A new postal service, two-cent business reply cards and envelopes, would be established by the measure.

On advertising portions of newspapers, a reduction would be provided with a lowering on zones one and two, from two cents per pound to 1 1/2 cents per pound; zones three, four, five, six, seven, eight, nine, ten, eleven, twelve, thirteen, fourteen, fifteen, sixteen, seventeen, eighteen, nineteen, twenty, twenty-one, twenty-two, twenty-three, twenty-four, twenty-five, twenty-six, twenty-seven, twenty-eight, twenty-nine, thirty, thirty-one, thirty-two, thirty-three, thirty-four, thirty-five, thirty-six, thirty-seven, thirty-eight, thirty-nine, forty, forty-one, forty-two, forty-three, forty-four, forty-five, forty-six, forty-seven, forty-eight, forty-nine, fifty, fifty-one, fifty-two, fifty-three, fifty-four, fifty-five, fifty-six, fifty-seven, fifty-eight, fifty-nine, sixty, sixty-one, sixty-two, sixty-three, sixty-four, sixty-five, sixty-six, sixty-seven, sixty-eight, sixty-nine, seventy, seventy-one, seventy-two, seventy-three, seventy-four, seventy-five, seventy-six, seventy-seven, seventy-eight, seventy-nine, eighty, eighty-one, eighty-two, eighty-three, eighty-four, eighty-five, eighty-six, eighty-seven, eighty-eight, eighty-nine, ninety, ninety-one, ninety-two, ninety-three, ninety-four, ninety-five, ninety-six, ninety-seven, ninety-eight, ninety-nine, one hundred.

On fourth class mail matter including merchandise and printed material a general lowering of one cent on the first pound on all the zone rates would be put in effect.

Federal Officers Outwit Chicagoans

CHICAGO, April 2 (AP)—Federal authorities outwitted city officers today in another phase of a disagreement over authority in connection with dry law enforcement and kept the upper hand in the squabble.

While city detectives waited outside the federal building for orders to enter and forcibly arrest a prohibition agent, federal Judge James H. Wilkerson curtailed state jurisdiction with a writ of habeas corpus.

Police Captain William Shoemaker had unsuccessfully sought to arrest Myron Caffey, a special dry raider, accused of shooting William Beatty, a municipal court bailiff, during a raid on a saloon. Shoemaker was told the government would not surrender its agent. He stationed five squads around the building while he sought legal advice.

The habeas corpus writ transferred Caffey's case from the state to the federal court before he had been in the custody of the state. Caffey is accused of assault to murder. In asking the writ, an assistant district attorney, claimed Caffey was on duty when Beatty was shot, that Beatty resisted arrest and drew a gun.

Mercury Reaches Second High Mark

A hot wind from the south yesterday raised the mercury in the government thermometer here to the 79-degree mark. Only one higher temperature has been recorded this year and that was a week ago Friday when the high mark of 84 degrees was made.

Yesterday's temperatures as recorded by Prof. John Reilly, official observer here, are as follows: minimum Sunday night, 47 degrees; 7 a.m. yesterday, 50 degrees; maximum 79 degrees; and 7 p.m., 70 degrees.

Officials Complete Panama Inspection

WASHINGTON, April 2 (AP)—F. Truhee Davison, assistant secretary of war for aeronautics, and Major Gen. James E. Fechet, chief of the army air corps, landed at Bolling field today.

The flight here from Fayetteville, N. C., was the last leg of a round trip to the Panama Canal, where they inspected army aerial defenses. They took off this morning from Montgomery, Ala.

Davison and Fechet began the flight from Bolling field on March 11, making their way to the canal by way of the Mexican gulf coast and through the Central American countries.

Davison declared on landing that "immediately steps will be taken to remedy the woefully inadequate air defenses of the Panama Canal zone. I intend to push the army air expansion program with all possible speed."

He denounced in strong language the liberty motors in their planes, saying they had considerable trouble with them and that the 4,000 unused motors remaining are too unreliable to be used.

Miners Work for First Day After Wage War Strike

CHICAGO, April 2 (AP)—The end of the first working day since a truce in the wage war between union miners and operators found most of the mines in the middle and southwest idle.

How many operators continued contract relations, since the expiration of temporary agreements Saturday at midnight, largely was undetermined. Miners' official claimed forty mines were open in Illinois, adding that others would continue work.

Until last Saturday 177 mines, employing 57,000 men were at work in Illinois.

The dispute turns on the Jacksonville wage scale, providing $7.50 a day for day-labor and $1.08 a ton for tonnage men. The union insists that this be continued. The operators hold they cannot pay those rates and compete with non-union fields. Illinois operators have offered $8 a day and mine owners in the southwest $5 a day.

Explosion Claims Eight Victims in Mine Catastrophe

Rescue Crew Locates
Six Bodies, Miles
Underground

KEYSTONE, W. Va., April 2 (AP)—An explosion in the number two mine of the Keystone Coal and Coke company today took a toll of eight lives, the bodies of the last victims, six in number, having been found huddled together tonight in the recesses of the workings. Two bodies had previously been recovered.

With the recovery of the last six bodies, R. M. Lambie, chief of the West Virginia mining department, said all of the 275 men in the mine at the time of the blast had been accounted for. He ordered an investigation started tomorrow to determine, if possible, the cause of the explosion, which he termed a "local" one extending possibly 2,000 feet from the point of origin.

Rescue crews labored for hours to reach the section where the explosion occurred, more than four miles from the main opening.

Willis Influence Turns to Lowden

Other Supporters of Senator Wish to Draft Coolidge

COLUMBUS, O., April 2 (AP)—Deprived of their first choice for the republican presidential nomination by the sudden death of Senator Frank B. Willis, candidate for delegates who were pledged to the senator may throw their support, if they be elected over Hoover delegates, either to President Coolidge, former Gov. Frank O. Lowden of Illinois, or vice president Charles G. Dawes, it was indicated at Willis headquarters here tonight.

Possibility that the Willis delegates may seek to draft Mr. Coolidge, notwithstanding his repeated declarations that he does not choose to run, was admitted by the followers of the late senator.

Mr. Lowden is now the second choice of thirty-four of the fifty-one candidates and there was said to be sentiment in favor of him for first choice, while expressions of friendliness toward Mr. Dawes, a native Ohioan, likewise were heard today.

Mr. Dawes was born and reared at Marietta, O., and by many is looked upon as an Ohio "favorite son."

Final decision will rest entirely with the delegate candidates who will hold a meeting tomorrow night at Delaware, O., following the senator's funeral.

Senate Committee Resumes Inquiry Into Oil Scandal

FALL NAMES MEN WHO URGED CONCEALING
DOHERY LOAN

WASHINGTON, April 2 (AP)—After a recess of more than a week, the senate Teapot Dome committee will resume its public inquiry tomorrow into the disposition of the liberty bond profits of the Continental Trading company.

Birch Helms, of New York, who is reported to have had oil holdings in Texas, probably will be the principal witness, but members of the committee declined to disclose the subject upon which he is to be questioned.

Subpoenas were issued for two others, Harry M. Blair and C. H. Huston, both of New York, but it was doubtful tonight whether either would appear immediately.

EL PASO, Texas, April 2 (AP)—Three republican leaders—a former cabinet member, who is now in Europe, a senator and a former senator—have been named by Albert B. Fall, former secretary of the interior, as having advised him to write the famous McLean letter to the senate Teapot Dome committee in 1923 in an effort to conceal a loan of $100,000 from Edward Doherty, oil magnate.

Fall, his friends revealed today, declared that the party leaders urged him to cover up the loan from Doherty in the fear that public knowledge of the transaction would result in charges that the republican administration had favored the oil man in its Mexican oil policy.

Former Senator Irving L. Renner of Wisconsin issued a prompt denial in Washington today that either he or Senator Smoot, republican, Utah, had advised Fall to conceal the Doherty loan.

Students to Face Larceny Charge

Quadrangle Men Take
Alleged Thieves
After Chase

Information charging grand larceny was filed yesterday against Byron Felkner and Forrest A. Brebner, 630 N. Dubuque street who are alleged to have attempted the theft of a tire and rim Monday at 12:30 a.m. from an Overland coach belonging to Billy M. Stoddard.

The arrest of Felkner followed a five-mile chase east on U.S. highway No. 32 after Stoddard and Don Hennessy had discovered and followed a man attempting to remove a rear tire from Stoddard's car.

The arrest of Brebner, owner of the Overland touring car driven by Felkner, followed a questioning of Felkner by Sheriff Frank Smith in which Felkner admitted that Brebner had been with him at the time.

Brebner denied complicity in the affair maintaining that he was not with Felkner at any time during the day or night.

Preliminary Hearing Set
The two men were arraigned yesterday in police court before Judge Paul E. Custer and released on the posting of appearance bonds of $500 each.

Preliminary hearing was set for Wednesday at 10 a.m.

A search of the Brebner car yesterday was said to have resulted in the discovery of a new storage battery, a tire jack and tire chains, which Keith Droz believes were taken from his automobile a week ago while it was parked near the Nu Sigma Nu fraternity house.

The discovery of the attempted theft was a forerunner of a rapid succession of events. The Stoddard car was parked near the north door of the quadrangle and Stoddard, whose room is in the north tower, heard the creaking of a tire lug as it was being removed.

Race Begins
As soon as Hennessy and Stoddard appeared, Brebner is alleged to have fled down the hill north of the quadrangle and Felkner drove away. Stoddard and Hennessy followed in Stoddard's car through the city and onto the highway where the race to overtake Felkner began.

After two attempts to crowd Felkner from the road Stoddard breastst him for the third time and was successful in ditching Felkner. Stoddard jumped from his car and took the key from the car driven by Felkner after which he returned to the police station and reported the affair. Sheriff Frank Smith returned with Stoddard and Hennessy to the scene and took Felkner into custody. He was held in the county jail until 8 p.m. when he was released with Brebner who was arrested yesterday, on the posting of $500 appearance bonds.

Former Klan Head Accuses Evans of Instigating Murder

PITTSBURGH, Pa., April 2 (AP)—D. C. Stephenson, former head of the Ku Klux Klan in Indiana, who is serving a life term in the Indiana state prison, charges in a deposition in federal court here today that "Imperial Wizard" W. H. Evans of the Klan instigated the slaying of Capt. William S. Coburn, Atlanta, Ga., attorney, because Coburn "was going to bring out some embarrassing matters in a suit against the Klan."

The deposition also says the Klan never had a national policy, its entire ambitions being based on the personal ambitions of Evans. Stephenson said an audit was never made of its fiscal affairs.

The Indiana prisoner charged that Evans "framed" evidence to bring about his imprisonment and he branded the dying statement of Madge Oberheizer, for whose slaying he was convicted as utterly untrue.

McNary-Haugen Farm Bill Splits Cabinet, Congress

Lowden, Watson Say Bill Overcomes Old Errors

WASHINGTON, April 2 (AP)—Issue with President Coolidge and his cabinet was taken in the senate today by Senator Watson of Indiana, a republican presidential candidate, in championing the controversial equalization fee provision of the McNary-Haugen farm relief bill.

Senator Watson declared the issue had resolved into the feasibility of the equalization fee by which it is proposed to raise funds for marketing surplus crops. He recalled that the republican platform called for farm relief and that President Coolidge vetoed the McNary-Haugen bill a year ago because of the equalization fee among other reasons.

"President Coolidge, Secretary Mellon and Secretary Jardine all have suggested a solution, but congress has arrived at a different conclusion," he said.

Lowden Opposes President

Beyond that the senator did not go into the politics of the legislation which has divided both parties in congress and on which issue there is division in republican presidential ranks with Frank O. Lowden, of Illinois, and Senator Watson opposing the position of the president and his cabinet.

Chairman McNary explained that virtually all objections of Mr. Coolidge to the McNary-Haugen bill of last session had been met in this measure, and that even the equalization fee has been modified so as to make it applicable to all commodities, and to have it brought into effect only after an emergency situation has arisen.

Senator Smith of South Carolina and Simmons, of North Carolina, democrats, endorsed the bill with the qualification that they did not believe the equalization fee could be applied to cotton.

Borah Opposes

Senator Borah, republican, of Idaho, an opponent of the equalization fee, which he contends is unconstitutional, was critical of the powers invested in the farm board under the bill.

Senator McNary emphasized that the bill would resort to the equalization fee only in extreme emergencies.

Mr. Lowden was graduated from the University of Iowa in 1885, and received a bachelor of arts degree at that time. In 1918 the honorary L.D. degree was conferred upon him.

Black Crows Give Variety at Pastime

Varieties, the splay life kind, is included on the bill of entertainment at the Pastime theatre this week, featuring the Dale Brothers in their version of "Two Black Crows." In their delineation of these two characters, made famous by the Victor record of that name, these two comedians kept the audience in laughter during their first performance in Iowa City Monday.

Equally as good as the Dale Brothers, perhaps better, were Sibley and Epps who featured several intricate clog dances on the same bill. This team showed itself to be thoroughly familiar with the best presentation of clog dancing and really gave a very enjoyable act.

The Head sisters, who also appeared on the bill, were somewhat inferior to the other teams, failing to make any headway at all with their singing, but redeeming the act to a certain extent by their dancing.

The Royal Blue band furnished the music for each of the specialties and played several feature numbers besides. Regardless of the limitations of a stage band the group played some very creditable music.

Schnitz Seymoures Varieties, in which these acts were incorporated, furnished a pleasing interlude from the run of all-movie shows usually appearing.

Louise Moler, Grace Eichman, and Doris Pfister of Ames, Alice Cookerman of McGregor, and Mrs. Downing of Cedar Rapids were week-end guests.

The following were entertained at dinner Sunday: Burton Miller, A2 of Newton; Lloyd Southwick, M2 of Moline; Herbert Scott, D2 of Iowa City; Elizabeth Schunk, A3 of Wright; and Emil Rauech, E of Waverly.

Use the Air Mail

ARE you using the air mail? Have you thought of Uncle Sam's winged messengers as a great service to twentieth century business?
Iowa City business men and the local aviation committee urge you to use the air mail in their campaign now under way. They have contributed money toward improving facilities at Smith field. Your part is to make use of this service!
For rush business orders in detailed accounts, the air mail has no equal. Saturday, Pilot Earl C. Robbins, of Galveston, Tex., arrived at the local air port from Buffalo, N. Y., at 7:30 p.m., having taken off from Buffalo at 1 p.m. In six and one-half hours he covered the distance between Buffalo and Iowa City. While he is not a mail plane pilot, yet this is indicative of the tremendous rapidity of transportation now possible by air service.
For personal correspondence—birthday and anniversary greetings—the air mail not only adds time saving to the transportation of the message, but it adds tremendously to the gratification of the recipient.
That the facilities of the local air port have been improved was evidenced in the statement of Pilot Robbins when he remarked that our field is "complete in every respect." "While it does not compare with the standard army layout," he said, "yet, for a government field it is very satisfactory.
Carl Cone, chairman of the local aviation committee, yesterday said that three weeks ago when practically every road leading to Iowa City was impassable, the mail planes were having no difficulty in landing at the local field.
Our business men are making the improved facilities possible; now it is for us to do our part—USE THE AIR MAIL!!

Will the Bell Toll?

THE bell in the city hall tower tolls the report of an overturned canoe—a drowning. Last spring, it tolled for the death of two young men—one a city boy, the other a student in the college of engineering. Two years ago, it announced the death of a high school boy—a visitor attending the annual university high school music festival.
The 1928 canoeing season has opened. The river is filled with canoes.
To the canoeists, don't forget that you must be careful in your pleasures on the river. Canoeing is a sport—not child's play. Carelessness in a canoe is little short of criminal. Even, if you are an expert swimmer, that is no license for carelessness. Your partners may be helpless in an accident.
In the past, drownings in the Iowa river have been almost entirely due to sheer carelessness. Apologetic explanations will not bring back those whom the grim waters of the river have taken.
It is you, canoeists, who can prevent river drownings by being mindful that the lives of those with you rest in your hands as well as your own.

"A Smudge to Spring"

IN spite of the weather man's hesitancy to tell us that spring is here and keep it here, Iowa City's populace is blossoming forth in its new spring attire.
Those who have not yet donned their new spring headpieces, are due to find a lot of unpleasant opposition in Iowa City's business district. All winter long and thus far this spring, low-hanging awnings have been scraping hats—some of the scraping being more disgraceful than graceful. In some instances, the wearer prevents a genuine "crowning" only by ducking his head as he emerges from a store following a purchase.
Several downtown awnings do not have a six foot clearance. The mere cutting off of some of the hanging trimmings would alleviate some of these nuisances.
Light colors are in vogue again in harmony with spring. Unless something is done to these smudgy awnings, we shall all be in style only if we have a few nice smudges for contrast. A smudge on the right and a smudge on the left may be "the" vogue before long.

Tell the Home Folks

UNDOUBTEDLY a majority of the 5,500 students now at the university will become familiar with the notoriously bad roads of Iowa this spring vacation. If there is not actual mud, there will be the inevitable evidence in the ruts and roughness that there had been mud.
Many will travel the roads with curses and destructive criticism of the state and counties. Many will see the necessity for spreading propaganda in favor of the paving plan upon which citizens of the state will vote next fall.
It seems unfortunate that thousands of Iowans have not had the opportunity to see just how bad the roads of the state are in comparison with those of other states. They must rely upon the words of others. Parents will put much reliance upon the words of their sons and daughters in colleges and universities, in such matters, and it rests with the students what they will tell or fail to tell about Iowa's mud roads.
If the perfectly sane road bond bill does not pass the voters this fall, it will be due to a misunderstanding and failure to comprehend the real conditions.

The House Mother

MOST sororities on the campus seem to feel that after a chaperon has been with the group a certain length of time, she becomes a little too assuming, the girls begin to know her a little too well, and consequently much of their respect vanishes. It is then they feel that they would like to make a change, but often they do not feel that they should do so. The chaperon has probably served them well and has many pleasing qualities.
Another difficulty arises occasionally in that the salaries of chaperons are not even. One group starts to pay a little higher, and other house mothers complain, leave, and salaries must all go up, often to a point higher than groups can afford in order to keep from having an inferior house mother.
It seems that with the aid of the Women's Panhellenic council and alumnae representatives that a system of rotation of chaperons could be instituted on the campus and found to be quite efficient. All salaries would be the same and the chapters could avoid the difficulty that arises as the house mother becomes more and more a permanent fixture as time goes on.

Colonel Lindbergh urges an air mail frank for congressmen, but not, presumably, with the idea of burdening the planes with the dead weight of the Congressional Record.—Boston Transcript.

Those who cannot get work in the United States number about 2,000,000. Figures are not at hand to show how this compares with the number of those who won't work.—Boston Transcript.

March evidently thought it was about time to quit sailing under false pretenses.—Milwaukee Journal.

Motion Picture Courses

(From The Michigan Daily)
Since the early development of the motion picture, its educational advantages have been realized. News reels have been developed to follow current events. Various types of educational films have been devised for popular showing and for supplementary instruction in school. Field surveys, and explorations of various nature have been recorded in the celluloid.
Now the motion picture is to be used comprehensively to the advantage of instruction in schools and colleges. In the future, geology professors, besides lecturing and suggesting reading on the formation of continents, will illustrate the action of water on a continent through centuries in half an hour. In no more than the time needed to explain the action, there will be shown recession of Niagara Falls, volcanic action, the great ice age and the erosive effects of rivers and rainfall.
Similarly, history, geography, natural science and economics may be taught with the important material set before the eyes in its supposed reality as well as explained in the textbook.
The motion picture will not supplant the text book but will merely supplement it. There can be no doubt that if properly arranged, it will make the material much more interesting.

Explicitly, Harvard university in conjunction with the Pathe film company are "going on location" to film such material for permanent use in schools and colleges. The "production lots," it is reported, are the laboratories of Harvard to which are brought "close-ups" of all corners of the earth to be included in the pictures. Small models ingeniously arranged to portray the action which occupies the entire world and many centuries. Already much has been done and by summer more than thirty reels will be available for use.

With the direction of the trained teacher, the results should be suitable for classroom instruction. Previous failures, except in the case of Yale which is doing the same in the field of history, have been invariably due to inferior direction.
If successful, the work will in making study much more interesting and effective encourage one of the greatest advances ever made in education.

Goo-Goo-Goofey's EDITORIAL OUTBURSTS
Too long has Iowa U been maligned as a dog collar. Insidious rumor has established (the fact?) that Iowa is an institution where only a Flappa Flappa Yappa can get by. Thousands, nay millions, of good but bereaved ranchers in the state are beginning to suspect that the university is not a safe but a cash register; that it is a vain place to send daughters who still believe that saur kraut comes from cabbage.

SKILL

THE twist of the wrist, the "throw" of the arm, the shifting of the weight—these are among the many little points which make the skill that you admire in the javelin thrower as he hurls the shaft two hundred feet or more.
As on the track or the football field, in the gymnasium or on the water, so in industry progress is the result of fine improvements—a thousandth of an inch here—a minute variation in a curve there—slight changes foreseen by engineers and carried out by skilled workmen.
It is this attention to detail that is constantly improving General Electric apparatus and contributing to the electrical industry, which, though still young, is already a dominant force, increasing profit and promoting success in every walk of life.

Whether you find this monogram on an electric refrigerator for the home or on a 200,000-horsepower turbine generator for a power station, you can be sure that it stands for skilled engineering and high manufacturing quality.

Two Stolen Idols

By Frank L. Packard

THE STORY SO FAR
The body of Tom Kingsley, once a dashing sea-faring adventurer, is picked up in a fragile craft by Captain "Scarface" Sweeney and his mate, Marlow, when their schooner is beached off Singapore. Mute evidence on the body testifies to the fact that the man died in a struggle, and that he was more than likely the victim of foul play. Tom's brother Robert, also an old "sea dog," but now infirm and living with his son, Young Bob, on a plantation in the South Sea Islands, is notified of the death and receives the various articles found on the corpse. Among these are two small but handsomely carved Ivory Idols which, because they are no ordinary trinkets, hint at mystery. Robert Kingsley has good reasons to believe that Hsi Yan, an ancient enemy of the Kingsley family, has returned after thirty years to seek vengeance on his brother, because once during a bitter fight when the Kingsley Brothers and Scarface Sweeney invaded Hsi Yan's slave trading Junk off the Chinese coast, the Oriental promised Tom Kingsley that he would some day come back "To Watch Him Die." Bob Kingsley becomes so overwrought that he is unable to sleep that night thinking how he will apprehend the murderer of his Uncle Tom. He is disturbed by a crackling noise which comes from the direction of his living room when suddenly the stealthy sound is followed by a crash. Bob leaps from bed prepared for "action." NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

They had their own skins to think of. The chances were a thousand to one that the identity of the junk would never have been known without Hsi Yan's body to establish its and, certainly, though his father and Captain Scarface might have had well-founded suspicions, nothing Bob Kingsley raised himself on his elbow and listened intently. There must be a shutter loose somewhere. He was aware now that subconsciously he had been listening to a faint crackling sound for the last minute or so. It came again now. He tried to locate it. It might be either from his father's window, or from the living-room beyond.
He muttered irritably and impatiently to himself. If it wasn't one thing, it was another! He seemed fated for a sleepless night! Would he get up and close the shutter, if it was a shutter, or would he not? He glanced outside through the open window. The wind was getting up a bit, all right—the tree-tops were swaying noticeably against the black sky. But the sound he had heard was now no longer in evidence. Perhaps it had been merely the trees themselves, the creaking of the limbs in the gusts of wind. Curse it all, he was actually beginning to feel sleepy now that his mind had been momentarily diverted from Hsi Yan and that night of murder at Kalawa! He dropped back on his pillow. If the sound came again and persisted there would be nothing to do but to get up—the shutter, or whatever it was, probably wouldn't come to any harm, but to lie there and have the blamed thing irritate him was impossible. But he would wait and see, anyhow.

He listened intently again. It had certainly stopped. There wasn't a sound now except the rising whine of the wind in a gust that was even more pronounced than before, and—
There came a sudden crash from the direction of the living-room.
Bob Kingsley sprang out of bed. "Damn it!" he growled. "It's the French windows, and something's blown over!"
He groped his way across the room and stepped out into the short hallway that ran past his father's room to the living-room entrance a few feet farther on. Here a current of air blew strongly into his face. There was no question but that the French windows were open. He quickened his pace, guiding himself in the darkness with his hand along the wall. The wind was making queer noises now—like a rustling, like a strange swirling, as though a curtain was flapping against some object and was in constant motion.
Half-running he burst into the living-room—and then, with a sharp, involuntary cry, stood still for an instant. But only for an instant! The French windows were open, right enough; but it wasn't the wind that had blown them open. It was intensely dark—so dark that he might have attributed the existence of those white wavering shapes there scarcely two yards away from him to being only the product of his own imagination, had not a low, started cry of warning come from one of them.
And Black Bob Kingsley answered that cry in the only way he had ever been known to answer anything of a like nature. He had mistaken a rotten lot of native thieves for the wind! There was a grim smile on his lips as that thought flashed through his mind—and with a single spring that placed his back to the French windows and blocked the exit, he was upon them, the great fists of the man lashing out around him, striking furiously at what seemed in the darkness no more than squirming, misty, ghostlike forms, save that his blows gave back the dull thud of impact as his fists drove into human flesh.

In an instant the room was in pandemonium, full of snarls, and curious squeals, and scuffling feet—and over it all rose Bob Kingsley's voice in a mighty shout, repeated again and again.
"Mafi! Tamoli! Kero!"
His voice ought to carry easily across the clearing to the house servants in the native huts, and he did not propose that these pilfering housebreakers should escape! It was time that a certain rascally native element on the island had a lesson—and one that would not be forgotten. This sort of thing had happened before!
Again he shouted—but the anger came from his father's room, not from the clearing.
"What's wrong, Bob? What's wrong?" roared old Robert Kingsley; and then in a sort of impatient fury: "Damn this chair and damn my legs! But I'm coming, lad! I'm coming!"
"Stay where you are!" Bob panted between his blows. "Fire your revolver if you like, it will help rouse our boys; but for God's sake stay where you are. There's only a few thieving swine here, and I'll—"
His breath seemed suddenly to have been knocked out of his body. Evidently in frantic fear now and with no other thought but that of making their escape as shot after shot rang out from the next room, the white shapes had made a concerted rush upon him. They forced him back a step—another—almost to the open French windows. And now they had closed upon him hanging upon his neck and arms, striving to beat him to the ground, raining vicious blows into his face and body. He did not know how many there were—three or four or five or ten—they seemed to multiply themselves at close quarters! And some of them seemed to be rolling on the floor most curiously—perhaps to snatch at his legs and trip him up. But his arms were around the necks of two of them now, banging their heads together—and then one he flung to the floor, and then the other. But they seemed to rise up instantly again—or was it still another two, or even three, that he was holding back now with the short-arm blows that he drove home with all his strength?

But some of his blows were wild. There wasn't any light. He could not see. He was out of luck there! They got at him too easily—got too many blows in on him. His mind was becoming a little confused—it was as though a lot of phantoms in attack kept bobbing up in front of him—and the phantoms were grunting and gasping, and making fierce, sibilant squalling noises—native phantoms, of course—but he had known that from the first—not English grunts, native grunts—and besides Englishmen didn't squeal.
Why didn't the servants from the native quarters come? They'd had time enough a hundred times over. No—perhaps not! It seemed as though he had been fighting here all night, but it was much more likely that it had been less than two or three minutes. Well, whether the servants came or not, these swine here wouldn't get away—not all of them anyway—there'd be at least one of them left to identify the rest! He would see to that, or else—
He snarled suddenly, and a fury that he had not known before was upon him. Knives now, was it! The slashed sleeve of his pajama flapped hard. They would pay for that! He reached a little—and then in a flash, like a human battering ram, he launched himself upon them, driving in his blows with a new strength born out of the elemental passion that had been aroused in him—and the phantoms were grunting and gasping, and making fierce, sibilant squalling noises—native phantoms, of course—but he had known that from the first—not English grunts, native grunts—and besides Englishmen didn't squeal.
He sprang backward, and for a moment stood free of the ruck.

Hawkeye Cinder Men Take First Practice on Iowa Field

Tracksters Drill on Outdoor Oval in Easy Workout

Relay Members Pass Batons in Initial Appearance

Yesterday afternoon saw the Hawk cindermen working out on Iowa field in the initial outdoor practice of the year. The call had been issued last week for the candidates to report, and a large number were on hand for the drill.

The track has been rolled and put into good shape. The jumping and vaulting pits are so arranged that they can be used from either side. This makes it possible for the men to work on windy days without being hindered in their efforts.

The drill for the first day centered in the baton passing of the sprinters and the half miler. The distance men were put through long jogs, and finished up with speed work. The middle distance men worked mostly on speed. The broad jumpers are showing up to good advantage in the outdoor pits and should round into good shape.

With the Georgia relays only a little more than a week away, the speed merchants are bending every effort toward perfection of form. It is undecided what teams will be entered in the relays, but it is probable that the team that won the Texas mile and copped second in the Rice relays the following day will run.

This team is made up of V. W. Stevenson, R. I. Stamats, C. E. Wilmoth, G. H. Baird, and Capt. F. J. Cuhel.

There is also a possibility that a two mile team will make the trip. In that case the personnel would be picked from Moulton, Gunn, Wilmoth, Speers, McCammon, Milner, Wagner.

Kappa Sigs and Betas Win Tilts

Last night saw two of the best games played in the inter-fraternity indoor baseball tournament. Both games were extremely close and neither was decided until the last inning of the game. It required an extra inning to decide the victor in the game between Kappa Sigma and Sigma Chi.

Beta Theta Pi defeated Phi Chi, in a good game to the tune of two to one. Both teams played excellent ball. Grippen, third base for the winners was the outstanding player on the floor. He made some good catches and was the best man at bat for the winners. Both pitchers were good, but Temple had the edge. Although the second game was more exciting, better baseball was played in this encounter.

In an extra inning, Kappa Sigma defeated Sigma Chi 5 to 4. The losers led until the fourth inning, when the Kappa Sigs managed to bring in two players to tie the score. Neither scored in the fifth, so an extra inning was played. Sigma Chi brought in two runs, but Kappa Sigma won the game by bringing in three. Rinden, pitcher for the losers had a fast ball, but lost control after the first three innings. Kinnan, at catch, played the best ball for the victors. Both teams were evenly matched.

Games tonight:
7:00—Delta Sigma Pi vs. Phi Kappa.
7:45—Sigma Pi vs. Phi Beta Delta.
Wednesday:
8:00—Sigma Alpha Epsilon vs. Sigma Phi Epsilon.

Red Uhlan Draws With T. Easterbook

CHICAGO, April 2 (AP)—Red Uhlan, Los Angeles middleweight, fought an eight-round draw with T. Easterbook of Niles, O., here tonight. Uhlan was floored in the third round with a right to the body but evened up the going with his aggressiveness during the rest of the bout.

Howard Benz, Milwaukee middleweight, was knocked out by Jack McKenna of Toronto in the fifth round of their eight-rounder.

Tennis Candidates Drill Out-of-Doors

This week-end will see the Iowa tennis squad in its first real outdoor workouts of the year. So far this season, the weather has consistently prevented the racketeers from practicing on the outside courts, and all playing has consequently been done indoors inside the field house.

Work on the courts down by the reserve library will begin today.

BOWLING

It was definitely "Eagles' night" in the playing of the Lodge league games at the Dee bowling alleys yesterday evening.

Besides taking the high score in every division, the high-flying Eagles were the only ones able to beat their opponents, the Elks, by a 3-0 score. All the other participating teams in last night's fracas won by a one-game margin, the L.O.O.F. besting the American Legion 2-1, and the Moose humbling the Knights of Columbus by the same score.

All four of the high-scoring marks were chalked up by the Eagle maple-knockers, Wilfang topping the pins for 236 and 576 to place highest in the single game and triple frame scoring respectively.

As a team, the Eagles bowled 890 for one game and 2594 for three games to head the evening's bowling total.

Beers Announces Plan for Seeking Berth on Olympics

158-Pound Champion to Train for Final Trials in July

Membership on the American Olympic wrestling team will be sought by Leslie B. Beers, Hawkeye 158-pound grappler who holds the Mid-Western A. A. U., Western conference, and National Collegiate A. A. championships, he declared yesterday.

Beers, whose intercollegiate career closed when he took the N.C.A. title at Ames Saturday, will enter the final tryouts for the Yankee team at Grand Rapids, Mich., July 6 and 7.

The winner and runner-up in each of the seven classes at the final trials will make the trip to Amsterdam, the American Olympic committee has decided. The international games are scheduled for July 30 to Aug. 5.

The Hawkeye star, who has not been beaten in the 158-pound class this season, will train lightly for several weeks after being in fine form since January. Later he will return to strenuous workouts under the direction of Coach H. M. Howard, the Iowa mentor who is responsible for his development.

Eleven victories appear on Beers' record in intercollegiate and A. A. meets this winter. He has taken seven decisions and has thrown four men.

In 1924, two other Hawkeye wrestlers competed in the final trials for the Olympic team. John O'Brien, 135 pounds; and Eugene Grattan, 158 pounds, were named as alternates on the squad but did not travel to Paris.

Eastern states with the strongest entry list in the ten years of the tournament will make a bid for their second national tilt. Fitchburg, Mass., won the tournament in 1926.

Novton high of Cicero, Ill., sprung a surprise by winning the title last year.

Frosh Swimmers Leave for Meet

Armbruster, Natators Attend N.A.A. Tilt in Chicago

Coach Dave A. Armbruster together with Boyd N. Liddle and Harvey Lloyd left Sunday morning for Chicago where the National A. A. U. championships are being held this week.

Liddle, who is entered in the free style events and fancy diving, has a chance to garner points in dives and the distance events. Some of the competitors hold world's records. Johnny Weismuller will attempt to retain and possibly better his records and Wally Colbath of Northwestern and Heinie Groh of Illinois will be there to battle for diving honors.

Lloyd, the other Iowa frosh entry, will make his bid for points in the individual medley and the 150-yard back stroke. His performances during this year have been good despite his illness during the dual telegraphic season.

The preliminaries began yesterday afternoon and will continue through today, with the finals tonight.

Frosh Diamond Artists to Combat Reserves Today

With the main troupe of performers showing to the fans of the south, the apprentice ball players and the freshmen team will put on a little side-show all their own either today or Wednesday. The varsity reserves are practicing on Iowa field while the freshmen are working hard in daily rehearsals across the river.

Coach John Beardsley is carefully grooming his men, and he has about decided the line-up which will face the reserves. His first string infield consists of Criswell at first, Newlin playing second, Stebbins is the short stop, and Mitchell will play the hot corner. Gambelin is also considered among the best of the infielders and may be seen at second or short.

The outfield is a big league outfit with Hap Jebens, the all-around Davenport athlete leading the list, closely followed by Peters and Askelson, both of whom are real ball players. McCone is another good outfielder.

The two best pitchers at present seem to be Zifferen, and Harris. The former is small but has a deceptive southpaw delivery. Martin appears to be the class of the catchers.

Jockey Who Rode in First Derby Still Prominent in World of Turf

LOUISVILLE, Ky., April 2 (AP)—Fast approaching man's allotted span of three score and ten years, William Walker, negro horseman, who rode in the first Kentucky Derby, remains active today in the world of turf.

Walker retired from the saddle in 1884, his last race being on Bob Cook in the American Derby. Since then he has devoted his time to training horses and has been affiliated with many of the leading stables of the country. John E. Madden now has had him a number of years as trainer in an advisory capacity.

When H. P. McGrath's Aristides triumphed in the first Kentucky Derby, May 17, 1875, a diminutive 15 year old Negro jockey rode Bob Wooley and finished fourth. Walker was the jockey. The next year when the race went to Vagrant, Walker brought Bombay into fourth position. In the third running of the great race, Walker won with Dan Swigert's Baden Baden. Since then he has witnessed every Kentucky Derby. He rode his first race at the age of 11 and there has never been a break in his connection with the turf.

Many changes have come during this time. Walker recalls that his fee for winning the Derby with Baden Baden was exactly $50 and later, when he rode Ten Broeck to victory in a memorable race with Mollie McCarthy, he received nothing beyond the customary riding fee from the owner. At the time, he was being paid a monthly salary by Dan Swigert, his contract employer.

The sport world was aghast a short time later, Walker relates, when Edward Corrigan paid Isaac Murphy an annual retainer of $2,500 to ride for him.

Of the horses he has ridden, the Negro declares King Alfonso was the fastest.

Good. That's what it is...

No USE trying to put a definition around Camel. It is as diverse and fugitive as the delicate tastes and fragrances that Nature puts in her choicest tobaccos, of which Camel is rolled. Science aids Nature to be sure by blending the tobaccos for subtle smoothness and mildness. One way to describe Camel is just to say, "They are good!"

Each smoker telling the other, we suppose. At any rate, it's first—in popularity as well as quality. It has beaten every record ever made by a smoke. Modern smokers have lifted it to a new world leadership.

Camels request a place in your appreciation. Try them upon every test known. You'll find them always loyal to your highest standard.

Somehow, news of Camel has got around. "Have a Camel!"

Wheat Declines Slightly Price Bulges Fail to Hold Following Unofficial Estimate

CHICAGO, April 2 (AP)—Unofficial wheat crop estimates today, construed at first as bullish, presented other aspects when examined closer, and price bulges failed to hold.

Closing quotations on wheat were unsettled at the same as Saturday's finish to decline, with corn 1/16 to 1/8 down, oats 1/16 to 1/8 up, and provision varying 1/8 to 1/4 decline to an equal advance.

Notwithstanding that throughout most of the day wheat values showed a pronounced upward trend, the finish was at virtually the day's bottom level. Heavy selling to realize profits for holders had much to do with the reactions from price bulges.

Corn prices became heavy owing in the main to free selling of a local character. Buying power proved to be insufficient to absorb the offerings. Nothing was heard of export business, and considerable corn is coming here from other markets.

Prices Continue at Firm Trend While Trade Remains Quiet

NEW YORK, April 2 (AP)—The bond market was more quiet today than at any time in a week or more, but prices in the main continued to follow a firm trend.

Copper bonds showed contrasting movements, Anaconda 7s moving up to a new peak at 117 1/2, while Andes 7s dropped back more than a point.

General Asphalt 6s climbed 2 1/2 points in sympathy with the common and preferred stocks, and Liquid Carbonic 6s added another point to their recent gains.

Chesapeake corporation 5s again reached par, the year's high level and a few of the New Haven issues were firm.

Duquesne Light 4 1/2s, consistent ground gainers last week, reached 104, a new top, and a few other light and power issues were in demand.

United States government obligations were easy.

Mumma Tells Dealers About Shortage in Chest Funds

A general outline of reasons for depreciations in merchant's profits for the last few years was made by Howard P. Sheets, manager of the National Retail Hardware Dealers association, in a talk at the chamber of commerce luncheon yesterday.

"The Problem of Profit," was the topic discussed by Mr. Sheets, who pointed out logical reasons for the merchant's struggles.

Excessive production that came with the war, and also the heavily increased efforts for greater business, were largely responsible for the present condition, Mr. Sheets said.

In further discussion of the merchant's profits, the speaker pointed out that the increased competition in industry and the wide development of installment buying were other factors contributing to the present day conditions for retailers.

Col. Morton C. Mumma announced that the campaign funds for the community chest would begin April 11, and declared that the chest had come through the last year without a deficit. Several branches of the organization, however, had suffered because of shortage of funds.
