Official Farewell Starts Members on Home Campaigns

President, at Capitol, Signs Last Minute Measures

WASHINGTON, May 29 (AP)—A smiling refusal by Vice President Dawes to answer cries of "Speech, speech!" from the senate floor, and a brief word of farewell to the house by Speaker Longworth, concluded the day's session of the seventy-first congress. A moment later at 5:30 p.m. both presiding officers brought down their gavels and congress stood adjourned. Its members free to plunge into the political battles that await most of them individually at home and collectively at the party conventions in Kansas City and Houston.

House Has Quiet Time

To the last sparks were flying in the senate, but in the house all was peace and good nature. Its work was done a day or two ago. It listened today to speeches, chaffed its members cheerfully and threw verbal bouquets to Sinnott of Oregon, who will not return next winter. Both house and senate paused long enough to stand idle a few minutes at the time the body of the late Senator Charles McNary, veteran of years of service in the house which ended with his death Saturday, was being carried to the grave in Philadelphia.

President Busy Signing

The Teapot Dome committee row came to the surface for a moment, with Bratton, democrat, of New Mexico, shooting at Nye, North Dakota, over statements the latter made as to evidence of oil contributions to both parties.

Confessed Slayer Mentally Abnormal, Psychiatrist Says

DEB MOINES, May 29 (AP)—Dewey Doss, confessed slayer of Mrs. Martha Smith, was characterized as "a nomadic ne'er-do-well, devoid of either ambition or fear," by Dr. H. B. Henry, psychiatrist, who took the stand as a witness for the defense in Doss' first degree murder trial here today.

Joyriders Use Golf Course to Get Air

Upon answering an alarm which said that persons were driving on the country club golf greens, officers last night found two men and two women parked in a car, apparently enjoying the night country air. Questioned as to their reason for driving on the golf course and ruining the greens, one of the group remarked that they had just stopped for a "little air."

Thea Rasche Will Try Ocean Flight

NEW YORK, May 29 (AP)—Thea Rasche, Germany's flying fraulein, took up the challenge of the trans-Atlantic Air line today and announced her determination to fly next month without a stop from New York or Old Orchard, Me., to Berlin. If the span of approximately 3,680 miles is achieved, the comely young flyer said she intends later to fly to The Hague to participate in a peace conference of aviators, and then start on a good-will tour of the world. Miss Rasche said her plane, now being built at the Staten Island plant of G. M. Bellanca, designer of the trans-Atlantic Columbia flown by Clarence Chamberlin, will be delivered within a few days and the take off will be made as soon as possible after June 10.

Jugoslavs Down Anti-Italian Riots

Demonstrations Still Continue in Both Countries

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia, May 29 (AP)—While the Yugoslavian government has promised A. Bodrero, Italian minister, that every effort will be made to suppress further anti-Italian outbreaks, there were presented a number of counter charges citing Italian hostility and brutality toward Yugoslavians living in Italian Dalmatia. Especial attention was called to the demolition of the Yugoslavian consulate at Zara, the Serians' injury of the consul, the manhandling of his staff, the burning of the national flag and the destruction of numerous mercantile places owned by Yugoslavians.

Inquiry Discloses Public Utility Plot to Combat Walsh

WASHINGTON, May 29 (AP)—A graphic record of how the public utility power interests prepared to combat the Walsh senate resolution calling for an investigation of their financial structure, was laid today before the federal trade commission, to which the inquiry subsequently was referred.

A series of telegrams signed by Josiah T. Newcomb, chief counsel for the joint committee of the national utilities association, was made a part of the record and revealed that even before the Walsh measure had been presented, a brief opposing the adoption of such a resolution was being written.

This brief, the messages disclosed, was prepared by William L. Ransom of New York, who later made the final argument against the Walsh resolution before the senate interstate commerce committee, to which it was referred by the senate committee on Washington.

Another telegram, dispatched after the senate had given the investigation over to the commission, summoned the entire legal staff of the joint committee, consisting of 22 attorneys, to Washington to prepare for the inquiry.

The messages also revealed that the Washington representatives of the joint committee maintained a vigilant watch over the progress of the Swing-Johnson Boulder canyon dam bill, which was passed by the house, only to bring up against a determined filibuster at the other end of the capitol.

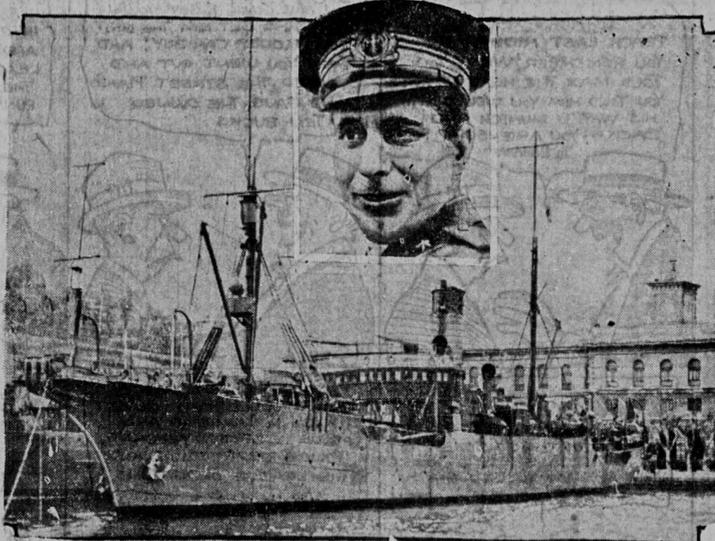

Professors Involved
In addition to admitting the telegrams to the record, the commission inquired today into the activities of utility power organizations in Minnesota and South Dakota.

From John W. Lapham of Minneapolis, executive secretary of the North-Central Electric association, the commission learned that professors at the University of Minnesota had received payment for expenses incurred in attending the world power conference at Geneva, for appearing on various lecture platforms, for supervising work on the Red Wing, Minn., rural electrification experiment, and for surveying the Ontario hydro-electric project.

Utilities Course Discussed
Lapham testified that W. T. Ryan, and E. A. Stewart, of the Minnesota faculty, and Harold Crothers and Ralph T. Petty of the South Dakota Agricultural college, were members of the North-Central association. Canceled checks showing payments to Ryan and Stewart were put into the record.

Professor Ryan, who conducts a course in public utility economics, suggested in 1927, Lapham testified, that the National Electric Light association cooperate more fully with educational institutions by assisting in the establishment of public utility courses in American colleges.

The Old Hatred Gone

THIS is Memorial day. Set aside for tribute to dear ones who have gone from this world—particularly for those who died in service of their country—this occasion is tenderly observed throughout the United States in reverence and recollection. The hardships, the loyalty, and the courage of the departed veterans of the Civil war, the Spanish-American war, and the World war, are extolled, and the living veterans are honored with fitting praises.

Memorial day is more than revering those who have served their country well; in this year 1928 it is a memorial to the departure of the spirit of animosity which made past wars necessary. Today the North and the South cooperate in one union. The South realizes that its cause was lost; the North has forgiven those who, in a spirit of patriotism as intense as that of the blue coated soldiers of Grant and McClellan, attempted to split up this country. The North today shares with the South in honoring Robert E. Lee, the confederate general whom the whole nation recognizes as one of the most sincere workers and greatest patriots of all our national history.

It is well that the same antipathy between the opposing forces in the World war is dying. International affairs are rapidly being put on bases of mutual agreement. America, England, and France are fast becoming friends with Germany. Industry is aiding in this return to amity, but there is also evident a lack of personal hatred on the part of those individuals who were forced to fight in the conflict.

With such a spirit manifest by the people of America on this Memorial day, the future is hopeful. This occasion will commemorate the passing of the old order of greed, hatred, and jealousy among nations, and in turn, there will be established international harmony. All the prayers which are uttered today should be for the continuation and growth of this new feeling, this willingness to forgive. Then Memorial day will have accomplished an even greater mission than the reverence of the dead.

The Derby Ends

AT last C. C. Pyle's famed and defamed bunion derby has ended. The tired footed men who made the race across the continent sped into New York Saturday, where the winners were checked and the $48,000 prize money distributed. The race will go down in history along with marathons, dance contests, coffee drinking meets, and other equally astounding and interesting feats of human prowess.

But not to Andrew Payne, the winner of the classic, do we tend our pangs. His was a mere physical feat, no more remarkable than a ditch-digger who kept on his job for several months. The margin with which he took the victory was too slight to show much superiority over his fellow workers.

To the inimitable Mr. Pyle himself do we sing our song of praise and hand the laurel wreath. His was the commercial genius which conceived the project. His was the driving energy which kept the footsore athletes pounding on toward the finish tape. His was the business genius which made the race actually pay dividends. He has our laudations.

With an imaginative brain as fertile as the famed Mr. Barnum's, and a knowledge of psychology equalled not even by Mr. Rickard, Mr. Pyle charged—and even collected—sums of money from the towns along the itinerary. He made persons who knew not the difference between a dash and a run pay to see his contestants plod along the road. He even collected from towns for permitting his proteges to remain all night and accept their hospitality.

His unpopularity as a commercial sportsman did not detract from his profits. His exploitation of former athletes was forgotten. Old "Cash and Carry" Pyle has won again.

Uniform Signals

A RECOMMENDATION made by the American Engineering Council, if carried out, would provide a system of uniform traffic signals in every city of the United States. Such a plan should save confusion.

A tourist may pass through one city where the lights are placed inconspicuously beside the mail box at the street corner. At the next town he may look for the signal so intently along the side of the street that he will not see the "stop" light flash on from the middle of the street.

In one town a green light may demand that the motorist stop. Again a red, a yellow, or a blue light may mean the same thing. There is at present no uniform system.

An investigation of conditions in 100 of the largest cities in the country showed a surprising lack of consistency. A simple system with universal application would lighten the strain of motoring and make the street a safer place for pedestrians.

Farewell to the Sheepskin

THE traditional "sheepskin" which has been the motivation of college education for many years will be seen no more at this university, except in the trunks of old graduates. The sixteen by twenty inch diploma of other days has shrunk to a sheet less than half that size.

The passing of the time honored "sheepskin" deserves a requiem. So accustomed have we become to the old form, that "sheepskin" has become synonymous with completing the college course satisfactorily. A degree without a "sheepskin" will seem like a wedding with the bride missing, or, to be more exact, like a wedding with a substitute bride brought in at the last minute. The change in the type of diploma issued forecasts a new trend in house furnishings. The framed diploma hanging on the parlor wall will soon be passe, for who ever heard of framing a six inch diploma? A certificate of that size will look about as impressive as the award Johnny won in the sixth grade for brushing his teeth every morning for a month.

Petty Grievances

SOME time ago a series of articles appeared in World's Work in which two men had a great time calling each other names. Roald Amundson, who accompanied General Noble to the north pole several years ago, said that Noble did not know much and that he nearly wrecked the "Norge" several times on the trip.

Then General Noble replied that Amundson was a colossal liar and did not know what he was talking about.

Today General Noble, in the dirigible "Italia," is lost somewhere in the Arctic wastes. And Roald Amundson was one of the first to offer his services in the search.

Evidently the quarrel between these two was not deep seated. There can be no doubt that both of these men possess a high type of courage. Given two such men, when danger approaches, petty grievances are forgotten.

Panning the Fraternity

(From The Daily Iowan)

Max Mason, the retiring president of the University of Chicago, has found it necessary to make a few passing remarks on the fraternity situation as it is today. Speaking at his farewell banquet given by the Interfraternity club of Chicago, he pointed out that "fraternities are the homes of intellectual poverty as they are composed today." He continued: "At times I feel they are valuable to round out students and make good sports of them, but they haven't done what they can do in the lasting game of ability to further things worth while."

But Mr. Mason does not stop here. He goes on to differentiate one kind of fellowship, the sort of thing for which fraternities are widely commended from another, asserting that "fellowship of effort beats the fellowship of bridge playing." And then he accuses them more severely with the statement that the fraternity does not foster scholarship but regards the really serious student as a "nut" and is not encouraging any further effort than that necessary to attain the respectability of a "C" or "B."

In commenting on the fact that he had to get outside the fraternities to see what conditions were like, he mentioned his days at Goettingen, Germany, where "we actually got to work, although we had our hours of frivolity as relief from intense mental effort." He spoke of the joy of intense mental effort, a thing which he claims is apart from the American undergraduate's experience.

After reading the statements of a man who ought to know and after recently hearing a fraternity man say that the only purpose of a fraternity, as far as he could tell, was a place to take one's meals, get one's shoes shined, and sleep, we are inclined to wonder whether the fraternity system is at all that it is cracked up to be. Dean Clark has repeatedly told fraternal groups that they will never achieve the better things until they pay more attention to scholarship, and that is undoubtedly true.

The joy of the American student is not an intellectual one, to be sure; scholarship has made way for social activity and we are more interested in being "good fellows," and a "good bunch of boys" rather than scholarly inclined. And when we continue to pay more attention to our social polish, the crease of our trousers, and the "gifts of gab," we will never rise above the stage of triviality and superficiality, as many have so claimed. Dr. Mason has made an important point and we hope that the fraternity world will take the charges to heart and attempt something worthwhile, which he claims they should and can do.

New Unbreakable Pedestrian
 Talk about things going over one's head! Three subway trains went over George Hick's head, and his body too, in New York the other day.

George was kissing the railway ties. When the third train went grinding over he got rather annoyed. One would you know. It isn't much fun to oscillate a railroad tie. When the playful trains stopped running over him, George got up, brushed his trousers, stepped off the tracks, assured concerned onlookers that he was K. O., and blithely boarded the next subway car.

We think the next Saturday Lunch club might invite George

Not long ago an English newspaper recorded a joke in connection with the long and successful revival in London of John Gay's "The Beggar's Opera" in connection with the 200th anniversary of that work. It seems that the government officials had sent an income blank addressed to John Gay at the theatre where his opera was being performed with a reminder that he had not made an income return on his royalties on this opera!

Well, we Americans are pretty ignorant in many ways and it is wholesome that we should be conscious enough of this lack so that we may both strive to improve ourselves and to avoid the vapid boasting in which we sometimes engage, especially when travelling abroad. But at the same time our inferiority complex need not carry us so far as to think that there are no Europeans of whatever station who are not congenial sharers in our ignorance.

The Book World

By Edith M. Cobeen

Home to Harlem, by Claude McKay. Harper and Brothers.

Going home—Harlem, Harlem—going home. Lenox avenue, Myrtle avenue, the Baltimore, the Congo. Stinking Arabs on a freighter—soot and smoke from the furnace. Chocolate brown lasses—jazz music—the lure of softly curv'd legs and breasts—the passion of dark eyes—the tom-tom of drums—the jungle call of the saxophone. Joy of living—joy of love—joy of flesh—and the blackness of despair. Primitive—elemental emotions, real, yet simple. Life in Harlem.

Harlem as we see it in "Home to Harlem," a plea by the Negro—Claude McKay, for an understanding of his race. It is a cry from the heart of a poet that life may not crush the spontaneity and sincerity of his race whose very crimes arise from these same characteristics.

For our benefit, McKay introduces Jake, a handsome young buck, the hero of the story. We see Jake aboard the freighter which is bringing him back to his beloved Harlem after a long absence in Europe where he had gone with an American troop to fight Germans, but he had deserted because he did not get a chance to fight. We feel an exultation that inspires Jake when he approaches his native shores, when he drops back into Harlem and greets his friends, the dusky maids and boys that haunt the cabarets and night clubs of the district.

Jake represents the American Negro. He is neither good nor bad; he is likable, ambitious in so far as it is necessary to work to live; he cannot resist the lure of the colored women who sell themselves for a night's pleasure, or who in turn will keep a man "sweet" if he will be their alone.

Throughout the books runs a small, bright, prophetic note for the future of the Negro race. McKay sees Abyssinia, and other small civilized Negro countries, as the salvation for his people. He seems to believe that some day they will all be gathered in one nation or group of nations, not as African savages but as cultivated Negroes.

"Home to Harlem" is one of the most outstanding pieces of Negro literature in America. The reader cannot close its pages and still hear that deep hatred that is so common among the Americans. For misunderstanding leads to hate; and when these misunderstandings are explained the light of sympathy shines through. It is powerfully written, in the picturesque dialect of the colored race. "Home to Harlem" interprets the Negro to the white man, and more than that, it interprets the Negro to himself.

DES MOINES, May 29 (P)—Forty banks of Iowa, members of the Seventh Federal Reserve bank district April reported savings deposits of $100,437,278 on May 1, a percent of change from the March period plus 12 and plus 6.4 per cent for the April 1927 period. The per cent of change in the average account from March 31, 1928 was plus 1.3 and plus 3.4 percent from April 30, 1927.

DES MOINES, May 29 (P)—April production at slaughter establishments in the United States aggregated less than a year ago and was considerably smaller than in the preceding month, a report of the Seventh Federal Reserve bank district today states. Domestic inquiry became active in April for fresh pork and fairly good for lard, smoked meat and boiled ham; demand tended to improve for lamb, but remained rather slow for beef. Trade in domestic markets remained flat at the beginning of May. Shipments for exports were reported as slightly smaller than in March.

The Crime In The Crypt

By Carolyn Wells

CHAPTER 3
John Clevedon

I agreed to answer any summons I might receive from the police, and then, assuming a casual air which really covered a breath-taking apprehension I turned to the doctor, and said:

"How long do you judge the man has been dead?"

As I had confidently expected, this brought further accusing glances and I almost feared Snelgrove was about to order my arrest then and there.

"Why do you ask that?" said the doctor, fixing his penetrating gaze upon me.

"From entirely justifiable interest in the case," I returned, speaking quickly but giving him a straightforward stare equal to his own.

"Are you a detective?"

"I am not," I said, and then was unable to resist the impulse to add, "but I am always interested in detective work."

"Ah, you have the 'detective instinct,' so common to young men of your country."

The tone roused my ire, but I quickly brought myself back to the assertion even if true, carried no real opprobrium and I smiled a little as I nodded assent.

"Well," the doctor said, and I thought he thawed a degree, "it is hard to say accurately, but he was certainly alive less than twenty-four hours ago."

"You mean this did not happen this morning then?" I pursued.

"No, I am sure of that. I should say death occurred last evening between six and twelve. That may seem indefinite, but I do not care to set a more specific hour at present."

"And the weapon?" I went on, determined to press my advantage to its limit.

"Now, Mr. Oakley," Snelgrove interrupted, "don't ask so many questions. Don't set it into your head you can help us in our work. When we want information from you, we'll ask for it. Meantime, you'd better keep your finger out of the pie."

"Certainly," I said, putting on a slightly amused air, that I felt sure would irritate him. "I've no interest in your pie, I'm sure, except as a citizen's duty in this case of a murderous assault. We have to assume, of course, that the murderer carried his weapon away with him."

Since the victim had been undoubtedly shot, and as the bare room in the crypt offered no hiding place, the absence of the weapon made it extremely probable that my assumption was correct.

But it seemed to stir the police to further search, and there was a little furtive hunting around among the broken marbles and bits of stone, owing to the hostile attitude shown toward me, I concluded to say nothing of the yellowish stains I had picked up from the floor, and which I knew to be powder grains. I felt justified in this course, for as I perceived, there were more grains on the floor quite sufficient to prove a potential clue, if they noticed them.

So, with one further comprehensive glance at the strange scene, I bowed slightly and went out of the room and through the chantry and the chapel, up the dark little staircase, and out of the now empty cathedral into the light of day.

It was about two o'clock, and I went to an inn for luncheon, and then for a long walk before returning to my hotel.

The scene was indelibly photographed on my memory. Never could I forget that low-celled, dimly lit vault, with its broken monuments and its coffins, one holding the quiet, composed figure of a dead American.

Had the deceased been an Englishman, I should have been less deeply impressed, but for one of my own just realized from what Miss Brownlee said that the victim is the Glynn who was on our steamer coming over."

Taking this to mean that I had no further knowledge of events, they left off questioning me, and returned to their own surmises and conclusions, based on the scantiest and faintest of data.

When I went up to my room to dress for dinner I found there some mail and some American newspapers, but I was unable to put the crypt affair out of my mind, and I went down to the dining room absorbed in its consideration.

But I did not want to mull it all over with those chattering girls and those opinionated men. I knew beforehand just what they would say about it, and I wanted a confab with somebody who had some original ideas on the subject.

There was just one man I could think of from whose conversation I could derive any profit, and that was John Clevedon. He, too, had been on the steamer coming over. From him, too, I had stayed away, fearing he would resent advances from a member of a personally conducted tour.

I was probably supersensitive about that matter, for lots of our party made friends with the other passengers, who were not conducted, but I couldn't face the possibility of a snub, so confined my acquaintances to the Tripp and Hastings crowd.

But being a lover of detective fiction, I had noticed that Clevedon was of like tastes. Several times I asked the Library Steward for this or that book, only to be told that Mr. Clevedon was reading it and I could have it next.

It was not until the day we landed, that, chancing to stand near him as we waited to disembark, I spoke to him of a volume he was carrying, a new and popular detective story.

"Yes," he had responded, enthusiastically, "it's great! One of the best. Have you read it?"

I had, and we discussed its fine points with eager interest until separated by the crowding passengers.

I heard no more of Clevedon, none of our party seemed to know him, until a few days before, I had chanced to read in the local paper that he was in Welbury, at the Grand hotel.

It had passed through my mind that I should like to see him and renew our brief acquaintance, but I had promptly dismissed the thought, feeling that I could not presume upon that short chat we had on the steamer deck.

But now I toyed again with the idea.

If Clevedon were really a detection enthusiast, might he not welcome some one with whom to discuss this very mysterious affair of the cathedral?

All through the dinner hour I thought over the matter, and rose at last from the table with a resolve to try it out, at least.

And so, a few minutes later, I started off, in the soft English summer evening, and went in the direction of the Grand hotel.

"Don't be a fool," I admonished myself, as I became aware of a slight chill in my feet. "If he doesn't want to see you he won't. And if he doesn't like you after he does see you, you can come home again."

This was logical, to be sure, but still I was a bit embarrassed as I sent my name up to Mr. Clevedon.

The response was that I was to go to his rooms, and so I allowed myself to be led thither.

Wheat Loses Heavily

Predicted Increase of Domestic Crop Causes Setback

CHICAGO, May 29 (AP)—Wheat underwent a sharp setback in price today, largely as a result of predicted liberal increase of domestic winter crop estimates looked for on Friday. Houses with eastern connections took a leading part in heavy selling which carried the market down.

Closing quotations on wheat were unsteady, 2 1/2 to 3 1/2 net lower, with corn 1/2 to 2 1/2 off, oats 1/2 to 1 1/2 down, and provisions varying from 2 to 5c decline to an equal advance.

Interest in the wheat market today focused toward the last on the showing likely to be made by monthly unofficial crop reports expected to be given out here July 1. According to current gossip, these reports will prove to be of a bullish character, as indicating a larger yield of United States winter wheat than was suggested by similar reports issued on June 1. In addition to this circumstance, are forecast of unsettled weather in the Dakotas and of showers in Canada tended to stimulate selling, and so likewise did slowness of export demand today for wheat from North America.

Total sales to Europe were only about 300,000 bushel.

Corn and oats gave way with wheat. Corn, though, held up better than wheat did. Shipping demand here for corn was good, and receivers look for smaller receipts.

Crop news was extremely favorable and the market was affected somewhat by this. Country offerings were light and generally over the present market basis. Receipts here today totaled 210 cars. Primary arrivals were 1,293,000 bushel against 1,808,000 bushel a year ago. There is no export demand, although a strong feed situation was reported abroad.

Provisions were easy.

Market Takes on Firmer with Easier Call Money Rates

NEW YORK, May 29 (AP)—Easing money rates and an increase in money offerings resulted in expanded activity and a slightly firmer tone in the bond market today but the close was irregular. Industrials and second grade rails particularly were favorably affected by the improvements in the money situation and some issues made further gains on individual development.

Dodge Brothers debenture 6's led the uptick, reaching a new top for the year at 95 and closing a point or two below this figure, but with a net gain of more than 5 points on the day. The strength of the issue reflected that of the stock, both being accumulated on reports, confirmed after the market closed, that the company has been acquired by the Chrysler corporation, which assumes all obligations.

Copper company obligations were in demand, Andes copper 7's advancing a point.

The pressure of liquidation caused losses elsewhere in the industrial list, however, with Goodyear Tire & Rubber 5's, International Match 5's and others declining to the year's lowest levels.

Improvement in the railroad group was due chiefly to advances scored by Iowa Central 4's and New York, Worcester & Boston 4 1/2's, both of which gained more than a point on the day. Oils and utilities also were soft.

There was little activity in the foreign group.

U. S. government obligations were inclined to heaviness, with the exception of liberty third 4 1/2's, which showed a small gain.

263 High School Track Athletes Entered in Meet Here

Tracksters From Four States Will Compete Saturday

Illinois Sends Sprinter Shot Put Star to Interscholastic

With the entry list now showing a total of forty-two schools and 236 men entered in the different events, prospects for a classy track meet for prepsters of the country are very bright. The meet will be held on Iowa field Saturday and is the nineteenth annual interscholastic program that the University of Iowa has sponsored.

States that will be represented in the affair include, Iowa, Illinois, Indiana, and Missouri. Nine Illinois institutions have entered athletes, Coach George P. Bresnahan announced yesterday.

Davenport Here

Davenport, runner-up for the state championship last Saturday, entered twenty-five athletes, and is the largest team entered in the program. Twenty men have been named by University High of Iowa City, which won the university interscholastic last spring. Other sizeable teams include Washington high of Cedar Rapids, seventeen; West Waterloo and Grant high of Cedar Rapids with sixteen each.

On the list appears the names of six Iowa champions, one who shared a title, and also the two championship relay teams. Champions of the state record and championship in the javelin, Stetzel, West Waterloo, who vaulted 12 feet, 3 inches to share the championship, is entered. The winning mile relay team from Oskaloosa, and the half mile quartet from Washington high of Cedar Rapids will also compete here.

Tosses Shot 50 Feet

Of the outstanding and most illustrious outside athletes that are entered is Thompson of Enfield, Ill., who set a new state record in the shotput of 50 feet, 2 1/2 inches. Newberg of Peconica, Ill., runner-up for the state discus title, is another noted man.

Other schools that have entered the meet, together with the number of men each will send, are as follows: Washington, 14; Clinton, 13; Mason City, Clarinda, and Rockford, Ill., 10; Bend, Ill., and Oskaloosa, 9; Fort Madison, 8; Sterling, Ill., and Keokuk, 7; Iowa City, 6; Carroll, Enfield, Ill., Eldon, and Reimbeck, 5; Colfax, Ladora, Perry, Abraham Lincoln of Council Bluffs, and Dubuque, 4; Peconica, Ill., and Keithsburg, Ill., 3; Seaton, Ill., Wood River, Ill., Clarion, Grundy Center, and North English, 2; and Clearfield, Knoxville, Alta, Carmi, Ill., Frankfort, Ind., St. Clair, Mo., Independence, Dysart, Rock Rapids, and Valparaiso, Ind., 1.

In the dashes and hurdles will be held Saturday morning, beginning at 9:30 o'clock. At the same time, athletes will compete in trials and finals of the seven field events. Only the finals in the seven individual events and two relays will be run in the afternoon, commencing at 2 o'clock. Two races will be held in the quarter and half mile runs, with points and medals for each.

Points will be scored for four places in each event on the basis of 5, 3, 2, and 1.

Helen Wills Soon Brings Defeat to German Champion

AUTEUIL, France, May 29 (AP)—Helen Wills today met victoriously her first real challenge in singles tennis since she invaded Europe, defeating 19-year-old Cecile Aussem, German champion, with consummate ease, 6-3, 6-2.

Her victory carried the American champion into the fourth round of the international hard court woman's singles ahead of the field. Betty Nuthall, young English star, was eliminated in straight sets, 6-4, 6-4, by Miss Alice Charnelet, who ranks only fifteenth among the women players of France, while the American veteran and former champion, Mrs. Molla Mallory, was beaten by Miss Edna Boyd of Australia, 3-6, 6-4.

Things began to happen likewise in the men's singles where Francis T. Hunter, second ranking American star, qualified to meet Henri Cochet, French "Musketeer," in the next round. Both won their third round matches today in straight sets, Hunter defeating CH. Kingsley of England, 6-2, 10-8, 6-4, while Cochet downed the American junior star, Sydney B. Wood, 6-1, 6-7, 5-5.

Five Former Hawkeye Athletes in 1928 Graduation Class of Medics

Five former athletic stars of the University of Iowa will leave the college of medicine here this year when they receive their diplomas and settle down to internships about the country. The quintet will scatter to five states to serve as internes in hospitals.

Among the group is Wayland "Whaler" Hicks of Brooklyn, Iowa, captain of the 1923 Hawkeye basketball team which tied for the Big Ten championship. A year later he led the Iowa baseball team as third baseman. Hicks was one of the best guards developed here and is ranked with Charles "Chuck" McConnell, the famous all western guard of recent years. Since Hicks has been ineligible for Hawkeye sports, he has been playing professional league baseball with Dubuque in the Mississippi Valley league. Last year the Dubuque club copped the league bunting and Hicks was the leader of the powerful offensive attack that Dubuque held throughout the entire season.

Henry W. Daine, winner of three track letters as a weight man, and who at the present time coached the Hawkeye weightsters, is another medic that is ready for his internship. Daine had a big year at Iowa coaching this year, and is largely responsible for the development of Fred Mitchell, winner of the discus throw at the Drake relays, Vernon Lapp, who took the weight triathlon at the Ohio games, and to some extent for Emerson "Spike" Nelson, Charles "Chuck" Forward, Vernon Lapp and Fred Roberts finishing from second place on respectively at the conference meet in the shot put last week, as well as Loris Hagerty copping second place in the discus at that program.

Other future doctors are Alex A. Johnstone, former state champion in the shot put, Gerald O. Kohl, who won his "C" as a relay runner, and Arthur A. Payne, former cross country captain.

Hicks goes to the Naval Base hospital in Washington, D. C.; Daine to Letterman hospital, San Francisco; Johnstone to Harpers' hospital, Detroit; Kohl, to Tacoma, Wash.; and Payne to Durham, N. C.

Martin Visits Friends

Thomas E. Martin, former weight coach, and more recently student in the law college at Columbia university in New York city, is visiting friends in Iowa City. It was under the guidance of Coach Martin that the Hawkeyes placed three men in the scoring of the hammer throw at the Interscholastic meet in Chicago. In 1926 the Towans, coached by Martin, secured more points in the weight events of the conference meet than any other school.

Thousands Crowd Indianapolis for Annual Memorial Day 500 Mile Race; George Souders Hopes to Repeat

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., May 29 (AP)—Ted Miller of Detroit, a relief pilot for Duddle Murr, was seriously injured at the Indianapolis motor speedway this afternoon while taking a practice spin in preparation for tomorrow's 500-mile race. His car crashed into a protecting wall on a turn and upset. He suffered lacerations and was unconscious when taken to a hospital.

Rules of the American Automobile association require that relief drivers shall practice in the car which they are assigned as co-pilots and Miller was taking his turn at the wheel when the accident occurred.

INDIANAPOLIS, May 29 (AP)—The most grueling test of man stamina and motor endurance known to automobile racing and the annual 500-mile contest which is set for tomorrow—drew thousands of speed patrons to Indianapolis tonight.

Thirty-three cars, piloted by the country's most daring drivers, will start the contest tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock central standard time, each seeking a portion of the $100,000 purse. Officials of the Indianapolis motor speedway predicted that more than 125,000 persons would witness the Memorial Day classic.

Weather cloudy. Cloudy weather was forecast. A sunless day, with an east wind sweeping the track, was the hope of the drivers.

As in the past two years the race is limited to power plants having a piston displacement of not more than 9 1/2 cubic inches—smaller than any used in commercial or passenger automobile in America. Every car in the race has an eight cylinder motor. With one exception, the cars are the conventional straight eights. The exception is a V type motor with four cylinders in the block.

Record breaking performances in the qualifying trials of the last few days prepared the fans for thrilling performances tomorrow. Leon Duray, Los Angeles veteran, who broke the track record last Saturday both for one lap (2 1/2 miles) and for ten miles, apparently has a mount which will stand up, at least for a time, under his speed demands. Duray has the courage and the skill, as indicated by his one lap performance at a 124 mile an hour average and his ten mile average of 122 miles an hour.

Two-Mile Champion Tommy Loughran Ends Training for Latzo Bout Tonight

NEW YORK, May 29 (AP)—Busy Tommy Loughran, light heavyweight champion whose services are in such demand, must fight Pete Latzo, fast-growing Seranton miner, fifteen rounds at Ebbets field tomorrow night without knowing whether the New York State Athletic commission will force him to defend the 175 pound title twice more on successive nights within the next fortnight.

Loughran remained in Philadelphia today, winding up his training affairs while the commission pondered but reached no decision on the unique contractual relations existing between the champion and two metropolitan promoters, Tex Rickard and Humber J. Fugazy. Latzo went through the final motions at Pompton Lakes, N.J., confident that he will solve all difficulties tomorrow night by snatching the crown from the titleholder.

The boxing fathers postponed until Friday action on the contract of Loughran to fight Lomski 15 rounds.

in practice as that of Duray, also were favorites of the pre-race crowds. They are among the drivers who are expected to fight for the lead at the start and grab off some of the $100 purses offered for the leader of each of the 200 laps.

Ray Keach, Philadelphia, who has driven an automobile faster than any other living man will be sentimental favorite for he will be guiding the car the late Frank Lockhart had built for his use in the long grind. Lockhart was killed while attempting to break Keach's own mile straightaway record a few weeks ago at Daytona Beach, Fla. Keach has promised Mrs. Lockhart a portion of any prize money he may win.

Tony Gulotta, Italian American youngster who finished third last year, will have as his mount the car Lockhart drove to victory in 1926 and in which the deceased driver led for so long last year before being forced out because of a breakdown. Gulotta also has promised the widow of his friend a percentage of any money he may win.

Another favorite of the crowd will be Norman Batten of Brooklyn, who drove his flaming car off the track in an heroic and successful effort to prevent accidents in the 1927 race. It will be Batten's first race since that event. He suffered injuries then which kept him in a hospital for many weeks.

George Souders, Lafayette, Ind., boy, who forsook his studies at Purdue university to win the 1927 race, has a new mount which has shown great speed. Earl Devore, who finished second a year ago; Cliff Durant, millionaire sportsman; and Peter Kries of Knoxville, Tenn., veterans who have raced along the roaring road for many years, all have choice mounts.

Cars Faster

The cars are better and faster, according to automobile engineers. The deficiency which caused many of the fastest cars to crack a year ago, have been removed they say, and the prediction has been made that the record for 500 miles—101.13 miles an hour—set by Peter DePaolo in 1925 in a large motor car will be approached and perhaps broken. De Paolo will not race because of injuries received in a spill last Saturday.

Eleven of the automobiles have front drives. The three machines which won places in the first row of starters through superior speed in the time trials were of such construction.

Hornsby Back in Harness Again

The most recent surprise in the baseball world is the announcement that Jack Slattery (left) has resigned from the management of the Boston Braves and Rogers Hornsby (right) has been named as his successor. Rogers will have plenty of opportunity to show his stuff in his try to dig the Braves out of the cellar.

Jones Gives Reds Four Hits in Win

CHICAGO, May 29 (AP)—Percy Lee Jones held the league leading Cincinnati Reds to four hits today and the Cubs evened the series at one all winning 4 to 0.

Wildness of Edwards, who relieved Luque in the third, and Jablonowski were responsible for three of the Cubs' runs in the sixth. Five bases on balls, a passed ball and a double by Wilson counted the three tallies.

Bambino Crashes Out Two Homers in Washington Tilt

Gehrig Smashes Two for Circuit Drive in Nightcap

NEW YORK, May 29 (AP)—The Yankees continued the terrific pace they have been setting for the American league by taking both ends of a double header from Washington today by scores of 3 to 2 and 12 to 3.

In the first game Sam Jones held New York to six hits, but one was a triple with the bases full by Durocher. Pipgras for the Yanks won his eighth game in nine starts.

In the second game Lou Gehrig hit his ninth and tenth home runs of the season and Ruth added number 17 and 18 to his collection. Combs also hit for the circuit.

Pro Leads Golfers

NEWCASTLE, Ireland, May 29 (AP)—Ernest R. Whitcombe, well-known British professional, led a good field in the first round of the Irish open golf championship with a score of 68. It was a new record for the Royal County Down golf course. The sensational score was good enough to send Whitcombe four strokes in front of W. H. Davies, in second place for the first 18 holes.

Hawkeyes are hoping to capture second place in the final Big Ten standings, although Wisconsin will play two more games to Iowa's one.

The Gopher nine has been the victim of nine consecutive defeats. Three of these have been by one run margins. At Minneapolis May 7, the Hawks won a pitcher's battle, 2 to 1.

Hawks Crippled
In the game against the Norsemen the Vogelmen will present a crippled lineup. Willis Glassgow, who is on the injured list was joined by Mace Brown, sophomore catcher, who is out with a cracked finger. Glassgow is one of the strongest hitters on the squad, batting .353 in the ten conference games. He is a veteran of the infield and his absence at short will be felt. Brown is also a .300 hitter. He sports an average of .307 in four Big Ten contests. Thompson can take care of the plate duty, but it leaves the squad without any reserve catcher of any experience.

The game will mark the final appearance of three Hawk letter men. Captain Herbert Terry, the right guard for the last three years, will be playing his last contest for Old Gold. Terry has been one of the leading hitters of the conference during his career, and also an apt fielder.

Corbin Graduates
David Corbin, left-handed mound artist of the past three seasons, will be in his last engagement on Coach Otto Vogel's nine.

Francis Mulroney, right handed star, is the other letter man who will be sorely missed by the Hawkeyes next year. While Mulroney has only played two years for Iowa, he was a big factor in keeping the Hawks up in the race for Big Ten honors. Getting off to a slow start this season, the big fellow has been breezing them in for the last few games. His brilliant pitching was the most important factor in the victory over Illinois this year.

Heintel Lost
This is the last year for Carl Heintel, center fielder. Heintel just had one year of competition for the Hawkeye nine, going to school in Pennsylvania before coming to Iowa. Heintel's strongest point is his fast fielding but it was his two-base knock which helped bring victory to the Hawks in the Minnesota contest.

Bill Gamble, utility man, will also play his last game for the Iowans. Gamble made the spring trip as an outfielder, but since the injury to Glassgow he has been alternating with Allen at short. He has completed two seasons as an infielder.

In preparation for the Gophers yesterday the Hawks spent the afternoon in a hitting drill and a short infield practice.

Corbin to Pitch for Independents Against Rangers

David Corbin, star southpaw on Coach Vogel's varsity nine has signed to hurl the game for the Iowa City Independents against the Western Rangers here Sunday. The left-hander has been playing consistent ball for the Vogelmen all season, and on the spring tour this year proved to be the main stay of the hurling staff. He will replace Mills on the hill.

Today the Independents are playing in Clinton. Herbert Trypkosh, former hurler for the locals but who has been playing on the Solon nine for the past two weeks, will be on the mound. The remaining members of the lineup will be the same.

TILLIE THE TOILER

POINTS FOR BIG OLYMPIC TEST

When it comes to swimmers California is one of the states which must be considered. When Californians mention swimmers, they always include Georgia Coleman, Los Angeles club star. Miss Coleman holds the junior national title on the ten-foot spring board and is considered a sure bet for the U. S. Olympic team. Well, if Georgia can swim as well as she looks there isn't any question of her ability in the water.

Concentrating on the 400-meter hurdles, Frank J. Cuhel, captain of the University of Iowa track team, has begun work for the sectional and final trials for the American Olympic team.

Cuhel, who won his third Western conference 220-yard low hurdle championship last Saturday, is one of this country's leading prospects in the 400 meter hurdles. His runs 440 yards on the flat in better than :49, clears the high hurdles in :14.9, and the 220-yard lows in :23 3-10.

The Hawkeye star will work lightly over the high and low hurdles in preparation for the National Collegiate championships at Chicago June 3 and 5. Most of his time will be spent perfecting stride and form for the race over the three-foot barriers.

His first competitive attempt in the event will be at the mid-western sectional trials here June 23.

Among the other Iowa athletes who hope to enter the Olympic trials are George Baird, holder of the Big

Other Tracksters Try for Place on U.S. Track Team

LOS ANGELES, May 22 (AP)—Dean B. Cronwell, track and field coach at the University of Southern California who has been named one of the coaches for the American Olympic team, thinks seven of his present pupils stand a good chance to see action at Amsterdam this year.

He lists the following possibilities: 100- and 220-yard dash—Charley Booth pole vault—Lee Barnes and Jack Williams; high jump—Henry Coggeshall; broad jump—Jesse Hill; 120 yard high hurdles—Chiff Reynolds, Jimmy Payne.

Barnes, who nears 14 feet in the vault and was a member of the 1924 Olympic team, and Booth, national 220-yard champion, are regarded as certain. Williams, Coggeshall, broad jump—Jesse Hill; 120 yard high hurdles—Chiff Reynolds, Jimmy Payne.

Bill Terry Stars for McGrawmen

BROOKLYN, May 29 (AP)—Bill Terry had a field day here this afternoon as the Giants smothered the Robins under a barrage of hits to win, 12 to 5. The Giants' first baseman hit a single, a double, a triple, and a home run, scored two runs and batted in six.

Terry's homer came with the bases filled in the seventh inning and was followed by another homer by Jackson.

Iowa City Political Campaign Begins; Harmony Prevails

Good Roads Figure as Plank in Primaries

With both democratic and republican candidates local interests well organized and with harmony prevailing in both parties, Iowa City political leaders of each major party are turning their attention to working for state interests and preparing for the election next November.

Except in the race for supervisor's office nomination, there will be no contesting for any of the county or township offices.

Three places on the board of supervisors are to be filled. Two terms beginning Jan. 1, 1930 are being sought after by six democrats and two republicans.

One term which starts Jan. 1, 1929, is being contested for by one democrat and one republican. Dan J. Peters, democrat, is seeking nomination for re-election while Joseph Spvachek, republican, is seeking the nomination of his party for the same office.

George G. Renshaw and George E. Zenshek, present incumbents, are seeking the democratic nomination, while J. G. Stover, C. B. Shellady, Charles W. Laonia and Joe A. Brosh are also seeking nomination of that party for the term beginning Jan. 1, 1930.

Frank Patena and S. K. Slemmons are to be the republican candidates for this office.

Good Roads to Figure
Most local politicians believe that the good roads issue is to become a major item in the primaries, especially in this section of the state.

Gov. John Hammill, who is seeking the republican nomination for re-election, is known to be strongly in favor of the $100,000,000 road bond issue. This item will make him strong in eyes of local voters.

Senator M. L. Bowman of Waterloo, and Lars Skromme, state senator from Boone and Story counties have both expressed themselves as opposed to the good roads program, while Marion E. Anderson of Clinton the other of the trio seeking the republican nomination besides Governor Hammill, is seeking votes on his record as a soldier and a liberal where the prohibition law is concerned.

State Wide Fight
The primaries seem to be considered mostly as a stepping stone to the election next fall, and most of the fighting locally is being done with the view to next fall's rather than to the present contest.

In the northeastern section, the gubernatorial office is now claiming even more attention than here, as voters in that section, especially farmers, are bitterly opposed to the bond issue.

County Auditor Ed Sulek, County Recorder John M. Kadlec, and Walter J. Barrow, clerk of the district court, all three democrats, are unopposed in both the primaries and in the fall election.

County Attorney C. B. Russell is unopposed for the republican nomination for re-election, while Attorney C. H. Olson is asking the democrats to nominate him for that office.

Sheriff Seeks Re-election
Sheriff Frank L. Smith is in the race for nomination for re-election. He is asking for the democratic votes while former Sheriff James S. Martin is out for the republican nomination to return to his old office.

Coroner George Maresh asks the republicans to re-nominate him, while Martin J. McGovern is seeking the republican support for the same office.

J. E. Cippera and Clifford Smith are each seeking the republican nomination for county treasurer to oppose Charles L. Berry, democrat, present holder of the office, who is seeking re-nomination.

Burned Car Found Near River Junction
A Hudson touring car belonging to the Roy Motor company, and which was stolen from the carnival grounds last Saturday night, is believed to have been found near River Junction, almost entirely burned.

No license numbers could be found in the ruins and insurance men went out to the scene yesterday to determine whether the car is the one stolen Saturday. The skeleton is standing on the grade and was apparently under control when the fire started.

Calvin's Funeral
Set for Tomorrow
The funeral service for John Calvin, 53 years old, will be held tomorrow at 10 a. m. at St. Bridget's church at the Nolan settlement.

Mr. Calvin died at a local hospital Monday at 6 p. m. He was a native of Johnson county, and lived all his life in this part of the state.

He is survived by his wife and two sisters, Katherine and Elizabeth Calvin of 311 N. Gilbert street.

MILLIONS WITHIN GRASP

John Emerick, below, who lives in the humble cottage at Waukegan, Ill., shown above, expects to become heir to a share in a $500,000 estate held in trust by the Astors of New York. Recently an old will was found which indicates he is one of the missing heirs of the estate.

Map of Johnson County of Seventy Years Ago Hangs in Court House

A map yellow with age and attempting to hide its cracks and tears behind patches of plaster, hangs in the room of the board of supervisors in the county court house. It is the map of Johnson county as the county looked in the year 1859.

This map shows seventeen townships, the original seventeen townships before they were divided up to make the twenty-two that now compose Johnson county. These townships are, Washington, Sharon, Liberty, Pleasant Valley, Fremont, Scott, Iowa City, Hardin, Union, Graham, Port, Clear Creek, Penn, Oxford, Monroe, Jefferson, Big Grove and Cedar.

Since 1859, Madison, Newport, West Lucas, East Lucas, and Lincoln townships have come into existence.

Has Yellowed Some
The original colors of the aged map were yellow, pink and green. Now they have faded and a sort of common yellowness has spread over it. In some parts even the patches of plaster and bits of adhesive fall to span the gaps and bring one part of Monroe township together with the other.

Around the border of the map are the various prominent buildings in Iowa City some seventy years ago. In one corner is the Metropolitan Hall. Just above it is Old Capitol, and across from these, on the other border of the map, is the University boarding house of that time. The

Parking Problem
Still Unsettled
Courtesy Card Plan
Fails to Satisfy Officials

Iowa City's parking problem still seems to be almost as far from settled as it was last year. Merchants and city officials are unsatisfied with the courtesy cards which have been issued for the last three weeks and indications now are that a strict enforcement of the ninety minute parking ordinance will be effected in another week.

Believing that business is often driven away when customers find their cars tagged after being parked in the restricted zone longer than the ninety minutes allowed by the ordinance, merchants asked the council several weeks ago for a thirty day period in which to try out the courtesy cards.

The cards were issued to be valid for only one day at a time, a different color being used each day in the week, and each card also bearing the date it was issued. Each Iowa City bank was furnished with a supply of the cards and with orders to issue them to residents of Iowa City as well as to persons from outside Iowa City.

Many Dissatisfied
In spite of the care with which the plan was worked out and the attempt to keep merchants and their employees from monopolizing the parking space, there seems to be a general dissatisfaction with the plan. City officials feel that both merchants and their employees are obtaining cards from the banks daily and taking up the parking space, thus defeating the very purpose for which the ordinance was made.

Some merchants are of the opinion that the cards should be issued to only persons living outside Johnson county while others believe this is unfair to farmers living near Iowa City who patronize the local merchants.

Would Treat All Alike
Both Mayor J. J. Carroll and Police C. F. Benda are in favor of enforcing the ordinance strictly, treating local persons and visitors alike.

They believe this would clear up traffic problems and would aid the merchants' business by leaving more parking room so that persons coming from out of town would be able

Increase in Aid for Good Roads Goal of Society

Association Also Asks for Secretary of Highways

DES MOINES, May 29 (AP)—The United States Good Roads association favors an increase in the next federal aid appropriation from $75,000,000 to $100,000,000 and that the next act of congress make this sum a continuing annual appropriation.

It wants all road building activities of the federal government concentrated in the bureau of public roads and that bureau taken from the department of agriculture and made a separate department headed by a cabinet officer to be known as the secretary of highways.

It advocates permission to place the names of transcontinental highways as well as their numbers on the marker shields guiding travelers over the roads.

These purposes were outlined in the address of President W. W. Brandon of Alabama, at the opening meeting of the annual convention here today. Iowa's share in federal aid, for which a new biennial appropriation was made this week, is $2,045,000 per year. Thomas H. MacDonald, former Iowa chief engineer, is chief of the bureau of public roads.

Road Building a Service
Gov. Ben S. Paulen of Kansas, declared that if any one expenditure made by the federal government reaches every section of the country and gives service every day to large numbers of people, it is that of road building.

"The bureau of public roads, in developing the work of distributing federal aid and the supervising of construction of roads, has done so in a very efficient manner," Governor Paulen said. "Federal aid is worth all that has been expended in establishing this uniform type and class of construction throughout the country."

Roads Mean Buying Power
Governor Paulen outlined the steps Kansas has taken from the benefit district system of constructing roads to the state control plan, showing how improved mileage grew under the latter system. Kansas and Iowa were both late in going to state control.

E. Allen Frost of Chicago, declared that every new stretch of paved road in Iowa means that much additional buying power to Iowa's merchants and business men. "The individual or institution," he said, "which does not recognize that civilization owes much to the opening of immense chains of paved highways is short-sighted indeed."

Roy L. Cochran, state highway engineer for Nebraska, declared that increasing highway speed make provision for safety on the highways at these speeds a vital concern to construction authorities. In the last year, Nebraska, under its law similar to that of Iowa's has placed stop signs at the intersections of all roads entering primary highways regardless of the traffic on them, Mr. Cochran reported.

Three Deeds Filed in Recorder's Office

Three deeds were filed with County Recorder John M. Kadlec yesterday. Two were warranty deeds, while the third was a corporation warranty deed.

The First National bank of Iowa City and the Farmer's Loan and Trust company of Iowa City transferred to Clifford F. Alderman by a corporation warranty deed land in lot 3 block 44 of Iowa City for the consideration of $1.

The other two warranty deeds were Frank C. and Bertha Carson to George S. Carson for land in lots 3 and 4 of the Triangle Place, and from Cleada L. Wilkinson and James R. Wilkinson to the Cedar Rapids Pump and Supply company for land in lot 7 in the Kirkwood addition to Iowa City. Both were for $1.

Anna Fryauf Dies
at Home of Sister

Miss Anna Fryauf, 69 years old, died at 11 p. m. yesterday at the home of her sister, Mrs. Anton Nerad, of 619 E. Fairchild street. The funeral service will be held from the Beckman funeral home Thursday at 2:30 p. m. The Rev. E. J. Smith of the Baptist church will be in charge.

She is survived by three brothers, Frank Fryauf, sr., and Will Fryauf of Iowa City and John Fryauf of Davenport, and two sisters, Mrs. Nerad of Iowa City and Mrs. John Zerzan of Omaha, Neb.

Injuries Confine Student to Hospital

Jean R. Rader, U of Council Bluffs, who was injured in an automobile accident last Friday night, is still in Mercy hospital where she may remain for some time. The injuries received in the accident were found to be more serious than was supposed at first.

Miss Rader was in a car that overturned on U. S. highway No. 32 near Homestead. No other occupants of the car were injured.

Local Committee to Decorate Graves

Decoration of graves today will be in charge of a special committee arranged for by the Memorial day association which sponsors the annual observance.

Flowers for the decorating will be available at the city hall at 7 o'clock this morning, and the committee plans to begin work then.

Several organizations have held special decorating services during the last week, and others are joining in the work today. Most of them, however, have joined with the association to decorate all graves together.

Prof. S. L. Miller was elected as vice president to serve with Mr. Ries for the first six months and R. F. Williams was elected vice president for the second term.

Officers for the first term were installed at the luncheon yesterday immediately after the election. George H. Frohwein was re-elected secretary, and Justin M. Barry and Prof. C. S. Tippetts were elected tail-twisters. J. F. Gartner will be lion tamer and Judge Harold D. Evans and E. L. Weidner were elected to serve on the board of directors.

School Boys Suspended

COUNCIL BLUFFS, May 29 (AP)—Two young men, students at Abraham Lincoln high school here, are reported under suspension by the Council Bluffs school board, as the result of a board investigation of liquor drinking by pupils.

G.A.R. Veterans Meet at Banquet

Walter Roach Draws Caricatures of Kiwanians

G. A. R. veterans of Iowa City were entertained yesterday noon at the regular weekly luncheon of the Iowa City Kiwanis club. It is a custom of the club to entertain the veterans at the nearest meeting to Memorial day.

Entertainment was provided by Walter Roach, an instructor in the university department of speech. He gave a series of crayon caricatures of the local Kiwanians.

Veterans were each presented with a silk flag as a memento of the occasion. The veterans were: Albert Baumgartner of Iowa City, 86 years old; George Alt, North Liberty, 85 years old; J. S. Ramsey, of North Liberty, 85 years old; Isaac Myers of North Liberty, 87 years old; T. D. Davis of Iowa City, 85 years old; Ebenezer Hinchliffe, of Iowa City, 81 years old; L. E. Grout of Sharon Center, 85 years old; Sam C. Jones of Iowa City, 90 years old.

H. D. Rowe of Oakland, Calif., was a guest of Judge O. A. Byington. Mr. Rowe is in Iowa City attending the fiftieth anniversary of his graduation from the university college of law. He tried his first case before Squire I. D. Davis, who was at the luncheon yesterday, fifty years ago.

Dr. H. C. Parsons, a Kiwanian from Watertown, S. D., was present with Dr. T. Hazard, who announced that Dr. Parsons was here to attend the twenty-fifth anniversary of his graduation from the university.

A. J. Frele of Iowa City was the guest of President A. O. Thomas and G. Marshall Kay, an instructor at Columbia university, was the guest of his father, Dean George F. Kay.

The Silent Legions of Liberty's Defenders Are on Review Today!

TRAMP—TRAMP—TRAMP

The boys are marching—See there they go—the Minute Man of Lexington, the Drummer Boy of Gettysburg, the Rough Rider of Roosevelt's Regiment, and—at the head of the column, those who are foremost in our minds today—the sturdy Doughboys of the World War. And above them—Old Glory—that grand old flag that has never known defeat!

In those silent faces, Courage, Sacrifice, Unselfishness, Love of Country, and of Fellow Man is written. Time can never dim the glory of their deeds. Their sacrifice will ever be an inspiration to this and future generations! For, to paraphrase a familiar quotation "Greater Love for his Country hath no man than he who lays down his Life in its Defense.
