today confirmed by recollection that Mr. Sinclair never contributed to my campaign fund either in 1920 or at any other time that I ever ran for office; in fact, I failed to election as governor in 1920 and Mr. Sinclair had been appointed to the racing commission months prior to that election, some four years before there was any thought of the oil scandal."

"I do not propose that either you or Senator Robinson of Indiana," the governor continued, "shall escape public humiliation for the infamous insinuations that you have made by your pretense of disclaiming desire to cast reflection on me or stating that your committee has no concern with the matter."

After the governor had written the letter, word was brought to him that Mr. Sinclair had contributed on one occasion to a democratic campaign fund in New York state. The contribution, made in 1918 to the New York Country Democratic committee, amounted to $41,000, records in the secretary of state's office disclosed.

Aviator Seeks to Set New Records

Tries to Break Mark for Endurance, Refueling

An attempt to refuel Shank's plane failed early tonight when a hose line running from the fuel ship became entangled in the propeller of Shank's machine and was cut to pieces. Neither plane was damaged, however.

Later Shank dropped a note saying he had sixty-five gallons of gasoline left, which was more than enough to keep him going until daylight when another refueling attempt will be made.

ST. PAUL, March 20 (AP)—On a solo flight in quest of several records—principally that for sustained flight—Gene Shank, 22 year old St. Paul aviator, was in the air tonight after taking off at 1:17 p.m., from the lee of White Bear lake.

Circle over the St. Paul airport, he set himself to the task in the hope of bettering the world mark of nearly fifty-two and one-half hours and incidentally breaking Colonel Lindbergh's solo flight record of more than thirty-three hours, made in his Atlantic hop.

Another mark aimed at by the young pilot was the endurance flight for light planes of the type he is flying, now set at twelve hours, and the refueling record of thirty-seven hours.

House Committee Backs Equalization Fee Fourth Time

WASHINGTON, March 20 (AP)—For the fourth time in five years the house agriculture committee today approved the equalization fee provision of the McNary-Haugen farm relief bill. The vote was 13 to 8.

In the event that this should fail, it then would be empowered to place the equalization fee machinery in operation.

Dakota Electorate Pledges Support to Lowden, Smith

Each Candidate Gets Unanimous Vote of Approval

FARGO, N. D., March 20 (AP)—Thirteen votes for Frank O. Lowden in the republican national convention and ten for Governor Alfred E. Smith in the democratic meeting were pledged by the North Dakota electorate in today's state-wide presidential preference primary.

These two presidential possibilities were unopposed and their endorsement was a mere formality, incident to the selection of delegates to the two national conventions and naming of presidential electors.

First interest attached to the contest within the republican party, where the non-partisan league faction was opposed by the independent or anti-league group in selection of delegates, electors and national committeemen.

Harrison Garnett of St. Thomas, the present republican national committeeman affiliated with the independent faction, was opposed for reelection by F. J. Graham of Ellendale, a non-partisan leaguer, while the democratic candidates for committeemen were T. J. Casey, Dickinson and J. N. Kelly, Grand Forks.

Increased pay for state legislators and clarification of the powers of the state board of equalization also were acted upon by voters in proposed constitutional amendments.

Wall Street Stock Continues to Soar

Radio, General Motors Climb to Record High Mark

NEW YORK, March 20 (AP)—Cries of "a corner" resounded in brokerage houses today when common stock of the radio corporation scored a spectacular gain of $23 a share on the New York stock exchange, duplicating the record high price of $160 established last week, and starting a fresh turmoil of speculation in other issues. Sharing market leadership with radio, which lost $5 of its gain on profit-taking, was General Motors, which jumped $6 a share to a new record price at $174 and closed $1 a share below the top price.

Combined sales of Radio and General Motors ran close to 500,000 shares, or about one-seventh of the day's volume of business. It was the eighth consecutive full session in which stock sales had crossed the 3,000,000 share mark.

The average of twenty leading industrial shares, compiled by the Associated Press, advanced nearly 1 1/2 points today to a new high record for all time, and were approximately 20 points above the year's low.

Langworthy, Roach to Repeat Tonight in Lead Roles

Sharing honors with Miss Langworthy is Walter Roach, in the role of John Sande.

The play is set in four acts in Scotland and in England, the first act taking place in 1900. Costumes of the early twentieth century add interest to the production.

Northern Railroads Plan Line Merger

WASHINGTON, March 20 (AP)—The Great Northern and Northern Pacific railroads are willing to take on their operating system practically all of the short line railroad mileage in the northwest which now connects with their rails. It allowed to merge as they have planned, the interstate commerce commission was today told by executives concerned.

Ralph Budd, president of the Great Northern, testifying as the last witness in the protracted hearings over the merger proposal, told the commission that in order to guarantee the maintenance service over short line railroads in the territory which the merger occupies, the consolidation would take care of six out of seven small roads concerned.

Submits Measure Indorsing Removal of Treasury Head

Couzens Would Have President Remove Cabinet Officer

WASHINGTON, March 20 (AP)—Citing a long list of complaints against Secretary Mellon, a resolution under which the senate would go on record as favoring the resignation of the treasury head was introduced today by Senator Couzens, republican, of Michigan.

Mr. Mellon's failure to reveal his knowledge of Harry F. Sinclair's contributions to the republican party's 1920 campaign was given as the first of the reasons for the Michigan senator's opinion that he should not continue in office.

Couzens has opposed the treasury on tax measures during much of Mellon's seven years administration and the introduction of the resolution served not only to revive his personal feud but brought about a renewal of the spirit of 1926, when the senate asked the resignations of Secretary Denby of the navy and Attorney General Daugherty in connection with the inquiry into the naval oil reserve leases.

Without power to command the resignation of a cabinet officer, the senate at that time forwarded its appeals to President Coolidge, who turned deaf ears, although both Denby and Daugherty later resigned, the latter by request.

Will Ballot Soon
The resolution will be pressed for a vote within a day or two or as soon as the rules permit.

The reading of the long resolution which covered three typewritten pages, was followed by a short exchange between Couzens and Senator Reed of Pennsylvania, intimate friend and associate of the secretary.

"I take it we may assume," the Pennsylvanian said, "that Mr. Mellon is otherwise all right."

"I won't admit that," Couzens retorted, and the senate, which had listened closely to the reading, returned to business.

California Probes Collapse of Dam

LOS ANGELES, March 20 (AP)—Evidence that a dynamite explosion may have caused the collapse of the St. Francis dam and released the flood of liquid death on the Santa Clara river valley today was in the hands of investigating authorities. While officials were not definitely convinced that the dam had been dynamited, so much credence was placed on the findings of deputy sheriffs assigned to the flood area that every reservoir and dam in the entire Los Angeles water system tonight was under a heavy guard.

Among the discoveries which officials said tended to support the dynamiting theory was said to be the finding near the dam of a sheet of note paper with a roughly outlined chart of the structure and a short piece of newly frayed rope. The strand was asserted to be the same type as used by aqueduct dynamiters who in the past have blasted sections of the waterway. The chart was said to be written in the same handwriting that sketched charts found at the previous dynamitings.

With the known death toll from last week's flood set at 277 and the list of missing at 173, a federal investigation also got underway today with the arrival of Dr. Elwood Mead, director of the reclamation service.

Dr. Fred M. Smith of the college of medicine, will speak at the next Baconian lecture, on March 23. The lecture will be held in the chemistry auditorium at 7:30 p.m.

Dr. Smith's topic will be "Recent advances in the prevention and treatment of cardiac diseases." The lecture will be illustrated with a series of lantern slides.

Wendt Speaks to Chemical Society

Ohio Director Places U.S. Second in Research

Prof. Gerald L. Wendt, director of the Battelle Memorial Institute of Columbus, O., gave two lectures yesterday before the Iowa section of the American Chemical Society. He spoke at 4:30 p. m. in the chemistry auditorium on "American Chemical Research in 1928."

The title of his lecture at 7:30 p. m. in the chemistry auditorium, was "The Creative Artist in Research."

Professor Wendt places Germany in the lead of all countries in chemical research work. The United States is next in this line he believes. He places France above England, saying that the research people in England are slow and discouraged with their work.

Professor Wendt made a general survey of the research in America at the present day and discussed topics under investigation among chemists.

Prof. N. F. Lewis and Prof. Nicholas Knight of Cornell, with ten students, were present at the meetings.

Prof. J. B. Culbertson, Prof. Thomas C. Poulter, Gladys M. Woods, assistant in chemistry, and ten students from Iowa Wesleyan college were also here.

Freshmen Debate With Missourians

Visitors Will Arrive Tomorrow; Ahead of Schedule

Contrary to expectations, the freshman debate with the University of Missouri scheduled for March 24, will be held tomorrow at 7:30 p. m. in the Senate chamber of Old Capitol. The change in plans was due to a telegram received from Missouri stating that their team, Donald Cox and Lawrence Grace, would come to Iowa City on Thursday.

Iowa's representative in the debate who will uphold the negative will be Jack Volterston, A1 of Davenport, and Milton Riepe, A1 of Burlington. Riepe is a member of Alpha Sigma Phi fraternity and Volterston belongs to Delta Upsilon. Both were members of high school debating teams which competed in the Iowa high school debating league.

Grace of the Missouri team was state high school champion debater last year.

The speakers will give twelve minute speeches and five minute rebuttals on the subject: "Resolved, that the United States should cease to protect by armed force capital invested in foreign lands except after formal declaration of war."

The audience will vote on the merits of the question before and after the debate, the change of opinion determining the winning team. There will be no admission charge.

Regulating Traffic

PETITIONS are being circulated among Iowa City voters asking that the city council provide an appropriation in the 1928 budget for automatic traffic controls. At the present time only $1,000 has been allowed by the city council for traffic purposes. It is probable that College street will be made a cross-town arterial highway, thus causing an expenditure that is estimated at about $1,000. This would leave the budget depleted—and no traffic controls.

Iowa City needs modern stop and go signs. There is probably no other city of this size in the state, at least not that carries a similar amount of down town traffic, that is not equipped with these modern safety devices.

Driving in Iowa City during the noon rush is as difficult as driving in Chicago. There is little order; the best driver gets the right of way. Traffic violations are increasing daily. Although police watch carefully, it is impossible to apprehend all those who break the law. And not only violations are increasing but also small accidents, which might easily become more serious.

Traffic signals, which regulate the flow of traffic through the business district, would not do away with all accidents or problems. But it would help to a certain extent. It would at least save many pedestrians from hair-breadth escapes from careless drivers at down town street corners.

The citizens of Iowa City who are anxious to see this movement put across should sign their names to the petitions. They will be presented to the city council Friday night when the budget for this year is finally approved. After that it will be too late. It is up to these people to help Iowa City solve one of her main problems.

Guns

CEDAR RAPIDS plans to place a German howitzer and an Austrian gun in front of its new memorial building. We wonder just who originated the idea of planting murderous looking guns in front of public buildings. Surely it is a queer mind that can see anything aesthetic in a grim cannon and a heap of lead cannonballs. No one would think a grave stone, however artistic, an addition to public grounds. Yet the guns connote death more surely than gravestones, and not merely death but all the horrors of battle.

The people have protested themselves weary of war; then why give the instruments of war a position of honor? To give them such a position is comparable to inviting a murderer out to lunch—a thing seldom done even by the philanthropic. If something must be mounted, and it seems something must, why not a peace dove and beside it a glorified salt shaker? Or better yet give the space to grass and flowers whose mission has always been one of joy and beauty, and not of death.

Junking the Submarine

CONGRESS has indicated in its attitude toward the naval appropriations that it could forget the existence of the submarine without serious regret. Henceforth, the United States will, presumably, be little concerned with the development of under-sea craft.

It seems a cowardly way to solve a vital problem. We deprive future generations of the benefits which will come from the development of boats capable of exploring the depths of the ocean, simply because we fear the destruction those could cause in time of war.

All progress entails some risk. When the automobile was evolved, it was recognized that an engine capable of propelling itself at a high rate of speed was undoubtedly a potential engine of destruction. At the same time, it enabled man to traverse the land five times as fast as he could with the old means of transportation.

When man conquered the air it was realized that the airplane also was a potential engine of destruction. The World war gave an indication as to how far that destruction could be carried. Yet, few people would abolish or cease to develop the airplane. All are confident that its possibilities as an engine of peace far outweigh its terrors as an engine of war.

When wires carrying thousands of volts of electricity are strung throughout our countryside, it is done with the knowledge that they are potential agents of destruction. Yet, they enable man to transmit untold power thousands of miles across the land.

But now when man has evolved a machine which permits him to penetrate beneath the surface of the ocean, the Congress of the United States decides, after careful deliberation that development of that particular branch of science shall stop, inasmuch as submarine boats are potential engines of destruction.

Three-fourths of the surface of the earth is covered by water. Practically all of that vast expanse is unexplored except upon the surface. Science, after years of fruitless experiment, has developed a machine which enables man to explore beneath the surface of those oceans. It is impossible to predict the vast amount of knowledge which that exploration may yield. And Congress chooses to let more hardy races pioneer the field, simply because the bungling of naval officers has caused two submarines to meet with serious accidents, and because it is deemed less honorable to shoot at a man from beneath the surface of the ocean than from a hidden machine gun nest on the battle front.

The constructive possibilities of the submarine are as great as—probably infinitely greater than its destructive possibilities. It is our duty, therefore, to develop it to the highest degree possible. This development can best be done by the navy, where time spent in constructive experimentation costs little more than time spent in dress parades.

Double Training

A WOMAN'S college especially adapted to women is the aim of a group of educators founding a new school at Bennington, Vt. This institution seeks to train students with special talents to become homemakers without drowning their abilities in dishwater.

Co-educational schools have demonstrated that there is no difference in the relative brain capacities of men and women. Now women may develop a special type of education without admitting inferiority.

The college at Bennington has no entrance examinations, and graduation is based on the student's knowledge of her chosen subject. The founders of the school, realizing that the majority of women will eventually become homemakers, aim to educate women who will coordinate domestic pursuits with their chosen professions.

This college is a new and interesting step in education. It hopes for an enrollment of gifted girls whose talents the freedom of the curriculum will foster.

Perhaps the school will discover a way to develop untemperamental artists who will go placidly about their household duties keeping their husbands perfectly comfortable. It is more probable, however, that women with artistic tendencies will continue to scorch the beef steak, while the in-artistic majority will still prefer dusting to painting pictures or writing books.

An Epistle to the Porto Ricans

(From The New York World)

From the tone of his letter to Governor Towner, Mr. Coolidge appears to be incapable of understanding why the Porto Ricans should seek a larger measure of control of their own affairs. He enumerates the benefits, reckoned in dollars and cents, conferred upon the island during thirty years under American dominion; points to the progress it has achieved under our benevolent rule, and asks the people of Porto Rico to look around them and consider what other countries less blessed in the course of events have had to put up with. Is not the prosperity we have shared with them more than adequate compensation for any disappointed aspirations they cherish?

The trouble is that the Porto Ricans have been taught to believe in the principles of free, democratic government as inherited through the United States, and it raps them to have an alien governor and certain restraints, however slight in fact, imposed upon them from Washington. They have profited by better systems of education, sanitation and roads, and their island, with the aid of outside capital and enterprise, has grown in wealth, trade and productiveness. They have learned by experience that they are fitted for far better things than Spain in the old days ever permitted them to know, and with freedom and self-rule has been stimulated the natural desire for greater freedom and self-rule, just as our own territories, one after another, hoped to rise to statehood as their rightful destiny. If it was the purpose of the United States to hold them in check permanently as unpendable, it was a mistake from the start to loosen the reins and let them take their own gait.

Now the consolation offered the Porto Ricans in their restlessness is to treat their island still as a dependency of the United States, somewhat backward and undeveloped in its preparation for full self-government, and put them off with soft words about their reasonable aspirations for the future. This method is more likely to irritate than to calm the islanders in their agitation.

Spring Number

Hey, Hey! Spring Iz Kum!
The dapper stude is dapping dapper, per.
The flapping co-ed's flapping flap-per.
The lap-dog laps his little lapper—
Hey, hey! Spring iz kum!

Plus-fours have plussed a little pluser.
The fusser fusses with his fuser.
The muss-guy says he mustn't muss'er.
Hey, hey! Spring iz kum!

The Pi Phi's shy a little shyer.
The drunk drinks rye a little ryerer.
Swede Myhre plinks upon his lyre.
Hey, hey! Spring iz kum!

No bull! Swisher Wilson claims we're going to have snow today. He pointed at the low, drifting smoke from downtown. Where's Wilson been all winter?

Fact is, Wilson's a pessimist. A pessimist is a guy who waits a full ten minutes if the prof doesn't arrive at class on time.

Hey, Hey! Spring Iz Kum!

Anyway, if the Pi Phi's go broke and can't pay their telephone bill, can spring be far behind?

And when a Pi Phi gets poetic, it's a sure sign that spring is either here or she has a date. In the case of Esther's little verse, it must be the former.

ESTHER'S POME

The lightning bug's a cheerful creature,
But it hasn't any mind,
'Cause it goes through its existence
With its headlight on behind.

ESTHER

We promised Esther that we wouldn't tell her last name. She bribed us by saying that she could give us lots of dirt on the Pi Phi's if we would keep her name out of the column. It begins with "F" but we can't tell the rest of it. But she's the little girl who was distributing hand concert posters Monday in an attempt to make up the Pi Phi telephone deficit.

Oh, well, what does a Pi Phi want of a telephone? She never gets a date, anyway.

!!! SPRING, SPRING, SPRING !!!
I am singing a song of spring—
Least you forget,
Before I finish with the thing,
That this is it!

This will not be a lively lay
Of birds and bees;
I do not have a thing to say
About the trees.

The sky is cloudless all about
It seems to me;
But on the day that this comes out
It may not be.

So, if you read this when the snow
Is gaily flying,
You cannot say that it is so
That I am lying.

And if a blizzard comes tonight,
I can't prevent it!
Because today the sun is bright—
I don't resent it.

Presidential Aspirants

Gov. Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland is different from most presidential candidates of both major parties in that he has a platform. While Donahue and Pomeroy are running on Ohioans, Watson on the Indiana delegation, Willis for the fun of the thing, Dawes, Smith, Hoover, and Hughes, on their records, Ritchie has a definite platform and makes it known. He is against the weakening of states' rights.

He is also the only candidate who is not married and with the exception of Smith is the only one who did not receive his early training in a small town. He is also the only presidential possibility who has been governor for eleven years.

Despite the tradition which has existed in Maryland forbidding a governor more than one term, Ritchie was the first democrat to be nominated to succeed himself and the first of either party to be re-elected. A republican governor before him had been renominated but defeated in the election.

The rule established by years of precedent seemed inviolable and neither a constitutional amendment nor a statutory prohibition seemed necessary to keep a governor from perpetuating himself in the office.

Marylanders say Ritchie was able to break the precedent only because he was an exceedingly good governor.

Ritchie is 52 years old, a native of Virginia, and further unique from other presidential possibilities in that he was not born in a small town, but in Richmond of a distinguished family.

Graduate of Johns Hopkins
Ritchie is also the only candidate for president who studied in the larger eastern universities, having been graduated from Johns Hopkins university when 20 years old and from the law school of Maryland when 22 years old.

He began the practice of law in 1900 and three years later was appointed assistant city solicitor of Baltimore, which position he held for seven years. He then became people's counsel before the Maryland public service commission.

In this role he won first public recognition, during the course of a fight in which he succeeded in lowering gas rates from ninety cents to seventy-five cents, much to the chagrin of the Baltimore powers who had regarded him, from training and birth, as alienably the friend of wealth.

Six years later, in 1916, Ritchie was elected state attorney general, and for two years he handled all litigation in which the state was involved until in 1918 he was appointed chief counsel of the war industries board in Washington.

As governor Ritchie sponsored legislation which entirely reformed the state government and was responsible for shortening the executive term, thus making his own second term three years long instead of four.

He clashed with President Harding in 1923 when all governors of states in the coal producing districts were asked to call out troops

The Constant Flame

By WINIFRED VAN DUZER

CHAPTER 53

Emily had a visitor at the shop next day.

She had been thinking about Marty, wondering a great deal, trying to understand the processes which would turn one so essentially proletarian as the Nolan into a snob.

For Marty was that now, she decided. As much as a snob as Kingdon Coles. Like him, Marty would make his affections fit his interests.

Coles wouldn't marry a middle-class girl no matter how much he might love her. And Marty would turn from the girl he had thought himself in love with all his life because of disgrace threatened her.

Or was that the real reason? She remembered the morning she had seen to Morrow's office and what she had seen there. Marty and Anne approaching the ground glass door; their shadows merging as Anne lifted her face for his kiss.

Perhaps his ambition had led him to looking higher for a wife than The Hill. Perhaps he intended to marry Anne some day.

Coles was blue-blooded and Marty was not, but they were alike. Both snobs. Apparently it was made up of the lowly as well as the high in place, the thing Frances Halden called "snobocracy."

This clashed with the theory her father had held, of course; the supposition that it was only those born to wealth and power—the classes—who oppressed the masses. But now she wondered if certain members of the lower strata might not be tyrannical enough, given opportunity.

Perhaps it was not a matter of class and mass but of individuals.

In a dim way she always had hoped for something rather fine from Marty. But this was the end of that hope.

That she didn't love him and didn't wish him to love her mattered not at all; she had nothing to do with love. She was hurt by the sure knowledge that whatever bigness she had expected of him was not there. Only the outside of Marty had come up in the world; his spirit remained where it always had been.

At this point in her reflection a thin, dark boy with an earnest face and a general appearance of purpose about him came into the shop.

"You're Miss Day?" he asked. "I suppose you don't know me. Ted Lanier's name."

She never had heard of him. But there was something so frank and wholesome in his personality that she liked him at once.

"I used to meet your sister some times. Don't hold that against me, though; the fact is I'm in love with her. I fell in love right at the start and was crazy to marry her. I could take care of her, too; I've got a good job and money saved. But she turned me down."

Emily tried to conceal her amazement. It wasn't necessary, however; he was too intent on what he had to say to notice it.

"I ask you, Miss Day, if you liked a decent young fellow like I do, like me, you know; I'm sure of that—" row path tinkled through it. Approach to the Inn by this path would have been easy for one who did not wish to be seen.

"She might have come this way," Kent told Emily. "I don't suppose we'll find anything down there, but we may as well try."

They climbed over the bank, the dog racing about, and began another careful scrutiny. Underbrush grew heavily on both sides of the stream and they tore through this, studying the ground. But not so much as a footprint rewarded their efforts. They penetrated far up the glen to a point where the patch was obscured by matted elders and creepers.

"No one has been through here," Kent remarked.

But Emily peered ahead. Raggedy had run on and now he was growling with his ears slanted forward and jumping about in the stiff-legged manner of terriers.

"He acts that way when I throw something for him to carry back," she explained.

"Probably found a rabbit hole," Kent was turning when she caught his arm. "No—I'm sure—you see he has a different bark for rabbit holes. He almost talks, you know—makes a dozen different sounds and I can tell what he means by each. This has something to do with a person and a stranger. We'd better see."

Laughing at her confidence in the dog, Kent struggled through the rank growth. She saw him bend over, hesitate, straighten up again. Then he scrambled back carrying an object very gingerly between thumb and forefinger.

What he held seemed a toy but she realized with a shudder that it was not. A small, rather dainty pistol, pearl-handled.

They stared at each other. "It's the one she took to the club that night," he nodded. "Probably came along this path and threw it over there. One chance in a thousand of finding it. The ground is swampy and it was standing upright with the barrel in the earth."

She put over her hand but he moved it quickly. "Careful, my dear. Ought to be plenty of fingerprints on that handle."

He would take the pistol to Novel City, he said, and lock it in the safe. Did she want to ride over with him?

"Of course I do!" And, thinking that sounded too eager, she added, "I want to help all I can. She'll be arrested now, won't she?"

"Let's make it sure first. This is only half the link; let's close it tomorrow. You can do that, Emily."

"Oh, I'm glad!" She caught his look, warm as a caress, and stooped over Raggedy to hide her face.

She watched him under her lashes. All the way to Novel City and back she kept stealing glances at his beautifully chiseled profile, adoring his pride, the high, joyous nobility of him.

Marty had been wrong, Kent was fine through and through. That rushed goldenly into her thought and exalted her. Marty had been wrong; Steve Day had been wrong; not all blue-blood clan were false and grinding. Individuals, maybe, but there were such among the red-bloods, too.

Blood, she decided suddenly, had nothing to do with the heart. And Radiance swept her; when she told Kent good-night he leaned down, looking into her transfixed face.

"You are the most beautiful thing in the world," he said. And drove quickly away.

She closed the link next morning. Kent had told her exactly what to do. She carried some snapshots to the Wickert home and asked Bianca to look at them.

The snapshots were unimportant but Emily was very careful not to touch their glazed surfaces after the Spanish woman had left her finger prints on them.

Wheat Continues Rise

European Demand on Large Scale Gives New Impetus

CHICAGO, March 20 (AP)—European demand on a larger scale for wheat from North America gave an upward trend today to the wheat market here. It was estimated that 1,600,000 bushel of wheat and 200,000 bushel of rye were taken for export.

Closing quotations on wheat were firm, 3c to 3 1/2c net higher, with corn at 1c to 1 1/2c advance, oats 1c off to 1c up, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 1c.

Indications of broadening of transatlantic need of breadstuffs became evident early in the day, but first advances in price here were virtually wiped out as a result of profit taking sales and by assertions that liberal purchases of Argentine wheat for Europe had been effected. Besides announcement was made that more or less wheat had been booked to come to Chicago from Omaha. Unexpected strength of the Liverpool wheat market, however, as well as big export business in North America wheat led to a sharp rally here as the day drew to an end.

Corn rose to fresh high price records for the season. Very active buying which accompanied the upward swing of the market was based largely on indications that much elevator corn is going east from here all-rail, despite nearness of the opening of lake navigation. Further export business in corn was said to be in progress both by way of the Gulf of Mexico and the Atlantic seaboard as well, and there was a decrease of corn arrivals throughout the west. Aggressive speculative selling which was witnessed at times failed to exert any lasting effect.

In the corn market, deferred deliveries sold at a new high on crop and nearby futures at a new high on present movement.

Oats values were unsettled by weather conditions which favored seeding.

Provisions developed firmness.

Semi-Speculative Mortgages Hold Market Attention

NEW YORK, March 20 (AP)—Activity of semi-speculative mortgages featured today's bond market which in general displayed considerable irregularity. High grade liens, with the exception of those in the public utility group, appeared to be under pressure, probably on profit-taking.

Corbin Pitches Regulars to 7 to 0 Victory Over Yannigans

Glasgow Comes Through With Big Day Poling Hits

Players Work Hard to Make Annual Trip to Dixieland

Yesterday, a brighter day, and a slightly faster diamond the varsity were again seen against the Yannigans. This time the scrub's received a goose egg. The tune was played in seven to nothing time.

The varsity infield quartet was comprised of Nelson, Blackford, Glasgow, and Allen. Capt. Herb Terry was in his accustomed place in right field. Center and left field were taken care of by Hientel and Rath respectively. The veterans, Thompson and Corbin did battery duty.

The bright spots in the afternoon's play were Corbin's airtight hurling and Glasgow's hitting. Corbin was not bearing down, but perhaps he had something on it from the way the Yannigan hitters missed them. Captain Terry, Rath, Thompson and Hientel also hit the ball consistently.

The pitchers drilled on covering first base and fielding bunts. The pitcher that cannot field his position does not have a chance on the baseball team, says Coach Otto Vogel.

The squad has begun the work in preparation for the fourth annual spring trip into the south. Coach Otto Vogel told the ball players, "What you show in the practice games determines whether or not you will be numbered in the crew that goes south to make things hot for the Dixie nines.

Sixteen men will probably make up the contingent that entrains on the night of March 30, for the southland. For the eight game schedule Vogel is planning on taking five infielders, five pitchers, four outfielders, and a pair of catchers.

The first and last games are to be played with Washington university in St. Louis. The trip also calls for two games each with Louisiana State, Tulane, and Mississippi A. & M.

Coach Mike Howard, of the varsity wrestling team, has signed to meet Earl Wampler of Scranton at Jefferson on March 28. Wampler has received considerable publicity in recent years as one of the best light heavyweights in Iowa.

Coach Howard is said to be in good condition, despite his years of inactivity, as he works out daily with his varsity grapplers. Howard will enter the arena at 195 pounds, carrying a fifteen-pound advantage over his former opponent.

SPORT SLANTS

by ALAN J. GOULD

(Associated Press Sports Editor)

NEW YORK, March 20 (AP)—The baseball dope that is being waffled gently northward already has offered answers to most of the momentous questions that accompanied the major league outfits to the south.

It may therefore be set down with a fair degree of impunity that—

1. George Sisler has beaten out Joe Judge in the contest for first base with the Washington Senators, chiefly by exhibiting a great hitting comeback.

2. Kiki Cuyler, batting in his chosen position, third, looks ready for a big season with the Chicago Cubs.

3. Joe Hauser has completely recovered from the effects of his broken leg, staged a comeback and plugged the first base gap for the Athletics.

4. Connie Mack's pitching staff will be in much better shape for the start of the season than it was a year ago.

5. The Boston Braves, pepped up by the addition of Hornsby, will be extremely troublesome, if not an actual pennant contender.

6. Sparky Adams is fast filling the second base bill for the champion Pirates.

7. Bill Cissel, White Sox infield recruit, has not yet measured up to his $123,000 price tag.

8. The Red Sox and Phillies, to judge from early exhibitions, will be the foremost contenders for cellar positions again.

Most of the pre-season calculations favor the National league pennant prospects of the St. Louis Cardinals or Pittsburgh Pirates but it will be just as well not to overlook Joe McCarthy's hustling Chicago Cubs.

The Cubs are in somewhat the same situation the Yankees were two years ago in that their chief problem is located around the key-stone bag. If Freddy Maguire and Woody English come through for the Cubs in anything like the fashion that Lazzeri and Koenig did for the American league champions in 1926 it will be pleasant sailing for Mr. McCarthy.

Otherwise the Cubs are well fortified. Cuyler, Stephenson and Wilson form a great outfield trio. Behind the bat Gabby Hartnett is one of the best in the business and the pitching staff is well stocked with such talent as Root, Carlson, Blake and others to count on.

The spring training games don't count in the pennant race but it is worth noting, at least, that the St. Louis Cardinals, Browns and Boston Braves have the best record in the grapefruit circuit so far while the world's champion Yankees have the worst.

Up to today the Cards had registered four victories out of five

Braves Beat Yanks for Third Straight

ST. PETERSBURGH, Fla., March 20 (AP)—The New York Yankees may be champions of the baseball world, but the Boston Braves can lay claim to the title so far as it concerns St. Petersburg.

For the third time in as many games, the Yanks succumbed to their National rivals today, 4 to 2. It was good pitching that turned the tide for the Boston team. Foster Edwards shut out the champions for five innings with four hits. Ed Brandt allowed three safeties, all of them in the seventh, when the Yanks scored their brace of runs.

A twenty second limit has been fixed for the pitcher's delivery, among other things, but no new regulations have yet been established to limit the wild pitch or control the recovery of a fumbled ball.

Beers, Weir to Wrestle in Title Battle Saturday

Beers Defeated Once in Big Ten Dual Competition

Unbeaten in Western conference dual meets for two seasons, Leslie B. Beers, who Coach H. M. Howard declares is the best wrestler ever developed at the University of Iowa, will compete in the championship meet at Bloomington, Ind., Friday and Saturday.

Beers will enter the 158-pound class, and his team mate, Royal A. Weir, former 115-pound champion of the conference, will work in the 125-pound division. These two will be the only Hawkeye representatives in the individual title meet.

Competing in the 145, 158, and 175-pound classes, Beers has won fourteen of fifteen bouts in conference dual meets in his three years of competition. Eight of these victories were by falls.

His only defeat in Big Ten dual meets was given by Splees, Wisconsin, who earned a decision over Beers in the 158-pound class in the Iowa's first intercollegiate bout. Beers shifted to the 145-pound class later, and took the Big Ten title.

The Hawkeye star was beaten by Donohoe of Michigan in the finals of the 158-pound class for the conference championship last year.

The Mid-Western A.A.U. 158-pound title was won by Beers last Saturday. He may try for the American Olympic team.

Royal Weir, Iowa's other star in the championship meet, won two of five conference dual contests.

How would you like to Manage a Kresge Store?

Read what R. L. Jewett says—

"In 1915 I was graduated from St. Lawrence University. At that time, like many other college seniors, I had no definite idea of the kind of work I would follow. After making two false starts which offered but little promise for the future, I was told of the S. S. Kresge Company's system of promotion. I was convinced that this work was interesting and offered a real future, so I applied and started in the stock room of the Providence store.

Here, I found myself working with men of my own age, splendid associates who were all enthusiastically working for advancement and securing promotion rapidly. After my period of training I was put in charge of a small store and since then I have been promoted to larger stores.

With the company expanding as rapidly as it is today, I believe that the opportunities it now affords are the best in its history. There is still ample opportunity for my future advancement, which of course will depend on my own effort and ability."

KRESGE Store Managerships are positions of trust and responsibility—dignified positions that carry incomes far above the average. Wherever there is a Kresge Store the Manager of that store is looked upon as an outstanding example of a successful business man—and yet he is usually a young man, perhaps just a few years out of college.

We now have a few opportunities open for college men to train for positions of this kind. The men we choose will be men of ambition and foresight—those who are willing to start in a modest way—work hard and put in long hours. To men of this caliber the Kresge Company offers a future limited only by their own ability.

If you think you can qualify, write to our Personnel Department today. A graduate of your own college who has already become a successful store manager with us will arrange a meeting with you and tell you all about our training plan.

University of Iowa One Mile Relay Team Leaves for Texas

Hawkeyes to Run at Austin Friday, Houston Saturday

Wilmoth Selected as Alternate; Return Home Monday

Champion and record holder of the Western conference and the Illinois relays, the University of Iowa's mile relay team and one alternate runner are now enroute to Texas.

At the Texas relays, Austin, Friday afternoon, the Hawkeyes will attempt to crack the meet record held by the 1926 Iowa team. The mark is 3:23.5, and on the indoor track the Iowans have approached within seven-tenths of a second of the time.

The following day the team will run at the Rice Institute relays, Houston, and go after the record of 3:21.5, made by Georgetown in the defeating of the 1926 Iowa team.

For the trip into the southwest, Coach George T. Bresnahan took V. W. Stevenson, Ida Grove; R. I. Stamat, Cedar Rapids; G. H. Baird, Mason City; and Capt. F. J. O'Neil, Cedar Rapids. The alternate is C. E. Wilmoth, Abingdon, Ill., who placed fourth in the conference championship quarter mile won by Baird in record time.

It is likely that the team which won the Big Ten title and the Illinois relays mile race will run intact on the Texas tracks. The men have developed their baton passing to a smooth and fast point, and work together like a veteran combination even though Stevenson and Stamat are new men of the team.

The Hawkeyes will return to Iowa City Monday afternoon.

Harris Leads Mates to Win Over Robins

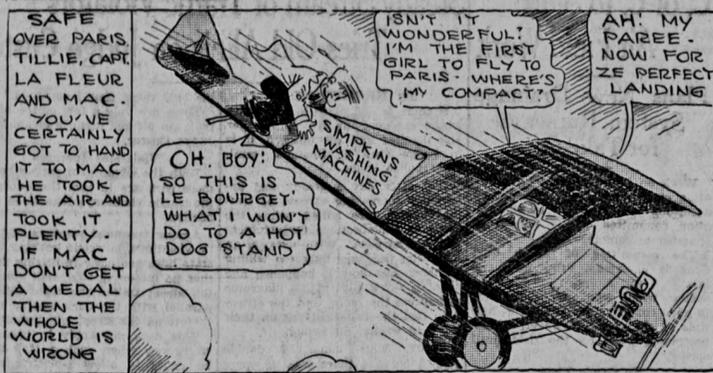

TAMPA, Fla., March 20 (AP)—"Bucky" Harris led his Washington Senators to a 6 to 2 victory over Brooklyn in an exhibition game here today.

Harris crashed out a double and a triple before giving way to Reeves late in the game with the Senators holding a decisive margin. Fred Marberry and Lisenbee pitched for the Senators, the former striking out seven men. Jess Petty was touched up for five runs and nine hits in the six innings he pitched for the Robins.

Students Prefer Cigarets

Three bushels of half consumed cigarettes were the fruit of the labor of two university campus nurses yesterday afternoon after they had conducted a clean-up campaign about the entrances of the buildings on the campus. One bushel was swept up near and about the doors of the liberal arts building while the dentistry building contributed another half bushel. Men alone were not responsible for the crop.

Iowa City Quintet Downs Burlington "Y" Five, 56 to 31

One of those old time basketball games, where defense was nothing except watching the opponents score points, took place at Burlington Monday night when Vern Addy and his Iowa All-Stars of Iowa City scored a decisive victory over the Burlington Big "Y" quint, 56 to 31.

The All-Star, composed of former University of Iowa stars, were masters supreme on the floor and dropped buckets in as fast as they possibly could. Addy led the scoring for the locals with eight field goals and two charity tosses for 18 markers, while Freddy Lawson took second position with 8 field goals for a total of sixteen points.

At the end of the initial period, the All-Stars were setting a slim pace of 12 to 11, but at halftime the score books gave the Iowans 32 to Burlington's 15. The third quarter saw the count mount to 47 to 22.

Soccer Eleven Schedules Game With Illini Team

Only one game has been scheduled for the soccer team for next fall. A game has been arranged with Illinois here, but an exact date has not been set. Spring practice of the squad is being held every Monday, Wednesday, and Friday, at 4:00 p.m.

Coach E. G. Schroeder is continuing his efforts to turning out good tennis men. In his absence as soccer coach, Morris Margolin, A2 of Detroit, Mich., is directing practice. Dribbling is requiring practically all the time at practice and will continue to be emphasized throughout the spring practice.

Tennis Candidates Practice Indoors

Tennis from three until six every afternoon in the field house is the schedule of the varsity tennis squad until weather permits outdoor practice.

The baseball and track teams are getting outside now for practice and the tennis team will have uninterrupted use of the space in the field house.

The men who answered the call yesterday and who appear to be the most likely candidates for the team are: Capt. Bob Nefolicky, Irvy Albert, Richard Boyles, Paul Mitchell, Robert Conrad, Robert McCloskey, Saunders, and Gregory Vincent.

AIKEN, S. C., March 20 (AP)—Thomas Hitchcock, Jr., of the United States polo team and internationally famous star, is nursing several broken ribs and a broken wrist as a result of an accident in play here yesterday. Iowa Conference Holds Track Tilt

DES MOINES, March 20 (AP)—Entries for the Iowa conference indoor track meet, which will be held at the Drake fieldhouse a week from Saturday, must be filed by March 28. Al Gowans, athletic director at Des Moines university and manager of the meet announced today.

Since the Iowa conference has not participated in indoor track events in the past, little is known of the strength of the contesting teams. Few of the conference schools have facilities for indoor training but the weather this spring has been favorable for outdoor workouts and the athletes are expected to be in good condition for the meet.

The strong contenders for the team championships are expected to be Morningside, Simpson, Parsons, Penn and the State Teachers. Morningside is said to have an unusually strong team in the meet.

Since the Iowa conference has held no previous indoor meets, the program of the Missouri Valley conference indoor meet will be followed. Events to be held are as follows: Shot put, mile run, 440-yard dash, 50-yard high hurdles, high jump, 50-yard dash, pole vault, half mile run, broad jump, two mile run and 50-yard low hurdles. Winners of first place in each event will establish an Iowa conference indoor record, since the meet is being held for the first time.

The meet is scheduled to start at 1 o'clock in the afternoon March 31 and to finish about 5 o'clock. No preliminaries will be held.

Macks Defeat New York Giants, 6-5

FT. MYERS, Fla., March 20 (AP)—The New York Giants lost a hard-fought exhibition game to Connie Mack's Philadelphia Athletics today, 6 to 5, chiefly because Tris Speaker insisted on getting on base with great frequency.

Speaker came across with the winning run in the ninth inning on an infield single by Al Simmons. Speaker was on base four times during the conflict, twice on singles and twice on passes. Ty Cobb got a single and a walk in five trips to the plate.

Iowa Rifle Team Beats Four Foes

In addition to finishing its final week of Big Ten competition Saturday by placing itself securely on top of the percentage column, the Iowa rifle team downed four non-conference rifle teams in a five-cornered telegraphic meet.

The Hawk marksmen emerged from the battle with a winning score of 3650. Their closest competition was encountered from the University of Cincinnati, whose team turned in a score of 3625. The University of California, Southern Branch, placed third with 3602. The Virginia Military Institute made a score of 3453 points. Last place went to Clemson Agricultural college with a score of 3331.

The Hearst match, a telegraphic meet for schools having R.O.T.C. units, will be fired this week. This will leave the National Collegiate match to be fired in the future.

Red Sox Administer Cards Second Loss

AVON PARK, Fla., March 20 (AP)—Twenty Cardinal players failed to check the Red Sox, and Boston took an 11 to 8 hitting spree from St. Louis here today. It was the second loss for the Cards in nine exhibitions.

Five boots chalked up against the McKechnie nine coupled with Bill Sherdel's inability to check the Boston club during his one and one third innings, brought defeat down upon the Cardinals.

Ohio Man Talks to Kiwanis Club

Professor Discusses Industrial Value of Chemistry

Competition with corporations in different industries rather than with competitors in the same business is the problem of industrialists today, is the idea expressed by Prof. Gerald L. Wendt at the weekly Kiwanis luncheon yesterday at Red Ball Inn.

Professor Wendt, who is director of the Estelle Memorial institute at Columbus, O., illustrated his point with the example of competition between ice and electric refrigeration companies rather than between rival ice companies.

His subject, "The Place of Chemistry in the New Industries," led to a discussion of chemistry in the development of new commodities and their effect on business economies.

Millions for Research

Professor Wendt explained the widening field of chemistry and its importance in the development of industry. Chemistry is continually finding new uses for some old material and new uses for waste material," said the speaker. Last year $200,000,000 was spent for research in chemistry, he told the Kiwanians.

The cooperative of the Kiwanis club in the entertainment for the district Rotary convention which meets in Iowa City, April 24-25, was asked for by Rotarian W. Hal Stewart. Prof. Abram O. Thomas, president of the Kiwanians, pledged the club's support for the convention.

Plan Lenten Services

It was decided that the weekly meeting of the club on April 3, would be replaced by the Lenten services planned by the Iowa City Ministerial association for that day. The regular luncheon will be held at 12:30 p.m. following the services in the Englert.

Guests included William F. Talbot, guest of Prof. Charles H. Woolbert; Rotarian Lee Nagle, guest of Harold J. Dancy; Rotarian Edward Hartov and Prof. Hubert L. Olin, guest of the Kiwanis club.

Christian Church Group Convenes

The officer's conference of the northeast district of the Christian church will open this morning at 10 o'clock when Annette Newcomer of Des Moines will lead the session for women. John R. Golden of St. Louis will lead the afternoon session which will be conducted for both men and women.

The conference is to be a composite convention for church officers, missionary societies, and Sunday school workers. Members of these organizations of the Christian churches from Johnson, Muscatine, Iowa, and Scott counties have been invited to the meeting.

Miss Newcomer is connected with the missionary work in Des Moines, Golden, who is to lead the afternoon session, has recently returned from a six months stay in China, Japan, and the Philippines. He will discuss religious conditions in these countries.

Gyro Club Hears Harry Terrell on Problems of Boys

The problems and goals of social welfare work as it concerns boys between the ages of seven and twelve was the basis of the speech given by Harry Terrell at the weekly luncheon of the Gyro club yesterday at the Jefferson hotel. Mr. Terrell, who is secretary of the University of Iowa Young Men's Christian association, gave personal experiences to illustrate his talk.

While a student at Yale university, Mr. Terrell was active in the boys division of the Y.M.C.A. in New Haven. His particular interest in the welfare field is with boys of the junior high school age.

He spoke briefly concerning the work of the Y.M.C.A. in Iowa City and explained its policy in the university. The main object of the group among university students, according to the speaker, is to interest the young men in boys work.

Major Lockett to Inspect R.O.T.C. April 26, 27, 28

The date for the annual inspection of the University of Iowa R.O.T.C. has been announced to take place on April 26, 27, 28. Maj. J. M. Lockett, general staff corps, will be the inspecting officer.

In previous inspections it was the duty of the board of reviewing officers to name the distinguished colleges, but this practice is discontinued this year.

There will be an inspection of each class lasting approximately forty-five minutes, followed by the review of the unit as a whole.

Citizens Continue Drive for Signals

The forces working for a traffic signal system in Iowa City continued circulating petitions yesterday, seeking signers who favor the system. The petitions are to be presented to the city council Friday night when a meeting will be held for final approval of the 1928 budget.

The budget as now prepared does not include funds for building a traffic system, the council members giving as their reason for omitting this item, the fact that they believe the citizens of Iowa City do not want the system. They are also limited in the amount of money available for use in the 1928 budget.

Argue Pro and Con

More than 265 had signed the petitions yesterday. Those circulating the papers are also asking that voters who want the signals go to the city hall Friday night to voice their desires to the council.

Prof. C. W. Wassam, chairman of the chamber of commerce traffic committee and secretary of the Iowa City automobile club, yesterday answered one of the arguments of those opposed to the signals, when he explained that the plan consists in having the signals lighted only when needed.

Opponents to the plan have insisted the signals were not needed for a place as small as Iowa City and that the signal at Washington and Clinton streets last year was more of a nuisance than of value in directing traffic.

May Turn Off Lights

This signal, which was erected for a trial, was turned on during the entire twenty-four hours of the day, much of the time when the traffic was not heavy enough to warrant the use of any signal.

Professor Wassam believes police should turn off the signals as soon as the traffic thins out in the evening, thus giving the city all the advantages of stop and go signals without the disadvantages.

Baraboo Dealers Get Slezak's Car

The late Milo Slezak's Hudson car was awarded to the garage dealers, Prothero and McGinnis from Baraboo, Wis., Slezak's home town, by an order made by Judge R. G. Popham yesterday.

Action was started by the state to confiscate the car as a liquor carrier, after Slezak was killed while transferring a load of more than 100 gallons of liquor to another car.

The Baraboo garagemen filed a petition of intervention, stating that Slezak was buying the car from them, and had been supposed to leave it in their garage until it was paid for. However, they claim that it was removed from their garage and Slezak had been using it to transport liquor without their knowledge or consent.

Judge Popham ruled that they presented satisfactory evidence that they were the owners of the car, and that it should become their property. The ruling was made after the last testimony had been introduced in the case yesterday morning and the lawyers had made their arguments.

and to show them how to meet the problems of boys after they leave the university.

Directors to Call Second Election

A second election for the purpose of determining whether the Clear Creek school district shall issue bonds not to exceed $25,000 to build a new school house in Tiffin, has been called by the board of directors for the district. The school is to take the place of the building which burned last winter.

An election was held upon the proposed bond issue in January, and the vote was favorable. However, a group of men from the community attacked the election as illegal and obtained a temporary writ of injunction in district court restraining the board from issuing the bonds.

Bids and plans for construction have already been made, and will be of no use, should the vote in the second election go against the proposed bond issue.

The Tapager Construction company of Albert Lea, Minn., submitted the lowest figure. The bids for the general construction, plumbing, heating, and lighting, total about $25,000, the amount of the proposed bond issue.

C. of C. to Start Air Field Work

Plans New Drainage System, Runways for Take-Off

Work on improving the local aviation station will begin immediately according to plans made by the aviation committee of the Iowa City chamber of commerce.

The committee of which Carl Cone is chairman, drew up plans last fall for a complete drainage system which would leave the field in good condition for landing at any time of the year. However, winter postponed work on the field until spring.

To Grade Field
Some parts of the field may be graded, Mr. Cone said, and all the lower portions which are now soggy when exceedingly heavy rains come, will be tiled to remove surface water.

Later in the summer the committee expects to build runways of cinders or crushed rock, which will make it easier for the planes to take off.

After the drain system in finished the committee intends to sow the field with grass to make a heavy sod which will prevent mud after a light rain.

Form Aeronautics Club
In connection with the chamber of commerce committee for promoting aviation there is a local chapter of the National Aeronautics association being formed here.

Twenty-five members are needed to start this club. Only those men interested in furthering aviation will be made members.

Improving of general conditions of aviation, work for greater safety, extension of the commercial possibilities of air traffic, and general promotion of anything which will aid aviation, is on the program of the club. Chapters are now being organized in all the leading cities of the United States.

Steady Stream of Traffic Violators Tries Old Alibis on Judge Custer

By KERMIT WISE
If there is one place in Iowa City where explanations are most eager and detailed and oft-repeated, it is in Judge Paul E. Custer's semi-daily police court.

Day after day a steady and apparently increasing stream of traffic violators are haled before the court to explain their forgetfulness and carelessness. With scarcely an exception they are only too willing to show just how it happened and even to draw illustrative diagrams to impress the judge that the officer who tied the little red tag on their car was wrong, all wrong.

"Why, your honor, I double parked because there was no space to park in and I really intended to be gone only a minute."

"Now Judge—"
"You see, judge, it was this way. There were no parking signs around the hotel entrance and how was I to know that I couldn't park there? Besides, there was another car parked not more than five feet away."

"Well, I may have cut that corner a little, but what else could I do? There was a car coming from this way and one from that—and I did the only thing that I could do."

These are only a few of the alibis that are offered again and again to Judge Custer.

Violations Increase
With the advance of spring, when more cars are in use, the quota of the traffic violators advances in proportion.

Among the most common of traffic violations, is wrong parking. The state laws are clear in setting forth that no motor vehicle shall stop on the street unless the right side is parallel with the curb and as near thereto as the street will permit.

This does not apply in cases of emergency when such a stop shall be made to allow pedestrians or other motor vehicles to cross in front of the motor vehicle. It does outlaw double parking.

Laws Limit Parking
Parking within fifteen feet of a street corner or a fire hydrant or from either side of the entrance to a theatre, hotel, or auditorium, except in taking on or discharging passengers or freight, and then only such time as shall be necessary, is also against the state law and a violation constitutes a misdemeanor.

Corner cutting, passing unloading street cars, and passing other cars at an intersection, are other offenses, and while the penalty for the first offense is not severe, a repetition is likely to bring the offender in court for more effective reprimand.

These laws are made expressly for the protection of the public and their enforcement is necessary to minimize the number of accidents. According to Chief of Police C. F. Benda, one of the greatest faults of the average citizen is his failure to recognize this fact.

It is the duty of an officer to arrest offenders whether they have good excuses or poor ones. Traffic violators can always do their explaining to Judge Custer.
