Senate Boosts McNary-Haugen Farm Relief Fund

Votes to Increase Relief Measures to $400,000,000

Democrat Outnumbers Republican Ballot in First Vote

WASHINGTON, April 11 (AP)—The senate today boosted the ante on farm relief from $250,000,000 to $400,000,000, in writing into the McNary-Haugen measure some amendments which cleared the way for a final vote on the bill by tomorrow.

The proposal of Senator McKellar, democrat, Tennessee, to increase the proposed revolving fund with which to assist farm organizations in marketing surplus crops from $250,000,000 to $400,000,000 brought the first roll call vote on the bill and in the opinion of some leaders, a test of strength of the measure.

Small Attendance at League Opener

(By The Associated Press)

The smallest attendance in six years marked the opening of major league baseball season. Unusually cold weather, especially in the east, cut heavily into the figures, which totaled 198,517 for the eight games as compared with pre-game expectations of 250,000.

This was nearly 30,000 short of last year's aggregate of 227,660 for opening day, when only seven games were played.

The total:

American league—Detroit, 40,000; Chicago, 30,000; Philadelphia, 20,000; Boston, 10,000; Totals, 100,000.

National league—New York, 35,000; Cincinnati, 30,517; St. Louis, 21,000; Brooklyn, 12,000; Totals, 98,517.

Iowa Conference on Waterworks Sifts Problems

Sessions Last Until Saturday Noon; Many Attend

With a program for making a general survey of the problems faced by municipal water supply systems engineers, the first Iowa Waterworks conference opened its meeting yesterday morning.

Sessions of the conference, which is held under the joint auspices of the college of engineering and the extension division, with the state department of health cooperating, will be held for three more days, the program closing at noon Saturday.

Many persons interested in pure water supply problems are attending the meetings.

Hammill Announces Third Term Plans

Executive Speaks in Favor of Road Bond Issue

DES MOINES, April 11 (AP)—Gov. John Hammill today formally announced his candidacy for a third term as governor of Iowa.

His announcement was accompanied by a three-plank platform, about half of which was taken up with a discussion of his views on the $100,000,000 road bond issue and a plea for the people of the state to pass it at the referendum in November.

His second plan was an endorsement of the McNary-Haugen bill and the third rapped bank guaranty bills as "unsound" and advocated in their stead a mutual banking examination system similar to that devised by the Chicago clearing house association.

Physicians Close Clinic Following Open Discussion

Dr. Louis D. Wilson Presents Main Lecture

The college of medicine closed its seventeenth annual medical clinic yesterday afternoon with a discussion devoted to consideration of cases. Physicians registering for the last day's program swelled the attendance to 230.

Two programs were held simultaneously in the afternoon at the medical and surgical amphitheatres until 11:30 when Dr. Louis D. Wilson, director of the Mayo Foundation at Rochester, Minn., gave the principal lecture of the day.

Londoners Enjoy Chicago Elections

LONDON, April 11 (AP)—The Chicago elections and "Big Bill" Thompson's capacious hat and ample smile enjoyed immense popularity in the London afternoon papers, which prominently displayed the defeat of "King George's book burning foe."

The front page reports bristled with announcement of "violence," "terrorism," "death," in the Chicago primaries, while one of "a reign of terror through the state."

"Only one murder!" exclaimed the Evening News, which, extending its irony to its editorial leader, pleads with Londoners to learn to conduct their political battles "with the Chicago enthusiasm."

Plane Takes Off From Baldonnel for Long Island

Bremen Starts With Perfect Takeoff on Journey

BREMEN, April 11 (AP)—The German trans-Atlantic plane Bremen hopped off on its trans-Atlantic flight to New York at 5:38 this morning.

The plane made a perfect takeoff and headed for Galway.

The Bremen was wheeled out of its hangar at 2:30, and amid feverish activity was prepared for the hop. A cordon of soldiers kept back a large crowd of spectators who gathered in the dark.

Brookhart Favors Increase

The $400,000,000 proposition was carried 42 to 30 with 25 democrats, 18 republicans and the lone farmer-labor senator favoring the increase. Those voting against it included 22 republicans and eight democrats. Some opponents of the McNary-Haugen bill, including Senators Borah, Idaho, and Brookhart, Iowa, republicans, voted for the increase but it is believed none of these voting against the increase might swing in favor of the bill.

Community Chest Drive Continues

Goal of Campaigners to Raise Fund of $12,430.25

Iowa City's Community Chest campaign today swings into the second day of activity in the efforts to raise $12,430.25 for the support of the Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Social Service league and the women's rest room.

Most of the workers in the campaign began their calls on prospective subscribers to the funds yesterday. Prospect cards were handed to members of the Rotary and Lion's clubs.

Each Has Own Problems

C. C. Williams, dean of the college of engineering, opened the address of welcome, in which he pointed out the significance of the waterworks conference, and the effect it may have upon the solving of problems of water pollution throughout the state.

Speaking on "Municipal Water Supply Problems," Earle L. Waterman, professor of sanitary engineering, pointed out that each of the 531 public water supply systems in Iowa probably has its own individual problems, and that the solving of these problems is one of the aims of the conference.

Water Responsible for Health

Professor Waterman quoted figures to show that 473 of the water systems have ground water instead of surface water as a source of supply, and explained the different conditions governing modes of transportation and governing the habits and customs of people have changed rapidly. We must recognize changes and we must deal with them wisely and economically.

FLASHES of Late Wire News

Ice Jam Threatens Railroad

CARIBOU, Maine, April 11 (AP)—An ice jam, three miles long and still growing despite the efforts of men and dynamite, filled the Aroostook river above the Caribou dam tonight, threatening heavy damage to two railroads as well as the light and water supply of this town.

Flyers Homeward Bound

Senator Deneen Plans Cleanup of Gang Domination

New Faction to Turn Spotlight on Illicit Operations

CHICAGO, April 11 (AP)—While tired tabulators still struggled to-night with completion of the record of the majority for the republican faction led by Senator Charles S. Deneen, which is yesterday's state wide primary swept into the political discard the republicans of the Small Thompson faction, which for seven years has dominated Chicago and Illinois, the winner began consideration of plans to clean up the city if they are elected next fall over their democratic opponents.

Other Amendments Made

Some other amendments by Senator McKellar which were drafted at a conference of senators from the cotton producing states, were accepted but a vote went over until tomorrow on his proposal to have the president rather than the farm board select members of the advisory council.

Workers in the Campaign

The workers in the campaign are divided into several different classes, depending on the classification of the individuals to be approached.

These classes include members of four civic clubs: Rotary, Lions, Kiwanis, and Gyro; men from the city at large, university men, university women, women from the city at large, and a group of women organized by Mrs. F. B. Knight. More than 2,000 persons will be called on by these workers.

Shrader Outlines Postoffice Plans

Postmaster Optimistic for New $150,000 Structure

The possibilities of a new post-office here still are uncertain, according to Postmaster C. C. Shrader, but he expressed hopes that the question will be satisfactorily decided soon.

The recommendations for this city which have been forwarded to President Coolidge for his signature include an appropriation of approximately $50,000 being available shortly after the measure is signed. The total amount is a part of the building appropriation bill which is to be used in the improvement of federal buildings throughout the United States.

Thomson Rules Klan Case From Federal Court

PITTSBURGH, April 11 (AP)—The suit of five former members of the Ku Klux Klan to restrain the order operating in Pennsylvania, was thrown out of federal court here late today by Judge W. H. S. Thomson, who ruled that he was without jurisdiction and that it was a question for the state to settle.

Howell Carries Nebraska G.O.P.

OMAHA, Neb., April 11 (AP)—The progressive wing of the republican party fared well at the hands of Nebraska voters in yesterday's state wide primaries.

Hitchcock Represents Only Democratic Delegate

Former United States Senator Gilbert M. Hitchcock, only democratic presidential preference candidate in Nebraska, had the solid support of the state's delegation to the democratic national convention.

The primary thus shaped the make-up of the delegations to both party conventions; Nebraska democrats will go pledged to Mr. Hitchcock. Five republican delegates at large, headed by Gov. Adam McMullen, strong advocate of the equalization fee in the McNary-Haugen bill, will go pledged to support former Gov. Frank O. Lowden of Illinois, or, in the event of a deadlock, Senator Norris, or Vice-president Dawes, "a middlewestern candidate in sympathy with" the McNary-Haugen bill.

Paris Rail Crash Kills 16, Injures 30

PARIS, April 11 (AP)—A crowd of race fans on its way to the Engelen race track this afternoon, collided with another train just outside the yard limits of the Gare du Nord. Sixteen persons were killed and more than thirty injured, some of them, it is feared, mortally. The killed and injured were French.

Stock Exchange Shows Markets Soaring Higher

NEW YORK, April 11 (AP)—The "bull" market staged one of the most remarkable "come-backs" in the history of the New York Stock exchange today.

Stock prices which reeled yesterday under the staggering blow of "bear" traders, wavered on renewal of attacks at the opening of today's market, recuperated under the stimulus of lower call money and favorable trade news and then shot upward in sensational fashion as powerful speculative pools resumed the offensive. Early losses of $1 to $4 a share were wiped out and replaced by gains of $2 to $11 a share, with scores of issues mounting to new high levels.

Faculty Refuses to Open Journalism, Religion to Frosh

The proposal that courses in the schools of journalism and religion be opened to freshman students was not approved by the faculty at the meeting held yesterday afternoon.

The proposal had been made in connection with the revision of the course of freshman study which is now being made.

South is the dealer. What is the proper bidding and play?

Record the bids that each player should make, assuming that he does not see any of the other hands. These hands must not be bid or played "Double Dummy," i. e., as though all four hands were exposed.

NOTE—In recording the Auction, or the play use "S" for Spades, "H" for Hearts, "D" for Diamonds, and "C" for Clubs. Use "N.T." for No Trump, "DBL" for double, "RED BL" for redouble.

Sallient Points of the Bidding

South's original bid of one Spade with four to the Ace-King, supported only by a side King, is in accordance with the more recent developments in four-card suit bids. East's holding does not warrant a Heart rebid, in the absence of encouragement from his partner.

Sallient Points of the Play

Trick 3. South's trumps being reduced to three, he cannot afford to lead trumps at this point. He must first attempt to establish his side suits, and naturally starts with Diamonds, since he has more diamonds between the two hands than Clubs.

Trick 5. The fall of the ten of Diamonds on Trick 3 made it reasonable to assume that West held four Diamonds, in which case the Declarer could take but three Diamond tricks. South (the Declarer) therefore has recourse to the possible establishment of two Club tricks to assure game. While, under these circumstances, a single

Justices to Hear "Supreme Court Day" Arguments

Albert and Wagner to Preside at Law Club Debates

Two chief justices of the Iowa supreme court will officiate at the finals of the first year arguments of the college of law which will be held this afternoon at 3 o'clock in Old Capitol. The arguments will be the afternoon feature of "Supreme Court Day," newly inaugurated celebration in the college of law.

Beck Weaver Clubs Debate

The men who will argue in the final case represent Beck and Weaver clubs. They are all members of the first year class.

Members of the Beck team are Charles J. Joy of Perry, and Henry N. Neuman of Davenport. Richard C. Davis of Iowa City and William W. Crisman of Cedar Rapids will argue for Weaver. The case will be heard in the house chamber of Old Capitol.

Initiation into the Order of the Coif will be conducted this morning in the house chamber of Old Capitol. The honorary law recognition will be conferred on Justice E. G. Albert and on six senior students in the college of law: Edward Ford, of Iowa City; Joe Rosenfeld, of Grinnell; Charles J. Lynch, of Cedar Rapids; William Larrabee, of Fort Dodge; L. Dale Kaufman, of Des Moines; and Gilbert Finley, of Northwood.

Banquet Follows

Open house smokers and a law banquet will feature the social entertainment for the day. The four legal fraternities will have open house between 1:30 and 3 o'clock. The $80 prize to be awarded to the winning club in the argument finals will be presented at the annual dinner to be held at Red Ball Inn at 6:30 o'clock. Harvey J. Carter, L2 of Shell Rock, will act as toastmaster at the program which will follow the dinner.

All classes will be dismissed in the college of law for the day. Students and faculty will join in the entertainment for the first annual "Supreme Court Day."

types of difficulties the two types face.

Discussing the relation of water supplies to public health, Dr. Henry Albert, commissioner of health, Iowa state department of health, showed the correlation which has existed between the improvement of water supply and the decrease in such diseases as typhoid.

His figures showed that in St. Louis, the number of persons dying from typhoid per 100,000 population dropped from fifty-five in 1880 to less than three in 1927. In Massachusetts the number dropped from ninety persons in 1855 to four in 1915. These changes follow the improvement of water supply very closely.

Mineral Content Small Factor

Doctor Albert said that the mineral content of water is a negligible factor in its effect on health, the bacterial content having the appreciable effect. Overcharging with chlorine is not injurious to health. "Ground Water Supplies in Iowa" was the topic taken up by George F. Kay, state geologist and dean of the college of liberal arts. He showed how ground water occurs in mantle rock and in deep rocks, and discussed the geological formations throughout the state in which ground water is found.

Tests Demonstrated

Explanations and demonstrations of some of the more important tests which are used for the control of water treatment plants were given from 1:30 to 3 p.m. yesterday in the medical laboratory building. Prof. Jack J. Hinman, Jr., chief of the water laboratory, state hygienic laboratories, was in charge of the demonstration.

Hinman Lectures

In the evening session, Professor Hinman gave an illustrated lecture on "Water Purification in Iowa," in which he showed slides of the various municipal systems throughout the state and discussed their equipment and problems.

Speaker Discusses Problems

"Shallow Wells" will be the topic of V. H. Lear, manager of city utilities at Newton. H. F. Blomquist, superintendent of the water works at Cedar Rapids, will speak on "Deep Wells." F. M. Veatch of Black and Veatch, consulting engineers of Kansas City, will speak on "Impounding Reservoirs," and A. Brown, superintendent of the water works at Ottumwa, will speak on "River Water Supplies."

The water laboratory demonstrations will be continued from 1:30 to 3 o'clock this afternoon. An inspection of the filtration plant at the swimming pool in the field house will follow.

Museum Shows Moose Group at Informal Opening

The moose group, the most recent addition to the university museum, was presented to the public last night at an informal opening.

Between 350 and 400 persons visited the museum from 8 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. This group consists of three moose, a bull, cow and calf standing upon a sandbar before a background painted to represent the northern Minnesota woods. This background was painted by Aden Forest Arnold, professor in the department of graphic and plastic arts.

Forensic League to Pick Speakers

After viewing the moose group the crowd scattered to all parts of the museum, spending the evening looking over the other exhibits.

Four Contestants Will Meet for State Competition

The four high school students who will compete for the state championship of the Iowa High School extemporaneous speaking league at Iowa City, April 27, will be chosen at four district contests within the next few days.

District Selects Winner

From six to nine towns have already entered each district meet. Each student competing in the district meet has previously won the contest within his own high school. One speaker will be chosen in each district to compete for state championship honors.

The winners of first and second place in the state contest will receive four-year scholarships to the college of liberal arts, and the school which they represent will receive a silver-bronze plaque. Each of the four district contest winners will receive a silver medal and a free trip to the state contest.

Iowa City Competes

In the northwest district, Sheldon, Denison, Storm Lake, Webster City, Estherville, and East high of Sioux City have entered contestants. In the southeast meet, Oskaloosa, Davenport, Fremont, Moravia, Newton, Ottumwa, Sigourney, Tipton, and Iowa City will compete.

Marshalltown, Aplington, Garwin, Nashua, Oelwein, Stanwood Consolidated, Tama, Cresco, and West high of Waterloo will enter speakers in the northeast district. In the southwest district, Bedford, Adair, Corning, Hastings, Milo and Abraham Lincoln high of Council Bluffs will compete.

The series of contests are sponsored by the Iowa Patriotic league and the Iowa Extemporaneous Speaking league. Arrangements for the contests are largely in the hands of the extension division of the university and the speech department.

Draw Own Topics

Topics for the contests are chosen from certain numbers of the Literary Digest and the Review of Reviews. The contestants draw the topic upon which they are to speak by lot, one hour before the contest. Their speeches are to be eight minutes in length.

This will be the eleventh year in which this contest has been held. During that time, Iowa City and West Waterloo have had the winning contestant twice each, while Ponda, Sioux Center, Oskaloosa, Eldora, Sioux City, and Newton have each won once.

Alpha Kappa Psi Selects Officers for Coming Year

Members of Alpha Kappa Psi entertained at a dinner at the Burkley hotel last night. Following the dinner the following officers were elected for the ensuing year: G. Leslie Howarth, C3 of Woodbine, president; Roy Behm, C3 of Ogden, vice president.

August R. Kruskop, C3 of Lytton, treasurer; E. William Murphy, C2 of Red Oak, secretary; Stanley C. Nelson, C1 of Humboldt, master of rituals; William E. Bolsinger, C2 of Burlington, diary correspondent; and Clifford F. Moss, C3 of Riceville, chaplain.

Woodmen Initiate Five Candidates

Five men were initiated into the local camp of Modern Woodmen of America at the regular meeting last night. Donald Hartsock, Doyle Roberts Allen, Francis Shiman, Lyle Lenz, and Allan V. Crooks, are those given the degree work.

District Deputy Roy Denton was a visitor at the meeting. Casual Louis Blecker presided over the ceremonies.

Theta Phi Alpha Holds Initiation

Eight pledges of Theta Phi Alpha were received into membership in the chapter at formal initiation ceremonies at the chapter house Tuesday night.

The new initiates are Harriet Dunn, A2 of Marshalltown; Eleanor Dunn, A2 of Marshalltown; Marguerite Goen, A3 of Manchester; Gertrude Unrath, A1 of Iowa City; Evelyn Neese, A2 of Des Moines; Pea Hanson, A1 of Idaho Falls, Idaho; Marie Holzhauser, A1 of Tipton; Alice Burns, A3 of Iowa City.

Following the initiation ceremony a formal dinner was served at the Jefferson hotel. Presiding as toastmistress was Doris Lorden. Toasts were given by Marion Powers, Marguerite Goen, Helen Garstide, and Margaret Sheridan.

Menzer Talks at Ames Radio Meet

Explains Invention to Present Programs Simultaneously

A method of synchronizing transmitters in broadcasting stations so that any number of stations can operate on the same wave length at the same time will be presented by Carl Menzer, WSUI announcer, at Ames Friday. The occasion will be the seventh annual convention of the Midwest division of the American Radio Relay league which meets Friday and Saturday.

Mr. Menzer will explain how he has synchronized WSUI with the Atlanta, Ga., station, making the interference as low as possible.

He has invented a piece of apparatus which he calls a harmonic generator and multiplier, and has applied for a patent. By means of this instrument he has been able to broadcast programs from two experimental stations on the same wave length simultaneously.

The convention at Ames, which will be in the nature of a short course, will comprise lectures by radio operators from all over the country and discussions of radio problems.

The university will also be represented by Louis R. Huber, A2 of Tipton, who will talk on amateur radio broadcasting. Ted MacDougal, one of the operators of WSUI will attend the meeting.

Eight Take Test in Mathematics

Twelve hours devoted to one exam was the time spent by eight students in the mathematics department who took the examination given by the American Institute of Actuaries Tuesday and Wednesday.

The examination covers high school mathematics, trigonometry, analytical geometry, differential and integral calculus, summation of series, and calculus of finite differences. This university is one of the few in which the exam is given.

Four girls and four men took the examination: Alice B. Carey, G of Fondra; Herbert A. Meyer, G of Des Moines; Paul K. Frazer, A4 of Ottumwa; John Price Murphy, A4 of Des Moines; Ferrel Rogers, G of Alton; Elizabeth E. Roman, G of Iowa City; Mary A. Sage, G of Spencer; Nura D. Turner, A3 of McGregor.

"A passing grade in these exams is very influential in securing positions and obtaining promotions in the home office of many insurance companies," said Prof. Henry L. Rietz, head of the mathematics department.

The examinations are made and graded by the examining board of the American Institute of Actuaries. John F. Reilly, associate professor of mathematics, is a member of that board.

Lecount Reports Poor Conditions in Wheat Region

CHICAGO, April 11 (AP)—George M. Lecount reports to Steinbalkinok "having just returned from the soft wheat belt I must say that I have never seen such severe losses from winter killing as exists this spring. Many large wheat sections of Illinois, Indiana and Ohio are practically a total loss. I have not been in any locality that has more than half their acreage left and all the remaining acreage is more or less thin and spotted."

"Northern Ohio and northeastern Indiana have considerable wheat, but in this territory the abandonment is heavy, very few localities having 50 per cent of the original wheat acreage remaining. Now I think Illinois, Indiana and Ohio have lost 60 per cent of their acreage and if we have favorable weather I think these three states will raise about 40,000,000 bushels of wheat this year."

"This condition extends over into Missouri, where severe losses have resulted from winter killing. But as you go west into Missouri you run out of the winter killed area. Missouri has lost about 30 per cent of its acreage."

Grain futures purchased April 10 were, wheat 11,636,000 bushels; corn 9,854,000; oats 1,010,000; rye 399,000; total 22,895,000 bushels.

Unusual Rush of Buying Produces Skyward Boost

CHICAGO, April 11 (AP)—In a seldom equalled rush of buying, wheat went skyward today as much as 5 1/2c a bushel. Abnormal backward condition of the 1928 domestic winter wheat crop officially reported from Washington was chiefly responsible for stampeding the market and for hoisting prices to above topmost levels of this season.

Closing quotations on wheat were buoyant at virtually the day's highest figures, 4 1/2c to 5 1/2c net advance, with corn 1 1/2c to 2 1/2c up, oats showing 1/2c to 3/4c gain, and provisions varying from 7c decline to a rise of 5c.

From the outset, wheat was in urgent demand, and initial trades showed a general price jump ranging from 1 1/2c to 3 1/2c a bushel. This huge met with selling to realize profits, but the traction was slight, and soon the market rose higher. This process was repeated at intervals until the final gong.

It was the first time in a long while that general public buying of wheat has been of volume so large that profit-taking sales of such magnitude were easily absorbed.

Export transactions today in wheat for prompt shipment from North America were estimated at as much as 1,500,000 bushel. This circumstance was an influential factor in the late strength of values.

Corn and oats derived their strength mainly from the action of wheat. Arrivals of corn at terminal markets were small and there were reports current telling of cold weather damage to the new oats crop.

Provisions were responsive to upturns in grain prices.

Call Money Rate Reduction Tends to Buoy Prices

NEW YORK, April 11 (AP)—The bond market was active and firm today. Many issues were inclined to softness in the early trading, but reduction of the call money rate at noon served both to increase activity and buoy prices.

St. Paul bonds were in demand, the 5's of 1909 advancing nearly two points. Erie refunding and improvement 5's all registered a small gain.

A number of rails closed lower, among them Seaboard Air Line 5's, Manhattan Railway convertible and second 4's, Brooklyn Union Elevated 5's, New York railroads income 6's and Third Avenue Adjustment 5's moved to new peaks for the year.

A few industrial bonds showed strength, among them International Paper Refunding 5's, which reached new high ground at 102 1/2.

Italian issues continued to lead the foreign group but prices showed little change.

U. S. government bonds were active and steady.

Implement Makers Fight Higher Rates

CHICAGO, April 11 (AP)—O. S. Brantingham, a farm implement manufacturer of Rockford, Ill., today protested to the interstate commerce commission against an increase in class freight rates in the western trunk lines territory.

He said the implement makers had paid no more return on capital than the railroads. One reason advanced by the carriers for an increase in freight rates is inadequate dividends. Brantingham did not believe livestock freight rates should lower at the expense of their industries.

Illinois' Redemption

IN a primary election held Tuesday with no more than the usual disorder, the state of Illinois redeemed itself from the Small-Thompson-Crowe regime of questionable government. The republicans nominated for governor Louis L. Emmerson, present secretary of state, by a substantial majority over Lem Small, incumbent.

Likewise the republican faction piloted by Sen. Charles S. Deneen won the senatorial nomination, Otis F. Glenn receiving a majority over Frank L. Smith, who was denied a seat in the senate after the last election. Smith had resigned in anticipation of being reelected by the people of Illinois, in approbation of his former selection.

Even in Chicago the voters turned against Mayor Thompson and his supporters by nominating Swanson for Cook county attorney over the well known Robert E. Crowe, incumbent. The Thompsons-Crowe slogan of "America first" failed to hoodwink the electorate.

In fact, the whole election marked a new era in Illinois government. The republican voters there have thrown off the yoke of a machine that was charged with corruption in every department, and have renounced buying of officials.

The actual balloting went off much more peacefully than had been anticipated. A few shootings, kidnappings, and miscellaneous fights were the only disturbances. "Pineapples" were not in evidence. Pretty good for Chicago!

Heroism or Brutality

LAST February the Virginia house of delegates passed a resolution of respect when it adjourned in observance of Lincoln's birthday. Time tells the story of the objections and the objections to that resolution. The chief objector was Lyon Gardner Tyler, president emeritus of William and Mary college and son of John Tyler, one time president of the United States. In arguing for the appeal of the resolution of respect to Abraham Lincoln, Mr. Tyler cited "the instability of his character, which made him incapable of standing up against any real opposition."

Other objectors asserted that he "adopted and favored a policy of exterminating the southern people by the most cruel and merciless measures and means," and that "by his misconduct and brutality in office he forfeited all right to respect from self respecting, intelligent southerners."

Such words fall like bombs upon northerners, in the eyes of so many of whom Lincoln stands, godlike in his grave simplicity, and silent courage. We never tire of relating Lincoln's kindness and generosity in office, a kindness and generosity which in its great impartiality seemed to transcend any virtues of which mere man is capable. How many stories have been told to illustrate his mercy, and who in all the north has ever entertained the thought of "instability of character" in relation to Lincoln?

We are quick to attribute the objections to Lincoln as demonstrations of the virility of old racers. In all history the difference between a hero and a cad has been largely a difference in point of view. But there have been of late ideas abroad in the world... ideas of justice and tolerance, and unbiased evaluation of character. Those ideas are challenges to all men, for if ever humanity grows impartial and tolerant, the establishment of anti-war leagues will not seem so much like building concrete foundations of air. And the world will—as the fabled prince and princess, "live happily ever after."

The objection to the resolution of respect, our own refusal some years ago to permit the soldiers of the south to convene with the G.A.R., lead us to despair of ever meeting the challenge of amity. Is it possible that we, who believe ourselves so unconquerable, who arm ourselves so persistently against foreign dominance will yield to the old insidious, unreasonable passionate hatred, which has held man in age old bondage?

The Way of the Ranter Is Hard

FOR centuries men have been moved by fiery eloquence even against the dictates of their better judgments. The politician has not needed principle, but merely palaver. The physical beauty and charm of the speaker has moved audiences to give credence to the worst possible logic.

But now that is all behind. The radio, according to Maj. Gen. James G. Harbord, president of Radio Corporation of America, is heralding in the age of reason, the era of cool unbiased judgments. We may sit in our living rooms, unmoved by mob spirit, unmoved by the speaker's physical presence, and according to Major General Harbord our detachment will enable us to maintain our sense of values. We will think calmly of the speaker's arguments and instantly perceive his sincerity or lack of sincerity.

If Major General Harbord is right in his prophesy that the radio will "expose the demagogue," politics must improve, and public speaking, sans gyrations, eye rolling and false eloquence, must also have a new birth. If the radio can renovate public speaking and politics—well, we'll forgive it for having an attack of static occasionally.

More Parades!

SAYS Mayor Thompson of Chicago, "Holding parades is the only way we can attract the attention of the public to what we are doing. The papers never boost us; they always lie." Therefore Chicago is to vary the time honored program of bombing by having a few parades. We can just see Mayor Thompson riding on a red circus cart with the lions yipping at him. We'll bet he lets the most ferocious beast loose to make havoc in the Chicago Tribune building, for somehow Mayor Thompson and the Tribune just don't love each other.

The question uppermost in the public mind is, why have a parade to attract attention to what Mayor Thompson is doing when he does nothing but sling naughty words? We see through his bluff. He's not passed his kid days, and having been thwarted in his boyish desire to water elephants, he is making up for it by inflicting parades on a town that wants bigger and better hand grenades. We hope no one will spoil the mayor's innocent fun by telling him that parades are the favorite outdoor sport in England.

Tolstoi and Nicholas

IF merely for general historical interest, or if merely for interest in the literary and philosophical figure of Tolstoi, or if merely for the indication that there were others besides revolutionaries who back a quarter of a century were speculating as to the length of life ahead of the Russian czaristic system, the exchange of letters between Tolstoi and Grand Duke Nicholas Mikhailovich revealed in the soviet archives and published in The Living Age magazine is interesting.

Tolstoi in 1902 wrote to the grand duke, with whom he was friendly; in this letter he referred to another communication that the grand duke had put personally into the hands of the czar; and he stated in several ways his conviction that "the autocracy could only be saved from complete collapse by having the government strive toward the highest goals toward which humanity aspires." Incidentally he urged the Henry George plan of land taxation. On this he said in conclusion:

"Such are my ideas, but I admit I may be mistaken and that humanity may aspire to other goals that the government should endeavor to attain. Although this is possible, it is not possible for a government to continue as ours is now, maintaining something that no longer corresponds to real life, and refusing to show its people the way to attain real happiness. Such a government cannot long exist."

And the grand duke replied:
"Clearly, we are living in a terrible period that demands immediate practical reforms; but where to begin? That is the question." We are vexed with the question of public instruction and the teaching personnel, with the labor problem, the incompetent bureaucracy, the general passion for profit, excessive militarism, depraved morals, and so on, and in the face of all these you propose raising the agrarian question again. You run the danger of being the only soldier on the field, because even those who share your ideas will hesitate when it becomes necessary to pass from theory into practice. Our society seems to me so thoroughly rotten that convalescence is only possible by a united and gradual effort on the part of the different government departments.

"To my mind, the autocracy can only be saved if its responsibilities toward a people of 130,000,000 are limited and if the number of ministries is increased."

This grand duke, who certainly had some realization of what the czaristic system of which he was a part was headed for, was killed in the revolution of 1917. The grand dukes were next to the czar himself in the old Russian system.

Opportunities for Medics at Oxford

By Wilbur C. Davison, former Rhodes Scholar, now dean of the Duke university school of medicine.

The number of pre-medical and medical students who are applying for Rhodes scholarships is increasing every year. Many more would be candidates if they realized what a great opportunity is offered to them. The preparation for medicine which can be obtained by three years' study at the medical school of Oxford university and one or two years at an American medical school has many advantages over four years at an American medical school.

An American Rhodes scholar, on entering Oxford, can enroll in the honor school of physiology and obtain the B. Sc. degree at the end of this year. This supplemental training is of inestimable value in his future career as a physician or surgeon.

If, in addition to this work, the student has profitably utilized his vacations, and there are three

J. P. Dolliver, Iowa's Orator

(Furnished to The Associated Press by The State Historical Society of Iowa, at Iowa City.)
Jonathan P. Dolliver, who divided twenty years of service between the two houses of congress, was one of the few congressmen who at times commanded absolute silence by his ability as an orator. His readiness of tongue, his vivid language, his smooth diction and his masterful presence made him a speaker of the first rank.

When Mr. Dolliver came to Iowa at the age of 29 he already had a reputation as an orator in his native state of West Virginia. Two years later he stumped West Virginia for Garfield and Arthur, and was reported to be the sensation of the campaign. Ft. Dodge, the tenth congressional district, and indeed, all Iowa were not long in hearing about the young man who had made his home in the state.

Dolliver had been in the state only a few years when at the age of 26 he was given what is perhaps the greatest opportunity which Iowa offers for the display of oratorical ability in politics, the temporary chairmanship of a state party convention.

Historically Sound
AUG. 29, 1834, he was made temporary chairman of the republican state convention in Des Moines. His speech was an extraordinary success, and time and again the audience was swept by laughter and applause. Although his address, opponents said, was by no means profound, it marked Dolliver as a great orator.

His speeches were characterized by three qualities: emotional power, a habit of going into the historical sources of a question, and an idealistic philosophy of government.

The historical bearings of the situation were seldom omitted in Dolliver's speeches.

"Every year time touches the wasting ranks with a heavier hand. I shut my eyes while the busy fingers of calculation compute the cost. It makes absolutely no difference to me what it costs. The defense of the Union was an undertaking so vast that no worldly arithmetic can estimate its expense. But the American people, with eager patriotism, were ready to pay all that it cost to the last farthing."

"My countrymen, it was a costly sacrifice, but it was worth all it cost, and infinitely more. And today there is not in all our borders a more patriotic citizen than I am. I am here to pay the cost of the Union, but we are her personal debtor; not one old man, stricken by years, the staff of his support taken away by the service of his country, but we are his personal debtor."

part of Council Bluffs' public park system.
The city marshal, who was also a deputy sheriff, was told how the boys had come upon a number of horses, tethered in a broad and thickly wooded ravine. Unseen, the boys had discreetly returned without investigating.

A posse of three citizens was summoned and in the morning the deputy's party, with one of the boys for guide, started for the rendezvous. The quarry during the night had fled with the booty, but tracks showed how the horses had been made to swim across the Missouri river at an isolated spot between the towns of Omaha and Florence.

Sending the boy guide home, the posse crossed the river on the ferry between Council Bluffs and Omaha and took up their search in Nebraska territory. They picked up the trail as it went westward over the first line of hills and turned northward, obviously heading toward an Indian county near Blackbird Hills, where the Omaha Indian agency was then located.

North of Florence the trail returned to the river. Two miles farther north it terminated where the fugitives had gone into camp, prepared and taken breakfast, rolled up in their blankets and gone to sleep. It was in this condition that they were awakened and disarmed by the deputy and his posse.

Soon afterward the four officials began their return journey to Council Bluffs. They arrived home early in the evening.

While the horses were being put away at the livery stable, some one asked the deputy if he had brought in the thieves. Laconically he replied:

"No, didn't bring 'em in, but we know where they are."
A few days later a hunter came to Ft. Calhoun, Neb., with a story of having seen the bodies of three men hanging in a tree a mile or two above town. Investigation confirmed the report. The coroner attended the obsequies without inquiring too closely as to why, when, or by whom the men had been hanged, and thus the episode was closed.

Two Stolen Idols

By Frank L. Packard

THE STORY SO FAR
The body of Tom Kingsley, once a dashing sea-faring adventurer, is picked up in a fragile craft by Captain "Scarface" Sweeney and his mate, Marlow, when their schooner is beached off Singapore. Mute evidence on the body testifies to the fact that the man died in a struggle, and that he was more than likely the victim of foul play. Tom's brother Robert, also an old "sea dog" but now infirm and living with his son, Young Bob, on a plantation in the South Sea Islands, is notified of the death and receives the various articles found on the corpse. Among these are two small but handsomely carved Ivory Idols which, because they are no ordinary trinkets, hint at mystery. Robert Kingsley has good reasons to believe that Hsi Yan, an ancient enemy of the Kingsley family, has returned after thirty years to seek vengeance on his brother, because once during a bitter fight when the Kingsley Brothers and Scarface Sweeney invaded Hsi Yan's slave trading Junk off the Chinese coast, the Oriental promised Tom Kingsley that he would some day come back "to Watch Him Die." Bob Kingsley becomes so overwrought that he is unable to sleep that night thinking how he will apprehend the murderer of his Uncle Tom. He is disturbed by a cracking noise which comes from the direction of his living room suddenly the stealthy sound is followed by a crash. Bob leaps from bed prepared for "action." The house is invaded by ruffians, and old Robert Kingsley is sure that they are members of the crew of the Monotah, a sailing vessel which has been riding at anchor in the bay. When the excitement dies down, the Kingsleys find that the two handsome carved Ivory Idols are gone. Now they are certain that this is more of Hsi Yan's diabolical work, even though their ancient Oriental enemy has been reported dead. Young Bob swears to avenge his Uncle's murder. Bob disguised as an English traveler, and bearing the name of Harry Moore, boards the Monotah at a nearby port and awaits developments. Here he encounters the beautiful Verna Lyle, whose features are vaguely familiar. Bob from his cramped position in the foul hold of the ship, discovers that five mysterious Chinamen carry on a nightly rendezvous in an alleyway where they cannot be observed from deck. One night, Bob discovers the five weird Orientals holding some grotesque rite over one of the little carved idols which had been stolen from his home. Later he listens as the Mysterious Five elect to murder some man aboard ship. Unable to learn the identity of the intended victim, Kingsley rushes to the Captain, hoping to prevent the crime. But he found the Master in a frenzy of despair because the ship is about to run aground on a dangerous reef. Bob then knows he must deal single handed with the plotters. The five Chinamen in some manner disappear, and now realizing that the vessel is really in grave danger, Bob's thoughts turn to the native passengers and crew become panic stricken and in the disorder which ensues, the East Indian "holy man" is stabbed to death by one of the sinister Chinamen.

CHAPTER XVIII.
He had no more concern with any Chinaman—not now! He knew now what Carter had meant. Panic had begun to seize upon the native passengers. They were no longer huddled together in groups. They were beginning to run, beginning to scramble up the ladder to the main deck, beginning to scream, beginning to cry.
He gave a swift glance to leeward—and joined the struggling throng on the starboard ladder. It had seemed in that glance that the Monotah was almost scraping the reef; and there was a roar in his ears like low, continuous thunder from the waves now as they hurled themselves against it and broke in baffled fury—a roar that dominated even the terrified outcries that rose now on every side around him.
She must have been warned—it could hardly be otherwise from what Carter had said down there in the alleyway—and some one would probably already have taken care of the wounded man. But he would see anyway!
He had almost to fight his way along the main deck as he headed for the girl's cabin. The native passengers now were swarming up from aft as well as forward. Some were running in one direction and some in another—all were obviously striving to reach the boats on the deck above, but, confused by terror, and knowing nothing of this part of the ship upon which they had never been permitted to put a foot, many of them merely rushed blindly back-wards and forwards until this one or that one, catching sight of those who had found their way and were already cluttering the boat deck ladders, dashed maniacally in that direction.

A revolver shot rang out from the boat deck overhead. A scream answered it. Bob Kingsley's face set like chiseled marble. As bad as that already was it!
He was at the cabin door now. A light still showed through the shutters. He knocked on the door. There was no response. She had probably already gone—one of the ship's officers would have looked after her. But a knock wouldn't be heard anyhow, with all this uproar going on. He opened the door, stepped inside—and then for a moment, as though the ship's rattle and the swelling cries from without were forgotten, as though indeed all else were extraneous, he stood there staring at the scene before him.
The "holy man" still lay upon the floor; and on the floor, too, were strips of cloth as though a sheet had been torn up for bandages, and there were a sponge and towels—but these were past their usefulness. The man was dead.
Strange that he should be conscious of the fact that he had noticed the East Indian at all! It had seemed to him that from the instant he had opened the door his eyes had been riveted on the girl alone—on something that, as she crouched there kneeling beside the dead man, she clasped in her hand. And his eyes now still held upon it. It was one of the little white ivory gods!
But now, with a sharp, startled cry, the girl was on her feet—and the ivory god was thrust hurriedly into the bodice of her dress. The next instant she had crossed the cabin, and stooping swiftly over an open suitcase, had faced him again. There was a revolver in her hand now. And in the eyes that met his there was a bitterness and a loathing and a hate before which, involuntarily, with a stammered exclamation, he drew back a step.
Her voice reached him in flat, dead tones.
"You took me by surprise," she said, "though, of course, I knew you would come back, and what you would come back for. I don't know why you went away without getting it in the first place, since you knew it was in his possession. I suppose you were afraid you had been seen—but it doesn't matter. He put that little ivory idol into my hand just before he died—just where you came in. But you will never get it now as long as I live!"
The little white idol! It mattered very little now. It was pitifully inconsequential!
"Hasn't any one come to tell you to go up on deck and be ready in case we have to take to the boats?" he demanded quickly. "You shouldn't have stayed here!"
"Ah—that was it—was it!" There was a rush of anger in her voice now. "But your cunning was wasted! You thought no doubt that I would have gone, and that you would be alone with—with him, and that nobody would know what you were after."
He stared at her in anxious amazement. Things were getting worse out there on deck. There weren't so many figures running past the cabin door now, but up above on the boat deck pandemonium seemed to have broken loose—cries, screams, more shots.

"You are talking wildly!" he said sharply. "I can't understand why you are still here—why no one came for you!"
"Some one did come," she answered. "The native boatswain, the serang, I think he's called. He put his head in the door and shouted to me to hurry."
"Then, why didn't you go?" he cried tersely. "Didn't you realize, don't you realize even yet what—?"
"You know perfectly well why I didn't go," she interrupted—and for the first time there was a catch in her voice. "You know why I didn't go, because you know who that man there on the floor is. He—he wasn't dead then. The serang didn't stay. There was no one to carry him."
Bob Kingsley's eyes shifted to the upturned face on the floor—and held there as there came upon him a strange perplexity. Then suddenly he stepped closer and bent down over the "holy man." The skin on the man's face, he noticed now, was curiously uneven in its coloring—there were spots where the brown skin was of a much lighter coloring—almost white! The sponge on the floor caught his eye again. She had been bathing the man's face—trying to revive him. It was as though a dye or stain of some kind had been put on with the water. He looked closer. Yes, he saw now! The man's features in death, however marvelous might have been his make-up in life, were not those of an Asiatic!
"Good God!" he exclaimed low under his breath. "He's a European—a white man!"
"As if you didn't know!" she cried out passionately. "You beast! You specious cur! What good does it do you to pretend? You must have known, else why did you attack him? Was he closing down on you too fast, too irrevocably, besides having that ivory idol you wanted? You know well enough who he is! Perhaps not his real name! I do not say that. But you knew he was an English officer in the native police, and that he was after you. You found that out somehow. I will tell you his name. It is Col. Robert Lyle."
He stared at her in anxious amazement. Things were getting worse out there on deck. There weren't so many figures running past the cabin door now, but up above on the boat deck pandemonium of impact that lifted Bob Kingsley from his feet and sent him hurtling across the berth and head-on against the cabin wall. The lights went out. Another crash—and then a grind and crunch—an unbouyant rising and falling of the ship's stern, like one end of a see-saw. For an instant he was dazed; but the next second he was on his feet again.

"Are you hurt?" he called out anxiously.
Her voice answered him curtly out of the darkness.
"I am here," she said.
"Come on, then—quick!" he urged. "There isn't a moment to lose. The boats are sure to have been swung out already—ready for lowering, you understand? That's the only chance—but I'll see that you get a place in one of them."
"I am quite capable of taking care of myself," she answered coldly. "You would better look after your own safety—though I have no doubt you'll be sure of your place in a boat no matter what happens. If it's a question of no time to lose, the sooner you go the sooner I will be at liberty to follow, for I will not go with you, nor under any circumstances accept any assistance whatever from you!"
"You can't go up there alone!" he said, a sudden harshness in his voice.
"Then I prefer to stay here," she replied uncompromisingly.
"But this is madness!" he burst out. "Good God, can't you understand? Haven't you heard the meelo going on up there? I don't want to frighten you—I don't want to frighten you. But listen to it now! The natives have gone amuck. Have you any idea of what that means? They're using knives to get into the boats! You might as well stay here and drown—yes, and you'd be better off—than to attempt to go up there alone!"
There was no answer—no sound of movement from across the cabin. Bob Kingsley's jaws clamped hard together.

Hawkeye Nine Smothers Coe in Pre-Season Encounter, 8 to 1

Vogel Uses Trio of Moundsmen in Diamond Contest

Sahs, Blackford, and Terry Star With Stick Work

Iowa's baseball team had little trouble defeating Coe's inexperienced nine 8-1 in a pre-conference game yesterday that was played in a cordial atmosphere that handicapped the play of both teams. A small crowd turned out to verify rumors that Iowa has a real ball team this spring. And the dyed-in-the-wool fans went away satisfied that Iowa is in for a successful season.

Coach Otto Vogel sent three pitchers, Mulrone, Twogood, and David, to the mound and they were all effective. Coe could get but one hit apiece off Mulrone and Twogood, and David was invincible after a bad start in the seventh when the visitors scored their only run on four sharp hits.

Hawks Hit
The Hawks were in a hitting mood and amassed a total of twelve blows off of three Coe twirlers. Sahs lead the Iowans with three sharp singles, two of which drove in runs. Terry and Blackford were good for a pair of hits, each cracking out a double.

Iowa's first runs came in the third inning when Captain Terry opened with a single followed by Blackford's long two-bagger into deep left field, scoring the Iowa leader. Blackford scampered home on Glassgow's bunt.

Score Fifth
The fifth was another big Hawk inning with three runs crossing the plate. Nelson cracked a double and scored on Bill Glassgow's two-ply swat. Thompson fled out to the shortstop, but Sahs chased Glassgow home with a stinging single. After Heintel struck out, Lefty Rath gave an exhibition of his hard hitting with a solid smack to center that scored Sahs, but Rath was thrown out at third trying to stretch the hit into a triple.

Coe got its only run in the seventh. David took the mound for Iowa and before he could get warm Coe smacked four straight hits. Schrader got a single, Johnstone sent him to second with another blow, and he scored on Wilson's drive to right field. A smart double play stopped the rally.

Add to Count
Iowa's other runs came in the sixth and seventh innings the result of hard hitting.

The Iowa infield looked extremely good, executing four nifty double plays that shut off possible Coe runs. The team as a whole appears to be ready for the strenuous Big Ten race which will open for Iowa Saturday when the fast Illinois team comes here.

Sigma Pi Wins Final Game From Phi Bets

In the worst game of the interfraternity indoor baseball tournament, Sigma Pi defeated Phi Beta Delta by a margin of 8 to 7. This game last night marked the close of the first round of the tournament. Both teams were ragged both in batting and fielding. Neither pitcher showed up well in the pinches.

Sigma Pi started off in the first inning with two runs. Phi Beta Delta scored one counter in the second and added four more in the fourth to make the score stand at 7 to 5. In the last inning, the victors brought in one score to the two of their opponents. Ware, of the winning team, made a home run in the first inning. He was the outstanding player on the floor, both in batting and at his position at shortstop.

Morgan Signs
NEW YORK, April 11 (AP)—Tod Morgan, of Seattle, junior lightweight champion, signed articles today to defend his title against Canadian Eddie Martin, former heavyweight king in a 15-round bout at Madison Square Garden, May 4. Martin already has signed for the match to be fought at the class limit of 130-pounds.

Cohen Outshines Hornsby in Win for McGrawmen

NEW YORK, April 11 (AP)—Andy Cohen outplayed the famous veteran he succeeded, Rogers Hornsby, today as the New York Giants walloped the Boston Braves, 5 to 2, before 35,000 shivering fans.

While Hornsby was held to a solitary single Cohen sparkled around second base and led the Giant attack with his sensational hitting, scoring two runs and driving in two.

Knox Tracksters to Hold Trials in Events Saturday

Track aspirants at Iowa City high will have their first opportunity of the season to demonstrate their ability to Coach Walter S. Knox Saturday when time trials will be held to determine the Little Hawk representatives at the Cedar Falls relay meet April 21.

All the members of the large squad which has been reporting for workouts will be given a chance, and the mentor is hopeful that enough good material will be uncovered to make his inexperienced team a contender for the title.

Charles Dalton, captain of the harrier crew last fall, has shown considerable promise in the mile and will undoubtedly be one of the selections. Clark and Campbell both have looked good in the half-mile and Campbell has also shown he has the making of a good dash man.

The two basketball centers of the Red and White, George "Mike" Mumma and Eugene Clearman, seem to have the edge on the other hurdlers who have reported and will probably get the call for the meet.

St. Pat's Warriors Given Monograms

Supporters of Quintet Give Squad Gold Basketballs

The awarding of sweaters and miniature golf basketballs to seven of the season's stars at the annual banquet last night provided a fitting conclusion to St. Patrick high school's victorious year on the basketball court.

The banquet, which was held at the Red Ball Inn at 9:30 p.m. yesterday, was sponsored by the alumni association of St. Patrick's high school of Iowa City. This is an annual affair given for the care team as well as the senior class of the high school.

A joint-captaincy resulted in the balloting for next year's pilot, so Cooney and Baker will share honors.

Browns Subdue Detroit Sluggers

Former Tigers Defeat Mates in American Inaugural

DETROIT, April 11 (AP)—The St. Louis Browns invaded the Tiger lair in the inaugural game of the American league season for the two teams here today to defeat the Detroit team 4 to 1.

"Haskell" Billings, former Brown university pitching star, was relieved by Stoner in the eighth after the re-vamped St. Louis team led by former Tiger players had pounded out six hits for four runs. More than 40,000 persons witnessed the game.

Lefty Grove Fails to Stop Slugging World Champions

Ruth Scores Three Runs; Ty Cobb Gets Single

PHILADELPHIA, April 11 (AP)—Lefty Grove could not stop the New York Yankees in the opening of the American league season today and the world champions won from the Athletics 8 to 3.

About 20,000 shivering spectators saw the Athletics' crack southpaw fill the bases on three passes in the second and permit his left hander, Herb Pennock, to drive two runs in with a single. In the next inning the Yankees bunched hits to score three more. That finished Grove and two recruits, Shores and Powers finished the game.

Babe Ruth scored three runs without a homer. He walked twice and hit a triple. Ty Cobb, starting his twenty-fourth year in the major leagues, singled on his first at-bat and drew two passes. This speaker in his debut as a Philadelphia player failed to hit safely.

Herb Pennock pitched the whole game for the winners.

Payne Continues to Hold Lead in Pyle's Marathon

BRIDGEPORT, Okla., April 11 (AP)—Holding his lead in the cross country foot race as it approaches his home town of Claremore, Okla., Andrew Payne again today rated a dead heat with Peter Gavuzzi, Southampton, Eng., his most persistent runner-up.

Today's run from Clinton to Bridgeport, 35.4 miles, was negotiated by Payne and Gavuzzi in 5 hours, 28 minutes and 30 seconds. Yesterday the two men came in together after a 50-mile run in 8 hours, 21 minutes, and 40 seconds. Payne's elapsed time of 240:52.9 for the 1,421 miles from Los Angeles gives him approximately an hour and 25 minutes lead over Gavuzzi, who has pressed him for first place since the runners entered Oklahoma three days ago.

In third place, more than 24 hours behind the leaders, was John Salo, Passaic, N. J., who also finished third in today's run. Oll Wauttinen, New York, fourth in elapsed time, came in fourth.

St. Louis Cardinals Trounce Rivals 14 to 7 in Opening Game

Kremer Fails to Halt Cardinals in Season's Opener

Haines Goes Route for Mound City Team at St. Louis

ST. LOUIS, April 11 (AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals got off to a flying start in the 1928 National league pennant race by whipping the Pittsburgh Pirates, last year's flag winners, 14 to 7 here today.

The opening day of the league's fifty-third season was perfect. The weather was fine and a crowd estimated at 21,000 attended. The game was a rout for the Pirates. Their star pitcher, Ray Kremer, was knocked out of the box and two of their second string hurlers were badly pounded.

Every Cardinal got at least one hit. Frankie Frisch and Jim Bottomley led with three apiece. Frisch had a home run and two doubles and Bottomley had a home run, a double and a single.

Joe Haines, Cardinal pitcher was also freely hit by the Pirates and they piled up fifteen safeties.

Progressive Dries Send Delegates to State Convention

DES MOINES, April 11 (AP)—To prevent Gov. Al Smith of New York from obtaining Iowa's twenty-six delegates to the democratic national convention in Houston, Texas, state "progressive dries" who went down to defeat April 7 in county conventions with their candidate, E. T. Meredith, former secretary of agriculture, turned their delegates to the state convention meeting in Des Moines April 20.

Failing to obtain sufficient addition to the 106 delegates already pledged to Meredith in the state convention and seventy-six "favorable" delegates in the unstructured list, the Meredith group were prepared to go to the extreme of attempting the selection of a state delegation to Houston unstructured for any candidate. The task is regarded as monumental since Smith obtained within 125 instructed delegates of a majority to control the state convention.

Smith has 542 instructed delegates with 113 delegates of the unstructured list regarded as favorable, for a total of 655. Meredith obtained 106 instructed delegates, with seventy-six favorable among the unstructured, for a total of 182. No choice was intimated among 362 unstructured delegates.

Tell Stories on Klan

PITTSBURGH, April 11 (AP)—Stories of the burning alive of seven or eight men in Texas by Ku Klux Klansmen, rioting in Pennsylvania and Ohio, and the organization in the latter state of the "Night Riders" who were given orders to burn churches and carry out bombings and assassinations, were told by witnesses in the Klan injunction suits in federal court here today.

Texas Aggies to Enter Mile Team in Drake Relays

Conquerors of Hawks to Meet Again April 28

DES MOINES, April 11 (AP)—The Texas Aggies' mile relay team which conquered the crack University of Iowa quartet at the Texas relays several weeks ago, has been entered in the mile event of the Drake relays April 27-28. This assures a "rubber" meeting between Iowa and the Aggies, the Hawkeye team also having been entered. Iowa defeated the Texans in the Rice relays, but the following day, the Lone Star dash men chalked up the fastest mile of the year, in 3:21, to down the Hawks. Cuneo, Iowa's best quarter miler, however, was not in the contest. He has recovered from an attack of influenza, and his return is expected to cut several seconds from the Iowans' previous time, and perhaps menaces the inter-collegiate record of 3:17.9, set by Iowa in 1923.

Milwaukee Employees Get Wage Increase

CHICAGO, April 11 (AP)—Increases of three cents an hour for all clerical employees and two cents for all freight house employees of the Chicago Milwaukee, St. Paul & Pacific railroad were agreed upon today, retroactive to March 15.

About 8,000 employees will benefit by the increase which will total annually approximately $505,000. The negotiations for the increase were begun last May.

Knox Seeks for Punter in Spring Football Practice

Search for competent punters has been the main objective of Coach Walter S. Knox in the first two spring drills for the Iowa City high gridlers this week. At present four prospects stand out from the rest in the ability to boot the ball down the field and Coach Knox is hopeful that at least two of them will prove valuable assets in the campaign next fall.

Howard Moffitt, Eldred Vestermark, Horace Redman, and Everett Hull are the candidates who have shouldered the burden for the present, and all are being given special instruction by the mentor.

Today Coach Knox expects to present the rudiments of the Hawkeye offensive to his crew, headed by Capt. Tim Fairchild, and more plays will be added before the end of the spring drills.

Fundamentals have been stressed in the early workouts and the squad has responded well to the drills. Blocking, tackling, passing and line play have been important features of the sessions.

The select squad of twenty-eight picked by the mentor is largely a veteran one and has six letter men from last season as well as a number who saw service on the reserve eleven. All of the monogram winners except Moffitt hold down line positions.

Attorney Charges Violation of Trust Law by Vesselmen

CLEVELAND, O., April 11 (AP)—An alleged agreement between members of the lake carriers association and independent vessel owners of the great lakes to delay opening of navigation from April 1 to May 1, was attacked in injunction proceedings filed in federal court here yesterday, by District Attorney A. E. Bernstein.

The government charged that the vesselmen by entering such an alleged agreement had violated provisions of the Sherman and Clayton anti-trust laws.

H. B. Teagarden, of Washington, special assistant to the attorney general, who made an investigation of the alleged pact, announced there was no malicious conspiracy and that no criminal actions would be instituted. He said that conditions already had been partly remedied this year and that the injunction was sought as a safeguard for future years.

Hawk Tracksters Leave for Georgia Relays at Atlanta

Coach George T. Bresnahan and the Iowa mile relay team and Emerson "Spike" Nelson left last night for the Georgia Tech relays to be held at Atlanta, Saturday.

It is very probable that Coach Bresnahan will enter the mile quartet in the half mile event, as all four of the men are expert 220 stepers.

V. Stevenson will race in his customary berth as lead-off man, R. I. Stamata as second runner, G. H. Baird in the third position and Capt. F. J. Cuhel as the veteran anchor man. C. E. Wilmoth will accompany the team as an alternate.

"Spike" Nelson will represent Iowa in the only other events in which the Old Gold contenders are entered, the shot and the discus.

Waterloo Packing Company Defends Purchase Methods

WASHINGTON, April 10 (AP)—The agriculture department's case against the Hormel Packing company of Austin, Minn., and the Rath Packing company of Waterloo, opened yesterday before R. W. Dunlap, assistant secretary of agriculture.

The companies are charged with dividing certain Iowa territory for the exclusive purchasing of swine, in violation of the packers are stock yards act. Attorneys Catherwood and Longley are representing the defendants, and C. E. Miles, the agriculture department.

Committee Fails to Name Route of Air Mail Service

Marshall Represents Cedar Rapids to Commission

Whether the transcontinental air mail route passing through Iowa will be changed so as to go through Cedar Rapids instead of Iowa City was still undecided late last night.

After a hearing yesterday at 11 a. m., Assistant Postmaster General Glover and Assistant Secretary of Commerce MacCracken took the matter up for consideration.

Marshall Heads Delegation
A delegation of Cedar Rapids business men, headed by Verne Marshall, publisher, appeared before the commission which presided at the hearing, and asked that the route be changed. They based their requests on claims that more air mail business originated in Cedar Rapids than here.

Opposing the Cedar Rapids delegation was Attorney Henry G. Walker of Iowa City, assisted by delegations from the Des Moines and Davenport chambers of commerce. Mr. Walker has been in Washington several days representing interests of Iowa City and the local chamber of commerce.

Brookhart Present
Senator Brookhart and Representatives Letts, Dowell and Ramseyer, also appeared at the hearing. They are all opposed to the change, claiming that it is both unwise and unfair. They believe that the present route is better for the state of Iowa as a whole and also for the government, as more air mail business is being developed in Iowa City every week.

They also feel that Iowa City has been exceptionally active in building up the air industry from the very beginning while Cedar Rapids has made little effort to develop the air mail or passenger trade.

It is claimed that when the government was first starting the transcontinental route, it was proposed to have a port at Cedar Rapids but that commercial interests there refused to support it, believing that there was too much expense involved in developing a field and station.

Lawbreakers Get Fines from Police Judge Yesterday

Three lawbreakers received penalties yesterday in police court from Judge Paul E. Custer and one was given a suspended sentence by B. F. Carter, justice of the peace.

N. Bush pleaded guilty to a charge of speeding in the residence district and was fined $5 and costs. Burton Jerrel, 830 N. Dubuque street, entered a plea of guilty to a charge of parking in front of a hotel entrance and was fined $1 and costs.

Betty Smith pleaded guilty to a charge of loitering and was fined $5 and costs.

William Wildman pleaded guilty to a charge of disturbing the peace before Justice Carter and was given a suspended sentence of thirty days in the county jail.

Land Transfers

A warranty deed was filed at the county recorder's office yesterday. Esther E. and John P. Murphy et al transferred to Louis O. and Rose A. Workman, lot 6, block 12, Iowa City. The transaction was made for the sum of $4,500.

Three warranty deeds have been recorded at the county recorder's office.

Henry W. and Adel Grady transferred to Charles Shay the north forty feet of lot 11 in block 6 of Lyon's second addition to Iowa City.

Rita Grady transferred to Charles Shay forty feet of lot 11, block 6, of the Lyon's second addition to Iowa City.

L. us Huff and Mary Huff et al transferred to Charles Krueger, Jr., and Bessie Krueger land in section 29, township 77, range 5.

City Briefs

Released on Bond
William G. Yearick, who has been in the county jail since he was arrested Feb. 11 on a charge of breaking and entering, has been released on the raising of a $1,500 bond. Yearick was indicted in the February grand jury term of court and his bond placed at $3,000. Yesterday the bond was cut to one-half this amount.

File Birth Certificates
Four birth certificates were filed with the county clerk yesterday. This is the largest number of births to be recorded in two weeks. A daughter, Margaret J. to Victor and Mary Breeza, March 17; a daughter, Marcella Rose, to Joseph and Sophia Hajek, Dec. 18, 1927; a son, Roger Dale to Louis and Clara Kovul, March 13; and a son, Raymond Joseph to Frank J. and Elizabeth Grablin, March 8, were the certificates filed.

Continue Search for Car
Up to late yesterday the Ford roadster, owned by I. E. Jones of Oxford, which was stolen Tuesday, from the south side of the campus, had not been recovered by the police. The search is continuing. Due to the fact that the unsurfaced roads all over the state are in bad shape the search may be centered around the main paved highways.

Porter Predicts End of Primary

Because of the great number of loop holes which permit corruption in politics primary elections will soon be discontinued, was the prophecy of Prof. Kirk H. Porter who spoke at the regular luncheon of the Lions club yesterday noon at Red Ball Inn.

The fact that only seventeen states now use primaries in proportion to the twenty-six who originally held them was used to prove his point.

Professor Porter explained the transition of the original primary scheme of having the people nominate candidates, to the present practice of leaving it entirely in the hands of the political regime.

The speaker advanced the belief that the disadvantages of the system greatly outnumbered the advantages. He also discussed the failures and the successes of the plan.

Louis C. W. Clearman of the Iowa City Lions club committee for the community chest drive, spoke briefly on the plans for the drive.

Rotarian J. Elzeur Ries was a guest of the club and told of the need of the Rotary club for aid in finding room for members during the district convention to be held here April 24 and 25.

The sum of $25 was allowed for social service work to the special committee headed by Prof. Charles S. Tippetts.

Sidney Gair was a guest of Prof. Charles S. Tippetts at the luncheon.

Prof. Reilly Records Slight Precipitation

A slight precipitation was recorded here yesterday afternoon by Prof. John Reilly, United States weather observer. The exact amount was only two-hundredths of an inch up to 7 p. m., yesterday. It came in the form of a fine rain.

The temperature readings made by Professor Reilly were as follows: minimum Tuesday night, 33 degrees; 7 a. m., 36 degrees; maximum, 59 degrees; 7 p. m. 45 degrees.

Girl Scouts to Hold Tag Sale Saturday

Tag day for the community chest drive will be held Saturday under the direction of the Girl Scout council.

One hundred twenty Girl Scouts and others will donate two hours to selling the tags. The scouts have already completed 120 hours of community service this week by arranging the tags for sale.

All Girl Scouts who can do so are requested to report to headquarters for service selling tags Saturday.

Troop Nine Wins First Position at Review of Scouts

Troup Fourteen Rates Second After Leading

By more than trebling the number of points earned in the Boy Scout achievement round-up this month, members of Troop 9 boosted their troop from third to first place at the weekly board of review last night. They have amassed 430 points during the two weeks of the second month of the contest.

Troop 14, leaders in the race last week, came in second, reporting 300 points. Troop 33 of Washington dropped from second to third with 250 points. Troop 5 is fourth with 225 points, Troop 8 fifth with 170; and Troop 10 sixth with 160 points.

Records for attendance at the board of reviews were again broken with the examination of thirty-nine scouts.

Local Lodges Plan Initiation of Large Candidate List

Members of the local Eureka and Rebekah lodges are making preparations for the initiation of a large class of candidates at a meeting to be held in Iowa City June 19 in honor of Dean Leon S. Merrill of the University of Maine, grand sire of the I.O.O.F. of America.

The initiatory ceremonies will begin at the field house at 8 p. m. with Maine lodge No. 643 of Cedar Rapids, conferring the Odd Fellow degree.

Committees in charge are planning a parade and banquet to precede the ceremonies at the field house. The parade will begin at 7 p. m. and will include the Patriarchs Militant and drill teams in full uniform together with the floats of the various lodges.

An address given by Dean Merrill will follow the initiations with dancing planned for the remainder of the evening.

The committee in charge consists of: Samuel D. Whiting, John J. Frenzen, Henry L. Ruppert, John M. Kadlec, and Edward F. Rate of Eureka lodge and Mrs. Beatrice Fryauf, Mrs. Annabelle Kanak, Mrs. Margaret Orr, and Miss Ona Rogers of Rebekah lodge.

Issue Wedding License

A marriage license was issued from the county clerk's office yesterday to Lovell E. Crawford and Marvin L. Sanders, both of legal age and residents of Iowa City.

Judge Postpones Session of Court

There will be no court held at the county court house today. Judge R. G. Popham is in Marengo presiding at the April term of court there, and Judge Harold D. Evans, who is attending to court business here, leaves today for Marengo.

The estate of the late Jane E. Bowersox was opened in county court yesterday. It will be continued for hearing. Robert Smyth was appointed administrator.

In probate court two wills were set for later hearing. These were the will of the late Michael E. Hurley which is to be heard April 18 in court and the will of Elmer E. Buck which will be heard at the same time.

"OLD GOLD is easily the fastest-growing cigarette in this locality, and I shouldn't be surprised before long to find it the most popular cigarette on the campus. The boys sure do like its smoothness."

TO THE PUBLIC

For five years, as your agent, I have supervised the collection and expenditures of the COMMUNITY CHEST funds. This administration has involved a very modest expenditure. I want to say for each of the member organizations that economy has always had most careful attention. Because the chest has always been short of funds it has been necessary to deny all these organizations a part of the money they actually needed. They are all supervised by carefully chosen and conscientious boards and their active work is done by competent executives.

I appeal to the friends of community work to support the COMMUNITY CHEST with liberal subscriptions thus making it possible for the SOCIAL SERVICE LEAGUE, the BOY SCOUTS, the GIRL SCOUTS, and the WOMEN'S REST ROOM to continue their good work with greater efficiency and broader application. They and their boards and executives deserve your confidence and your support.
