A HUSBAND AT HER FEET

By Mildred Barbour

"You don't mean that they—Tom's people—didn't want me?"

CONCERNING THE ACTION AND CHARACTERS

CELIA DREW, has been obliged, after the death of her father, to go to work. She is the secretary of BENJAMIN HARRINGTON, and is engaged to his son, TOM. The Harringtons disapprove of the match, but Celia does not know this. She has recently rejected a proposal of marriage from HORACE VALL, one of Harrington's business associates, and incurred his ill will as a result. THE HARRINGTONS, to the aid of Celia, concoct a plot, with Vall's help, whereby Tom finds her locked in her office at midnight with LARRYCROSS, a dissipated young chap, who is hopelessly in love with her. Without waiting for explanations, Tom rushes off. The next day Celia finds herself jobless and the object of gossip. Her sole defender is GUYEN BURNS, who is rich and socially prominent. Larry, against what he has done, urges Celia to marry him. She refuses and returns Tom's ring when the day passes without word from him.

Chapter VI The Friend in Need

Celia was carrying her mother's untouched dinner-tray to the kitchen when Gwen Burns arrived that evening.

Gwen was the picture of independent American womanhood. She was the richest girl in town, an orphan and the acknowledged leader of the younger set. When Celia had been forced to drop out of society, Gwen had said: "Good girl! I wish I had an excuse for doing the same!" And she had seen to it that Celia always had an invitation to her parties.

Now, as she stood in the narrow, old-fashioned little hall of the stable by house and greeted her friend, she felt an overwhelming impulse of sympathy for her.

"Celia, you poor darling!" A few minutes later the two girls were seated before the fire in the living-room, and Celia was telling her story.

"Hm," said Gwen thoughtfully, when she had finished. "I seem to see the hand of Mother Harrington in this."

Celia started.

"You don't mean that they—Tom's people—didn't want me?"

"Gwen looked at her for a moment. Finally she said:

"Celia, dear, I must tell you the worst. . . . Tom left town this evening."

For a long time Celia stared into the fire; then she drew a deep breath, and squared her shoulders.

Wheat Sales Medium

Price of Grain Take Up Trend; Corn Trade Heavy

CHICAGO, July 20 (AP)—Inquiry for cash wheat from local and outside mills was fairly good. Local sales reported at 27,000 bushels. Totals for the week 75,000 bushels. Prices at the close were 1c higher. Basis firm. Bulk of arrivals on previous contract. Bennett had a car of new number 1 hard from Iowa today. It weighed 60.8 and sold at $1.29. There was reported booked to arrive 20,000 bushels. Late estimates from Winnipeg claimed as high as 5,000,000 bushels of wheat taken late Thursday, overnight and today by exporters.

Buyers for cash corn were not as anxious today. Trading limits compared with the July 13c lower. Prices at the finish unchanged to 1c higher. Local sales were 702,000 bushels. Booked to arrive 35,000 bushels. Deliveries 272,000 bushels, making a total so far this month of 3,942,000 bushels.

There was only a moderate inquiry for cash oats. Very few choices on the market. Poor quality hard to sell, and show 1/2c lower basis. Prices at the close unchanged to 1c higher. The J. C. Shaffer grain company received the first car new No. 2 whites from near Decatur, Ill. They tested 301 pounds, with 13.8 per cent moisture and sold at 62. The first car came in last year on July 23. Local sales were 70,000 bushels. Booked to arrive 45,000.

The corn market showed a snappy advance in the early trade, but later had a setback, largely because of profit taking. On the dip, however, there was fair buying credited to commission houses, and the market had a firm undertone. The cash demand was reported quite good overnight with fair sales, while the country offerings were reported light. The weather map showed showery conditions general. Argentine shipments were cut down a little because of shipping operations at Rosario limiting exports to some extent. The foreign demand for corn is active. Shipments to the United States from Argentine were 75,000 bushels.

Professionals Control Trades on Stock Market

NEW YORK, July 20 (AP)—Splintered advice in a few pool specialties, some of which reached new high ground, enveloped an otherwise dull and colorless stock market today. Trading was dominated by professionals with the public apparently showing little interest in the proceeding.

Prices sold off at the opening on selling inspired by the unexpectedly small decrease of $48,000,000 in brokers' loans, but the marking down of the call money renewal rate to 5 per cent, the lowest initial decline since May 9, checked the decline and started a rally. Offerings increased as the recovery progressed, and the market slid off again in the afternoon with week-end profits-taking an important factor in the late selling movement.

Wall street was pleased at the reduction of $145,000,000 in federal reserve discounts in the New York district. Further withdrawal of gold shipments to France tended to revive fears of a further stiffening of money rates this month despite a slight easing in the rates on the
