College Training Not Essential to Success -- Merry Former Speech Head Talks at C. of C. Luncheon

The college man has a good chance to succeed in business, but the man without a college education also has a good chance, according to Glenn N. Merry of Portland, Me., who spoke at the chamber of commerce luncheon yesterday.

"As the rule," said Merry, "the man who has not received a college education will work harder and longer to accomplish a purpose, than the man who is college trained. Each has an equal chance to succeed, however, and the extent of the success depends upon the effort put forth."

Formerly head of the university speech department, but now employed by a large paper pulp manufacturing concern, Mr. Merry talks from the views of a business man and a college professor.

Develops Silk Industry

He told his company and other companies are investing huge sums in developing rayon silk, a product made from wood pulp, and how large plans of developing the south were being put into operation.

Part of his work with the pulp company is to make surveys and issue forecasts. He pointed out that this kind of work is necessary because of the length of time that a single operation lasts. As an example, he showed that a log is two years being converted into pulp. This makes a knowledge of conditions necessary for several years in advance, he said.

The speaker stated that he was often accused of working students hard when he was teaching here. "But," he declared, "after being out in the business world for a time, I have learned things which would make me work them much harder, were I to teach again."

Industries Overlap

Although many kinds of businesses seem to be working against each other, there really is an important overlapping of all kinds of industry, Merry said. Large firms are realizing this more and more, and are sending men out to obtain the viewpoint of other companies and also of people in communities and sections other than those they serve.

After Merry's talk, Dean Carter A. Phillips, of the college of commerce, and president of the chamber of commerce, introduced Mrs. Mary M. Simkhovitch, New York social worker who gave the university speakers address Sunday.

Mrs. Simkhovitch gave a short talk on Al Smith. She has been associated with Smith for many years during her work in New York, and was loud in her praise of the work the New York governor is doing.

She traced his rise from a hank and excused the bad speech he is accused of using by saying that "He speaks like Chaucer—in a common manner."

Harry Bremer, president of the Iowa City merchant's bureau, announced a meeting of that group Friday night in the chamber of commerce rooms. A meeting of the Iowa City automobile club was announced by Paul Schmidt, president.

Students Favor Hoover in Vote

Falling in line with colleges throughout the country, University of Iowa students are showing marked inclination toward Herbert Hoover as their choice for president of the United States. The Daily Towner's poll yesterday gave Hoover 119 votes, with Frank O. Lowden in second place with 84 votes.

Standing of the other candidates remained unchanged. Reports from Yale, Middlebury, Connecticut, Oregon, Stanford, Michigan, Indiana and Nebraska give Hoover a decided advantage. In some of the schools his majority being 3 to 1. At Wisconsin university, Hoover and Al Smith are practically tied.

The Towner's poll will close tonight. This is the last day on which to send in your ballot. Get it in before the deadline, and have your vote counted!

Missourians Agree to Support Lowden

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., March 26 (AP)—A resolution endorsing Frank O. Lowden, former governor of Illinois, for the republican presidential nomination was adopted by oral vote at the republican state convention tonight.

The action followed a fight on the floor in which opponents of the resolution sought to put through an amendment striking out Lowden's name.

EXTRA!

Bomb Damages Chicago Home of Senator Deneen

CHICAGO, March 26 (AP)—The home of United States Senator Charles S. Deneen at 61st street and Normal avenue was bombed tonight. The bomb struck the front of the house, damaging it badly, the report to Englewood police said. No one was injured. Whether Senator Deneen was at home was not known. He was in Chicago today for the funeral of Diamond Joe Esposito, the twenty-fifth Italian leader who was a candidate for ward committeeman under the banner of the Deneen republican faction.

The bombing was the fifth since the first of the year involving persons of high political connections. It was the first, however, directed against any persons openly opposing the city administration.

Previous bombings were at the homes of City Comptroller Fitzmorris, Dr. Reid, a political associate of Mayor Thompson, Judge Shubart and L. Cuneo, secretary to State's Attorney Crowe.

Crowe Opponent Gets "Pineapple"

CHICAGO, Ill., March 26 (AP)—Less than fifteen minutes after Senator Deneen's home was wrecked, a second bomb was exploded at the Crandon avenue home of Circuit Judge John A. Swanson, Deneen candidate for state's attorney against Crowe.

Committee May Quiz Iowa Man

WASHINGTON, March 26 (AP)—More republican party leaders are likely to be called before the senate Teapot Dome committee to give their testimony as to the financing of the republican party after the lease of Teapot Dome to Harry F. Sinclair early in 1922.

Among those the committee-men are now considering are John T. Adams of Dubuque, former chairman of the republican national committee, who is abroad, and Charles D. Hiles, republican national committeeman for New York.

Adams succeeded Will H. Hays as national chairman in 1921 when Hays was appointed postmaster general. Some of the senate investigators declare that his testimony will be essential before the inquiry is closed, which, Chairman Nye said, probably would not be for some weeks.

Gov. Smith Asks Senator's Apology

ALBANY, N. Y., March 26 (AP)—Governor Smith in a letter tonight to Chairman Gerald P. Nye of the senate Teapot Dome committee, suggested that the senator apologize publicly for alleged false statements made on the floor of the senate regarding campaign funds received by the governor from Harry F. Sinclair.

"It is an insult to the public intelligence for you to suggest that in order for you to accomplish the proper purposes of a senate committee," the governor wrote Senator Nye, "it is necessary for me to submit without resentment to a false and unjust statement from you. You made this mis-statement, you admitted you made it and you publicly stated that I had demonstrated its falsity."

"The next step for you to have taken was a letter of apology and not a tirade of abuse."

Body of Aviator Taken for Burial

The body of Eddie Gustafson, 25-year-old aviator who died at university hospital Saturday from injuries received when his plane crashed, was taken to Keosauqua Sunday for burial. A cousin Gus Ryden of Alta, and the coroner of Van Buren county came to accompany the body. Gustafson, suffering from a crushed skull and fractures of both thighs, was brought to Iowa City Saturday. His plane crashed to the ground near Keosauqua Friday afternoon as he was instructing a pupil.

Limit Tax Cut

WASHINGTON, March 26 (AP)—Barring unexpected developments, Secretary Mellon's revised tax recommendation to congress will call for a reduction of not more than $200,000,000, it became known today.

400 Persons to Attend Campaign Dinner at Union

Fitzgerald Expects to Garner $50,000 in Pledges

When 400 students take their places at the dinner at Iowa Union tonight, the fifth annual drive, the proceeds of which are for the new theatre unit, will swing into an intensive campaign program.

From this evening until Friday, these 400 students will canvass the campus, visiting more than 2,000 persons for pledges to the Iowa Union fund, in an effort to swell the total nearer the ultimate goal.

In previous years the amount pledged during the campaign has ranged from $40,000 to $60,000. R. H. Fitzgerald, director of the Union and of the drive, expresses himself as being confident of a $50,000 total this year.

St. Joan Leads

With the student leader of the campaign for a new theatre none other than St. Joan herself—Abbie Anna McHenry, Aid of Deneen, who made that role famous on the campus this winter, the 400 workers will be divided into teams of ten, with captains at the head of each team. Eight majors will supervise the work of teams of four or five captains.

In accordance with an old custom, Virgil M. Hancher, L '23 of Chicago, will return to his alma mater for the Union drive.

"Never, but once," declared Mr. Fitzgerald, "since the Union drives began has Hancher failed to be here to encourage and stimulate the campaigners."

Hancher Speaks

In addition to Mr. Hancher's address at the banquet tonight, Peter Janss, L '27, will return to give a speech on "Pioneering Days of the Theatre." The subject of Mr. Hancher's address will be "The Union and the University."

Prof. E. C. Mahle, head of the department of speech, will also speak on "The Theatre of Tomorrow."

Jessup Gives Address

Miss McHenry, who as leader of the campaign will act as toastmistress, has chosen as the subject of her address "The Thrill of the Theatre."

Committee Favors Farm Relief Bill

CHICAGO, March 26 (AP)—Materially changed since it was vetoed by President Coolidge a year ago, the McNary-Haugen farm relief bill was approved today by the house agricultural committee.

By a vote of fifteen to six, the measure was ordered reported to the house.

Chairman Haugen and Representative Purnell of Indiana, the ranking republican member, both said that the bill has been revised to meet all objections set forth by Mr. Coolidge in his veto message on the old bill, except those to the equalization fee.

Regarding the fee, they declared a specific provision had been put in the bill direct the Federal Farm board to be created under the measure, to endeavor to stabilize the agriculture industry by means of loans to cooperatives before resorting to the equalization fee.

Seepage Through St. Francis Dam Observed Feb. 1

LOS ANGELES, March 26 (AP)—Seepage through the west end foundation of the St. Francis dam had been observed as early as Feb. 1 and steadily increased until the huge structure collapsed under the pressure of its impounded waters. The coroner's jury investigating the disaster was told today by William T. Hoke, retired mining man.

The witness, who lives in San Francisco canyon, declared the material on which the west end of the dam was set was not clay, but that it contained a large percentage of material that would become Fuller's earth when soaked. Hoke testified he had mined in the canyon walls for some thirty years.

Humboldt Elects Woman

HUMBOLDT, March 26 (AP)—This city of about 2,200 population is to be presided over for the next two years by a woman. Mrs. H. S. Johnston, who two years ago turned George Bicknell out of the mayorality chair, today was re-elected to the post in an uncontested election, receiving the entire 114 votes cast.

Woman Ticket Fails

IRETONE, March 26 (AP)—Seven women aspirants to the city's mayorality and council chairs, running on no particular platforms except their belief that they could give this town of 675 population as good government as the men, saw the merit triumph by overwhelming pluralities.

Mayor John Volto was ousted, but it took another man to do it. The new mayor, John Carter, polled 93 votes.

George Campbell received ten times as many votes in gaining re-election as town treasurer, as did Mrs. George Sewick. The score was 168 to 16.

John Vanderhann was elected assessor with 158 votes, against 24 for Mrs. D. R. Stewart.

Bassett, March 26 (AP)—Irene B. Tucker, present mayor, and five women, were elected members of the city council here today. The only men elected as city officials were the assessor and treasurer.

Election Results

Cedar Rapids Elects Rall

CEDAR RAPIDS, March 26 (AP)—With the exception of Louis Roth, commissioner of finance, who was re-elected, and entire new city executive department will be sworn in two weeks hence, as a result of today's municipal election.

J. F. Rall, former mayor, was returned to that office by a majority of approximately 300 votes over William G. Loftus, incumbent.

L. J. Zika was elected to the office of commissioner of streets, after losing two years ago. John L. Starman was elected public safety director over Martin Evans, and Ed Steffan defeated J. D. Kennedy for park commissioner.

MacVicar Returned

DES MOINES, March 26 (AP)—John MacVicar, former mayor, was returned to the mayorality of Des Moines in the municipal election today by a majority of nearly 4,000 votes, over Mayor Fred H. Hunter.

The final vote from all of the city's sixty-three precincts, unofficially compiled, gave MacVicar 20,236 votes and Hunter 18,266.

The council will have one new member—William C. Walker, who will succeed John W. Jenney as commissioner of public safety. Emma K. Blaise, finance commissioner, was re-elected, the only woman chosen. She was opposed by Barriet M. Kendall.

W. F. Mitchell was returned as commissioner of streets by a wide margin over E. E. Dudley, and Frank A. Mathis returned to the council as parks commissioner, winning over E. H. Barton.

Four municipal court judges chosen were J. E. Mershon, Ralph Powers, H. H. Sawyer, and T. L. Sellers.

Oxford Names James

OXFORD, March 26 (Special)—Joseph James today was elected mayor of Oxford, receiving 144 votes. His opponent, J. H. Shradler, received 125 votes. This was the only contested position, the remainder of the city officials being re-elected, as follows: F. L. Schweitzer, treasurer, 138 votes; W. J. Simpkins, assessor, 129; councilmen—J. L. Kinney, 132; Louis Karstens, 128; C. J. Mann, 128; M. W. McDennis, 131; E. B. Rader, 125.

Dubuque Names Manager

DUBUQUE, March 26 (AP)—Five men constituting the "good government league" ticket, and pledged to the city manager form of government, were elected to the city council in today's municipal election here. The men who will constitute the council after April 2, are William Meuser, Martin Andelfinger, Edward McEvoy, George Jansen, and Henry Schueker.

Inclement weather kept the vote light, the few more than 7,000 ballots representing scarcely a third of the electorate.

Ames Returns Schleiter

AMES, March 26 (AP)—Mayor F. H. Schleiter and all but one of six candidates on his citizens' ticket were elected in today's municipal election here. Three councilmen, G. B. MacDonald, Frank Thers and G. J. Palmer, were re-elected along with Schleiter.

Green Re-Named

COUNCIL BLUFFS, March 26 (AP)—Mayor Sam Green, (democrat), was given a second term by the voters of Council Bluffs today over Alderman George Steinberg, (republican). The council will stand seven republicans and one democrat. The republicans also elected the city treasurer, assessor and park commissioner.

Arizona Favors Smith

PHOENIX, Ariz., March 26 (AP)—Arizona democrats today named to the national democratic convention in Houston, twelve delegates, unopposed and avowedly favorable to the candidacy of Governor Smith.

Body of Ferris Arrives

BIG RAPIDS, Mich., March 26 (AP)—The special train bearing the body of United States Senator Woodbridge N. Ferris arrived here today.

Woman Beats Jones

GILMORE CITY, March 26 (AP)—Mrs. Bertha Van Alstine today ended the six-year regime of Mayor H. C. Jones, by winning a hotly contested city election with 205 of the 324 votes cast.

Mrs. Van Alstine, wife of former state Senator H. F. Van Alstine, had never sought public office before. She is fourth vice president of the Iowa League of Women Voters.

Esposito Buried in $5,000 Casket

CHICAGO, March 26 (AP)—The equality of opportunity that Giuseppe "Diamond Joe" Esposito had in the United States he attained completely at his funeral today.

Amid splendor such as only the elite of his nature had command, the republican ward leader, former saloon keeper and friend of Chicago's Italians was buried.

Thousands crowded the church. Other thousands milled in the rain and snow outside to see the "Diamond" on the way to his interment in a $5,000 casket.

Local Cavalry Receive Honor

Troop A Awarded Highest Rating in State

Troop A, 118th cavalry, Iowa City's horsemen last night received the highest rating given to any similar troop in the state.

Maj. Clark T. Chandler, whose headquarters are at Topeka, Kan., and who conducted the government inspection last night, compared the local troop with the famous Haskell Indian troop at Manhattan, Kan. The rating received by the Iowa City horsemen was "very satisfactory," the best rating that can be given.

The troop is led by Capt. Will Hayek, and the lieutenants are university men. One is John A. Thiede, an MI of Iowa City, and the other is Albert A. Yanauch, EI of Iowa City.

The inspection yesterday consisted of an examination of horses and equipment in the afternoon, and personnel in the evening. The inspection was held at the field house armory.

Macbride Serves Iowa U. 50 Years

Celebrating the fiftieth anniversary of his service to the institution, the university will honor Thomas Huston MacBride, president emeritus, at the commencement exercises June 4.

Professor MacBride first taught botany in the university in 1878, later became the head of the department, and in 1914 was named president. In this position he served until 1916, being succeeded by President Jessup.

Now in Seattle, Wash., the distinguished Iowan has written to express his appreciation of the coming ceremonies. These are excerpts from his letter to President Jessup: "You overwhelm me with every honor, and treated me with every kindest consideration."

It is possible that Professor MacBride will return to Iowa City about May 1, to do some work in the laboratory maintained exclusively for his use in the pharmacy-botany building.

Globe Trotter Dies; Charity Ultimately to Receive Estate

CHICAGO, March 26 (AP)—Charity ultimately will receive the $250,000 estate left by Miss Celeste J. Miller, traveler and adventurer who died in Phoenix, Ariz., last month after making thirty-three trips around the world.

Her will was entered for probate today, leaving her wealth to certain relatives here during their lifetime, but designating that at their death $100,000 is to be given to the American Legion for disabled Illinois soldiers, while a 640 acre farm will be given to the Y.M.C.A.

Lindbergh Takes Ambassadors for Rides Over Capital

WASHINGTON, March 26 (AP)—High hats, spats and canes were left behind in embassies and legations today as members of the diplomatic corps slipped into flying clothes for a ride over Washington with Col. Charles A. Lindbergh.

The diplomats went to Bolling field in their private automobiles, but once on the ground they jostled as eagerly as did the congressional group last week for the opportunity of getting into the plane with the famous flyer at the helm.

Clinton Elects Green

MILWAUKEE, Wis., March 26 (AP)—Driven by a 30 mile gale from the north, the worst blizzard of the season tonight held Milwaukee and Wisconsin in its clutches and caused the death of one person and hundreds of minor traffic accidents.

Hurled from his feet by the wind, Albert J. Schubring, South Milwaukee, fell on the steps at his home and died a few minutes later from a fractured skull. The storm was general throughout Wisconsin.

Local Democrats Seek to Nominate Olsen in Primary

County Supervisors Circulate Papers for Reelection

The first sign of action in the Johnson county court circles in preparation for the June primaries came yesterday. Democratic leaders of Iowa City are circulating petitions to place the name of F. B. Olsen, local attorney, on the democratic ballot in June for nomination for county attorney.

D. J. Peters, George Ranshaw, and George Zensishek, whose terms on the board of supervisors expire this year, have circulated papers for nomination and the papers are ready to file.

None of the other retiring officers of the court house have made an active effort to obtain the nomination, although they all have signified their intentions to seek reelection. Papers for aspirants to county offices must be filed at least thirty days before the primaries, June 4.

Olsen, who the democrats are boosting for the office, has been practicing law here since being graduated from the university law college in 1911. He has been a member of the law firm of Messer, Clearman and Olsen since 1915.

German Flyers to Cross Atlantic

Koehl and Two Mates Reach Dublin on First Hop

DUBLIN, March 26 (AP)—Setting out in secrecy on the first stage of the perilous flight to America, the Junkers airplane Bremen landed at Baldonnel airdrome, near Dublin, this evening.

As soon as Captain Koehl and his two companions, Baron von Huenefeld and Spindler, alighted, authorities closed the gates to newspapermen and declined to give information of the German airmen's intentions.

It was learned, however, that the crew of the Bremen expect to observe weather conditions and launch out when these are favorable to their adventurous journey over waters where numerous daring spirits including two women, have found unmarked graves.

Two Million Out of Work, Davis Informs Senators

WASHINGTON, March 26 (AP)—Almost two million persons are out of work in this country—1,874,050—the senate was informed today by Secretary Davis, of the labor department. In response to the resolution of Senator Wagner, democrat, of New York, asking for a labor report.

The department report estimated that there are 23,848,692 wage earners today compared with 25,222,742 in 1925 which was accepted as an average year and used as the basis for computations. This constitutes a shrinkage of 7.43 per cent in employment.

Flood Hits Coast; One Man Drowns

SAN FRANCISCO, March 26 (AP)—Rivers in northern California and western Nevada were returning to their banks tonight after flooding large areas as the result of heavy rains and melting snow in the high Sierras.

North Sacramento, California and Reno, Nevada suffered most. Thousands of acres of farm lands and orchards were flooded in other sections.

Wisconsin's Worst Blizzard Kills One

Dr. J. E. Hays, her personal physician, who early in the day described the condition of his aged patient as immediately critical, said tonight that her life might be prolonged for several days.

Mrs. Coolidge, who left Washington for Northampton, was expected to arrive at midnight.

Huff Wins at Sioux City

SIoux CITY, March 26 (AP)—Unofficial returns tabulated from twenty-five of the thirty-two city precincts tonight show that Thomas B. Huff, local serum manufacturer, defeated Stewart Gilman, incumbent, in the mayorality race in today's municipal election.

Tabulations disclosed that Huff's plurality probably would exceed 2,000 votes. Voting was moderately heavy.

Beware! Camera Man'll Get You

The Masked Photographer is at work in Iowa City! The hooded figure who last spring obtained startling pictures of university students here is again conducting a nefarious campaign to unearth gossip.

He has been taking photographs for the last week, and is continuing his business during this week. Results of his efforts will be published in Pooch-Pooch Hooley, the razz sheet to be published next Monday by members of Sigma Delta Chi.

Besides the actual pictures of springtime on—and off—the Iowa campus, the razz sheet will contain exposes of fraternity and sorority affairs, and intimate details of the dual lives of "big men of the campus."

Commits Suicide, Despondent Over Account Shortage

Grandfather Discovers Bodies in Early Morning

LOWDEN, March 26 (AP)—Suspended from his position as postmaster of Lowden by the postal department at Washington because of shortage in his accounts, Lambert Meier, 30 years old, today killed his wife and three small children, and then ended his own life.

The bodies of his victims and of himself were found this morning by his father, Fred Meier, and the town marshal, M. M. Paul, after Meier failed to show up at the local postoffice.

An army automatic six of its eight cartridges discharged, was found clutched in the dead man's hands across his breast. He had a bullet hole in his temple.

A coroner's jury late today found that Meier had slain his wife and children and then committed suicide.

Kills Wife First

The tale of the slaying as re-acted today by officers conducting the investigation, disclosed, they said, that Mrs. Meier, a woman of 28 years, who formerly was Alysie Lebelieu of Milwaukee, was the first killed. In the same room in which her body was found, that of the Meier baby was found shot to death in its crib.

In an adjoining room, the children's bedroom, were the bodies of the other two children, Alice, 7, and Jean, 3. Alice had been shot twice and her skull was crushed as if by a blow. Officers believed she had been shot, attempted to arise and then was struck down by the father. Meier had served as postmaster here for four years.

Missouri Officials Arrest Deserter

POTOSI, Mo., March 26 (AP)—Dewey Doff, alias White, rearrested here on a statutory charge, today admitted to Sheriff Stephen T. Richards that he is the man wanted at Fort Snelling, Minn., for desertion from the United States army. He denied implication in the slaying of Martha Smith, 82 years old, at Ring Sun, near Des Moines, March 6.

A warrant charging White with murder has been issued at Des Moines. Officials here were awaiting the arrival of Sheriff Park A. Findley of Polk county, and will turn the man over for trial there.

North Wind Routs Spring; Mercury Falls With Snow

DES MOINES, March 26 (AP)—Spring took temporary leave of Iowa today when a cold north wind carrying first rain and then snow flurries, moved in to send temperatures below freezing through the northern part of the state. Temperatures reached 81 here yesterday, but tonight the mercury slid downward after reaching 30 at Waterloo and 31 here early in the evening. Temperatures in the early twenties were predicted for morning.

Rally From Relapse Prolongs Life Mrs. Coolidge's Mother

NORTHAMPTON, Mass., March 26 (AP)—Mrs. Lemira Goodhue, mother of Mrs. Calvin Coolidge, rallied late today after a sudden relapse of an illness which had its origin last December.

Dr. J. E. Hays, her personal physician, who early in the day described the condition of his aged patient as immediately critical, said tonight that her life might be prolonged for several days.

Mrs. Coolidge, who left Washington for Northampton, was expected to arrive at midnight.

"Always The Same" says Pipe-Smoker

Charleston, S. C. February 10, 1927

Larus & Bro., Co., Richmond, Va. Gentlemen:

I've done a lot of pipe smoking. There's hardly a brand or a blend that I haven't tried out at some time or other.

But speaking of smoking tobacco that brings real enjoyment, and never changes, I want to say that there is just one tobacco that gives me real enjoyment in my pipe—Edgeworth.

I have used Edgeworth's Ready Rubbed and Plug Slice for over five years, in all climates and under all conditions, and I find it always the same. It is always mellow and moist, and its genuine flavor lasts. There is no bite or parch in Edgeworth, and the quality, whether you buy it in small or large quantities, is always perfect.

Thanks to the manufacturers for their wonderful product, and I hope that Edgeworth can always be obtained by the undersigned.

Mrs. Alice Mills to Sail for London

Mrs. Alice Macloed Mills, assistant professor in the speech department, will leave April 14 for three months study abroad at the University of London. She will make a special study of phonetics under Daniel Jones, head of the school of phonetics in the university, who is internationally known as the leading English phonetician.

After her work is completed Mrs. Mills will make a tour through Scotland and France. This will be her fourth trip abroad having lived in London for two years.

She will return in time to teach in the second session of the summer school.

THE PLAY

South is the dealer. What is the proper bidding and play?

Record the bids that each player should make, assuming that he does not see any of the other hands. These hands must not be bid or played "Double Dummy," i. e., as though all four hands were exposed.

NOTE—In recording the Auction, or the play use "S" for Spades, "H" for Hearts, "D" for Diamonds, and "C" for Clubs. Use "N.T." for No Trump, "DBL" for double, "RED BL" for redouble.

THE BIDDING

South Bids	West Bids	North Bids	East Bids
1S	1NT	2D	2H
2S	3H	4D	4H
Pass Pass Pass
Final Bid 4H Played by East

Salient Points of the Bidding

North bids Diamonds over West's No Trump, not only to deny South's Spades, but because his long Diamond suit, with no re-entry, although powerful enough to justify its bid over a No Trump, offered no playing defense against an adverse No Trump. The subsequent bidding follows along normal lines and requires no comment.

Salient Points of the Play

Trick 1. In counting his probable losers, East sees clearly that he can go game by conceding the adversaries a Heart and two Spade tricks, as he can discard his losing Diamond on a good Club in Dummy.

Trick 2. Thoughtless play here would have been followed by disastrous results. Had East finessed, South, upon winning, would have led two high Spades, upon which North could have discarded his two Clubs. North's ruff of a Club, followed by South's ruff of a Diamond would have made East's rout complete. The contract would have been set two tricks.

Do you realize how very inexpensively this can be done on big Cunard ships such as the CARONIA, CARMAIA, SCYTHIA, LACONIA, LANCASTRIA, and TUSCANIA? You are berthed in a comfortable, clean cabin, you have good food, nicely served, with ample deck space and you enjoy the company of your own kind of people... because they are others like you who feel the adventurous call of traveling Tourist Third Cabin. You will dance on moonlit decks to the rhythm of a college orchestra no feet have yet resisted. You will swim in salt water in an improvised deck tank. You'll play the delightful deck games that youth-on-a-lark deifies. And there'll be bridge... and conversation... and sometimes lost sleep! The New Theatre Unit

TODAY sees the beginning of the latest drive for a new unit to the Iowa Memorial Union. Three years there have gathered together a group of men and women who have "put over" each campaign.

The third unit will be of special interest and significance, because it will house the new university theatre. When the unit is completed, the university will have a stage surpassed by no student theatre. It will have an auditorium which will be a place of comfort and ease. The stage will have equipment which will merit the finest productions. No longer will the audience have to strain their necks to see over the persons ahead; no longer will properties have to be cramped in small wings.

Thus the new unit will be a place of entertainment and education for hundreds of persons interested in the drama. It will serve to raise the already high standards of dramatic work in the university. It is a cause well worth supporting.

Middle Western Culture

THE American Federation of Art plans to establish an experimental station at Cedar Rapids this summer, according to a recent report. The station will be the only one of its kind in the middle west.

Since its settlement the middle west has been occupied chiefly by establishing itself economically, developing natural resources, and getting the bare necessities of livelihood. The entire area, and Iowa in particular, has been depicted by Ruth Suckow as a rough infant without culture or beauty, drab and unimaginative; by Sinclair Lewis as an unwholesome caricature; by H. L. Mencken as a slightly diseased subnormality.

A national art institution has recognized the fact that Iowa is normal and has a normal sprinkling of inhabitants capable of creating and appreciating art.

Cap and Bells and Mayor Walker

WE always wondered just what happened to the semi-intelligent and prodigiously impudent individuals who once graced the courts of kings in cap and bells. They have forsaken the few makeshift kingdoms yet intact; they are the big boys in politics. One is mayor of New York.

Time reports Mayor Walker's latest and most exorcising cleverness. It seems he has lately been visiting Washington; a few months ago it was London; a few weeks ago it was New Orleans. Mayor Walker is a confirmed believer in the old ballyhoo to the effect that absence makes the heart grow fonder; New York must be infatuated with its white spatted mayor. He made history in Washington by saying on his visit to the treasury department, "Just like the city hall; nobody works here." After keeping President Coolidge waiting thirty-two minutes Mayor Walker and his spats loomed on the horizon, but either the mayor was winded by his hasty journey from the treasury department or President Coolidge looked too grim to be kidded, for the mayor was almost polite.

Mayor Walker is a man of rare wit;—oh, that it were more rare! We really believe the mayor is making a great mistake in treating all matters with levity. A man of the most shadowy intelligence, or better yet none at all, can get by in politics, but he must keep his mouth firmly closed. For as everybody, Mayor Walker excepted, knows the only difference ever existent between a fool and a king was that a fool talked all the time while a king sat pompously and twirled a scepter or crooked his thumb to indicate the fate of nations. By that clever artifice, letting the fool make the wise cracks, the king basked under the title the "Lord's anointed" and wore ermine.

So, Mr. Mayor, the information is free of charge. Be still and be considered a Solomon, or noisy and thought a fool.

Babe Ruth Knows

CARL SANDBURG recently interviewed "Babe" Ruth at the Yankee's training camp at St. Petersburg, Fla. One of the questions Mr. Sandburg asked the home run king was "if some kid ball players asked you for five big points to watch what would you tell them?"

In reply Ruth gave the following:
1. Cut out smoking and drinking.
2. Get enough sleep.
3. Get the right things to eat.

The "Babe" couldn't think of two more and was willing to let it go at these three. He laid much stress on the first of these points, saying a boy "can take to drinking and harm himself so he'll never get over it."

If there is an athlete who is qualified to speak on training and its benefits, it is Ruth. He has profited by experience, and the record that he established last year is testimony what training will do for an athlete.

After experiencing a most disastrous season a few summers ago because he broke all three of the points above mentioned, Ruth turned over a new leaf. He trained diligently and as evidence of what it did for him one only needs to look back on his 1927 record of sixty-one home runs.

Vox Studenti

FORTY-TWO states in the union, including Iowa, prevent 150,000 students from voting, because they do not permit mail registration. That is enough to make material changes in the swing of elections. It must be conceded that students in colleges and universities represent a somewhat higher intellectual group, and though under the present circumstances the interest in elections is more or less indifferent among students, they would probably take far more active interest if they could exercise their voting privilege.

It would not only be fair to the students but it would be an actual addition to their education, for contemporary events are just as important for the student to keep up with as is history, and without inducement, only a few will take an active interest in politics. Moreover, if this interest is not created in college, it will take considerable time for it to be aroused after graduation.

With the annual increase in the numbers of students at colleges and universities, the significance of the voting question increases and the situation at present seems badly in need of a champion.

Twenty Billion

(From The Des Moines Register)

Senator Tyding's attack on loans to Nicaragua by our government, some of which have been defaulted and more of which, to put it mildly, are insecure, is interesting enough itself, and if people were enough concerned to follow it up it would reveal a phase of our problem with relation to smaller American countries almost as important as the phase of armed intervention.

When we loan, governmentally, money to a particular administration in order to stabilize it against opposing factions, whether we allow the money to be spent for military purposes directly or not, we intervene almost as effectively as when we land marines and use them to stabilize.

But probably our governmental lendings to other American governments is the least important part of the broader problem of all our loans abroad, the bulk of which are to the old world and the bulk of which are private loans handled by banking houses with the consent of our state department.

The total of our foreign lendings, governmental and private, for the last eleven years is estimated as high as $25,000,000,000. Taking the governmental war loans at a figure based on their capital value now, instead of face value, and taking the more conservative estimates as to bankers' loans, we have something like $6,500,000,000 for the war debts and $14,000,000,000 for the rest, or more than $20,000,000,000. Never in history has there been a creditor nation in that degree.

It would be interesting to know, for instance, how many millions have been lent, at high interest rates and with nice banker commissions, to finance in foreign countries governmental invasions of the field of private business. This is not to say that all or any of the projects thus financed are bad, uneconomical, subversive, or anything else; it is merely to note that while in this country the very notion of encouraging government operation of great industrial projects, such as building and running vast power plants, is anathema, the same phenomena on the far side of the Atlantic ocean may be considered only as an opportunity to lend at high interest and with generous commissions.

The country has barely begun to grasp the fact of its new financial relation to the rest of the world. The enormous effect of that relation on all our future is yet to be realized.

Women Smoking To the Editor—I quote the following from an article by Prof. F. M. Gregg of Nebraska Wesleyan university: "The face of the woman (on billboards) is always marked by purity and refinement, free from the hard lines of the veteran woman smoker. A notable case of the misrepresentation of a great world artist was that of a statement attributed to Madam Schumann-Heink to the effect that she preferred a certain brand of cigarettes. Madam Schumann-Heink's lawyer at once got out an injunction against the further appearance of such advertising, and has since absolutely denied that she uses cigarettes at all. "The great conspiracy against American womanhood is the bold attempt at masculinization of the sex by means of the cigarette. Will you add your effort to that of those who are trying to stamp out this conspiracy?" —L. Y.

NIGHTMARE

"Old Gold quartet takes second at Houston relays." —News Item.

It was in the new broadcasting studio at Iowa Union. Four hurdles hung from the light fixtures, and Esco Oberman crashed through to high A flat to win the pole vault. Five points for Old Gold.

Michigan rendered a sweet interpretation of "Drink to Me Only" to win the next event, the mile gulf, outdistancing the Hawks by the hair of Lanning's moustache which got in the way of the basso's vocal anatomy, so that he sharpened on the last note.

In the baritone high hurdles, Postzinger trailed behind Illinois, Wisconsin and Texas Aggies to a weak finish, dwindling away out of breath on D natural. It was only natural, Coach Wilcox exclaimed to a multitude of fans who craned their necks out at the Pi Phi (ed. note: oh, dear! Again?) house while presumably listening to the meet as it came floating over WSUL.

The star event of the day, the relay, went to Texas Aggies whose harmony on "Rocked in the Cradle of the Deep" was too much for the local boys.

On the first turn, Oberman was a little off, and handed the stick to Schamp who ran a beautiful cadenza to make up the lost time. He passed (out?) to Lanning, who hit into the down stretch with a rumbling cadence expressible of deep mourning, and Postzinger picked the stick out of the depths to run a melodious baritone solo flight into second place. Schamp led five rabs and a bottle after the encore, and the Old Gold boys headed north again, picking up Cuhel at Austin whose banjo came in handy on the homeward trek. —ERIKK

Two Stolen Idols

By Frank L. Packard

WHAT HAS HAPPENED SO FAR

While their schooner is beached off Singapore, Captain Scarface Sweeney and Marlow, the mate, discover a bit of wreckage floating some distance from their ship. Investigation reveals that the "speck" is a fragile bark containing the body of a dead man. Captain Scarface recognizes the body as that of Tom Kingsley, an old friend and daring adventurer. Mute evidence on the corpse hints at foul play. Two small but very handsomely carved ivory idols are found in the victim's pocket. Scarface believes that these are no ordinary trinkets, and surmises that they have played a grim part in the mysterious tragedy. The Captain determines to communicate with the dead man's brother, Robert Kingsley, once a sea-faring adventurer, now old and crippled, and living on a plantation in the South Sea Islands with his young son, young Bob, on whom he is practically dependent.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER 4

There was beauty in the night—a serenity that was almost mystic. The road, in the open spaces between the arched branches of the trees that fringed it on either side, lay white in a flood of moonlight. There was a breeze that so soft it was, seemed to flutter hither and thither irresponsibly as though it were gossiping and whispering a thousand little secrets to the leaves. And there was fragrance in the air—the smell of things that grow only in the tropics—like rare incense that was grateful to the senses, and that the nostrils drank in eagerly.

Bob Kingsley whistled softly a catchy little air as he strode along the road. Once he paused in one of the open spaces to stare around and above him—at the cloudless, jeweled heaven with its full moon riding high—at the green of the foliage that in the nightglow possessed a taint of beauty, softened, mellowed, that was all its own—at the branches and tree-tops etched with exquisite tracery against the background of the sky.

"Some night! Some night!" he murmured—and, in the sheer delight of it, his great shoulders swung back as he flung out his arms in an embracing gesture.

And then for a little while he stood there motionless—like some white statue that, sculptured in tribute by a master hand, had been given into the essential glory of young manhood which lay in the splendor of its physique. His plumed helmet, pushed carelessly back upon his head, left no shadows on the face—and the face was clear-shaven and lean, and the dark eyes were steady, and the jaws were square and firm. Almost six feet he stood, power and strength in his unconscious pose, the broad shoulders tapering down to his hips and waist of an athlete. And where the arms were bare and the open shirt lay bare the throat, the muscles seemed to ripple even in repose.

And then he went on again—but now suddenly he ceased to whistle, and a slight frown gathered on his forehead. He had recalled a remark made to him by Farquhar, a little while ago. Farquhar, who had a small plantation back about three miles inland, and whom he had just been visiting because the man was down with a touch of fever, had merely made the remark in a casual way as they had bade each other good-night.

"I suppose you'll be off for the pearling beds in a few days, Bob, if the old man's fit to leave," Farquhar had said. "You can't wait much longer."

No, he couldn't wait much longer—if he were going at all! That was just it! But the old man, which was to say his father, Robert Kingsley, was in the throes of one of his bad spells, practically helpless, and showed little or no sign of any immediate improvement. And money wasn't any too plentiful, and the schooner lay out there in the lagoon eating her head off. Well, no, hardly as bad as that! The native crew, only six of them, counting Nunu the mate, didn't cost very much.

Bob Kingsley came to an abrupt halt. He had topped a little rise in the ground, and the lagoon with the open sea beyond had come suddenly into view. Here and there along the beach fronting the lagoon a few lights twinkled from the houses of the little town—but it was not at these that he stood staring now. Out in the lagoon, so plainly defined in the bright moonlight that her riding lights seemed almost superfluous, a steamer lay at anchor.

"Hello!" exclaimed Bob Kingsley in surprise. "The Monotah's in!" And then he grinned. "Business must be mighty poor, or else they've tied her engines down to the bed-plates with an extra piece of string to keep them from falling apart, and have swindled an extra knot or so out of her—the old tub's a good crazy or four days ahead of even her three schedule!" Wonder how long she's been in, and if any one has told the old man!

As he reached the clearing in front of the bungalow, he paused for a moment. The French windows that gave directly on the veranda from the living room were wide open. A lighted lamp stood on the table in the center of the room, and, drawn up to the table, his back to the window, Robert Kingsley sat in a wheel-chair, his gray head bent forward as though intent upon something that lay before him on the table.

A shadow crossed Bob Kingsley's face. He was a grim old sort, his father, and always had been—but there seemed somehow now to be a dejected droop to the old man's shoulders that he had never noticed before. Perhaps it was because his father thought no one was looking—certainly, he had never seen his father ever show anything but a stiff upper lip before. Perhaps this had been going on ever since the advent of the wheel-chair. It might easily be that the wheel-chair was eating the heart out of the man—and the man was getting old.

He crossed the little clearing slowly. No good taking the dad unawares! A man was entitled to his bit of depression in private without being discovered—God knew there was cause for it!

"Hello, dad," he called cheerily from the veranda, "did you know the Monotah was in?"

The form in the wheel-chair straightened up, but did not turn around. "Been in three hours," said Robert Kingsley gruffly, "and she's sailing again at daybreak. She came in

"And three days ahead of time at least," smiled Bob. "I was wondering when I saw her in the lagoon if she hadn't had an overhaul that would account for it."

Robert Kingsley's back was still turned.

"She had," he said. "She was sold down in Singapore last trip. A new crowd's got her. Don't know one of them."

"Well, that explains the miracle, then," grinned Bob. "When it came to spending money, Captain Hope—what did they call him?—Pokey Hope—was about as slow in parting with a pound as he was in coming out of the trance he always seemed to be living in. I always thought the old bird took dope. Can't say I'm sorry about the change. We'll get better service." He stepped forward into the living-room. "I see you've got the mail," he added, as his glance fell upon some opened letters on the table.

The wheel-chair was swung suddenly around, and, still but half-way across the room, Bob Kingsley found himself staring with a sudden sense of misgiving into his father's face. The tan seemed to him to have gone out of the old man's cheeks, and where it was not hidden by a grizzled beard, the skin was gray as though with pallor. The lips, tightly closed, were a grim, straight line; and the black eyes under their immense, shaggy eyebrows were hard and bitter.

"Your Uncle Tom's dead," said Robert Kingsley tersely. (TO BE CONTINUED)

Much Soft Wheat Fails

Abandonment of Acreage Raises Price of Grain

CHICAGO, March 26 (AP)—Sensational private estimates of crop losses through abandonment of soft winter wheat acreage gave a decided upward swing to the wheat market today. One Chicago crop authority reported that in Illinois, Indiana and Ohio 70 to 80 per cent of the fields seeded to soft varieties of wheat are practically a failure.

Closing quotations of wheat were firm, 1/2 to 1/4 cent higher. Corn finished 1/4 to 1/2 cent up; oats unchanged to 1/4 cent advance, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 7c.

Reports of big abandonment of acreage in soft winter wheat sections were given all the more attention today because prevailing weather of the last few days has been warm enough to bring the wheat out if the plant was alive.

An unexpected sharp decrease of 1,388,000 bushel in the corn visible supply did much to give independent strength to the corn market in addition, unfavorable weather for corn movement was a bullish factor, especially as stocks of corn at eastern points are small.

Exchange Totals Set New Record; Pass 4,000,000

NEW YORK, March 26 (AP)—For the second time within a week, total sales on the New York stock exchange today crossed the 4,000,000 mark, setting a new high record at 4,176,200 shares, as General Motors, soaring $9 a share to $199, fanned to a fury the flames of speculative enthusiasm.

Money Rates Tighten; Bond Sales Irregular

NEW YORK, March 26 (AP)—Irregularly crept into the bond market today, but advances continued to outnumber losses. A number of new highs for the year, or longer, resulted from active bidding for some of the medium priced railroad mortgages. Tightening of time money rates was responsible for selling of some issues, but recessions rarely amounted to as much as a point or so.

Day's Stock Trading Sets New High Record

NEW YORK, March 27 (AP)—Setting another new high record for a single day's trading at 4,176,200 shares, the stock market witnessed a resumption of violent speculation for the advance under the leadership of general motors, which soared 9 points to a new high record at 199 and closed within a small fraction of the top.

Mabie Announces Supplement List of 5 New Plays

To Be Presented in River Room of Iowa Union

A program of five plays to be given in the new studio theatre in the Iowa Union as a supplement to the usual series of eight plays presented in the natural science auditorium has been announced by Prof. E. C. Mabie, director of the university theatre.

This additional program is the first of its kind in the history of the theatre and has been made possible by the construction of the new theatre off the sun room in the Iowa Union. The theatre consists of a stage which will accommodate almost any type of set, an auditorium which seats 150 persons, offices for directors, and two large dressing rooms. It affords opportunity for the production of plays of limited appeal, programs of one-act plays, original plays, and plays for children.

Present "Tommy"
The additional equipment and facilities of this auditorium will make it possible for students in courses in dramatic production in the department of speech to carry theories learned into actual practice. The cast will not be confined solely to these students, and, according to Professor Mabie, the studio productions will be presented with as much care in casting and direction as the usual program.

The first play of this type, "Tommy," by Howard Lindsay and Bernard Robinson was given last night before a crowded house and will be repeated April 2 and 3. It is an American comedy which shows two young men competing for the same girl and the triumph of the "perfect little gentleman" when he proves to the girl that he could be many.

To Give "Great God Brown"
John Beers, A4 of Laurel, Miss; was in the title role with Margaret H. Anderson, A2 of Iowa City; Isabel Heupel, A2 of Lyons; Fordis Clifton, C3 of Webster; Esther Wilkins, A4 of St. Joseph, Mo.; Dan Dutcher, A3 of Iowa City; Burton Bowman, A2 of Iowa City; and Delmus Parker in supporting cast.

Will Use Double Cast
A double cast will be used in this drama and the principal players will be Abbie Anna McHenry, Margaret Madden, Edna Dahlin, Edward Wright, Katherine Kinne, Jean Rader, Robert Frush, Lee Weber, Paul Brown and Gertrude Bowers.

A farcical comedy, "Charm," by John Kirk Patrick cast entirely from new talent among the Apprentice Players will be directed by Edward A. Wright, A4 of New London and produced April 30 and May 11. Wright came to the theatre this year but has played in two productions as the father in Lewis Beach's, "Square Peg," and Brother Martin in Shaw's "St. Joan."

The apprentice players who will interpret the roles are: Ida May Harper—Marie Busler; Joe Pond—Sydney Smith; Mrs. Wilson—Gertrude Bowers; Mrs. Harper—Eleanor Gildner; Mr. Lester—Charles Akre; Dr. Garfield—Narvin Wright; Violet—Ellen Ford; Mildred—Marguerite McCorkle; Dr. Pakton—Betty Coleman; Sara—Sarah Marie Cook; Claude—Edward J. Kelley.

400 Persons to Attend Campaign Dinner at Union

Waterloo and President Walter A. Jessup complete the program.

The eight majors who will have charge of the captains are as follows: Emerson Nelson, A4 of Cherokee; Esther Fuller, A4 of Mount Airy; Otto L. Bauch, L3 of Des Moines; Katherine Kinne, A4 of Storm Lake; Willis Maey, M4 of Linnville; Esther Luellie Mueller A4 of Marshalltown; Floyd Pillars, A4 of Iowa City; and Lee Flatley, C4 of Iowa City.

University Theatre Exhibits Panels of Play Productions
Six framed panels, composed of pictures taken from the production of university theatre productions were placed on exhibition at Iowa Union yesterday. Ten more panels will be added during the week.

Foley Works With Cleveland Company
Paul Foley has been playing with the Cleveland Playhouse Repertory company at Cleveland, Ohio, for the last two years.

Movies Preserve Emotional Scenes

Four of the 1927-1928 productions of the university theatre will be preserved by other means than memory. Moving pictures of the more emotional scenes of the "Square Peg," "The Detour," "The Poor Nut" and "St. Joan" were taken.

Colleges, Schools Enter in Annual Theatre Contest

Iowa Organizations to Award Bronzes to Winners

Twenty-three entries have been received for the third annual Iowa play production contest to be held here April 20 and 21, under the auspices of the university theatre and the Iowa Federation of Women's Clubs.

The two previous contests have been for community groups alone, but this year the scope has been extended to include all high schools and junior colleges. Separate contests will be held for each.

Parsons College to Enter
The community players entered are Red Oak, Northwood, Des Moines Community Players, Mochel Players of Ottumwa, Burlington Drama League, Canning, Friendly Iowa Players of Davenport, Emmausburg, and Playground Commission Players of Cedar Rapids.

Eleven High Schools Enter
Class B is made up of schools organized on the nine to twelve plan or from 151 to 450 enrollment, or schools organized on the ten to twelve plan, or more than 375 enrollment.

Will Award Prizes
The committee in charge of the contest is composed of Prof. Vance M. Morton, of the speech department; Mrs. Henry C. Taylor, of Bloomfield, representing the Iowa Federation of Women's Clubs; E. H. Lauer, head of the extension division, and Prof. E. C. Mabie, director of the university theatre.

Art bronzes will be awarded to the group winning first place. In 1926, the Webster City players presented "On Vengeance Heigh!" for first prize. Last year the Des Moines Community Theatre association won with "The Valiant."

200 Students Try Out
When the national convention of the Drama League of America was held here in 1923 the University Players acted as hosts. At this meeting the Players for the first time presented Francis Neilson's "The Bath Room."

Former Students Return to Direct Dramatic Work
Four members of the present directing staff of the university theatre were students here and created many roles as underclassmen.

Studio to Present Summer Program
The studio of dramatic art will operate during the summer session of 1928 just as it does during the rest of the school year.

Speech Department Adds Two New Members
Two new members will be added to the staff of the speech department during the summer session.

Studio to Present Clubwoman's Play
An original play, "Prescription," by an Iowa woman, Mrs. Mauda Graham of Ottumwa, writer of plays and pageants for Federation of Women's Clubs, is now in rehearsal in the student studio at Iowa Union.

Students to Play Graduate's Work
"Bearcat," written by Irving Brant, who was graduated from the University of Iowa in 1909 and who now lives in Lakeport, Calif., is being cast for performance in the student studio late this semester.

Former University Player Studies at New York Studio
A former university player, Elbert Holbert, who played the lead in the theatre's production of "Mary the Third," last year is now with Theodor Irvine's studio in New York City.

Philip Foster Plays in "Road to Rome"
Philip Foster, former president of the University Players, has been playing with Grace George's company in "The Road to Rome." He is now in New York City.

New Union Theatre Unit to Rival Any Similar Playhouse in Country

The new theatre building, which will be the third unit of Iowa Union, and which will be built from the proceeds of the drive that starts this evening, has been completely planned, even to details, by the architects, Boyd and Moore of Des Moines, Prof. E. C. Mabie, director of the university theatre, and R. H. Fitzgerald, director of Iowa Union.

The auditorium will seat 775 persons. There will be no center aisle, as the rows will be solid. The auditorium may be entered through arches on the side. The new wall will be constructed forty-two inches back to back, to allow ample room for persons to pass without necessitating spectators to rise.

The decorations planned are simple and plain. At the back of the auditorium will be a booth for projection purposes and to provide a means for the directors to observe the lighting of the stage and make suggestions by means of a telephone to the switchboard.

Will Have No Balcony
There will be no balcony. The sight lines and the incline of the floor have been so carefully planned that each observer will be able to see every part of the stage.

The stage will be fifty feet deep and seventy-four feet wide, which is larger than the one in the new Yale university theatre. The proscenium opening will be thirty-six feet wide and twenty feet high.

The playing area will be composed of a series of traps made in a standard size, so that any part of the stage floor may be removed to allow for stairs from below, or any special opening demanded by the play.

Several types of cycloramas, used to obtain sky effects, are being considered. There will be a special pit in the floor in front of the cyclorama, for the placement of lights to increase the sky illusions.

The gridiron and the counterweight system for raising and lowering scenery will be installed. In all probability, the system will be operated from the fly floor to facilitate stacking of scenery.

A movable light bridge will be installed at the front of the stage. This will be large and strong enough to accommodate two men, and will be accessible by a rope ladder.

125 Outlets in Switchboard
The switchboard will be as complete as possible. At least 125 outlets will be provided. In addition to the lighting equipment on the stage, two light bridges will be constructed in the beams of the ceiling over the auditorium.

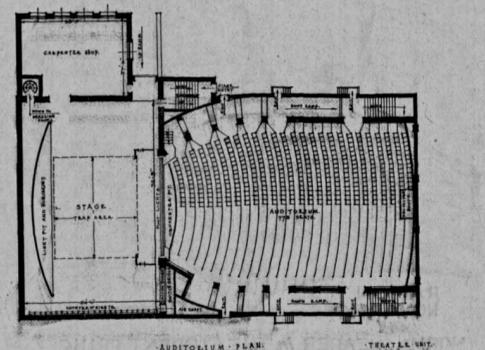

The curtain will operate three ways, up and down, as a draw and tableau. Connected with the same controls will be the curtains of the entrance arches to the auditorium, so that when the play is on, the arches will be covered.

On the main floor, adjoining the stage, the carpenter and work shops will be placed. Plans for machine equipment in the shop include all facilities for rebuilding and constructing sets.

In the costume room, directly above, there will be three tables for sewing machines, three cabinet ironing boards, cutting tables, an office for the instructor, facilities for dyeing and adequate storage room.

The drafting and design room will be just above the costume chamber. It will be desks for drafting, and a work bench for the construction of model sets and storage room for them.

Lowan Teaches in Egypt
Margaret Robb is the only university player who has carried her dramatic work abroad. Miss Robb is now teaching dramatics in a girl's college at Cairo, Egypt.

Mabie Attracts National Attention

"Professor Mabie's work has attracted nationwide attention," Dr. S. Marion Tucker, director of the Play Workshop of Brooklyn polytechnic, said last January, while attending the fine arts conference.

"I was overjoyed to find the president and the design united in desiring a coordinate program for the fine arts. There is no end to the wonders that are accomplished, when colleagues are open minded and working in harmony."

Two Societies Join to Form Players Group

From the union of two dramatic societies the University Players had its birth as an organization in 1916. A committee from the Pandean club and one from the dramatic club met Oct. 1, 1916 and merged the two organizations into the one which has since existed.

Gave Two Plays a Year
The presidents of the two clubs Archie McVicker, who later took a prominent part in the little theatre movement in Des Moines, and Arthur Kropach, who was the originator of the Law Jubilee, met with committees who decided upon the union.

From 1916 until 1921 the players gave two plays a year. Most of these were given in the Englert theatre. In 1921 the plan used today was originated. Since that time plays ranging from the lightest comedy to the heaviest drama have been given.

200 Students Try Out
When the national convention of the Drama League of America was held here in 1923 the University Players acted as hosts. At this meeting the Players for the first time presented Francis Neilson's "The Bath Room."

The present membership of the organization is about fifty. Last fall more than 20 students tried out for membership in the Apprentice Players. Any student in the university who proves his ability in dramatics is eligible for membership.

After he has appeared in two major roles or three minor roles he is eligible for membership in the University Players. Until last year when the organization of Apprentice Players was formed students tried out directly for membership into the University Players organization.

The pin of the Players is an old gold "U" with University Players and a green mask engraved upon it.

Reporter Goes Backstage to Learn Inside Dope on University Theatre

A little green slip of pasteboard with the magic words "Admit Backstage" written over the scrawling signature of E. C. Mabie was in my hand as I stepped into the backstage during the recent performance of Barrie's "What Every Woman Knows" in the natural science auditorium. And mazes indeed the maze of backstage during the recent performance of Barrie's "What Every Woman Knows" in the natural science auditorium.

"I was overjoyed to find the president and the design united in desiring a coordinate program for the fine arts. There is no end to the wonders that are accomplished, when colleagues are open minded and working in harmony."

This personage, with his eyes constantly flitting between his watch and a group of stage hands, muttered something to the effect that he was pleased to meet me providing that I kept out of the way. A fleeting and rather harassed smile tended to blunt somewhat the edge of his courtesy. Here, I knew, was a busy man.

Leaving him I proceeded warily along the narrow passage that circles the back wall of the stage. Furniture and "props" were stacked ceiling high; every available inch of space was in use. At the north side of the passage I came across the switchboard. I should say switchboards for there were six of them.

"House Lights Off"
Cables, dimmers, and connections were massed about in what appeared to me to be hopeless confusion. Not so to the young lady in charge, Miss Elizabeth Fatherson. She was manipulating dimmers and levers with an aplomb that left me dumfounded. A command from the stage manager, "House lights off" and a master dimmer lowered at once; another command, "Work lights off" and two little flips on one of the boards saw the command executed; once more a terse command, "Places, lights, curtain" a quick movement on the board, a little pause for the audience to settle, and the curtain rises.

All of this behind the stage; so far I had not dared to venture beyond the narrow aisle. With the opening lines of the play the tenseness of the stage manager and his crew slackens; you sense that their part of the job is done for the time being; it's now up to the actors. At a signal from the stage manager I ventured on to the stage. In a whisper I was warned to keep away from doors and windows and to keep absolutely quiet.

And now I'm on the stage; if not in the public eye, at least behind the scenes. The voice of the actors rises and fall and the ripples of the audience as it "sits" the lines come to me in a rather blurred fashion. It is strangely unreal. Fascinated by my surroundings it takes me some little time to see where I am.

18 Inches of Space
Stage braces and clamps are everywhere, ropes and lashlines are neatly affixed to the backs of the flats which, in themselves, are covered with cryptic signs and numbers. On the back of the flat in front of me is painted "This is not a door" after the style of a collegiate flivver. However, these signs mean something. This particular sign means that this door is not a door until the second act.

Twenty-four inches behind the flats that comprise the first and second act is another set of flats for the third and fourth act. Not an inch of space is wasted. The spacious set as seen by the audience in the third and fourth acts is in reality almost flush with the solid back wall of the stage. The designer of the set has allowed just eighteen inches for the passages of the players.

But there goes the curtain on the first act. "Players off stage" calls the stage manager. A short wait and then comes the order, "Strike." What was the window becoming a door; the bookcase is removed revealing another door. All furniture is quickly removed and a barber's chair moved in.

The Set Comes Down
While this is being done other members of the crew are putting up signs which proclaim to the world at large—in this case the audience—that "John Shand is the Man." A minute before the actors have changed costumes the stage manager gives the signal, "All set" to the director who proceeds to call his cast. A few seconds for the orchestra to finish the number it is playing; a command from the stage manager, and the second act is on.

My Constituents' tag line
Margie Shand's and the act is over. The same terse commands the audience set comes down. Now, instead of changing doors and windows the entire set comes down. Where do they put the stuff? Apparently every available inch of space is utilized. But no!

Then the Last Set
The electricians have changed the color mediums in the cradle of twelve high powered lamps suspended above, Maggie Wylie in her quaint old gown is putting a last touch to a drape, and John Shand is trying off a window. Professor Morton gives a last look at his set and cast, signals to his stage manager and the curtain is up on the third act.

With the third act over and before the audience has finished applauding, the stage manager is again setting the stage, this time for the last act. A door comes out and a beautifully draped window comes to light. The huge windows on the south side of the stage give way to a solid wall and the elevated stairway of the third act becomes a French door surmounted by an ornamental grill. By this time the back passage has taken on the semblance of a warehouse. Fireplaces are stacked on doors, the staunch harbor chair is supporting two small tables and a chair, and the signs of Shand are being rolled up by the hard working "property" girls.

A flash of light, a pause, and the curtain is again up—this time on the last act. Behind stage, quietly but swiftly, the stage crew is arranging things for the next night.

THOSE GAY NINETIES!

SUE: "How do you know it's Goofus's uncle?"
LON: "Hard heels run in the family."

HOW about parting your hair in the middle, donning a roll-mop sweater, and asking the Coach to come out and play "Guards Back"?

All "out," and so are the old hard heels. Life has more speed and spring and come-back to it now. That's why triple-threat youth prefers rubber heels.

Resilient, stylish

Goodyear Wingfoot Heels.
They cushion away the jolts and jars of walking. They last like "easy payments." And they are good style everywhere. How are they liked? More people walk on Goodyear Wingfoot Heels than on any other kind. On in a minute—at your kindly shoe repairman's. There's an idea—new Goodyear Wingfoot Heels today!

Greek Baseball Tourny to Open Wednesday Night

With the opening of the interfraternity indoor baseball tournament tonight, all the Greek letter organizations will show their skill in the nine-man sport. Twenty-eight organizations have entered the contest and a close race is expected before the championship is decided.

A complete schedule of the games will be published tomorrow. Two games will be played every night, the first at 7:30 and the second at 9:30 p. m. Tonight Delta Sigma Phi will meet Phi Chi at 7 o'clock, and Phi Delta Theta winners of the basketball championship, will show what it can do against Phi Delta Chi at 7:45 o'clock.

Braves Garner 24 Hits

FORT MYERS, Fla., March 26 (AP)—The Boston Braves trounced three Philadelphia Athletics hurlers today, making 24 hits and rolling up a 13 to 6 victory.

The Braves made 11 runs off Elmke and Quinn.

Cubs Get Homers

LOS ANGELES, Calif., March 26 (AP)—Four home runs, two of which were made by Kiki Cuyler, enabled the Chicago Cubs to defeat Los Angeles, 11 to 5, in an exhibition game here today. Hack Wilson and Norman McMillan, a rookie, hit the other homers.

Yanks Get Sixth

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 26 (AP)—Three Yankee pitchers were unable today to stop the St. Louis Cardinals who piled up a nine to three victory. It was the champions' sixth defeat in the seven exhibition games they have played thus far. The Cards got to Herb Penneck for five hits and 3 runs in four innings. White Hoyt was found for four hits and two walks, and a pair of Yankee misplays gave the Cardinals five runs in the sixth.

Reds Lose Second

PLANT CITY, Fla., March 26 (AP)—Indianapolis, American association club, made it two straight from the Cincinnati Nationals here today, winning 3 to 1. An error in the third inning gave the Reds their lone tally.

White Sox Lose Another

SHREVEPORT, La., March 26 (AP)—Shreveport took advantage of numerous bases on balls and eleven bunched hits to overcome a big margin and defeat the Chicago White Sox, 11 to 10 today. With a lead of 9 to 2, Blankenship of the Sox weakened in the fifth inning and the Texas leaguers scored four runs. The Sox scored seven of their runs in the third inning, batting all around.

Phillies Win Third

LAKELAND, Fla., March 26 (AP)—The Philadelphia Nationals won the last exhibition game of their training trip from the Reading Internationals today, 7 to 3. It was their third win in a row.

Blackmere Picked on All-State Five

Blue and White Ace Scored 241 Points During Season

In recognition of his stellar playing as pivot man on the University high basketball team, Ivan Blackmere, rangy six-foot center, was selected to fill the pivotal position on the all-state mythical five.

Jack North of the Des Moines Register announced the selection in that paper in Sunday's edition. During the last season, Blackmere scored 241 points, and since he is now a junior, he will be one of the mainstays on Coach Jack Skien's Blue and White cagers next winter.

Jack Ough of the Clinton high school was the sports writer's other choice for the center position, and in referring to both athletes, says that "both have played brilliant basketball against stiff competition."

Attempt to Sign Heaney, Risko

NEW YORK, March 26 (AP)—As a partial solution of the heavyweight situation, negotiations were under way today to match Tom Heaney and Johnny Risko, finalists in Tex Rickard's "elimination" tournament to uncover an outstanding challenger for Gene Tunney.

With Risko already on record as agreeing to the match, Jess McMahon, matchmaker at Madison Square Garden, was seeking to induce Heaney and his manager, Charley Harvey, to accept the bout.

Free Throw Tourny Terminates Thursday

Today, Wednesday, and Thursday, from 4:15 to 5:00 p. m., have been set aside for the completion of the efficiency and free throw contests. Bruno G. Marchi, director of intramural athletics, announces that those who have not finished all the tests by that time will be disqualified.

Calvin Kay Fails to Place in Track Meet

Calvin Kay, U High track captain, who represented the school at the national meet in Evanston Saturday, failed to place in the pole vault. Although he qualified without difficulty Friday evening, he failed to place among the winners in the finals on Saturday evening.

The Blue and White ace cleared the bar at ten feet, six inches in the preliminaries and could not clear the next height in the finals. Kay was second in the vault at the annual indoor interscholastic meet here in February.

White Sox Lose Another

SHREVEPORT, La., March 26 (AP)—Shreveport took advantage of numerous bases on balls and eleven bunched hits to overcome a big margin and defeat the Chicago White Sox, 11 to 10 today. With a lead of 9 to 2, Blankenship of the Sox weakened in the fifth inning and the Texas leaguers scored four runs. The Sox scored seven of their runs in the third inning, batting all around.

Tennis Team to Play Five Duals

Four conference dual meets, a non-conference tilt and the Big Ten championships at Lafayette summarize the roster that the Iowa racketeers will face this season.

Two of the Big Ten matches will be played here, those with Minnesota and Wisconsin, while the games with Chicago and Illinois will be fought on foreign courts.

May 18 will bring in the only non-conference match of the season when Knox college of Galesburg, Ill., will battle the Old Gold tennis players on home territory. Negotiations for a tilt with Northwestern failed, according to Coach E. G. "Dad" Schroeder.

Marullo Defeats McTigue in Bout

NEW YORK, March 26 (AP)—Tony "Young" Marullo of New Orleans won a judges' decision over Mike McTigue, former light heavyweight champion of the world, in a ten-round bout at St. Nicholas arena here tonight. Marullo weighed 172 pounds, his opponent 174.

Marullo piled up a big lead on the veteran Irishman in the early rounds to take the verdict, which was met with an outburst of jeers from the fans. McTigue put on a spectacular rally in the ninth and tenth sessions, but it was not enough to offset Marullo's performance in the preceding rounds.

Marullo and McTigue roughed up the bout with frequent flurries of hard punching but there were no knockdowns. The New Orleans scrapper had the better of the struggle in six of the ten stanzas.

Mile Relay Team Back From Texas

Cuhel Joined Mates at Dallas; Condition Much Better

Iowa's mile relay team with one first and one second place trophy in the traveling bag returned last night from the invasion of the southwest.

The team, minus the services of the quarter mile ace and anchor man, Captain Cuhel, swept through to a victory in the Texas relays at Austin last Friday and succeeded in garnering second at the Rice relays the following day, beaten by a scant three yard lead by the strong Texas Aggie quartet.

The Iowans ran the fastest race of the year at Houston, and with "Bab" Cuhel in the personnel would have probably won the race. Cuhel was left in St. Joseph hospital in Fort Worth, after an attack of influenza.

BOWLING

The American Legion team was the outstanding team which bowled at the Des Bros. alleys last night. In the third game with the K. C. team the doughboys rolled the pins for an even 1,000. Every one of the members of the team rolled above the 500 mark. Snavely, of the Legionnaires, was high man with 580.

The Moose team won two games from the Elks, while the Legion won three from the K. C. The L.O.O.F. downed the Eagles two out of three.

Boston Red Sox Have Learned a Lot, Much Improved, Says Carrigan

BRADENTON, Fla., March 26 (AP)—A year in the American league after an absence of ten years may have done many things to Bill Carrigan, manager of the Boston Red Sox, but it has not made him loquacious.

"What can I say?" the once great catcher asked as his keen eyes peered from beneath the visor of a cap covering his gray locks. "I said about this time last year that I had been out of baseball for ten years and had to learn much of it all over again. Well, I learned a lot in the year that has passed, but I find that I am still getting information."

It was suggested that when he returned to the game after his long retirement he knew few, if any, of his players.

"Yes, that's right," he said. "I know the players now and they know me, and I think we understand each other."

"We had some players last year who showed tremendous improvement as they went along. They should continue to grow better and develop into even more valuable players."

"I expect to carry ten pitchers, four catchers, six infielders and five outfielders. I may start the season with seven infielders."

"We have found Bradenton a pleasant place. The people have been very kind to us and have given us a most hearty welcome. The weather has been all that we could ask and there is every indication that we will be in first class physical condition."

But as for the players, I don't know what they can do when their efforts count. It would be remarkable if I did know at this stage of the spring training.

"There is a fine spirit on the club. Every one is trying."

"As for the manager, he's in the show."

Hawk Neophytes Enter A.A.U. Tilt

Liddle, Lloyd to Swim in National Meet in Chicago

Iowa's yearling swimming team, which won the Big Ten championship this year, will be represented by two of its members at the National A.A.U. championships to be held at Chicago the first of next week.

Boyd N. Liddle, elongated tank star from Davenport and Harvey Lloyd of Louisville, Ky., will be the representatives. Liddle will enter the high and low board fancy diving events, the 100-yard free style, 50-yard free style, 500-yard free style and the 220-yard free style.

In the championships held here last February he was high point man of the meet and principal record breaker. In the 500-yard free more than twenty seconds and in the 220-yard free style, 100-yard free style, and 50-yard dash, he bested the record by.

His score in the dives was high enough to give him a victory in each event and his closest rival had no chance of competing against his perfect form.

During the frosh duals Liddle has been winning most of his favorite events and in each meet he has been the high point man.

Giants Defeat Red Sox

AUGUSTA, Ga., March 26 (AP)—The New York Giants today handed Bill Carrigan's Boston Red Sox another trouncing today, 7 to 1. Ben Cantwell gave up four hits and one run in four innings while Virgil Barnes allowed the Red Sox only three scattered singles during the balance of the game.

Local Woodmen Get Honor Cup

Most Active Camp in Iowa Last Year; Give Dinner

Modern Woodmen of Iowa City will gather at Youde's inn at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow to receive from the hands of Director F. C. Korns of Des Moines, acting in behalf of the national order of Modern Woodmen of America, a state honor cup for the most activity in obtaining new members and in other lodge activities.

After the dinner, a toast program will be given. A delegation from Cedar Rapids has made reservations for the dinner and several state and national officers of the order are also expected.

State Deputy L. C. Cross of Des Moines will attend and is expected to give a short speech.

Included in the guest list will be Roy Denton, district deputy in charge of the Iowa City camp during the last year when the work responsible for winning the prize was done.

The Cedar Rapids camp was next highest in the state and gave the local men a close race for the final award. Both camps are in the same state district.

Reservations for the dinner may be made as late as noon today with the lodge clerk at the Shrader drug store.

"Tommy" Opens Drive for Unit

Theatre Gives Play for Captains of Union Teams

A three act comedy of young lovers and politician "Tommy," kept an audience of 200 in laughter last night in the studio theatre at Iowa Union. It was given as the opening feature of the theatre drive which starts tonight. Members of faculty teams and captains of union teams were guests of the theatre at the production.

John Beers, A2 of Laurel, Miss., played the title role with Margaret Anderson, A2 of Cedar Rapids, playing opposite. The setting was the average American home of the Thuber family insisted on the daughter marrying one of two men. She takes the matter in her own hands and decides for herself.

A recent addition to the studio theatre is the rose and blue drapes which at the windows blend with the brick walls. Properties were in charge of Margaret McClaren, A3 of Iowa City, and Wilma White, A1 of Iowa City. Harry Barnes, stage manager for the theatre, was assisted in staging the production by John Dunn, G of San Marcos, Tex. The play was directed by Abbie Anna McHenry, executive secretary of the theatre.

Service Worker Emphasizes Art

That training in art leading to a greater appreciation for it is one of the fundamentals of training for democracy was the contention of Mrs. Mary M. K. Simkhovitch, New York city social service worker, who spoke at a dinner Sunday afternoon in the natural science auditorium.

Mrs. Simkhovitch emphasized the importance of democracy in all governments. She illustrated the point by telling of the many countries which are now trying to make democracy a success. Probably in years to come, she believes, all countries will have a democratic form of government.

She told of her own work and that of her husband in establishing and managing Greenwich house, the settlement of which Mrs. Simkhovitch is director. They started it in a house in a little street crowded by 14,000 persons who were trying to live together peaceably. Here with many helpers they have for more than twenty-five years been training children for democracy.

In Greenwich house there are departments in which children can receive direction in practically all artistic lines. Some of the products made by children are sold for the benefit of the home. She told of how the children have sold their pottery for thousands of dollars. The training which the children receive is also beneficial to them in later life.

Palestine Woman Tells Local Jews of Reconstruction of Holy Land

To make Palestine a garden, a new and ideal home for the scattered members of the Jewish race.

That is the dream of the Pioneer Women's organization of Palestine, one of whose leaders, Rahel Benzev, spoke in Iowa City last night and Sunday night before the Iowa City Pioneer's club. Mrs. Benzev is travelling through the United States and Canada speaking in behalf of the pioneer work in cities where auxiliary clubs have been organized. The aim of the work has been the colonization of Palestine and the encouragement of agricultural work there. While encouraging immigration into Palestine, the Pioneers wish the immigrants to go into the country and not into the cities.

Money is needed to establish immigrants on farms, Mrs. Benzev says. This is one of the things which brings Mrs. Benzev before the American organization.

Train Young Women

Seventeen co-operative groups have been established throughout Palestine, in which 500 young women receive special education to fit them for the reconstruction of agricultural Palestine. These young women are usually high school or even university graduates, but they spend two years getting practical instruction in gardening, flower culture, dairying, bee-keeping, house-keeping, and tree nursery work.

These groups are run on the co-operative basis, are self supporting, and none of the workers receive salaries.

The Women's Pioneer clubs in America, of which there are now forty, were organized about three years ago. The Iowa City organization of seventeen members has been in existence a little more than a year.

To Visit California

Mrs. Benzev has been in America about three months and will remain several weeks more before returning to Palestine. She will visit experimental agricultural stations in California, where climatic conditions are much like those of Palestine. She also wishes to encourage young Jewish people to train themselves in agriculture, and to come to help in Palestine's reconstruction.

During her two days' stay here, Mrs. Benzev has been the guest of Mrs. Sam Markovitz, 415 S. Durban street, secretary of the local Pioneer Women's club. She spoke Sunday night at the synagogue, and last night at the home of Mrs. Harry Shulman, 946 E. Iowa avenue, president of the Iowa City organization.
